Disgrace or Recovery.

No man in the history of the University has stronger claim upon student gratitude than has Father O'Hara. This year he starts as President of Notre Dame. He needs your help, your prayers.

You were reminded that nothing would mean more to him than a novena of Holy Communions in honor of the Little Flower.

And you start the novena Monday morning with 250 Communions less than the corresponding day last year, when there was no novena for anybody!

You were asked to pray also during the novena for Coach Layden and the team. Only 12 football men were counted Monday morning at the Communion rail.

That is the most flagrant lack of spirit and of gratitude ever manifested by a student body at Notre Dame.

Tuesday and Wednesday mornings showed some increase over Monday in the total number of Holy Communions received, but still the total was 10% below the corresponding Tuesday and 50% below the corresponding Wednesday a year ago.

Tomorrow morning the recovery should begin in earnest. Start your novena and extend it until October 6--the day of the first game--three days after the Feast of the Little Flower.

That is the only way left to square yourselves with Father O'Hara and Elmer Layden.

For Your Convenience

Confessions are heard, Holy Communion may be received, any time, from 6 till 7 a.m., in the Basement, Sorin, and Dillon chapels. After 7 until noon this service is constantly maintained in the Dillon Hall chapel.

You needn't miss Holy Communion any morning simply because you sleep over.

A Mass is said just after breakfast, at 7:20, every week morning in the Dillon Hall chapel for those who could not get to a Mass in their own hall.

Adoration Cards.

Hand them in, please, at 117 Dillon Hall tonight at the latest. When the promoter visits you do him the courtesy of signing (if you are interested) with as little delay as possible.

For Edmund Glade, R.I.P.

Eight years ago, just after the Mission, Ed Glade, a student, died here at Notre Dame. Give him a remembrance in your Mission Masses and Holy Communions.

The pamphlet rack started this year $95 in the red. Help out with a few of your extra shekels!
