Vacation Tips

A Man is always conscious of his worth
And bears a lordly feeling in his soul;
He knows auspicious stars shone at his birth
Predestinating him for some great goal;
He thinks all women should bow down before
His scintillating wit and repartee;
He seldom realizes he's a bore,
A fountain of conceit and vanity.

Since Eve first ate the apple long ago
And gave her mate the cunning clever plan--
Most any type of woman here below
Can make a fool of almost any man;
And what is more, if the poor fellow knew it,
The little girl is always glad to do it.
