COMMENT

January to June, in addition to breaking numerous weather records, has brought a similar period of new highs and lows to the Alumni Office. So that the "lows" will not be permanent, a word of explanation seems in order.

Probably there has not been a period when so much mail was unacknowledged for such long periods. The activity which produced the mail also produced conditions which made adequate attention to it a matter of delay. This is particularly unfortunate in an organization whose nature demands the use of the mails for the bulk of its business. It is a "low" which is deplorable, and deplored.

Similarly, a number of contacts have suffered. Visitors to the Alumni Office, returning alumni and campus residents, have never been told so consistently that "He's out." This too is a regrettable "low" of these Spring months.

Where visits have been made to alumni groups, many alumni who could not meet at the rather arbitrary times and places which circumstances dictated were missed by the delegate. This is another "low" to be condemned.

The ALUMNUS, instead of holding the mirror up to nature in the orderly and intelligent manner of the heliograph, has flashed more after the fashion of the practical but erratic nose-powdering instrument of the ten-cents-a-dance intermissions. Another "low" which is a source of genuine regret.

But all is not 'black as the night from pole to pole.'

Fortunately, we who are guilty of the above "lows" believe that the pendulum theory or the silver lining hypothesis can still be proved.

For example, while more mail has been unanswered, more alumni have been visited than ever before during a remotely comparable period, with more information acquired than could be had from enough mail to solve the postal deficit.

While the returning alumni have found the professional hosts of the Alumni Office absent, the glad hand has gone further afield than ever before. Mahomet has quit waiting for the mountain.

Exigencies of brief visits have caused us to miss many familiar friends in Club centers, but on the other hand Club centers never before visited have become personally familiar to the central office, and men known heretofore only as signatures now are identified by the Bertillion system.

The ALUMNUS, while it has suffered from absentee editorship these few moons, is promised the profit that comes to any author who knows whereof and of whom he speaks.

Also, we have been perhaps a bit guilty of the prodigal measures that mark the paths of pioneering. In promotional activities, we have undoubtedly showered barren ground while fertile fields remain untilled. We have possibly hacked and hewn valuable trees in our search for shrubbery.

But bear with us.

This is experiment. This is a seeking. We are new. We are young.

Happily, indications point to the ultimate rightness of our direction.

We have frequently found ourselves on the same trails as those whose scent is keener.

This Commencement finds our first intensive period of activity closing. It is too soon to gauge our results. In fact, both happily and unhappily, they can never be subjected to rule or caliper. It is a sowing whose reaping comes in far places and strange seasons.

In God, and in the judgment of our contemporaries, we trust. And in the fruits of our respect for both.

Color And Dignity Mark Ninetieth Commencement Program

Apostolic Delegate and Frank C. Walker, '09, Head Brilliant Personnel of Week-End Events; 551 Seniors to Benefit; Alumni Interests Predominate; New Features Attracting Large Attendance

BULLETIN!

As the last form of the ALUMNUS is ready for the press, the announcement comes from Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., vice-president of the University that the following distinguished men will receive the honorary degree of doctor of laws at the June Commencement:

The Honorable Cordell Hull, Secretary of State of the United States.

The Most Reverend John M. MacNamara, D.D., Auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore.

Frank C. Walker, '09, Executive Director of the National Emergency Council.

Doctor Maurice Goldblatt, director of the Wightman Memorial Art Gallery at Notre Dame.

Alumni have never made a mistake in returning to enjoy the brilliance of Notre Dame at Commencement.

As always, the University extends its hospitality in providing rooms on the campus. Classes before 1920 will find the beautiful Alumni Hall welcoming them. Classes from 1920 on will occupy Morrissey. Dillon this year is reserved for the large number of clergy and special guests who will come to participate in the visit of the Apostolic Delegate. The University will also provide the splendid Alumni Banquet on Saturday night, June 2, which has become so strong a tradition.

Alumni golfers will battle for the graduate crown on the beautiful 18-hole William J. Burke-University course on the campus.

Reunions will bring together a nucleus of lively alumni from all parts of the country. The Class of 1929, one of the liveliest of the younger classes, is coming in record numbers. The Silver Jubilee Class of 1909 has, in addition to an active and interested personnel, the unusual incentive of one of its members as the Commencement Orator, the Hon. Frank C. Walker. The Golden Jubilee Class of 1884 is joined in the Dix combination by 1881, 1882 and 1883 to make a substantial group of "veterans." The prominent Classes of 1900, 1901, 1902 and 1903, and the post-War classes of 1919, 1920, 1921 and 1922 supply through the Dix plan other organized groups of interest and intensity.

Of specific interest this year is the Commencement Show. Through illness in the faculty of the Department of Speech, the regular production of the University Theater, planned for Commencement, was cancelled. In its place, Prof. Vincent Fagan has been placed in charge of a show which promises to be one of the most interesting productions from the alumni angle of any since the days when drama was written for all campus occasions. That is the case this year. The wealth of campus tradition has been opened to the dramatic "brain trust" of the campus, whose pens may wish to sign Anonymous, and hence go unnamed here till further conference. But the "Shades of Notre Dame" will present pictures that can best be appreciated by the men whose memories of the University go back. Because of this particular appeal, the show will be played Saturday Night in Washington Hall, and the Alumni Banquet will be speeded up so that the alumni can find in this production a program that should be more vivid by far than the word-pictures usually painted.

Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate, who will preside at Commencement.

Notre Dame is playing host on Saturday afternoon, June 2, to Catholic high school track stars in the First Annual Notre Dame Catholic Interscholastic Track and Field Meet. This colorful event promises to become a highlight in Catholic interscholastic activity, and a campus event of increasing interest. Clubs or alumni who can interest Catholic high schools or their track men in this first meet will be doing a splendid thing for everyone concerned. For instance, Franklyn Doan, '29, former track man himself, suggested that returning alumni, where they are driving and have the room, might provide transportation for these high school athletes, since expense is the big item in handicapping entries.

Along athletic lines, too, baseball fans will have two excellent games, on Friday, when Wisconsin meets N.D. on Cartier Field, and on Saturday when Michigan State sends its scrappy nine into local action.

Monogram men will hold their annual Reunion, with the annual luncheon set for Sunday noon.

If one of the highlights seems to have been relegated to remote mention, it is only because the simple announcement that the Apostolic Delegate, His Excellency Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, will grace the Commencement is sufficient in itself. That Notre Dame and Notre Dame men hail this honor with all its significance requires no further comment.

With its religious background going back to Marquette and the pioneer missionaries who had hallowed this site long before permanent settlement, Notre Dame has always been outstanding for its Catholicity. Notre Dame men remember the beautiful ceremonies that mark all the observances of the Church. The Solemn Pontifical Mass at Commencement has been a common denominator of every class. The presence of the Delegate this year will once more bring this final gesture of all that is solemn and beautiful in the Church to a group of men who have found in Notre Dame education the Church of Reason as well as of Beauty and Solemnity.

GLEE CLUB TRAVELS EAST AT EASTER

BILL AYRES, '34, Business Manager of the Glee Club

The annual Easter tour of the University's Glee Club has come and gone. Forty singers under the guiding hand of Conductor Joseph J. Casasanta left the campus on Good Friday and pulled up in the Grand Central Station in New York City the following morning. The Hotel McAlpin provided the little used headquarters for the men during their lark in the metropolis but some of the group did not stay in long enough to greet Bob Nesbit, '33, Dan Rolf, '33, and Jerry Parker, '30, all former glee clubbers, the latter being the Business Manager in the '29-'30 outfit. Sight seeing tours were quite the thing during the three day stay but for the most part, the snooping was carried on in small groups or individually.

Late Monday afternoon, the men met at the Columbia Broadcasting Studios on Madison Avenue to rehearse for their program over a coast-to-coast network at 5:15. The officials of the company spoke highly of Professor Casasanta and the club and many favorable comments came in from radio listeners.

Everyone was awake and on the bus Tuesday morning at nine o'clock for the run up to Hartford, Connecticut where an audience of 2,200 applauded the efforts of the singers in Bushnell Memorial Hall. Bill Murphy, '33, and a member of last year's club, came back stage during intermission and of course there was the usual amount of gaiety, hand-shaking and back-slapping. Ted Rourke, '24, John Robinson, '28, and Charles Grimes, '20, renewed acquaintances with Joe Casasanta before the concert; and Vince Turley, '32, Clete Lynch, '22, and Dave Hayes, '21, dropped back to see the gang at the conclusion of the program. Jim Curry, '14, and Tom Curry, '14, the men who did a great deal to make the concert possible were prominent in the gathering behind the scenes.

It would have been nice to stay in Hartford for a longer period but in order to make train connections in New York, it was necessary to roll out at six Wednesday morning and be on the road by seven. All the way to Utica, New York where the train arrived at six that evening, the glee-sters (as some individual has named them) recounted the stories of parties after the concert on the previous night. Charlie Hitzelberger, '32, met the fellows in Utica and took charge of dispatching them to private homes. Dr. John Kelley, '22, was general chairman of the committee in charge of the concert, and had the auditorium of Our Lady of Lourdes High School practically filled. John Farr, '29, and Bob Berg ex. '34, popped in to shake hands at the end of the program which was followed by a dance. That broke up at midnight but the parties didn't. All the hosts called their charges at 6:30 Thursday morning to catch the 8:00 o'clock train for South Bend where the raspy-throated men arrived at 11:00 that night. Then they slept.

Alumni Office Completes Record Club Visits

Dooley and Armstrong Cover 40 Clubs; Faculty Members Visit 8; Interest High, Activities Effective; Program Progressing; New Clubs Organize; Much Remains to Be Done — Possibilities Just Unfolding.

Pardon condensed space in this report of the travels of the Alumni Office representatives along a plan similar to that recorded in the April ALUMNUS. The work done and the men co-operating were just as effective. But Commencement casts such an immediate shadow, that time and space stand suspended in other fields.

ARMSTRONG

PITTSBURGH

This is the simplified saga of Armstrong, resuming in Pittsburgh, on Universal Notre Dame Night, April 16, what had ended in Washington on March 24. Two high school visits in Pittsburgh preceded the evening meeting—one to the Central Catholic H. S., where roll call sounded like the N. D. alumni roster, with O'Toolles and O'Donnells in evidence. Brother Francis, principal, called the senior boys together for an assembly. The other visit was to St. Mary of the Mount High School, where an assembly of the entire high school was kindly called by the Mother Superior. In the evening, the Notre Dame Club of Western Pennsylvania gathered in force at the Commodore, one of Pittsburgh's newest establishments, for a dinner in observance of N. D. Night. Dr. Leo D. O'Donnell was the "fixer" for my high school visits.

YOUNGSTOWN

Pittsburgh to Youngstown—where John Moran had a lively program lined up, including visits to Rayen, Ursuline, East and South high schools. Ursuline very kindly called an assembly of the boys and gave a most cordial reception. Similarly, the heads of the public schools were most co-operative. An alumni dinner at McWeb's in the evening followed a ride to Sharon, Pa., with Norm Smith, just missing the high school closing session there. The dinner, at McWeb's, brought together a fine crowd, including George Prokop, former baseball star, and John Buckley, who was suffering the final stages of a scarlet fever exile from his home. Tom Enright, Red Kane, Johnny Moran, and Norm Smith bore the brunt of the visit, nobly.

AKRON

Youngstown to Akron far into the night—there to be met in the dew of the morn by the genial Joe Kraker and launched on a most profitable and busy day among the preparatory circles of Akron. Spoke to an assembly at St. Mary's H. S., and visited both North and South High Schools. In the afternoon had the pleasure of addressing the Juniors and Seniors of St. Vincent's H. S. Was introduced by Pres. John O'Neil of the Senior Class, in the absence of Father Scullen, who was enjoying a trip abroad. The Akron Club met for its delayed U.N.D. Night dinner in the German Club. A fine and informal feast was followed by games, as the best party write-ups have it. (The writer rallied and with the hospitable leniency of Ed Raub, Tim Rauh, Chick Doran, Frank Doan and Frank Steel, appeared in Toledo with a shirt.) Enjoyed a visit with Art Keeny and Paul Tobin after the dinner. Discovered I could take a sleeper out of Akron for Toledo, and did so.

TOLEDO

In Toledo, Fred Sprenger and John Hurley saw to it that I made the rounds, an alumni meeting being inadvisable because of the immediate and very successful meeting on U.N.D. Night when Coach Chet Grant had won the Toledo alumni and guests to the "new deal" at Notre Dame. An assembly of more than 200 boys at Central Catholic High School was called by Father Kirsch, and a splendid reception extended. Lunched at the Commodore Perry with Fred, John Hurley, Ben Kesting, Joe Wetli, and several other of the boys who had a chance to drop in early—the Catholic Central, appointment rushing us away at an early hour for a luncheon.

DETROIT

On to Detroit for my initial visit to that active N.D. center, meeting the date of the N.D. Glee Club Concert there. Gil Schaefer undertook the task (sic) of getting me around the city, visiting De La Salle high school and St. Joseph's Commercial Institute, being vouched for to the good Christian Brothers at both schools by Marce Verbiest. We stopped at Catholic Central but school was just out, as was also the case at Holy Name Institute, conducted by the Basilian fathers under the direction of Father Whelan. Out at the U. of Detroit I enjoyed a visit with Harvey Brown in his nearby office, with Jay Maley, alumni secretary at the University, and with Bud Boeringer, who was running the boys through Spring paces in the absence that day of Gus Dorais. In the evening, at the Catholic Women's League, the Club, acting with the Junior Catholic League and the St. Mary's alumnae club of Detroit, sponsored a concert by the Notre Dame Glee Club, which was splendidly given and as splendidly received (I can speak as an unbiased critic—it was the first time I'd heard them in formal concert for several years). Jack Higgins was doubly efficient in his role of Club president and local promoter for me. Saw a great many alumni lending their support to the program. The Club had decided to hold an informal U.N.D. Night meeting at the Book-Cadillac in spite of the Glee Club concert the same week. This was attended by a small but satisfied group.

LOUISVILLE

Returned to Notre Dame just long enough to look with dismay at the unanswered letters and then drove to Louisville for a delayed visit to the schools and the Club there. Fortunately, my arrival was indefinite. But Bill Reisert started me out the next morning early and we had very pleasant assemblies at Manual, Louisville Male High and addressed four sections of the Seniors of St. Xavier's. After this strain on the vocal chords and Bill, we adjourned to the Louisville-Columbus ball game before the time for the dinner in the evening at the Kentucky. There, a group gathered in spite of the very recent U.N.D. Night and the impending Derby.

Back to South Bend but on the same night to Jackson, Mich., for the start of a week's tour in Southwestern Michigan.

JACKSON

Lester Wisda had made arrangements in Jackson at St. John's High School where an assembly greeted me on Friday afternoon. Friday morning, Fr. Cullinane and Sr. Marian kindly interrupted the Senior boys physics at St. Mary's while I talked there. In the evening, Jim Henley, busy but happy and healthy (then) between his labor papers and his CWA administrative work, bought a dinner for seven alumni at Wolfe's. His kindness was poorly rewarded by an auto accident the following day which had him temporarily in the hospital. The Jackson group, on checking up those present and those accounted for, decided upon the organization as soon as possible of a Club.

BATTLE CREEK

In Battle Creek on Monday, stopped just long enough to address an assembly in St. Philip's High School, arranged by Harold Steinbacher, who was busy at the polls that day on the Michigan bond vote. Then on to Kalamazoo.

KALAMAZOO

In the Celery City, Dr. John T. Burns had very kindly arranged an assembly of the boys of St. Augustines's Senior Class. Following this, Mrs. Burns took Mrs. Armstrong and me out to Nazareth, where two of the Burns youngsters are in school. We enjoyed a very thorough and hospitable visit to the academic and college departments of this lovely school and met a number of the gracious Sisters in charge. Then we came back to the Burns home for a dinner with Dr. and Mrs. Burns and Mr. and Mrs. William Carrico, Mr. Carrico being a brother of the present Director of Studies, Rev. J. L. Carrico, C.S.C.

GRAND RAPIDS

We had to depart too hastily from this pleasant evening to make Grand Rapids, where George Ludwig and the champion arranger, George Jackoboise, were waiting with the itinerary for Wednesday and Thursday. For its size, Grand Rapids is one of the most high-schooled cities in the United States, and George Jackoboise had arranged engagements with them all. From 8:30 Wednesday until 3:00 on Thursday we visited and were most cordially received by students and faculties of South High, George Davis Vocational and Technical High School, Grand Rapids Junior College, Union High School, Catholic Central (which is graduating its largest Class this year), East Grand Rapids High School, Ottawa Hills High School, Central High School (where George and I listened to Carveth Wells the explorer with the rest of the students), Catholic Junior College (where Dr. Burton Confrey is the efficient dean) and Creston High School. Also, on Wednesday, from 4:00 to 6:00, we interviewed students in the Knights of Columbus parlors. The program was so thorough and so heavy that it left me with no time to see alumni by day and no strength by night.

LANSING

In fact, I arrived on the steps of St. Mary's High School in Lansing just as the good Sr. Loretto had come out to reconnoiter, hastening in with her to address the boys and girls of the school. In the afternoon I spent several very pleasant hours at the annual College Day of Eastern High School.

So, back—with correspondence from January, when the great trek started, staring at me from the desk, Commencement in the immediate offing, but, we trust, more alumni met and visited with than our world had previously dreamed of, more interest in the relationship of alumnus to prospective student, to present student and to Notre Dame. If so, pardon your unanswered letter. Come back to Commencement.

DOOLEY

Herewith the Dooley Doings on a Middle West tour beginning April 16 and ending May 1:

MILWAUKEE

Tom Kelly, '18, prominent Milwaukee attorney, was the chief arranger, guide and advisor during my two days in Milwaukee, April 16 and 17. He did a remarkably fine job of it, too, and devoted many hours out of his busy day to helping and entertaining me. We visited Messmer, Cathedral and Pio Nono, among the Catholic high schools, and Milwaukee Country Day, Bay View and Washington among the others. Freddie Miller, '29, accompanied us to Milwaukee C.D., his alma mater. I had a very kind invitation there, from A. G. Santer, headmaster, to address the student body next Fall.

Tom had made contact with all other likely public high schools. Some had reported "no boys interested." Others wouldn't admit college representative on short notice. Nearly all had made announcement of my presence in the city and some of the boys came to the hotel to see me.

We called on, and had a very pleasant visit with, Francis C. Rosecrans, life advisement director of all Milwaukee public high schools. We also called on Rev. Joseph F. Barbican, who is in charge of all Catholic schools in the Milwaukee archdiocese. I attended a splendid Universal N.D. Night dinner, of which more in the club section of this issue.

GREEN BAY

Levi Geniesse, '24, was the efficient generalissimo in Green Bay on April 18 and he proved to have a little dope that Foch never thought of. We got around to the two high schools in the morning, East High and West High, and were received very cordially in both places. Later in the morning, His Honor, the Mayor, John V. Diener, '09, gave us the keys of the city in his office and took us to lunch. Present at the key-giving ceremony were Bobby Lynch, '03, state representative, and Harold Londo, '24, assistant city engineer, as well as Levi and I.

Mayor Diener, Londo, Geniesse and I stopped in the afternoon to call on the director of Catholic schools in the Green Bay diocese, and on the diocese director of charities. We expected to stop at Bishop Rhode's home also, but he was out. We drove out a few miles to St. Norbert's College and High School at DePere and had a very pleasant visit with Father Keefe, the rector, and Dan Williams, '31, and Emil Telfel, '31, of the faculty. I also stopped in to see Mr. Engels, the genial father of a long line of Notre Dame Engels'. I learned that the present year is the first since 1918 that there hasn't been an Engels boy in school at Notre Dame.

The Green Bay Club had its U.N.D. Night dinner that evening. For the glad details, see the club section in this issue.

ST. PAUL and MINNEAPOLIS

Gene O'Brien and Jack Yelland, officers of the Twin City club, and Jerry Conway, St. Paul advertician, steered me around the Twin Cities on my high school calls on April 19 and 20. My sincere thanks here for their remarkable accomplishments.

With Jerry I stopped in to see the very cordial superintendent of St. Paul schools. With his advice and help I called on Mechanic Arts and Central high schools in St. Paul. My presence at the Lowry Hotel was announced in the other public schools of the city and my presence in the Andrews Hotel in Minneapolis, where I spent the week-end, was likewise announced in the public high schools there and in some of the churches.

The Christian Brothers, with their traditional generosity and kindness, allowed me to speak in both their

FIND RARE PAPERS IN UNIVERSITY ARCHIVES

Fire! 55 Years Ago

Unpublished documents on the famous Don Didier of the Scioto River Settlement have been brought to light at the University according to an announcement by the Rev. Thomas McAvoy, C.S.C., University archivist.

These and other papers bearing on early American Catholic history are among the rapidly increasing fruits of the work now being carried on in the archives of the University. This will be heartening news to those students of American history who have been awaiting the reopening of the archives for research.

The 400,000 or more letters and documents housed in the archives constitute undoubtedly the richest collection of such material in America, and it is the hope of the University, expressed by Father McAvoy, to be able to make them available for consultation within a few years. Much of this material is private and confidential and cannot be opened to the public, but documents which by nature and content belong to the public will be made available as soon as circumstances permit.

Just how much effect the new Didier material will have upon the history of the French settlement in Ohio cannot be determined now, but it is thought that some of the documents will alter considerably the later history of the French Benedictines. Other important findings of the archivists relate to the early missionary endeavor in the lower Mississippi valley. Besides this, letters have been found in the Orestes A. Brownson papers offering a new viewpoint for the study of the inner life of Brownson. Another series of letters gives new facts on the pre-Sorin history of the Notre Dame country. Notre Dame was founded by the Very Rev. Edward F. Sorin, C.S.C.

Father McAvoy stated that the new discoveries will be given to the public as soon as the work in the archives has progressed sufficiently to allow publication of all the documents on a given subject. At present a calendar and dictionary card catalogue of persons, places, and subjects is being catalogued at the rate of 300 letters a month.

Father McAvoy is carrying on his work with the assistance of the Rev. Frederick T. McKeon, C.S.C., Ph.D., and six student secretaries.

The Notre Dame archives had as its nucleus the papers collected by the late James Farnum Edwards, for many years librarian and professor "Shades of Notre Dame"

Recent announcements make even more appealing to alumni the Commencement show, "Shades of Notre Dame," which is to be presented in Washington Hall on Saturday evening, June 2.

Places and events which are a part of Notre Dame stories and traditions will be featured. You'll see Brother "Leep's" store, with its lemonade and "fours," for instance, not to mention Louie Nickel's famous South Bend hostelry. An actual occurrence in a front line World War dug-out will be dramatized for you with the assistance of Rev. Matthew Walsh, C.S.C., a War chaplain and one of the occupants of the dugout.

Professor Vincent Fagan is in general charge of the show. Assisting him in preparing the material are Father Walsh, Rev. Eugene Burke, C.S.C., Rev. Thomas Burke, C.S.C., Dean James E. McCarthy, Professor Norbert Engels, and Assistant Coach Chet Grant.

The musical direction of the show is being handled by Professor Joseph J. Casasanta who is arranging and transposing many original numbers for presentation by members of the Glee Club and the Notre Dame Collegians, campus dance orchestra.

Professor Frank Kelly, with many highly successful Commencement productions to his credit, is directing the staging and dramatic phases of "Shades of Notre Dame." He will present some of the best known campus actors.

All of which comprise one more potent reason for "coming back" this year.

of history at the University. While American Catholic historical research was in its infancy and much valuable material was being burned or destroyed, Professor Edwards spent his vacation periods traveling about the country looking for these castaway treasures.

He deserves recognition, in the opinion of Father McAvoy, with John Gilmory Shea and Martin I. Griffin, both of whom he assisted in many ways, as one of the three great pioneers of American Catholic history.

The following story, appearing in the South Bend Tribune for April 23, 1934, not only presents a graphic account of a terrifying disaster but also emphasizes the faith and courage which have made the present world famous Notre Dame arise, first out of a wilderness and then out of smoke and ashes:

"A wild tocsin of alarm leaped from the belfry of Sacred Heart church on the campus of the University of Notre Dame 55 years ago this morning and swiftly from lip to lip spread the cry: 'The college is on fire!'"

"Without premonition of any sort, at 11 o'clock one Wednesday morning, flames were seen on the top of the administration building. Students rushed here and there, carrying prized belongings out of their rooms, trying to save precious articles from the conflagration, forming firelines, passing buckets of water furiously in a vain effort to quench the flames on the sixth floor near the great, golden dome.

"Neighbors for miles around—the flames could be seen from a great distance—took water and hoses and assisted in the salvaging work. The South Bend volunteer fire department arrived on the run.

"In three hours the devastation was complete, despite the frantic efforts to put out the flames. As one chronicler writes, 'When the fire had reached its height, only a deluge from the city standpipe would have subdued those fierce flames.' By three o'clock that eventful Wednesday afternoon the Rev. Edward Sorin, C.S.C., president of the university, and his little band of religious and lay professors who had struggled for 40 years to establish an institution of higher learning in the Indiana wilderness, saw their hopes and their labors vanish. But before the smoke had ceased, the undaunted founder began to rebuild the stricken college."

Among the projects now contemplated by the archivists are the publication of valuable French and Spanish documents dealing with early Louisiana which are being transcribed and translated by Father McKeon; the preparation of a new study of Brownson treating the character of the man himself; a study of Archbishop John Lamy, the historical actuality of Willa Cather's "Archbishop"; and the collection of material for a centennial history of Notre Dame for 1942.

Alumni Office Completes Record Club Visits

high schools in this territory, De La Salle in Minneapolis, and Cretin in St. Paul. The reception in each place, on the part of both faculty and students, was remarkably fine. I stopped at St. Thomas College to chat with my classmate Father Bernie Coughlin. I had to hurry back to the hotel for appointments and so did not have time to look up Bob Fogerty who is also at St. Thomas.

I had dinner Saturday evening with Gene O'Brien, Jack Yelland, Bob Sullivan, and Jack Doyle. Sunday Jack Yelland motored me around to see the sights of Minneapolis and we stopped in to see Mrs. Eva Phillips Donahue and her daughter Helen, sister and niece of our dear friend Charles Phillips.

SIoux CITY

Senator Vince Harrington, one of the busiest people in Iowa, had been out of town a great deal and my letters to him hadn't connected. Hence my day in Sioux City on April 23 resolved itself into a series of visits and such. I had several chats and lunch with Vince who is doing big things in the state legislature and is a power in state politics. I also saw Doctor Nafzger, father of Jack; Cy Manning, department store executive and father of two boys now at Notre Dame; and Ed Lally of the Sioux City Journal. I also stopped to see Fred Shannon, who is in the city engineer's office and Attorney Archie Jepson, but both were out. Vince Harrington's brother, Gerald, who was at N.D. for a couple of years, is in the office with Vince.

OMAHA

My day in Omaha, April 24, was devoted to "scouting" and visiting with the alumni. I talked a couple of times over the telephone with Gene Melady, but missed connections with him in his office at the stockyards. John Doarn was on a visit in California. I had a chat with C. P. Kahler in his office and he very kindly invited me to his home for a marvelous dinner in the evening. I greatly enjoyed meeting the gracious Mrs. Kahler and their delightful daughter, a law student at Creighton. Mr. Kahler is electrical engineer for the entire Union Pacific system and has had a great deal to do with the development of the U.P. stream line train which aroused so much interest throughout the country recently.

Much to my regret I missed seeing Sophus Neble who is a municipal judge in Omaha and very prominent in the affairs of the city.

DES MOINES

From Omaha I hurried on to Des Moines (on the train with Eva Gallienne and her company) and there ran into many crowded hours on April 25 and 26, arranged by Jim Shaw, Marc Wonderlin, Harold Klein and Harry O'Boyle who were exceedingly generous and kind. Harry took upon himself the job of steering me around to many of the high schools. In the course of a day and a half I visited Lincoln High School, where Miss Esther Mary Brannen, a teacher, is an ardent Notre Dame booster (even to the extent of sending her family's car to the hotel to pick me up); Roosevelt High school, Des Moines Catholic High school, East Des Moines High and North Des Moines High. In between I had several hotel conferences with prospective students and a dinner with some of the alumni in the hotel. I left Des Moines amidst the plans of the local club to entertain the N.D. track team at a dinner after the Drake Relays the following Saturday. John Nicholson, the track coach, told me later how much he appreciated this kindness on the part of the club and how enjoyable the dinner was. My thanks and the thanks of the University to an excellent local group.

KANSAS CITY, ST. JOSEPH, LEAVENWORTH

I got off aboard a sleeper for Kansas City and four very active days, including the week-end. The alert and loyal Dan Foley, president of the K.C. Club and his outfit, had arranged a very complete program for me. Dan, with Jim Bray, Bob Tyler and John Dugan, met me at the station at 7:30 A.M. which was a mighty fine indication of real interest. And Dan, with Bob and Jim (John had to go home that night to sleep in preparation for the return the next day from the hospital of his new daughter), put me aboard a St. Louis train the following Monday at midnight. In between Doc Nigro did everything in his power—and a good deal more—to make my visit happy and profitable.

Twenty-five of the boys appeared for a luncheon on Friday, a further indication of this club's interest and enthusiasm. Much to my deep regret, we were delayed at meeting in Ward High School, in Kansas City, Kansas and did not reach the luncheon until most of the boys had had to leave. My sincere apologies here to the club members. I'm very sorry. (But we really were at the high school. We didn't stop at Dugan's office until later, believe it or not).

Among the schools, we visited De La Salle High School in K.C., Missouri as well as Ward H. S., as noted above. Both were wonderfully hospitable and interested. With Foley and Dugan (in Dugan's speed demon) made a 160-mile circle tour on Monday and took in the Christian Brothers High School in St. Joseph, and Immaculata High School in Leavenworth. Stopped off at St. Benedict's in Atchison and had a very pleasant visit with Larry Mullins and his charming family.

Dan Foley's family in Leavenworth entertained me handsomely on two different occasions over the week-end and Doc Nigro did likewise Saturday night and most of Sunday. My gratitude here to all of them.

ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, on May Day, didn't produce any riots, but it did provide an exceedingly full day with the generous assistance of many alumni. Joe Switzer very hospitably met me at the train in the morning. Through the day with the assistance of Joe, Bob Hellrung and Pat Ryan, I spoke at three different Catholic high schools, all conducted by the Brothers of Mary: Central Catholic in East St. Louis, McBride in St. Louis and Chaminade in Clayton, a suburb. The hospitality and cordiality were of the finest everywhere. I had dinner with Bob Hellrung and spent the early evening with him. Later in the evening there was a splendid meeting of the St. Louis club in the Jefferson hotel with Doc Kennedy, president, presiding. Plans were made for future activities. There was abundant interest in N.D. and her activities.

And so, because of the limitations of time and space, I must end. A last request: Please excuse the omissions and forgive the errors. The intensity and rapidity of such a trip leave the memory and mentality (if any) something of a blank.

Father Nieuwland Honored

The Rev. Julius A. Nieuwland, C.S.C., professor of chemistry at the University, has accepted an invitation to serve as one of four honor delegates of the American branch of the International Acetylene Association convention to be held in Rome, Italy, in June. Father Nieuwland was recently awarded the Morehead medal for distinguished contributions to the field of calcium carbide production and utilization. The award is made annually by the International Acetylene Association.

Noble Athlete of Christ*

By REV.. JOHN B. KELLY,

Spiritual Director Catholic Writers Guild of America

The youth divine who taught His men to face
The charging line of seas with hearts serene
Bade Michael lead a captain to His place
In council planning conquests for His Queen.

Knute Rockne, noble athlete of Christ
Whose Alma Mater, too, is Notre Dame
Pursued the Prince of Peace to glory's heights
That he might help Him win Redemption's game.

The Son of God, who one day dropped the ball
Thru Adam's fumbled pass in Eden's bowl
Then welcomed Rock to heaven's Sorin Hall
To teach His angels guard all mankind's goal.

Their Mother Mary clasped the stalwart twain
Whose days gave glory to her holy name
Both fell to earth and died that men might gain
The smile of her they hail as Notre Dame.

This poem was dedicated to Knute Rockne—Noble Athlete of Christ—on the occasion of the Second Annual Rockne Memorial and Communion Breakfast of the Notre Dame Club of the City of New York, April 8, 1934.*

Dr. Knowles Smith Experiments With Radium Minerals

Like showers of fire from bursting miniature skyrockets is the effect produced by exploding atoms in the mining laboratories of the engineering building at the University of Notre Dame. Radium ores or rocks containing radium minerals, are continually bombarding the air with a resultant display of fireworks, if properly observed, due to the disintegration of uranium and radium atoms after having been transmuted into helium and lead.

The head of the department of mining engineering, Dr. Knowles Smith, is experimenting with the different varieties of the minerals constituting these ores to determine their relative degrees of radioactivity. All of the observations are made in the dark room through a special screen which is prepared from time to time in the laboratory.

The exploding atoms throw off alpha particles or helium, less an electron, into the surrounding atmosphere at an exceedingly high velocity and are invisible until they strike the screen. At that instant each produces a separate flash of light. Some radium minerals produce only occasional flashes. Others give a great many per second.

Scientists throughout the world have labored to transform the atoms of one element into those of another. It was the alchemist's dream in the middle ages. Since the discovery of radium an intense study has been carried on as to its chemical and physical properties. To the amazement of science it was discovered that nature in her own laboratory was producing radium from another element known as uranium while the radium itself was being transformed into still other elements. This natural process of change presumedly has been continuous since the earth was formed, is beyond the control of man and has opened a new vista leading to the structure of the atom.

Dr. Smith states that the science of geology has benefited from the study of this spontaneous disintegration of uranium through utilizing the slow rate of change in determining the approximate great ages of the inclosing rocks and consequently the partial age of the earth. This is possibly due to the fact that the lead which is formed is composed of one or more isotopes of lead slightly different in atomic weight from ordinary lead which identifies its origin. Also in geology it is realized that the portion of energy liberated in the form of heat as a result of the transmutation is partly responsible for the heat within the earth.

In the Notre Dame collection of radium bearing minerals are some choice specimens of carnotite ore which were presented to the department of mining engineering several years ago by the manager of a large group of radium mines in Colorado, John I. Mullen, an engineer graduate of Notre Dame. These deposits are extensive. But at present an African mine produces most of the world's supply at a lower cost.

The latest discovery of radium ore is at Great Bear lake in the Canadian northwest near the Arctic circle where it is found with silver. The annual world production of radium is only a small quantity and exact statistics are not published. It probably does not exceed three ounces with a value of more than $4,000,000. It is the most valuable substance of the earth and the most difficult to extract from ores.

THE REGISTRAR RAMBLES--April 15-20, 1934

By ROBERT B. RIORDAN, '24, Registrar

Summary: Official stops—Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Fort Wayne; High school contacts—3 public, 3 Catholic; Registrars' convention—attended; Universal Notre Dame Night—one address, unfinished; Miles traveled—626; Chizzelled—Nights' lodging 2, Meals, innumerable.

INDIANAPOLIS

Leaving Sunday, April 15, in a nice driving rain I spent the night in Marion, Indiana (free bed and board). Monday morning I addressed the senior class of the Cathedral High School, Indianapolis, on the topic of Catholic education in general and Notre Dame education in particular. Brother William and his staff upheld the hospitality of Holy Cross and had me to lunch.

Managed to see George Bischoff, '25, before dashing on to Cincinnati. George was in his usual high spirits, reporting business as being on the increase in quantity and quality.

CINCINNATI

By boiling my radiator dry, I managed to reach Cincinnati in time for the Universal Notre Dame Night celebration. Was conveyed from the Gibson hotel to the Club rendezvous by Cincinnati's master host and public relations expert, William A. A. Castellini, '22. Of the numerous brethren in attendance I remember the following, seen through clouds of Havana smoke and heard through volumes of conversation: W. D. "Hogan" Morrissey '26, Robert Hughes, '29, Leo V. DuBois '15, Joseph Kinneary '28, Albert D. Castellini '24, Commodore Ed McHugh '13, "Silent" Joe Morrissey '28, Clarence Brink '31.

"Hogan" Morrissey, at the head of the banquet board, presided over the consumption of Cincinnati's best, both carving and pouring. Having attended another N.D. gathering, Commodore Ed McHugh and staff arrived late but were piped over the side in true nautical style. There were many telegraphic exchanges of greetings; particularly was the local gathering pleased with a solicitous wire from Father O'Hara then at the Chicago gathering and one from Elmer Layden. All in all it was a happy, happy conclave.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday I attended the annual convention of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars which was both profitable and enjoyable.

Thursday night was back in Marion where the Kiley Brewing Company (the N.D. Kileys in charge) was celebrating the premier of their "Patrick Henry—the beer with an ale base." Also saw Bob Williams, '21, who is in the auto finance business and who looks quite prosperous. Bob rides hard on the local alumni whenever the need arises.

FORT WAYNE

Friday morning I reached Fort Wayne in time to talk at four high schools, thanks to advance arrangements by the Judge and Bob Eggeman. Bob spent the day with me in covering the schools—believe me, the Eggemans deserve the blue ribbon for Notre Dame spirit and alumni interest. Also saw Cliff Ward, '23, enterprising journalist, from whom I learned that Harry Flannery, '23, was one of the master minds in charge of Fort Wayne's WOWO radio station, reputed the best in the state.

Back in South Bend in time to sit in on the convention of the Indiana Association of Economists and Sociologists. The children almost recognized me when I got home.

Former Student Wins Prize

Robert Weppner, of Lakewood, O., a former student at the University, recently was awarded the coveted Prix de Rome, prize of $4,000 for first place in a nation-wide architectural competition. He will study two years in the American Academy in Rome. Weppner submitted the prize design for a "memorial in Washington to the founders of the republic."

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

An unusual opportunity has come through the Alumni Office for a young man between 30 and 35 with the combination of a law degree and an education in accounting. The combination being somewhat rare accounts for its advertising. Anyone having the qualifications please communicate immediately with the Alumni Office, Box 81, Notre Dame, Ind., stating qualifications. The job is in Chicago.

Honor Basket Team; Jordan Named Captain

In observing Universal Notre Dame Night, the Notre Dame Club of the St. Joseph Valley also honored the Notre Dame basketball team of 1933-34 with a testimonial banquet in a University dining hall on Monday, April 16. Approximately 350 were present. Clarence E. (Pat) Manion was the toastmaster.

At the conclusion of the banquet John J. Jordan, of Chicago, a junior in the College of Arts and Letters, was elected captain of the basketball team for 1934-35. Jordan, a forward and one of two juniors on the squad, was one of the important cogs in this year's championship machine.

Coach George Keogan announced that monograms had been awarded to the following members of this year's squad: Donald Allen, Leo J. Crowe, George M. Ireland, James R. Newbold, guards; John E. Ford, John J. Jordan, Joseph Voegelé, Martin Peters, Joseph O'Kane, forwards; Captain Ed Krause, center and Charles F. Quinn, senior manager.

The speakers at the banquet included Elmer F. Layden, director of athletics at Notre Dame; Noble Kizer director of athletics at Purdue; Paul Hinkle, director of athletics at Butler; Jack Lipe, coach of the Illinois state championship basketball team in Harvey, Illinois; Wilfred Smith of the Chicago Tribune sports staff; Rev. P. H. Dolan, C.S.C., prefect of discipline at the University and Coach Keogan.

Father Dolan paid great tribute to George Keogan as a coach and a gentleman and declared that Notre Dame had come to recognize Keogan as "the Rockne of basketball." He praised the Notre Dame spirit which he said time could never kill and declared that despite great losses such as the deaths of Knute Rockne, Father Hudson and Prof. Charles Phillips, the school program moved forward.

Elmer Layden, Notre Dame athletic director, praised Coach Keogan and his cohorts for their successful season and expressed the wish that his football men learn the winning ways of the basketball players.

In closing Layden remarked: "May all the wolves have false teeth."

Coach Keogan reviewed the past basketball season and praised the seniors who are graduating for the efforts they have put forth to make the past three seasons successful. The boys graduating are Leo Crowe, Captain Ed Krause, Joe Voegelé and Jim Newbold. He also praised the new athletic setup at Notre Dame and expressed confidence in Elmer Layden's ability to produce a winning football team next fall.

RECORDS FALL AS TRACK SEASON OPENS

Nicholson develops well-balanced squad for outdoor season after successful indoor campaign. Young, Meagher, Elser, Murphy, Layden, Roberts, McFarlane star.

Five Notre Dame records, two Carter Field records, and one gymnasium mark have fallen before the assaults of three members of Coach John P. Nicholson's track squad, another typically well-balanced Nicholson team.

Vincent Murphy, Cleveland junior, recently set a mark of 6 feet 5 3/4 inches in the high jump against Ohio State. This is a new outdoor mark for Notre Dame men, eclipsing also the indoor mark of 6 feet 5 1/2 inches Murphy set in his first meet for the Irish.

George Meagher, diminutive sophomore from DePue, Ill., broke the Notre Dame and gymnasium record in the broad jump twice during the indoor season with leaps of 23 feet 3 1/2 inches and 23 feet 5 1/2 inches. He jumped 24 feet 6 3/4 inches outdoors for a new field and N.D. mark.

Don Elser, who starred at fullback in football last year, and made the basketball squad last winter, put his 220 pounds of gristle behind the 16-pound ball both indoors and outdoors for new Irish marks. The new indoor record is 46 feet 2 inches. The outdoor mark, made against Michigan State, is 50 feet 8 inches.

COACH JOHN P. NICHOLSON

Other star performers have been Francis (Mike) Layden, who wins almost every hurdle race he enters, either high or low; Capt. Joe Young, plucky little miler who has bettered 4:26; Leo McFarlane, sophomore two-miler who has run 9:31.8 as a sophomore, although he never ran in high school; Bob Bernard, star quarter-miler, a sophomore; and Clyde Roberts, versatile runner who can cover any distance from 440 yards to a mile in creditable time.

The indoor schedule saw victories over Marquette, 57 to 38, and Ohio State, 71 to 33, and a loss, by 6 1/3 points to Illinois, 55 1/3 to 48 2/3. The Irish rose from fifth place in 1933 to second in 1934 in the C. I. C. meet which Michigan State won. They took six places in the Armour relays in Chicago and three in the K. of C. games in New York, including Murphy's tie for first at 6 feet, 5 inches at the latter. Notre Dame participated in both events the same day.

The four-mile relay team (King, McFarlane, Young, Roberts) won the Butler relays, while Murphy took second in the high jump.

The Irish took two places in the Kansas relays to open the outdoor season. They took three at Penn the following week, while failing to place at Drake the same day. Nicholson believes the fates are against him, for in almost every event, had he sent the Drake competitors to Penn and vice versa, Notre Dame would have won.

Ohio State scored a surprise 70 to 61 victory over Notre Dame in the first outdoor dual meet of the season at night in Columbus. The Irish beat Michigan State, 80 1-3 to 50 2-3, the next week. The following meets remain: Pittsburgh there May 19. State meet at Lafayette May 26. C.I.C. meet at Milwaukee June 8, and N.C. A.A. meet at Los Angeles June 15-16.

TENNIS

The beginning of work on ten new clay courts and the appointment of Prof. Pedro de Landero as coach of tennis has provided a stimulus to this sport which has developed what appeared to be a sub-par Notre Dame team into a winning group.

For the past several years, tennis has been allowed to go pretty much its own way. A student manager was appointed; he did most of the scheduling, and the boys went to work on the season without organization or leadership or much of any incentive outside of the will to win and love for the game.

The results were about what could be expected.

Sensing this situation long before the season opened, Director of Athletics Elmer F. Layden started a move to get ten new clay courts. Work was started immediately, and now the courts are nearing completion. They will be ready for the final week and possibly the final two weeks of the current season.

The old asphalt courts presented two major obstacles. First there were only four courts and, until a team was picked, there was no certainty about when candidates for the team could get a court. Rather than wait for hours, many good tennis players passed up the sport completely. Secondly, asphalt courts give a high bounce, even on a well-chopped stroke. The Notre Dame players became accustomed to playing a high bounce. When they played on clay courts in foreign territory they were at a loss to return those low, zipping chop strokes which we have mentioned.

The 1934 team is built largely around Capt. John O'Hanlon, Washington, D. C. and Dick Kelly, Neenah, Wis., winner of a Beaux Arts prize in architecture last year. Both are seniors. The other members are Ed Seward, Elyria, Ohio, senior; Frank Weldon, New Rochelle, N. Y., junior; Joe Waldron, Trenton, N. J., sophomore; and George W. Cannon, Jr., North Muskegon, Mich., sophomore. Prospects for next year are on the up-grade.

Prof. deLandero, head of the Faculty club, coach of fencing and the La Raza club soccer team, has pulled the current team together and it has won three matches, after being blanked in the first two.

Following are the results to date and the rest of the schedule: Northwestern 6, Notre Dame 0; Western State 9, Notre Dame 0; Notre Dame 6, Armour Tech 3; Notre Dame 4, Albion 3; Notre Dame 6, Detroit 1; Michigan State 7, Notre Dame 2. May 19—Michigan State here. May 25—Chicago here.

CAPT. JOHN O'HANLON

BASKETBALL

They are still talking about that Notre Dame basketball team in many sections of the country, so we feel that it is appropriate, even at this late date, to review, however briefly, the glories of the past season.

Coach George E. Keogan, in completing his 11th year as coach of the Irish forces, built a team which won 20 of its 24 games, defeating Purdue, the conference champion, by 11 points, 39 to 28; Northwestern, the runner-up by 28 to 24 and 37 to 21; Kalamazoo, Ball State, Albion, Bradley, Arizona, Michigan State twice, Butler twice, Chicago, Valparaiso, Detroit, Temple, Xavier, and Ohio State; splitting with Marquette and Minnesota while maintaining a total point advantage in each series, and losing two games to Pittsburgh.

The first 20-victory season of Keogan's career gives him a total of 176 victories and 54 defeats for a percentage of .765. This is a better mark than any other coach of a major team can claim for his all-time record at this school.

Capt. Ed (Moose) Krause, made the all-America teams for the third consecutive year, one of the few players in the history of the game to accomplish this feat. Despite the fact that various opponents guarded him with as many as three players, he scored 194 points to lead state and team scoring.

Graduating stars include Krause, Leo Crowe, guard; Joe (Arms) Voe-

GOLF

Another outstanding Notre Dame golf team is blazing its way across the fairways of the middle west with five victories already away and two matches as well as the state and national intercollegiate tournaments ahead of them.

They will go into Eastern territory, too, according to the latest word from Director of Athletics Elmer F. Layden's office, with a June trip which will begin just after commencement and will last until the national collegiate meet in Cleveland June 25 to 30.

The rise of Notre Dame into the collegiate golfing spotlight since the opening of the William J. Burke-Notre Dame course in 1930 has been phenomenal, both in suddenness and its consistency.

The team of 1934 is worthy of the gele, forward, and Jim Newbold, reserve guard. Returning veterans are Captain-elect Johnny Jordan, snappy forward whose brilliant play kept the Irish juggernaut rolling when it might have slackened; Don Allen, guard; Johnny Ford, forward; George Ireland, sophomore guard who was the only member of the squad to participate in every game; Joe O'Kane, forward; Don Elser, guard; and Marty Peters, forward and center. Peters was third in scoring, behind Krause and Voegelé, with 121 points for 22 games.

The 1933-34 team was sure death for records. It won 11 straight games, which, combined with the last 11 of last year, gave Notre Dame a new all-time winning streak of 22 games. They won 15 straight home games, and 18 out of 19, losing only to Pittsburgh on the local floor. Four of the 15 victories came in 1932-33 and the other 11 in 1933-34.

Attendance totals of 53,000 for home games and 50,800 for games away from home, as well as the total of 103,800, set new Notre Dame records.

Krause set an individual scoring record of 22 points in a single game, making all of them in the first 34 minutes of the first Minnesota game.

REV. GEO. L. HOLDERITH, C.S.C., COACH

high standards set by that first team captained by Larry Moller which in 1930 took third place in the national meet while Captain Larry was winning medalist honors and going to the finals of the tournament.

The 1930, 1931 and 1933 teams were undefeated in dual match play, while the 1932 team lost only two dual matches out of eight. The Irish won the state team title in 1930, 1931, and 1933. The string of individual state champions is unbroken—Bill Redmond in 1930, Larry Moller in 1931, Capt. Redmond again in 1932, and William Cole last year.

The present team is made up of the same men who comprised last year's team, plus three new members. Vincent Fehlig, St. Louis, Mo., is captain. ex-Capt. John Montedonico, Memphis; William Veeneman, Louisville; Johnny Banks and Winfield Day (who recently negotiated the difficult number 4 Olympia Fields course in 70) both of Chicago; Herman Green of New Castle, Pa., and Patrick Malloy, Jr., of Tulsa, Okla., son of the late Patrick M. Malloy, Notre Dame graduate of the class of 1907, are his teammates.

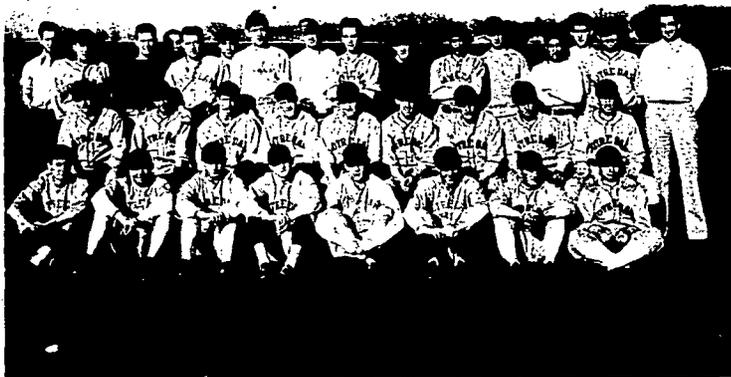

In addition to the seven teams on the schedule which follow, ten Eastern schools have signified their willingness to meet the Irish, and it is likely that eight of these matches will materialize for the first inter-sectional golf trip in the history of the University. Following is the record to date and the remaining regularly scheduled matches:

Notre Dame 14, Detroit 4; Notre Dame 15½, Purdue 2½; Notre Dame 15, Chicago 3; Notre Dame 15½, Wisconsin 2½; Notre Dame 15, Northwestern 3.

May 19—Illinois at Champaign. May 24—Indiana here. May 25-26—Indiana State meet here. June 25-30, National Collegiate meet, Cleveland.

The closing game of the spring football practice season, resulting as it did in a fine exhibition of defensive football, agreeably spotted with striking offensive thrusts—and resulting in a 6 to 6 tie—left the campus with a deep sense of respect for the 1933 team, whose members played brilliant, daring football in their final game; but left only a feeling of hope for the varsity of 1934.

The new coaching staff was disappointed in the showing. But it appeared that tackling is just a bit harder and blocking is just a bit more deadly than when practice opened.

The team is admittedly weak from tackle to tackle. The ends, Capt. Dominic Vairo and Wayne Millner, are two of the best in the country. The possible return of Jack Robinson, Jr., at center might make a pair of fair guards look good. Only one monogram winner appeared from tackle to tackle with the regulars—John Michuta, right tackle.

BASEBALL

Supplemented by the presence of several football-baseball stars who preferred spring football to baseball, Notre Dame's hopes for a happy ending to the current season are high.

The present members of the team, however, might give the football men some lessons in how to fight, for, despite the record of nine losses against two victories, the lads have rallied in either the eighth or ninth inning, just falling short of victory in every one of the games they lost almost without exception.

Following is the record compiled to date by the charges of the recently appointed Coach Clarence (Jake) Kline, also head freshman football mentor: Ohio State 7, Notre Dame 5; Western State 14, Notre Dame 7; Chicago 14, Notre Dame 12; Northwestern 14, Notre Dame 13; Purdue 14, Notre Dame 12; Purdue 9, Notre Dame 6; Wisconsin 6, Notre Dame 4; Notre Dame 5, Ohio State 3; Michigan State 8, Notre Dame 1; Western State 4, Notre Dame 2; Notre Dame 7, Indiana 3.

Following is the rest of the schedule: May 15—Northwestern at Evanston. May 18—Iowa here. May 19—Iowa here. May 22—Chicago here. May 24—Purdue here. June 1—Wisconsin here. June 2—Michigan State here.

U.N.D. Night Is Widely Observed

BOSTON

A well-attended dinner was held April 16, at the Hotel Kenmore by the Boston Club. There was more enthusiasm shown than at any recent meeting. Universal Notre Dame Night always proves that the boys here still have Notre Dame Spirit.

Dr. Eddie Anderson joined us with his running mate at Holy Cross, Joe Sheeketski. John McManmon (bigger than ever) gave a very interesting talk on horse racing and his experiences as a jockey.

The club voted favorably on a motion to publish a directory containing the whereabouts and occupation of each Boston Alumus. There was an election of officers as follows:

Jarlath (Jack) Slattery, president; Jim Skahan, secretary-treasurer; Dr. Eddie Anderson, Charlie Crowley, Joe Gartland, Maurice (Pat) Cohen, and Joe Sullivan, board of governors; Rev. Cornelius Donovan, chaplain.

Boston has the material for a wonderful and enthusiastic club. We're going to make it just that.

Jim Skahan.

CINCINNATI

W. D. (Hogan) Morrissey is new president of the Cincinnati Notre Dame Club. He was elected to guide the destinies of local alumni during the coming year, at a recent meeting at the Fenwick Club.

Other officers chosen were Larry Janszen, Vice-president; Joe Kinneary, Secretary; Clarence Brink, Treasurer; and Robert Hughes, Trustee.

Other trustees are Harry V. Crumley, and Wm. A. A. Castellini. Edwin C. McHugh was re-elected honorary president of the local organization.

Brother Benjamin, C.S.C., representative of The Ave Maria magazine, was the honored guest.

Note: For an account of Universal N. D. Night in Cincinnati, see story of Bob Riordan's trip in this issue.

CAPITOL DISTRICT

In observation of Universal Notre Dame Night, April 16, the Notre Dame Club of the (New York) Capitol District convened for the annual election dinner in the Dutch Room of Keeler's Restaurant, Albany.

President Dollard opened the meeting with the announcement that the climax to the year's activities, the Christmas Dance, had been a financial, as well as social, success.

Mike Leding contributed a short discussion of his experiences on the football squad.

Your telegram and others from Notre Dame linked the gathering with the campus for the evening.

Before adjournment a rising vote of thanks was extended to Tom Dollard for the capable and effective manner in which he conducted the club during his term as president.

Richard S. (Dick) Walsh, '31.

CONNECTICUT VALLEY

In observance of Universal Notre Dame night, a group of the boys gathered at the Clinton Hotel at Springfield, Massachusetts. Kelly of Lee, Bill Hurley of Springfield, and Tom Ferguson of Thompsonville were instrumental in making the arrangements.

The gathering was more or less impromptu, not being called by the Connecticut Valley Club and materialized in less than a week. Considering the short time intervening, distance and inclement weather, the attendance was encouraging. It seems to indicate the desire of the boys to gather together and discuss the things dear to Notre Dame men. Undoubtedly, there would have been a larger attendance if more time had been allowed and the weather pleasant.

Telegrams were received from and sent to the Chicago Club and Elmer Layden and a telegram sent to you.

After a turkey dinner, et al, the conversation, quite naturally, turned to the activity displayed by the fellows upon returning to their homes. Although the group was small in number, it was big in enthusiasm, which I feel was sincere.

Appreciating that enthusiasm is not accomplishment, a tentative date, April 30, has been set to have an open business meeting of all Notre Dame men, grads and fellows who were there for a year or more, in Hartford; the purposes of which will be to organize as an active Notre Dame Club. Jim Curry, Secretary, will call the meeting in the absence of William Granfield.

It is really a down right shame that the club has been so inert for the past few years and using the group which gathered together at Springfield, April 16, as a nucleus, it is our intention to organize, reorganize, readjust or whatever is necessary in order to become active.

Frank Laraia of Hartford lost his mother Sunday, April 15.

Francis D. Ahern.

Although it has taken me a long time to acknowledge your letter, be assured it was very welcome and appreciated.

You mentioned the possibility of being in the Connecticut Valley during the early spring, and I have been expecting to see or hear from you. As the Glee Club gave a concert in Hartford, Easter Tuesday, I presumed that you were traveling with them.

The boys did a nice job with their concert here, a credit to the school. Joe Casasanta certainly is deserving of praise for the training, discipline and musical accomplishment of the Club. Clippings from the local newspapers are enclosed. You might be interested. Also, Joe, if he has not already seen them.

A good complement from the Valley attended and were very well pleased.

Tom Ferguson tells me "Red" Hurley—Alderman—is arranging for a gathering of some of the boys in Springfield Monday, April 16. Sounds good to me and am quite anxious to attend.

Congratulations on your ALUMNUS, Jim, it is improving continuously. The special articles by members of the faculty are very good. Hope you continue with the idea.

No doubt some one will give you the "dope" on the meeting in Springfield.

Success in your work and best personal regards.

Francis "Buck" Ahern.

CLEVELAND

As you might have heard by now the Father & Son Luncheon was quite a success. In the first place, the combination of Father Miltner and Joe Boland was perfect. It was the general consensus of opinion that the guests were given a true picture of Notre Dame. Both of these men are of course of a very high caliber and put the whole affair on a high plane. Added to this the literature you sent proved very helpful and was much appreciated, by both guests and members.

When the committee which was composed of Eugene Kane, Paul Castner, Dan Sammon, John Keiner, Joe Ganin and myself, first met, we unanimously decided that since this was a noon-day affair it should be held downtown and this factor added to the above mentioned factors plus a little luck enabled us to draw 104 persons—more than twice the crowd of last year.

In conclusion I must make the following observation: Your office is the last word in efficiency and cooperation and I hope it continues to render such service and display that spirit. In the same breath I would like to ask a question: Is it your understanding that in an alumni project, promoted by a local club, contacts, arrangements, etc., made with the University—should be made through your office—and vice versa? I ask this question because it is the first time I ever participated in an activity and I really don't know the answer, and again even I might be of some help to you in the future—so I would like to know.

Well, Jim, it was really a pleasure and I hope to see you soon.

Joe Sweeny.

A Mass was celebrated by the Club Chaplain, Father Michael Moriarty, at St. John's Cathedral, Monday, April 9, at 11:30 A.M. to commemorate the anniversary of Rockne's death. Club members attended and many received Holy Communion.

Breakfast was served in our club rooms at Fishcher-Rohr Co., 1792 East 9th Street after the Mass.

Dan W. Duffy

An advance notice said that Tommy Yarr, newly-appointed head coach at John Carroll University, Cleveland, was to be the guest of honor of the Cleveland Club at its Universal N. D. Night dinner. Father Moriarty was to be the toastmaster.

The following were to be among the other distinguished guests: Father Rodman, S.J., president of John Carroll University; Ralph Vince, director of athletics at John Carroll; and Mike Koken, Tommy's first assistant.

CHICAGO

Said the Chicago Tribune on April 17:

"The Notre Dame Club of Chicago celebrated the eleventh annual universal Notre Dame night with a dinner in the grillroom of the Medinah Michigan Avenue club. Notre Dame alumni clubs in other cities held meetings at the same time and engaged in an exchange of messages. More than 250 alumni attended here.

"The Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., vice president of the University, was the principal speaker. Discussing the present world chaos, Father O'Hara said:

"I see no way out of this confusion except through religion. And by religion I mean something we live, every day and every hour, not something we feel, not something we put on like a garment, and not something we put in a strong box like a trinket."

"President James F. McNicholas of the club read telegrams sent the alumni by Elmer Layden, newly appointed coach, and his assistant, Chet Grant."

DAYTON

Thought I would drop you a line to let you know that the Dayton Club is still alive.

On April 16th we held our annual meeting at the Gibbons Hotel, with the election of officers for the coming year. Amos Clay, '15, was elected president; his address is Union Trust Bldg. We had a representative from Springfield here and elected him Treasurer; he is none other than Dan Shevlin. The office of the Secretary remains in the same hands.

Bart McHugh is now in Dayton as manager of the C.M.D. motor freight lines replacing Jim Wood who has been transferred to Indianapolis.

Andy Aman, Jr. '30.

DENVER

A little late on reporting the meeting of our local N.D. club on April 16, 1934, but I guess that the old saying of "better late than never," holds true. Our meeting was called to be held at the Blue Parrot and by the dead line a goodly crowd had gathered. Supper was served first and then the meeting was called to order by Bob Dick, '29. Due to some error Dave Hickey and Louis Hough are still listed as our president and secretary. This should be corrected and stand Robert Dick, president and yours truly secretary. However, that is not so important but getting around to what I had to say, Lou had received all the letters, telegrams, and instructions and therefore had to make most of the business announcements.

The cards which the University had sent were distributed among those present and each promised to give them their immediate cooperation. Several clubs wired greetings from their cities and were promptly answered. Among those present were Lou Finske, Al Douds, Frank Conway, Chuck Haskell, Louis Hough, Gene DiIullo, Bob Dick, Bill Dick, Fred Gusheart, Joe Myers, John Humphries, and Jim Hanlon.

Though that list does not include all of our men in this district. Some were out of town and others were working or so fixed that they couldn't attend. Usually we have a fairly good turnout for our meetings.

Well Jim that's about all I have to report so had better bring this to a close. If there is anything else in this district that you want attended to please let us hear from you and I personally will see that all in our power is done to accomplish it.

Harry Lawrence, '29.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

We had a very nice party last evening and also received your telegram, as well as wires from Father O'Hara, Elmer Layden and the Notre Dame Club of Chicago. We turned out about 75 strong, and everybody had an enjoyable evening, although we put on nothing special in the way of entertainment. Have discovered that a crowd of that type does better by entertaining themselves and getting acquainted, than they do with set speakers. Father Mooney and Father Hagerty were also with us and the former made a short talk, as did Dutch Bergmann and Vince Engels.

We plan on having a dance also some time the latter part of May or the first of June and I believe it will take well. Nothing else exciting here and our weather is still backwards.

Jim Hayes.

GREEN BAY

Forewarned as to the descent of the Assistant Alumni Secretary upon an ordinarily peaceful community, the Green Bay Club planned its observance of Universal Notre Dame Night for Wednesday, April 18 instead of for the preceding Monday, April 16. The A.A.S. deeply appreciated the thoughtfulness and courtesy.

The observation took the form of a dinner in the Beaumont Hotel, Green Bay. Harold Londo, president of the club, presided and read the telegraphic greetings from Elmer Layden. Taking his reputation in his hands, Harold also presented the A.A.S., who with all possible dispatch (so as not to keep the members too long from the adjoining sample room) told the boys about the reasons for the new program of high school contacts, the latest developments on the campus, etc. etc. These remarks were followed by a long series of questions as to the school and its policies.

When the A.A.S. left at 8:30—he had to “catch” the night train for St. Paul—State Representative Bobby Lynch was threatening to break into his squeeze play story and some one was suggesting that new officers be elected.

HIAWATHALAND

The Hiawathaland Club had ten members present at the Universal Night meeting held at the Milliman Hotel in Iron Mountain, Michigan. The meeting was informal and provided interesting facts of what the fellows are doing. The members came from Upper Michigan and Northern Wisconsin and are widely scattered.

Henry Lauerman is manager of Lloyd's Department Store at Menominee, Michigan. This is the largest and finest store in Hiawathaland. His brother, Joseph, is connected with the Marinette Knitting Mills.

James Gleason is associated with his father in the gasoline business in the Menominee area.

Robert Rigley is Professor of History at Jordan College, Menominee.

The crowd from Escanaba, Michigan, include John Lemmer, principal of the High School, and instructor in the Notre Dame summer school. Mrs. Lemmer is a degree holder from Notre Dame, one of the few such unions.

Frank Aley is selling Chevrolets.

Gerald Cleary is manager of the Wadham Oil Company. Matt Erickson is one of his employees. Gerald is also sitting high in the council of the State Democratic Central Committee. His brother, Lawrence, is in charge of the investigation of business conducted by the Department of Commerce in Northern Michigan.

John Stack, an old student, is Auditor General of the State and a candidate for Governor on the Democratic party.

Iron Mountain has three alumni. E. J. Dundon is the City Attorney and also represents the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in the community.

Michael J. Khoury is one of the rising attorneys in the county.

The writer is engaged in the general insurance business.

INDIANAPOLIS

Universal Notre Dame night was celebrated by the Indianapolis Club by a dinner at the Indianapolis Athletic Club.

It was one of the largest meetings that we have had for some time. We had several short speeches by various members who were present, each of which, was very interesting. We were entertained during the evening by a group of boys from the Cathedral High School. The toastmaster was Harry Scott, who had charge of arrangements, and the entertainment was procured through the efforts of George Smith.

We had several out of town visitors. William O'Neill of Mishawaka, who is now Securities Commissioner for the State of Indiana was present and gave us a very interesting talk about the early days at Notre Dame; others who were there were Frank Centlivre of Fort Wayne, Joe Hilger and Bob Hilger of Columbus; Bob Holmes of South Bend, who is now working in Columbus; Joe Toolen of Anderson. Joe is now connected with the State Gross Income Tax department.

We held our annual election of officers and the following were elected: Harry Scott, president; George Smith, vice-president; John Carton, secretary, and Tom Jones, treasurer.

Our ex-president, Bob Kirby, is now secretary to Mayor Sullivan. Bud Markey, who is now in Washington was in town for a couple of Leslie to Lecture at N. D.

With the distinctive and highly popular Gilbert K. Chesterton lectures at Notre Dame in 1930 as a well-remembered event, the University will during the second semester of 1934-35 be honored with the presence of Shane Leslie, world famous Irish author and editor. Mr. Leslie will give two class lectures a week, one on the works of Shakespeare and the other on the works of Swift, to groups of especially selected Senior students. He will also give one lecture a week which will be open to all interested students, faculty members and, if possible, alumni.

The announcement of Mr. Leslie's addition to the Notre Dame faculty was made by Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., vice-president of the University, at the annual student publications banquet on May 15. Mr. Leslie was at the University on April 24 to lecture to a capacity audience in Washington Hall on "The Oxford Movement."

weeks around the first of the month.

Well Jim, this is my swan song and will turn over my duties to my successor, John Carton.

John Rocap.

JOLIET

At the last meeting of our club at the Woodruff Inn hotel, 14 members attending, we made plans for our celebration of Universal Notre Dame Night and Mr. Silk, our president, named Messrs. Joe Adler, Charles Lennon and Ward Loeffler on the refreshment committee. Thomas Feeley and Bob Baskerville on service at the shack, and yours truly on arranging a program over the air.

While the Universal N. D. Night broadcasting was going on the members of our club were at Larry Adler's shack enjoying a fine dinner and listening to the program. After the broadcast Father O'Neil joined the boys and was voted a "regular" by the gang. The evening was spent in entertainment and cards. Jimmy Martin carried away the honors in the card game, and although honors won't buy anything, the money that he took from Clarence Wilhelmi, Joe Adler, Joe Silk, Ed King and Charles Lennon was surely the down payment on a new Plymouth.

Several times in our column you will note that we have our affairs at Larry Adler's shack. The word "shack" is a misnomer as this is one of the beauty spots of Will County and is a hobby of its owner, Larry Adler, who is very generous to our club. Thanks Larry.

Ward Loeffler, who a few months ago was voted an honorary member of our club, is sojourning in Room 220 at St. Joseph hospital, Joliet, Ill., with a bad knee and an appendix operation. He is getting along very nicely.

On April 21, 12 members of our club surprised Edward King, '99 (it being his birthday) at his home and the evening was spent in the usual indoor sport.

The boys are still raving about the marvelous talk Father O'Neil gave over the air on April 16. He talked for 15 minutes and our only regret was that it was too short. Father O'Neil is a Notre Dame man. He came from Mt. Carmel in Chicago, to be director of Catholic High of Joliet and what a job he is doing here. Over night he became popular and is loved and respected by all the students. Catholic High was formerly De La Salle High school and was taken over by the Carmelite Fathers last September.

Bob Duffy, '31, showed that he was a class "A" promoter when he put on the civic banquet honoring the Catholic High National Catholic Championship Basketball team. It was a "wow" and 500 people left the banquet hall in smiles. Bob and his committee sure worked hard to put it over. We're for Bob.

KANSAS CITY

Under the tireless leadership of Dan Foley, president, the Kansas City Club had an exceptionally successful observation of Universal Notre Dame Night. Films sent from the University, together with other films procured locally, were shown and much enjoyed. There was a large turnout.

LA PORTE

Dean James E. McCarthy, of the College of Commerce, was the guest of the La Porte Club. No doubt Mac put over his story in a big way and the boys had a great time, but the secretary of the club hasn't got around yet to giving us the detailed dirt.

LOS ANGELES

Universal Notre Dame night, as celebrated here proved a tremendous success, arousing an activity and interest unprecedented in this club's history. Invitations had been issued to several prominent N. D. alumni who happen to be sojourning here at the moment and it looked for a time as though we were to have an all star program. CHARLIE BUTTERWORTH and J. P. McEVROY were invited, the latter even going so far as to request a written notice of the affair, but owing to the pressure of external affairs both were unable to attend. (We sincerely trust we may have them with us on some future occasion.) The attendance was large, however, and a satisfying disorder marked the occasion as speeches were made on all sides and entertainment by R.K.O. and Fox contract players interspersed the meal.

According to custom officers were elected for the coming year. Ex President AL SCOTT, '22, moved into office of Honorary President; TOM HEARN, '13, was elected President, and is to be congratulated as well on his being nominated district governor for the coming year: JIM KELLY, '00, was elected vice president; DOUG. DALEY, '30, was elected secretary, and TOM McKEON, 1890, cornered the club money bags. Sorta looks like the secretary, being a mere '30 youngster, got crossed up with the Veterans of the American Revolution, but I don't think they'll mind me much, if I'm good.

All the boys were looking like ready money so it looks like the depression is over. REGIS M. BITTNER, '29, was all dressed up, and he had us all fooled until 'twas discovered that he is wholesaling hand tailored clothes; FRED PICQUE, '30, has the shipping business on its feet at last; GENE KENNEDY, '25, threatens to get us a line or two of publicity in bank and trade journals through his connection with the Bank of America's legal department; HENRY DOCKWEILER, '12 gave a couple of speeches at the banquet, and although the boys insisted he run for President he poured honey all over the congregation and everybody felt swell and Henry chose not to run; SID SIDENFADEN, '29, is now pushing Diesel fuel sales for Union Oil and is well satisfied with his progress.

Doug Daley.

LOUISIANA-MISSISSIPPI CLUB

I suppose that you are interested to know what was done by the Louisiana-Mississippi club on the 16th.

The Club celebrated with a dinner at the Monteleone Hotel, New Orleans. Rev. J. L. Carrico, C.S.C., director of studies, was the guest of the club. Brother Lambert, C.S.C., of the University accompanied him.

The two guests have been spending a few weeks along the Gulf coast in the interest of the University and to secure a deserved rest. They will remain in these parts until May 1.

The occasion served to bring a fairly good number of Alumni residing in the city.

Father Carrico gave a most interesting talk on the foundation and development of Notre Dame. In a word picture he presented the difficulties and vicissitudes that confronted Father Sorin, the founder, and his six companions, who nearly a century ago came to Indiana from France and in a forest primeval located the nucleus of an educational institution that has grown by leaps and bounds and today is the largest Catholic University in America.

During the evening messages were received from Elmer F. Layden, Athletic Director at Notre Dame and from a number of Alumni Clubs throughout the country.

The dinner was presided over by P. E. Burke, President of the Club.

Additional talks were made by Brother Gerard, C. S. C., President of Holy Cross College, Joseph F. Dohan, Fabian Johnston, Alvin Hovey-King, C. A. Spurl, Jr., Lionel Favret, Jr., James Favret, John Davis and Bolan Burke.

A most enjoyable evening was spent. It is the intention of the Club to hold other meetings during the year.

I trust that the celebration was general throughout the country and that good will result therefrom.

P. E. Burke.

MILWAUKEE

The Milwaukee N. D. club celebrated Universal Notre Dame Night with a well attended banquet at the Cudworth Post, American Legion Clubhouse. Over fifty fellows attended the first real turnout since last summer's outing.

Ever-witty Tom Kelly, '18, acted as toastmaster, and as usual, kept affairs moving at a lively pace. Highlights of the program included talks by Major J. Wittig and John McIntyre, '84. We were very fortunate in having Bill Dooley of the Alumni Office present to give us the latest information about school. He spoke to an enthusiastic group which included several students of high school and parents of students at Notre Dame. These latter, Messrs. Brust, Carrigan, Fromm, Pick, '00, and Prentiss, in turn spoke of their sons.

Dr. Dundon, '14, acted as chairman for the election of officers. The present officers were renominated by Ed Yockey, '99, and were elected by the force of his persuasion. The officers are: President, Dud Pearson, '19; Vice-Presidents, Tom Dunn, '27, Frank Madden, '17, and Bill Coakley, '11; Secretary and Treasurer, Paul Brust, '28.

Lt. Dud Pearson planned an outing for the summer, sent telegrams to other N. D. clubs and proposed the presentation of a loving cup to be presented to an outstanding student of a local High School.

We also listened to words from Bill Redden, '14, past president of the club and past Lt. governor of District IV. Joe Griffin, '28, who recently arrived in town, was introduced as was Charlie Sorenson of Neenah. From out of town also was John Brannon of Kenosha. Prominent in the discussion that followed were Harold Watson, '25, Jim Rank, '29, and John Marshall.

The Pick brothers of West Bend were prominent in their presence. Angelo and Gene Galdabini are now located in town and were present, likewise Bob and Dick Lutz. Almost like brothers are the Social Service Twins, Charley O'Neill and Al Roach.

Frank Holdampf still appears to be happily married. Bill Brown is another of the younger married group and also Vic Woeste, Sheridan McCabe and Bob Beck. Among the singles in a close huddle were Jean LaBoule, Chauncey Branfort, Earl O'Brien, John Donohue and Norb Backes.

Seen around the bar were Drs. Gebhard and Watt, also Freeman Fitzgerald, Ed Fitzpatrick, Fred Deutsch, Pat Powers, Ed Reaume, and many others whose names escape me now. You can be sure that we had a good time and that all are looking forward to our next event on the program.

Paul Brust.

MONTANA

The Notre Dame Club of Montana held a meeting here in Helena at the Placer Hotel, Monday night, thus joining in with the other clubs in the celebration of Universal Notre Dame Night. Our number was small but the dinner was most enjoyable. We did not elect officers at this time because we felt that there were not enough of the Notre Dame men, here in the state, present. We expect to have a bigger meeting later this spring.

One of the fellows present was Tom Hodgson, now of Minneapolis, who is connected with the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis and has been here in Helena on business. As he was at Notre Dame last June for Commencement, he told us some very interesting happenings at that time. Tom, as you know, received his degree with the '24 Class.

This Universal Notre Dame Night was of particular interest to Ed Brown of Townsend, who was with us, in that he has a son of but a few days of age and he is already grooming him for Notre Dame. Ed showed me the baby and I advise that Elmer Layden reserve a berth for him on the 1954 football team. He is a real boy and his father is so proud of him that it is really tough to be around Ed any longer. Mrs. Ed Brown, as you know, was Alice Balfour and was a St. Mary's girl. Besides young Earl Matt Balfour Brown, they have two little daughters who are future St. Mary's girls.

Particularly interesting at our meeting were the reminiscences of our club president, Earl Brown and Judge A. J. Galen. Both of these men played football back in the nineties, at which time, so they informed us, each player was his own coach. We also had a football luminary who played with Rock. You know him, no doubt—he is Walt Yund, who played tackle on Rock's team. Also present was Dick Walsh of 1918 fame of the Architecture School. Dick is busily engaged now conceiving P.W.A. work here in the state.

Ed Brown, Sr., was having a hard time at the banquet deciding whether he would go to California this fall to see Notre Dame play Southern Cal or go back to Notre Dame and see one of the games there. As Ed can return and portray a game so graphically from the kick-off to the final gun, we are thinking of chipping in and keep him on the road all fall, as this way we would see Notre Dame play.

Joe Maronick was also present and invited us to attend the commencement at the Helena Business College from which he is soon to receive his degree in typewriting and shorthand with a maxima cum laude. He stated that the only thing that would make this commencement less colorful than his Notre Dame commencement, was that he could not go to "Butch's" in Mishawaka the night before.

The others of us present, you can see, were unable to do much talking as we were the listeners for the speakers just named.

We enjoyed receiving a wire from Elmer Layden and also one from the Chicago Club. We felt that exchanging wires was a fine idea as it brought us a little bit closer to one another again. We sent wires to Father O'Donnell, Elmer, the Chicago Club and Frank C. Walker, our outstanding brother Montana alumnus. We rejoice with Frank in the honor that Notre Dame has bestowed upon him this June and rejoice with Notre Dame in having so loyal a son who is so worthy of the honor.

This is all for this time, Jim, but I shall try to send in some more news later.

Bill Jones.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

The Notre Dame Club of Northern California had their party last evening in commemoration of Universal Notre Dame Night and fifteen of our alumni were present.

The suggestion sent to you some time ago that the Annual Notre Dame Night might be set forth to March 4, the date of Rockne's birthday was again discussed and seems to merit further consideration.

The Club proposes to create additional interest in our organization by combining with the alumni of St. Mary's who are in the Bay Region and put on a dinner dance, May 29. With the gradual exodus of the depression, Club interest is bound to pick up.

The idea of exchange of telegrams between Clubs and between the Club and the University was thought to be a good idea and next year there will be considerably more of this, I am sure. We enjoyed the wire from Elmer Layden and also enjoyed receiving the telegram from the Notre Dame Club of Chicago. Next year they will hear from us.

NEW JERSEY

The New Jersey Alumni Club celebrated Universal Notre Dame Night with a banquet at Balturol Golf Club, Springfield, New Jersey. More than two hundred attended. A golf tournament was planned for the afternoon but it rained.

The principal speakers were Jim Crowley, '26, Fordham coach; Lou Little, Columbia football coach; Harvey Harmon, University of Pennsylvania football coach; Joseph M. Byrne, Jr., '15, eastern representative of the University; and Rev. Thomas A. Lahey, C.S.C., from the University itself.

Frank A. Roan, '09, was toastmaster. Arch Duncan, '21, was chairman of the committee in charge. Others included: Bob Phelan, '22, club president; Tom Farrell, '26; Rus Riley, '28; Sal Bontempo, '30; Dan O'Neil, '26; Jack Saunders, '31; and Joe Byrne. Bill Carter.

PEORIA

Frank Oberkoetter, of Bloomington, Ill., reported on a recent visit to the Alumni Office that John Cassidy, '17, of Peoria, state director for Illinois of the National Emergency Council, was to be the honored guest and principal speaker at the Universal Night gathering of the Peoria Club. No further details of the meeting have come in so far.

SYRACUSE AND CENTRAL N.Y.

Universal N.D. night was duly observed by our club members and the report of the meeting is as follows:

The Notre Dame Club of Syracuse and Central New York, with headquarters at Syracuse, assembled for the observance of Universal Notre Dame night and the election of officers for the ensuing year, on Monday, April 16.

A hearty steak dinner was enjoyed at Mirbach's and the club members then adjourned to the stinerwert (tap-room) of Haberle's Brewery where the business meeting was held. Among the club members present were Leo Kelley, Duke Kinney, Jake Eckel, Ward Leahy, Vincent Brown, Ed Byrne, Bill Sullivan, Jim Huxford, Leo Paul, Vincent Brown and John Corcoran. A short report of the club's activities, correspondence and finances was rendered by Ed Byrne, the retiring secretary and, the election of officers for the coming year was held. Ed Byrne and Ward Leahy were the unanimous choice for president and secretary-treasurer respectively.

After the official closing of the club meeting the members enjoyed the hospitality of the Haberle Brewery while Duke Kinney, Jim Huxford and Jake Eckel debated the football possibilities for this fall. Bill Sullivan, the popular "Capitalist" clothier, spent a very strenuous evening arguing communism vs. capitalism with Leo Paul. Bill endeavored to explain why it was that he worked with his brain all day but at night his feet were always tired. The argument terminated when Sully invited Leo down to help wash the store windows.

The club is planning a mid-summer outing, at some time and place to be decided later, having in mind golf, tennis and swimming followed by a dinner.

Ward H. Leahy.

PHILADELPHIA

One wonders how to record such a gathering as that of Universal Notre Dame Night. Perhaps, it were best chronologically, until time is lost in the early hours, sagas we youngsters could never even imagine seem almost unbelievable, and The Night is no more. As finances never worry us, when we have some, G. T. DEGAN'S (we suggest "Greater Things" instead of "Good Time," for the "G.T.") cheering Treasurer's report, with a surplus for the first time since when, be given first mention. Then Governor ED BAILEY'S Constitution, as a ponderous tome, covering everything from damages to the conduct of families, showed that being such a big-shot is not all glory.

Deserving the center of the stage, although not in order, we thank Coach Elmer Layden for his telegram, and hope Postal Telegraph (Adv.) got ours off. Then, as one good fellow to another, retiring President HARRY FRANCIS' reading of your kind letter of thanks for the Club's recent opportunity to have you as guest can't be overlooked. Finally, the anti-climax of the evening: the election of officers. If GUS DESCH can lead our Club as once he did the world's best hurdlers (and the next NIGHT will show that he has done so), yours truly will have the honor of recording the activities of the best Notre Dame Club. Not only as a recognition of his bringing a half dozen cohorts the many weary miles from Harrisburg, but also that we may have a representative on the Governor's doorstep, JOE FARREL carried off the Vice-Presidency. After the above pabulum, you might know G.T. is still our Treasurer.

We missed "Chief" Neeson—present at Notre Dame—but were glad of his being at the home town celebration of the custom inaugurated during his term as President of the national association. And now to the climax.

Tom Daly (we won't tell when he left the Indiana dunes), more than justifying the envied position he holds as the city's foremost rhymor of choking couplets, with some of Fr. Cavanaugh's fluency, Rock's pointedness, and his own Italian dialect, out-bananas the original vendor. This scribe's best would be poor enough to chronicle his treat. We can only thank him for braving his sick-bed, and Notre Dame for having made him one of our own.

The hours have passed to those in which '84 is '34 when Gipp teams with Lukats, when O'Malley full-backed those baseball-clad boys and lifted the lazy Juniors out of bed, when short stories are only so in name, when the Degans could smoke in the room that is now Fr. Steiner's, and to even gaze at St. Mary's was matter for suspension, when the fifteen Seniors that came through the basement window of Corby after the '32 Ball appear no less heroes than the stalwarts of a decade ago, who stood the white robes of ignorance, when the Mules and their feet are no greater than those who made 13-12 the best known score in Notre Dame football. We can but end with the observation that that—you nor we can define it—is part of what Notre Dame men gather to salute on this occasion, a custom we hope to honor many times.

Tom Magee.

SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS

"Universal Notre Dame Night" was fittingly observed by the Club with a dinner and smoker at the St. Nicholas Hotel. Rev. George M. Link, Director of Boy Guidance in the summer schools of 1927-28-29 and nationally known naturalist, was the speaker. Incidentally he is very much interested in the club. Twenty-six men attended, including graduates, former students and prospects. Interest was evidenced by the wide range of attendance—from John Britz of '88-'89 and James Quinn '97 down to two members of the class of '33. Congratulatory letters were read from Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., and Elmer Layden. Our attendance was cut down due to the County chairman elections—yes there are Notre Dame offspring of Thomas Jefferson in Illinois also.

Ed. Mandeville '26 was present from Jacksonville and regrets were received from "Point" Downing, '14, (Decatur) and Mike Seyfrit '23 (Carlinville) for the reason given above. The two members of the Boujon family in Beardstown who attended Notre Dame are now residing in Dayton and California respectively.

Our next club gathering is contemplated for Mother's Day. It will be designated as the annual communion day of the Club, to be followed by a breakfast at which mothers and wives of the men will be guests. We expect a big turnout.

The press has given us a great deal of publicity and continually asking for more. They have yet to be disappointed.

Roscoe Bonjean (ex '28) received the Democratic nomination for County Judge by a wide margin.

The best wishes of the Club to yourself and Jim Armstrong. If I did not acknowledge your letter and list of Notre Dame men in this locality I hope I'm pardoned—and many thanks.

Bob Graham.

TWIN CITIES

Father J. A. Nieuwland, C.S.C., professor of chemistry at the University and an internationally famous figure in the chemical world, was the guest of honor of the Twin City-Notre Dame Club at its Universal Notre Dame Night meeting. Father Nieuwland spoke informally to a large group of N. D. men; and several days afterward, when the Assistant Alumni Secretary reached St. Paul and Minneapolis, they were still talking about the inspiration and humor of his remarks. To say, in the vernacular, that he "went over big" is a very mild way of putting it. Gene O'Brien, president of the club, arranged the meeting.

TRIPLE CITIES

The Triple Cities Alumni Club of the University of Notre Dame observed Universal Notre Dame Night with a dinner and meeting at the Perrault Hotel in Johnson City. During the course of the evening, election of officers was held and yours truly was elected Secretary. So here goes my first attempt at reporting.

Felicitations were received from Elmer Layden and the Chicago Club, which were graciously received by the members present. Local Station WNBZ broadcasted the meeting, through the courtesy of Mr. Tom McMahon and gave the School some very good advertising.

Ways and means of how we could keep Notre Dame before the public were discussed and also plans for contacting prospective students were made. The Triple Cities Club is 100 per cent behind your program of interesting boys in Notre Dame.

Plans were laid for a joint dinner and meeting to be held, after the students return to their homes, during the month of June.

Election of Officers as stated before was held with the following re-elections: Joseph Carey, president; Edward O'Brien, vice-president; Donald Kennedy, treasurer.

By way of reporting also might mention here what the members of the Alumni Club here are doing for the benefit of their friends in other parts of the country:

Ted Griffin, '29, has just taken his New York State Bar examination and is awaiting the outcome. He is associated with a local law firm. Daniel McAvoy, student '22, is a member of the leading firm of lawyers in this city—Lee, Levine, and McAvoy. Edward O'Brien, student '24-'25 is also a member of the above firm. John O'Loughlin, student '23, is associated with the law firm of Edward Roman in this city. William Miner, '21, maintains a law office in Endicott. Harold Kelly, '29, is working with his father who has a Coal and Gas business in Endicott. James Shaffer, '30, and Joseph Hennessy, '30, are employed by the International Business Machines in Endicott. Bob Rice, Jr., student, '27 to '30, is at the present time sojourning in Europe. Wm. Hogan, '32, is teaching school in Binghamton. Joseph Kane, '28, is also teaching school.

Bud Kane, '29, is completing his studies at the University of Notre Dame. Frank Conole, student, '27 to '29 is completing his medical studies at the Jefferson Medical College. Peter J. Wacks, '30, is finishing his Law studies at Cornell University. Warden Kane, '27, is practicing medicine in Rochester. Rev. Joseph B. Toomey, '26, is connected with the Catholic Charities Office in Syracuse. A. J. McCormack, '33, is working for his father. Joseph Carey, '32, is connected with the firm of Green and Wolcott, CPA in Binghamton.

Donald Kennedy, '21, has an Insurance Agency in Binghamton. John O'Brien, student '27 to '29 is completing his Medical Studies at the University of Boston this June. John Gilson, student '28, is working for the Endicott-Johnson Corporation in Syracuse. James Nolan, student '32, and '33 is working for the CWA as a timekeeper. Wm. Allan Page, '27, is doing literary work in this city.

And last but not least, I am working in the City Engineer's Office.

I am still waiting for that crown you said would follow when you left after your visit here.

Regis McNamara, '33.

TOLEDO

It's been a long time between letters as I've been saving all the news for the final edition. Outstanding in the calendar of events of the Toledo Club for the past six months were the annual Christmas Dance, Pat Manion's lecture and Universal Notre Dame Night.

The Christmas dance, which was attended by more than 125 couples, was held at the Chateau-LaFrance Club on Dec. 27. Urban Gradel and Fred Sprenger were the chief instigators of this memorable party and did a mighty fine job of it.

On St. Patrick's evening the inimitable and irrepressible Pat Manion visited Toledo to speak before the Saturday Night Forum on the subject of the "Constitutionality of the New Deal." Addressing his audience as the "aristocracy of disputation" the great constitutional Irishman won the favor of the crowd by the charm and eloquence of his splendid diction. In the discussion that followed the "late" Mr. Manion was particularly nimble of mind and wit.

Prior to the lecture Pat was the dinner guest of the Club. Dr. John T. Murphy presided as chairman over this informal gathering and a goodly portion of local alumni were in attendance. Pat, of course, responded with one of those tall stories for which he is so justly famous.

The Universal Notre Dame Night party was held at the University Club with John Hurley in charge of the arrangements. Assistant coach, Chet Grant was the guest of honor and gave a very excellent account of the new athletic policy at Notre Dame.

In passing I might mention the re-avement of Ray and Joseph Tillman whose father and brother died during the month of January past.

C. Donald McColl, ye olde Boy Guider, has returned from St. Louis and has since devoted his time and effort in Toledo to the sale of Chevrolet.

Joe Wetli.

TRI-CITIES

In order to eliminate a few of the "where y'at now and wotcha doins" at the Commencement Exercises in June, perhaps it wouldn't be a bad idea if the secretaries of the local Notre Dame clubs gave out a little of the latest info' about the prodigies of their respective clubs. It this had been done sooner in the case of the Tri-City club, it might have served also to lighten the deluge of calls and letters that came to its secretary asking "why the 'ell was I omitted" from the last roundup and inquiring about the whereabouts of others whose names did not appear. Confidentially Jim, I was among those that were missing.

My predecessor, Henry M. McCullough, wrote a very good account of the results of his corral for the January ALUMNUS, and although incomplete, it was as complete as was possible at that time. However, a lot of the fellows have come out of hiding since then and have furnished us with a little gossip about themselves and others. Anyway, here are the "whereabouts and whys" of our gang. I trust that someone will advise me if I miss any.

Need I say anything about our athlete director and head coach, Elmer Layden! Our president, Richard B. Swift, and Henry C. Wurzer, the chairman of the executive committee for the Layden testimonial dinner here March 1, still, from force of habit, occasionally find themselves calling one another about details for that affair. However, "Dick" does find time now to take care of some of his legal practice, and to keep George Vander Vennett, who is associated with the law firm of Smith and Swift, Kahl Building, Davenport, on the straight and narrow path to legal fame. Henry Wurzer had added to his labors as president of the Kahl Investment Company by being elected to the presidency of the Blackhawk Hotels Corporation recently. Also in the Kahl Building can be found Cy U. Nolan, another graduate of the Notre Dame College of Law. His brother Roger, he tells us, is located in Davenport with a railroad insurance agency there.

Moving around Davenport we find Elmer Besten, ex-New York Giants, in the Union Bank Building, also practicing law. Elmer recently was appointed Justice of the Peace to fill the unexpired term of Merle F. Wells, newly elected mayor of Davenport. The W. G. Block Company of Davenport and Muscatine, Iowa, still claims the services of Bob Van Lent, who, as we understand it, is giving Jim Skelly, associated with the Alpha Cement Company, plenty of competition for the building material business in that territory.

In the McCullough family, William J. is retired from active business, but keeps occupied taking care of his tenants. Dr. Bert is practicing medicine in Davenport, while Henry M. has the Davenport agency for the Northwest Mutual Life Insurance Company of Milwaukee. All three can be found in the McCullough Building. V. O. Figge, our very capable treasurer, is the executive vice-president of the Davenport Bank and Trust Company.

Among the other Davenporters are Leo Heringer, president and treasurer of the P. and A. Roofing Company, Frank Thul, connected with the United States Engineers here, Daniel Keeler, of the Keeler Construction Company, who had charge of the construction of the sea wall in connection with the Mississippi lock and dam project here, on which Ed Scherer and Lou "Red" Salmon have been engaged for the past two years with the Healy Construction Company. R. W. Slagle is associated with Adams and Adams, wholesale radio distributors, of Davenport. Cletus Banworth and the Reverend Raphael Maher are professors of mathematics and English, respectively, at St. Ambrose College, Davenport. At the present time, the whereabouts of Carl Kaschewski is unknown, although it is reported that he is located in Davenport.

Over in Moline, where they are still fighting with Davenport about airports while Rock Islanders are wondering which city has the poorer one, our vice-president J. Ralph Coryn, is a member of the wholesale butter and egg firm of C. L. Coryn and Son, and Charles Sollo, represents the Notre Dame Law School in the largest law firm in that city, along with Peter Meersman who has his law offices in the Moline State Bank Building. His brother, Joseph Meersman, is with the John Deere Harvester Company, while Charles King is praising the wares of the International Harvester Company here. Bernard F. O'Brien, a newly discovered member of our club, is treasurer of Desaulniers and Company, the largest printing concern in the Tri-Cities.

And now for Rock Island, the hub of the Tri-Cities. (Just a little civic pride, that's all, Jim.) Oscar F. Smith, the oldest local grad and member of the great first Notre Dame baseball team, keeps busy with his realty interests here. Close behind him is James F. Murphy, recently re-appointed master in chancery of Rock Island County. (It's getting to be a habit now.) He now occupies a suite of rooms which serves as law offices for Murphy and Murphy. His son, Hayes F., is the junior member of the firm.

Leo Herbert has moved his law offices from the Best to the Safety Building. Leo was re-elected to a second term as president of the Tri-City Commercial Bowling Leagues, and recently captained his team to rather high scores in the A. B. C. tourney in Peoria and the State bowling meet in Aurora. George A. Uhlmeyer is an industrial engineer with the Peoples Power Company of Moline, and for some time has been sharing his evenings with a daughter, Jacqueline. His brother Vance, of sage and sulphur fame, is now connected with the Peoples Light Company of Davenport. He admitted to George Vander Vennett and me that he is living in Davenport now, but those near to him maintain that he still can be found at his home in Rock Island during short intervals during the morning and early evening.

Thomas E. Davis is with Dan Keeler and his construction firm in Davenport, and Bodie Andrews, although last seen in Rock Island, is reported as sojourning somewhere out on the west coast. Francis King, who claims East Moline as his legal residence, can be found in the Rock Island County Court House under the title of "State's Attorney," while yours sincerely is still trying to find the spot spot in some hard-boiled newspaper editor's heart. (Casting no reflections at you, Jim.)

Among the out-of-towners who pay their allegiance to the Tri-City club are Forrest Cotton, present coach at Catholic University, and Murray Hickey Ley, who represents the Hickey Brothers Interests in Washington, D. C. In Muscatine there are John and Robert Roach, investors, and Paul Barry, of the Barry Manufacturing Company. Herman Ziffren is married and practicing law in Elkhart, Indiana, while Charles Burke was reported last as commuting between Davenport and Detroit.

Students from the Tri-Cities now enrolled at Notre Dame are Myron Murphy, Joseph Repine, Steve Miller, and Harry Cozad, Jr., of Rock Island, and Wells Robison, John McDonnell, D. J. Hickey, III, Francis "Mike" Layden, and Marcellus Geerts, all of Davenport. Thomas Walsh, Jr., of Davenport, has transferred his endeavors to St. Ambrose College, Davenport. Myron Murphy, Joe Repine, and Wells Robison are scheduled to be graduated in June.

Don't know how many of us will be there for the exercises, but until then,

Arthur L. Himbert.

BROTHER MARTIN DIES

Countless Notre Dame alumni, especially in the ranks of former student editors, lost a kind and generous friend when Brother Martin, C.S.C., for 20 years head of the press room of the Ave Maria Press on the campus, died April 10, at the age of 44. Brother Martin's unflinching good humor and understanding nature gained for him the affection of every one with whom he came in contact.

He was born Oct. 25, 1889, in Aurora, Kans., and attended St. Benedict's college, Atchison, Kans., before coming to Notre Dame. He entered the St. Joseph novitiate here March 19, 1913, and made his final profession of vows in the brotherhood of the Congregation of Holy Cross August 15, 1916.

In the meantime he was appointed to the position he held at the time of his death. He was a prefect in St. Edward's residence hall almost all of his 20 years at Notre Dame, both when the hall was devoted to the minors or preparatory students and more recently when it was turned over to the University students.

Brother Martin underwent an operation for the removal of ulcers in December. A week before his death he underwent another operation for the removal of his gall bladder.

The Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., vice-president and prefect of religion at Notre Dame, said of Brother Martin, "He was a very fine religious. He was an excellent worker and the efficiency of the printing office was greatly increased by him. Almost all new equipment was put in during his time."

His hobby was golf and he consistently shot in the 70's on the very difficult William J. Burke-Notre Dame course, despite the fact that he had only the partial use of one hand.

● PERSONALS

The Alumni Office enjoyed recently a very happy visit with Bill McBride, one of the several McBride boys who attended Notre Dame around the turn of the century. Bill lived for many years in New York City, but has recently moved to Chicago. A stranger to Notre Dame for decades, he promised to see more of the University from now on. While on the campus he renewed acquaintances with some of his old friends among the faculty.

1914

T. N. T. News, published by the Northern Trust Company, Chicago, in a recent edition had the following (in part) to say of Al King who died suddenly on March 29:

One of the most valuable officers of The Northern Trust Company, Albert Vincent King, was stricken with a heart attack yesterday at noon, dying immediately.

Al King, as he was affectionately known by all of his associates, came to The Northern Trust Company on January 25, 1918 as a clerk in the Trust Department. On August 1, 1923 he was placed in charge of the Tax Division and on January 1, 1930 the Directors elected him an Assistant Secretary.

Al King specialized in the field of taxation. He was an outstanding figure in that work, being recognized throughout the city as an expert in Illinois and Federal tax matters.

Al's was a rare combination which endeared him to everyone; congenial, quick of wit and an authority in his line of work, he made a host of friends and held them.

Our hearts are filled with sympathy for his wife and the young family who survive him.

1915

Ray Kelly, corporation counsel for the city of Detroit, driving through to Indianapolis with his wife, stopped off for a visit on the campus on May 1 and looked up several of his old friends.

1916

Tom Holland, '16, has been re-elected a municipal judge in Kansas City, Missouri. He is also a radio actor: The proceedings of his court are broadcast for a half hour each morning by a Kansas City station. One of the most interesting features on the air, they say down there.

Al Fries, Peru, Indiana, was steered into the Alumni Office by Professor Maurus when he visited the campus one day recently. Bernie Voll, South Bender, was also in the Maurus-Fries party but was stopped by the Haley entanglements before he reached the nerve center of the campus.

Paul Fogarty recently had a letter from John Urban Riley, stating that "Duke" is now advertising manager for the publication Leisure, the purpose of which is fostering New England summer resorts. Let's have a copy some time, "Duke."

Incidentally, we are informed that one of Paul's favorite haunts is the Yacht Club Bar of the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago.

Rig Sackley, while in Springfield, Illinois, recently, had a telephone conversation with "Red" Schlipf, who is enjoying an excellent legal practice there.

George Kowalski, of Harvey's Pie House fame, is very active with General Outdoor Advertising in Chicago. George spends most of his leisure time at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

Bill Curley, of Walsh Hall Chick's fame, is assistant city editor of the Chicago Evening American, and can be seen frequently at sporting events at the stadium.

A few weeks ago Rig Sackley met a priest from Superior, Wisconsin, at the Loyola National Catholic High School Basketball tournament, who knew Bill Stack and the May brothers very well. The twins are with father in the furniture business.

Now listen, my classmates. Rig Sackley is responsible for the fact that we have any notes at all this month. He's done his part. You do yours. Write and give me any "dope" you have on any of the seventeeners, including yourself. Address me at my office, 520 No. Michigan avenue, Chicago, or my home, 104 South Union street, Elgin, Illinois.

Ed McOsker.

1919

Ted Rademaker, formerly of Marion and Indianapolis, is now in Peru, Indiana, working for the Peru Foundry Company. He's associated there with Al Fries, '16.

1920

As a culmination of nearly ten years service with the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Philadelphia, Pa., James H. Brennan, '20, celebrated his return from an eastern conference with the announcement of the formation of the firm of Scholl and Brennan, to be General Agents of the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance in Chicago.

Mr. Brennan's connection with the Company is particularly characterized by the fact that during the last seven years of his ten, he has ranked with the ten leading producers in this Company throughout the United States.

1924

Ray Brady, prominent attorney in Salt Lake City, Utah, appeared recently as defense counsel in a radio trial for murder being conducted by station KDYL of Salt Lake City. His picture was prominent in a studio publication issued by KDYL. Ray is a former assistant county attorney for Salt Lake County and president of the Notre Dame Club of Utah.

Albert D. Castellini, '24, has formed a law partnership with W. Donald Hall, Carl W. Frey and Overton D. Jackson, offices 1001-2-3 Atlas Bank Building, Cincinnati, O.

Al is a member of the American Bar Association, the Elks, Cincinnati Notre Dame club, Phi Sigma Beta, and the Societa d' Union E. Fratellanza, of which he is a past president.

In 1922 he was a delegate from Indiana, to represent the United States at the World Irish Race Congress, held in Paris, France. In 1928 he studied the Italian language at Rome and at the University of Siena, Italy.

W. Donald Hall is special assistant attorney general, representing the newly formed Ohio Recovery Administration, in charge of all trade and Industrial Codes of Fair Competition in Ohio.

Morris D. Feldman has opened a law office in the Building and Loan Tower in South Bend. Following his graduation from the Law School Morris went into the automobile business in South Bend and became the local Buick distributor. He retired from the motor field in January, 1933 and was recently admitted to the Indiana bar.

1927

I recently have seen a number of the boys and no doubt you will be interested in the following comments for the bulletin:

John Geary censored me for not having commented on the arrival of either of his two children. I saw them a week ago and he has every reason to feel like the well known proud father.

Met Dick Hanousek at a convention in Peoria last week-end, he hasn't changed a bit. He has an enviable position with the Purity Bakeries Co.

Also visited with Don O'Meara while in Peoria and from all indications he is doing very well, having settled down to the business of raising a dandy family.

Ben Hirsh passed word along that

B. Epstein (Eppy) is now married and we all hope he has loads of luck and congratulate him.

Had the pleasure of visiting with Clarence Kaiser (Ki) of '25, about a week ago. He is now in Chicago, having left South Bend after these many years.

Some of the boys of '28 or '29, may be interested to know that Al Welzenbach is happily married and is in business with his father in Peoria.

Have to dash to a sales meeting now, but will write some more news soon.

Ed DeClerq.

Henry Massman is the engineer in charge of a federal construction job on the Missouri River, at Fort Peck, Montana, on which one and a half million dollars is to be expended. The construction company headed by Henry's father is doing the work.

I have been with the Banco Nacional de Mexico for the past three months in the Foreign Exchange Department, in the capacity of Exchange Trader. If there is anything in the way of helping out any Mexican students there at school, or of arranging matters for you or your "esposa" as regards Mexican Pesos, drafts, collections, trade information, mortality statistics, or divorces—do not fail to let me know.

Give my very best to my good friend Louie, whom I shall write someday in the near future. Tell him that Larry Culliney, alias "the Surrogate" (as he is now known) will be delivering something soon for some coming issue of our highly esteemed journal.

Accepting my very best personal regards, and remember me to all our mutual friends, including Mr. Arthur Haley, "behind the goal posts—regardless."

Arthur L. Denchfield, Jr.

Dear Lou:

This epistle will undoubtedly be quite unexpected in view of the lapse of time since you requested a line from me regarding the New York '28 crowd. Inasmuch as correspondence comprises the major part of my work with the Guaranty Trust Co., of New York, I find it exceedingly difficult to engage in further correspondence after working hours even though such correspondence be of the social variety.

I shall confine my remarks chiefly to members of the '28 group who, at one time or another, lived in the neighborhood of Columbia University. Several of this group are now "exiles" including Conmey and Layne, now residing in the '70's, who have stuck together like Amos and Andy.

Jim Conmey is ever the suave broker, more sartorially correct than the Prince of Wales. Moreover, he is conversant with the lore of the "Street" back to the time when the "Big Board" was a spreading buttonwood tree. Despite his proximity to the omni-present conflict between "bull" and "bear," his outlook, except of course for an occasional lapse during the recent blight, has remained as cheerful as a May morning.

As for Walt Layne, he just edits, and edits, and edits, and looks us up in July and August at the beach. Walter's life is not so humdrum; 'tis said that he trips along life's highway at a "Glenn Cunningham" pace as gay as a prom fox-trot.

Now take Bernie Garber (if you will). He plays bridge, tennis, checkers, ping-pong; he reads, writes, dances, smokes, chews, drinks, and guides fair young things about the New Man House and surrounding grounds. Our Bernie even works.

Back from his world tour came Art Denchfield speaking 14 languages including the government alphabetical code. Art's legal residence is now in our midst and we hope he stays nearby for a long time to tell us of the ox-eyed señoritas in las Argentinas.

Out in the provinces is our old comrade of the legion, John McMahon. Mac, who heretofore swung a talented pencil for the local Sun, is now keeping the night wires hot for the A.P. in Pgh. I was glad to see Mac last Michaelmas and to holler "Skoal" at him and to have him holler "Skoal" at me. Somnus as a household god has been a foul ball since Mac sped westward; in this connection we'd like to see the old scribe back again in his tower hurling bricks at 115th street cats.

Bill Cronin who was in our squadron for a year or so now commutes to Washington where he lends valuable services to the government. I saw Bill and Helen around the turn of the year, and their young scion, Vaughn, I would say, should be a hard-running halfback at Alma Mater along about 1950 or so.

Although not domiciled in the vicinity of 116th street, two honored members of our crowd are George Byrne and Bud Callagy. George winters in Miami, where he is at present, and summers at Rye Beach where (to quote that old bard, Layne) "he can see the Sound and hear the sea." George has been one of my best friends since I've been in the city and we've kept in close touch through the years.

Bud Callagy has become a bouncing barrister and spends much of his time expounding his Blackstone in Washington. We see him week-ends at the local Centre Club, to which club practically all our gang belongs, and we engage in a rough-and-tumble game of ping pong or ten pins.

Also doing that "legal thing" is Joe Cannon, of the Vermont Cannons, who holds forth on 116th street, as well as Art Canty, in Newark.

Others formerly on our roster, but from classes other than '28, are Penne Pendergast, Jim Fitzpatrick, Frank Doan, Larry Moore, and Tom Ryan. These fellows have left for the hinterlands but Ollie Schell of '29, Grand Knight of Morningside Council K. of C., remains as one of the last of the Mohicans. Good "ole" Ollie!

By the way, just a few parasangs to the north of us on Riverside Drive is Herb McCabe, who recently married a charming College of New Rochelle girl.

As for myself, Lou, there are times when I think that I have come to the end of my tether, economically speaking of course, but somehow I manage to keep two jumps ahead of the sheriff. As regards this present literary effort, you will by this time believe no doubt that said tether is exceedingly elastic, and lest I continue on ad infinitum, I shall sign off forthwith. As Jim Conmey in his usual buoyant mood remarks of late, Everything, however, is roseate on the horizon which is indicative of many fine tomorrows."

I trust, Lou, that the best of health and success may ever come your way.

Larry Culliney.

Dear Jim:

It's been more than a year since I last wrote to you, I believe, so thought I'd let you know of my continued existence. Which may or may not be cheering news to you.

Also, I'm rather close to you again, and will be down to visit the dear old institution one of these nice, spring week-ends. Armour and Co. transferred me to Chicago last November. Never thought I'd like to live here, but as usual, I thought wrong; for I find that the place isn't so bad at all. In fact, both friend wife and I enjoy it more than any other place we've lived.

Also, we now have a daughter, born in Kansas City last Oct. 9. But if memory serves me correctly, I'm still trailing you and Art Haley. And speaking of Haley, kindly give him my regards and inform him that he can expect the great pleasure of a visit from me in the near future. I'm planning to pop into the bigger and better (physically) university at Commencement time. Can you stand it that long?

Haven't mixed up with the N.D. club here, but will do so soon. There are some Notre Dame men working at the plant, but have met only one so far, a fellow named Winters. He's of my class, I believe.

George Kelley has kept me informed of people and things in South Bend; and he recently wrote that Jerry Holland was back at work.

The old News-Times certainly has experienced some changes in the past few years, hasn't it?

How are Mrs. Armstrong and the little Armstrongs? And have you reduced your girth any since last I saw you? Here's fervently hoping that it hasn't increased.

Would like to see you the next time you're in Chicago. We live close to Mt. Carmel high school, just around the corner from the 63rd street station of the I.C.

Let's hear from you, James.

John Rickord.

Botts Crowley was the leading Notre Dame figure in putting over the Notre Dame broadcast, featuring the exploits of George Gipp, which went out from station WLW, Cincinnati, on March 30. Bob Newhall, sports commentator for the station, was in charge of the program. He interviewed Chet Wynne, '22, teammate of Gipp, as to the latter's personality and playing. Chet is now head coach at the University of Kentucky.

Also assisting, particularly with the lusty singing of the Victory March, were Ted Twomey, Chet's assistant at Kentucky, and Joe Morrissey, of Cincinnati, championship coach at Roger Bacon High School.

Ted Griffin, former tennis star at the University, has been elected to the presidency of the Binghamton, New York, Tennis club, for the 1934 season, according to a recent newspaper story. With the story was a photograph of Ted in action.

Dr. James W. Tobin, graduated from Rush Medical College, Chicago, a year ago, has become a member of the staff of the Elgin Clinic, Elgin, Illinois, his "home town." He recently completed his internship at St. Luke's hospital, Chicago. He will spend two afternoons each week with the Dr. Grant Lang clinic in St. Luke's.

I regret having neglected to send you some news of the Class of '30 for the past few issues of the ALUMNUS, however I have some items here, which you can use next month.

Dan Cannon, who has been my roommate here for the past two years, decided to leave a couple of months ago for the comforts of his home in Columbus, Ohio. The last word from him was about the big Banquet and Ball that the Central Ohio Alumni held on April 12. About 800 people were on hand to greet Father O'Hara, Elmer Layden, Coach Schmidt of O.S.U., President Rightmire also of State, and others. Dan, Ed Mowery, Don Hamilton, and Ray Eichenlaub did most of the work on the affair, which should help to build up a strong club in that section.

John Riordan, who also has been sharing an apartment with me, was called to his home in Lemont, Illinois because of the death of his father a few weeks ago. John now intends to locate in the Chicago district so we have another vacant bed in our household here.

Harry Lantry of Helena, N. Y., recently joined the ranks of the married members of our class.

Johnny Quinn, who now lives at Ansil Road, Cleveland is getting along well with the White Motor Co.

Coal salesman, Joe Lordi, has been playing top-notch squash and is a strong contender for the National Championship.

Art Denchfield is managing the foreign exchange department of the National Bank of Mexico here.

Frank McManus, 31, is in the Real Estate business in Philadelphia.

Robert H. McCune, '22, holds a good position with the R.C.A. Telephone Corporation in this city.

J. F. "Chic" Driscoll is managing an A & P store in Boston.

Some of the proud fathers that I have heard about recently are: Frank Miller, whose daughter's name is Patricia Ann; Frank O'Marah, who has a son Kevin; and H. Louie Stettler, now of Cleveland, whose pride is called John.

Ollie Shell, recently returned home, because of the death of his father, but he is now back here and working for the Ford Motor Company as an accountant.

The Notre Dame Bowling team at the Centre Association has been winning consistently. John Balfe, Henry Frey, Ed Tighe, Art Bergan, Ted Berkerey, Tom Lantry, and Dan Halpin are some of the stars. This club has quite a few N. D. men on its membership list and is becoming a popular meeting place in the city.

George McKay, 31, is connected with the Sonotone Company in Milwaukee.

An interesting letter from Andy

Aman of Dayton informs me that he is still doing his best to earn a living in the investment business. Andy also tells me that Jim Wood is going to Indianapolis as manager of a motor freight line. Jim's engagement to Miss Marian Griffith of Columbus was announced recently, so Jim is to be congratulated in more ways than one.

The C.C.C. motor freight line is keeping Al Shipacasse busy as general accountant, while Ed Blatt is cashier of the same company. Both are located in Cleveland.

Matt Keller is selling paint for the Marvel Paint Company of Springfield.

The latest news from Paul Irvin was from Wilmington, Delaware, but I don't know what he was doing there.

Our club here has had some fine affairs since you were in the city. The Rockne Memorial Mass brought out 120 of the fellows and it was an interesting affair. Father Boyle came up from Washington and he gave a marvelous talk. Lawrence Perry, Christy Walsh, and Father Kelly of the Catholic Writers Guild also spoke. Our good friend Joe Byrne came over from New Jersey to preside as toastmaster and he did a splendid job of it. Joe recently returned to Wall Street after ten years of absence, and we are all wishing him the best of luck.

The Universal Notre Dame Night celebration went over great. Warren Fogel, who had charge of it, gathered together all kinds of celebrities and everybody enjoyed the evening.

So long until the next time.

Bernie Conroy.

1932

Enclosing something I should have sent you long ago. If the check is no good I'll give you another just like it.

Have been enjoying reading the Notre Dame ALUMNUS. It keeps me in contact with the University and my friends.

If it may interest you, Angelo Luckelt, '32, is working on a survey (government) in the Delta. Bill Miller, '30, is doing good with an insurance company. (I met him at the Natchez Pilgrimage). Pat Burns, '33, is located with a wholesale company in his home town, Natchez. Joe McKeon, '32, is a salesman for International Salt Co.

Thanking you for not dropping me from your mailing list, I am.

Pete Trollo, Canton, Miss.

Frank Oberkoetter visited the campus briefly on April 5 after delivering his sisters to Rosary College following the Easter vacation. Frank holds forth in his native haunts in Bloomington, Illinois.

From the ever-interested and thoughtful Professor Maurus come the following notes on some men of '32:

John Maurice Scanlon. With the Bell Telephone Company in Evansville, Indiana. Home address: 715 East Gum Street, Evansville.

Louis Robert Rohlof. Inspector and tester of the air cooling and conditioning apparatus being installed in Pullmans and passenger coaches by the Pullman Car and Manufacturing Company. Home address: 10523 Normal Avenue, Chicago.

Alfred Butler White. Has been added to the Physics faculty at Notre Dame.

Noble Fred Harbaugh. Teaching mathematics and drawing in Thomas Jefferson school, South Bend.

Greg Franzwa. With Coast and Geodetic Survey, Salem, Oregon.

Frank Jenny is continuing the notable scholastic achievements that made him so outstanding in the class of 1933. Graduated last June with the highest rating in chemical engineering, Frank accepted a year's fellowship, worth $1,600, at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and is working for his master's degree. Several weeks ago he received a $200 scholarship which will enable him to attend the summer session at M.I.T. Just recently he was awarded another fellowship, worth $2,500, which will enable him to continue at M.I.T. for two more years and win his doctor's degree.

Frank's home is in Utica, New York. A long account of his remarkable accomplishments and a photograph of him appeared in a recent edition of a Utica paper.

Professor Maurus generously comes through with the following regarding some men of '33:

Herschel Vernon McBride. Teacher of mathematics and surveying for the CWA in Niles, Michigan.

Michael J. Besso. With Illinois Highway Department. Stationed at Carlinville, Illinois.

1934

Robert E. Bondurant, who completed his law course in February, has been admitted to the prominent South Bend legal firm of Jones, Obenchain and Butler, thus adding another Notre Dame representative to that predominantly Notre Dame office. Bob will receive his LL.B. at the June Commencement.

Book Reviews

By BROTHER AIDAN, C.S.C.

The Germans, by George Shuster, '15, which has won much praise from the reviewers, is listed by the American Library Association among the 40 best books of the year. Their choice was made from among 9,000 volumes. In the preparation of the book Mr. Shuster spent several months in Germany.

Frank Wallace, '23, has published another story of college life, Press Box. His other books are Huddle, Stadium, That's My Boy, and O'Reilly of Notre Dame.

Harry Sylvester, '30, author of a number of short stories and magazine articles, has written his first book, Big Football Man. Brother Leo, a discriminating critic, calls it "a big football book, moving and impressive . . . writing from inside knowledge and outside observation—few persons have both—he conveys both the spirit and the atmosphere of the intercollegiate football cults."

Religion and Living is the title of a book by Brother Ernest, C.S.C., '25. It is a reprint of an unusually popular series of articles on the teaching of religion which he contributed last year to the Catholic School Journal. The book, to quote from the preface, "is the partial fruit of eleven years of experiments in teaching boys to live their religion"; an effort to make the learning and living of religion synonymous.

Building Superintendent

The appointment of Patrick J. McGuinness, widely known Chicago hotel manager, as superintendent of buildings at the University of Notre Dame, a newly-created position, has been announced by the Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., vice-president.

Mr. McGuinness is in direct charge of the janitors and maids in the residence halls, and he has started a survey of housing conditions on the campus with an eye to making recommendations for improving these conditions in every possible way.

He was service manager of the Sherman hotel in Chicago for 10 years from 1917 to 1927. He has held the managership of the Midwest Athletic club, the Garfield Arms, Alcazar hotel, and the Sheridan Plaza hotel in Chicago. He has more recently been assistant manager of the Bismarck hotel of Chicago.

Mr. McGuinness is a member of the Barry council of the Knights of Columbus and of the LaSalle assembly fourth degree in Chicago. He will transfer to the Notre Dame council. He is also a member of the Holy Name society and a former member of the Paulist choir and St. Patrick's choir of Chicago.

Mr. McGuinness will make his home in South Bend, bringing his wife and his mother here from Chicago in the near future.

Suggests More Investigation on Assistance Requests

The ever-present evil, the solicitation of funds from alumni by men representing themselves as former Notre Dame students in need of help, is very ably touched upon by Ray Eichenlaub, '15, Columbus, Ohio, in a letter to the Alumni Secretary. Ray says in part:

"Some time ago after such an experience, I considered what I would do if stranded or what any other person should do under similar circumstances. My answer would be to wire or telephone my home, or my closest friends who knew me and knew my character and were acquainted with my habits. Not to call upon a Notre Dame man who had no intimate knowledge of my situation.

"As a result I concluded that when the touch came, we as alumni, and in our own interest not to support or be hoodwinked even though we may know who the person is, should obtain the name, address, business, history and activity at Notre Dame, name of relatives, closest friends, and their business with a view to calling them for the troubled individual in an effort to get funds for him through them and not an alumnus. If it is a case of cashing checks, etc., then why not call the bank on which the check is written.

"Further when these cases come up if we have obtained the name, address, etc., and found it just another racket then the name if reported to you and recorded would enable a further check up at your office if other methods fail.

"In other words we should not encourage, but try to make it difficult for these fellows to continue. Usually, when inquiries are made we find the same fellow has been operating elsewhere."

Ray's suggestion certainly carries a great deal of merit, and if followed, will do much to reduce alumni losses in this direction. Better to spend a little in checking up than to contribute to the game of an imposter.
