

Keep Charley Hodierno in your prayers. He is only slightly improved.

University of Notre Dame
Religious Bulletin
March 28, 1935

Gaps for Fri., March 29:
8:30-9:00(none); 9:30-10;
11:30-12:00; 2:00-2:30.

Pupil, Professor, Priest.

Three great Notre Dame men--Father Cavanaugh, Joe Sullivan, and Knute Rockne--died during the month of March. A Notre Dame student, Sigmund Sluska, has linked together their lives and deaths in the following beautiful lines:

You lived and taught; you guided; you were poor;
But you were enrich'd with the gifts of Heaven,
And those of all the week-days that are seven,
And those of the centuries that endure.
Humbly you bowed; you kept your honor sure.
You followed in the wake of those Eleven
Who walked with Christ, and rais'd your voices often
To keep the bulwarks of your Faith secure.
You knew the secrets of the praying-time;
You read the Book; you ate the luscious fruit
Of grief and joy; and with your orator throat
You defended yourself and Notre Dame.
Men numerous saddened to see you go--
March of memory: Sullivan, Rockne, Cavanaugh.

Rock's Anniversary.

Father Charles O'Donnell, speaking at Rockne's funeral, in this age of go-getters, characterized the great Rock as a go-giver.

What did he give? Himself, his mind, his heart, his money, his time, his energies--to Notre Dame men and to the upbuilding of Notre Dame. He held back nothing.

You who know Rock through newspapers and magazines and radio missed his dynamic, personal influence and example on the campus. Was it an important gathering of the students, a meeting of the Knights of Columbus, a pep meeting, anything that had to be put over in a big way? Then they went to Rock.

He put wit and fire and color into the occasion.

Was some student in trouble? Did he need money, or advice, or encouragement? He would get it from Rock! Rock never refused.

Next Sunday, March 31, is the fourth anniversary of Rockne's death. Notre Dame must not forget.

Saturday morning, March 30, at 6:25, Father J. Hugh O'Donnell, Acting President of the University, will sing a Requiem Mass for Rock in the main church. This is your day to join together at Mass and Holy Communion out of respect for his memory and to show gratitude for all that he has done for Notre Dame, and for you.

Sunday morning, at the request of the St. Joseph Valley Alumni Association, the 9 o'clock Mass will be offered for Rock.

Monday morning, at 8:30, at Rockne's shrine in Dillon Hall, Father Eugene Burke will sing a Requiem Mass at the request of the Notre Dame men from the "Cogebic Range". All men from the Cogebic Range, who are free at this hour, should attend Mass and receive Holy Communion in a body. Rock never refused to give; don't refuse Rock!
PRAYERS: Deceased, brother of Armand Kellogg. Ill, uncle of Dan Finn (Lyons).
Five special intentions.