The Board of Governors has been divided into three major Committees: Executive, Organization, and Finance. The Executive Committee will meet at Notre Dame on July 25-26, the other Committees at a later date, and the entire Board of Governors will convene in late September. A permanent chairman will be elected at that time, and by-laws adopted.

Governors' Meeting Features Reunion

Three Days Are Highlighted by Sessions Given Over to New Organization in Alumni Association; Class Reunions Return to Pre-War Stature; Alumni of 50 Years and More Honored; 1922 Class Sets New High in Achievement

Commencement, 1947, was highlighted by the atmosphere of achievement attending the organization of the Alumni Association program under the expanded system of State and Foreign Governors, and by the return to pre-World War II effectiveness in the Class Reunions.

Throughout the entire weekend, President Harry G. Hogan, the 14 State Governors who came to the campus, the Alumni Board members present, gave unsparingly of their time in meetings to develop details of the new program. On the strength of this early getting together of the men who could voice coast-to-coast reactions, the progress of the new program was greatly accelerated and the confidence of the Alumni Board and the University in the project was confirmed. (The details of organization are summarized in a separate story, and many of the broader approaches are contained in the Alumni Banquet addresses of Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., and Harry G. Hogan reprinted in this issue).

It will not be possible in the space at hand to give proper credit to the many men in the Classes who made the Reunions a success, or to the men on the campus who contributed to the success of the weekend for alumni, particularly. It should mean much that, with a Senior Class of 713, there was time and facilities available for all of the other phases of the program.

Residence halls were ready for returning alumni on Thursday night, to accommodate the early arrivals who took advantage of the Memorial Day holiday. And by the time of the Memorial Mass on Friday morning celebrated by Father Cavanaugh for the dead of the World Wars, registration was in full swing. This year a registration booth at the main campus entrance was utilized to make alumni registration and hall distribution easier.

Relaxing alumni got out their golf clubs. The State Governors swung instead into their first session at 11 o'clock on Friday, with members of the University administration and the Alumni Board sitting in.

Weather moved the big 25-Year Reunion of the Class of 1922 from the proposed Diamond Lake site into the Town Club, South Bend, but seemed to have no effect on the ultimate fact that, with the President's Luncheon on Saturday, the Class enjoyed the biggest Reunion program, with the largest percentage of return (see pictures and Class News) in the recent years of Class Reunion history.

The alumni of 1897 and earlier years were honored guests at a dinner on Friday night, providing some of the most inspiring Notre Dame spirit of the weekend. No one could listen to these graduates of more than half a century ago, or look at the record which their remarks brought out, and fail to realize that Notre Dame's greatness is the result of long planning, and sound training, with resulting loyalty and rich alumni threads woven through the fabric of American life. This small but distinguished group of men (see pictures and Class News) attended the 25-Year Luncheon and the Alumni Banquet as honored guests.

The Class of 1917, with a 30-Year party at B. J. Voll's nearby home, was running the 1922 Class close competition for enthusiasm, and attendance.

The Class of 1927 occupied the Bronze-wood Room of the LaSalle on Friday night, for its 20th, while the Oliver housed the well-attended 15th of 1932, the 10th of 1937, and 5th of 1942.

Saturday

After the Memorial Mass for Deceased Alumni in Sacred Heart Church, the State Governors resumed their session. The Class of 1947 made its first Commencement appearance in cap and gown for its Last Visit and the Class Day Exercises and Award of Prizes.

At noon a full faculty dining room greeted Father Cavanaugh at his luncheon for the 25-Year Class and guests.

Coach Clarence "Jake" Kline had attempted to brighten both Friday and Saturday afternoons with baseball on Cartier Field, losing the Friday game to Western Michigan and the weatherman, but coming back on Saturday against the same opponent for a victorious conclusion to an outstanding season.

The Alumni Banquet

With a head table featuring the Golden Jubilee Reunioners, the joint administration heads of the University, the Alumni Association and the Congregation of Holy Cross (U. S. Province), Bishop Lawrence Graner, C.S.C., D.D., alumnus bishop of Dacca, newly consecrated, I. A. O'Shaughnessy, and General Kenney the Commencement speaker, more than 600 alumni listened to the significant program of the Alumni Association for the University as outlined by President Harry G. Hogan and Father John Cavanaugh. Rev. Robert H. Sweeney, C.S.C., alumni liaison officer and executive assistant to Father Cavanaugh, was toastmaster.

(Alumni Banquet texts are reprinted in full in this issue of the ALUMNUS).

The Glee Club, without its director, Daniel Pedtke, (convalescing from an attack of rheumatic fever after the Eastern tour of the Club) gave an outstanding Saturday night concert in Washington Hall, supplementing the always popular Band concert of Friday night.

Sunday

Sunday was, as always, the day of the Class of 1947.

A dismal downpour altered the plans for the academic procession from the Main Building to the Drill Hall, but the Baccalaureate Mass was celebrated there for a capacity congregation by Most Rev.

Lawrence Graner, C.S.C., D.D., and the eloquent scripture scholar, Monsignor William L. Newton, S.S.D., delivered the baccalaureate sermon (contained in this issue of the ALUMNUS in full).

The 1947 Flag, presented in a renewal of Washington Birthday exercises this year, was blessed, but the traditional procession bowed to the elements.

A clearer afternoon found a standing-room-only crowd on hand for the awarding of the 713 degrees and the outstanding address of General George C. Kenney, U.S.A. (also contained in complete text in this issue of the ALUMNUS).

GOVERNOR PLAN APPROVED

"The program proposed by President Harry Hogan and the new Alumni Board is marvelous. It will implement the progress of Notre Dame and enable Notre Dame alumni to contribute the religious and civic leadership which the Alumni Association has been urging in its program through the years. The combination of practical support for Notre Dame with the mutual intellectual and spiritual advancement marks a new high in Notre Dame alumni life." (Thomas F. Byrne, honorary president of the Alumni Association)

In a renewal of its traditional Sunday luncheon in formal organization, the Notre Dame monogram alumni met and elected Joseph Boland of South Bend as national president to succeed Joseph Brandy of Ogdensburg, N. Y. Plans for the enlarging of the program of the organization were announced and discussed, to be put into effect within the year.

There were many features of the weekend, faculty open house, reception for parents of '47 graduates, and others, which cannot be detailed. It must suffice to say that the 102nd Commencement of Notre Dame was in keeping with the rich tradition of its century-old pattern.

FACULTY AWARD TO GURIAN

Dr. Waldemar Gurian, professor of Political Science and nationally prominent authority on Russia, has been named the 1947 recipient of the Notre Dame Lay Faculty Award for distinguished service during the 1946-47 schoolyear at Notre Dame, it was announced on June 1 at the 102nd Commencement.

The prize, which carries a $500 purse, is awarded annually by the Alumni Association to the outstanding member of the faculty at Notre Dame. Dr. Gurian also is editor of the Review of Politics, which is published at Notre Dame.

A recognized authority on bolshevistic and fascistic trends, Dr. Gurian came to Notre Dame in 1937 from Germany via Switzerland. One time editor of the Cologne Volkszeitung and a lecturer in the School of Politics in Berlin, he was forced to flee to Switzerland in 1934 because of his antipathy towards Hitlerism, expressed in his book Hitler and the Christians and other published works.

Bernie Voll (in the lower right hand corner) was, as in 1937 and 1942, host to the class of 1917 at a party in his home on Friday night, May 30.

Organization Program Outlined For Clubs

President Hogan Sets Up Plan to Coordinate and Supplement Work of All Notre Dame Clubs; Financial Need Is Key to All Phases of University Operations; Governors Are Appointed in U. S. and Abroad; Executive Committee Named

The Notre Dame Alumni Association is at present intensively engaged in the organization of a program which will mark a milestone in the life of Notre Dame to which both University and alumni may point as the greatest in the history of the institution.

That is a broad statement, with 105 years of history and many splendid achievements behind us.

And it is difficult to picture, on two counts. The first count is that the blueprint—no matter how confident we are of its merits—is never as attractive or as clear as the building which follows.

The second count, and most immediately regrettable, is the inability to put down here for you the endless hours of planning—the deliberations of the Alumni Board; the visits from coast to coast and at the University of President Harry Hogan; the daily phone calls to keep the Alumni Office and the Association's administration in harmonious operation; the meetings with Father Cavanaugh and his assistants; the meetings with the Lay Trustees, the many letters between President Hogan and the Clubs, the Alumni Board and others involved in the early developments; the early research necessary to provide an intelligent backdrop for the new program—etc.

So will you simply, as Notre Dame men, accept now a brief summarization of the new program and its purposes. Details will be supplied in the months and the years ahead as sound performance justifies what we are all convinced at present is the road map of Notre Dame's destiny.

1. Harry G. Hogan, meeting with the Alumni Board in January as its newly elected president, analyzed the University and Association programs and proposed that the financial program is the key to all the other phases included.

2. After visiting in New York, after consulting his fellow alumni in his home town of Fort Wayne, after talking with Father Cavanaugh, he outlined an organization of alumni by States, under alumni governors.

3. The State Governor is set up to coordinate and supplement the work of the scattered Notre Dame Clubs. Club jurisdiction remains intact, and the Clubs have been the first to recognize and sanction the far-reaching progress under the new plan. (The new program, with a Governor in each State, brings a national geographic distribution not previously attained.)

4. On a previously planned trip to South America, the new Alumni President, projecting the Governor idea into broader spheres, appointed Notre Dame alumni governors in the Latin American countries he visited, and sowed the seed for much constructive work throughout the hemisphere.

5. On President Hogan's return to the United States in April, he began the intensive work of appointing, in conjunction with Father Cavanaugh and the University departments, the State Governors.

Each Club was first asked to suggest State Governor nominees.

The prompt acceptance of the ultimate assignment by Governors in all of the 48 States by June 1 was the most significant tribute to the merit of the new plan and the existing enthusiastic Notre Dame loyalty.

Some of the newly-appointed governors of the Alumni Association met with officers of the University and with executives of the Association in a special session on Saturday morning, May 31. Front row, left to right: Galvin Hudson, '15, governor of Tennessee; Rev. John H. Murphy, C.S.C., '35, vice-president; Harry G. Hogan, '04, president of the Association; Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., '23, president; Rev. Robert H. Sweeney, C.S.C., '30, executive assistant to the president; John E. Moore, '11, governor of Michigan; James E. Armstrong, '25, secretary of the Association. Back row: Dan D. Halpin, '31, a director of the Association; Harold E. Duke, '30, director; Robert L. Hamilton, '34, governor of Wisconsin; Thomas J. Jones, '29, governor of Idaho; Joseph B. McGlynn, '12, governor of Missouri; Leo F. Mullin, '11, governor of the District of Columbia; John E. Cassidy, '17, governor of Illinois; Louis F. Buckley, '28, director; William R. Dooley, '26, assistant secretary of the Association; Thomas F. Byrne, '28, honorary president of the Association.

6. A preliminary meeting of the Governors at the June Commencement resulted in the formation of a Board of Governors, with President Hogan as the interim chairman, J. E. Armstrong as the interim secretary.

7. President Hogan was empowered to appoint an executive committee, and plans are now under way for a meeting of that committee at Notre Dame on July 25-26.

8. The Commencement meeting also clarified the path of the new program under two fundamental headings:

a. The organization of City Committees of Five, to be designated Public Relations Committees (under Club procedure where Clubs exist, as provided in the Manual of Club Organization, or under the State Governor in non-Club cities). These Committees will go about the intensive job of cultivating the non-alumni friends of Notre Dame and further educating alumni in the community, interpreting through regular contact from the campus the progress and problems of Notre Dame.

b. The translation of this public relations job of education, and friend-making, into the logical corollary of seeking from the communities the financial support necessary for the University to realize its opportunities and its obligations.

9. The Alumni Fund, and the Department of Public Relations, will continue to contribute their progressive aid to the University, but the urgent needs of the University, the immediate postwar opportunities, and the tremendous national potential of friendship and support untouched by present programs, dictated some immediate channel for quick but sound and dignified expansion.

10. Temporary bulletins have been sent periodically to a mailing list consisting of the Alumni Board, the Board of Governors, the Alumni Club Presidents, the Lay Trustees of the University and the University administration.

a. Fundamental in the new plan is, of course, the complete integration of all the agencies and individuals concerned with advancing the interests of Notre Dame.

11. Alumni will, under the new program, constitute a committee of the whole to advance Notre Dame's interests.

The new program will be based on a thorough analysis of Notre Dame's financial history—the brilliant record of a hundred years of doing so much with so little. It will analyze the changes in structure which no longer permit this type of progress. It will present an analysis of the comparative position of Notre Dame's finances in relation to that of comparable institutions.

CLASSES VOICE ENTHUSIASM

"The Class of 1942 falls in line on enthusiastically endorsing the new Alumni Program . . ." (William E. "Scoop" Scanlan, Class Secretary)

"May I voice my enthusiastic approval and sincere endorsement of the new alumni program just initiated by the President and Board of Directors of the Alumni Association. I hope to do all that I can to help in the attainment of the methods and objectives as outlined by Father Cavanaugh and President Harry Hogan at the alumni banquet. With prayers and every good wish for success . . ." (Rev. John MacNamara, Secretary of the Class of 1897)

It will also provide alumni with a picture of the Notre Dame of the future as projected by Father Cavanaugh and his administration—the fundamentals which will remain, the buildings necessary to house the University as projected, the faculty necessary to staff the projected program, and the fellowships and scholarships necessary to provide the student personnel desired in the projected institution.

It is President Hogan's belief—endorsed by Father Cavanaugh, the Lay Trustees who have discussed the program, the Governors appointed, and the many Club officers, and individual alumni contacted—that Notre Dame must go forward under this new program, or admit that it cannot meet the challenge of the present. That is all the Notre Dame man needs to know, they all agree, to give the new program full support.

LUNCHEON AT ACS MEETING

Thirty-two alumni of the University attended a luncheon on April 16 in the Ritz-Carleton Hotel, Atlantic City, as a feature of the convention of the American Chemical Society. Arrangements were made by Dr. James F. Kerwin, of Smith, Kline and French Laboratories, Philadelphia.

Chief speaker at the luncheon was Dr.

Charles Price, head of the Chemistry Department at Notre Dame, who discussed briefly the present status of the department, with particular reference to the various grants-in-aid and fellowships now available. Other Notre Dame faculty members present were Dr. Kenneth N. Campbell, Dr. Christopher L. Wilson and Dr. Milton Burton.

Registering at the luncheon were the following, in addition to the faculty members: Paul Chaput, W. S. Jacobs, Tom Degnan, Frank Pollnow, Rev. Joseph S. McGrath, C.S.C., J. J. Verbanc, Frank J. Sowa, Norbert F. Toussaint, James F. Kerwin, John E. Reith, Fritz J. Nagel, R. D. McCormick, Daniel J. Pflaum, W. S. Calcott, Robert J. Thomas, Charles A. Young, H. L. Wunderly, William Murray, W. J. Metrailler, J. F. Froning, E. A. Bried, J. P. Fitzpatrick, C. O. Kroncke, Jr., A. A. Baum, C. A. Wiggins, Sister Doloretta (Villa Maria College, Erie, Pa.), Donald B. Killian, Irwin J. Schaffner, John T. Doyle, A. O. Zoss, C. J. Kelly, and C. F. Irwin.

Dr. Frank J. Sowa is making arrangements for a similar meeting of Notre Dame alumni to be held in connection with the ACS convention in New York City in September.

At the Atlantic City gathering, Dr. Price presented a paper embodying the latest discoveries in the preparation of artificial cortical hormones that regulate fluids in the body; Dr. Campbell discussed anti-malarial research at Notre Dame; and Dr. Wilson, his research in the reaction of furan compounds.

A plastic glue, strong enough to support a locomotive, and with greater resistance to water, ice, heat and salt spray than ever before achieved, was described at the meeting. The two chemists who developed the new technique for producing the glue are Fritz J. Nagel, B.S., '41, M.S., '42, and Elizabeth M. Ackermann, both of the Westinghouse Research Laboratories, East Pittsburgh, Pa.

CLASS OF '22 GOES ON RECORD

"The Class of 1922 strongly endorses the aims of the Administration of the University and the Alumni Association, and we aim to assist the program by doing all in our power to provide the necessary funds. We pledge our full support to Father John Cavanaugh and Harry Hogan." (Gerald "Kid" Ashe, Secretary of the Class)

Notre Dame Books

RECLAMATION OF INDEPENDENCE by Willis D. Nutting. Berliner & Lanigan. Nevada City, Calif. $3.00

Willis Nutting, associate professor of history at Notre Dame, has a quiet way that is nevertheless firm, and it grows on the reader as he turns the pages of this book so beautifully printed and published by two Notre Dame alumni, their first venture in book-making.

What Mr. Nutting says is that if men want independence they can have it. They will have to pay for it and are only romanticists if they think they can have it without effort and pains and plenty of sacrifice. A "free life" in the author's conception is not so much a life of unrestraint as a life not subject to bosses and to management from outside. And that kind of life is a fundamental American ideal.

A nation of employees, however, who vote every year or two hardly is a nation of freedom. "Even a highly paid and important employee is still deprived of the opportunity of making the great decisions concerning his work and his life." At least in the economic order he is told what to do, when to do it, and through someone's petulance, prejudice or favoritism he may arbitrarily be deprived of his job. This condition is not the way of a free man.

In a series of delightful and simple chapters Mr. Nutting traces the record of the American's losing much of the American ideal in the line of freedom, and also shows on the positive side how, if a man wants freedom, it is possible for untold thousands to reclaim their independence. The positive reply of the author is that men more and more reclaim independence the more they make things for themselves and in that way remain free or become free. For example the more they produce their own food the less dependent they are on a system of Capital and Labor, finance and distribution and the ever-mounting costs. Of particular interest to college men and alumni is the chapter on "The manifold opportunity," showing the part that lawyers, engineers, and teachers can play in reclaiming independence for those ready to do their own part.

The book is balanced and calm, the work of a man who has thought long on the subject, answered many questions about it, and who above all has lived for some years the way of life he describes. Mr. Nutting and his family live on a small acreage near Notre Dame where they have the time of their lives planning what they will have in their own home and their garden, and where, with the help of the garden, the pig and the beneficent family cow, they manage to produce much of their food.

A big hand is coming to Harry Berliner, '45 and Joe Lanigan, '44, who have spared no effort or labor, or fine yellow paper either, to give us this tiptop product of book-making, a book nice to feel and easy on the eyes. The book makes an excellent gift.

—(Rev.) Leo R. Ward, C.S.C.

THE BEGINNING OF GOODNESS by Columba Cary-Elwes, Fides Publishers, South Bend, Ind., $1.00.

James Cunningham, '44, publicity director for the Fides Publishers, a Catholic Action Press located in South Bend, has directed The Beginning of Goodness to our attention.

This book will be of great interest to recent Catholic graduates for its ninety-three pages adapts moral theology to the needs of the young layman. No one can read this work without realizing how fully the author has grasped the necessity of bringing to bear in a practical manner the religious teaching of early years.

The author, a Monk of Ampleforth, England, after speaking of the Will of God and the power of prayer, gives an essentially constructive chapter on Some Virtues and Vices in the World. He discusses plainly drink, marriage, modesty, lust and other commonly talked-of matters.

Thou Art My Strength, by Norbert Engels, '26, professor of English, a collection of five religious poems based on the principal parts of the Mass, will be published in mid-summer by the Benedictine Press, St. Meinrad, Ind.

Professor Engels, author of numerous essays, poetic works, musical compositions and drawings which have appeared in national publications, also is the author of a new book, Man About the House, which will be published early next year by Prentice-Hall, Inc., publishing firm in New York City. This book is a collection of essays and drawings which have appeared previously in various Catholic periodicals and popular craft magazines.

BOY LEADERSHIP COURSE AT N.D.

The second in the transcontinental series of Summer School of Boy Leadership sponsored annually by the Knights of Columbus Boy Life Bureau will open at Notre Dame on Monday morning, July 21, and will continue through Saturday noon, July 26. This will be the twenty-first year that the Knights of Columbus have sponsored this summer training course, the first one being held at Notre Dame in 1924.

The Notre Dame session, designed for the training of the volunteer worker in the field of leisure-time guidance of youth, is open to any Catholic man, and will be conducted by the professionally trained and experienced staff of the Boy Life Bureau headed by John J. Conway, '26, and including William L. Piedmont, '39, Frank J. Carr, '31, and Leo F. Carty. Notre Dame faculty members and visiting lecturers who will make presentations during the week's training period, will include Rev. William F. Cunningham, C.S.C., director of the faculty at the University, and special consultant to the Order's committee that initiated the Boy movement; Rev. Raymond W. Murray, C.S.C., head of the Department of Sociology; Rev. Vincent Mooney, C.S.C., C.Y.O. director of the Columbus, O., diocese; and Kenneth E. Cook, '26, national director of Catholic Service, Boy Scouts of America.

Rev. Howard Kenna, C.S.C., director of studies, will accept registrations for the course. The fee of $25 will cover the entire expense of the training, including lodging in one of the residence halls on the campus, and meals served in the University Dining Hall. Fuller details may be secured by writing to John J. Conway, Executive Director, Knights of Columbus Boy Life Bureau, P. O. Drawer 1670, New Haven 7, Conn.

LAY TRUSTEE CONGRATULATES

"I want to particularly congratulate Mr. Harry G. Hogan, whom I am proud to say is of my class of '04, President of the National Alumni Association, and you and your co-workers in the splendid start that has been made by Mr. Hogan towards unifying our alumni association on a national scale. Particularly do I congratulate Mr. Hogan on the very comprehensive and well thought out plans that he has put forth so that the university may be tremendously benefited in many ways. The university is to be congratulated on Mr. Hogan's willingness to give a year of his time and his genius for organization to this great work." (Byron V. Kameley, '04, member, board of lay trustees).

A Challenge to Notre Dame Clubs

When Father John Cavanaugh, Harry G. Hogan and J. Arthur Haley were in New York on May 21 they were special guests at a luncheon and meeting sponsored by the Trust Fund trustees of the Club. Sitting, left, to right, are Dan O'Neill, Jim Dwyer, Mr. Hogan, Father Cavanaugh, Edward J. Killeen and Richard Reid. Standing, Tierney O'Rourke, president of the club, Jordan Hargrove, Bob Hamilton, Tim Toomey, Mr. Haley and Jack Hoyt.

Here is a challenge, from the Notre Dame Club of New York to all the other Notre Dame clubs!

Deeply convinced of the desirability of upholding the academic projects of the University, the New York Club, through its Trust Fund trustees, on May 29 sent to Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., president, two checks: one for $2,500, and the other for $1,000.

The check for $2,500 was contributed toward the expenses of a series of conferences on the relationship between eternal and the positive law, and toward the publication of the fruits of such conferences.

The check for $1,000 was contributed to the Bureau of Economic Research in the University which is attempting "to seek out the basic facts in our confusing economic life."

The challenge flung out by the New York Club is in connection with the second of these checks.

The Board of Trustees of the Trust Fund of the club, in sending the thousand dollar check to the University, "directed that in the event that any other alumni club contributes $500 to the University for the Bureau of Economic Research the New York Club will automatically increase its contribution from $1,000 to $1,500." The secretary was directed to notify all other Notre Dame clubs of this decision.

In writing to the Alumni Office about this meaningful decision, Robert A. Hamilton, '28, executive secretary of the Trust Fund, said, "all acceptances of this challenge should be sent to you—copy to me." Communications to Bob can be addressed to the Notre Dame Club of New York, 60 E. 42nd St., New York City.

Who will be the first? Step right up!

In expressing the University's gratitude for the magnificent gifts, and for the significant understanding which prompted them, Father Cavanaugh expressed much of the school's aim in educating men. He wrote:

"Your trust fund would never have been established if the Notre Dame alumni of New York had not been motivated by a powerful devotion to their school and what it stands for.

"The University is proud to be co-sponsor with the New York Alumni Club of the lecture series on the relationship between eternal and positive law. We can reasonably hope that the publication of these lectures will help to narrow the breach between the natural law and the positivistic attitude of so many jurists. We may even hope that the publication of the lectures will be a landmark in American jurisprudence.

"The gift to the Bureau of Economic Research is a generous gesture in support of an effort to seek out the basic facts in our confusing economic life.

"The University is not interested only in producing ideas that will influence our society. We are primarily interested in training alumni who are imbued with those ideas. Your generous gifts in furtherance of our ideals are a source of sincere gratitude to us, but our gratitude is surpassed by our pride in having you as our alumni."

At the same meeting at which it voted to contribute a total of $3,500 to University academic projects, the Trust Fund trustees of the New York Club voted favorably on two other proposals: a contribution of nearly $600 to the Fifth Annual Alumni Fund (for which the Alumni office repeats here its sincerest thanks); and the re-establishment of the club's annual scholarship award, suspended for several years on account of the war. The award, offering tuition expenses for four years at Notre Dame, is open to any Catholic man of the New York area who graduated from high school in January or June, 1947. Closing date for this year's applications was June 30.

1947 ORDINATION CLASS

Twelve seminarians of the Congregation of Holy Cross were, on June 13, ordained to the priesthood by Most Rev. Lawrence L. Graner, C.S.C., newly-consecrated Bishop of Dacca, India, in ceremonies in Sacred Heart Church.

Those ordained are: Thomas E. Lockary, Weymouth, Mass.; Robert F. Tack, Tonawanda, N. Y.; John Corcoran, Geneva, N. Y.; Raymond F. Connry, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Thomas J. Engleton, Hammond, Ind.; Aloysius E. Cussen, Dorchester, Mass.; J. Clifford Atwood, North Quincy, Mass.; Ambrose J. Wheeler, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Chester J. Schneider, Evansville, Ind.; James E. Tobin, Dorchester, Mass.; Robert M. Hoffman, Toledo, O., and Richard A. Terry, Lincoln, Neb. Robert Steigmeyer, Dayton, O., an original member of the ordination class, was stricken with appendicitis shortly before June 13. He will be ordained later.

FROM COACH TO COACH

"Congratulations on the new alumni program. It looks like a winner. You have fine material in the Notre Dame alumni, and they have a great coach in you. In my opinion the combination can't be beat." (Frank Leahy, Director of Athletics).

Father Hugh O'Donnell Dies June 12

Former President Guided University Through Trying Days of World War II; Died From Cancer After Illness of Only Five Months; Buried on June 16 After Funeral Mass Celebrated by Father Cavanaugh

Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, C.S.C., '16, who as president guided Notre Dame through the trying period of World War II and saw the school reach its highest enrollment following the war, died in the University Infirmary at 5 p. m. on Thursday, June 12.

When Father O'Donnell was buried on Monday, June 16, the present ALUMNUS was ready for the press. There wasn't time, therefore, to prepare adequately a full appreciation of a man who, in so many devoted ways, had touched so many phases of Notre Dame life during practically all his adult days. Such an appreciation must be held for future issues.

This, then, is merely the journalistic record of Father O'Donnell, prepared so that the thousands of alumni who knew him will, hearing of his death, pray for the repose of his soul and at the same time take from the courage of his last days a new realization of Notre Dame spirit.

Father O'Donnell's death resulted from cancer of the pancreas. Taken ill in February, 1947, with what appeared to be jaundice, as he was about to leave on a mission to South America for the Congregation of Holy Cross, he went instead to the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., where an operation disclosed his incurable condition. Because of the shock of the operation to his system he was not told immediately about the nature of his disease. It was not until he was in the Notre Dame Infirmary some weeks later that Father Thomas A. Steiner, C.S.C., and Father Matthew J. Walsh, C.S.C., told him that he had only a few months to live.

Characteristically, he asked the two priests to accompany him to the Infirmary chapel, where he made an act of resignation to the Divine Will. From that moment until his death, he maintained a cheerful outlook, welcomed visitors to his room and during most of the time maintained a large personal correspondence with the aid of a secretary.

On Sunday, June 1, Father O'Donnell received at the Commencement the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws in recognition of his long and heroic service to the University. He could not be present in person to receive the award.

Amidst expressions of deep sympathy from the great and the small of the country, Father O'Donnell was buried in the Community cemetery at Notre Dame, following solemn requiem Mass in Sacred Heart Church. Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., who succeeded Father O'Donnell as president of the University, celebrated the Mass. Rev. J. Howard Kenna, C.S.C., director of studies, was deacon, Rev. Francis J. Boland, C.S.C., subdeacon, and Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C., master of ceremonies. There was no sermon. Father Cavanaugh also gave the final absolution in the church and said the prayers at the grave.

Present for the service were Most Rev. George L. Leech, bishop of Harrisburg; Most Rev. Edward F. Hoban, bishop of Cleveland; Most Rev. Joseph H. Albers, bishop of Lansing; Most Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., bishop of Buffalo; Most Rev. Lawrence L. Graner, C.S.C., bishop of Dacca, India, and Rt. Rev. Lawrence Vohs, O.S.B., abbot of St. Bede's Abbey, Peru, Ill., and numerous monsignori, priests and nuns, in addition to the priests and brothers of the Congregation, and lay members of the Administration and the faculty and hundreds of other friends.

Governor Ralph F. Gates and Secretary of State Thomas E. Bath, '32, represented the state of Indiana, and they were accompanied by United States Senator Homer E. Capehart of Indiana. Harry G. Hogan, president, officially represented the Alumni Association. Many lay trustees and members of the University's Advisory Council on Engineering and Science were present, as well as innumerable alumni, many of them officially representing Notre Dame clubs.

Father O'Donnell had an almost uninterrupted association with activities of the University for 35 years. He became acting president, Jan. 15, 1940, succeeding Bishop O'Hara who had resigned to assume new duties as bishop of the United States Army and Navy diocese. He was appointed president, July 23, 1940, and was reappointed for another three-year term in July, 1943.

Father O'Donnell was born on June 2, 1895 in Grand Rapids, Mich., and entered Notre Dame as an undergraduate student in 1912. He was the son of the late Edward J. and Sarah A. (nee O'Grady) O'Donnell. A brother, Dr. Frank J. O'Donnell, '17, Alpena, Mich., a sister, Mrs. A. G. Graziani, Chicago, Michael O'Donnell, a nephew, and Patricia O'Donnell, a niece, survive him.

Father O'Donnell was an honor student and well known football player at Notre Dame, winning a monogram as a center in 1915. After receiving his Litt.B. degree in 1916, he entered the seminary of the Congregation of Holy Cross, and on Dec. 28, 1921, was ordained to the priesthood in Sacred Heart seminary, Grand Rapids, by the Most Rev. Edward D. Kelly, D.D., then bishop of that diocese. The following year Father O'Donnell received a doctor of philosophy degree from Catholic University, where he specialized in American Church History.

In the spring of 1923 Father O'Donnell was named rector of Badin Hall and in 1924 he became prefect of discipline, a post which he held until 1931. He also served as a professor of history at the University. From 1931 to 1934 he was president of St. Edward's University, Austin, Texas, and for the next six years, vice-president of Notre Dame.

Twenty-six students of the University, who distinguished themselves scholastically and in extra-curricular activities during the 1946-47 schoolyear, were honored with awards at annual Class Day Exercises conducted in conjunction with the 102nd Commencement. The awards were presented by the Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., president of the University.

Four members of the famous Notre Dame debate team which won 42 out of 49 matches during the season recently concluded and which finished in a tie for third place in the national tournament, were awarded public debate medals at the exercises. They are: Frank Finn, Denison, Tex., Timothy E. Kelly, Bay City, Mich., and Samuel J. Hazo and James P. Beymer, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

MEEHAN MEDAL TO JOHNSTON

The Meehan Medal for Literary Merit was awarded to John H. Johnston, Norfolk, Va. Arthur Stephen Harvey, C.S.C., Washington, D. C., won the Mitchell Memorial Award for Playwriting.

The Farabaugh Prize for Law was presented to John H. Merryman, Portland, Ore. James E. Houghton, South Bend, was awarded the Miles O'Brien Prize for excellence in Mechanical Drawing, and Theodore W. Havelly, Jr., Lexington, Ky., won the John J. O'Brien Prize for excellence in shop work.

In the College of Law, Arthur M. Diamond, South Bend, was given the Hoynes Award to the senior in the College of Law who has the best record in scholastic grades, application, deportment, and achievement, along with the qualifications for admission to the bar and practice of law. Gerald A. Kamm, Mishawaka, Ind., and Robert L. Miller, South Bend, won the Vint D. Vaughan Memorial Prizes for Law, given to two students in the Law School who are most proficient in moot court trial practice.

KERVICK MEDAL TO GONZALES

The Andrew F. Kervick Gold Medal for Drawing, awarded to the student of the Department of Architecture whose work in freehand drawing is of highest merit, was presented to Bonventura Gonzales, Dallas, Tex. Luigi A. Scibelli, Malden, Mass., won the Nellie Wynn Kervick Gold Medal for Architecture, given to the third-year student whose work for the first three years in courses of architecture has been of highest merit.

Jerome V. Blatz, Minneapolis, was awarded the Msgr. Francis A. O'Brien Prize for special study and distinction in an historical essay. The J. Sinnott Meyers Bursar in Journalism was presented to William W. Wicks, Chicago, for excellence in editorial composition.

The Students TODAY

The Hugh A. O'Donnell Gold Medal for Journalism, for the student in the Department of Journalism with the highest average in his senior year, was awarded to James M. Regan, Holyoke, Mass.

The Donoghue Prize for Essay on Labor Relations, awarded for the best essay submitted to the Department of Economics on labor relations, was awarded to James D. Rowland, Bayport, Minn.

The Donoghue Prize for Essay on Labor Problems, for the best essay on labor problems, was won by William J. Hoene, Duluth, Minn.

Harry S. Brown, Berrien Springs, Mich., was awarded the Jacques Medal for Fine Art, presented to the student in the Department of Fine Art who submits the best thesis for graduation. The Hamilton Award, to the graduate of the College of Commerce who achieved the highest scholastic average for the four-year course, was presented to Gerald E. Skofronck, Washington, D. C. The Hamilton Medal, to the graduate of the College of Commerce who has made the most improvement in public speaking during his college career, was won by James W. Kelly, of Olympia, Wash.

CLASS OF 1932 APPROVES

"The Class of 1932, at its 15-Year Reunion, heartily endorsed the new alumni program as outlined by President Hogan and Father Cavanaugh. They were especially enthusiastic over the appointment of State Governors who will provide a closer association between the individual and the University. They pledged themselves to support the Program in its entirety." (J. K. Collins, Secretary of the Class of 1932)

LOYAL SUPPORT FROM CHICAGO

"The Chicago Club is greatly enthused in the Alumni Association's program for increasing endowment. We feel that by its continuous application and intelligent direction great accomplishment will be achieved. On behalf of all our members we offer our cooperation and loyal support." (Notre Dame Club of Chicago, Tom McCabe, President)

Robert J. McBride, of Lancaster, O., won the Bryon V. Kanaley Prize awarded to the senior monogram athlete adjudged most exemplary as a student and leader of men. The Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell Trophy, for highest combined merit of scholarship in naval science subjects and naval aptitude, was awarded to Marvin E. Pinaire, New Albany, Ind.

The Navigation Award, presented by the Navy Department to the student in the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps attaining the highest average in navigation subjects, was awarded to George H. Wrape, Clayton, Mo. The Chicago Tribune Gold Medal for Military Merit to students in the NROTC attaining the highest averages in military subjects was won by Isaac P. Rehkopf, Petoskey, Mich., and the Silver medal in the same classification was awarded to Marvin E. Pinaire, New Albany, Ind.

Charles J. Patterson, Gretna, Nebr., delivered the Class Day Oration, and Gerald E. Skofronck, Washington, D. C., was the valedictorian.

NOTRE DAME DEBATE

Notre Dame and Army, perennial contenders for the national intercollegiate football championship, almost met at West Point on May 4 to decide the intercollegiate debating championship of the United States.

The occasion was the National Intercollegiate Debate tournament at the United States Military Academy. Each competing against the best twenty-nine debate teams from an original field of teams from more than 500 college and universities, Notre Dame and Army finished in a tie for third place.

Notre Dame gained some consolation, however, in the fact that as a result of their excellent showing in the national debate tournament, the N. D. debaters now rank as the leading debate team in the midwest and also are listed as the top debate team representing Catholic universities in the nation. Representing the Irish in the national tourney were Frank Finn, Denison, Tex., and Timothy Kelly, Bay City, Mich. They were coached by Prof. Leonard Sommer of the Speech Department.

IRISH OVER NAVY

During the elimination rounds of the West Point tourney, Notre Dame defeated Gonzaga, Penn State, Louisiana, Utah, Wake Forest and the U. S. Naval Academy.

Just prior to the close of the regular schoolyear, Notre Dame and St. Mary's College joined talents to produce "Tolanthe," a Gilbert and Sullivan musical. This year's presentation marked the first appearance of the St. Mary's college Savoyards on the Washington Hall stage. The show ran for six nights. Professor Cecil Birder directed.

In turn, the Notre Dame Glee Club journeyed to St. Mary's to give a joint concert with the St. Mary's Glee Club on April 20. St. Mary's choral unit rendered the first portion of the program, Notre Dame the second, and both groups joined forces in the final portion. The combined St. Mary's-Notre Dame Glee Clubs are planning to hold similar concerts during the coming fall and spring semesters.

Rev. John H. Murphy, C.S.C., vice-president, joined William Fox, sports editor of the Indianapolis News; South Bend's Joe Boland, WSBT sportscaster; John Wooden, basketball coach of Indiana State Teachers College; Paul D. (Tony) Hinkle, basketball coach and director of athletics, Butler University; Adolph Rupp, basketball coach of the University of Kentucky; and Jim Costin, sports editor of the South Bend Tribune in honoring the 1946-47 version of the Fighting Irish basketball team at a testimonial banquet on April 1 in the Indiana Club, South Bend.

The banquet, sponsored by the Villagers Club, composed of students whose homes are in South Bend, was a revival of a pre-war annual event, and, like its predecessors, it was a standout. The Villagers deserve applause, again.

The 1947 Dome has not come off the press as yet. Editor John Walker, Elgin, Ill., hopes to have the first post-war Dome in the mails by September. The Scholastic, student weekly, will probably put in a brief appearance during the summer term. It is rumored that two issues will be published. The Juggler, new literary version of the old Script, made its second appearance in the second week of May.

POLITICAL SCIENTISTS AT N. D.

Recent activities on the Notre Dame campus saw 300 outstanding political scientists from the midwest assemble for their fifth annual conference on May 2, 3, and 4. In welcoming the political scientists Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., warned that the un-American and un-Christian doctrines the United States defeated abroad in World War II are "spreading here at home and are causing grave and justifiable concern." Other speakers included: William P. Maddock, director of the Foreign Service Institute of the State Department; Dr. Arthur W. Macmahon, of Columbia University, president of the American Political Science Association; and Dr. Paul Bartholomew of Notre Dame.

Leading Atomic Scientists at N. D.

Meet in Four-Day Session to Discuss Radiation Chemistry and Photochemistry;
First Symposium of Its Kind

Leading atomic energy scientists from the United States, Great Britain and Canada participated in a special four day symposium on Radiation Chemistry and Photochemistry on June 24-27 at Notre Dame.

Purpose of the symposium, the first of its kind involving both radiation chemists and photochemists, was to discuss some of the fundamental phenomena in the two allied fields. Study in both fields played a prominent part in the development of the atomic bomb during World War II.

Dr. Milton Burton, professor of chemistry, was chairman in charge of arrangements and secretary for the four-day meeting. Dr. Burton was chief of the Radiation Chemistry section at the atomic energy project at Chicago and at Oak Ridge, Tenn., during the war, part of that time on leave of absence from Notre Dame.

Of special interest was the participation of Prof. James Franck, of the University of Chicago, who is called the Father of Modern Photochemistry, and Dr. Robert Spence, director of the Chemical Division of the British Atomic Energy project at Harwell, England. Professor Franck, winner of the Nobel Prize in 1925 and professor of Physical Chemistry at Chicago, headed the chemical division of America's Manhattan project.

Opening day addresses were given by Dr. S. C. Lind, dean emeritus of the School of Chemistry, University of Minnesota, and author of the first book on Radiation Chemistry in 1921, who was general chairman of the meetings; Dr. E. W. R. Steacie, Director of the Chemical Division of the National Research Council of Canada at Ottawa and head of the Chemical Division of Canada's atomic energy project; Dr. J. O. Hirschfelder, professor of Chemistry at the University of Wisconsin, who acted as chief phenomenologist at last year's atom bomb tests at Bikini, and Dr. George Glockner, chairman of the Department of Chemistry, University of Iowa.

Second-day sessions papers were presented by Dr. J. A. Hipple, head of the Nuclear Physics Division of the National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C.; George C. Eltenton, an executive with the Shell Development Company, Emeryville, Calif.; Dr. A. O. Allen, who succeeded Dr. Burton as head of the Radiation Chemistry branch at Oak Ridge; and Dr. F. S. Dainton, lecturer at Cambridge University in England, who was connected with Canada's Chalk River atomic energy project during the war.

Four of the nation's outstanding photochemists spoke on June 26, on some of the basic processes in Photochemistry. They were Dr. G. K. Rollefson, professor of Chemistry at the University of California, who was associated with atomic energy work performed there; Dr. R. S. Livingstone, professor of Chemistry University of Minnesota; Dr. F. E. Blacet, professor of Chemistry at the University of California at Los Angeles, who worked on the government's chemical warfare project during the war, and Dr. W. Albert Noyes, Jr., chairman of the Department of Chemistry, University of Rochester, Rochester, N. Y., and president of the American Chemical Society.

The final session featured talks by Dr. Irving Breger, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who has done important work in the origins of petroleum for the American Petroleum Institute; Prof. John E. Willard, professor of Chemistry, University of Wisconsin, an authority on the isolation and purification of plutonium, a basic element in the atomic bomb; Prof. T. H. Davies, professor of Chemistry, University of Chicago, who worked in the field of Radio-Chemistry at Oak Ridge, and Dr. Burton.

Various manufacturers of products in the fields of Radiation Chemistry and Photochemistry had their respective products on display at special exhibits set up for the duration of the symposium.

MALLON LIKES NEW PLAN

"... I was glad to hear your meeting was successful, particularly in relation to the establishment of the State Governors. You should find the efficiency of our organization much improved by his activity."
(Paul Mallon)

Alumni T-Formation—"We Must Take Off Our Coats"

By Harry G. Hogan, '04

President of the Alumni Association

Stirring Alumni Banquet Address Outlines Notre Dame's Greatness and Need for Alumni Action

It is with humility, coupled with great pride, that I approach the opportunity to speak to fellow Notre Dame men under the shadows of the protective mantle of "the lovely lady garbed in blue."

I am keenly aware of the honor afforded me, as your national alumni president, to speak words of praise for a great institution of Western civilization, one which is both a world shrine to Our Lady and one which our beloved President, Father Cavanaugh, so descriptively calls a living miracle.

I think nowhere has any of us seen so beautifully portrayed the essential nature of the mystical body of Christ as we do in the life and the operation of this great school. Here it seems to be a sweet, silent but apparent communion between the Notre Dame of the past, the Notre Dame of the present and the Notre Dame of the future. More than anywhere else, we are conscious as we walk over this campus and stand in the shadows of its buildings that the dead, the living, and the future builders of Notre Dame are intimately joined in the warm handclasp of a fraternal affection born of a common religious faith and a common devotion to our inspiring Alma Mater. Yesterday, it was the Sorins, the Badins, the Morrisseys, the Cavanaughs, the Walshes, the O'Donnells, and all the rest. Today, it is another group of human counterparts to these men, and tomorrow, we know with all the faith that is ours, that other men will merge into the unfolding history of Notre Dame, and accept the torch of tradition which is handed them.

Our Role in the Groundwork

The past, in a very real sense, still makes itself intimately apparent at Notre Dame, but with all its great glories, the past is gone. The future of Notre Dame, which we envision, is something that cannot be fabricated in the tomorrows, which never come, but only in the moments of the present, when we as minor players are privileged to walk the stage and play our unimportant roles in our moments in the conscience of time.

A great American recently said in another application, "Take your hats off to the past, but take your coats off to the future." Those of us who have a chance to play in the present moments of Notre Dame, should take "off our coats," and in a unity of resolution and action, lay the groundwork for the still greater cathedral of learning that this school is destined to be.

The time in which to play our part may be shorter than we think. Too often, through delay, we verify the lines, "too little, too late." That is why I would like all of you to cooperate with something that has been started here to acquire a deserved greater future for Notre Dame, making her a stronger bulwark, not only of the Catholic faith, but of the principles of the Western World which we in the United States have translated into what we call, for lack of a better description, "the American way of life." America is about the last real stronghold of Western civilization, possessing the will and morale to resist the waves of atheism and Oriental materialism threatening to engulf the world and imperil our own national and individual security.

None of us has ever fully discharged the debt he owes this institution for instilling in us and others the priceless principles of our faith. But even though we cannot succeed in matching the gifts which this institution has given us, we must try and try generously. By giving what we can freely, we get out of the bleachers and into the game as players.

Notre Dame was never cheated by her sons who could, but failed to, contribute to her growth. They only cheated themselves by not playing when they could.

More Than Money

It is not money that Notre Dame has ever sought to ask of you or me. It is not just money that she seeks to ask of you now. It is a willingness on your part to do what you can to contribute to the Notre Dame of tomorrow which this country, your church and our nation's Catholic youth so richly deserve. Notre Dame wants money only as a wholesome means to a sound end: the progressive development of an institution which will be able to match the increased demands that her increased prestige and the increased needs of our country will place upon her. She simply and soundly needs money to buy the tools to do a great job which needs to be done.

I don't think we have ever, as we ought, grasped the vision of the future of Notre Dame. We have tended smugly perhaps too much to regard our heritage here as a selfish one, not to be shared fully with all our friends over the country who while not alumni of Notre Dame are friends of this institution and anxious to assist it. To correct this unintended lack of thoughtfulness on our part, we of the Alumni Association, under the direction of our University head, Father Cavanaugh, recently instituted a new plan which we think will mean much in the realization of Notre Dame's deserved future growth and expansion. In every state in this country, in Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Puerto Rico and in many South American countries, the University and the Alumni Association have appointed Notre Dame Governors to serve as contacts between friends of Notre Dame in distant states and cities. It will be the purpose of these men, and their successors to present in every large or small home, city and town of every alumnus, through Public Relations Committees of five or more members, the needs of the University to its friends. This to the end that their assistance may be obtained in getting for us, our country, and Mother Church the expanded Notre Dame of tomorrow.

Mobilize Our Talent

The idea we want to emphasize just now is to mobilize and integrate to the needs of Notre Dame its talent, existing so abundantly in every large and small city in this country but much of which lies fallow. Our problem in the past to achieve this goal, has been one of "logistics." Our returned Army and Navy men, to whom I pay tribute, know expertly what the term implies.

We have tried in the past to maintain a system of one-way service and contact from the central staff here, without well-distributed reciprocal sub-stations, except in some 100 Club cities mostly in eight or ten Eastern and Middle West states where our members are numerous.

I am very happy to state that the prompt enthusiastic acceptance of the Governor appointments in each of the 48 states in less than 30 days, seem to indicate a sound plan and promising success. The University, I think, has again made the soul-satisfying discovery that all Catholics, especially Notre Dame men feel it a deep privilege to be able to respond to a plea from this University for organized, constructive help.

The success of the New Plan will depend to a great extent upon the aid that you and all other friends of Notre Dame give it. It has the blessing of President Cavanaugh and will receive the aggressive support of the directors, officers and headquarters staff of the Alumni Association. At this point, I wish sincerely to pay tribute to the ability and the energy of our capable Alumni Director Secretary, Jim Armstrong, now rounding out more than 20 years as your executive officer. Jim is himself a splendid Notre Dame product, well representing his school in all that he undertakes.

Now with the alumni of Notre Dame clicking in every city and town in the field, with your officers at the University, I feel confident that, with God's grace, the Notre Dame of tomorrow that we visualize will indeed become a reality.

On several occasions recently, I have had the pleasure of some stimulating visits with our famous athletic director, Coach Frank Leahy. I think he is one of the finest types of men, a credit not only to Notre Dame's athletic department but to his church.

In this connection, I would like to make an observation that is needless to make at a Notre Dame gathering, that while Notre Dame is indeed proud of its athletic achievements, these things are not responsible for our success. As a very learned priest recently said in a public address, "Notre Dame is not great

QUOTATIONS FROM PRES. HOGAN

"We must take off our hats to the past, but we must take off our coats to the future . . ."

"Notre Dame wants money only as a wholesome means to a sound end . . ."

"Notre Dame has a great football team BECAUSE IT IS A GREAT UNIVERSITY: it is not a great University because it has a great football team . . ."

"Our relationship with Notre Dame must be on a 365-day-a-year basis . . ."

because of its football team, but instead has a great football team because it is a great University."

We make no apologies to anyone for our athletic programs, nor for our athletics. Neither at the same time will we let the ridiculous charge stand that Notre Dame has become great because of its athletic greatness.

When I entered Notre Dame, nearly fifty years ago, its athletic glory was a matter of only a very local knowledge, but I know that this University then had students attending from states throughout the Union and even from foreign countries. The great era of Notre Dame athletics has been comparatively recent, yet Notre Dame has been a famous institution of Catholic learning and culture for over a hundred years.

I prefer to think that made up as it is, Notre Dame will be great in anything she undertakes, whether it be an improvement on Father Nieuwland's synthetic rubber discovery, an advance in knowledge of splitting the atom or a new version of the T-formation on the grid-iron.

There are some who may think that with a changed world, a new mission confronts Notre Dame and that from here on in, her work will be much different from that which the University was called upon to do in earlier days.

The Modern Wilderness

On the contrary her original role is her present one, adjusted as it has been, during the years, to current circumstances. The fundamentals that will animate her will remain unchanged. The Notre Dame of Father Sorin and Father Badin was started in a little log cabin behind the present University library to clear the wilderness of this part of the country, to push back the frontiers of Christian order in a physically, mentally and spiritually disordered world of that day. True, the wilderness which confronted the efforts of Father Sorin was a physical one, but today Notre Dame is confronted with another wilderness, a much worse one, namely the wilderness of the modern mind and the modern soul. Notre Dame must again clear a wilderness and restore a Christian order to a spiritually sick nation.

As our distinguished friend, Dean Pat Manion, has brilliantly pointed out on many occasions throughout this country, the basic principles of our unique form of government are Catholic, and stem from our original authentic Christian religion.

The success of Notre Dame, like the success of this country, has hinged on the basic notion that all men are creatures of God and therefore, possessed of an eternal destiny which governments must protect. The philosophy of true Americanism is the philosophy of Catholic thinkers, as well as those Christians outside the Catholic Church who still hold fast to a considerable heritage of Catholic thought. In this connection, I want to emphasize that the preservation of the American philosophy and the restoration of it to the general acceptance which it once had is not the exclusive task of Catholics, but of all those Protestants and Jews who accept the basic verities. We invite them with all the persuasiveness of which we are capable to join us in this effort to keep a free America by instilling into the minds and hearts of American students a full appreciation of their nature, their origin and their destiny. The freedom which is traditionally American is a freedom born of a religious concept, namely the creation of Man by an infinitely wise and supreme intelligence. It is the only basis on which freedom can be founded, because without a God there is no supreme law-giver and without a supreme law-giver no pattern of order. The concept of God, which Notre Dame teaches, is in its ultimate pursuit the keystone that holds together the entire political structure which is known as the American way of life and the more inclusive structure which is known as the Western civilization.

The Lay Bible

Because we believe in God and the American system of political science, we also believe in the Ten Commandments and their applicability, whether in everyday life or in the life of the nation or the life of international organizations. Men don't need complicated codes of ethics. They need only the Ten Commandments which have been implemented into our Constitution and extended to our federal, state and city statutes, forming a standard code of ethics, a lay bible in the fraternal, social and political relationship between man and man.

I am convinced that, in the light of what I have tried to say, and with a rather intimate knowledge of the problem that lies ahead for Notre Dame, the Church and the nation, this is a year of a real decision for Notre Dame.

*There is a tide in the affairs of men,
Leads on to fortune.*

At this hour there appears a real tide for Notre Dame. It presents a challenge to her and to you to be taken at the flood. Notre Dame is preeminently the best organized Catholic institution of learning to accept for Mother Church, and the nation the challenge presented by the complex situation that now confronts a very sick world, filled with confusion and bewilderment, to which this nation is acutely exposed, with the security of its way of life seriously threatened. To successfully meet the challenge and to lead the fight for Christian America, Notre Dame sorely needs money to expand its academic departments and house their facilities.

This poses the question of why N.D. needs additional money, and where that money should come from. We should first understand that if Notre Dame trebled her present student body, which she should not, and I am sure will not, neither her quantitative or qualitative expansion could be financed from current operating income.

If she is to expand qualitatively, through the creation or expansion of academic departments, she will need new outside money for them and for new buildings to house them.

There is no logic in thinking about such expansion, if current income fixes a forbidding ceiling, unless Notre Dame reaches out for new money. However, where there is a need, there must be a democratic way.

Consequently it becomes the obligation of the alumni friends of Notre Dame here and now to sit around the table with the University authorities and determine first whether the necessary finances for things so necessary to be done can be obtained solely from the alumni. If it is found that the expansion budget, pared to the bone, is too large for the alumni to assume, then the program deemed necessary must be either abandoned, or dwarfed, or wait for a Santa Claus, or else other reservoirs must be tapped now and in an organized way. The obvious source in my humble opinion is aid from our non-alumni friends.

N. D. CLUB ENDORSES PROGRAM

"Notre Dame Club of New York extends to you and National Board congratulations and best wishes for successful reunion. Entire membership here directs me to pledge you enthusiastic support commendation and appreciation in carrying out your excellent program for national alumni activities . . ." (Telegram from the Notre Dame Club to President Hogan through President Tierney O'Rourke)

This course would set no new precedent because heretofore the University has received generous contributions from non-alumni—both Catholic and Protestant. The process followed was in good taste, free from any pressure.

With the principle established, that a money need exists, and the conclusion that the source of non-alumni contributions should be broadened, we come to the matter of method.

It is proposed, instead of a leisurely limited effort, that under the Governor and Committee-of-5 plan, it be broadened by following the pattern of what has been done by the University through its Endowment Department here, by duplicating it at the community level in many, if not all, of the cities of over 50,000 population.

The community branch of the Alumni-University Endowment Department under the plan proposed would initially consist of a local Public Relations Committee of five or more members.

The Committee would compile local lists of friends of Notre Dame, grouped as Catholics and non-Catholics, with the earliest approach to the former, through a careful presentation by mail from the University, or by a personal local solicitation, or both.

Be assured that the same high degree of taste followed by the University in its acquisition will be sacredly paralleled. This guarantee is self evident because the responsible persons selected to man the local Committees will be of a type who would not embarrass the University or themselves. For, after all, they live and fraternize and do business in the same community with the prospects to be approached.

If the money is acquired before prices reach their normal level, it can be safely assumed that it will not be spent until the time is propitious and all the prevailing factors are favorable.

The best proof of this is that in the past the University management has not built carelessly or extravagantly. The only buildings without high utility are those of extreme old age.

For Responsible Leadership

The record assures that the University will be expanded soundly, with emphasis not on the quantitative but on the qualitative. This so that higher polish and extra lustre can be given the young minds to be fashioned by the University as morally cultured responsible leaders in their chosen fields.

Mother Church in her democratic way depends on the modest offerings of her people to meet the expense of the spiritual service she so importantly offers. Notre Dame is an auxiliary of Mother Church in the transmission of her precepts to the students entrusted to her care. In this service it too is entitled to the democratic help of its alumni sons and also of the helpers of Mother Church. Father Cavanaugh was significantly grateful to the New York Notre Dame Club for their financial support of his proposed Institute of Natural Law. Such academic activities, and others so endowed, carry no strings or implications of any lack of full free expression, carry no obligation, except to reveal and express the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

I could go on interminably emphasizing what to any Notre Dame man is obvious. I merely wish to make the most of this opportunity to implore not only you who are here but also all alumni and friends of Notre Dame to make the relationship which exists between them and the University a closer thing than one merely of affection or sentiment, desirable and laudable as they are. Notre Dame has a very definite purpose in the American and Catholic scheme of things which can only be realized to its fullest extent by all of its friends being willing

Responsible Leadership

By Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., '23

President of Notre Dame

Address at Alumni Banquet Gives University's Inventory of Achievement and Faith in Future

I would be derelict in my duty this evening if I did not begin what I have to say to you by expressing my most sincere and heartfelt thanks to Harry Hogan for his magnificent work in behalf of Notre Dame as president of the national Alumni Association. He has established himself as one of Notre Dame's greatest benefactors because he has given so unselfishly of himself. He has turned his rare genius for organization to devising means that will lead to Notre Dame's ends, the achievement of which he has idealistically made his avocation. We are all in his debt for what he has done—I am doubly his debtor, first as an alumnus, and secondly as president of the University which has been the beneficiary of his time and thought.

The Role of the "Hogan Plan"

As our national Alumni President has implied, this is Notre Dame's hour of opportunity. There has never been a time when her potential energy was so great, when the go-ahead sign gleamed more brightly before her; when there was a greater need and demand for the type of responsible leadership which she can help to provide to the American people. The opportunity is there, but translating our potentialities into actualities involves more than local administration, no matter how sound and wise that administration may be.

By way of illustration: At each place tonight you found a newspaper story about Notre Dame's $12,000,000 building program. You found architect's drawings. But, unless I am very much mistaken, you have not seen any steam shovels beginning excavations, concrete being poured, or bricklayers at work since you arrived on the campus. I assured you that Notre Dame is not making any rash moves. There will be no abandonment of the judicious policy that has always guided our physical expansion.

Of course, when that story appeared a couple of weeks ago, some of our friends leaped to conclusions. Not knowing Notre Dame's circumstances as well as you and I do, they assumed that the money is in the till, and that we are prepared to get under way at once. Well, we are not. Even if building conditions were more favorable than they are, Notre Dame is not in a position to undertake such large commitments. The need, however, is immediate. When conditions are favorable, there must be no unnecessary delays. Notre Dame must be ready to get under way at once. Actual expansion—physical and otherwise—depends, in large part, upon circumstances beyond the control of the administration. It depends upon widening that circle of thoughtful men and women who know and appreciate, with a tangible appreciation, Notre Dame's worth to the nation. This is where the plan proposed by Harry Hogan plays an important part in our future.

Just now, Notre Dame is bursting at the seams. . . . I can almost hear you say, "Enrollment." But I am not thinking primarily of the 4,600 students in the five colleges and the Graduate School, nor of the 10,000 who are currently clamoring at our gates. Trying to gear our present facilities to an enrollment one-half in excess of what they were intended for has taxed our ingenuity, but so far we have made out without sacrificing standards. If we were to assume the permanence of an enrollment of from 4,500 to 5,000—and that is a reasonable assumption—we shall, of course, need several new residence halls, another set of dining halls on the eastern campus, and a corresponding increase in other facilities. But that is a bridge which we shall cross when we come to it.

When I said that Notre Dame is bursting at the seams, I was thinking of our expanding influence, through the prestige that came through new contacts made during the war, especially with the Navy; through the researches that are being carried on by our various faculties as well as the thorough day-to-day teaching characteristic of Notre Dame; and, by no means least, through our alumni whose lives as Christians and Americans are an example to their fellow citizens, a source of pride to their Alma Mater, and the reason why Notre Dame education is so popular.

Must Produce Responsible Leaders

Another reason that our influence has been expanding is simply that there has been a growing realization among the American people that the first duty of an institution of higher learning is to educate for moral leadership. In this field Notre Dame has been pre-eminent. One lesson the war has taught us is that it is not enough for a university to foster the physical sciences; it must also help produce morally responsible leaders who can be trusted to handle the developments of science for the benefit of mankind.

From its beginnings, more than a century ago, Notre Dame has recognized and accepted its grave responsibility to help widen the horizons of physical science, as witness the work of Zahm, Green, and Nieuwland. In our laboratories today our research men are engaged in work no less important than theirs that will bring eventual good to society. For example, in the Department of Chemistry, Dr. Campbell has been developing anti-malarial drugs to combat a disease which afflicts as many as 300,000,000 persons annually throughout the world. In LOBUND, Mr. Reyniers is continuing his experiments with germ-free life and its uses in biology. Their effect upon nutritional studies indicates that they may help to open an avenue to a cure for cancer. The new science of electronics occupies Dr. Coombs, who was on a loan to the government at M. I. T. during the war. Dr. Guth is continuing Notre Dame's already famous studies in synthetic rubber. Dr. Mahin and Dr. Troiano are doing work in metallurgy to keep that science abreast of supersonicsaviation. The science of fluid mechanics is occupying the College of Engineering on the graduate level.

I did not intend to recite a litany, either of our research projects or of the men who are conducting them. However, I wish to make this rather important point: One of the most direct means of expanding and solidifying the influence of any university is through its graduate school. Harvard, Yale, M. I. T., Cal. Tech., and a dozen others that I might mention are noted not only for their research, but for the men they train who afterwards occupy key positions in their respective fields. Notre Dame's graduate departments, you will be interested to hear, are attracting the type of man we want as a potential leader. Therefore, we consider a constantly increasing expenditure in the Graduate School a wise and profitable investment.

We Need Trustworthy Leadership

But while Notre Dame encourages the physical sciences, we also recognize and accept our responsibility to give proper direction to the social, cultural, political, and economic thinking of all our students, so that we can turn over to the American people year after year young men who can supply trustworthy intellectual and moral leadership.

Notre Dame believes that the moral responsibility of the great mass of men and women is a necessary pre-supposition to any kind of order or government in the world. This belief is not a mere academic theory. As Father O'Donnell, my predecessor in office, and Dean Manion, of the College of Law, have pointed out time and again, it is the rock upon which our government is built. The Founding Fathers knew that three fundamental truths must be taken for granted by any people for whom a just government is to be formed. These are, first, the existence of God; secondly, a balance of God-given rights and God-given duties; and, thirdly, the conviction that government exists only to secure the rights of the governed.

This brings me, rather logically, to the establishment by Notre Dame of the Mediaeval Institute—the only one of its kind in the United States. The name, I am told, has something of the atmosphere of the ivory tower; but the Institute itself is a matter of complete practicality; I might almost say “urgency,” because through such agencies must come the controls, moral, spiritual, and intellectual, that will make the developments of science a boon and not a burden to humanity.

“Notre Dame has a great destiny. It has been a privilege to be a part of it.” (Father Hugh O'Donnell, just a few days before his death.)

“This is Notre Dame's hour of opportunity . . .” (Fr. Cavanaugh).

“I am not asking you to give, but to get . . .” (Fr. Cavanaugh).

The institute constitutes a center for specialized scholarly research, scientific historical investigation and training in all that concerns the growth and development of Christian culture in the thought, life, and civilization of the Middle Ages. You may well ask, “What's so practical about that?” The answer is that the Institute does not look upon a scholarly consideration of the Middle Ages as a pleasant antiquarian task that is an end in itself, but rather as a means of preserving and furthering the traditional Christian learning that is fundamental in American democracy. As a matter of history, the American tradition is a Christian tradition. Also, as a matter of history, we did not begin to worry, nor did we have reason to worry, about the future of our American institutions until we started to poison the Christian roots which alone give them their vitality. It is, then, a matter of common sense—a matter of survival—to recover a vital Christian philosophy as a safeguard for the future. The aim of the Mediaeval Institute is to repossess ourselves completely of our Christian tradition and to express it in terms of modern problems.

Today, when the fate of the world lies in the wise management of the scientific devices we already possess, even more than in the production of more scientific instruments; when the world is struggling to find a just and lasting order than can restore confidence to the minds of men, religious, moral, and human values must receive special attention from our educational agencies, not only from colleges and universities, but from primary and secondary schools as well. The cycle begun by the Darwinian scientists who exiled God from society a century ago has been completed. Ironically, by their terrifying productions, they have forced God's return. They have made the art and science of moral living the greatest necessity of the modern age, the kind of living for which Notre Dame educates.

Notre Dame Alumni on Top

As an educational institution, Notre Dame believes that moral leadership, to function at its best, must be implemented with training for practical leadership. Moral leadership, which once exerted its force through laborious hours of copying by hand the learning of the ancients, has not spurned the magic of the modern printing press. Nor should the advocate of peace in our day be too quick to discount the possession of power. A knight in mediaeval armor at Anzio or Okinawa might be a very brave and very moral leader, but he would soon be a very dead leader.

The University of Notre Dame gives sound professional, scientific and technical training. We are always seeking means of providing students with still more and still better facilities with which to prepare for their chosen professions. But Notre Dame realizes that God made man in His image, and that a man is a man first, with rights and duties as such. After that, he is a scientist, an engineer, a teacher, or a lawyer. Notre Dame trains scientists, engineers, lawyers, and teachers. Notre Dame educates men. Only by training and educating can we widen the horizons of learning and also furnish disciplined, God-fearing leaders to the American people who must always strive to be models of justice and charity among the peoples of the earth.

Has Notre Dame succeeded in her aims? You alumni are proof that she has. You are the leaders who have taken Notre Dame's teachings with you into your professions, your businesses, and your homes, and your influence is being felt.

It is no longer true that the number of Notre Dame alumni is small, nor is it true that the average Notre Dame alumnus is relatively young and just on his way to the top. The years have been slipping by, and you have arrived.

Rev. Lawrence L. Graner, C.S.C., '24, is Consecrated Bishop of Dacca

On April 23, the Most Rev. Lawrence L. Graner, C.S.C., '24, came back to the school from which he was graduated to be consecrated bishop of Dacca, India, in the historic setting of Sacred Heart Church.

In the age-old ceremony of the church, the former altar boy from Franklin, Pa., was consecrated and invested by the Most Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., bishop of Buffalo, N. Y., and former president of the University. The co-consecrators were Most Rev. John Noll, bishop of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Most Rev. John M. Gannon, bishop of Erie, Pa.

Other bishops who attended the consecration were Most Rev. Michael Ready, bishop of Columbus, O.; Most Rev. John G. Bennett, bishop of Lafayette, Ind.; Most Rev. Edward Hoban, bishop of Cleveland, O.; Most Rev. Stephen Woznicki, auxiliary bishop of Detroit, and Most Rev. Joseph H. Albers, bishop of Lansing, Mich.

The mother church of the Congregation of Holy Cross, in which four bishops, including Bishop Graner, have been consecrated, was filled with hundreds of monsignori, priests, Notre Dame faculty members, students and friends and relatives of the new bishop, a veteran Holy Cross missionary who has conducted missionary work in India for the congregation most of the time since his ordination in 1928.

The consecration sermon was delivered by the Rev. Leo Flood, C.S.C., pastor of Sacred Heart Church, New Orleans, a classmate and boyhood friend of the new bishop.

"Put your finger on any spot of the globe, and you will find a bishop of the Catholic church," Father Flood said. "Are they not, then, as a group proof of universality. As an individual, Bishop Graner, a native American, bishop of the diocese of Dacca, India, exemplifies that universality."

Dacca is the center of extensive missions conducted by the United States province of the Congregation of Holy Cross in the province of Bengal.

The Commencement Address

By General George C. Kenney, LL.D., '47

"Are We to Survive as Free Citizens . . . or as Soulless Cogs?"
Famous Air Strategist Asks 1947 Graduates; Quality of Our Leadership Will Determine the Answer He Tells Future Leaders.

Today I am going to talk to you about a problem. A terribly important problem. A problem of survival. Are we to survive as free citizens of a free country or as soulless cogs in a state machine, paying allegiance to an alien philosophy administered by an alien dictator? It is a problem that confronts you, me, the United States—the whole world. It is a problem that has two solutions.

One solution preserves the ideals for which America has stood for 170 years. What are those ideals? They are freedom, justice, fair play, sportsmanship—not just a lot of words but concepts based on a deep and enduring appreciation of what is right and what is wrong—the fundamentals of Christianity itself.

We Must Defend Our Ideals

They are ideals for which we have fought two World Wars in the past 30 years. They are ideals for which since 1775 a million Americans have given their lives. They are ideals which make us the nation we are. We must keep them. We must defend them. We must not shirk our obligations and our responsibilities as citizens of this country. It is one of the countries of the world in which we may live our lives according to the dictates of our consciences, speak our thoughts according to the dictates of our hearts, and worship at our altars according to the dictates of our faiths. If we want to keep it that way the price is still eternal vigilance.

The other solution of the problem comes as the final stage of a combined political and military campaign. The technique is as old as history. Hannibal led his Carthaginians across the Alps against Rome only after his advance agents had spent a year of instilling anti-Roman propaganda and distributing Punic coinage to the susceptible Gauls of Northern Italy.

Hitler and Tojo in our times repeated the technique and really made the fifth column famous. The first step is the steady and organized sabotage of our ideals and institutions by infiltration of creeds entirely at variance with the principles upon which this country was founded. New words, new catch phrases are dinned into our ears unceasingly. We are told that a capitalist is some one to spit upon; that marriage and the home are outmoded bourgeois institutions; that religion is the opiate of the masses. Under such a state philosophy, nothing is sacred but the dictates of the proletariat which are proclaimed by the dictator head of the party. No opposition, no differences of opinion are tolerated. They glibly use the word "democracy," but the meaning is not the same. Freedom as we know it, disappears. Justice is no longer the province of law—it is to be administered by the firing squad.

When this fifth column has done its work and the victim has become sufficiently weakened, military forces of the aggressor without warning launch a sudden over-whelming attack and follow up with occupation. A new government sympathetic to the aims of the aggressor is set up and all opponents of the new regime are shot or sent to the slave labor camps.

If we are the victim, the attack will come across the north polar basin, the short air route from the European Asiatic land mass to the United States. Piloted and pilotless aircraft will pour their loads of atomic bombs, super-explosives, super-incendiaries or whatever weapons of mass destruction happen to be in vogue at that time, on our centers of population and industry. The objective would be to knock out our industry and with it our capability of producing the machinery and the weapons to carry on resistance, and at the same time inflict so stunning a casualty list upon the nation that it breaks the national willingness to endure further losses, and thereby forces capitulation. The casualty list would be counted in millions. The property damage in billions.

If we shirk our responsibilities and obligations as citizens—if we relax our vigilance and neglect our defenses—this is the solution we will get and the United States, as we now know it, will cease to exist.

We are a peaceful people. Throughout history we have shown that we are willing to go to almost any lengths to preserve peace. We have signed the Charter of the United Nations, we are conscientiously backing the United Nations in the hope that through this organization nations will learn to adjust their differences without resort to war. You hear people talking about universal disarmament. There is no doubt about it. We want peace—but the price can be too high.

Military Preparedness Guarantee of Peace

Until we have a far better guarantee of security in this troubled world of ours than we have at present, we cannot afford to let down our defenses. Today, adequate military preparedness is our best guarantee of peace. At the council table of nations the strong are listened to—the weak are ignored. If we are incapable of defending ourselves and the principles for which we stand, those principles will perish and we will perish with them. We cannot lead in the struggle for peace if we are too weak to fight for peace. We want to live at peace with the rest of the world but we want that peace to be based on the fundamentals of freedom and justice—not a peace enforced by a dictatorship whether it be Fascism, Nazism, Shintoism, Communism or any other “ism” which denies those fundamentals to the individual—which ignores the fact that he is a human being, not a cog in a state machine.

In the organization of our government, in the constitution of the United States, we have committed ourselves to a belief in God, to a series of rights and duties, to a theory of state control which primarily is to distinguish between liberty and license and to secure the rights of the individual.

We Need Trained Leadership

This is our heritage. It is a heritage of freedom of which we have reason to be proud. Our history not only reflects that pride but it shows that if necessary we have been willing to go to war to defend our rights to that heritage.

Sometimes aggressors seem to have been unaware of this or perhaps they had forgotten it. We must never forget it.

The solution to national and international problems of this kind is determined by leadership. If we have leadership which is intelligent, which is trained, which instinctively knows the difference between what is right and what is wrong and which is determined at all costs to preserve the freedom of the individual as well as that of the country, we get the right solution. The just solution—the peaceful solution.

But if our leadership is weak, if it relies on the shifting sands of vacillation and compromise, if it assumes that everything will be all right simply because we wish it that way, the awakening is a rude one. The aggressive creeds opposed to ours are promulgated and disseminated by real leaders with tightly knit organizations which they have built up to ruthlessly exploit the weaknesses of their intended victims and carry out their plans of world domination. Five thousand years of history furnishes us with a series of examples in which a ruthless, unscrupulous and ambitious but capable leader overwhelmed the poorly led or divided opposition. Alexander, Ghengis Khan, Napoleon, Kaiser Wilhelm, Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo are some of the names familiar to all of you. None of them was ever defeated by an inferior leader. They won until better leaders came forward to gain the final victory. Weak leadership gives us the wrong solution. It never brings us peace.

It invites the Four Horsemen—War, Pestilence, Famine and Death.

This leadership that I'm talking about is not the leadership of just one man. It is the leadership of thousands or hundreds of thousands of men. In military forces the competent general or admiral must necessarily be a leader but he must be backed up by colonels, by captains, by sergeants, by corporals, all of whom must be leaders. In industry the president of the company, no matter what qualities of leadership he possessed, would be a failure without his managers and his foremen. In education, art, science, religion and politics the same rules hold true.

I've presented the problem to you. I've outlined the alternative solutions. I've pointed out the road to the proper solution. That solution is going to be up to you and your thousands of fellow graduates in other universities throughout this nation who are now joining American society as matured, trained, and thinking citizens. You are the vigorous, virile reserves that America relies on in her crusade to preserve for herself and for civilization this thing that we call liberty.

We need your drive, your enthusiasm, the stimulation of your urge to get things done in a hurry.

Youth made this country in the beginning. Youth has fought for it and preserved it for us. We are depending upon youth to safeguard its future. Youth in the sense that I am using it, does not necessarily depend upon age for, regardless of the date of his birth certificate, as long as man preserves the mental aggressiveness, the vigor, the drive of youth, he progresses. When he loses it, he stands still, he stagnates, he dies. When a nation loses the drive of youth it stands still, it stagnates, it dies. We need youth today, now.

Replacements Who Believe in the Cause

You have heard that said before; you will some day be saying it yourself to future generations. But it is nevertheless true and with each succeeding generation it will continue to be true.

Your predecessors of previous generations have fought the fight—they have made mistakes—sometimes for a while the battle seemed lost—but we still have a country well worth living in—well worth fighting for.

Eventually those front line troops become worn out and exhausted. They need replacements—replacements who believe in the cause, who have faith in our institutions, who will fight to maintain them.

You are those replacements. You have the education, the training, the belief, the faith, the background of Christian living and the heritage of freedom necessary to fight and to lead the fight for that most priceless of all possessions—peace with freedom and justice for all.

Unfortunately, there are those who hold different theories. There are those who covet our riches, who resent our influence and, in order to advance their own creeds and satisfy their own personal and party ambitions, would smash the power which our resources and our heritage have given us.

Put Out World Fires

As a military man, I am primarily concerned with their defense. As thinking citizens looking at all the little bonfires burning in this troubled world today, I hope that you will share that concern. You are now part of the fire department that is charged with keeping those fires from spreading to this country.

If trouble comes some of you will join the armed forces. There the qualities of leadership, intelligence and technical knowledge gained at this university make you a potential force of inestimable value. The record of Notre Dame in previous national emergencies is one to which we point with pride—one upon which we have come to rely if trouble should ever come again.

Some of you will back up the armed forces as scientists, research men, doctors, farmers or grocers. You will produce the machines and the tools of defense, the food and the means of transportation, you will maintain the health and morale of the country, you will contribute team play and cooperation to the national effort. Without these services no armed force could long exist.

Your brains are the margin of victory that we have over the less intelligent, less educated, regimented masses driven to battle by some future aggressor despot.

We must never allow ourselves to get into a conflict of matching brute manpower against brute manpower. We would lose in such a struggle. We are only 140,000,000 in a world of two billion.

We do not win our wars by mass spending of blood. We use our free, creative brains and the machines conceived by those brains to save our manpower. We still believe in the sanctity of human life. We do not call our troops cannon fodder.

The Baccalaureate Sermon

By Rt. Rev. Msgr. William L. Newton, LL.D., '47

Noted Biblical Scholar Admonishes Graduating Class to "Subordinate Bodily Contentment to Your Intellectual Life, and Intellectual Interests to Your Spiritual Nature and Destiny."

This is my prayer: that your charity may more and more abound in knowledge and in all understanding; that you may approve the better things, that you may be sincere and blameless, till the day of Christ, filled with the fruit of justice, which comes through Jesus Christ, to the glory and praise of God.—Phil. 1, 9-11.

How finely appropriate it is that we should be gathered here this morning for the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, celebrating a prominent element in the exercises with which your collegiate and university training is brought to a close. It affords you an opportunity of saying farewell to this great institution in the exalted atmosphere of religion which you have breathed during the years of your dwelling here. In this spirit, you can offer your expressions of gratitude through Him who is our victim of praise and thanks. And in this spiritual light also you can vision better the new life into which you are moving. Your graduation is a transition to new obligations, some common to all, some proper to each individual. Your diplomas will speak of rights and privileges; favors which must be regarded merely as the support, the enabling principle, of the duties implied in your education. And with this there is given you occasion of renewing your dedication to the elevated life for which you have been so well prepared.

Society Looks to Graduates

It is no less fitting that we who are privileged to assist with you at this Mass should be able to express our sentiments in the same elevated way. Your parents, relatives and friends, who feel the successful issue of your studies is their own triumph; the friends of the University, who look upon you as the fruit of a noble institution; the University itself, which takes such pride in you today: we all join with you in thanking God through His divine Son, for all you have received from His bountiful hands, and we offer that same Son to the heavenly Father for your happiness and success in the future. I cannot help but feel that there is also a wider audience of this event. All society, both civil and ecclesiastical, into which you are graduating, is looking to you with more than ordinary interest; yes, in the spirit of a great hope, a hope founded on what men of your character can do for the welfare of mankind.

We all, therefore, send up to God this morning the prayer I have just quoted from St. Paul. And our prayer is first of all that you may be enriched with that knowledge and understanding which surpasses all human wisdom; and then that you may reap the inestimable and abiding fruits of that knowledge.

There is added confidence in our prayer from the preliminary assurance that you are graduating from Notre Dame, an institution whose Catholicity is proclaimed in its dedication to Christ's mother. This means that you have had every opportunity of growing in personal union with Christ through that dispensation which Paul here calls "charity." You had already been favored with election to membership in that kingdom which is an extension of the Person of Jesus Christ; you have here enjoyed unusual advantages and have been given every encouragement of deeper understanding of the constitution of that kingdom, whose bond of loyalty is charity; you have seen the truths of that kingdom in the light of all knowledge, and without those truths there can be no integrated knowledge. Whatever you have learned, if you have learned well, is now illumined and elevated by this charity. It is all related to your real life, that life that lives for God in Christ Jesus our Lord.

With this confidence we pray that as you move from the school in which this life has been nurtured, you may continue the growth, and continue it by an enlargement of the knowledge and understanding upon which it has been here founded. Scripture defines that knowledge for us very simply: it is to know God and Jesus Christ whom He has sent.

Raise Our Thoughts to God

It is the more necessary that we make this the subject of our prayer, since so few of those whom the world regards as learned will accept it; and since you will so soon meet face to face with definitions which are contrary to it. A political philosophy that influences a good part of the world rejects it formally, much of the rest of the world practically. The secular world will tell you that it is too other-worldly, that giving such room to the supernatural will deprive you of the efficiency you must have in the natural order. Engaged as you will be in pursuits that are of a secular character, there will be a temptation to listen to the objection; and in this listening there is danger. We pray you may increase in the knowledge that the world never lost an advantage from raising its thought to the things above.

At the beginning of our era a similar conflict raged over the evaluation of knowledge; on one side stood the wise of the world, on the other the Christian missionaries; pagan wisdom opposed to divine. Philosophy was decadent, laboring with uncertainties rising from the conflicting interests of flesh and of soul. Philosophy had destroyed the pagan religion; the flesh had destroyed Philosophy. Into this confusion came the voice of Christ's apostles, proclaiming a new knowledge undiscovered by human reason, and offering a new understanding of things never thought of by the human mind. Their message was the paradox that to gain life and happiness one must be indifferent to both life and its pleasures; that mankind could never gain what it ambitioned without giving up its earthly desires. They taught that in Christ and in Him alone could be found truth, because He is the perfect reflection of the Godhead, the source of all truth, the norm of all reality.

We Are Heading Into Self-Destruction

We should not, perhaps, wonder that the ancient pagans, who prided themselves on their wisdom, at first listened because the doctrine was curious, but then smiled incredulously, as they did when Paul preached at the Areopagus. What we wonder at is that men of this same pagan wisdom, this same intellectual pride, still smile incredulously at the doctrine, though they have before them the historical demonstration of its truth. Looking back over the centuries, all should be able to recognize on which side real wisdom lay. The pride which in those days was seeking to build a happier world out of natural wisdom succeeded only in destroying what it had. It was left to the simple teachings of Christianity to piece together the fragments, to lay a new foundation, by joining reason and revelation, and lead men on to a learning, a personal dignity, a happiness hardly conceivable to the ancients.

May we not even now be contemplating a renewal of this lesson? The world has rejected this higher wisdom, and is striving, as it always has, but now with amazing technical progress, to build Utopia. It has fired with its inventions the imagination of what human existence may become if only time will permit, taking advantage of prevailing misery and uncertainty. And yet Christ's voice is gently but insistently warning that the world is rapidly losing its way, that the foundations of our culture are being removed, that we are heading into self-destruction. Most thoughtful men, even those who are not of us, and who have not themselves found the answer, recognize that in spite of all our scientific development, in spite of what we call enlightenment, our labors are but increasing the intensity of the fire that is consuming us.

We have, therefore, reason to pray that you who have learned in the school of Christ, may persevere, in that knowledge, and both in your own interest and in the interest of mankind, reap the fruit of that knowledge.

1. We pray that you may approve the better things. That, knowing the heirarchical arrangement of your interests, you may subordinate bodily contentment to your intellectual life, and intellectual interests to your spiritual nature and destiny.

2. We pray that in the pursuit of this destiny you may never waver or allow yourselves to be turned aside by the allurements of a lesser end.

3. We pray that this may be your striving till the day when Christ comes as your judge, to reward you according to the talents He has entrusted to you, according to the use you have made of those talents.

4. We pray that all through your journey you may continue to enjoy the rich outpouring of God's gifts, the fruits of a sanctified life.

5. But most earnestly we pray that your lives, in whatever field they may be lived, will always be held in trust for God's praise and glory.

All your gifts, all your opportunities, turn towards this end. Here in a special way rests the duty imposed on you by reason of your Christian election, by reason of your Catholic education; here lies the trust reposed in you by the Church; here lies the University's expectation of you; here lies the good you can do for your fellow man.

The Spirit and the Person of Christ

We are confident you will bring with you into whatever work you undertake the natural learning you have acquired in your courses. You will add to that the spirit of this University. But you have accomplished only a part, a small part of what you are capable of unless you have brought with you also the spirit and the Person of Christ. This is the practical fruition of the knowledge of which we are speaking, of that knowledge and understanding we are this morning so earnestly praying for.

We may well wonder whether or not, in God's plan, we are set for any great contribution to the natural order in which our labors will fall. But even though we should never meet with fame in this direction, we are set and set with full purpose by God to accomplish something for Him. In the example we have of what Christianity has done for the culture and happiness of mankind, let it always be noted that Christianity spread and had this beneficent effect through the men and women who adopted its principles and lived its life. Through those who took on Christ and carried Him into the lives of others.

In contemplating this great possibility that opens before men of your election and development, we must also give thought to the seriousness of its failure. It is not that the opportunity of good is missed, and that harm is done in a negative way. The harm is more often positive. A fine Catholic gentleman, holding an eminent place in his profession, strove valiantly to maintain Christian ethical principles before his associates. His effort was largely fruitless; for his exhortation was so often answered by having the bad example of a Catholic pointed out.

We are, then, this morning glorying in the successful completion of your course under Catholic auspices, with all this means for the qualifications you boast of. We are praying that you may ever grow in these virtues and be to yourselves and your God a source of praise and glory. The prayer is the more heartfelt when we vision the gravity of your failure. But that in all things you may be guided by God's grace, we may conclude with those other words of Paul:

For this reason we bend our knees to the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, from whom all fatherhood in heaven and on earth receives its name, that he may grant you from his glorious riches to be strengthened with power through his Spirit unto the progress of the inner man; and to have Christ dwelling through faith in your hearts; so that, rooted and grounded in love, you may comprehend with all the saints what is the length and breadth, the height and depth, and to know Christ's love which surpasses all knowledge, in order that you may be filled unto all the fulness of God.

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

Some of you will be serving this country as administrative leaders. There may be a future president of the United States among you. There may be budding cabinet officers, Congressmen, state governors, mayors of our cities. The opportunities for leadership are endless. The application of that leadership is up to you. We need it. You can give it.

You are the hope of this nation and this world.

If you will continue to uphold the fundamental ideals and principles for which this university and this country stand—we survive.

If you do not—we perish.

ATHLETICS

By Raymond J. Donovan, '42,
Assistant Director of Public Information

Paced by undefeated football and tennis squads, Notre Dame athletic teams compiled an impressive record of 58 victories, 19 defeats and two ties during the 1946-47 schoolyear.

After Coach Frank Leahy's nine game schedule was marred only by a scoreless tie with Army, the balance of the winter sports units followed suit with an impressive record of 20 victories and four defeats by Coach Ed Krause's Irish basketball team and a mark of four wins and three losses by the Notre Dame fencers.

Spring sports teams left little to be desired by Notre Dame fans as Jake Kline's baseball squad had the best Irish season in eleven years by winning 16 out of 21 games. Coach Walter Langford's tennis aggregation, one of the best ever to represent Notre Dame, coasted to an unbeaten season in an eight-contest schedule. Coach Elvin R. (Doc) Handy's track and field squad won five and lost three during both indoor and outdoor seasons, and the Notre Dame golfers, coached by the Rev. George Holderith, C.S.C., won five, lost four and tied one.

The Notre Dame baseballers jaunted to St. Louis on a brief spring training trip over the Easter vacation and came back with a record of four victories and only one defeat. The Irish nine defeated Washington University, 13 to 4; St. Louis University, 10 to 2; Concordia College, 11 to 2, and Parks Air College, 4 to 2. Their only loss of the trip was a 4 to 3 defeat at the hands of St. Louis University.

After dropping a 11 to 10 decision to Michigan, Coach Kline's squad disposed of Wisconsin, 9 to 1; Northwestern, 4 to 2, and St. Thomas College, 10 to 2, before losing to Michigan State, 7 to 4 at East Lansing. The Irish regained their winning ways however, by whipping Iowa, 3 to 2; Western Michigan, 6 to 5; Indiana, 7 to 0 and 10 to 2; Toledo University, 8 to 5; Ohio State, 7 to 5, and Purdue, 4 to 3, before losing to Purdue, 5 to 3, in the second half of a twin bill.

The Klinemen gained revenge for their beating by Michigan State by pounding out a 10 to 2 win in a return game on Cartier field and then split their last two games with Western Michigan in the Commencement week-end, dropping a 7 to 3 verdict and coming back to win the season finale, 6 to 5.

Tom Sheehan, veteran catcher, paced the Irish at the plate during the 21-game campaign with a lusty average of .382. Bobby Klein, co-captain and third baseman, was close behind with a percentage of .375, and second baseman Benny Kozlik was third with .352. Walter Mahannah, sophomore pitcher, headed the Irish mound staff with four victories and no defeats and an amazing earned run average of 1.15. Freshman Jack Campbell and Junior John Creevey each won 3 while losing 1.

Coach Walter Langford's tennis squad, loaded with pre-war stars, opened its season by defeating Western Michigan, 8 to 1 and followed with wins over Michigan State, 6 to 3; Wisconsin, 9 to 0; Purdue, 9 to 0; Michigan, 6 to 3; Kentucky, 9 to 0; Navy, 9 to 0, and DePauw, 9 to 0.

In the first renewal of the Central Collegiate Conference Meet since 1931, which was held on the Notre Dame courts, the Irish easily breezed to the team title by placing three performers in the semi-finals. Jimmy Evert, Notre Dame captain, who was unbeaten throughout the season in singles competition, walked off with the singles title by defeating his brother, Gerry, in the finals. The doubles combination of Bill Tully and Charles Samson handed their teammates, Jimmy and Gerry Evert, their first loss of the season in the finals of the meet.

In addition to the Evert brothers, Tully and Samson, members of the undefeated squad included Bob David, Joe Brown, Jim Griffin and Ed Caparo. This marked the third undefeated season for Coach Langford since he took over as tennis coach eight years ago.

The Irish golfers had an up-and-down season by capturing five out of ten scheduled matches and tying another. After opening the campaign with an 18-to-18 tie with Kentucky and a 27-to-9 victory over Louisville in a triangular meet, Father Holderith's linksmen trimmed Wisconsin, 20 to 7, and Michigan State, 20½ to 6½, before dropping a 21-to-6 decision to Michigan and a 20-to-16 loss to Purdue.

After trouncing Detroit, 31 to 5, and Marquette, 20 to 7, the Notre Dame golfers lost close decisions to Northwestern and Minnesota to conclude the season.

During the outdoor track and field season, Coach Doc Handy's charges completed the athletic year by winning two triangular meets, finishing second in another, losing a dual affair to Michigan State and finishing second in the Indiana State Meet.

After dropping their only dual meet of the outdoor season to Michigan State, 75 to 65, the Irish tracksters scored 52 points to place second behind Indiana's 77 in a triangular meet in which Purdue placed third with 34 points. Indiana scored 75½ points to cop the Indiana State Meet, less than four points ahead of the Irish, who placed second with 71 5/6 points. Purdue was third with 56½ points. Two Notre Dame outdoor records were broken in the meet—Bill Leonard in the mile run and Capt. John Smith in the 120-yard high hurdles. Notre Dame completed its regular season by tallying 79 points to cop a triangular meet over Bradley University, which finished second with 48½ and Marquette in third spot with 36½.

Outstanding performers for the Irish during the outdoor season included Leonard and Lou Tracy in the mile, Smith in the hurdles, Jim Murphy and Cornie Styers in the two-mile, John Johnson in the discus throw, George Sullivan, Luke Higgins and Floyd Simmons in the shot put, Bob Smith in the dashes, and the mile relay team composed of Steve Provost, Ernie McCullough, Ray Sobota and Dave Murphy.

Head Coach Frank Leahy's Irish football forces closed spring practice with the annual Varsity-Old Timers match in the Stadium, May 17.

The varsity walked off with honors to the tune of 26-13, with the running of John Lujack, Connellsville, Pa., and the passing of Frank Tripucka, Bloomfield, N. J., thrilling the 10,000 spectators. Lujack started at quarterback, but was switched to fullback during the second half, and Tripucka assumed the mastermind role capably.

Tripucka's superb showing loomed all the larger with the announcement early last month that George Ratterman, last season's No. 2 quarterback, had signed a two-year contract with the Buffalo Bills of the All-America Professional Football League. Ratterman had withdrawn from school last semester and was expected to return to complete his eligibility next fall.

At the conclusion of spring practice, Coach Leahy announced the following selections for the traditional Frank E. Hering awards for excellent performances: best blocking center, George Strohmeyer, McAllen, Tex.; best blocking guard, William Fischer, Chicago; best blocking tackle, John Fallon, Alton, Ill.; best blocking end, William Wightkin, Detroit.

John "Pep" Panelli, Morristown, N. J., was named "most aggressive runner," and Russell "Pete" Ashbaugh, Youngstown, O., was voted "most versatile." Lujack was the "best all-around quarterback," and Michael Swistowicz of Chicago was the most improved squad member.

Practice for the 1947 football season will be resumed late in August, at which time preparations will begin in earnest for the following schedule.

October	4—Pittsburgh, at Pittsburgh
October	11—Purdue, at West Lafayette, Ind.
October	18—Nebraska, here
October	25—Iowa, here
November	1—Navy, at Cleveland
November	8—Army, here
November	15—Northwestern, at Evanston, Ill.
November	22—Tulane, here
November	29—Open
December	6—Southern California, at Los Angeles

BOLAND NEW MONOGRAM HEAD

Joe Boland, '27, popular announcer of WSBT, South Bend, a former Notre Dame line star, and former Notre Dame assistant coach, on June 1 was elected president of the Notre Dame Monogram Club at the organization's annual meeting held as a part of the Commencement activities.

Other officers elected were Bernie Crimmins, '42, vice-president and Steve Ronay, '27, secretary-treasurer. Bernie was a baseball and football star 1939-42 and is now a member of Coach Frank Leahy's staff. Steve, a pitcher of note during the 1926-27 seasons, on the ball team, is now an English professor at Notre Dame.

Approximately 75 former monogram winners attended the meeting which was held in the form of a luncheon in the University dining hall. Among those to speak was Coach Leahy who outlined the gridiron prospects for the forthcoming season.

NEW MIDLAND EDITOR

Dr. John D. Mizelle, associate professor of Biology, has been appointed editor of the American Midland Naturalist, distinguished biological journal published at Notre Dame, it was announced on May 6 by Rev. Howard Kenna, C.S.C., director of studies.

Dr. Mizelle, who since Dec. 1, 1946, has served as managing and associate editor, succeeds Dr. Theodor Just, former head of the Department of Biology who resigned his post at Notre Dame last year to become chief curator of the Department of Botany, Chicago Natural History Museum.

An authority on parasitology, Dr. Mizelle joined the faculty of the University of Notre Dame in 1940 after serving for three years on the faculty at Oklahoma A. & M. College. He formerly was an assistant animal parasitologist in the division of animal pathology and hygiene at the University of Illinois. A native of Louisiana, he received his bachelor of science degree at Louisiana State University in 1932 and his master of science degree at the same institution in 1933. He received his doctor's degree at the University of Illinois in 1937.

FIRST ROW: Joseph M. Byrne, III, George Wraps, William A. Madden, Paul McKee, Joseph Prall, Donnelly P. McDonald, Jr., Richard A. Jamieson, James L. Ferstel.
 SECOND ROW: David Harbert, John D. Kramer, Thomas G. Wack, Hugh V. Lacey, Jr., Joseph A. Foley, Maurice F. Zink, John C. O'Donnell, Jr.
 THIRD ROW: Harold M. Plamondon, Paul A. Riedman, Joseph Bidwell, Andrew J. Rohan, John E. Courtney, William Shanahan, Charles M. Meach, Jr.
 FOURTH ROW: George C. Witteried, Jr., Leo J. Vogel, Jr., George A. Patterson, Jr., Morgan E. Cartier, Jr., Warren Cartier, William D. Gordon.

That Boy of Yours

By Thomas E. Braniff

President, Braniff International Airways, Inc.

(A radio address on Universal Notre Dame Night, April 14, 1947, in Denver)

To you, the alumni of Notre Dame, wherever you may be gathered in honor of your Alma Mater tonight, whether in your homeland or on foreign soil, I extend hearty greetings from this group of your friends in the beautiful city of Denver. This is a gathering of which you may well be proud. It is representative of the character and the spirit and the accomplishments of the people of the West. Here a new civilization was created from virgin prairies and majestic mountains but a single generation ago. Many of the men and women in this room tonight have played an important part in the creation of this Western Empire. College educations were confined to the privileged few in those early days of the building of the West, but those few were leaders in the cultural and educational development of their communities.

Life Without Venture Is Dull

If I were to speculate on what you graduates of Notre Dame are reminiscing about tonight, it would be safe to include—your professors, classmates, and heroes of the football field. You recall with amusement the pranks and the buffoonery that help to make up the relaxations of college life. But as an aftermath of all these joyful memories there comes the period of serious reflection when a man reviews his life since leaving college.

Most of you graduates of Notre Dame are doubtless married men with families. If you are, you probably think first of your happy domestic life, of the girl who has stood by you "for better or for worse," of the pride and comfort you have in your children. If you have boys, you either provided them with the privilege of a college education at your Alma Mater, or you are planning to do so.

Your thoughts may turn to your business or professional life. You may or may not have attained all your ambitious goals. But your fondest memories are not of the comforts you have accumulated in life. They are of the struggles you have successfully met, of the difficulties which seemed insurmountable at the time, but were finally conquered, bringing you both prosperity and the respect of your fellow men. You have learned that the competition which prevails in our American system of enterprise provides a challenge to the spirit of accomplishment—a challenge that is as thrilling as was the contest on the football field.

In these days of social experiment there are those who would substitute the deadening influence of "cradle to the grave" social security, and "featherbedding" for the risks you took and won. But life without venture would be dull indeed. You would not want your boy to be deprived of the incentive to make good on his own account, no matter how hard the path of success might be. The thrill of achievement is worth all the sacrifice it might entail.

In fact that boy of yours has probably already gone places and seen things. If so, experience and observation have been his teachers. If he was among our military forces abroad during the recent war, he has returned home with a fierce determination to protect our system of government. He may grumble at the housing shortage, or the high cost of living, or some other temporary after-war dislocation of our economy, but he would not trade our way of life for any other in the world.

Keep Alive Principles of Tolerance

He is shocked to find that while he was away, the followers of an alien gang have so entrenched themselves among us as to threaten to undermine our system of government. A gang of racketeers who would destroy our freedom of worship, the sanctity of our marriage relationship, the freedom of the press and ballot, the rights of property, and all the privileges of democracy as we know and cherish them, and substitute a philosophy of materialism under the domination of a foreign tyrant.

He has seen with his own eyes the results of the evil ambition for power of ruthless dictators. He has seen the effect of spreading the delusion of racial superiority and the venom of racial prejudice. In one instance alone he has seen the propaganda of hatred climaxed by the ruthless extermination of six million Jews.

He has learned that there are at this time approximately 850,000 displaced persons in the American and British occupied zones of Germany, a majority of them Christians, resisting deportation to their native land because persecution and slavery and death await them there. These are the things which have created in the breasts of your boys a firm determination to keep alive the principles of tolerance and brotherhood which still exist in the United States.

Son Has Better Opportunity Than Father

Your boy has inherited a staggering federal debt which must be borne by him and his children and those who follow them. He is handicapped by income tax laws which limit his accumulations of capital and place a discouraging influence upon the incentive to strive. But he accepts these conditions as the inevitable aftermath of war's wastefulness. Their cure provides a challenge to his resourcefulness and he is confident of his ability to overcome them.

In a recent survey conducted by a reputable magazine of wide circulation, the young men of America have gone on record as believing they have a better opportunity than their fathers had. And strange as it may seem, a lesser percentage, but nevertheless a substantial majority of the fathers agree with them. Youth may not be fully aware of the extent and difficulties of the problems that face it, but you fathers know the will to win is there, and after all, what generation in America has not overcome obstacles relatively as great to them as those that confront the present generation. That is the history of the strength and the character of America.

You and your fathers found your opportunities in the pioneering of the West and the building of America. Today there is a new challenge and broader opportunity for this generation in the

Denver Banquet Highlights U. N. D. Night

By PAUL R. SANTO, '41, Secretary,
Notre Dame Club of Denver.

(The observance of the 24th annual Universal Notre Dame Night, on April 14, was doubtless the "biggest and best." For confirmation of that statement you have only to read the club news which follows, and look at the numerous club pictures. The Alumni Office extends warmest appreciation to all the clubs which participated so notably in the Night, and especially to the individuals within the clubs who carried the burden of the day. To the Denver Club especially thanks are due for a major accomplishment. Paul Santo tells about it in the story here.—Ed.)

Monday, April 14, 1947, was a red letter day in the history of the Denver Notre Dame Club, as members and friends of the University gathered in Denver, the capitol of the Rocky Mountain Empire, in observance of the 24th annual Universal Notre Dame Night.

The celebration and coast-to-coast broadcast Monday night climaxed a week-end of entertainment. Sunday Night, April 13, the Denver Club played host to Harry G. Hogan, president of the Alumni Association, at a meeting in the Trophy Room of the Denver Athletic club. Mr. Hogan at that time outlined plans of the Alumni Association for the coming year.

Monday night, 750 alumni and supporters of Notre Dame were present in the Lincoln Room of the Shirley Savoy hotel to hear and see the Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., president of the University of Notre Dame, and Thomas E. Braniff, president of Braniff International Airways, principal speakers for the evening.

The banquet began with grace by the Most Rev. Urban J. Vehr, D.D., archbishop of Denver. Immediately following, Milton Shrednik and his orchestra played the Notre Dame Victory March. The group also entertained during the dinner.

Robert Dick, a past president of the Denver club and chairman of the banquet committee, welcomed the distinguished guests and friends to our celebration. He in turn introduced Eugene Blish, who introduced the distinguished guests to all present. Mr. Blish is our retiring president and a member of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association.

Don Miller, toastmaster, is one of the Four Horsemen and present United States District Attorney for the northern district of Ohio and chairman of the National Juvenile Delinquency Committee. Mr. Miller introduced those sitting at the speakers' table.

THOMAS E. BRANIFF

Outstanding leaders in the field of religion, education, industry and civic affairs gather before the national headquarters observance of Universal Notre Dame Night in Denver. Left to right: Hon. J. Foster Symes, United States district judge; Toastmaster Don Miller, former member of the immortal Four Horsemen, and now United States district attorney for Northern Ohio; Hon. Wm. Lee Knous, governor of Colorado; the Most Rev. Urban J. Vehr, D.D., archbishop of Denver; Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., president of Notre Dame; Thomas E. Braniff, Dallas, president of Braniff International Airways; George W. Strake, Houston, Texas, trustee of Notre Dame; Harry G. Hogan, president of the Alumni Association; and Frank Leahy, director of athletics.

The Hon. Wm. Lee Knous, governor of the State of Colorado, welcomed to Denver Universal Notre Dame Night and its distinguished guests from other states and from Notre Dame. Gov. Knous in closing his welcoming address said: "We trust that this will not be the last time that Colorado is chosen to play host for the headquarters of Universal Notre Dame Night."

Mr. Braniff was then introduced. His address to the radio audience is presented in full elsewhere in this issue.

Following Mr. Braniff, Don Miller gave a brief survey of the work being accomplished by the National Juvenile Delinquency Committee. He stated that he was remaining in Denver to conduct a meeting of the Mountain States sports writers.

Father Cavanaugh gave a significant address on God and the atom bomb. Said Father Cavanaugh: "Universities must accept the task of training youth for moral responsibilities as well as scientific know-how. The universities must fulfill their responsibility of emphasizing God and the moral law or mankind will perish through the weapons which the universities helped develop."

"While many university scholars have contributed much to the material welfare of mankind, some also have sowed seeds of mischief in the minds and hearts of men by ignoring spiritual values."

Frank Leahy was then introduced. In his address on the coast-to-coast broadcast, he praised the school for maintaining high standards of scholastic excellence.

"It is a sincere satisfaction to the coaching staff as well as to our faculty when a Notre Dame team takes the field in any sport to know that each member has a scholastic average of 77 per cent or above, an average which is seven points higher than the required passing grade."

The banquet was brought to a close by grace said by Father Cavanaugh.

We are very grateful to our Colorado newspapers for the kind publicity given to our banquet. Many feature stories and pictures were published prior to and immediately following our celebration.

Also, we wish to thank the many distinguished leaders of religion, business, and civic affairs who contributed so greatly in making our banquet a success by their presence.

Some of those present were: The Most Rev. Urban J. Vehr, D.D., archbishop of Denver; The Hon. Wm. Lee Knous, Governor of Colorado; The Hon. Ben F. Stapleton, mayor of Denver; George W. Strake, Houston, Texas; Floyd P. Ogden, president Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co., with Mrs. Ogden; E. Ray Campbell, president Denver Post; Ben H. Parker, president Colorado School of Mines; R. R. Mickelson, president Western State College; Lloyd Yoder, manager, KOA, president of Rotary; Thurston Davies, president Colorado College; Rev. John Flanagan, S.J., president Regis College; General Thomas Lowe, Commanding General, Lowry Field; Caleb F. Gates, Denver University; Quigg Newton, chairman, Board of Trustees, D. U.; Eugene O'Fallon, manager KFED; Thomas J. Morrissey, United States District Attorney of Colorado; Hon. J. Foster Symes, United States District Judge.

Baltimore

Under the chairmanship of FRANK HOCHREITER and his able committee, the club celebrated Universal Notre Dame Night at a Monte Carlo party at the Bonnie View Country Club. Eighty-three couples enjoyed the affair, of whom forty-one couples were Notre Dame men and their wives. Numerous prizes were given to us by local merchants and the bidding for them ran high; thus making the evening a financial success as well as a thoroughly enjoyed affair.

LEWIS J. O'SHEA

Blue Water District

The Blue Water District club has elected the following officers: WILLIAM L. WILSON, president; GRANGER WEIL, vice-president; and JOHN LEAHY, secretary-treasurer. This group will serve temporarily. We are planning an organizational drive to obtain as many members as possible within our district. Meetings for the entire membership will be held on the first Wednesday of every month. Several dinners, too, have been planned during the course of the summer season, for members and their wives. The club will grant memberships to some of the outstanding citizens of this district. It was decided that the members would informally attend Mass and receive Holy Communion every first Friday at the Catholic Church in Port Huron, Mich. BILL WILSON

Boston

It is a pleasure to report that the club held a dinner dance on Universal Notre Dame Night at the Myles Standish Hotel in Boston. We had a real Notre Dame atmosphere since we were graced with the presence of REV. GEORGE B. BENAGLIA, C.S.C., REV. RICHARD H. SULLIVAN, C.S.C., and MAJOR FITZGERALD, C.S.C., who was in our vicinity for his parents' 50th wedding anniversary.

The membership of the club owe their most enjoyable evening to the following committee members:

JOHN V. MORAN, FRED HOGAN, FRANK REILLY and JOHN VAUGHAN.

Frank Reilly did an exceptionally fine job of seeing to it that we all heard the broadcast originating from Denver, and also in arranging for us to hear a recording of the fight talk as given by Rockne, while we had a large picture of Rockne projected on a screen. This last feature stirred up fond memories of the older men and brought to life the legend of the great Rock for the younger men.

We also owe a vote of thanks to the local outlet of the Mutual Broadcasting System WNAC who went to the trouble to have the broadcast transcribed and then rebroadcast for our benefit and the residents of Metropolitan Boston.

Preceding Universal Notre Dame Night in Denver two Denver Notre Dame men talk with Rev. Robert H. Sweeney, C.S.C., executive assistant to the president.

Jerome Mathews, class of '74, believed to be the oldest Notre Dame alumnus—now 93 years young—recalled early Notre Dame history with Alexis Coquillard (center) '40, whose family founded the city of South Bend and welcomed Father Sorin to the wilderness of northern Indiana in 1842. Alexis Coquillard bears the name of his grandfather who was the first student at Notre Dame.

Buffalo

Great educational advances are being made at the University of Notre Dame, MOST REV. JOHN F. O'HARA, C.S.C., bishop of Buffalo, told more than 200 attendants at the 24th annual Universal Notre Dame Night in the Hotel Lafayette.

A former president of the university, Bishop O'Hara said plans call for establishment of an Institute of Medieval Studies at Notre Dame to rediscover the history of the past in order to avoid the pitfalls of the future. "The last two wars," the bishop offered, "have shown us there has been a total disregard of the lessons of history. If we are to have peace on earth, the real lessons must be learned."

Bishop O'Hara gave the principal address in the absence of THOMAS F. BYRNE of Cleveland, honorary president of the National Alumni Association.

With Bishop O'Hara at the speakers' table were Most Rev. Joseph A. Burke, auxiliary bishop of Buffalo; Very Rev. Francis L. Meade, president of Niagara University; Very Rev. Thomas Plassman, president of St. Bonaventure College and Mayor Bernard J. Dowd of Buffalo.

Toastmaster was the Rev. John F. Donahue, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Limestone.

Canal Zone

Our local celebration of Universal Notre Dame Night went off smoothly, with the exception of the worldwide broadcast which we were unable to receive on the radio.

We had a banquet at the Panama Golf Club, which is located on the outskirts of Panama City on a hill overlooking the Pacific Ocean. About 20 persons attended, but this represented a cross-section of alumni ranging from a doctorate of the class of 1914 down to last June's bachelors.

It was recently announced here that DR. ROBERTO A. JIMENEZ, '14, has been appointed to be Panama's ambassador to Bogota, Colombia. For the past two years he headed Panama's delegation to the United Nations. J. H. HARRINGTON

Chicago

The grand ballroom of the Knickerbocker was the scene of the club's celebration of Universal Notre Dame Night. Four hundred and fifty members and their guests attended. REV. JOHN H. MURPHY, C.S.C., vice-president of the University, was the principal speaker.

JAMES KEARNS, former Chicago journalist and now head of a publicity firm in Chicago, was toastmaster. Speakers included: ELMER LAYDEN, JIM CROWLEY, JACK ELDER, CHUCK COLLINS, RED MAHER, MARTIN J. COSTELLO, '97, the oldest member present, and RAY MEYER.

Three features made this banquet an enjoyable one for those attending. The new arrangements included (1) increasing the visiting time and decreasing the speaking time, (2) arranging the tables according to classes, and (3) definite reduction in cost of tickets. The success of the party was the result of the untiring efforts of Chairman BARRY O'KEEFE and his able assistant, BOB O'TOOLE.

COL. JOHN P. "JOCK" HENEBRY, an aviation executive, presented trophies to TOM GRADY, handball singles champion of the club, and to RAY McGRATH and JACK BUCKLEY, winners of the doubles matches.

The officers for 1947 are: PETER E. KEARNEY, honorary president; THOMAS S. McCABE, president; JAMES R. CRONIN, first vice-president; J. BARRY O'KEEFE, second vice-president; J. RAYMOND DONLAN, treasurer; and ROBERT LONERGAN, secretary.

The governors are: JOSEPH D. SHELLY, WILLIAM "RED" MAHER, ARTHUR C. WEINRICH, WILLIAM J. DRENNAN, BRUCE HOLMBERG, RAYMOND McGRATH, CHARLES C. COLLINS, JOHN C. BUCKLEY, LEO J. POWERS, and JOHN SHOWEL.

Calumet District

Our club met to celebrate U.N.D. Night at the Roby Inn, in Hammond, and to listen to the broadcast from Denver.

As this was our first meeting since the war, considerable discussion was given over to re-organizing the club and to developing a program to provide more activities and create greater interest. The re-organization movement was furthered by FRANCIS MEYER'S report of his week-end at the president's meeting held at Notre Dame last fall.

It was decided to hold another meeting at a later date for an election of officers and DAN LYNCH, presiding as president, appointed a committee to set a date for election of officers. The committee: AUSTIN BOYLE, Whiting, chairman, AMBROSE McGINNIS, Crown Point, chairman, FRANCIS MEYER, Hammond, chairman, IKE LOWER, Gary, chairman, and JOHN WALLACE, chairman of East Chicago.

Central Illinois

The club celebrated Universal Notre Dame Night with a dinner in the Illinois hotel, Springfield, attended by 30, including a large delegation from Decatur, Ill. Rev. James Suddes, Catholic diocesan director of the propagation of the faith, and WILLIAM R. DOOLEY, assistant alumni secretary, were the principal speakers.

Following the dinner the club listened to the national broadcast. Two films, one of the campus, the other of the 1946 football highlights, were shown.

Officers elected at the meeting were: NICK AMRHEIM, president; DICK NEESON, vice-president; and JOE CHURCHMAN, secretary-treasurer.

Central New York

With REV. JOSEPH D. BARRY, C.S.C., rector of the new Farley Hall, at the helm, the "U. S. S. Syracuse" steamed into port, with over 50 Notre Dame men aboard for the annual celebration of Universal Notre Dame night at the University Club of Syracuse. It was the largest gathering in the club's 24-year history and doubled last year's representation.

LEO D. KELLEY, national director of the Alumni Association, was the first speaker and he explained the new program of the association and emphasized the importance of the alumni fund. The vice-governor of the Alumni Association for the state of New York, JOSEPH R. BRANDY of Ogdensburg, was the next speaker. Mr. Brandy traveled over one hundred miles to attend the banquet. MARK E. MOONEY, president of the club, read committee appointments, discussed future plans, and introduced the principal speaker of the evening; Father Barry, former Syracusan, army chaplain, and now director of students activities at Notre Dame, told the club members of the present intellectual and spiritual program at Notre Dame and the changes that post-war problems have brought to the campus. JOHN H. TERRY was chairman of the dinner, assisted by Mr. Mooney, Mr. Kelley, MR. VANSWALL and HENRY M. KIRK, JR. Mr. VanSwall was toastmaster.

Father Barry, principal speaker of the evening, was also a guest of Glenn Williams, local broadcaster, on his interview show over Radio Station WAGE of the American chain. The nation-wide broadcast from Denver was heard over Mutual Network by the entire membership.

Among those at the Universal Notre Dame Night observance in the Hotel Lafayette, Buffalo, were: seated, Bishop John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., Buffalo, left, principal speaker; and Bishop Joseph A. Burke, D.D., auxiliary bishop of Buffalo. Standing, Don W. Love, left, president of the club, and the Rev. John F. Donahue, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Limestone, who was toastmaster.

BILL CATE trucking company manager, was booking Army-Notre Dame game transportation. JACK MAULIFFE, local club director, held a committee meeting, after having been appointed chairman of the June alumni-student party, with E. W. KENEFAKE, JAMES HUXFORD and BILL KELLEY.

In conformity with the newly adopted constitution, Mr. Mooney, president, announced the appointment of the following committee chairmen: REV. JOSEPH B. TOOMEY, Religion and Citizenship Committee; HENRY T. HICKEY, publicity and public relations committee; JOHN E. MAULIFFE, preparatory school contacts committee; FREDERICK T. DELANY, JR., job counselling committee; JUSTIN CORCORAN, finance committee; HAWLEY E. VANSWALL, membership committee. JOHN H. TERRY

The club joined in the celebration of Universal Notre Dame Night at beautiful Hyde Park Country club. Elaborate preparations had been made for weeks in advance by our capable chairman, DICK SCALLAN. The entire Country club, including bowling alleys, main dining room and recreation room, was turned over to us. Dick was assisted in the details of arrangement by JACK BRODBERGER and BOB LEONARD.

Festivities began with bowling matches. Some of our more prominent bowlers, along with their "handicap-anchor-men", paired off to compete for the well known prizes that usually accompany stag parties. And there were many other activities.

At 11 o'clock the entire group assembled in the main dining room to hear the broadcast over the Mutual Network from Denver. Afterwards, an excellent buffet dinner was served. I noticed before leaving that MARC FIEHRER, president of the Hamilton, O., club, along with his delegation had somehow cornered HOWARD ROHAN and BOB McCAFFERTY and elected them pin boys "ex officio" for the balance of the evening. JOHN C. COTTINGHAM.

Cleveland

The club held its annual elections the week of May 12 with the following results: HUGH M. O'NEILL, president; JOHN F. COLEMAN, vice-president; WILLIAM MULLIGAN, treasurer; and FRANK J. MCGRODER, secretary.

The club is looking forward to a very successful year under the guidance of these men.

JACK COLEMAN was chairman of the Rock-n-Memorial Communion breakfast. It was one of the finest affairs we had during the year. DAN DUFFY was master of ceremonies. FATHER JOHN MURPHY, C.S.C., vice-president, gave a splendid talk on KNUTE ROCKNE. Other speakers were DON MILLER and STAN COFALL.

A very successful Easter dance was run off under the chairmanship of ED. SCHROEDER.

FATHER JOHN CAVANAUGH, C.S.C., president of the University, addressed the Chamber of Commerce here May 20. There were quite a number of Notre Dame men attending the luncheon and they heard Father Cavanaugh give a very powerful talk. TOM ENRIGHT

Dallas

A record crowd assembled for observance of Universal Notre Dame Night in Dallas. The newly appointed board of directors includes ART SIMPSON, D. P. BUELL, W. A. DEFFERARI, J. J. FOLEY, BILL GRADY, BERNIE HABERER, J. M. HAGGAR, JIM SWIFT, and JIM WALSH. At the election of officers for the coming year, the president, WALT FLEMING, and secretary, CHARLIE MEYER, were drafted as ball carriers for another year while JIMMIE SIMMONS, ED HAGGAR and DAN FOLEY joined the group as vice-presidents. GEORGE BECKER will serve as treasurer.

Dayton

A record attendance was on hand to participate locally in observing Universal Notre Dame Night. Guest of honor was JOE GAVIN, '31, new head football coach at the University of Dayton.

A dinner was held in the George Washington room of the Miami Hotel. Following the meal the annual election of club officers was held. BILL HOYNE was elected president to succeed JOHN FERNEDING. DICK POHL was voted secretary-treasurer, replacing JOHN FOCKE.

The new officers are planning a party to be held June 7 at the Towers in Dayton. Members and their wives will enjoy a chicken-in-the-rough dinner and plenty of entertainment.

Detroit

Universal Notre Dame Night was a busy one for the Notre Dame Club of Detroit because it was on this night that our new officers were installed. They are JOE BACH, president; BERT BAUR, JR., first vice-president; DAN BRADLEY, second vice-president; MAL KNAUS, secretary; and ED HICKEY, treasurer. The officers were chosen by our new Board of Directors which includes, in addition to the officers, HENRY J. CLARK THEODORE FELDMAN, NORMAN J. FREDERICKS, MATTHEW P. GARRIGAN, JOHN T. HIGGINS, THOMAS G. KAVANAGH, FRANK J. M'GINNIS, THOMAS J. MORAN, GEORGE B. MORRIS, JR., EDWARD C. RONEY, JR., GILBERT F. SCHAEFER, THOMAS SHEEHAN and HARRY B. STILLMAN.

The speaker for the evening was our own HARRY F. KELLY, past president of the Alumni Association and retiring Governor of Michigan. He gave an inspiring talk to some 110 dinner guests.

President Joe Bach announced the major activities for the year which include: July 1, golf at Meadowbrook Country Club; Aug. 2, picnic at Anhut's farm; Sept. 24, luncheon, pre-season rally; Oct. 23, dinner and veteran's night; Nov. 1, football, Navy at Cleveland; Nov. 8, football, Army at Notre Dame; Nov. 23, bingo, Book-Cadillac Hotel; Dec. 7, Communion Sunday; Dec. 27, Christmas Dance; Feb. 13, 14, 15, 1948, Retreat, Manresa; April 5, Universal Notre Dame Night.

MALCOLM F. KNAUS

Des Moines

The club has had two recent meetings, the first being the inauguration of the monthly First Friday luncheon meeting held March 5 at the Savery Hotel. At this time the new constitution was adopted, and it now appears that the program is in full swing.

On April 14, Universal Notre Dame Night, the Des Moines group again met at the Savery Hotel for a buffet supper, movies, and to hear FATHER CAVANAUGH in his nation-wide address. Due to a conflict in programs and the cooperation of KCBC, Des Moines' new radio station, a recording was made and put on the air a half hour after the regular broadcast. This program was arranged by the Program Committee, headed by HARRY O'BOYLE.

The annual Drake Relays dinner for the Notre Dame track team went off in fine style. Coach "Doc" Handy introduced his track squad to the members attending the dinner.

LOUIS F. KURTZ

Fort Wayne

The club held one of the largest meetings in our history in commemoration of Universal Notre Dame Night. The affair was held in the Chatterbox Room of the Hotel Anthony, with the wives and friends of the members as guests. About 150 people were in attendance.

Dinner was served at 7:30 P.M., and after that President, PAUL SAGSTETTER called the meeting to order. A letter from HARRY HOGAN, national president of the Alumni Association, was read, since Mr. Hogan was in attendance at the celebration in Denver. He was ably represented by Mrs. Hogan, who also delivered a short talk to us.

The main speaker for the evening was Father Leo Pursley, pastor of St. John The Baptist Church in Fort Wayne. We listened to the broadcast from Denver, and then games were played for the balance of the evening.

Election of officers for the coming year produced: BERNARD KEARNS, president; JEROME O'DOWD, vice-president; THOMAS SUELZER, treasurer; and BERNARD NIEZER, secretary.

The club met at the Ludington Hotel in Escanaba, Mich., to observe N. D. Night. We had a grand dinner in the Marine Room of the Hotel. Eighteen of the boys were present.

We elected officers for the year. They are: NORMAN BARTHOLOMEW, Iron Mountain, president; M. N. SMITH, Escanaba, vice-president; ROBERT LEMIRE, Escanaba, secretary; and HENRY LAUERMAN, Menominee, treasurer.

The club had a fine meeting on Universal Notre Dame Night. The program originating in Denver over the radio came in very clearly and we thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

We were indeed fortunate in having FATHER JOSEPH RICK, C.S.C., with us. He is the first priest to be ordained from the city of Houston and has been in India for 13 years. He gave us a very interesting talk about India and held an open forum after our meeting and answered all questions regarding his missionary work.

I feel certain that our club is going to be more active as the days go by.

R. CONROY SCOGGINS

Indianapolis

The club joined with other Notre Dame clubs in the observance of Universal Notre Dame Night with a dinner in the Green Room of the Indianapolis Athletic Club. One hundred and twenty two members of Indianapolis and vicinity heard WILLIAM H. KONOP, the general chairman, introduce the speakers. Most Rev. Paul C. Schulte, archbishop of Indianapolis, and FATHER THOMAS J. BRENNAN, C.S.C., of the Department of Philosophy at Notre Dame.

It was most gratifying to the club to see the large turnout of the fathers of present students and past students of the University, as well as the number of guests that attended with club members.

We topped off the evening by tuning in on WIBC to pick up the Mutual broadcast from Denver. At 10:45 that same evening we had our own broadcast over the same local station, with MIKE REDDINGTON handling the narration.

We are all still wondering how the handball game turned out between FATHER BRENNAN, AL SMITH, JOHN FORD and JOHN O'CONNOR, who all slipped away to the Athletic Club court between broadcasts. Our first informal spring dance was held on May 13 at the Southern Mansion, ROBERT M. FITZGERALD, was the general chairman with the following members serving on his committees:

Reservations—HARRY E. SCOTT, SR., CHAS. D. GREENAN, JOHN F. SHIEL, HENRY K. ENGLE, JAMES E. ROCAP, JR., PAUL J. SMITH and WALTER J. STUHLREHER.

Tickets—LEROY J. KEACH, JR., FRED L. MAHAFFEY, EDWARD F. GRIFFIN, JOHN J. CAREY, WILLIAM E. KENNEDY, JR., ARTHUR J. SULLIVAN, and JOHN T. ROCAP.

Out-of-town Guests—CHARLES E. DELL, JAMES F. CARSON, GUS C. CYR, and JOSEPH P. HILGER.

Music—JOHN D. HARRINGTON, THOMAS J. UMPHREY, JOHN J. O'BRIEN, GEORGE T. O'CONNOR, PAUL C. DEERY, EDWIN T. KILRAIN, and WILLIAM H. KONOP.

Decorations—HARVEY G. FOSTER, JOSEPH G. BECK, J. ALBERT SMITH, DAVID J. CONNOR, G. DON SULLIVAN, JOHN W. HANNON, and ROBERT J. LOUGHERY.

Publicity—JAMES G. NEWLAND, WILLIAM A. DONNELLY, CURLY ASH, NICHOLAS J. CONNOR, R. MICHAEL FOX, and JERRY SHINE.

have been much larger if the mid-week baby sitter problem hadn't reared its ugly head.

Another Indianapolis Notre Damer climbed into the local limelight on May 6; AL FEENEY, former football center and teammate of the late KNUTE ROCKNE, received the Democratic nomination for mayor of Indianapolis. Al's political career started back in the early '30s when he founded and became the first head of the state police system in Indiana. His next venture was that as sheriff of Marion County (Indianapolis).

Plans are being formulated for a club family picnic to be held sometime in July and of course for the annual golf tournament in August.

The club held a meeting on Universal Notre Dame Night at the Phillips Hotel. Officers who took office were: THOMAS REARDON, president; JOSEPH STEWART, vice-president; JOSEPH VAN DYKE, secretary, and THOMAS HIGGINS, treasurer.

VINCE DECOURSEY, outgoing president, deserves plaudits for reorganizing the club after the war.

The club has outlined many activities for the coming year. These activities were read to the members and met with hearty approval. We were unable to hear the Universal Notre Dame Night program over the radio but pictures of the 1946 Notre Dame-Army game were shown and enjoyed by all.

JOE VAN DYKE

Kentucky

The club observed Universal Notre Dame Night with a dinner dance at the Colonial Gardens.

A fine turnout of fifty members and their guests were treated to a most enjoyable evening, climaxed by the broadcast from Denver and the election of club officers.

The officers elected for the coming year were: WILLIAM J. WOERNER, president; PATRICK S. GREENE, first vice-president; JOHN W. MCKENNA, second vice-president; JAMES CARRICO, treasurer; OTTO J. MILETI, secretary.

OTTO J. MILETI

LaCrosse, Wis.

The newly formed Notre Dame club of La Crosse observed its first Universal Notre Dame Night with a banquet and meeting at the Hotel Stoddard. Various committees were appointed by President JOHN A. ELLIOTT and plans were discussed for a football trip via air. This football committee is headed by FRED FUNK.

The Most Reverend John Patrick Treacy, co-adjutor bishop of the La Crosse diocese, accepted the duties as spiritual advisor of the club and gave a brief talk. He also extended an invitation to the club for Communion breakfast at his home early in May.

The following officers have been chosen by the club: ARTHUR S. FUNK, honorary president; JOHN A. ELLIOTT, president; FRED FUNK, vice-president; JOHN A. RAU, secretary-treasurer.

On the board of directors are: AUGUST M. GRAMS, DICK PEARSE, JOHN ELLIOTT, R. F. BARTL, JOHN RAU, and D. F. Hyde.

JOHN A. RAUL

Los Angeles

Some two hundred and fifty members of the club met at the Rodger Young Auditorium to celebrate Universal Notre Dame Night. The meeting was presided over by TOM ASHE, the younger brother of GERALD "KID" ASHE and ED ASHE. He presented VERN RICKARD of the Class of '24, who was the leading man for the Duncan Sisters of the "Topsy and Eva" shows "way back in the middle '20's. An unusual program had been arranged by the committee headed by VERN RICKARD and through the efforts and acquaintanceship of LOU BERARDI. (Some of you may have met him at what "Life" chooses to call "The Poor Man's Night Club," Schwab's Pharmacy on the famous Hollywood Strip. All the stars frequent this pharmacy, of which Lou is the pharmacist and assistant manager.)

Lou arranged the program which included Dennis Day; William Frawley, who on occasion has played the part of Rockne as coach; Eddie O'Brien, of Winged Victory fame; Jimmie Burke, and the famous comedian and entertainer, Danny Thomas. Pat O'Brien was the toastmaster and we enjoyed what in Hollywood is referred to as "a million dollars worth of talent." However, the show was "stolen" by the Rev. Vincent Lloyd Russell. Father Russell has been heard on the "Catholic Hour" from time to time, taking the place of Monsignor Sheen. . . . such professionals as we had on the program, not to mention some of our Notre Dame greats in the moving picture industry, such as ALLAN DWAN, were impressed with Father Russell's ability, message, subtle comedy and his sincerity.

To complete the program we had a message from the Hon. JOSEPH SCOTT who, despite the fact that he will be eighty years old on the 16th of July, shows little evidence of losing any of his exuberance and ability.

Those who are interested in our membership who obtained prominence in the public service may recall CLARENCE J. DERRICK, class of '14, of the Board of Public Works of the City of Los Angeles, and MICHAEL D. FANNING, postmaster of Los Angeles.

We were fortunate in having Pat O'Brien who, although a graduate of Marquette, has been so indoctrinated with Notre Dame lore after playing the part of Rockne in the moving pictures, that he feels quite at home at Notre Dame gatherings.

The full slate of new officers: TOM ASHE, '31, president; GENE CALHOUN, '33, secretary and treasurer; WILLIAM CORR, '33, first vice-president; VERN RICKARD, '24, second vice-president.

Board of Directors or Governors: Three-year term: TOM ASHE, GENE CALHOUN, ED ASHE, and LEO WARD.

Two-year term: ED CUNNINGHAM, VERN RICKARD, PAT SHEA, JOE O'NEILL.

One-year term: BILL CORR, CHARLES GASS, JOHN M'ARDLE, ED HOGAN and TOM FOYE. LEO B. WARD

New officers of the club, elected on Universal Notre Dame Night, are: JERRY (T. J.) FOLEY, president; PHIL M. CANALE, JR., vice-president; DORSEY MATHIS, JR., secretary; and LARRY THOMPSON, treasurer.

Milwaukee

The club held a Communion breakfast on March 30 to honor the memory of KNUTE ROCKNE. REV. GEORGE WELSH, C.S.C., offered the Mass at the St. Charles Boys Home and the Brothers of Holy Cross and their charges were excellent hosts.

We were unable to go through with our original plan of participating in the Chicago observance in representative numbers. However, JOHN CLAUDE, CHARLES O'NEILL and JIM KARR went down for the meeting. Hasty preparations here in Milwaukee brought 14 members to the home of DICK O'MELIA, where the broadcast from Denver was heard.

On May 6 the club met at Marine Hall and chose the following officers for the coming year: TOM DIXON, president; CHARLIE O'NEILL, vice-president; NEAL GLEASON, secretary; and DICK O'MELIA, treasurer. MARK PFALLER and FRED KELLER were selected co-chairmen of a dinner-dance August 2 at the North Shore Country Club. BILL SCHALLER has general charge of a picnic and golf tournament to be held sometime this summer. HAROLD LANGTON, assisted by CLIFF BUCKLEY, will draw up plans for a fall athletic event. RICHARD McMAHON was appointed chairman of the public relations committee, while retiring president JOHN CLAUDE will help organize other alumni units in the state of Wisconsin.

The club, too, is looking forward to the dinner it will sponsor in honor of this year's Laetare Medal recipient, William George Bruct, K.S.G. Although indefinite the dinner, it is hoped, will be held some time in September.

We held our Rockne Memorial Communion Breakfast in Donora on April 10. We attended Mass at St. Charles, Father Fitzpatrick being the celebrant. One hundred and fifty-two men received Communion. Breakfast was served in St. Dominic's Recreation Center.

JIM RUSSELL head coach of Donora High School, served as toastmaster and he did an excellent job. KEN STILLEY came down from St. Bonaventure's to give the group some fine stories of the real background of Notre Dame football. The other speakers were ED DEAN, club president; John Houlihan, business manager of the Pittsburgh Steelers; Dan Hamill, outstanding Catholic layman from Pittsburgh; Tommy Preston, Donora High School principal, and Father Fitzpatrick, pastor of St. Charles's in Donora. We topped off the morning with the football highlights of '45 and '46, via the films.

The club met again for Universal Notre Dame Night at Johnson's Restaurant in Monessen, Pa. Fourteen members, along with their wives and friends enjoyed an excellent turkey dinner and a short program. Father Owen J. Kirby, pastor of St. Leonard's Church in Monessen gave the principal address. JIM DEVLIN

Montana

The club met in the Round Up Room of the Finlen Hotel, Butte, in honor of FATHER ROBERT SWEENEY, C.S.C., executive assistant to the president of Notre Dame, on March 29.

ED SIMONICH, president of the club, explained what was being done to reactivate the club. He particularly stressed that it was to be statewide, and not merely for Butte alumni. Initial steps to reorganize were taken in Butte only because there were more Notre Dame men in that area. Activities and meetings are to be moved about the state at the convenience of the members.

The business meeting terminated when the following new officers for the year were chosen: EDWARD SIMONICH, president; BERNARD GRAINY, vice-president; and ROY E. MURRAY, JR., secretary-treasurer.

Father Sweeney gave a short talk on the activities of the national alumni organization. Following this he showed films of the University and football highlights of 1946.

It was decided not to hold a general meeting on Universal Notre Dame Night. Instead, members in various localities throughout the state were to gather in small groups to observe the occasion. The next general meeting will be held in Great Falls in August. JOE MORONICK was appointed chairman of this meeting.

ROY MURRAY

Naugatuck Valley

In its first real meeting since its reorganization, the club met in Waterbury to observe Universal Notre Dame Night. Fifteen were present.

On May 5, there was an election meeting in the Elks Club with the following results: president, D. FRANK MURNANE; vice-president, JOE ROBINSON; secretary-treasurer, JAMES SCIGLIANO; and directors, BILL ANDRES, ROBERT DUBOIS, JOHN ROURKE, JOHN CIANCI, FRANK HURLEY, TOM SCALLY, JOHN M'GUINNESS, HAROLD HANLON and NORB HENEERY. Rev. John J. Sullivan, of St. Peter and Paul Church, was elected chaplain of the club and was the principal speaker of the May 5 meeting.

It was decided to ask for a charter under the name of The Naugatuck Valley Club, which will replace the former Waterbury Club.

Northern California

Some forty men gathered for dinner in San Francisco's Whitcomb Hotel for traditional "sociability" and powow on Universal Notre Dame Night. BILL BYRNE presided and we saw a fine film from the University. DICK FUITE gave us a quick and effective resume of his meeting on campus with the club presidents last fall.

The club elected officers as follows: president, JOHN W. CAREY; vice-president, WILLIAM YORE; secretary-treasurer, J. R. HAVILAND. Directors, one year, KEENE FITZPATRICK and BODIE ANDREWS; directors, two years, SLIP MADIGAN and WILLIAM BYRNE; directors, three years, MAL ELWARD and JIM PHELAN.

With this essential business out of the way, we explored the pleasures of the members, regarding future programs and meetings. No agreements were reached, nor was it expected that we would—but ideas were advanced which we will try to crystallize in a forthcoming directors' meeting.

JOHN W. CAREY

Northern New York

Eighteen members of the club gathered at the Franklin Hotel of Malone, N. Y. on Universal Notre Dame Night, marking the first time in nine years the club had assembled. In the absence of president, RALPH CARDINAL, MITCHELL C. TACKLEY presided.

County Judge CORNELIUS J. CAREY, JR., was elected president for next year. Rev. Russell O'Neill, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's Church in Malone, and the REV. DONALD GALLAGHER, of Lyon Mountain, spoke.

Special guest of the evening was the noted foreign correspondent and lecturer, H. R. Knickerbocker. Following the meeting a round-table discussion on current subjects was held with Mr. Knickerbocker in charge.

Present at the meeting were K. R. MAGUIRE; HENRY M. MAGUIRE; MILTON J. VALOIS; JOSEPH DAIGNEAULT; C. J. CAREY; T. J. MCKEE; FRANCIS CARVER; LEO G. FACTEAU; HARRY W. LANTRY; NORMAN LANGELEIR; BERNARD BURNS; ALBERT SEYMOUR; M. C. TACKLEY; ALVIN J. MCKEE; MARSHALL FRENETTE; FATHER GALLAGHER; and FATHER O'NEIL.

New York City

The club met for a dinner at the Hotel Commodore on Universal Notre Dame Night to hear Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president of Eastern Airlines, speak on "To Keep America a Free Land for Free Men."

"Although no bombs are dropping or cannons roaring, we are, for all practical purposes, at war, the war of nerves," said Capt. Rickenbacker, a veteran of two World Wars. He continued: "The best peace insurance we can carry is a policy of strength on land and sea and in the air—a strong Army, Navy and Air Force on hand and in being backed by intense research in laboratories and actual experiments. The Russians know as well as we do that if there is a next war it will be known as the war of know-how. Let us be so far ahead of the rest of the world in new weapon development and ready striking power that any nation that pulled the trigger of aggression would only aim bullets at its own head."

The 250 members and friends at the dinner also heard Coadjutor Archbishop J. Francis A. McIntyre and Dean James E. McCarthy join in on the concerted attack on Communism.

Archbishop McIntyre complimented Captain Rickenbacker on his fine speech and emphasized the position of the Church in its opposition to Communism.

Beginning on a note of nostalgia which recounted the exploits of "RED" MCINERNEY of Corby Hall who wired the plumbing system for sound, and running through many of Notre Dame's traditions, Dean McCarthy ended his address by reminding all present that they were fitted by Notre Dame to combat Communism because they had been taught that the state existed to serve the individual.

At the reception preceding the dinner the New York City Police Glee Club Quartet was well received for its renditions of old and popular ballads. FRANCIS "BUGS" WALTER and his ensemble supplied a pleasing musical background, preceding and during dinner. EDWARD A. BRACKEN served as chairman of the dinner committee.

JUDGE WILLIAM A. WALSH, of the club recently dug up from his wealth of souvenirs two things of interest to the general alumni. One is the original menu of the Second Annual Dinner of the Notre Dame Club of New York, which was held Saturday, December 17, 1904, at Healy's Restaurant in New York City. The other is a newspaper clipping of the Annual Dinner held April 20, 1911, at which the guest speaker was FATHER JOHN W. CAVANAUGH, former president of the university. Both of these souvenirs have been presented to the Alumni Office for safekeeping.

Thirty members of the club turned out for a delicious steak dinner in observance of Universal Notre Dame Night. The meeting was held in Leavenworth.

After a short business session, we saw two reels on the Highlights of the 1944 football season. Following the movies we tuned in on the broadcast from Denver. DAN FOLEY

New Orleans

This has always been a very informal group of alumni who usually get together every Universal Notre Dame Night and possibly one or two other times a year. For the past two years, however, the club has received a new spark of life, with every one pitching in to welcome the Notre Dame teams and friends when they came to New Orleans to play Tulane. CHARLES DE LA VERGNE and BILL DREUX, the two successive past presidents, are to be congratulated on the fine work they have done in awakening this sleeping club. The climax occurred on this Universal Notre Dame Night when President Bill Dreux, in his last official act, read his draft of a proposed club charter. With a few revisions, it was adopted unanimously by the membership present.

The election of officers under the new charter was then held and Mr. Patrick E. Burke, '88, was re-elected the honorary president of this group. Mr. Burke is one of the oldest alumni of Notre Dame. He has for many years been honorary president or active president of our club. The new active president is JULES DE LA VERGNE, a member of the architectural firm of Wogan, Bernard and de la Vergne in New Orleans. The other officers elected at this meeting were: A. L. VITTER, vice-president; JOHN A. RILEY, secretary; LEONARD A. NALTY, treasurer. The following were elected to the Board of Directors; BOLAN BURKE, JOSEPH DROLLA, C. A. SPORI, LIONEL J. FAVRET and BILL JOHNSTON.

The visit of Harry G. Hogan, '04, president of the Alumni Association, in Portland, Ore., was the occasion of this dinner in his honor. Mr. Hogan is seated at the right, between Frank Lonergan, a classmate, and Rev. Theodore Mehling, C.S.C., president of the University of Portland.

Our new president has suggested some fine activities to keep up the spirit for the coming year. Such things as a summer picnic and a fishing trip should get the club off to a good start and from there on, we are expecting a year filled with some very worthy accomplishments.

JOHN A. RILEY

New Jersey

The club elected officers for the coming year at the meeting held May 5. Those chosen include: GEORGE MELINKOVICH, president; CLIFF TALLMAN, vice-president; RUSS JANDOLI, secretary; and CLARK REYNOLDS, treasurer. Two members were also added to the board of directors. They are: GEORGE PLAIN and EDWIN KIRBY.

Following a short business meeting, DAN O'NEILL discussed several plans about running a special train to the Army-Notre Dame game this season.

The annual party observing Universal Notre Dame Night was held at the Downtown Club in Newark.

Speakers included JOSEPH M. BYRNE, Jr., a lay trustee of the University, DR. PAUL and Father Augustine, editor of "Sign Magazine." Father Augustine's topic was "The Catholic Press."

JOE MCKEON

Ohio Valley

The theme of Catholic leadership was the thread running through the program at the Ohio Valley club's Universal N.D. Night observance at the Windsor hotel.

The theme was developed by principal speakers: Rt. Rev. John J. Swintz, bishop of Wheeling, W. Va., and RT. REV. JOHN KING MUSSIO, bishop of Steubenville, O., and by FRANK WALLACE, author and vice-president of the Alumni Association, who was toastmaster for the program.

Out of a possible 40, the club had 33 members present for the April 14 get-together. Some traveled as far as 50 miles to get to Wheeling. At least 15 of the group came from 15 to 50 miles. All this from a club that had not held a meeting in seven years.

Further activities planned by the club include dances, picnics, sectional meetings, and attendance at N. D. football games.

Oregon

On March 21 a dinner and meeting was held at the Multnomah hotel in Portland to hear FATHER ROBERT SWEENEY, executive assistant to the president of the University. A good number were present including FATHER MEHLING, president of Portland University.

DR. RALPH PRAG, president of the club, introduced Father Sweeney, who gave a very inspiring talk outlining to all present the happenings at Notre Dame and the aims of the University. Father Sweeney acted as narrator 1946 football season and colored pictures of the during the showing of moving pictures of the Notre Dame campus.

The club observed Universal Notre Dame Night in Portland. The following were elected officers for the next year: BOB MOLIN, president; ED SANDSTROM, vice-president; JIM REVILLE, secretary and LEE SHANNON, treasurer. The board of directors includes: RALPH PRAG, BILL SCHMITT, REV. THEODORE MEHLING, C.S.C., BARNEY MacNAB and FRANK LONERGAN.

On April 18 a dinner was given at the University Club by BILL SCHMITT in honor of HARRY HOGAN of Ft. Wayne, Ind., president of the National Alumni Association who was visiting in Portland. Mr. Hogan addressed the group and outlined some of the major objectives of the association.

Mr. Hogan appointed BILL SCHMITT governor of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Alaska. Mr. Schmitt addressed the group and thanked Mr. Hogan for the governorship.

Peoria

The Peoria Club was to meet on Universal Notre Dame Night, according to advance information from ALEX SLOAN, president emeritus. New officers are: DAN HECHT, president; JOHN SCHERER, vice-president; JACK KING, secretary; and EUGENE WHITE, treasurer.

Phoenix, Ariz.

The club celebrated Universal Notre Dame Night with a meeting at the K. of C. Hall in Phoenix. The club, in addition to electing officers, listened to the radio program from Denver.

Officers for the year are: JOHN P. JOYCE, president; TOM O'MALLEY, vice-president; ROBERT D. KENDALL, secretary and treasurer. Board of Directors: GLEN J. McDONOUGH, TOM O'MALLEY, BILL MAHONEY, REGIS J. FALLON, M. E. TRUDELL, and DR. C. F. RISSER.

ED BEINOR, former All-American, has taken over the head coach's position at St. Mary's High School in Phoenix. JOHN P. JOYCE

Puerto Rico

Several members of the Notre Dame Club of Puerto Rico got together in mid-March to observe the visit of the president of the Alumni Association, HARRY HOGAN, and his wife, Mr. Hogan appointed PAUL McMANUS as district governor of the Alumni Association for Puerto Rico. While our alumni group here is very small, we are certain the membership will unite behind Paul in working up a progressive organization. One of our aims is to offer a yearly scholarship to some deserving student from Puerto Rico.

During the Hogans' stay in San Juan, they visited with BOB BEAUDINE, a commander in the United States Navy. BOB FORBES

Rhode Island and S. E. Massachusetts

Universal Notre Dame Night was observed by over 200 members and guests of the club at Johnson's Grille, Providence. The observance was combined with a testimonial to JOHN S. M'KIERNAN, '34, lieutenant governor of the state of Rhode Island.

Speakers included REV. THOMAS C. DUFFY, C.S.C., superior of the Eastern Mission Band of the Holy Cross Fathers at North Easton, Mass.; REV. RUSSELL J. McVINNEY, club chaplain; Dennis J. Roberts, mayor of Providence; JOHN J. M'LAUGHLIN, president of the club; and McKiernan. CLEM GRIMES was the toastmaster.

The guest of honor was presented a class ring, to replace one lost while serving in the armed forces, a leather swivel chair and a gavel bearing an appropriate inscription and the seals of the University and the state of Rhode Island.

The committee arranging the affair included

JOHN J. FITZGERALD, chairman, President M'LAUGHLIN, LEO M'ALON, JOE M'DONALD, JR., THOMAS SEPE, ANDREW M'MAHON, JOHN M'INTYRE, CLEMENT GRIMES, CORNELIUS SHACKETT, JACK BRADY and RUSS HUNT.

Plans have been started for the annual summer dance to be held June 5 at the Metacomet Golf Club. RUSS HUNT

Rochester, N. Y.

The scholastic side of Notre Dame was emphasized at the alumni observance of Universal N.D. Night in the Sheraton Hotel. REV. PHILIP S. MOORE, C.S.C., dean of the Graduate School, told of the great future possible in new fields of education at the University.

Bishop James E. Kearney of Rochester urged the alumni always to be true to the tradition of the "University of Our Lady." Other speakers included Rev. William Dugan, O.S.B., principal of Aquinas Institute and Federal Judge HAROLD P. BURKE. HARRY WRIGHT served as toastmaster and DON SCONFETTI was in charge of arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Vince Dollard, '39, of Rochester, N. Y. Before the wedding Mrs. Dollard was Jean Boyd. Vince's brother, Gene, a student at N.D., served as best man, while Bill Wheelahan, '39, was an usher.

Joining in Universal Notre Dame Night the club in Rochester, N. Y., at a dinner in the Hotel Sheraton, heard these speakers: Bishop James E. Kearney (center) with the Rev. W. J. Duggan, C.S.B., principal of Aquinas Institute, (left) and the Rev. Philip S. Moore, C.S.C., dean of the Graduate School at N.D. Standing are Joe Geraghty, club president, Toastmaster Harry Wright and Federal Judge Harold P. Burke, '16.

Rock River Valley

The club observed Universal Notre Dame Night with a dinner meeting at White Pines State Park Lodge. There were 34 members present.

Following the dinner, business details were taken care of and tentative program of activities arranged for the coming year.

The new officers are: DON HENNESSEY, president, Sterling; CLIFF HYLAND, vice-president, Rockford; PAUL FRY, treasurer, Dixon; WARREN WAHL, secretary, Sterling.

Tentative arrangements were made to resume the annual picnic in August. JOE BITTORF of Sterling has offered the facilities of his summer cabin on Rock River for the occasion.

Movies highlighting the Notre Dame football season were shown by DR. DAVID MURPHY of Dixon. WARREN P. WAHL

Saginaw Valley

The club held a smoker on Universal Notre Dame Night and an election of officers. The following were elected for 1947-1948: JOSEPH GODDEYNE, president; CARL DOOZAN, vice-president; JIM KAVANAUGH, secretary.

Board of Directors: HERB SCHNETTLER, ED MAHAR, GERALD CARROLL, and WILLIAM HURLEY. TOM VAN AARLE

St. Louis

Universal Notre Dame night was observed in conjunction with our annual Monte Carlo party.

The party was a success, with close to 200 people in attendance: prizes varied from a 15-pound ham (won by BERT COUGHLIN,) to a pair of live, white mice (won by FRED McNEILL'S wife.) BOB HELLRUNG, vice-president of the Alumni Association, presented AL RAVARINO, retiring president of the club, with a twin pen set. A small inscribed plaque on the base expressed the thanks of the members for Al's fine work during the past year. The newly elected officers were presented. They are as follows: FRED WEBER, president; FRED McNEILL, vice-president; JACK GRIFFIN, treasurer; JIM O'NEAL, secretary. JIM O'NEAL

Toledo

Universal Notre Dame Night was observed in Toledo at the Hotel HillCrest Tower Room on April 14.

A large crowd attended with several out of town guests. FATHER LEO R. WARD, C.S.C., was the principal speaker and was, as usual, very fine.

Plans were made for a Communion-breakfast, sometime in June. R. J. MITHEN

Tri-State

The club held a meeting in the Hotel McCurdy, Evansville, Ind., in observance of Universal Notre Dame Night. The meeting was attended by some thirty alumni and the feature of the evening was a southern style chicken dinner. The principal speaker was LYLE MILLER, attorney of Vincennes, Ind. The theme of Mr. Miller's talk was the furtherance of the functions of the Notre Dame alumni club and the building of a stronger alumni group.

Plans were proposed for regular bi-monthly meetings with the next meeting tentatively arranged for June 16 in Robinson, Ill. Plans were also made for the club to sponsor a concert by the Notre Dame Glee Club on April 25 in Evansville.

The following were elected new officers: FRANCIS J. HENNEBERGER, president; BERNARD F. WITUCKI, first-vice-president; WILLIAM BRADBURY, vice-president; EDWARD E. MATTHEWS, secretary; and BERNARD W. UNDERRINER, treasurer. EDWARD E. MATTHEWS

Triple Cities

The club held a dinner meeting at the Arlington Hotel in Binghamton in observance of Universal Notre Dame Night. HUGH DEVORE, director of athletics and head football coach at St. Bonaventure College, was the principal speaker. The members of the club and their guests enjoyed the highlights of the Notre Dame 1945 football season as related by Hugh. REV. JOSEPH B. TOOMEY, director of Catholic Charities for the diocese of Syracuse, was the toastmaster for the occasion. Father Toomev, with his poise, brilliance, wit and humor, kept the affair moving at a rapid pace.

JOHN F. DONNELLY, Broome County Democratic chairman, was the general chairman for the meeting. John personally conducted Hugh on a tour of the Southern Tier, and certainly did a swell job. Mayor Walker Lounsberry of Binghamton was an honored guest.

President JIM HOGAN welcomed the honored guests and the friends of Notre Dame, and in a short address, emphasized the spiritual, cultural, and intellectual contributions of Notre Dame to the development of our country. Jim also reported on the conference of local club presidents and cleared up some of the questions on such problems as enrollment, endowment, and the distribution of the football tickets.

The officers for the coming year are: president, JIM HOGAN; vice-president, FRANK SULLIVAN; secretary-treasurer, JIM McCABE.

The six directors chosen by the committee are: REV. JOSEPH TOOMEY, JOHN REARDON, GEORGE J. HAINES, JOHN L. MURPHY, JOHN DONNELLY, and PAT QUIRK.

Twin Cities

The club assembled in the Brunswick Room of the Andrews Hotel in St. Paul to observe Universal Notre Dame Night. After dinner Toastmaster LOU REGAN put PAUL CASTNER, DANNY COUGHLIN and LUIS GODOY, '31, of Havana, Cuba, through the paces.

Godoy brought to the States his Cuban featherweight champion, Miguel Acevedo, who was to test the tough and veteran Minnesota contender, Jackie Graves.

A treasurer's report by LEO MAUREN followed, and its black ink nature sounded a pleasant note. Following this the film highlights of the 1946 football season, was shown. The members, after the film, elected BOB ROGERS, president; MARTY 'RED' DOLAN, vice-president; FRANK BIAGI, treasurer; and GENE DELAY, secretary.

The unexpected but most welcome stopover for FATHER SWEENEY in the Twin Cities provided an occasion to gather on April 1. Working smoothly and caring for our comfort behind the scenes at the Hotel Radisson was JERRY CONWAY. Father Sweeney had the football highlights film of the '46 season.—Thus we had a sneak preview of the films shown again on Universal Night. BILL GUIMONT, with the help of guest sportscaster Rolfe Johnson, an efficient Swede, got the Fighting Irish films under way. The exciting sound track came from Father Sweeney.

The sudden notice of the meeting didn't deter a lot of N.D. men from appearing. A friend of Notre Dame, the veteran stage and screen actor, John Boles was guest of JERRY CONWAY. GENE DE LAY

Utah

The club have held its annual election and the new president is JACK W. GALLIVAN, whose address is 1017 Kearns Building, Salt Lake City.

We were unable to arrange a special meeting for Universal Notre Dame Night because of the fact that a number of the members of our club were unable to join us. All were notified of the broadcast and we have heard a number of very favorable comments regarding it.

Wabash Valley

The Notre Dame alumni of the Wabash Valley took advantage of Universal Notre Dame Night to hold a re-organization meeting and election of officers. Those voted in were: EMMETT FERGUSON, president; BILL SCHRADER, vice-president; and DR. KENNETH LAWS, secretary-treasurer.

WALTER LANGFORD, head of the Department of Foreign Languages and coach of the tennis team at Notre Dame, was guest speaker.

In a vivid address he informed club members of present activities—religious, intellectual and athletic—on the campus.

The club is planning a picnic at FRANCIS MURPHY'S clubhouse on the Wildcat Creek this summer. At present no date has been set for the affair.

Tulsa

A short time ago the local club embarked on the program partially incorporated within our constitution by holding an election of officers. The new president is ED LEROUX; vice-president, JOE McNULTY, the secretary-treasurer, FRANK REIDY, while R. J. SULLIVAN, C. J. SENER, and LOYD WORLEY, will remain directors.

Washington, D. C.

On March 16 the club held its annual Rockne Memorial Mass and Communion Breakfast at Dunbarton College of Holy Cross.

This year the change was made from Holy Cross College, Brookland, to Dunbarton College, conducted by the Holy Cross Sisters, to make it possible for the wives and friends of the club members to attend, making the occasion a family affair.

Eighty persons were present. Everyone was much impressed by the school and its beautiful chapel, and the fine breakfast arranged by the Sisters.

FATHER BERNARD RANSING, C.S.C., chaplain of the club, said Mass and was the principal speaker at the breakfast. His talk was on family life, and he emphasized the radio program "The Family Theater" conducted through FATHER PATRICK PEYTON, C.S.C. The committee: PAT CONWAY, HOWARD SCHELLENBERG and JACK McDEVITT.

West Virginia

One of the most successful meetings this year was the Universal Notre Dame Night smoker held at a local hotel. New officers who were 'sworn in' included JOE NEENAN, president; BILL KENNEY, vice-president; JOHN CACKLEY, secretary, and BILL REISHMAN, treasurer. President Neenan appointed committees for the coming year, and a club constitution was approved by those in attendance.

At the banquet given on Universal Notre Dame Night by the members of the Washington, D. C., club a plaque was presented to retiring president George C. Howard, Jr., in recognition of his service as president of the club during 1946-47. Left to right: Rev. Louis J. Thornton, C.S.C., registrar of the University. President Dan Culhane, George Howard and Rev. Bernard E. Ransing, C.S.C., club chaplain.

On March 20, fifteen of our local members met at the K. of C. clubrooms to discuss a program and elect officers for the coming year. It was voted then to adopt a club constitution.

Dean James E. McCarthy, of the Commerce college was one of the principal speakers at the State Safety Meeting, sponsored by the West Virginia Safety and Health Council, in Charleston, on March 26. The dean gave an excellent address before the educational representatives of the council.

Dean McCarthy was a guest of the local club at a luncheon, during his visit to Charleston.

On Universal N. D. night, the club met at the Royal York banquet room in Pittsburgh. Notre Damer FRANK O'DONNELL, manager of the Royal York bar, dining room and banquet room, turned out another of his prize buffet suppers.

About 100 turned out for the meeting including SAM NIELD who was in town for two weeks while working out some problems for "Better Homes & Gardens Magazine."

There was a big turnout of old-timers including JACK BRISLIN, DR. LEO D. O'DONNELL, JIM DEVLIN, LEO VOGEL and JOHN McMAHON. The bench was represented by Judge HUGH C. BOYLE. The barristers included new president LARRY O'TOOLE. DR. FRANCIS HEGARTY, PHIL DONAVAN and JAMES HARRIGAN showed up after a long absence from the club's affairs.

Old officers who were succeeded at the night's elections were: president H. CARL LINK, vice-president LARRY O'TOOLE, secretary HUGO IACOVETTI, treasurer EARL BRIEGER.

The men who will do the worrying this year are: president, LARRY O'TOOLE, vice-president, HUGO IACOVETTI, secretary, JOHN PATTERSON, treasurer, GEORGE KINGSLEY. JOHN PATTERSON

Wisconsin—So. Central

Through the wonderful efforts of JOHN W. ROACH and FRANK SWEENEY, the Wisconsin South Central Notre Dame Club was organized at the Park Hotel, Madison, on April 14, 1947.

A meeting was scheduled for May 26. Plans are also being considered for a stag outing in June or July, and a party during the Christmas holidays.

We have the manual for local alumni clubs, and propose to draw up a constitution and cover other details at our next meeting. We are determined to have a working organization.

The following men were elected as officers: president, JOHN W. ROACH; vice-president, DAN W. MCCLUSKEY; secretary-treasurer, RUB DAN W. MCCLUSKEY; secretary-treasurer, RUB GRUNDEMAN; directors, for three years, KEN OBERBRUNER, CHARLES F. SCMIED; directors for two years, FRANK H. SWEENEY, TOM HENNEY; directors for one year, KARL T. BRENNAN, WILLIAM FORD.

Youngstown

Nearly 40 alumni and former students of Youngstown and nearby communities attended a dinner in the Colonial Room of the Tod Hotel, when the club observed Universal Notre Dame Night.

JIM BRUTZ, who is opening a sporting goods store in Warren, provided entertainment with movies of the 1935 Ohio State-Notre Dame game, and of the Michigan game.

CLARENCE T. ("PETE") SHEEHAN, Jr.,

The ninth annual memorial Field Mass, sponsored by the Washington, D. C., Knights of Columbus, was on May 25. Vice-President Patrick J. Conway (left) and Bill Syring (right) of the Notre Dame Club of Washington represented the club at the Mass, offered by Bishop Peter Ireton of Richmond, Va., before the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. The Notre Dame club was one of a number of clubs which placed wreaths before the tomb.

FR. CAVANAUGH'S SPEECH

Tonight Harry Hogan and I have told you what Notre Dame has in mind. He has outlined an intensely practical plan of action. I have tried to explain the need of action so that Notre Dame can train and educate still larger numbers of responsible moral leaders.

Whether or not Notre Dame realizes her ambitions—very unselfish ambitions, because all she asks is to give more and more to society—depends upon our co-operation as alumni. I am worried. I have fresh in my mind many illustrations of your willingness to help. For example, there is the annual Alumni Fund. What you have been doing there is a tribute not only to your generosity, but to your grasp of university problems.

Now, as greater opportunities beckon to Notre Dame, I am not asking you to give, but to get.

Almost every one of our 15,000 alumni can be of great help to the University in furthering our plans; and I might add that one of the most satisfying developments of recent years is the growing realization among alumni that their continued support is an essential part of Notre Dame's growth and development. I have already implied that when I say "support" I am not limiting the word to "financial" support. I know, as you do, many good alumni who cannot give money to the University, but who are nevertheless its active supporters, and who have been the means of turning potential into actual benefactors.

Alumni as Agents

Each alumnus can, in effect, become an agent of the University, interested in its current and future welfare. There are few alumni indeed who have not among their circle of acquaintances, men of means who have an appreciation of the work that Notre Dame is doing in providing the leadership that the world so desperately needs. I do not think it is too much to ask an alumnus to do what he can to quicken that interest. As a matter of fact, we have ever so many alumni who consider it a privilege, if not a duty, to do so, in the light of the ultimate benefits that will accrue to society, through the University.

If each of us should devote himself seriously to the work of increasing the number of men and women who would take an active interest in Notre Dame, what would be the result? Notre Dame, for her part, would become the truly great institution that she is capable of becoming if only she can grasp all the opportunities that lie before her. The United States would be assured a greater heaven of leadership.

And what benefit would we derive as alumni? There would be many benefits, tangible and intangible. For one thing, we would have the purely selfish satisfaction of knowing that we are graduates of a university to which all others look with unqualified respect. But there would be a satisfaction deeper than this, if I know Notre Dame alumni as well as I think I do, and that would be the knowledge that in some small way we have joined hands in furthering a tradition of education that had its origin in the lips of Our Lord when He said, "Go therefore and teach all nations."

HOGAN ALUMNI ADDRESS

to put their relationship with the University on a three-hundred-and-sixty-five-day a year basis. The principal instrumentality through which the friends of Notre Dame can work is, of course, the Alumni Association of which I am only the temporary head. "That a generation arose who knew not Joseph," makes me conscious of my official brevity and place in the continuing picture. However, like the seasons, the Association ceaselessly functions year in and year out under the able direction of men like Jim Armstrong, Bill Dooley and their associates. Both are in a very real sense, devoting their whole lives and all their talents to serving both the Alumni and the University. However they cannot do the job alone—they must have your help. Through participation in the new program of the Alumni Association—in what we have called "The Cavanaugh Plan," loyal Notre Dame men everywhere can bring the strength and purpose of Notre Dame to their own community level.

In conclusion, I have nothing more important to say than to repeat my appreciation of the honor which has been paid me and the high value I place on the opportunity which has been given me to play a part in the accomplishment of Notre Dame's very important objectives.

However before closing, I want to urge you to "Take your hats off to the past, but take your coats off to the future," put your collective alumni shoulders behind our 1947 model, so the substations in each city and town will transmit their power to the main plant here. Let the appeal of our cherished Victory Song "What tho' the odds be great or small," inspire our Public Relations workers with its swelling refrain, flowing to and from the community to the campus, as a thanksgiving and tribute to "the lovely lady garbed in blue."

Deaths

One of the Congregation's best known and best loved priests, REV. WILLIAM A. CAREY, C.S.C., '11, former registrar and professor of Latin in the University and former vice-president of the University of Portland, Oregon, died suddenly of a heart attack at Notre Dame on May 31. He had been seriously ill for several years. He was 58.

Father Carey, a native of Clyman, Wis., was ordained in 1915. After serving as professor of Latin and Greek at Notre Dame from 1918 to 1926 and as registrar from 1926 to 1929, he was vice-president of Portland University from 1929 to 1933. He was a member of the faculty at the University from 1933 until his death.

His death was discovered by Rev. Michael Moriarity, '10, Cleveland, a close friend who was on the campus for the Commencement week-end.

Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., president, celebrated the funeral Mass offered in Sacred Heart Church on the campus on June 3. Rev. Howard Kenna, C.S.C., director of studies, was the deacon and the Rev. John J. Burke, C.S.C., business manager of the University, was sub-deacon. Burial was made in the Community Cemetery at Notre Dame. Father Carey is survived by three sisters and three brothers.

In beckoning BROTHER MAURILIUS, C. S. C., death led from the campus one of the most familiar figures at Notre Dame. Characteristically, he almost died in his boots, for he had been serving as guestmaster at Corby Hall, a faculty residence, until he entered St. Joseph's Hospital shortly before his death on April 23.

Brother Maurilius DeGan was born in Chicago in 1878, one of a family of eleven children, only two of whom survive: Mrs. Minnie Thurston and Mr. Frank DeGan. He attended the public schools in River Forest, Ill. Writing of his youth, a relative says: "He never cared for worldly things at all and preferred the quiet, gentle serving of God at all times." So it must have not surprised his family when, in his teens, he decided to become a Brother of Holy Cross. He entered the Congregation on Aug. 15, 1896, just in time to meet the last survivor of the little band of seven who founded Notre Dame, in the person of Brother Francis Xavier.

After a year's novitiate, he spent some time in study. His first appointment as a teacher was to St. Columba's School, Ottawa, Ill. Afterward he taught for some years at St. Joseph's College, Cincinnati. Never a devotee of books, he found the life of the teacher but little to his taste.

His teaching days over, he was ready to put his hand to whatever his superiors wished. For many years he assisted in the students' confectionery here, or was in charge of it. Then he was for a brief period a solicitor for "The Ave Maria." Later on he helped in the mailing department of that magazine.

His years as prefect and rector in Carroll

Hall, however, are the ones by which he is best remembered, especially among alumni. As a rector his devotion to duty—something always characteristic of him; his interest in the students' welfare; his sympathy in their troubles—real or imaginary; his sternness, invariably seasoned with kindness, enabled him to wield an immense influence over his freshmen. On their part they readily confided in him, and even seniors were known to seek his advice. Presumably, pondering a disciplinarian of this type, led Sir Shane Leslie, LL.D., '35, to write, "The headmaster of Eton has more to do with the soul of England than the Primate of Canterbury."

BROTHER MAURILIUS, C.S.C.

Former Carrollites readily and gratefully tell how much they owed to Brother Maurilius' advice, inspiration, and example. "We surely did respect him highly," writes one of them. "Everybody loved and revered him, and there was not a single student who had not received a kind word or act from him at one time or another."

"Those talks of his at the beginning of the semester were really something to hear. The study hall was always jammed full the night he was slated to speak. . . . Usually students from other halls dropped in to hear him. Of course we remember him best of all at midnight, as he paced back and forth by the watchman's booth, chewing his inevitable black cigar and worrying about his charges who might not get in on time. I used to like to bring him a cigar now and then and got a kick out of the gruff thanks with which he pocketed them. I guess he was afraid to be too enthusiastic for fear that he might give the impression that one student or another was in his favor. Anyway he would snort and put them into his tunic and mutter, maybe, about who was gallivanting around the Palais Royale and the beer joints of South Bend."

"I often wondered whether Brother Maurilius ever slept. He would always be at hand at midnight to greet you coming in, and many was the time as I arose at three for some reason or other and found Brother Maurilius walking around, and fully dressed. There was a legend that he was mortally afraid of fire breaking out in the dormitory and that he made hourly rounds to check on the safety of the students. Anyway he seemed ever to be awake and always present, which was another of his characteristics that drew awe from the boys."

And so when in order to ease his sunset years, his superiors appointed him guestmaster at Corby Hall, the news must have tugged a bit at his heart strings, as he was doubtless loath to relinquish the care of the freshmen whom he was ever so eager to serve.

A prayer for the soul of Brother Maurilius—no longer, to be sure, occupying the 'throne' in Carroll study hall—and a throne for him in the Kingdom of Heaven!

BROTHER HAROLD GRINDEL, C.S.C., '24, for the past two years principal of St. Anthony's Boys' High School, Long Beach, Calif., died April 16, of a heart attack, just four hours after entering St. Mary's Hospital in that city.

Brother Harold was born at Sandusky, O., April 14, 1900. He entered the Congregation of Holy Cross in 1917, and took his final vows in 1922. He studied at the local parish schools, Sacred Heart College, Watertown, Wis., and Notre Dame.

After serving as teacher at Memorial High School, Evansville, Ind., and Cathedral High School, Indianapolis, he became president of Holy Cross College, New Orleans, for eight years. Before that he had been principal of Central Catholic High School, Fort Wayne, for six years. Before going to Long Beach he taught at Msgr. Coyle High School, Taunton, Mass.

JOHN L. HEINEMAN, '38, LL. D., '38, one of the University's best known and most admired alumni, died at St. Vincent's Hospital, Indianapolis, on April 28, where he had been taken for treatment. He had been confined to his home for some time but had been seriously ill for only a few months.

Mr. Heineman was born May 17, 1865, in Connersville, Ind., and had lived there his entire life. Early in his life he became interested in the early days of Connersville and spent much time and effort in establishing permanent records of the history of that city, especially regarding St. Gabriel's Catholic church. He was an authority on local and on state history, and at various times he had held memberships in both the American and Catholic Historical Societies. He was a charter member of the Connersville Knights of Columbus.

Although a graduate in law from Notre Dame, Mr. Heineman never followed the legal profession. Instead he became associated with the furniture business and in 1894 established the Connersville Mirror Works, which he operated until 1936, when he placed the business in the hands of a son. Since that time he had devoted himself to managing extensive realty holdings in Connersville.

Mr. Heineman always maintained his deep interest in the University and at the time of his death was one of its oldest active graduates. In 1938, on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of his graduation, he was awarded the honorary Doctor of Laws Degree by the University. In 1926 the Connersville Scholarship Award was founded at the University as the result of a gift from Mr. Heineman.

He is survived by two sons, C. William, '29, and George A., '30; two daughters, Sister Maria Teresa, C.S.C., a member of the faculty of St. Mary's College, Notre Dame, and Mary Elizabeth; and by an elder brother.

GEORGE A. GAFFNEY, student at Notre Dame in 1898-99, died in Miami, Fla., on April 1. He had been ill for several years.

Mr. Gaffney was born Sept. 13, 1878, and, after attending Holy Cross College, enrolled at the University. During his brief stay here he was a member of the track team. Following graduation Mr. Gaffney entered the automotive industry in Los Angeles. Later he returned to his home, Waterbury, Conn., to assist his father in his construction business. Ten years ago he moved to Florida because of his health.

He is survived by his brother and a sister.

DR. THOMAS M. JOYCE ex., '97, internationally-known Portland surgeon and head of the department of surgery at the University of Oregon medical school, died suddenly from a heart ailment at Multnomah county hospital on April 18. He was 62.

Dr. Joyce, credited with developing one of the finest departments of surgery in the United States, was born in Emmetsburg, Ia., on Jan.

28, 1885. After leaving Notre Dame, Dr. Joyce received his medical degree from the University of Michigan in 1910 and a doctor of laws degree from the University of Portland in 1936. He was first surgical assistant to Dr. Charles Mayo at the Mayo Clinic from 1911 to 1914.

He was a noted author on many surgical subjects and served in the Army as a major during the first World War.

Dr. Joyce is survived by his widow and two daughters. Father Kerndt Healy, C.S.C., is a cousin.

DR. ADOLPH X. KAMM, ex. '09, formerly of Mishawaka, Ind., died March 30 of a heart ailment in his home in Ashland, Wis. He had practiced medicine there for many years.

Dr. Kamm was born in Mishawaka on July 26, 1889, and, following his graduation from Mishawaka High School, entered the University. He received his doctor's degree from the Chicago Medical college.

Surviving are his widow, a son, three daughters, four brothers and three sisters.

The Alumni Office was advised of the sudden passing of GERARD T. DEGEN, '10, Gas City, Ind., just as the "Alumnus" was going to press. Supplementary biographical data will, it is anticipated, be contained in the August issue of the "Alumnus."

JAMES F. CAHILL, '14, LaSalle, Ill., tax counsellor, died of a heart attack in his home on May 5.

Born on Oct. 3, 1893, in Peru, Ill., Jim attended St. Bede's Academy, Peru, and was a law graduate at Notre Dame. An outstanding basketball player on the campus for three years, he was captain of the basketball team in 1913-14. He also participated in baseball. In La Salle following his graduation he was for many years engaged in the banking business.

Surviving Jim are his wife and his son, James F., Jr., a Notre Dame graduate of 1943, and two daughters, Mrs. Mary Denise Canale of Memphis and Mrs. Jane Dorgan, Winnetka, Ill., both of whom are married to Notre Dame alumni.

CLARENCE J. JAMES, ex. '19, died suddenly in his home in Philadelphia on March 17. He was a veteran of both world wars.

Mr. James was born in Orbisonia, Pa., and later moved to Harrisburg where he resided until he entered St. Laurent College in Canada where he studied for four years. He attended Notre Dame from 1916 to 1917.

Prior to his death, Mr. James was the group field representative of the John Hancock Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia. He is survived by his widow and his mother.

ELWYN MICHAEL MOORE, '20, Sturgis, Mich., died in the University of Michigan Hospital, Ann Arbor, on May 1 as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident in Sturgis last February. He was one of four Moore brothers to graduate from Notre Dame.

Born in Kewanee, Ill., in 1897, Mike came to Notre Dame in 1916 and won wide fame as an athlete and as the possessor of an incredible store of athletic statistics. Residing in South Bend from 1920 until 1940, he was known as one of the city's best golfers and best billiard players. In addition, he served as an official timer at Notre Dame track meets and, in recent years, was the official timer at the football games in the Notre Dame stadium.

Mike moved to nearby Sturgis in 1941 to become president of the Sutton Tool Co., but he continued his close association with Notre Dame.

Surviving are Mrs. Moore and three daughters; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Moore of Kewanee, four sisters, and four brothers: Thomas L., '18, Tulsa; Louis F., '23, Provo, Utah; William H., Akron, O.; and Emerit E. '33, South Bend.

Rev. Thomas Tobin, chancellor of archdiocese of Portland, Ore., a classmate and close friend of Mike, flew from Portland to preach the funeral sermon in Sturgis.

FRANK M. HUGHES, '22, Evanston, Ill., died Apr. 16, at St. Francis Hospital, Evanston, Ill. He was 52.

Following his graduation from Notre Dame with a law degree, Doc Hughes practiced law in Chicago. Prior to his death he was an attorney and manager of the title clearance department of the Chicago Title and Trust Co. He was associated with the company for 22 years.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter and two sisters.

ALVIN T. VAN DOLMAN, '22, secretary and treasurer of the Chicago Retail Coffee Association and owner of Van Dolman Coffee Co. and Pennant Products Co., died of a heart attack in Chicago in April, 1942, according to word which recently reached the Alumni Office.

FRANCIS J. MILLER, '26, St. Joseph, Mich., died May 26 in Pinecrest Sanatorium at Oshkemo, Mich. He had been a patient there for two months.

Frank was a prominent lawyer and well-known citizen in St. Joseph. He was born there on Dec. 26, 1904, and attended St. Joseph High School. He received his law degree from Notre Dame and immediately returned to his home town to practice. He was a member of the St. Joseph Lions Club, Berrien County Bar Association, Knights of Columbus, and the Holy Name Society.

He is survived by his widow, three children, his father and a brother.

MICHAEL J. NYIKOS, '26, died in South Bend, on June 3, after a long illness. Mike had been ill for six months, five of which were spent in a hospital in South Bend.

Born in South Bend on July 31, 1902, Mike had lived practically all of his life there. While at Notre Dame, he was outstanding in basketball, as he was earlier at Indiana University. Shortly after graduation he assumed duties as head basketball coach at St. Louis University, St. Louis, where he produced winning teams from 1929 to 1936.

Mike was a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity and the Notre Dame club of St. Joseph Valley. Surviving are his widow, a daughter, Nancy; three brothers, Stephen, '21, Joseph, '23, and John, '27, and a sister.

ARTHUR C. HOHMANN, '27, Jamaica Plain, Mass., formerly of Rochester, N. Y., died unexpectedly on May 1. He was employed by the brokerage firm of George Bentley, Inc., in Boston.

A graduate of Aquinas Institute in Rochester, Art was employed by the Snyder Packing Co., of Rochester, before leaving for the Boston area. He is survived by his wife, a son and a daughter, and by his father and two sisters.

JOHN O. CLARKE, '32, died of pneumonia in Albuquerque, N. Mex., on Sept. 24, 1946, as noted briefly in the last issue of the "Alumnus."

John received his medical discharge from the Marine Corps and, because of a serious lung condition, was forced to move to New Mexico. On Sept. 21, he was taken to the Veterans Hospital in Albuquerque. Three days later he died. His body was brought to his home in St. Louis, where he was buried from Our Lady of Lourdes parish.

ROBERT J. FITZSIMMONS, '33, treasurer of the South Bend Lumber Co., died in Harper hospital in Detroit, Mich., on May 4.

Bob was born on Jan. 21, 1912, in Benton Harbor, Mich., and came to South Bend 14 years ago. He was married last Oct. 30 to Shirley O'Neill, daughter of Ronald O'Neill, '14, of Detroit, who survives. He also leaves his father and a sister.

Bob was a member of the Round Table in South Bend; treasurer and member of the board of directors of the Aquinas Library; Knife and Fork club, Indiana club and the Catholic Forum.

As the "Alumnus" was going to press word was received that MICHAEL F. SHANNON, JR., ex. '39, died June 5 in a sanatorium in Los Angeles, after a long illness. Despite his physical condition, Mike remained active in local affairs of the Notre Dame Club of Los Angeles. Further details will be available in the next issue of the "Alumnus."

JOHN I. MCGOWAN, JR., '45, Chicago, a junior in the law school at Notre Dame, died May 6 in South Bend following an appendectomy.

Jack was born in Chicago on Aug. 17, 1922. Following his graduation from Fenwick High School in Oak Park he entered Notre Dame in the fall of 1941. He later served in the Navy V-12 program here, before going to sea with the fleet.

Surviving are his parents, a sister and two brothers. A memorial Mass was sung by Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., president, on May 7, in Sacred Heart Church.

C. ROBERT OSTER, ex. '46, Rochester, N. Y., died April 18 in Ann Arbor, Mich., of meningitis at the age of 24. He was a senior in the University of Michigan School of Dentistry.

Bob took his pre-dental work at Notre Dame. He was a graduate of Aquinas Institute, Rochester, N. Y., and a member of Delta Sigma Delta fraternity.

He is survived by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Oster, a sister, Shirley, and a brother, John, all of Rochester.

WILLIAM A. BRADY, Jr., Brooklyn, N. Y., who until April was a senior at Notre Dame, died on May 27 following an operation. His father William A. (King) Brady, is well known as an athletic trainer and as a former big league pitcher.

Bill's studies at Notre Dame were interrupted by two years with the Navy in the Pacific, where he won the Service Medal and two battle stars. He is survived by his parents and two sisters.

The "Alumnus" extends sincere sympathy to C. BYRON, '13, THOMAS A., '16, and JAMES D. HAYES, '17, on the death of their mother; to JAMES E., '15, and Judge JOSEPH F. SANFORD, '21, on the death of their father; to DANIEL F. McAVOY, '22, on the death of his wife; to PAUL H. CASTNER, '23, on the death of his father; to JOHN B. BARR, '24, on the death of his father; to PAUL M. BUTLER, '27, on the death of his brother; to MICHAEL J. DUFFICY, '27, on the death of his mother; to BERNARD A. GARBER, '28, on the death of his father and sister; to ROBERT A. GRANT, '28, on the death of his father; to WILLIAM B. JONES, '28, on the death of his father; to JOHN J., '26, THOMAS A., '29, and DANIEL F. RYAN, '38, on the death of their father; to DONALD E. MIHAN, '31, on the death of his father; to MICHAEL M., Jr., '35, PAUL, '37, DANIEL C., '39, and KENNETH "JOE" SHEEDY, '42, on the death of their mother; to REV. VICTOR F. DEAN, '41, on the death of his father; to WILLIAM J. YEAGER, '42, on the death of his father; and to CARL S. COCO, '43, on the death of his father.

Personals

Rev. John A. MacNamara, St. Joseph Mineral Baths, Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Members of the 50-year class, 1897, and of earlier classes returned to the campus by special invitation on May 30-31 and June 1 for the alumni reunion. They were guests Friday evening, May 30, at a special dinner in the Dining Hall at which HARRY G. HOGAN, '04, president of the Alumni Association, presided. FATHER JOHN H. MURPHY, C.S.C., vice-president of the University, was a guest and offered the felicitations of the school to the "elder statesmen." Each of the reunioners responded.

Saturday noon, May 31, the men of 50 years and more were special guests of FATHER JOHN J. CAVANAUGH, C.S.C., president, at his luncheon in honor of the 25-year class of 1922. And on Saturday evening the same men were seated at the head table at the annual Alumni Banquet.

The University was happy to welcome the following men who registered over the weekend; PATRICK E. BURKE, '88, New Orleans; JAMES J. COONEY, '93, Toledo, O.; MARTIN J. COSTELLO, '97, Chicago; FRANK WOLF DAVIS, '97, Constantine, Mich.; JUDGE ARTHUR P. HUDSON, '95, Charleston, W. Va.; RICHARD M. KERWIN, '88, Chicago; FRANK P. KONZEN, '87, South Bend; MICHAEL J. NEY, '97, Omaha, Nebr.; S. H. NUSSEBAUM, '87, Chicago; HUGO C. ROTHERT, '87, Camden, Ark.; ARTHUR W. STACE, '96, Ann Arbor, Mich.; LOUIS C. WURZER, '96, Detroit.

Of these, at least one, Mr. Ney, had not been at the University since his graduation in 1897. Many others had not seen the school in many years.

At its official dinner on Friday evening, the group voted to wire a message of greetings to the long-time secretary of the class of 1897. FATHER JOHN A. MACNAMARA, who is confined to St. Joseph Mineral Baths, Mt. Clemens, Mich. In return, Father Mac wired as follows:

"Sincere thanks to all the good friends of the alumni who sent their prayers and greetings. It's lonesome not to be with you. Long life and God's sincerest blessings to you all."

1900-04 Robert E. Proctor, Monger Building, Elkhart, Ind.

Notre Dame alumni are represented in Kathleen Hoagland's new anthology, "1000 Years of Irish Poetry," by a poem of PATRICK J. MACDONOUGH, '03, "Bring Home the Poet," a tribute to his fellow Sligo man, William Butler Yeats. Mr. MacDonough made his mark as a writer of prose and verse during his undergraduate days. He lives in New York City.

BOBBY LYNCH, Green Bay, Wis., has welcomed all three of his sons home from the wars. John F., ex '47, recently returned from China. Gene is now at the University of Cincinnati, while Bobby, also a former Notre Dame student, is out in the working world.

1905-09 Rev. Thomas E. Burke, C.S.C., Notre Dame, Ind.

EDGAR KOBAC, '08, president of the Mutual Broadcasting System, received a gold medal at the annual dinner of the "Advertising and Selling Magazine" in the Waldorf-Astoria on March 8. The citation read in part: "for his contributions to the knowledge and technique of radio advertising."

FRANK D. HAYES is "on the ropes from a lacing in Uncle Sam's behalf." He would like a few lines from his old cohorts at his home, 6215 N. Wayne, Chicago, according to a recent report from that city.

1911 Fred L. Steers, 105 S. LaSalle St., Chicago 3, Ill.

1913 Paul R. Byrne, University Library, Notre Dame, Ind.

The Alumni Office was saddened to learn of the death of Mrs. Mary E. Hayes. She is survived by three sons: C. BYRON, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; THOMAS A., '16, Grand Rapids, Mich.; and JAMES D., '17, Washington, D. C. A grandson, JEROME BYRON HAYES, JR., '48, a law student at N.D., also survives, as well as another grandson, THOMAS A. HAYES, JR., a sister and a great-granddaughter.

1914 Ira W. Hurley, Continental Illinois Bank Bldg., 231 S. LaSalle St., Chicago

IRA HURLEY wrote regarding the death (see "Deaths", this issue) of JIMMIE CAHILL:

"I received a letter from FATHER DOREMUS in which he said that he was in LaSalle for the funeral, and while there, met POYNT DOWNING and WALTER DUNCAN. Jimmie was a fine man and will be missed by the members of the Class of 1914 and, needless to say, by Notre Dame.

"I received under date of April 29, a long letter from RONALD O'NEILL, who is located at 1122 Edison Ave., Detroit 2, in which he advises that he and Mrs. O'Neill have just returned from a vacation trip to the West Coast. On their trip they tried to visit as many classmates and other Notre Dame men as they could locate. Among those they did see and talk with were CHARLES VAUGHAN at Lafayette, Ind., POYNT DOWNING at Decatur, Ill., FRED GUSHURST, and FRANK KIRCHMAN at Denver, KEENE FITZPATRICK at Palo Alto, DAN SULLIVAN at Redwood City, and Bill Cusack at Los Angeles.

"O'Neill's letter is two pages long and refers to a number of other men of the Class of 1914, JIMMY PHELAN has done such a magnificent job at St. Mary's that alumni clubs of that college were honoring him almost every week with banquets.

FATHER VINCE MOONEY, C.S.C., has been in Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh for some time under the care of DR. LEO O'DONNELL, '17. He'd like to hear from you. Address: 204 W. College, Canonsburg, Pa.

From JOE M'LOUGHLIN:

"... Now about my work, and the Club. The club is located on the muddy banks of the San Juan River (Club Marino, Caripito, Venezuela), surrounded by jungles on three sides. The only ships that come up the river are oil tankers and the only place the seamen can go to is the United Seamen's Service Club. My job is to keep up their morale and see that they are well taken care of while in port. It's a lonesome job when no ships are in port."

Joe is hoping to get back to the States for the Army game next fall. He gets a bit impatient with the tigers and jaguars and snakes that combine to keep his life exciting.

1917 B. J. Voll, 206 E. Tutt St., South Bend, Ind.

From BERNIE VOLL:

Friday night, May 30, about sixty members and friends of the Class of '17 stood shoulder to shoulder at the country home of your secretary on Ironwood Road, South Bend, to celebrate the 30th reunion of that renowned class.

REV. EUGENE BURKE, C.S.C., JOHN RILEY, PAUL FOGARTY, and HARRY SCOTT entertained in their inimitable way. GROVER MILLER, secretary of the class of '16, and his brother BERNIE, of the Class of '17, of Racine, Wis., brought along their camera and recorded the events of the evening on film. A set of about 25 of these pictures can be procured by writing to Bernie at 1504 College Ave., Racine, Wis. The cost is $1.50. They also arranged to have photostatic copies of the register, which was signed that night, made for all who signed and these have already been sent out by your secretary with the compliments of the Miller Brothers.

Rev. Speer Strahan, REV. FRANK C. BROWN, C.S.C., and REV. M. A. MULCAIRE, C.S.C., came to join their old classmates. REV. WILLIAM J. LYONS, C.S.C., of St. Edward's University, Austin, Texas, was unable to come (examination time). Rev. Larry Cain of Proctor, Vt., was unable to attend since he was confined to his home, recuperating from a slight coronary thrombosis.

DANNY HILGARTNER called the roll of the class with the following responding: DOCTOR ROBERT J. BURNS, Buffalo, N. Y., JAMES I. BOLAND, South Bend, REV. FRANK BROWN, South Bend, JOHN E. CASSIDY, Sr., Peoria, Ill., CHARLES G. CORCORAN, Springfield, Ill., DANIEL C. CURTIS, Ottawa, Ill., RICHARD D. DALEY, Erie, Pa., JOSEPH F. FLYNN, Chicago, J. PAUL FOGARTY, Chicago, R. J. GRAHAM, Oak Park, Ill., JOHN E. GUENDLING, South Bend, BERNARD V. HABERER, Ft. Worth, Texas, DANIEL E. HILGARTNER, Chicago, JAMES D. HAYES, Washington, D. C., RUDOLPH L. KELLY, Peoria, Ill., WILLIAM E. KENNEDY, Chicago, JAMES T. McMAHON, Toledo, O., AUSTIN J. McNICHOLS, Chicago, EDWARD J. McOSKER, Cleveland Heights, O., FRED L. MAHAFFEY, Indianapolis, BERNARD H. MILLER, Racine, Wis., PAUL MIEFELD, Frankfort, Ind., EDGAR F. MORAN, Tulsa, Okla., REV. M. A. MULCAIRE, Notre Dame, MEL S. NIEMER, South Bend, DR. D. M. NIGRO, Kansas City, Mo., WILLIAM CRIM O'BRIEN, Grand Rapids, Mich., DR. LEO D. O'DONNELL, Pittsburgh, HUGH M. O'NEILL, Cleveland, O., JOHN U. RILEY, Portland, Maine, LEON T. RUSSELL, Jackson, Mich., RAYMOND A. SCHAUB, Hammond, Ind., HARRY E. SCOTT, Indianapolis, GEO. W. SHANAHAN, Lima, O., REV. W. SPEER STRAHAN, Notre Dame, E. C. TOBIN, Elgin, Ill., LEO J. VOGEL, Pittsburgh, BERNARD J. VOLL, South Bend, JAMES R. WALSH, Chicago, LAWRENCE J. WELCH, Indianapolis.

CHUCK REAGAN had planned on attending but almost at the last minute business necessitated his remaining in New York. ED ROGERS of Milwaukee had his calendar marked to come but a wedding in northern Wisconsin called for his presence there. OSCAR J. DORWIN, New York City; LEONARD SWIFT, Bronxville, N. Y.; DR. FRANK O'DONNELL, Alpena, Mich.; HARRY KELLY, Detroit, and BRIAN ODEM of Huston, Texas had planned on being present but the best of plans are sometimes upset and business demanded their presence elsewhere.

JEROME J. MILLER, Fort Wayne, Ind., and R. J. MILLER of Celina, O., had to forsake their planned trips because of illness in their families.

The following sent in "regrets" and asked to be remembered to "the gang": GEORGE A. F. FRANTZ, Lancaster, Wis., W. J. HYNES, Des Moines, Ia., J. F. MAHONEY, Rawlins, Wyo., SHERMAN MAY, Superior, Wis., PHILIP M. SWEET, Bourbonnais, Ill., DR. LESLIE A. YAEGER, Trenton, N. J., C. R. YOCKEY, Alpena, Mich., HARRY BROSNAN, Milwaukee, Wis.

The following had signified their intention of coming but they were not present and we missed their glad handshake: C. W. BACHMAN, East Lansing, Mich., ROYAL BOSSHARD, Milwaukee, Wis., ROBERT CARR, Ottawa, Ill., STANLEY B. COFALL, Columbus, O., JOHN M. MILLER, Los Angeles, Calif., DAN J. QUINLAN, Malden, Mass., CARLETON BEH, Des Moines, Ia.

Among friends of the class who joined them for the festivities and who have not already been mentioned are: JEROME PARKER, San Francisco, Calif., JAMES ARMSTRONG, Notre Dame, WILLIAM R. DOOLEY, Notre Dame, HARRY G. HOGAN, Fort Wayne, Ind., SHERWOOD DIXON, Dixon, Ill., EDWARD J. MEE-

HAN, South Bend, JAMES DEVANEY, South Bend, JOHN MOORE, Birmingham, Mich., REV. JOHN J. CAVANAUGH, C.S.C., Notre Dame, REV. PATRICK DOLAN, C.S.C., Notre Dame, JAMES LOGAN, Denver, Colorado, ALEXIS COQUILLARD, South Bend, FRED STEERS, Chicago.

JOHN RILEY, of Portland, Maine, and B. V. HABERER of Ft. Worth, Texas, travelled the greatest distances to be present.

I think you will all be interested to know that DR. LESLIE YAEGER writes he has only recently returned from overseas after having served for over five years in the army of World War No. 2 and has resumed his practice in Trenton.

AUSTIN McNICHOLS advises he lost a lighter which had a great sentimental value to him. About the only distinguishing mark about it was that it was made in Vienna. If any of you should find it in a pocket will you please forward it to Austin at A-342 Insurance Exchange, 175 West Jackson Blvd., Chicago, or return it to your host.

At the request of the class, Masses are now being said for REV. J. HUGH O'DONNELL, C.S.C.

Memory is a treacherous thing and undoubtedly some of those present, both members of the Class and friends, have not had their name recorded, for which we make due apology.

The night was rather cool and the rooms pretty crowded, but if you who could return enjoyed yourselves as much as I enjoyed having you I believe our 30th reunion will be one of our happy memories in the days to come.

1918 John A. Lemmer, 901 Lake Shore Drive, Escanaba, Mich.

REV. CHARLES J. WILLIAMS celebrated the silver jubilee of his ordination to the priesthood on June 10, at St. Malachy Church, Rantoul, Ill.

JIM HANLON has been a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital, Denver, for seven months. He has been laid up for nearly two years with a broken leg. He would welcome letters from his old pals.

1919 Clarence W. Bader, 921 Broadway, Gary, Ind.

GONZALO RESTREPO JARAMILLO of Walsh Hall days is currently serving as ambassador from Colombia to the United States. Several years ago he wrote a book, "Contemporary Crisis," which was published by the University of Bolivia press. A copy was sent to the Notre Dame Library.

1920 Leo A. Ward, 458 Spring St., Los Angeles 13, Calif.

JOHN BUCKLEY, of Youngstown, O., suffered a heart attack on May 24 and was at the latest report, in a serious condition.

Mrs. Emma Stephan, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., has sent the University Library five boxes of books in memory of her two sons who attended Notre Dame: LAWRENCE, who was graduated in 1920 and RAYMOND, who attended the University from 1921 to 1923, are both deceased.

1921 Dan W. Duffy, 1600 Terminal Tower, Cleveland, O.

JAKE KLINE has been elected president of the Indiana-Michigan league, composed of semi-pro teams in northern Indiana and southern Michigan. He continues of course as professor of Mathematics and baseball coach at Notre Dame. Jake had a busy spring: he and his wife, Edith, became parents again (see "Births" this issue) one of his daughters was graduated, summa cum laude, from St. Mary's and the baseball team did a great job despite the rainy season.

SENATOR NORM BARRY was a member of the Illinois state legislative committee investigating the recent Centralia coal mine disaster.

JOE SANFORD, brother of JIM, '15, was recently re-elected for his third consecutive six-year term as circuit judge of Muskegon County, Michigan.

Al McGann, president of the McGann Securities Company, Ind., South Bend, was elected a member of the board of directors of the Children's Aid Society.

From KID ASHE:
All who attended pronounced the reunion gathering a huge success, even better than anticipated. . . . A quick count late Saturday showed 97 arrivals, and it is hoped all of these registered, as well as those who came later. Cold weather and prediction of rain caused the Committee on Arrangements to shift Friday afternoon's social party from Harold Weber's at Diamond Lake to the Town Club, South Bend. The party at the Town Club was simply wonderful with good fellowship, fine food, and appetizing beverages.

Our hosts for the party at the Town Club are surely deserving of our appreciation and thanks. Our hosts were: AARON HUGUENARD, BERNIE McCAFFERY, PAT MANION, and HAROLD WEBER, all of South Bend.

FRED DRESSEL as chairman of the Arrangements Committee surely arranged things to perfection.

Long distance traveling honors go to the following: LUIS BUSTAMANTE, of Cartagena, Columbia, South America, to VINCE HANRAHAN, of the Panama Canal Zone, and to CHARLES HIRSCHBUHL, of Portland, Ore.

Kansas City had 100 per cent participation with BILL PURCELL, JOE SHAUGHNESSY and JOE STEWART in attendance. All were sorry no California delegates appeared, but credit JUDGE AL SCOTT with a good attempt, as air flight cancellation stopped him.

The good doctors made a splendid showing with HENRY ATKINSON, TOM KEEFE, WALLACE KREIGHBAUM, HAROLD OESAU and DAN SEXTON present. DR. TOM KEEFE has twin boys, age six months.

CHARLIE CROWLEY, JIM DOOLEY and CY KELLETT motored from Massachusetts as a party. Detroit had 100 per cent attendance with HUNK ANDERSON, JIM FOREN, JACK HIGGINS, WALT MATTHES and MORGAN SHEEDY. Credit BILL CASTELLINI with class loyalty plus, having arrived on a pair of crutches.

Many nice compliments were directed to our publicity boys: DAN YOUNG, ED BAILEY, BILL CASTELLINI, HAROLD McKEE and BOB GALLOWAY. By the way, please send that snapshot and write up to Harold McKee pronto for the "Pony Dome" he has so generously offered to compile and print.

ARDO and ROMAIN REICHERT, as well as AL and JOE RHOMBERG, were there. Also RALPH CORYN, FRANK BLOEMER and many others.

The athletes made a good showing with HUNK ANDERSON, ED BAILEY, DANNY COUGHLIN, CHUCK CROWLEY, JIM DOOLEY, JAMES BARRY HOLTON, FRANK MILES, GEORGE PROKOP, SYLVESTER STEINLE, BOB PHELAN and CHET WYNN in attendance. Missing athletes were: EDDIE ANDERSON, HARRY MEHRE and BUCK SHAW. Barry Holton arrived in the uniform of a naval commander from Dallas Air Station, which is his headquarters.

FATHER BOB GALLAGHER celebrated Memorial Mass for deceased members on Saturday morning. He also had a special Mass for '22 men in Lyons Hall Chapel on Sunday morning.

Many thanks to every man who attended. You made the reunion a success. Our deep regrets to those who were unable to attend for we missed each and every one of you.

Those chiefly responsible for the never-to-be forgotten 1922 party are: HAROLD WEBER, AARON HUGUENARD, PAT MANION, BERNIE McCAFFERY and FRED DRESSEL. Our thanks are extended to those men and to FRANK "RANGY" MILES, chief of the Transportation Division, and all of those loyal South Bend '22ers who served so efficiently in Rangy's transport service, on BERNIE McCAFFERY's reception committee and FRED DRESSEL's committee on arrangements.

Just a few words of appreciation now to those who contributed so much to make our 25th Reunion in general so highly successful. The co-chairmen, AARON HUGUENARD and HAROLD WEBER, were directors extraordinary. They thought of everything, made plans and promptly and efficiently executed them. Always they worked in perfect unison. The publicity committee, Chairman DAN YOUNG, BILL CASTELLINI and ED BAILEY plus our eminent biographer and publicist HAROLD McKEE, of Chicago, plus some excellent contributions by TOM ASHE, '31, of California, turned in a publicity performance which we truthfully believe has never been equalled in the publicity field on reunion gatherings. . . . Thanks to TOM McCABE, president of the Chicago Club. . . . And special thanks to the girls at home who started you on your way.

Our hearty congratulations are extended to A. HAROLD WEBER of South Bend and to his bride, the former Lucile Anne Clemens of East Lansing, Mich., on their marriage. The wedding ceremony was held at Notre Dame on April 14. The Webbers now reside at Shore Acres, Diamond Lake, Cassopolis, Mich.

OLIVER SCHELL, tax consultant, of Tyrone, Pa., has reached the major leagues in the accounting world with the C.P.A. designation he now carries.

Big, good-natured FRANK "DOC" HUGHES is dead. God rest his soul! Doc died on April 16 in St. Francis Hospital, Evanston, after many weeks illness. He was easily one of the best liked men of 1922 in his undergraduate days, and was regarded in the same manner by his classmates and other fellow alumni of the Chicago area. He was appointed to serve on the Reception Committee, for our 25th Anniversary Reunion, and was anxiously looking forward to that big event, when God called him to join the 1922 group in heaven.

During his last days, he was visited frequently by TOM McCABE, JERRY DIXON, HAROLD McKEE and other classmates whose visits afforded him much cheer and consolation. Doc was an official of the Chicago Title and Trust Co., which firm he has been affiliated with since shortly after he was graduated. Our sympathy is extended to his wife, daughter and other relatives.

PAUL PFOHL has been appointed western manager of the commercial department of the Radio Corporation of America's laboratories division with headquarters in Chicago.

SISTER MARY ALOYSI KIENER, S.N.D., is now Mother Mary Aloysi. She is third assistant to the Superior General of the Sisters of Notre Dame and represents the Americas on her board of advisers. Mother Aloysi received her master's degree from Notre Dame in 1923 and her doctor's degree in 1930. She is located at Notre Dame College, South Euclid, Ohio.

1923 Paul H. Castner, 1305 W. Arlington Ave., St. Paul, Minn.

From PAUL CASTNER:

I was unable to attend Commencement because of the death of my father. His funeral was held here in St. Paul on May 31. On this account, I haven't the up-to-date news I thought I would have at this point.

BILL VOSS visited us in the East a year or so ago and I didn't believe I reported on his visit. Bill went from the "butcher" business, (you will remember his father was proprietor of a fine grocery and meat business while Bill was at school) to the theater business, and now is sales manager of a company that makes machine tools. It was on occasion of a trip to New York in connection with this latter business that Bill called me at New Canaan and came up for a nice visit at my home there. Bill is the father of three children, two girls and a boy. He married a girl from Superior, SPIKE FLINN's old home town in Wisconsin.

I had the very distinct pleasure of seeing Spike a few weeks ago in St. Paul and also met his lovely wife, Marge. Spike has married since returning from the Pacific, where he served in the last war. He, like JOHN FLINN, served in both world wars. I have an important correction to make. Last time in the class notes I said he was in the SeaBees, which was kind of a sissy outfit as compared with the service he was in. He was actually in the Amphibian Engineers. They are already operating and landing before the SeaBees are within the battle area. As matter of fact, just about the time the commanding officers think about an invasion the Amphibian engineers have their work half done. As Bert Williams the famous old colored comedian used to say "It's a wonderful chance for somebody else, not me."

Spike is the same old boy. He had a touch of malaria, but seems to be getting over its effects. He thought he was pretty spry and doing alright until some young fellow in his outfit walked up to him and said "Hy'a Pop?"

Spike's father passed on a few years ago and they gave up his contracting business. Today Spike is in the Veterans Administration and he expects to be assigned to the northern Wisconsin territory around his home. As soon as he lets me know where he is, I will report his address to the class.

Time marches on! Last issue I reported that members of the class were entering their sons at Notre Dame. Here is a new registration—GEORGE PATTERSON, Jr., of Chicago, entered last fall with DICK NASH's boy—but that's not the Big News—George reports that a daughter of his had a baby boy March 17 of this year, making him a grandfather. George asks the question in a letter to me, "Am wondering if I am the first grandfather of the '23 class!"

I can't answer that question, George. I understand from SPIKE FLINN that ED KREIMER, who lives in South Bend, sent him an announcement of the marriage of one of his daughters well over a year ago, so maybe Ed is a grandfather of earlier vintage than GEORGE PATTERSON?

DONALD MacDONALD, who hailed from Du-luth originally, now lives in Minneapolis, and is with the Metal Parts Equipment Co. Mac is married and has some children, but I have misplaced my notes so I will have to report details in the next issue of the 'Alumnus.'

I tried my best to get PERC WILCOX and TOM LEE to go to Commencement this year but they didn't make it. Both have next year noted and will plan to be at the 25th reunion.

I am planning on going to the Army game this fall and, if I am lucky enough to get a hotel room, maybe a few of us can get together to make some plans. I would especially like to have some of the class from Chicago, South Bend and surrounding areas act as a committee on arrangements for a class dinner and other details in connection with next year. I will report more on this later, but every one should start planning to be on hand next year. Maybe we can even get FRANCIS NEITZEL to forsake his life of ease and contentment in Boise, Idaho, to join us.

That's all for this time—let me hear from everyone during this coming year.

FRANK BURKE recently took part in a panel discussion before the South Bend chapter of the American Association of University Women. Frank is training advisor of the railroad retirement board, Chicago.

FATHER JOE RICK, C.S.C., home on leave from seventeen years of missionary work in India, has a list of "firsts" to his credit. He was the first Houston, Texas, boy to be ordained a priest. He was the first native-born Texas priest to go into the foreign mission field and he was the first American priest to be issued a pilot's license by the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Commerce Department. Father Rick assisted for two days at the recent Texas City disaster before coming on to Notre Dame for the consecration of BISHOP GRANER. He will be in the United States for a year.

Among the other members of the class of 1924 who got to Notre Dame to attend the consecration of BISHOP LAWRENCE L. GRANER, C.S.C., '24, on April 23, 1947, were: CLIFF NOONAN, Chicago; PAUL KENNEDY, Templeton, Ind.; ED SULIVAN, Ft. Wayne, Ind.;

NEWELL DE GURSE, Marine City, Mich.; ROD SHAUGHNESSEY, Champaign, Ill.; and E. L. CHAUSSEE, Detroit.

1925 John P. Hurley, The Toledo Parlor Furniture Co., Toledo, O.

From JOHN HURLEY (on April 11):

A letter from DUKE CLANCY prompted your secretary to give a passing review for the year of the '25ers I've seen.

Duke says, "Just a short line to let you know that I have changed addresses again. I am now in the insurance agency business with my father-in-law. I left the U. S. Navy Ordnance Dept. last September, and settled up here in the Irish Hills, and like it very much. All things being equal, I plan on being in South Bend for the Army game next fall. (BOLAND, KOCH, LIVERGOOD, MAHONEY and POLHOUSE take notice).

"Regards to all the class of '25 you happen to see around and if you happen this way, stop in at Hillsdale. I hold all the offices in the Notre Dame club here, from president to treasurer, being it's one and only member." Duke's address is 42 South Howell, Hillsdale, Mich.

Speaking of Army games—I had a pleasant visit with JOHN BARTLEY. We happened to meet on the subway to the game last fall. John looks the same as he did back in Sorin. (As long as he keeps his hat on.) He is still with Reynolds & Co., in the Sherry-Netherlands. 5th Ave., at 59th St., New York City.

BILL BELL seems to have about the same "pull" with the football ticket committee as your secretary or we drop our blanks in on the same day in July. He has sat near me at the last three Army games. Bill is fine, and here's hoping we are both lucky enough to be inside the Notre Dame stadium this fall when we play the Cadets.

RAY CUNNINGHAM dropped me a line a few weeks ago that he was flying down to Florida for a short vacation, and upon his return, he planned to open a swanky studio in Detroit. Ray is still with the Moffet Studios (Russell Studios to you '25ers) and has enjoyed the most successful season he has had since the 1925 "Dome," and that's saying something.

PAUL DOOLEY is president of a very busy plant, the Auto Marine Manufacturer & Enameling Co., here in Toledo. Paul has two fine boys, Richard and John Patrick. BUTCH HAECKER is still with Goodrich in Pittsburgh and is doing right well.

Saw CHARLIE MOUCH, Butch's old roommate, the other day in Sandusky. He's trying to keep that town happy, dispensing his limited number of cars. GIL SCHAEFFER is having that same problem in Detroit. I hear his radio advertising every once in a while. Charlie has four children, two boys and two girls. His oldest boy is a freshman at the University. The next oldest, a daughter, hopes to enter St. Mary's College next fall, and another son is a freshman at the Josephinum Preparatory school near Columbus, O. The youngest daughter is still at home. How these '25 families do grow up!

CLARE HAFEL is an engineer at the Allis-Chalmers plant in Springfield, Ill. JACK SHEEHAN is a Studebaker dealer in New Rochelle, N. Y., and is doing exceptionally well according to a report from his pal BERT DUNNE, '26.

1926 Victor F. Lemmer, Box 661, Ironwood, Mich.

FRANK DEITLE is secretary and treasurer of the Winkelman Co., South Bend, engineers and industrial designers. BOB CAREY is the new head man at the Hawthorne race track in Chicago as the result of shifts following the death of CHARLES BIDWILL, Chicago sportsman, brother of ART '26.

ROME FELDPUSCH, Hastings, Mich., and son, Dick, dropped into the Alumni Office on April 24. Rome has three retail food stores in and near Hastings. Dick will be at N. D. in September.

FATHER KEITHEN ROCHE, former Peorian and pastor of St. Ann's church in Toluca, Ill., is reported recovering in St. Francis hospital, Peoria, from injuries incurred in an automobile accident near Michigan City, Ind., on May 6.

JIM DWYER is legal advisor to Doubleday Company, major publishing concern in New York.

Jim took BERT DUNNE to Doubleday to talk about an advanced baseball instruction book. The result: Bert wrote it and it will be published soon. Bert has his own picture company now which makes 16 mm. sports pictures, 35 mm. sports pictures for Hollywood and also industrial pictures. His attorney in New York is ED FALLON.

Bert's newest picture, to be released this fall, is titled "Eye In the Sky" and will star BUCK SHAW, '21, coach of the San Francisco Forty Niners, All America Conference. Bert screened his two-pictures "Play Ball, Son" and "Swing

"I Remember"—a story of Notre Dame reminiscences, is the latest project that Bert and Jim have in mind. They want stories about Notre Dame, with the emphasis on campus life, and not too much football. The book will be published in a limited edition and sold at cost. It is hoped the book will encourage other classes to do likewise and build up a priceless series of class books about Notre Dame. Jim and Bert expect to print 500 copies. Stories like the time George Keogan's pants were stolen at Georgia Tech in 1924 are wanted. It happened that George had a two-pants suit and—but that is the story '26ers will want to read about.

Add note on "I Remember": Your name will not be mentioned unless you have made alumni contribution. All profits on the book—if any—will be turned over to JAMES ARMSTRONG, who will be asked to edit the final manuscript and delete all libel.

Prints of Bert's "Play Ball, Son" and "Swing King" have been sent to the University for the film library.

JIM PEARSON is practising law at Flint, Michigan, and plans to attend the Notre Dame-USC game where the class of '26 (Pacific Coast section) plan to hold a reunion this year . . . JIM DWYER and ED FALLON, New York, plan to make the reunion. Headquarters for the '26 Coast reunion will be the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles.

1927 Joseph M. Boland, Radio Station WSBT, South Bend, Ind.

From JOE BOLAND:

Another great day in history has come and gone . . . another milestone passed for all you gay blades of yester-year . . . blades dulled, no doubt, by the Commencement week-end thoroughly enjoyed by a really remarkable turnout of men from '27.

All who returned to the campus will need no notes to bring them up-to-date. Those who didn't will have to catch-up when they come back for the twenty-fifth reunion, because I'm still feeling the effects, as this is written!

A report on reunion activities is due those who returned. And here it is: the Friday meeting set the class back $80 for everything . . . some $20 remains in the "treasury" after everything had been paid for. Right now, we contemplate using this to pay for the mimeographing and mailing of a list of names and addresses of those present at Commencement to these members.

1927 men gather around David Van Wallace, smiling in the center. The occasion: the 1927 party in the LaSalle Hotel

You will also be interested in knowing that the collection taken up by the class "usher", JOE O'DONNELL, after FATHER HARRY RYAN'S Mass for deceased members of the class totaled $150 . . . and was given to Father Harry for further Masses for that intention.

Now—some "credits":

The man who came the longest distance: MIKE M'DERMOTT, from California-way.

The man who surmounted most obstacles: DAVE VAN WALLACE, without question! And it was marvelous to have him with us Friday at our own meeting.

The man who took-up the most collections—(for good causes, as the above indicates)—JOE O'DONNELL: and to Joe, a vote of personal thanks for his great assistance in making the '27 reunion such a whopping success!

The man who had the most contented, healthy and wholesome reunion—with a maximum amount of sleep and worthy research while on the campus—ROME DUGAN, who looks like an undergraduate.

The men who have accomplished most since graduation—FATHER HARRY RYAN, and FATHER BOB GOODENOW, S.J. . . . a personal nomination.

The man who hits the longest golf-ball—DICK HANOUSEK. Ask EDDIE M'LAUGHLIN and BIB IRMIGER: they "contributed" for a Hanousek-lesson.

The man who looks the least-changed in 20 years: JIMMY QUINN.

The man with the first son from the class to enter Notre Dame—GEORGE GORDON.

The man who intends to come back for the NEXT reunion—EVERYMAN!

To one and all who returned—thanks, for everything. YOU made it a memorable reunion, for all of us. Adios!

GERRY RHODES, of Gary, is assistant general manager of the American Bridge Co. AL DIEBOLD has two jobs, one running a mill for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., in North Wilkesboro, N. C., and the other his old job with Forest Lumber Co. Al couldn't make it back for the class reunion.

CARL SCHICKLER'S daughter is entering St. Mary's this fall. Carl runs the Schickler Lumber Co., Albany, Ill., right on the Mississippi river.

1928 Louis F. Buckley, Social Security Administration, Rm. 400, 1100 Chester St., Cleveland 14, O.

From LOU BUCKLEY:

As I anticipated, because of our 20-year reunion next year, there were not many '28 men back for Commencement this year. There were, however, a few of the old regular attendants present, including TOM BYRNE, JOHN FREDERICK, BOB KNOX, BILL KONOP, WILLIAM H. MURPHY, PIERCE O'CONNOR, BOLAN BURKE, JOE MORRISSEY, ED MCKEOWN, GEORGE CRONGEYER, ANDY BOYLE and ED QUINN. We had a session following the Alumni Banquet, concerning plans for our 20-year reunion next year. The enthusiasm shown by this group and by other classmates who have already written to me concerning the 1948 reunion, indicates that it is bound to be a huge success. I will give you a report of our plans in future issues of the "Alumnus."

In the meantime, let me have a note from each of you letting me know you will attend and giving me your suggestions for the type of program you want. Also, give me the names of the '28 men you will contact by personal letters, regarding meeting you at the reunion. I will be glad to furnish any addresses you desire.

TOM JONES, '29, who was with our class for four years, attended the meeting of the Board of State Governors of the Alumni Association. Tom is the alumni governor for Idaho. He is practicing law in Boise and has a boy whom he hopes to have at Notre Dame next year. Speaking of alumni governors, we are glad to see another '28 man, JOHN F. McMAHON, appointed to this job for Pennsylvania.

I visited BILL JONES in Washington recently. Bill's father died in April. Bill is now a partner in the law firm of Hamilton & Hamilton with which he has been associated since Oct. 1, with offices in the Union Trust Bldg. Washington 5, D. C.

JOHN HERBERT wrote from Boston where he has seen a number of classmates and fellows who were at N. D. with us. These include JOHN MURPHY of Lowell, TOM QUALTERS of Reading, DUTCH HOLLAND of Brighton, JAMES GIVREN of Rockland, JOHN NYKIOS, '27, of Brookline, CUMMINGS GIARDINO, '29, of Watertown, GERRY CROWLEY, '29, of Brighton, JOHN MORAN, '30, of Dorchester and BILL DOYLE, '30, now of Boston, formerly of New York. John has been in New England seven years as manager of the New England Branch for Will & Baumer Candle Co., whose business is manufacturing candles for churches and home use. The Herberts have one child at present, but by the time this goes to press there will be two. Thanks, John, for your newsy letter.

The only two '28 men whom I met at the Cleveland Club Universal Notre Dame Night get-together were PIERCE O'CONNOR and JOHN McLAUGHLIN. Pierce is still single and is practicing law in Cleveland at 625 Hanna Bldg. after some years in the Army. JOHN McLAUGHLIN has been in Cleveland for over a year and has not located a place for his family to live as yet. John's wife and two children are living in Pennsylvania. He is with the Land Title and Trust Co.

Our old dependable scribe, BERNIE GARBBER, writes as follows in response to my request for news this month:

"JOHN ANTUS, who can speak best for himself on his legal activities (when not busy entertaining his two sons) says AL TAYLOR is a special attorney with Custom's Bar, New York City. LARRY CULLINEY, at this writing, is in Rutland Hospital with his illness undiagnosed. LARRY is again with FDIC, covering a portion of New England and probably chief of the section. His wife is dean of women at Rutland College. The Cullineys have a son, daughter, and a new car.

"One of my spies (Georgetown man) says ART DENCHFIELD is in the States vacationing here from Singer job in South America. His wife, two sons and daughter accompany him in a new car purchased in U. S. one week after Art landed here. Watch for reports about Denchfield from all over.

"At last Army game, saw GUS JENEINS for a few minutes. Think he is vice-president of upstate N. Y. manufacturing concern. OLLIE SCHELL, '29, is getting thin (hair) and rich doing auditing and tax work in Tyrone. Has his own business—was in N. Y. recently buying calculators, typewriters, etc., and likely interviewing new secretaries.

"DAVE GIBSON sends word from California that he has no news, doesn't know yet about getting back to N. D. next year, laments death of BOB GRANT'S father. RICHARD PARRISH still keeps the door locked—probably has a gold mine in those West Virginia mountains. STEVE SHERRY, '28, is with Corbin Company in N. Y., lives in Jersey Oranges, asks only an apartment in New York City.

"Doesn't anyone have word about ED MCSWEENEY, of Wellsboro or Wellsville, O? Nothing heard recently on HAROLD CANAVAN, PAUL DOC BRADY, JOE CANTY of Logan, O., or JOE BRANNON, the Iowa light.

"As for myself, still living near Mount Kisco and commuting to N. Y. C. We have a daughter and three sons, as brilliant as their parents. My father was killed in a fall last summer; eldest sister died suddenly last December. While commuting recently, I met CLAYTON ADAMS who lives further north in Westchester than I do. His class, I think, is early thirties; believe he is in commercial motion pictures.

"I hear that DR. FRANK HEGARTY and JOE BREIG each lost his mother by death recently. I'm sure their friends join me in expressing sympathy.

"REP. BOB GRANT participated in a radio forum on cooperatives the night of May 6, my wife tells me. While in Chicago a few weeks ago, I had lunch with GEORGE SCHEUER and BOB CAPEBUS, both on the Chicago "Sun." Bob is recuperating from virus pneumonia and kindred infections but he seems his old self. George, who is also publisher of "Chicago Aviation News" was on the plane that made the record - breaking one - hour - fifty - one - minute flight, Chicago to New York. Bob and George hope to see all journalists at the 20th reunion next year.

"In Pittsburgh I talked with JOHN McMAHON, just back from a tour of various cities. He still leads the fight from Mellon Institute against industrial hazards to health."

"A year from now occurs that once-in-a-lifetime event—the 20th REUNION OF THE CLASS OF 1928: Looks like war, economics, etc., should not offer too much opposition to making the occasion a gala one. Planning now is not too soon. How about a class directory for the occasion, BUCKLEY, giving names, addresses, etc., (please omit pictures). If I get there myself, I expect to see, among other things, a special red Lincoln Continental convertible, containing, among other things, one JAMES CONMEY, and maybe even WALTER LAYNE."

Thanks, Bernie, for your fine letter. The only name you mention whom I can add anything on now is JOE BRANNON. Joe is now out of the Navy and back as manager of Sears store, 1128

K St., Sacramento, Calif. Joe is married and has two children.

ED DEAN promises to give me some news for the next issue. Ed has four children, 10, 8, 4, and 2. He is with the Pittsburgh Steel Co. and lives at 11 Linden Ave., Monessen, Pa. Drop Ed a note at once so he will have some news for all of us next month.

JOHN F. "SAM" DUNNE is executive with the Pope and Talbot Steamship Company, San Francisco. JIM CULLEN recently accomplished an outstanding job as general chairman of the Community Chest drive in Sayre, Pa.

GEORGE STRICKLER, who recently resigned as the National Football League's director of public relations, signed a three year contract as assistant general manager and publicity director of the Green Bay Packers of the same league.

ART DENCHFIELD and his wife, Recipe, Brazil, where Art is general superintendent of the Singer Sewing Machine Co., recently visited the campus. He planned to visit the Scandinavian countries, return to the States and then go south to Brazil.

TOM BYRNE of Cleveland, honorary president of the Alumni Association, and his wife, recently lost their sixth child. A son, John Hugh, was born April 13 and died on April 15.

BERNIE ABBOTT is executive vice-president of Tele-coin Company with offices in New York.

On May 14, MARTIN V. CALLAGY, former justice of the Domestic Relations Court and secretary of the New York City Commission for the temporary care of children, delivered the third in a series of free public lectures under the auspices of the Citizens Committee on the Courts, Inc.

PAUL HEMMY is an attorney in Juneau, Wisc. DR. CORIN HODGSON is a physician in Rochester, Minn. TED GRIFFIN is again practicing law in Binghampton, N. Y.

JOHN HINKEL, head of the department of public information at the University, was recently chosen vice-president of the Northern Indiana Reserve Officer's Association.

1930 Harold E. Duke, 4030 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, Pa.

JIM LEAHY would like to hear from some of his old friends in the class. He's a partner in the Buckeye Building and Engineering Co., Tiffin, O., and has six children.

BILL WALSH is an executive with the McGrath Stevedoring Co., New York City.

HENRY CLARK is a registered professional engineer in Detroit and operates the Trans-former Inspection Co.

JOE ABBOTT has recently purchased the franchise of the Paterson, N. J., team in the American Football League. RAY YOUNG is attorney for the Continental Foundry and Machine Co., East Chicago, Ind.

CARL BAUER and VINCE McALOON are continuing to develop Catholic Lay Leaders. Their latest undertaking is a layman's study institute located on an 86-acre farm near Herman, Pa., some forty miles from Pittsburgh.

1931 Walter F. Philipp, 4 Pickwick Lane, Newton Square, Pa.

From WALTER PHILIPP:

HARRY MERDZINSKI, late of the U. S. Navy, and now one of the up-and-coming members of the legal profession, was my gracious host during my stay in Grand Rapids, Mich., several months ago.

WALT RIDLEY, the Deutcher, is doing his level-best to try to move the builders' supply organizations to furnish him with some materials. Rooms without doors just aren't rooms.

AL STEPAN, the Chicago chemical manufacturer, tells me that married life must be agreeing with him—judging from his present weight.

DAN HALPIN was feted at a luncheon during a recent visit to Los Angeles by the LEO WARD, '20. Those present were TOM ASHE, GENE KENNEDY, ED BROWN, ED ASHE, and GENE CALHOUN. Dan was toastmaster for Universal Notre Dame Night in Philadelphia. He did a bang-up job.

FATHERS PHILIP SCHAEFF and RICHARD MURPHY, both '31ers, are spending themselves at Portland University. I enjoyed several pleasant hours with them and a stroll about the campus.

JACK SAUNDERS was recently appointed by HARRY HOGAN as governor of the Alumni Association for the state of Massachusetts. Congratulations, Jack!

Happy vacationing to all of you '31ers, and please make a memo that you will drop me a line occasionally beginning next Fall.

DAN CLARK'S new restaurant had its grand opening on April 3 in South Bend. Ben Oakes Trans-World Airlines representative, went to Stockholm, Sweden, on June 3 for a meeting of the Olympic Games committee. He was with a group of Los Angeles people interested in securing the Olympic Games for L. A. in 1952.

LARRY "MOON" MOLLINS has been signed as head football coach and coordinator of athletics at St. Ambrose college in Davenport, Ia.

From JIM COLLINS:

Thanks to CHARLEY PETRETIC and his assistants, we had a fine time at the 15th Reunion. The turnout was smaller than expected but it was lively, and a continual round of events took place from Friday morning until Sunday afternoon.

Many were there for the first time since graduation and it was fine to see them.

One of the principal things which grew out of the reunion was the formation of a committee to arrange a class party after the Army game. CLEM THEISEN was selected as chairman to handle all the arrangements, and can be reached at St. Joseph, Mich. He hopes to be able to secure some hotel reservations for that week-end for members of the class, but on that score he really has his fingers crossed. Hotels in South Bend have been sold out for months past for that week-end. FRANK O'MALLEY is working with him on this. A slogan "32 Is Expecting You" was agreed upon, after being suggested by BARRY O'KEEFE. Any further news of their activities will be in the next issue of the "Alumnus."

CLIFF PRODEHL was full of suggestions for the 20th Reunion, and I think he talked himself into the job of running it. However, all of his suggestions were good and you will be hearing more about them. He and PAUL HOWE were the Philadelphia representatives. Paul is secretary of the Chamber of Commerce there.

FLO MCCARTHY has taken a position with the Federation for Railway Progress and has his office in the Terminal Tower, Cleveland. He is handling the promotion work for the organization which was formed by Robert E. Young, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. Mac plans to move his family to Cleveland on about June 15.

JOHNNY GOSTISHA, who incredibly looks not a day older than when he graduated, is with the State Department and was preparing to go overseas again soon. He recently returned from Europe, where he spent three years in counter intelligence work. JACK DOYLE is also with the State Department.

PETE TROLIO, as wide as he is high, said that ANGELO LUCKETT is with ED MEHRENS'S Squirr Company in Memphis.

VINCE DONOHUE just completed the bar exams in Pennsylvania; he and BILL COONEY wired regards. FRANK NORTON is living at 444 Harvard St., Rochester, N. Y. He said BILL JONES has been quite ill since returning from the Navy.

This sedate gathering is composed of members of the class of 1932 who got in on the class picture at the Oliver Hotel.

ED KELLY is in the brokerage business in New York, and was back for the first time. FRANK OBERKOETTER is in business in Rochester and lives at 113 Buckland Ave. ROY CATIZONE is practicing medicine in Merrill, Mich., still a bachelor. DICK FABRYCKI is living in South Bend and still in the oil business.

FATHER PAUL HALLINAN was there for one day, and GENE CONNELLY got there Sunday. Father Paul is at the Cathedral in Cleveland. Gene has two restaurants in New York, and five children. PAUL O'TOOLE is in the real estate business in Chicago, and JACK COLLINS is back in Cleveland practicing law.

LEO SCHIAVONE was very active all week, and he is back in Chicago after a long time in the Army.

FATHER HARRY STEGMAN said the Memorial Mass in Morrissey Hall Chapel Sunday morning. The prize statement of the week came shortly after Mass when FLO MCCARTHY saw Father Harry in the cafeteria, slapped him on the back and said "Nice Mass, Father."

The above is only a small list of who was there and what was going on but for any of you who missed it, it will give you an idea of the reunion. Those who were not there can be sure they missed a good session, and that their names were probably mentioned in reminiscence. For those who were, it was swell seeing you, and I'll look for you at the Army game party.

From JOHN KIENER: "Bill Conaton came over to shake hands with my brother, Tom, '29, and myself while at lunch one day recently. Bill is located in Chicago. Shortly after that, HENRY ASMAN came to Cleveland for a surgeon's convention and he and MIKE CRAWFORD and I met at ROHR'S for a swell luncheon. JOE PETRITZ was also in town at the time but had an appointment and couldn't make it. I forgot to bring my medical dictionary along but Henry and Mike interpreted as they went along so I wasn't too high in the clouds. They had to listen to me a bit for I had to tell them about our taking over another large coal company on the east side of Cleveland."

BOB GORMAN has been appointed advertising manager of the All-State Insurance Co., Chicago. Before the war Bob was advertising manager of the Local Loan Co. and, previously, was assistant to the advertising manager of Ditto, Inc.

BILL WALTZ is a busy man these days. Besides caring for his three boys and two girls and tending his office work of bank auditing and purchasing, he is helping on a drive to raise funds for a Catholic Central high school to be erected between Canton and Massillon, O.

ED RHATIGAN is welfare commissioner in New York City under Mayor O'Dwyer. BOB STREB of Canton, O., is a salesman for National Dairies Sealtest in the local Sanitary Milk Co.

JOHN CONWAY is now overseas with the American Red Cross. His home is in Rochester, New York.

JOHN DONOHUE, Washington, D. C., was married Sept. 30, 1944, to Hazel Taylor, Alma, Ga. They now have a daughter, born July 3, 1946.

BILL OTTO is in charge of testing aggregates for the Nebraska Department of Roads and Irrigation, Highway Testing Laboratory. He has three children.

REGIS McNAMARA has resigned from the engineering staff of the city of Binghamton and is now in business for himself.

WALT MULLEN is district manager for Ozalid in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. FRANK MARRA have announced the adoption of Kathleen Ann, born June 30, 1946.

TIGHE WOODS has been named deputy housing expediter for the Office of Rent Control, Washington, D. C. Tighe was regional rent director in Chicago.

ROBB PURCELL is a lawyer in the Central Life Bldg., Ottawa, Ill. PHIL DARMODY has moved to Washington, D. C. from Chicago. He is now an airways engineer at C. A. A., Washington.

From PAUL KNEUZ, Menominee, Mich.: "RALPH 'SHANG' MOLLER of Shanghai, China, spent a month with me last summer after spending four years in a Jap prison camp in Shanghai. At present he is in London, England, and his address is Lloyds Bldg., London. If any of his friends would like to write him, I am sure he would welcome their letters. He is now in the best of health and plans to stop in the States this summer on his way to Hong-kong, China."

1934 Joseph R. Glennon, Jr., Commercial Solvents Corp., 17 E. 42nd St., New York City 17.

HOWIE GILLESPIE of Westfield, N. J., is with Mack Truck Co. in the sales department, Long Island City, N. Y.

The Notre Dame Glee Club was entertained in Pittsfield, Mass., on Easter Sunday by a group of N. D. fathers of GEORGE NESBIT, '44, PAUL LIMONT, '45, and JERRY, BOB and BILL GUILTINAN, spearheaded by JAMES O'BRIEN, '34. The club sang the high Mass for Father Marshall in Pittsfield.

NICK MOLNAR is supervisor of inter-office placement, Indiana State Employment Service, Indianapolis.

ED MANSFIELD is now living in Chicago and working for the NATA Products Co. His address is: 6575 N. Glenwood, APT. T. He has seen MIKE LAYDEN, JOHN CARR, JOHN LOGAN and BILL VEENEMAN.

Up to late May, according to a report from BOB HAMILTON, the class fund to procure a chalice for FATHER JIM MOSCOW had gathered approximately $450. Contributions were still coming in.

The chalice, you will recall, is to be inscribed with the name of the '34 men who lost their lives in World War II. These men: ANDY AUTH, JOHN DISSER, DON DIXON, GERRY FARRELL, JOHN FRENCHE, FATHER PAT FLAHERTY and VINCE JASINSKI. Presentation will be made, it is hoped, some time this summer.

Father Jim was during the spring studying in St. Louis University preparatory to taking on a hospital administration job in the Chicago archdiocese. He expected to be back in Chicago about June 1.

1935 Franklyn C. Hochreiter, 1327 Pentwood Rd., Baltimore 12, Md.

JOHN GLANZNER is publisher and editor of the "Trenton Sun," Trenton, Ill.

ROCCO SCHIRALLI is purchasing agent in the Department of Finance, City of Gary, Gary, Ind.

Frank O'Connor has since 1937 been an engineer with the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation on the Klamath Project in the states of Oregon and California. PHIL ARNHEITER is a stock trader for the Laird, Bissell and Mead Co., New York City.

From HOCH:

We have one letter for you this time, from TONY KUCHARICH. A second one came from FRANK HOLAHAN, but we have hunted for it throughout the house and office, in vain. Most of Frank's information dated back to the Army game, but we did want to pass along to you his new address. He told us that he is now in charge of his own office with the Treasury Department. It is in Pennsylvania, as before, but where slips our memory. How about a note to help us out, Frank? And we apologize for losing your letter. It was the first one we have lost in our 12 years of reporting, but we're sorry it had to be yours.

Tony is now chief probation officer in the U. S. probation and parole system for the northern district of Indiana, with headquarters in the home town of South Bend. We'll let Tony tell his own story:

"I have intended writing to you long before now but due to the tremendous amount of work I've had to do since returning from overseas, I've been unable to take care of all of my correspondence as I should.

"No doubt you have been aware of the fact that I served overseas with U.N.R.R.A. as a principal welfare officer in the Displaced Persons Division in Germany. I've had some very fine experience, and along with my work, I was able to visit the Dachau Concentration Camp, attend the Nuremberg war-crimes trial, and spent a few days at Garmisch, which is a famous German skiing resort. I think you will remember that the winter Olympics were held there the last time the Olympics took place in Germany. I had one opportunity to go into Czechoslovakia with a transport of D. P.'s who were returning to their native land. On two occasions I went into Austria merely as a visitor; one to Salzburg and the other time to Linz. I've wanted to visit Yugoslavia and Poland to get some first-hand information as to how Tito and the Polish Communists are treating their subjects; however, Uncle Joe Stalin refused to give me a visa.

"I guess I could go on for days telling you about some of the things that I experienced overseas, but it would take entirely too long to do it by correspondence. I returned from overseas in September of 1946 and was very fortunate to be appointed the chief U. S. probation and parole officer for the Northern District of Indiana. The appointment was made by the Honorable LUTHER M. SWYGERT, '27, federal judge.

"I have read your column in the 'Alumnus' quite faithfully during all these years and I'm worried that I have not made any contributions to it before now. The next time you get to South Bend drop up to the office in the Federal Building and I'll be more than glad to visit with you. I presume that should I go to Baltimore, I have a standing invitation to visit you. Should you meet any of the old gang from '35, tell them I said 'hello.'"

Tony it was good hearing from you after these many years. Mrs. Hoch appreciates the best wishes of you and your wife. Your travels should bring you down to see DICK CHAPPELL and the headquarters crowd occasionally in Washington. Be sure to make Baltimore a "must" en route. We envy your period in Europe and would like to really hear about it first-hand.

That's it for this time, gang. Let's keep those letters rolling in and again, our regrets to FRANK HOLAHAN.

From RUSS O'SHEA, Cairo, Ill.:

"Just last Thursday I returned from a ten day trip in the South, having stopped in Vicksburg, Mississippi, Tallulah, Louisiana, and Memphis, Tennessee.

"I visited at the 3,000 acre Guilfoil plantation at Omega, La., just about nine miles N.E. of Tallulah. JIM GUILFOIL, A.B. '34, runs the plantation. Jim's wife, Agnes, came from Lake Providence, La., and their production record to date is as follows: Mary Agnes, age 7; Dorothy, age 5; Patrick, age 4; Margaret, age 2; and Billy, age 1. Jim has about 260 head of cattle on the place, many of which are registered herefor. He's still the same old guy, and when I was out at his house for a big chicken dinner on May 13 he propped his feet up on a chair and started talking about that Army game coming up next fall. Talked lots of N. D. track of the years around '32 and '33—which I remember well.

"Jim asked me to tell all his old pals 'hello' for him. Guilford told me that he recently had run into COL. C. D. JONES, '32, now of the U. S. Air Corps, on the streets of Tallulah. Think he said that C. D. was stationed at Shreveport, La.

"In Memphis on the afternoon of May 14th I talked to Fred Bauer, '32, over the phone. He runs his automotive supply house, has three dandy boys, and is trying to keep up with his old roommate, CARL MEYER, '32, in that regard. He told me that Carl is now employed as a construction engineer with F. W. Woolworth, and works out of St. Louis.

"Also, while in Memphis, I had the pleasure of a telephone conversation with Frank Howland, '25, who is the General Agent of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company there. Frank has been in Memphis for three or four years now in that capacity.

"Here this evening I ran into Jack O'Brien, of Indianapolis. Jack had a Commerce degree at N. D. in '40. He is here for his grandmother's funeral tomorrow. Tells me he is not yet married."

1936 Joseph F. Mansfield, National Broadcasting Co., 30 Rockefeller Plaza, Radio City, New York, N. Y.

WILLIAM V. ELLIS, JR., is owner, director and manager of Camp Seneca, a summer camp for boys 8 to 15, located on Bear Island in Lake Winnepesaukee, N. H. Bill spent six years in the Army Air Forces as a combat fighter pilot and was discharged as a lieutenant colonel.

HAMILTON BROWN is a diesel maintenance engineer with the Oliver Iron Mining Co., Hibbing, Minn.

GENE MALLOY is now branch manager for the new office in Grand Rapids, Mich., of R. C. Allen Business Machines, Inc. JOHN MORAN is associated with a public relations firm, Watson Associates in Dallas, Texas, and expects to be married in July. HARRY RICH recently joined the Dr. Pepper Bottling Co. as sales manager in Portsmouth, Ohio.

HENRY DENDLER is employed by the North America Companies as superintendent of claims, Buffalo, N. Y., claim division.

1937 Frank J. Reilly, MacNair-Dorland Co., 254 W. 31st St., N. Y. C.

From FRANK J. REILLY:

The golden dome suddenly loomed up through a blue opening in the tops of the trees that line Notre Dame Avenue as we streaked cab-bounding for the campus and reunion on Friday morning, May 30. The sight of the dome swept back the cloudy curtain of memory to the first time we saw that now familiar sight back in September of 1933. A field Mass in progress in the cemetery farther down the road shoved our recollection ahead to the war years and the remembrance of all that has happened in the decade since most of our class left the campus. Somehow the sudden sight of the dome and the field Mass in progress symbolized our attempts during the reunion to recapture our feelings in the past and to reconcile them with our present mode of thought and life.

Notre Dame, to the alumnus who hadn't visited the campus in the ten years since graduation, has acquired a delightful beauty that comes only with maturity. The sweep of lawn with its trees, shrubs and plants that runs from the Rockne Memorial to Cartier Field is a sight that takes your breath away, especially when viewed from the balcony in the foyer of the Rockne Memorial, looking through the arched window in the front of the building facing Cartier Field.

After registration in the shelter at the edge of the parking lot in back of the tennis courts, links with the past were quickly forged by the sight of such familiar campus figures as PAUL FENLON, hatless as usual and a trifle grayer than when we were his students; FRANK O'MALLEY, largely unchanged, and FATHERS DOREMUS, RYAN, MURRAY, (FRANK) CAVANAUGH, et al.

I was with part of the New York contingent that started out from New York on the New York Central's "Pacemaker," Thursday evening at 5:15 p.m., E.D.S. Aboard were ED HOYT, ED NEAHER, recovering from a battle with a "strep" throat, JERRY GILLESPIE, all of 1937, VIC MERCADO, '38, and BADEN ('32) and Lucy (Mrs.) POWELL. Baden and his wife were headed for an Iowa vacation. Later on we ran across some younger N. D. graduates who had finished in February of this year and were going out to receive their degrees.

In chronicling the events of the week-end which were highlighted by the '37 party at the Oliver Hotel Friday night under the capable direction of JERRY CLAEYS, JOHN BRASSSELL, LARRY DANBOM, JOHN LECHNER, JERRY DAVIES, LOU HICKEY, and others who served on the committee, and the Alumni Banquet, Saturday night, I'm going to resort largely to the reservation cards which were returned to the Alumni office. These contained a good bit of information about our classmates, and wherever possible I'll augment what's on the card by what I learned from talking with these fellows. Before I do, however, I'd like to put this information at the head of the list: PHIL R. BONDI reports that he is back at work after an illness—enforced absence of seven years. Phil reports that he has a temporary assignment in the marketing division of Standard Register Co. in Dayton, O. His address there is 112 Delaware St., Dayton, 5, O.

DON HENNESSY, now of 310 W. 13th St., Sterling, Ill., reports on his card that he has had a successful year coaching at Catholic Community High School. His football team won eight games, lost two by one point; basketball team won 20 and lost seven. Don says he is now in track, which he instructed last year for the first time at the school. He will have a baseball team in the Pioneer of Summer H. S. Baseball conferences in Illinois: the N.C.I.C. Don looks fine, was up early for handball with LARRY DANBOM, FRANK GAUL and one other of our classmates the night after the '37 party. I met Don and Larry getting ready for a golf match with JERRY CLAEYS and JOE QUINN.

Harry Koehler of South Bend said he would be on hand Saturday, I presume he meant for the banquet, but I failed to see him. JOHN McKENNA of West Orange, N. J., was on hand with his father. John is coaching at Orange (N. J.) High School, my old alma mater. Coaching keeps these fellows looking awfully young, John having changed not a whit since last we met. Heading the list of '37 medical men was FRANCIS A. MARINO, Utica, N. Y. Frank is married and is practicing medicine in Utica. He was married in 1943 and has two sons: Joseph and Francis. Frank had a very lucky week-end if you must know. He drove out with Lt. Senatro Dileo, who is also a doctor I believe, and is stationed at Mitchell Field, if I'm not mistaken.

CHUCK DUFFY, 738 Prince St., S.E., Grand Rapids, Mich., said he'd be there and was. He wrote that BOB DUCEY would come down from Chicago for the affair and Bob was on hand. He's at a new address in Chicago: 1507 Arthur St. Bob may have told me what he was doing but I can't seem to recall, nor do my battered notes give any inkling. BERNARD P. DONNELLY, ex. '37, writes he is married, has three children and is vice-president and sales manager of Donnelly-Kelley Glass Co. Bernie is living at 80 W. 24th Street, Holland, Mich. He said he'd be there, "maybe." From the rock bound coasts word came that ED DAHILL of Taunton, Mass., was flying from Provincetown, Mass., "weather permitting." Evidently the weather permitted for Ed was there large as life and roomed with TIM KING, if I'm not mistaken, next to me. It was hard to tell who was rooming with whom what with the crowd that kept pouring in and out of Ed's quarters.

JERRY CLAEYS, of the candy clan, was much in evidence. Jerry and his young-son were at the ball game on Saturday afternoon. ROY BARRON predicted he would come down from Detroit for the reunion and did. Roy is married (1944) and has two children: a boy and a girl. He came down with his brother, L. S. BARRON of '40. Roy mentioned a new address: 15854 Evergreen St., Detroit 23, Mich., on his card.

From Chicago came HARRY BALDWIN, who reported the birth of Harry A. Baldwin, Jr., on Feb. 11 of this year. Harry is with Arrow Petroleum Co., 7419 Franklin St., Forest Park, Ill. Harry hasn't changed too much, Harvard notwithstanding. JIM BACON, another Chicagoan (by adoption), was on hand for the reunion. Jim is still following his career as a journalist being at present night city editor at the Associated Press bureau in Chicago. Jim lives at 2830 S. Wenonah St., Berwyn, Ill. He reports that FRANK FOX, '37, heads the AP Radio Division at Charlotte, N. C. Frank was missed at the reunion. And still another Chicagoan, PAUL BIAGIONI, was there. Paul is doing copy for Procter & Gamble and other accounts at Dancer, Fitzgerald & Sample, Chicago advertising agency. He told me that he had been in New York for awhile, doing copy at Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, Inc. MILTON BOCK, of Mishawaka and journalism days of "DOC" COONEY, showed. He is doing general assignment reporting for the South Bend "Tribune." A South Bend neighbor of his, JOHNNY BRASSELL, of Bendix, lives at 1302 N. Elmer St. John boasts a wife, two children and a nice little home.

BERNIE REILLY, HERB and Mrs. KENYON and I sat up until about four o'clock in the morning Saturday night recalling the old days at N. D. John did a stretch with the Navy, being stationed in Philadelphia for a while. John and I vied for honors as to who had the most gray hair. I think I hold the edge by a whisker. TOM CONDON of Buffalo wrote that he would be at the reunion and I heard he was there, but I didn't get a chance to see him. Others who wrote in and said they were coming, but little else were: JOHN F. BROGGER of Grand Rapids, BOB BURKE of Cincinnati, TOM BYRNE of Lakewood, O., and A. L. ERSKINE. DICK DELANEY of 510 North Street, Burlington, Ia., reportedly a doctor, but I couldn't confirm it, was there large as life. Of course, when you mention Delaney you immediately wonder about CHUCK MEYERS, BOB WEAVER, ART HOFFMAN, et al. Yes, they were all on hand. Art Hoffman is a practicing medic of Ft. Wayne. Another doctor is BILL BAILEY of Detroit. Bill was on hand and still plays a pretty wicked round of golf. JAMES FOLTZ from Milwaukee and General Electric was there, as was TEX MULCAHEY, reformed journalist now teaching school.

Just to change the subject for a moment, someone who wasn't at the reunion was GIRARD E. BESENGENEY of Newark, O. Jerry wrote that he was recently appointed sales manager and public relations manager for Licking Laundry Co. in Newark. Jerry still maintains license plate "ND-37." He recently moved to 249 N. 30th St. BILL SHARP, who said he'd be there but wasn't, is still with International Paper Container Division in Kansas City. I was disappointed that Bill couldn't show as we had a red hot golf match scheduled. What happened, Bill?

ARCH GOTT and (of course) JOE DORGAN, the Damon and Pythias of '37, were very much present for our get together. Joe is still plugging away for the Chicago "Daily News," after varied service in London, Algiers, France, Germany, etc. Joe was recently married. Arch, on the other hand, labors for International Harvester Co. in Chicago. He is very much married and is the proud popper of two young children. Arch was with the Navy during the war and saw a good bit of the world. JACK COYLE and ED BRENNAN, '38, left their labors long enough to spend the week-end at Notre Dame. Jack is in the lumber business, while Ed is selling space for "Sport" magazine. He was formerly with "Aero Digest."

Switching East for a moment, more delegates from the New York environs included JIM O'CONNELL, Brooklyn lawyer; ED HUISKING, who is in the soap business with his father and brothers; WILFRED KIRK, Grand Street Branch manager of National City Bank, who was present with his brother, Fr. Cassion Kirk, O.F.M.; HERB KENYON, who is selling for Blue Cross Hospitalization and who had his wife with him for the reunion, which Herb took in as part of a vacation trip; Ed Neaher, he of the law, who is now busily engaged in promoting a retreat for the New York Notre Dame alumni group; and ED HOYT, energetic young credit manager for Vick Chemical Co. in New York. Ed recently became the father of a fine young boy. The birth department also covers TOM HUGHES, whose wife presented him with another girl, their third child, and JOE SCHILLING, whose third child was born about the time of the Hughes' third arrival.

Fort Wayne, Ind., was well represented at the '37 reunion by, among others, BERNIE NIEZER, attorney, who is about to get married; PAUL VENDERLEY and DICK McARDLE. JOE NYIKOS of South Bend and BILL MYERS of Mishawaka were present at the Oliver party for the class. I didn't see VINCE MURPHY or CHUCK LEIBIN at the Oliver, possibly a hangover aversion from collegiate days, but later I ran across both boys in the cafeteria and at the banquet. HANK WIRRY, FRITZ WOLTER, BILL GRAHAM, FRED GAST, LOU FEHLIG and BILL TUNNEY all put in an appearance at the Friday night affair. FRITZ is now in Albion, Mich.; Hank in Rockford, Ill.; while Lou and Bill are living and working in St. Louis. Lou is in the box and lumber enterprise operated under the Fehlig Brothers name, while Bill T. is connected with Owens-Illinois Glass Co. If I'm not mistaken, BILL GRAHAM is working in Michigan City, while Brother CHUCK is down in Texas.

Far westerners at the reunion included TIM KING of Tucson, Ariz.; JOHN B. SHAW who made the trip from Tulsa, Okla., where he is in the oil business and ART P. GREGORY who wrote from Denver that he'd be there. I missed him if he did show up.

From the South we were honored with visits by JOHN RILEY and JOE DROLLA of New Orleans. John is doing soil engineering in New Orleans, while Joe didn't tell me, or I forgot what he said he was doing. TOM FOY flew in from New Mexico, where I understand he is a lawyer. BUCK JORDAN of the Chicago "Tribune" got away from Chicago for the week-end. He is now at a new address there, he writes: 4459 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago 24. A Peoria contingent, headed by JACK KING and surrounded by jovial ALEX SLOAN and P. (for Pickles?) V. WINSOUBER, showed up in force. J. WALTER NIENABER came. He mentioned that JERRY GOHMAN of Cincinnati would join us, too. BERNIE MARTY of Decatur, Ill.; H. J. (JOE) DREUCKER of Kokomo (about to be married) and ED FISCHER, one of "DOC" COONEY's brightest student lights, were around to shake hands and renew old friendships. Bernie is a successful sales representative for Irwin, Neisler & Co., Decatur, Ill. Ed, who has been teaching journalism and doing publicity at St. Joseph's College, Rensselaer, Ind., is coming back to Notre Dame, to teach journalism next September.

Speaking of teaching, HOWARD MURDOCK is engaged in that profession down at Purdue University. Howard certainly looks well, and is his old jovial self. He still does a bit of radio work, as he did when on the campus at N. D.

Before closing this screed, I'd just like to apologize in advance if I missed mentioning any of you fellows I saw at the reunion. Because of the shortness of the time, I'm trying to get this news written and off to BILL DOOLEY in a hurry; thus the possibility of errors. Secondly, I still have a number of cards containing information of our classmates who couldn't make the reunion. In the next issue of the "Alumnus" I'll try to cover all of the men and more too.

BILL SHAKESPEARE is the representative in Brazil of the Independent Pneumatic Tool Co., Chicago.

FRANK LESSELYONG is a buyer for the Doughboy Industries, Inc., New Richmond, Wis.

NICK SALERNO is a teacher-coach at the high school in Hudson, N. Y. JIM O'HARA is in the painting and decorating business in Chicago.

BILL PRENDERGAST is teaching political science and history at the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md. GORDON MURPHY is now vice-president of the American National Bank, Cheyenne, Wyo.

TELMO DE LANDERO'S new address is Eugenio Sue 220, Reforma Polanco, Mexico, D. F., Mexico. He is the father of two boys and a girl. He says he has recently seen LOU ALAMAN, CARLOS HENKEL, JAMES CREEL, and PAUL KELLEY, '38.

DAN SULLIVAN has been transferred by the F.B.I. to Binghamton, N. Y. FRANK MARION is practicing medicine in Utica, N. Y., and has two sons.

BOB WALDECK left of May 28 for a two months business trip through all major South and Central American countries. JOHN O'HERN is getting married on June 28. Eight Notre Dame men will be ushers and among them will be JOHN SHAW, BILL CONRY, CHUCK REIDY and CLAY MURRAY.

1938 Harold A. Williams, 4323 Marble Hall Rd., Baltimore, Md.

From HAL WILLIAMS:

The '38 class notes are getting shorter than the news items in the '06 column. What's the matter, boys?

This is all we have this month (it's hardly worth warming up the typewriter): A card from J. P. (PAT) GORMAN, Jr., and HAROLD L. BOISVERT announcing the opening of law offices under the firm name of Gorman and Boisvert; the boys will specialize in the practice of law before the U. S. courts of the District of Columbia and the various agencies of the U. S. Government. The address: Suite 21, 1740 K Street, N.W.

Then there is a note from DON HICKEY on the stationery of Don's Fleeta ("The Mosta of the Besta at Don's Fleeta") reviewing the football season and announcing that he will make the trip for the Southern Cal. game next year. TOM HUTCHINSON, of Bend, Ore., dropped us a line from Mishawaka in May when he was attending a week's course at the Dodge Corp., to learn about bearings, etc.

What happened to the Chicago crowd? The New Yorkers? TEX HAGGAR? RUS REDGATE? BUNNY MCCORMICK? That Indianapolis gang (is there an election going on?)?

Don't telegraph, write!

ROY DRYER, once with the New York Yankees (where he won 6 and lost 3 in 1941) has organized Sports Film of the Month in San Francisco. This is a rental bureau which features outstanding sports films. Roy shot down eleven Jap planes before he cracked up at Munda, when Jap flak caused him to crash land. After nineteen months in the hospital, Roy is on his feet but his physical condition prevents him from returning to the Yankees. His address is 57 Post St., San Francisco.

Ed Hogan, back from five years of service in the Pacific with the 77th Infantry Division, is now a patrolman for the city of Binghamton, N. Y. Ed is now the proud father of a baby girl, born April 24.

ENNIO ARBOIT, St. Ambrose College grid coach last season, has returned to his former football and basketball coaching position at Spalding Institute, Peoria, Ill.

JERRY CLIFFORD is now in Houston, Texas, as representative of the Burroughs Adding Machine Co. He has been with them since graduation.

JOE COLE is married and his address is Parsons, Kans., where he operates a retail store.

1939 Vincent DeCoursey, 1917 Elizabeth, Kansas City 2, Kansas

From VINCE DE COURSEY:

Seems to me that it has been a mighty long time since I last sat down to write this column which is supposed to be the news of the class of 1939. This time I had visions of being able to visit the campus at Commencement and get a lot of low-down in person, but the sun finally came out in the great state of Kansas and the dairy business began to edge back toward normal, which this year seems to be just a short putt back of satisfactory.

Not much news has accumulated over the past few months and I feel rather hopeful that BILL DOOLEY is able to garner a lot of information both from and about the boys on the campus.

Received notice of LOUIS McKEAN'S ordination and a little later the following note. "Thank you for remembering me at Ordination. This occasion has offered me an opportunity to contact other alumni. It has been pleasant hearing from VINCENT HARTNETT, REV. ROBERT LOCHNER, C.S.C., and about 12-14 other Holy Cross priests. I hope to hear from JOE HARRINGTON and TOM FOYE.

"As the invitation indicated I am a priest for the diocese of Reno, Nev. It is a privilege to be able to join the priests of this missionary diocese, whose limits are those of the state of Nevada."

Around the first of the year we received a letter from DICK BERGEN, who pulled me through many problems in economics. Says Dick: "I can't give you much news, except about myself. Occasionally I see GEORGE FENN, (who was in our class but graduated in '40).

"As for myself, since returning from the Army, I have finished law school and was admitted to the legal profession on Jan. 20, this year. I am now doing editorial work on law reports, for Commerce Clearing House, while waiting for that 'break' to get a chance to get into practice. By the way, I just remembered hearing that FRANK PARKS was admitted to the Wisconsin Bar and started in practice last summer. I also met TOM BOSSERT downtown last summer and understand that he is working in Chicago.

"I am still unmarried and still looking for the right girl. It looks like all of you fast workers married off all the best ones. If I get any more news, I will drop you a line again." Dick writes from 5101 N. Kenmore, Chicago.

That seems to be all for this month. Let's hear from a few of you before the end of the summer.

TOM HALL MILLER is public relations manager for the Piper Aircraft Corp., Lock Haven, Pa. GENE KOCHANOWSKI has joined forces with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., with offices in South Bend. ED BENIOR has been named football coach at St. Mary's high school, Phoenix, Ariz.

BOB CONVERSE is with the Gorlack Packing Co., Billings, Mont. He is sales and service representative on mechanical packings for the states of Wyoming and Montana.

EMMETT and LEO CROWE, '34, were recently appointed head football and head basketball coach, respectively, at Roger Bacon high school in Cincinnati. Emmett had been at Spalding Institute, Peoria, and Leo at Central Catholic High, Allentown, Pa.

1940 Robert G. Sanford, 1226 W. Wisconsin Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

JOE MULQUEEN is retail representative for "Life" magazine in the southwest Philadelphia and Wilmington Areas and in Chester and Delaware counties, Pennsylvania. He has three children.

GEORGE HAGGERTY is in the restaurant business in New York City, at the Union Club on Park Ave. JOHN GORDON is in the district traffic office of Northwest Airlines in Chicago. He lives in nearby Richmond, Ill.

Attorney BOB SULLIVAN recently of Lima, O., has been appointed football coach at Ft. Wayne, Ind., Central Catholic High School.

ED O'MEARA is the new editor and publisher of the Livermore, Calif., "Weekly News." PAT GOFF is in Tokyo, Japan, and his wife and child have joined him there.

JOE CALLAHAN is at the Chicago Tribune Public Service Bureau in downtown Chicago. AL O'MEARA is secretary-treasurer of the O'Meara Motor Co. in Denver.

1941 John W. Patterson, Jr., 5530 Darlington Rd., Pittsburgh, Pa.

From JOHN PATTERSON:

Communiques regarding the various reunions have been sadly lacking. BOB DORAN, one of the stalwarts at the 1941 class's fifth in 1946, wrote me a card saying that he would not get out to the campus for graduation exercises this year. His reason—a very good one—his card came from Buenos Aires. When it was written, Bob had been in Brazil and Argentina for seven weeks, expected to hang around South America for seven more.

Newsiest letter for this issue came in from FRANK McDONOUGH. It was a complete report on the Universal Notre Dame Night activities in Chicago. I quote.

"Around our table were gathered BILL BURNS (beaming happily as befitting the proud father of twins—making three children in all for Bill), RUBE MARQUARDT, BILL MOULDER, JACK REYNOLDS, genial JIM MCGOVERN, JIM MCCARTHY, TOM GALLAGHER, BOB DE MOSS, GENE CONNERS. We chatted with HARRY MURRAY, ROCCO MONTEGNA, DON MURTAUGH and GEORGE MARCUCCI (My sidekick, JACK MURTAUGH, was pursuing his barrister tendencies since he has become a full-fledged lawyer.)

"BILL MOULDER left May 1 for San Francisco where he'll park for good. He is district manager for the Harvester Co.

"Last word from WALT BRENNAN came in March. At that writing he was looking forward to furlough in Ireland and discharge sometime this month (May). He wrote that PHIL McCANNA, also a doctor, was in uniform somewhere in Europe. Walt hopes to take up residency in or near the Windy City, particularly since his major feminine interest resides on Chicago's South Side. My good friend, HAWLEY VAN SWALL, writes occasionally. He is very proud of his three daughters."

So much for the mail.

Note to 1942's "Scoop" Scanlan—one of our boys, TOM POWERS, has left the "Pittsburgh Press" to join Pittsburgh's newest radio station. He is gabbing on the airways with a local news broadcast four times a day, writing scripts for all other local news broadcasts. Tom is very happy with his new job even though it keeps him hopping from 12 to 14 hours per day, seven days per week.

BOB O'DONNELL is in the seminary at Mt. St. Mary of the West, Norwood, O., and has finished his second year of theology. GENE DUCKWORTH is with the Precision Parts Co., Ann Arbor, Mich., where he is chief engineer of the electrical division.

A third oak leaf cluster to the air medal has been presented to Mrs. Charles E. Schlager of Harrisburg, Pa., in recognition of the service of her son, 1st Lt. CHARLES R. SCHLAYER, who died in the third raid by bombers on Nagoya, Japan.

LOU RIEGEL lives at 7636 Jeffery Ave., Chicago, and is an accountant with the Pure Oil Co. Another recent mover is GENE DeLAY, who is now working for the Bank of America in San Francisco.

1942 William E. Scanlan, Rm. 833, 11 S. LaSalle St., Chicago 3, Ill.

From SCOOP SCANLAN:

Most of the major news developments regarding the Class of '42 took place reunion week-end at Notre Dame—and yours truly wasn't on hand. I hope some of the people close to the scene of things will have contributed reports on developments by the time this reaches the "Alumnus" headquarters.

Postcard from New Jersey, via one Josephine RAGOLIA was this note regarding JOE:

The staff photographer caught this sector of the 1942 party in the Oliver Hotel on Friday night, May 30.

"Is now employed by the State of New Jersey as parole officer and is living in a small town in Southern Jersey—Elmer, N. J., 201 Broad St."

Gosh, now we know where Elmer really is. . . ELMER LAYDEN will no doubt be glad to get this news.

GEORGE UHL breezed into Chicago one week-end but the telephone strike silenced him—and some of his acquaintances.

While chinning with one ROBERT P. LONGERGAN, basking in the spacious new Chicago Notre Dame Club offices, recently no less than DANNY HOLWELL walked in. Dan reported that JIM O'LAUGHLIN is still keeping the Marines afire but has changed addresses in Washington, D. C. It's Captain O'Laughlin, you know.

It was on April 17 that JOE RORICK came up with this communique from Rochester, N. Y., which carries plenty of interesting data:

"Just about six weeks from tonight my ever lovin' and I intend to leave for South Bend. Perhaps you didn't know that the Roricks now call Rochester home after a portion of the Atomic Bomb plant folded in October, 1945. Fortunately we were neck and neck with the start of the housing shortage and we have a place to call home for the time being.

"I am in the power development department at Kodak Park-Eastman Kodak Co. LEE HASTINGS is in the planning department in the same building. FRANK DOWLING, '41, is in another department. There are a few other Notre Dame men around the company, but being new to Rochester, I know only those I went to school with or those I have met at club meetings. Incidentally, they took me into the fold and made me vice-president of the local Notre Dame club last fall.

"JOHN GILBERT and I have been corresponding concerning the reunion. John and TOM GESELBRACHT are both at Caterpillar Tractor in Peoria and we expect them to come together. TOM ROURKE is employed by Hills-McCanna Co., as a salesman in New York City. John reports that LARRY KELLEY planned to be on hand.

"There are two sons around the house these days—John was born in Rochester last June. Joe, Jr., is growing fast and will be heading west one of these days.

"And I've contacted TONY RINELLA at Schenectady regarding the reunion. He is following in his father's footsteps in the produce business. Nice business."

JACK DINGES called between scoops for the "Hinsdale Doings" to say he was considering going down for the reunion but wasn't sure he would make it.

This is it for this time. Hope the reunion was a huge success.

From RAY DONOVAN (who did a tremendous job as local chairman of the 1942 reunion):

Nearly 100 members of the Class of 1942 journeyed back to the Notre Dame campus over Commencement week-end to renew old acquaintances and partake of the festivities of a real pre-war graduation program.

Feature of the '42 reunion was an informal get-together of the traditional reunion variety Friday night (May 30) in the Rotary Room of the Oliver Hotel. The five-year graduates, aided and abetted by a professional accordionist, cut loose vocally with every Notre Dame song in the books between reminiscent "do you remember's." Those members of the class attending the reunion program also attended a special Mass in the Cavanaugh Hall chapel Sunday morning, commemorating those members who made the Supreme Sacrifice during World War II.

It was especially good to see such popular athletes as PAUL LILLIS, STEVE JUZWIK,

Not to be outdone by Joe Barr, '42 (see February, 1947, ALUMNUS), Lou Apone, '41, sends along his twin girls, Jacquelina and Jilda, born Dec. 12, 1946.

BOB HARGRAVE and RAY EBLI reviewing some of the Army games in which they played with BERNIE CRIMMINS, who is now Assistant Coach Crimmins for Fighting Irish elevens.

Probably the most surprising of the returning '42ers was GENE SCHUMACHER, who journeyed down from his Milwaukee home. Gene, through his own volition, has lost nearly fifty pounds since graduation and had to be introduced more than once to many of his old classmates. By the way, Gene is planning to enter the field of matrimony in the near future.

LARRY KELLEY, former roomie of PAUL LILLIS, came out from Houston, Texas, and JOE SULLIVAN, former saxophone man in the Notre Dame Cavaliers, took time off from selling refrigerators, washing machines and other hard-to-get items in South Bend, to attend the reunion.

FLOYD "SLUSH" RICHARDS, who is "on the air" with a Hartford, Conn., radio station, brought his better half out for the week-end and luckily stumbled onto a hotel room at the La Salle. JOE RORICK wasn't so fortunate in his search for a hotel room, but finally wound up by placing his wife in a private home.

JOHN GRIFFIN stepped off the plane at the South Bend airport to pause between business trips and attend the reunion and bumped into BOB UHL, who is chief steward at the airport. Griffin had to grab another plane after the Alumni Banquet Saturday night to continue his trip.

Everybody who checked in at the Friday night party immediately began a search that inevitably was unsuccessful. They were scanning the town for BILL "SCOOP" SCANLAN, class secretary, who was forced by the pressure of his duties with publicity man JIMMY KEARNS to miss the affair.

A flock of the boys from the East coast were on hand for festivities including SANTO BELL, JACK BERGAN, BERNIE BERHL, FRANK CONCANNON, WARREN DAVIS, TOM DEGNAN, FRANK GIBSON, LARRY HICKEY, BILL MADDEN, DICK MURPHY, R. J. RIOPEL, JOE RORICK and TOM WALKER.

JIM O'NEAL, class president, came in from St. Louis, together with FRANK POLLNOW. Two members of the class who went on to be ordained priests in the Congregation of Holy Cross and who attended the reunion were REV. RALPH DAVIS, C.S.C., and REV. JAMES P. DOLL, C.S.C.

JIM BURKART came all the way up from Chattanooga, Tenn., to join his classmates. Others who traveled quite a distance for the reunion week-end included BOB HARRINGTON, who came in from Hampton, W. Va., H.

J. McDONNELL, from Tulsa, Okla., ED RYAN, from Hibbing, Minn., and ARMIGER SOMMERS, from Clarksdale, Miss.

The reunion could not have been the success it was were it not for the aid in arrangements and preparations by TOM TEARNEY and MIKE HINES, who are attending Law School at Notre Dame, and PAUL NEVILLE, who is an expert in his coverage of politics for the "South Bend Tribune." All three did more than their share of the work in helping with the pre-party arrangements. Tearney, by the way, was married in Our Lady Chapel at Notre Dame a week after the reunion.

BOB TIMMEL has been married since 1945 and is the father of a fourteen-month old son. He's employed with the Veterans Administration in the physical rehabilitation division. DR. ED GLASER is a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps and is doing duty in the Veterans Hospital in Alexandria, Va.

DON GUYETTE has moved to Racine, Wis., from Plainfield, N. J. News has got around that GENE SCHUMAKER is engaged to be married on June 28.

In the school department: JOHN CANNEY is doing graduate work in architecture at Yale University. DR. FRED FLYNN is assistant professor of philosophy at St. Ambrose College, Davenport, Ia. GEORGE UHL received his master's degree in chemical engineering from Ohio State in June. Another graduate this summer is GEORGE YORK who received his doctor of medicine degree. JOHN STAUBER is at law school at Marquette. DAVE BAGLEY is at Catholic University Law School. He had exams the week-end of the reunion, so he could not attend. FRED PAYNE, too, is going to law school. He's in Cleveland and married to Margaret Clarke, sister of BILL CLARKE, '44. A baby girl was born to them on April 5.

CHARLES MACFARLANE, Jr., has registered in the University of Colorado Extension Center in Denver. Working on his master's in Industrial Relations at the University of Minnesota is BILL MEIER. AL THOMAS is in the graduate school at Boston College.

PAUL PATTEN has been appointed hockey and backfield coach in football at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. He will assume his duties in September. At the present time, he is coach at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., high school.

BOB DUNNE, who has been with the "South Bend Tribune," is now with the Associated Press in Memphis. REV. WILLIAM D. CURTIS, son of DAN CURTIS, '17, recently celebrated his first solemn Mass in Rockford, Ill. He was ordained in St. Elizabeth's Hospital Chapel, Wabasha, Minn.

BOB HARRINGTON is an aero engineer with the National Advisory Committee for aeronautics, Washington, D. C. GENE HUNT is being married on June 28 to a Brooklyn girl. He is now working for Hicks and Greist, an advertising firm. His address after June 28 will be 236 83rd St., Brooklyn.

ANDY CHERNEY is engaged in the law practice with J. P. Flanagan. ED HACKETT was married June 29, 1946, to DON MARTIN's sister. They have a son born April 7.

FRANK PLATT has signed as head football and basketball coach at Portage, Pa., high school. He will also teach health and physical education.

JERRY HEINLEN is employed as farm service sales representative for the B. F. Goodrich Tire and Rubber Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind. On May 29, DR. JOHN SHEEDY sailed for Germany. He is a first lieutenant in the Army Medical Corps.

WALT MINDER is in Manila as U. S. Army employee. He is traveling auditor and expects to be back in the States next fall. LT. JIM LEAHY is at Camp Drake, Tokyo, Japan.

1943 Edward C. Roney, 1723 Iroquois Ave., Detroit, Mich.

From ED RONEY:

'43 may not be the largest class. It may not have crowded the campus thus far on reunion week-ends, and it's no great shakes as letter writers, but it sure grabs hold and helps show the way each year in the Alumni Funds. Our year to top the rest must be this one as with our big Five-year reunion coming up next June; we want something to talk about.

And a letter, or five or ten, would do a lot to help this anemic column along. Lately there's been less to print than could be written on a small grain of rice during the dry season.

Again we've had but one letter and very few people seem to be finding their way to Detroit lately. That one letter is from GEORGE COPPIN in San Bruno, Calif., on April 7—

"Yesterday, BOB MADDEN was up from Mountain View for an Easter dinner. He brought along the December '46 issue of the "Alumnus" and I decided to send you a correction.

"I'd like to know which one of those men of leisure, BILL UNGASHICK and JACK WIETHOFF, is responsible for the correction? It is a boy [not a girl] in our family as of the 30th of July last year.

"Regarding work, I was checked out as a flight engineer Sept. 1, 1946. Our runs at present are San Francisco to Sydney or Auckland; San Francisco to Los Angeles via Honolulu, or San Francisco to Manila. A survey flight will be run very soon to Shanghai and that will be a new terminal point. It would be good news to see Pan American awarded domestic runs. That way, I might get to travel to New York once in a while, and see MEL RUMMEL and the rest of our class at Panam at La Guardia Field.

"I would appreciate any news you might give me of ARKY HIEGEL or JOHNNY NICHOLSON. Neither has written for some time. Oh yes, BOB MURPHY is back at Lockheed and I hope to see him approximately ten days from now."

Thanks for the news, George. Haven't heard anything about Hiegel but Nicholson was seen around New York a short time ago. Believe he's coaching. Congrats on the son.

A formal announcement popped in the other day concerning the marriage on April 26 in Chicago of FRED G. CHRISTMAN, Jr., to Angelina Gendusa. So congratulations are also due Fred from the class.

Speaking of congratulations, the Alumni Association and University administrators weren't mad at all at '43's showing in the Fourth Annual Alumni Fund. I was told by most of them to pass congratulations along to the class. We were second in percentage of class contributing. This year we can beat that. We also lead all the younger classes in the average amount of money per contributor. That is, outside of the class of '41, who had someone really flush. But the most important thing from the Alumni Association's point of view is how many fellows contribute and therefore are active alumni. Of course, dollar bills won't help as much as "fins" or "sawbucks," etc., but they still show a fellow's interest when Junior or the Mrs. needs the rest. Let's get whatever we can in as six months are gone already.

The 1947 Reunion for the class of '43 was a small one. That was to be expected as next year is the one to save for. Our Five-year reunion will be terrific. The class of '22 set some kind of record with over two-thirds of the class returning this year for the silver jubilee; but we can do as well. Plans are already under way and you'll hear more as the months go on.

CHELL, HERB MELTON, JERRY GAINER, JOE GAOKEN, PETE MORITZ, JACK RYAN and ED RONEY.

There was a party Friday night in one of the rooms and most of the fellows met Saturday night in town. All, I believe, would declare it a worth-while week-end and will be in the vanguard of those returning next year.

That's about all for this time but a few letters will produce more news. How about it?

BOB RENSBERGER is the new head basketball coach at Beloit, Wis., senior high school.

FATHER KEVIN B. DOHERTY was ordained to the priesthood for the diocese of Camden, N. J., on May 31. He said his first Mass on June 1, at Our Lady of Mercy Church in New York City.

DR. BOB MURNANE received his M.D. from Ohio State University at exercises held in Columbus, O., on March 14.

Rev. Kevin B. O'Doherty, '43, was ordained on May 31 in Camden, N. J.

1944 John A. Lynch, 15724 Grandville Rd., Detroit 23, Mich.

From JOHNNY LYNCH:

First up is DOM BOETTO of Joliet, Ill. Dom's letter of March 14 just missed the last column by a day's mail delivery.

"At present I'm busy with my law books up at DePaul in Chicago. We've a large representation of Notre Dame men there, with JIM PLATT and GEORGE ST. GEORGE from my class that I know of.

"About the biggest thing that has happened around these parts was the Glee Club concert here in January. It went over just short of terrific. The crowd was big that night, but the thoughts that there would be a SRO sign posted kept a lot of people home. It was sort of old home week for me, seeing GEORGE BARISCILLO and ED CASHMAN for the first time since before the war.

"BILL SNYDER, who recently tied the knot, was telling me last summer of all the fun had by some 30 of the boys last year at the graduation-week get together. I know we aren't due for our five-year yet, but I do plan to get down there in May, that is, if my Navy cruise doesn't interfere.

"At Christmas we had a party here with BOB WITTE and the Mrs., plus BOB GORSKI.

'45. The evening was spent recalling old timers and friends. We were all at Pearl Harbor together. Last fall I spent a week in Columbus, O., and a couple of swell days with the ALEXANDERS. GUIDO and AL, '46, are now the proprietors of Columbus' newest and most modern night club, and really big time. Guido was down for the Southern Cal game but I missed him then."

Next letter is from CHARLES LOBUE of West New York, N. J. As of March 19 then:

"I am not a graduate of Notre Dame, but still I am a member of the Alumni Association and the class of '44. You see, I left school in April, '42, after my mother's death.

"Have been trying to return to the higher learning institutions without much success. Seems as though advanced students are contagious in these parts. Would like to return to Notre Dame, but can't tear away from home at present. Been moving around too many years already (six to be exact!).

"I had the pleasure of returning to the campus from the fleet in 1944. Those high school fellows gave me rough competition, after being away from the books for so long. At best, I got another term under my belt.

"While on campus I ran into my old roommate PETE EVESLAGE again. He was helping out at the Science Building and studying for his master's. Also used to hear a lot from JOE DESMOND of New Hampshire. He ought to be getting that white collar about now. I believe it was at St. Paul's Seminary in Ottawa, Ontario, that he spent his time. Like me, he spent two years at N. D., and hasn't lost a bit of the old spirit.

"Had the pleasure of watching the Irish beat N. Y. U. at the garden. It was good to see FRANK CURRAN playing ball again. Almost like old times at the field house."

Charlie has been heartily welcomed into the ranks, and this is as good a time as any to say that men of '44, even if they didn't graduate, are welcome as alumni members. The front office carries non-graduates as "former students," but that is just for accuracy. Anyone who put in time on campus and would like to join the Alumni Association can do so. If any of you regulars know of any one on the outside, tip them off and get them on the inside. A card here, or to the office at Notre Dame, will get you the details.

And now for the latest (7 April) on CHUCK URRUELA, the man with the stripe and a half on his sleeve and the address in Jacksonville, Fla. For the records it's now: LT. (JG) SC, USNR, Ass't DSO, COMSEVEN, Bldg. 953, U.S.N.A.S.

"I have finally resolved to carry out my New Year's resolution (of 1946) and write a few lines. Not that I have anything to say, or any red-hot news to impart, because most of my N. D. news is ante-bellum. I have managed to keep in touch with a few of the fellows, most of them back at school under the GI Bill. Also an occasional letter from such as MIKE PESSEMIER, now studying in New York, and from AUSTIN JONES, working for an accounting company in the same area.

"When we first came down here from Baltimore last July, I did run across BILL SCHEUCH down at the 16th Fleet Berthing area at Green Cove Springs. Bill was a communicator down there, sweating out his last months in the Navy. When home at Christmas time I ran across BUB KOTTE (circa '42) who is now practicing law in Miami, and also BILL TULLY, a Notre Damer of more recent vintage. And of course there are still a few of the 'Irish' like myself still in uniform, and I meet them here and there during my travels around the District.

"Our tour of duty here has been very pleasant. The housing situation nearly whipped us at first, but we finally got hold of a new, furnished house at a reasonable rent (luck o' the you know what!) and since then it's been all roses. The weather has been good for golf and fishing all winter, and swimming and tennis resumed this month. The station has all possible facilities, and we're close enough to be able to get down to Miami Beach and see the family now and then.

"Liked my job here so well that I decided to stay in the Navy for another year at least. Am in the District Supply Office and have tied in with the Ship's Service Stores and Commissioned Officers' Messes for the whole district, so am getting a lot of good experience in accounting and merchandising, not to mention some tax work and even a little law.

"Our new addition is due some time this week, and for once we can't get together. Jeanne wants a boy. I want a girl.

"In June we are going to get away to Havana, Guatemala, and possible Mexico for four or five weeks. Then we're due to go to New York for four months. After that we hope to go to South America, or possibly Japan for a tour of duty. So far the Navy has treated us very well, and I'm not sure I want to get out until we can be sure we can really put away the uniforms. Right now, from where I sit, the 'bright new peace' is still a very faint glimmer. Passed the competitive exams for the State Department last fall, so if we do jump out of the Navy it will probably be in that direction.

"Needless to say I often think of the N. D. days, and of all the happy associations and friendships we shared. One of the few things I regret about the present is my inability to keep in closer touch with many of the fellows, and the fact that I haven't been able to get back to the campus for so long. To remedy this situation somewhat, would you kindly ask JIM ARMSTRONG to renew my Alumni subscription.

"Best wishes to any of the fellows we mutually know, and who happen to be on the mailing list."

Going hastily through the remaining mail now, we hear from BILL BOSS. This was March 24:

"Left Notre Dame on schedule in late January, and spent Feb. 2-6 in St. Louis with RCA Television, when KSD-TV opened. A few more days at home and I reported for active duty with RCA in Camden on Feb. 17. Have been absorbing an enjoyable training program since that time. The training, incidentally, ends this week.

"Attended the last meeting of the Philadelphia Club here. A few faces present that are familiar to us. MOOSE KRAUSE is to be principal speaker for Universal N. D. Night affair.

"Met JOHN O'HARA a few days ago in nearby Collingswood. John has just purchased a new home and is currently employed as an insurance company adjuster. BOB REILLY reports that he really likes Georgetown Law School."

Bill also reports that he has heard from TOM BRENNAN, FRANK SULLIVAN and ED DRINKARD on the campus. Also that FRANK CURRAN and the Mrs. are February parents of an eight pound son. Bill's address is 114 Avondale Ave., Haddonfield, N. J. Send your television queries there.

DUKE LEARY sends word along that LOU SCHMITZ was married to Marg Murphy, both of Willmar, Minn., at that place, on May 1. They'll live in Willmar where Lou is busy at the family Coco-Cola and soft drink bottling plant. He adds that BILL TALBOT has just finished a 60,000 word-thesis for his M.A. in Dramatic Art, at Columbia. The Duke, by the way, will be married to Pat Berrigan on July 5, at Omaha. They'll both be getting that Columbia M.A. in Journalism in June.

A quick one from JACK WOELFLE tells us that he is no longer in insurance, but is doing sales promotion work for Standard Brands Products, who handle that fine Tender Leaf Tea etc., etc.

And a card from the PAT McDERMOTT family says that the third member is Pat, Jr., born March 30 at McKees Rocks, Pa.

Here and there: JACK CRAHAN of Napoleon, O., was in Detroit April 25 and gave us a call. JIM DANAHER is back in Detroit, and Grosse Pointe, and hard at work selling stocks and bonds. CY DESMET of the local area was married to Harriett Jozefiak on May 10.

And the last word from Notre Dame was a copy of the "Vetville News," contemporary sheet for the vet village adjacent to the campus. JACK HUFF holds down the editor's chair. The Vetville Council lists FRANK ROMANO and BILL HOOLEY as co-chairmen of the Social and Recreational Committee for the students and wives. VINCE SCULLY is in charge of public relations. As of April 18 there were 117 families living in Vetville, Notre Dame, Ind.

VIC COLLETTI sent word that he would be on hand at Notre Dame the week-end of June 1 for the Commencement exercises. Vic was one of the many who finished in January, then had to wait the several months for graduation. Since January he has been at work in his home town, Port Arthur, Texas, as a junior chemical engineer for the Gulf Oil Co.

A card from JOHN MARTIN of Wabash, Ind., tips us off that he too is one of the original '44 men among the June graduates. John was in Commerce, and we missed his name on that long list included in the April column.

CHUCK PATTERSON has been assistant editor of the new "Juggler" at Notre Dame, the post-war counterpart of "Scrip," under the editorship of J. H. JOHNSTON. Contributors to the spring issues include JOHN FALLON and JIM CUNNINGHAM. Chuck was the orator for both Washington's Birthday and the Commencement.

There is news in the publishing field that Berliner-Lanigan Publishers — HARRY BERLINER, '45, and JOE LANIGAN—of Nevada City, Calif., have their first book on the market, the work of Dr. Willis Nutting of the faculty.

The latest wedding news includes the following: Miss Barbara Rempe and CHUCK PATTERSON to be married in Chicago June 14; Miss Kathleen O'Leary and JACK KELLY to be married in New York July 4; Miss Margaret Clark and JACK SULLIVAN to be married in New York July 17; Miss Helen Mitchell and CHARLES 'RED' McCAFFERTY to be married in New York, Aug. 21.

And that is all. All letters always welcome from the class of '44.

The story, "The Burden," written by JOHNNY LYNCH as an "Atlantic First" in the April issue of "Atlantic" magazine will be included in the O. Henry Anthology of 1947. The Alumni Association and especially the editors of the "Alumnus" offer special congratulations.

JOHN MURRAY has a job with the Office Engineers in South Bend, doing sales and service.

ED MORGAN, after receiving his degree in science at N. D., is taking graduate work at Tulane University in New Orleans. CHARLIE SEGHERS, too, is taking graduate work, at Notre Dame.

BILL LYONS is studying at St. Charles Seminary, Oberbrook, Philadelphia. He was recently advanced to sub-deaconship.

FROM JIM SCHAEFFER:

Mail service to Schenectady must have been discontinued for the past month, for the number of letters has been dropping off like mad.

First letter as we reach into the mailbox comes from FRANK CURRAN. Frank hasn't seen any of the fellows since graduation, and he expresses a wish for a good old-fashioned class reunion. Although no special plans were made for a 1945 reunion at Notre Dame over the Memorial Day week-end, let's start thinking about plans for an organized '45 effort next year, and keep in mind that our five-year reunion isn't so far off—1950 will be here any day now.

Frank writes, "On leaving Notre Dame I was rather obliged—under the usual circumstances—to enter the service. I chose the Navy and won't be out until May, 1948. I am working in the National Medical Research Institute here at Bethesda, Md. The work is concerned with rather secret projects. The men around me are among the greatest scientists in the world and are giving me a brilliant chance for further education." Frank sends the usual to all the men in the class.

FRANK "HEAD" LINEHAN came up with an imposing letterhead—"Knights of Columbus Recreation Building, Oswego, N. Y.—Frank M. Linehan, Executive Secretary."

"I've been here just one year last week (that was March). They gave me a very nice testimonial dinner for my first anniversary, and we burned the mortgage. My job as executive secretary is one of many—I am the "head" man—the promotion man, personnel man, bookkeeper, and general boss. It's a very enjoyable job for I am not tied down to any one specific job.

"We have four bowling alleys on the ground floor; soda fountain, lounge, and large auditorium on the second; a large lounge, social room, and card room on the third floor. As yet the fourth floor is unfinished.

"I don't hear from too many of the boys. I was with JIM CLYNES at the Cansius basketball game in Buffalo—we had quite a reunion. He is still the same old Jim. I hear from RIORDAN AND PROF. BERGAN quite often.

"I expect to go to Philadelphia next month, so I'll probably see ALLEN and a few more of the boys.

"I get down to Schenectady quite a bit, since that's my hometown—so the next time I am in town I'll get in touch with you." (Note from Schaeffer—I'm still waiting. Head. The address here is 1802 Hamburg St., 4-7656.)

A brief, but informative note from BILL COGHLAN—"I'm just finishing my fourth year at Jefferson Medical School here in Philadelphia. I hope to graduate the 23rd of May, and I have my internship at the Jefferson Medical School Hospital starting July 1. I married Patricia Ann Matthews July 13, 1945. We have a daughter, Patricia Ann, born Nov. 11, 1946. With me here at Jefferson is JOHN DOWLING. He is going to stay here also for his internship. OWEN DOYLE stopped here in Philly about two weeks ago. He graduates from Yale Medical School in the near future."

Via his sister, Fran, the column learns that JOE GOSLIN is back at N.D. after three years of sub duty in the Navy.

DICK MARTIN signs in from Marquette University. "After a semester and a half at Santa Clara Law School, I decided that law was not my field, so I dropped it and switched to teaching. I am now a graduate assistant (instructor) in English at Marquette.

"PHIL MARTIN, '45, my cousin is both an instructor in Chemistry and a law student here. We are both very busy but still find time for a 'few rounds,' and we don't forget to drink to all the boys. We saw JIM OTT at the N.D.-Marquette basketball game in Milwaukee. Heard recently from JACK STEWART, '46, who's in the Foreign Service, at Paris, France."

"As you can see from the letterhead, I'm back at Notre Dame," says JACK KEARNEY. "After being discharged from the Navy last June, I decided I did not want to go on with my previously chosen field—Math—so I therefore returned to Notre Dame to study what looks like, from your address, your field—electrical engineering." (Note from Schaeffer—Jack. I'm a poor liberal arts man in the dtn of electrical engineers). "If everything turns out alright, I will graduate a year from this June.

"The discipline at school has let up considerably since the veterans have returned. I guess the climax came last week when a bulletin came out permitting drinking anything any place, within the boundaries stated in the little gretn book. [And subject to the Indiana age law.—Ed.]

"Since graduating I have not met anyone from the class of '45. Frankly, I don't know too many fellows from that class, since my class is actually the class of '46, but because of the accelerated program, I graduated in February, '45. I did hear however that JOHNNY MACK, of Niles, Mich., is learning the steel business from the bottom up, in a steel plant in Gary, Ind. I guess that's about all for now, except that I'm teaching Math here at N.D. while going to school."

Last letter in the mailbox comes from BILL CASTLE'S home in Lockport, N. Y., with the report that Bill is in the Navy out at Guam. He received his D.D.S. from Marquette last year, married a Milwaukee girl, who joined him on Guam in February. Bill was all set to hang out his shingle in Lockport when he was called in the Navy. He is hoping to be back in California on Dec. 6, for the So. Cal.-N.D. game.

BILL FAHRNER is a test engineer in Detroit, Mich.

The Los Angeles Dons of the All-American conference have announced the signing of PETE BEREZNEY, 240 pound-tackle who played for N. D. in 1943-44-45. In the football department, too, comes word that STEVE NEMETH has placed his signature on one of JIMMY CROWLEY'S contracts for 1947. Steve led the Chicago Rockets in scoring last season by totaling 59 points on nine field goals and 32 successive kicks after touchdown. FRANK DANCEWICZ of Lynn, Mass., helped with spring football practice at Boston University recently. He is with the Boston Yanks of the All-America conference.

JACK STEWART, who, as a State Department man, is now with the United States Embassy in Paris, is doubtless the most traveled man in the class. He has so much to say, and says it so well, that the "Alumnus," is giving you here his letter of May 10 from Paris:

"After over 150,000 miles of travel by plane, ship, train, truck, and auto, I have not lost my desire for new places. But then ten months of travel, regardless of its constancy, is not a long time. Perhaps some day I shall settle down in the States as a clock-punching citizen; now the idea seems remote and unpleasant. With these many miles behind me it is only natural that some places should take precedence in my mind from a point of interest to beauty, oddity, and ugliness. With a modicum of correlation I will jump from country to country, from continent to continent.

"The saddest place I have ever seen, one that would arouse a pang of sympathy in the most calloused heart, is Warsaw, Poland. Never before had I seen such systematic, total, diabolic destruction. Poland was destroyed from the East as well as the West! Block after block has been leveled to the cold, unproductive ground. Very aged men and women straining equally tired and old horses to remove the mountains of rubble that fill the city of Warsaw. With bent backs, cold, bruised hands in the January freeze, they labored aimlessly; brightly colored political banners were painted and tacked about town notifying them that their salvation and recovery rested with the hammer and sickle.

"Then ten thousand miles away and ten thousand feet in the air was the odd city of La Paz, Bolivia. Barefooted, be-derbled Indian women in multiple skirts and multi-colored shawls strut down the streets and squat in the parks on the pavement; they refuse the relative comfort of the benches. More than once on the drive from the airport it was necessary to stop the shiny new car while a ragged quechua chased a herd of llamas across the road. The blood had not yet been dried and removed from the streets where political fanatics had fallen; more will flow soon again.

"And then back on the other side of the world. This time at the blizzard-blown, modern airport at Moscow. The thrill of Russia had been lost in the four nights and three day train trip from Berlin, but a nervous thrill was there, or is it called fear? I was plenty nervous and fearful as I went in the door of that half-green—half-rust C-47 with the red star on the side. My fears were augmented when in strode a crew member, flight plan under one arm and a bottle of cognac, not vodka, under the other. I was ready to jump out then and there but they no sooner were in the ship when the engines began rev(v)ing and we were ready to take off. Since there is no competition in Russia there is no need for safety precautions, comfort, or solicitude of passengers on the Soviet Air lines. Never had I prayed so hard; six hours later we were in Berlin.

"May 1 must be Health Day the world over. In Algiers I saw a grimy Arab washing his feet in a public latrine, blow his nose on his fingers, rinse off his hand. Then he walked down the Rue Victor Hugo, feeling quite spruced up and ready to see his best girl. Earlier that day I had witnessed a Communist demonstration in Tunis. Be-fez(z)ed, be-burnoosed, befuddled Arabs were carrying banners and placards for higher wages. I'll wager that not one of them had ever done more than pick a pocket, slit a throat, or salaam to the East in one day.

"From the window of a Pan American Airways Clipper off the north coast of Brazil, I saw a lovely isle down in the blue-green serene waters. We circled low over it and saw it was apparently inhabited. Long, cool-looking, protective buildings made it seem an oasis in the oppressive sun. The steward announced that we were now over Devil's Island.

"Moments I hate to think about are those such as—losing four thousand feet over the Transylvanian Alps because of ice-coated wings, engine fire over savage-infested eastern Ecuador, the storm at 29,000 feet in the gap between the Andes on the flight from Buenos Aires to Santiago, $27 for a quart of whiskey (for medicinal purpose naturally) in the Hotel Borg in Reykjavik, Iceland, and prices in Paris.

"Pleasant reflections are many: the scenery in eastern Switzerland and western Austria, the Antinori Chianti in Naples, Bois deBoulogne in Paris on a spring day, lobster preparation in the Canterbury in Brussels, steaks in Buenos Aires, lovely, fresh-looking girls in Stockholm, flying over Rio's harbor, and Notre Dame—in Paris and in Indiana."

Private first class BOB MEUNIER of Kansas City, Mo., is now assigned as a clerk-typist in G-2 section, Headquarters, 1st Corps, Kyoto, Japan.

major part the United States has now been called upon to play in world affairs. We approach this new responsibility hesitatingly, but with an idealism that is the product of an inheritance of freedom from fear, unlimited opportunity and lavish prosperity. We would like to see the whole world share in the benefits of Democracy. We recognize its imperfections, but we recommend it as a substitute for other systems which have failed. Perhaps this generation of youth, which has been hardened in the crucible of world battlefields, may be more realistic than we have been about dealing with the peoples of the world. Our record is one of great generosity but of limited success. We are still mistrusted by a world which cannot seem to comprehend us.

Blessings of Real Freedom to All

We would be less than realistic if we failed to recognize the dangers in the tedious, quarrelsome world peace negotiations that are now in progress. In these negotiations this country is represented by men of character, experience and ability, who correctly express the desires of a Democracy that the blessings of real freedom be extended to all peoples of the world. They have encountered opposition from sources whose philosophy of government would defeat every purpose for which we fought the recent war. Patience is a great virtue. It has been generously extended in these negotiations. Preparedness under present circumstances is no less a virtue, and may stand between us and the destruction of our nation. No sacrifice at this time is too great to make to preparedness. Those responsible for the conduct of our government are entitled to know that we the people are for security above sentiment—for the preservation of our national defense at all costs.

If world leadership has become our destiny, let us face it as the pioneers faced the building of the West. The qualities of the pioneer still run fresh in our blood. We now face a new phase of our history which calls for the best minds and strongest characters of our generation. Particularly do we need men who in addition to possessing the learning of the classroom and the competitive spirit of the athletic field, have been trained in the precepts of the Divine Savior. The men of Notre Dame are well qualified for the job.

CARDINAL TISSERANT ON CAMPUS

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, secretary of the Congregation of Oriental Rites in the Catholic Church, was given an ovation by students and faculty of the University on May 8, following his address on the influence of the Vatican in promoting cultural relations between eastern and western Europe.

The world-famous scholar was introduced by Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., president, who paid high tribute to the cardinal's scholarship, and to his patriotism in World War I during which he was decorated for bravery while serving as a French soldier.
