The Campus Pest.

When I am dead and ready for the grave,
I want each of my pallbearers to be
A man who in my lifetime often gave
A loan to keep me out of bankruptcy;
For since these people carried me in life
By actually paying for my bread
I am instructing my devoted wife
To let them carry me when I am dead.

I have no money, but I'll leave to each
Whatever part of me that he desires:
My hand, my heart, the tongue that gave me speech,
My bosom in which burned celestial fires --
The trouble is, perhaps, that one and all
Will want the self-same part of me -- my gall. (T.E.B.)

Some students can speak with eloquence about the injustice of Hitler and Himmler and their lot. They sense injustice in others but not in themselves. They pay their debts -- late, and only after they have received numerous reminders of their delinquency from their creditors. A friend of injustice is uncharitableness. Tardiness in returning a borrowed object is often the cause of inconvenience, and to make life disagreeable for anyone is unkindness. Check up on your sins of omission. Now is the time to return borrowed books, clothing, and money, and not just before you step on the train for your vacation. And if anyone has given his soul to the great loan shark, the devil, as down payment on a few sins of the flesh or intemperance, he had better seek the return of it through contrition and confession.

Corpus Christi Procession.

Sunday after the 8:00 o'clock Solemn Mass in the church, the Blessed Sacrament will be carried in procession around the quadrangle. The procession will make stops at Walsh hall, Science hall and the Main Building. At all these places, and in the Church, Benediction will be given.

Christ will go about our campus and we should go with Him. He will bless His followers and the campus; therefore, we should be present to show our gratitude for His goodness. Faith and love of Christ should draw every student to receive Holy Communion Sunday and to participate in the procession. Those students who owe a great debt of gratitude to Christ for benefits received through the Eucharist have every reason to attend the Solemn Mass.

June -- Month of the Sacred Heart.

The Notre Dame Prayerbook contains the Litany of the Sacred Heart and other fitting prayers for this month. Add to your daily devotions some special prayer for the entire month. Seniors and draftees could well make a Novena to the Sacred Heart in preparation for their future. On the quadrangle facing the Dome is a statue of the Sacred Heart. Let the sight of it prompt you to say a short prayer to Our Lord.

NO CHANGE IN SUNDAY SCHEDULE EXCEPT THAT 7:30 and 9:00 MASSES (Low) WILL BE OFFERED IN THE BASEMENT CHAPEL. 10:10 UPSTAIRS.
