Papal Secretary of State Visits Notre Dame

Receives Honorary Degree of Doctor of Letters in Special Convocation in Washington Hall; Arrives in South Bend in Special Plane; Is Greeted by Many Dignitaries and by Enthusiastic Student Body.

By William D. O'Toole, '39

"Today we need men of character guided by principles of morality and religion—men of uprightness and men of honor. The teaching of this University so prepares them."

With these words of praise for the University of Notre Dame Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, accepted an honorary degree of doctor of letters conferred on him at a special convocation of the faculty and student body in Washington hall Sunday afternoon, October 25.

Cardinal Pacelli, the first papal secretary of state to visit the United States, arrived at the Bendix municipal airport, South Bend, from New York in a chartered plane. The papal nuncio was met at the port by a delegation of University officials, alumni and civic leaders headed by Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., University president; Very Rev. James W. Donahue, C.S.C., superior-general of the Congregation of Holy Cross; and Most Rev. John F. Noll, D.D., bishop of the Fort Wayne diocese. In the cardinal's party was Most Rev. Francis J. Spellman, D.D., LL.D., auxiliary bishop of Boston, Mass. Most Rev. Joseph Ritter, D.D., bishop of Indianapolis, and Most Rev. Joseph Albers, D.D., auxiliary bishop of Cincinnati, met Cardinal Pacelli at the University.

A police escort led the official cortege of motor cars to the Notre Dame campus where the motorcade was met at the entrance to the University by the student band. As his car proceeded from the entrance to the grounds to Sacred Heart church, the campus chapel, the cardinal was warmly cheered by students who lined both sides of the route.

The University faculty, attired in cap and gown, were assembled in the front pews of the church and as many students as could manage to jam their way in filled every available seating space.

After a short prayer the cardinal bestowed the papal benediction on the student body. Preceded by the academic procession the cardinal went to Washington hall where the official degree was conferred.

University officials had planned to have the cardinal mount the steps of the Administration Building, decorated with the papal colors and the American and papal flags, and give the papal blessing to the students, faculty and visitors assembled on the quadrangle; but the driving rain necessitated a change in plans.

The stage at Washington hall was beautifully dressed with gold and blue velvet curtains forming a background for the cardinal's double-rowed cast of celebrities. A portrait of Pope Pius XI hung in the center of the rear curtain. In the front row Cardinal Pacelli was seated in the middle of the stage, flanked on either side by high church dignitaries. University officials formed a rear row. Flowers and palms set off the corners of the stage and lent a colorful air to the picture.

In paying tribute to Cardinal Pacelli, Father O'Hara said:

"This extraordinary convocation of the University is called on the feast of Christ the King to pay homage to an exalted Prince of the Church, one who may very properly be called the vicar of the Vicar of Christ the King. By further happy coincidence, this day has been chosen by our Most Reverend Ordinary, Bishop Noll, for the inauguration of the national campaign against communism under the direction of the committee of bishops, a work very dear to the Holy Father, whose paternal heart is so tried these days, as he witnesses the ravaging of Christendom by militant atheism. And by still further coincidence, the solemn Mass of this day in Catholic schools and colleges of the United States has been offered for peace among nations. It is, therefore, with extraordinary joy that the University welcomes the secretary of state of His Holiness and marks this day as most felicitous in the 94 years of her work for Catholic education. The efforts and accomplishments of His Eminence in these three fields of priestly zeal and Catholic Action have been most distinguished; and we thank His Eminence for having allowed us the privilege of signalizing these accomplishments on such a significant day.

Cardinal Pacelli, Litt. D., '36, with Bishop Spellman, LL.D. '35, and Byron V. Kanaley, '04.

Promises Spiritual Help

"Your Eminence, we salute you with affectionate tribute for your own good self, and we pledge our Masses and Holy Communions and prayers in intercession to God that He may of His divine goodness bless and increase and multiply the good works you are accomplishing as His faithful servant.

"And through your Eminence, we salute our common father, His Holiness, Pope Pius XI. We beg your Eminence to say to His Holiness that 94 years ago a brave young priest came into the wilderness of Indiana with a few brothers to rear a cloister of learning that would be a shrine to the Mother of God and a home for the formation of young men in the way of virtue. A distinguished contemporary of Father Sorin, Cardinal Newman, has beautifully expressed the ideal our founder had in mind:

"Here, then, I conceive, is the object of the Holy See and the Catholic Church in setting up universities; it is to reunite things which were in the beginning joined together by God, and have been put asunder by man."

"It will not satisfy me, what satisfies so many, to have two independent systems, intellectual and religious, going at once side by side, by a short division of labor and only accidentally brought together. It will not satisfy me if religion is here and science there and young men converse with science all day long and lodge with religion in the evening. . . . I wish the intellect to range with the utmost freedom and religion to enjoy an equal freedom but what I am stipulating is, that they should be found in one and the same place and exemplified in the same person."

"It is our humble effort, your Eminence, to have this union of science and religion exemplified in the students who come to us; they, in their turn in manifesting their good will, have won for their school the title of 'The City of the Blessed Sacrament.' It is our daily prayer that all of them and all of us may never be wanting in our allegiance of mind and heart to the Holy See."

Rev. J. Leonard Carrico, C.S.C., director of studies, read the citation of Cardinal Pacelli's degree:

"The University of Notre Dame at this special convocation of the faculty on the great feast of Christ the King' is most happily privileged in announcing the conferring of the degree of Doctor of Letters, honoris causa, on

"A Prince of the Church, eminent by position and by achievement, an ecclesiastical statesman and diplomat who in an era of world conflict has done much toward the conciliation of warring peoples and good understanding between governments and the Universal Church—His Eminence, Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, secretary of state to His Holiness, Pope Pius XI."

Cardinal Pacelli Speaks

Cardinal Pacelli, who speaks seven different languages eloquently, thanked Father O'Hara, the board of trustees, and the faculty and student body for the cordial welcome which he had received with a somewhat Italian accent, that was, however, easily understood.

"As you know," he continued, "I have but a short time to spend in the United States and I can visit only a small number of the places I should like to see in this country. In order that I be able to come to Notre Dame it was necessary for me to employ extraordinary means. May I say that the warmth of your greeting and the cordiality with which you have welcomed me and the honor which you have conferred upon me compensate me in the fullest measure for the efforts I have made.

"I am glad of the opportunity to pay my respects to the members of the Order of Holy Cross. For I know with what sacrifices they have labored to spread the word of God through the west and middle west of this great country. By their example, labor, teachings and writings they have done much to foster religious belief and religious believing.

"I have heard of the students of this University and I have heard of the colleges within the University—colleges whose quality and rating is of the highest. And I have also heard that a great number of the student body receive Holy Communion every day. The training received here stresses a two-fold duty, the duty to God and the duty to country, and prepares men to go forth into the battle of life prepared mentally and spiritually, and fortified intellectually. Today we need men of character guided by principles of morality and religion and by their own personal responsibility for every thought they think and deed they do, men of uprightness and men of honor. The teaching of this University so prepares them. It is the teaching of this University that there is no conflict between science and religion and no conflict between the duty to God and the duty to country. Science should go hand in hand with religion. And love of country should be motivated by love of God. Only that way will real learning be had, patriotism thrive and a country enjoy peace and prosperity.

Gives Papal Blessing

"It is my prayer, and I am sure I am expressing the wish and prayer of the Holy Father, that Notre Dame continue in its great work of God, to thrive and to prosper. In the name of the Holy Father I willingly bestow upon you the benediction of the Holy Father, Benedicat vos omnipotens Deus, Pater et Filius et Spiritus Sancti. Amen."

After the papal benediction had been given the cardinal quite informally stepped forward again and drew down the heartiest applause of the afternoon when he said,

"Now, if there is no objection on the part of your superiors," with a benignant smile in the general direction of Father O'Hara, "I grant to you a holiday."

Then, as if he had forgotten something, he added:

"—and to St. Mary's!"

Cardinal Pacelli left directly after the special convocation for Chicago. It was planned to have him dine with the officials of the University in the dining hall on the campus, but the fact that his plane was already an hour and a quarter late deterred him from eating at Notre Dame.

Pope Receives Hughes In Special Audience

Holy Father Gives Approval and Blessing to Notre Dame Fight Against Communism; Audience Arranged With Co-operation of Cardinal Mundelein.

BY ARTHUR J. HUGHES, '11, President of the Alumni Association

In a splendidly impressive setting of ancient and historical grandeur, stood a Notre Dame man beholding in the distance the Religious Capitol of the world, having come across the seas as the representative of all Notre Dame men to pledge allegiance to His Holiness Pope Pius XI in the cause that is perhaps closest to his heart at the moment—the combatting of the onrush of Communism. No representative of any alumni association in America had ever made a similar pilgrimage. On the morrow its objective might be consummated at a special audience with the Holy Father at his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo.

There had been many steps encountered and traversed since that day in far-off Chicago when Father O'Hara lent not only his sponsorship but also his able counsel and advice in the dedication of the activities of all Notre Dame men to what may be one of the greatest national and religious projects that have been presented to the American people in 50 years—a project, the accomplishment of which must insure the perpetuation of the orderly processes of government, as well as the basic foundation and ideals of Christianity itself.

There came, for instance, that moment when Father O'Hara and I were ushered into the presence of Cardinal George W. Mundelein, and were offered an opportunity to apprise him of the objective which we had in mind and happily were privileged to receive his benign approval and sincere good wishes for its success.

As evidence of that loyalty that exists in the hearts of Notre Dame men for any movement that has to do with Notre Dame, there gathered in New York at a luncheon a few days later the officers of the Notre Dame Clubs of New York City and of New Jersey. The confidence and encouragement which were engendered at this meeting will always be a happy memory, for it must be remembered after all that I was embarking on a new and unusual undertaking and that its success must depend upon the character of its reception by Notre Dame men generally.

On the following day, September the 5th, with Father O'Hara bidding me farewell at the boat, I sailed for Italy. At five o'clock on the evening of September the 18th, a special messenger from the Vatican delivered a formal notice to me at my hotel, indicating that I would be accorded a special audience by the Holy Father the following day. The preliminary steps to bring about this audience had been arranged by Father Frederick E. Hillenbrand, of the archdiocese of Chicago, and Brother Norbert, of the Congregation of Holy Cross, both of whom gave me the greatest of assistance and were entirely responsible for the successful accomplishment of my trip.

Father Hillenbrand is the rector of Colegio S. Maria Del Lago, the fine house of studies established by Cardinal Mundelein in Rome for the priests of the archdiocese of Chicago, and I found him to be one of the most intelligently co-operative men that it has been my pleasure to meet.

It seems to me that the sun shone much more brightly on Saturday morning, September the 19th, as Father Hillenbrand and I made our way in our car to Castel Gandolfo some 16 miles outside the walls of Rome along the Via Appia Nuova.

During the several days preceding our audience with the Holy Father there had been furnished to him complete details of our plan—the plan of the Notre Dame Alumni Association—constructively and conservatively formulating public thought and opinion against the forces of Communism. It was a joy then to Father Hillenbrand and myself, just prior to our audience, to have the personal secretary to the Holy Father come to us and tell us that His Holiness had carefully examined the data previously furnished and was entirely

FATHER GILLIS GIVES LECTURES

The Reverend James Martin Gillis, C. S. P. of New York City, nationally known author, and editor of the Catholic World, gave a series of five lectures in Washington hall on the campus from October 19 to 23, inclusive.

The program of lectures for the week was:

Monday, October 19, "A New Approach to Apologetics;" Tuesday, October 20, "God; the Modern Meaning of the Word;" Wednesday, October 21, "Religion; The Old Concept and the New;" Thursday, October 22, "Faith; After a Century of Science;" and Friday, October 23, "Morality; The New Style."

While the condition of the University is, in general, very satisfactory, there is urgent need for expansion in certain departments, and for more satisfactory accommodations in some of our activities. Most of these items constitute extraordinary expenses, and cannot fall within the University budget. We continue this year the practice of publishing from time to time some of these needs.

It is still the judgment of the University Council that living facilities should not be increased, and that any resident facilities provided for students should be only in the way of substituting for existing outworn buildings. While our present very urgent need for more classrooms and laboratories will be partially met when the Biology Building is opened, in February, 1937, there are growing needs in other departments which promise immediate expansion.

Needs

|--|-----------|
| 1. A Freshman hall, to replace the temporary Freshman Hall, a stucco building erected in 1923..... | $320,000 |
| 2. A Chemistry building (the present structure can meet only 40 per cent of our present needs.)..... | 450,000 |
| 3. A donation to defray the cost of a new Biology Building..... | 400,000 |
| 4. A bacteriological laboratory unit, equipped for research with germ-free animals..... | 60,000 |

CAMPUS NOTES

SOPH COTILLION

With a midnight grand march as one of the high spots Notre Dame officially opened the University's social season with the traditional Sophomore Cotillion. Four hundred and fifty couples danced to the music of Carlton Kelsey and his Hollywood orchestra. We were there and had a grand time principally because the Sophomore Class President, Joseph McDermott, was thoughtful enough to choose John Mulderig, of Auburn, New York, as general chairman. Mr. Mulderig, perhaps unfortunately for him, happens to look a great deal like us with the result that we served as a sort of co-chairman without having had to do any of the work. A photographer blasted away at four paces. Society editors asked us to give the names of various of our friends in attendance and describe the gowns worn by their partners. We gave Chairman Mulderig one break, however. We let him lead the grand march.

BABY BREEN BORN

Francis "Chub" Breen, '23, Lakeville, Indiana, who is now taking law at the University, spent the fourth month anniversary of the birth of his daughter, Louise Margaret, by taking snapshots of the child posed between two of his law books. "Cases on Wills" and "Cases on Torts." The reason? Last June third, besides being one of the days for final examinations, was the date of Louise Margaret's entry into the world. Chub, after being up all night awaiting her arrival, was forced to leave the hospital to take his "Wills" exam. Immediately after the exam he whirled back to the hospital just in time to hear "It's a girl," then dashed back to the University to do or die under an inquisition on "Torts." Haggard, eyes red-rimmed from lack of sleep and nervous strain, Breen staggered from the examination room. Coming down the corridor was one of his professors, bundles of examination papers under the latter's arms. Breen remembered the cigars he had purchased to celebrate baby Breen's birth.

"Here, professor," he croaked, "have a cigar."

The professor frowned coldly and moved on. "Bad ethics, Breen," he flung over his shoulder, "Very bad ethics."

HEIL HOCHREITER

Franklyn Hochreiter, dynamic '35 correspondent, is back on the campus after a year's sojourn at Columbia university. His first extra-curricular activity involved reaching into the grab bag of his acquaintances and discovering that the star of a show playing in South Bend was an old school chum. As a result Hoch piloted the entire troupe about the campus, airily pointing out various spots of interest on the campus with the aid of a huge, black cigar. With all this excitement going on it's no wonder that next day bulletins were posted all over the campus beginning, "Perspective candidates for baseball please report. . . ."

THE MONTH IN BRIEF

Pat Tofuri, '37, enjoyed the dubious distinction of being the inürmary's only inmate during the Carnegie Tech game . . . Topped only by Santa Claus, Indiana, Notre Dame's post office handles 220,000 pounds of letters annually, more than any other post office of its size in the state. . . "Who's Who in America for 1936-37" includes many Notre Dame representatives . . . Among those listed directly connected with the University are President Father O'Hara, Reverend James A. Burns, C.S.C., provincial of the Holy Cross Order; Rev. J. L. Carrico, director of studies; Rev. Charles C. Miltner, dean of the college of Arts and Letters; Rev. Francis J. Wenninger, C.S.C., dean of the College of Science; Thomas F. Konop, dean of the College of Law; and Rev. William F. Cunningham, C.S.C., Rev. Joseph H. Burke, C.S.C., and W. L. Benitz, faculty members, . . . Phillip Trexler, '34, chief assistant in the bacteriological laboratories, has been sent to Pittsburgh to do research . . . John J. Farabaugh, '37, South Bend, Indiana, has been made a member of the South Bend Pilot's club. . . .

VILLAGERS ACTIVE

The Villagers, largest campus club made up of off-campus students, plan a busy year under the direction of President Ted Prekowitz, a first year law student . . . St. Mary's has opened a new bacteriological laboratory . . . Frank Wallace, '23, in his latest SatEvePost serial uses a situation from last year's Pitt game . . . In that game Quarterback Wally Fromhart faded with three Pitt blockers and stalled them long enough to let one of his team mates come up from behind to make the tackle . . . But since Frank is writing fiction he probably felt that fending off three blockers would sound exaggerated so in his story he eliminates one of them. . . .

LESS HOME WORK HERE

According to Arthur and George Haas, aged 10 and 11, sons of Professor Arthur Haas, Vienna physicist now teaching here, there is less home work to do in America than in Austria. . . The La Raza club, organization of Spanish speaking students attending the University, had a Mass said for the rebels in Spain, with Father O'Hara as celebrant . . . A lie detector was demonstrated at St. Mary's by officers of the Indiana State police . . .

ALL STATES REPRESENTED

All forty-eight states and twelve foreign countries are represented in this year's enrollment . . . For the first time since 1932, Nevada has a student in attendance . . . He is Thomas McKenna, of Carlin, a Freshman in Arts and Letters . . . New York leads the states with 473 students, followed by Illinois with 441 . . . Indiana ranks third with 397 . . . Principal guest lecturer of the month was the Rev. James Martin Gillis, C. S. P., outstanding Catholic author and editor of the Catholic World . . . Father Gillis gave five lectures in Washington Hall . . . Rosary College broadcasted a dramatic sketch dealing with incidents in the life of the late Rev. Julius A. Nieuwland, C. S. C. . . . St. Mary's has established its own riding stables with fifteen gee-gees . . . The S. A. C. according to present plans, will continue sponsoring Saturday night dances even after the football season . . . They have proven to be very popular. . . . The Scholastic, campus news weekly, now features a short story in each issue. . . .

STUDENTS TO ARMY GAME

The Army game in New York was selected as the student trip in a poll taken of the student body and the choice was approved by the University. The gang will leave South Bend Friday afternoon and return Monday morning in time for classes. They'll stay over Saturday night in New York. . . The "Letters to the Editor" boys have been busier than ever deluging the downtown papers since this is an election year.

Ryan Fund Is Started

Will Aid Students
Physically Handicapped

By a gift of $1,000 the family of Roger Murray Ryan, B.S. Pharmacy 1924, has launched a fund to be known as the Roger Ryan Memorial Fund, commemorating their brother who died last Summer.

Roger was physically handicapped, as his classmates will remember, and the fund established, together with additional gifts from family or outside sources, will be used to aid students at the University similarly handicapped physically.

In a beautiful letter to Father O'Hara, Roger's brothers and sisters express their attitude:

"Roger received so much happiness from his attendance at Notre Dame that we ascribe the serenity of his tolerance with life, despite his known physical handicaps, to those contacts and associations.

"We are a family of no great means, but as we were willing and glad to devote a portion to his welfare in life, we are desirous of continuing, as far as we are able, to keep his memory verdant and at the same time help some boys of similar earnestness. . . ."

It is difficult to conceive a more perfect form of memorial.

This generous gift from the family will undoubtedly be augmented by gifts from those to whom the merits of the Fund are obviously appealing. The University is given the privilege of designating the disposition of the income from the principal fund among that group of boys who annually come to Notre Dame, as Roger did, to advance themselves materially, but to so much a larger degree, in their handicap, spiritually.

FRED AMISON DIES

Frederick J. Amison, 51 years old, manager of the laundry and cleaning plant at Notre Dame for nine years, died suddenly in South Bend on October 21. The victim of a heart attack, he was found dead in his parked car on West Washington Street.

Surviving are Mrs. Amison and a daughter in South Bend and four sisters and three brothers in England. The solemn funeral Mass was in Sacred Heart Church on the campus on October 24. Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, C.S.C., vice-president of the University, was the celebrant, assisted by Rev. J. Leonard Carrico, C.S.C., director of studies, and Rev.

BULLETIN FOR LAWYERS

A directory of the Notre Dame alumni engaged in the practice of law is being prepared. All those Notre Dame men who were omitted from the similar directory of December, 1935, or who have since engaged in the practice of law, are urged to send name, home and office addresses, and firm name, with telephone numbers, to the Alumni Office at once.

The directory lists Notre Dame men practicing law, whether or not they attended the Notre Dame college of law.

INTERVIEWS OLDEST ALUMNUS

Very Rev. James A. Burns, C.S.C., '88, enjoyed a visit with Eber B. Gambee, A.B. '73, A.M. '76, 1811 N.W. Couch Street, Portland, Oregon, while Father Burns was visiting the University of Portland in October.

Mr. Gambee is the oldest living alumnus of the University, and Father Burns says that he is a most interesting and active man of 84, living with Mrs. Gambee in Portland, where three sons attended the Holy Cross college there, and two of these are now leading surgeons in the city.

In recalling the Notre Dame of 68 years ago, Mr. Gambee told Father Burns that the only buildings here then that remain now are the Old College, the Old Infirmary, and the little Porter's Lodge. The old Church stood between the present Church and Main Building, but the new Church was begun while Mr. Gambee was a Sophomore.

Father Corby was president of the University, and among the faculty members Mr. Gambee recalls were Father J. P. O'Connell, and the laymen, Professors Stace, Lyons and Ivers.

Rev. J. A. Zahm, C.S.C., was a fellow student.

Mr. Gambee came here from Adrian, Michigan. He was a non-Catholic, but years later was converted through the influence of Rev. P. P. Cooney, C.S.C., famous Civil War chaplain. Today, at 84, he attends Mass daily.

The ALUMNUS was delighted to learn through Father Burns of his visit with Mr. Gambee, who retains many memories of Notre Dame through a collection of unusually well preserved pictures.

John Reddington, C.S.C., superintendent of maintenance.

Fred came to Notre Dame after wide experience in laundry work in this country and Canada. His ability, winning personality and co-operative spirit won for him a wide circle of friends and admirers on the campus. His death was especially mourned by the Sisters and the employees in the laundry who had best known his generosity and kindness.

POPE RECEIVES HUGHES

conversant with the features of our program.

On our way to the room where we would await the Holy Father, we stood for an instant in the Throne Room, where only a few fleeting hours before several hundred bishops and priests and members of the laity, all refugees from the horrible carnage in Spain, had been welcomed by the Holy Father in an address that had been broadcast across the seas and the continents and had offered an unanswerable challenge to all of those subversive forces which are endeavoring to bring about the destruction of every Christian tenet and ideal and the abolishment of lawful government and orderly authority.

How timely then it was that Notre Dame men should apprise the Holy Father through the humble instrumentality of one of their number that they would join him in his endeavor to stem the tide of this onrushing cataclysm. It was a satisfaction, indeed, to observe that even great men like the Holy Father himself may be genuinely encouraged and may find unlimited satisfaction in receiving offers of help and cooperation from even the humblest among us.

The Holy Father not only gave his approval to our undertaking, but what is far more important, he bestowed upon it his blessing and his hope for its success.

There flashed through my mind as I came away the thought that if it were only possible financially, it would be a most wonderful tribute to the Holy Father if our national association could send its newly elected president each year to Rome on such an official pilgrimage, even though this first one was taken without any expense to the association.

On October the 8th I landed in New York, and that evening the Notre Dame Club of New York City welcomed me back to the homeland. This fine gathering was followed by similar ones held by the Notre Dame Clubs of Philadelphia and Washington, all of which afforded me the opportunity of meeting again friends of long years standing—Hugh O'Donnell, Joe Byrne, John Neeson, Jim Hayes—all these and many others in those various meetings being the stalwart sons of the Notre Dame we love and revere so much.

In the foregoing I have spoken much about our plan, but I have withheld everywhere discussing in any detail any of its features. The December edition of the ALUMNUS magazine will carry to you the details of this plan, and it is most sincerely hoped that there may be an almost instant response to the call that will then be made for action and co-operation by Notre Dame men everywhere.

"The Man In The Iron Lung"-Fred Snite

(Reprinted from Caravan, Magazine of the Far East, for July, 1936)

Fred Snite, '35, Lies in Peking, China,
Bravely Fighting Infantile Paralysis.

By Kenneth Drummond

(Editors' note: The heroic story of Fred Snite, '35, is well known to many alumni and to all present students. But nowhere in print, as far as the Editors are aware, has it been told so understandingly as in this article from CARAVAN. We reprint the article as an inspiration to all Notre Dame men. We are happy to report at the same time that Fred has made decided progress during the Summer; his family begs renewed prayers that he may be brought home to Chicago soon.)

On a cot in the Rockefeller Hospital in Peking a handsome young American college graduate, only son of a business leader, is imprisoned in a metal cylinder which enables him to breathe by artificial respiration. For more than two months he has lain there, victim of the paralyzing Infantile Paralysis germ. Without that mechanical lung he would die in a few minutes, for his nerves and muscles below the neck are completely dead. They call the apparatus the Iron Lung, product of an American manufacturing company, whose operations already have saved a number of lives. Unwilling as they were at first to believe that the victim could hope to survive, Rockefeller Hospital doctors now hold out a lively hope for eventual recovery. The story of this fearful stroke, of the series of coincidences that led up to its occurrence, and finally of the illness occurring within reach of the only hospital in the Far East to have the Iron Lung in its battery of scientific equipment, is one of the dramatic events of modern medical history.

Last Autumn Frederick Snite, heir of a Chicago financial organizer (head of the Local Loan Company with offices from New York to San Francisco) graduated from the University of Notre Dame. His parents decided to take him on a tour of the world before he started business in the loan company's office. The party was to include Miss Mary Loretto, the only daughter. Included, too, was Terence Dillon, classmate and fellow-graduate of young Snite.

Passage was booked on the C.P.R. liner Empress of Britain which sailed from New York on January 7th. The itinerary was to include the Mediterranean Sea, but owing to the Italo-Abyssinian war and possible risks, the steamship company diverted the Empress to a course around Africa, touching at Capetown and other ports, on to Bombay. There the passengers left ship and were carried across India by train. The Empress went around and picked up the tourists at Calcutta. From there the route lay to Malay Straits, Penang, Singapore, Hongkong, Shanghai, Chinwangtao (nearest port to Peking).

Take Plane to Peking

On the voyage young Snite and Dillon had the time of their lives—deck tennis and other athletics, dancing at night, sightseeing at the ports of call. At Shanghai Snite asked his father's permission to fly on to Peking, the parents going on by boat to Chinwangtao, and then overland to the old capital of China. On the day previous to the flight the millionaire's son complained of feeling unwell. His neck muscles were stiff; he was feverish. But he rose early in the morning, went off to Mass with Dillon, and then took the big Douglas plane with several other passengers. The plane flew unusually high, 13,000 feet. Snite continued to complain; a glass of water fell from his nerveless fingers.

Immediately on arrival and registry at the Peking hotel, Dillon called in a local doctor, who diagnosed the case, in the absence of other manifest symptoms, as probably a cold. He prescribed a cathartic. Then the rest of the party arrived by train, and the ship's doctor also had a look at the young man. He, too, could find nothing alarming in Snite's condition.

Some inner uneasiness prompted Snite and Dillon to take additional medical advice. They went up to the American Embassy and consulted the U. S. Marines doctor. After a quick examination the medical officer took Dillon aside and told him his friend was in a serious condition. He should be in the hospital at once. Snite was ordered back to the hotel, and to bed. Meanwhile the American M. O. got the hospital superintendent on the telephone and asked that the usual admission formalities be cleared away as an emergency case was coming along. Whatever else he said prompted the Rockefeller staff to send an ambulance to the hotel on which all the attendants wore masks. They rapidly placed Snite on a stretcher and avoiding the public elevator carried the stricken youth down a back way.

In the Peking Union Medical College, the name usually is shortened to P.U.M.C. (official title of the Rockefeller institute) the case was taken over by Dr. Falkner, an expert in the treatment of Infantile Paralysis, for this was the diagnosis communicated to him by the guard doctor. That night the paralysis spread so rapidly that Snite could not move hand nor foot. His breathing was done with the greatest difficulty. "I can breathe best when I whistle" he said with grim humor, pursing his lips. Soon Snite was in danger of suffocation, and Dr. Falkner called for the Iron Lung.

That was March 30th. In mid-June Snite is still in the contrivance, completely helpless, quite unable to breathe without the aid of this mechanical device.

Placed in Artificial Respirator

The artificial respirator is an affair shaped like a huge cylinder which fits over the body of the patient, completely enclosing his trunk from neck to waist. A rubber collar fits snugly about the neck. Another rubber band clasps his middle. There are similar air-tight bands where the arms come out of the cylinder. Attached to the cylinder is a pumping motor, timed to correspond with the normal human respiration. With one action of the motor all the air inside the cylinder is extracted, and as the vacuum is created the patient's chest is expanded. With the mechanical expansion, ordinarily forced by the action of the diaphragm, air is drawn into the lungs. Another turn of the motor and the air is allowed to enter the cylinder again. This permits the chest walls to fall back into the natural position, and air is forced from the lungs.

Minute after minute and hour after hour for more than two months the motor has performed its unflinching duty, doing Frederick's breathing for him. From the neck up young Snite is normal; he can talk, hear, see, swallow and, for the blessing of a watching mother, smile.

When Snite was installed in his automatic lung the father asked the doctors for a frank opinion. They told him there was very little chance of survival. The family had better prepare for the worst. All but one: a Chinese woman doctor named Miss Li, just on the eve of graduation, announced herself in the most optimistic terms. Whether she spoke from scientific knowledge or with the humane idea of keeping the parents' courage up, at least her cheerful outlook served to hearten the anxious watchers.

"What would happen if another similar patient was brought in?" the boy's father asked. It was made plain to him that this was the only machine of its kind in Asia; first come first saved.

"We'll soon remedy that," said the Chicago financier. He sat down and wrote a cable to his Chicago office ordering a second Iron Lung to be sent to the P.U.M.C. at his expense. To hasten its arrival, he ordered his financial secretary, Mr. John Murphy, to bring it along himself to be ready for a long stay, taking the burden of business off the loan man's shoulders.

Then the father sat down alongside his son's bed.

"Freddy," he said, "this is a fight. Your fight and our fight. We'll all do our part, and you do yours. Make up your mind to get well if it's God's will."

"Well," Fred gasped with a grin, "I guess it's a fight then. Let's go."

Forthwith the father arranged for extra nurses. He found the splendid staff and equipment of the great hospital, an institution without peer in Asia, at his disposal. Extra precautions were taken to prevent failure of the machinery until the second Lung arrived from America. The father hunted around and found in Tientsin an air-conditioned system that had been ordered for a business house and never used. This he had installed against the coming of a hot Peking summer. Fred will have cool, clean fresh air to help him in the battle for life.

Meanwhile George Spengler, known to the family, a resident of Peking, owner of the most modern house in the city, a great and gorgeous affair, was about to go on leave.

"The house is yours," he said to Snite, and the family moved in, but taking turns watching at the bedside while a special telephone connected the hospital with the house in case of a crisis. A routine of life was established. Watch, work and pray was the routine.

The Snites are ardent Catholics. They put trust in their religion in this emergency. Daily Mass and Communion for father, mother and daughter is the rule, and young Dillon joined in the period of prayer. Lent was stricter than ever for them. Prayers were offered continuously, to supplement the watching and working of scientists. Secretary Murphy joined the daily pilgrims to St. Michael's church in the Legation Quarter.

Now the doctors have offered new hope. They say there is an improvement; not much, but some. They continue their physio-therapy treatment with a brighter outlook. Young Snite seems to be responding to the massage. Although he remains paralyzed, there is detected an ability to breathe a little. Doctors and nurses are able to take off the Iron Lung for three minutes at a time for treatment and cleaning of the patient. And when they do, the operation is a marvel of coordination. It takes eleven persons to remove and restore the equipment and incidentally to attend to the young patient. Each one knows precisely what to do and there is never a hitch in this operation against time. Deadened diaphragm muscles are forced almost by sheer will power to perform their function under the greatest difficulty, in those few moments of breathless haste; once back again in his cylinder Frederick breathes freely and the smile once more replaces the strained and frightened look.

In the height of this desperate trial, another burden was added to patient and family. Dr. Falkner, the Infantile Paralysis specialist, took ill of pneumonia. The case had to be taken over by other doctors. By this time, however, the routine had been well established, and everyone knew what to do. In emergencies the symptoms were described to Dr. Falkner, himself fighting for his life, and he prescribed the necessary treatments. Now Dr. Falkner is convalescent, and it will be some three weeks before he is strong enough to take complete charge again.

Most confident and cheerful of the doleful party is Frederick himself. Helpless though he is, and sensitive of his parents', sister's and friends' anxiety, he has set himself to work. Lying there in the embrace of the Iron Lung he has begun to study the Chinese language.

"When I get out of this I'll be able to speak the lingo," he says, and already he can and does exchange mandarin back chat with nurses and doctors.

"The fight is getting along," he says. "We'll win yet."

Second Annual Reunion of OLD TIMERS

CALLING ALL MONOGRAM MEN of 1900 to 1905 back to the campus on November 20 and 21.

Attend the Northwestern - Notre Dame game as honored guests of the University — including side-line seats at game, Reunion Dinner in Dining Hall Friday evening, and special Monogram Club Luncheon Saturday noon.

Reservations to this REUNION have already been made by Lou (Red) Salmon, Bobby Lynch, Byron Kanaley, Bill Draper, Mike Fansler, Lawrence Mc Nerney, and Joe Sullivan.

Coach Layden, the Monogram Club Officers and the Athletic Board count on you to make this OLD TIMERS' REUNION a huge and enjoyable success.

John Eggeman writes, "The Reunion held last year was a great success and immensely appreciated by the old letter men."

Additional Events

1. Pep Meeting in Gym Friday, 7:30 P. M.
2. Smoker in South Bend Friday, 9:00 P. M. as guests of Notre Dame Club of St. Joseph Valley.
3. Presentation program in Stadium Saturday between halves.

For further details and for assurance you'll be there, write DANIEL J. O'CONNOR, Chairman, Old Timers Committee

Byron Kanaley Analyzes N. D. for N.C.A.F.

Presides At Meeting of Chicago Chapter At Which President Hughes, Father O'Hara and Monsignor Kealy, Among Others, Speak; Dwells On History of University.

(Editors' note: The following introductions, embodying so much of the real spirit of Notre Dame men, were delivered by Byron V. Kanaley, '04, chairman of the Board of Lay Trustees of the University, at the first Fall meeting of the Chicago chapter of the National Catholic Alumni Federation on October 21. Arthur J. Hughes, '11, president of the Alumni Association, was the principal speaker on this occasion. Father O'Hara and Monsignor Kealy spoke briefly.)

The alumni of the University of Notre Dame are deeply appreciative that for this occasion, the first meeting of the year of the Chicago Chapter of the National Catholic Alumni Federation, to discuss a grave problem that has been facing the world, and is now facing America—Communism—that the president of the National Alumni Association of Notre Dame, should be invited to discuss this very important subject and to convey to us the message of the Holy Father, Pope Pius XI, to Notre Dame alumni on Communism.

Inasmuch as Notre Dame alumni have been given this evening's program, I may be pardoned for speaking for a few moments about Notre Dame.

Mr. Arthur Hughes, the President of our National Association, has recently returned from Rome, where, as the representative of Notre Dame alumni throughout the world, he conveyed to his Holiness the pledge of Notre Dame men to fight the scourge of Communism, he had an audience with Pope Pius XI and from his Holiness brings a message which he will convey to you tonight.

Communism cannot be strong where Democracy thrives and where the teachings of the Catholic Church prevail. The teachings of all Catholic universities and colleges are a great bulwark against Communism. One of the great bulwarks is the University which has been honored by your invitation tonight, for there Democracy exists almost in its purest form. It is the largest boarding school in the world, with its 3,000 boys drawn from 12 foreign countries and from every state in the Union—from almost every nationality, every walk and station of life, a place where none is greater than his fellow-man except upon his personal merit.

Notre Dame has a tradition almost a century old of Democracy, a tradition that embodies the teachings and the precept and the example of the Divine Founder of Christianity and of Democracy itself, a tradition nurtured and strengthened and made beautiful by the labors and lives of the Fathers of Holy Cross.

In my 36 years of acquaintance of and respect and affection for, that great University, of which I am so proud to be a son, I have never known of any of its priesthood or brotherhood from the highest priestly office to the humblest member of the brothers—the brothers who do such a beautiful work and are so little known to the world at large—I say I have never known any of these men who did not walk humbly in the service of man and humbly in the path of God. If I were ever to characterize Notre Dame with a single word that word would be humility, and where there is true humility in God's service there can never be room in America for any of the "isms" that threaten us today. It is the arrogance of man's thought, unbridled, unlicensed, unanchored, ungoverned by the eternal verities of Catholic teachings and Catholic thought, that is threatening the very existence of Democracy as we know it, that is threatening our family life, that is threatening our Christian life.

In part, to Catholic institutions of learning like ours and yours, to the teachings of the Catholic Church, must America look, and does look, for help in conquering of this menace of Communism.

You can well judge the future from the past. When Sorin built the first little log school building about a century ago on the shore of St. Mary's Lake in the wilderness of Indiana there was made the beginning of an institution that has served America nobly and well and always, and that will serve her again in this present hour of America's threatened peril.

A University that was practically closed in the dark hours of the Civil War because nearly all her priests and brothers and students had enlisted in the service of this country; a University that had the first, and as far as I know has today the only, Grand Army post among the colleges of this country; upon whose campus tonight there are but two statues other than those of purely religious significance: Sorin, the founder, who practically closed the doors of the school he loved so well that all its man power could go forth for the defense of their country, and the other Corby of Gettysburg; the University whose entrance doors to the college church have engraved around them the names of her boys who gave up their lives in the late war; a University dedicated to Christian education of our youth, and devoted to the service of Our Lady who reigns in gentle majesty and glory from the summit of the Golden Dome pointing heavenward the thoughts and daily activities of her boys. I say it is fitting, and expected, that that University would be among the first to warn and prepare for this fight on Communism which threaten our national, our family, our Christian life.

The sons of Notre Dame are proud and deeply appreciative of this invitation and opportunity tonight.

I introduce and present to you Mr. Arthur J. Hughes, President of the National Alumni Association of Notre

Notre Dame, 0; Pitt, 26

Now about this Pitt game—there's no need to throw in the towel for the rest of the season. They say history repeats itself, and, while Pitt won by 26 to 0 (which was the worst defeat Notre Dame has taken in 11 years) the 1925 team lost, 27 to 0, to Army, and wound up that year with a record of seven victories, two defeats, and a tie. Army won in the fourth game of the season after the Irish had won three games, which was the setting October 24 when the prowling Panther capitalized on its own power and Notre Dame over-anxiety to win one of the hardest played games of recent years.

And those of you who didn't see the game may rest assured that your 1936 representatives are dead game. They, as well as the Pitts, were being knocked out right and left. It took nearly three hours to play the game because of the many recess periods for injured players, but the boys got right up and went back to work.

The story of the game itself is the story of Marshall Goldberg, Pitt Sophomore halfback. Coach Sutherland wasn't any too sure of this one. He changed his lineup, it seemed, every half hour for two days before the game. Pitt wasn't any too sure, either, after having taken a 7 to 0 beating at Duquesne's hands a week earlier.

The first quarter was a stand-off, and early in the second period Notre Dame got its first real break. Goldberg's quick kick went out of bounds on Notre Dame's 50-yard line. Previous to this the Irish, who had received the kickoff, had been bottled up in their own territory. Pitt was penalized 5 yards for offsides. Then Bob Wilke, straining for extra yardage and hit hard, committed the first of seven fumbles of which the Irish

Notre Dame has not sold any of its broadcasting rights for any game. Reports to the contrary have apparently been widely circulated in some sections of the country, according to information reaching the University.

—who had bobbled only six times in three previous games—were to be guilty. Pitt recovered, and, after an exchange of kicks, marched to a touchdown, Goldberg and Harold Stebbins featuring the march. Bill Stapulis, fullback, crashed over from the 2-yard line for the touchdown, Frank Souchak adding the placement.

Goldberg gave the rest of the team confidence. As the game wore on, Notre Dame pressed more and more, and Pitt gained in poise and sureness. But in this game the Fighting Irish gained experience that they could not get in practice, despite Elmer Layden's frequent scrimmages under game conditions.

Early in the third quarter Stapulis tossed a short pass to Hoffman, sub end, who raced 44 yards to a touchdown.

Pitt Intercepts Pass

The third touchdown followed a Notre Dame drive of 63 yards to Pitt's 14-yard line, where a pass caught out of bounds and another into the end zone ended the march. Acting Captain Bobby LaRue immediately ran 39 yards, and shortly later a 15-yard penalty on the Irish put the ball on the 14-yard line. Six plays later Goldberg went over for the score, Souchak again adding the placement.

The game could have ended this way, but with the Irish in possession of the ball, only a couple of minutes left to play, and the cause hopelessly lost, Coach Layden sent in several subs. Johnny Wood, Pitt halfback, intercepted a Notre Dame pass and returned 45 yards behind quickly forming and effective interference, for the touchdown.

This was the first big test for most of Elmer's boys and, while every one of them fought like a demon, Pitt's greater experience, power, weight, and, in the later stages of the game, confidence, was too much for them.

If you haven't done so already, you can mark Larry Danbom down as a big league fullback. He made tackles all over the field, once laying Goldberg out on a hard open field tackle. Goldberg proved his greatness by coming back stronger than ever after a short rest.

Fred Mundee also did a surprisingly fine job of backing up the line, while Captain John Lautar and Joe Kuharich did splendid work at guards. Joe Zwiers, right end, did a magnificent job, particularly in the first half.

Joe O'Neill not only played a fine game at left end, but he averaged some 45 yards on his eight punts, despite the fact that one 55-yard boot was called back because of offsides.

The tackles, at whom the brunt of Pitt's crushing power was aimed, reported themselves as well as any human beings could standing up against a juggernaut. Bill Steinkemper, Art Cronin, Whitey Beinor, and Paul Kell were towers of strength on defense, but they were facing a red hot football team which threw not one but several low-running, battering blockers at them time and again. Each of the four was laid out at least once, but, like the rest they came back for more.

As predicted before, the experience gained in this game is going to help immeasurably in the future. No longer will Notre Dame be nervous, doubting team. Many of the rough edges were knocked off against Pitt, and there's never been a Notre Dame team that didn't thrive on hard competition.

Whether the physical weariness, bumps, and bruises received in the game can be erased in time for the Irish to benefit by its experience against Ohio State is another matter, but Elmer Layden has a team that is developing.

VIC WOJCIKOWSKI

No apologies are needed for this Notre Dame student body, either. Some 2,000 boys dragged themselves out of bed at six o'clock of a cold, damp Sunday morning to go down to greet the team on its return from Pittsburgh. Many of them walked the two or more miles to the station, after the street cars had been filled to overflowing.

That Famous Penalty

Elmer Layden, from whom no apologies were needed, took the occasion to apologize to the students for running on the field at the time the penalty on O'Reilly was called in the fourth quarter. O'Reilly, the movies show, used his hands legitimately to ward off Souchak's attempted block. He was accused of unnecessary roughness and, according to Notre Dame players, was ordered off the field by Umpire A. H. Slack. Elmer, with the one thought in mind of preventing an injustice to one of his players, rushed on the field to give his version of what had happened and to see why O'Reilly was being banished. Slack, who had motioned O'Reilly away from him and apparently to the bench, denied that he had ordered O'Reilly to leave. Layden, demonstrating on Slack just how O'Reilly has used his hands on Souchak's shoulders, aroused the suspicion of Pitt players who, thinking Layden was pushing him around, rushed to his defense. The crowd booed. The upshot of it all was a 15-yard penalty on O'Reilly from the spot of the alleged foul. Layden and O'Reilly were both the victims of a series of misunderstandings, and this is merely an explanation of what happened, gathered from a number of reliable sources—and not an apology for either, for none is needed.

"Nothing has ever touched me more deeply than this turnout this morning," Elmer said in a husky voice to the hushed students. "I must have lost my head Saturday when I ran on the field, but I couldn't sit by and see an injustice done to one of the boys, although the official in question undoubtedly acted in good faith." He tried to go on, but the words would not come, and he left hurriedly amid an ovation from the crowd.

That Notre Dame System

And now a word on the Notre Dame system. Alabama, coached by Frank Thomas; Auburn coached by Jack Meagher; Fordham coached by Jimmy Crowley; Holy Cross coached by Dr. Eddie Anderson; Santa Clara coached by Buck Shaw; Villanova coached by Maurice (Clipper) Smith late of Santa Clara, are among the nation's outstanding undefeated teams as of October 24.

A hurried and incomplete check shows the following others to be among the top-notchers: Bowdoin, beaten only by Wesleyan and coached by Adam Walsh; Detroit, beaten only by Villanova and coached by Gus Dorais; Duquesne coached by John P. (Clipper) Smith, defeated 2 to 0 by West Virginia Wesleyan the week following the victory over Pitt; Kentucky coached by Chet Wynne and defeated only by Georgia Tech; LaSalle coached by Marty Brill and beaten only by Catholic U.; Michigan State coached by Charley Bachman and defeated only by Marquette's unbeaten Hilltoppers; Purdue coached by Noble Kizer and beaten only by Minnesota's undefeated Gophers; St. Mary's coached by Slip Madigan and beaten only by Fordham, by one point; Texas coached by Jack Cheigney and beaten, 21 to 18 in the last quarter by Baylor and 7 to 0 by Rice in five games; and Washington coached by Jimmy Phelan and beaten only by Minnesota, now leading the Pacific Coast conference race.

This list is by no means complete, but it gives a rough idea of how effective the hop-shift system of offensive football still is. And don't let anyone tell you otherwise.

Following is a review of the first three games of the season:

Notre Dame, 21; Carnegie Tech, 7

Still a mystery team, the Fighting Irish had their own coaches wondering if they were really as good as they looked after the opener with Carnegie Tech. No doubt about it, Tech is a superior team this year to that which Notre Dame defeated, 14 to 3, last year. In this game, Coach Elmer Layden's boys went to work with the dash and precision typical of Notre Dame teams of old. The principal heartening feature was the ability of several backs to block for keeps, while the line occasionally opened nice holes. On the other paw, the pass defense left much to be desired. Tech completed nine out of 18 attempts for 145 yards and a touchdown. That was cause for worry and discussion for the next two weeks, when the boys perked up a little against the aerial attack of Wisconsin.

It took the shock troops, quarterbacked by Joe Ruetz, South Bend's made-over guard, to start scoring activities against Tech after the first team had spent a fruitless first half. Ruetz intercepted a Tech pass on the first play of his career as a signal caller, and he was dropped on Tech's 24-yard line. A plunge failed, but Jack McCarthy, speedy left half, passed to Joe Gleason, right half for nine yards. McCarthy then raced nine yards, Steve Miller plunged to the five-yard line, and then scored. Ed Beiner, a Sophomore tackle whose all-around play has been promising, kicked the extra point from placement.

Soon after this Tech pressed into Irish territory and the regulars were recalled. Bob Wilke, left half, was tackled from three sides at once and fumbled on his 46-yard line. Tech recovered and marched to a touchdown, which came on the last play from scrimmage of the half. Jerry Matelan passed to Ray Carnely, a great Sophomore quarterback, for the score, and Capt. Nester Henrion, tackle, place kicked the extra point.

In the third quarter, Larry Danbom and his varsity mates exploded a perfect play which resulted in a 61-yard run and the touchdown that broke Tech's back. The backfield shifted to the left, the ball came to Wojcihowski at right halfback. He handed it to Danbom on a reverse, and Danbom ran around his right end, preceded by Andy Puplis and Bob Wilke, who did some mighty thorough blocking for a pair of 163-pounders.

The third touchdown was scored by Steve Miller on a reverse for eight yards, to climax a 55-yard march in the third period. Puplis, who is developing into a better-than-average punter, kicked the last two place-kicks. Puplis has been blocking well, running the team intelligently, and

Through the efforts of Joe and Steve Wozniak, a special train will carry over 1,000 N. D. alumni and followers to the game at Pittsburgh, Saturday, October 24. Arrangements have likewise been made for a similar train to carry about 500 people to the Ohio State game at Notre Dame, the following Saturday.

Here's hoping we will have more Notre Dame news from Akron to send in the next time.

In spite of the downpour of rain Tuesday evening, October 6, the club turned out 35 strong to enjoy a chicken dinner at the Waters Farm located between Niles and Buchanan.

To say the dinner was excellent would be too mild, and a proof of the favor it gained with the club may be had from the estimate of a noted bone specialist after the dinner. Upon surveying the outlay before Tom Grimes (a light eater) he decided that such a collection of bones could not be less than the skeletons of four complete chickens.

After the dinner a regular meeting was held, and it was decided to have a club dance sometime near Thanksgiving.

A committee was appointed by President Gene O'Toole to make all arrangements and to set the exact date of this dance. This committee was composed of Sheridan Cook, chairman, John Meadows, Bill Madden, Allan Johnson and Prof. William Downey.

The feature of the evening was an interesting and instructive talk by Dr. Daniel O'Grady, of the Philosophy Department of the University.

Dr. O'Grady discussed Communism and the various "isms" that are casting their influence about Europe and America at the present day, also their origin and distinctive differences.

James Dooley, '22, 368 Main St., North Andover, Mass., President; James Skahan, '31, 5 Grove St., Belmont, Mass., Secretary.

A letter from Jim Murray, 21 Eaton Avenue, Woburn, Massachusetts, brings the news that Jim Dooley, of Andover, Massachusetts, was elected president of the Boston Club some time ago.

Jim also reported the death of Mike Brown's father. Mike is still living in Swampscott, Jim says, and during the Summer he spent a great part of his time on the beach giving a broken leg the sun treatment.

Jim adds: "Give my regards to Father Doremus and you may also add that Jack Hughes, of Jacksonville, Florida, created a new style of God-parentage. I am the Godfather of Jack's first son by proxy. I know you will also be pleased to hear that Babe Spinelli, of Munhall, is at present associated with the law firm of the attorney general of Pennsylvania."

The Club is primed for its full swing of Fall activities. A dinner and radio broadcast of the Ohio State game will be our debut. This function always has been, and will continue to be, a tremendous drawing card. It has preference over all other engagements. It is a meeting that no member can afford to miss. Very little business, if any, is discussed. For an unadulterated football get-together the occasion can not be surpassed. We are proud of the past performances and shouldn't ask for more, but the coming event promises to overshoot all previous efforts.

Presentation of the Annual Rockne Trophy to the leading local high school football eleven deserves a tribute. The club is proud of the prestige that has been gained by being able to make such a noteworthy reward. Spontaneous advance publicity that the trophy incurs is amazing. Preparations are already being made even though the end of the season winner is unpredictable. You'll hear more about the trophy.

The E. E. class of '34 will be glad to know that Al Heigle and Ed Kene-fake are now shooting at Gerard Swopes' position. They are proud possessors of N. D. master's degrees, and the General Electric Company shouldn't go wrong on their selection.

Inasmuch as my temporary residence in Bridgeport, Connecticut keeps me away from Schenectady, New York, home of the General Electric Company, except on week-ends I request the privilege to free lance a bit.

Bridgeport is cluttered with the Irish alumni. Ed Monahan is one step ahead of me when arrangements for a get-together are planned.

Joe "Red" Forrest dropped into the office a few days ago for a social call. I hope that it was a social visit for I understand Joe gathers no moss when he puts on the pressure for the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Pat Rooney's annual gridiron trek will get under way when he puts in his stadium appearance with the Buckeyes, after which he will set sail for the Navy sinking. A little later the Army big guns will attract his undivided attention.

Dan Brennan is still pursuing the law texts but he should take a swing onto the bench sometime next Summer alongside his illustrious father.

Jerry Andres is shooting at the top in radio production for the G. E. Bridgeport plant.

If Dick Kelly knew that a certain individual breezed through Great Barrington, Massachusetts every Friday night about 10 o'clock and re-breezed back every Sunday night he would, I'm sure, call off those annoying motorcycle cops. Your road commission gang has been supported long enough, Dick. Have you guessed the source of revenue for all those new copper uniforms. Don't ask me; I know.

CENTRAL NEW JERSEY

Anthony V. Ceres, '28, Perth Amboy Nat'l Bank Bldg., Perth Amboy, President; John Lisicki, '31, 292 Hall Ave., Perth Amboy, Secretary.

Our new organization has started with a bang. There were about 30 fellows in attendance at our first meeting.

We sponsored a Spring Dance at the Berkley-Cartereb in Ashbury Park, New Jersey, and, under the capable handling of William Harrington, it was a huge success.

During the summer months of July and August activities were suspended.

On October 15, another meeting was called and again we had a great attendance.

Plans were immediately made for a distribution of Notre Dame-Army tickets and a dance to be held in conjunction with the distribution. Anthony Guiffre was made chairman of the activity and Ronald Armour, chairman of the dance. These activities are to be held November 10, at the Hotel Pines in Metuchen, New Jersey.

It seemed that the boys were not satisfied with stopping here, but went on to formulate plans for a Christmas dance. Larry Kemper was chosen chairman.

The date and place for this affair will be discussed at the next meeting.

So much for the club affairs. I have a few personal items that some of the fellows would appreciate knowing:

William Gadek has completed his internship at the Margaret Hague Hospital in Jersey City.

Russell Tarrell is employed by the Anaconda Copper, and has been transferred to South America. I heard from reliable sources that his future with the concern is very bright.

Tony Ceres has been appointed county chairman of the Christmas Seal Drive sponsored by the Tuberculosis League.

Anthony Guiffre is the happy father of two girls.

Gilbert Augustine is athletic director in Leonardo High School. Big things are expected from him.

William Harrington has been appointed librarian at the Carteret Library.

Michael Balog is connected with the Staten Island Dental Works.

Stanley Kokowicz has been employed by the duPont Company, and is stationed in Niagara Falls. We would appreciate it if the boys in that section would look him up.

I would like to get in touch with Joseph O'Rourke, '31. If any one knows his home address, please forward same to me.

And last but not least, yours truly has become a benedict, having married Miss Teresa Egan of Perth Amboy.

John Lisicki.

CHICAGO

Edward W. Gould, '23, 1313 W. Randolph St., President; Patrick F. Crowley, '33, 742 Junior Terrace, Secretary.

The numerous activities and the remarkable success of Ed Gould's administration in our Chicago Club impels me to give you a brief summary of what has been done and what is contemplated for the immediate future.

On September 29, 300 members of the Club gathered at Fox Bros. Tighe Woods arranged the details, which factor, plus the Fox Brothers' generous hospitality, resulted in a grand evening for all. Dick Hanley addressed the group, recalling interesting yarns of his long and pleasant experience with Notre Dame.

On Friday, October 16, about 250 members of the Wisconsin and Notre Dame Clubs joined in a luncheon to pay their respects to Harry Stuhl-dreher. Because it was the eve of the Wisconsin-Notre Dame game we were unable to wish him immediate success, but all concurred in extending our best wishes for the balance of the season.

The Club's next activity will be a dinner dance to be held at the Knickerbocker Hotel on November 7, and with our president, and Jack Elder, the chairman, already hard at work on the details, I am sure there will be no lapse in the success that the club has enjoyed this year.

On October 21, we were to cooperate with the National Catholic Alumni Federation in a supper and meeting held at the Union League Club. Father O'Hara was expected. We were also looking forward to the message which Art Hughes, the national alumni president, had to bring from the Holy Father.

In a rather embryonic stage is a program being espoused by Frank McKeever with the cooperation of the club whereby it is hoped that a series of lectures by professors from the University can be arranged. This program is being enthusiastically promoted by a group, and if the attitude of Jim Doyle and Jim O'Shaughnessy, the only two members of the committee with whom I have had occasion to discuss the matter, is any indication of the fervor of that group, I believe the difficulties inherent in such a project can be overcome.

The above list of activities should be a sufficient background to support a hope that the other Notre Dame alumni clubs are enjoying successful administrations as, is the Chicago Club under the tutelage of Ed Gould.

CINCINNATI

Harry V. Crumley, '03, 2655 S. Harrison Ave., Westwood Branch, President; Frank H. Sweeney, ex. '17, Kemper Lane Hotel, Secretary.

The first meeting of the Fall season was held at the Kemper Lane hotel on the evening of Tuesday, October 6. First order of business was the arrangement for a dancing party to be held during the Christmas holidays, as a means of getting the present Cincinnati men at Notre Dame together with the local alumni members. The committee in charge consists of Albert Castellini, chairman, Donald Dixon, Robert Hughes and George Aug.

It was also decided at this meeting to arrange a get-together for Gus Dorais, when in Cincinnati with his Detroit team, competing with Clem Crowe's Xavier outfit. Committee in charge consists of Commodore Ed McHugh, Larry Janszen and Joe Morrissey.

It was our good fortune at this meeting to have Judge Otis R. Hess, who gave us a very interesting talk on his many years' experience in the various courts in Hamilton county.

Dick Bray, sportscaster on WKRC, and also one of the officials at the Notre Dame - Carnegie Tech game, gave us a nice message from Elmer Layden, and also explained in detail rules of the game today.

James V. Egan and wife spent a few days in Cincinnati, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Al Castellini. It was their good fortune for some of the fellows to renew acquaintance with Jim, and to wish him continued success with the Chicago Park District.

William Struck, Notre Dame, was in attendance this week at his aunt's wedding (Miss Cornelia Leary, St. Mary's). She became the bride of Mr. Louis O'Malley.

Just received word that Thomas Gorman has also gone into business for himself in Wyoming, a suburb of Cincinnati. Our best wishes to him, and, undoubtedly, many of the club members will visit him.

Word has just been received that Jack Heilker, with the Department of Justice, has been transferred to Los Angeles. Along with this comes the information that Bernard Hugger, who is with the American Air Lines, has received a very fine promotion and is now located in Chicago.

At the suggestion of the Cincinnati Alumni Club of Ohio State University, a get-together is being planned for the Ohio State bunch and Notre Dame men on the night of Tuesday, October 27. As yet a complete program is not definite. The Notre Dame committee in charge being composed of Harry Crumley, chairman, Joe Morrissey and Frank H. Sweeney.

Hogan Morrissey spent the weekend at Notre Dame when he took in the Wisconsin game.

CLEVELAND

J. Patrick Canny, '28, 1660 Warren Road, Lakewood, Ohio, President; Lawrence Kral, '31, 276 E. 272 St., Cleveland, Ohio, Secretary.

(Editors' note: Apologies to the Club and to Larry Kral for the omission of his August 24 letter from the October ALUMNUS).

August 24, 1936.

By way of honoring Notre Dame's most successful big league ball player, we had a "Billy Sullivan Day" at the Cleveland Ball Park, where Bill is doing such a fine job behind the plate. Paul Castner and George Belting handled the affair without a hitch. The club presented Billy with a portable radio, and Sullivan immediately responded by leading the attack on the Red Sox, and playing a fine defensive game. An even hundred attended the game, and 65 sat down to the banquet at the C.A.C. Father Moriarty, Steve O'Neill, and the former mayor, Ray T. Miller, spoke, and then Billy, who is quite an after dinner speaker incidentally, gave us the ups and downs of a big league career.

Following which we moved our battle ground to Sleep Hollow Country Club on July 23 to settle the annual disputes of golfing merit. Bill Van Rooy handled this affair in a live fashion. Seventy golfers turned out with about the same number at dinner, in spite of a thunderstorm that came up in mid-afternoon. Bob Morrissey fired a neat 73 to take the trophy from Dick McMonagle, and became alumni champion for the year. Other winners—Joe Heimann, second low gross, 81; Bud O'Brien, third low gross, 83; Billy Ryan, biggest score (for shame), 155; Gay Haas, most strokes on one hole, 13; Dutch O'Day, most putts; Gene Kane, long drive; Art Hughes, visiting alumnus low score; Joe Gavin, low first nine; Frank Cull, low second nine; Paul Castner, proximity on No. 6; Chuck Rohr, proximity on No. 19; Cy Caldwell, blind par; Pat Canny, second blind par.

Bob Leonard won the student's trophy permanently, bagging a fine 77, while Charlie Elster won the guest prize with an equally good 77.

Doc McCarthy proved his worth as an M.C. at the dinner.

Our Confidential Service Bureau reports a bumper crop of youngsters since the last issue: at the Paul Abels, girl; the George Kervers, girl; the Tom Kiener, girl; the Clete Schneiders, boy; the Chuck Rohrs, boy; the Frank Culls, girl; the Gay Haases, girl; the George Thomases, boy; and the Larry Kral, boy. And all mothers and babies are doing well.

John Raleigh is now located in the experimental laboratories of the American Steel and Wire Company.

Bill Bambrick recently passed the state dental examination.

Jack Collins is fully recovered now from a recent operation.

John Venables is now selling securities for the First Cleveland Corporation.

John Begney has become interested in the Cleveland Hospitalization Plan, and is doing very well.

Tom Crosby is a newcomer here, located in the May Company Sports Department.

Likewise, John Sherman, former student manager, is here, stirring up trade for the Rock Island railroad.

Norm McLeod covers the state for the Ohio Bell now, in the advertising department.

Prayers are asked for John Raleigh's father who died in July.

Larry Kral.

October 19, 1936.

With the flannel season coming on, and pigskins floating through the air with the greatest of ease, we're turning out thoughts to our largest event on the social calendar—the annual Christmas dance, and Pat will announce the chairman and committee very shortly. Annually this affair has grown to pleasantly alarming proportions, and we have to handle the baby very tenderly.

The Cleveland alumni are running a special to Pittsburgh next Saturday, and we plan to run a couple of cars to South Bend for the Ohio game.

In the now famous police investigations now being conducted here, John Butler and Frank Celebreeze, who both served under former mayor Ray T. Miller, are working hard to uncover graft and corruption.

John W. Wadden, '07, lately of California, is now located here, being temporary manager of the Fidelity Investment Association, with temporary residence at the Allerton.

Fred Joyce, formerly of the French Casino at the Great Lakes Expo, is now managing the Bal Tabarin, the most fashionable night club in Cleveland.

George Leppig is now in government work with the Mariners, training G-men.

Paul Brady, our Painesville representative, is acquiring quite a reputation for his legal work there.

George Thomas is able to tell you how the Village of Willoughby is run.

Joe Butler is on the road now, selling municipal bonds for Lawrence Cook and Company.

In Chicago, Pat Canny bumped into Spike McAdams.

Charley Jahr, '34, is in from Wisconsin, and can be reached at Northampton Apartments in Prospect Avenue.

Dick McMonagle and Frank Svoboda are studying law at Cleveland Law School.

Tom Conley is, as this is written, now batting 500 at John Carroll U.—two defeats and two wins. Gene Oberst, Frankie Gaul and Judge Carberry are aiding. Tom, incidentally, is adept at being interviewed over the air.

Jim Uprichard continues to defend his new mustache. It's another harbinger of winter.

Tony Gonzalez, '25, of Manila, dropped in at Chuck Rohr's at our Monday luncheon and had a lot of interesting stories concerning the trouble in Spain.

Activity of the local organization was at a standstill most of the Summer on account of the warm weather, but now that footballs are in the air again I have noticed a few signs of life.

Jim Shaw has hied himself to California for a vacation, but I understand that the real reason for the trip is to give his brother, Buck, a few tips. Harold Klein has also shed his cares and is relaxing in the South somewhere. I will relay any important news that they may bring back with them.

Bill Coen, '35, from Afton, Iowa, was in Des Moines for a day last week. He is one of the few classmates that I have seen in this part of the country. Tom LaLonde was here in June and was due again last month, but I fear I have missed him as I no longer live at the old homestead although I still get my mail there.

We would appreciate some information on the football broadcasts. We heard the game last Saturday from WIND at Gary, and the week before I got Husing's broadcast through a Chicago station. The local stations are strong for Big Ten games, and I have found it hard to get through to the local South Bend stations.

We are planning a steak fry at Norton Sullivan's farm before the weather gets bad. We will have to pick a date when the football team is far from South Bend, however, or there will be few attending. There are plenty of pilgrims in this town.

I was talking to Carleton Beh a few days ago, and he has been down for one game already. I see Harold and Fred Neu now and then and also Harold Klein. Jim Shaw has also been around town all Summer. Harry O'Boyle is hard at work with the Dowling College football team, and so far his efforts have not gone unrewarded. He is having a good season. I have not seen many of the other men, but our steak fry should bring them out into the open.

NEW JERSEY

Raymond A. Geiger, '32, 446 Eastern Parkway, Irvington, N. J., President; Daniel O'Neill, '26, 184 N. Walnut St., E. Orange, N. J., Secretary.

The '36-'37 year in the history of the Notre Dame Club of New Jersey was officially inaugurated last October 5. For a first night we call the occasion successful based on an attendance of 34 alumni and a top-notch pair of interesting discussions led by Father C. J. Ahearn, pastor of Queen of the Angels parish, Newark, and Harold Hansen, a true friend of Notre Dame.

This is the splendidly large group of alumni who attended the Retreat sponsored, on September 11-14, by the New York and the New Jersey clubs in the Loyola House of Retreats, Morristown, New Jersey.

A review of the minutes of that meeting shows further evidence of President Ray Geiger's flair for order and smooth executive ability. The program covered no less than 18 separate items of official business, ranging from reports on our Freshman Welcome Party and the Retreat to appointment of committees for dances and other current activities. You can be assured that football received its full share of attention, what with some of the real "inside" as related by Hansen. Northwestern and Pitt are the objects of his admiration as purveyors of high-class football. Trips to the Ohio State game at Notre Dame and the Navy game at Baltimore, this last at the invitation of the New York Club, were discussed at length by our Club members.

For the possible edification of other Alumni Association officers I offer the New Jersey Club's plans for dragging members out to meetings and keeping them interested while at said meetings. First, everyone has an invitation to become a member of the Club at the rate of $1.00 dues per year for which he receives a high-grade membership card. Next, there are door prizes awarded to members who attend. The first meeting, incidentally, brought good fortune to Tom Farrell who won free admission to the Old-Time Campus Party Dance slated for November 10. The interest angle to the meeting is entrusted to guest speakers. Our next headline attraction will be Lawrence Perry or Stanley Woodward, depending on which of these two outstanding sports authorities is here at the time of the November 2 meeting. Special inducement is given to recent graduates to join us through a provision in our constitution which requires the appointment of a recent graduate as chairman of the Annual Christmas Dance.

Dan O'Neill.

NEW YORK CITY

J. Norbert Gelson, '26, 1201 Troy Ave., Brooklyn, President; Warren S. Fogel, '30, 70 Wall St., Secretary.

Our plans for the night of the Army game are much the same as last year. We will hold a dinner dance in the main ballroom of the Hotel Pennsylvania, dinner to be served at 7 o'clock and the total damage to be $3.50 per plate. Dancing will be provided by the music of Francis (Bugs) Walther, '25, and his orchestra. The club defies anyone to capture a filet mignon and all the fixings, plus entertainment, noted speakers and dancing at that price anywhere in New York that night. We expect a large attendance and to spare people who were disappointed in not getting their

Army game tickets further annoyance, we hereby give notice that reservations should be made as early as possible.

Our regular monthly meeting took place October 8 and consisted of a dinner to Arthur J. Hughes, national alumni president, at the Centre Club. The club adopted a whole-hearted stand with Mr. Hughes in his fight on Communism and was greatly impressed by his excellent program to that end. Hugh O'Donnell acted as toastmaster and the several speakers included Joe Byrne, John T. (Terry) McGovern, Judge William Walsh of Yonkers, Charles Gorman, and Father Kelly of the Catholic Writers' Guild, who spoke concerning the memorial to G. K. Chesterton.

About 125 members were present to welcome Mr. Hughes from Europe and they all thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Final plans have been announced for the club's trip to Baltimore on November 7 for the Navy game. The total charge is $10.00, which includes round-trip fare on the B. & O. Railroad and ticket to the game. Popular priced meals will be served on the train. A large delegation is expected to attend, judging from the calls your correspondent has been getting.

Warren Fogel.

At our September meeting we had the pleasure of welcoming Clipper Smith and Vince McNally, new Villanova college coaches, to this section of the country. We found them very likeable fellows who had every indication of being among our regulars in Club attendance. Their presence in our midst prompted us give a banquet in their honor on October 1 to which we invited coaches and faculty representatives of all the Catholic colleges and high schools in this vicinity. The underlying motive in asking these men to join us in honoring Clipper was to promote a feeling of good-fellowship among the students and alumni of the various institutions, and to point out to them the advantages to be gained from supporting one another in their undertakings.

The affair was a great success, so much so that we plan to make it an annual event. John H. Neeson, newly-elected lay trustee, acted as toastmaster. Among those present were Marty Brill, coach of La Salle College; Pat Conway, coach at West Catholic High School; Coach Smokey Halas of Drexel Institute, a great friend of Notre Dame; Father Albers, vice-president of Villanova college, and Bert Ball, head of the Philadelphia Eagles pro football team. Credit for arranging the affair must go to Ed Bailey, Walt Philip, Bill Castellini and Jack Reilly. Our success in promoting such good feeling among the Catholic schools prompts us to suggest to other clubs in the country the organizing of a similar affair.

The guest at our October meeting was none other than Arthur J. Hughes, national alumni president, recently returned from Europe. Mr. Hughes reported on his visit with the Holy Father and also outlined his plans for an organized fight against Communism. During his stay Mr. Hughes paid a visit to Cardinal Dougherty, archbishop of Philadelphia.

We have begun preparations for our annual Christmas dance and from every indication, gleaned from the enthusiasm of the various committees, it should be a large and successful affair.

The membership of our club has been swelled by 18 new members, not counting the recent graduates living in this area. Most of the newcomers are students at Jefferson Med School and the Law School at Penn.

Looking over the recent births column in the latest issue of the ALUMNUS makes us of the Philadelphia Club wonder what the recent papas have to be so puffed up about. Our own untouted Ed Bailey is the father of eight children born in rapid succession. He has the distinction of having his seventh son born on the eleventh day of the seventh month—a triple natural, as it were. We here and now enter him as our candidate in the Notre Dame Baby Derby race. Ed's sound advice to you men is not to get married in Leap-Year.

RHODE ISLAND & SOUTH. MASS.

Robert W. Powers, Jr., ex. '29, 22 Roseland Ave., Cranston, R.I., President; John R. Jolly, ex. '38, 457 Pawtucket Ave., Pawtucket, R. I., Secretary.

We had our annual election of officers of the R. I. and S. E. Mass. Club on September 21 at Providence. It was found that the following fellows would lead us through this ensuing year: Bob Powers, president; Bill Coogan, of Fall River, vice-president; Jack Jolly, secretary; and Tom Collins, of Fall River, treasurer. It was with pleasure that I retired from office after two years knowing that Bob would step in and keep things going in the club. The entire new slate of officers started right to work and are planning a program of features that will make the year interesting.

Our club is again having tickets for the Notre Dame-Army game at New York, and from all reports we will have a large crowd again. Last year we had 450 from Rhode Island to go to the game, and there will be just as large a crowd this year again. At any rate we'll be selling the tickets. Jack Jolly is in charge of the ticket sale and will be ably assisted by Jim Coogan, of Fall River, and Jack McLaughlin, of Cumberland.

With the opening of the football season we find Connie Shackett as assistant coach at St. Raphael Academy, and he is doing a fine job. He plans to join the Providence professional football team within another week or two in order to get back into his old form.

Bill Coogan, our vice-president, has followed the example set by his brother, Jim, and has forsaken Fall River to move out to Somerset, Massachusetts, where he can vie for honors in being a gentleman farmer.

Jim Coogan is raising puppies on his farm, and during the summer had some of his dogs in the shows around here. Yes, he did win some prizes.

Clem Grimes has a new job, as he is now the official photographer for the Rhode Island State Department of Justice, and he is seen in all parts of our state with his trusty camera and a measuring rod.

Red McClurg was the winner of the K. of C. scholarship to Notre Dame, so he has now taken up residence in South Bend.

John McLaughlin has recently added another large truck to his famous red fleet, and is rapidly becoming one of Rhode Island's leading business men. Mac surely deserves credit for his success in his business venture.

Charlie Grimes has finally found some business that needed attention, and he is all set to go to Indiana to tend to the business and also to make sure that he arrives in time to attend some of the games in the stadium.

Tom Murphy, '36, is now located in Providence as he is with the Armour Company. He has attended all meetings since being here, and we look forward to having Tom as an active member.

ROCHESTER, (New York)

Frank Norton, '32, 80 Beekwith Terrace, President; D. Bernard Hennessy, '34, 119 Bedford St., Secretary.

"The old order changeth . . ." and so, let it be known that on October 5 there came about a meeting of this august, staid and stately organization for the election of officers who are to hold sway during the coming year. The offices of president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer are to be filled respectively by Francis Norton, '32; James Gleason, '34; D. Bernard Hennessy, '34; Glenn Hatch, '28. The Four Magi, otherwise known as the Board of Governors, are Joseph P. Flynn, '16; Gerard J. Smith, '26; John F. Norton, '36; D. Bernard Hennessy, '34.

At our dinner at the Rochester Club on Wednesday, October 21, we expect to be favored with a few words from our latest blushing benedicts, Pony Sheehan, '33, and Gerry Farrell, '34. In the success of these two boys lies a world of encouragement for some of our timid brethren who are not exactly misogynistic minded. Also at our frolic of fun and food we expect to see a goodly array of faithful pre-'25ers. There will be Ward Schlotzer, Joe Tierney, Norb Baglin, and, as generalissimo, we shall have our good friend, Joe Flynn. Then, too, Jerry Smith must be on hand to interpret the by-laws.

That flashy-topped Ray Margrett, '35, has just changed positions. He must have thought that the soap world was not big enough for him. Red now makes the struggle so much easier for those who "travel on time." He holds forth at Associates Discount with that very dapper Dorschel, '31.

John Kinsella, '34, is down among the gauchos, working for KeyLox of this city. Jim McGrath is still calling for Philip Morris.

Pete Connelly, '33, has been seen wandering about town mumbling, "Ohio State . . . round trip . . . 25 people . . . ticket to the game . . . see the campus." Must be something strange about it all. He has Emil DeClerck, '33, doing it. It might be well to take a gander down in Sorin Sub on October 31.

Frank X. Connelly, X for '34, is getting himself all gnarled up breaking the bronses over at the U. S. Cavalry Armory. As a sideline he is employed in construction design work at Kodak Park. He claims his buildings will make the Alcazar look like old Freshman Hall. John Gillooly, '35, is having his brainstorm contemplating the terrors of ABC. He is working for a local liquor distributor. John, by the way, is rapidly coming to the fore as a pigskin prognosticator for the local curbstone quarterbacks.

Glenn Hatch, '28, has on more than one occasion been like a soothing aspirin to the writer. Glenn has the peculiar knack of getting cars of Penn-Dixie cement rolling on shorter notice than anybody else in these parts. For the increasing longevity of a contractor's life, I give you Glenn.

John Norton, '36, has eased himself into General Railway Signal. That Man of the Hour, John Odenbach, '36, is deepening the Genesee by day and doing the town by dark. Frank Weinmann, '35, is working for E. I. duPont de Nemours in Buffalo. Could Frank be a Veteran of Future Wars?

Joe Fox, '36, has taken up graduate study. Tom Meagher, '36, is likewise furthering his intellectual pursuits. Leo Hofschneider, '36, is getting his medicine in more ways than one at St. Louis. Eddie O'Hara, '35, is going into the higher realms of physical education at Columbia. These young blades who recently burgeoned forth with 35's and 36's are certainly creating a brain trust. Or is it all the embryo of a Utopia wherein work is shunned forever? Ah, palsied hand that reaches for the sheepskin of tomorrow!

There are those who have not come to our attention on this occasion, but remember there is another day. This is Sunday, and for the nonce I must away to see Steve Banas, '33, pastime with the Doyle Gulf professional football aggregation. Thus is aborted this Opus One of Flower City Saga.

The Notre Dame Club of Springfield held a noon luncheon at the K. of C. club Thursday, September 23. At that time it was decided to continue these noon luncheons each third Thursday of the month.

I am pleased to report the acquisition of three new members: Harold Stone, ex. '34, William Bernbrock, '35, Ed Cullinane, ex. '29.

William Bernbrock reports his new address at 718 South Eighth Street, Springfield.

One of our members, Ray Whipple, ex. '17, attained recognition by winning the national American Legion golf tournament at Cleveland, September 23. He tied for the title after the first day's play, and won the playoff with a 72 on the par 71 Hawthorne Valley Country Club course.

The Springfield alumni anticipate an active year with a number of informal functions.

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY (Indiana)

Louis F. Buckley, '28, 718 E. Corby Blvd., South Bend, Ind., President; Clarence Harding, '25, South Bend Tribune, South Bend, Ind., Secretary.

Two interesting and highly entertaining pre-game smokers formed the major part of our activities for the first part of the year.

Judging from early indications this year's smokers promise to eclipse in interest and attendance the highly successful ones of last year. Held at the Jefferson Plaza Friday nights before home games our smokers are becoming the meeting place of all alumni and visitors back for the games the following day.

The first smoker, held Friday night before the Carnegie game, got off to a flying start with an attendance of 150. Bill Furey acted as master of ceremonies and kept the program moving at a fast clip. Among the speakers were Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, C.S.C., vice-president of the University; Frank H. Hayes, '14, Anaheim, California, and Bernard J. Voll, '17, South Bend, past presidents of the Alumni Association; Elmer Layden and Judge Steffen and Howard Harpster, Tech coaches. Peter LaCava entertained with accordion solos.

Co-chairmen of the affair were Dave Campbell and Giles Cain. Members of their committee included Eli Abraham, William Baker, Andrew Boyle, William Cerri, William Cerney, Alexis Coquillard, Pedro de Landero, Charles Davis, Paul Fergus, Earle Frarey, A. M. Foley, William Furey, G. A. Farabaugh, Robert Grant, Louis Hasley, Frank Hiss, Joseph Kovacs, J. H. B. McCarthy, E. R. McEndarfer, John Voedisch.

The second smoker, Friday evening before the Washington game, while somewhat disappointing in attendance, lacked nothing in entertainment. Frank Coughlin acted as master of ceremonies and Jimmy Conzleman, coach of Washington, gave as good an account of himself as a story teller as he did the next day as a coach. Elmer Layden's talk gave a hint of how tough a game to expect the following day. Others who spoke were William Deresch and Louis Roberts, mayor and city attorney, respectively, of Evansville, Indiana, and Red Barber, announcer for WLW, Cincinnati, who will broadcast all the Notre Dame games this year. Barber, who had just completed broadcasting the World Series, gave his impressions of the games.

Elton B. Crepeau, voice teacher at the University, and William Ziffern, sang. Bernard Voss and Eli Aronson gave a 10-minute wrestling exhibition with Eddie Meehan acting as referee. A group of musicians from school played.

Louis Bruggner and Frank Miles were co-chairmen of the affair. Assisting them were Joseph Boland, Frank Coughlin, Robert Cahill, Harry Driggs, Edward Everett, Albert Frantz, Willard Fortier, Clarence Futter, Leo Fomenko, Irving Garnitz, Norman Hartzler, Joseph Hemphling, Irving Hurwich, Callix Miller, James R. Meehan, Lewis Murphy, Leo Newman, Eugene O'Brien, Harold Weber, Oscar Zoss.

Plans are almost complete as this is written for three exceptional programs before the Wisconsin, Ohio State and Northwestern games. Alumni and their friends are urged to attend.

SAGINAW VALLEY (Michigan)

Thomas F. Van Aarle, '21, Standard Oil Co., Saginaw, Mich., President; William C. Hurley, '25, 117 Cherry St., Saginaw, Mich., Secretary.

I thought that there was no news and, consequently, have been lax in my duties as secretary. Tom Van Aarle brought it to my attention this morning. Here goes.

Joe Friske is the Republican candidate for prosecuting attorney and stands a very good chance to be elected. Joe Blanke's engagement was just announced the other day. The list is daily growing smaller. Ben Mahank and Louie Staelens are both working here at the parts manufacturing division of Chevrolet, a new branch of General Motors recently transferred here. Art Kerns is now connected with Standard Oil in the accounting department. When I was in Detroit the other day I called Louie Conroy and John Blanke, both with the Michigan Bell telephone company. John has only recently been transferred there from Saginaw.

Had dinner out at Gil Schaefer's and believe me, it was a good one. In our rival city down the river, Bay City, I have run into a few of the boys. Paul La Framboise was married about a month ago in Quebec, and is now with Consumer's Power in his home town. Joe Davey is with the Bay City Times.

Although the boys do not yet know it, we are going to try a luncheon about once a month. It is harder in a small town than in a large one to get the boys together at noon. The last party was so well received that I believe we can have another in the near future.

TRIPLE CITIES (New York)

Joseph Hunt, Binghamton, President; William Yeager, '34, 18 Vine St., Binghamton, Secretary.

The funeral of Mr. Bartholomew J. Toomey was held at St. Paul's. Rev. D. Joseph Bustin celebrated the solemn high Mass, assisted by Rev. John Mahoney and Rev. William Mursfelder. Mr. Toomey was widely known in railroad circles, and a member of the parish Holy Name Society. The club feels a very personal loss. He is the father of three Notre Dame men—Rev. Joseph B. Toomey, Francis and John Toomey.

Bill Ayres is now city editor of the Morning Sun. Bill did a very fine job as sports editor, and we wish him success in his new position.

Joe Kane is very busy as a member of the local school faculty. John Kave is completing his medical studies at McGill University. Dr. Francis Paul Kave is practicing in New York City. What a fine inspiration they have to follow in the work of their father, the late Dr. John Kave. Dr. Kave, who died last July, was a nationally famed surgeon, president and chief of the medical staff of Lourdes Hospital and a distinguished Catholic layman. Frank has already shown that he has surgical skill which brought his father recognition throughout the United States, and we know that John will soon be following in his footsteps.

Art Hand, of Endicott, doesn't get to Bingo very often—guess his managerial duties keep him busy.

We see John Donnelly occasionally and Reggie McNamara less than that—Reggie is busy every Saturday afternoon playing every game N. D. plays.

Dr. John O'Brien gets a breathing spell from the Binghamton City Hospital once in a while.

The lawyers are all five—John

O'Loughlin, Pete Wacks, Ed O'Brien, Daniel McAvoy and Ted Griffin.

Members and friends of the local club purchased 40 tickets for the Ohio State game and intend to be present in a body.

Present business before the club here now is making arrangements to purchase a cup to be presented to the city team that wins the city championship. There are three public high schools here and one Catholic, with a great deal of feeling between all of them. It is our intention to make it a Notre Dame cup and permanent possession to the club that wins it three years.

Some new-comers to the city and members of our club are: Jack McGrath from Louisville, Harold Casey from South Bend and Indianapolis, and E. Brown Miller from Louisville. Also, Tom Hartnett, who formerly hailed from Toledo, is here with the Gulf Refining Company. Tom married a local girl last April.

I wonder if you know that Paul Kennedy's farm is equipped with a race track and that Paul has a small string of harness horses that he has been working out at various fairs this summer? The news, of course, is not the race horses but the race track, because it is bordered by a grove of shade trees and under those shade trees about a dozen hardy souls congregated this Summer to hash over their experiences at N. D.

We had present Louie Crosson, of Oxford, Indiana, Doctors Keefe and Keefe of Earl Park, Paul Kennedy, our genial host, Butch DeVault of Romney, Paul Pierce of Pine Village, Balfe Wagner of Lafayette, Sumner Ditton, Tommy Ward of Otterbein, Dr. Ryan of Louisville, who is interning at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Lafayette, and your correspondent.

'38; Edward Bush, '38; Paul Hughes, '38; Robert Cuthbertson, '39; Bud Sherwood, '38; Charles Pilon, '39; and Paul Schiappicasse, '39.

Francis Corr, was elected honorary president; Stephen J. Roth, president; Vincent Ryan, vice-president; and Don MacDonald, secretary-treasurer.

As soon as we get our organization to functioning, you'll start hearing from us regularly.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

James D. Hayes, '17, 4612 Morgan Drive, Chevy Chase, Md., President; J. Thomas Garver, '32, 1210 Perry St., N. E., Washington, D. C., Secretary.

We were delighted to have Art Hughes with us for an impromptu dinner at the University Club. Due to the short notice and the fact that we had had a meeting a week before we were unable to get a full crowd out, but did succeed in having all the nominees for club offices this year present in order that he might know them and vice versa.

He made a very delightful talk and told us all about his trip to Rome. We are all enthusiastic and looking forward to one of the best alumni years under his leadership.

We expect to turn out, about a thousand folks from Washington for the Navy game on the 7th of November, and also hope to see the boys on their way through and perhaps stir up a little doings.

The following members were present at the dinner, and I will give you in their order the offices for which they are nominated and out of which the selection will be made at the next meeting to be held on November 10:

President: Thomas Markey, '29; Bernie Loshbaugh, '29; Charles Manix, '31; Charles Farris, '33.

Vice-President: Charles DeBarry, '24; Tom Carney, '25.

Secretary: John Cullen, '22; Paul Beretz, '27; Tom McKeivitt, '32.

Treasurer: Robert F. Graham, '28; Andrew Auth, '34.

In addition to the above, Dr. James A. Flynn, Dutch Bergman and myself were nominated as members of the Executive Committee.

The Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board promoted Red Reardon, state manager, to a new and better job, with an increase in money and title, but no gun or badge.

A Pittsburgh business school is claiming all of Larry O'Toole's attention right now. (Which reminds me that I can still lick any of the O'Tooles).

We regret to say that Jim McDonald, a former student and brother of Dr. Bob McDonald, is in a local hospital.

The Rev. Vincent P. Brennan (plain "Vince" to us) after being ordained in St. Vincent's Archabbey, Latrobe, Pennsylvania, last June 14 and saying his First Solemn Mass June 21 in St. Joseph's Church, South Bend, is now assisting in a parish in Tarentum, Pennsylvania, a small community outside of Pittsburgh. We all hope that Vince will be a frequent visitor at the luncheons, since he is so handy.

Our nomination for super salesman: Bill Steitz.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Dean, Jr., '28, announce the birth of a son, Edward J., III, on September 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Powers, ex. '30, announce the birth of a son, Robert, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Aman, '30, announce the birth of a son, Andrew, III, on August 6.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Harrington, '30, announce the birth of a son on September 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Brennan, '30, announce the birth of a son, Joseph, on October 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rohr, '30, announce the birth of a son in August.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ruppe, '31, announce the birth of a daughter, Joan, on September 30.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Anderson, '31, announce the birth of a son, Peter A., on September 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Cronin, '30, announce the birth of a daughter, October 21.

Deaths

Father John P. Thillman, C.S.C., 74 years old, died in the St. Joseph's Hospital, South Bend, on October 5 after a brief illness. As professor, pastor, rector, and chaplain Father Thillman served in many capacities in the Congregation of Holy Cross. He was one of the five pioneers of the Congregation who, in 1902, founded what is now the University of Portland, in Portland, Oregon. His final active assignment was as chaplain of Reitz Memorial High School in Evansville, Indiana.

Word has just reached the ALUMNUS of the death of Laurence Daly White, '28, of Wilmette, Illinois, a suburb of Chicago, on May 8, 1936.

Brother Michael Curtis F.S.C.H., A.M., '28, died in Seattle, Washington, July 15. Brother Curtis was born in Ireland, and was a member of the Irish Christian Brothers. He held executive offices in many schools of his order in the United States and Canada, among them the principalship of Leo High School, Chicago, and the O'Dea High School, Seattle.

Personals

Before 1880 Secretary: Hon. T. H. Gallagher, Fitchburg, Mass.

1880-1885 Secretary: Prof. Robert M. Anderson, Circleville, Ohio.

1886 Secretary: Michael O. Burns, 338 S. Second St., Hamilton, Ohio.

1887-1888 Secretary: J. L. Heineman, Connerville, Indiana.

1889 Secretary: P. E. Burke, 301 Camp New Orleans, Louisiana.

1890-1893 Secretary: Louis P. Chute, 7 Univ. Av., Minneapolis, Minn.

It goes without saying that the classes of '90-'93 are edified to learn of the bequest from Mr. Frank Phillips of an endowment to the University of Notre Dame in honor of Fathers Thomas E. Walsh, Daniel E. Hudson and John W. Cavanaugh, and his wisdom in leaving the investment thereof flexible in the hands of the trustees.

Also the endowment to the Chair of Public Speaking on the part of the late William P. Breen, likewise honoring Father Martin J. Regan.

These men were all choice factors in the upbuilding of Notre Dame; and the memory of acquaintanceship with them is highly prized.

Special regrets are expressed over the death of Father Joseph J. Boyle, well beloved of the boys of the Twin Cities during his stay at the College of St. Thomas.

Recent rapid development in the campus and the physical plant, as related in the October ALUMNUS, indicates quite a transformation in affairs at Notre Dame. This should be interesting to all students of Notre Dame, recent and of early days. Among the many improvements related the new Infirmary is of special interest. It was first called to my special attention by Sister Mary Nicolena, a former veteran of the service in the old Infirmary, a special friend in Minneapolis of nephews and nieces of the former Brother Leander of cherished memory at Notre Dame.

1894 Secretary: Hugh A. O'Donnell, 1 W. 67th St., New York City.

The eminent class secretary writes as follows: "I heard recently from Frank L. Carney. His address is 1929 K. Street, Washington, D. C. Very occasionally I hear from Chris Fitzgerald. He is located at La Metropolitana 204, Havana, Cuba. Frank Bolton is still municipal judge at Newark, Ohio. Bill Correll, Johnstown, Pennsylvania, is also in the land of the living, but no one would know it."

Hugh was in Chicago a few weeks ago and, with Dick, '27, and John, '27, Halpin, motored to the campus for a brief visit. Here he met Father Carroll, Father Mooney, Father Hugh O'Donnell and Father Gene Burke, among many others. In Chicago he saw a good deal of Frank Pendergast, '27. Frank is with the American Book Company.

1895 Secretary: Eustace Cullinan, Sr., 860 Phelan Bldg., San Francisco, Calif.

1896 Secretary: William P. Burns, 327 Willard Ave., Michigan City, Indiana.

1897 Secretary: Rev. J. A. MacNamara, St. Jos. Sanitarium, Mt. Clement, Mich.

Father MacNamara expected to be on the campus for either the Ohio State or the Northwestern game when he wrote recently from St. Joseph's Sanitarium, Mount Clemens, Michigan. And, of course, he was going to see the Army game—he's seen every one so far—as well as the Navy game.

Father Mac reported that E. S. "Happy" Holland, '99, of Baltimore, with Mrs. Holland, had been in a serious auto accident last Summer. Both were injured, but fortunately not critically, when their car was forced off the road and turned over twice. They have recovered satisfactorily.

1898 Secretary: William C. Kegler, 9th & Sycamore Sts., Cincinnati, Ohio.

1899 Secretary: Dr. Joseph F. Duane, 418 Jefferson Blvd., Peoria, Ill.

*

1900 Secretary: John W. Eggeman, Old First Bank Bldg., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

1901 Secretary: Joseph J. Sullivan, 1300, 139 N. Clark St., Chicago, Ill.

1902 Secretary: C. C. Mitchell, 110 S. Dearborn St., Box 3, Chicago, Ill.

1903 Secretary: Francis P. Burke, 904 Trust Co. Bldg., Milwaukee, Wis.

1904 Secretary: Robert Proctor, Monger Bldg., Elkhart, Indiana.

1905 Secretary: Daniel J. O'Connor, 10 S. LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

1906 Secretary: Thomas A. Lally, 811-13 Paulsen Bldg., Spokane, Wash.

1907 Secretary: Rev. Thomas E. Burke, C.S.C., Notre Dame, Ind.

Father William F. Cunningham, C.S.C., was one of the chief figures in the regional conferences of the Association of American Colleges which was conducted at St. Mary's College, Notre Dame, on October 20 and 21. Father Cunningham spoke on "A Challenge to the Survey Courses."

1908 Secretary: Frank X. Cull, Bulkley Building, Cleveland, Ohio.

1909 Secretary: E. P. Cleary, Notre Dame, Indiana.

1910 Secretary: Rev. M. L. Moriarty, 1900 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

1911 Secretary: Fred Steers, 1666 First National Bank Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

Pedro de Landero, professor of Spanish in the University, tennis coach and fencing coach, spoke before the Catholic Forum of South Bend on October 19 on the current situation in Spain. Pedro was presented by Bernie Voll. Among those who took part in the discussion following the address were Father Francis J. Wenninger, C.S.C., Louie Buckley, Francis Jones, Joe Donahue and Walter Langford.

Two sons of former Notre Dame football stars are out practicing on Cartier Field. One is Buck Ryan, Sophomore son of Billy Ryan, '11, of Cleveland. The other is Bud Kelleher, Freshman son of Bill Kelleher, '15, Lorain, Ohio, the first native-born Irishman to win a monogram at Notre Dame.

1912 Secretary: B. J. Kaiser, 324 Fourth St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

The new J. Elmer Peak school in Portage township, St. Joseph County, Indiana, was dedicated on October 1, with the ceremonies in the auditorium of the new school. Ground for the building was donated by Judge Peak, of South Bend, and his mother.

The principal address for the occasion was given by Frank E. Hering, '98. Other speakers were Clarence E. "Pat" Manion, '22, and J. Clifford Potts, '25. Father Francis J. Wenninger, '11, gave the invocation.

Don Hamilton and Ray Eichenlaub, '15, both of Columbus, Ohio, are officiating in some of the Middle West's most important college football games this Fall. Editorial wonder: what about the afternoon of October 31?

1913 Secretary: James J. Devitt, 921 Engineers' Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

1914 Secretary: Frank H. Hayes, 406 Bank of America Bldg., Anaheim, Cal.

1915 Secretary: James E. Sanford, 1524 Farwell Ave., Chicago, Ill.

*

1916 Secretary: Timothy P. Galvin, First Trust Bldg., Hammond, Ind.

1917 Secretary: Edward J. McOsker, 104 S. Union St., Elgin, Ill.

Secretary McOsker reports as follows:

We are out to double the attendance record of any previous class at their 20th re-union, when the War Rent Class of '17 gets together next June at Commencement under the chairmanship of Bernie Voll and Eddie McOsker, vice-chairman.

The following district chairmen have already promised to be on deck and to account for every classmate in their territory: John Urban Riley, Boston, Massachusetts; Dr. Leo D. O'Donnell, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Howard Parker, Sacramento and southern California; Royal Bosshard, San Francisco and the North West; Danny Hilgartner, Chicago and environs.

The class secretary would especially like to hear from the following hermits: Ned Barrett, Kenneth Boylan, Johnny Campbell, Walter Ducey, Joe Gargan, Red Graham, Ducky Halmes, Bill Hynes, Al Kranz, Jermy Miller, Leon Russell, Matt Trudelle and Les Yeager.

1918 Secretary: John A. Lemmer, 1110—8th Ave., S., Escanaba, Mich.

1919 Secretary: Clarence Bader, 650 Pierce Street, Gary, Indiana.

1920 Secretary: Leo B. Ward, 1012 Black Bldg., Los Angeles, Calif.

Newspaper reports in late September had Slip Madigan stricken with a mysterious ailment as his St. Mary's team was practicing in California. The pony express hasn't brought in any more messages, but apparently Slip has recovered. If travel will help, there will be plenty of that for Head Man Madigan. He will be on the Notre Dame campus, incidentally, with his team for the Ohio State game, after playing Fordham and Marquette.

1921 Secretary: Dan W. Duffy, 1600 Terminal Tower, Cleveland, Ohio.

Walt De Gree is an architectural engineer with the Resettlement Administration in Washington, D. C., according to a note from Registrar Bob Riordan.

Al Slaggert, of Detroit, is to give the memorial talk in honor of the dead of Saginaw Council of the Knights of Columbus on November 8.

Dan Duffy writes from Cleveland:

I had a very interesting letter from Leo Kelly, who is in the coal business in Syracuse. He wrote at great length regarding one Duke Kinney, one of the fellows of our time.

I know that a good many from our class would be glad to know that I ran into Dave Hayes in Hartford last Summer. Dave has a fine big family of husky children. Besides the coal and lumber business he is giving some time to a distillery at Amsted, Connecticut. He spoke of having seen Joe Brandy a great deal, and gave a glowing report of Brandy's success in the newspaper and advertising business in Ogdensburg, New York.

I have hopes of getting into Chicago very soon and seeing Paul Pfohl and Rog Kiley and a few others of the fellows of our time.

It is my intention to attend the Ohio State-Notre Dame game this year. Of course, last year's team made all Ohioans very happy with their striking victory over Ohio State. While I think generally not too much is expected, we are keeping our fingers crossed for a repetition.

1922 Secretary: Gerald Ashe, Buffalo Athletic Club, Buffalo, New York.

The following is welcome news from Kid Ashe:

John (Tuffy) Hart now resides in Buffalo. He is local superintendent of the Anchor Transport Lines, which company operates auto carriers for transporting Chevrolet autos from Buffalo to eastern markets.

Joe Farley, the big G-man was last reported in Tennessee. Of course, Brother Joe may be many miles from Tennessee, in case you would like to locate him.

We have just received, as this is written, a postcard from Belfast, Ireland, dated October 7. The sender is Perc Connolly who, in company with his father, is visiting Ireland, England, Scotland, Denmark, France, Germany, and Italy. Perc expected to be back in the home town, St. Louis, early in November.

Since there is great interest in football these days, it is fitting that we should remind the boys of our classmates who are on the firing lines in various sections of the country coaching football. The statistics, of course, take in the season only up to the date of this writing.

Buck Shaw, now in supreme command at Santa Clara, since Clipper Smith assumed charge at Villanova, is directing one of the few undefeated and untied West Coast teams.

On the eastern front, Eddie Anderson's Holy Cross team similarly is untied and undefeated.

The University of Kentucky directed by Chet Wynne has lost one game so far, but Chet is coaching one of the outstanding backfield men in the country.

Lighthouse Harry Mehre's Georgia team has a marred record, but it is risky business to count out the Horse.

Good old Hunk Anderson expects his North Carolina State team to defeat the University of North Carolina team in the Yale-Harvard classic of the upper Carolinas.

The October ALUMNUS in recording news of the Phoenix, Arizona Club gave us some very interesting news which we wish to repeat for the benefit of those who did not read the item. E. John Hilkert has received an appointment to the State Board of Accountancy, appointment being made by the governor of Arizona. Best wishes to you, John, and we wish you a happy reign in your new position and still greater recognition in the Department of Arizona.

On the subject of congratulations, let us not forget John Huether of Schenectady who is the present district governor of the Alumni Association for New York State outside of the metropolitan district.

Harold Weber is becoming a headliner in the insurance business in South Bend.

Aaron Huguenard's selection to the board of managers of the Indiana Bar Association is pleasant news to his classmates.

It is felt that the mayor of Terre Haute must have consulted Ray Kearns before putting a crimp in the speech making activities of Candidate Browder.

While on the subject of football coaches we did not forget our old pals Earl Walsh and Bob Phelan. We believe one or both to be at Fordham with Jim Crowley.

Many times we are lambasted with queries, such as: "Where is Schwertley now?" or "How about Jerry Walsh?" or "Bill Purcell is a real scout; what ever happened to him?" or "What are the McDermotts doing—Paul or George?" These are countless other questions concerning the old gang would gladly be answered by the secretary, if, only, he knew the answers. Perhaps it is expecting too much to hope that some day one of the boys of '22 who is familiar with the doings of classmates whose names do not appear in this column from time to time, would send on a few words about such acquaintances or himself. We do not want any forgotten men in the class of '22. Photographs will be treated with scrupulous care, but must pass the censor.

Saw Bill Gilchrist in Toronto a fortnight ago. Bill has been in the advertising business since he left Notre Dame. He has a prominent position with the best advertising company in the Queen City.

Gene Kennedy is president of the Notre Dame Club of Los Angeles. Gene furnishes the news that Franklyn Miller is associated with him in the trust department of the Bank of America.

So Pat Manion is no longer a bachelor. Congratulations to yourself and Mrs. Manion, Pat. We all wish you both years of happiness.

1923 Secretary: Paul Castner, Edwards Homemobile Co., South Bend, Ind.

John Cochrane, of Toledo, was on the campus on September 29.

Paul Castner writes:

I want to announce to the class of '23 that their secretary has come home. My address from now on will be the Edwards Home-Mobile Corporation, South Bend, Indiana, makers of "America's Finest Home on Wheels."

I have had a number of nice visits with Fathers John and Frank Cavanaugh. Father Frank is now in charge of Dillon Hall and Father John is holding forth there, as all know, as Prefect of Religion.

Red Shea was here for the Wisconsin game. He is still in Dayton practicing law. Joe Troman was here for the Carnegie game and I saw him for a few minutes between halves. Joe is still in Chicago.

John Montague was here the other day on a business call. John is with the Chicago Tribune, in charge of automotive advertising for a large section of the country. Like many other Chicagoans South Bend, Illinois is in their territory during the Fall season.

I saw Ed Gould for a brief visit between halves at the Wisconsin game. Ed is in the florist business in Chicago, and is running a deluxe trip to Los Angeles for the Southern California game.

I hope to see many of the class at the Northwestern game. Those who attend please give me a call.

1924 Secretary: J. F. Hayes, Wm. F. Pedrick & Co., Emp. State Bldg., N.Y.C.

1925 Secretary: John W. Scallan, 79 E. Adams St., Chicago, Ill.

Harry Stuhldreher was enthusiastically received when he brought his team to the campus on October 17. He spoke at a huge student pep meeting in the Gymnasium on Friday evening, as well as at the smoker sponsored by the Notre Dame Club of the St. Joe Valley. And his team on Saturday put up a harder battle than the score of 27 to 0 would seem to indicate. Harry seems to have struck gold with his letter to Wisconsin alumni following each Wisconsin game. It's a corker.

Making a stop on his world tour, Tony Gonzales, of Manila, was on the campus for the Wisconsin weekend for a visit with his many good friends. From South Bend he went on to Cleveland and had lunch with the Cleveland Club and then saw the Pitt game in Pittsburgh on the following Saturday.

Tony had exciting tales of his experiences in the Spanish revolt. He was twice placed under arrest in Madrid, and it was necessary for the American consul to charter a special plane to get Tony and several others out of the country.

1926 Secretary: Dr. Gerald W. Hayes, 86 Hawthorne Ave., East Orange, N.J.

Frank Bon, president of the class, is now practicing law in 406 Majestic Building, Cleyenne, Wyoming, having resigned a year ago as secretary to United States Senator R. D. Carey, of Wyoming.

Bob Stephan, '27, United States Gypsum Company, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, is out in search of the present address of one of his best friends, of Phil Cassilly, ex. '26, who formerly resided at 1230 Garvin Place, Louisville, Kentucky. Will Phil himself, or some one who knows of his whereabouts, communicate with Bob?

John O'Donnell and his bride were in South Bend for the week-end of the Wisconsin game after their marriage in Maysville, Kentucky on the previous Monday, October 12. They went on to Chicago on their auto trip through the Middle West.

1927 Secretary: Edmund DeClerq, 8118 Ellis Ave., Chicago, Ill.

James Griffin Jay has just signed a seven-year contract with Universal Pictures to write motion picture scenarios in Hollywood, according to a note from the South Bend Tribune. Scribner's published Jimmy's first book, "Mr. X," last January.

Tom Conroy has been transferred to the Evansville office of the Acme Fast Freight, Inc.

1928 Secretary: Louis Buckley, 718 E. Corby St., South Bend, Ind.

Editors' note—Apologies to Secretary Buckley and to the class of '28 for the omission—unintentional, of course—of Louie's super news from the October issue. Here it is—only a month late.)

Martin Callagy was back to the campus in June for the first time since 1928. Bud is attorney for an association of utility holding companies, and is located in New York City. He mentioned several of the '28 men from whom we have not heard in some time. He said that Herb McCabe is now a married man, living in New York City, and working for the Moody Investment Service. Vic Zimmerman and Larry Culliney are with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Lou Thornton is employed by the Guarantee Trust Company in New York City. A number of '28 men were here for graduation including George Conner, who is with the McGraw Hill Publishing Company in New York City, Bill Jones, who is still practicing law in Helena, Montana, and Joe Morrissey, who gave me an account of the behavior of the '28 men at the Ohio State game a year ago.

Bernie Garber visited me this past Summer on his way to Milwaukee where he is now located. Bernie mentioned that Dick Parrish is with a newspaper in Fairmont, West Virginia, and he is writing plays in his spare time. I was glad to have a letter from Glen Hatch. Glen is with the Pennsylvania Dixie Cement Corporation in Rochester, New York. He is married and has a little girl two years old. Glen mentioned that John Nyikos is in Syracuse now. Glen inquired about John Voedisch. Ike is with the Hoosier Brewery in South Bend.

We were in Marshfield, Wisconsin, this Summer in time to congratulate Bill Kerwin on the arrival of a baby boy, their second child. Bill is manager of the Montgomery Ward store there.

I met Tom Traugher in Minneapolis, where he is working for the U. S. government as a G-man. Jack Doyle, who is in the clothing business in Minneapolis and Bob Fogerty, who is teaching at St. Thomas College in St. Paul, were away while I was in the Twin Cities.

Swede Schroeder did us a good turn when he suggested that Joe De-bott make a contribution a la Winchell, to this column. Thanks to Joe, I have news for you concerning some of the men, mostly in New York state, about whom we have been seeking information since graduation. Joe is associated with the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company in Geneva. His address is 171 West North Street, Geneva, New York.

Joe Geraghty is in Rochester. Married and has one baby girl. Jim Berry runs a farm near Geneva. Married and has two children. John Larsen is living and working in Geneva. Em-played by Thuron Optical Company. Tom Cauty is with the John Hancock Life Insurance Company in Batavia. Ed Dean is married, and living in McKees Rocks, Pennsylvania. Joe Haney, of Newark, New Jersey, has recently opened his own law offices there. Gene Seibiltz, also of Newark, is married and has two children. He is in the coal business. Don Corbett is practicing law in Brockport after a year's engagement in the New York Assembly. Don is married and has a boy about a month old. Barney Connolly, of Rochester, is an accountant with the Central Trust and Bank of Rochester. He has been married for the past four years. Barney would like to know what has become of his roommate, Cal Oullette. Thanks Joe, for the news. I hope you will not wait eight years before writing again.

Now that Joe has done his part by bringing to light some of the '28ers for whom we have been looking, how about a line from some of the rest of you, especially, Joe Bairley, John and Pete Beirne, Frank Beggan, Jim Boehning, Roge Breslin, John Buschmeyer, Ed Carringer, John Carlin, Les Carrig, Russell Collins, Al Davis and Earl Dardes.

Frank Donovan, his wife and three children were back in South Bend for a visit in September. Frank has returned to the Harvard Graduate Business School, and is living at 6 Belton Street, Arlington, Massachusetts. According to Frank, John Fredericks is at Harvard this year taking a combination of law and business, specializing in taxation. John is married and has a boy and girl, ages three and two. Frank mentioned that he sees Mr. and Mrs. Jim Conney quite often in New York. Jack Wingerter is with the March of Time in Chicago.

After his visit in South Bend I had a letter from Bernie Garber from 1629 North Prospect Avenue, Milwaukee. Bernie informed me of the marriage of Dick Parrish, and of Dick Greene of Muncie. Bernie gave me quite a bit of news concerning the newspaper men in the class. Walt Hugh Layne, who was recently married, is publishing two magazines, "Girls Detective Mysteries" and "Boy's Adventure Magazine."

You probably noticed in last month's birth column that John McMahon is now a father. Congratulations, John.

Bernie mentioned that he sees Paul Brust and Joe Griffin in Milwaukee quite often. Thanks for the news, Bernie. I'll write soon.

Tony Ceres left a note this Summer at my home while I was away on vacation. Sorry to have missed you, Tony, as I would like to have some news from you concerning the New Jersey '28 men. Tony promised to stop next year when he expects to be in Indiana again.

1929 Secretary: Joseph P. McNamara, 231 Wisconsin Street, Indianapolis, Ind.

Francis Jones, South Bend attorney, ran afoul of the law immediately upon his return from four-month world tour. He was arrested in a downtown drug store by two policemen, handcuffed and hauled to the court house in the police patrol. There he was charged with running out on a board bill in China. 'Twas, of course, just a bit of a "welcome home" arranged by his pals.

The happiest "John Smith" in the country on October 17 was undoubtedly John Smith, '29, coach of the Duquesne University team which beat Pittsburgh that day. The warmest congratulations of all his classmates go to him on his phenomenal accomplishment.

1930 Secretary: Bernard W. Conroy, 1109 Kenneth St., New Kensington, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin O'Marah were on the campus the Carnegie weekend to attend the game and to visit Mrs. O'Mara's brother, Kevin O'Gorman who is a Freshman this year.

Professor Joe Apodaca addressed the League of Women Voters in South Bend on October 7, discussing the co-operative movement.

Jim Leahy, with his wife, was on the campus on September 22. The Leahys' new address is 620 Harrison Avenue, Oak Park, Illinois.

Bernie Conroy writes:

I am having a hard time trying to dig up any news of my classmates just now. I hope to hear about a lot of the fellows at the Pitt game.

Jim Malloy and his wife are coming to the Pitt game from Charleston, West Virginia.

Gus Bondi called in Pittsburgh last Summer while making a trip to New York.

Dr. Matt Ward has located in the Union Station Bldg., at Brownsville, Pennsylvania. Jim Dodson, Bill Steitz, and I expect to take in the Ohio State game.

I've heard that Jack Cannon was making political speeches in Columbus.

1931 Secretary: John Bergan, 828 E. Colfax Ave., South Bend, Ind.

John Bergan came through with this grand contribution for the October issue, but unfortunately it was temporarily mislaid. Sorry, John!

Since the class reunion there seems to have been a dearth of news come to this correspondent concerning members of the class of '31. Bill Morphy is with the Gulf Oil Company in Mexico City, is married, and the father of a boy born the latter part of June. Maurice Regan is working in the Medical Center in New Orleans and often sees the Times-Picayune scrivener, Austin Boyle, who is doing a very good job as amusement critic. Frank O'Brien announces that he is being kept very busy practicing law in Mansfield, and is located in the Richland Forest Bldg. (Adv). Ken Fishleigh is working in Stevens Point, and tells me that he spent a very delightful vacation in old Nashville. C. F. Hancock is in the Memphis department of the American Tobacco Company, and is already looking forward to the 1941 reunion.

Bill McCarthy has a new job with the engineering department of the Kansas City Power and Light Company. Louie Godoy is still in Havana, and plans to take in a game or two this Fall, business permitting. Frank Flannery is with the Republic Creosoting Company in Seattle. Frank Seward is directing a Little Theatre Group in Hollywood. Among the recent benefactors from the class are: Bud Gies in Stanford, Montana, Charlie Kaplan, Plainfield, New Jersey, Ed Murray, Heinie Roehl and Ed Kosky at Notre Dame this Summer.

Recent fathers: Bob Balfe, twin daughters; Frank McGreal, daughter; Frank Kosky, son; Paul Brant, son; Don MacDonald, son. But after all naming fathers is a ticklish subject for me; I don't know them all.

Bernie Thompson, the big Chicago florist, tells me that his family numbers four, and all are well. Ron Slack is still in Lockport, New York, and is looking forward to seeing Father Motsett, who, by the way, is located in Canton, Illinois, and many of the other boys at the Ohio State game.

News from our Grand Rapids scribe discloses that Joe Boyland is getting along well in the general insurance business. George Jackboice, recently married, is president of the Monarch Road Machinery Company; Harry Merdzinski is practicing law, and Joe Deeb is with the HOLC. At the Lakeside Cafe, 12th and St. Clair Streets, Cleveland, can be found one of the largest '31 groups at one time in the country. Led by genial Al Grisanti, proprietor, almost anyone can be located, including Larry Kral, office equipment tycoon; Dr. Cannon, six months to go on his internship; Joe Gavin, formidable athletic director of Cleveland's greatest high school; Slip Van Rooy, Sarge Raleigh, Tom Yarr, Jack Carberry and even an occasional visitor is John (Finance) Dorschel from far-away Rochester. It's a great place to go if you are in Cleveland.

J. Carlton Sullivan is still doing the country in the interest of education, but it's only textbooks. Carl Cronin has been retained as rugby coach at Calgary with a substantial increase in pay. He may be reached at the Club Cafe, Calgary, Alberta, and would like to hear from the old gang. Maurice Goodeve also came down on a chinook from the diadem of Canada for the reunion. Dan Williams completes his law course at Cornell this semester and then returns to Oswego or Washington.

Jim Doyle and Benny Oakes certainly deserve a lot of credit for the work on the Reunion. They surely got the Chicago delegation down 100%. Jim is in the insurance business, and has promised to keep the writer posted on the doings of the Chicago gang. Ben is still with a roofing company and sees Pullman Eddie Ryan and International Harvester Maloney quite often. Barristers Ponie, Bohling, O'Malley, McGreal, Pendergast, Rich, Knox and the other boys are still getting their fees.

Dave Rusk is with the Parks Department, and Dan Egan and Leo Gartland are in the engineering department of Mayor Kelly's great town. By the way, Egan's promised letter never arrived.

Jack Saunders is still doing his best to keep the city of Newark laundry-minded and has not fallen from the bachelorhood. Jim Kearney is in the editing department of Callahan's Law Book Company, and has written many important digests on many of the new laws. This month happens to be Tom Monahan's busy season as the broom corn in Arcola has his time well taken up. Bill Chawgo is with the Internal Revenue Department, Chicago, and still commutes daily to Aurora. Bob Baer is preparing construction statistics, and Bill Redmond is in the investment business in Chicago, while Frank Chambers is with the First National Bank.

Jack Dempsey is still looking for his hat, and is with his father in the law business in Oshkosh. John McIntyre is head of the office at the Sibley Machine Company in South Bend. He is a benedict also. Larry Mullins and family were in South Bend the latter part of August, and promised that his St. Benedict's Ravens will be one of the best small college football teams in the Middle West. His team meets St. Mary's College coached by Ed Krause in Chicago on November 14, at the 139th Field Artillery Armory in an indoor night game.

Now that this column is launched once again more news for next month would be greatly appreciated. Doesn't any member of this class ever inherit any money, marry any movie stars or go over Niagara Falls in a barrel? If you don't, drop a line about yourself anyway.

Jim Doyle writes interestingly as follows from Chicago:

Kelly Powers made a trip to the Coast this Spring and met a few of our class. Frank Leddy is married and has two children to keep him busy when not running his father's clothing store. Ed Massa, ex-cheerleader, is married and in the insurance business at Hayward, California. Ed Sheeran, I understand, is doing quite well at the Local Loan in Long Beach, California. Mike Teders is in Chicago again selling for the Dictograph Company. His pal, Larry Enright, has been transferred to Milwaukee, where he keeps Bert Maloney company. Fred Swint, ex '31, spent a week-end in Chicago this Summer. Papa Paul Grant and his wife were here during the Easter holidays. Tom Monahan dropped in the office while spending a little time in town.

We certainly enjoyed seeing the Rev. Bourke Motsett and Ralph Dalton this Summer. While in Watertown, Wisconsin, I had a pleasant visit with Rev. Patrick J. Hagerty, C.S.C., who is looking well. He invites any of the boys passing through Watertown to visit him. Spent an evening at the home of F. X. Murphy, Jr., in Manitowoc. He is now a salesman for the Eastman Manufacturing Company, and has two little Irish kids by the names of Pat and Mike.

I stopped in at Stan Obelenus' tavern on the south side recently. Dr. R. Clark Benkendorf is now on the staff of the Oak Forest Infirmary in Chicago.

I can't think of anything more to relate for the column. Perhaps after our next dinner one of the boys here should have some new tales to spread. The dinner we had this Summer was so successful and enjoyed so much by those present that we decided to get together the '31 men and repeat the affair.

I attended the Carnegie game but due to the necessity of departure immediately after the game I didn't have much chance to look around or visit the Alumni office.

A fine letter from Dick Donoghue accompanied his check for dues. He wants credit given to Lew Thornton for Lew's "missionary spirit" in promoting the dues-paying feeling. Here's the credit, Lew! (What's your secret of success?)

Dick is still with the American Steel & Wire Company as a salesman, and finding lots of use for his mechanical engineering training. He resides at 310 Riverside Drive, New York City.

Registrar Riordan reports that Alfred E. Gall is now attending the City College of New York. No further details at the moment.

Father Philip H. Schaerf, C.S.C.,

'31, has succeeded Father Vincent Mooney, C.S.C., '16, as director of the Catholic Youth Organization activities in St. Joseph County. Father Mooney has assumed similar duties in Fort Wayne. Father Schaerf was ordained a year ago.

Albert W. Roche, '31, was recently appointed examiner in the New York State Division of Probation, with headquarters at Albany. With Leonard F. Horan, '31, in the same office, and Francis J. D'Muhala, '31, a chief probation officer in nearby Connecticut, it would seem as if our 1931 social work graduates have the "crime situation" in that area pretty well in hand.

Joseph W. Harney writes to give his present address: Apartment 31, 15406 Broadway, Harvey, Illinois. He is teaching general science and chemistry in the Thornton Fractional High School and Junior College in Harvey.

1932 Secretary: Herbert Giorgio, 9005 188th St., Hollis, L.I., New York.

Father Vince Brennan has received his first assignment in the Pittsburgh diocese. He is assistant in St. Peter's parish in Tarentum, 22 miles from Pittsburgh, and has already become associated with the local club of which Bill Magarrall is secretary.

A letter from Bob Streb brings the following news:

Paul Belden, Jr., seeing the mid-dlewest as representative of Belden Brick Company. Richard Conley selling general merchandise for M. Conley Company. Jack Walsh of Massillon, Ohio, leaving for Florida soon, with a new position. Myself—Stomping the County of Stark to hold a deputy county treasurer's job for four more years. Saw Dan Cannon several times in Canton on business out of Cleveland. Tom Conley made quite a hit at a Massillon High football game three weeks ago.

Herb Giorgio with a fine spirit is already booming the Five Year Reunion next June. He writes:

Now that Autumn is upon us we are all looking forward to the football season with a bit of anxiety, cognizant of the fact that graduation depleted the ranks considerably. I daresay most of us would like to be sitting in a classroom in the good old Main Building aware of the fact that as soon as the bell rings we could see the boys and get together for a game of touch football, a walk around the lakes, a bull session, indoor baseball, or what have you. It is almost five years since many of us have been back, and this June is the occasion when we can live over again four wonderful years in a few glorious days.

Go now to the nearest railroad station, ascertain the fare to South Bend (or ask your Dad—he no doubt remembers it) and start saving. The more that turn out in June the better bull sessions we'll have. Jack Cooper and Tom Magee have offered to assist me in contacting the boys, and I am taking this opportunity to accept their kind offer. I'd also like to have the following men, and all others who care to, communicate with me and act as contact men.

Gilbert Augustine, George Baden, Sal Bontempo, Ed Britz, John F. Burns, Al Capter, Jim Carmody, Dan Carney, Roy Catizone, Vince Cavanaugh, John Cole, Jim Collins, John Colville,

Virg Phillips, Ollie Powers, Charlie Quigley, Pat Quirk, Jim Reidy, Jerry Reidy, Frank Reilly, Ray Roach, George Ryan, Bill Ryan, Ben Sahatz, Leo Schiavone, George Seebinger.

Joe Sinbule, Bill Slader, Bob Streb, Abe Terry, Hank Tholen, Pete Trolio, Vance Uhlmyer, Bill Waltz, Al Waters, Bob Waterson, Herb Whelen.

Willie Weir, Vince Whelan, Arnold Wiener, Will Willigan, Joe Willis, Hack Wilson, Tom Yarr, Jose Zaborte.

Let's get the class of '32 out of the depression with a swell reunion in June. I wish you would all drop me a postcard, and I'll send you the names and addresses of a few fellows in your respective bailiwicks.

I'd also like to hear from the stalwarts of the class of '32.5.

See you at the Penn Grill the night before the Army game for a "Little Reunion."

1933 Secretary: Donald Wise, 110 Pleasant St., Joliet, Ill.

Tom O'Meara is reported running for district attorney in native West Bend, Wisconsin. He got through the primaries and, as this is written, is looking forward to a successful November outcome.

Russell O'Shea, '35, writes from Cairo, Illinois:

I was glad to read again of Jack Lynn and his present whereabouts in the Clarence Saunders organization in Memphis. My best regards to Mrs. Lynn.

The other day I had word from a friend of mine who recently returned from a brief visit in Mississippi, telling me of the present whereabouts of Pat Parnell Burns, of Natchez, Miss. Pat is working in a wholesale grocery house in his home town. He's going to write to me sometime.

Glad to read, too, of the news from Jack Finneran and other pals of the class of 1933, fellow Alumni Hallers of 1932. Best regards to Maury Mulville and George Rohrs.

Appreciating as I can after the serious illness which caused my backdoor graduation from N. D. in 1933 any sickness or ailment which keeps one from being up and about, I certainly feel for old Charley Preston way out there in Alaska. Hope you're all O.K. by now, Charley.

I'm wondering about Jim Guilfoil, Gene Malley, Jack Murray, Billy Burke, Ed Lottes, Johnny Ross, '32, and some others such as Harold Pohlmeier and Julius Kiraly. I guess that they've all set about carving their niches by this time.

I had a very nice visit of short duration with Bill Ford, now of the Congregation of Holy Cross, in St. Louis on Labor Day. Bill was on his way from his home in Douglas, Arizona, where he had been on his two week's vacation. He is now down at the Catholic U. at Washington, D. C. Lloyd Teske is there with him.

I heard that Lionel Smith was associated with the Halsey, Stuart Company in New York City.

As for my own work, well, I must say that the insurance game is plenty tough in the initial stages. Although I have been in it long enough now to get a foothold in the field in my own territory, representing the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company, it will be hard sledding for quite some time yet.

1934 Secretary: James Moscow, 2320 N. Lawndale Ave., Chicago, Ill.

John Ruppel has moved from Shaker Heights, Cleveland suburb, to Chicago, and is residing there in the Beachview Hotel, 7645 North Sheridan Road.

Ralph Else came West for the Carnegie game.

Albert Saleh of Tyler, Texas, was married to Miss Marie Campbell of Peoria, Illinois on June 8. They are living in Peoria where Al is working for Hiram Walker Distilleries. Mr. and Mrs. Saleh were on the campus for the Carnegie game.

Ed Weinheimer is running a gas station in his home town of Ironton, Ohio.

1935 Secretary: F. C. Hochreiter, Box 81, Notre Dame, Indiana.

Anthony Kucharich has been added to the staff of St. Hedwige's high school in South Bend as a teacher of English and social sciences.

A press notice from Babson Institute, Babson Park, Massachusetts, says that Ray Bambenack is enrolled there for a one-year intensive course in business administration.

Fred Carideo is with the Bendix Corporation in South Bend, and recently made a business trip to Washington, D. C.

Al Torribio is doing graduate work at the University of Southern California, and is West Coast correspondent for Jim Costin, South Bend News-Times sports editor, as well. Al confirms the reports of a really strong Southern Cal team.

John Britton is in law school at Harvard, and is residing at 4 Hurlburt Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Here is the monthly volume from that sizzling sociologist of South Bend and Notre Dame:

The '35ers turned out en masse for the first three games played, the Carnegie Tech and Wisconsin battles drawing the largest crowds from our ranks. We realize that our eyes did not reach all of you here, but, among those that we did see on the weekend of October 3 were: Tom Flynn, Bill Fromm, Joe Argus, Bus Breen, Karl Fulnecky, Hal Goodin, Tony Andreoni, Gene O'Brien, Mart Hendele, Cy Wiggins, George Demetrio, Tom La Londe, John Annas and Link Wurzer.

Tom La Londe drew the only spot on the Washington program, but for the Wisconsin "outing," which incidentally was Cotillion week-end, the gang turned out again. John Kavanagh, John Annas, Ray Brett, Herb Nadeau, Tom Thompson, Gene O'Brien, Jim O'Mera, John Heywood, and Jack Shodron. Of course the "King" was there too.

We think that the "top-notch" position (this month) goes to our Fran Dunn, a law student on the campus. Amid the quiet of Founder's Day, early in the morning, Fran took to himself a charming wife in the Log Chapel. The "love-birds" (we promised it to you, Fran) are living at the moment in the Morningside. Our very best to you, Fran, for much success at the law and the married life.

While we are on the "vital statistics" of the class, it would be well to give you the "dope" on another of our boys who took the leap in August — the 8th. — Frank T. Maguire. He married a South Bend girl, and is living in South William Street. Frank has been working at Bendix for several years and is, at the moment, head of the Heat Treating department.

One morning late in September we ran into John Ryan (Framingham, Massachusetts) in the "little yellow
P.O." John had just come west from native New England to hunt down a job. Just before the Wisconsin game we again met John in South Bend.
His luck had been following him, for he informed us that he is working in the Indiana Employment Service in the city. He is tied up with the Department of Labor and has a civil service job.

While on the Ryan Brothers, we pass along to you the info on frere William. Francis William Ryan has been employed for some time with the Associates Investment Company as an accountant, also in South Bend.

A short while back Johnny Jordan was seen in the caf with a healthy looking protege from Mount Carmel in Chicago. John is athletic director at the Chicago high school and is also teaching several courses, among them
U. S. History.

Amid the heavy, blue smoke of the caf, one evening late in September, our eyes met those of Moe De Lia.
Our glance led to conversation, and we learned that Moe was on his way back to Loyola Med School to join Fred Folmar in the second year of the healthy pastime of carving cadavres.

All of which brings to mind three more of our number who are continuing their medicine this year. Andy Dineen, Jim Coll, and Joe Norton have returned to Jefferson Medical School, according to reports on our desk.

Tom Thompson continues his legal studies at Michigan as does John Kavanagh. (This is a correction of our "info" last month on John, in which we said we thought he was doing his legal absorbing elsewhere.)

In the caf over the Wisconsin week-end, we had a moment with Ray Brett. Ray is in the advertising school at Ann Arbor. Incidentally, we think Ray has changed his diet.
It was either that or heavy clothes, but he certainly is outgrowing his
'35 stature — horizontally.

Having breakfast with Ben Oakes
one morning, we gleaned the news on brother Ray who is with Sears in Canton, Ohio. Ray Oakes is now the advertising manager for the Canton store. Ray is expected for the Ohio State game.

The carrier pigeons bring messages about those of our flock in "far-off lands." We'll start with the closer and move outward. Frank Kopple- berger is with the Auto-Lite Company in Bay City, and doing well, we hear.

Carl Esser is still with the Pictorial Paper Box Company in Aurora, Illinois, but, here is news — he has been promoted. To what, we have not learned. But, patience our friends, we shall soon discover.

Al Rubly is in the office of the W.P.A. in Aurora at the moment.
We query as to whether this is the accurate dope or whether Al is still technician for the same outfit in Rockford, as we reported for you last December. (How about a verification, Al?)

To return to "good old New York" for a brief, yes, we said brief, second. Our agents tell us that Jim Shields is Blackstoning it at Fordham Night School this Fall. Jim is, however, retaining his position with the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters in the city.
(You have a busy day, Jim. Hope you and Frank Weldon are staying away from Jim Ross after "missed radio programs" across the street.)

We have two apologies to make in this trip to the press. The first goes to Mitch Saleh. Not long after our last bit of "Winchelling" came on the streets, a long epistle lay in our
P. O. box from Houston, Texas. It seems that we had missed friend
Mitchell in our Summer clearing process. His letter of early Spring had gone unanswered. He wrote to inform us of our bad secretarial work, but, he also volunteered news that goes far toward making this number a healthy one.

Mitch is now working and residing in Houston where he is with the Houston Lighting and Power Company, as design engineer. Mitch moved to the Texas city early in May. (We had that dope from your brother Albert, Mitch, when he and his wife were here for the Carnegie game). Mitch dressed himself up in "Best Man" clothes for his brother's wedding last June 8. Al is of the class of '34.

From Mitch we discover that there are several of our crew doing their paddling in the southland. Tom Standish, with whom Mitch is living, is still working for the Houston organization now employing the "Tyler boy."

Julian Quinn is working for the Gulf Production Company in Rosenberg, Texas about 30 miles south of Houston. The three "tall" Texans have been Centennialing during the Summer, over week-ends.

The South called, and Ray Keat- ing answered. We had you in Wisconsin last time, Ray. Nothing like this modern age of mobility. Our '35 senior track manager is keeping the books straight for the Saint Germain Company, geologists in Houston.

Tom Hughes from Beaumont, Texas, is in Houston these days electioneering for the Republican Party. Tsh, tsh, Tom.

Vic Arcadi called the Texas gang one morning as he was passing time between trains. Vic is back at Johns Hopkins Med this term. We wonder if Roy Scholz is with him. (How about it, Roy?)

And now, to our second apology. It goes to Gene O'Brien. Gene sez we did not mention him in "our chatter." As we check our files against last year's ALUMNUS, we discover that Gene was recorded as being "with the O'Brien Varnish Company in South Bend" in the January number, page 116. Gene, at the moment, is doing himself well selling paint and varnish in the "home company."

Before the Wisconsin game, we ran into Jim O'Mera in front of Walsh Hall. Jim is undoubtedly eating the proper vitamins for he is surpassing our friend Ray Brett in rotundity. We told you last year that Jim was amusing the dairy maids of Wisconsin. At the moment we stand corrected. As we read his business card, we find that he represents W. M. Sprinkman Corporation of Milwaukee, who make "equipment and supplies for Milk Products Industries."

We told you in our last that our trunks were as yet unpacked and that we had our correspondence under lock and key. Here is a passage from a letter dated Chicago, Ill., June 16, 1936, and sent to our Columbia address. "I thought you might like to know the activities of one of the M.E. group who I ran into the other day. He is Paul A. Dougher, president of the N.D. branch of the A.S.M.E. for '35. He is serving the Indiana Harbor, Indiana, Works of the American Steel Foundries in an engineering capacity dealing with construction, repair and maintenance of a steel foundry." The letter goes on to say that Paul delivered a paper on the subject of "Cleaning Castings," ("which occasioned favorable comment in the various trade journals") at the American Foundryman's Association Convention in Detroit on May 4.

The curious thing about the above letter is that it is signed "Hank." There is no address in Chicago and no hint as to whom the mysterious "Hank" might be. We appreciate your interest in our work, but, how about another letter, "Hank," just to let us in on your identity?

We understand that our friend Vince Gorman has been sojourning with his mother and sisters in Bermuda and has just recently returned to his native Kingston. (How about a letter, Vince?)

Jack Edwards is with the Tarrytown Recreation Commission, Tarrytown, New York. His home is at 46 Pine Street, Yonkers.

We are looking forward with interest to the visit on the Ohio State weekend of many of the gang. Jack Shodron writes that he will be in town, and, John Clark and Art Korzeneski are planning to bunk with Tom and the "scribe." We have not as yet decided where the Chicago barristers are going to sleep, but, we were thinking the garage would be comfortable these cold nights.

Last month we told you that we were living "temporarily" with Tom Proctor off-campus. The prexie showed himself to be such a genial host that we decided to "move in permanently." We are "holding court" at 1014 North Eddy Street. No office hours are posted but nights will usually find us in. Well, once in awhile.

Tom, incidentally, has been telling the Elkhart W.P.A. workers why they should vote the Democratic ticket. We might recommend that he is quite a scientific speech writer. We should know.

We are off to a good start for the '36-'37 season. How about keeping up the old pepper? We've got competition now with Tom Murphy following us with his '36 column. Let's give Tom a run for his money and keep the column as big as it was last year. We can have the space if we have the news. We're counting on you.

See you at the Army game—student trip—November 14.

BYRON KANALEY SPEAKS

Dame who will convey the message of the Holy Father, Pope Pius XI.

"The cross for the worship of God, the flag for intelligent patriotism, and the Statue of Our Lady for true manliness—these are the three symbols of the ideal upon which Notre Dame was founded and upon which it has grown,"—these are words recently uttered by the distinguished educator I am now to present to you. He has asked to be allowed not to speak as he has travelled a long way from the East to be with us tonight; he has been fulfilling many speaking engagements. His voice has been heard by you all on the radio on our subject of tonight, but I want to give you the great pleasure of presenting the 12th president of Notre Dame University, who is known as well to the people of America as he is to us. I spoke a moment ago of the humility of Notre Dame. Well, I believe he was not more humble as Prefect of Religion, which he was for many years, than he is today as President, the Rev. John F. O'Hara.

The concluding speaker on our program is well known to Chicagans of all creeds and beliefs, and particularly to our Catholic people. It is unnecessary to introduce him. I present him to his friends, admirers of his intellectual depth and clarity of thought, his eloquence and leadership,—the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Gerald A. Kealy, former Rector of St. Mary's Seminary at Mundelein, and now pastor of St. Gertrude's Church—Monsignor Kealy.
