As a group you have made some exemplary records this year. Your daily Communion average of 1574 is by a considerable margin the largest in the history of Notre Dame. Spontaneously you have profited so readily by the facilities provided for adoration that not once during the year have we had to ask for additional volunteers to fill a single gap. This response is particularly impressive when one stops to realize that you have provided from two to fifty adorers for each of the 2616 half-hour periods during which the Blessed Sacrament has been exposed.

No other student body has outnumbered you at the Grotto for evening devotions during May, and, according to the hymn-conductors, no other Notre Dame group has ever put so much heart and volume into the hymns that they sang. Not wishing to weary you further with superlatives--and there really are other opportunities--your observance of Lent, your Novenas for the Poor Souls and for your fathers and mothers have been the largest in the history of the University.

Thank God. Facts indicate that you have been trying generously. And thank your prefect of discipline, your rectors and prefects, your confessors, because they have helped more than any other single natural cause. You know it.

Now you go "out on your own"--some of you for three months, some for the rest of your lives. How you love it! Back in the griping days of February and March you used to say, "I wish there were no morning bells or night bells. I wish I were entirely on my own. I swear, Father, I'd live a far better life." That's what you said. And other things, like this, "Treat us like men!" Ah, yes, you remember. Now you have the chance to act like men, on your own. If Notre Dame education is "taking" with you, you will put in practice this summer these unpretentious recommendations:

- (a) You will see to it, above all, that during the summer you live every hour in the state of grace. If you unfortunately sin, you'll get by yourself as soon as possible and make a sincere act of contrition, promising confession at the first opportunity. To help yourself you will be choosy about your friends and amusements. When you smell swine and hear swine and see swine you will recognize swine, even if they're shod with gold, and the last thing you'll do is climb in and become one of them.
- (b) You will be on time every Sunday for Mass and you will offer Mass from beginning to end with a missal in your hand, realizing that this way you'll receive many exceptional graces and that your example will help others.
- (c) You will receive Holy Communion every Sunday, regardless of the hardships. You know from experience how Holy Communion keeps you in line.
- (d) Morning and night, at your bedside--visiting in non-Catholic homes, in summer camps, wherever you are--you will say your prayers devoutly. They need not be long but they must come from your heart. Every night you will pay attention to your act of contrition.

In a word, as Johnnie Mangan, celtic sage of Cadillac Hall, often puts it, keep the faith--the faith that has been strengthened in you here at Notre Dame. Have a great time but be men--Our Lady's men. God bless and keep you! Once in a while remember us back here with a prayer.

PRAYERS: (deceased) Joe Judge's father (Dil.); Bill Menard's father ('34), Ill, friend of Tom Kavanagh; Mr. Wm. Nelson, Special prayers, Prof. Fred Myers; Bud Roach's sister.
