Alumni Religious Bulletin

BY REV. JOHN P. LYNCH, C.S.C.

OUR LADY USES HOLLYWOOD

All advance reviews of the movie, "The Song of Bernadette," are "raves." This fact, plus the decided interest in religious themes, assures an enormous audience for the movie.

Father Lynch

We, the Sons of Notre Dame, should rejoice over this new public honor to Our Lady and Mother, whose Grotto of Lourdes is one of the most hallowed spots on our campus.

We should rejoice and we should take advantage of this chance to turn attention of our friends toward her and then on to her Son.

Discussions of the movie will arise over coffee, tea and cocktails. There will be a lot of emotion in the discussion. Anything concerning Our Lady will inevitably arouse emotion — but, in addition to the emotional appeal, Our Lady and her appearance at Lourdes packed a powerful intellectual punch.

Naturally, neither the book nor the movie stresses the two apologetic points involved, but they are present in the full story of Lourdes. We propose, in this article, to give you those two points, so that you can give your friends the complete story of Lourdes.

Not everyone of us was able to bring glory to her name by playing football at Notre Dame, but everyone of us can use the movie to bring greater glory to her name with our friends, Catholic and non-Catholic, by giving them the full significance of Lourdes.

ASKING FOR IT

In discussing the movie, we shouldn't be "chicken." We shouldn't be afraid to "bring up religion" in our conversation. People are clamoring for it today and their interest and enthusiasm over the movie will be proof of it. In this discussion and enthusiasm for the movie, they'll be "asking for it"—for religious discussion—and let's not muff or refuse to carry the ball when it's handed to us.

Any discussion, of course, must be a discussion only; nothing bitter or controversial. If questions are asked or the discussion gets over your head, tell your friend you'll secure a pamphlet or book on Lourdes for him. (One of the best pamphlets is "Lourdes and Modern Miracles" securable from Paulist Press, New York City, or Notre Dame, for ten cents.)

The points we stress are briefly these:

- (1) The appearance of Our Lady at Lourdes is a startling and modern confirmation of the infallibility of the Pope.
- (2) Lourdes is a modern proof that miracles, meeting all the standards of science, are possible to God.

INFALLIBILITY CONFIRMED

How did the appearance at Lourdes in 1858 confirm infallibility? It's simple—four years before, i.e., 1854, the Pope had declared the dogma of the Immaculate Conception, i.e., that Our Lady had been conceived free from the stain of original sin. (We mustn't confuse the Immaculate Conception with the Virgin Birth, i.e., that Christ was born of a Virgin.)

The intellectuals, agnostics and atheists of that so-called enlightened period ridiculed the Pope and his definition, saying that the people of 1854 were too advanced and too intelligent to believe in the infallibility of any Pope or to accept any so-called "dogma." The intellectuals had a grand time until four years later. Then, Our Lady struck—and stunned them!

How?

The book and movie show truthfully this point. The pastor told Bernadette to ask the "beautiful Lady" who she was.

(a) When she was finally asked to identify herself, she didn't reply: "I am Mary" or "The Blessed Virgin." She didn't identify herself by any of her more common titles, but she said:

"I AM THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION"

This dogma definition and the title hadn't yet percolated down to the peasants in isolated Lourdes, and the title didn't register easily with Bernadette; she kept repeating the name over and over again lest she forget it before she

A CENTURY PASSES

One hundred years ago last Saturday, the State of Indiana granted a charter to the University of Notre Dame to build and operate an institution of higher learning near South Bend, in what was then a wilderness.

Without much in the way of resources of any kind, Father Edward Sorin, of the Congregation of Holy Cross, began the building and operation of the Hoosier educational institution which today is known throughout the world. All around the earth, indeed, people know of Notre Dame who would have difficulty in bounding Indiana or perhaps even locating it generally as a state.

Notre Dame exists for only one purpose — to teach men how to love and serve their God. It trains men to be doctors, lawyers, priests, engineers, business men and many other things; but always, it teaches them, while being such to bear in mind their ultimate end as human beings.

It recognizes that the purpose of education is to teach men to lead useful lives, but it adheres firmly to the central concept that no life is really useful unless mankind's eternal destiny is kept constantly in mind.

It is possible that few persons in Indiana who have not had intimate contact with Notre Dame really know it.

It is much more than an institution which has earned world fame in the field of sports.

It is much more than an institution which was among the first to give the world synthetic rubber or to carry on outstanding scientific research.

It is an institution which submerges the personalities of all the men who have ever served it, in order that the Personality Who is God, and that the personality who was Mary, the Mother of Christ, may stand out.

To Notre Dame, none of its illustrious builders means much except as he is related to the first purpose of the university. Men, such as Sorin, Corby, Badin, Morrissey, Cavanaugh, Walsh, Burns, O'Donnell, Rockne, O'Hara, Nieuwland, and the host of others, have all been only members of a "team" attempting to relate the origin and the destiny of man through the medium of the classroom.

No great figure of Notre Dame would accept anything more than a small part of any credit for Notre Dame's success.

He would be inclined, rather, to take his admirers to a small community cemetery not far from the campus, where, beneath tiny crosses, lies what little remains of the hundreds of humble priests and Brothers of the Congregation of Holy Cross who have gone to their rewards.

They were the builders of Notre Dame; and the stuff with which they were builded was a self-forgetting devotion to God, and "our Lady," after whom the University is named.

"The Song of Bernadette," by Franz Werfel, is a beautiful story of devotion to Mary in words.

The story of Notre Dame's first one hundred years is another such song to Mary—but written in the lives of the men who both gave to and took from the University of Notre Dame much that is not reckonable in ordinary terms of value. —Clifford B. Ward, '23, in the Fort Wayne (Ind.) "News-Sentinel" of Jan. 19, 1944.

Alumni Board Meeting January 23

Extensive Plans Provide for Great Expansion of the Association's Program, With Much Broader Objectives

As a result of a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association on Sunday, Jan. 23, the Alumni Association of the University of Notre Dame may well mark its Diamond Jubilee Year as one in complete accord with the progress of Notre Dame as reflected in the University's own Centenary.

Quickly and by major points, these are the plans:

1. Organization of the Local Clubs into to articulate channels for the development of a Catholic lay leadership in the field of preserving the fundamentals of American democracy.

2. Rewriting the Association Constitution on a new and broader concept.

3. Establishment of the Association on a calendar year.

4. Re-establishment of Universal Notre Dame Night on the Monday after Easter Monday (in 1944, on April 17).

5. Official establishment of the Notre Dame Club of New York's Universal Communion Sunday project, on the Sunday nearest the Feast of the Immaculate Conception (Dec. 8). In 1944, this is Sunday, Dec. 10, with Dec. 3 being recognized if the 10th presents major conflicts in any given community.

6. Launching immediately of the Second Annual Alumni Fund, for 1944, with a goal of a minimum equal to last year's Fund ($107,424.13), and a minimum of 5,000 alumni contributing as against last year's 3,462.

7. Sending the ALUMNUS in its complete form, with Class and Club news, only to the graduates in service, and to the contributors to the Fund. (A news letter will be sent to non-contributors, based on each ALUMNUS but not containing Class and Club and some other information of interest.)

8. Study of the problem of placement, particularly as it will be a vital factor in postwar problems of returning alumni.

9. Securing at as early a date as possible of a Field Secretary for the Association, a man whose duty would be primarily to visit Local Clubs.

President Thomas Byrne, Cleveland, presided at the meeting, which was preceded by a long informal discussion on Saturday night, and by a Mass in Corby Chapel on Sunday morning, said by Rev. John Cavanagh, C.S.C., at which all officers and directors received Communion. The meeting itself was opened and closed with prayer. These things are mentioned to indicate a new approach to the entire alumni program.

Other directors present were Gerald Ashe and E. Bradley Bailey, vice-presidents, of Rochester, N. Y., and Baltimore, Md., respectively, and John T. Balfe, New York City, together with James E. Armstrong and William Dooley of the Alumni Office. Governor Harry F. Kelly made a motion by long distance phone from his own office in Lansing, where the special session of the Michigan legislature had him tied up. And Rev. Michael Moriarty sent a motion by President Byrne from Cleveland, where his new post as pastor of St. Catherine's Church confined him.

You can appreciate that much might be written on any of the points listed for action.

1. The proposal to make the Clubs channels within their areas for the type of articulate Catholic and American leadership for which Notre Dame trains her alumni came after a discussion in December between President Byrne and

Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, C.S.C., president of the University and alumni Honorary President. It will call for the full co-operation of the established members of the Local Clubs, but it will insure a Club program to which young and old, and especially the returning alumni from the armed forces, will subscribe in full. It promises to do more than anything in our history to justify the 100 years of preparation by the University for such a period of history.

2. The Constitution was written in a depression era, when our problem was existence. Conditions unforeseen then have made some of it obsolete, all of it short of the goals of the new program.

3. With commencements suspended for the duration, and with no class reunions or annual meetings of the Association, the Board agreed that all other factors in our program argue for a calendar year. Hence the agreement for Club and Fund programs that the Association be on the calendar year which will aid football ticket preference, elections, etc. Since contributions were due for the current year last June, the present conception of the period as the year 1944 constitutes a "forgiveness" period of six months. But maybe that shouldn't have been brought up. Give now, and you are in good standing until Jan. 1, 1945.

4. Universal Notre Dame Night, like many things suspended last year, is deemed to serve a purpose greater than those served by its suspension. Since 1924, it has been an annual renaissance of Notre Dame spirit throughout the world. With that spirit taking the tangible form of the new program, the Night becomes even greater in its importance.

5. Universal Communion Sunday

needs no explanation. (The Board also expressed approval, but as a separate project for the attention of the individual alumnus or the Club, of the family rosary movement being sponsored so successfully by Rev. Patrick Peyton, C.S.C., Albany, N. Y.)

6. See the separate story for the Fund.

7. The sending of the ALUMNUS, complete, to all alumni, contributors or non-contributors, is no longer possible with more than 13,000 on the mailing list. Consequently, while there is no desire to shut off the University from any alumnus, the "luxury" items, such as Class and Club news, and some features of the magazine, will have to be omitted for non-contributors, who will receive basic information in a news-letter.

8. Placement has been reduced during the war to a scattering of contacts and long-range provisions. The Board is anxious to study its implications from here on. A committee is being appointed by President Byrne, with the cooperation of Mr. Dooley, to make this study, so that we can be ready for the vital work of rehabilitation of our Notre Dame men in service.

9. The Field Secretary is not a fancy touch. At the present time, the Alumni Office staff is conducting at least five major executive enterprises. All of them argue against absence from the campus. Yet the success of a Club program, and much of the other work of the Association, thrives on contact through travel. Hence the Field Secretary would be the third leg of a triangle, contributing greatly to unity and progress in our whose program.

This is a brief summary of the proposed changes. In their significance they can be as great as your cooperation will permit them to be.

As Alumni Secretary for 18 years, I can say that never before have the Board of Directors and the University administration seen the possibilities of alumni work so clearly, and so eye-to-eye.

Never before has the structure appeared so definite in its blue-prints for years ahead.

We have existed for 75 years, through many periods of difficulties. Now, if you will support the Board in its program, we will begin to be a live organization, effecting good that will in turn be of inestimable value to God and country, as well as to Notre Dame.

JOHN J. RYAN, ex. '33, was last fall elected a vice-president of the Republic Aviation Corp., Farmingdale, L. I., N. Y.

John joined the company as counsel on July 1, 1941, after being associated with the New York City legal firm of Bleakley, Platt and Walker. He handled for Republic the legal aspects of the financing of an expansion program which included the construction of new plants at Farmingdale and at Evansville, Ind. In his new capacity as vice-president he will continue as counsel.

A native of Rye, N. Y., John was at Notre Dame in 1929-31 and was later graduated from the Fordham law school.

WILLIAM J. SHERRY, ex. '21, geologist and oil producer of Tulsa, Okla., was on Dec. 6 raised to knighthood in the Order of the Holy Sepulchre. Officiating in the ceremony, in the Bishop's chapel, Oklahoma City, was Most Rev. Francis C. Kelley, LL.D., '07, bishop of Oklahoma City and Tulsa, assisted by Most Rev. Edwin V. O'Hara, LL. D., '17, bishop of Kansas City, Mo., and Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. B. Dudek, chancellor of the Oklahoma-Tulsa diocese.

Distinguished by his wide and substantial participation in church affairs, as well as in civic affairs, Bill Sherry is also one of the most widely known oil men in the country. Attending Notre Dame in 1917-19, he received his B.S. from M.I.T. in 1921. He is a steadfast member of the Notre Dame Club of Oklahoma and was president of that organization in 1940. He and his wife, the former Margaret Harrington, are the parents of six children.

The investiture ceremony was followed by a delightful banquet in the Biltmore Hotel, Oklahoma City, at which the master of ceremonies was C. A. Breitung, San Antonio, Texas, a close friend and benefactor of the University. Bishop Edwin O'Hara was one of the speakers.

FOURTH CLASS GRADUATED

The United States Naval Reserve Midshipmen School at Notre Dame graduated its fourth class on Jan. 20, when 1,170 new ensigns received their commissions in the Navy Drill Hall on the campus. Speaker for the occasion was Rear Admiral Arthur S. Carpender, U.S.N., Great Lakes, Ill., commandant of the Ninth Naval District.

The fifth midshipman class, containing a large group of recent Notre Dame graduates, began, on Feb. 7, its four-month stretch toward commissioning.

FIRE MYSTERY SOLVED

The mystery surrounding a series of campus fires was solved in mid-December with the announcement by naval authorities and FBI agents that a confession had been obtained from a V-12 trainee whose name was withheld. The boy was transferred to a naval hospital for study of his mental condition.

ABOUT FATHER FARLEY

Directors Launch Second Annual Fund

Goal Is Minimum of Last Year's Efforts; $107,424.13,
With Minimum Contributors Number Raised from
3,462 to 5,000. Class Representatives Continue

Heralding the Centenary Fund, first year in the new fund raising program of the Association, as indicative of great possibilities for the progress of Notre Dame, the Alumni Board, with the complete sanction of the University, moved to launch the Second Annual Fund, for the calendar year 1944.

Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, C.S.C., president of Notre Dame, indicates in a statement in this ALUMNUS, the great aid to the University which came from last year's initial effort. Its future aid to Notre Dame, in the light of problems ahead, is difficult to estimate. But definitely it will be of even greater need and help within the year ahead.

Reasons for giving are well known to alumni.

Despite its high ranking as an educational institution, and its ability through 100 years to keep its physical plant on a relatively progressive basis, you know that the University's endowment of slightly over a million dollars is one of the lowest of any major institution. This situation is the primary one which the annual fund is designed to solve, along the "living endowment" line. Each year's contribution, used as it is given, represents a much larger capital endowment than we might be expected to raise through any form of "drive" in the immediate future.

Notre Dame needs buildings. In spite of the many new and lovely structures which have given alumni so much pleasure and service, you are familiar with the fact that Washington Hall is long outgrown. The Administration Building requires some drastic remodeling. Carroll and Brownson are of questionable value for much longer. St. Edward's and Badin are aging. The Art Galleries and the Library are pushing each other until the present fine looking structure actually bulges at the seam. Recreational facilities and the campus stores are scattered about in various out of the way places, arguing toward a union building, which might embody the long sought Knights of Columbus quarters and perhaps those elusive rooms for alumni who want to stay on the campus

FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY

During the Centenary Year the alumni gave another substantial indication of their loyalty to Notre Dame, for which we who are currently charged with University affairs are genuinely grateful. The Alumni Association's participation in the Centenary Fund amounted to $107,424.13, with 3,462, or 33 per cent of the entire membership contributing. Although the number who gave does not seem large, the Association has good reason to be encouraged. Unusual difficulties were met: to say that the times are not normal is the ultimate in understatement. Thousands of alumni and old students—almost 5,000 to be exact—are not following their usual occupations, but are in our country's armed forces in all parts of the world, from Italy to the Solomons. Even so, a significant number in the services responded generously. Now that the Association has established the fund on an annual basis, I am confident that the second year will be even more successful than the first.

In accordance with the wishes of the officers of the Alumni Association, the fund raised will be allocated to the support of certain undertakings at the University which, without this support, we would have to suspend, or at least curtail, because of the war. After setting aside one or two large gifts which were given for specific purposes, the University Council has decided to distribute the remainder for the following general purposes:

1. Expenses connected with the operation of the Alumni Association from January, 1942, to January, 1944	$27,426.51
The Centenary Fund replaces the former payment of annual dues. Hence, part of it will be used to print the ALUMNUS, pay salaries of the secretary and assistant secretary, maintain club organizations and class programs, etc.
2. The Graduate School of the University	12,000.00
Publication of research studies of certain members of the faculty; also support of publications of the School of Mediaeval Studies; The Review of Politics , The American Midland Naturalist , Reports of a Mathematical Colloquium , and other learned publications of the University.
3. Travel expenses connected with faculty representation at meetings of learned societies, educational gatherings, and other important events	3,400.00
4. Library Fund, for both the University and departmental libraries	20,000.00
5. Emergency Fund for the College of Law	7,000.00
6. Faculty Fund for advance study	10,000.00
	79,826.51
TOTAL CENTENARY FUND ALUMNI PARTICIPATION	107,424.13
Less difference between Maturity Value and present Cash Value of United States Savings Bonds constituting part of this fund	6,811.70
Less special purpose gifts of	20,000.00
	26,811.70
Net cash available for distribution	80,621.43
Allocated as above	79,826.51
Available for future use	785.92

The foregoing will give the alumni a general idea of how the Centenary Fund is being used. If you recall my previous statement in the ALUMNUS about our co-operation with the Navy on a strictly cost basis and the loss of revenue because of decreasing civilian enrollment, you will readily see that a similar fund raised annually by our devoted sons will help in the operation of the University during this critical period. Privately-controlled universities generally are suffering from the impact of the war, and Notre Dame is no exception. I know, therefore, that our alumni will be happy to respond in greater numbers and a correspondingly greater amount, to the second appeal of the national officers.

With appreciation and all good wishes
(Rev.) J. HUGH O'DONNELL, C.S.C.
President of the University of Notre Dame.

overnight. A graduate hall is needed. And the administration undoubtedly has even other plans which aren't necessary for this picture right now.

The University of Chicago has, if memory serves me rightly, 65 endowed chairs. Which means that if all their students were to be called into service, the University might hold a powerful nucleus of its faculty if it wished, without regard to its students income or to other fiscal problems. You can see the implications where there are only two endowed chairs, those inadequate to meet normal salary requirements in full.

Whatever the government does for the returning service man, all schools must be prepared to offer aid to the unusual student, or the boy who may not qualify for some reason. Notre Dame cannot adequately meet that situation, with most of her scholarship funds definitely restricted.

Father O'Donnell's statement of the splendid uses to which the Centenary Fund has already been allocated is indicative of the power of such a Fund to add stature to the academic and cultural as well as the practical side of the University. This is the field in which credit is reflected upon every alumnus. These are the values that add richness to your diploma in whatever year you may have received it.

Our own faculty members will be able to work toward their doctorates. Our library, suffering now a real emergency curtailment, can begin to grow again, and to avoid the inestimable damage that comes from complete lapses in the acquisition of material.

Travel of professors to conventions of learned societies has long been a source of problems. The University could only take such funds from current income, difficult in many instances to reconcile. The professor could only take such funds from slim personal resources, often unjustifiable in a critical period. And the alumni, anxious to meet and know these representatives from the campus, had no definite knowledge of who might attend such meetings, and no claim on their cooperation. The allocation of a part of the Alumni Fund to such representation gives the University a voice in the national conventions of learned organizations. It relieves the mutual financial strain of such representation. And it gives the faculty members so aided an obligation toward the Alumni Club in the convention area which will be discharged in most instances with pleasant results for all.

The publications of the University, like its libraries, are the media through which its academic stature and progress are evident to the outside world, to the standardizing agencies, to contemporary education. Hence the allocation of funds to the publications of the graduate schools is as logical and as far-reaching in its constructive effects as the contributions to the libraries.

The coincidence of the new program of the Alumni Board and the use of the Centenary Fund by the University augurs well for the Association future. You have heard many times from many sources that this war can be lost in the peace that follows it. But not if you will support the program that now lies before you, and spread its fundamentals to the channels in which a sympathy and a coordinated effort should be found.

This is the opportunity for every Notre Dame man to justify that glorious mantle he has worn so long, for so little.—J. E. A.

The 24th Football Banquet

National Champions Honored in Civic Testimonial

The Fighting Irish of 1943, voted the nation's top football team by sports writers in a coast-to-coast poll, were told by Coach Frank Leahy "that no finer football team ever represented Notre Dame" at the 24th annual testimonial banquet of the Notre Dame Club of the St. Joseph Valley at the Indiana Club on Jan. 5. More than 500 alumni and friends packed the banquet hall to capacity.

"It would be terribly unfair of me," the director of Notre Dame's athletics said at the opening of his address, "to evaluate Notre Dame's 1924 team (the Four Horsemen) as it was never my pleasure to see that club play. As for the 1943 team, I want to say that I was proud and pleased to have served as coach for in my opinion no finer football team ever represented Notre Dame than the one of last year."

The players and diners also heard stirring praise heaped upon the Irish by opponent's coaches. From Lieut. Don Faurot, headman of the Iowa Pre-flight's Seahawks who were defeated, 14-13, by Notre Dame last season, they heard the 1943 team rated "as probably the greatest in the history of football."

Lieut. Paul D. (Tony) Hinkle, whose Great Lakes team was the only one which whipped the Irish last year, and then in a dramatic fashion on a forward pass in the final seconds of play, expressed in a lighter vein "that after 27 years being associated with Notre Dame athletics it wasn't asking too much for one rich plum."

Notre Dame's "unflinching will to win" was the cardinal reason for the team's success last year in the opinion of Clark Shaughnessy, whose University of Pittsburgh eleven was crushed, 41-0, in the inaugural game for the Irish last season.

William Fox, Jr., '20, sports editor of the Indianapolis News, labeled the club a "family team, one which circulated among its kind and a club which cloaked triumphs in modesty. In speaking for the press, I am sure the press has already spoken. It voted the Irish the national championship. What more can I add?"

From Rev. John Cavanaugh, C.S.C., vice-president of the University and chairman of the Board in Control of Athletics, those present heard that "the 1943 team was outstanding because of its fighting spirit which emulated the spirit of Notre Dame." Father Cavanaugh represented the University in place of Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, C.S.C., president, who was unable to attend.

Spicing the program with humor was Don McNeill, of Chicago, radio network personality. Vocalists Dan Ryan, Chicago, and Robert Eldridge, Elkhart, Ind., were well received. Incidental music was played by Roy Graveel, blind organist, and Orville R. Foster and his sister, Marguerite.

Mayor Jesse I. Pavey launched the speaking portion of the program in extending greetings on behalf of South Bend citizens and congratulated the team and its coaches on last season's great showing. Mayor Pavey was introduced by James E. Armstrong, national secretary of the Alumni Association, who served as toastmaster after being introduced by Walter M. Langford, president of the host club. Capt. J. Richard Barry, U.S. Navy, commanding officer at the Naval School at Notre Dame, Commander Russell Cook, at Great Lakes, Lieut. Larry (Moon) Mullins, assistant coach of the Seahawks and former Irish fullback, and Capt. Pat Filley gave talks.

From Log Cabin to University

By REV. HUGH O'DONNELL, C. S. C.
President of the University

An address at the luncheon sponsored by the Notre Dame Club of Indianapolis on the occasion of the Centenary of the Charter of the University, Jan. 15, 1944.

Three dates in the very early history of Notre Dame are worthy of remark. The first is Sept. 14, 1841. On that day Father Sorin and his little group of devoted religious landed in New York. The second is Nov. 26, 1842, when he arrived on the shores of St. Mary's Lake, the scene of his future labors, after a ten-day journey by ox-cart from Vincennes during one of the severest winters in the history of the Middle West. The third is Jan. 15, 1844, when the State of Indiana gave its official sanction to the infant university that Sorin established in realization of the dream that brought him across the sea from his native France.

It is this third event whose centenary we observe today, and we become reminiscent as we reflect upon time's mutations. One hundred years ago, when Father Sorin came to his journey's end, there was on the lake shore only a log cabin containing a chapel and one living room. A replica of it still stands hard by Old College, the first building erected by the Founder. Both are reminders of the humble origins of the university-city of more than 45 buildings on a 1,500 acre campus.

One hundred years is a long time in the life of man, but a short span in the life of a university. Yet in those hundred years Notre Dame overcame obstacles that would have daunted a lesser man than Sorin. During the first half century especially, Notre Dame knew the pinch of poverty. More than once the school narrowly escaped being sold for debt. Once the entire available operating capital was exactly fifty cents. On another occasion the horses were taken from the stable and sold to the highest bidder to satisfy a creditor. In 1853-54 came a plague of cholera which ravaged the school for two months. Those who escaped the contagion were too few to care for the sick and bury the dead. The worst disaster of all was the fire of 1879 which in a few hours destroyed almost everything that had been accomplished in 46 years. Only the church remained standing. Father Sorin, who was on his way to Europe, was called back. His remark was characteristic. "If all were gone," he said, "I should not give up," and with that he set about building a greater Notre Dame on the ruins of the old.

In her hundred years Notre Dame has seen our national heritage, which was born in struggle and sacrifice, imperiled by a civil war, come forth stronger than ever. Now our beloved country is once more fighting for its life. As in the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, and World War I, Notre Dame has placed her facilities at the government's disposal.

We have completely geared ourselves for war. We are cooperating with the Navy on a cost basis. Three-fourths of the student body is in uniform, so you can readily see the impact the war is having on civilian enrollment, with accompanying financial loss. On the campus is a Naval Reserve Midshipmen's School. Lights burn late in Chemistry Hall, Science Hall, the Biology Building, and the John F. Cushing Hall of Engineering as our research workers carry on special projects for the Federal Government. The former fall and spring semesters have given way to a three-term schoolyear. Many familiar figures are gone from the faculty because so many have been granted leaves of absence, either to join the armed forces, or to take up government work for which their talent and experience fits them. Twenty-two priests of Holy Cross have been accepted as chaplains. More than 5,000 alumni and students are in service, and the number is constantly growing. In Sacred Heart Church hangs a flag with 75 gold stars, one for each Notre Dame man who has given his life for his country.

These and other changes have come about because Notre Dame herself, the possessor of a timeless philosophy, cannot change. Her obligations, now and hereafter, have been determined by her complementary traditions of American patriotism and Christian education, by her inseparable loyalties to God and country. She cannot do more than she is doing, and she will not do less.

Because of these loyalties, I am particularly pleased that the Notre Dame Club of Indianapolis is observing this day. And I am happy to take part in your observance for many reasons. One of them is that I wish to honor John Defrees, a resident of South Bend and a state Senator, who came to Father Sorin and offered to procure from the legislature a charter setting up at Notre Dame a university with the legal right to exist and grant degrees. Mr. Defrees, a Methodist, admired the Founder's courage. He noted that Sorin had begun what promised to be a good educational institution, and this was his way of showing his regard. Notre Dame will always remember him as one of her earliest benefactors.

As an historian, I look upon the charter as something more than a legislative formality that made Notre Dame a "body corporate and politic." Actually, it was another recognition of an educational philosophy that had its beginnings two thousand years ago in Galilee when the Apostles were bidden to go and teach all nations. From that day to this the tradition has remained unbroken; and it is so universal that it could be as much at home in the Indiana of Sorin as it was in Europe during the golden age of Scholasticism. Why? Because it is predicated upon the eternal truths that the end of man is God, and that knowledge of God is the beginning of wisdom. The founders of our country based their hopes for the perpetuity of American institutions upon these truths. It is well to remember this fact, especially when so many of the things that we hold sacred are being attacked by foreign enemies, and, seemingly, also being called into question here at home.

We cannot emphasize too strongly, or repeat too often, that the American tradition is a Christian tradition. The founding fathers were religious-minded men who had a staunch belief in the existence of God, the God-given rights of man, and the intrinsic dignity and integrity of the human personality. They stated their convictions in the Declaration of Independence, which is an American act of faith; applied them practically in the Constitution; and re-stated them in the Northwest Ordinance of 1787 when they set up the government for the territory out of which our own state of Indiana would one day be formed. Let me remind you of one section of that Ordinance because it is pertinent to what I want to say to you today: "Religion, morality and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

But for many years this concept has been opposed by secularists—exponents of the glorified man philosophy, denying God and basic morality—who have been becoming more and more of a bad influence in education, government, and other phases of our national life. One of their most notable successes has been to remove from education its very substance, that is, religion. After certain educators cynically took God out of the schools and set up in His place a man-made philosophy of pleasure and expediency, the nation adopted a cafeteria morality. We began to choose what pleased us, and to reject what seemed distasteful. We began to give a willing ear to the proponents of divorce, birth control, planned parenthood, and other groups that, under the guise of social betterment, attacked family rights and individual rights. Witness the current wave of juvenile delinquency which has its roots in a system of education which has largely cast aside a belief in God and the moral law. But I need not review the effects of a godless training. They are apparent, and a cause of grave concern to all who believe in objective morality.

Since secularist doctrine leads naturally to "state-ism," that is, the subordination of the individual to the state—the secularists next step was completely logical. Having accomplished the separation of religion and education, and of course having denied that religion has any place in government, they looked to the federal control of education. However, they do not state their objective so baldly. On the surface their motives may appear praiseworthy, and even patriotic. Two years ago, for example, the Federal Government, faced with vast problems of war finance, needed additional revenue and sources of revenue. There was a prompt proposal to set limits on those deductions on estate taxes that now permit gifts for charitable and educational purposes. I do not contend that the real objective was to make up to the colleges by federal subsidy the funds they would lose as a result. I do contend, however, that the proposal was sinister. Had it been adopted, the investment

CHARTER CENTENARY OBSERVED

One of the most impressive Local Club functions of the war era, and one which did much to salvage the Centenary consciousness of the University, was the luncheon held at the Indianapolis Athletic Club on Jan. 15 by the Notre Dame Club of Indianapolis, commemorating the 100th anniversary of the issuing of the charter to the University by the State of Indiana.

Reprinted here is the impressive address delivered by the president of the University, Father Hugh O'Donnell, which highlighted the occasion. Notre Dame's honor in its own state was reflected in splendid talks by His Excellency, Gov. Henry Schricker of Indiana; Very Rev. Msgr. Henry Dugan, chancellor of the Diocese of Indianapolis, Dr. Clement Malan, State superintendent of schools, and Dr. M. O. Ross, president of Butler. More than 250 alumni and distinguished citizens of the Indiana capital were gathered for the meeting. William F. Fox Jr., '20, was toastmaster for the occasion with a pace-setting finesse worthy of special note.

Much of the excellent work of preparation which the meeting reflected was done by Walter J. Stuhldreher, president of the Club; by P. C. Reilly, lay trustee of the University and general chairman of the luncheon; George A. Smith, Sr. on publicity; Tom Umphrey on tickets; Fred Mahaffey and William J. Mooney, Jr. on reception, and the membership as a whole, which turned out in a manner which surprised even the Club. J. Arthur Haley, director of public relations, and James E. Armstrong, publicity and alumni director, accompanied Father O'Donnell to Indianapolis for the occasion.

portfolio of every privately-owned college and university would have suffered so severely as to make it necessary to seek other methods of financing their operations. And what those methods would be, I am still at a loss to say. Many educators called attention to the danger, as I did myself in an address to the Alumni Association in May, 1942. Although the measure came to naught, we thought then—and later attempts at tax levies have proved us right—that it was only a skirmish in a coming battle for control.

Can it be that we are now facing the preliminary stage of that battle? There is evidence to be found in a federal-aid bill now before both houses of Congress. If enacted, it would provide $300,000,000 to be distributed among the states as additional support for primary and secondary schools. The announced purpose sounds innocent enough. Such aid, we are told, would help "to keep competent teachers in the schools" at a time when the average annual salary of teachers in the United States is $600 below the average wage of factory workers. That state of affairs is deplorable, and I do not know anybody who would not like to remedy it. But establishment of federal aid, as suggested, would, in my opinion, also establish in education a federal bureaucracy of a nature and scope that should alarm not only the public, but also the very teachers who are the presumable beneficiaries.

That our schools need greater support cannot be denied, but we cannot strengthen them by sloughing off local and state responsibility and placing control in the hands of a remote commissar of education. If you do not think that federal subsidy would mean federal control, may I remind you that he who pays the piper always calls the tune. And to support my contention about the preliminary stage of the battle, may I quote a statement from the current issue of the N.E.A. journal which came to my desk only yesterday. These are the words of Willard E. Givens, executive secretary of the National Education Association: "We will take this fight to the people in the 1944 elections if necessary, but we believe the battle can be won this winter if we all work together." So you see, gentlemen, there is reason to be apprehensive.

Before I continue, I wish to make a distinction between the kind of federal subsidy I have just mentioned, and the proposed grants that will permit returning veterans to secure the education that the war interrupted, and thereby take their rightful places in the society they are now fighting to save. The latter are an appropriate, but not a complete, recompense made by a grateful nation to its sons who were willing to give their lives for it. But even here it should be pointed out that no federal educational agency should have complete administration of the fund. In my opinion, it properly comes within the scope of the Veterans' Administration, which has at its disposal the valuable experience acquired after World War I. This body, working in conjunction with the American Council on Education, a voluntary organization of colleges and universities, should be fully competent to handle the project. Let us steer clear of any method that gives educational bureaucrats an opportunity to bask in the sunshine of a billion-dollar fund. The implications are too serious.

I cannot refrain from adding that the returning veterans would be well within their rights in calling us to account if during their absence we fail to curb pernicious movements that are undermining the institutions we sent them abroad to protect. Where is the sense in fighting on scores of foreign fronts to preserve the God-given unalienable rights of man, and at the same time failing to check the enemies from within whose goal is to make government man's master instead of man's servant? There is no difference in the color between the octopus of "state-ism" and the totalitarianism of the Axis countries—both are a jaded pink.

While rejecting this pernicious philosophy, let us get back to sound governmental principles. We must re-assume local authority and local responsibility, because good government begins at home. And let us remember, too, that the Federal Government did not wrest our prerogatives from us. We surrendered them voluntarily. We have been running to Washington with problems that our forefathers would have solved for themselves. When the pressure at the city water works goes down, the blood pressure of the city fathers goes up, and their first thought is to entrain for the nation's capital to seek advice and counsel—and also a federal grant. They think they are putting their hands in Fortunatus' purse; actually they are lifting the lid on Pandora's box. The way of our ancestors was the American way. They jealously guarded the autonomy of local self government and were quick to resent any encroachment on it. Unless we overcome our indifference, local self government may become a complete anachronism in the United States, and, for that matter, so may democracy itself.

The prospect is not one to be regarded with equanimity, and in the name of the University of Notre Dame, which for more than a century has been a bulwark of American democracy, I must protest against any individual act or concerted movement that would weaken the American heritage.

On this important anniversary in Notre Dame's history, I have tried, Governor Schriker, to give you and the alumni here a brief account of Notre Dame's stewardship of her charter. I should like to conclude by telling you, the Chief Executive of this glorious old state of Indiana, what we of Notre Dame think and feel at this critical time in the history of our nation.

In the dark hours that our country has known in the past, our fathers always turned to God. That is what we should do now, if we wish to gain His favor. And on the temporal side we must take renewed interest in our government—local, state, and federal—and see that its basic philosophy is maintained. Eternal vigilance is still the price of liberty. Hence we must be alive to the dangers that threaten the soul of America, and enlighten others as to the consequences of un-American movements from within. The soul of America is America of the soul. It must be preserved, and Notre Dame believes that true education will help to preserve it. Our program stresses the development of all man's faculties, intellectual and spiritual. It is grounded on a sound philosophy of life. It never compromises truth. Surely, if we are fighting to save the God-given rights of man, our youth must be taught to know and appreciate those rights and their corresponding duties.

So, on this January 15, 1944, I assure you that although we are living in a fast-changing world, Notre Dame can make no change in principle. We shall continue to nurture the Christian tradition in education, which is essentially the American tradition. We shall insist, as we have always insisted, upon the education of the whole man. We shall not submit to the secularist philosophy that makes a man a glorified animal responsible neither to God nor basic morality. We shall insist on the dignity of man and the sacredness of the human personality. We shall, please God, remain faithful to the Christian doctrine—the American doctrine—of the natural rights of man, which are his in his creation, the embodiment of the triune gifts of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. As long as there is an America, there will be a Notre Dame.

NEW DINING HALLS MANAGER

Eugene F. Connolly, manager of the Notre Dame Dining Halls since 1932, submitted his resignation effective Dec. 15, it was announced by Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, C.S.C., president of the University.

Mr. Connolly was succeeded by D. C. Ford, of Swift & Co., Chicago, who was assistant manager of the sales promotion and procurement division of the hotel contract and institution department of that company.

Coming to Notre Dame in 1932, Mr. Connolly succeeded the late Robert Borland, first manager of the new dining hall project. Mr. Connolly resigned to devote full time to the business he recently acquired known as "Ye Huddle" near the John Adams High School in South Bend.

Mr. Ford had been with Swift & Co. since 1927. He is a graduate of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. His experience with Swift included many hotel and institutional projects in the Mid-West, New England, New York and New Jersey.

22 C. S. C. CHAPLAINS

Twenty-two priests of the United States province of the Congregation of Holy Cross are, as of Feb. 1, serving as chaplains in the armed forces. They are the following:

Chaplain Edward R. Fitzgerald, '30, 2nd Service Group, U.S. Army Air Force, APO 860, c/o Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

Chaplain Joseph D. Barry, '29, 157th Infantry, APO 45, c/o Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

Chaplain George J. Welsh, '29, 8th Med. Bn., APO 8, c/o Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

Chaplain Robert W. Woodward, '28, 245 Coast Artillery, Fort Hancock, N. J.

Chaplain Joseph J. Corcoran, '30, 136th Infantry, APO 4592, c/o Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif.

Chaplain Joseph M. Kmiecik, '30, Air Base Hdq., APO 729, c/o Postmaster, Seattle, Wash.

Chaplain Thomas E. Hewitt, '35, 125th Infantry, A.U.S., Gilroy, Calif.

Chaplain John J. Harrington, '29, 51st Service Group, APO 629, c/o Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

Chaplain Patrick R. Duffy, '31, c/o Commander of Third Fleet, c/o Fleet Post Office, San Francisco, Calif.

Chaplain John T. McGee, '36, 7C I.R.U., Canadian Army, Overseas.

Chaplain Francis D. Bridenstine, '33, Infantry Division, APO 7, Ford Ord, Calif.

Chaplain Edmund J. Murray, '34, 104th Infantry, 414th Reg., Los Angeles 52, Calif.

Chaplain Norman J. Johnson, '28, Buckley Field, Denver, Colo.

Chaplain James E. Norton, '29, 35th Group, 3rd Marine Aircraft Wing, Cherry Point, N. C.

Chaplain John M. Dupuis, '31, 20th Marine Reg., H. & S., 4th Division, W.C.E., Camp Pendleton, Oceanside, Calif.

Chaplain John T. Biger, ex. '33, Chaplain Service (R.C.), Trenton, Ont., Canada.

Chaplain Maurice J. Powers, '33, H. D. Beaufort Inlet, Fort Macon, N. C.

Chaplain Henry A. Heintskill, '36, U.S. Navy. (Censorship restrictions do not allow printing of address.)

Chaplain Gerald M. Fitzgerald, Normoyle Ord. Motor Base, San Antonio, Texas.

Chaplain Francis J. Boland, '18, 114th Battalion, Lido Beach, N. Y.

Chaplain E. Vincent Mooney, '16, Hdq. 9th Tank Gr., 188 90PM, c/o Postmaster, Los Angeles, Calif.

Chaplain Clement E. Kane, '31, Chaplains' School, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

In addition, Most Rev. John F. O'Hara, '11, former president of the University, is auxiliary bishop of the Army and Navy diocese and thus, while he is not actually in uniform, he is primarily concerned with the religious welfare of the Catholics in the armed forces. Rev. Harry Stegman, C.S.C., '32, is the bishop's secretary.

BASKETBALL

Bulletin: Coach Ed Krause, '34, was sworn into the Navy as an ensign on Feb. 5 and will report on March 1 for training.

Coach Ed (Moose) Krause, serving his first season as head basketball coach at Notre Dame after the death last February of George Keogan, developed a group of inexperienced, enthusiastic players into a midseason aggregation that became one of the most feared teams in the Mid-West.

Coach Krause started the season with only two returning veterans from the great squad of last year, and these two—Leo Klier, of Washington, Ind., and Capt. Bernie Rutledge, a guard, of Rosedale, N. Y.—between them had a total of only seven minutes playing time at Notre Dame. To supplement these two holdovers, Marko Todorovich, a Marine transfer from Washington University, St. Louis, developed into a topnotch center.

Carl Loyd, of South Bend, the first freshman to hold down a regular basketball berth at Notre Dame since the freshman rule came into existence, proved a real sparkplug to the Irish. Inserted as a regular forward in the fifth game of the season, Loyd sparked the Blue and Gold with his aggressiveness and accuracy until he was called into active duty with the Navy after the Valparaiso game.

Johnny Lujack, quarterback on the 1943 Irish football champions, developed rapidly as a guard. John Kelly, Utica, N. Y., star on last year's freshman team, was moved from guard to forward to supplant Loyd.

Leo Klier, brother of Gene, guard on the squad during the 1938-40 seasons, is leading the team in scoring, followed by Todorovich.

During the first 14 games of the season, the Krause-coached machine followed a "win-a-game-lose-a-game" pattern. After smothering Alma College, 56-32, in the opener, the Irish dropped a 46-42 decision to a powerful Western Michigan squad and since then have, as this is written, won every odd game played, while losing the even numbers.

Highlights of the season at this writing include a pair of wins, 47-40 and 35-32, over the high-flying Purdue Boilermakers. Other Notre Dame victories include a 41-31 win over a so-so Wisconsin five. The vast improvement in the Notre Dame team can be noted in the comparison of scores of two games with Northwestern played in the Chicago Stadium. The first contest, played Dec. 18, resulted in a 46-32 rout of the Irish by Otto Graham & Co., while the finale of a two-game series, on Jan. 21, found Coach Krause's charges holding the Wildcats on even terms until the final minutes of the game, when Northwestern pulled away to a 43-36 decision.

Undoubtedly the best game of the season thus far came when a highly touted team from Valparaiso University invaded the Notre Dame gym, fresh from a 65-57 win over Ray Meyer's whirlwind DePaul five. Averaging 6' 6" in height and composed of players boasting vast previous basketball experience, the Crusaders were heavy favorites to topple the Irish, but an aggressive, scrappy Notre Dame aggregation took play away from the Valpo squad and came out with a 57-44 win before a capacity crowd of 4,200 fans in the Notre Dame gym. Carl Loyd led Irish scoring in his final game.

Notre Dame lost to Marquette in Milwaukee, 60-43, won from Bunker Hill Naval Training Station at Notre Dame, 65-55, then lost to Ray Meyer's ('38) great DePaul team in Chicago, 61-45.

A tribute to the current team, playing a top-flight schedule, is the fact that two of the defeats have been by a total of three points, including a 55-54 loss to the University of Kentucky and a 47-45 defeat in a return game with Wisconsin.

TRACK

Undeclared in college dual meet competition during the past two seasons, the Irish track team could not hope to continue their win streak during the current campaign. With only two lettermen back from last season, Coach E. R. (Doc) Handy was faced with the task of rebuilding his squad from green material. His hopes were further dashed when 11 men withdrew from the squad early in the season, to devote more time to their studies.

The Irish squeezed out a win over Western Michigan, 62-51, at Notre Dame, but lost, 48½ to 45½, to Marquette in Milwaukee.

From last year's squad the lettermen

BERTELLI OUTSTANDING PLAYER OF SEASON

Marine Pfc. Angelo Bertelli, left, receives the Walter Camp Trophy awarded annually by the Touchdown Club of New York City. With the 1943 Notre Dame quarterback at the club's annual dinner on Jan. 11 are, center, Ensign Dick Todd, Iowa Seahawks fullback, with the Bob Smith Memorial Trophy for the top service player, and Casimir Myslinski, West Point center, with the Knute Rockne Memorial Trophy for the outstanding collegiate lineman.

available are Frank Martin, of Jamaica Estates, N. Y., who runs the mile and two mile, and Bob Purcell, of Floral Park, N. Y., a quarter miler. Both are expected to be consistent point winners. Purcell also runs in the mile relay.

Ralph Pohland, Big Ten half-mile champion from Minnesota last year, who is now a Marine Reserve at Notre Dame, is available for duty, as is Gene Anderson, a pole vaulter with experience from Marquette. Another trainee on the squad, although he has no college experience, is Len Scarpelli, a sprinter from Santa Clara.

Among the new men, the most promising is George Sullivan, East Walpole, Mass., a 17-year-old freshman, who was a standout tackle on the football team. Sullivan a shot-putter, never had a shot in his hand until he came to Notre Dame.

In the dashes three men stand out: Tom Clifford, a Navy V-12 student from Gary, Ind., Brad Burnett, also a V-12 trainee, and Scarpelli. Purcell will run the quarter, and Pohland the half mile. Roland Hogue, V-12 trainee from Linton, N. D., is expected to be the top man in the high jump. The mile relay team, always a feature of the Irish track season, is currently composed of Pohland, Purcell, and two newcomers, Hank Murphy, a civilian, and Bob Jones, a V-12er from Racine, Wis.

The remainder of the indoor track schedule follows:

Feb. 19—Notre Dame at Michigan.
Feb. 26—Notre Dame, Illinois, Purdue at Illinois.
Mar. 4—Open.
Mar. 11—Western Michigan. Marquette, Notre Dame, at Notre Dame.
Mar. 18—Chicago Daily News Invitational, at Chicago.
Mar. 24—K. of C. Invitational at New York.
Mar. 25—Purdue Relays at Lafayette.

repeated it to the pastor. That title registered immediately with the pastor—and registered plenty.

(b) Then, miracles came—and continue to this day to astound and confound the intellectuals, agnostics and atheists of that day and this.

This background helps you to understand the violent and persistent opposition from the agnostic state officials, all interested in stamping out Catholicism and belief in the supernatural.

The church officials, of course, also carefully scrutinized and examined Bernadette and the incidents, but for a different purpose.

The Catholic Church and its officials are cautious when any extraordinary, supernatural event is claimed. She is cautious to prevent superstition and to prevent the gullible from being misled;—also to prevent the charge of intellectuals—"Those ignorant Catholics swallow anything." You hear that charge even today.

MIRACLES TODAY

Miracles started and continue to this day; miracles which confound the intellectuals of that day and of this. Miracles which are submitted to the rigid scrutiny of a Board of Medical Examiners composed of men of all faiths, and of no faith. Miracles which this Board declares to be beyond all possible natural causes, such as auto-suggestion, faith healing, etc., and, therefore, supernatural.

But, then and today, some still scoff and say the cures are due exclusively to natural causes, that we don't know enough about medicine yet to explain them. They refuse to accept the evidence from fellow scientists (including Dr. Alexis Carrel, in his book, Man, the Unknown), that certain of these cures are beyond all possible natural cause and, therefore, miracles.

The modern intellectual, you see, dogmatically rules out all miracles as utterly impossible and also the Catholic dogma of infallibility as foolish and unreasonable.

Our Lady of Lourdes just points to Lourdes even in this modern day and dramatically dares and defies them to explain.

LET THEM EXPLAIN

Many of your friends will be lyrically praiseful about the movie, but, if you press them, they will probably say "mere imagination, though beautiful and inspiring of the girl." Ask them for their explanation of the miracles, then and now, and if they say again "imagination or auto-suggestion," secure for them a book or pamphlet on Lourdes.

There probably will be many lectures by priests and laymen on Lourdes. The subject is fairly easy and is especially timely now. Invite any of your friends to any of these lectures.

"We shouldn't be afraid to 'bring up religion' with our friends, given this timely opening by Our Lady herself. Many non-Catholics want religious truths these days and Our Lady, ever modern, has provided the opening.

Franz Werfel and Hollywood have done great honor to her by this book and movie.

We, Sons, can't do less.

TO JESUS THROUGH MARY

Lourdes is another example of the real spirit of Our Lady—the real spirit of Notre Dame, if you wish, eulogized by the Holy Father in his Centennial Letter contained in the December, 1943, ALUMNUS.

Her spirit is to live for her Son and to bring others to Him—which is the epitome of Christian life.

You see her spirit at Lourdes. Originally, the miracles were performed in the water which bubbled up miraculously. As the years passed, the place of the miracles has changed, so that now most of the miracles occur in the presence of the Blessed Sacrament, during the Benediction Procession when the crippled are individually blessed.

Once again we see Our Lady living for her Son—and bringing others to Him.

Her real Sons of Notre Dame are those who have her spirit—not those who boast loudest of the football team or of their Alma Mater, but rather those who reflect her Son in their lives.

BOOKS

Many, at times, want modern popularly written books on Catholicism for themselves or friends,—Catholic or not.

File this list away for present or possible future use. These books written by laymen are written especially for laymen—

1. The Catholic Pattern by Thomas Woodlock, Wall Street Journal editorial writer. It contains, in the first part, the rational proofs for Catholicism, and in the second part, the Catholic position on fundamental political, economic and moral problems.

2. The Long Road Home by John Moody, financial writer and analyst, which is the story of his conversion, after floundering around in various sects and philosophies.

3. What Other Answer? by Dorothy Grant, niece of John Moody. She studied Catholicism to prove her uncle was "taken in" by Catholic propaganda. Not long after, she was asking to be taken in. (Some wag has termed her book "cocktail apologetics.")

4. Emancipation of a Free-Thinker by Corey, a university professor who found solid and secure truth in the Catholic Faith through his researches in literature, philosophy and science. Recommended especially for skeptical intellectuals.

ALUMNI CLUBS

AKRON

Walter P. McCourt, '16, 424 Greenwood Ave., Pres.; Gerald H. Klein, '32, 852 Diagonal Road, Sec.

A newspaper clipping from 'way back says that the club was planning a Christmas dance for Dec. 29 in the Mayflower Hotel, Akron, with Joe Kraker as chairman. The club runner hasn't got in yet with late details.

CHICAGO

William P. Kearney, '28, 519 Cedar St., Winnetka, Ill., Pres.; Thomas S. McCabe, '22, 1448 Rascher Ave., Sec.

The annual Communion-breakfast of the club was held Dec. 5. The Mass was said by Father John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., vice-president of the University in Old St. Mary's Church. The breakfast was at the Blackstone Hotel, where 60 assembled.

Father West, pastor of St. Mary's, attended the breakfast and spoke of his high regard for the University. Father Cavanaugh conducted a most interesting session, in question and answer form, regarding the war conditions at the University and its post-war program as presently contemplated. John Montague was chairman of the affair.

Recent alumni visitors in Chicago were Postmaster General Frank Walker, Gerald "Kid" Ashe, Capt. Eugene Kennedy of the U.S. Army, and Dan Colhane, program director with the U.S.O. in Washington, D. C.

The Annual Lay Retreat will be held at St. Stanislaus Novitiate starting Feb. 25. Karl Martersteck is in charge. Universal Communion Sunday brought many responses and changes of address. Four Clevelanders were in the latest N.D. graduating class. They were John Joseph Beyerle, John Thomas Doyle, William Cleve Mulligan, and Daniel Jerome Tomcick.

Lt. Charles F. Daly, whose address is Merced Army Air Field, Merced, Calif., requests Bob Mazanec's and Al Butler's address. So, Bob and Al drop him a line. John P. Butler is now with the law firm of Squires, Sanders and Dempsey. . . . Stan Cofall was appointed head of the boxing commission by Mayor Lausche, succeeding Tris Speaker. . . . Chile Walsh has been named executive head of the Cleveland Rams football club. . . . Cec Hobert was married on Jan. 8 to Jean Rath at Holy Cross Church. Cec is now at Camp Stuart, Ga. Father Ed Seward's new address is Chaplain (Major) Edward Seward, O-442734, Hq. 2nd Bombardment Div., APO 634, c/o P.M., N.Y.C. Drop him a line. . . . Val Deake, club treasurer last year, spent a short leave in Cleveland. Stopped at N.D., too, on the way back to Navy Language School, U. of Colorado, Boulder.

Ed Carey had a tough siege with the flu but pulled through O.K. . . . Tom (Telephone) Byrne received a letter from Bucky Dahman who's still in the Mediterranean area with the Navy. . . . George Leppig's mother heard that George returned to his base unscathed after the Tarawa battle. . . . Gene Ling is still in Brentwood, Calif., with Fox Films and two kids. . . . Seen at the Fiesta Room with Councilman Al Grisanti was Capt. Mike Crawford, home on leave before being shipped to parts unknown. . . . Jim "Red" Callahan is now an instructor in gunnery and tanks at Fort Knox. . . .

Lt. Jack Collins was married last month to Betty Kelly of Washington. Art Becvar was home for a few days from Fort Wayne where he is a naval ordnance inspector (civilian). Gene Kane was home on furlough from Maxwell Field, Ala., where he finished pre-flight training. Had lost about 20 pounds and looked great. Said Ensign Fred Payne is in Washington temporarily. Bud Meter was home for two days at Christmas.

Joe Heimann spent the holidays at home with his family. . . . Tom Mulligan, a lieutenant (jg), is still in the South Pacific running a LCI boat. Sees Bob Hackman and Charley Macaluso occasionally, but says the latter is now in Australia. . . . Joe (P.J. Jr.) Mulligan is an ensign in the Supply Department, stationed somewhere in New Jersey. . . . Another ensign in the Mulligan family is Gene, stationed on a carrier somewhere in the South Pacific. . . . Tony Lavelle was inducted recently and is now a seaman, 2nd class, in the Seabees. His address: Platoon 3082, Camp Curry, Va. . . . Tom Conley, his face all set for a fullback, became the father of another majorette recently.

Major Frank Celebrezze was returned to inactive duty after a recent physical examination and is back at the Safety Director's desk. . . . Lt. Frank Gaul, stationed at Norfolk, was in Cleveland with his family for the holidays. . . . Judge Carberry, formerly of Cleveland and more recently of Hollywood, is now in training with Gene Tunney's outfit at Bainbridge, Md. . . . Lieut. Jerry Reidy stopped off before Christmas enroute from Chanute Field to some new location. John Venables is a lieutenant in Army Ordnance. Address: Chicago Athletic Club.

Bob Coleman writes from North Africa. Says that after four and a half months without mail, he hit for 98 letters, including two of ours. Was glad to hear about Ned Weinfurter and Bill Keyes. Write him: No. 35524178, 182 Prov. M.P.-P.W. Det. APO 600, P.W. Camp No. 128, c/o P.M., N.Y.C.

Lt. Cmdr. Roscoe Kennedy writes from the Pacific area. Says he has been overseas 16 months and is chief of surgery in an English-speaking country where the hospitality to Americans is unlimited. Write him. Norm Bringman writes from Co. "D" 53rd Q.M. TRK. Bn, APO 464, c/o P.M., N.Y.C. Is now celebrating his first year overseas. Says nothing much happened except that while in the Sicilian invasion he was wounded "once in the neck and the other through the shoulder. However, nothing serious." Says "hello" to Jim Dubbs with whom he was inducted. Tom Flynn, in the Army Intelligence, has been transferred to Baltimore. Recently married Frances Perkins of Georgia whom he met in Washington, D. C.

Bill Coleman is an ensign in charge of all salvage in the Fifth Naval District, Norfolk, Va. Dr. Bill Florence has been with the Dental Corps, U.S. Navy, for the past 19 months. His address: Lt. William C. Florence, D.C., USNR Station Hospital, Camp Peary, Va. Jack Flynn writes in reporting a change of address: Maj. John R. Flynn, Provost Marshal, Lowry Field, Denver, Colo. Says he heard the Army and Northwestern games with the Denver Club; that George Belting is at St. Thomas Seminary enjoying excellent health; saw Dan Sammon's brother at Lowry Field. Drop Jack a note. Ed Reidy of Lorain, a Marine first lieutenant air pilot, married Ensign Geraldine Boedecker at Cherry Point, N. C., last month.

Jon Beljon

Since a club Communion-breakfast was impracticable at the time, the Cleveland organization asked its members to join with Notre Dame clubs generally by receiving Communion in their parish churches on Sunday, Dec. 5, for the intentions of Universal Notre Dame Communion Sunday. At least 65, according to returned cards, responded, and many other members, it was felt, also responded but did not return cards.

DENVER

Eugene S. Blish, '34, 1540 Oneida St., Pres.; John F. Connell, '23, 2545 Cherry St., Sec.

Lt. Jack Akolt is with the AAF in Tampa, Fla. Last we heard, Don Alexander was still at Peterson Field. Cpl. Leon "Arch" Archer furloughed in Denver, then returned to his Link Trainer post at Reno's AAB.

. . . 1st Lt. Tom Barry, USMC, has seen lots of action in the South Pacific area. Maj. Chuck Cassidy is really blasting away at the Nazis in Italy where he is squadron commander of his dive bomber group.

. . . From the Mediterranean Area this month, came our regular comic-picture card from Ensign Geary Connor. Lt. Frank Conway is stationed in Chicago. A/C Chuck Crapo is at the U.S. Naval Air Station, Livermore, Calif.

. . . At the AAB in Pueblo is Lt. Tommy Curigan. A/C Bob Dee flies with the AAF at Lancaster, Calif.; and across the continent — an hour from Times Square — with the Sea-bees is brother Bill Dee, USN 2/c. Lt. Col. Henry J. Dillon and his hospital unit have shipped — destination unknown — good luck, Henry. Castle Rock's Pat Dillon is aboard one of the Navy's biggest battle-wagons.

. . . Welcome news from a Denver-N.D.er whom we haven't seen for a long time — Ray Doyle, '27. Ray landed at French Morocco and fought his way across to Bizerte; he was in Sicily when he wrote. Told us that he met other N.D.ers poring over an issue of the "Alumnus." Off duty, Ray has been playing the pipe organ at the local Cathedral. Lt. (jg.) Joe Dunn from Rocky Ford last checked in from Los Alamitos, Calif., Naval Air Base.

. . . USMC's Lt. Herb Fairall married recently — and after duty in Hawaii and North Carolina says it's pretty good to be in California, with his eye on Colorado. Bob Flynn, at Keesler Field, Miss., has just finished his last classification test for the AAF. Lt. Art Gregory (Canon City) was at Mill Military Reservation, Va., when he wrote last time. Durango's Jerry Hogan is a navigator at San Marcos, Texas.

... Lt. Harry Lawrence is at Camp Custer's Provost Marshal school. Bill Mahoney is with the Army Engineers at Camp Abbott, Ore. Lt. Ed Mansfield is in "the horse, bourbon, and tweedy clothes country" at the Signal Corp's Supply Depot, Lexington, Ky. Comes word now that John McEniry is with the USN's radio men currently stationed at Fort Worth, Texas. Jim Monaghan is in the Medical Corps at Camp Grant, Ill. And, Paratrooper Ed Nugent writes from Fort Benning that he'll have his wings this month (December): Lt. Joe Nigro is still at Camp Ritchie, according to local chatter.

... Ensign Ed Owens is at the University of Colorado. Capt. Dan Pflaum is on a new assignment with the Corps of Engineers in New York City. After almost two years in the Caribbean area, Capt. Bud Pogliano is back in the States; currently on maneuvers at Camp Davis, N. C. Jack Ryan has been transferred to the MP's at Fort Mason in San Francisco. Capt. Joe Ryan last gave us the high-sign from Roswell AFS, New Mexico. Russ Sabo sends his regards to all you fellows from his base at Stuttgart, Ark.

... S/Sgt Paul Santo has been at Lowry. Sgt. Fred Siak is in Chicago. From down South American way, USN's Ray Smith says it's too hot for football down there now, but even at that a word or two leaked through about N.D.'s 1943 footballers. Haven't heard from Ensign Bob Stapp since he was at Pasco, Wash.

... From "somewhere in the Aleutians," Sgt. Joe Stephen popped with a corking good letter; reports good hunting, good souvenirs, and good victories. Aside from Tom Carty, '41, somewhere near him. Joe hasn't met any other N.D.ers. Lt. Tom Tierney, according to reports, is at Tullahoma, Tenn. USMC's Sgt. Johnny Walsh has returned again to combat zones in the South Pacific. Newcomers to Denver's N.D. men-in-service is Chicago's Frank Widger, '34, whose family is now making their home in Denver. Frank's N.D. roommate, Wally Miller, '34, has been at Camp Roberts, Calif.; Frank is at Fort Ord, Calif. Leo Robidoux has been transferred to the Los Angeles district office of Cutler-Hammer; nice going, Leo!

N.D.ers in Denver . . . New Jersey's Frank Bailey graduated from aerial photography at Lowry and is now an air cadet at Buckley Field. Cleveland's George Belting is at St. Thomas Seminary with N.D.'s George Evans and Chicago's John Deane, ex-Holy Cross seminarian. N.D.'s Lt. Bemish, now at Lowry, was recently married in Denver. Philadelphia's Bob Corrigan, '43, and Indianapolis' Jim Fisher are at Lowry. Ensign Val Deale of Cleveland is at CU's naval school. Cleveland's Major John Flynn, '23, is provost marshal at Lowry Field. Father Norman Johnson, C.S.C., is chaplain at Buckley. Tulsa's Bob Mannis, '45, is at Lowry. Capt. M. J. McElligott, '26, is on Buckley Field's hospital staff. USN's Al Soden, '24, is at Colorado U. Just heard from Bart O'Hara that John Stack, '41, is in Denver with one of the commercial airlines. Elmer Wynne, Rock's full-back in the late '20's, has recently moved his offices to Denver.

DETROIT

Henry J. Clark, '30, 220 East Merrill St., Birmingham, Mich., Pres.; George B. Morris, '39, 610 Blaine Ave., Detroit, Sec.

On Dec. 5 the club held its Universal Communion-breakfast in conjunction with the intentions of the national association. About 160 were present.

Rev. Charles E. Coughlin again acted as our host and put the entire facilities of the Shrine of the Little Flower at our disposal, for which we are exceedingly grateful. Father Coughlin's addresses, both at the Mass and breakfast, asked the alumni of the entire country to realize their part as leaders of Christianity. Father Coughlin pointed out the need for financial help at the University.

A special effort was made to bring out all of the parents of the men in service. As a result we had about 12 boys represented by their parents and wives.

Henry Clark

Henry Clark was elected president of the club at the annual meeting on Jan. 19. Norman Fredericks is the new vice-president; George B. Morris, Jr., secretary; and Lou Norman, treasurer.

New trustees of the club are Henry Clark, L. W. Fury, Harry B. Stillman, John W. Brennan, and Norman Fredericks.

GOGEBIC RANGE

Joseph G. Raineri, Jr., ex. '31, 1307 Second Ave., N., Hurley, Wis., Pres.; Eugene R. Zinn, '39, 105-6 Brogan Bldg., Ironwood, Mich., Sec.

Lt. (jg) Joe Raineri, ex. '31, is now in training on the East Coast. He received his call a couple of months ago.

Ray Ebbli, '42, left on Jan. 12, for training at Abbott Hall, Northwestern University. Up to the time of his departure he had been coaching at St. Ambrose High in Ironwood. His team won the Little Six conference championship in football, and was doing all right for itself in basketball.

G. W. (Doc) Harrison, '33, completed his Med course in 1940. He is now in North Africa.

Robert O'Donnell, ex. '29, is back in England again after completing his officer's training in this country about four months ago. He's an AMGOT lieutenant now.

It's another boy at the Tom McKeivitt home in Washington, D. C.

Eddie Simonich, '39, is still coaching, but V-12 men, in Carroll College, Helena, Mont.

Last reports had N.D. men "taking over" Houghton County in the U.P. with Dominic Vairo, '35, as county clerk, and Steve Condon, '39, as prosecuting attorney.

MINNESOTA

Charles J. Hallman, ex. '25, 179 Irving Ave., N., Minneapolis, Pres.; Walter D. Hall, '25, 210 W. 40th St., Minneapolis, Sec.

The club met on Universal Notre Dame Communion Sunday, according to a letter from Walt Hall.

"We had a nice gathering, considering the club is now made up of old men and 4-Fers; also the flu bug laid 'some of the members,'" Walt said. "Duke Hedler, being in Minneapolis on business with the Kaiser Shipbuilding Company, was in attendance and related many interesting experiences."

NEW YORK CITY

George H. Rahrs, '33, 6107 Spencer Ave., Riverdale, N. Y., Pres.; James M. Carroll, ex. '31, Hotel Capital, 840 Eighth Ave., Sec.

Only by welcoming active participation of the Holy Father in the drafting of a world peace program can the blunders of the Versailles Conference be avoided, said John B. Kennedy, noted radio news analyst, in an address at the Universal Notre Dame Communion-breakfast Dec. 5 at the New York Athletic Club.

Almost a hundred members of the New York Club and friends received at the Communion Mass, celebrated by Bishop John F. O'Hara,

FATHER O'DONNELL IN CINCINNATI

Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, C.S.C., president of the University, is seen receiving a gift of Bookwood bookends as a memento of his visit to Cincinnati from Frank Broeman, retiring president of the Notre Dame Club of Greater Cincinnati, at a luncheon given in Father O'Donnell's honor in the Presidential Suite of the Hotel Gibson, on Jan. 26.

Looking on, left to right, are: Frank H. Sweeney, secretary and treasurer, and Andrew P. Barton, acting president of the club.

Father O'Donnell told a group of Notre Dame graduates how the University is operating under war conditions. On Jan. 25 he spoke before the Medievalists at the Hotel Alms, Cincinnati.

C.S.C., at Lady Chapel, St. Patrick's Cathedral. Presiding at the breakfast was George H. Rohrs, president of the Notre Dame Club of New York. John A. Hoyt, Jr. was toastmaster.

Specific instances of spiritual benefits which might be traced to the practice of group Communion were cited by Bishop O'Hara who took the breakfast guests on a rapid tour of the past five years. Going from climates of stinging cold to blistering heat, the Bishop, who has the earth as his bishopric, made brief stops at New York, Notre Dame, and Lima, Peru, and many far-flung way stations. Notre Dame men are spread as wide as the Church, he said, and everywhere they demonstrate the spirit of Notre Dame.

Rev. Thomas Reardon, Marine Corps chaplain cited for the devotion and the bravery of his war service, gave a graphic picture of conditions on Guadalcanal where he was stationed from August to December, 1942.

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY

Walter M. Langford, '30, 1245 Diamond Ave., South Bend, Ind., Pres.; Richard C. Kaczmarek, '40, 317 Napoleon Blvd., South Bend, Ind., Sec.

The club joined with other clubs on Dec. 5 to observe Universal Notre Dame Communion Sunday. Local members were asked to assist at the 9 o'clock Mass in Sacred Heart Church on the campus in conjunction with the Notre Dame administration, faculty and students.

The club, on Jan. 5, sponsored the 24th annual civic testimonial banquet to the 1943 Notre Dame football team and its coaches. Details of the banquet will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Creighton Miller, All-American halfback of the 1943 team, was in St. Louis on Dec. 16 to present to the East St. Louis High School the Knute Rockne trophy, given annually by the club to the outstanding high school football team in the local area.

The presentation was made at a banquet in the University Club, St. Louis, attended by 200 persons. One of them was Bob Wilke, '37, former star halfback, now a resident of St. Louis. Creighton Miller showed and commented upon the pictures of the Northwestern-N.D. 1943 game, which he had brought with him.

The club thus closed a year that was "strong" despite necessary wartime restrictions due to loss of personnel, etc. New officers of the club are Roland N. Dames, president; Jerome C. Arnold, vice-president; Richard J. Klohr, Jr., treasurer; and Louis C. Fehlig, secretary. Directors are John L. Corley, Joseph B. McGlynn, Richard C. Muckerman, Robert T. Hellrang, Dr. Bertrand Daniel Coughlin, Albert J. Ravarino, Dr. L. Vincent Gorrilla, Dr. Mathew W. Weis, Ed Griese-dick, Jr., V. H. Wrape, Dr. Francis L. Kennedy, and Fred C. Weber, Jr.

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA

Dr. Leo D. O'Donnell, '17, 704 Maryland Ave., Pittsburgh, Pres.; Wm. H. H. Ginder, Jr., 1166 Morningside Ave., Pittsburgh, Sec.

The old Western Pennsylvania Club ain't what she used to be with more and more members donning uniforms, which seem to cloak their whereabouts and activities with an aura of invisibility. There just isn't much news these days.

With the recent election of Hugh C. Boyle, '24, to judge of the Orphans Court, Notre Dame can now boast of three local judges. James L. O'Toole, '21, and John J. Kennedy, '09, preside in Common Pleas Court.

Jack Monteverde, '38, was awarded the Purple Heart with a Silver Star citation for pulling some men from a burning tank in Italy.

Lt. Ed Cosgrove, '34, is now stationed at Great Lakes Naval Training Station. Joe Mooney, '30, former Pittsburgher, just completed his basic naval training and should now be addressed as lieutenant.

SOUTH PACIFIC

From Lt. Pat Fisher, Hq., IV Island Command, APO 708, c/o P.M., S.F., comes this inspiring letter regarding a Notre Dame meeting far away:

Universal Notre Dame Communion Sunday was observed in the South Pacific at APO 708 by seven of us. After Mass and Holy Communion we had a delightful breakfast for which host George Thomas had managed to procure a quantity of fresh eggs. Fresh eggs, in case you didn't know, are just about worth their weight in gold out here.*

After breakfast we talked about the "old days" and passed around all of the clippings we had. Fortunately I had my copy of the "Alumnus," which will be passed around to everyone as soon as possible. If it had come a week later it would have been too late to remind me of this annual event and there would have been no observance here. All of the chaplains on the island gave George and me every cooperation in getting the boys lined up. Since there were no clippings of the Great Lakes game among those passed around, you may be sure that the affair was a complete success.

* An interesting sidelight on the egg situation out here is in a group of six enterprising officers who share ownership in a hen. Each day for 12 days they will take her one egg and put it away under lock and key. When the 12th egg has been collected they splurge with a big breakfast at which each of the owners has two fried eggs.

Those who attended were Mark J. Falgoust, '27, Jerome J. Heindl, ex. '41, Francis N. Johnson, ex. '33, Robert P. Joseph, '39, Jack Joyce, ex. '36, George Thomas, '36, and Pat Fisher, '35.

Others out here who were unable to attend because of their duties are Thomas Dillon, '42, Gerard J. Garry, ex. '36, Lt. Cmdr. Kemper, ex. '25, Robert Kenney, '42, J. J. Kerwin, ex. '26, Thomas Logan, '43, Bill McDermott, '37, Lt. Santos, '41, and Lt. Cmdr. Jim Crowley, '25.

Some of those who have been transferred are Bob Cahill, Jerry Sexton, Lt. McGee, John Beard, and Fred Stubbins.

Keep the Faith.

The following letter on Dec. 9 from Lt. (jg) Vince Hartnett, '37, Box 103, Navy 128, Fleet P.O., San Francisco, gives added and admirable proof of a great deal of the right "old spirit":

You would be somewhat amazed, as well as delighted, to see how many Notre Dame men are out here in the Pacific on service. My motto now is: "A Notre Dame man everywhere I go." I don't recall being on a single station so far out here, and I've been in the South Pacific for a year and a half, where I've failed to meet an alumnus. I met Capt. Jim Donoghue, USMCR, class of '40, three times: first when we were aboard the same transport coming out here from the States, next time at one base, and the third time at still another base. Jim gave a mighty fine account of himself on Guadal. of course.

The first year and a half out here I spent on Comsopac's staff, where there were a number of N.D. men around. In fact, about four or five months ago we started a little "Notre Dame Club of the South Pacific." We want you to know that this was the original and genuine one, started before Jim Crowley started promoting his!

CORPUS CHRISTI GROUP MEETS

This group of alumni, representing service personnel and local civilians, met in Corpus Christi, Texas, on Friday night, Oct. 29, the night before the Navy-N.D. game in Cleveland. John McManmon, Herbert Burt, Bob Rohrbach and Joe Clark were the committee in charge. "We all had a good time," said Lt. McManmon in sending the picture to the Alumni Office.

Lt. (jg) Bill Webster, '31, Ensign John M. Sullivan, '37, Lt. (jg) Daniel F. Sallows, '40, Ensign Phil G. Hoene, '38, Lt. (jg) John N. Meaney, '40, and myself were charter members. We elected Sully president. Dan ("Sad-sack") Sallows was vice-president. Meaney occupied the utterly desultory position of treasurer, having refused (in the face of having notably edited "Scrip" to be secretary.

Well, Jim, we carried on with occasional meetings for about three months, and no doubt the group will keep on for the duration, or as long as there are any N.D. men around at this unmentionable spot. One notable meeting was held at a restaurant situated in a farmhouse a good ways out in the country on our island. I know it was one of the high-lights of my stay on that island. It was always great to rekindle the old fellowships in this way.

Lt. Cmdr. Jim Crowley, summoned both the Notre Dame men and the Fordham men to council about five or six weeks ago. I know you must have heard of this. Jim is extremely popular around these parts, and deservedly so. We had a very pleasant evening together, and it was a pleasure to meet N.D. men from other services, such as Capt. Bob Blake, USMCR, who was passing through. The old N.D. spirit is very high out here. All the N.D. men I've met have truthfully given a grand account of themselves, and the Lady on the Golden Dome must be proud of them.

Our plane has just landed, so will stop now.

children. A brother, Gerald F., was a Notre Dame student in 1927-28.

Noteworthy is the fact that Tubby Harrington was the third guard from the Four Horsemen team to die. Johnny Weibel, '25, died in 1931, and Noble Kizer, '25, in 1940.

Lt. Jon Paul Sevcik, ex. '33, of the Army Engineers, as well as his two year old son, Alan Laird, died in a Japanese prison camp in the Philippines, it became known in early January when the exchange ship Gripsholm completed its latest voyage. The state department conveyed the tragic news to Lieutenant Sevcik's parents in Kalmath Falls, Ore. Mrs. Sevcik, wife and mother, remains a prisoner in the Santa Tomas University camp near Manila.

The date of Lieutenant Sevcik's death was given only as "after the fall of Bataan in 1942;" but the child's death was reported as having occurred last July from typhoid pneumonia. The father was a mining engineer for a private firm in the Philippine Islands at the beginning of the Pacific War. He enlisted in the engineers and was with General MacArthur's forces on Bataan. He had attended Notre Dame in 1929-30.

Capt. John J. McCloskey, ex. '36, of Philadelphia and Washington, D. C., sacrificed his own life in order to save the lives of two fellow Army officers in a crash near Guadalcanal on Nov. 22. When both motors failed simultaneously on the plane he was piloting, he turned its nose into a power dive, choosing to try to save the lives of the two accompanying men at the expense of his own. John took the full shock of the crash and was killed instantly. The other two were saved.

John, 29 years old, enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force early in 1940. He was later attached to the RAF as a flying officer in England and for almost a year served as a night fighter pilot. He transferred to the American Air Forces in September, 1942, and was at Kissimmee Air Base in Florida when, in February, 1943, he was sent to the South Pacific as commander of a fighting squadron.

John is survived by a son, five years old, and by his father and mother and sister.

2nd Lt. Oliver K. McMahon, ex. '38, of the United States Marines, was killed in October in a plane crash on an island in the South Pacific. No details of the

Lt. Cmdr. Wells Worth Carroll, ex. '16, Manhasset, N. Y., died on Nov. 24 as the result of injuries which he suffered when the U.S.S. Lisome Bay, plane carrier, was torpedoed off Makin Island.

Although critically wounded himself, Commander Carroll assisted other wounded on the ship until he himself was forced by enlisted men to leave it. Later a doctor, swimming from one wounded man to another to render first aid, endeavored to save the officer's life but he had lost too much blood.

Commander Carroll participated also in World War I. In World War II he had served in the office of the naval advisor to the WPB until, at his own insistence, he was placed on active duty. He is survived by his wife, by a son, 2nd. Lt. Warren Carroll, in England with the Army Air Forces, and by a daughter.

Major Vincent F. Harrington, '25

In the December issue the ALUMNUS was able to make only a bulletin announcement of the death from heart attack of the nationally known Major Vincent F. Harrington, '25, Sioux City, Ia. Tubby had succumbed on Nov. 29 in an officers' club in Rutlandshire, England, where he was on duty as security control officer at the Army Air Forces support command base.

Famous first as a guard on the Four Horsemen team of 1924, Vince set a stiff pace for himself in the years following. After his graduation from Notre Dame he served for two years as director of athletics and instructor in the University of Portland, Portland, Ore. Returning to Sioux City in 1927, he was vice-president and general manager of the Continental Mortgage Co. From 1932 to 1936 he served as state senator in three sessions of the Iowa senate. He was nominated for lieutenant-governor on the Democratic ticket in the June, 1936, primary, but later withdrew to run for Congress.

Elected to Congress from the ninth district of Iowa in November, 1936, Vince was re-elected in each succeeding election. In September, 1942, having already been a major in the Army Air Forces for several months, he resigned his congressional seat in fulfillment of a promise made to his constituents in the 1940 election: that if he voted for this country's participation in the war he would himself serve in the armed forces.

Eulogized on the floors of Congress when news of his death became known, Vince was praised particularly as a "man of his word" and "as a fine, sincere lovable gentleman."

Surviving him are his wife and two accident have so far been received by his family in Rockville Center, N.Y.

Oliver enlisted in the Naval Air Corps in January, 1940, but several months later was released because of a sight difficulty, later to be cleared up by a tonsil operation. Re-enlisting in March, 1942, he was trained at Chapel Hill, N.C., Squantum, Mass., and Pensacola, Fla., and received his wings at Pensacola on May 20, 1943. He had further training at Jacksonville, Fla., and Glenview, Ill., before leaving the country in September.

Surviving Oliver are his parents, two sisters and one brother, who is serving in the Navy.

C/Cpl. Lester R. Hoch, ex. '39, Fort Wayne, Ind., was killed in action in Italy, his parents were notified on Dec. 29 in a telegram from the War Department. In the Army since January, 1942, Les had been in Italy since Oct. 25. He was at Notre Dame for one semester, and had been employed for a year by the General Electric Company, Ft. Wayne. Surviving him are his parents, a sister and a brother who is a lieutenant in the Marines.

Lt. Richard E. Fox, ex. '41, Fort Wayne, Ind., son of the late Oscar Fox, '07, and brother of Louis A. Fox, '38, was killed on Dec. 9 when the B-17 on which he was traveling crashed into the side of a mountain near Sligo, Ireland. Killed with Dick, who was the bombardier, were two other members of the crew, the navigator and the radio man.

Dick was inducted into the Army on Nov. 18, 1941, later transferring to the Air Corps. He received his bombardier wings and commission at Ellington Field, Texas, on July 15, 1943, then had further training at the Army Air Field, Kearney, Nebr., until November.

Surviving Dick are his mother, his brother and two sisters.

Ensign James R. Hackner, '42

Ensign James R. Hackner, '42, La Crosse, Wis., earlier reported as "missing in action" in the Mediterranean theater is "now known to have been killed in action in the performance of his duty and in the service of his country. His remains have been buried in Allied territory outside the continental United States pending cessation of hostilities," according to a telegram to his father.

Jim enlisted in the Navy in June, 1942, right after his graduation, and reported to Columbia University, New York City, for training the following December. He was commissioned in March, 1943, and a short time later was assigned to active duty with the fleet. He is survived by his father, a brother and two sisters. Jim was a halfback on the football squad at Notre Dame.

T/5 Leo A. Fontana, ex. '41, Gallipolis, O., brother of John C. Fontana, '28, Columbus, O., was killed in the Mediterranean area on Oct. 31. Leo enlisted in February, 1942, soon after Pearl Harbor, and received his earlier Army Air Corps training at Sheppard Field, Texas, and MacDill Field, Fla.

Assigned to the 342nd Bombardment Squadron, 97th Group, he was among the first United States troops to land in England, and he participated in the invasion of North Africa.

Leo resided in Breen-Phillips Hall at Notre Dame in 1939-40 and, according to his brother, "he often mentioned the fact in his letters that after the war he was going to return to Notre Dame to school." Leo's parents, his twin sister and his brother survive him.

1st Lt. John S. Powers, '41, Ingalls, Ind., died on Jan. 4 in India. Details of his death have not so far been disclosed but will, it is hoped, be available for the next issue of the ALUMNUS. He was with the Air Transport Command.

Said the Religious Bulletin regarding John: "His mother and wife will appreciate your prayers. He left a baby daughter he had never seen."

near Wildwood, N.J., on Dec. 8. He was a dive bomber pilot.

Well known on the campus, Cy was president of the Chicago Club during his senior year. Surviving him are his mother, a brother who is in training to be a naval flyer and two sisters.

Lt. William C. Adams, ex. '42, Look-out Mountain, Tenn., previously reported as "missing in action," must now be reported as "killed in action." A report received by his mother through the International Red Cross from the German government stated that Billy had been killed on June 13, 1943. He had failed to return that day from a raid on the German naval bases of Bremen and Kiel.

Ensign John H. Hogan, ex. '45, Fort Wayne, Ind., son of Harry G. Hogan, '04, was killed instantaneously on Jan. 29 when a plane in which he was riding as an instructor was involved in a crash at Vero Beach, Fla. Three other naval fliers were killed in the same accident.

Jack enlisted in the Naval Air Corps in June, 1942, and trained at Ball State Teachers College, Muncie, Ind., Iowa Pre-Flight School, Iowa City, Ia., Bunker

Deaths

Alex J. Campau, Fort Worth, Texas, a student at Notre Dame in the late 1870's and early 1880's, died on Dec. 1. Member of a pioneer Detroit family, Mr. Campau was born there in 1866. He moved to Fort Worth 30 years ago. Surviving him are one son and three brothers.

George L. O'Brien, Class of 1893, lay trustee, loyal and outstanding alumnus of the University, died on December 30 after pneumonia had taxed an already weakened heart.

George O'Brien's interest in Notre Dame was as deep and as broad as his background in her history. He kept up the contacts with priests and Brothers and nuns and the campus for the whole of the 50 years after he left the classrooms. His home was open to any who came in the name of Notre Dame.

Business success, ultimately as the president of the O'Brien Varnish Co., brought him primarily added opportunities to aid Notre Dame. He was generous in many ways. His interest and generosity launched the Notre Dame Club of the St. Joseph Valley, with the other local trustees, on its successful Centenary Fund effort. A second annual gift of generous proportions continued his interest and loyalty in the Fund program almost up to the time of his death.

His character was a constant recommendation of the University to his host of friends and business contacts. A son, Eugene O'Brien, '35, South Bend, a brother, Frederick, '94, a sister, Mrs. Jerome Crowley, Chicago, survive him. Mrs. George O'Brien, known to many alumni, had preceded her husband in death, in February, 1943.

Requiem high mass in St. Joseph's Church was sung by Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., with Rev. Eugene P. Burke, C.S.C., and Rev. Cornelius Hagerty, C.S.C., as deacons. Rev. Wendell Corcoran, C.S.C., preached the sermon. Most Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., D.D., came from New York for the service.

Family connections of George O'Brien went back beyond the founding of Notre Dame, when his grandfather, Samuel Byerley, met Father Edward Sorin on his arrival in New York. Later the family moved to South Bend and the chain of friendship continued to add new links.

Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, C.S.C., president of the University, issued a public statement concerning Mr. O'Brien:

George L. O'Brien, '93

"From the founding of the University an intimate bond has existed between the O'Brien family of South Bend and Notre Dame. It was Samuel Byerley who, on instruction from Bishop de la Hailandiere, of Vincennes, met Father Sorin on his arrival in New York in September, 1841. Later, after Mr. Byerley's removal to South Bend, he frequently befriended the founder in the early days of struggle and hardship. The Byerley home became a center for the pioneer priests of Holy Cross, and the happy tradition was continued in succeeding generations, first by Mr. Byerley's daughter, and then by his grandson, George L. O'Brien, devoted alumnus and faithful trustee of the University.

"George O'Brien was universally respected because he was a Christian gentleman in both his business and social relationships. Despite the fact that he was occupied with the affairs of an industry that had gained a national reputation, he always found time to interest himself in the development of his native city. Enterprises that would better mankind or relieve suffering, such as Healthwin sanitarium, had the benefit of his prudent counsel and substantial support. He kept in close touch with all phases of the life and development of his alma mater, and never failed her when she called on him. In mourning his loss, the University can pay him no higher compliment than to say that he was an exemplary Notre Dame man."

Most Rev. Francis W. Howard, D.D., LL.D. '12, bishop of Covington, Ky., died on Jan. 18 at the age of 76. Bishop Howard was widely known as an organizer and prominent member of the Catholic Education Association. He had many friends at Notre Dame: the late Rev. James A. Burns, C.S.C., also a pioneer in the C.E.A., was one of his closest associates. Rev. Patrick J. Carroll, C.S.C., editor of "The Ave Maria," represented the Community and the University at the funeral services.

Thomas F. O'Neil, '13, Miami Beach, Fla., father of Thomas F. O'Neil, Jr., a Notre Dame student until he left recently for military service, and the father-in-law of Capt. Richard J. O'Melia, USMC, '39, died in Miami on Dec. 12 following an operation for appendicitis.

T. F. O'Neil

Mr. O'Neil was 52 years old at the time of his death. In 1915 he joined the General Tire and Rubber Company, which had just been organized by his brother, William F. O'Neil. With time out to join the United States Navy as an ensign in World War I, he served the company in the sales department, Akron, O., until 1928, when he went to Miami to supervise General Tire stores there. When the company opened its Florida district, Mr. O'Neil became Florida district manager, continuing in that capacity until his death. He was one of the original directors of the company and its secretary for many years.

Surviving Mr. O'Neil are his wife, three sons and four daughters, his mother, three brothers and two sisters.

Class poet at Notre Dame, Mr. O'Neil was also an editor of the "Scholastic" and an associate editor of the 1913 "Dome." In Akron he found the time, despite a busy business life, to be a director of the Catholic Service League, and in Miami Beach he had been president of his Holy Name Society as well as a member of the board of trustees of St. Francis Hospital. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus and of the Catholic Club of New York City.

Mr. O'Neil was devoted to Notre Dame. He came to the campus frequently, and his hospitality to Notre Dame men in Miami Beach was traditional. He extended a special welcome to the innumerable Notre Dame service men who were in the area for war training.

Dr. Wilhelm Middelschulte, LL.D. '22, for years a member of the Summer School music faculty at Notre Dame, died on May 4, 1943, near Dartmund, Germany, according to a recent note from his wife. Dr. Middelschulte was one of the world's great organists, particularly notable as an interpreter of Bach. He was likewise a composer of the highest repute as well as an inspiring teacher. His Sunday afternoon organ concerts in Sacred Heart Church are one of the brightest memories of many who attended Notre Dame summer sessions during the '20s.

John F. Reilly, M.A. '29, died on Jan. 6 in Houston, Texas, and was buried on Jan. 10 in Memphis, Tenn. Graduated from St. Edward's University, Austin, Texas, in 1927, John came to Notre Dame as a Boy Guidance student. He was assistant superintendent and director of athletics for the recreation department of the city of Houston.

As was noted briefly in the December "Alumnus," John E. Bergan, '31, for several years the secretary of his class, died in South Bend on Dec. 10 following a heart attack four hours before.

Experienced in journalism through his outstanding work on the "Scholastic" during his years at Notre Dame, John took over the secretaryship of the class of '31 several years ago and to that job devoted himself ardently. His contributions to the "Alumnus" were regular and all-embracing, the result of an intense interest and a "nose for news." The high success of the 10-year reunion of the class in 1941 was due in large measure to his long and careful planning.

Prominent in many South Bend activities, John was a member of the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's Church, the Knights of Columbus and the Elks. He was employed by the Torrington Company, Bantam Ball Bearings division, in South Bend.

Surviving John are three sisters, Margaret, Cecilia and Mrs. Lawrence (Moon) Mullins, and four brothers, William, ex. '31, Paul, ex. '36, Cornelius, '40, and Pfc. Joseph Bergan, '42.

Rev. Cornelius Hagerty, C.S.C., John's uncle, celebrated the funeral Mass for him on Dec. 13 in St. Joseph's Church, South Bend.

James A. Kaufmann, '35, Newton, Ill., ill for many years, died on Nov. 23 according to an inspiring letter from his mother. Jim had gone to the University of California following his graduation as an honor student in science, but returned home in February, 1936, and had been there ever since. All through his trying years he remained intensely interested in and loyal to the University, and in his memory his mother sent a generous contribution to the Centenary Fund and to the "Alumnus."

Edward J. Dickson, '42, Crafton, Pa., died suddenly on Oct. 20 in his home, the victim of a heart ailment from which he had suffered for many years.

Upon his graduation in May, 1942, Ed was employed by the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. Classified 4-F in the draft but yearning to enter military service, he at length became associated with the Military Transport Division of the Air Transport Command, was in GI uniform and sent to Macon, Ga., as an agent at the government airport.

Only July 1 he received two bars and an officers' rating in recognition of his excellent services and was transferred to New Orleans. Having contracted, on his first day in New Orleans, a serious case of food poisoning he was forced to return to Crafton. He had just recovered from that illness when the fatal heart attack struck him.

The "Alumnus" extends sympathy to Dennis John Hickey, III, '36, upon the death of his father; to Lt. (jg) Thomas Stritch upon the death of his father; to Daniel Sullivan, '40, upon the death of his mother; to Lt. Cornelius Geary, '40, upon the death of his father; to Paul, '32, and Louis, '34, Clark upon the death of their mother; to Rev. James McShane, S.J., '28, on the death of his father; to Rev. Joseph Kehoe, C.S.C., '33, on the death of his father; to Rev. John P. Lynch, C.S.C., '25, on the death of his father and brother; to Frederick C. Miller, '29, on the death of his uncle; to the family of the late James V. O'Donnell, '89, on the death of his wife, Agnes Lynch O'Donnell; to John Leddy, '32, on the death of his brother; to Judge William J. Clancy, Jr., '24, Edward Clancy, '20, and Dr. James F. Clancy, ex. '21, on the death of their father; to the family of the late J. T. Foley, '71, on the death of his wife.

1890-99 Rev. J. A. MacNamara, '97, Saint Joseph's Mineral Baths, Mount Clemens, Mich.

Rev. William P. Burke, of the Church of the Visitation, Kewanee, Ill., was honored by the citizens of the city on Jan. 24, having completed 25 years as pastor. Prominent and popular in civic affairs as well as church affairs, Father Burke received a purse of $2,500 in appreciation of his labors. A native of Ottawa, Ill., he attended St. Viator's College, Bourbonnais, Ill., and Notre Dame and was educated for the priesthood in St. Bernard's Seminary, Rochester, N. Y. He was ordained in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Rochester, on June 9, 1900.

From Father Mac:

A letter from Al Dannemiller, '95, reminds me there was no news of the '90's in the last "Alumnus." Al's letter helps and I'll be glad to have any alumnus of the '90's follow his example. He was inquiring about Father Ill and other friends on the campus and wished to be remembered to them. His friends will be very sorry to learn that Al's oldest son, Lt. Albert Dannemiller, Jr., lost his life last summer in an accident in Oran while serving his country. His other son, Lt. Edward Dannemiller, is with the armed forces in Australia.

The news of the death of George O'Brien, '93, of South Bend, will bring sorrow to a very large number of the alumni to whom he was well known. He was a most devoted and loyal alumnus of the University, always working to advance its interests and served as one of the lay trustees. For more than three score years, he gave an example of loyalty and service to his Alma Mater that cannot be surpassed. He was just as ardent in his service to his fellow men — a leader in the religious, civil and business life of the community. He was in his family life, a most exemplary husband and father.

He carried on the traditions of his family in loving and helping Notre Dame, for the O'Brien family has long been a part of the history of Notre Dame. George O'Brien has passed to his eternal reward but to all of us who knew him he will serve as a model of the true Notre Dame man whose motto is "For God, for Country, and for Notre Dame." I am sure Notre Dame men everywhere will pray for the eternal repose of his soul.

1905-09 Rev. Thomas E. Burke, C.S.C., '07, Notre Dame, Ind.

After an absence of 25 years, Ray Daschbach, Los Angeles, returned to the campus for Jan. 22 and 23. The alumni secretaries spent a pleasant hour with him on Jan. 22, just before he left for a chat with Father Matthew Schumacher, chaplain of St. Mary's College. Mr. Daschbach's trip was to take him to New York, Florida, Pittsburgh and other points.

Howard Beechinor has opened new insurance offices in 1104 United Artists Bldg., Detroit 26.

1917 B. J. Voll, 206 E. Tutt St., South Bend, Ind.

Stan Cofall is now president and treasurer of the National Solvent Corp., Cleveland. And in his spare moments, he is also chairman of the Cleveland Boxing Commission. In the latter capacity he recently succeeded Tris Speaker of baseball fame.

1918 John A. Lemmer, 901 Lake Shore Drive, Escanaba, Mich.

The class secretary notes that the chaplaincy of Father Frank Boland, C.S.C., has never been officially recorded in the class columns. Father Boland is now Lt. Boland of the U.S. Navy. His present address is 114 Battalion, Lido Beach, N. Y.

1920 Leo B. Ward, 1012 Black Bldg., Los Angeles, Calif.

From Leo Ward:

Gene Kennedy — Capt. E. M. Kennedy, Headquarters, Ninth Service Command, Fort Douglas, Utah — passed through South Bend on one of his trips between Fort Douglas and Washington, D. C. I received a note from Gene, a part of which reads as follows:

"I had a chance to see and did see the Notre Dame-Pre-Flight game, one of the best I ever witnessed. Had no opportunity to do any talking around South Bend; had to get back to Chicago where I was a guest of Judge (Mr. Justice) Kiley. He had a little lunch at the University Club. Present were Gus Desch, Ojai Larsen, Chet Wynne, Jerome Dixon, John Montague and John Kenney."

Col. Sherwood Dixon passed through Los Angeles on his way out to the South Seas, so I am told. He was here only a few hours and very busy. Ed Gottry spent several days in Southern California organizing the "March of Dimes." I spent a pleasant evening with him where he entertained Harry Denny, now of the moving pictures, Delmar J. Edmondson, now professor of English at Glendale Junior College, and Ed Ash of Lockheed Aircraft, with piano recitals and recounting days that Denny, Gottry and Edmondson spent in Paris.

I received a Christmas card from Lt. Cmdr. William R. Moloney somewhere in the South Seas. He is attached to the Marine Corps in his capacity as a doctor. He couldn't say much but managed to get in a few pictures of some South Sea beauties. Incidentally, I had a visit with Father Duffy, lieutenant, U.S. Navy, chaplain. He dropped in on his way out. John "Judge" Carberry, seaman, first class, returned from the U.S. Navy Muscle School (Physical Education, to you) and is again stationed at San Diego.

A few days before Christmas I received a call from Joseph Ingersoll Kane, formerly of Pontiac, Ill., but more recently of Los Angeles. Joe had been commandeered by the government and has been spending his time in England as an expert showing the Englishmen how to use radar in airplanes. All I could get out of Joe was that radar worked fine in the new Mosquito bombers and that he didn't like flying the Atlantic even though he had made more than a few trips.

William J. Cook, of the class of 1913, and, incidentally, the man who introduced Bonnie Rockne to Rock at Cedar Point the summer that Dorais and Rock decided to make the forward pass workable, recently married. Bill's address is 422 W. 79th St., Los Angeles 3.

I received a call from William Paul McCullough. He tells me that the O'Toole family is well represented in the Army. Members of our class will recall Jim O'Toole, who is now the Honorable James O'Toole, judge of the County Court, Pittsburgh. Of the seven O'Toole brothers who attended Notre Dame, five of them are in the service. Jim and his brother, Dick, who is now a doctor, are the only two remaining in civilian life. When they start talking about the five Sullivan brothers you might mention the seven O'Tooles.

Ed Donnelly and his son enlisted; however, Ed's son is carrying on in the South Pacific while Ed has been discharged and is now manufacturing airplanes at Northrup in Inglewood, Calif.

New address: Capt. John L. Musmaker, Sta. No. 6, AMEW, APO 606, c/o P.M., Miami, Fla.

1921 Dan W. Duffy, 1600 Terminal Tower, Cleveland, O.

John Callan, Franklin, Pa., was recently commissioned a second lieutenant in graduation ceremonies of the Adjutant General's OCS, Fort Washington, Md.

1922 Gerald Ashe, 19 Dorking Road, Rochester, N. Y.

From Kid Ashe:

Capt. Charles "Red" Crowley of the Army Air Corps has returned to the U.S. after 16 months duty overseas, most of the time having been spent in New Guinea on air corps intelligence work. A letter was received from "Chuck" or "Red" (as you like it), written Dec. 9 from the Oliver General Hospital, Augusta, Ga., where he was "shaking off" a siege of dengue fever and dysentery. Chuck expected to be in shape to spend Christmas with his family in Dedham, Mass. Thereafter, he expected to report back to Augusta for a physical check-up before getting an assignment.

Harold McKee, who was editor-in-chief of the 1922 "Dome," is still going strong in the firm — Weinberg and McKee, of Chicago. The firm specializes in compiling catalogues for mill jobbers.

Hunk Anderson scores again. As co-coach of the famous Chicago Bears, Hunk has nursed his pro footballers to another world championship. Congratulations!

Clete Lynch visited his old home in Meriden, Conn., during the Christmas holidays. Clete says business is so good that the customers line up just as they do at the butcher shops when beef is obtainable.

The furniture magnate of Natchez, Miss. Ed die Byrne, was expected in Chicago in mid-January to view the latest furniture showings.

When he came to the campus on Jan. 22 for a meeting of the alumni board, John Balfe, '20, brought word that Bill Murphy had been elected treasurer of Joseph P. Day, large New York City real estate firm with offices in the Chrysler Bldg.

Bill Powers operates a drug store in Los Angeles, according to his brother, Father Maurice Powers, C.S.C., '33, now a chaplain in the Army. Another brother, Ed, '39, finished in law at Georgetown in 1942 and is now one of J. Edgar Hoover's special agents. A niece, Mary Jane Powers, is a St. Mary's freshman.

1923 Paul H. Castner, 26 Hoyt Ave., New Canaan, Conn.

The class secretary has arisen, and he promises better things for the future. The war, Spike Fliann and the December "Alumnus" combined to stir up action in Connecticut's leading insurance office.

Spike, Paul says, is with the Army amphibian engineers, on duty in the Pacific area. His address is: Cpl. Neil Fliann, 36250442, Co. D, 593rd EASR, APO 565, c/o P.M., S.F. Spike would particularly like to hear from Bill Voss and Ed Shea, and other members of the class are also cordially invited to take pen in hand for the sake of the Superior, Wis., corporal.

Three members of the class (Neil Fliann, Major John Flynn and Father John Duffy) are in military service, according to Paul's records, and one (Dan Lynch) is overseas with the American Red Cross.

"More power to these four men who are carrying the 'class colors' in the present war, as a number of us did a quarter of a century ago in World War I," Paul writes. "Anyone knowing of other members with the colors, please report to me. And let's ALL write to them."

It need hardly be added that special prayers are in order for Father Duffy, an Army chaplain since 1933, who was taken captive at the fall of the Philippines nearly two years ago, and has been a Jap prisoner ever since. Father's parents, of Lafayette, Ind., received from him late in 1943 a printed form postcard on which he said that he was in fair health. That was the parents' first word from him in more than a year.

As a member of the class of '23, Father Duffy was a C.S.C. seminarian. He later joined the diocese of Toledo, O., and served in that diocese until he became a chaplain.

Paul recently heard from Bill Fitzgerald, who had resigned as judge of the sixth judicial circuit of Indiana to become a partner in the law firm of Darby and Fitzgerald, Citizens Bank Bldg., Evansville, Ind., and from John Montague, Chicago, who is chief of the "Chicago Tribune" automotive department, covering Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and western Pennsylvania. There will be Montague news, via Castner, in the next issue. Order your copy now.

A Canadian scout got word to Connecticut that Bill Gilchrist is chief executive of a Toronto advertising firm and resides at 60 Garfield Ave., Toronto, Ont., Canada.

And finally a direct quote: "To bring the Castner history up to date — I live in New Canaan, Conn., at 26 Hoyt St. The family is fine — Paul, Jr., aged 13, is now 5 ft., 11 in.; he met Frank Leahy at the Army game and got quite a sizing up by our able coach. Peter is 10, but not quite of the giant proportions of his brother. I am district agent in charge of Fairfield County for the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, with offices in Bridgeport and Stamford."

Castner has a New Year's resolution to contribute '23 news regularly in 1944. Pass some ammunition to him. Quick.

1924 J. F. Hayes, 393 7th Ave., Room 1515, New York City.

Now that Citizen Castner has joined the guild of active class secretaries, there may be hope for the distinguished citizen who, from one of New Canaan's suburbs, represents the class of '24. Boy, needle Mr. Hayes!

If James F. is looking for encouragement from a classmate, here it is. Vernon E. "Tex" Rickard, 1620 N. Vista St., Hollywood 46, Calif., who has been "missing" practically as long as Scallan's ex-roommate — we wouldn't like to say just how long Scallan himself has been "missing" — checked in on Dec. 16 with an elegant letter. Tex is still in the movies, appearing in some 200 of 'em a year, and doing very well. He had flattering news of Steve Bagarus, football sensation of the Coast as the star of the San Diego Bombers, whose combined football ability and personality have made him a general favorite.

Tex wanted news of Bud Stillman, Walt Moran, John Hurley, Joe Ryan, John Dore, Ed McLaughlin, Bob Rink and Frank McGee. "and others too numerous to mention." He had seen the Army's Capt. Jack Roach, late of Appleton, Wis., and the class of '27, who is doing a big job in transportation on the West Coast, both for the Army and essential industry. Tex spoke of other West Coasters: Frank Wallace, big-time writer for

LONG IS HONORED

Capt. John P. Long, '24, of the United State Marines, now serving in the South Pacific, has been awarded a Soldier's Medal by the Army for having rescued a soldier from drowning. At the risk of his own life, John placed his life belt on the man and, in the face of an ebbing tide, swam to shore with him.

The "Alumnus" was pleased to receive the news about Capt. Long from John P. McGoorty, '24, attorney at 19 S. La Salle St., Chicago.

the movies. Gene Kennedy, Judge Al Scott and Lt. (sg) Nick Lukats who was at the University of California, Berkeley.

The "Pittsburgh Post-Gazette" on Jan. 1 carried a feature picture of the Hugh Boyles — father, mother, four sons and one daughter, grandfather and aunt. The occasion was Hugh's installation as judge of the orphans' court on Dec. 31.

Lt. Col. Bob Riordan, stationed at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., for the past three years, is anticipating a change to field duty. The colonel and his lady are, as you may recall, the parents of nine children.

1925 John P. Hurley, 2085 Brookdale Road, Toledo, O.

Lt. Comdr. Jim Crowley is now permanently attached to Admiral Halsey's staff and is welfare and recreation officer for all Army, Navy and Marine men in the South Pacific.

1926 Victor F. Lemmer, Box 661, Ironwood, Mich.

From Vic Lemmer:

I had a letter from Arthur J. Bidwill, 1403 Bonnie Brae, River Forest, Ill. Art is a member of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois. He has invited me to visit him the next time I am in Chicago, and the "Bonnie Brae" sounds inviting. Art has promised to write me a letter of information for the next issue of the "Alumnus."

Father Bernie Coughlin, of St. Paul, Minn., never fails in writing to me at least once a year. I always remember Father Bernie as being very faithful to track and the football team, and also faithful to the basement chapel.

A holiday greeting from Vince Soisson, Connersville, Pa., indicates that in his family there are his wife, Frances, and the youngsters, Nancy and Joe. I often think of the swell time we had in Vince's town when we traveled there with the Notre Dame Glee Club. We also sang at Barnesboro, Pa., where Leonard Burns lives. Len and Vince were great pals.

Did you ever hear of the "B.H.I." club when you were at Notre Dame? Well, there was such a club unbeknown to the University. It consisted of three would-be accountants of Brother "Zip": Art Haley, Len Burns, and the secretary of the class of 1926. We generally did our accounting together, but somehow or other we never got the same grades. Haley and Lemmer still have a gold fountain pen and pencil with the name of the club engraved thereon. They were the gift of Len.

Had a letter from Mark Nelson of the class of 1924. He told me that one of the last times he saw a Notre Dame man was the day he had one in court. You know that Mark is one of the district judges in Duluth, Minn., elected in 1936 and re-elected last fall. Mark was born in Ironwood but reared in Gilbert, Minn. We had him give a speech to the youth in Ironwood some time ago, and he made his usual wonderful impression.

Lt. Jay R. Masenick, USNR, wrote that he is still located at the Shelton Hotel, New York City.

Jim Armstrong wrote that the class of 1926 raised in 1943 the sum of $2,070 for the Centenary fund. We should at least double this amount in 1944, so, members of the class, please send your extra donations to the Alumni Office as soon as convenient. Our goal for 1944 should be $5,000 from the class of '26.

Letters from members of the class of 1926 will be welcomed by the secretary. I have written to a number of men, and most of them did not even bother to reply to the letters. My office often spends an entire day on Notre Dame matters, so your cooperation will be appreciated. A short note at least will help me.

Vic Lemmer's request of some months ago finally caught up with S/Sgt. Don Halpin but at this address: Co. B, 131 Engr. Regt. (C), APO 453, c/o P.M., S.F. In a letter to Art Haley on Jan. 23 Don said in part: "... I've seen quite a lot of these romantic South Sea islands. If the word were 'rheumatic' it would be closer to the truth. So far I've been in Caledonia, Caudanal, Rendova, Munda, Kolombangara . . . and a few others. . . . We've had our share of visits from Tojo and I've become quite adept at hitting that foxhole. . . .

"It has actually been six months since I've seen a white woman. . . . Had two hot shaves on the boat coming up here, the first in several months. Never thought I'd see the day when hot water would be a luxury. . . . Had a chance to come back on the 'over 38' provision but passed it up. . . .

"... I think this life has added 10 years to mine. At least, it sure has streamlined me. Can't keep size 34 (waist) up any longer . . . 32 fits now. . . . I don't know whether I mentioned in my last letter to you that I was in a combat engineering outfit. Started out in the Q.M.'s but was transferred upon coming overseas and I like it fine. Swell bunch of lads. . . . Say hello to our mutual friends."

December brought a letter from Chuck Guiness, in response to one of July 13 which had caught up with him on Nov. 24. The following excerpts from it will speak for themselves:

"Unfortunately, the 'proposed' leave I referred to in my letter became a trip to Sicily and Italy, and I'm still awaiting a real bed and a decent meal. As you know, this is the rainy season here and we have our beds on the ground with a ground sheet and one blanket below and two over. This is a rather sketchy and makeshift arrangement, especially when the rain brings you a cold bath without the chance to remove your clothes. For food we have 'bully' or stew, hard-tack and the ever-present tea. Our clothes are spattered with mud, our shoes and socks are soaked from dawn to dawn, and everything combines to make a man uncomfortable and morose. Still, with all the misery of war conditions, we enjoy ourselves and are happy planning for that day when we return to 'Civvie Street.'

"... you don't know how nice it was to hear about you and the other lads of '26. I sat there repeating over and over the names of Bernie Wingerter, Jerry Hayes, Art Haley and the rest, and picturing them as I used to know them, and recalling little things about them and old N.D. Your letter has given me a whole hour of mental reunion with the boys and life back home and has afforded me material for mental reminiscing for many lonely nights to come.

"Please give my best to every one. Bill. . . I had a lad of five (whom I haven't seen for four years) and a wife who is in England, — a nursing sister and 'leftenant.' . . ."

Those bits ought to bring out many an unused '26 pen for the sake of giving a classmate many another 'lift.' The address: D27064-Cpl. C. H. Guinon, Hq. 14 Cdn. Army Tank Regt., (The Calgary Regt. (Tank) CAC), Cdn. Army Overseas, Central Med. Forces.

William R. Barr is now to be reached at Box 21, Chalmers, Ind., the old stand. Bud was given a medical discharge after long service with the U.S. Army in India and China, and we're hoping to have for the next issue of the "Alumnus" some details of his experiences in the Orient.

Father Craddock, prefect of religion, had a delightful note from Lt. Leo J. Cantwell, U.S.N. Activity No. 1, Navy No. 138, c/o Fleet P.O., N.Y.C. Leo had been at the one base for nearly a year and, when he wrote, had associated with him three other Notre Dame officers of later classes: Hobie Shean, Bill Lynch and Frank Quinn.

"Father Ireland [chaplain] has turned over to me many copies of the 'Bulletin,' the first I have seen since my graduation, and their appearance after so long a time brings back many happy memories. I am pained by the thoughts of the transformation which the war years must have brought about at Notre Dame, but proud to hear that she is doing so prominent a job in the preparation of military personnel."

"Tide," advertising magazine, carried in its Jan. 15 issue a prominent story on the plans of Hallcrafters, Chicago, world's largest exclusive manufacturer of short wave radio communications, to enter the consumer market after the war. Hallcrafters is owned by Ray Durst and William J. Halligan and their wives. (Mr. Halligan's son, Bob, is a former Notre Dame student).

"Under the impetus of war production," Tide says, "the 10-year-old radio communications equipment manufacturer has boosted its production from $2,000,000 to $34,300,000 annually, expanded its one Chicago plant to seven. Additionally, it has a backlog of $20,000,000 in government orders."

Bernie Wingerter, in South Bend with the Bendix Aviation Corp. for nigh unto two years, is in the process of reestablishing himself and his wife, Pat, and son, Johnny, in the old New Jersey haunts. Wink's work took him to the East so much that his company decided that it would be the wiser part to have him reside there.

Jim Kelleghan, Chicago, was the author of "Aquinas Knew What Money Is," one of the leading articles in the Nov. 27 issue of "America." Jim wrote regarding money in its national and international aspects, calling up a wide experience in financial public relations service and as financial counsel to large corporations.

Charles W. "Pinky" Martin was, at the latest report, club director of the NCCS, 303 Wythe St., Petersburg, Va.

John Carlton is manager of the U.S. Employment Service in Fort Wayne, Ind.

John Lemmer, '18, secretary and superintendent of schools in Escanaba, Mich., sends word that "Joe Boland was the principal speaker at the football banquet in Escanaba, Mich., honoring the St. Joseph and Escanaba high school football teams. His rebroadcast of the Notre Dame-Great Lakes game was a masterpiece."

1928 Louis P. Buckley, 4481 MacArthur Blvd., Washington, D. C.

From Lou Buckley:

A letter was received from Father Jim McShane, S.J., just a few days too late to make the deadline for the December "Alumnus." Father Jim is giving missions and retreats. His address is Jesuit Mission Band, St. Louis University, St. Louis. He mentioned that John Carroll of Springfield, Ill., who joined the Seabees a short while ago, was raised to the rank of lieutenant commander. John ran a construction company in Springfield prior to his entry into military service.

Roscoe Bonjean is in Springfield, Ill., and was last seen by Father McShane while attending a Forum lecture. Father Jim reports that Angele Galdabini introduced him to the Pfister lunches in Milwaukee.

Vince Walsh and Father McShane got together at the Northwestern game in Chicago. Vince said Joe Nelson is U.S. tax collector in Decatur, Ill., and Kirby Schaeffer is in Springfield. Vince sees Bill Kirwan in Iowa City each year. Bill Hanley Murphy last wrote to Walsh from Scott Field. Thanks, Father McShane, for the report on fellows whom we have not heard from in some time. I hope that some of us '28ers will have the opportunity to attend one of your missions. Let us hear from you again soon.

Bill Jones recently resigned from the OPA to become executive assistant to Judge Harold Stephens, chairman of the Committee for the Exchange of American and British Patents.

I transferred in December from the Social Security Board to the War Production Board as a labor economist in the Office of Manpower Requirements. I am labor consultant for the printing and publishing industry and for the container industry. In my spare moments I teach graduate classes at Catholic University in the School of Social Sciences.

My fellow class secretary, Captain Joe McNamara, who is in the Office of the Adjutant General in Washington, inquired the other day as to how I managed to get letters from the '28 men for this column. On the basis of my record in the past few issues, I am the one who needs advice on this matter. Please follow Father McShane's example and send along some news for the next issue. The deadline is March 15. Thanks.

Latest addresses: Capt. Thomas F. Rueckelshaus, APO 629, 1st Transport Group, c/o P.M., N. Y. C.; Lt. Fred Ruiz, 935 Bank of America Bldg., San Diego 1, Calif.

1929 Capt. Joseph P. McNamara, 1814 N. Court House Rd., Arlington, Va.

Father Kerndt Healy sent word to the Alumnus Office that Dr. Jim Tobin, with the Army in India, had met up with Father Larry Graner, a C.S.C. missionary there, according to recent word from the latter.

Joe Gastreich, Corpus Christi, Texas, was recently commissioned a second lieutenant at graduation exercises of the Adjutant General's School, Fort Washington, Md. And Jim Roy is a new (jg) lieutenant in the Navy according to word from the Boston Office of Naval Officer Procurement.

Jim Gallagher is now vice-president and general manager of the Chicago Cubs and, in addition, retains his title as general manager. His election to his new jobs was announced in Chicago in late January.

1930 Harold E. Duke, 4030 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, Pa.

From Harold Duke:

Those little reminders of another deadline to meet seem to come all too frequently — especially in view of the few letters and cards arriving from members of the class.

Anyway, here goes the first report of '44 with a fervent hope that before another year rolls around we can start preparations for our all-important '45 reunion.

A welcome letter from Jim Sullivan, the Royal Oak undertaker, is very interesting. It reads:

"My old roommate Mack Trombley was commissioned a lieutenant (jg) in the Navy last May. However, he did not receive his orders until this fall. He is now at Quonset Point, R. I., for his indoctrination course. He is married and has two fine little daughters.

"Tom Frost is still in Detroit managing the Sears farm store. He has two daughters and two sons. Tom was very busy this summer with a super victory garden. He is also in the chicken business, in a small way.

"Karl Brennan was in town this summer visiting his brother, John, '27, who is now a Royal Oaker. Carl is still making money for the Grant Stores, his latest store being at Madison, Wis.

"Joe McCabe gave up the linoleum game to be an officer for the Navy over a year ago. I understand from Frost that he is now in charge of a vessel with a complement of about 300 men.

"Backy Slack was recently given a medical discharge from the Army, having been in about six months. I understand that he is now back in Detroit. Joe Kelligan, who formerly lived at Flint is now living in Birmingham, Mich., and is employed at the Westinghouse Naval Ordnance plant.

"Bill Reaume is still in Detroit, teaching in the Detroit school system. I saw Jack Stackpole recently at an N.D. meeting. He is an attorney with the Michigan Unemployment Commission.

"I am married and have two swell sons. William John is three and John Edward is eight months. I am still in the funeral business and doing business in a fine new Funeral Home which was built in 1939."

Thanks, Jim, for a swell job of reporting — let us hear from you more often.

Former baseballer Johnny Moran came through in fine style with the following:

"Made a business trip through the East a year ago last spring and was lucky enough to establish contact with a number of the old gang.

"On my initial call at our New York office who should I encounter directly in front of the building entrance but Pat Frontczak. I visited with Pat, a swell guy, and his charming wife. He originally hailed from Dowagiac, Mich., and in New York was doing advertising work for one of the dailies. Pat's brother carried the mail for the Army football team not so long ago. My last information on Pat was that he entered the Army late in April or early in May of this year.

"Trying to find a Kelly in Brooklyn rivals the needle in the haystack. On my last night in New York, I succeeded in locating Joe Kelly and we had a good old-fashioned session. Joe and I used to handle the Sorin Hall mail (nice work if you could collect for it — Harry Sylvester knows). I hope Joe sees this as I would like to know all about their first baby they were then expecting shortly. His wife, Edie, whom I did not have the pleasure of meeting, must be tops in view of the many nice things I subsequently heard about her. Joe was a pedagogue in a Queens high school.

"In Newark, I had lunch with Dr. Bucky O'Connor, my Sorin bus neighbor and bell ringing assistant. Pete Quinn completed the threesome. Our medic was a very busy man — a good sign. Also talked to Sam Colarusso on the telephone.

"In Philly, I moved right in on Harry Francis in Paoli, taking up briefly where we left off some 12 years prior. As always, Harry was the perfect host. I hope he, too, sees this as I would certainly like to hear from him and, better by far, to see him.

"Finally, in Pittsburgh, I spent the better part of a day in the company of Hugh Gallagher and his lovely wife, Vange. In the course of the day, I saw Fritz Wilson and Bill Magarall.

"On at least two past summers I dropped in on Frank Curran at the Curran Bros. elevator and mill in Minocqua, Wis. and while in that same area five or six years ago I brought a cash customer into Art Dorwin's shoe and clothing store. I would say Art hadn't changed much, if any.

"I do not know as much as I should about what goes on locally and currently among the '30s. I believe Jim Leahy is engaged in defense work. I know he is married and has a daughter. Harold Simpson, also of Oak Park, is happily married; has, I believe, four children; and I understand is doing well as head of his own company producing commercial stock and poultry feeds. Dick Savage is a bowling alleys proprietor on Chicago's near north side. John Mahoney is doing well in the legal profession. Likewise, Tom Purcell has been doing very well in one of our leading bank and trust companies. Ed Feehery, my fellow outfielder in the old days, is a grain broker, and I am sure he has at least two children.

"Tom Kerrigan and I finished our law together at DePaul here and he has done right nicely in that game, with a lot of real estate thrown in. Assistant State Attorney Red McCarthy was associated with Tom. The Al Ko'ski's are expecting their first child and, since the Army called but did not choose him, he is still doing a fine job with our company here as an adjuster. A late flash has it that Harry Busscher, local barrister and past exalted ruler of the Oak Park lodge of the Elks, has entered the Navy.

"As for myself, Corinne and I are pretty proud of our two children. Donna's birthday, her second, coincided with the Seahawk game and between her party and Bill Stern, I was in a lather. Jack is going on nine months. I'm just a few days shy of nine years service with the Allstate Insurance Company and am home office supervisor of our eastern branch claim department.

"By the way, in the course of discussion, Harry Francis and I were both wondering about Joe Palermo. Will Joe or someone else advise? A friend of mine in the Army told me he encountered Dutch Johnson, also in the Army."

Thanks again to both Jim Sullivan and Johnny Moran for the "lift." How about some more of you fellows comin' through?

Joe Abbott, assistant personnel manager of the Federal Telephone and Radio Corp., East Newark, N. J., was on the campus on Jan. 14 and 15 to interview senior engineers with regard to employment by his company and associated companies (I T & T organization). Joe employed six Notre Dame engineers when he was at Notre Dame in late 1942, and five of them are still with the organization.

In professional meetings in the area Joe sees John O'Donnell, who is personnel manager of the Bendix plant in Bendix, N. J.

John Nanovic, until recently editor of the detective and adventure group at Street and Smith, N.Y.C., has joined the publicity staff of Arthur Kudner, Inc., advertising agency, also of N.Y.C.

At the latest report, Capt. Norman D. Bradley was at the Marine Air Base, Cherry Point, N. C.

Latest address: Lt. Cmdr. Donald W. Greasley (an M.D. and flight surgeon), Naval Air Experimental Station, Navy Yard, Philadelphia; Pvt. Edward J. Meagher, Hq. Co., 766th Tank Bn., APO 957, c/o P.M., S.F.; Pvt. Jack Cannon, 304 Hq. Sq., Atterbury Army Air Field, Columbus, Ind.; Capt. J. Franklin O'Marah, 93rd Supply Sqdn., 31st Air Depot Group, APO 4959, c/o P.M., N.Y.C.

The sad news on John Bergan immediately brought to mind that the Class of '31 has thereby lost an outstanding character and one of its best known and most admired members. No one ever came even close to doing as much to keep us all posted on the doings of the other fellows as did our genial, even-tempered, conscientious friend, John. He was unassuming, likeable, unselfish and from the outset gave continuing evidence that he was better than especially qualified for the outstanding job he by acclamation was elected to. As time marches on we are all going to more and more miss John.

Jack Saunders, '31.

John Bergan, secretary of the class for the past good many years, died suddenly on Dec. 10 from a heart attack.

A story about him will be found separately in this issue, under "Deaths." And Lt. Jack Saunders, president of the class, expresses in the telegram above the affection and admiration which the class had for him.

But the editors of the "Alumnus" could not let this '31 column go to press without adding their word of appreciation for John's tremendous and effective efforts in behalf of the "Alumnus" and the Alumni Association. John worked almost ceaselessly for the magazine, and his regular contributions, splendidly written, were as much appreciated by the editors as they were by the class members.

His work built solid foundation not only for the magazine but for the entire structure of the Alumni Association. His management of the 10-year reunion of the class was one of the highlights of class activities.

All those at Notre Dame will join with class members everywhere in praying for the repose of John's soul, remembering that he was most faithful in having Masses said for deceased classmates and for the deceased members of classmates' families.

To The Class of 1931: The Class of 1932 notes with sorrow the death of your excellent class secretary — John Bergan.

We who knew John surely admired his fine character. As a class secretary, he had no equal.

To you, and to the members of John's family, we extend our sympathy.

G. A. Ashe
(for 1932)

Lt. John P. Hickey, in a letter to Father Hugh O'Donnell, said that British and Americans alike enthusiastically sang the Victory March "as they went through the hell of Salerno." He was especially in praise of the Navy men trained at Notre Dame, who, he said, "are bringing Notre Dame along with them" wherever they go.

Lt. Jim Kearney, stationed in N.Y.C. for a good many months, is now serving his employer, the U.S. navy, in Washington, D.C. Jim and his wife were in South Bend for a few days in early December.

Promotions: Frank Tomasi is now a captain at Bryan Field, Texas, where he is serving in the dental corps. Lynn Vance, South Bend, also a dentist, is also now a captain — at Fort Sill, Okla. Lt. Jim McCann, New Rochelle, N. Y., was promoted to captain at Fort Monroe, Va., where he is in the Coast Artillery. Jim entered service as a private in June, 1942, was commissioned in January, 1943, and raised to first lieutenant last May.

Addresses: Pvt. Alfred E. Gall, 42043787, Regtl. Hq.—2141st CA (HD) Fort Dawes, Winthrop 52, Mass.; Lt. Gerald F. Conway, Hq. U.S.A.F., APO 919, c/o P.M., S.F. Al was inducted last September and had his basic training in Coast Artillery at Fort Dawes. He expected to be sent to military intelligence school for special training.

1932 Lt. James E. Collins, 1135 Manchester Ave., Norfolk, Va.

From Jim Collins:

I recently received a fine letter from Capt. (Father) Paul Hallinan from the Southwest Pacific area. He is attached to the 542nd Engineering Regiment, APO 403, San Francisco.

He states that he likes his work immensely and has been too busy to get lonesome but does surely miss the folks at home. He said his younger brother, Art, joined the Army on July 3 and became the father of a son on July 13. He ends his letter with, "Things are popping here as you can guess from the papers. I do my travelling around this huge area by jeep, plane and boat, and enjoy it. Keep up the work on the 'Alumnus' — it's good to read about the old gang."

Olle Powers is doing war work in Chicago and does not expect to be drafted because of the high priority of his work. His address is 6235 N. Oakley Ave., Chicago.

Bill Conaton is still with Cherry Burrell Corp., but has moved to 184 N. Main St., Fort Plain.

N. Y. Charley Quigley, still in the drug business in Richmond, Ind., writes that he misses the familiar faces of some of the salesmen who used to call on him. Among them is Jim Bosco who was last heard of as an apprentice seaman at Great Lakes.

Ted Halpin writes that his brother, Ed, ex. '32, recently was awarded the Air Medal for his work with the Twelfth Air Force in Africa. Ted continues to manage the paint business for duPonts in Indianapolis.

Lt. Charley Fiss, '33, told me that he had seen Lt. Norm Duke, '33, recently and that the latter is captain of a PT boat. Charley also mentioned that he saw Lt. Bud Dempsey, '33, in Oshkosh at Christmas, and that he had just returned from a convoy to India. He is in charge of an Armed Guard crew of a merchant ship. Charley has been appointed security officer at Camp Bradford, Va.

Lt. Robert C. (Pete) Streb sent an announcement of the arrival of a son on Jan. 4 in Canton, O. This is their first child. Pete is still in Boston in charge of an anti-aircraft unit.

Father Henry A. Heintskill, C.S.C., now a lieutenant (jg) in the Chaplain Corps, has been detached from this area and ordered to a new aircraft carrier. He expected to visit the campus during the Christmas holidays. His associate here, Father C. M. O'Brien, told me that his brother, Ensign Jim O'Brien, '42, was here for a visit recently. Jim is in an Armed Guard unit on a merchant ship.

Ensign Bill Coleman, '40, was recently appointed district salvage officer of the Fifth Naval District.

Jim Walder, Cairo, Ill., is now a major. Overseas for more than a year and a half with the 12th American Air Forces. Jim has gone through a ship torpedoing as well as the North African, Sicilian and Italian campaigns.

Jim Meehan is an administrative officer with the Social Security Board, 880 Bergen Ave., Jersey City, N. J. Lt. (jg) Don Sullivan reported from Fort Schuyler, Bronx, N. Y., on Jan. 10 that in his battalion in that indoctrination school there were four other Notre Dame men as follows: Lt. (jg) William Blind, '32, Englewood, N. J.; Ensign B. J. Keffler, '37, Canton, O.; Lt. (jg) Robert J. Haley, '36, Fort Wayne, Ind.; and Ensign Thomas O'Brien, '44, Suffern, N. Y. There were several others from Notre Dame in other battalions, Don said, and most of the teaching staff had gone to the N.D. Midshipman School.

Lt. (jg) Frank H. Reilly, writing from the Fleet Training Base, San Clemente, Calif., where he was communications officer, said that he had recently heard from Lt. Jim Carmody, 1709 19th St., N.W., Washington, D. C., and from Lt. (jg) Joe Petritz, with the Armed Guard in New Orleans. Joe, by the way, was up to the campus territory at Christmas time for a short leave.

Addresses: Lt. Robert N. Leppert, USNR, Air Transport Sq. 3, NAS, Olathe, Kans.; Major John M. Scanlon, O-472094, 93rd Signal Battalion, APO 183, c/o P.M., Los Angeles.

1933 Tighe Woods, 7944 Ellis Ave., Chicago, Ill.

From Tighe Woods:

Inasmuch as the restrictions of OPA, WPB and WMC make curtailment of space necessary in the "Alumnus," I will not at this time be able to give my expectant public my long awaited essay, "A Class Secretary Awaits the Postman's Ring or What Happens To The Major In

An English Major's Life After He Leaves College?", but I can sum up all 16 pages by saying that if you gents would like news of others, send me something about yourselves.

Among Chicago visitors for the Northwestern game late this fall was Roland Dames who stopped up at the office for lunch. He looks grand, is 2B and thinks Roosevelt is a cinch for a fourth term.

A recent visitor to Chicago was Vic Schaeffer who came over from Detroit on business. I tried to get him out to the house to get a look at that famous Arctic Circle hair line (I'm not exactly a Wild Root Tonic ad myself) but he had too many customers to see or too many customers had to see him or something, you know!

Somebody, some place told me Father "Chick" Sheedy, C.S.C., was visiting in town over the holidays. There is one guy who ought to be able to send me lots of news. For the benefit of any one of you who might have missed the last 17 issues of the "Alumnus," "Chick" is stationed on the campus as an assistant prefect of religion.

Coming out of the Blackstone Hotel the other night (where I'd gone to get a telephone slug) I fell in step behind a striking young couple in mink and Navy Blue. When the Blue turned around to see who was shoving, we smiled, and tears of mutual understanding came into our eyes. It was Lt. Don Wise (not jg either, I'll have you know) who gave the best years of his life trying to write for this column. Don has put on weight in just the right places and really looks like something that Uncle Sammy can pat on the shoulder and say, "This is one of my boys!" Just as Don started to get out his little note book and tell me everything about every classmate in the directory, we heard the clang of a bell and we all had to run to catch the last street car for South Chicago.

Just in case any of the class of '38 happen to stray into this column I'd like to report that your classmate, Chuck Beasley from Ridgewood, N. J., was just recently made a major in the Marines and is stationed at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Phil Ryan wrote in late November that he was residing at 474 31st Ave., San Francisco, "after serving a stretch in the Army." Sgt. Bill Pierce's address: 67th T.S.S., Truax Field, Madison, Wis. Bill has been in phy-ed work in the Army since June, 1942, and is at present assigned to the AAF Training Command radio school.

Addresses: Leo J. Baner, Sp1c (R) USNR, Navy Recruiting Station, Kokomo, Ind.; Lt. A. C. Botti, 623rd Ord. Auto Base Main. Bn., 3042 Co., APO 600, c/o P.M., N.Y.C.

Promotions: Tom Kennedy to first lieutenant at Camp Wolters, Texas (infantry), and Ray Naber to major at the Jeffersonville Quartermaster Depot, Jeffersonville, Ind.

1934 Joseph R. Glennon, Jr., Brook Manor, Pleasantville, N. Y.

From Joe Glennon:

Early in January I had the opportunity to spend a few happy hours at Notre Dame.

Talked with Ed Krause who is capably handling the coaching of the basketball team; also talked with Walt Kennedy. Both were looking forward to seeing many of you fellows in the New York area at the N.Y.U. game.

Herb Alberts, ex. '34, is operating "The Little Folks Shop" at the same spot, north of the Strand.

Ralph Elser reports that he has been in Auburn, N. Y., since 1939 where he is an engineer with the Navy Department. Ralph has been married since 1942.

Hot flash: Robert M. Cahill is now a senior grade lieutenant. The erstwhile "junior" is still in the South Pacific.

Father (Chaplain) Ed Murray (not to be confused with Lt. Ed Murray, USNR, '31) wrote recently from the 414th Rgt., APO 104, c/o P.M., Angeles (52). Lots of N.D. boys in his outfit, Father said, and two of them, Capt. Bill Lieser, '37, and Sgt. Lando Howard, here in 1938-39 as a graduate student, particularly asked to have the "Alumnus" sent to them. Father Murray had also been in communication with Cpl. John Quinlan, ex. '44, 25th Special Service Co., Fort Lewis, Wash.

Lt. (jg) Dick McMonagle writes from Fort Schuyler, Bronx, N. Y., where he has been a staff instructor for the past year, that literally dozens of Notre Dame men, including many classmates, have gone through his establishment.

"To me, it's been like a constant reunion as every class that's entered here has brought a large quota of former N.D. men," Dick's letter says.

Charlie Jahr was a student in the very first class that Dick taught. Among later '34 men at the station were Harold Desnoyer, Bob Jaynes, John Pavlick, Hugh Fitzgerald and Al Scafani. Of other classes, there were Fred Carideo, Fred Solari, Don Elser, Ed Caldwell, Nordy Hoffmann, John Schroeder, Dave Nash, Don Hickey, Eddie Riska and George Sobek, to list only a few assorted gents.

"Each and every one of the N.D. men who have come through here has made an excellent record for himself," Dick concluded.

John H. Clark is director of the NCCS club, Vega Baja, Puerto Rico. Jim Morrison, Hammond, Ind., wrote in December that he had just received his commission in the USNR.

Bill Sheridan, '34, and Law '38, assistant U.S. attorney, Ancon, Canal Zone, was in the States in January with his wife and three children for a visit with his family and his wife's family. Bill stopped in the Alumni Office on Jan. 14 for a most enjoyable chat.

Addresses: Ensign John E. Kiple, care, District Coast Guard Headquarters, Communications (Postal Affairs), Keith Bldg., Cleveland; Lt. John De Wilde, U.S.N.A.S. Commissary Office, Atlanta, Ga.

1935 Franklin C. Hochreiter, 2118 Treasure St., New Orleans 19, La.

From Hoch:

Now that our good editor has us placed at the top of the column, and we hope in your minds, how about a batch of mail? The class of '35 has certainly put up a poor showing the past few months.

We tried in vain to have you tell us where you are and what you are doing, especially if you are in the armed forces. So now we appeal to your wife or family to drop us a card telling us about you. How about it, you wives and parents of '35ers — will you give us a helping hand? Just send word to the name and address at the top of this class column.

Cards were fewer this year at the Yule season, but we did hear a word from the following: Lt. Paul Guarnieri, Medical Section, Columbus ASF Depot, Columbus 15, O., U.S. Army; Lt.

Charles Mahar, who sent a V-Mail Christmas card from the South Pacific, where he continues with the engineers; Martin Hendele and wife, who sent greetings from Chicago; Art Conrad and wife, who also sent a card from Chicago. How about letting us know your rank and location, Art?

Dr. Vincent Gorman's wife sent a card and a note that Vince is on a LST with the Navy in the South Pacific. (We would appreciate it if Vince's wife would send us their N.Y.C. address.)

We joined the staff of the Social Protection Division of the Federal Security Agency last August. Assigned to the state of Louisiana, we have our office in New Orleans and are responsible for the Federal Program to repress prostitution and control venereal disease in the state.

Let's hear from you!

Tom Proctor, late of the OPA, Indianapolis, is now in N.Y.C. as special assistant and legal adviser to the president of the Ballard Aircraft Co., Inc., 331 Madison Ave., N.Y.C. 17, fabricators of plastic and plywood aircraft and parts. Tom and his family are living in Apt. 6B, 139 E. 94th St., N.Y.C. 28.

Lt. (jg) A. D. McCarthy writes that he was commissioned an ensign in November, 1942, and has been at sea much of the time since. At present he is an executive officer out of N.Y.C. The newly married Mac (see "Marriages," this issue) met his former roommate, Chuck Morris, in Hartford, Conn., not long ago, and he reports that Chuck is the father of three lovely little girls.

Jim Marohn, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer of the Kerotest Mfg. Co., (valves and fittings) Pittsburgh, was in around Christmas for a long-overdue chat with the Alumni Office staff. Jim was in public accounting in Pittsburgh until he made his present very desirable connection. He's a new CPA too.

Sgt. Anthony Kuharich, investigator for the War Department in the military district of Washington, D.C., was awarded a good conduct medal on Jan. 1.

Addresses: James W. Pick, Capt., M.C., 297th Gen. Hospital, APO 180, c/o P.M., Los Angeles; Lt. (jg) James F. Bowdren, U.S.N. Amphibious Base, Solomons Branch, Washington, D. C.; Lt. Lewis C. Crego, 12th Detachment, 15th S.G.U., Atlantic Overseas Air Service Command, Newark Army Base, Newark, N. J.

1936 Joseph F. Mansfield, 34 Fifth St., Pelham, N. Y.

From Joe Mansfield:

Since our last contribution to the "Alumnus," we've received not nearly enough in the way of letters. However, Bill Gottsacker did come through with a very nice note the contents of which we'll pass along.

For the last 17 months, Bill has been doing an important bit of work in the South Pacific. He says that the "Alumnus" affords him many a pleasant moment and makes him look forward to that Tenth Reunion of the class. Naturally, Bill couldn't tell of any of his adventures in the battle zone but we have an idea that when the war is over he'll be able to spin quite a yarn. Bill attended a Notre Dame reunion in Hawaii but unfortunately knew none of the fellows.

Shortly after he arrived back in this country, Bill was married to the former Evelyn Parker, of Brandon, Man., Canada. The ceremony took

CHARLIE BOYLE HONORED

Ensign Charles J. Boyle, '36, Duluth, Minn., has been awarded the Silver Star Medal "for conspicuous gallantry during the invasion of Attu Island." Charlie was on duty as assistant beach master of a U.S. transport during combat landing operations in Attu.

"Although subjected to heavy intermittent shelling by enemy artillery and anti-aircraft gun emplacements," the citation said, "Ensign Boyle unwaveringly directed the unloading of landing boats upon a beach both hazardous and extremely unfavorable for such operations and remained there after the withdrawal of his own ship in order to direct the unloading of supplies from other vessels."

Charlie is mentioned in this connection in Howard Handleman's book, "Bridge to Victory," which is a story of the conquest of Attu and Kiska.

place in Seattle. Best wishes, Bill, to you and the new Mrs. Gottsacker.

If Lou Hansman should chance to read this column, we'd like to pass along Bill's wish that he drop Bill a line soon. His address: Cpl. William H. Gottsacker 16049897; Det. 17th B. Hq. and ABSQ (S) Qm. Sec. APO 935, S.F.

Lt. John Moran, when last heard from, was stationed outside Norfolk, training for the Armed Guard service.

Lt. John Desmond is now stationed in England, where he was transferred after seeing a lot of action in Africa and Sicily. We haven't heard from Bernard McCormick or Joe Neuwirth since we bumped into them in Pittsburgh the night before the Pitt-N.D. game. At that time they were both taking advanced classes at one of the Army schools outside Harrisburg. Andy McMahon is in England.

Please send a card or letter this way.

Capt. William J. McCraley, South Bend, was retired by the Army on Dec. 23 after serving in the Medical Corps for one and a half years. He had spent five months in North Africa.

Harold Gilday is ballistic supervisor with the Hercules Powder Co., Kenvil, N. J.

Pat Tofuri, about to be a father for the second time, wrote to give his permanent address: 23 Garfield Ave., Winchester, Mass. With the American Red Cross and frequently transferred, Pat had run into three of his classmates in naval uniform: George Moriarty, Andy Scafati and Neil Barnett.

Dick Snooks was recently elected president and treasurer of the Citizens Loan and Savings Co., St. Joseph, Mo., succeeding his father who had been president of the company for 20 years and who is now chairman of the board. Dick had been secretary-treasurer for the past four years. In St. Joseph, Dick is also president of the Retail Credit Bureau, co-chairman of the gasoline ration panel, vice-chairman of the 1944 President's Birthday Ball, athletic chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, civilian representative of the U.S. Coast Guard, a member of the committee of economic development and of the K. of C., Kiwanis, Elks and Country clubs.

1937 Paul Foley, 910 Hawthorne Road, Green Point, Mich.

Carl Langston, Little Rock, recently resigned his position as assistant attorney general of Arkansas to go to Tucson, Ariz., for a two-month training period as a midshipman in the Navy. He accompanied his wife and son and daughter to South Bend where the latter three will remain with Mrs. Langston's parents while Carl is in training.

Lt. (jg) Fred East, 1427 Grove, Alameda, Calif., sends an account of recent years, in the following newsworthy piece dated Jan. 5:

"As you probably know, I have been in the Navy for over a year and a half practically all of which time I have been with National Air Transport Service. My work has been in communications and it has really been very interesting. Mary and daughter, Ginny, have been with me most of the time and are known in Alameda, Calif., which is my home base.

"Have met a few N.D. men up here in Seattle. Lt. Comdr. William M. Hawkes, B.S. in C.E. of 1933, is the engineering officer of this squadron; Robert Cox, '42, is a navigator in this outfit; and the other night while quaffing a cold one I saw a familiar face (also quaffing a cold one) that on closer investigation proved to be none other than Jim McGuire, '38, of Golden Gloves fame. William Cronin, '27, a former footballer of N.D., is in the same wing and we often get together. He is also based in Oakland. So we do have a few Notre Damers around. Also have met two aeronautical engineers from the old school: Bill Unglishik and Don Gay, based at present in Oakland. We used to gather about the radio en masse on Saturday afternoons.

"Also hear from George Brögger and Phil Frits occasionally. George is a lieutenant in the Army, in training in Colorado. Phil is on a repair ship as a naval ensign somewhere in the Pacific. Ed McDermott was awarded some decoration — I believe that it was the Air Medal with an Oak Leaf cluster. He is a first lieutenant and navigator on a fortress. E. J. Flanagan was in England with a fort outfit the last I heard. Bill Lieser, at whose wedding I got my last look at the campus, is a captain in the Medical Corps in the Army. He is at Camp Horn, Ariz."

Phil Bendi, looking fitter than any one in sight and feeling just as good, hove into the Alumni Office on Jan. 10 for a welcome talk. Phil is back in Chicago with the Standard Register Co., of Dayton, O., serving as register supervisor for the Chicago area, of which South Bend is a part. For the time being, Phil's wife and child were remaining in Amboy, Ill., but, having put in four months at his job, Phil was more confident every day that his health would soon permit him to set up permanent family quarters in Chicago.

Phil said that Dan Sullivan had an ensign's commission. No details otherwise.

Promotions: Bill Shakespeare to sergeant at Camp Adair, Ore.; John E. Fox, South Bend, to major in the Army.

Addresses: S/Sgt. John N. Cackley, 35433401,

6th Port Hq., APO 765, c/o P.M., N.Y.C. (a Christmas card from Italy); Ensign John M. Wallach, 731 A Esplanade Ave., Redondo Beach, Calif.

1938 Harold A. Williams, 4323 Marblehall Rd., Baltimore, Md.

From Hal Williams:

Ensign Ed Brennan, a consistent and sparkling contributor to our notes, deservedly heads the column with this letter: "To New York, early in 1943, with wife and son went king-sized, well-dressed John Thomas to take up a more responsible post with TWA, in whose employ he has been for four years. Their families and waistlines growing are Bill Arnel and Len Skoglund. Len increases in importance at Scully Jones Co., while Bill assumes greater proportions with Nubian Paint and Varnish. . . . Frank O'Laughlin, late of Consolidated Coal, Chicago, is now in a Mississippi camp; his wife, Marie, joined him there recently. Jack Hughes, once a 'Chicago Trib' man, is now a corporal in a Utah camp. . . . A naval torpedo bomber pilot, his younger brother, Ed, ex. '42, mixed it up aplenty last summer in the sieges of Lae and Munda. . . ."

"In the last year and a half we have seen: Lt. (jg) Bill 'T-Bone' Mahoney giving aviation cadets the word at the Navy Pre-Flight School, Del Monte, Calif. At the Navy's Recognition Training School, Ohio State University, last winter we met 'Bunny' McCormick and Ensign Joe Campbell. The 'Bunny' later was detached to the east coast; Joe was slated for sea duty. Husband, father, officer, gentleman Owen Kane, last October was an ensign in the Supply Corps at the Naval Air Station, Norfolk. Our good friend, Ensign Joe Heatherman, '37, was at the same station as a naval aviator. . . . In Washington we bumped into Jack Deane who is with the Department of Justice. . . . As for myself, I left the Chicago staff of 'Aero Digest magazine' in May, 1942, to join the Navy. After being commissioned an ensign I began the Cook's tour that took me to San Francisco, Norfolk, and finally to the Naval Air Station, Anacostia, D. C." His address there is PSL-Photolith-Building 150."

Thanks, Ed, for another swell letter. How about dropping over to Baltimore for a week-end?

Now Lt. "Chuck" Daly, whose address is Merced Army Air Field, Merced, Calif. Writes Chuck: "Leon Lancaster is a first lieutenant in the Adjutant General's Department and is stationed in San Francisco. . . . Ed Grogan is with the Department of Justice, stationed somewhere in Pennsylvania. . . . Ed Uniache is a captain in the Marines, now stationed in San Diego after a hard time of it in the South Pacific. . . . Joe Nigro is instructing in Washington, D. C. (sic!). . . . I am stationed at Merced, the greatest little post in America, and am in the legal department, handling personal affairs of the men." Thanks, Chuck.

Cpl. Ed Barnett spent a Saturday afternoon with me recently. His address is: Company G, 3rd Bn., 1st Rgt., Camp Reynolds, Greenville, Pa. He says he is going overseas shortly and he's doing very interesting work. Ed's father, Edmond Barnett, city editor of the New York "Sun," in response to a request on my part, furnished some information on Chuck Beasley (See box on this page.) This spring Chuck was home on leave, visiting his wife and son, Charles, at 57 Oldis St., Rochelle Park, N. J.

Jack Zerbst and his wife spent the week-end on Nov. 27 with us and we were joined by Ens. Don Hickey, who is now assigned to an LST ship. Jack, on Jan. 4, reported for active duty as an ensign in the USNR at Quonset Point, R. I.

I had a nice letter from Father Anthony Gomez, who is doing parish work in New Bedford, Mass. (344 County St. is his address.) He also was kind enough to send me a leaflet missal for Christmas. Had a Christmas letter from Bud Sherwood and his wife, writing from 2203 Detroit St., Flint, Mich. Bud is working in the

TWO '38 MEN HONORED

Two members of the class of '38 have been awarded the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in action. They are Major Charles Beasley of the Marines and Rochelle Point, N. J., and 2nd Lt. John P. Monteverde of the Army and Pittsburgh, Pa.

Chuck, then a captain, was honored "for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity during action against enemy Japanese forces on Guadalcanal, Solomon Islands, on Nov. 7-9, 1942 . . . although previously wounded in a skirmish with the Japanese [he] persisted in continuing his duties, frequently operating in advance positions. . . . His courageous endurance and utter disregard of personal safety were in keeping with the highest traditions of the U.S. Naval Service."

Chuck was also cited on Oct. 24, 1942, in a letter from Admiral Halsey, "for bravery and devotion to duty during engagements with the enemy in the Solomon Islands . . . under severe enemy fire and in the face of repeated assaults he performed his duties with great skill and dispatch."

Chuck returned to the U.S. in early 1943 for advanced courses in Marine training.

John, member of a tank battalion unit, probably saved the life of a fellow soldier in Italy. Climbing from an evacuated tank during an attack, with his clothes and hair on fire, a tank crew member ran toward the enemy lines. Jumping upon the man, John extinguished the fire at the expense of receiving burns on his own hands and neck. After much persuasion he succeeded in having the shocked man crawl to a less exposed position.

For his heroism John received the Purple Heart as well as the Silver Star.

accounting department of Chevrolet-Flint, division of General Motors Corp., in Flint. And then there was a card from Charlie Callahan who challenged, "Who says I didn't see the Army game — see you next year if I'm not in Japan." Listen, Callahan, you told me that not-to-be-forgotten Saturday night that you had overslept, missed the game, and you then asked me who won, and the score. Remember? Letter follows. Also had a recent note from John Donnelly, still directing the students' accounts at N.D.

We received the Christmas cards from the following (these are listed only to show you that some fellows are still kicking around): Charlie Brosius, of Baltimore; Ernie Maurin (6712½ Sunset, Hollywood, Calif. — he says he's still building planes at Douglas); Betty, Gail and "Ivan" Vance, of Brooklyn; Annabelle, Bob McGrath and their two children, Michael and Maryann (406 S. Lombard Ave., Oak Park, Ill.), and Brother "Bill" Bertram Mahoney, O.P., who writes, "The remiss pen pal strikes again. I have no personal news, except that all goes well, and quietly. God willing ordination will come in 1945. I saw Scott Reardon about a month ago; he is now in Chicago working for the Government. His younger brother, ex. something, is in his first year of study here at the house." Bill's address is Dominican House of Studies, River Forest, Ill.

I've just received a V-mail letter from Major Joe Callahan, waiting impatiently in Sicily for more action. He says that he received a letter from Chuck Sweeney, South Bend, who is awaiting a call from the Army. [And Chuck has three, plus, children too—Eds.] Incidentally, while listening to a New York Giants-Redskins game heard that Chuck was headlinesman for the game. . . . Well, that's about all. Recently we've heard from a lot of fellows for the first time in five years. Keep it up. Wonder what ever happened to Arizona Murphy and the Kalamazoo twins, Simon and Sheila?

Pierre de la Vergne, killed on May 20, 1943, in a plane crash at Pensacola, Fla., within a week of receiving his wings and commission in the Naval Air Corps, has been posthumously awarded his ensign's commission, his mother said in New Orleans, Dec. 15.

George Belanger is now a first sergeant at Camp Haan, Calif. Sgt. Ned Fishwick is in Italy, having covered North Africa and Sicily in the campaigns there. His brigade, he writes, supported the British in the crossing of Messina Strait and thus had the distinction of taking part in the Invasion of Europe.

S/Sgt. Danny Farley, South Bend, was posthumously honored on Jan. 16 when the Air Medal and three Oak Leaf clusters were presented to his mother following the 11 o'clock Mass in St. Joseph's Church. The awards were in recognition of meritorious achievement on 25 operational flights which Danny had made.

Addresses: 2nd Lt. Patrick J. Stillisano, Transportation Corps, APO 713, c/o P.M., S.F.; S/Sgt. Daniel F. Ryan, 35257857, 1062nd Sig. Co., 41st Serv. Gp., APO 528, c/o P.M., N.Y.C.

Ed Boyle, the father of three, is doing his G-manning these days out in the rugged Butte, Mont., country. In Pittsburgh for a time Ed made the 2,000-mile trek to Butte soon after the Pitt-N.D. game. Denny Emmanuel is a first lieutenant in the Medical Corps at Camp Adair, Ore., Denny finished at Iowa U. in medicine in '42 and did his internship at St. Mary's Hospital, Duluth, Minn.

1939 Vincent W. DeCoursey, 1321 Georgia, Kansas City, Kans.

Ensign Joseph Gregory Rice of the U.S. Maritime Service thinks he probably is "through for life" with this running business, according to a UP dispatch in December. Greg said that he now has no facilities for proper training and that by the time the war is over he probably will be too old to make a comeback.

Commissions: Ensign Bill Braun (blimp pilot), at the Lakehurst, N. J., Naval Air Station on Dec. 7; 2nd Lt. John R. Hartsock, at the AAF Navigation School, Hondo, Texas, on Oct. 23; 1st Lt. Stanley J. Weigel, Medical Reserve Corps, Army (received M.D. from Yale on Dec. 18 and is interne at Hartford Hospital, Hartford, Conn.).

Having completed his internship in Cook County Hospital, Chicago, after being graduated from Northwestern University, Dr. Dick Ganser is resident physician in St. Joseph's Hospital, South Bend. With his wife and daughter he is residing at 1312 East Third St., Mishawaka.

Capt. Lawrence Thompson was recently graduated from the Advanced Officers Course at the Cavalry School, Fort Riley, Kans., with the rating of "superior." Larry is troop commander of the reconnaissance troop in the 42nd infantry division, the famed Rainbow Division.

From his post with the 76th Air Base Sqdn., Hendricks Field, Fla., Clarence T. "Pete" Sheehan continues to send news of '39ers and others. John Jaxtheimer, he says, is an ensign and stationed in the naval supply school at Wellesley College. Lt. Charlie McCabe, now a flying fortress pilot, is in advanced training at Ardmore, Okla. Bill Dunlevy, '30, a corporal in the anti-aircraft, arrived in Australia, Pete reports. Lt. Edward J. DeBartolo, '33, completed officer training at Fort Belvoir, Va., and is now with the engineers at Fort duPont, Del.

Frank Farrell, in England when he wrote in December, had been promoted to a captaincy. Address: Francis E. Fitzpatrick, 102 Naval Construction Bn., c/o Fleet P.O., S.F.

1940 Lt. Robert G. Sanford, 3934 N. Maryland Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

From Gene Blish, '34, Denver:

U.S.N.'s Bud O'Fallon is at radio school in Chicago. A/C Jack O'Malley flies at Stamford, Texas, with the AAF. In his usual newsy letter, Midshipman Al O'Meara, who was at N.D.'s Navy school, stowed away a deck-full of Navy news for you '40 fellows: He'd met Ed Hennessy, '40, from Chicago, sporting three oak-leaf clusters and having the distinction of flying the first American bomber over Berlin; ran into Bud Teah in the "caf," and Lt. Frank Ciolino, '40, who asked in particular about Tom Tierney. Al's roommate on Howard's 4th deck was Rollie O'Melia from Tulsa, a friend of Jerry Donovan's, '40. Jerry O'Dowd is a LC Naval officer; Joe Gerwe, '40, is the skipper of a Navy patrol boat.

Ensign Bob Tiernan wrote in mid-December from the Pacific area, where he was aboard a navy cargo ship, asking that he receive the "Alumnus."

"Paul Mullen, '40, of Mt. Lebanon, Pa., who was my best man in 1941, is going great guns out in the South Pacific and is one of the Marine Corps' hottest pilots now," Bob said. "He is an ace. I am hoping to run into the guy soon in my travels out there."

Addresses: 2nd Lt. John M. Pilarski, Judge Advocate branch, Headquarters, Fourth Service Command, Atlanta, Ga.; Ensign Edward H.

TWO '40 MEN HONORED

1st Lt. Paul A. Mullen, '40, a Marine fighter pilot and accredited ace, with at least five Jap Zeros to his credit, recently was awarded the Air Medal. Paul, who completed his second tour of duty in the Solomon Islands campaign, received his award for "meritorious achievement in aerial attacks against the enemy" on July 7 and 17 while flying with the "Bucket of Blood" unit.

Paul was later a member of the "Black Sheep" squadron commanded by the famous Major Greg Boyington, who had shot down 26 Jap planes before he was reported missing.

1st Lt. Leo G. Facticeau, '40, navigator on a heavy bomber, has received the Distinguished Flying Cross for participation in bombing missions in the Southwest Pacific. Leo navigated the first heavy bomber over Rabaul in the first great raid on that stronghold last fall. His plane scored a direct hit on a transport in that raid.

Schreeter, Naval Air Station, Hitchcock, Texas; Sgt. Russell J. Dolce, 36363490, 340 Bomb Group M. 486 Squadron, U.S. Air Corps, APO 520, c/o P.M., N.Y.C.; Lt. (jg) James V. Cawley, Naval Armed Guard Center, South Brooklyn, N. Y.

Bernard F. Hiss, South Bend, whose engagement to Mary Cecilia Schubert was recently announced, was graduated from the AAF Training Command School, Yale University, and commissioned a second lieutenant.

T/4 Frank Miltner was, when he wrote on Dec. 10, at the University of California, Berkeley, studying French and Annamese. A Christmas greeting from the class secretary, Lt. Robert G. Sanford, 01595148, gave his new address as Hq. 491st Q.M. Bn., QMUTC, Fort F. E. Warren, Wyo. But there has been nothing since from Robert in Cowboyland.

A dispatch from the Marine Corps tells that 1st Lt. Maurice Newman, member of the "Eight Ball" Squadron, shot down in October his first enemy aircraft — a Zero, — over Vella LaVella in the northern Solomons. Maurice was then completing his third tour of duty in South Pacific area, having received his wings at Miami Beach in August, 1942.

Capt. Paul Hellmuth writes from England that Lt. Ted Jockema, a fighter pilot, did fine work in the North African campaign. Ted was later returned to the States and, on Nov. 22, was married to Jean Trentman.

New '40 M.D.'s: Bob Frost, who was graduated from the Georgetown School of Medicine on Dec. 19, and Louis Cenni, who was ditto from Temple on Dec. 16. Lou was commissioned a lieutenant (jg) in the Navy and is now at the Brooklyn Navy Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y.

JOHN HENEERY, '40, AND HIS BOMBER

Here are the famous John P. Heneery, '40, at 25 a lieutenant colonel and one of the war's leading aces in the Pacific, and his famous bomber, "Notre Dame de Victoire." John is second from the right in the picture. At the right is Father Augustus Gearhardt, Catholic chaplain from the Milwaukee archdiocese.

1941 Lt. John W. Patterson, Jr., 5530 Darlington Rd., Pittsburgh, Pa.

John W. Patterson, the father, carries on— and very effectively — for Lt. John W., the son. Mr. Patterson keeps in touch with many members of the class and their families and forwards promptly all news coming into his hands.

Mrs. Annie S. Powers, Richmond, Va., wrote recently to Mr. Patterson that her son, Dave, had been promoted to captain in the Marine Corps. Overseas for nearly two years, Dave served for five months in the Guadalcanal region.

The class secretary, on a short leave in England, met up with the notable British heavy-weight fighter, Sgt. Freddie Mills of the RAF. And found that Freddie is highly regarded in England as a really worthwhile opponent for Conn or Louis. Pat's comments on Mills were in the form of a letter to Chet Smith, sports editor of the "Pittsburgh Press" and were printed in Smith's column "The Village Smithy."

John Aselage is still a 4F civilian but is doing his big bit as inspector for the War Department in Mansfield, O. John and his wife and his new son, Laurence Frederic, live at 130 Blanche St., Mansfield. In his spare minutes, if any, John is assistant manager of the local bowling alleys too.

Aselage dope: Jim Curtis was at Fort Sill, Okla.; Bill Bogan, after 18 months in Panama, was at Hoff General Hospital, Santa Barbara, Calif.

Col. James G. Newland, Hdq. Sqn., 71st Ftr. Wing, APO 658, c/o P.M., N.Y.C., wrote from England on Jan. 10 that he hadn't seen any N.D. men over there so far, but that he had seen several of 'em, especially on the West Coast of the U.S.A. before he left. John Flanagan, '30, Newburgh, N. Y., and Jim were together for much of their training. At Hammer Field, Calif., Jim met Lt. Bob Boyle, who roomed two doors from him in Sorin. In that vicinity he also saw Lt. Barney Ferry, who was then at Camp Pinedale, Fresno, Calif.

2nd Lt. John L. Boyle is at Camp Adair, Ore., with Btry. C, 347 FA. Bn., APO 91. Jack married Betty Melander in June, 1943, and he and his wife have their temporary home in Corvallis, Ore.

In a note from his home in Chicago, Lt. George Meltzer said that he had seen Pvt. Bill Clark in New York, where Bill is an Army doctor. In Chicago George had seen 1st Lt. Jim Behe, who is at the University of Chicago.

His mother writes that Ensign Frank H. Comins can be reached in care of U.S.S. LST No. 1, c/o Fleet P.O., N.Y.C. Bob Stack was commissioned at the AAF Navigation School, Hondo, Texas, in October and was later at Roswell, N. M., for further training. Herb Kersten was graduated in medicine from Iowa U. on Dec. 22 and is an interne at Roper Hospital, Charleston, S. C. He's in the Army Medical Reserve.

Lt. (jg) Frank Santos was one of the first U.S. pilots to down a Jap Zero from a new Hellcat, according to an AP dispatch from Washington. Frank has three brothers who are also in the armed forces.

After 20 months on duty in the South Pacific, Bill Simmons came back to the States in October and is now an instructor in the Banana River Naval Air Station. He and his wife can be reached through Box 24, Melbourne Beach, Fla.

Promotions: Walt Brodbeck to corporal at Fort Knox, Ky., and Milt Williams to captain in Eng-

GEORGE MELTZER DECORATED

Wearing the Air Medal with three clusters, the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Purple Heart, Lt. George F. Meltzer, '41, Chicago, is back in this country recovering from injuries suffered in one of his 23 bombing missions over Germany.

Navigator on Flying Fortress, George twice came back to England "on a wing and a prayer." Once, over the North Sea, the two star-board engines were put out of action by anti-aircraft fire and the 200 miles remaining had to be made on the two port engines. Another time, anti-aircraft fire hit the gas tank and the plane remained in the air just long enough to reach the coast of England. George was injured by shell-fire and in putting out a fire aboard the plane. Twice he was given up for dead.

On the campus on Jan. 20, George was asked about his miraculous escapes. He replied simply, "Our Lady was there." Holding up his rosary he said, "It was with me on every raid."

land, where he is serving in Army intelligence. Address: 1st Lt. Howard Hilles, 386 Bomb Sq., 312 Bomb. Grp., APO 714, c/o P.M., S.F.

Joe Ryan was on Dec. 11 commissioned an ensign at the Naval Air Training Center, Corpus Christi, Texas. And Oscar Kastens recently became a second lieutenant at the AAF Training Command School, Pampa, Texas.

1942 Pvt. William E. Scanlon, Public Relations Office, Ft. Sheridan, Ill.

From Scoop Scanlon:

Notre Dame people I have met lately:

While I was helping photographers picture Pvt. Luke Appling, late of the Chicago White Sox, donning the Army togs at Fort Sheridan's Recruit Reception Center who should pop but Pvt. Bill Murphy, the Chicago veteran, who spends his Army hours wrestling clothes.

I had a date with the dentist and he figured I ought to get my molars polished the GI way, so I had them cleaned by a comely dental hygienist who happened to be Frances Dorsey, cousin of Ben Hennessey. She reported that Ben will be graduated from West Point soon.

While at home in Portage, I met Dr. C. W. Henney, Tom's dad, and Mr. Henney reported that the ex-Sorin haller is still learning to fly in Mississippi. Also visited Reedsburg, Wis., to say hello to Red Rice's folks. Red calls an Army air base, Nashville, Tenn., his home now. Via the Rices I learned that Ed Ostroski, one of our phy-eds, is in Italy. Earlier he wrote that the first man he met on the landing barge which had taken his group to the shores of Africa was the late Jim Hackner.

Ensign Hackner volunteered for Naval duty shortly after graduation and was killed in action in Italy. He comes from my old home town, La Crosse, Wis.

At a nearby USO, in Highland Park, Ill., I met Vince Scully's sister, Joan. The Scullys recently moved there from Evanston. Vince was due to be graduated from air school the other day.

Red Lonergan is often on the receiving end of calls headed for the Chicago "Tribune"—reports of sports results at Fort Sheridan. And if you tell the Chicago "Sun" how your team makes out the listener is likely to be Martin Downey, who was located at Notre Dame as student and employee from 1926 to 1932.

Lt. Robert Flannery, 19-year-old member of the Notre Dame class of '46, is still one of our company officers at Fort Sheridan. Top scorer on the Fort Sheridan basketball squad is Bill Sticklen, former Joliet Catholic ace, and more recently an N.D. freshman player. He had 262 points in early January.

Seems like Christmas should come more often. The mail bag would be heavier. Vince Hogan V-mails greetings to all the class from England. And Ensign John Gilbert comes through with this masterpiece, also from England:

"Been intending to get in touch with you all summer but I've been pretty busy fooling around the beaches in Sicily and Italy. Can't say it was too much fun but it sure was interesting. Just came up here to England recently and I'm afraid not just for the ride! Ran into Bob Hutton, '42, yesterday (Dec. 1), and he had a couple of 'Alumnus' for me to read. You don't realize how much you miss all the old gang till you get over here away from everybody. But I shouldn't say 'everybody.' I think N.D. '42 was better represented than any other school in the North African theatre. During the summer and fall I saw Sam Boyle, Gene Yeager, Ted Weinfurter, Dick Green, Tom Cooney, and several others I can't think of right now. This amphibious force sure caught a lot of our class."

Cpl. Thomas Powers reports from Camp Patrick Henry, Newport News, Va.:

"Had a GI Christmas at camp—on guard both Christmas and New Year's and every other day in between. Was in charge of the Christmas party, decorated the dayroom with holly and a tree, made some potent punch, sang Christmas carols and rolled out some entertainment. After New Year's I got away from camp for the first time since the Army-N.D. game for a three-day pass — spent a day in Washington with my brother, John, who is at Fort Meade, Md., and two days in New York with my other brother, Jim.

"Heard from Frank Lavelle — he's about to go into service. Got Christmas cards from Dom LoGaidice, at Georgetown Med school, Washington, D.C., and from Pfc. Marty Fitzpatrick, 3209th SCSU, ASTU, Bard Hall, 50 Haven Ave., New York City.

"Sorry to hear of Jim Hackner's, Bill Reynolds', and Matt Miller's deaths. Our group is dwindling, isn't it?"

Our faithful lawyer recorder, Mrs. Lora Lashbrook, provides this resumé of the boys from Dean Manion's department:

"Christmas mail brought new addresses from several of the '42 lawyers but few reported change of status. Among those telling change of location are: Jim Diver from Oregon to a southern camp; Bill Hogan from Camp Roberts, Calif., to Camp Hale, Colo.; Warren Deahl from Camp Hood, Tex., to a station in Florida; and Bob Sullivan from Nebraska to Fort Bragg.

"The big news of the month from the 'fighting lawyers' was information that Lt. J. J. Barr, USMC, was injured in the battle of Tarawa and is now in the Naval Hospital at Pearl Harbor. Joe's personal report was that he suffers from plain laziness, but more official sources state that the current outbreak of that ailment was brought on by shells from a Jap gun which lodged in his shoulder (the shells, not the gun). Whatever it is, all of us hope for a speedy and complete recovery.

"Alex Tcholis has moved on into Italy with the Allied Military Government outfit to which he has been attached since he arrived overseas several months ago. The Louis Andersons of South Bend have a baby daughter, Candyce.

"Ernie Timpani was in South Bend on a four-day furlough last week, early in January. His time was divided between Notre Dame and the girl friend. Vital statistical analysis says Notre Dame received approximately 30 minutes of Ernie's furlough. Jim Daner recently reported a change of address from the office of the prosecutor in Mt. Clemens, Mich., to Fort Sheridan. Jim passed two examinations in one week — the Michigan state bar exam and his Army physical.

"Lt. Tim Maher wrote on Dec. 29 from a Los Angeles APO. . . . Yeoman Ed Kelly of the Cincinnati Navy Recruiting office was slated to be married about Jan. 15. Jerry Killigrew and Fred Hoover are completing a year's work at the Navy Business Administration School at Harvard soon and both will be ready for active duty as ensigns in the Navy Supply Corps."

Shortly before press time, S/Sgt. Paul Neville — notice the advancement to one "rocker," — V-mailed a new address with New York APO accent.

Christmas time also brought a card from Ensign Steve Graliker, via Corpus Christi, Texas, another from Phil Rulli, Navy Public Relations Office at Notre Dame; and a note from my former boss, Lt. Joe Petritz from his naval assignment near New Orleans. Lt. Eddie Buener checked in from Camp Maxey, Tex.

Two members of our class continued to make names for themselves in athletics recently. Steve Juzwik led the Great Lakes football squad in scoring last fall with 44 points and was recently transferred to "an eastern base" for advanced training. Ensign Art Pope recently starred for the Abbott Hall Midshipmen basketball team which defeated the Dr. Goss Collegians at Chicago.

S/Sgt. Paul Neville, our faithful correspondent, reported on Jan. 19 from England with this newsy V-mail account:

"About 35 N.D. men in the ETO attended a joint reunion dinner with men from Minnesota at the Grosvenor House in London on Saturday night, Jan. 15. . . . There were a half dozen '42 Golden Domers in attendance. . . .

"When I arrived at the appointed meeting place, Ensign Johnny Gilbert and S/Sgt. Don McGinley already were swapping yarns. Don is with a bomber intelligence unit and Gil is in the amphibious force. Then Sgt. Carol Pitkin, veteran of 10 months in the ETO, blew in. He is instructing radio combat men at a bomber base. We all got together at one end of a table and dug into the turkey, which was an agreeable surprise.

"Halfway through the meal Ensign Joe Lane arrived and he too broke bread with us. Emmett Keenan was unable to get away but I expect to see him in London the middle of February. In his last letter Em had reported no word of Joe Hrachovec in almost a year. Well, all the N.D. men were lined up for picture-taking purposes when a second lieutenant standing beside me, Moore was the name, mentioned that he was '37 and asked my year. Then he said: 'I wonder if you know Joe Hrachovec?'

"I nearly fell over, but sure enough, Joe is at a base not 20 miles away and I have a date with him for Saturday night. Other bits of stray information: Tony Donadio is touring England with an all-GI show. Gilbert and Sammy Boyle were at Salerno, Gilbert and Pitkin, I also discovered, married their St. Mary's belles."

Another late letter came from Floyd (Slush) Richards, who is announcing the program entitled "Encores" via NBC from Station WTIC, Hartford, Conn. His communique said in part:

"Received a letter from Black Joe Sullivan, and it seems this ex-Cavalier is under the protective wing of Uncle and is stationed at a branch of the U. of California. He and Betty expect a little sax-toting Sullivan before many moons. From aboard a Dutch ship out on the Pacific, my roommate, Lt. Lee Barbry, reports that things are going well and that he has met a few of the boys. My other co-resident of 418 Walsh, Paul Knowles, is still selling life insurance in Green Bay, Wis., where he lives at the Y.M.C.A. Lt. Jim O'Loughlin sent a few words from the Southwest Pacific and reported that things were quite copesthetic among the natives there. It wouldn't at all surprise me to hear that he had a concession selling saki to the Japs — with arsenic.

"I hear quite frequently from Tom Horak who seems to be tramping the moors in Merry Olde England. Bill Frye keeps me posted on the affairs of the U. of Wisconsin where he's furthering his education in science."

IF IT'S NEWS, WRITE SCOOP!

Don Casey was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Field Artillery OCS, Fort Sill, Okla., and assigned to remain there on the staff and faculty of the student regiment. Jim Joden, South Bend, with the AAF in Italy, has been promoted to captain.

Addresses: Sgt. Leo A. Lanigan, ASN 16078-781, 415 B. Hq. & A.B. Sq., Laredo Army Air Field, Laredo, Texas; Ensign George L. Supplitt, Cub 11, Camp Allen, Norfolk (11), Va.; Ensign Robert C. Maddock, 1611 E. Fourth St. Santa Ana, Calif. (Bob is aboard a transport in the Pacific).

Shortly before he was killed in action Dec. 2, Ensign Jim Hackner, La Crosse, Wis., sent a letter to his father:

Nov. 11, 1943

"Dear Dad.

"It has been quite some time since my last letter. Dad, just one of those things I may not explain. Twenty-five years ago, almost to this very hour, you received word that World War I was brought to a close and you tossed away a rifle, went home, married a lady who later became my mother.

"You both told me I squawked and bawled, and sometimes now I have my moments because no matter how tough a man may become because of circumstances, he's still a baby. Today, on Nov. 11, 1943, it's that same old story. This time it's that squawky kid, wearing a uniform, far away from his people and there is no peace today.

"The kid went to Mass and Communion today, a short time ago. The kid is strong and healthy, but the kid would like to come home. He hears all sorts of rumors, scuttlebutt in his language, but his father gave him the best of educations so he weighs them. He refers to current stories of the Vatican. He knows, not so much about military and naval tactics, but he knows man cannot fool with his Creator's temples and not have the just hand of the Almighty swing a wicked left. The kid is learning today, saving it for tomorrow and all his hopes are based on Faith, without that nothing would seem worthwhile. Your loving son."

Ensign James F. McNulty, Standard Landing Craft Unit No. 18, c/o Fleet P.O., S.F., is in the Southwest Pacific, his father writes from Chicago.

T/Sgt. John A. Reilly, 31071203, Hq. No. 2nd Photo Group, APO 520, N.Y.C., has been overseas for 13 months and only recently received a citation according to his brother, Frank, '32, a lieutenant (jg) in the Navy. No details as to the citation.

Cpl. Donald F. Connors, 5th Air Base Sq., Barksdale Field, La. ("not to be confused with Lt. Donald D. Connors of '42") notes the absence of N.D. men in his present area. Earlier he saw Dick Sullivan at Camp Upton, N. Y., and Dan Reach and George Cronin, '44, at Chanute Field, Ill. Don is yearning for news from Tony Donadio, Bob Burns, Roger Brown and Walt Heckin.

Prof. Kervick, head of the Architecture Department, reports that Jim Gallagher was in the initial attack on Salerno. At least three '42 men, it appears, were in the battle at Tarawa, and two of them were injured. 2nd Lt. Joe Barr (who appeared prominently in a newsreel of the Tarawa landing) and Pfc. Howard Agey, both of the Marines, were the injured. Joe is in Navy Hospital No. 10, c/o Fleet P.A., San Francisco. 1st Lt. Bernie McKay of the Marines came through unscathed.

Sgt. Joseph B. McNorthney, 19022603, Hq. & Hq., LAAF, Laredo, Texas, is an instructor in aerial gunnery, having entered the Army on June 10, 1942. Joe writes that Joe, Jr., arrived on Dec. 28, checking in at a husky 9½ pounds.

Pfc. Leo V. Tarzon, Jr., is a junior in medicine at Creighton, Omaha. 2nd Lt. Thomas M. Fitzgerald is at the Mountain Home Army Air Base, Mountain Home, Ida., where he is a member of the medical corps.

The mother of Lt. Walter J. Dezel, Jr., USMC, Ordnance Co., 4th Base Depot, 1st M.A.C., c/o Fleet P.O., S.F., writes that "somewhere in the South Pacific" Walt was able to assist at midnight Mass on Christmas in a new chapel built of native wood. He said that almost all at Mass received Holy Communion.

Bob Courtney is in the Army OCS, Miami Beach, Fla. 2nd Lt. Tom Hoyer is overseas and his brother, Pvt. Raymond F., ex. '40, is attending intelligence school at Camp Callan, Calif. 1st Lt. Joe Sullivan, N.Y.C., was recently at a fighter station in England taking specialized course in advanced aerial combat tactics. Joe joined the RCAF at Montreal in August, 1941, and had his early flight training there. He transferred to the U.S. AAF last September. He has flown on offensive operations over Europe.

1943 Robert Lomergan, Sports Department, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.
Ensign Edward C. Roney, 1723 Iroquois Ave., Detroit, Mich.

(Since Ed Roney is out of the country, and hence out of easy communication range, we asked Red Lomergan to help him out. Red, as always, came through and, we're sure, will continue to do so.—Eds.)

From Red Lomergan:

I won't be meeting as many of the boys as Ed Roney did, so I will depend upon your cooperation in writing up the news. Any items you can send in will be appreciated, not only by me, but by the entire class, who are anxious to know where their friends are and what they are doing.

A letter from John Weed, stationed in the Army Air Corps at Phoenix, Ariz., had this to say:

"I entered the Air Corps last February and went to Florida for my basic. I met Bill Stewart; he was a physical education instructor there. George Reberdy was also there, resting up before he entered Jefferson Medical school. I then was sent up to New York for three weeks of schooling. While I was there I met Tom Cooney who is now in Italy. Also 'the Pope,' and Becker were on hand. Then I was shipped to Jefferson Barracks, where I ran into Cpl. Red Oliver. I got in touch with Bill Warnick and had a grand time talking over old times. He said he sees Dan Murphy every now and then.

"From here I was transferred to Oshkosh, Wis., and this was a fine camp. From here I moved to Santa Maria, Calif., for my primary flying. Owen McGoldrick was out there, in the same outfit. Bill Earley was out there, in bombardier school; he's shipped out by now. My last transfer brought me to Thunderbird Field near Phoenix."

Eddy Ryan is in the Loyola Medical school in Chicago and is really studying hard. Among his classmates are Sol Lapulasa, Sam Rowbottom, John Reardon, Dick Burns and Dick Bowdye. Eddy was as surprised as I was to hear of Harry Wright's marriage in Chicago.

Had a short chat with Lou Rymkus who was in Chicago with the Washington Redskins for the championship game. Lou likes pro ball. The Washington newspaper men who were up in the office said that Lou was one of the best liked players on the squad. Saw Wally Ziemba up in the Northwestern pressbox; he likes coaching down at school. At Notre Dame, Bob O'Toole, Kev's brother, told me that Kev had left the coast with some Marine replacement outfit. Kev is an officer with those "Leathernecks."

Still see a good deal of Scoop Scanlan, '42. Until Scanlan moved in, Fort Sheridan was unknown in the sport field. Now they are in everything. He has even fielded a WAC basketball team.

Had a nice evening with Snorky Buono, who is at De Paul University, Chicago, in the physical education department. He has been putting the servicemen there through a rigorous training.

Vince Commisa has this to say: "I am now stationed in New Haven, which is swell as I get home quite often. . . . I was down to the Army-Notre Dame game, and had a good time seeing all the boys. It seemed like a reunion, sitting around the hotels talking over Notre Dame once more. I spent half the evening with Jack Barry and the other half with Mike Mahon. . . . I am here studying Japanese at Yale. We have a four month's course at the end of which we are supposed to be able to write the language and speak it rather fluently. . . . Bud Dudley is back from Gunnery school in Fort Meyers, Fla. He is now at navigators' school and claims Jack Tallett is with him. Say, we sure can be proud of the grand job Joe Campagna is doing for the Air Corps! He is one of our real war heroes. He has had 60 dive bombing missions over Africa, Sicily and Europe."

Sunny Randolph claims he likes it down at aviation school in Nashville, Tenn. He misses the Notre Dame boys, and would appreciate a little mail. A Christmas card from Jerry Killigrew tells us he is still up at Harvard.

A telephone conversation with Bob Kuipers, now office manager of the Branniff Airlines Chicago reservations office, gave us this: Jim Ford and his brother, Bill, are both at Northwestern medical school, both in uniform. Bob reported a Notre Dame gathering at the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago, not long ago. Among those present were Bob Nanno, who was going to Loyola medical school in a few days; Jack Hickey, who had been down at Fort Bliss, Texas, doing desert duty; and Art Kartheiser, who is finishing up at Notre Dame. Neil Green was also on hand; Bob Martin is up at Great Lakes with him.

Congratulations to Jack "Abe" Forster, who was married to Doris Wermuth in Milwaukee on Jan. 22. His best man was Bob Kuipers. Zame Sandum was seen passing through Chicago. He is now in the Navy Air Corps, stationed in Muncie, Ind. Joe Roesch was at school not long ago; he is in the chemical department of the Aluminum Corporation of America in St. Louis.

Associated Press tells us that Ollie Hunter is still kicking cinders in the boys' faces as he races to victory in the various New York indoor track meets. Ollie is at Columbia in the V-7 unit. Tom Callahan just graduated from Columbia and is now down in one of the naval branches at Norfolk, Va. We received a letter from Ed Callahan, familiar to all of us ninth semester boys, and he is now stationed in a V-5 school in Massachusetts.

Father Tom Brennan, C.S.C., had this news for us: Tom Miller has graduated from the Northwestern midshipman school and is now in the South Pacific; Dick Creevy is in an Army Air Corps school in Ohio; Danny Howell was in quartermasters' school at Harvard and is now in Miami.

Father Charles Carey, C.S.C., heard from Charles Koegler as follows:

"The past week-end was eventful for me. It included a very close call to death, and was followed by an enjoyable Saturday night and Sunday. Jim Crowley of Spartenburg was home on a furlough from Camp Hale, Colo. He came down here to Clinton to pick me up Saturday afternoon, and on the way back we had a rather bad accident. We slid off the slippery pavement, hit a ditch, and rolled over a few times. He, his girl friend, and myself were in the car, and only by a miracle, none of us was injured very much. Jim cut his forehead and ear, and received a bruised leg. I feel a little stiff today; but the girl was uninjured.

"A friend of ours took us to Spartenburg where we met 'Little John' Woelfe, Johnny Lynch, and their girls. Those two ditch-diggers from Camp Croft are still on the ball with their wisecracks.

"I saw the Notre Dame 'Alumnus' at Crowley's and really enjoyed reading the whereabouts of some of the fellows we were so close to. I would appreciate it if you could have the 'Alumnus' sent to me.

"Ted Kroll is now a sergeant at Fort Meade; and Ed Steiner is now a married man and waiting for the Navy to call him. As for the name of this place — don't worry, I am keeping the Faith. I arranged a Communion-breakfast for Christmas Day. I hope we shall be able to have another one before I leave South Carolina. Our good chaplain, Father Daly, travels about 50 miles each Sunday for Mass here. . . ."

Addresses: Lt. William J. O'Neil, Hdqs. 4th Air Force, Fiscal Office, 180 New Montgomery, San Francisco; Pvt. John G. Porbeck, 168th Ord. Dep. Co., Camp Rucker, Ala.; Lt. James E. Brock, USMCR, Co. A, 35th Repl. Bn., c/o Fleet P.O., S.F.; 2nd Lt. John A. McGrath, Co. B, 27th Repl. Bn., APO 502, c/o P.M., S.F.; Ensign Gail D. Fitch, U.S.S. LST 382, c/o Fleet P.O., N.Y.C.; Cpl. Edward A. Reagan, 65th Finance Disbursing Sec., PO 514, c/o P.M., N.Y.C.; Ensign Julian Atwater, NAD, St. Julien's Creek, Portsmouth, Va.; Ensign Eugene A. Fchlig, AATB 221, c/o P.M., N.Y.C.; Pvt. W. Leo Keating, Div. Hq., Finance Dept., APO 25, c/o P.M., S.F.

Jim Byrne, Detroit, received his ensign's commission at the Northwestern U. midshipman school, Evanston, Ill., in December. Sgt. Bob Towner was graduated from an Army military intelligence school in England. Lt. Dick Smith, Breckenridge, Minn., is in England as first pilot of a flying fortress named "Destiny's Tot" and is the veteran of many long bombing missions over the Continent, his mother writes. His address: 336th Sqdn., 95th Bomb. Grp., APO 634, c/o P.M., N.Y.C.

Lt. Jack Hynes, Military Training Unit, A.A.B., Dyersburg, Tenn., wrote that two other '43 men were with him: Lt. Dick Cotter, and Lt. John McNicol. The latter is in Jack's immediate group.

Ray Cestary played at halfback for the Fort Benning, Ga., team last fall. A/S Bob Le Mense wrote on Jan. 4 from the 343rd College Trg. Det. (Air Crew), Class 43-C-13, East Central State College, Ada, Okla.: ". . . a nice place — the best so far for me." Bob had been sent there for some studying and 10 hours of dual training.

He had been briefly at Sheppard Field, Texas, and so he reported that he ". . . left Jack Thornton, '44, at Sheppard Field waiting for orders. Jim Murphy and Evo Fatigati were still there also. Heard that Lt. Emmet Crowe, '39, and Bill Dillon (saw the latter once but didn't get to talk with him) were there. . . . I heard from a friend of Harm Spina's that Spina was at Camp Adair, Ore."

Pvt. Dan Downey was at N.D. on Feb. 7 on his return to Camp Adair, Ore., from a leave in Florida. Had just been accepted by the Air Corps. A third "Scholastic" editor, Ensign Don Heltzel, writes a long and interesting report from the South Pacific. (Address: U.S.S. LCI 331, c/o Fleet P.O., S.F.) Down there Don had seen Jerry Gainor (sub-chaser) and Joe Kramer (LCI) of '43 and John Macaluso, '38, (LCI). Don was handling navigation and communications and was in training in other departments when he wrote from his base at "Whisky Beach" (because there's no whisky anywhere around). He had had two weeks in Australia just before Christmas in New Caledonia. Don had heard that Ed Hickey and Bud Fisher were around his neighborhood but he hadn't seen them yet.

Jerry Coleman writes that he has moved into Marine training at New River, N. C., from Paris Island, S. C. Four of six lieutenants in charge of Jerry's group at New River are recent N.D. men: John Lanihan, Larry Sullivan, George Murphy and Bob Neff.

Cpl. John T. Mulloy, Chicago, recently arrived home for a rest after a year of action against the Japs in the Southwest Pacific. John, Marine dive bomber gunner, had been on 40 bombing missions. He personally is credited with having shot down a Jap Zero over Munda and his group received a Presidential citation for gallantry in action.

Pfc. Bob Flynn, Washington, D.C., stopped in at the Alumni Office for an enjoyable chat a few weeks ago. Bob is in dental school and living at home.

1944 and Later

David R. Condon, care of Alumni Office, Notre Dame, Ind.

[The recently demilitarized Dave Condon has generously consented to take over, temporarily at least, the assignment of reporting on post-1943 activities. Dave will re-enter the University at the start of the next semester, about March 6, and meanwhile is on the staff of the "South Bend Tribune." His wide journalistic experience, coupled with his wide acquaintanceship, made him an ideal secretary—Eds.]

From Dave Condon:

I've been a long time basking in the New Mexico sunlight since I was discharged by the army at Fort Bliss, Texas, on Dec. 3, and consequently have fallen down a bit in the correspondence. Back here at N.D. I'll try to do better.

Heading back to Notre Dame after the first of the year, I stopped in Chicago and saw Bill Brown, who came down from Marquette, where he is with the Naval V-5. He was to be transferred to pre-flight school the following Tuesday. Bill's mother said that Ray O'Connell was in North Africa according to the latest word.

Sunday afternoon we buzzed over to see John McGowan, who figured to be in from Great Lakes. He couldn't make it, however, having just had a leave following his completion of boot training. Bill said that Ray Downey, the ex-N.D. and ex-Wisconsin footballer, was at DePauw, Ind., in the V-5 program. At the railroad station Sunday evening I bumped into Jack Leahy, who was catching the same train that Bill was after. Jack also is with the V-5 at Marquette. Hadn't seen him since a year ago when Joe Campbell and I rode home on the El Capitan. Also, late Sunday night I saw Robert "Red" Lonergan for a few moments, and he said that he recently got a phone call from Scoop Scanlan.

Coming down to South Bend sure wasn't like the old days. There was the time when Notre Dame students were ten to a foot in the Chicago South Shore Station, but that is no more. I searched through seven cars of train on the way down and finally found John "The Tree" Adams and had a long talk with him.

Recently Jack Deegan wrote me from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Jim Daskaloff has breezed in a couple of letters from Michigan State. I owe Danny Gentile a letter for his last masterpiece; Don Heltzel's mail has a hard time catching up with him, and Tom Dougherty isn't in the writing mood.

Jim Horgan sent a letter and informs us that he is now at Stanford; Ronald Carter's latest bit of info looks like he might be heading across the water . . . he thinks so. . . . Dick Burns, who was at Loyola University school of medicine, signed up with the Navy on a good deal and is still at Loyola . . . the latest letter from Bob LeMense reports him in Oklahoma and he said that when he was at Sheppard Field, he ran into a raft of Notre Dame guys including Tom Rolfs . . . maybe it was LeMense, but one of the fellows who wrote in said that George Bariscil's was recently seen by them. . . . Dick McHugh is still farming and asks us to drop up to Illinois.

Getting back to Notre Dame was pleasant. Immediately saw Father Carey and then trotted over to Sorin — one of the last civilian strongholds — you guys know Dick Ames and Frank Kent, F. A. (Tex) Pequinney, Dick Murphy, Joe (Hobie) Murnane, John Fleaka, Barney Slater and others.

The second night I was back I went to the basketball game and ran across Paul Limont and Jim White. White says that Luke Higgins owes him a letter, and I say likewise. Cy Kelly turned up at the ball game; Noel Digby showed his face in the cafeteria. All four of them are wearing navy uniforms. Tom E. Dougherty is around with the civilians; Richard Ryan Young is with the NROTC and I had a talk with him. Al Sommer's mother wrote Tex Pequinney a letter. . . . Frank Keenan is helping Tex on the "Scholastic" staff. Frank is wearing the navy colors, too. Gerry Ford called me up one day and asked me out to Alumni . . . he looks good in the Navy outfit . . . we talked about all the guys.

A few days ago I walked into a cafe downtown in South Bend and saw Dick Ames and Bill (The Beard) Mahin. Dick said that he had seen Art Hayes a couple of times when he was up in Minnesota and he reported that Lt. Don O'Shaughnessy had just written from New Orleans.

John Denniston, ex. '45, of Camp Van Dorn, Miss., comes through handsomely. He says:

"ASTP men: Tom Scherer, John Cronin, and Dick McGariety, are studying engineering at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge. Dick Keoughan is in the specialized program at Texas A. & M. I reported a few months ago that Joe Hannon was at Yale University in the medical branch of ASTP; since then Brock Lynch and Pat Yoklavich have joined him there. John Shannon is currently studying languages and Areas at Penn. University. Jack Deegan reports from M.I.T. that things are pretty rugged.

"Others: J. H. Johnston is stationed now at Fort Benning, Ga., in the paratroops. He is undergoing some rough physical training. Some months ago little Don Murphy finished the course at Benning. Tom Eagan, stationed at Van Dorn, says Tom Hardman was at Fort Meade, Md. Also, he informed us Jerry Witzman was a corporal in the infantry at Fort Benning.

"During my furlough I stopped down at school and ran into Joe Rud, who is down in the Arizona desert. He is an assistant to the chaplain, Capt. Vincent Mooney of the C.S.C.'s I believe. Joe said Ken Brown and Lanigan were with him in the tank corps. I took in the Notre Dame-Northwestern basketball game at the Stadium and ran into Ray Donovan and Jim Cunningham. Jim said he was awaiting orders to report to the midshipman's school at Notre Dame on Feb. 7. His younger brother, who attended N.D. as a freshman, was ready to receive his wings. I told Jim that Jack Dinges, '42, former sports editor of 'Scholastic,' is a lieutenant in the Army Air Corps ground forces in Greenville, S. C. Ed Meagher, former editor of 'Scrip,' is doing clerical work for the IRC at Camp Blanding, Fla. Jerry Dunn, '39, according to Johnston, is with the Field Artillery in Camp Van Dorn, Miss. O'Laughlin, one of the stars of the frosh basketball team last year, is with the infantry at Van Dorn.

"Al Sommer Christmas-carded from Fort Riley, Kans., where 'Punchy' is doing some clerking. Bob Kopf finally came through with a long overdue letter from Camp Wheeler, Ga. Bob is in headquarter and headquarters company. He informs us that Bob Beck and Jim Malone are both working after being honorably discharged from the Army because of physical disabilities.

"Kevin Rohan wrote from New York City, where he is working for a large camera concern. He has been re-classified from 4-F to 1-A and will be called shortly. He says John Ford is in North Africa and that George Cronin is now a corporal. Kev's cousin, Gerry Gaffney, is with the MP's in Texas.

"Sorry I missed Frank Brady and Noel Digby, both studying in the Navy V-12 program at Notre Dame. Ran into Tom E. Dougherty who is living in Sorin Hall. Bernie Rutledge and Leo Klier both looked good. They are two of the current mainstays of the basketball five. Talked to Tex Crowley, who informed us Roy Grumbine, Buck Madden, Wally Le Berge and all the fellows in the NROTC are waiting for graduation this spring.

MANY IN MILITARY LIST

Under "Additional Military Men" in this issue you'll find listed many class of '44 graduates and many members of later classes. There would, of course, be no point in listing such names here also.

"Tom McLaughlin and Pat Meschke were both at Camp Fannin awaiting OCS when I last saw them."

New addresses for two ex. '44 men: Pvt. Robert F. Kiley, Battery B, 567th AAAAW, Camp Haan, Calif.; Cpl. Fred J. Nesbit, 37420019, 108th Ordnance Co. (MM), APO 717, c/o P.M., Calif.; Pvt. John J. Dunleavy, 15343541, APO 15069, c/o P.M., N.Y.C.

Chuck Patterson is a naval aviation cadet at Pensacola, Fla. Pfc. John E. Cronin is in the ASTP at Louisiana State University, Box 6525, Baton Rouge. He wrote that he had seen or heard from or about A/C Mike Frawley, Lou Collieran, John Cassidine, Kelly Cook, Dippy Evans and John Dunleavy. Pfc. Don McDaniel is with John in the Louisiana ASTP.

Mike Granat is a labor conciliator for the Teamsters' Union, 811½ Lincoln Way West, South Bend. Pvt. Dick Friert, Co. A, 55th Med. Trng. Bn., M.R.T.C., Camp Berkeley, Texas, wrote to Dr. Baldinger, dean of science, that he was already in ASTP at Ohio State as an engineering student before it was discovered he hadn't completed his basic. Therefore the shipment to Berkeley, from which spot he expected to go again to ASTP in February.

Pvt. Ted Weber, Hq. Div., Service of Supplies, APO 502, c/o P.M., S.F., writes that he is a clerk-typist on New Caledonia and that he finds the work and the spot interesting. He continues:

"Gene Slevin works in the same camp and is in seventh heaven since his brother is also stationed here. Lyle Joyce is on the island, as are Yeates, Sullivan and Cashman. Don Birren is probably here, though I haven't been able to contact him yet."

Whereabouts of assorted '44 men in the October, '43, class revealed by tracer cards returned to Alumni Office: Bernard F. Bowling, contractor, 1887 Rutherford, Louisville; Robert W. Raff, metallurgist, Taylor Forge and Pipe Works, Cicero, Ill.; George D. Powers, test engineer, General Electric, Erie, Pa.; William G. O'Connell, chemical engineer, duPont, Buffalo, N. Y.; Vail W. Fischke, law student, Notre Dame; Charles E. Murray, with Studebaker Aviation Corp., South Bend; John E. McSweeney, medical student, Johns Hopkins, Baltimore; James J. Malone, cost clerk, Libbey-Owens-Ford, Toledo.

Gerardo J. Lombardi, chemical engineer, Reilly Tar & Chemical Corp., Indianapolis; Robert C. Kohl and Robert T. Duffy, junior engineers, National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, Cleveland; William J. Eaton and James B. Treacy, engineers, Pan American Airways, New York City; Bernard J. Ghiglietti, Toluca, Ill., home awaiting orders to report for V-7 training; John J. Jaeger, engineer, Dumore Co., Racine, Wis.; Robert E. Gardner, research engineer, Curtiss Wright Corp., Buffalo, N. Y.; James A. Finerman, instructional assistant, M.I.T., Cambridge, Mass.; Louis G. Dhoore, engineer, Boeing Aircraft Co., Seattle, Wash.; Cyril G. Desmet, research in chemical engineering, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich.; Edward C. Waters, math instructor, Notre Dame; Daniel J. Tomcik, test engineer, General Electric, Schenectady, N. Y.; Lawrence A. Auspos, (Ph.D.), research chemist, duPont, Buffalo, N. Y.; Robert S. Witte, physics instructor, Notre Dame; Hal Hunter, law school, Notre Dame; George R. Wendt, clerk for Cook County auditor, Chicago, while awaiting call for V-7 training; Charles F. Raley, graduate student, Notre Dame; Paul W. O'Connell, graduate teaching and research assistant in biochemistry, University of Rochester School of Medicine, Rochester, N. Y.

The Review of Politics

Five years ago, with little fanfare but much determination, a group of writers on the faculty of the University of Notre Dame published the first number of The Review of Politics. The magazine was announced as "primarily interested in the philosophical and historical approach to political realities," and was to appear quarterly. The price was placed at 75 cents a copy or $2.50 a year. Prof. Waldemar Gurian assumed the task of editor-in-chief and Profs. Frank O'Malley and F. A. Hermens became managing editors. Closely associated with the new venture were Fathers Leo R. Ward, Francis Boland, and Charles C. Miltner, and Prof. Willis D. Nutting.

Fathers Miltner and Boland have since been called to other fields of work and I have taken up with Mr. O'Malley the burdens of managing editor, to allow Mr. Hermens time for other tasks. To the original collaborators on the campus have been added Profs. Yves R. Simon and Matthew Fitzsimons, with occasional assistance from Fathers Philip Moore, William Bolger, and William Cunningham, and Profs. John Sheehan, Rufus Rauch, Paul Bartholomew, Daniel O'Grady, and William Shanahan. (The final two are now on leave for service with the armed forces). As these names indicate, the Review while emphasizing the important political problems of the past few years has also included topics in the related fields of economics, literature, philosophy, and religion which are so much in public discussion.

Equally as significant as the occasion the Review has extended Notre Dame writers to express well prepared opinions on current topics, has been the opportunity offered to prominent nationally and internationally known thinkers to join in the issues of the Review. Jacques Maritain of the Sorbonne, John U. Nef, Mortimer Adler, and President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago, Goetz Briefs of Georgetown University, Carl Friedrich of Harvard, Don Luigi Sturzo of Italy, Dr. Oscar Halecki of Poland, and Father John A. Ryan of the Catholic University of America are some of the outstanding contributors who have published articles on political and cultural topics in the Review. Some of the articles resulted from three symposia on current political, social, and religious problems which were sponsored on the campus by the Review, and which were attended by students and professors of universities in the vicinity. A notable issue of the Review was the Centennial Issue, written entirely by members of the faculty of the University to commemorate the Notre Dame centenary.

It would not be proper to say that any one article of the past five years is better than any other because the general level of the Review has been very high. Dr. Gurian's articles on German and Russian politics have provided sound approaches to the present day political problems in central Europe. Don Sturzo's discussions of the complex Italian situation are probably the most capable that have appeared in the American press. Studies by Dr. Simon and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vignaux have supplied much needed information on the sad conditions in occupied France. Dr. Oscar Halecki has contributed an important article on Polish-Russian relations.

The philosophical writings of Jacques Maritain on "The End of Machiavellianism," and Mortimer Adler's "A Dialectic of Morals" expressed the brilliance of the neo-Thomistic movement in American universities. Dr. Nef's studies on the unity of culture have shown unusual powers of analysis and synthesis in his examination of the anarchy of values in current university education. Dr. Hermens' studies on proportional representation, Mr. O'Malley's criticism of current literature and Father Leo R. Ward's investigation of cooperatives are representative of the many other studies of special current topics which have caused a slow but steady growth in the circulation of the magazine. For some, the excellently prepared reviews of current books on history, politics, philosophy, and economics have been a most useful feature of the Review. Not only have the regular contributors written reviews but other notable writers have given their opinions of books of current significance.

The maintenance of this high quality of the Review of Politics during the past five years is an achievement of no small merit, attributable in the first place to the University administration since the Review has no endowment, and secondly to its editors who receive no special allowance for their efforts. It has promoted a cultural exchange with members of neighboring universities and has brought new inspiration to the campus.

Many of the alumni have manifested a great interest in its welfare by fostering subscriptions and by making known its work to libraries and teachers. It is a Notre Dame enterprise of a high order and it is hoped that the trying months that lie ahead will not check its good work of giving Notre Dame thought and culture to others and inviting the best of our university neighbors to share in our work by their pens.

The January, 1944, issue, which began the sixth year of the Review of Politics, featured an article by Mr. O'Malley entitled "Education for Man" in which he discusses Maritain's recent book on education and the current proposals for changing education. Helmut Kuhn of the University of North Carolina examines the very famous myth of the "Common Man." Hannah Arendt has written a remarkable study of the origin of modern racism, one of the more serious problems facing the United States today. There are also interesting reviews of books on current political questions by Professors Gurian, Hermens, and MacNair, among others. — (Rev.) Thomas T. McAvoy, C.S.C., '25.
