handling punts like a big league outfielder.

Notre Dame, 14; Washington U., 6

All they said about the Iron Men of Washington U. is true. They played sixty minutes without substitution while holding Illinois to a 13 to 7 victory. They used but four necessary substitutes against Notre Dame, while Coach Elmer Layden was employing 52 men. The margin was snug enough, but never was there much doubt that Notre Dame would win. The Irish had sluffed off badly from their performance of the preceding week, but they seemed to feel that they could score when points were needed. At any rate they marched here and there with apparent indifference and ease. Washington let them with equally great indifference—until danger threatened. Then the Bears dug in and held, time and again. The Bears played for the breaks, kicking on third down, letting Notre Dame hammer away with the ball, conserving their strength as much as possible. It wasn't until Notre Dame was leading, 14 to 0, that they made a touchdown drive, but then they really went to work on a 72-yard march.

After three futile goalward motions, Notre Dame finally scored in the second quarter. Danbom ended a 30-yard march with a short plunge. The next touchdown resulted from a persistent 47-yard drive. Wilke threw passes of 15 and 12 yards to Wojciovski and O'Neill, respectively, the second for a touchdown. Puplis added both placements for extra point.

Washington promptly took the ball from its 28-yard line, where it had received the kick-off, and mixing passes with runs by Joe Bukant and Bob Hudgens, they arrived at the three-yard line as the result of interference on a pass, Bukant scoring. Londy's try for the placement missed.

Notre Dame, 27; Wisconsin, 0

The Washington U. game left a big question mark. The Irish had not met the Bears previously, and it was hard to gauge their improvement or lack of it. The general impression was that Notre Dame looked pretty ragged, and gloom prevailed all week.

Then Harry Stuhldreher brought his courageous Wisconsin team to town, and Notre Dame came back to life to run up a 21 to 0 score in three quarters, and to leave the rest of the scoring to the third team. Wisconsin saw more Notre Dame players than any opponent in the past has ever seen in action. Layden used every able-bodied man who was in uniform, a total of 71, which record book reports to the contrary, is a record.

But despite this wholesale use of subs, it was a tight ball game most of the route. Notre Dame scored with apparent ease in the first quarter on an 80-yard march, during which Wilke made runs of 18, 20 and 16 yards and threw a 16-yard pass to Puplis. Wilke's 16-yard run scored, and Puplis missed the placement.

The Badgers braced at this point and played the second team on even terms the entire second quarter. Along midway in the third period, with the number one varsity again operating, the boys in the center of the line fomented a successful plot to get Center Fred Munde down the alley to block Clarence Tommerson's punt. All went well, and the ball went out of bounds on the Badger five yard line. Danbom made two yards, and Wojciovski, after giving the Badgers fits by faking a reverse to the potent Danbom, sneaked through right guard to score, Puplis negotiating the extra point.

The third Irish touchdown bloomed shortly later, Danbom plunging over to conclude a march, highlight of which was a 30-yard pass, Wilke to O'Neill. Wisconsin, whose chief fault was over-anxiety, was offside twice inside the 11-yard line. In all the Badgers were offside 11 times, and the Irish refused two of the penalties. Puplis again added the placement, his sixth in seven attempts.

With the second team in operation, Chuck O'Rielly took a Badger punt on his 41-yard line, late in the third chukker. Jake Kovalcik, promising Sophomore halfback, made 11-yards but both sides had violated the rules and the play was run over. This made Jake mad, and he threw a 54-yard pass to Len Skoglund who was dropped on the Badger 5-yard line. The ball travelled nearly 60 yards in the air, figuring from the point where Kovalcik actually stood. The second stringers had time for two more plays, and they left the balloon on the three-yard stripe for the third team, which entered the game to start the fourth quarter. Chuck Borowski, South Bend left halfback, promptly plunged over for the touchdown, and the inimitable Bill Ben (Butch) Bruno, quarterback, dropkicked the extra point.

COURSE FOR BANKERS

A 32-week course of training in the fundamentals of banking began on October 19 in the Commerce Building on the campus, attracting approximately one hundred bank employes from thirteen cities and towns of northern Indiana and southern Michigan.

The course is being offered by the South Bend chapter, American Institute of Banking, with the cooperation of the University. Two Notre Dame faculty members, Professor L. Thomas Flatley and Professor A. E. Davis, serve as instructors.

Hughes Announces Anti-Communist Plans

Plan Is Based Upon Co-operation of 85 Notre Dame Clubs; Each Club President Asked to Appoint Special Committee to Operate With Definite Assistance From University and Association

BY ARTHUR J. HUGHES, President of the Alumni Association

It is eminently fitting that men educated and trained in the religious and patriotic environment of Notre Dame should be qualified to assume an important part in the leadership which is necessary to perpetuate the orderly processes of government and preserve the tenets and ideals of true religion. Government and religion, as we know them, are right now very definitely the objects of destructive encroachments by those subservient forces whose ugly existence has already become a threat to every other prominent nation in the World.

We, of Notre Dame, will also welcome the opportunity of sharing such leadership with other groups similarly inspired with high patriotic and religious ideals. There is no tendency nor desire on our part to attempt to monopolize any feature of a coordinated national movement which must be immediately initiated and aggressively projected, if we are not to be eventually plunged into a Communistic cauldron of revolution and despair.

Must Aid Other Agencies

This revolution of ours, augmented as we hope it will be, must hold itself ready to aid and cooperate with the President of our country, with our lawmakers, our judiciary, and with our local governing officials in sustaining them in the strength which, thank God, they have all so nobly evidenced in beating off the coercive advances of the Communistic regime.

The greatest weapon of Communism is found in its ability to create in the minds of those whom it would destroy, grave doubts as to the fact of its existence or the extent of its infiltration. If men who normally would be opponents can be influenced to belittle the group that it has already been able to establish on certain of our peoples and certain of our institutions here in America, it has made a tremendous advance in accomplishing its first big objective.

The approach of Communism is a highly psychological one. It is gracious; it is kindly and it is attractive;—because it is all of these, it is therefore beguiling. It is not until all of its attractiveness has afforded it a perfect cover under which to entrench its malignant forces that the grasp of its destructive tentacles is felt about the throats of its foolishly sophisticated victims. Notre Dame men will not be so dissuaded but will actively and intelligently share the burden of this movement with their fellow citizens.

In setting forth our plan I am unusually privileged to be able to announce first of all, and most important of all, that we are to have the stant counsel and advice. In fact, he has already sounded the opening challenge in this movement of ours in the brilliant sermon which he delivered in St. Paul's Church, New York City, on November 15, 1936. Because of Father O'Hara, therefore, our activities are already begun.

Because this is a Notre Dame movement, the Secretary's office, under the supervision and control of Mr. James E. Armstrong, will be the central clearing point for all activities.

Two Major Duties

The 85 different Notre Dame clubs will be the media through which informative data will be released to the people of the country at large.

The president of each Notre Dame Club is earnestly requested to immediately appoint a suitable committee, the members of which shall in each instance have two major duties. First, to thoroughly inform themselves as to the general principles of Communism. This study and investigation can be made in connection with data which will be furnished each club by the University through the Alumni Secretary's office. The members should also inform themselves as to the inroads that are being made by Communism in their particular communities and the effects which such inroads are evidencing. Secondly, the members of each such committee should qualify themselves to carry on a consistent plan of public speaking by appearing before the various clubs and societies of their respective cities or communities and presenting clearly and concisely the fundamentals which go to form the objective of our drive against Communism.

It is advisable that the club presidents in selecting the membership of such committee include thereon alumni having special entree to such different forums of public thought. There may be a Notre Dame man for instance, who is prominent in the Rotary Club or in the Kiwanis Club or in the local Chamber of Commerce or in the Knights of Columbus, who, because of his close connection, will find it easier to himself appear or to arrange to have other Notre Dame men make such appearances.

leadership and sponsorship as well, of Father John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., the beloved President of our University. The whole substance of our plan has been made possible because of his ideals and inspiration and his con-

It is appreciated that the men who will be the members of this committee have their time more than taken up in the pursuit of their own business and social affairs. In order, therefore, to aid us to the fullest extent, Father O'Hara has arranged for the co-operation of members of the faculty at Notre Dame in the preparation of treatises on the subject of Communism, and these will be available to the committee members for use as manuscripts of speeches and talks of various kinds. This informative data will be grouped in proper sequence and will be released in installments to the presidents of each of the clubs each month for distribution to committee members.

Radio Programs Arranged

This method has an important advantage in that we will all be working along certain standardized lines in adhering to proper principles of scholastic philosophy.

During the course of the year Father O'Hara and other priests and members of the faculty will make public appearances in behalf of this movement in many of the larger cities of the country.

Father O'Hara has already arranged a series of radio programs on Communism which will be started immediately and broadcast from New York City. Supplementing this, facilities have been offered for a series of similar programs by one of the stations in Chicago and these broadcasts will follow those in New York. The broadcasting of additional programs from radio stations in the other principal cities of the country under Notre Dame auspices and on the subject of Communism will all contribute to the great national movement of Notre Dame in behalf of the burning question of the hour.

Certain metropolitan newspapers have offered to open their pages to us for articles and treatises on Communism. These offers will be accepted, and the articles will be written by the members of our faculty.

As a culmination to this announcement, Father O'Hara has approved an arrangement wherein the formal initiation of our movement against Communism will be made, we hope, by all of the 85 clubs holding meetings on the evening of Monday, January 25, 1937. These meetings will not be in the nature of banquets or dinners, but will be held rather as forums with prominent speakers as guests, all dealing with various features of our movement.

On this date the first monthly releases of the informative data prepared by the faculty will be in the hands of the club presidents and will be distributed to the committee members, and speaking engagements which, it is hoped, will have already been made, will then begin to materialize and the real effect of the opening endeavors of our campaign distinctly evidenced.

First Such N.D. Movement

If this movement of ours is to attain its ends, it must afford an opportunity as well as a reason for every Notre Dame man at one time or another to appear before his fellow citizens in his local community with the presentation of a subject so patriotic and so moralistic in its appeal that the very name of Notre Dame itself must continue to be synonymous with the best in educational standing, in patriotic love of country, and in continued preservation of every true religious principle.

Action taken already by way of laying the ground work for this movement of ours has resulted in veritable reams of publicity on behalf of the University originating in every city, town and hamlet in the United States and abroad. This publicity was essentially characteristic in two things, namely, that it definitely emphasized Notre Dame's fine religious standing and background, and secondly—the quality of its leadership from an educational standpoint. This is what Father O'Hara most desires. It is what he has been earnestly and successfully striving for from the very moment of his induction as President of the University.

This is the first time in the history of the University of Notre Dame that it has engaged itself in the propagation of such a great civil movement. It is the first time, therefore, that we Notre Dame men have had an opportunity of joining with our University in making the accomplishments of one great movement a real success by appearing before our fellow men in cities and communities of our homeland and urging greater patriotism and greater adherence to religious ideals.

If the presidents of the 85 Notre Dame clubs enter into this movement with the sincere, loyal enthusiasm that every one connected with it is certain they will, and if the members of the committees appointed by the club presidents proceed immediately to arrange for public appearances for either themselves or other members of their clubs in the various forums of their respective localities, and if every Notre Dame man volunteers to propagate the fundamental principles of true Americanism and love, loyalty and allegiance to the Divine

Gerald J. Hoar, B.S. '21, of Chicago, was on December 1 named manager of the University laundry and cleaning plant, succeeding Frederick J. Amison who died suddenly on October 21.

National Association; within this period he spent some time in research as a participant in the Laundry Owners Fellowship in the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research. Later, he was successively, superintendent of the American Institute Laundry, Joliet, Illinois; the Calumet Laundry and the Lake City Laundry, both of Chicago. He came to Notre Dame from the last named of these.

At Notre Dame, Gerry was a monogram track man for three years, specializing in the quarter-mile, high jump and hurdles. He was president of his class for two years and secretary to the late Knute K. Rockne for 2½ years.

Gerry is already at Notre Dame. His wife and two children will move to South Bend soon after January 1.

Providence, this movement will electrify the whole nation and will emblazon the name of our great University on the very heights of the esteem and admiration of our fellow citizens.

Two Programs of Life

By Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C.

A Sermon Delivered by the President of the University in the Church of St. Paul the Apostle, New York City, on Sunday, November 15

(N.B. Following Father O'Hara's sermon, which is a keynote address in the approach of the Notre Dame alumni to the problem presented by the growth of Communism, the Editors are happy to present, for those alumni interested in further study of this vital field, a bibliography of fundamental and current reading in both sides of the problem as outlined by Father O'Hara. The bibliography was compiled by Daniel O'Grady, Ph.D., professor of philosophy of the University.)

This morning, my dear friends, I want to lay before you two programs of life. Neither program is my own. The one is preached constantly here in St. Paul's Church, and down in St. Patrick's Cathedral, and wherever Catholics foregather to worship God and seek direction for their lives. The other program is preached constantly a block away from here, in Columbus Circle, down in Union Square, and wherever Communists and Atheists gather to denounce God and seek direction for their Godless lives.

Neither statement can be exhaustive. Neither statement can be supported in this brief period by an apologetic treatise. My hope is to arouse interest, to encourage study, and to ask you to choose the program your conscience dictates and follow it with all your heart and soul.

No Middle Ground

You will have to make that decision. I have no army to force you to choose, but I am willing to stand as a minor prophet to warn you that you must choose. And I offer only two programs. There is no middle ground. The fact that there has been a middle ground for 400 years means nothing today. People are dull of wit and are slow to see the bad logic of a middle ground that is full of inconsistencies. What has happened these 400 years is all water over the dam. Nineteen hundred years ago, Christ said: "He that is not with Me is against Me: he that gathereth not with Me scattereth." A day has now come, in God's own time, when that saying is put to the test.

Either there is a God or there isn't. Either man has an immortal soul or he has not. If there is no God and man has no soul, if there is no life after death, and all our accountability is administered by the police power, who is there to say that after a reign of plutocracy there should not be a reign of the kind of democracy they call Communism? Or, if there is no God, and man has no soul, who can say that perhaps anarchy, with the self-destruction of the human race, is not an inevitable evolution of this mistake we call man?

Relentless Forces at Work

Relentless forces are at work in the world driving a wedge between two extremes of philosophy, and destroying the middle ground. Whether they will it or not, people are being forced either to the right or to the left. In the middle ground, between active, practical Christianity on the right, and radical materialism on the left, there have stood two inconsistent classes. That middle ground has been occupied by those who call themselves Christians, but refuse to follow the moral teachings of Christ; and there has been another group of men who have rejected Christ's claim to divinity, and yet have followed at least in some degree, a Christian code of morals. The inconsistencies of both groups are now becoming apparent, and the inhabitants of the middle ground find reason forcing them to accept logical conclusions from the premises they have laid down for themselves.

I cannot take time to develop this thought. Remember it; think of it; see to it that in your own life at least there is consistency between belief and practice. Allow me to proceed now to a brief presentation of these two programs, one or other of which you will be forced to accept.

The first program is laid down in revelation, and is taught by the Catholic Church. In substance it may be summarized as follows:

Man is a being created by God to His own image and likeness. His likeness to God is chiefly in the soul, which is intelligent and free, and is destined in course of time to be separated from the body for a while and live on in an eternity of bliss or woe, according to the free use it has made of its opportunities on earth to know God and to love and serve Him.

This soul is, then, the seat of responsibilities. It came from God and is destined to go back to God at the end of a period of probation, during which time it has set before it for free choice, good and evil.

Man has, by his very nature, inherent in his soul certain rights. First of all, given an immortal soul, he has the right to save his soul. Then, given life, he has a right to live, and a right to the means of livelihood. He has a right to marry and have children of his own. He has a right, a strict right, and a duty as well, to rear these children so that they can save their souls and make a living. He has, therefore, a right to a job, and a right to such pay as will enable him to care properly for himself and his family.

Since men do not normally live as hermits, but in communion with their kind, the nature of man demands an organized society, which will protect his rights against the encroachments of others, and will restrain him if he becomes a menace to his fellow men. That higher authority, in whosoever it may be vested, comes from God, and those who wield it are answerable to God.

State Protects Natural Rights

The state does not create natural rights; it protects them. It is the duty of the state to defend the rights of those living under it—the right to worship God, the right to life, the right to one's family, the right to one's just possessions, the right to one's reputation. While men may, by joint action, by majority vote, even by force of arms under certain given circumstances, choose the particular form of government under which they may wish to live, the authority wielded by the state comes from God. And yet the state exists for man, and not man for the state. The state must use its divinely-given authority justly, or it becomes a tyranny. It must protect the common good; it must oversee justice between man and man.

Divine revelation, which is the basis of the supernatural as taught by the Catholic Church, gives no hope of complete happiness or complete justice in this world. It demands justice, but it indicates that selfishness, greed, and envy will ever interfere with its fulfillment. Therefore it blesses those who suffer persecution for justice sake, it blesses the poor, the meek, the merciful, the peace-makers, the clean of heart; and it promises heaven for a cup of cold water given in Christ's name. The supernatural concept of life, in fine, regards our earthly existence as but a short period of trial, in which we must "love justice and hate iniquity," and promises us that the troubles of this life are as nothing compared with the reward God has prepared for those who love Him. But while it prepares us for injustices, it acquits neither the state nor the unjust oppressor of the penalties of injustice. These penalties may be temporal or they may be eternal—and only in eternity will the full balance of justice be struck.

In stating the philosophy of the communist regarding life, I shall find it necessary at times to go beyond the practical admissions of communists, but no statement will be made that cannot be traced logically to principles underlying Communism. With this preface, the philosophy of Communism may be summarized in this way:

Principles of Communism

Man is a biological specimen, the highest yet evolved from prime matter, but differing in no essential from animals, plants, or minerals. In other words, all matter contains inherently the elements that can evolve into a man, given enough time and proper working conditions of nature. Man has no soul, and when he dies he is as dead as a dog. The idea that man has a soul that will live on after death is an invention of priests, the successors of the primitive medicine men who lived by their wits on the credulity of the masses. Religion, taught by priests, is the opiate of the people. It holds up the vain hopes of a happiness after death.

There is no God, and man has no God-given destiny; he has only such destiny as he makes for himself. Logically, then, all men are equal; in practice, some communists recognize that people differ in capacities, and in the Soviet state of Russia, they now pay people differently according to occupation and skill. The earth is bountiful; it offers much that will gratify the appetites and passions of man, and make him happy. The capitalistic system of unrestrained competition is accused by Communism of saying: "Take what you can get for yourself, and the devil take the hindmost. Let the smart man live by his wits, and the dullard by his brute strength; let the weak and the slow fall by the wayside."

The Communist proposes that the state assume charge of all production goods for the common benefit of all. The state he regards as a transcendental creation of man for which man exists. I am not prepared to show just how in this proposed scheme of things, the state, which is man's invention, is superior to man. I am simply stripping this current philosophy of its panoply to show it in its stark reality. Stalin quotes with approval the words of Lenin: "The scientific concept, dictatorship, means nothing more nor less than power which directly rests in violence, which is not limited by any law or any absolute rules. Dictatorship means unlimited power resting on violence and not on law." This dictatorship, according to Communists, must hold until the proletariat millennium is established.

Materialistic Concept

In the materialistic concept which Communism follows, and which has been taught in the old middle ground by the professors and the philosophers who deny the super-natural, man has no rights except such as are given him by the state. The state will see that he gets enough to eat, unless perchance the wheat is needed for export, to dump in a capitalistic country or to barter for dynamos, as happened in the Ukraine a few years ago, when five million people were left to starve. If man has not natural rights, then he has no right to choose his own wife unless the state gives him that right. I know that the communists will deny this, but it is a logical deduction from their principles; however, they feel no obligation to be consistent in their deductions from principles. A man may want children, but if the state decides that it does not need his children, does not want them, the state may render him incapable of procreating his kind. A man may want to rear his own children in his own way, but he has not natural right to do this and he cannot do this unless the state gives him that right. Man has no right to the fruits of his labor unless the state gives him that right; he has no right to his savings, unless the state gives him that right — and the action of communistic states leads us to believe that, fundamentally, Dr. Romulo spoke very exactly when he defined Communism as, "The illegitimate hope of unearned increment."

How far has Communism gone in this country? I am not prepared to say. Perhaps some of you know much better than I how far it has gone. How far can it go? I do not know. But I know that for a century now the children of our public schools have been brought up without the knowledge of God that religious schools can impart, and that a materialistic view of life threatens to engulf us. Materialism has wrought havoc among Catholics; and it has desolated the world outside the Catholic fold. What concept of a future life do you find in daily business relations, in entertainment, in social life. Too many people marry only for money. People callously set the horsepower of a motor car over against the infant souls they might give back to God. Too many employers forget that defrauding laborers of their wages is a sin crying to heaven for vengeance.

Such soil is fertile for the seeds of Communism, and you can't stop Communism by pulling up a few weeds. Political action, deportation of radical aliens, living wage laws, social insurance — these are but temporizing measures. They come properly within the scope of good government, but they fall short of the root evil. They are materialistic in concept, and they deal with a symptom instead of a disease.

The root evil behind Communism is Materialism, the denial of the supernatural. The only lasting cure is a return to God. Chiselers find ways to circumvent all man-made laws; only a stout conscience, impelled unerringly to good by love and fear of God, can insure complete justice to God and man.

The Catholic Position

If the world does not know the Catholic position, this is largely the fault of Catholics. Do you know your religion? Do you practice it as you should? Are you able to answer satisfactorily the reasonable questions of non-Catholics in your own state of life? Has religious indifference kept you in ignorance of your religion; or, worse, has human respect kept you from sharing the word of God, your precious heritage, with those outside the fold? Or, worse still, have you adopted the Elizabethan test of Divine favor, and locked religion in a closet, to be brought out only for an hour on Sunday morning? I hope you understand what I mean by the Elizabethan test. From the time of Queen Elizabeth down to this day, in Anglo-Saxon countries, material prosperity has been taken as a measure of Divine favor.

If through ignorance, through human respect, or blinded by material ambitions, you have neglected to study your religion as you should and share it with others less fortunate than yourself, lose no time in correcting your fault. The world, if it would save itself, must return to God, and your neighbor can rightfully expect to be brought back to God through you. Learn the power of Christian example. Of the first followers of Christ it was said: "See those Christians, how they love one another." First, cleanse your own heart and grow strong in daily Communion; then make over your family on the model of the Holy Family; then work to turn society back to God.

All glory to Spain, which stands today in bloody trenches to fight once more for Christian civilization. Poland in the east and Spain in the west, are the nations which sacrificed their blood through centuries to keep the Mediterranean from becoming a Moslem lake. Spain has been called once more to defend Christian culture, this time against the savage barbarians who slash and burn Christian art, who crucify holy virgins, and burn priests at the stake.

Materialism is armed for battle to the death. Prayer and Christian example can disarm it if we act before it is too late. If we delay, if we falter, if we seek a comfortable truce, then once more the blood of martyrs must regenerate the world.

Laetare Medal Formally Presented

Richard Reid Receives Award In Distinguished Ceremony

The Laetare medal, given annually by the University of Notre Dame to the outstanding Catholic layman of the year, was formally presented in Augusta, Georgia, Sunday afternoon, Nov. 8, to Richard Reid, Augusta lawyer, editor and distinguished Catholic layman. The presentation pioneering in Catholic Action on the logical assumption that a more understanding spirit between Catholics and non-Catholics of your state should mean a more unified front against the enemies of both. The nation and the state at this time need unity and solidarity of thought in outlook and act.

"In upbuilding, maintaining and defending the nation, the two great Christian groups have contributed generously in treasure and sacrifice. They must understand the helpful lesson that if the nation falls they both suffer with it. They must know that the enemies within our gates and without do not love Protestants more because they love Catholics less.

"The University of Notre Dame honors you, because you have been temperate and wise. You have given enlightenment on our faith rather than stirred opposition by raucous controversy. You have taught by example more than by word that there are more links of love to unite men than shafts of hate to keep them apart.

"Therefore to you, as captain in that army of good will, the University of Notre Dame comes with her symbol of service — the Laetare medal."

The Laetare medal has been awarded annually by Notre Dame since 1883. The name of the recipient is announced on Laetare Sunday, the fourth Sunday in Lent.

THREE SPLENDID TRIBUTES

Raymond J. Kelly, '15, corporation counsel of the City of Detroit, was elected president of the Institute of Municipal Law Officers at its Washington convention.

J. Stanley Bradbury, '23, was re-elected states attorney of Crawford County, Ill., by an overwhelming majority. Stan carried the county by 1217 votes, heading the Democratic ticket. Roosevelt carried by 350. The county is normally Republican.

And in Minnesota, the eleventh judicial district was startled when Mark Nolan, '24, unseated the incumbent judge for the first time in the history of the district, to win over four opponents. Mark had become a prominent liberal leader in the Minnesota legislature, serving three terms. Mark had Farmer-Labor support, but had to defeat the opposing candidates who carried the endorsement of the Bar Association.

was made by Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., president of Notre Dame, at the 21st annual convention of the Laymen's association of Georgia.

Distinguished clergymen who participated in the ceremonies included Most Rev. Gerald P. O'Hara, D.D., bishop of Savannah; Most Rev. Patrick J. Barry, D.D., bishop of St. Augustine; Most Rev. William J. Hafey, D.D., bishop of Raleigh, and Most Rev. Emmet M. Walsh, D.D., bishop of Charleston.

In conferring the medal Father O'Hara lauded Mr. Reid as a pioneer in Catholic action in the United States.

Father O'Hara said:

"Notre Dame selects you, Richard Reid, for your services in that army in enlightenment, the Catholic Laymen's Association of Georgia. You and your fellow workers began your Alumni Return For O. S. and N. W.

Crowd Campus For Season's Final Thrilling Games.

We present again a copy of the Alumni Office register—this time for the final two games of the home season, Ohio State on Oct. 31 and Northwestern on Nov. 21.

The former probably set a new high for the number of alumni who traveled long distances to see a game at Notre Dame, many of them in special trains. The Denver Club, especially, was outstandingly successful in this regard, with its special train all the way from Denver. The Northwestern game likewise brought in innumerable alumni.

Need we repeat? These are the names, of course, of only that comparatively small number who fought their way into the Alumni Office on extremely busy days. Countless other alumni were in the stadium for both games.

VAGRANT ESSAYS, by Rev. P. J. Carroll, C.S.C., '11 (The Ave Maria Press, Notre Dame, Ind. $1)

Alumni who have had the benefit of Father Carroll's teaching, or who have followed his writings in magazine, book and The Ave Maria of which he is now editor, welcome any of his creative works.

His weekly Page in The Ave Maria has become one of the most anticipated features of the magazine.

Keen, human and humorous, as vagrant in its subject matter as the mind of a well-informed, understanding priest can be, these essays demanded more permanence than their fleeting page.

So The Ave Maria Press has bound them into a little volume of 222 pages, attractive for a gift, popularly priced at one dollar.

Indicative of the scope are a few of the titles—Taking Ourselves Too Seriously; Mothers-In-Law; Quieting the Baby; High Cost of Mistakes; Cures for Safety Razors; The Contagion of Virtue, etc.

'Ave Maria' Is 71 Years Old

Has World Prestige
Under Brilliant Editors

The establishment of the Daniel E. Hudson, C.S.C., scholarship fund, under the will of the late Frank Phillips, Fort Wayne, brings to mind the great work done at Notre Dame by the quiet little priest who, for more than 50 years, exerted a world influence on Catholic letters through the magazine published weekly at Notre Dame, honoring, as does the University itself, the Mother of God.

In May, 1865, his little institution only 23 years old and still disorganized from the effects of the Civil War, the indomitable and far-sighted Father Sorin established a magazine to honor Mary that had long been one of his objectives. It was called The Ave Maria.

The following year Rev. Neil Gillespie, C.S.C., returning from France, was appointed its editor, and continued until his death in 1874. Meanwhile, the young Father Hudson had come from the intensely cultured and literary atmosphere of New England, and he succeeded Father Gillespie as editor of The Ave Maria, serving brilliantly a growing spiritual and cultural mission until his own death in January, 1934, 60 years after his first editorial work on the budding Catholic weekly.

Under the editorial guidance of Father Hudson The Ave Maria waxed in the power of its writing and in its scope. Today it enjoys a world circulation of more than 30,000 weekly.

Many great figures in Catholic literature have begun or fostered their careers in the pages of The Ave Maria.

Today, under the editorship of Rev. P. J. Carroll, C.S.C., '11, alumni who do not enjoy The Ave Maria weekly are missing one of the finest contacts with the Notre Dame campus. Father Carroll is himself a keen writer, editing a weekly page that has just been compiled in book form under the title Vagrant Essays. He is assisted by such able members of the Congregation as Rev. Thomas Burke, C.S.C., and Rev. Thomas Lahey, C.S.C., Rev. James McElhone, C.S.C., and Rev. Charles Carey, C.S.C., with frequent contributions by other members of the order.

In addition to these excellent "staff" writers, The Ave Maria features from week to week outstanding and familiar writers, in its articles, stories and poems. Many of these names are familiar in faculty and alumni contacts.

Northwestern Week-end Provides Thrills
For Veterans of Great N.D. Teams; D.
J. O'Connor Serves Ably as Chairman

Veteran athletes of Notre Dame's various teams from 1900 to 1905 gathered on the campus for the week-end of November 20 and 21. Walter Gearin, from Portland, Oregon, and Anton Stephan, from New York City, gave early indication of the scope of the attendance.

Friday evening the men were guests of the University at a supper in the Lay Faculty Dining Room. From there they adjourned to the University Gym as guests of the students at the pre-Northwestern pep meeting. Later in the evening the Old Timers were guests of honor of the Notre Dame Club of the Saint Joseph Valley at the final smoker of the pre-game smoker series conducted by the organization this Fall.

Saturday morning at 7:30 a Mass for deceased Old Timers was celebrated in Sorin Hall Chapel.

The former stars met again at a luncheon Saturday noon in the University Dining Halls and climaxed the week-end as sideline guests of the Athletic Association at the thrilling Northwestern-Notre Dame game.

The following list of those in attendance connotes the volumes of interesting data that could be written around the personalities of the week-end:

ONE OF THE OLD TIMERS ELEVENS

Wanted: This Statue or $850, which will purchase it.

The statue of Dante Alighieri pictured here is being held in New York by a friend of Notre Dame, a collector, to give the University an opportunity to purchase the exceptional marble for the Dante Room of the University Library.

Alumni and friends of the University are familiar with the fact that the Dante collection at Notre Dame, begun by the late Rev. J. A. Zahm, C.S.C., ranks among the leading sources in this country. A number of choice bronzes and marbles grace the special room where the library by the great Italian writer is housed.

The library itself consists of 2,800 volumes, in forty languages. The collection is rich in incunabula and post-incunabula editions. Medallions and photographs are also included.

The statue above is one-third life size. It is of white marble, executed in Rome in 1874 by Geronimo Punol. The expression is remarkably faithful to the majestic intellect associated with the subject.

The President of the University, impressed by the piece and by the urgent hope of the New York friend that the University will purchase it, is opening the necessary fund of $850 to individual subscription.

One gift of $20 and two gifts of $10 each have already been received. Contributions can be mailed direct to Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., Notre Dame, Indiana, or to the Notre Dame ALUMNUS, Box 81, Notre Dame, Indiana.

Endowment Funds 100 Per Cent

Lay Trustees Show Remarkable Record

Net shrinkage of less than one per cent in the principal endowment funds during the past seven years was reported at the semi-annual meeting of the Board of Lay Trustees of the University of Notre Dame on Oct. 30.

Two years ago, with all depression losses written off, the shrinkage of principal was estimated at 13 per cent, but rehabilitation of securities held by the board has brought the principal to 99 per cent of the actual subscriptions. Byron V. Kanaley, Chicago broker and president of the board, announced further that the surrender by the University of a portion of the interest due from the board on last year's investments has brought the fund to 100 per cent of the monies originally subscribed.

This record was regarded as remarkable in view of the fact that it was currently stated two years ago that educational institutions generally had suffered a very substantial shrinkage in the principal of their endowment funds. Mr. Kanaley attributed the success to the policy adopted by the board early in the depression of converting into government bonds all maturing securities. The proportionate distribution of investments now stands as follows:

Real estate bonds 14 per cent; Public Utilities, 17.5 per cent; United States Government Bonds 61.5 per cent; Preferred Stocks 6.0 per cent; Common Stocks 1.0 per cent.

In addition to Mr. Kanaley, and the Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., president of the University and an ex-officio member, the following men comprise the board; Matthew J. Carney, John Moody, William C. Potter, Frank C. Walker, Grattan T. Stanford, all of New York City; C. Roy McCanna, Burlington, Wisconsin; Peter C. Reilly, Indianapolis; Edward J. Doyle, Chicago; Fred J. Fisher, Detroit; Angus D. McDonald, San Francisco; George M. Anson, Merrill, Wisconsin; John P. Murphy, Cleveland; Frank E. Hering, South Bend, and John H. Neeson, Philadelphia.

METALS MEETING HERE

Announcement has been made of the first joint meeting of the Chicago and Notre Dame sections of the American Society of Metals to be held April 24, 1937, at Notre Dame. The Chicago section, including 750 men of the metallurgical industries and the educational institutions of the Chicago district, is the largest in the country.

CAMPUS NOTES

BY JOHN J. LECHNER, '37

STONE GLEAMS NO MORE

"I've felt the tread of many famous Notre Dame feet," boasted the Old Stone Steps, "Sorin, Corby, Zahm, Nieuwland, Morrissey, Cavanaugh, they helped make these pits and hollows in me."

"Yes, that's true," conceded the Porch, "But it was in my shade that they sat and talked and made their plans."

The Old Stone Steps and the Old Porch of the Administration building can debate no longer. They have been torn down and, as this is written, new steps and a new porch of the same style as the old have almost been completed. Thus two more landmarks take their places in Notre Dame tradition. In summertime the coolness of the old porch's shelter was enjoyed by generations of Notre Dame clergy who lived in the Main building. To the student body the old stone steps represented the barrier between graduate and undergraduate days. Reserved for faculty members, as will be the new steps, the old stone steps were used by students only on the day of their graduation when they took part in the academic procession, formed in the corridors of the Main building, which preceded the Commencement exercises. In former years any student daring to use the front steps to enter the Main building was summarily tossed in the lake. And that tradition, unlike the Old Stone Steps and the Old Porch has not passed away.

FIRE-FIGHTERS

Election day saw Cavanaugh hall, new residence hall for freshmen, receive its baptism of fire. A careless frosh thoughtlessly threw a cigarette butt down a waste chute and smoke was soon pouring from the hall. That only negligible damage resulted is largely due to the quick-thinking of Phil Bondi, Sterling, Illinois, who was on duty as an election worker at the polls in the University gymnasium adjacent to Cavanaugh. Hearing cries of "Fire!" Bondi grabbed a fire extinguisher from the gym and legged it to the threatened area. He succeeded in putting out the blaze before South Bend firemen arrived on the scene. Unfortunately for Bondi the firemen were not permitted to share the secret that the fire was out with the result that they unleashed a stream of water which met Phil without the benefit of an introduction.

Final score: Cavanaugh hall saved; Bondi wet; the fireman who gave Bondi the wetting down four, doubled, in spades, due to the incompetent substitute who played the fireman's hand while the latter went to the fire.

CRIME WAVE

In this column we report the bitter with the sweet. We told you of Bondi's heroism, now it becomes our duty to tell of Alumni hall's one man crime wave. When the O. M. C. W. is discovered it will go hard with him since his victim is in no mood to quibble. This grim notice appeared on the bulletin board in Alumni hall:

"Does the person who has been taking the Cincinnati paper realize that he is robbing the United States Mails and in so doing is making himself liable to a little vacation in the penitentiary? What are you, Man or Mouse?"

As we go to press search for the Mouse-Man, as Alumni hall sensationalists have dubbed him, goes on unrelentingly with startling developments expected hourly. We'll keep you posted.

MONSIGNOR SHEEN

Speaking on the general topic of "Philosophy and Communism" Monsignor Fulton J. Sheen, noted radio orator of the Catholic Hour and outstanding philosopher from Catholic University, delivered a series of five lectures in Washington hall. The first night saw a near-capacity audience attend the lecture with copious note taking, hinting at faculty suggestion accounting in part for many of those present. The next day word began to seep about the campus:

"Did you hear Father Sheen last night? Boy, you missed it! He's really got plenty on the ball."

Before the lecture series was concluded students were almost literally hanging from the rafters. At least two hundred students the last three nights stood outside Washington hall a full half hour before the doors opened in order to insure themselves seats. If Catholicism can train others in its ranks, as Notre Dame is doing now in its program of graduate apologetics designed to develop Catholic writers and speakers, to take their places beside men of the caliber of Father Sheen, the threat of Communism may be hammered into the ground, not by violence, but by logical expounding of principles.

THE MONTH IN BRIEF

A great time was had by all on the student trip which saw Layden's Lads take the Soldier Boys down the line 20 to 6 . . . Needless to say everyone went pleasantly non compos after the Northwestern game . . . The way the gang clicked would have made any team in the country glad to settle for a fourteen point defeat . . . Scrip, campus literary quarterly made its first appearance of the year . . . Phil Welsh, Anderson, Indiana, turned out a smooth sheet as his first effort . . . The Scholastic, campus news organ, took a student poll on the election . . . Their findings showed Roosevelt winning by the same city block that he did nationally . . . However, there is no truth in the humor that Paul Foley, editor of the Scholastic, will go to the Literary Digest, after his graduation. . . .

LUNN WRITES FOR "BULLETIN"

Arnold Lunn, guest professor in apologetics and special lecturer in Washington hall, has been writing articles on the subject of Communism for the Religious Bulletin using the question and answer method . . . Very effective . . . The football dances, held each Saturday night regardless of whether the team is at home or abroad are becoming a definite social feature . . . Many of the Astaires hope that they will continue throughout the winter . . . The campus clubs are in a furore of activity planning for their Christmas dances. . . .

"CATALYZER" APPEARS

The Catalyzer, publication issued by the department of Chemistry, made its first bow under the direction of Frank Burke, Portland, Oregon . . . Did you read Frank Wallace's wind-up of his SatEvePost serial? . . . It was built around last year's Ohio State game and even Frank's handling of what actually happened couldn't make it seem plausible . . . Still is there anything very plausible in beating Northwestern 26 to 6? . . . November 30 marked the 94th anniversary of Father Sorin's celebration of his first Mass at Notre Dame.

Notre Dame 26; Northwestern 6

The stage was set and Notre Dame, true to the tradition that "the show must go on" played its part perfectly as the Wildcats of Northwestern were defeated before a capacity crowd of 56,000 football enthusiasts which jammed its way into the Notre Dame Stadium.

This, second capacity crowd of the year, saw an inspired, fighting group of Irish players completely dominate a powerful Northwestern team for 60 minutes of top-notch football. Northwestern, harboring fond hopes of a national championship, was the favorite to defeat the Fighting Irish, by at least a touchdown margin. Those few hardy individuals who fearlessly placed their confidence in Notre Dame certainly never expected victory by such a decisive margin.

Following the first few indecisive moments, Northwestern never had an opportunity to assert itself, so completely was its attack repulsed by an alert foe, anxious to regain its prominence in the national football picture. The Irish were definitely "up" for this contest and their tackling, blocking and passing was reminiscent of that displayed during the Rockne era.

This can not be justifiably termed an upset. Since Northwestern's victory over the Minnesota juggernaut, the Wildcats had played rather sluggish football. Wisconsin, unable to cross the Irish goal, scored three times on the Wildcats; and a week later Michigan, winner of only one game all season, held Coach Waldorf's boys to one touchdown and a field goal.

Notre Dame, since the crushing Pitt game, had been definitely improving. The boys came back courageously to defeat Ohio State, and then after falling out of step for the Navy game, overwhelmed a powerful Army team the next week. The Irish had not reached their peak before this game, but with the experience gathered in each of the previous seven battles, they steadily developed in to a formidable football machine.

The Irish began their practice of scoring at least once in each quarter early in the game. Notre Dame kicked off to Northwestern, Geyer returning the ball to his own 30 yard line. Two plays later, Heap after gaining six yards around his right end committed the first of a series of disastrous fumbles, and Notre Dame took the ball on the Wildcat's 41 yard line. Notre Dame could do nothing through the Purple line, surrendering the ball on its own 49 yard line when O'Neill, back to punt, fumbled the pass, and was dropped when he attempted to run with the ball. After Jefferson had punted on the fourth down to Puplis, who returned to his own 12 yard line stripe, O'Neill again went back to kick. Heap fumbled the ball as Notre Dame tacklers swarmed around him, and Fred Mun-dee recovered for the Irish on Northwestern's 47 yard line.

This was a real break for Notre Dame and they were quick to take advantage of it. On the third down, McCormick, diminutive right half back, circled his own left end for 15 yards to the Purple 31 yard stripe. The next play was the first of the two perfect plays executed by the Irish during the afternoon. The backfield to the right, the ball came to Wilke, the left half. Wilke started wide and then cut inside his own right tackle, through the huge hole opened by the hard charging line, reversed his field and ran for the first six points without anyone touching him. Heap, the last Wildcat with any chance to overtake Wilke, was dropped by a beautiful diving block thrown by left end, Joe O'Neill. Puplis split the uprights with a perfect place kick as Wilke held the ball.

The second period was nearly half over before the second Irish touchdown was scored. Before this time, Wilke had worried the Wildcats considerably by a 40-yard return of Jefferson's punt, only to be tackled by the ever-present Vanzo, when it looked as if he would get away for another touchdown. Northwestern, unable to keep the ball, sent Toth back to punt. He received a high pass from center and seeing that he could not punt attempted to run with the ball, only to be dropped by half the Notre Dame front wall on the Purple 34-yard line.

On the first play, Wilke duplicated his run of the first quarter, racing over his own right tackle and then diving over the goal line in the very corner of the end zone as two Wildcat defenders tried to stop him. It was Danbom's blocking which played a prominent part in the perfect execution of this touchdown play. Vanzo blocked Puplis' attempted conversion.

The second half opened with the Wildcats taking the ball on the kickoff and driving toward the Irish goal. On the fifth play, Heap's long pass, intended for Kovatch, left end, was intercepted by Puplis and Notre Dame started its own attack rolling toward the Purple end zone. The attack bogged down on the Purple 18 yard line and Puplis' attempted place kick was wide of the uprights.

FOOTBALL BANQUET

The annual football banquet will be held at Notre Dame on Monday, January 11, according to the announcement of Dillon J. Patterson, '20, chairman of the affair for the St. Joe Valley Club. Tickets may be procured from Herbert Jones, '27, Athletic Office, Notre Dame.

Nine minutes later, Notre Dame's quarterback called one of the most spectacular plays of the year. Toth had punted out of bounds on the Notre Dame's 27-yard line and the Irish prepared to put the ball in play. Noticing that the Wildcat backs were playing close behind the line in an attempt to stop the running attack, Puplis called a quick kick, and Wilke sent the ball sailing far over the head of the safety man, Heap. As Heap raced back to get the ball, he attempted to scoop it up on the five-yard line but it eluded his grasp. O'Neill recovered for Notre Dame on the two-yard line. Wilke made a yard at left guard and then Danbom crashed over his own right tackle to raise the score to 19-0.

The final touchdown was the result of Notre Dame's longest sustained drive of the day. Taking the ball on their own 12-yard line, the Irish marched to the Purple six-yard line. A pass from McCarthy, left half, to Vic Wojcihowski was ruled complete because of interference by Adelman on the Purple 23-yard line. With the third down coming up, the back field shifted to the right, the ball being passed to McCarthy. Len Skoglund cut around from his left end position, and after taking a shovel pass from McCarthy, shook off three tacklers to travel the remaining three yards to the goal line. Beinor's conversion made the score 26 to 0.

Only then, with the odds hopelessly against them, did Northwestern display any of its vaunted power. With but seven minutes remaining in the game, Northwestern pushed the ball 77 yards for its only score, Geyer finally going over from the two-yard line. A 15-yard penalty against Notre Dame aided in keeping the attack functioning. Geyer's try for the extra point was unsuccessful.

The charging and tackling of the Notre Dame front wall was the most vicious seen this year. Outweighed by several pounds per man, this courageous line made up for it by the fight and drive which they put into their efforts. Joe O'Neill and Joe Zwiers did fine jobs and repulsed all attacks directed against their positions. Skoglund, who replaced O'Neill, played one of the finest games of his career climaxing a brilliant performance by scoring the final Irish touchdown after circling the end and evading tacklers with the ease of a half-back.

Notre Dame 20; Army 6

There was a big question mark before the Notre Dame team on the afternoon of Nov. 14 as they trotted out on the infield of Yankee stadium to play their twenty-third game with the Cadets of West Point. Could they return to their early sason form as demonstrated in the Ohio State game, after having been beaten by a seemingly weaker Navy team the week before? Some two hours later, this huge throng made its way out of the big enclosure with the question definitely answered. Notre Dame had come back with a vengeance to overwhelm a powerful Army team 20-6.

JOE O'NEILL

During the first few moments of play, it looked as if Army would repulse the Irish without too much trouble. Meyer, Army's triple threat half back was not as yet in the game, yet his understudy, Texas Jim Craig, was leading the march toward the Notre Dame goal. Taking the kick-off from fullback Simonich's toe, the powerful Army attack pounded its way to Notre Dame six-yard line. But with the ball on the six-yard stripe, Army attempted a forward pass in the end zone which was intercepted by Andy Puplis. Puplis showed excellent judgment under fire by not attempting to run with the ball as he was surrounded by Army tacklers. Notre Dame took the ball on the 20 yard line.

The first Notre Dame offensive was begun early in the second quarter after Wilke had intercepted an Army pass. Starting on their own 43-yard line, Notre Dame made a sustained drive for their first touchdown. The march was featured by a long pass from Wilke to Andy Puplis which placed the ball on Army's 21-yard stripe. With Wilke and McCormick carrying the ball, Notre Dame fought their way to the Army one-yard line. Two plays later Wilke smashed over his own left guard for the first six points. Danbom's attempted conversion was wide of the uprights.

The second Notre Dame touchdown came directly as the result of an Army lateral which went astray of its receiver. Quarterback Martin attempted to lateral to Ryan but the ball went wide of its mark and Art Cronin recovered for the Irish on the Army 15-yard line. The next play, which brought the second score, was one of the most deceptive of the game. The shift was to the right with Wilke getting the ball. It was a fake reverse with Wilke pretending to give the ball to McCormick, who continued on his way to the left, and then after waiting momentarily while the Army defense was drawn over, racing through his own right tackle for the touchdown. It was so effectively executed that two of the Army linemen tackled McCormick thinking that he had the ball. Puplis kicked the extra point.

The final Irish counter came only a short time later. Craig attempted a pass deep in his own territory. Captain Lautar, rushing the passer, leaped into the air to stop the ball in mid-air and then snared it out of Craig's hands on the Army 18-yard stripe. Danbom took up the task from this point smashing through the Army line on three attempts to the Army 3-yard line. On the next play, Andy Puplis scored on a quarterback sneak through his own right guard. Puplis also kicked the extra point.

The only Army score came after this, on one of the finest exhibitions of open field running by Monk Meyer, Army's great halfback who had been bottled up all afternoon by an alert Irish front wall. Notre Dame, with almost an entirely new team in the game, repulsed another Army onslaught, taking the ball on their own 10-yard line. The Irish could make little headway with the ball and McCarthy was sent back to punt. Jack got away a fine punt which was taken by Meyers on his own 40, from which point he started on his touchdown sprint. The diminutive half back cut sharply to his left after almost being knocked off his feet by the Notre Dame right end, and ran through nearly the entire team before finally crossing the goal line in the extreme corner of the end zone. Kopczak's attempt for the extra point missed its mark and the score read, Notre Dame 20-Army 6.

Notre Dame was marching to a possible fourth touchdown as the game ended. Metz fumbled on the Army 40 and Notre Dame recovered. The game ended with Notre Dame in possession of the ball around the Army 20-yard stripe.

Wilke was undoubtedly the most outstanding back on the field, but Nevin "Bunny" McCormick was the inspiration needed to start the latent Irish power. With McCormick in the back field, Notre Dame had a constant threat to the weak side. The extent to which Notre Dame used this threat may be seen by the fact that the first touchdown was scored through the weak side, and the second score came as a result of the Army's attempt to guard against this menace. Most of the fullback plunges were also directed against the weak side.

The game was won in the front line trenches as the Irish line, lead by Captain John Lautar drove the Army ball carriers back, after the first few minutes of play. Time and again, the Army passers were tackled far behind the line of scrimmage as the low charging forward line forced its way through the Army defense. During the third period Ryan and Meyer were thrown back for a total loss of 15 yards on three successive plays. The effective squelching of Meyer was the most serious blow to the Army hopes. The work of the entire line from end to end was particularly fine as they proved the contention that the best pass defense is "to rush the passer."

Notre Dame 7; Ohio State 2

Ohio State came to Notre Dame determined to avenge last year's defeat when the Irish scored three times in the final quarter to beat them 18-13. Notre Dame, following its overwhelming defeat at the hands of the enraged Pitt Panther, was definitely the underdog. Notre Dame showed that this was its favorite position before a game, and outfought the Buckeyes to beat them 7-2.

The Buckeyes put on a last minute drive which was reminiscent of the game last year at Columbus (only at that time Notre Dame was doing the driving). Lead by their second string quarterback, Wayslick, Ohio State ran and passed its way to the Irish 12-yard line. At this point, the Buckeyes attempted two short passes over the center of the line, both of which landed in the end zone, and Notre Dame automatically took the ball on its own 20-yard line and kept the ball until the end of the game.

Ohio State scored first after recovering a fumble by Steve Miller, Notre Dame fullback, on Notre Dame's 20-yard line. The Buckeyes registered a first down, but were then held by Notre Dame on the three-yard stripe. Jack McCarthy went back to punt out of danger, but the Ohio men were not to be denied at least some consolation for having failed to put across the touchdown. As McCarthy kicked, Captain Wendt, left end, crashed in and blocked the ball sending it flying out of the end zone. Ohio State lead 2-0 as Notre Dame took the ball on its own 20.

The Notre Dame score came just before the end of the first half. Taking the ball deep in their own territory, after an exchange of kicks, the Irish drove onward toward the Buckeye goal. The attack seemed to have bogged down on the 20-yard line so Elmer put little Bunny McCormick in at right half. On the next play, McCarthy passed to McCormick on the two yard line where he was thrown out of bounds. Notre Dame lined up quickly and shifted to the left with the ball going to McCormick. The hard running little back started wide around the end and then cut sharply over his own tackle into the end zone before the Buckeyes were aware of what had taken place. Wojcichovski was rushed into the game to hold the ball for Danbom, who split the uprights for a perfect placement.

With the beginning of the second half, Ohio State opened up with every play in their "razzle dazzle" system but the hard charging Irish forward line broke up the plays before they could get started. Notre Dame threatened twice more during the last stanza but were never quite able to make the needed distance. Ohio's only real threat was broken up with less than a minute to go and Notre Dame was able to stall them off and hang on to the ball until the final gun.

About 65 members and friends of the Notre Dame Alumni Club of Buffalo enjoyed the excursion to Notre Dame for the Ohio State game, arranged by the local club. The party left the New York Central terminal Friday morning, October 30, and arrived in South Bend that evening. The homeward trek began the following Sunday noon.

The trip was an enjoyable one. In the lounge-observation car the club set up a buffet bar and throughout the day served pop-corn, pretzels, potato chips, ginger ale and sparkling water. Through the courtesy of the Central, the guests were supplied with ice and glasses. Adding to the informality were individual name cards which the passengers wore.

Enroute home, campaign speeches were made for both Roosevelt and

At the first meeting of the Fall season held in the room of Edmund A. Collins, '30, plans were formulated for the entertainment of the team and coaches on their visit in Tucson prior to their clash with the Trojans of U.S.C.

Louis T. Weadock, '99, has moved to Hollywood, California, to put the finishing touches to his latest book. Mr. Weadock was a star reporter on the Chicago Journal when Finley Peter Dunne was managing editor and B.L.T. (Bert Leston Taylor) was in charge of its "Little About Everything" column. This bit of news was learned from James D. Barry, '97, who also was on the staff of the Journal during the same period.

Paul Schritke is now director of athletics at the State School for the Deaf and Blind, located in Tucson, and it is very interesting to know that Landon, and residents of Elkhart were given the treat of stepping up to the observation platform and shaking hands with the President's personal, but unofficial envoy, Bill Measer, '35.

Two hundred enthusiastic Notre Dame supporters made the Notre Dame-Army game excursion to New York City on the Erie railroad sponsored by the Buffalo club. The Notre Dame Special left Buffalo Friday evening, November 13, and returned to Buffalo the following Monday morning.

The party was split in New York City, half staying at the Dixie Hotel, and the others at the Paramount. En route there was dancing in the lounge car, and the cafe car stayed open all night to accommodate the excursionists. The club owes a vote of thanks to the Erie railroad for arranging such an outstanding trip, and although there were very few of the club members on the train, the excellence of the excursion has given the Buffalo club additional prestige and has kept both the name of the University and the club before the public.

Encouraged by the success of the first two official excursions, the club is planning to run several football trips next year to accommodate the thousands of western New York N.D. fans who desire to take in a game but are uncertain as to the procedure in obtaining tickets. At this time we want to thank the patrons, and particularly those who sent letters telling us how they enjoyed the trip.

The Capital District Club is booming along. An eventful gathering was arranged for the Ohio State game. The turn-out was large, and those few that did miss have no doubt already regretted their absence. The broadcast was absolutely the highlight of the Fall season. Everybody came for two purposes—to see and meet the rest of the fellows and to hear every detail of that well-played game.

After the game a short business session was somehow or other managed. Just how we ever got into a discussion on club business essentials after that game is not for me to answer. Nevertheless we did, and the results were indeed gratifying.

The club's scholarship fund which has long been the club's important topic of discussion has passed the embryo stage and is now an actuality. Money is in the bank, and the fund will keep growing. So don't be surprised if you find a deserving young man, on the campus some mid-September, expressing his appreciation for the Capital District Club.

Secondary to the scholarship fund, but none-the-less of prime importance, at the present time is our Christmas dance, which will be held in the Hotel Ten Eyck, Albany, New York, on Monday night, December 28.

Legislative, judicial, and executive powers for this inimitable event have been vested in alumni hands. Thus, with alumni at the helm and full cooperation of the student body, which has been assured, this dance will surpass all others. Tickets are out, and the program is definite. You will hear more about this dance. Proceeds will naturally go into the scholarship fund.

The affairs of the Chicago Club continues to progress in fine style. The dance of November 7, which was held at the Knickerbocker Hotel was, according to the census of opinion, one of the most delightful that has ever been sponsored by the club. In checking the reaction of those who attended I was unable to uncover a single complaint. The general attitude can be characterized by a comment of Judge Marcellus Oshe to the effect that a list of those who attended should be preserved and used as a nucleus for another affair of that nature.

The cultural efforts mentioned in our last letter whereby Frank McKeever and others arranged for a lecture program enjoyed a proportionately greater success. They figured that a gathering of 50 people would have filled their requirements. I am informed that almost 200 were on hand for the first lecture by Arnold Lunn, and that even a greater attendance is expected in the future.

The only other activity was a luncheon held in conjunction with the Northwestern alumni at the Bismarck on the Friday prior to the game. Because Northwestern was represented by their fine coach, Lynn Waldorf, and the athletic director, Tug Wilson, they were better schooled in wailing, so naturally our spirits were raised. Frank McGreal made his debut as a representative of our group, and all are agreed that his services will be in demand hereafter.

Friday, the 13th, was the occasion for our regular November meeting. Gus Dorais was the guest speaker of the evening, and he gave the boys present a very wonderful talk on Rockne. In view of Gus' very close friendship with Rock, his talk was full of personal incidents and was enjoyed to the utmost by those present. Other talks of the evening were made by Clem Crowe, Commodore Ed McHugh and Larry Janszen.

Following the meeting, Gus paid a visit to Howard Rohan. From all reports it was a pretty interesting session, and plenty of football was hashed over.

On October 27 there was a joint meeting of the Notre Dame and Ohio State Alumni Associations at the Kemper Lane Hotel. It was in the form of a gab-fest, followed by a buffet lunch. Approximately 100 were in attendance, and the meeting has been termed the most successful one held in the history of the Notre Dame Club. It was the privilege of the two groups that evening to have representatives from both schools. Jim Armstrong and John Nicholson representing Notre Dame, while Athletic Director L. W. St. John, Larry Snyder and Alumni Secretary John Fullen represented Ohio State. The talks were all mighty fine. The Ohio State group expressed the wish that this get-together be an annual affair.

Joe Pieper, who is connected with the HOLC, was present at our last meeting. It was the first time we had seen Joe in a long time, and we hope he will be with us on future occasions.

Marchie Schwartz and John Polisky were in town scouting the Detroit-U-Xavier game. Following the game, a few of the fellows, acquaintances of Marchie and John, enjoyed a get-together dinner at the Kemper Lane Hotel.

The dance committee in charge of the Christmas party has about completed arrangements, and they wish to announce to the Cincinnati campus crowd the party will be held on the evening of December 26 at the Maketawah Country Club. It will be in the form of a supper dance.

CLEVELAND

J. Patrick Canny, '28, 1660 Warren Road, Lakewood, Ohio, President; Lawrence Kral, '31, 276 E. 272 St., Cleveland, Ohio, Secretary.

Here's a bit of news on the Cleveland-Notre Dame Christmas dance, which I am shooting in upon the request of Larry Kral with the thought that it might be included under the Cleveland Club news as a supplemental item.

Your stooge (and apparently everybody else's) as general chairman of this year's fracas will be Clayton G. Leroux, past potentate and general clean-up man. So wish me luck. The date of the dance has been set as December 26. The place will probably be the Rainbow Room of the Carter Hotel. The band has not yet been determined, but we are very anxious to secure music which will stir the blood of the younger group to a romantic pitch and will also soothe the worries and ease the creaks of the older "boys."

Judging from the growing popularity of our Christmas parties, I find myself confronted with worries on how to handle the crowd rather than how to get them. I might consider myself as having joined the elite together with your ticket vendors of Notre Dame football tickets. (By the by, and egad! but wasn't that a whooper-doooper of the game Saturday [Northwestern]. I had Pat Canny, Gene Milliff, Jim Driscoll and John Collins gathered around the radio at home with Leroux, Sr., calling the plays and, out of that rabid crowd, I am compelled to say that Senior was the noisiest.)

But back to the dance. I would like to have you list the committee members as follows:

Publicity: Dennis J. O'Neill, chairman; Tom Conley, Roger Brennan, Cleve Carey, James Bourke, Ed Schroeter (student).

Tickets: Carl Martersteck, chairman; Dr. Joseph Heimann, Jim Driscoll, Gene Ling (student), Frank Svoboda, Thomas A. McGettrick.

Music: Jack Collins, chairman; John Beljon, Louis Hruby, Dan O'Brien, Ralph Kaiser, Mark Nevils.

Reception: Cornelius Ruffing, chairman; James Uprichard, John Dore, Thomas Mulligan (student).

Enthusiastic co-operation has been assured by the women folks, and the hostess committee is being prepared to assist in the handling of tickets.

In connection with the National Catholic Alumni Federation: it was thought that a word or two stating the fact that a Cleveland chapter was being organized; that the purpose of the organization was for the study of current social, economic and philosophical subjects; that it was directly in line with similar activities by Notre Dame men in other communities and also with the program of our national alumni group—that all these items might tend to stir up further interest on the part of our local alumni to the end that they might take a proper representative interest in the organization. To date the meetings have been quite well attended and the interest has been so great as to result in a discussion period extending over one to two hours beyond the limit originally intended. This, to my mind, indicates a healthy interest, which should and has encouraged a promising growth, but perhaps I lead you too far afield.

With best regards to the gang and a particularly strong pat on the back to Elmer from the Cleveland Club,

Clayton G. Leroux.

DAYTON

Eugene Mayl, '24, 400 Irving Ave., President; William Cronin, '29, 418 Crafton Ave., Secretary.

Bill Cronin, secretary of the club, reports the first of a series of bi-monthly luncheons. The first one was held Wednesday, November 11. These luncheons will be held until Summer, and an invitation to attend is extended all Notre Dame men who may be in the vicinity of Dayton. The luncheons are held at the Biltmore Hotel, in the Kitty Hawk room.

The club is planning to hold a buffet supper December 5, after listening to the Southern California game.

DENVER

Robert A. Dick, '29, 931 14th Ave., President; Harry Lawrence, '29, 1951 Lawrence St., Secretary.

The club ran a special excursion trip to Notre Dame for the Ohio State game, and is already planning a similar trip to next year's Pitt game.

DETROIT

Gilbert F. Schaefer, '26, 17380 Monica, President; John W. Brennan, '27, 632 Fisher Bldg., Secretary.

President Joe Norton called the members together for dinner and a business meeting at the University Club on November 11. A large group attended.

Gilbert (Gil) F. Schaefer, 17380 Monica, Detroit, is our new president; Edward V. Crowe, 1234 Washington Blvd., is vice-president; John W. Brennan, 632 Fisher Bldg., is secretary; and George F. Costello, 1684 Burlingame, is treasurer.

The club feels very optimistic about our plans for the year now that Gil will be at the helm. You will, no doubt, hear good things from Detroit as the plans which he outlined unfold.

The latter part of the meeting was devoted to development of our program for the University of Notre Dame Lecture Series which is being launched December 11 at the Detroit Institute of Art. The enthusiasm of the members at the meeting indicates that we will have a full house. Judge Thomas C. Murphy made a splendid gesture of co-operation, and men like Bill McCullough, Jim Foren, Mal Knaus, Joe Norton, Ed Crowe, George Riordon and many others at the meeting displayed evidence that the program is an assured success. This might be a good place to add that the lectures are scheduled for December 11, January 15, February 19, and March 19.

The Notre Dame Club of Detroit will sponsor a Christmas dance, and plan to have the usual peppy co-operation of the boys from the campus who will be home for the holidays. Those of us who witnessed Gil Schaefer's Senior Ball know that our holiday party will be an "affair."

Our "One Man Gang," Eddie Simonic, is going great on the football team. That pleases all of us immensely.

Joe Gill, '31, has a government job which appears to be a type of work that Joe is very much interested in. Information was passed on to me that he was in South Bend and at School for a few hours.

Victor Lemmer, '26, is the live wire of the club. With the football season on, he is in his prime, especially in bets. So far, if I am not mistaken, Vic has not paid his Rotarian dues out of his own pocket because of the manner in which the football team is coming along.

Our president, Robert O'Callaghan, since his operation, is feeling very good. Bob is sorry that he was not able to see any of the Notre Dame games this year.

I had the pleasure of witnessing the Notre Dame-Ohio State game.

Our club enjoyed a delightful summer, the principal gatherings consisting of two outings on the Kankakee River which were well attended. The first, a "stag" included games and contests of various sorts. Joe Adler easily proved himself the surf-riding king, with Joe Silk at the controls of the motor boat. Ed King had little difficulty in displaying his gracefulness as a swan diver. Ward Loeffler and Francis Dunn held a debate that seemed to have no end, on the Fall election, and so it went, far into the night with time out to enjoy a steak supper.

The second outing included the ladies with swimming and dancing as the diversions. A real country-style chicken dinner was included in the enjoyment.

On November 1 the club moved into its new quarters in the West Pines Hotel which will be the seat of local activities in the future. The rooms were decorated in Notre Dame colors with a large panel as the background for the monogram.

On the seventh of November a cabaret party was enjoyed by 40 couples. On November 21 we enjoyed the broadcast of the Army game and followed up with a turkey dinner, so you see we have not been idle in Joliet. The affairs of the new club are being ably arranged and conducted by Joe Silk and Dr. Ed Mayer, and we have no doubt as to the success of the venture.

The popularity of our Jimmy Burke rolled him into the office as our state's attorney, the only local Republican to withstand the Democratic avalanche.

All the fellows are looking forward to every one of our meetings, and each one is better than the one before. Unlike other organizations with a cut and dried "get it over quick" method, our meetings are snappy and spicy. Smooth-mannered, President Ray Pfeiffer provides the fuel to keep the gab lively and in the right direction.

The dates, places, and other particulars about two coming events, Christmas dance and stag party, are up for debate at the next meeting.

The first luncheon of the local alumni was held today at the Univer-

T. M. Clifford, J. H. Heilker, both "G" men with the local office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation; Fred Pique, Dr. John Goecke, Ed Hogan, Tom Ashe, newly appointed assistant office manager of Emsco Derrick Equipment Company; Paul F. Berger, Larry Kennedy, Emerick Pagliasotti, James K. Marr, Judge A. A. Scott, Judge Thomas J. McKeon, Frank Barry, Thomas Hearn, Eddie Cunningham, Henry I. Dockweiler, Eugene M. Kennedy.

Other news items of interest are that Nick Lukats, under contract with Paramount Studios, just finished a good picture called "Rose Bowl." Through the very efficient efforts of Emmett McCabe, our friend John Costello was re-elected to Congress, and John Dockweiler was also re-elected to Congress.

Every Friday night for the past six weeks or more over Station KEHE, which is the Hearst Radio Station, either one of our boys or some well known resident friendly to the University has given a fifteen minute address against Communism. These broadcasts are being well received, and it is fine publicity for the University and Alumni Association.

We are all looking forward to the big game between Tom Lieb's Loyola team and Buck Shaw's Santa Clara team. Charlie Cusack, of the Chicago Cusacks, is on a hunting trip in the wilds of Mexico, but will be back in time for the big game on December 5.

Competition from an impending Election Day didn't keep 40 alumni members from turning up at the Essex House the evening of November 2. The usual business program received more than its share of lengthy discussion and you can guess the reason when you learn that one topic covered the question of tickets for the Army game.

We didn't need guest speakers to keep the meeting in session but we lived up to our announcement promises by actually having guest speakers, two extremely interesting sports writers in the persons of Frank Graham, of the New York Sun, and Charlie Moran, of the Star-Eagle. Only the sudden approach of time to catch a last train prevented the speakers from going on until after midnight; their stories of recent experiences with things relating to Notre Dame made the night memorable for all members. Incidentally, the alumni audience was made up of members of classes ranging from 1920 to 1936, further evidence of renewed interest taken in New Jersey Club affairs by local alumni members.

Somewhere in the heat of discussions plans were announced for the Christmas Holiday Dance. William Quirk, 1936, has been appointed chairman. His cooperating chairman from the campus club is Bill Bruno. The date and location of this dance will be made known to you later.

NEW YORK CITY

J. Norbert Gelson, '26, 1201 Troy Ave., Brooklyn, President; Warren S. Fogel, '30, 70 Wall St., Secretary.

Our big event of the year is now over, and many of the officers of the club here are breathing sighs of relief, but we all agree that everything was well worth the trouble.

On November 12, our annual ticket distribution for the benefit of the scholarship fund of the club was held at the Centre Club, being the principal part of our regular monthly meeting. Twelve elated prize winners were drawn, a total of 26 tickets to the Army game being given, and the financial success of it was exceedingly gratifying to us, for it assures the placing of another New York boy at Notre Dame for the next four years.

Another noteworthy achievement of the meeting was the fact that Johnny Law, in giving his slant on last Saturday's game, said that our boys should take Army easily. This, of course, put Elmer strictly on the spot, and the way he and the boys delivered, is proof of it.

On Friday morning, the team arrived at the Westchester Country Club, and many of the members journeyed there to hold an informal meeting of welcome. That night Coach Layden came down to the city to broadcast under the club's auspices over Station WLWL, and both the broadcast and the results are very pleasing. We officers then took Elmer and Joe Boland, among others, to dinner and later to the Notre Dame press party at the McAlpin.

Our big event, of course, was the dinner dance at the Pennsylvania Hotel after the game. Everybody was naturally in a gay mood, and things went off in great style. About 350 members and their friends sat down to dinner, and some 200 came in later for the dancing. Frank C. Walker, '09, chairman of finance of the Democratic National Committee, acted as toastmaster after being introduced by President Gelson and the other speakers were Father O'Hara, Jim Crowley, '25, Elmer Layden, '25, Father MacNamara, '97, Father McHugh, rector of Cathedral College in Brooklyn, Joe Byrne, '15, and Eddie Dooley of the New York Sun.

Among the guests were Frank Wallace, '23, who seems to be having his own edition of the Saturday Evening Post, Father Doremus, chaplain of the team for the game, and Hugh O'Donnell, '94. "Bugs" Walther, '25, provided his usual excellent music.

The next morning at 11 o'clock Mass at St. Paul's Church, many of the members gathered to hear Father O'Hara preach the sermon. Needless to say, his message was excellent, being directed against the grave menace of Communism.

Our trip to the Navy game at Baltimore was a huge success, some 200 members and friends of the club going down. The game itself was a bit disappointing, but last Saturday more than made up for it.

Over 80 boarded the Peoria-N.D. Club Special to the Ohio-State game. It was some game and some trip. Larger and bigger specials are planned for 1937. Fred Meyers, Bob Rainey and Al Gury, Jr. arranged the details. Many thanks to the Alumni Office for the fine help and information given for the trip, and especially to my friend, Bill Dooley.

Many of the crowd that went to the Ohio State game are attending the Northwestern game. I wish to express sincere thanks to the Rock Island and New York Central lines for the fine help and courtesy extended to the Peoria-N.D. Club Special.

We are having a meeting next Tuesday and planning on our Christmas dance. Father Bourke Motsett was the chaplain on the Peoria-N.D. Club Special. Guests on the special were Paul R. Herschel, Jr., president of Herschel Manufacturing Company, Dr. Clarence Ward, specialist, donor of the famous Dr. Ward's farm to the Peoria-N.D. Club picnics, Spalding Slevin and Dr. Van Sant, famous Notre Dame alumni of Peoria, Philip Hauter, mayor of Morton, Illinois, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Motsett, parents of Father Motsett and Bill Motsett.

Smokes and refreshments on the trip were furnished free through the courtesy of the Peoria-N.D. Club.

Would that we could get a bigger crowd for the Mass for deceased N.D. men, held this year on October 31, with a slimmer attendance than ever. Shame on youse' guys!

By way of contrast: a record gathering assembled for the November meeting, at which time the drawing for the Army game tickets was held.

The Degan boys, Henry and Gerard, again broke the precedent by not winning the pasteboards but were, as usual, the best salesmen in the club. For some reason this meeting always seems to be the banner one of the year from point of view of attendance, and faces appear that are in camphor for the balance of the season. 'Twas a good session, though, and it did these old eyes wonders to see Bill Bodo, the Ironman, Charlie Dougherty, the accounting whiz, Vince Donohue, just returned from Chicago, Jim Nolan and Joe Dalsey.

Plans for the Christmas Dance are rapidly taking shape, and Chairman Jack Reilly is dictionary-hunting these days to find words to replace "bigger and better." Pat Conway, who joined our ranks since coming to coach West Catholic High, is one of the best workers on the committee. He tells us that chauffeuring Cliff Prodehl gives his lots of exercise.

These Philly lads are going cultural with a vengeance, for December will find them in the Franklin Institute Planetarium and Wonderland of Science. This trip is to serve a two-fold purpose: to stimulate mentally, and to aid financially the cause of the Tabb Memorial. Under the hand of Bill Castellini, which seems to have absorbed some of the magic of his surroundings while handling Institute publicity, we are assured of seeing something unusual.

Several of our group have signed up with the Philopatrian Club, where our monthly meetings are held, and it looks like a move in the right direction, as several Catholic colleges are represented and a diversity of opinion is always stimulating.

Johnny Moroney, the West Phila beer king, has taken the field against Ed Bailey in the Baby Derby. While the Moroney team has one triple threat, our money is on Bailey because of greater reserve strength. (Ed will soon have two complete sets of backs!)

President Dutch Ridley went bridge-building up in the Pennsylvania mountains, and we miss his gavel-pounding although his assistant, Bill Cooney, has been doing a swell job in his absence.

Jesse James will be the latest to join the ranks of the benefactors. The knot will be tied Thanksgiving Day, and Jesse can start saving up the cost of train fare between Reading and Frankford.

Frank Norton, '32, 80 Beekwith Terrace, President; D. Bernard Hennessy, '34, 119 Bedford St., Secretary.

William F. Bleakley, Republican candidate for governor, spoke on the occasion of our Notre Dame dinner in the Rochester Club, Wednesday, October 21. Mr. Bleakley's remarks were well received.

Our dinner was a splendid success. It was well attended and well flavored with real Notre Dame camaraderie. Joe Flynn secured as our feature speaker, John A. Doyle of local detective accomplishment. The appropriateness value was superb. Brought to light on the occasion was the fact that Al Roach, '31, is now connected with the New York State Parole Board. Al was able to elaborate on Mr. Doyle's comment about Parole and the relation it bears to our crime problem. All in all, we had quite an exhaustive treatment of our topic. By the time the evening was over we knew about bertillion, plastic surgery, the glory of the G-men, second story stuff and all that. The ALUMNUS must have been tossed in the waste basket in favor of True Detectives the next day.

A meeting was held at the Rochester Club on Monday, November 16, for the purpose of formulating plans for the Christmas dance. The Rochester Club has already been secured for the night of December 26, and to insure some real rippling rhythm for our gala soirées we have designated Bill Jones, Glenn Hatch, and Joe Flynn as the committee in charge of music.

Fran Norton is back in town after a jaunt to New York to see the Notre Dame-Army game. Unlike some of us, Fran remained undaunted by last year's return trip through the snow-bound Catskills. Even this year he found that history repeats itself. He brings glowing accounts of being rocketed heavenward to skyline apartments, and of swinging with the super suave.

Larry Carpenter is having it just too tough these days. Larry went down to the game but thought that he might just as well spend an extra week down there. The onus of keeping track of his wage dividends from Eastman Kodak Company is beginning to tell on the lad. We hope the sojourn in Manhattan will mend the jangled nerves.

Jim Gleason, Jerry Smith and Bill Jones, all have plans. However, for the confluence of insurance enlightenment one must look to Dick Tobin, '34. Dick doesn't sell insurance, but he has been such a pet prospect of this triumvirate that he has absorbed enough to set himself up as a past master of this profession.

Gleaned at our dinner the other night was the fact that Fred Erdle, '35, is manipulating the merchandise methods at one of our local department stores. It was also gathered that Tommy Burns, '32, is combining coaching with teaching at Brockport.

Ward Schlotzer was recently presented with the newly created warrant of merit by the Slager Band Post of the American Legion. It is understood that this is the first award of this kind made in the United States.

Don Elser is coming to town Sunday with the Boston Shamrocks. The last team which Don opposed in this city folded up. We are hoping that the transplanted Brooklyn Tigers which are representing Rochester will meet with better fate at the hands of "Devastating Don."

The holiday season with its ability to send some of us blossoming Buddhists abroad in the night should provide a plethora of anecdotes suited for this version of Village Veneer.

George Zimmerman, '32, grabbed himself off a political job in Washington, D. C., as did his brother Ralph.

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY (Indiana)

Louis F. Buckley, '28, 718 E. Corby Blvd., South Bend, Ind., President; Clarence Harding, '25, South Bend Tribune, South Bend, Ind., Secretary.

The first part of the ambitious schedule set forth by the Notre Dame Club of St. Joseph Valley comes to a successful close with the end of the home football season. The last of the pre-game smokers was held in the Columbia Athletic Club the Friday evening before the Northwestern game.

The club had the privilege of acting as host to the Old Timers and, without another thing on the program, having them as our guests would have been sufficient entertainment and attraction to more than repay the large audience for their attendance. For Notre Dame followers had an opportunity of seeing and hearing men whose activities have made many of Notre Dame's traditions. Bobby Lynch former baseball star from Green Bay, Wisconsin, stole the show with his Irish songs.

But that wasn't all the committee had arranged. Joe Casasanta introduced the 1936 edition of the Notre Dame Glee Club; Warren Brown, sports editor of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, and Elmer Layden talked of the Northwestern game; pictures of the Notre Dame-Army game, shown for the first time anywhere, were included in the program; and a battle royal between four Negro boys wound up the program.

Al Doyle acted as master of ceremonies, while Norbert Engels and Paul Boehm were the co-chairmen who deserved praise for getting together so entertaining a program.

A smoker was also given before the Notre Dame-Ohio State game in the same place. Features of this were talks by Francis Wallace, '23, whose football articles in the Saturday Evening Post and Colliers are enjoyed by all; Arch Ward, Chicago Tribune sports editor; Elmer Layden, Warren Brown, Chicago Herald and Examiner sports editor; and a host of other sports writers and celebrities.

Music and entertainment for the affair were furnished by Bill Furey, Howard Ziffrin, Pat Patterson, Clarence Harding and members of the Notre Dame Glee Club. Paul Butler acted as master of ceremonies.

This is my first report to you in the capacity of the newly elected secretary of the Notre Dame club of Washington. Here are some news items which may interest you and possibly the readers of the ALUMNUS.

At a meeting of the club held November 10, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Thomas S. Markey, '29, president; Charles O. DeBarry, '24, vice-president; Paul O. Beretz, '27, secretary; Andrew C. Auth, '34, treasurer. The newly elected Advisory Committee consists of: Dr. James A. Flynn, J. D. Hayes and Arthur J. Bergman.

This meeting followed the annual Navy-N.D. football game on November 7, which, aside from the score, was the focal point of a pleasant week-end for local alumni. The team arrived here early Friday morning, breakfasted at Catholic University, and then parked at the Wardman Park Hotel. In the early afternoon, the squad and accompanying delegation visited the White House in a body, and were personally greeted by the President of the United States. Next, the team limbered up at the Georgetown Prep football field, and after spending the night at the hotel, left for Baltimore (45 miles away) early Saturday morning by bus. After the game, which was attended by Washington alumni almost to a man, the squad trained out of Baltimore for South Bend at 6 P.M.

A. C. Auth, '34, reports that Mr. and Mrs. E. J. O'Brien, '34, of Pittsburgh, were here for the affair. Markey reports that Tom Garver, '32, was married recently.

I regret deeply that business obligations didn't permit me to get down to the gathering at the Fort Pitt Hotel before the Pitt game as I planned to do. As I told you earlier, I was certain to collect a great deal of material for this issue of the ALUMNUS, but by the time I got there everyone had gone home. Here are a couple of items you might insert, however:

Jim O'Toole was elected to Pittsburgh City Council last Friday. He took the place of Cornelius D. Scully who, as former president of council, moved into the mayor of Pittsburgh's seat as a result of the resignation of former mayor William N. McNair.

I am told that John J. Kennedy, Class of '09, has been selected as a

ATHLETICS

Despite the numerous showers during the afternoon, there were surprisingly few fumbles. Most of the Ohio fumbles were directly due to lateral passes which were thrown wildly as their ball carriers were rushed by alert Irish defenders. On the few occasions that Notre Dame fumbled, it was the result of vicious tackling by the Buckeyes which knocked the ball from the Notre Dame ball carrier's arms. The wet ball had little, if any effect on the accuracy of Tippy Dye's passes on those rare occasions when he was able to get the ball away.

This game uncovered another fine fullback in the person of Simonich, big 200-pound Sophomore, who was inserted into the fray after three of the fullbacks had been injured. Besides ripping the Buckeye line to shreds, Big Ed did some fine blocking, clearing the way for the other backs. By his fine work, he served notice on the other fullbacks that they would have to play their best to keep him from replacing them.

Notre Dame 0; Navy 3

Following the Ohio State victory, Notre Dame moved into Baltimore prepared to sink the Navy without too much trouble. Before the afternoon was over, they had come to the conclusion that the Navy line, was as invulnerable as the steel used in those Navy cruisers, when their goal line was in danger. Notre Dame might run through the line and pass over their heads while their goal line was in no eminent danger, but once inside that 10-yard line, the Navy defense stiffened perceptibly and Notre Dame was unable to cross their goal.

The Irish started the first of their four major drives immediately after special assistant city solicitor in charge of utilities in Pittsburgh.

Tom Havican insists he is "an humble servant" in attorney general Charles G. Margiotti's office, working between here and Harrisburg like a Greyhound bus. So Tom and Pennsylvania's attorney general have much in common, apparently.

the kick-off. Starting on their own 39-yard-line stripe, with Wilke and Wojcihowski doing most of the ball toting, Notre Dame pushed its way to the Navy four-yard line. With four downs to make the necessary yardage, Simonich, in for the injured Danbom, fumbled as he was hit on the one yard line and Ferrara recovered for Navy. Navy punted out of danger to end this threat.

The other three offensive thrusts were effectively broken up by an alert Navy defense. The most important of the drives ended when O'Reilly, in at quarterback, caught a fourth down pass over the end zone. On two other occasions, passes dropped incomplete in the end zone for touch-backs.

With the opening of the second half, Navy began to strike back with its running and passing attack. After seven minutes of play had elapsed, O'Neill kicked from the coffin corner to Ingram on the Notre Dame 45, from which point this great Navy back lugged the ball to the 22 yard stripe. Ingram carried the ball around end to the 12. After he and Schmidt had made four more, Ingram attempted a pass to Antrim which went through the Navy back's fingers. On the next play, Ingram dropped back to his own 17-yard line and dropped a perfect field goal. These three points proved to be the margin of victory.

Deaths

No sermon was delivered at the funeral of John W. Eggeman, LL.B. '00, in Fort Wayne, Indiana, on November 17. His life, Father Monahan said, was his sermon.

And so it is that no space in this magazine, which he helped to found, and filled so frequently as president of the Association, leader in the Old-Timers Reunion last year, president of the Fort Wayne Club, speaker at this or that function of alumni or civic group, spokesman for Catholic activities, and all of the other ideal phases of the Notre Dame man,— can describe to more advantage the life of this great alumnus which ended Saturday, November 14.

The Judge's great figure was not deceiving—he had won monograms in football, track and basketball at

THE JUDGE
May he rest in peace!

Notre Dame from 1897 to 1900. And always he kept that love of exercise and sports.

But in addition he had the keenest appreciation of the cultural and spiritual advantages of Notre Dame, and was their most ardent apostle in the wide circles of his friends.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Wagner Eggeman, distinguished alumna of St. Mary's, one son, Robert, '30, and one daughter, Mrs. J. Clem Fox, all of Fort Wayne. Bob is practicing law in the firm founded by his father when the judge returned from service overseas with the K. of C. in the World War.

This is small tribute for a great man, but it is in the memories and the prayers of Notre Dame men that he achieves a monument only true greatness such as his can erect.

Notre Dame was represented at the funeral in Fort Wayne by Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, C.S.C., who acted as deacon of the Mass, Rev. Thomas Steiner, C.S.C., and Rev. John Farley, C.S.C., classmates, Rev. E. Vincent Mooney, C.S.C., Frank W. Lloyd, and Robert B. Riordan. James E. Armstrong, alumni secretary, was a pall-bearer.

Dr. Samuel P. Terry, '83, died at his home, 1834 San Jose Avenue, Alameda, California, November 6, after a long illness. Dr. Terry, 75, retired from his practice ten years ago because of ill health. He had specialized in successful research in oxygenation, particularly in tubercular infection.

Students before 1900 remember him as an ardent correspondent in building up the alumni records of the men of that period, a project tremendously helpful to the Association.

An active member of the Masonic order, Dr. Terry was also a most active and interested alumnus of the University. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Terry, two sons and a daughter.

Paul J. Vath, A.B. 1929, died October 24 at his home, 107 East Sixth Street, Sidney, Nebraska.

The Religious Bulletin records the death of Gregory Franzwa, B.S.C.E., 1932, Salem, Oregon.

Two distinguished holders of honorary Doctorates of the University are among the month's mortalities.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. Burke, C.S.P., LL.D., 1930, distinguished Catholic journalist, died in Washington, D. C., Oct. 30. Monsignor Burke was a former editor of the Catholic World and was one of the founders of the Catholic Press Association. He received the D.S.M. for services during the world war.

Ernest R. Graham, LL.D., 1926, architect of the Edward N. Hurley College of Commerce on the Notre Dame campus, died Nov. 22 in Chicago. Mr. Graham, head of the firm of Graham, Anderson, Probst and White, was internationally known for his great buildings in Chicago and New York.

The ALUMNUS extends its condolences in the death of: a brother of Timothy T. Ansberry, '93; the father of Rev. Henry Glueckert, C.S.C., '16, Fred, '22, and Charles, '25; the mother of Sister M. Eleanore, C.S.C., '23; the father of Rev. Joseph Toomey, '26, and Francis, '34; a sister of George Jackboice, '31; and the father of Jesse C. Dickey, '33.

Father William P. Burke, pastor of the Church of the Visitation in Kewanee, Illinois, gave a mission for Catholics and non-Catholics in Sacred Heart Church, near Lakeville, just south of South Bend, from November 8 to 15. Ordained in 1900, Father Burke has had a remarkably varied and successful priesthood as secretary to the late Bishop Lancaster Spalding, of Peoria, student at the Catholic University, missionary and pastor. (He even officiated at the marriage of the Managing Editor.)

Father Burke has made a particular study of Shakespeare and of astronomy. He addressed the students of St. Mary's College on the former when he was in this vicinity.

Father John MacNamara, with John Neeson, '03, kept up his string of Army games by attending the encounter in Yankee Stadium on November 14. Both Father Mac and John have seen 'em all from the beginning. Father Mac was one of the speakers at the dinner-dance, sponsored by the New York club, which followed the game.

Father Ed Finnegan, C.S.C., Army chaplain in the World War and pastor of Sacred Heart Church on the campus, is much in demand as a public speaker. Many of his recent appearances have been before, or in behalf of, American Legion groups.

Francis Joseph O'Shaughnessy, the famous Shag of Notre Dame football and baseball, was recently elected president of the International League. Lawyer, broker, soldier, football coach and baseball executive Shag, to borrow words from the New York Herald-Tribune, has had a Horatio Alger career since the days when he left the sandlots of Illinois and came to Notre Dame.

Says the Herald-Tribune further:

"Just a few months ago Shag was displaced from the driver's seat of the Montreal Royal's baseball club because the team was laboring heavily and could not make the play-off grade. A year ago Shag had piloted the Royals to their first International League pennant in forty years.

"His unanimous appointment to the presidency of the International League has been well received. Baseball officials and fans alike believe that it was fitting that he should have won the nomination. They say it was his shrewd, practical brains and convincing personality which saved the league from a pauper's grave.

"It was Shag who virtually forced the International League to adopt its present play-off system which has backfired a great many dollars into the treasuries of the clubs and the league.

"Shaughnessy's one promotorial venture, founding a Canadian baseball league, ended when his supply of red ink was exhausted and war was declared. After the war, in which he served as a captain of Canadian field artillery, he was manager of the Hamilton, Ontario, team in the Michigan-Ontario League. Later he moved onward and upward to the International League as manager of Reading and Syracuse in turn. He then coached the Detroit Tigers for two seasons.

"His one lapse was his entry into the brokerage business. He soon reformed, however, and returned to sports as manager and later as business manager of the Montreal Royals."

Your secretary, Ed McOsker, has done, and is doing, a grand job of stirring up enthusiasm for the twentieth anniversary re-union of the class next June. Here are a few samples of the results to date—with more to come, he hopes.

John Cassidy wrote from the Jefferson Building, Peoria, Illinois:

"Thanks for your letter of October 20th reminding me about the '17 reunion next June. No one can claim he did not have ample notice.

"I shall look forward to hearing more about your plans as they develop and will do all I can to swell the attendance."

President Art Hughes, LL.B. '17, chief executive of the Alumni Association, has his law offices in the McCormick Building, Chicago. He writes: "I want to sincerely congratulate you on your aggressiveness and industry in getting our your first letter in connection with the reunion of the Class of 1917, eight months before the date of our twentieth anniversary get-together. When I finished reading your letter there wasn't any question but what I was going to be in attendance and I have even made a definite memorandum of the matter on my calendar, so that I can begin shaping my program to be away from the office two or three days at least.

"I have had occasion to appear before several of the Notre Dame Clubs in the East recently and it is surely a great experience to find so many loyal, energetic workers on behalf of Notre Dame among the ranks of our Alumni. It gives a much greater meaning to that term we hear so often, 'The Notre Dame Spirit.'"

Art will set some sort of record by having two big re-unions in two years. His 1911 class has its silver anniversary re-union last year.

Oscar Dorwin bulletins from 135 East 42nd Street, New York City: "I have your bulletin of October 20th announcing our twentieth anniversary. This is just a word to you to let you know that I am going to do my best to be there."

Jim Hayes is assistant solicitor with the Veterans Administration, Washington, D. C. Here's his word: "Received your circular letter announcing plans for the reunions of the '17 class in June and so far as I know at this time you can count me among those present.

". . . at the present time I am detailed from my own job assisting the Social Securities to get going but will be back in the harness in veterans' work very shortly.

"Rarely see any of the '17 crowd although Brian Odem was here in the Spring for a day or two. He is now located at Houston, Texas, as assistant district attorney. Bill Haberer and Tiny Baczenas are also members of the local contingent, and a month ago we had the pleasure of having a short visit with Art Hughes."

Freddie Mahaffey, secretary and treasurer of the Consolidated Finance Corporation, Consolidated Building, Indianapolis, says: "I received your bulletin on the Reunion of the 'Seventeeners next June, and was sorry to hear that it was twenty years, but glad to hear from you again.

"I have been pretty regular in attending commencement without any excuse, and I am sure I will be there this June, with the promise of a sizable return of the old 'War Class.' I will certainly do all I can to round up the boys here."

Henry Brosnahan, manager for the International Harvester Company, in Minot, North Dakota, comes through on the dog sled with this: "We were interested in receiving your bulletin of the twenty year reunion to be held next June. We appreciate the difficulties facing a class secretary in matters of this kind.

"We should like to learn through your next bulletin or through the class notes in the ALUMNUS, about the plans of some of the '17 lawyers including J. P. Doyle, George Windoffer, Vince Vaughan, John Stark, Red Byrne, Dan Quinlan, Steve McGonigle and Joe Flynn and others.

"In the meantime you can put our name tentatively on the list of acceptances."

1918 Secretary: John A. Lemmer, 1110—8th Ave., S., Escanaba, Mich.

1919 Secretary: Clarence Bader, 650 Pierce Street, Gary, Indiana.

Two Notre Dame men, Patrick J. Murray, '19, and A. Edwin (Gus) Jenkins, '28, assisted in coaching the Williamsville, New York, high school football team, which closed its '36 season by winning its 19th straight victory. Not since early in October, 1934, has the team lost a game.

It is a record of which the school can well be proud, as there is not another high school in western New York state, including Buffalo, which can boast of such an achievement. The team uses the Notre Dame system, and eye-witnesses describe the '36 outfit as "a team of matchless perfection for a high school squad."

Another sport in which Pat shines is baseball. He was on the squad when at Notre Dame and later played pro. Pat is the assistant principal of the school. It was Gus and Pat who made arrangements for the school squad to view the Cornell-Dartmouth game on November 14.

1920 Secretary: Leo B. Ward, 1012 Black Bldg., Los Angeles, Calif.

1921 Secretary: Dan W. Duffy, 1600 Terminal Tower, Cleveland, Ohio.

Callix Miller, of South Bend, was recently chosen as a member of the executive board of the Architectural Society of Northern Indiana.

1923 Secretary: Paul Castner, Edwards Homemobile Co., South Bend, Ind.

1925 Secretary: John W. Scallan, 79 E. Adams St., Chicago, Ill.

It looks as though the Editor will have to start riding Pullmans to get a rise out of the Class Secretary, or shall we impeach him? He's alive; I saw him in Chicago recently, and he's moved, in fact was pleasant.

Adam Walsh was a pleasant surprise visitor in the Alumni Office. Adam is doing a fine job at Bowdoin, developing a line that rivals the neighboring rockbound coast.

Ralph Heger was up from Evansville for one of the games. He is one of the chief promoters of Sterling ale and beer and the Notre Dame Club there.

Jerry Holland, Detroit News, and Dan O'Neil, A.T.&T., New York, both near the pearly gates this Summer, reported for Ohio State and Army tickets, only slightly scorched. Jerry had a major operation, and Dan had pneumonia in the oldest traditions. One thing about O'Neil's illness, it brought the Faith back to a number of his '25 brethren. "God moves in a mysterious way. . . ."

Charley Bickel, the architect, is back in that profession in Elkhart, Indiana, after one of those strange interludes that the architects particularly fell heir to.

George Bischoff stopped for a quick hello on a football week-end. Still the Indianapolis insurance merchant.

Bill Cerney has been helping that other '25er, Layden, work on the raw material this year. The fine hand of the old fishmonger still guides a potent path through opposing lines.

Speaking of Cerney brings Tom Coman, the old sports writer, to mind. Tom is handling Indiana and Michigan politics for the AP in Washington, and the Cerney and Coman families look like the Roosevelt vote.

John Droege has been a regular at the St. Joe Valley Club smokers this Fall in South Bend, along with Clarence Harding, the ivory tickler.

Virge Fagan has become the farmer's friend, as an editor of Sears and Roebuck's invaluable catalog.

Firmin Fusz was up for the O.S.U. game from St. Louis, but failed to bring Bob Howland along, at least to the office. Howland probably couldn't re-route the Mo.-Pac. for the trip.

Word has just seeped through from the plains that Vincent Harrington, "Tubby" to you and his bathroom scales, has just left the Iowa legislature for the Congress of the United States.

Bill Hurley came down from Saginaw for one of those crowded hours on a Saturday afternoon.

Clarence Kaiser was found alone in the caf one noon, scouting the campus and the Chemistry department.

Father Tom McAvoy is back in New York studying this year.

Frank Naughton has been on the campus this Fall, building up a little sports writing in training for a forthcoming job. Said he saw Dan Sammon here the Northwestern week-end.

John Moran found his way back from Denver this Fall for a visit, but Mrs. Moran couldn't stand Chicago's low altitude, and John's visit was cut down to the football game.

Norb Skelley was one of the longer distance visitors for the Ohio State week-end, from Salina, Kansas, and like the other boys, felt the trip was worth it.

Francis "Bugs" Wather is emerging as one of the New York's popular orchestra leaders. Anyone who remembers his pre-views of Cab Calloway from the roof of Badin Hall isn't surprised.

Henry Wurzer has been Elmer's Davenport adviser in the games this Fall, covering the home games and most of those abroad.

And now, as a special treat, see what the Eastern Underwriter says about John P. Traynor:

John P. Traynor, newly appointed deputy superintendent of insurance in the New York Insurance Department, has had many years of experience as an accountant and administrative company official to qualify him for his new activities. Until recently he has been in charge of the liquidation of the New York Title & Mortgage and has been financial officer since the company was taken for rehabilitation in 1933. Mr. Traynor fills the departmental vacancy caused by the resignation of Edwin W. Patterson who has resumed his teaching at Columbia University but who will continue to serve the Department as a consultant. Superintendent Pink is using this deputyship in order to secure especially qualified expert service for the Department. Professor Patterson, an outstanding authority on insurance law, was appointed to assist in the proposed recodification of the New York Insurance Law. Mr. Traynor has been selected because he can be of great help to the Superintendent in solving the many complex and involved questions now pending in the rehabilitation, liquidation and reorganization of the title and mortgage companies and other insurance companies which have been taken over by the state. While Mr. Traynor acts as deputy at 80 Centre Street the liquidation of the New York Title & Mortgage will be carried on by Milton Goldman, assistant special deputy under him. When the important special work on which Mr. Traynor is now engaged is finished, he will return to the New York Title & Mortgage as deputy in charge.

Bonus Offer: Anyone writing John W. Scallan, 79 E. Adams St., one page of news, is entitled to two pages, double spaced, of personal opinion about the addressee.

1926 Secretary: Dr. Gerald W. Hayes, 86 Hawthorne Ave., East Orange, N.J.

Just by way of keeping up with the Armstrongs of '25, the Managing Editor comes out of hiding to say that:

There was a miniature '26 re-union 'round about New York on November 13-14. In the McAlpin on Friday night Tom Sheridan, Dan O'Neil and Indianapolis Charlie Mason joined me in greeting Art Haley, Larry O'Keefe and Dick Collins, all within 15 minutes.

And '26 was prominent in the New York Club dinner-dance in the Pennsylvania Hotel after the Army victory. Doc Gelson is president of the club and presided at the dinner. I was at the table with Eddie Fallon, Tom Burke and Wade Sullivan and later in the evening we talked with Vic Yawman, of Rochester, New York. Wade and his wife and another couple were on a vacation trip; they returned by way of Notre Dame to take in the Northwestern game the following Saturday. The old Walsh inmate is postmaster and a leading attorney in Algona, Iowa, and a very proud father. Ask him to show you his snapshots.

Tommy Farrell was also in the Pennsylvania that night and looking for me. Sorry I missed you, Tommy! Incidentally I called our worthy class secretary in the course of the week-end, but he was out of his office, peddling cod liver oil to the New Jersey babies. These babies! I can remember when Hayes contributed to the ALUMNUS once every year.

I had dinner on Sunday with Wink Wingerter and we spoke often and much of the '26 New Jersey crowd, but as far as I can recall now there was no special dirt. Wink is doing exceptionally well with the General Motors Acceptance Corporation.

Going through the '26 Dome alphabetically:

Congratulations to Norb Archart on his recent marriage!

Bud Barr and Joe Bailey are regulars at the alumni re-unions each June. Never see Conlin any more, though.

Art Bidwill was down from Chicago for the Northwestern game, looking none the worse after his strenuous campaign for state auditor in Illinois. Like most of the Republicans, Art had to take the count.

Sid Bower was in from Detroit this past Summer and came all the way over to the Ave Maria print shop one day for a pleasant chat. Sid is on the Detroit News.

I saw Dan Brady in Detroit last Spring, on Universal Notre Dame Night. He's exactly the same Dan.

Father Bernie Coughlin is still teaching at St. Thomas in St. Paul.

I had a couple of letters from Lew Cody this Fall but I didn't happen to see him at any of the games.

Ed Crowe is the newly-elected vice-president of the Notre Dame Club of Detroit—Gil Schaefer is now president—while Clem is fathering a small army in Cincinnati and coaching at Xavier.

Frank Deitle, of Benton Harbor, Michigan, is the very able secretary of the Berrien County Notre Dame Club.

I had a wire from Bob Doran, Rockford, Illinois, in September regarding a prospective student, but haven't seen him in a couple of years.

Norb Engels, local professor (both N.D. and St. Mary's), is, among many other things, a leader in the Notre Dame unit of the Catholic Poetry Society. He recently lectured to the student body of St. Mary's on the poetry of Father Charles O'Donnell. And he will, if coaxed, also talk to luncheon clubs on dueling.

Attorney Al Foley, of South Bend, with his wife had to take the Dooleys as next-seat neighbors at the home games this Fall.

Father Leo Gorman is presiding this year as rector of St. Edward's Hall. He was one of the 80,000 in the Yankee Stadium on November 14, too.

John Griffin is with Cooper, Kanahey & Co. in Chicago, but I haven't seen him or heard from him in many a moon.

I talked with George Hartnett a couple of times on the 'phone this Fall and he's still selling peanuts wholesale in Chicago.

I think there was something in a previous ALUMNUS this Fall about Paul Johnson, Kokomo, Tony Roxas, Manila, and Cyp Spurl, '28, New Orleans, all meeting in London some months ago. Or am I thinking of three other persons?

Hap Kiley is still with the Indiana and Michigan Electric Company in South Bend. I had a long talk with him at the smoker on Friday night before the Northwestern game.

Jim Kelleghan is in the financial advertising business in Chicago. He was down for the Lay Retreat last Summer and we spent one evening together.

Frank Klein, I think, is still keeping the Peoria Journal-Transcript afloat, although I haven't heard from him in heaps of months.

Mal Knauss is one of the most active spirits in the very active Notre Dame Club of Detroit.

Pete LaCava, with his wife and daughters, furnished very entertaining musical entertainment at one of the St. Joe Valley Club smokers this Fall.

Vic Lemmer spent a happy Fall listening to the exploits of his Ironwood, Michigan, boy Simonich, Sophomore fullback on the football squad.

That other Glee Clubber, John Lenihan, is the most asked-about '26 man, it seems. Who knows where he is? The Alumni Office has no address.

El Mahoney and Joe Sexton were a couple of other '26ers who made the Retreat last Summer. Both are in Indianapolis.

I spent an evening with Bill Moore, in the home of Tom Coman, '25, when the Dooleys were in Washington last Summer. Bill was with the NYA.

Harold Robertson is in the New York area now after a long residence in South Bend.

Jack Shouse, according to Prof. Cooney's latest dope, is still a hotel man in Lexington, Kentucky.

And Joe Shea, I'm told, is also still a hotel man—Chicago representative for the Statler hotels.

Go to Father Joe Toomey when you're in Syracuse. He has charge of the Catholic charities and could probably put you up for the night.

Forest Swartz was up from Akron for a day last Summer.

Father Bill Green is teaching in Columbia College, Dubuque, Iowa.

Is there a Doctor Hayes in the house?

1927 Secretary: Edmund DeClerq, 8118 Ellis Ave., Chicago, Ill.

1928 Secretary: Louis Buckley, 718 E. Corby St., South Bend, Ind.

Ed McCormack crashes through beautifully with the following:

I have lunch with Hal Hudson fairly regularly, and Hal is still head of the radio writers for Columbia Broadcasting in Chicago. He tells me that Dick Elpers is still selling radio time for Columbia, and I understand that John Timlin is doing similar work. Of course Bill Murphy is still with National Broadcasting, and among other things, is writing a well-known radio feature: "Flying Time." Yours truly is tangled up in several programs for the Blackett-Sample-Hummert Agency, including among others Orphan Annie. That's the way it goes for some of Prof. Cooney's ex-journalists.

Fred Collins, the fair-haired fullback, is also supposedly mixed up in radio in some manner. Another former gridiron gink, Jack Chevigny, confines his radio activities to an occasional address in his capacity as football coach. I ran into Jack one Saturday at Lincoln Fields, and he said he would gladly part with the mutual ticket he was cashing if his team could get another crack at N.D. And that's the radio round-up, at least among the Chicago contingent.

Here is the regular Buckley dope—as good as ever:

The Northwestern game brought a number of 1928 men back to the campus. Among those who stopped in at the class secretary's house to celebrate the victory were: Art and Mrs. Gleason and their three children from Akron, John Herbert, who is traveling for a religious goods house, from Syracuse, Vince Walsh, from Monticello, Illinois, Joe Langton from Peoria, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Allen, Ray Mulligan and Frank Pendergast from Chicago.

I had an interesting letter from Connie Ochoa, written after he had just listened to the broadcast of the Army game. He said that the thought of what was to follow in the Big Town made him long for New York, his friends there and everything that is connected with it and them. His sister, who is a nun in Spain, managed to escape alive through the intervention of the Mexican ambassador at Madrid.

Connie, in commenting on the marriages of Creadon, Griffin, Shelansky and Dick Phelan, remarked that wedding bells have not rung for him as he has too much worry on his hands to go out in search of another one. He would like to hear from Kopecky, Mulligan, Ed Cunningham, Jack Chevigny, Fred Wagner, Bill Leahy, John Butler, the Tobins and the Cleveland Reids. Connie expects to go to the clinic in Rochester, Minnesota in the near future for an operation. His address is Hacienda La Purisima, Tuxpan, Jal, Mexico.

Dick Trant writes from Cambridge, Nebraska that he is now a married man. Dick inquired about Jim Morrissey, Jim Conney and Don Rau. Dick is in the hardware business in Cambridge, but claims they have not had a crop in those parts in four years.

Harry Schubmehl dropped a note from Wayland, New York informing us that Clark Wallace is now a father. How about giving us a little more news, Harry, about both Clark and yourself?

1929 Secretary: Joseph P. McNamara, 231 Wisconsin Street, Indianapolis, Ind.

Gay Haas sends word that his new address is 2513 North Main Street, Dayton, Ohio. He's working for the federal government at the airport there.

1930 Secretary: Bernard W. Conroy, 1109 Kenneth St., New Kensington, Pa.

Another Notre Dame man to win a handsome victory in the November election was Harold Steinbacher, Battle Creek, Michigan, who was elected prosecuting attorney of Calhoun County.

Professor Joe Apodaca, together with Professor Louie Buckley, took their economics into the campus in early November when they addressed a week-end conference of Northern Indiana business girls of the Y.W.C.A. in South Bend.

I was at School for the Ohio State game, but the rain and fact that we were on a special train from Columbus prevented our getting around very much. Jim Dodson, Dan and Jack Cannon, Bill Lord and Tom Dunn were with me. I remember bumping into Tom Kassis on the campus. He says things are fine in Wyoming.

After that enjoyable week-end I was called back to Columbus the following week to attend Mr. Cannon's funeral. He was a grand old man, and a lot of Dan and Jack's friends got to know him well on the football trips as well as visits to their home. Joe Ryan and Judge McBride were at the funeral. I see by the Bulletin that Bob Eggeman also lost his father during the past month. I am sure all of our classmates will remember these two fine fathers in their prayers.

There was quite a gathering of fellows in New York for the Army game. On Friday night Frank Leahy, John Law, Tim Moynihan, Dick Donoghue, John Colrick, Joe Abbott, Bucky O'Connor of the '29 football team were talking over old times. Con Carey, Warren Fogel, the busy promoter of entertainment for the week-end, Joe Sullivan, Tom Cunningham, Frank O'Marah, Tom Lantry, the insurance wizard, Sam Richards of Washington and others were around the McAlpin.

After the game I remember seeing Larry Cronin, Jack Cassidy, Tom Kenneally, of Rutgers, Leo McAloon, Pat Goggin, all the way from Illinois, Frank Dunn, John Fredericks, Jack Burns, Joe Jackym, and many others.

I was greatly surprised to see John McCarthy, the basketballer from Waukegan, at the victory dance. Jack is working for the Royal Insurance Group—Tim Toomey's company—and is living at the Greystone Hotel on Broadway at West 91st Street.

Speaking of Illinois reminds me that I heard that Johany Quinn, the Massillon kid, is located with the Hiram Walker Distillery in Peoria. Howie Smith and Jack Lavelle will match the latest in football strategy when Mt. St. Michael's and All Hallows play on Thanksgiving morning. Howie's team has won five out of seven this year.

Tom Shay, '29, and Rita Curran of Manchester, Connecticut were married on July 11.

Jim Rizer and Tom Sheen are still rooming together. Doctor Sheen has moved to new offices at 14 East 75th Street.

Bernie Conroy.

1931 Secretary: John Bergan, 828 E. Colfax Ave., South Bend, Ind.

With the football season successfully terminated your correspondent will have to devise new methods to get to see the boys. Many members of the class were back for the Ohio and Northwestern games. At the Ohio State game, Charlie Cushwa, who is with the Commercial Shearing Company, of Youngstown was down, as was John "Sarge" Raleigh, Tom Cannon, Bill Lahey, Joe Dwyer, Bob Duffy, Al Stepan, Tom Feely, Phil Konop, Johnny Dorschel, Bill Desenberg, Bill Redmond and a host of others.

Happened to be one of the last minute men to board the Army game special, and had a fine trip to New York. Made the trip with Forrest West, who is doing most of the new designs for store fronts in South Bend, and Bob McKenna, the Lilly pharmaceutical man. At the McAlpin I saw Johnnie Burns, Ed Cunningham and Charlie Powers, the latter making the trip up from ole' Atlanta. Gordie Salmon over from Jersey, Art McManmon and Ray Conners from Boston, and Jim Murphy. Jim was in charge of the very successful Notre Dame dinner-dance following the game, and is associated with John Balfe in the insurance business.

Vince McHugh and John Lisicki, who was recently married, were also there celebrating the victory. Had dinner with Frank Ready, '30, who was down from Monroe, Michigan. Frank was re-elected prosecutor of Monroe County in the tirade of November 5. The Penn Grill was a popular spot for the classes of '32 and '33, about 50 of them being there.

Had a card from John J. Brown, who is with the Suburban Resettlement in Washington, and Bob Baskerville, who is a foreman in the American Can Company, at Joliet. He expects a change to Maywood in the near future. Morris Leahy is with Dun and Bradstreet in Port Huron, and is getting along fine. Bob Alge is a practicing architect in Findlay, Ohio, and has been very busy these pas few months. The Indianapolis Star reports that Johnny Blackwell was married the latter part of October, and resides in Indianapolis. Bill Leppert is also in our capital city, and is manager of the insurance department of W. A. Brennan agency. Pat Douthit is with the Indianapolis Times. Pat is happily married.

Dan Clark is now manager of the well known Clark's restaurants in South Bend, and would be happy to see any of his old gang on their return to South Bend. Word reaches us that on November 14 Miss Mary Lahey, St. Mary's, '31, and Walter Cahill were married in Chicago. A large number of the Chicago contingent were there to throw rice.

Saw a few of the boys at the Northwestern game, Nick Bohling, Tom Monahan, the bird that never did report on the central Illinois contingent, Vern Knox, Bill Lahey, Bob Whitman, Ben Oakes, Bob Baer, Al Stepan and many others.

Larry Mullins completed a very successful football season this year when his St. Benedict's College team was one of the nine undefeated football teams in the country. His teams have won their last 19 starts. Joe Gavin also had a great year at Cleveland when his Cathedral High team won city honors. Bill McNulty has joined the Milwaukee group, and is working hard.

Would like to hear from Pierre Anglemeyer, Joe Maxwell, John Kuhn, Red Wells, Al Stoepler, Joe Wilk, Carroll Murphy, Jim Bordeaux, Walt Phillip and William H. O'Brien as news is scarce concerning them. This column is still open for more news, and would appreciate a line from anyone that has something about members of the class.

John Bergan.

1932 Secretary: Herbert Giorgio, 9005
188th St., Hollis, L.I., New York.

1932
FIVE-YEAR RE-UNION
June 4, 5, 6

Tom Magee, 5801 Chew Street, Philadelphia, is, like so many other '32ers, all steamed up about the five-year re-union next June. He has many fine suggestions for the making this one the biggest re-union in Notre Dame history—and, with such an early and enthusiastic start on the build-up and a large class to work on, it should be.

Tom puts forth the very practical idea that all youse guys of '32 who live in distant spots start now to put a bit in the bank each week or month to cover expenses for the trip. He also suggests that those from the more far-away places begin now to make up automobile parties to cut down the w.k. transportation expense. This could be arranged, in part, through the ALUMNUS by listing early—why not now?—the names of those who are certain (or fairly certain) they will be present.

Herb Giorgio, as he indicated in the November issue, is already very much on the ball. The Alumni Office and your pal, Joe Petritz, the pungent publicitor, will be happy to cooperate (if Petritz is back from Southern Cal by June). Sign up now with the Class Secretary.

1933 Secretary: Donald Wise, 110 Pleasant St., Joliet, Ill.

Edward Mark O'Connor was married to Miss Geraldine Murphy in Buffalo in the month of August. Ed, who did graduate work in Boy Guidance in '34, is with Catholic Charities in Buffalo, New York.

Joe Hofmann is teaching Spanish at La Salle Military Academy out on Long Island, New York.

The Alumni Office has just learned of the marriage of Tom Coughlan, of Whiting, Indiana, and Miss Mildred La Malle, of New York City, which took place in St. Clotilde's Church last December. John Coughlan, ex. '33, was the best man, and Bill Gorman, '32, also of Whiting, was one of the ushers. Tom is with the Speer Investment Company in Chicago.

1934 Secretary: James Moscow, 2320 N. Lawndale Ave., Chicago, Ill.

In the hope of stirring up some '34 dirt the five-star local newshawk sez:

Carl E. Zimmerer, after laboring for a year as city editor of the South Bend Tribune's Mishawaka outpost, has been welcomed back from exile, and is now city hall and police reporter for the same newspaper. For a time he was editing a night AP wire. If any member of the class of '34, and especially those disciples of Doctor Cooney, who seem to have been swallowed up by the oblivion of some remote and dingy copy desk, is unfortunate enough to run afoul of South Bend's perplexing traffic regulations, before turning in the ticket let him drop in at room No. 6 of the city hall.

Ed Philbin is manager of a Tydol gas station in Scranton, Pennsylvania. Ed has five assistants.

Norman Weitig is teaching physical education at a school in Cleveland, Ohio.

Dave Feferman was recently promoted to the post of educational adviser of Camp City Creek F-157 of the CCC, Highland, California. He was looking forward ardently to the Southern Cal game on December 5.

1935 Secretary: F. C. Hochreiter, 1014 N. Eddy St., South Bend, Indiana.

Luke Kelly, who is helping to run the Vincentian Service Bureau in South Bend, relays the information that Ed Kirby, '36, is working as statistician at the Research Center, University of Newark, and taking law in the night school at the same university. Just to keep himself busy Ed also is working on his master's degree in Saturday classes at Columbia University.

Luke also says that Phil Heinle, of Newark, New Jersey, was here for the Ohio State game. Luke's address is 111 North Lafayette Boulevard, South Bend.

We give you the seer of South Bend and the doer of Notre Dame,—Mr. Hochreiter:

We want to dedicate the chatter this trip to the boys on the campus. You know we have quite a few of the '35ers with us out here.

We'll start with the lawyers of the '35 vintage. There are three of them who take a junior ranking this year having gone through their undergraduate days without a combination course. Tom Proctor, Hal Sparling and John Reilly, fill this column.

Of the "budding barristers" who will blossom forth their sheepskins this June, we have: Bob Albert, Glenn Blake, Jack Darcy, Fran Dunn, Pat Fisher (Law Club Prexie), Art Gregory, Paul Guarnieri, Bob Haley, Jim Levi, Bob Malarney, Art Mulholland, Tony Scolaro, Bill Struck, Maurice Tulchinsky, Pete Viviano, and John Watters.

Coming now to the Graduate School we find there are ten listed. All are graduates assistants except your scribe. (We are, however, kept busy—never fear.) Ed Bried, Harold Goebel, Art Kranzfelder and John Verbanc are telling the boys what the little bottles contain in the chemistry lab. George "Bud" Foss holds down the engineering building and the metallurgy department. The biology lab progresses to greater experiments with Joe Cordaro. (Joe, at the time of this writing, is in the infirmary with a breakdown.) Frank Maxwell continues to put the phy. ed. students through their paces. Al Vitter and Dick Schager are still arguing over Archimedes principle in the physics lab. We are in the department of sociology taking the graduate course in Social Case Work. In the beginning we planned to take this while making a definite decision about continuing the law. The work has proved of such interest that we have decided to remain "in the service" and eventually help the country put over the Social Security Act.

Before passing on to the correspondence of the month we want to extend felicitations to John D. Carbine. Jack has been awarded a Faculty Scholarship at Harvard Law School. The Faculty award is given annually to those who, in the preceding year, have maintained the highest averages in their courses and have shown a special aptitude for the law in general. (Maybe you'll be able to bring Vermont out of the political woods some day, Jack.)

We turn first to a letter from Bill Kennedy. Bill is still with the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, and has his own card which states that he is the correspondent at the Mineola Courthouse in Nassau County. He is acting editor of the Nassau of the Eagle while the "head man" is ill. The boy must be "gunning" for Boake Carter's job—he gives a nightly 15 minute news comment broadcast over Freeport's "little five watter," WGBB.

Bill sent us some good dope for the monthly tome. About half of it would help out brother Murphy of '36, so we turned it over to that end. However, we did learn that Maurice Tombragel, has landed a reader's job with Universal Pictures in Hollywood.

John Glanzner is reported to be torn between teaching and studying in Trenton, Illinois.

We hear that the five and ten cent business has captured the talents of Bob Shanahan. Bob is reputed to be working in the Mt. Clemens office of one of America's greatest retailers.

Comes a letter from bar.ister Louis F. Fautsch. Our red, rugged-faced boy of the second floor of Sorin has opened an office in Dubuque, Iowa, with the proverbial "attorney and counsellor at law" on the door. Louis

In the heart of Chicago's business and social activities. A step from Chicago's world famous Michigan Boulevard; adjacent to Lincoln Park; a short block from Lake Michigan and almost equally close to the heart of the so-called Loop.

- 450 guest rooms, each outside, spacious, beautifully equipped with bath and shower combination, servitor and circulating ice water.
- Three colorful restaurants including a popular priced coffee shop, ten private dining rooms and ballrooms including our new Notre Dame Room.
- Notre Dame alumni, student body and faculty can be definitely certain that they will receive the ultimate in facilities, courtesy and service at rates surprisingly moderate.
- Make the Knickerbocker your headquarters when in Chicago.

Allan G. Hurst, Manager

We learn that Ed Mansfield is writing on the Catholic Record in Denver, Colorado, and is going to Denver University at night.

Running into Gunner McGrath after the Ohio State game we learned that "our deputy marshal of '35" is county chairman of the Democratic party in Missouri.

We checked with Jack McDonnell at that game also and discovered that he is working with International Milling back Iowa-way.

Over at lunch in the caf during those exciting days we caught sight of Tony Crowley. Tony, after his graduation in '35, did a bit of law work with Republic Supply Company, subsidiary of Republic Steel in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Discovering that the sales department offered more opportunity, Tony joined that division and continues in it.

We are advised by John Neeson that John Higgins has left Dickinson Law this year to continue his legal pursuits at Temple in Philadelphia. We wonder is John Neeson is there too, or if he is still at Harvard?

Before closing our rambles we want to list those of the class who made the big games since our last chatter went to press. At the Ohio State game we saw or heard of: Ray Oakes, Fred Locke Morris, Dick Ballman, Bill Ashenton, Jim O'Meara, John Allen, Bill Lord, Bob Shanahan, Bill Bernbrock, Frank Maguire, Joe Argus, Mike Sheedy, Don Haverick, Frank Shay, Bill Guimont, Maurrie Lefere, Frank Leonard, Charlie Schill, Tom LaLonde, Louis Fautsch, Bob Kenline, Bill Otte, Ralph O'Malley, Jim Glenn, Don Felts, Phil Heinle, Art Korzeneski, John Clark, Bernie O'Brien, Ray Gerend, Norb Hart, Bill Burkhardt, Linc Wurzer, Jack Shodron, Bill Measer, Dick Prezebel, and Bud Raddatz.

Over the Northwestern week-end we had visits from the Chicago fairheads—Clark and Korzeneski, and also from George Barber. We express apologies for not being at home when they called, but, we too were entertaining guests from foreign parts. George left a note saying that he is still attending the University of Oklahoma and anticipates receiving his degree in June. Among the others seen about the campus and town were: Tony Andreoni, Frank Leonard, Joe Flynn, Jack McDonnell, Ed Buchart, Ed Caldwell, the Corrigan brothers, "Bunk" Kennedy, and Bob Kenline.

This brings us to the end of the December "chapter." To you who were sufficiently interested to take time out to write—our sincerest appreciation for your time and information. Our hope is that more of you will follow in line and will keep us posted on your efforts and those of your buddies.

Here's to a Merry Christmas.

1936 Secretary: Thomas J. Murphy, 15 Mill St., Newport, R. I.

Dan Youngerman recently left a combination teaching-graduate work job at Notre Dame to take an attractive position as head of the Speech Department at St. Ambrose College, Davenport, Iowa. Dan was an active member of the St. Joe Valley Club, and will be welcomed by the Tri-City group in the Layden homeland.

John Kelly, ex. '36, is in the undertaking business in Rockville Center, New York.

Sam Gibbons, ex. '36, is living in Greenwich Village in New York, and is attending Grand Central Art School.

Scoop Moran, the reformed editor, from his fortress at 61 East 95th Street, New York City, comes forth to battle the Hochreiter prestige:

I bumped into so many classmates, students, alumni, faculty member, etc., in the course of the Army week-end, that I can't remember half the information that was passed on to me. Downtown New York resembled South Bend after a football game, with Notre Dame crowding every hotel, street corner, theater, and sidewalk.

As to the class of '36: Bill Gillespie and Johnny Hopkins are both working in the New York Curb Exchange. Bill Flannery and Dan Hanrahan are with Ed Purcell & Company, brokers, while other Wall Streeters include Jack Robinson and Tom Downing, who are runners for two of the investment houses.

Journalism has claimed Homer Strickler, who is on the editorial staff of the New York Sun, and Joe Schmidt who is with the advertising department of the same paper. Ray Deely is reported as working for the New York Daily News, while Lindsay Phoebus was for a time city reporter with the Cumberland, (Md.) Daily News.

Half of the '36 seems to be going to law school to judge by the number who are continuing their studies on other campi. Bill Walsh is at Fordham, Howie Cusack was reported as delving into Blackstone somewhere in the city, John Coyne is at Harvard, and a score of others are elsewhere. Charley Clark informed me that he is working during the day, and going to Fordham at night.

Frank Murray is at Cornell Medical School here in the city, John was east for the Ohio State game but we missed each other. (We'll continue to work on the Banas address, Louis. The last we heard Steve was working at the Bethlehem Steel Company in Lackawanna, New York.)

Missives came from all parts of the country the past month, both coasts having answered the call. From Washington; D. C. came a letter from the Wheeling, West Virginia boy—Al Loritsch. Al told us that he has been in Washington "nine months and has seen only the top of the President's head." What his capitol business is, Al did not say. (How about a tip on that, Al?) He did volunteer information, however.

Late in October Al spent the weekend in New York City and saw Jim McDevitt. Jim is still working; more than that we do not know.

Al made the Navy game with Roy Scholz and Vic Arcadi. They discovered that their seats were adjacent to those of Matt Brown and friend. Matt is in Washington where he holds down a government job and attends Georgetown's night school in Foreign Service. We finally have something on Bob Henneberger. We hear that he is attending Georgetown Law School.

It comes to our ears that Vail Cliff has joined the Naval Reserve. The full story on this we do not have at the moment but we are investigating it. Perhaps Vail will drop up a line on it himself.

All the way from Frisco comes an epistle from Phil Purcell. Phil is a member of the Olympic Club out there. He has been working with a general agency insurance firm named Rathbone, King and Seeley for nearly a year and a half. But that is not all. Phil is in the second year session of the Night Law School at the University of San Francisco (a Jesuit institution). The following swell news comes from the western correspondent.

Fred Shanley is still out in Frisco. He worked for some time with the Bank of America, and is now situated with an accounting firm.

John "Moose" Ryan arrived in Oakland a little over a year ago, and is working with the Hydraulic Dredging Company in that city. John is married to the former Bernadette McDonough of Chicago.

Not long back Bill Sheehan left the East to seek his fortunes in the sunny climes of the coast. As yet, not much luck.

Jim Marr, ex '35, has left the Texas ranges, and is now in Los Angeles working in the Trust Department of some bank out there.

We learn that Gerry Doyle is in Fort Wayne. He is employed by the Journal Gazette.

We have another medico in the outfit. Bill Bernard is putting his time in at microscoping at medical school in St. Louis.

Next we have a letter from Dick Hyde out Iowa way. Dick is selling advertising and trailers for the Parrot Film Company in Des Moines, and, as a side line is a co-operator of a retail coal concern. He, too, has passed on some prolific material for our edification.

Dick says that he hears that Joe Underkofler has been coaching in the northern part of the state (we believe it is Iowa) but he is not sure where. (We have no info on that, Dick. Perhaps Joe will give us an answer to this notice.)

Bill Coen, passing through the Iowa city, dropped in on Dick for a visit.

Last summer we saw Ed Simpson in Chi, and, at that time Ed was getting ready to associate himself with the Illinois Bell Telephone Company. No verification on this either.

Bernie O'Brien is still with the Parks Commission in the Windy City.

In the middle of November we found a letter in our box from Frank Vukovich. (We sincerely appreciate your identifying information, Frank.) Frank is the secretary of the Gogebic Range Notre Dame Club of Ironwood, Michigan. At the moment, and since graduation, Frank has been working with the Gogebic Auto Company, Inc. of Ironwood. As we make it out from the letterhead, Frank and his brothers are the managers of said concern.

(The addresses you desire are as follows, Frank: Robert C. Byrnes, 2172 Maplewood Road, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; John P. Sagartz, 6355 Raven Street, Chicago, Illinois.)

Frank has volunteered the dope on several of the gang. Don Bonk, ex '35, is still studying the law at the University of Wisconsin. With Don is Jim Sullivan, ex. '35, of Chicago. Do we need to freshen your memories? They were two of our number who aided in making St. Casimir and St. Hedwig famous.

Paul Nockels, ex. '35, was graduated from Creighton University last Summer with a law degree. Paul was formerly from Carroll, Iowa, but, after the death of his father he moved to California, where he is preparing for the bar of that state. Address—128 South Camden Drive, Beverly Hills.

Our barrister friend of '34-'35 days, Bill "Bunk" Kennedy, was elected to the office of County Attorney in native Iowa during the stormy days of early November.

"Doc" Murphy is at Yale Med, Sal Costa is in the Harvard Business School, while Bill Walsh reports that Red McNally, who is over at Oxford, complains that the English never heard of central heating.

Accountants in the city include Jim Kirby from Portland, Oregon, who is now living at the West Side Y.M.C.A., Al Carey, and some others whose names escape me at the moment. Tom Grady is at Northwestern for advanced accounting.

Working for the big department stores are Fred Deichman, who is in the advertising department of Gimbel's, Joe Waldron, who is with B. Altman, I believe, and Dick Baker, who is in the merchandising division of another department store.

Dan Sullivan and Bob Stapp are working for the Furness-Bermuda steamship line, and both report having seen a bit of the sea since receiving their degrees last June.

Radio has claimed Joe Mansfield, who is working in Providence, Rhode Island, according to Doc Murphy and Sherb Herrick, who is an announcer and advertising man with Station WOKO, a member of the Columbia Broadcasting System at Albany.

Someone reported seeing Joe McGrath at the Navy game in Baltimore. Joe is continuing in his old ways on the dirt track, and may possibly run in New York this winter. George Milton is with his dad's concern, the G. Milton Can Company. George reports that Paul Cummings is living out near him in Brooklyn, I believe. Joe Ratigan is taking advanced English at either Penn or Penn State, in addition to dabbling a bit in insurance.

Carmi Belmont is teaching at the Fall River (Mass.) High School, while Hank McDonald is working in the Western Union office at Broadway and 75th Street.

Jess Hawley joins me in the government service. Jess is working for the Commerce Commission down in Washington, and going to law school at the same time. Bill Buckley is working for a finance company upstate in Connecticut.

Seen around here during the week-end were John Ryan, Paul Krause, Ed Sullivan, Joe Barber, Bill Belden, Phil Clarke, Ed Donahue, Ed Hammer, and a score of others who paraded through the McAlpin lobby, the New Yorker, the Astor, and the Pennsylvania. From Chicago came Jim O'Keefe, Van Baur, Tom Grady, and several others.

Someone reported that John Flynn is working in the American Legation over in deah old London, but I couldn't verify it.

Andy Hufnagle and Cliff Brown, who is out taking law at Notre Dame, shared my bed over week-end, while I bunked on the sofa in the living room. Bud Goldman and Lindsay Phoebus were scheduled to be on hand for the week-end, but unfortunately couldn't make it.

As for myself, I am now busy on Social Security investigations for the Internal Revenue Department, and have gotten so that I can now spot a delinquent tax payer at seven paces.

More dope from Uncle Sam Moran! He had seen Ed Donahue, Jim Sherry and Bill Quirk at recent Fordham games in New York. (Bet he gets free tickets!) Ed is at medical school, Jim is with the Chevrolet company in Tarrytown, New York, and Bill is a stock selector with a New Jersey firm.

According to Moran—you can believe him if you want to,—Frank Murray's address is the West Side Y.M.C.A., 5 West 63rd Street, New York City, when Frank isn't attending Cornell Medical School. Joe Reppetti, '28, is working with Moran in the internal revenue business in New York. Joe was recently married.

An Opportunity in a Fast-Growing Industry!

To those seeking a field of endeavor that is not overcrowded, and in which the rewards for the exercise of brains and energy are considerably above the average, there is now offered an exceptional opportunity—a dealership in Palace Travel Coaches. The possibilities are great! The capital required is small! And, most important of all, it is a business that, while comparatively new, is universally acknowledged as one that is destined to rival that of the automobile in the not far distant future!
