Freshman Mission - tonight
6:45. Papal blessing after
6:20 a.m. Mass tomorrow.

Remember This.

The 8 o'clock Mass next Sunday (and next Sunday only) is reserved for faculty members and freshmen. The Solemn High Mass of the Holy Ghost inaugurates the opening of the scholastic year. Father Francis Cavanaugh, C.S.C., Dean of the College of Arts and Letters, will preach. The entire freshman class is required to attend. Time for breakfast will be extended.

AND REMEMBER THIS: Next Sunday there will be no 9 o'clock Mass as regularly scheduled. Instead, for your convenience, there will be a Mass at 9:20. . . . Take a good look at the new Sunday Mass schedule--6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11. (The 11 o'clock will be the only High Mass).

No Student Deaths.

God was very good to us this summer. The Bulletin has no student deaths to record at the opening of the year. True, four students died last year, but that belongs to our unforgotten past. What sorrows this new year will bring God alone knows. Notre Dame students and alumni will be called to the service. There will be considerable anxiety.

You may shake an angry fist at Joe Stalin, or point a strong finger of blame at Yalta and Potsdam. But when it comes right down to it, how about folding your hands in prayer.

Requests For Our Prayers.

Father Frederick McKeon, C.S.C., forty-three years a priest, died last week. Sister Mary Edana, C.S.C., many years in charge of Notre Dame students employed at St. Joseph's Hospital, died last July. John Mangan, for forty years university chauffeur, passed away recently. Father Eugene Dore, C.S.C., lost his mother early this summer. Now his father is not expected to live. The mother of James Gleason passed away. Joe Benda, '27, after a prolonged illness died of a kidney ailment.

The father of Robert Derengoski, '38; Richard Reynolds, an alumnus; father of Joan Caufield (Library); mother of Richard Donnelly, '26; father of Paul Komora, '51; mother of Richard D. O'Connor, '34; father of Frank Crovo, '51; Ted Ley, an alumnus; Sister Mary Dominica Connor; father of William Fieweger, '35; Joseph Daly; J. H. Stewart, friend of the University--died since June. Stanly Urbanski, '48, married, June 10, 1950, passed away five days after complaining of a sore throat.

The Sick.

Father Joseph Muchenthaler, C.S.C., is still convalescing from injuries received in an auto crash last July. Father William Lennartz, C.S.C., underwent a serious operation recently. The mother of Bill Zupancic has not completely recovered from injuries received in an accident last October. Bill Moore, '51 of 360 Alumni last year, is in serious condition--polio. His father begs us to "overwork the Blessed Virgin a little" so that Bill will not be permanently paralyzed. Dan Noe asks prayers for his sick father. Joe Griffin, '39, requests prayers for his friend stricken with polio. The sister of Father Phillip Moore, C.S.C., is lingering and near death. The mother of Bernard Duclos, '48, suffered a heart attack. Guy Galendo is recovering from an operation. Martin Walsh asks prayers for his son Robert who is quite ill. Jack Miles, '48 wants to be remembered.

Notre Dame's sympathy is indeed helpful but her prayers and yours mean much to those bereaved and ailing. Make your intention now to remember each Bulletin request in your daily Masses, Communions and rosaries. Who knows when it will be your turn to be prayed for.
