Communism Opposed on All N. D. Fronts

Association's Program, Announced in December, Meets
Hearty Approval of Individual Members and Club
Officers; Meetings Planned Nationally for January 25

The proposed program to offset the influences of subversive agencies, particularly Communism, as announced in the December ALUMNUS by President Arthur J. Hughes, is meeting with nation wide approval and action from alumni.

The Local Alumni Club section of this issue reflects the response of the Clubs.

The meetings to be held on January 25 by the Clubs are assured the national scope President Hughes planned in his announcement.

These meetings are to be held under the auspices of the local Notre Dame alumni. But it is the plan and the hope of the Association that each meeting will find present at these meetings other local agencies and individuals who share with Notre Dame men that ambition to protect our principles of morality, of government and of home which is the motive of this drive.

War veterans who fought to protect America; people of other faiths who nevertheless cherish a belief in God and in the essential place of religion in our civilization; labor men who recognize that in Christianity and its support of the rights of the individual there is more hope than in the highest concept of the regimented Red worker; the schoolmen, who must see in the doctrines of the materialistic state the end of academic freedom and progress; fathers and mothers, whose sacrifices are daily proof of the sanctity of the home and the divine nature of marriage; the children for whom these sacrifices have been made, and for whom they will be nullified by the social devastation of materialistic doctrines;—all these should find in these meetings a common interest and a common cause.

For this reason, meetings should not involve handicaps which can be avoided.

They should be centrally accessible.

They should compress time.

They should be without cost to the outside guest wherever feasible.

They should present our position as President Hughes has outlined it.

And they should, with the cooperative suggestion of these affiliated interests, map a local program within the scope of the group resources.

When this has been done, much will have been done. And the foundation will be strongly laid.

For those alumni interested individually or as leaders of groups, the following pamphlets are excellent in brief, vivid presentation of data on Communism:

Just What Is Communism? by Rev. Raymond Feely, S. J.; The Tactics of Communism, by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fulton sheen; and the reprint of Morals and Moscow under the title of Communism and Morals, by Father Feely.

Exercises Memorializing

THE LATE

FATHER J. A. NIEUWLAND, C.S.C.

Will be held at Notre Dame

SUNDAY, JANUARY 10, 1937

There will be a solemn high Mass in the morning at 9 o'clock, and a program which will begin at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon in which some of the most noted scientists of this country, Canada and Europe will participate. Papers will be presented by Dr. Hugh Scott Taylor of Princeton, Dr. George D. Birkhoff of Harvard, Mr. William Stanfield Calcott, Director of the Jackson Laboratories, E. I du Pont de Nemours Co., Dr. Marcus Ward Lyon, formerly assistant curator, the U. S. National Museum, Brother Marie Victorin of the University of Montreal, and Dr. Arthur Haas, professor of Physics, University of Notre Dame and recently of the University of Vienna.

THE ALUMNI, AND PARTICULARLY THOSE OF THE COLLEGE OF SCIENCE, ARE INVITED.

Two pamphlets of particular missionary value in the crusade, for the Clubs interested in spreading their work, are A Catechism of Communism for Catholic High School Students, by a Passionist Father, and a forthcoming pamphlet by Father Feely, A Study Club Outline on Communism.

All of the above pamphlets are available from the Paulist Press, 401 W. 59th St., New York City, at five cents each; $3.50 the 100, and $30.00 the 1,000.

Father Feely has summed up, in what he admits is a complex but significant definition, Communism as it is understood in the enlistment of the strength of the Alumni Association against its encroachments:

"Communism is a materialistic philosophy of life which advocates the establishment of a dictatorship of the proletariat in all countries throughout the world by violent revolution or by any means which may be deemed necessary in order to ultimately arrive at and preserve a classless society, in which there shall be no private ownership, and in which all property shall be vested in the community as a whole, and all labor and human activities organized for the common benefit by a centralized group of workers' representatives."

As a concrete stimulus for some of the clubs in strategic positions for constructive activity, the Congressional committee investigating Communist propaganda reported two years ago that Communist district headquarters in this country existed in the following cities: Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Bismarck, N. Dak., Seattle, San Francisco, New Haven, Charlotte, N. Car., Birmingham, Denver and Butte.

For important, concise compilation of similar concrete facts, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has a pamphlet, on request, titled: Combating Subversive Activities In the United States.

Qualters Named Roosevelt Bodyguard

Former Student Chosen
From Massachusetts Police

Thomas J. Qualters, of Somerville, Massachusetts, pre-law student at Notre Dame from 1925 to 1928 who was appointed bodyguard to President Roosevelt to succeed the late Gus Gennerich, has among his most prized possessions a letter from the late Knute K. Rockne praising his football, scholastic work and coaching ability.

Tom played for two years with the Notre Dame B squad. He was active in football during preparatory school days and after leaving Notre Dame became a teacher and football coach in both preparatory and high schools. He joined the Massachusetts state police in 1933 and met the President while serving as bodyguard to his son, James, during the last political campaign.

Tom's brother troopers at the state police barracks in Andover, Massachusetts, were "tickled to death" by news of his appointment but were sorry to have him leave their ranks.

"I don't think the President could have picked a better man for the job," said Corporal Arthur O'Leary.

In Tom, the President will have as a guard 185 pounds of bone and muscle, distributed over a five-foot, 10 inch frame. He has serious blue eyes and dark, curly hair. Single, Tom has made his home with his parents and two sisters in Somerville. He is 32.

He was a member of Brig. Gen. Daniel Needham's prize state police class of 1933 in Massachusetts. In that class of 25 the then commissioner of public safety had 22 college graduates.

"Qualters is an unusual type," said Corporal O'Leary. "He has wide interests, is very alert, and a good investigator. Football has remained his hobby, although he likes riding and is an excellent horseman.

"He has done considerable public speaking in campaigning for highway safety and he is just as much at ease before a women's club as when addressing a group of school children."

Sullivans Lead on Campus

Other Gaels
Close Behind

The Sullivans have it! According to the new student directory of Notre Dame these hardy sons of Erin have 31 names in their group, more than any other clan on the campus.

Other Gaelic names press for the head of the list. The Kelleys with 28 and the Murphys with 17 are next. Other typical Irish-named numbering more than 10 are the Ryans, Brennans, Foleys and Doyles.

The large number of students of Irish ancestry is particularly noticeable this year. Observe O'Connor, O'Hara, O'Laughlin, O'Brien, O'Neill, O'Shaughnessy, Mulligan, Casey, Rooney, McGuire, Gallagher, Moriarity and Flannagan. And O'Toole.

Famous names (with the exception of the Irish) are conspicuous by their absence in this directory. John McCormack, William Shakespeare, Walter Hagen and John Braddock are the only ones listed. The longest name listed is Schiappacasse, while the shortest are of three letters; Beh is one. There is a Brew as well as a Beer listed. The directory includes a Good and a Gentle and a Meaney.

Several of the trades and professions appear: a Baker, Barber, Carpenter, Mason, Miller and Tanner. Two Judges and a Merchant are among the middle-class representatives, while royalty has seven Kings and two Kaisers; there is a Duke too, and a Pope for the clergy.

If you are thinking of building a house, the directory offers Brick, Glass, Woods and a Crane. The comic sheet has its representatives in Tillie and Mack with that viper Fagan hovering in the background. There is also a Bride but no Groom.

The two places of honor, the first name in the book and the last, are held by Eli Abraham, a graduate student of South Bend, and Joseph Zwiers, senior commerce student from Grand Rapids, Mich. Between these two are nearly 3,000 names of various kinds from 48 states, the District of Columbia and 12 foreign countries. New York state leads the pack with 473, while Nevada and Delaware go to the other extreme, boasting only one student each.

Such conventional names as Brown, Jones and Smith have considerably dwindled in this directory. Of course, if one cared to go to the other extreme, he might wrestle with Cizek, Ptak, Hrachovec, Semczyszyn and Niespodziany.

Believing the Poets

(A Radio Address)

By Professor Andrew T. Smithberger

Wherein Are Pointed Out Some of the Essential Differences Between the Surface "Facts" of Daily Living and the Deep Probing of Poetry

When Orlando said that neither rhyme nor reason could express how much he loved his Rosalind he gave currency to a thought that has persisted for some minds to our own day: that there is some sort of antipathy between poetry and truth, or between poetry and prose, or perhaps between poetry and the ordinary facts of life. Alliteration, too, may have something to do with keeping such a phrase alive, for we have the companion expression, "fact and fancy."

Somehow or other we in this fast-moving modern age have the notion that there is no time for poetry. We can't be bothered. There are too many things to do. Besides, we want "the dope"; we must have the facts. If there is one thing that distinguishes this age it is our taking pride in our information, in our getting the facts. One does not need to go very far in a discussion before he hears some such interruption as, "Yes, but what are the facts?" Or, somebody will preface a statement with "Believe it or not," or else with "As a matter of fact." In brief, we want the facts. The word want, however, is double-edged: it means to desire ardently and it means to lack. Perhaps our craving for mere information, for the facts, discloses not only our insufficiency but also our deficiency.

Breeding the Welsh Rabbit

One could very easily illustrate how in our zeal for getting the facts we often get them wrong, miss them altogether, or distort them in such a way as to get just the opposite meaning from them. How often we see the word adviser misspelled! Perhaps a newspaper reporter will write of something that transpired when as a matter of fact—note how all of us are interested in getting the facts—he only meant that it happened, and he had no intention at all of inferring that this something became known gradually. How often we read of a replica, when only a copy or reproduction is meant! Strictly speaking, a replica is a copy or reproduction made by the maker of the original. In our cold, rationalizing manner we come to the conclusion that a dish of toasted or melted cheese should not be named Welsh Rabbit, and hence we assume the prerogative of calling it rarebit. But whether it be a rarebit, or just a common dish, the correct name for it is Welsh rabbit—a joke, to be sure, from the very beginning: a fancy name was devised for this dish, just as "Cape Cod turkey" is sometimes applied to the humble codfish.

A Shirt-Sleeve Definition

All of us make mistakes, we know, and all of us refuse to stick to facts all the time. We who pride ourselves on our information come to realize at one time or another that we can't keep up with the increase of knowledge. Some of you will recall that years ago you learned the capital of Russia as St. Petersburg. During the World War you had to relearn it as Petrograd. Then a while later it became Leningrad, still the same city. Now I hear that the capital is Moscow. And finally I am apprised of the fact that the name of the country is not even Russia any longer, but U. S. S. R. Indeed, brevity is the soul of some facts.

Now, the poet is interested just as much in facts as we prosaic persons are, but he is interested in something more. Poetry is a matter of fact and reason, but it is something more. Poets wish to concern themselves chiefly with the eternal truths of life. And poetry does not spurn truth or fact; indeed, its main concern is "truth carried alive into the heart by passion." Aristotle, that master mind of the ancient world, recognized the supreme quality of poetry when he declared: "Poetry is a more philosophical and a higher thing than history: for poetry tends to express the universal, history, the particular."

The poet, then, is not a man of mere fancy; and poetry is by no means the antithesis of reason. The poet has a way of moving us to the largest possible number of thoughts by the use of the fewest possible words. Of, if we must have a definition of the art, I prefer the one by the late E. A. Robinson: "Poetry is a language that tells us through a more or less emotional reaction something that cannot be said." For one thing, it cannot be said in any other words; and for another thing, it cannot be said at all, but we are made to feel the truth of what the poet has incorporated in his poem or has suggested by it. And for long afterwards we feel the truth of what the poet says, because he says it is in a memorable way. Literature is, as we know, memorable speech; and if a practical, shirt-sleeves definition of poetry will be pardoned, we might say that poetry is the most memorable speech. Poets deal with images, that is, they are forever looking for the similarities between facts, things, and ideas; and therefore we do not easily forget what they have to say.

Escape Into Reality

Let me illustrate; let me show how it is done. The poet assumes that you are familiar with a clock dial divided into the twelve hours, and with the concentric circles of waves made by a stone tossed into a body of still water. Hence, in telling us of the relation between time and eternity Beddoes made use of this common-knowledge:

I have said that Time
Is a great river running to Eternity.
Methinks 'tis all one water, and the fragments
That crumble off our ever-dwindling life,
Dropping into it, first make the twelve-hour circle,
And that spreads outward to the great round
Ever.

I am deliberately taking examples from poets whose names are unknown or almost forgotten because I do not wish to scare anybody away by the use of "big names." I am not going to quote from Shakespeare or Milton or Wordsworth. They are well known and their fame is secure.

A second example: You have probably wondered how you might enjoy more of the beauty in life, the beauty that is around you every day. The poets, even the minor poets, if you will read and believe them, will help you to observe and remember and have greater zest for the ordinary things and the everyday events of life.

Let us suppose that you are fond of birds and their songs, and have perhaps envied the Englishman for having both the skylark and the nightingale. A good friend of mine of a number of years ago, Charles G. Matthews, gave pleasure not only to himself but to others as well in writing a sonnet entitled "Home Talent." This is the sonnet:

In this too northern land the nightingale
Ne'er sings when spring awakes her muse
the rose;
And when the cloudy fleet of dawn sets sail
No skylark greets it from my garden close.
But here the homely robin sings his lay;
The flicker calls afar and beats his drum;
The eager swifts are on their arrowy way;
And stately flights of grackles go and come.
At noon the catbird in his covert mews:
The cardinal is on his chosen bough;
The ruby-throat flits where the lily brews;
The dove's low coo is like a virgin's vow;
And when the twilight falls so silently,
The reverent thrush exclaims, "Abide with me!"

Many people object to the view of life as presented by poets and philosophers because to them this view represents an escape from reality, from life. If the truth were told, however, the great poets and the great philosophers are those who escape not from reality but into reality. They are extremely eager to face the facts, to get at the truth of the matter. They are true friends of humanity.

No Dark Room Monopoly

Neither poets nor philosophers are like blind men in a dark cellar looking for a black cat that is not there. Rather, they face the facts indoors or out, by night or day. Poets of the past may have lived in garrets, for all we know, but now we like to think of them dwelling high in a tower with ideas, observations, feelings, and the conclusion from the facts. From this vantage point they from time to time

... utter wisdom from the central deep
And, listening to the inner flow of things
Speak to the age out of eternity.

Though we recognize the value of thought and beauty and idealism, it is curious that poets and philosophers are usually singled out for being impractical. But it may be asked in reply, Have we balanced the budget? It is the easiest thing in the world to poke fun at the medieval philosophers who may or may not have wasted time arguing over how many spirits could find room on the point of a needle, but they at any rate were interested in spiritual matters and were trying to solve problems that could not be measured at once in space or time. Nowadays we have arguments at naval conferences over the matter of parity, trying to decide how many battleships a country is to build. Here is a tangible, visible thing, extremely matter of fact, and yet the nations are unable to agree for any length of time. Have we progressed so very much? Are we so very logical, so very practical, after all?

Long before, yes, about four centuries before Newton, "voyaging through strange seas of thought alone," interested the world in the law of gravitation, Dante had written of the center of the earth as

That point, to which from every part is dragged
All heavy substance.

The development of aviation is certainly of our own time, yet it is well known what Tennyson nearly a hundred years ago prophesied about the conquest of the air; and nearly a quarter of a century before Tennyson's Locksley Hall, Shelley had written of man's hope in these words:

The tempest is his steed, he strides the air.

Poetic Prophecies

And above all we must remember the dreams of all those wonderful Greeks of more than two thousand years ago who in their poetic flights soared on the wings of Icarus. As a college student wrote seven or eight years past: "Man did not learn to fly by studying air currents or by learning wing tensions—he is not a reasoning, but an imagining, a dreaming animal. He watched the birds, and envied them, and dreamed of equaling them. And did! He took to the air on the very wings of Fancy."

These are indeed exceptional prophecies from the poets, and as such are exceptions. In order to be fair, one should perhaps point out some of the anachronisms in the plays of Shakespeare, or note that Keats gave credit to Cortez for the discovery of the Pacific Ocean, or that Coleridge has his ancient mariner seeing a star within the nether tip of the horned moon. But all this would only go to prove that poets are human, very human after all. Doubtless it is well to have an occasional discord, so that the harmony will be more prized.

I have mentioned the old story of the philosophers debating over the number of spirits who could secure comfort in an infinitesimal space. I suppose the modern counterpart of this would be our scientists who are engrossed with the vagaries or the love life of protons and electrons. More power to them! It must be an interesting quest. Some of you may have noticed, moreover, this recent barrage of letters from people throughout the country who are arguing whether snakes swallow their young at the approach of serious danger. Again, is it a fact that an ostrich buries its head in the sand in order to escape detection? Well, it makes a good story anyway.

KANALEY IDENTIFIES TEAM

"I think the men in this picture, from left to right as you look at the picture, are Happy Lonergan, right end, Al Fortin, right tackle, Fat Winters, right guard, John Pick, center, Nace Gillen, left guard, Jim Farragher, left tackle, Jim Doar, left end, Studie Lins, right halfback, Red Salmon, fullback, Ralph Glynn, left halfback, and Hal Davitt, quarterback.

"Happy Lonergan is a prominent public utility attorney in Portland, Oregon. Al Fortin is practicing law in Chicago. Fat Winters lives in Pittsburgh. I saw John Pick at the Old Timers' Reunion at South Bend. He lives in West Bend, Wisconsin, where they have been a very prominent family for three generations.

"Nace Gillen is dead. Jim Farragher, if alive, I think lives in Youngstown, Ohio. Jim Doar is dead. Studie Lins is in Tucumcari, New Mexico, where he is in the manufacturing business. Red Salmon occupies a highly responsible place in the Healy Engineering Organization.

"Ralph Glynn is in the lumber business in St. Paul, Minnesota. I see Al Fortin, John Pick and Lou Salmon fairly often. Studie Lins greeted the football team on the way to Southern California at Tucumcari, New Mexico. I went to the Ohio State game with Ralph Glynn a year ago."

Joking apart, the last question of all seems to be, Are we going to be content with mere facts, which are the froth, or are we going to dip into the deep water, into the wisdom of life? Or, in other words, shall we be satisfied with the externals of knowledge or science, or shall we rather seek "the breath and finer spirit of all knowledge"? The mere facts of an age are evanescent. The great truths of life, such as we find in the best poetry, are deep and abiding. The mere record of facts, the account of the news of the world, is being rewritten every day, from year to year, even the history of the World War. Woodrow Wilson, himself a historian, touched the heart of the matter when he said: "There is more of a nation's politics to be got out of its poetry than out of all its systematic writers upon public affairs and constitutions. . . . It is not knowledge that moves the world, but ideals, convictions, the opinions or fancies that have been held or followed." And these opinions, convictions, ideals are what we get from poetry.

FOOTBALL

When we assured you after the Pitt game that there was no real cause for alarm concerning Notre Dame's 1936 football team, and used the 1925 season as a parallel with that of 1936, we had no idea that we had made one of the major prophecies of the season.

Perhaps the most unusual feature of the season just ended, Elmer Layden's third as head coach, was its remarkable similarity to the late Knute Rockne's 1925 record. Rock had lost the Horsemen, Mules and Stable boys of 1924 in great numbers. Layden had lost 19 lettermen, including all but two of his regulars. In 1925 the team won its first three games and lost to Army, 27 to 0. In 1936 the Irish won their first three and lost to another Eastern opponent, Pittsburgh, 26 to 0. Each team came back to defeat a strong Big Ten opponent, Minnesota in 1925, and Ohio State in 1936. The only difference when the last game had been played was that in 1925 Rock's green team won 7 games, lost 2, and tied one, while in 1936 Layden's team won 6 games, lost 2, and tied one. In other words, Notre Dame probably could have played Minnesota the first quarter, Washington the second quarter, L.S.U. the third quarter, and the Green Bay Packers the fourth quarter and still have won the extra game, had the schedule called for ten games.

The boys went to a lot more trouble, at any rate, to lose one and tie one than they probably would have had to in order to win the mythical game just mentioned. They had to throw scoring opportunities to the winds to let Navy win, 3 to 0—not that Navy didn't fight for its three points. And in the finale, they had to play one of the wildest games of football ever seen to let Southern California tie, 13-all.

But, having covered the first eight games of the season in more detail in earlier issues, we shall content ourselves with a brief review of the last one.

Notre Dame, 13; Southern Cal, 13

Able historians all, the Irish, one fourth of whom are honor students, must have decided to let history repeat itself in a big way by allowing the Trojans of Southern California to score an upset tie in the finale. This rounded out the picture which made Layden's season comparable in almost every detail to Rockne's in 1925. Notre Dame marched promptly to a touchdown after the opening kickoff, Wilke scoring on a four-yard cutback to the right. In the second quarter, Dave Schindler of S.C. broke through his left guard and went 14 yards before tossing a lateral pass to Berryman, who went another 60 yards to score against the surprised shock troops.

Movies of the game indicate that the ball traveled forward instead of laterally, but the officials were not in a position to rule on this point. Layden rushed the regulars back into the game a few minutes later and they stormed to the Trojans' 9-yard stripe where it was first down. Bud Langley, however, intercepted Wilke's pass to Puplis on his one-yard line, and raced 99 yards along the sidelines to score. How Referee Tom Louttit ran interference for him inadvertently until spilled by Larry Danbom is the basis of considerable newspaper discussion even at this late date, and there's no need to repeat the details.

Opening the third period, the regulars sped to a touchdown, the scoring play having been a 15-yard pass from Wilke to McCormick. Puplis added the placement that tied the score. At one stage the officials missed an important detail which cost the Irish a touchdown. This occurred when Jack McCarthy punted to Schindler, who tried to avoid the ball deep in his own territory. The ball struck him, as he readily admitted after the game, and rolled into the end zone where Ed Beinor recovered for the Irish. It was no go, however, for no one in authority to rule on the play saw the ball hit Schindler. To add to the amazing set of circumstances surrounding this game, it should be noted that the Irish made 18 earned first downs to one on a penalty for S.C., the only time in the memory of the oldest coast fans that a Southern California eleven has been held without a first down from rushing, passing, or lateral passing.

BASKETBALL

All the dope sheets in the world could not give a good inkling of what Notre Dame will do in basketball this year. After winning its three warm-up games with ease, the team underwent a series of misfortunes which were instrumental in, if not entirely responsible for, its near-collapse.

All-American Center Paul Nowak had undergone an appendectomy in October which has kept him below form in starts to date. All-American Forward John Moir suffered a broken jaw in the second game of the season which, while it doesn't prevent his playing, has lessened his efficiency to a great degree. Captain Ray Meyer, hampered by a knee injury received last season, recently lost his mother. After keeping vigil at her bedside through two entire nights, and after suffering the pain of losing her, he returned the night after her death to play against Macomb Teachers—because she had asked him in her last words to carry on as captain as if nothing had happened. In this game he received a broken blood vessel in his foot which put him at less than half speed for the games with Northwestern and Illinois.

Add to these misfortunes the graduation of a very capable team composed of Co-Captain Johnny Ford and Johnny Hopkins, forwards; Co-

Captain Marty Peters, center; Frank Wade and George Ireland, guards, and the fact that several promising basketball candidates were unable to report until after the Southern California trip ended December 9 because they are also footballers, and you can realize the trials Coach George Keogan has encountered.

By mid-January a better estimate of the team's all-around strength can be made. Nowak, Moir and Meyer should be back in condition. The two guards, Tommy Jordan and Tommy Wukovits, will have had first team experience, and a chance to practice with their now ailing mates to an extent sufficient to enable them to show their best; and the footballers will have become loose enough to turn in their best work. Then if the club doesn't click, Coach Keogan may as well start building for next year.

A glance back through the records, however, shows that Notre Dame basketball teams have seldom been strong in their early games. Usually they start clicking just after the holidays and continue to click until March. History having treated us so well this past football season, we'll count on history repeating in basketball and Coach Keogan maintaining his .750 winning percentage, possibly adding to it.

Jacques' Murals Finished

Final Four Are Placed in Cathedral

Professor Emil Jacques, head of the Art Department of the University, completed in August the work of six years with the installation of the final four panels of a series of nine modern mural paintings in the Immaculate Conception Cathedral in Portland, Oregon.

The Flemish professor painted the panels on canvas. The largest is 32 feet long and six feet wide. Oil and gold leaf were the principal mediums used. Throughout the entire series the colorings are attractively luminous. Venetian reds, soft greens, coppers, ethereal blues, mystic whites, scarlets, soft earth tones, all leading back to the Madonna and the white of the Christ Child's garments, draw the composition into religious symbolism.

An arresting feature of the murals is the extreme humanization and modernization of the figures. The faces are easily recognized as those of the man and the woman on the street. This marks a departure from the ancient religious paintings whose figures and faces possessed an archaic and impersonalized dignity. Close friends of Rev. Eugene Burke, C.S.C., of Notre Dame, will recognize him as the priest depicted in one of the murals. In like manner, followers of Notre Dame's football fortunes may recognize Irish stars of the last few years in the faces of the cherubs. The murals thus emphasize that religion is primarily for the people of today.

Professor Jacques was born at Moorslede near Ypres. Educated at the Royal Academy of Fine Arts in Antwerp and at the Institut Supérieur des Beaux Arts of Belgium, he came to America following the world war. Grief over the loss of his young wife caused him to leave his native land. It was his desire to paint some day some huge religious murals, pouring out his soul in an immense and lasting prayer. America, where many new churches are being built, seemed to offer that opportunity. It proved a happy choice.

Along with the administrative duties and teaching in Notre Dame's department of art, Professor Jacques carried on the work that was his pleasure, the painting of the murals for Portland's cathedral. He makes his home on the Notre Dame campus and does his work here.

"Bulletin" Is Read by 150,000

Mailed Circulation About 5,000;
More Than 800 Schools Receive Copies

Do you know that the Religious Bulletin now has a mail circulation of some 5000, that it is sent to more than 800 schools and that the total number of its readers is, conservatively, 150,000?

The following excerpt from the Bulletin of October 23 tells you the unusual story:

"Tomorrow, October 24, is the fifteenth anniversary of the Religious Bulletin, which Father O'Hara began on October 24, 1921, with an issue of seven copies—one for each of the halls then in operation at the University, one for off-campus students. The little publication was first entitled 'Mission Bulletin'; its initial purpose was to call attention to certain abuses observed on the first day of the Mission of that year. Other abuses on succeeding days of the Mission brought other Bulletins.

"The Mission ended, and so did the Bulletin. But students began to ask for more; and they got them. The present title was adopted, and issues appeared two or three times a week. Then a request was made for a daily issue, and this demand also was met. Carbon copies remained the rule for three years thereafter—mimeographing began in September, 1924. Even then, copies were furnished for only a limited number of students—for those who called for their Bulletins at the Prefect of Religion's office, and for a few friends outside the University who would understand local conditions and would see in the text the exaggerated outlines of a caricature.

"In October, 1929, the University decided to furnish each student with a copy daily, and to mail the Bulletin to alumni and friends who might ask for it. The number of off-campus students was large at that time, and some eight hundred copies were mailed to this group. The mailing list outside the vicinity began to grow by leaps and bounds; today it numbers some 5,000, including more than 800 schools, in most of which it is posted or read daily by the students.

"A very conservative estimate of the number of readers today is 150,000. It goes to nearly every state in the Union, and to fifteen foreign countries. Its mailing, and the correspondence which it brings, requires a considerable portion of the time of eight secretaries.

"Why is it read by students? The best answer is that it deals with questions that the students themselves bring in, and it aims to discuss these questions in the plain, direct language of the students themselves. The background of its arguments are the principles of Catholic faith and morals—and that's a solid background.

"Extremely fortunate is the Bulletin to carry for its readers the brilliant writings of the famous and gifted Arnold Lunn. Mr. Lunn is now lecturing at the University in the field of apologetics. On its birthday, the Bulletin thanks Mr. Lunn publicly for his unusual kindness.

"A prayer for the success of the Bulletin is always in order. An anniversary certainly suggests such a prayer. Father O'Hara had recourse to St. Joseph, 'who always made apparently difficult Bulletins easy of composition.' Please ask St. Joseph ever to continue his patronage."

Clubs Start Plans for Meetings on January 25

Many of the club notes which follow show a definite indication of the enthusiasm with which the Notre Dame clubs throughout the country received the announcement of President Arthur J. Hughes with regard to Association's anti-Communist program. And it goes without saying that there are many plans in the making which are not, on account of the briefness of time since the announcement, publicized here.

The important and immediate thing, of course, is the series of club meetings in all parts of the country, planned for January 25. Some clubs have already made concrete plans for these. Others will have made them by the time this ALUMNUS gets into the mail. All without exception, the president of the Association hopes, will be definitely under way with plans soon after the first of the year.

A complete story of the campaign, with developments and suggestions, can be found on the first page of this issue of ALUMNUS.

CAPITAL DISTRICT (New York)

Richard S. Walsh, '31, 2191 Plaza, Schenectady, N. Y., President; John B. Land, '34, 4 Hedgewood Ave., Schenectady, Secretary.

The Notre Dame Club of the Capital District will hold a Christmas Dance for the benefit of its scholarship fund, on December 28, from 10 to 3, at the Hotel Ten Eyck, Albany.

Students returning from Notre Dame for the holidays, and their friends, have also been invited.

The Rockne Trophy, an annual award by the club to the winner of the Capital District Catholic high school league football championship, was presented to Christian Brothers Academy, Albany, Monday evening, December 7. At a banquet attended by the mayor of Albany, Andy Kerr, football coach at Colgate University, and 500 guests, Richard S. Walsh, president of the Notre Dame Club, presented the Rockne Trophy to the 1936 winners.

Dick Walsh.

Continuing in the high gear manifested in the Denver Special to the campus for the Ohio State game, the Denver Club, directed by President Bob Dick, received the football party in Denver on the return trip from Los Angeles. An outstanding and distinctive program was arranged.

Immediately upon arriving in Denver the party was taken on an automobile tour of the city and up Lookout Mountain nearby. Seven thousand feet up, at the top of Lookout Mountain, is Buffalo Bill's grave.

A luncheon for the party was served in the Denver Athletic Club. One of the guests of honor was Glen Morris, Olympic decathlon champion.

DETROIT

Gilbert F. Schaefer, '26, 17380 Monica, President; John W. Brennan, '27, 632 Fisher Bldg., Secretary.

Dr. Daniel O'Grady, of the Department of Philosophy, delivered, on December 11, the first of a series of Notre Dame lectures in Detroit, sponsored by the Detroit club. He will be followed on January 15 by Professor Clarence (Pat) Manion of the College of Law, who will talk on "Scrapping the Constitution." Pat will be followed by Christopher Hollis, outstanding English economist, writer and lecturer, who will return to the Notre Dame faculty for the second semester, and Father Charles Miltner, C.S.C., dean of the College of Arts and Letters.

The lectures are being held in the Detroit Institute of Art. John Brennan, secretary of the club, is the able, energetic and enthusiastic chairman in charge.

DES MOINES

Harry O'Boyle, '27, 2801 Grand Ave., President; Richard Hyde, '35, 678 26th St., Secretary.

Late bulletins from the corn kingdom.

The Notre Dame Club of Des Moines met on December 17 in the Fort Des Moines Hotel for a preliminary discussion and consideration of the current campaign against subversive influences in this country. Although such activity is very rare in this region, the association can count on our whole-hearted support in combating it. As yet Prexy O'Boyle has made no committee appointments, as the meeting was called on short notice and several men were unable to attend.

A group of our local men got together at Vic Becker's home December 5 to listen to the Southern Cal game. Vic has got a new house, and it has a game room of which he is justly proud. Present at the gathering were Jim Shaw, Harry O'Boyle, Harold and Fred Neu, Harold Klein and Carleton Beh.

A good news item concerns Harry O'Boyle. His Dowling College outfit annexed the state Catholic championship this Fall. Harry has had a good year so far and, from all reports, has a good basketball team coming up.

The latest number of the local proud fathers club is Harold Neu. Both Mrs. Neu and the little girl are doing fine. Harold pulled through all right, too.

We plan to have our next meeting the second Monday in January, and I will keep you informed about the progress we make in contacting prospective students and all other activities.

FORT WAYNE, INDIANA

Edward S. Sullivan, '24, 125 E. Suttentfield St., President; Maurice J. DeWald, '33, 2415 Hubertus St., Secretary.

In answer to the recent request, I have solicited the services of Henry Hasley to direct the part the Notre Dame Club of Fort Wayne willingly accepts in the Alumni Association's anti-Communist movement.

Mr. Hasley has done some work in the past along these lines, and I feel confident he is our most logical and able representative. He has asked that a little time be given him for choosing his assistants.

May I also include just a note concerning a change in officers of the club. Because of illness caused by sinus infection, Herman J. Centlivre will not be able to act as our secretary this year. In his place I have appointed Maurice J. DeWald, whom you will no doubt remember as our treasurer last year. Maurice has taken over the duties of secretary already, so any further correspondence you may have for such office of our club may be sent to him at 2415 Hubertus Street.

I know I am late with my news items for the month of November, but am sending them on with the hope that they will reach you in time for publication. [Ed's Note: They didn't. Sorry!]

The item of greatest interest is already known to you, namely, the death of Honorable John W. Egge-man. It is needless for me to tell you how much the Notre Dame Club of Fort Wayne will miss him.

On Saturday, November 14, 1936, the day of the Army-Notre Dame game a luncheon meeting was held in Parlor B of the Hotel Keenan. In addition to listening to the broadcast of the game the business consisted of electing officers for the ensuing year. The results of this election were as follows:

Edward S. Sullivan, president; Charles Reuss, vice-president; Herman Centlivre, secretary and Robert Sosenheimer, treasurer.

Henry Hasley and Frank Metrailler served on the nominating committee.

Thirty-three members were in attendance. Among the guests were Father Mooney and Father Over. Donnelly P. McDonald, our past president, presided.

C. Byron Hayes was re-elected Prosecuting Attorney of Allen County at the recent election.

Henry Hasley addressed the members of Crestline, Ohio Knights of Columbus council at the Discovery Day banquet given by the council on Sunday evening, October 11, 1936 in the local parish hall.

John Logan, recently graduated in law, is practicing in the offices of Townsend, Thomas and Hilgeman, 403 Standard Building, here in Fort Wayne.

GREATER LOUISVILLE

Raymond Pfeiffer, '32, 3032 Lexington Rd., Louisville, President; John B. Ratterman, Jr., ex. '32, 2114 W. Market St., Louisville, Secretary.

A Christmas dance, stag party, and the basketball game between Kentucky and N. D. shared honors at the meeting November 24. A good bunch of fellows turned out for the meeting. Each week we see new faces present.

The Christmas dance is in charge of Chairman Russ Leonard, '34, who hails from Frankfort Distilleries. The other committee men are Bob Burke, Jr., '36, of U. of L. law school, Pat Green, '29, assistant prosecuting attorney of the Louisville police department, Charles Schwartzel, '34, with his father in New Albany Box and Basket Company, and Tony Schreiner, '31, also of Frankfort Distilleries. You can imagine, with men as these, that the dance will be "tops." The boys picked Saturday, January 2, for the date.

The meeting Monday, December 21 likewise will be in the nature of a stag. The usual lunch and refreshments, of course, will be there in buffet style. This date has been selected especially to avail the students an opportunity to contact their local club at home.

Plans are under way for a special club section to be reserved at the basketball game when Notre Dame meets Kentucky. Tony Schreiner is in charge. The game will be played Tuesday, January 5, in Louisville.

Incidentally President Pfeiffer, '32, informed the fellows that very few had sent in their Alumni dues.

John B. Ratterman, Jr.

I have your letter of December 9 relative to the proposed fight against Communism.

It gives me great pleasure to be asked to have our club assist the Association in their fight against the "isms" of today. You can depend on us giving our full co-operation in backing this program. I personally believe it is the greatest advancement Notre Dame has ever made.

I am calling a meeting of the club to be held December 21, at which time I will ask the members to give our selected committee and myself their whole-hearted co-operation. At the present date, I have not appointed a committee, but will do so on December 21, at which time I will advise you the names of the men who will compose this committee. I will also see to it that we have another meeting on January 25, as requested by you.

KANSAS

Albert J. Gebert, '30, U. of Wichita, Wichita, Kansas, President; Dan Welchons, '30, 623 Elm St., Ottawa, Kansas, Secretary.

The alumni and present students in Kansas were to co-operate on December 26 in having a dance at the Salina Country Club, Salina, Kansas. Albert J. Schwartz, '37, of Salina, associate manager of football this year, was general chairman of the dance. Norb Schwartz, '33, and Norb Skelley, '25, both of Salina, were active in the arrangements on behalf of the alumni. A very laudable part of the plans was the extension of invitations, without charge, to prospective Notre Dame students in the area.

KANSAS CITY (Missouri-Kansas)

Robert Tyler, '29, 3616 Paseo Blvd., Kansas City, Mo., President; Charles E. Meyer, '29, 420 E. Armour Blvd., Kansas City, Mo., Secretary.

Rome Dugan will head our anti-Communism committee. Dan Foley, present district governor, Henry A. Burdick, Dr. Kevin Curran, Fred Mancuso, Henry Massman, Edward McGrath, Frank Tyler, Doctor Nigro, John O'Connor and the officers of the Kansas City Notre Dame Club will make up the remainder of the committee.

You may count on 100 per cent co-operation on the part of the men at Kansas City. It's a great undertaking. It has our best wishes and merits our strongest endeavors. Congratulations to our president, Mr. Hughes, and to yourself. May your work be amply repaid.

Robert M. Tyler.

A brilliant, star-studded show that, according to Jack Ledden, sports editor of the South Bend Tribune, "would cost $10 per ticket with no questions asked" was presented by the Los Angeles club in the Biltmore Hotel on the Friday night before the Southern Cal game. Attorney Joe Cunningham was master of ceremonies and his assistant was Nick Lukats.

Among those appearing on the program were Joe Morrison, Jack Moran, Buster Crabbe, Jim Tully, Ralph Murphy, Frank Sully, Vince Barnett, Will Ahern and Pat O'Brien.

The football coaching field was represented by Jimmy Phelan, Tom Lieb, Manny Vezie, Howard Jones, Frank Thomas, Bernie Bierman, Bill Spaulding, Larry Mullins, and Elmer Layden.

Bill Cerney showed the movies of the Ohio-N. D. game in such a masterful way that he was almost signed on the spot by Ralph Murphy, one of Universal's directors. Joe Scott, prominent attorney and Laetare medalist, spoke, particularly praising Cerney's skill in describing the pictures.

MONTANA

William B. Jones, '28, 411 Power Bldg., Helena, President; Rev. John Regan, '24, Bishop's House, Great Falls, Secretary.

A group of Notre Dame men were hosts at an informal dinner, Friday evening, November 27, in the Rainbow Hotel, Great Falls, Montana. The guests of the evening were His Excellency, Most Rev. Edwin V. O'Hara, bishop of Great Falls, Robert Reagan and his friend, Frank Jordan, both associated with Harry Stuhldreher on the coaching staff at the University of Wisconsin.

Bishop O'Hara is one of Notre Dame's most distinguished alumni, and is also a former professor at that institution. Bob Reagan, the "fighting center" of the teams of '23 and '24, stopped off with Frank to visit relatives of the latter before resuming the trip to the coast. Jordan never attended Notre Dame but he has been associated with Stuhldreher and Reagan so long at Villanova and Wisconsin that he seems to have absorbed some of the N.D. spirit, and was right at home with the group that gathered around the festive table.

To J. B. Sherlock, of Great Falls, one of the organizers of the Knights of Columbus Council at Notre Dame, was due the success of the evening. Those present included Joe Maronick, Clarence Beaulaurier, Len Regan, Frank Golob, E. Pat Egan, J. B. Sherlock, Rev. John Regan, and Bishop O'Hara, Mr. Jordan and Mr. Reagan.

(Rev.) John Regan.

Your letter of December 9, concerning the several Notre Dame Club activities in opposition to the communistic movement in this country, has been received. I think that this is a grand program, and I congratulate you and the other officers of the Alumni Association in undertaking it. I am particularly interested in this movement and will do all in my power to make it succeed here in Montana.

Because of the seriousness of the program I am going to take a little time in thinking over the members of the committee that I am to appoint, as well as the chairman. Also, I want to read the ALUMNUS on this program and have it explained to me in detail before acting in the appointment of this committee. However, I shall have my committee together at a meeting on January 25.

Bill Jones.

Joe Boland was in Saginaw Monday, December 14, to talk at the annual K. of C. football banquet. We were sorry that he couldn't bring some of the boys with him, but the program didn't suffer. He gave a wonderful talk and proved a fine commentator on the pictures afterward.

We had a stag party later for the N. D. alumni and a few friends—just a quiet affair where we sat around and chewed the fat. Several have expressed themselves as being sorry they couldn't be there, but we had a good attendance. Harold Lap-pin, Gene Witchger, Joe Vertacnik, Joe Friske, John Strable, Herb Schnettler, Bill Kosch, Art Kerns, George Weadock, Neil Barnett, Roy Tatham, Bill Kennedy, Jack Zuber, Tom Van Aarle, were there. We were glad to welcome Dick Eckrich, '36, from Jackson, who is working for the Wilson Company here.

We are planning a party in January.

Bill Hurley.

ST. LOUIS

Robert Hellrung, '30, 306 N. Grand Blvd., President; David J. Reilly, Jr., '30, 1116 Louisville Ave., Secretary.

The St. Louis boys are determined to get the films of the games off the still hot grid. Coach Bill Cerney is going down with a set on January 4, according to present plans. And even this new year's date has kept the fast moving Missourians champing at the bit.

Bob Hellrung writes, in addition to the above arrangements:

Regarding your letter received on Thursday, pertaining to the combatting subversive activity, I have not as yet received my copy of the ALUMNUS. However, I will appoint a committee immediately, and shall be very happy to co-operate with this movement.

I am very sorry that Marie and I did not have an opportunity to call on you the day of the Ohio-State game. Because of the rain we were unable to do any visiting at all. We regretted the weather very much, but the outcome of that game turned everything to sunshine.

Best personal regards and best of luck for the coming year to you and the Alumni Association.

Raymond R. Brady, '24, 206 Kearns Bldg., Salt Lake City, President; Cyril Harbecke, '19, 64 F. St., Salt Lake City, Secretary.

The Salt Lake City alumni and their friends did a grand job entertaining the football team and the coaches when they all stopped there on the trip back to South Bend after the Southern Cal game. Writing in the South Bend News-Times, Jim Costin, sports editor, said:

"Private cars met the special when it rolled into town at 8:30 and took every one on a short sight-seeing tour of the city, including a glimpse of the famed Mormon Temple and its equally famous 'pin dropping act,' which amazes all beholders. Then to the Chamber of Commerce for the luncheon and reception. Members of the latter committee included Governor Blood of Utah, Bishop Kearney, Mayor Erwin and General Sweeney. Its chairman was Judge Robert I. McDonough. General arrangements were in charge of Raymond R. Brady, president of the Notre Dame Alumni Association of Utah, with transportation being in charge of Arthur E. Lund, president of the Intermountain A.A.U. It was a little bit of all right, the Salt Lake City affair, and was enjoyed by all the visiting firemen. We got away from Salt Lake City about 11 o'clock."

Deaths

Attorney Chauncey W. Yockey, '01, 59 years old, for many years an outstanding citizen of Milwaukee, brother of Edward J. Yockey, '99, died in Milwaukee on November 28 of rheumatism of the heart.

Prominently active in many of the civic and the political affairs of his home city, Mr. Yockey was particularly identified with Elks lodge. When he relinquished the post in 1933 he had been exalted ruler of the Milwaukee Elks for 17 years, a tenure of office longer than any other in the history of the order. At the time of his death he was a member of the fire and police commission of Milwaukee. The city and the state of Wisconsin had honored him with other offices and appointments almost beyond number.

Always prominent and active in the affairs of Notre Dame in Milwaukee, Mr. Yockey was a former president of the Notre Dame club of Milwaukee. He had a particular interest in sports and was an ardent supporter of the Notre Dame athletic teams.

The funeral Mass was in Gesu Church, Milwaukee, on December 2. One of the active pallbearers was Dr. John R. Dundon, '14, Mr. Yockey's physician. Among the honorary pallbearers were Senator Robert M. La Follette, Governor Phil La Follette, Mayor Hoan, Elmer Layden, Harry Stuhldreher and Jimmy Crowley.

Father James McManus, C.S.C., 59 years old, retired teacher of mathematics and former rector of Walsh and of Corby halls, died on November 29 in the Community Infirmary at Notre Dame. Born in Ireland Father McManus was ordained in 1906. The funeral Mass and burial were at Notre Dame.

Brother Conrad, C.S.C., 76 years old, died in the Community Infirmary on December 13. He returned to the campus four years ago after spending most of his life as a religious in Texas.

A returned mailing piece brought word of the death of Francis L. Mallon, ex. '29, of Chicago.

William N. Bergan, ex. '98, long a prominent attorney in South Bend and long a close friend of the University and the Community, died in South Bend on December 19. Mr. Bergan was the father of William J. ex. '28, John, '31, Paul, ex. '36, and Cornelius, C.S.C., a present student in the University. He was the father-in-law of Larry (Moon) Mullins, '31, and the brother-in-law of Father Cornelius Hagerty, C.S.C., '06.

The solemn funeral Mass was celebrated in St. Joseph's Church, South Bend, by Father Hagerty.

The sympathy of the Association is extended to Father Kerndt Healy, C.S.C., '15, and Tom Healy, ex. '15, on the death of their mother on December 13 in Fort Dodge, Iowa. Father Healy celebrated the funeral Mass and Father Charles Doremus, C.S.C., and Father James Connerton, C.S.C., were present from the University.

Harry Cozad, '36, Rock Island, Illinois, was a son-in-law of Mrs. Healy. Harry's father died on December 6 and Father Healy celebrated the funeral Mass on December 9.

Eddie McOsker is continuing to get fine results in his campaign to make the twentieth anniversary re-union, on June 4, 5 and 6, the biggest and best. Here are recent letters addressed to him.

Lawrence Welch, 23 West Ohio Street, Indianapolis writes:

"Glad to hear from you even if it was only a form letter. I will be there barring accidents. Rather imagine the other Seventeeners will be there—Scott, Mahaffey, etc.

"Wonder if you have Brush Mahoney's address. Have not seen nor heard from him for years. Hear at least once a year from Corcoran who is with the State Highway Commission in Springfield, Illinois. We three were the C.E.'s in case you do not remember.

"I am, and have been since the late war, in the real estate business.

How is journalism? Or did you not abandon your profession, thereby failing to take the vow of poverty.

"Contract bridge is one of my hobbies, pastime, bad habits or what have you. Am captain of the I.A.C. team here which now holds the Team-of-Four national championship won at Chicago last December. Will return to defend it next week—December 3. Have about as much chance of repeating as a golfer. If you are near Chi on that date, come up to the Stevens and see how it is done. Ely Culbertson finished a nice second last year.

"Some game against Northwestern Saturday! They sure have the old time pep. See you in June."

[Ed's note: The latest clipping available in the Alumni Office tells that Mr. Welch and his teammates were tied for fourth place in the championship matches, with one day left to play.]

Chubby Corcoran writes:

"Was pleased to receive your letter of October 20. You can rest assured that I am making every effort to perfect plans whereby I can attend the Commencement of 1937.

"How are you, and how have you been? Once or so a year I get into your city, so perhaps I may see you in Elgin sometime this Winter.

"I was glad to read in the ALUMNUS that Royal Bosshard would be back. Have you heard from Shanan, Welch or Mahoney? I do not correspond with any of our classmates, but I could easily contact them if it would help you any."

Brian Odem, 205 Federal Building, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I have before me the November issue of the ALUMNUS, and I note that you have you have sent out a 'call' for 'Rebel' Johnny Campbell and Matthew Trudelle and others. Those names have brought me to life and prompted this letter to you.

"Through the year I've thought often of all the '17 men, and; being way off down here in Texas, I've had practically no contact with them.

"I see Elgin is still home for you. If I remember correctly there are a few other '17ers from there. A Kelly or so, as well as a few Tobins. Tell them hello.

"I have been with this office since 1933 in the capacity of an assistant U. S. attorney. I get to see Emmett Walters quite frequently. He's city editor of the Houston Chronicle, one of the large afternoon dailies.

"I would like to bet some of the gang that I have more candidates for N.D. than they have. My score is six boys and one for St. Mary's. We are all planning on making the 20th re-union in June.

"I was in Washington, D. C. last December and had a very pleasant visit with Jim Hayes, and with Dutch Bergman out at Catholic U. . . ."

Francis J. Clobessy, of Waverly, New York, becomes district attorney of Tioga County, on January 1 for a three-year term. He was elected in November without opposition, receiving the Republican and Democratic party nominations and the endorsement of the other parties.

Grover Malone, South Bend, is the new county surveyor in St. Joseph County as the result of the November elections. The former football star, taking office the first of the year, will have as his chief deputy Tom DuMont, ex. '36, also of South Bend, who spent a year at Notre Dame before finishing up at Purdue.

1927 Secretary: Edmund DeClerq, 8118 Ellis Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Paul Beretz, new secretary of the Washington, D.C. club, has been in the capital for the past year and a half, representing the Standard Statistics Company, New York. Previously, he had been in the New York office of the same company for five years as an analyst of public utility securities.

Paul reports that his brother Charles, also of '27, is selling Buicks in Westchester County New York, and living with the "folks" in Yonkers. Charlie and the Managing Editor discussed old Badin days at the recent New York Club dinner-dance following the Army game.

Probate Judge Malcolm Hatfield, of Berrien County, Michigan, discussed "Crime and Its Remedy" in a recent talk before the Woman's Club of Three Oaks, Michigan.

Joe Boland, line coach, was to join the South Bend Tribune radio stations WSBT-WFAM on January 1 to take over the broadcasting duties of Jim Britt, sports and feature announcer, who left to join the staff of WBEN in Buffalo, New York. Joe formerly broadcast sports for WCCO in Minneapolis and did some announcing for WSBT-WFAM in 1934.

Britt, considered by many in the South Bend area to be the finest football announcer in the business, had broadcast practically all Notre Dame football games for the past two years and was exceptionally popular in South Bend and on the campus. He is a graduate of the University of Detroit.

1928 Secretary: Louis Buckley, 718 E. Corby St., South Bend, Ind.

Eddie Collins, driven to the University of Arizona field in Tucson when the team practiced there en route to Los Angeles, visited with the team from his invalid couch. After spending the Summer in Chicago Eddie is back in Tucson for further treatment.

1929 Secretary: Joseph P. McNamara, 231 Wisconsin Street, Indianapolis, Ind.

Paul C. Bartholomew, associate professor of politics in the University, is author of "A Manual of American Government," a text for political science students. Occupying 131 pages the book contains 13 chapters, as well as an appendix, charts and a special listing of federal administrative divisions. Opposite each page of the text is a blank page for student notes.

John Niemiec, football coach at Columbia College, Dubuque, Iowa, for the past three seasons, recently resigned to enter business in his home town, Bellaire, Ohio, and coach football on a part-time basis in Bellaire high school.

George N. Beamer, South Bend, newly elected prosecuting attorney in St. Joseph County, has named as 1932 Secretary: Herbert Giorgio, 9005 188th St., Hollis, L.I., New York.

FIVE-YEAR RE-UNION
June 4, 5, 6

Antonio R. Diaz, Calle 60 No. 337, Merida, Yucatan, away off in the southeast corner of Mexico heard perfectly on November 21 the broadcast of the Northwestern-Notre Dame game as relayed by the short wave station of KDKA, Pittsburgh. He reports: "I heard the game perfectly, just as if I were in South Bend or Mishawaka."

Joe Petritz reports on a couple of the '32 boys in Los Angeles. George Bentley Ryan is practicing law in the Edison Building, and John Skeehan is with Spang, Chalfant & Co. in the Transamerica Building. John had just moved to Los Angeles from Pittsburgh.

1933 Secretary: Donald Wise, 110 Pleasant St., Joliet, Ill.

John Barrett wrote from Fort Peck, Montana, in late November that he was leaving for a five-weeks' vacation in Alexandria, Louisiana. He expected to return after the holidays to his job as steel inspector. He had been at Fort Peck since last April and expected to remain there until the Fall of 1937.

Joe Hofmann, in a grand letter from La Salle Military Academy, Oakdale, Long Island, New York, sends news about some of his classmates. Joe had seen Art Lavery, of Brooklyn, Francis X. Fallon, of New Rochelle, Charlie Quinn, of Glens Falls, and John Doran, of Akron, Ohio at the Army game. Charlie is working in the Big Town, but had been in Glens Falls a good deal recently because of the death of his father.

John Doran had been on the campus for the Ohio State game, according to Joe. He gave Joe interesting news of Mike Stolley, also of Akron.

Professor Kervick reports on two of his architectural alumni:

Robert Heitger is with McGuire and Shook, architects of Indianapolis.

Charles J. Medland is the resident office manager at Charlottesville, Virginia for James Barnes, contractor. He has complete charge of the construction of post offices in Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina that this firm is building. This represents well over a million and a quarter dollars, so it is quite an accomplishment for one out of school about four years.

1934 Secretary: James Moscow, 2320 N. Lawndale Ave., Chicago, Ill.

John Scannell, head of the Physical Education Department, gave us the correct dope on Norman Wietig. He is director of physical education and coach in Immaculate Conception high school, Trenton, New Jersey. The December ALUMNUS had Norm in a Cleveland high school.

Ray Brancheau is accomplishing important things as head coach at New Mexico State, according to the nomads returned from the Southern Cal trip. He has turned out three winning teams in a row and is very highly thought of throughout the state.

That other halfback, Nick Lukats, is also doing exceptionally well, according to all the Hollywood authorities. Nick has a seven-year contract and his next picture will be "College Holiday," with Burns and Allen, Jack Benny, Mary Boland and others. He did a grand job of showing the Hoosiers around Hollywood and generally entertaining them through the S.C. week-end.
