The Mission Dodgers.

It is interesting, as a psychological study, to observe what types dodge the Mission:

- A is a good fellow - not an ounce of harm in him - but lazy on religion. He will make a Novena of Communions if his mother gets sick, and will go twice for his father when he loses his job, but will seldom do anything special for himself.
- B is by nature a bolshevik. He will go daily for a week as soon as the Mission is over, and then you won't see him again until he is leaving for the Christmas holidays - and then he will come at 4:00 a.m.
- C is an over-emotional type, who openly hates emotional appeal but thrives on his emotions. He will appear at the rail as soon as remorse catches up with him.
- D has been here four years without catching on - sure always that the school is all wrong, but sticking like a leech. His devotion to the Novena for Exams indicates that he gambles only on sure things.
- E has scruples; F has an inconvenient partner - almost for life; G lacks the courage to make a good confession; H thinks the school gave him a bad break - he is taking it out on religion.

These are fairly common types. The rest of the alphabet is made up largely of individual cases. But if you want to study psychology in the raw, find out who isn't making the Mission and have a few interviews.

Another Station For Dillon Hall.

The announcement Monday that two alumni had donated $30 each for stations of the Cross brought another gift - this time from a priest-alumnus who wishes to donate the Twelfth Station. Perhaps the mother of some student would care to donate the Fourth - the meeting of Our Lord with His Blessed Mother - or the Thirteenth - the deposition from the Cross. The fund has a good start.

For Bishop Crowley.

The Bengal Mission is in a bad way financially. Each year of the depression has made new inroads on the budget. Bishop Crowley has shown you how heartfelt is the appreciation of the missionaries for the aid you give - both in prayers and in money - and we want to continue to merit his encomiums. A box at the pamphlet rack in Sorin Hall has been marked for the Bengal Mission. You may leave your offerings there or with the Prefect of Religion, 117 Dillon Hall.

The Blessed Sacrament In Your Home.

The privilege of having the Blessed Sacrament preserved in all the hall chapels is so great a favor that it is in a class by itself. It would be a pity if any student were to fail to realize what it means. The privilege, of course, carries with it obligations, not the least of which is the duty of visiting Our Lord frequently.

PRAYERS: Juan Rodríguez, ex-'28, lost his father this summer. Miss Stoeckinger, of the Athletic Office, lost her father a few days ago. The wife of Harold McCabe, '27, died Sunday. An aunt of Francis Collins is ill. Four special intentions.

LOST: $17; a silver rosary. FOUND: Two fountain pens; they have been sent to the Lost and Found Department.
