800 Alumni Attend 1948 Reunion

Largest Graduating Class Receives Degrees at Exercises; Foundation Governors and City Chairmen Meet on Campus

The largest graduating class in the history of the University and one of the school's largest and liveliest reunions joined forces to make the weekend of June 4, 5 and 6 a notable occasion on the campus — and near it.

The class of 1948 numbered 895 persons who received graduate or undergraduate degrees. And some 800 alumni came back, drawn largely by the reunion programs arranged by many of the classes of the years ending in three and eight.

A few alumni arrived Thursday, June 3, to be met by the departing students, many of whom had just finished their final exams. By Friday morning alumni registration was in full sway; for the convenience of the arriving guests, it was carried on in the Law Building, near the main entrance to the campus. Alumni of the years before 1920 were assigned to Walsh Hall; 1920-27, Lyons Hall; 1928, Morrissey Hall; 1929-32, Howard Hall; 1933-37, Breen-Phillips Hall; 1938-42, Cavanaugh Hall; and 1943-47, Zahm Hall. The seniors who had finished in January and were returning for their degrees were assigned to Alumni and Dillon Halls.

Informal reunions, it need hardly be added, got under way almost at once, especially in Morrissey Hall, where Willard Wagner, co-chairman of the '28 gathering provided unusual entertainment, as well as what proved to be one of the real features of this reunion—green caps with the '28 numeral prominent. Jake Kline, '21, and his baseball team added to the delight of the day by scoring a tremendous upset victory over Western Michigan in the afternoon (see "Athletics"). There was also golf on the University course—all day, plus swimming in the lake. (Golf and swimming repeated on Saturday).

A concert by the University Band, directed by H. Lee Hope, on the Main Quadrangle starting at 6:30 p.m., gave an additional gala setting to the weekend, and this was followed by a concert by the Symphony Orchestra in Washington Hall at 8 p.m.

Meanwhile, the class reunion parties (about which you'll find more, with pictures and other class news, elsewhere in this issue) were under way. First in point of time was a dinner in the University Dining Halls honoring Michael J. Ney, of Omaha, who was the sole member of the class of 1898 to register for his 50-year reunion.

The 1918 class met informally in Walsh Hall; the Class of 1923, led by the president of the University, Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, c.s.c., dined in the LaSalle Hotel; and the 1928 group put on a fish fry in the Izaak Walton League club house, north of South Bend. The 1933 reunions gathered in the Vettville Recreation Hall on the campus, the 1938 delegation in the Mannerchor Club, South Bend, and the 1943 class in the Indiana Club, South Bend.

Rev. Louis J. Thornton, c.s.c., Registrar, celebrated Mass for deceased alumni in Sacred Heart Church at 8 o'clock Saturday morning, and this was followed by a breakfast-meeting of the Notre Dame Foundation governors, city chairmen and city committeemen who were on the campus. The Senior Last Visit in Sacred Heart Church, followed by the traditional Class Day exercises in the Drill Hall, went on as the members of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association who were on the campus met for a short session, starting at 11 o'clock.

Directors present included Harry G. Hogan, president; Francis Wallace, vice-president; Jack Elder, Thomas F. Byrne, Arthur D. Cronin, James E. Armstrong and William R. Dooley.

At noon in the Dining Hall, the local '23 C.S.C. priests were hosts to the Class of '23 at a Silver Anniversary luncheon which has become a popular feature of the reunion weekend. Father John Cavanaugh and Paul Castner, class secretary, spoke briefly.

The Kline students again came through in Saturday afternoon's baseball game, and this time chose a spectacular last-of-the-ninth rally to get the victory. That made two straight over Western Michigan, rated one of the four strongest college teams in the Middle West.

Commencement Address

PAUL G. HOFFMAN

Economic Cooperation Administration

Delivered at 103rd Commencement Exercises

Navy Drill Hall, Sunday, June 6, 1948

Father Cavanaugh's introduction is an expression of his attitude toward his friends. He sees reflected in them those qualities of mind, heart and spirit that he himself possesses. I am not the man Father Cavanaugh says I am, but that makes me even more appreciative of his praise. I also appreciate very deeply the honor he has shown me by inviting me to deliver this Commencement address. I share with all the citizens of South Bend a very special regard and affection for the University of Notre Dame. It has a significant place in our lives.

It is with a definite feeling of humility that I address this graduating class. You got your degrees the hard way; I left college in 1909 without one. However, I recall quite vividly the remarks of the commencement speaker I heard that June. He gave the lucky graduates precise instructions not only for "launching their ships on the sea of life," but also for sailing them in fair and stormy weather. He hinted rather strongly that there would be no storms for those young navigators who were in bed by 10:00 p. m., kept their shoes shined, their eyes off the clock, their noses to the grindstone, and who were properly respectful of their elders. It was a meticulously signposted and comfortable world he pictured for us.

A Placid Surface

We who listened to the commencement speaker on that June day were almost as smug and complacent as he was. If any of us were uneasy in mind, it was because we weren't sure as to whether we could get a job, or whether a certain girl would wait until we were making $18 a week. We were utterly unconscious of the fact that just below the placid surface of that post-Victorian world a conflict was brewing which in less than six years was to burst forth as World War I.

Only a few people in the United States realized that World War I was more than a war between nations—that it was a war between conflicting ideologies, a war, as Woodrow Wilson put it, to make the world safe for democracy. As that war started, the autocratic states of Germany, Austria and Bulgaria were aligned against the democratic states of Britain, France and Belgium, but the situation was later complicated by the entry of autocratic Russia on the side of the Allies. Most of us were not concerned with issues—we were out to lick the Kaiser.

That is why, once victory was ours, we succumbed to a yearning for a "return to normalcy" and refused to accept our responsibilities as the new world leader and hence failed to play our part in winning the peace. Within three years after the end of World War I, we as a people forgot that it had been won at a cost of more than ten million lives and billions of treasure. It was a gay irresponsible period of flappers, jazz and soaring prosperity. If we gave any thought to our own free economy it was to assume that it was invincible and permanently established.

Isolationist Sentiment

We who had special advantages in the way of education or position were largely unconcerned about those who lived on the wrong side of the tracks. If we had a twitch of conscience, we soothed it by recalling the Biblical assurance that the poor are always with us. We had even less interest in people across the oceans. As detached spectators we watched Hitler's rise to power in Germany. Winston Churchill warned that Nazism was a threat to freedom everywhere. He quoted from Mein Kampf to prove it—but his was a voice crying in the wilderness. Not until France fell did many of us in the United States realize that our freedoms might be involved—that Hitler's real purpose was to destroy all free societies and supplant them with totalitarian states. Despite this, it was not Hitler but the Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor that forced us into the war.

Within a few weeks it will have been three years since World War II ended in victory. According to the Vatican more than 31 million lives were lost in that conflict and we ourselves poured out over three hundred billions of treasure.

Thank God, the American people are no longer smug and complacent. It is obvious to all that a ruthless dictatorship—probably the most powerful the world has ever seen—is launched on a well-thought-out program of destroying all free institutions. Stalin's objectives have been as clearly spelled out in many communist documents as were Hitler's in "Mein Kampf."

In this year of Our Lord, 1948, to an unprecedented degree, the opposing forces are being brought into sharp focus. In World War I the participation of autocratic Russia and autocratic Japan clouded the struggle of free societies for survival. In World War II the issue seemed clear with Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin and Tojo in alliance against the free nations—but became confused when Hitler turned on Stalin. Today there is a clear cut division between the barbaric dictatorship of Stalin, aggressive, expanding, insatiable, and the free western civilization developed through twenty centuries of Christianity on the broad foundation of classical Greece and Rome. Woven into the fabric of western civilization is the Christian ethic with its moral and spiritual code. The Politbureau has no moral or spiritual code; in fact, it prides itself on its amorality. It respects force and force alone, and will yield only to force.

PAUL G. HOFFMAN, LL.D., '48

The free peoples of Western Civilization are at last discovering a firm, sound basis for united action. We are joined now not by mere expediency but by fundamental morality. As James Russell Lowell, American ambassador to Great Britain, prophetically wrote a hundred years ago:

*For mankind are one in spirit, and an instinct bears along,
Round the earth's electric circle, the swift
flash of right or wrong;
Whether conscious or unconscious, yet Humanity's vast frame
Through its ocean-sundered fibers feels the gush of joy or shame;
In the gain or loss of one race all the rest have equal claim.*

Never before have so many nations felt so inspired by their common heritage of Western Christian culture. Never before have these nations been so willing to act on what they have in common and to disregard the things that separate them.

Awareness Is a Safeguard

In this growing sense of solidarity among all free peoples—in their awareness of the type of conflict in which we are now engaged lies our greatest hope of avoiding another world war. Hitler would never have marched in 1939, in my opinion, if he had had arrayed against him the united strength of the world's free nations. Nor

by

MOST REVEREND RICHARD J. CUSHING, D.D.

Archbishop of Boston

Preached at Baccalaureate Mass
103rd Commencement, June 6, 1948

"And I will ask the Father, and He shall give you another Paraclete, that He may abide with you forever."

"The spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth Him not, nor knoweth Him: but you shall know Him; because He shall abide with you, and shall be in you."—St. John xiv, 16,17.

Most Reverend Bishop Noll; Right Reverend, Very Reverend and Reverend Fathers; distinguished guests; members of the graduating classes;

Dearly beloved in Christ:

I begin by inviting all present to join with me and with those who today receive their degrees in thanksgiving to God, the Author of all Truth, the Father of all Wisdom, for the graces, natural and supernatural, which have made this day possible. All truth, whatever its source or subject matter, is ultimately from God. By His creative hand the laws were written, the natures determined and the essences decreed which form the objects of human research, scrutiny, study and science. His Eternal Son is the Infinite Word which sums up all the perfections and possibilities which admit of observation or speculation. All spoken wisdom, all reasonings, all knowledge among men are but broken reflections of His Infinite Truth, half-heard echoes of His most perfect Wisdom. Even the so-called profane sciences, even those most secular of studies which have matter and the purely physical for their object, even these speak to us of God and of His creative power and sovereign Providence. Indeed, in order to think even of things most removed from Him in nature and in dignity, we must use the faculties with which He has Himself endowed us, to which He gave life and purpose and power.

God Source of All Truth

All truth, whatever its source or subject matter, comes from God—and all the sciences, arts and other disciplines by the mastery of which you have acquired your degrees and distinctions today depend on God for their origin, their validity and the powers by which you know them. Nature, no less than Revelation, is a book through which God speaks to us and science, no less than faith, though in a different way, brings us always back to God.

The words of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ which I have proclaimed as my text this morning are concerned with another and higher form of knowledge than that which your degrees will represent and to the acquisition of which you have devoted these recent laborious years. This more sublime, more perfect knowledge comes by Faith. The same fostering Mother of your minds, Notre Dame, who has enriched you with the natural arts and sciences has also, I pray God, made you firm in the Faith. Her work will be but half-done, indeed most badly done, if she has taught you only the fragmentary things we have learned through the fallible faculties of sense about the changing world of matter. Notre Dame will consider her mission unfulfilled if you quit this campus with only the wisdom the world can give, gleaned from the things the world can see and know, the things that decay, disintegrate and die. The full work of a Catholic college or university has been done only when sense knowledge has been supplemented by Faith, and perfected by that spirit of truth whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth Him not, nor knoweth Him. But you shall know Him, if you be true sons of Notre Dame, for He shall abide with you and shall be in you.

By Faith the spirit of truth, the other Paraclete which Christ promised, becomes diffused through the hearts of all the devout. And thus by Faith there enters the minds of men, otherwise at variance and contradictory to one another, a principle of unity and stability. Many and changing are the thoughts of men; the word of God is always the same. Fleeting and insecure is the knowledge based on purely human powers; steadfast and abiding is the knowledge based on divine Faith.

The Eternal Church

Because the Church is founded on Faith in the Eternal God, because she lives by her unfailing Faith and transmits the Faith unchanged down through the ages, the Church has become the principle of permanence in an insecure world, a divinely established rock firmly fixed among the shifting sands of human history. Nations, civilizations, theories, even philosophies,—all these come, they have their little day, and they disappear. The Church abides.

The stability of the Church, her faithful witness to the eternal, unchanging God, should commend her to men of sound philosophy and of a truly scientific spirit. The most exalted minds of every age have pointed out how the infinite God must by

ARCHBISHOP RICHARD J. CUSHING,
LL.D., '48

His nature be above the ebb and flow of things created and finite. The mystic, the philosopher, the sensitive spirit of every thoughtful person, each recognizes that all else but God passes; God only endures. All forms of knowledge which have for their object created nature and things material are, like their objects, mutable; they not merely change but change is proper to their very nature. But religion, religious faith, should bear a constant witness. Its trumpet must sound no uncertain note. It sounds the same note in fair days that it does in feul, in the face of kings that it does in the ears of the poor, in prosperous lands as among the defeated and the destitute, in this century as it did in centuries gone by. The object of Faith is God and God does not change. The channel of Faith is God's Incarnate Son and Jesus Christ is yesterday and today and forever the same.

The Unchanging Church

Yet, sad fact and strange, many there are who resent the inflexible, unwavering permanence of the Faith and who deplore the uncompromising fidelity of the Church. Indeed, some who profess to be Christians, ay, even spiritual leaders of their several flocks, are offended by the stability of the Church and by her constant resistance to the demand that she, the unchanging witness to the Eternal God, put aside her pretensions to permanence and descend into the arena of conflicting opinions and chaotic change. Many of those who are divided among themselves in the warring camps of sectarian heresy appear able to unite on one point and one point only: the demand that Catholicism abdicate the fixed convictions of her constant faith or else suffer the reproach of men who profess to be free, not to say the persecution of those who demand complicity in their confusion as the price of their friendship.

No small part of the malice currently fostered against Catholicism is due to the fact that persons divided among themselves in heresy resent Catholic insistence on the divine rights of religious orthodoxy, on the necessity for unqualified and unchanging adherence, in letter and in spirit, to God's revelation of Himself through Jesus Christ yesterday, today and forever the same. Most of those who preach in season and out against the Church, her pretensions, her priests, prelates and people; most of those who denounce the Catholic Faith as static or obscurantist and Catholic leadership as reactionary and spiritual Fascism would desist tomorrow from their calumnies if today the Church would come down from the exalted rostrum on which she bears her unchanging witness to God's Eternal Sovereignty and take her place with them in the confused mob of contending spokesmen for sectarian religion.

This is not the first period of history in which the Church has been condemned for her refusal to change, to accommodate herself to the religious, political, scientific and social moods of the hour. The heretic has always protested against the intransigence of Catholicism and sooner or later he has always invoked the political powers of his day, whatever their forms or theories, in the effort to embarrass the Church and to help him persuade her to change.

The celebrated Lacordaire described in dramatic terms this ancient conflict between the spirit of truth and the spirit of error, between the Church of Christ and the partisans of spiritual compromise. He told how one by one the succeeding generations have come to the doors of the Vatican, the citadel of the Christian Faith. They have knocked there with buskin and with boot, with pikes in their day and later with rifles, and sometimes with the swagger sticks of diplomacy. Each time the Faith has appeared under the frail and wasted form of a high priest, usually an old man of three score years and ten or more. Even to the world he is a symbol of all his kind, of all Christ's priesthood and of all who share his Faith. But to the initiate, he is more than a symbol,—he is the secret of their constancy, the source of their confidence, the cornerstone of their indestructible Faith.

The Church Can Never Change

To the emissaries of compromise and of change who stand at her gates, the Faith, through the lips of the old man, has always asked: "What do you desire of me?"

"We ask you to change . . ." The demand is always the same.

No less constant is the answer: "I can never change!"

"But everything changes in this world. Politics change. Astronomy changes. Medicine has changed. Philosophy has changed. All things human change. Why must you remain always the same?"

"Because I come from God. I speak for God. I am answerable to God. And God is always the same."

Then in each generation the particular emphasis varies, but the basic challenge is this: "All this pertains to another order of things—to the world beyond, perhaps. But now you are in our world. Here below we are the masters and here in the world you are answerable to us—to us, the Emperors of the Roman State who oppress you in Clement and Calixtus and Marcellus the martyrs; and to me, Attila the Hun, Scourge of God, who threaten you in Leo the Saint; to us, the German kings who defy you in Pope St. Gregory and the French absolutists who harass you in Pope Boniface; to me, Napoleon who holds you captive in Pius VII; to us, the prophets of the new nationalism, who mock you in Pius IX and Leo XIII; to us, the founders of the new philosophy and the proud agnosticism who despise you in Pius X; to us the duces, the fuehrers and the marshals who revile and defraud you in Pius XI; to us, the spellbinders of the new pseudo-democratic secularism who propose to cripple your schools and scatter your people. On earth you are answerable to us—to our Atheism, Secularism, Statism, Nationalism, Militarism, Racism, Communism, whatever form the system behind our demand may take. We have a million men under arms. Most of them belong also to you and we can divide or destroy their loyalty. We shall draw the sword. The sword which can topple thrones and decimate nations is well able to cut off an old priest's head and to slash the pages of inspired Scriptures and ecclesiastical encyclicalis!"

"Carve as you wish and kill whom you may! Blood yields the aroma in which I inevitably recover my youthful vigor. Martyrdom restores my pristine innocence and strength. Persecution is the instrument of my purging and renewal!"

No Compromise

Then with fatal repetition comes the ancient offer to bargain: "Here, take half my sceptre and give me half your prestige. Make a sacrifice to peace. Come to terms with me—with my ancient idolatries, with my insurgent barbarism, with my new nationalism, with my invigorating skepticism, with my headstrong racism, with my flattering, false tolerance and my secular indifferentism. You need not change your inward illusions; simply restate your outward pretensions and come to terms with the changing world!"

Perennial and proud is the answer of Christ's Church:

"Keep thy purple, oh Caesar; thy progress, thy power, thy pleasures and prosperities, ye others in your turn. Keep thy peace and all else that thou canst offer. Tomorrow they will be dead together with you and we shall bury you with them. We shall chant over thee our De Profundis and Miserere, even as we prepare our recurring Te Deums and Alleluias—for these, too, never change. They express the spirit of the Church as she bespeaks the spirit of God!"

Stability of Church Guaranteed

Thus stands the Church in every age and under every sky—permanent in the midst of change, unchanging in the face of compromise. My friends, that same spirit of God which guarantees the stability of the Church is present in you. Christ has sent His other Paraclete to abide in you. Notre Dame has evoked in you the Faith by which you are one with the Church and by which you become the Church. My friends, you are the Church and all her characteristics should be yours.

Let her Faith within you be the permanent element in your lives—the stable principle underlying all your mental and cultural and spiritual growth. Stand fast in that Faith and then you can keep your minds open to wholesome change in all other things of which change is the law. Then can you take your place, as take your place you should, in the vanguard of every movement which seeks to re-interpret, to revise or even to revolutionize the service of men. But stand fast, I adjure you, in the Faith you have received through the apostles from the Christ who speaks for God!

So long as you abide in the Faith, you will be the hope of the world and the instruments through which the Church gives the world her greatest service. Through you, graduates of this great Catholic college already so closely identified with the epic and the genius of America, the Church will fulfill her great social mission among men: to be the principle of permanence in a world of change, the wellspring of sanctity in the midst of evil, the beacon of idealism in an age of cynicism and of the crudity which passes for realism, a ground for hope in the face of discouragement and mounting fear.

My friends, with all my heart I pray that Notre Dame has equipped you with everything that human scholarship and science have wrested from the wisdom of the past and the experience of the present. But above all else I pray that Notre Dame has been a place where you have grown in the wisdom of the Paraclete, the Spirit of Truth whom the world cannot receive. . . . But you shall know Him and He shall be in you. . . . May He abide with you forever! Amen!

Commencement Address

will Stalin march today if the free nations stand together and are prepared militarily to meet aggression.

Whether we like it or not, and most of us do not like the idea, the leadership of the free world today rests with the United States of America. To meet this new responsibility calls for action on our part both at home and abroad.

We must first safeguard and enrich our free institutions and our free economy in the United States. I yield to no one the esteem in which I hold our political institutions and our economic system. But it is not enough to point to our past accomplishments. If we are to preserve the American system for our children and their children, it's up to us not only to determine the sources of its strength and safeguard them, but to search out its weaknesses and correct them. It is up to us to see that the benefits of our great productiveness are spread to more and more of our people.

But our concern about free institutions and the freedoms of peoples must extend beyond our shores. We must remember that there are in Western Europe some 260 million people with whom most of us share a common ancestry. If totalitarianism should be imposed upon these people our own free society would be put in jeopardy. Surely two terrible wars have taught us that we cannot exist as a free, prosperous island in a world of slavery and misery.

In June of last year in a commencement address delivered at Harvard University, General Marshall proposed that the United States should help Europe to help itself back to economic health. He said, and I quote: "It is logical that the United States should do whatever it is able to do to assist in the return of normal economic health in the world, without which there can be no political stability and no assured peace. Our policy is directed not against any country or doctrine but against hunger, poverty, desperation, and chaos. Its purpose should be the revival of a working economy in the world so as to permit the emergence of political and social conditions in which free institutions can exist." That proposal of General Marshall's gave new hope to many desperate nations and found concrete expression here in the Foreign Assistance Act setting up the Economic Cooperation Administration.

The task set by the Congress for the Economic Cooperation Administration has no precedent in history. By the use of American dollars, American food, American steel, coal and other goods, we are to promote the recovery of hundreds of millions of people in many great nations from the disastrous aftermath of the world's most terrible war.

We are to seek above all to have each of these nations cooperate fully with all the others. We are to help them to help themselves. We are to use our own resources to build up other nations agriculturally, industrially, commercially. We are to exert ourselves to the utmost to strengthen nations which in the past we have regarded as rivals and competitors.

In other words, as the Soviets seek to share their slavery and starvation with the rest of the world we seek to share our freedom and abundance. As Elizabeth Barrett Browning wrote:

*Happy are all free peoples
Too strong to be dispossessed
But blessed are they among nations
Who dare to be strong for the rest.*

I cannot offer you the pleasant platitudes and rosy prospects of the commencement orator of 1909—nor need I offer you, as Winston Churchill offered to England "nothing but blood, sweat and tears." But I do say that if you and I—all of us—unite wholeheartedly in work and sacrifice and sweat we shall avoid the blood and the tears.

N. D. Law Association Organized at Reunion

The Notre Dame Law Association was organized on June 5 at a reunion of approximately 125 lawyers in the auditorium of the College of Law. Temporary officers were elected, a constitution adopted, and a nominating committee of ten members elected to choose nominees for election to the Board of Directors. As constituted, the Association shall consist of all Notre Dame men who are members of the legal profession, irrespective of whether or not they are graduates of the Notre Dame Law School.

A copy of the constitution and the report and recommendations of the nominating committee will be sent to those eligible for membership as soon as they are available. In accordance with constitutional provisions, balloting for directors will be conducted by mail and the officers of the Association will be elected by the Board from their members. Tentative plans call for the initial meeting of the Board of Directors during the Second Natural Law Institute to be held on the campus in December.

Francis Jones, '29, of South Bend was elected temporary chairman and Robert E. Sullivan, '40, a member of the law faculty, was chosen as temporary secretary. All inquiries should be directed to the secretary, Box 1393, Notre Dame, Ind.

ATHLETICS

Baseball

Coach Jake Kline's Notre Dame baseball team won seven out of its last eight games, after a disastrous start, to wind up the 1948 campaign with a record of eleven victories in 23 games.

The ultimate climax of the Irish season came in the final pair of contests, when with hundreds of returning alumni looking on, the Klinemen copped two decisions over the powerful Western Michigan nine. In the two commencement week-end games, Notre Dame staged its best slugging attack of the season to batter the Broncos, 13 to 0, in the first game of the series, and came back with a story-book ninth inning rally to grab the second, 4 to 3.

Other victims in the late season drive by Notre Dame baseballers included Michigan State, whom the Irish beat twice, 5 to 4 and 10 to 1, Purdue, 5 to 3, Northwestern, 3 to 0, and Toledo, 7 to 1. The only defeat suffered by the Irish in the last eight games of the campaign was a 3 to 2 loss to Purdue in the other half of a double header.

A woeful lack of hitting power hurt Notre Dame's chances in early season play as the Irish won only four of their first fifteen games. Coach Kline's diamond squad, with a good pitching and better than average fielding record, beat Xavier, 5 to 2, Iowa, 8 to 7, Indiana, 5 to 3, and Ohio State, 6 to 0, for their only wins prior to their late season spurt. Defeats suffered in early season play included two to Cincinnati, 4 to 3 and 2 to 1, Xavier 4 to 3, Bradley 2 to 1, Iowa 4 to 3, Indiana 5 to 1, Wisconsin 2 to 1 and 3 to 1, Ohio State 6 to 3, and Michigan 3 to 0 and 5 to 2.

Coach Kline experimented extensively with his lineup during most of the season. Genc Lavery played most of the year at third, Pete Kobosh was at shortstop until suffering an injured leg when he was replaced by Emile Garafolo, Benny Kozlik handled the keystone and Ray Petrzeka played regularly at first and did most of the cleanup hitting.

Track

Only one dual defeat marred a highly successful outdoor track season chalked up by Coach Elvin R. (Doc) Handy's Notre Dame track and field performers.

The Irish cindermen displayed an amazing balance of power in opening the outdoor campaign by romping to victory over Bradley and Drake in a triangular meet in Peoria, Ill. Notre Dame amassed a total of 89 points, thirty-four more than Bradley who came in second with 55 markers. Drake trailed in third place with 30 points.

Notre Dame's track squad bettered its point total of the previous week by swamping Marquette, 93 to 38, in the first of two dual meets scheduled for the Irish in outdoor competition. In the only other dual meet of the outdoor season, Michigan State rallied in the final event of the meet to edge past Notre Dame, 74 to 67, on Cartier field.

The Irish once again showed their team balance by walking off with top honors in the Indiana State meet on the Indiana University track at Bloomington. Notre Dame finished first with 83 1/7 followed by Indiana with 73 2/7, and Purdue with 48 2/7.

Notre Dame's highest point total of the season came in the Indiana AAU meet at Indianapolis which the Irish won with ease by scoring 102 points. The Handymen never were in trouble, having things pretty much their own way by either winning or placing in every event of the meet.

Standouts on the Irish squad during outdoor competition included dashman Bob Smith, hurdler Bill Fleming, middle-distance experts Capt. Ernie McCullough and Ray Sobota, miler Bill Leonard, miler and two miler Jim Kittell, two-miler Jim Murphy, and shotputter, discuss-thrower, javelin-tosser George Sullivan and Floyd Simmons.

The Irish cindermen ended their season preparatory to the national meet by finishing second in the CCC outdoor meet at Milwaukee. Coach Handy's trackmen, displaying their best form of the season, compiled 43 1/5 points to trail only the title-winning Illinois squad, which scored 58 points.

The Notre Dame 440-yard relay team took a third place, while the Irish mile relay aggregation grabbed a second. Individual point winners for Notre Dame in the meet included: Bill Leonard second and Jim Kittell third in the mile run; Jim Miller third and Jim Kittell fifth in the javelin throw; Bob Smith second in the 100-yard dash and second in the 220 yard dash; Ray Sobota, second in the 440 yard dash; Bill Fleming, fourth in the 120 yard high hurdles and second in the 220 yard lows; John Johnson, fourth in the discus throw; Jim Murphy, fifth in the two-mile run; and Jim Miller, tied for fifth in the pole vault.

Tennis

Coach Walter Langford's Notre Dame tennis team, although dropping its first match since 1946, finished the 1948 season among the collegiate leaders of the nation with a record of eight victories and only one defeat.

The Irish netters, shooting for their second undefeated season in succession, opened the season with a 9 to 0 shutout win over Wisconsin. After edging Michigan's powerhouse, 5 to 4, in what figured to be one of the season's toughest matches, the Notre Dame squad was not scored on for four consecutive matches. Included in this march were 9 to 0 victories over Marquette, DePauw and Kentucky, and a 6 to 0 triumph over Earlham.

Coach Langford's tennis experts chalked up a 7 to 2 victory over Western Michigan, for their seventh straight win, before their string was snapped. Northwestern provided the stumbling block for the Irish, as the Wildcats caught fire to register their best match of the season in disposing of Notre Dame, 7 to 2. The Irish finished the regular season by trouncing Purdue, 6 to 1.

In the Central Collegiate Conference tournament, held at the University of Detroit, Michigan State dethroned the Irish as team champion in a close race. Notre Dame finished second, as Jimmy Evert also was dethroned as singles champion by Michigan State's Reynolds. Jerry Evert advanced to the semi-finals of the singles competition before he was beaten by Kovleski, of William and Mary, who lost in the finals. Jimmy and Jerry Evert retained their doubles title in the meet.

Four Notre Dame performers were to compete in the NCAA tennis tournament held from June 21 to 26 at the University of California at Los Angeles. Members of the Irish squad competing in the nationals were Jimmy and Jerry Evert, Bob David and Gene Bittner.

Golf

Victory in the Indiana state intercollegiate tournament held at Notre Dame climaxed the 1948 season for the Irish golf team coached by Rev. George Holderith, c.s.c., during which the Notre Dame squad won five matches while losing four.

The Irish opened the season with an 18 to 9 victory over the University of Kentucky. After losing to Purdue, 14½ to 12½, and Wisconsin, 15½ to 11½, Notre Dame came back to overwhelm the University of Detroit linksmen to the tune of 22 to 7.

Minnesota edged the Irish, 17½ to 9½, but the only meet Notre Dame lost for the balance of the season was a 17 to 13 decision to Michigan. Numbered among the Notre Dame victims in late season play were Northwestern, 14 to 13, Louisville, 21 to 6, and Michigan State, 19½ to 10½.

In the Indiana state meet, the Irish were easy winners. Five of the Irish performers were included in the top list of finishers in the meet, and Jack Fitzpatrick, of Notre Dame, won the individual championship.

Leading performers for the Notre Dame squad in the 1948 season included Fitzpatrick, George Stuhr, Capt. Dick Seidel, Tom Dore, Jack Quinn and Tom Conley.

Football

Johnny Lujack, brilliant All-American Irish quarterback, maintained his record of never playing a losing game in the Notre Dame Stadium as he spearheaded a star-studded group of Old Timers to a 20 to 14 victory over the Varsity in the annual Varsity-Old Timers game played on May 15.

The Old Timers, bolstered by such stars as John Yonakor, George Tobin and Johnny Agnone from other years, jumped into the lead early in the first quarter when Bob Livingstone went over standing up from the seven-yard line. Old Timer scores were the result of sustained drives of 68, 94 and 91 yards. The first two touchdowns were tallied on a combined aerial and ground attack which the varsity was unable to solve.

Lujack, during the first scoring drive, tossed nine passes to eat up the yardage. Yonakor and Zeke O'Connor provided able targets, while Cornie Clatt and Pete Ashbaugh handled the ground maneuvers. Lujack tossed to Agnone in the end zone for the second touchdown scored by the Old Timers, while Livingstone again went over for the third score. Lujack made good on two of the three conversions.

Coy McGee provided one of the most brilliant runs of the day when he returned an Old Timer kickoff back to the Old Timer 14-yard line before he was hit from behind. Five plays later, halfback Emil Sitko plunged over to score.

The score stood at 20 to 7 until only seconds remained in the contest, when quarterback Bob Williams tossed a touchdown pass after the Varsity had intercepted a misdirected Lujack pass.

Proceeds from the annual game, attended by 20,000, went to the scholarship fund of the Notre Dame Club of St. Joseph Valley.

Stories of the Brothers

Alumni of many different years will be keenly interested in two booklets which were written by Brother Ernest Ryan, c.s.c., '25, and recently published by the Dujarie Press. The first booklet, entitled "These Two Hearts," is a story of Brother Columba O'Neill, c.s.c., who for almost 50 years, until his death in 1923, lived and worked at Notre Dame. A cobbler by trade, he was widely known for his devotion to the Sacred Heart and for the apparent cures resulting from his intercession.

The second booklet, "As a Star for All Eternity," is the story of Brother Aidan O'Reilly, c.s.c., '27, who died on Feb. 19, 1948. Like Brother Columba a member of the Community for almost 50 years, Brother Aidan served in many important posts among the Brothers and was especially known to alumni as rector of Brownson Hall for five years and as a teacher in many Brothers' high schools. The Alumni Office remembers him especially and gratefully for the innumerable pieces of news he so cheerfully brought in for use in the ALUMNUS.

The first booklet sells for fifty cents, the second for twenty-five cents. Address the Dujarie Press, Notre Dame, Ind.

Faculty Award Goes to Henry C. Staunton

Prof. Henry C. F. Staunton, of the Department of English, has been named the 1948 recipient of the Notre Dame Lay Faculty Award for distinguished service during the 1947-48 school year.

The award, which carries a $500 purse, is made annually by the Notre Dame Alumni Association to the outstanding member of the faculty. Last year's award went to Dr. Waldemar Gurian, professor of Political

PROF. HENRY C. F. STAUNTON

Science at Notre Dame and nationally prominent authority on Russia.

Professor Staunton, who has been a member of the faculty in the Department of English at Notre Dame since 1925, has specialized during his teaching in American Literature, English Literature of the 19th century and poetry. He is a native of Skaneateles, N. Y.

Professor Staunton received his bachelor of arts degree at Columbia University in 1899 and was awarded his master of arts degree at the same university in 1902. Before coming to Notre Dame he taught English, German and Latin in New York high schools and served as a tutor for college.

Audio-Visual Center Established at N. D.

An Audio-Visual Center, under the supervision of Orville Foster, is being established in the Main Building, on the campus. Special emphasis, this year, will be placed on showings for the Graduate School and the College of Arts and Letters. The Center will also help to select films to be used in the College of Commerce, and the various departments such as English, Biology, and Physical Education.

These movies will be educational and will be incorporated in regular classroom work. Mr. Foster eventually intends to purchase the Coronet Library, and Teaching Films Incorporated. All Catholic schools in the midwest states will have an opportunity to use these films.

Address to the Alumni

By REV. JOHN J. CAVANAUGH, C.S.C.

President, University of Notre Dame

Address delivered at the Alumni Dinner,

June 5, 1948, in the Dining Hall.

Because all of you are so much interested in the University and what takes place on the campus, I have gone over the SCHOLASTIC for the last year and jotted down the main headlines which, month after month, point out the events that have taken place. Let me mention a few of them by way of introduction.

September

Establishment of the Foundation Offices in old Carroll Study Hall under the direction of Harry Hogan and James E. Armstrong. . . . Appointment of foundation governors in 48 states and 15 foreign countries. Meeting of Alumni Board of Directors on the campus.

October

Etienne Gilson of the French Academy, through the generosity of the Michael P. Grace Foundation, gave a series of public lectures under the auspices of the Medieval Institute. . . . Notre Dame Foundation holds organizational meetings in Harrisburg, Pa., Washington, Newark, N. J., and New York. . . . Establishment of Great Book groups in South Bend and environs as a result of Notre Dame's initiation of the movement under Judge Roger Kiley in 1945. . . .

November

Dr. Stephen Kuttner gives second of Medieval Institute Lectures under auspices of the Grace Fund. . . . Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, Director of Chemistry in the Radiation Laboratories at the University of California, recipient of American Chemical Society Award in Pure Chemistry for 1947, and co-discoverer of plutonium, delivers Nieuwland Lectures. . . . Fall meeting of the Associate Board of Lay Trustees held, at which E. M. Morris became chairman to succeed P. C. Reilly.

December

First Natural Law Institute, emphasizing the Natural Law as the basis of American jurisprudence, held under the auspices of the College of Law. . . . Mortimer Adler of Chicago, Harold McKinnon of San Francisco, Ben Palmer of St. Paul, Father Doheny, Dean Marion delivered addresses. . . . The United States Navy, represented by Rear Admiral Cary Jones, presented a bronze plaque to the University citing "the efficiency, patience and cooperative spirit demonstrated by the University of Notre Dame in training NROTC, Navy V-12, and USNR midshipmen." . . .

January

Notre Dame Foundation, entering its first full year of operation, passes its first unofficial goal of $500,000. . . . SCHOLASTIC carries story to the effect that approximately one student in seven at the University is employed. . . .

February

Professor Francis X. Ackermann, known to Notre Dame students and alumni for more than fifty years, died in Dubuque, Ia. Professor Ackermann left half his life's savings, $3,000, to the Congregation of Holy Cross, most of it for the education of young men for the priesthood. . . .

March

The Notre Dame Student Council announced that the student campaign for the Foreign Student Relief Fund raised $35,529.39, the highest sum raised by any college in the country. . . . Dr. Bernard Waldman, professor of physics, said in an address that it is highly probable the Russian scientists have developed an atomic bomb. . . . Waldman, who observed the raids on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, doubted that the Russians could produce the bombs in quantity because of the immensity of organization required. . . . Frank C. Walker, alumnus '09, named recipient of the Laetare Medal. . . .

April

Twenty-fifth annual Universal Notre Dame Night observed April 5. . . . Professor James A. Reyniers, director of LOBUND, receives the first annual Notre Dame Faculty Award by the Notre Dame Club of Chicago. . . . Charles F. Williams of Cincinnati becomes a member of the Associate Board of Lay Trustees. . . . The 1948 Manual and Guide of the University of Notre Dame Foundation released for publication. . . .

May

Encouraged by the success of the Advisory Council for Science and Engineering, under the Chairmanship of Edgar Kobak, President of Mutual Broadcasting Company, the administration invited a number of its friends in industry, business and commerce, to form an Advisory Council for the College of Commerce. First meeting held May 21 and 22, and Charles Reagan, Vice-President of Paramount Pictures, was elected chairman. . . . Paul Hoffman, director of Economic Cooperation Administration, will deliver the commencement address in June. Archbishop Cushing of Boston will deliver the baccalaureate sermon. . . .

June to September, 1947

Summer school for 1947 was first since the war. Opened with an enrollment of 1,743. . . .

There is one event of last summer which calls for special attention. Father Hugh O'Donnell, one of the greats in a long line of gifted and distinguished presidents, died in the Students' Infirmary. I think we all realize more and more as the days go by that no person ever lived who, more than Father Hugh, was devoted to Notre Dame. The life of Father Hugh O'Donnell as a priest and administrator has been inspiring to me and to all who really knew him. I hope that occasionally you will give him a place in your prayers and keep him ever high in your gratitude and affections.

A year ago, at the alumni banquet, we were all doing a little whistling in the dark. Some of the problems were new. Some of the administrators were new. Some new procedures had to be established. Only the fact that we faced financial difficulties was distressingly old.

It is, therefore, with much more than the usual pleasure that we meet again tonight. Not that all our problems are solved. Not that all our difficulties are removed. And not that an extra year has brought too much experience or comfort to the administrators. But we feel, with some confidence, that the darkness is not so enveloping. And in the history of the intervening year there is much to commend.

The Notre Dame Foundation, which, a year ago, was largely a program of faith, has proved in the interim to be a program of works as well. The 1947 total of $551,803 from alumni and friends, is eloquent tribute to the efficacy of the Foundation as a co-ordinating agency and to men like Father Sweeney, Harry Hogan, Jim Armstrong and Art Haley for helping brilliantly to bring necessary support to Notre Dame.

The Alumni Association, which was born in Notre Dame's Silver Jubilee year, and which has stood by in all emergencies since, has proved through its members to be the anticipated agency, the field force, the personal source, upon which the Foundation program had to rise or fall. Response has indicated a rising well beyond the level of our hopes of a year ago. With lasting sincerity I thank each and everyone of you who have taken part in the program.

Notre Dame Is Well Equipped

Tonight, not with overconfidence or with a false security that all our work is done, but with the feeling that we have proved our strength to undertake the task ahead, I would like to supplement the reports and remarks already made, to dwell for just a few minutes on why Notre Dame is so well equipped on the one hand to produce the moral, responsible leadership we must have in America, and why, on the other hand, Notre Dame must have your continuing intensive support if the production is to be full and effective in its broader objectives.

You remember Christ's injunction to render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's. Notre Dame, as a great American Catholic University, possesses both the spiritual and the temporal characteristics.

Our spiritual wealth is an endowment that all education may envy. It arose on the day at the world's dawn when God said, "Let there be light."

The eternal tablets of stone delivered to Moses in the storm swept clouds of Sinai are part of our spiritual wealth.

Our inheritance found new vitality in the manger at Bethlehem when the Word was made Flesh. When the apostles were enjoined to teach all nations, we, too, received our commission, and we rejoice in Christ's promise to be with us all days even to the consummation of the world.

So we are not fearful of our spiritual wealth and of our inheritance and commission. Rather, we would be prodigal and let all know to whom the influence of Notre Dame may extend.

You will recall that the spiritual wealth of the world has never been associated essentially with either idleness or material wealth. Instead, men of all ages have forsaken material things to follow the call of the spirit.

Christ was born in poverty. He lived in poverty. His miracles were worked only within three years after He had left the humble carpenter shop in Nazareth. The miracles were performed not for His personal comfort, but for the manifestation of the Divine origin of His ministry. The need for miracles is unhappily proved by the tragic failure of His time to accept Him even upon their testimony.

Notre Dame today is not asking for miracles that we may enjoy comfort or that we may avoid work.

The young priest of 27 years who stood in the snows by St. Mary's Lake in 1842 did not see about him a material Paradise. The vision was of the spirit, but so strong that it evoked the willingness to endure great physical privation.

Many Specific Needs

It was not the path of pleasure or of comfort, for that same priest, after thirty-seven long years of bitter struggle to build his Notre Dame, had to stand by its smoldering ruins, renew his faith, and state simply "We will begin rebuilding at once."

What we are suggesting now to our alumni and friends is not a departure from this Christian tradition of poverty. We are asking only those things which will give proper and effective manifestation of the purposes and ministry of this University.

There are many drastic specific needs here at Notre Dame as you know. One of them that can be met only by the immediate help of alumni, and friends whom you can induce to help Notre Dame, is this: the provision of new space and facilities for both our departments of physics and chemistry. Laboratory space is inadequate. Space for research is hopelessly limited. Equipment amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars housed in old Science Hall is in grave danger of destruction by fire. It is our intention to construct adequate facilities for the work in chemistry and physics as soon as the contributions of alumni and friends make it possible. I am utterly confident that Notre Dame can rely on help from her alumni. I believe that in this emergency the alumni will be willing to solicit help from their non-alumni friends.

Housing Facilities Lacking

There is another drastic need which I should like to mention. This need concerns directly the alumni, the parents of students, and friends of the University. We have no housing facilities to take care of returning alumni and friends. I believe that this need can reasonably be called urgent. At present there is no place where the alumni may stay together on the campus or where the students may take their parents or visiting guests for comfortable dining facilities. A guest house, a Notre Dame Inn, would meet such needs. We have already had preliminary plans drawn. We are very anxious to begin construction on such a guest house, but again we cannot actually start until we get help of alumni and friends.

If we speak of new buildings, it is not that young men may be enlightened for modern convenience and appearance, but that young men may be enlightened for Christian leadership more quickly, more efficiently; that they may be endowed with a zest for learning and for leadership that will speed and enhance the part they play in society.

If we ask for recreational facilities, it is not that our men and our boys wish to neglect the serious business of education.

Father John Cavanaugh addresses the alumni gathered at the banquet in the faculty dining room of the Dining Hall on June 5. Seated at the table are Harry Hogan (behind flowers), Rev. Thomas A. Steiner, C.S.C., provincial; Dean Clarence E. Manion, Father Robert Sweeney, and Ed "Moose" Krause.

Rather, it is our experience, calling for those things which bring health of body and heart, to lengthen the life and give the glow of competitive spirit to the rich routines of reasons.

If we ask endowments for study, it is not to hand out opportunity on a platter to young men too apathetic to seek it. Instead, we wish to free young men from the delays in time and the dismay of spirit that come with struggling daily against the long-demonstrated truths of economic adversity. Our objective is not the subsidy of lethargy, but the stimulus of genius.

If we ask for better pay for teachers and better equipment for classroom and laboratory, it is not that our towers may be ivory. Rather, the teacher who is secure in his personal life, who moves in a professional environment in which his work is unhampered and his pride and dignity can flourish, transmits to his students a competence impossible to produce through pedagogical penury and makeshift.

We can hope and work always for the day of more effective leadership when Notre Dame men, imbued with sound principles of morality, will more largely influence the society of which they are part.

It seems to me that there are two approaches, and we must follow both. One is the creation of a sense of morality within boys who by their own gifts are already leaders. That is a process which has been followed through the ages, but with only varying success. In our own time we have seen such natural leadership in the power of the world seemingly recede to its farthest point from the religious basis upon which it must rest in a world of true peace and justice.

The second course, which seems to be the particular mission of a Catholic University such as Notre Dame, is to create the spirit of leadership in moral men.

N.D. Strengthens Spiritual Practices

In the young men who now storm our gates seeking Catholic higher education, we have, as we know, a priceless reservoir of youth trained in the rich traditions of our American schools, most of them enjoying either the powerful moral backgrounds of the Catholic home or the Catholic parochial or high school. Even those not of the Catholic faith, come to Notre Dame with a deep appreciation of those fundamentals of life which are as American as they are Catholic, as vital to home and country as they are to Church.

With our spiritual heritage we can insure them of the continuing opportunities for strengthening those spiritual practices and for bringing to their faith the glorious revelation of its reconciliation with reason in the pulsing philosophy of the Scholastics.

Notre Dame is rich in chapels, rich in priests, rich in laymen who are competent to serve and to counsel the progress of character and the salvation of souls.

TODAY

By EDWARD A. FISCHER, '37

SUMMER SESSION began June 21 with an enrollment of about 1,700.

EIGHTY YOUNG WOMEN received "diplomas" at Notre Dame, June 3. They are wives of eighty veterans who completed their courses here this semester. Inscriptions on the "sheepskins" stated that each wife has "survived the postwar hardships of South Bend housing, the rigors of Indiana weather, and with courage beyond the call of duty has helped her husband to a happy graduation." The certificates were presented at a farewell party in the Vettville recreation hall.

THE SENIOR CLASS made a three-day spiritual retreat just before Commencement. The retreat closed with a communion breakfast at which George W. Strake, Houston, Tex., oil executive, was the principal speaker.

THE FIRST GROUP of students enrolled in graduate courses in Correctional Administration started their six-month internships this month, in various state and federal agencies.

These courses at Notre Dame prepare selected students for careers in probation, parole, and institutional work as well as for work in related agencies dealing with delinquency prevention and control. Students are awarded the Master of Science in Education degree upon successful completion of two semesters of graduate study and six-month internship in an approved institution or agency.

A SIMPLICITY OF FAITH among Catholics in the United States "seldom seen elsewhere" was praised by the Rev. Victor White, O.P., of Blackfriars, Oxford, England, during a recent visit to the campus.

"It is hard to explain, but it is a lack of shyness about the faith, a matter-of-factness, a directness, that you seldom find in England," Father White observed.

A FELLOWSHIP for advanced study and research leading to more efficient use of farm products has been established here by the Central Soya company of Fort Wayne, Ind.

A bachelor's degree in chemical engineering is a prerequisite for the fellowship and the award is made on the basis of merit. The recipient will receive $1,200 for the calendar year, plus remission of tuition and fees, in addition to any benefits for which he may qualify under the GI Bill of Rights. The fellowship permits full time work leading to the master's degree in one year.

DR. WALDEMAR GURIAN, professor of Political Science, returned here for the summer session after teaching for five weeks at the Universities of Bonn and Cologne in Germany, under auspices of the Rockefeller Foundation.

DR. FERDINAND A. HERMENS, professor of Political Science, is teaching courses in constitutional government at the Universities of Bonn and Munster under a special grant from the Rockefeller Foundation. Before returning to the campus in September he will study the functioning of the new French and Italian constitutions.

PROFESSOR THOMAS E. DOWNEY, of the Department of History, will offer courses in the History and Civilization of the United States during the summer session at the University of Havana, Cuba. While in Cuba he will also do research in the history of the Caribbean area.

PROFESSOR JAMES A. CORBETT, of the Department of History, is in France conducting research in Mediaeval History for use in the second volume of his Catalogue of Manuscripts of Mediaeval History. The first volume of this study covered manuscripts on Mediaeval Alchemy in Paris; the second will list the manuscripts in the other public libraries of France. While overseas, Professor Corbett will also collect material for the Archives at Notre Dame on French missionaries who came to the United States during the nineteenth century.

INDIVIDUAL ACHIEVEMENT in the publishing of The Journalist, experimental weekly of the Department of Journalism, was noted and rewarded by The South Bend Tribune.

Five $20 awards were presented to outstanding editors and writers by Franklin D. Schurz, vice-president and treasurer of the Tribune.

A LITURGICAL PROGRAM at an advanced level is being offered by the Graduate School during the summer session.

With a teaching staff that includes some outstanding authorities on Liturgy, the graduate program will comprise a four-year cycle of courses leading to the degree of Master of Arts.

An undergraduate course in liturgy, which means literally the public worship of God, is being offered this summer.

FIVE FACTORS which "could lead to an open shooting war" between the U. S. and Russia were discussed by Dr. Waldemar Guriat at a forum on War and Peace. The five factors are:

1. The continuous possibility of sudden incidents which cannot be foreseen.

2. Fear of the future on both sides, a fear that could cause a preventive war against Russia or a counter-offensive war by her to protect her satellites.

3. The existence of the two-power system that makes situations inflexible.

4. The belief inside Russia that she is threatened by capitalists who want to uproot her regime.

5. Hysteria which had been created by Communist propaganda and the actions of men like Molotov.

MARRIAGE VOWS were renewed by more than 200 married Notre Dame students and their wives during the Canis Conference held here. The Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, C.S.C., chaplain of Vettville, conducted the conference.

DR. PAUL C. BARTHOLOMEW, Professor of Political Science, was one of thirty-five leading professors of government and administration to attend a two-week conference with government leaders in Washington to study and observe the practical operations of the United States Government.

IF THE SUPREME COURT's decision in the Champaign School Case is to be taken literally, then all reference to the Declaration of Independence and other notable American documents mentioning God must be eliminated from the nation's public school books.

This view was expressed by Dr. Clarence E. Manion, dean of the College of Law at Notre Dame, speaking at the annual communion breakfast of the Catholic Lawyers Guild of Detroit. This decision, he said, calls for "a wall of separation between God and government."

The literal meaning of the decision, Dean Manion added, is that public school books "must hereafter be expurgated of all references to such fundamental American documents as the Mayflower Compact, the Declaration of Independence, Washington's Farewell Address, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, Madison's Journals of the Constitutional convention, the Northwest Ordinance of 1787, and the Constitutions of Michigan, Illinois and practically every other state in the Union, all of which begin with a prayer to God as the source of all of our liberties."

Dean Manion also pointed out that the decision involved such practical considerations as "continued tax exemption of church property, modification of United States coins to eliminate mention of God, and the almost universal existence of state legislation against blasphemy and immorality."

THE DEBATE TEAM, under direction of Coach Leonard Sommer, won seventy out of eighty-five matches. While gaining prominence as one of the outstanding collegiate debate teams in the nation, the Notre Dame wranglers were victorious in four of the seven tournaments in which they participated. They took top honors in the Iowa Invitational Tournament, the Purdue Novice Tourney, the Eau Claire Speech Tournament and the Tau Kappa Alpha National Discussion Meet, at the University of Indiana. In the latter meet, Notre Dame debater Frank Finn, of Denison, Tex., won the Wachtel Plaque, symbolic of the best speaker in the contest, for the third consecutive year.

The season was highlighted with a debate on the subject of Universal Military Training against a team from Purdue. This debate is one of the nine outstanding debates chosen from throughout the United States which will be printed in the 1947-48 University Debaters' Annual.

REASONS WHY students attending Catholic schools should share in public welfare benefits such as free bus rides, textbooks, school lunches, and health services, were explained by the Rev. Dr. John A. O'Brien, of Notre Dame, in an article in the May 19 issue of "The Christian Century," leading Protestant weekly.

The article, entitled "Equal Treatment for All Children," was written by Father O'Brien at the invitation of Dr. Paul Hutchinson, editor of the publication. Primary purpose of the article is to set forth to thousands of Protestant ministers and church workers the reasonableness of claims by Catholics to participate in the auxiliaries to education provided by public taxes.

Most of present tension and apprehension by non-Catholics on this question is attributed by Father O'Brien in his article to a misunderstanding of Catholic aims and objectives. "The so-called school problem can be solved to the satisfaction of all, he observed, if all parties bring to the discussion a spirit of friendliness, understanding and good will. Catholics are not seeking to maneuver their Church into a specially privileged position nor are they seeking public funds to teach the Catholic religion," he added.

Catholics, for example, he said, are asking that their children be not penalized for exercising their unquestioned Constitutional right (to attend a non-profit, semi-public religious school) by being excluded from public health programs, supported by city, state or federal funds, to safeguard the health of our nation's youth. The welfare of a community and the health and strength of a nation demand that such public benefits be distributed without regard to the particular type of school attended, he declared. Any other policy, he continued, would infringe upon the constitutional rights of parents to send their children to accredited schools of their own choosing, and would be discriminatory, unfair and un-American to the core.

The article points out that virtually all public discussion of the school question has "missed the boat." It has been based on the mistaken assumption, Father O'Brien observed, that Catholics are striving to impose upon the public the cost of educating their children. The fact is that Catholics are saving the taxpayers of the nation more than $400,000,000 annually through the education of more than two million children without a penny of state or federal aid, he said. This tremendous fact, he emphasized, has been forgotten or ignored.

"The present tension regarding the school question, bristling with suspicion, fear, misunderstanding and rancor, brings out vividly the harm that results from the regrettable aloofness in almost every community of the representatives of the three major faiths," Father O'Brien wrote. "What is desperately needed is for representatives of these faiths to meet together, not to discuss theological differences, but to find ways of working together in a spirit of Christian unity for the common welfare.

"We shall invite all of them to visit the work being done in the church-related school to see for themselves its high standards, its Americanism, its thoroughly Christian atmosphere in which good will toward citizens of all faiths and colors is inculcated not merely as a civic duty but a religious one as well.

After reading proofs of this article, Mr. Dewitt Wallace, editor of "Reader's Digest," declared: "It's a signal service to religious tolerance when an article by an outstanding Catholic priest is featured in a leading Protestant weekly. But when that article is as friendly, non-controversial and persuasively logical as this contribution to 'The Christian Century,' that service becomes an event of major import."

A FOUR-YEAR COURSE in Geology will be offered at Notre Dame starting in September. The new Department of Geology is under direction of Dr. Archie J. McAlpin, former head of the Department of Geology at West Texas State College and formerly with the United States Geological Survey and the United States Bureau of Reclamation. He has been teaching here since 1946, when geology was taught as a special division in the Department of Chemistry. His assistant in the new department will be Dr. Raymond Gutschick, who came to Notre Dame last year from the University of Illinois.

—o—

EDWARD M. HIGH-JONES, of Keble College, Oxford, England, is a special member of the faculty in the Department of modern European history. He has recently published a volume in the "Teach Yourself History" series and previously had published, with E. R. Raddis, "An American Experiment," a book on the economic development of the United States.

Report to the Board of Directors

By HARRY G. HOGAN

Chairman, Notre Dame Foundation and President, Alumni Association

The Principal Excerpts from the Address at the Alumni Banquet, June 5

"The Foundation is Big Business." This statement in a recent letter from E. M. Morris, '06, confirms what I have thought from the start. This is particularly true as we move outside the alumni into the broad field of non-alumni contributors.

Competition From Friends:

For example, from our 217 City Chairmen we receive reports of local drives for colleges, schools, churches, hospitals—largely Catholic. Notre Dame may seem far away. But while we avoid competition or antagonism among these friends, we must make Notre Dame's case very tangible for our Foundation workers.

Need for Pictures:

We need to know our needs and our potentials. If 10,000 alumni gave an average $50 annually, we would have $500,000 from that source. In 1947, 7,887 alumni gave an average of $31. We believe we can increase the number and the "sights."

Non-Alumni Generous But Few:

Non-alumni friends in 1947 numbered 203, giving an average of $1,500. We should be able to increase the numbers and the total amount without too much problem, to equal the alumni total.

Must Multiply Friends:

However, to secure the projected $25,000,000 within the suggested 10-year period, the 50-50 suggestion above must be altered, and non-alumni friends multiplied on a 4 to 1 ratio with alumni. To begin that program we suggest that our alumni now begin to enlist at least one non-alumnus friend for each two alumni. This group would not only give, whatever their starting gift might be, but would themselves spread the habit among other friends.

Review of Large Gifts:

The above program is volume, Big Business. From 1942 to 1948, 420 friends giving $500 or more have given Notre Dame almost $1,500,000. Of this number, 248 were alumni, 172 non-alumni. You can see the advantages of increasing the number, both alumni and non-alumni. Amount will follow.

Alumni Solicitors Key to Success:

The Big Business success of the Foundation depends on the zeal of alumni to solicit, especially the 248 large donors, the 7,887 contributors of 1947. There is no substitute for personal solicitation. While we have multiplied our numbers of alumni givers two and one-half times in five years, and multiplied our total amount three times in the same period, the job of raising two and one-half million dollars annually average is far beyond this scale, which has produced only $1,800,000 in seven years.

Foundation Differs From Big Business in Nature:

The Foundation is non-profit, neither producing nor rendering a direct service. While we must have Big Business technique to achieve volume, our sales program is the intangible faith of people in Notre Dame. We differ also, however, from the major philanthropic causes which depend entirely on gifts for support.

We Must Show Deficits or Expansion Needs:

As a result of the above differences the Foundation must have a clear program, based on proof of deficits existing in the necessary work of the University, or needs for expansion to do the necessary work of the University.

Building Basic Practical Needs:

For example, an increase in the facilities for the Department of Chemistry is a critical need for the proper conduct of this valuable and famous department of the University. Whether this takes the form of a new building or a new unit supplementing present facilities, the minimum funds necessary will be $1,500,000.

And, apart somewhat from the academic, is the need for a Guest House on the campus to serve alumni, parents and friends. This would be a meeting place for our salesmen, just as many large firms maintain residence facilities for out-of-town guests.

The many other needs of the University will be similarly shown in tangible, orderly fashion.

Immediate Building Program Must Be Sound:

The soundness of the building program is of course a matter of the University's study. We have faith in the University judgment. We believe that the University can have equal faith in the ability of alumni to further this program.

Committees and Manuals:

While we have no desire to overburden our workers with organization or literature, much progress can be made and much time saved by proper use of the experience of

One of the reunion innovations the class of '28 introduced was the choir, made up of '28 Glee Club men who sang the Mass for the deceased members of the class. Father Andrew Mulreany, C.S.C., '28, is directing, and Vince Carney is the organist. Frank Creadon (front row, center), member of the Paulist Choir in Chicago, organized the group, about half of whom are shown here.

Michael J. Ney, of Omaha, who received one degree in 1897 and another in 1898, was the only member of the '98 class who was able to come to the campus for the reunion. Mr. Ney was also present for the reunion in 1947, and he renewed this year many of the fine friendships he had made at the University a year earlier. Mr. Ney is shown here with Father John Murphy, vice-president, at a dinner held in the faculty dining room of the Dining Hall on June 4.

our alumni and friends in the fields of organization and sales, and by the proper attractive presentation of our patterns and experience in convenient literature.

All Recommendations Purely Advisory:

In any recommendation of the Foundation, we are purely advisory, and the University continues to be the author of decisions involving its progress. But in the work of aiding this progress financially, many suggestions naturally arise.

Summary Assumptions and Conclusions:

Perhaps all of the foregoing might be considered a build-up to the stating of these summary bases for exploration, rejection or revision:

1. Assume that Notre Dame cannot fully finance its expanded needs, and that this can only be done by free gifts from friends.

2. Northwestern in 1947 showed a $14,000 profit for the year; Yale a $600,000 operating loss. Even if Notre Dame made a million dollars net—which of course is fabulous—it would still take 25 years to achieve what is actually an urgent building fund.

3. And assume therefrom that Notre Dame cannot properly wait this 25 years—or the multiple of it actually necessary—to do what urgently needs to be done.

Then the following conclusions appear:

1. The Foundation as a Big Business project must be put in operation on a sound, active basis, with (a) a sound reason for raising money for Notre Dame, and (b) a sound method of presenting this reason.

2. There should be sufficient faith in Notre Dame's destiny to conclude that (a) Notre Dame will have students (b) that enrollment, however, with or without government subsidy to students, may create financial problems, as may the decrease of present sources of main or auxiliary funds, and that (c) new sources of income should be advanced through the Foundation without delay.

3. That a joint commitment of faith in the future of Notre Dame should be made by the University and its alumni and friends to plan on the beginning of a basic building program to include the urgently needed chemistry facilities. And as soon as there is evidence of a flow of funds to make the project economically sound, the building of a Guest House to relieve the housing and feeding problems of outside visitors should be considered an almost equally urgent project.

A Target Must Be Set Up:

The real need, money, will come easier with a tangible target—a building program. Annual income will help, but we must not lose sight of the exceptions, the possible large donors—more likely to be uncovered by the thorough solicitation.

There Are Untouched Fields of Aid:

There are other fields of financial aid being opened—Wills and Bequests from which very substantial aid can come, and Insurance, which brings many giving forms to the donor.

Faith in Notre Dame:

It should be concluded that Notre Dame will fulfill the crystal clear purpose for which it was established. It should be concluded that Notre Dame will gear itself to necessity and circumstances, but that through the Foundation and its alumni and friends, its destiny might well be greater and its achievements sooner.

Competition in the philanthropic field, the need of the University, and the identity of the Foundation as Big Business make our consideration of the problems and our work matters of serious concern to us all.

N. D. Lay Trustee Dies In Chicago on May 26

William J. Corbett, a member of the Associate Board of Lay Trustees and a generous and devoted friend of Notre Dame for many years, died in Mercy Hospital, Chicago, on May 26.

The 75-year-old Chicagoan was president of the C. W. Marks Shoe Co. and a director of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad. He was scheduled to receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree at the June 6 Commencement. It was awarded posthumously by Father John Cavanaugh, c.s.c., president, at the exercises.

The Funeral Mass was offered in Holy Name Cathedral, Chicago, on May 29, with Father Cavanaugh delivering the sermon.

Surviving Mr. Corbett are the widow, a son, William J., Jr., '27, and a daughter.

Monogram Club Elects Fred Miller President

Fred Miller, of Milwaukee, 1928 football captain and volunteer assistant line coach during the past two seasons, was elected president of the Notre Dame Monogram club at the annual business meeting held in the Notre Dame Dining Halls on June 6.

Ray Roy, of South Bend, former track star, was elected vice-president, while Steve Ronay, also of this city, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Named to the new board of directors were Judge Roger Kiley, of Chicago, Greg Rice, of New York City, Johnny Nyikos, of Syracuse, N. Y., formerly of South Bend, and Ed Krause, Jake Kline and Joe Boland, all of South Bend. The latter is the retiring president.

Rev. Vincent Mooney, c.s.c., of Columbus, O., was named chaplain of the club.

Frank Leahy, head coach and director of athletics, was the principal speaker.

Awards Presented at Class Day Exercises

29 Students Receive Medals, Awards and Prizes; Ensigns Commissioned; Four "Dome" Award Recipients Announced

Twenty-nine students were honored with prizes at the annual class day exercises in the Navy Drill Hall on June 5.

George A. Sullivan, of East Walpole, Mass., football tackle and president of the senior class, received the Byron V. Kanaley prize for the senior athlete exemplary as a student and a leader of men. He introduced the speakers, Norbert J. Geier, of Cashton, Wis., who gave the class oration, and John D. Harrington, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who gave the valedictory address.

Donald N. Kersten, c.s.c., a seminarian in the Congregation of Holy Cross, was awarded the Breen medal for oratory. Medals were awarded to the members of the Notre Dame debating team, Francis Finn, Jr., of Denison, Texas; William P. Dixon, Casper, Wyo.; Thomas R. Ninneeman, Tomah, Wis.; William T. Carey, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Quintin E. Marlow, San Antonio, Texas.

Oratorical Prizes Awarded

The Cavanaugh-Goodrich prizes for the best orations dealing with the fundamentals of American government went to Donald A. Klene, of Quincy, Ill.; William P. Dixon and Albert E. Grzebier, Providence, R. I.

Quintin E. Marlow received the freshman oratorical prize and Owen J. Donley, of Elk Point, S. D., received the Meehan Medal for the best essay in English by a senior.

The Mitchell Memorial Award for playwriting was won by Samuel J. Hazo, of Pittsburgh. Joseph L. O'Brien, of El Paso, Texas, received the American Institute of Chemists' student medal for the highest scholastic average in chemistry.

Martin J. Rock, of Roberts, Ill., was awarded the Farabaugh prize, established of Law. The Miles O'Brien prize, in memory of Gallitzin A. Farabaugh, South Bend attorney, for high scholarship in the College of the late Miles O'Brien, of South Bend, for excellence in mechanical drawing, went to Benjamin N. Pavlakovic, of Hobart, Ind.

The Hoynes award for the law school senior with the best record in scholastic grades, application, deportment and achievement was presented to Leonard C. Boykin, of Camden, S. C. Boykin and James D. Sullivan, of Helena, Mont., received the Vint. D. Vaughan memorial prizes for proficiency in court trial practice. Sullivan also won the Nathan Burkan memorial prize for the best paper on copyright law.

The Andrew F. Kervick gold medal for drawing went to John L. Sosenheimer, of Fort Wayne, Ind., and the Nellie Wynn Kervick gold medal for architecture went to Patrick J. Weishapl, of Norfolk, Neb. Both awards were founded by Prof. Francis W. Kervick, head of the department of architecture, in honor of his parents.

Francis A. Prokes, of Jackson, Minn., was the recipient of the school medal of the American Institute of Architects, awarded annually to a senior for general excellence in architecture. John L. Haff, of West Frankfort, Ill., ranked second.

The Monsignor Francis A. O'Brien prize for special study and distinction in a historical essay was awarded to Edward J. LeCouteur. The Father Cavanaugh prize for the best biographical sketch of a personage who has contributed to the upbuilding of Notre Dame was awarded to James J. John, of Browersville, Minn.

Karl G. Schweinfest, of Pleasantville, N. Y., received the J. Sinnott Myers prize for excellence in editorial composition in the department of journalism. The Hugh A. O'Donnell gold medal was presented to James H. Butler, of Olney, Ill., for the highest average in the Department of Journalism in his senior year.

The Donoghue prizes for essays on labor relations and labor problems were won, respectively, by John O. Grimes, of Birmingham, Ala., and John D. Harrington, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hamilton Award

Alfred R. Westrick, of Hinsdale, Ill., received the Hamilton award for the college of commerce graduate with the highest scholastic average. The Hamilton medal for the graduate showing the most improvement in public speaking went to James J. Murtagh, of Toledo, O.

Climaxing the class day program, Capt. Anthony L. Danis, U.S.N., commandant of the naval unit at Notre Dame, commissioned 11 members of the reserve officers' training corps as ensigns in the naval reserve. They will be placed on inactive duty.

Dome Awards

Four seniors were named recipients of the annual Dome awards. The awards, symbolic of noteworthy service to the University and excellence in academic record and extra-curricular activities, were made to:

Mr. Boykin, magna cum laude graduate, president of the Law Club, and past president of the Student Council;

Frank J. Keenan, Dover, N. H., editor of Scholastic, secretary of the Veterans Club, chairman of the student mock Republican national convention, and listed in "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges";

John F. McCormick, Lima, O., deputy grand knight of the K. of C., cum laude graduate, Student Council secretary, co-chairman of Junior Prom, and listed in "Who's Who —";

Mr. Sullivan, cum laude graduate, president of the senior class, president of the Monogram Club, president of the Boston Club, tackle on the football team, chairman of the Senior Ball, and listed in "Who's Who —".

Alumni Sons Elect Officers on Campus

George C. Witteried, Jr., son of George C., '21, Chicago, is president of the Generation Club, newly organized on the campus by the sons and grandsons of alumni.

George A. Patterson, Jr.; also of Chicago, is vice-president of the new organization, Ed McCarthy is secretary and Eric Rey de Castro is the treasurer. Ray Miller, Jr., is the sergeant-at-arms. Directors are Joe Harmon, Hal Plamondon, Tom Sheehan, Lou Keifer, Leo Vogel, Bob Sanford, Dick Feldpausch, Jim Vogel, Bill Farabaugh, Tom Beckman, Bill Kennedy, Walter Clements, Tom Botzum and Jim Carroll.

Active members of the new club will be the students currently in school who are the sons or grandsons of former Notre Dame students. But also eligible for membership, according to the present plans, will be the alumni fathers and grandfathers of the current members. Other classifications of membership may be added later as the club develops.

Tentative plans for the club include a pre-game get-together for members, their families and friends at the time of the Northwestern-Notre Dame football game next Nov. 13. Plans are also being considered for a spring get-together at the time of the Old Timers-Varsity football game and for a father-and-son golf match on the University course.

THE ADVISORY COUNCIL OF THE COLLEGE OF COMMERCE

Commerce Advisory Council Created

Charles M. Reagan, '17, New York City, vice-president and a director of Paramount Pictures, Inc., is the first chairman of the newly-created Advisory Council for the College of Commerce.

The Advisory Council, Father John J. Cavanaugh, c.s.c., president, indicated, will "bring men of achievement into closer association with the work of the College of Commerce at Notre Dame and will enable these men to share the responsibility of training tomorrow's leaders." The first meeting of the council, featuring the election of officers, was held at Notre Dame on May 21 and 22. Judson S. Sayre, president of Bendix Home Appliances, Inc., South Bend, was named vice-chairman.

To Advise on Courses

Among the purposes of the new Council, according to Father Cavanaugh, will be to advise on courses in the College of Commerce at Notre Dame, to enlarge the relationships between the College and industry, and to offer suggestions for specific studies on subjects beneficial to industry. The Council also will assist in the establishment of a plan in which at least one course in the curriculum of the College of Commerce will be staffed by experts from industry.

This new course, believed to be the first of its kind at any American college, will be known as the "Bishop O'Hara Business Seminar," honoring the Most Rev. John F. O'Hara, c.s.c., former president of Notre Dame and now Bishop of Buffalo, who founded the College of Commerce.

A required course for all seniors in the College of Commerce at Notre Dame, the new lecture series will bring nationally-known leaders in business and industry to Notre Dame to lecture in the College of Commerce for periods of one to two weeks. The unique benefit of the course will be the coordination of all the courses taught students in the College of Commerce during their four years, with practical application of principles by men of experience.

Lecturers Designated

The first two lecturers for the new course, which will start next September, are Robert H. O'Brien, of New York City, Secretary of Paramount Pictures, Inc., a member of the council, and Colonel Daniel Martin, of Houston, Tex., director of operations for the Hughes Tool Company.

Members of the Council besides Mr. Reagan, Mr. Sayre and Mr. O'Brien include: T. E. Braniff, president of the Braniff International Airways, Dallas, Tex.; O. J. Caron, president of the Caron Spinning Company, Rochelle, Ill.; John A. Coleman, formerly chairman of the board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange and a partner in Adler, Coleman and Co., brokerage firm in New York City; James E. Coston, theatre properties executive, Chicago, Ill.; William R. Daley, president of the Otis and Co., Cleveland, O.; Noah Dietrich, executive vice-president of the Hughes Tool Company, Houston, Tex.; Robert Dwyer, vice-president of the Anaconda Copper Mining Co., New York City; and Kerwin H. Fulton, president of Outdoor Advertising, Inc., New York City.

Also: James Gerity, president of the Adrian-Michigan Corp., die casting company, Adrian, Mich.; Robert H. Gore, publisher of the Ft. Lauderdale (Fla.) Daily News and prominent hotel owner, realtor and insurance executive; James M. Haggard, president of the Haggard Co., clothing manufacturer, Dallas, Tex.; Robert M. Hamilton, '34, president of the Dunmore Co., manufacturer of electric motors, Racine, Wis.; Daniel P. Higgins, of the Eggers and Higgins architectural firm, New York City; Charles Hook, chairman of the Board of the American Rolling Mill Co., Middletown, O.; Neil C. Hurley, '32, president of the Independent Pneumatic Tool Co., Chicago, Ill.; John T. Kirby, vice-president of the W. R. Grace Company, New York City; and Peter C. Reilly, Jr., vice-president, Reilly Tar and Chemical Corporation, Indianapolis, Ind.

Listing Continued

Also: Herbert A. Mendelson, real estate investor, Los Angeles, Calif.; John F. O'Shaughnessy, oil and gas executive, Wichita, Kans.; Edward J. Quinn, partner in the Murphy, Lanier and Quinn, accountant, auditor and tax consultant firm, Chicago, Ill.; William H. Regnery, president of the Western Shade Cloth Co., Chicago, Ill.; George W. Strake, independent oil operator and lay trustee of the University, Houston, Tex.; William K. Warren, president of the Warren Petroleum Corp., Tulsa, Okla.; Jack P. Whitaker, president of the Whitaker Cable Corp., North Kansas City, Mo.; and John J. Reynolds, real estate executive,

Report of the Secretary-Treasurer

By JAMES E. ARMSTRONG
Alumni Secretary and Foundation Executive Vice-Chairman

For the Alumni Board and for the Alumni Banquet, June 5, 1948

Introductory

Unquestionably, the most important development in the life of the Alumni Association has been the University of Notre Dame Foundation.

Any qualms that may have existed that the new program would supersede or hamper alumni development must have long since faded before the year's evidence of a new vitality that has gone far beyond the reflection in dollars.

Primary in the new life is the participation in tangible measurement of 72 per cent of our total lay alumni, more than any previous figure in our history, and more than any previous record of general alumni participation in any other college annual alumni fund. That is in itself a record of achievement.

But of almost equal importance in the general life of the Alumni Association is the effectiveness of the Foundation program in bringing back into active participation many alumni, especially in the more mature class brackets, who had yielded their places in our program to younger men and retired to relative inactivity. Under the new co-ordinated program we have the active acceptance of the total challenge by our total alumni—a resurgence of force of incalculable value to Notre Dame.

Local Alumni Clubs

Seven new Local Alumni Clubs have been formed since June, 1947, and several others are in the process of organization—stimulated by the Foundation program and the new horizons for all alumni activity, together with, of course, the return to civilian life and more normal activity of the thousands of Notre Dame men in the services. There are now 107 Local Alumni Clubs.

The Council of Local Club Presidents, which attracted 77 Club delegates last November 21 and 22, resulted in a substantial step forward for the Clubs, including the preparation of an effective new Manual of Alumni Club Organization prepared under the direction of Vice-President Robert Hellering and William R. Dooley.

Two annual events have stressed during the year the growing activity and power of the Clubs.

1. Universal Notre Dame Communion Sunday, founded in 1938 through the efforts of the Notre Dame Club of New York, observed its 10th anniversary on Sunday, December 7, with more Clubs than ever before taking part in the tribute from coast to coast.

2. Universal Notre Dame Night, founded in 1924, observed its Silver Jubilee fittingly and in a record-breaking fashion, in Philadelphia, home of its founder, the late John H. Neeson. Both national hook-up in radio and television helped give unprecedented coverage, supplemented by better press publicity than ever before.

The Alumni Directory

Well under way, needing only the full cooperation of alumni in returning the biographical postcards is the new Alumni Directory.

It is hoped that we can issue this in early Fall, with alphabetical, geographical, Class and classified divisions, for the full realization of the increasing interests and fraternity of Notre Dame men. There are of course problems of mechanics and costs which will be given thorough consideration, but the need and the utility of such a directory seem to be universal.

Placement Program

Under William R. Dooley, the Association placement program continues to hold together the organization of central and Local Club placement facilities adequate by evidence for the needs of Notre Dame men.

A special committee of the Alumni Board made a study of the program and through Chairman Daniel J. O'Neil of New York submitted a report to the University which will implement the program as soon as expansion is indicated.

Law Alumni Association

The 1948 Commencement marks a significant development in alumni progress with the organization of an alumni association of Notre Dame lawyers. This new organization will supplement the general alumni organization with programs directed toward the common ties and interests of the Notre Dame men in the legal profession.

University Recognition

Alumni interest and loyalty has been recognized by the University during the past year in several outstanding appointments.

E. M. Morris, South Bend, founder and head of the Associates Investment Company, was elected president of the Associate Board of Lay Trustees at its November meeting.

Edgar Kobak, New York City, head of the Mutual Broadcasting System, was chosen to head the Advisory Council in

Chairman Bernard J. Bird and the Buffalo (N.Y.) City Committee held their initial meeting on May 27 at the Buffalo Athletic Club. Plans were discussed for the immediate and future activities of the Committee in that area. Under the capable leadership of Bernie Bird, and with the assistance of a very fine representative group of Committeemen, Buffalo has the determination to carry out a successful Foundation program.*

Other committeemen, not present for the picture are: John G. Byrne, manager, Niagara Food Industries; Francis H. Connors, city treasurer of Arcade, N.Y.; James J. Dunnigan, president, Buffalo Trotting Association; Daniel P. Falsioni, attorney; Robert P. Galloway, attorney; Augustus E. Jenkins, manager, Vento Steel Products Co.; William E. Miller, district attorney, Niagara County; Frank Novak, sporting goods dealer.

On Monday, June 7, the day following Commencement, the priests of the dioceses of Fort Wayne and Lafayette in Indiana (the Lafayette diocese was until a few years ago a part of the Fort Wayne diocese) gathered at Notre Dame to honor Most Rev. John F. Noll, LL.D., '15, bishop of Fort Wayne, on the golden anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. Bishop Noll offered a solemn pontifical Mass in Sacred Heart Church and this was followed by a banquet in the Dining Hall. He is shown here as the procession before the Mass proceeded from the Main Building to the Church. The entrance to the Alumni-Foundation office (former Carroll Hall) is in the background.

Science and Engineering of the University.

And in May, Charles Reagan, New York City, vice-president of Paramount Pictures, was made the head of the newly formed Council for the College of Commerce.

Miscellaneous

There are many details that could extend into interesting but prolonged evidence of the maturing of the Notre Dame man, collectively and individually.

Certainly it would be a mistake to omit the significant Natural Law Institute held on the campus December 12 and 13 through the sponsorship of the Notre Dame Club of New York City. So successful was it that the University has declared it an annual event.

It would be a mistake not to point out the improvements in the Notre Dame ALUMNUS this year under the guiding hands of William R. Dooley and John DeFant, with the addition of color, and the added benefits of the professional publications counsel engaged in the program of the Foundation, in which the ALUMNUS has played a prominent part. Circulation for the ALUMNUS has approached the 20,000 figure throughout the year.

I would be remiss if I did not thank Harry Hogan for a magnificent job of volunteer and unremunerated hard work in directing the Foundation organization and traveling at his own expense to the four corners of the country to make it work. Father John Cavanaugh, Father Robert Sweeney, the Foundation and Alumni Office Staffs have done heroic work in the pioneering details of integrating the new program with the rising tides of the old.

They have only been exceeded in their devotion and their ability by the inspired response of Notre Dame men everywhere in the near and far places, in the metropolitan and in the sparsely populated areas.

The total picture is one of encouragement, of promise and of faith renewed by the evidences of the patronage of Our Lady in the common task before us all.

Report on Corporation Giving

In the development of the program of the University of Notre Dame Foundation, the potentials of gifts from business corporations have become increasingly encouraging.

Both on the basis of a growing appreciation by business of the necessity for successful education, and on the basis of tax benefits accruing to corporations from philanthropy, education has become the increasing object of corporate gifts.

To study this field specifically, and to develop its potentials more fully, President Harry Hogan appointed a Committee of Foundation Governors consisting of Henry C. Wurzer (Iowa), chairman, John E. Cassidy (Illinois), Hugh M. O'Neill (Ohio), John E. Moore (Michigan), and Galvin Hudson (Tennessee).

The Committee has already sent out to City Chairmen and other officers of the Foundation and the Alumni Association a particularly fine and comprehensive article on corporation giving to higher education which appeared in the May issue of the Atlantic Monthly magazine.

Suggestions on enlisting corporation interest and support will be given by this general Committee to the City Committees and to individual alumni, especially to those who are in a position to influence corporations with which they are connected.

Report on Insurance Giving

The field of insurance giving is one which has not been developed sufficiently to give much pattern or precedent.

However, the national Committee on Insurance Giving appointed by President Harry Hogan, which met at Notre Dame on April 16 and 17, was unanimous in its conclusion that in the many forms of insurance there are unlimited opportunities for enlisting financial support for Notre Dame.

The Committee is headed by Frank Howland, now of Detroit, with Jerome Arnold of Davenport, James H. Brennan of Chicago, Joseph Casasanta of South Bend, John T. Balfe of New York, Jay L. Lee of Detroit, Joseph R. Stewart of Kansas City and Paul Hoeffler of Providence, as members.

The Committee and sub-committee thereunder, will study the various phases of insurance, and will make recommendations to all alumni, to the City Committees, and particularly to the many Notre Dame men and friends in the insurance business.

In the general projection for raising an annual revenue of $2,500,000 it is pointed out that if an average of only two policies of only $1,000 each, were written in each Chairman City per year, it would result in an ultimate annual income of almost a half million dollars from this field alone. The projection of 500 policies for the low insurance figure of $1,000 each on a national scale should be a modest projection.

Report on Wills and Bequests

One of the most productive and natural channels of financial support for American higher education has been the generous remembrance of colleges and universities in the wills and bequests of philanthropic alumni and friends.

Because the program in this field is one which profits from special study and attention, President Harry G. Hogan has appointed a committee of Foundation officers to make a national study, from which detailed suggestions will flow to the City Committees and to individual alumni, and particularly to Notre Dame men in the legal profession, in banking and trust work, in insurance or accounting work, all channels which promote such remembrances.

James P. Swift (Texas) heads the national committee, with Leo B. Ward (California) and E. A. Berkery (New York). Sub-committees will be appointed in special fields as the study advances.

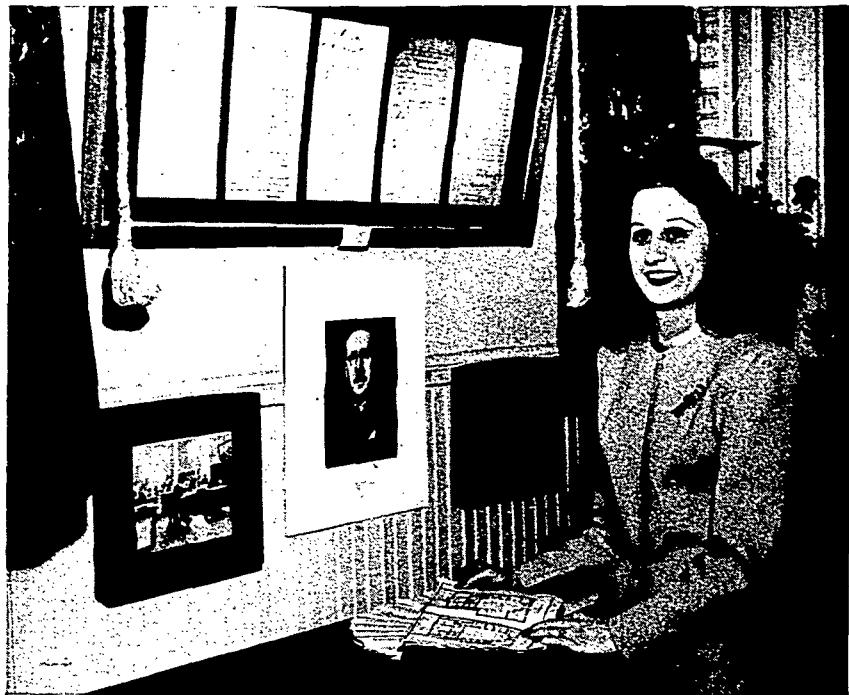

A legal booklet, dealing with the forms for bequests, is in process, which the Committee will circulate among the above mentioned groups of alumni and friends.

The organization of the association of Notre Dame's law alumni will prove a strong factor in developing this phase of the Foundation.

In the general projection of the $2,500,000 annual revenue program, the writing of a $1,000 remembrance of Notre Dame into 500 wills each year, which means little more than two in each of the Chairmen Cities, would result in the ultimate contribution of a half million dollars.

Wills and bequests are also one of the most productive channels of the large capital gifts necessary for buildings and permanent endowment additions.

All of these channels, and the estate tax benefits, will be studied by the Committee and included in or added to the forthcoming legal brochure.

A half-century of progress and accomplishment which began when a young Cuban student came to the University of Notre Dame in 1898 was observed May 3 by the Department of Architecture.

The student was Eugenio Rayneri, who has since become one of the foremost architects of the Western Hemisphere. It was because of his desire for an architectural education at Notre Dame that the Department of Architecture was founded fifty years ago. To commemorate the anniversary of the department, the Indiana Society of Architects held its annual meeting at Notre Dame in May, and a special exhibit showing architectural work of students from the time of the establishment of the department down to the present day was on display.

When Rayneri came to Notre Dame from Havana, Cuba, just before the turn of the century, he found that no architectural instruction was offered at the University. Classes had been taught in 1869, but later were discontinued. Rayneri's urging led the University to establish the Department of Architecture, with Professor Henry J. Schlacks as the first faculty member. Two Spanish brothers, Everisto and Jose Batlle of Barcelona, Spain, enrolled in the architecture course shortly afterward, and the department continued to grow until today it maintains a nine-man faculty and an enrollment of 125 students.

Under the leadership of Professor Kervick, who has been Head of the Department of Architecture at Notre Dame since 1909, the department has made rapid strides. Professor Kervick combined with Vincent Fagan, '20, of Mishawaka, Ind., to design several residence halls on the Notre Dame campus.

Many other graduates of the Department of Architecture at Notre Dame have distinguished themselves with architectural achievements in the United States. Patrick M. O'Meara, '09, St. Louis, Mo., designed the DePaul Hospital in St. Louis. Benedict J. Kaiser, '12, of Pittsburgh, Pa., designed the Georgetown University Hospital in Washington, D. C., and was one of the architects on the beautiful Church of the Sacred Heart in Pittsburgh. The mother house of the Sisters of St. Joseph in Rochester, N. Y., was planned by Joseph P. Flynn, '16, of Rochester, and the Brand Whitlock housing project in Toledo, O., was directed by Harold B. Munger, '15, chief architect of the Allied Architects of Toledo.

Next year the department will extend the course of architectural study at Notre Dame from four to five years, according to Professor Kervick, to provide further opportunities in technical studies in order to insure Notre Dame's continued leadership in the production of progressive American architects.

For God, Country, Notre Dame In Glory Everlasting

Lt. Sherman J. Andrews, ex. '40, a B-24 navigator who was reported missing in action over Germany on Dec. 11, 1944, and later officially listed as dead, is the 334th Notre Dame man reported killed in action in World War II.

Lt. SHERMAN J. ANDREWS, ex. '40

Lt. Andrews was based in England with the Eighth Air Force. He had completed 19 missions and had received the Air Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster. His plane disappeared during a storm while returning from a mission and is believed to have collided with another plane. There were no known survivors.

He enlisted in the Air Force while employed in the office of the War Department, Washington, entering the service Feb. 27, 1943. He received training at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala., Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Panama City, Fla., and was commissioned a second lieutenant at Selman Field, Monroe, La., on Feb. 26, 1944. Lt. Andrews went overseas in July, 1944.

Lt. Andrews is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Andrews of Eastport, Maine, his widow, three children, two brothers, and a sister.

Lt. John E. Dolan, ex. '34, was killed in action in France on Sept. 22, 1944, the 335th Notre Dame man to give his life for his country in World War II.

In the action in which he was killed, John was cited for his gallantry and posthumously awarded the Silver Star and Purple Heart. Surrounded by the enemy, he led a small group of men to bring relief. Reaching his command post, he secured a platoon of riflemen and returned to the beleaguered men. There he found the enemy withdrawing.

FRANK WALLACE ARTICLE WINS AWARD

The American Alumni Council has presented an award of merit to Frank Wallace for his article, "Thoughts of a New Director," which appeared in the April, 1947, issue of the ALUMNUS.

The awards of merit were presented by the Council for features appearing in alumni magazines in 1946-47 and were part of the Council's magazine awards program for the year. Almost 50 magazines were entered in the competition.

read: "Lt. Dolan, with complete disregard for his own safety, attempted to cut off their retreat and was instantly killed by sniper fire. His gallantry and aggressiveness in the face of great odds and extreme hazards reflect highest credit on himself and the armed forces of the United States."

John, before entering the Army, resided in Kansas City, Mo. He was in the 79th Division and was executive officer of his company. He was the nephew of Rev. Patrick H. Dolan, c.s.c., '15, and the brother of Robert M., '40, and William P., ex. '31.

Work on Regilding of Golden Dome Started

The Golden Dome, which has been anything but golden for the past several years, will once again gleam in splendor. Work on regilding the Dome was started on June 8 and will be completed about the end of September.

Last gilded in 1934, the Dome was scheduled to have been recoated with gold leaf six or seven years ago, but the government denied the use of the leaf, a critical war material. Shortly after the Dome was gilded 14 years ago, phosphate blown from a railroad car on a siding ate away some of the gold leaf before the damage was noticed.

Rev. John J. Redington, c.s.c., University purchasing agent, announced that the contract for the new coating of gold leaf had been let to R. J. Wolf, South Bend decorators.

The 19-foot statue of the Blessed Virgin is 206 feet above the ground and 125 feet above the roof of the building. The Dome has an arc of 31 feet and is 139 feet around at its largest circumference. The regilding will require 325 rolls of gold leaf, each of which is 67 feet long and from three-eighths to three and one-quarter inches wide.

Courtesy Lucky Strike

Lucky Strike cigarettes, both for the 1923 Luncheon, Saturday noon, June 5, and for the Alumni Banquet Saturday night were distributed by the American Tobacco Co. as part of its merchandising program.

24-Year-Old Veteran Delivers Valedictory

A 24-year-old veteran of World War II who was wounded 21 times by shell fragments at the Battle of Cassino, Italy, in 1944, climaxed a remarkable display of courage on June 5 when he delivered the valedictory address at the University's Class Day Exercises.

John D. Harrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Harrington, 623 Bay Ridge Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., was selected for the honor because his scholastic average of 94.9% was the highest among the 900 graduating seniors.

He started his college career at Brooklyn College in September, 1941, and was inducted into the Army in February, 1943. After brief service with the Eighth Infantry Division, Harrington shipped overseas with the 34th Division as a machine-gunner with the 168th Infantry Regiment. In the bitter fighting before Cassino in February, 1944, he was critically wounded by a shell which burst only a few feet away. His story since then is one of sheer courage.

Hospitalized for months in Army hospitals in Italy and this country, he was returned to civilian life early in 1945 with a sixty percent disability. He was employed by the Home Life Insurance Company in New York for a few months after his discharge and then was accepted at Notre Dame in November, 1945, under the Veterans Rehabilitation Act.

Opportunities in Sales

The Mack, Miller Candle Company, Syracuse 1, N. Y., candle manufacturer, is seeking sales representatives in nine large metropolitan areas: Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Toledo, Indianapolis, St. Paul, St. Louis, Omaha, Milwaukee and San Francisco. Candidates should be between 32 and 42 years old, should have a minimum of two years' selling experience and should reside in or near one of the cities where openings exist. For further information, address: C. F. Carr, president of the company.

NEW LEGAL DIRECTORY

A new Directory of Notre Dame men in the legal profession has just been issued by the Alumni Association in cooperation with the College of Law and the Office of the Executive Assistant to the President.

It is evident from early returns that there are many changes to be made in the listings of our lawyers. A supplement will be issued when corrections indicate its need. Any changes should be reported promptly to the Alumni Office.

Akron

The first club scholarship to Notre Dame went to Richard S. Novitsky, a 17-year-old graduate of St. Mary's High School. The committee in charge of awarding the scholarship was made up of Judge Bernard Roetzel, Noel Michel, and Dr. James Glennen, of the University of Akron.

Baltimore

On May 18, the club entertained 75 members and guests, at a "Good Old Brewery Party" held at one of the local breweries. GIL PRENDERGAST was chairman of the affair. He was assisted by FRANK HOCKREITER and FRED TRINKLE.

Among the new members welcomed at the party were CHARLES BLISS, '32, FRED HALL, '41, and ED KIRCHMAN, '42.

A Club Directory has been compiled by FRANK HOCHREITER and sent to all members.

Now that the site of the Navy game is definitely Baltimore, DR. ROY SCHOLZ, our new president, has already started action so that the club will be ready to play the part of official host.

Des Moines

Our annual Drake Relays dinner which is held each year in honor of the Notre Dame track team was a big success again this year. Festivities got under way at 6 P.M., April 24, at the Hotel Savery. We were honored this year by the presence of FATHER FRANCIS P. CAVANAUGH, C.S.C., dean of the College of Arts and Letters, who gave a very entertaining and at the same time informative talk.

JOE WHELAN served as toastmaster and also introduced COACH DOC HANDY, whom we all enjoy seeing and listening to each year. Coach Handy also introduced each member of the track team. Much credit is due to BOB KURTZ, who headed the committee in charge of this dinner. After this dinner Father Cavanaugh stayed and visited informally with us in a round table discussion on Communism and its effects on the world today.

At a previous business meeting we appointed a budget committee headed by PHIL CARROLL. The purpose of the committee is to determine the cost of our special events for the entire year and to collect from each member in advance. Phil and his committee of JIM SHAW and FRED NESBITT did a remarkable job and as a result the Club has no financial worries for the remainder of this year.

Erie, Pa.

New officers were formally installed at the UND Night dinner. They are: JOSEPH C. BARBER, president; ROBERT F. WESCHLER, vice president; JOHN E. WILSON, secretary; and MARTIN A. GLOEKLER, treasurer.

Fort Wayne

The Commencement exercises of June 6 included a number of Ft. Wayne graduates. They are: JAMES HOLTHOUS, ROBERT KEARNEY, JACK SOSENHEIMER, WILLIAM HERBER, ROBERT DALTON, and RICHARD A. HARTMAN. "Tyke" Hartman completed his work for a degree at the end of the January semester and has been an active member of the Club since that time.

The newly elected Board of Directors of the Club met recently. At this session, Club President BERNARD KEARNS and the board members discussed plans for club activities during the coming year.

RICHARD E. LENHARD, '42, formerly of Mishawaka, is now a member of our club. Dick is associated with the local branch of the Ellis Co.

Mohawk Valley

The club's regular meeting was held on May 20 in the home of A. CHARLES HITZELBERGER, JR. The members approved plans for an affair to be held early next fall at which FATHER ROBERT SWEENEY and PROF. JOHN SHEEHAN, head of the Economics Department, who is a native of Utica, will be the guests of honor. The affair will be part of the club's Foundation Program.

The next meeting of the club, on June 17, was held at the home of EDWARD J. SWEENEY, secretary.

Monongahela Valley

About 50 attended the UND Night celebration, at which Father Owen Kirby and E. J. McDaniels spoke. Mr. McDaniels discussed the need of good example, stressing the example of the Notre Dame man.

Club officers were elected at the meeting. They are: JIM DEVLIN, president; VINCE SOISSON, vice president; GEORGE MARTINET, secretary, and VINCE CAPANO, treasurer.

GEORGE C. MARTINET

New Jersey

More than 300 attended the reception tendered FATHER JOHN CAVANAUGH in honor of the 25th anniversary of his graduation. Sponsored by the N. D. club, it was held on May 4 in the Newark, N. J., Athletic Club.

Father Cavanaugh outlined a formula for leadership "which cannot be Communistic and cannot be atheistic." He said, "Universities are expected to turn out moral young men who are expected to become moral leaders in their communities. The formula for leadership can be found in documents of the founding fathers of this country, and the formula is acceptable to Jews, Protestants and Catholics alike, but not to atheists and Communists."

Father Cavanaugh also spoke over WNJR, Newark, earlier in the day.

JACK LAVALLE also spoke at the reception. JOSEPH M. BYRNE, JR., was honorary chairman of the reception committee and EDWARD J. DUGGAN was chairman of general arrangements. ARTHUR J. LEA MOND was toastmaster.

New York

Two scholarships to the University, valued at $1,000 each, instead of the usual one, will be awarded this year by the club to Catholic high school graduates in the New York area.

In announcing the increase of the scholarships to two, ROBERT HAMILTON, chairman of the Trust Fund committee, stated that the great need for qualified leadership today and the difficulty of selecting just one candidate from many worthy entries had led the board to its decision.

Northern California

At the club's election of officers, BILL YORE was named president; JIM DELANEY, vice president; and TOM FITZGERALD, secretary-treasurer.

Ohio Valley

At a meeting on May 22, the following were elected to office: WILLIAM J. YAEGER, '42, president; SYLVESTER J. DOUGHERTY, '29, vice president; JOHN W. GREENE, '47, secretary; and WILLIAM DUSCH, '34, treasurer.

Reading, Pa.

The organization of the club was effected on May 3 in the Abraham Lincoln Hotel, thanks to the initiative of JOE FARRELL of Harrisburg. CYRIL JONES was named temporary president and WILLIAM TOBIN temporary secretary. Ten alumni attended the meeting, at which plans for future meetings were made.

San Diego

Officers recently elected are: W. ALBERT STEWART, Jr., president; Lt. Gen. FRANCIS P. MULCAHY, vice president; FRED. J. LOWER, treasurer; and WINFIELD S. DAY, secretary.

Tri-State

The club met at the Haubstadt on May 24 at which a lunch was provided. Plans were laid for the annual golf tournament, which was run off at Princeton on June 24.

The club's chaplain, FATHER JAMES REED, O.S.B., celebrated the 25th anniversary of his ordination.

Triple Cities

The club held a supper party in the Colonel Brackney Inn, Brackney, Pa., on May 26. Wives and daughters of members and the parents of students attended the party as guests of the club. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. FRANK KANE, and she was assisted by Mrs. FRANK CONOLE, Mrs. WALTER DEMER, Mrs. JOHN DONNELLY, Mrs. DENNIS FOLEY, Mrs. FRANK HAINES, Mrs. THOMAS GIORDANO, Mrs. EDWARD O'BRIEN, and Miss Catherine Foley.

St. Louis

The club awarded its first scholarship to William B. Riley, of St. Louis, who will start attending Notre Dame next September. The tuition scholarship is for four years. ROLAND N. DAMES is chairman of the Scholarship Committee.

St. Joseph Valley

The annual Varsity-Old Timers game on May 15 was again sponsored by the club this year. The funds derived from this game are now used to further the well-established scholarship plan conducted by the club among both public and Catholic high schools in St. Joseph County.

Utilizing funds from the game, the club this year gave two scholarships to Notre Dame instead of the one scholarship formerly given. The first award, covering tuition and general fees for a day student for four years, went to Gene Pendl, fifth ranking student in a class of 348 in Central High

The second scholarship, valued at $220 annually for a total of $880, also went to a graduate of Central High School, William E. Balok, fifteenth ranking student in the class.

The club's annual golf party was held at the South Bend Country Club on June 22. ED KRAUSE was the general chairman and, as usual, the prizes were abundant.

Toledo

The annual summer dance, sponsored by N. D. students from Toledo, was held in the Grand Ballroom of the Commodore Perry Hotel, June 19. The dance, which was a semi-formal affair, was supported by the alumni club.

Washington

At the first meeting of the newly elected Board of Governors on April 12, WILLIAM C. KARL, '31, was elected chairman, and REV. BERNARD E. RANSING, '31, was elected Chaplain. A letter expressing the Club's appreciation was sent to BOB CAVANAUGH, '36, as retiring Chairman.

President TOM McKEVITT opened the first club meeting on May 20 by outlining the club program for the year. The highlights of the program included the following: Laying of wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, May 23; Annual Club Retreat at Holy Cross College June 25-27; the September meeting with all prospective freshmen in

Van Wallace Shows Film of Lourdes Trip

By ED RONEY

One of the most successful activities of the Detroit Club in some time was the David Van Wallace testimonial dinner for members and their wives on June 10 at the Harmonic Club.

JOHN BRENNAN, Van's classmate, was chairman. FATHER JOHN MURPHY, c.s.c., vice-president, and JIM ARMSTRONG, Alumni Association secretary, spoke. Father Murphy spoke on the achievements of the University in the past and its plans for the future.

John Brennan had arranged everything, even having letters and telegrams sent by the four living members spread around the country, who, with himself and Van, composed the organization of the "Seven Deadly Sins" in 1923.

But the feature of the evening was 1400 feet of the most beautiful film the majority of us had ever seen. Since 1938 the club had been trying to send Van to Lourdes. In 1939 he even got as far as New York only to be turned back when war was declared. But last year the plans materialized. And after a special drive was successful in providing a new station wagon, the club saw its dreams come true when Van started last summer.

Mrs. Wallace, Van's mother, took pictures all along the journey. They start with the presentation of the station wagon, pass on through the Buffalo and Albany clubs meeting Van on the drive to New York City, and end with Lourdes itself. Van's commentary along with the film is one of the best parts of the show.

A pleasant story on the pictures is this: The camera was lent and the film procured by a very well-known Jewish friend in Detroit; the pictures will be edited in the near future at the expense of a Masonic group at their request after seeing them; and the trip was made possible by Catholic groups. Who can honestly say that America doesn't experience some wondrous and beautiful things?

Also announced at the banquet were the all but last minute plans for the club's big summer activity, Sports Day. More than simply a golf tournament this year, there will be softball, horseshoes and other sports at Bonny Brook Golf Club on July 15.

vited; Annual Communion Breakfast in December; Rockne Memorial Communion Breakfast in March, 1949; Universal Notre Dame Night at a date to be announced in the future.

It was decided to present the officers of the Campus Club with a supply of stationery for use during the school term.

The film "The University of Notre Dame" was shown and was well received by the sixty Club members present.

The Annual Field Mass was said on May 23 by Archbishop O'Boyle at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. This event was held under the auspices of the Fourth Degree of the Knights of Columbus and was attended by 76 Catholic organizations. Leo Mullin, representing our club, laid a wreath at the tomb.

The annual Retreat was held at Holy Cross College from June 25 to 27. Father LAWRENCE P. SULLIVAN, C.S.C., '30, was the retreat master. P. J. CONWAY was chairman of the Retreat Committee and was assisted by CLINT WATSON, JOE FITZMAURICE, and J. WALTER GREER.

Notes on Members

Dr. WILLIAM J. RANIZZI, '46, having completed his work at Georgetown Medical School, leaves us for New York.

On May 23, 1948, the engagement of Sally Ann McLain to Dr. WALTER J. BRENNAN, JR., '41, now a resident physician in Neuropsychiatry at Walter Reed Hospital here, was announced.

We learned with sorrow of the death in May of JOSEPH A. FAHY, '03, at Mount Alto Hospital here. Mr. Fahy was buried in Arlington Cemetery.

New members reporting in at the May 20 meeting were R. H. EGAN, L. J. REILLY, Lt., USN, and JOHN E. WOOD.

West Virginia

The annual election of officers was held in May, with BILL KENNEY being named president; BOB SCHUMACHER, vice president; and GEORGE THOMPSON, secretary-treasurer.

JOHN WELCH has been transferred to Morgantown, W. Va., having been appointed manager of the C. & P. Telephone Co. office there.

Besides myself, one other new member, GLENN RICHARDSON, has been placed on the club roll.

GEORGE THOMPSON

Wilkes-Barre

The club is planning a summer outing with the Scranton Club to be held late in July or in August.

At a meeting held in the U. S. Naval Training Center in Wilkes-Barre, FATHER SCANDON, vice president of Kings College, was the principal speaker.

The club held a dinner for DR. MAURICE REGAN, who was to be married on June 12. A regular club meeting followed the dinner.

Deaths

CHARLES J. STUBBS, '88, prominent Galveston, Texas, Catholic layman and attorney, died in St. Mary's Infirmary, Galveston, on May 18 after a lengthy illness.

The 81-year-old attorney, who before his death was one of the oldest living Notre Dame degree holders, began the practice of law in Galveston in 1889. He had served as diocesan attorney for 30 years. Mr. Stubbs represented Sacred Heart Academy, Galveston, in obtaining a share of the Magevney estate of Memphis, Tenn. During eight years of litigation the case went to the Tennessee supreme court twice.

In recognition of his outstanding services to the Church, Pope Pius XI, awarded him knighthood in the Order of St. Gregory, which was formally conferred on him by the Most Rev. C. E. Byrne, Bishop of Galveston, in 1933.

Bishop Byrne offered Pontifical Requiem Mass in St. Mary's Cathedral on May 20 and preached an impressive sermon. Surviving Mr. Stubbs are his wife, two sons, a daughter, and a sister.

PETER P. PRUDHOMME, '88, died in Natchitoches Hospital, Bermuda, La., on May 28 after a short illness.

Funeral Mass for the prominent merchant and planter was celebrated in the Immaculate Conception Church, Bermuda. Paul A. O'Donnell, a seminarian and grandson of the deceased, assisted at the Mass.

Mr. Prudhomme leaves three sons, three daughters, and 12 grandchildren.

ARMSTEAD M. PRICHARD, who attended Notre Dame for several years in the 1890's, died at his home in Staunton, Va., in June.

A widely-known Charleston, W. Va., lawyer, he was president of the Charleston National Bank for many years retiring in 1921. He was graduated from the West Virginia University Law School in 1897.

Surviving Mr. Prichard are his widow, a son, two daughters, and one sister.

PHIDELL THOMAS OSBORN, '33, died at the home of his parents, 23 Draper St., Wolcott, N. Y., on May 7 after a short illness.

EUGENE DILLON, who attended Notre Dame in 1882-83, died on May 14 in Chenoa, Ill., after an operation. Mr. Dillon, who was elected the first monitor of the St. Cecilia Philomathean Association in 1883, was a nephew of Rev. Patrick Dillon, C.S.C., a former president of Notre Dame and a former Holy Cross provincial.

The "Alumnus" has just learned of the death of EDWIN G. LISIACKOWSKI, '33, who died of a heart attack June 21, 1946.

SISTER MARY ANGELA, O.S.U., died on May 7 at Ursuline Academy, Pittsburgh, Pa.

WILLIAM E. PERCE, '06, of Elgin, Ill., died in Hines Hospital, Chicago, on April 25, after a long illness.

Mr. Perce earned monograms at Notre Dame as a pitcher and later played professional baseball. He was city attorney of Elgin for several years and also served as public administrator of Kane County, Ill., for 15 years.

A veteran of World War I, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1917. He took part in the St. Mihiel and Troyon offenses and, as a first lieutenant, was commander of H Co. of the 104th Infantry in the Meuse-Argonne battle.

Mr. Perce was a member of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. Surviving him is his wife.

CHARLES E. HANEY, ex. '06, died in Memorial Hospital, South Bend, May 2, at the age of 62, after a three-week illness.

Funeral Mass was sung in St. Matthew's Church, South Bend, on May 6 and burial was in Cedar Grove Cemetery. Surviving are his wife, four sons, two daughters, and a sister.

SIM T. MEE, '15, died at his home in Sterling, Ill., on June 5 after an extended illness.

Admitted to the bar in 1915, he entered into partnership with his brother, Edward W. Mee, '14. He was appointed assistant United States District Attorney in 1934 and served with distinction until his death. He served overseas with the Army in World War I.

The funeral Mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Church, Sterling, on June 4, and burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, two daughters, a brother, and a sister.

BROTHER GEORGE, C.S.C., '24, a member of the faculty of Holy Trinity High School, Chicago, died in St. Mary's Hospital, Chicago, May 4 after a six-month illness.

He was born Ladislaus Biadaszkiewicz Nov. 8, 1895, in Chicago, and entered the Congregation of Holy Cross in 1913, making his final vows June 27, 1921. Except for one year at Central Catholic High School, Fort Wayne, Ind., he spent all of his teaching career of nearly 30 years at Holy Trinity School.

Members of the faculty and the student body of Holy Trinity School attended the Funeral Mass on May 7 in Holy Trinity Church. Burial was in the Community Cemetery at Notre Dame.

PHILIP E. DOELL, '27, died at his home in Cleveland, O., on May 13 after an illness of several months. He was sales manager of the East Central District of the chemical department of General Electric Co.

Phil joined the General Electric Co. in 1929 and was named district sales manager in 1945. In an editorial in the May 21 issue, the G. E. "Chemical Department News" said:

"Courage is a fine thing. It is one of those abstracts like honesty, charity, love, Christianity, that everybody talks about, and knows so little about. . . . You have to see it and recognize it, as we did last week, when Phil Doell died. It would be foolhardy to attempt to describe in words what Phil so aptly described in deeds—in the ideals he held fast to in his life, in his long illness, in his death. . . . The abstracts are strange things. They live long after the man who exemplified them dies."

EUGENE V. O'BRIEN, '27, of Elgin, Ill., died in St. Joseph's Hospital in May after an illness of eight years.

Gene was born in Chicago on May 28, 1906, and prior to moving to Elgin was a real estate broker in Chicago.

He is survived by his wife, a son, his parents, a brother, and two sisters.

Funeral services for WALTER E. STANTON, '30, brother of John, '24, and David, '26, were held in St. Joseph's Church, Gary, Ind., on May 12.

Walt, who was general counsel for the Chicago Regional Federal Housing Office, was active in Indiana Democratic circles. He became a state legislator at the age of 22, served as deputy attorney general, special counsel for the Public Works Administration, and chief counsel for the Indiana Housing Board.

Surviving are his widow, a son, and a daughter.

CLARE C. LESER, '47, of Joliet, Ill., died on June 5 in the crash of a "Flying Wing" near Muroc Air Base, Calif. He was a member of the five-man crew, all of whom were killed, and was one of the two civilians aboard. He was attached to the Flight Test Division at Wright Field, Ohio.

The giant eight-jet Northrop bomber, called the most powerful plane yet built, met disaster only a few minutes after it had taken off on a routine checking flight, Air Force officials said. It crashed near a highway after exploding at an altitude of several hundred feet. Flames swept the plane and almost destroyed it after the crash.

The Flying Wing, one of two such jet planes built for the Army, is designed for top speeds "in the 500 mile an hour class," Northrop officials said. They added that the plane had already completed many hours of rigorous test flights.

VERLY E. SMITH, who was trainer of football teams at Notre Dame in the days of Knute Rockne and the Four Horsemen, died of a heart attack in his home in Culver, Ind., on May 3, at the age of 61.

At one time a trainer for Jack Dempsey, he was affiliated with Culver Military Academy after leaving Notre Dame, and in the later years of his life devoted much of his time to his health farm in Culver.

JOSEPH A. FAHY, '03, chief of the construction division of the Veterans Administration construction service, died in Mount Alto Hospital, Washington, D. C., in May.

Mr. Fahy taught engineering at Columbia College, (now the University of Portland) Portland, Ore., and at Catholic University after being graduated from Notre Dame. During World War I he served with the 518th Engineers.

Mr. Fahy had been with the Veterans Administration since 1924. He began as superintendent of construction and later was made supervising superintendent of construction, both of which were field jobs, before he was appointed chief of the construction service in 1934.

He was a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the Army and Navy Club, the Military Order of the World War, and The Notre Dame Club of Washington.

The Requiem Mass was said at St. Ann's Catholic Church, with burial in Arlington Cemetery. Surviving are his widow, three sons, five brothers, and four sisters.

The ALUMNUS extends sincere sympathies to DAVID J. CASEY, '33, on the death of his mother; to JAMES N. MOTSCHALL, '39, on the death of his father; to LESTER J. WISDA, '31, on the death of his mother; to REV. RAYMOND A. COUR, C.S.C., '37, on the death of his grandfather; to EDWARD B. CASEY, '23, on the death of his wife; to REV. CHRISTOPHER BROOKS, '12, on the death of his brother; to DENNIS O'CONNELL, '34, on the death of his father; to ROBERT SINON, '47, on the death of his father; to WILLIAM GROTTY, '47, on the death of his father; to M. A. '98, and MAURICE N. NEVILLE, '32, on the death of their brother and father; to LEO J. SCANLON, '30, on the death of his father; to DENNIS J. O'CONNELL, Jr., '34, on the death of his father; to CHARLES B. RUBLE, '23, on the death of his father; to JOSEPH KOCKMAN, '33, on the death of his wife; to TIM KING, '37, on the death of his mother; to DR. JAMES F. CLANCY, '21, on the death of his mother; to WILLIAM V. CORBETT, JR., '27, on the death of his father; to WILLIAM J. CORBETT, LL.D., '48, a member of the Board of Lay Trustees.

The Class of '23 had a grand 25th reunion, thanks primarily to the committee in South Bend, the one in Chicago and the fine attendance we had from across the country. Eighty-nine men were registered, and there were probably a few present who didn't register officially.

A few arrived Thursday and by Friday evening there were over eighty present for the party at the LaSalle Hotel. JOE NYIKOS, ED KREIMER, LOUIS BRUGGNER and DICK NASH handled the arrangements. Father John Cavanaugh was in attendance, and everyone seems to have enjoyed himself very much. JOE DONALDSON, BILL FUREY and a few others continued their celebration by joining the 1938 Class to give them a glimpse as to how they would look 15 years from now at their 25th.

Saturday morning FATHER FRANK CAVANAUGH celebrated Mass in the Lyons Hall chapel for the members of the Class who have passed on. The attendance was excellent and commented on by FATHER JOHN CAVANAUGH in his Saturday evening address at the Alumni Banquet.

Saturday noon the faculty members of the Class of '23 gave the Class a very nice luncheon in the Faculty dining room. Father Cavanaugh presided and your secretary thanked the committees appointed for their excellent work. A call was also issued for Tyrone Ginsburg, but to the best of our knowledge he wasn't in the house. Immediately after the luncheon pictures were taken on the Library steps, and all those who attended the Friday night dinner received one—the picture is excellent and those who missed Commencement should get one if they wish to see their classmates—I imagine Louis Bruggner can get one for you if you wish. His address is 127 West Washington Ave., South Bend.

Saturday at the Alumni Banquet the class asked for the floor and your secretary made a few remarks to the effect that the greatest contribution the Class of '23 has made to the University is its most illustrious classmate, Father John Cavanaugh, now president. It was interesting the spontaneous response that was made by all in attendance at the mention of his name. Naturally the Class of '23 led the way, but everyone in attendance at the Banquet was on his feet cheering almost as quickly as our own class. I am sure that most of us felt that this was the high spot of the reunion—this fine tribute to Father John.

Every member of the class attending the reunion made some contribution to the Foundation, so it was also announced at the dinner that we were 100 per cent behind our classmate, the Reverend President, in his work to make Notre Dame even better than it has been and we as a class pledged not only the few dollars we may be able to give from time to time, but also our enthusiastic assistance, our best wishes and our prayers for the successful carrying out of Father Cavanaugh's plans.

25-Year Reunion

By

Paul H. Castner, 1305 W. Arlington Ave., St. Paul, Minn.

There are many interesting sidelights to report on the reunion, from the attendance of IVE SHARP, from Portland, Ore., AL FICKS from Phoenix, Ariz., to the fact that JUDGE ROGER KILEY of Chicago has a baby boy two months old. Big Ive looks fine and it was a treat to see him. Al Ficks looks like he was transplanted from Hollywood. FRANCIS NEITZEL was there from Boise, Idaho, BILL HASKINS from Long Island and ED KELLY flew his own plane in from Emmetsburg, Ia.

Perhaps the happiest man to attend the reunion was FATHER JOHN E. DUFFY, whose exploits and escapes from the Japs during the last war are nothing short of miraculous. Father Duffy is located at New London, Ohio, and those of us who had a chance to hear something about his experiences were fortunate, although his modesty plays down one of the most thrilling epics of the war. We are glad to have you back, Father.

The reunion naturally was saddened by so many of the class who have passed on, and we were all grieved to hear that GUS DESCH was sick in Chicago, so he had to miss joining us. Also, LINUS GLOTZBACH who was confined to St. Joseph Hospital in St. Paul. I know the whole class send their prayers and wishes for your speedy recoveries, Gus and Linus.

Many were back for a visit to the campus for the first time since graduation—and I feel that there will be many more in attendance in the years right ahead. Let's not wait for the 50th—although plans are in the making to go in training at CARL FISCHER's ranch in South Dakota for at least a week before the 50th. Someone said (I think it was RED SHEA) that maybe a special committee ought to get working on a rest home for a reasonable period following the 50th reunion.

Following is the list of those from '23 who registered somewhere on the campus over the reunion weekend:

Barnhart, Henry; Bradbury, J. Stanley; Brannigan, Rev. J. M., C.S.C.; Breen, F. J. "Chubby"; Brennan, Martin H.; Briley, John A.; Brown, Vincent J.; Bruggner, Louis V.; Byrne, John G.; Casanova, Joseph; Castner, Paul; Rev. John Cavanaugh, C.S.C.; Rev. Frank Cavanaugh, C.S.C.; Chapla, John P.; Cochrane, John C.; Cordray, R. E.; Culhane, Daniel.

Dacy, M. J.; de Smet, Louis A.; Dietrich, Art; Disney, Francis X.; Donaldson, Joe; Doran, Patrick C.; Doriot, Frank S.; Duffy, Rev. John E.; Ficks, Albert, Jr.; Fischer, Carl T.; Fitzgerald, William T.; Fitzsimmons, Frank T.; Flynn, John R.

Lauerman, Henry J.; Leahy, Thomas F.; Lee, Thomas J.; Logan, F. Leslie; Lynch, Daniel D.; Mang, Brother William, C.S.C.; Martin, Charles; Martin, James R.; Miller, Lyle E.; Montague, John M.; Nash, R. J.; Neff, Cyril W.; Neitzel, Francis H.; Niemiec, John W.; Norton, John C.; Nyikos, Joseph W.

My mail box has been filled daily since I returned from the big event with letters from classmates pronouncing our 20-year reunion a huge success, even better than anticipated. Approximately 175 classmates returned for one of the greatest reunions in the history of Notre Dame. I am sure all of these men, as well as those who were unable to make it, are already looking forward to our 25-year reunion in 1953.

I want to thank WILLARD WAGNER for the outstanding job he did on local arrangements. Wag worked for weeks, as well as throughout the historical weekend, on the never-to-be-forgotten 1928 party at the Izaak Walton League and in keeping the fellows well supplied with refreshments in Morrissey Hall. He also provided the '28 class caps, suggested by JOHN McMAHON, which were so well thought of by everyone on the campus. They were one of the many innovations in Notre Dame class reunions introduced by our class. Drop Wag a line at 1437 McKinley Blvd., South Bend 17, Ind., letting him know how much we all appreciated his work and that we are looking forward to a repeat performance in 1953. FLOYD SEARER, JACOB GILBERT, RUSS KUEHL, ED QUINN, HAROLD MILLER and GEORGE O'BRIEN, who assisted on the local arrangements committee, also have our vote of thanks.

The excellent turnout can be attributed to the outstanding work of BERNIE GARNER and his publicity committee. The final mailing, the announcement of the program with the airview of Notre Dame, prepared by Bernie and mailed by LEO McINTYRE, climaxed a series of eight letters and postals sent to all classmates since last August. JOHN McMAHON worked closely with Bernie and did a great job on a letter and postcard which he got out on his own. DAVE GIBSON helped out by starting chain postal cards and GENE FARRELL and GEORGE SCHEUER obtained some good publicity for us. Letters were sent to a number of classmates by TURK MEINERT, HOWIE PHALIN, JOHN LARSEN, BOB KNOX, ED McCLARION, GEORGE BEAMER, JOE MORRISSEY, BOB EVANS, LEO McINTYRE, TOM LAVELLE, JOE LANGTON, BOB HAMILTON, JACK LAVELLE, BILL JONES, FRANK DONOVAN, PHIL O'CONNOR, FRANK CREADON and JAMES CANIZARO.

The large attendance at the Mass for the living '28 men said by FATHER MATTHEW WALSH, c.s.c., was most gratifying. JOHN IGOE was responsible for arranging for this Mass.

GEORGE A. SCHEUER provided a very successful luncheon for the '28 journalists Saturday noon.

Everyone was impressed by the Mass for the deceased '28 men on Sunday morning. We were proud of the '28 Glee Club under the direction of FATHER ANDY MULREANY, c.s.c. FRANK CREADON was responsible for this new and admirable feature of our reunion. FATHER JAMES GALLAGAN, c.s.c., was celebrant and FRANK and JIM O'TOOLE, sons of our late classmate, FRANK O'TOOLE, served this Mass. Mrs. Frank O'Toole also attended the Mass. The collection taken up by DR. PAUL TOBIN and DICK PHELLEN at this Mass was given to Father Gallagan for Masses for our deceased classmates. My attention was called to the omission of the name of FRANK VAN-SYCKLE on the list of deceased classmates distributed at the Mass. Please let me know if there were any other names missing.

We are most indebted to BILL DOOLEY and the staff of the Alumni Office for assisting in getting out three of the mailings, including the class roster. Bill worked very closely with all of the committees, as well as with me, in arranging this affair. PAT CANNY took care of mimeographing the program and the material distributed at the Mass, for which we are most grateful.

Many classmates participated in the softball game planned by JOE LANGTON and golf arranged by BILL KEARNEY.

I wish that space permitted a complete report of such items as the sessions in our 'get-together' room in the basement of Morrissey Hall, where we were entertained by JOE CASASANTA and the '28 Glee Club and well taken care of by WILLARD WAGNER and his local committee . . . the long distance traveling honors given to DAVE GIBSON, San Gabriel, Calif., and P. M. VARRAVETO, Los Angeles, Calif. . . . the general agreement that BERNIE GARNER was the man who looks the least-changed in 20 years. . . .

I am deeply indebted to the many classmates responsible for the bonds presented to me in appreciation of my efforts as class secretary during the past 20 years. With your continued help in supplying me with news for this column, we should look forward to a number of additional years of keeping together.

Many thanks to the 175 men who attended the reunion. The excellent spirit shown by each of you made the reunion a success. And special thanks to the wives at home who encouraged you to attend. Our deep regrets to those who were unable to assent, as we missed each and every one of you and are looking forward to seeing you at our 25-year reunion.

Following is a list of those from '28 who registered somewhere on the campus over the weekend of reunion:

Alexander, Cecil; Allan, James A.; Amiot, Neil H.; Armin, William F.; Bairley, Joseph J. Jr.; Beamer, George S.; Bird, Bernard J.; Boehning, James W.; Boyle, Andrew; Bradley, Dr. Daniel J.; Breig, Joseph A.; Brennan, Edmund J.; Breslin, Roger W.; Brown, F. Eugene "Red".

30-YEAR REUNION

Father George Holderith, C.S.C., was in charge of local arrangements for the 30th anniversary of the class of 1918. Unfortunately, only a few of the class were present, but those who attended appreciated meeting again after so many years. The picture above was taken at the reunion celebration of '18 men and their friends of other years. Shown are I. W. Hurley, Judge Joe Sanford, Fred Steers, Father Charles Williams, L. A. Glascott, and Joseph T. Riley. Others who were present at the reunion and not shown in the picture, were Father Holderith, George Harbert, John Lemmer and Louis Fritch.

Farrell, Eugene G.; Farrell, Marcus E.; Finn, Edmund J.; Fitzgerald, Rev. Mark, C.S.C.; Flanagan, Christie; Fogerty, Robert; Fontana, John C.; Frederick, John F.; Galardy, Frank M.; Gallagher, Peter J.; Garber, Bernard A.; Geraghty, Joseph; Gibson, David N.; Gilbert, Jacob H.; Gleason, Art; Graham, Robert F.

Grams, August M.; Griffin, Joe; Hamilton, Robert A.; Hans, A. F.; Hart, Tom; Hartley, James J.; Hasley, Henry; Haven, Clarence B.; Hettred, Dr. Francis W.; Hilger, Joe; Holdampf, Frank J.; Horan, Joe; Igoe, John; Jefferys, Hudson; Johns, William B.; Johnson, J. A.

MEMORIAL PROFESSORSHIP HONORS DR. O'BRIEN

A full professorship in cancer research at the University of Minnesota was dedicated on April 30 to the memory of the late Dr. William A. O'Brien, ex '12, member of the Minnesota medical faculty from 1921 until his death last November.

Executives of the Minnesota Cancer Society, which Dr. O'Brien headed for 10 years, announced the extension of the $5,000 research fellowship established three years ago to a full professorship named in honor of Dr. O'Brien. The fellowship now is held by Dr. Robert O. Huseby.

The State of the Reunion—For those who were there, this one-man review of what and who happened at the 15-year high-hoedown may seem unnecessarily limited and localized in coverage—or maybe it will just seem unnecessary.

For those who weren't able to return—honest, we all missed you—maybe a few brief phrases about the various phases and faces noted by yr. humble & obed'n't serv't, plus a long list of names, will help a little to plug up that 15-year gap. . . . So here goes, or more properly, here went. . . .

June 4 dawned bright and extremely early, courtesy of the New York Central, on a well-remembered but unfamiliar campus empty of all but a bomber squadron of doves cooing Matins in the Grotto, a congregation of priests saying Masses in the Basement Chapel, a scurrying of girls en route to work in the laundry . . . and JACK HOYT, CHUCK ROHRS, and ED ECKER. This trio had also been favored by the train schedule with their first unintended and involuntary experience of the dawn's early light, minus Manhattan's sun-shading skyscrapers, in many years.

They bunked us '33s in Breen-Phillips Hall, a long haul (with suitcase, at least) on the Vetville side of the campus. It was a rare privilege, at that. We've read of the new acadomesticity, but for many of us this was our first sight of homework which meant just what it said—the first time "strapping youngsters" meant, not oversized freshmen, but that Daddy had to study his physics, and by gosh if you don't keep quiet . . . strapping youngsters, see?

Early on the scene was another little band of reluctant Gotham risers headed and announced by BILL LYNCH. PHIL FAHERTY, hailing from New Jersey, soon haled his baggage into the hall. It was getting hot—one of those skull-bubbling Indiana mornings. The shouts and the clatter rose with the temperature as old friends, old roommates, and guys who had never seen each other before began bleating welcomes and fond insults.

The golfers poured out to study their lies, the convivial cliqued and clinked, and the sensible took a nap. JIM ARMSTRONG was found cool and unruffled, trying to track down by phone, wire, carrier and stool pigeon the location of known or suspected big shots allegedly on the campus. Washington Hall, self-consciously imposing its New Look in front, was resoundingly familiar in back, rending and rendering the heat-shimmer with blatt, yearp, umpha and tinkling scales as musicians warmed up with the day.

A spate of spats, a veil of tears and a mist of smiles rolled out of Sacred Heart church as another groom took the bridal; shutters clicked and tongues clacked as the wedding party delayed the take-off under the cold eyes of seniors sprawled in long tradition on Sorin's outpost: the last long look before the plunge.

dignity were abruptly tossed to the winds as the men of '28 appeared in bright green beanies; the founder's statue slowly raised, sculptured eyes to Heaven. Noon, and new waves of old grads loomed on the scene; the caf reverberated with the sound and fury of auld acquaintance at least once forgot, of old jokes about meat on the Friday menu, and old slang being loudly auditioned again.

Back in Breen-Phillips Hall, 1933 was being dragged back from limbo by the ears; from Chicago, from Cleveland, and points north and South Bend; from worries at home and woes at work; from yesterday and tomorrow. PAT CROWLEY, ED STEPHAN, TOM SEXTON, JACK GEDDES, MAURY LEE, JOHN O'SHAUGHNESSY, FRAN CROWE, LEO HODEL, CARL "STUMPIE" CRONIN (he likes us '33's; it's mutual), FRED BECKLENBERG, AUSTIN RIGNEY, and a horde of others trooped from the Loop; JACK BREEN and ERNIE GARGARO headed up the Detroit tigers; JIM UPRICHARD, looking a day or two younger, and talking pennant, breezed in from Cleveland; GEORGE AUG and NEILL "BOILER" EBERT were other Ohioans; JIM SHEA and DAVE POWERS forsook Times Square for the weekend; forgot his—and your—rent worries to drop TIGHE E., formerly E. Tighe, WOODS, in from Washington . . . and talk over rents, controls and maybe even politics with LARRY SEXTON, of Indianapolis; VINCE BURKE and PINKY MARTIN emerged from Pittsburgh to attend; the two Marty's, MORAN and DONAGHUE, were together, as of yore; JOHN BARRETT, or a reasonable facsimile thereof, appeared from Alexandria, La., sah; BERNIE COUSINO, Erie, Mich., and b'gosh, CHARLIE FISS, of Oshkosh, were present.

Topside representatives were Rev. Frs. CHARLES "CHICK" SHEEDY, c.s.c., of Notre Dame, and LLOYD TESKE, c.s.c., of Portland, Ore. BOB REULAND of South Bend towered among us, and FRANK McGEE, the reformed Chicago Title and Trust expert, bespoke the Vet's Administration; ED younger DAILEY beamed on all; BUD MURPHY recalled B team days; TED FELDMAN, of Detroit, and benign GEORGE BEAUDINE, talking of an absent classmate, so moved JACK BREEN he unsuccessfully called California long distance to talk to ED MORIARTY; reliable informants vow they saw BILL CAMPBELL of South Bend, and BILL CASE of Elkhart, as well as a number of other bills; also JIM ASH, BOB BRUCKER, and JOHN McNAMARA of South Bend.

Afternoon, and a number of other elements, waxed and waned; twilight was still draping the prefabs and Quonsetts of Vetville with merciful gloom when the '33 reunion party coughed, rumbled and got underway in Vetville Hall—where during the school year, the student families find that there's still a little fun in the fundamentals of education.

Here's where the class of '33 takes time out to pay, in a small way, the large debt of credit owed for the success of the party to: BILL DOOLEY, assistant alumni secretary, who worked untiringly to get not only our class, but all class reunions in the groove; AL ARTZ, the local chairman, who uncomplainingly gave countless hours running from his work and home in South Bend out to school to set things up for the rest of us; to PAUL BOEHM, the vice-chairman, and the loyal members of their small committee, JOE MUELLNER, JIM ASH, BOB BRUCKER, JOHN McNAMARA, BILL CASE, and BOB REULAND.

Also a vote of thanks to ED "Moose" KRAUSE, '34, who exhibited and commented upon a strikingly effective movie of ND's great hoop victory over NYU in Madison Square Garden last winter. And FATHER "CHICK" SHEEDY, who took time out from his many duties to celebrate the class Mass on Sunday in the Breene-Phillips chapel. Here's a "33"-gun salute to all of you!

Well, that just about winds up the report, mates. My sincere apologies for the misspelled names and the misplaced memories and all my sins of omission and commission. But if I saw you there, and the wife wants to know why I haven't mentioned you, or if I've listed you among those present, and the boss thought you were burying your grandmother—don't curse the poor columnist—WRITE!

See you in 1953....

JOHN J. HUETHER, '22

John J. Huether, '22, has been named manager of the Transportation Division, a new industry sales division of the General Electric Company's Apparatus Department, it has been announced by Chester H. Lang, vice-president and general manager of sales, Apparatus Department.

Jack has been assistant manager of the Industrial Divisions, one of the three existing sales divisions of the Apparatus Department, since 1945. A native of Sharon, Pa., he was graduated from Notre Dame with a degree in electrical engineering and joined the company's test course the same year as a student engineer. A year later, he was assigned to the Alternating Current Engineering Department.

In 1924 Jack joined the Industrial Department in the steel mill section. He was promoted to manager of sales in the machinery manufacturers section in 1931. In 1937, he was named manager of the mining and steel mill section of the Industrial Department. This section is now called the Industrial Materials Division of the Industrial Divisions.

Jack is a member of the American Iron and Steel Institute and chairman of the Manufacturers Division of the American Mining Congress.

From HOCH:

There seems to be a lapse in the interest of the '35 gang. Let's get back on the beam with a few letters or we will drop to the bottom of the heap in the class' notes section of our "rag."

With the exception of a wedding announcement of "MITCH SALE" and a letter from TOM PROCTOR, nothing came in since our last trip to press.

We want to send the best wishes of the class to Mitch and his bride, the former Adele Marie Haddad. The wedding took place on June 6, in Slidell, La.

Thanks for the invitation, Mitch! How about a note to tell us something about yourself?

The prexie writes that he is continuing his weekly jaunts to Washington. On a recent trip he ran into ART CONRAD in the Statler. What went on during that meeting should have kept the ears of many of us ringing and warm.

Our apologies and congratulations to DR. ROY SCHOLZ. The apologies are due because of our neglecting to announce the birth of a very nice daughter, Martha, on Feb. 22. And our felicitations go to Roy as the new president of the Notre Dame Club of Baltimore.

As for your scribe, he was elected president of the Democratic Club of Northwood recently. Northwood is a section of Baltimore and the place of residence of about a dozen Notre Damers.

Get on the beam, gang!

ANTHOLOGY BY FATHER THORNTON

The full story of the Catholic literary revival in England, France, Ireland and the United States during the last 100 years is told for the first time in a new anthology, Return to Tradition, edited by Rev. Francis B. Thornton, '31. The 920-page book is being published by the Bruce Publishing Co., Milwaukee.

Twenty years of reading, research and critical study preceded the writing of this story of "the movement which has lent Christian depth and lustre to philosophy, liturgy, psychology, the novel, poetry, and every branch of literature and art." In this comprehensive anthology Father Thornton presents the "riches of the Catholic heritage, sanity and power."

Among the American writers represented in the anthology are the late Father Charles L. O'Donnell, C.S.C., former president of the University, and the late Charles Phillips, a former professor at Notre Dame.

It was a great and grand reunion—ask any of the 133 boys who attended and registered (probably there were a few there who didn't register.)

I won't endeavor to make an individual report on everyone who was present—the crowd was too large, the time too short, and, besides, I was on my vacation. I left my pencil and paper at home. Okay, go ahead and impeach me.

If you were there, you met all the fellows, heard all the stories, and saw all the pictures of the beautiful wives and children. If you weren't there, all I can say is that you were missed, and that you missed it.

The class reunion party Friday night at Mannerchor Hall was a roaring success, and that's an understatement if I ever made one. There was laughter (HUB KIRCHMAN and HOOK KERWIN were present), songs (under the able direction of that great basso-profundo, JOHN KELLEY), prizes (PAUL LEAHY was honored as the class father—he has six children,—and TOM HUTCHINSON got a case of South Bend beer for traveling the greatest distance for the reunion—from Bend, Ore.), beer (CHUCK BOROWSKI was behind the bar and he wouldn't take "no" for an answer), food (tuna fish until midnight, ham after that), and reminiscences "Remember that dining hall fish? . . . remember the night that gang from Sorin sub went to Niles? . . . Remember FATHER BRENNAN's reaction when old Joe what's-his-name fell asleep? Remember . . . remember . . ." It didn't seem like ten years. . . .

I have a few other memories of that memorable evening: JOHNNY PLOUFF, the only one with his coat on, working hard at the door, collecting money from the boys . . . FRANK O'REILLY inviting everyone up to his apartment in Chicago—anytime—for bourbon . . . PHIL BAYER and JOHN WATERS looking taller than ever . . . TIM CRUICE and LARRY DILLON as inseparable as ever . . . someone playing the accordion . . . JOHN SCOTT and FMIL RUGE, the English majors, talking about FATHER WARD's English class . . . TEX HAGGAR's beautiful green necktie . . . JOHN O'CONNOR's silvery hair . . . TIGER McGRATH asking FATHER BILL BOTZUM, c.s.c., the difference between essence and existence . . . DON HICKEY quietly smiling as he looked around at the big, noisy crowd . . . the way the boys started looking for chairs at midnight and gathering in the old groups. . . .

After the party the boys went back to Cavanaugh Hall where the talk and the singing continued until 2:30 a. m. when the fire department arrived to put out the fire in the front seat of a car from Chicago.

Saturday CHARLIE CALLAHAN had scheduled a softball game with the class of 1943, but the boys, who were beginning to feel their age, decided to sit it out. As PAT CAREY, our prospective pitcher said, "I'm going to claim credit for a no-hitter." Fa-door? . . . Does anyone know of a job that pays $150 a week? . . . I wonder why BUNNY McCORMACK isn't here . . . Someone said JOHNNY WILSON is in South America . . ." And so on far into the night. . . .

Sunday morning FATHER JOE RACE said Mass in the Cavanaugh Hall chapel and gave a fine sermon. DENNY EMMANUEL served mass, and GEORGE SAUTER played the organ. Everyone agreed that this part of the reunion was the highpoint of the weekend.

And now, in the name of the class, I would like to thank those who were responsible for making the reunion a success. The main credit goes to the South Bend committee—DON HICKEY, the chairman, JACK LEADBETTER, SWEDE BAUER, JOHN PLOUFF, CHARLIE CALLAHAN, CHARLIE DUKE, CHUCK BOROWSKI, DON FISHER, JACK SCOTT, JIM LAHEY, MICKEY BEAUDWAY and PAUL KIZELI and anyone else who had a hand in the arrangements. They did everything from draw a map showing how to get to Mannerchor Hall to go out to Dogtown at 3 in the morning to get ice for the beer. These men plus BILL DOOLEY, of the Alumni Office, and JOHNNY O'CONNOR, who served as general chairman of the reunion, had arranged for the regional committees, made the reunion a great success.

That's about all except a word of thanks for the monogram blanket that was presented to me at the class reunion, "for your work as class secretary."

At the 20-year reunion I'll bring a pencil and paper.

Those who attended the reunion and registered were:

FATHER VINCENT DELAVY, c.s.c., writes from the Bengal Missions in Pakistan that he was "as tickled as a small tot with a new pair of pink pants" to receive the ten-year reunion announcements. His chief regret is that, being in the seminary, he met his classmates only in the classrooms and therefore had little opportunity of really knowing them.

Father Delavy has been in the Bengal Missions for the past several years. At present I am in the last western mission post in the Dacca Diocese, where you can add the bear and tiger to the buffalo's roaming. My work is among aborigines. . . . I have not brought down a tiger or bear yet. However, I must admit that both have nearly brought me down . . . A big, bad, black bear chased me for the fastest mile in my life on Good Friday night. This night I broke all records? The tiger? Well, he decided to eat a buffalo instead of me. . . .

EDWARD J. CRONIN, '38

Edward J. Cronin, '38, instructor in English and graduate student at the University of Minnesota, was awarded the Newman Citation for 1948 at the annual banquet of the Newman Foundation on April 15. The Citation is given annually to the outstanding Catholic on the Minnesota campus in recognition of work done for the Church and of good example given to Catholic students, who number 6,500.

The citation also was won in 1947 by a Notre Dame man, the late Dr. William A. O'Brien, ex. '12, director of the Graduate School of Medicine until his death in November, 1947. (See page 29 for further news of Dr. O'Brien.—Ed.)

After leaving Notre Dame, Ed studied at the University of Chicago, receiving a Master's Degree in English in 1940. He was a book reviewer for the Chicago Sun and taught English at Chicago. Since the fall of 1943 he has been an instructor of English at Minnesota and has been studying for a Ph.D. in English.

He is active in the Newman Club and for the last three years has been faculty advisor for student members of the club. Ed is married and the father of three children, two boys and a girl.

Robert G. Sanford, 4218 N. 17th St., Milwaukee 9, Wis.

From ROBERT F. CONNOLY, Water Street East, Harbor Grace, Newfoundland.

"Many times since my graduation in 1940 have my thoughts gone back to Notre Dame and its rich associations. I am at present employed with the Department of Education in Newfoundland, as supervisor of elementary and secondary schools. . . .

"I was privileged to attend Notre Dame once more, when I enrolled for the year beginning 1946, and renewed acquaintances with professors I knew in my undergraduate days, besides meeting several others.

"There are many, many old acquaintances from whom I would like to hear. To mention just two: THOMAS K. REIS, Commerce, 1941, and WILLIAM E. SCANLAN, 1942. Bill Scanlan, who, I think, was in Carroll Hall, prior to moving into St. Ed's in 1940, made me a very sweet gesture in having a Mass offered for the repose of the soul of my father, who died while I was at school.

"I hear occasionally from BOB LATANZI, who was EG 1 when World War II broke out. When last I heard from him—December, 1947, he said in part:

'Since getting out of service I've been attending Syracuse University, and this coming September I hope to enter Albany Law School.'

"In the last 'Alumnus' I saw a letter to SCOOPE SCANLAN from Tommy B. He was to be ordained a priest this June 19. He mentioned his brother, MATTY BYRNE, killed in war about six years ago. This was news to me, as I sat next to Matty in FATHER HEBERT'S Latin Class, in 1940, doing Horace and Quintillian. We were reminded from day to day by our learned professor that we, unlike the boys in the _____ Department, (it would be unkind to write that eleven letter word), were Classicists. What grace and charm had Matty! He certainly was a classicist in very truth. He resided in Lyons Hall, rooming with a JIM BURKE, also from New York. May his soul rest in peace, dear God, and may you, oh Father, unknown to me, but brother of Matty, find immense happiness in your high vocation!

"I am eagerly looking forward to the completion of the Alumni Directory, that I may locate the addresses of many names dear to me. I here and now invite to my home any Notre Dame boy who may be in a position to visit this Island, often referred to as the Norway of the New World, because of its magnificent fiords."

RAYMOND M. HILLIARD, '29

Raymond M. Hilliard, '29, formerly executive secretary of the Illinois Public Aid Commission, was appointed Commissioner of Welfare of New York City by Mayor O'Dwyer on March 13.

Special legislation was required of City Council to waive residence qualifications in order for Ray to take over as head of the storm-tossed Welfare Department.

Ray had been active in relief work in Illinois since 1934. Until 1940 he was legal representative and director of investigation for the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, predecessor of the Illinois Public Aid Commission, of which he became executive secretary in 1942. He served two terms as president of the Illinois Welfare Association and is a director of the American Public Welfare Association. He also served on several commissions created by the Illinois Legislature to investigate various phases of the public assistance problem.

During Ray's administration of public aid in Illinois he set up a state program for aid to the blind, the beginning of a state-wide program requiring financially able children to aid needy parents, and improved care for the aged. He turned back to the state the two largest balances from appropriations in the history of the welfare body.

The new Welfare Commissioner, who resides at 285 Riverside Drive, is married and the father of two children. He holds a Ph.D. degree from Chicago University and an LL.B. from DePaul in Chicago.

MANUFACTURERS' REPRESENTATIVES

Carlos Lazaro, '40, and Juan E. Cintron, '40, have formed a partnership in San Juan, Puerto Rico, to act as manufacturers' representatives in Puerto Rico. Carlos, a civil engineer, and Juan, a mechanical engineer, feel specially qualified to deal in the lines of construction equipment and materials, and also light and heavy machinery.

They are interested in dealing with Notre Dame men as much as possible. Anyone interested in doing business in Puerto Rico can contact them by writing to: Lazaro & Cintron, Apartado 325, San Juan, Puerto Rico. The cable address is Lacin-San Juan.

From ED RONEY:

Whew! What a weekend!

One hundred twenty men made it and their unanimous opinion was that our 10-year reunion in 1953 would see all of them back and as many more as they were able to tell about this one. Also unanimous was the opinion that it would take those five years to recover.

It was a great success in every way. As for those who didn't make it, the hope was expressed many times that they had good reasons for anyone who "just didn't get started" really lost out this time. There were men arriving for two days. FRANK KAISER got in Thursday night so he'd be on time, and he was carrying half the inventory of 'Kaiser's Bar,' while CORNY JOHNSON couldn't hold out on the job after 3 p.m. Saturday and finally made a dash for it.

Activities started Friday afternoon with the arrival of the first large groups. Old friendships were renewed over glasses in many a room and another cheer would go up every few minutes for another arrival. Seems the class of '43 is doing quite well in the world for a good number drove and many a new car was seen.

No specific dinner was planned so the gang split up for Rosie's, the Oliver, Hoffmann, and one or two other haunts.

But by 9 p.m. the majority were helping to create the clamor of voices and those familiar tinkling sounds coming from the Indiana Club. BILL EARLEY popped in with movies of the Notre Dame highlights of the 1947 football season and by the time they were over the crowd had swelled to 100 men.

As the evening rolled on and even more men arrived President JACK TALLETT called for some quiet to introduce BILL DOOLEY, Assistant Secretary of the Alumni Association. Mr. Dooley welcomed the gang back and gave the class a pat on the back for its fine record of spirit as shown by the Annual Alumni Funds and the reunion.

HERB MELTON, chairman of the local arrangements committee, took over here and awarded prizes of Knox hat coupons to some of the fellows. BILL WALSH got the prize for coming the farthest to the reunion, having come up from Baltimore. Seven years proved to be the longest anyone present had been married, so JIM WALSH took a prize home. BILL MIDENDORF's three children earned him the prize for the most children. And FATHER RICHARD O'BRIEN, Bloomington, Ill., ineligible for most of the others, took a special award.

FRED EARLEY proved he could do much more than kick goals by wearing out his fingers on the piano all night. Some new Carusos were discovered during the course of the evening, but FRED and BILL EARLEY stole the singing honors with their hill-billy songs.

That party didn't end there for when the club closed it simply moved back to Zahm. Saturday there were some fellows who could

5-Year Reunion

John L. Wiggins, 6733 Windward St.,
Cincinnati 27, Ohio

once again describe an Indiana sunrise and they certainly weren't making any early morning checks.

There was supposed to be a big challenge softball game between the classes of 1943 and 1938 Saturday noon but the '38 didn't show. As a result a knock-down drag-out fence-busting battle between the married and single men of the class took place. The married team, captained by CHUCK (FARBY) GOLDEN, and containing HERB MELTON, BEN MAMINA, JACK WARNER, JACK TALLETT, JACK BARRY, RIP COLLINS, and JOHN FOGARTY were firmly trounced and begged off from further slaughter after seven innings and a score of 27-14. The conquering bachelors included MOE MUELLMAN, BILL UNGASHICK, JOHN McNULTY, LEE RAYMOND, DAN STEWART, BOB ROGERS, CHUCK MURPHY, FRANK FITZPATRICK, and BILL MURRIN. Golden, Raymond and some others claim we could have beaten 1938 by 41-0, the total of the two scores.

Most of the class took in the good game between ND and Western Michigan Saturday afternoon when a ninth-inning double gave ND a second victory of the weekend over a very strong team.

After the game, there was time for showers and cocktails before the official Alumni Banquet in the Dining Hall. From there a few went out on the town while the majority gathered in the Zahm Recreation Room for another party. Almost the entire 120 who had arrived by this time eventually showed up there.

The weather had been perfect for two days but Sunday gave out with the traditional graduation rain. The class was fortunate for our Mass for the deceased of the class and the next to die was said by FATHER DICK O'BRIEN in the Zahm chapel. And there were very few who didn't show up.

That about ended the Reunion weekend. Some stayed around awhile but most of the gang said goodbye after Mass and headed for breakfast and home in all directions.

Success was the byword of the entire operation. Obviously a social success it was even one financially. All expenses other than the cost of the mailings, which were generously paid for by the Alumni Office, were covered and there was even enough left over to take care of something special your committee had planned on if there were sufficient funds.

All the money we had left over has been used to start a Mass fund for the class. Those who couldn't make the reunion are urged to add to it through the column as they wish. During the five years until our tenth reunion in 1953, five Masses will be said on the Campus every year for the intentions of the living and the repose of the souls of the dead of the class. And additional Masses will be offered for any men who may die during that period.

But to get back to the Reunion. No notes were taken Friday night, but by Saturday night yours truly had conquered the problem of juggling a glass, pad, and pencil sufficiently to record the following about what many of the reunionists are doing to while away the hours between 8 to 5 daily:

BOB ROGERS sells insurance for the Joe A. Rogers Co. in St. Paul. . . . ROG CUMMINGS is comptroller, with selling on the side, for the investment house of Sills Minton & Co. in Chicago. . . . DR. BLAIR McGOWAN just moved to Detroit to handle Michigan for the Anaconda Wire and Cable Co.

REGGIE FLYNN is in Ford Motor's home office with parts and service. . . . DR. GEORGE REBERDY is taking a vacation before beginning some additional special training. . . . DON MILLER is an attorney in San Francisco. . . . BILL MIDENDORF is another investment banker with his father in Lexington. . . . HARRY WRIGHT coaches Aquinas High in Buffalo, which plays before 25,000 every game. . . . WALT JONES is an attorney in Chicago. . . . CHUCK (St. Louis) MURPHY is repairing beer casks in the midwest area—the other CHUCK MURPHY is starting law practice—and I'm still selling securities and commodities for Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane in Detroit.

So much for the fellows that did show up. But there were many who weren't able to that sent in cards to PETE MORITZ with news. And those that haven't mailed them as yet still can. They'll be forwarded to the column.

The 'cards that did arrive provided the following 'quotes,' mostly beginning with 'Dear Pete': ED CLEARY was graduating from the General Electric Co. advanced engineering course. . . . JACK RIEGL'S in Singapore until 1950 with Goodyear Rubber. . . . JACK REIS was getting married to Miss Margaret Hurley in Indianapolis on June 3. . . . KEITH EPPERSON'S mother reports he is flight surgeon in Japan with the 613th squadron. . . .

JIM FINN reports son, Jimmy, born May, 1947. Jim, Sr., is an accountant with Texas Co. . . . RAY SCHOONHOVEN was off job hunting in Northwest country during reunion. Reports daughter Marie Kathleen 3½ years and son Ray, Jr., 15 months. Graduated from Northwestern Law in Aug. . . . ZANE SANDOM is managing American Express office in Heidelberg, Germany. . . . GEORGE KELLY saw HARRY McKNIGHT at George's sister's wedding recently. . . . JACK DUGGAN kept home by wedding plans for June 12 with Margery Ann Donahue of Pittsburgh.

KEN GEMPEL will start third year as assistant coach at Bendle High in Flint, Mich. Has daughter 2½ years old. . . . FRED ENGLEHART speaks for himself now, saying he's to marry Miss Lois Froelick, June 14.

BOB OVERMEYER reports his marriage to Ethelreda M. Meyer in Mount Vernon, Ohio on May 12. . . . BOB RENSBERGER was busy taking his Beloit High School's golf team to the state tournament. . . . BILL MEYER living in Richmond, Va., transferring as contracting engineer for the Automatic Sprinkler Corp. of America. . . . Others that didn't show but sent cards with regrets and hello's are: DICK CORNWELL, DICK LINDROTH, JOHN CONDIDINE, JOE TRILLING, BROTHER MARIUS, C.S.C., DICK GULLING, JOE FARWELL, NICK SUTTON, JOE FAGGAN, TOM FARMER, JIM MAHER, HARRY FLORENCE, BOB CARVER, JOHN DUNN, DICK POWERS, DICK PADESKY, BILL FORD, JACK HICKEY, BROTHER MALCHUS, C.S.C., HARRY KELSEY, JOHN O'TOOLE, DICK KISGEN, CAROL KLOTZ, BILL OLVANY, JIM FAGAN, TOM ATKINS, JIM MURPHY, DAN DEVRIES, BERNIE SCHROECK, TOM MILLER, BOB VICARS, JOHN WIETHOFF, BILL McGOWAN.

Here's some news of some of those fellows who said they were coming and who didn't, or who did and I failed to get all the news from: GERRY FEENEY and GEORGE STRATIGOS set up the law firm of Feeney & Stratigos in South Bend after graduation last June. . . . JACK BREHMER has own electrical contracting business in South Bend. . . . WALT ZIEMBA is still coaching N. D. . . . JOE DUQUETTE is production engineer at Erie Resistor, married with three children. . . . FRED DEWES is assistant to secretary of Hercules Body Co., married Miss Virginia Heitzman, June, 1947.

FRANK CONFORTI provides part of the mystery of what happened to the New York gang that wrote they were coming. . . . JACK EDWARDS is engaged to Miss Wilfred Ann Beattie of Pittsburgh, a very pretty girl he arranged a date for me with the Pitt game weekend last fall. . . . CHUCK MURPHY'S daughter was born April 16. . . . DICK TARARA got another degree at graduation. . . . RALPH VINCIGUERRA is engaged to be married and works for Goodyear Tire and Rubber in Store planning and display lab. . . . CHARLIE WADE was married in South Bend, June 7. . . .

JIM KELLY dropped in on FRANK KAISER and hoisted a few on a return trip from Detroit. . . . EDDIE DORE'S mother wrote he was trying to get time off from the Navy to make the reunion. . . .

BOB TOWNER is on the South Bend "Tribune" sports desk. . . . BILL KRESOCK was separated from Army Med Corps around June 7 and evidently couldn't arrange to make it as planned. . . . MARK PFALLER was kept away, probably by his month old son, Mark R. II. . . . BOB RIHM married Miss Stella Cliche, November 3, 1945, and has a son, Carl Robert, born February, 1947. Bob's in wholesale and retail meat packing. . . . First of month was too busy for accountant STEVE ENSNER.

The Reunion Committee has asked me to express their thanks to all those who sent in cards, thereby simplifying the making of arrangements, and especially those who showed up and made 'Operation Reunion' the huge success it was.

That about ends the personal news for this issue. And this issue ends my handling of this column. I've thoroughly enjoyed the time I've had it but believe it's better to turn it over to someone else now. Five years is a long time and eventually one man's style gets stale and bores everybody, including himself.

So I'm signing off with this issue. That famous manager of the football team and excellent writer JACK WIGGINS is taking over. He's down Cincinnati way now and will do his best to cover the coast-to-coast running story of the class from there. Give

GEORGE M. KALER is with Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft Corp., Fort Worth, Tex., in aerodynamics. DR. LEO A. STRUTNER received his medical degree from St. Louis University on June 1.

DON JACKSON, now in the A & P Tea Co. executive training program at Buffalo, N. Y., says that it is an excellent position and plans to continue with A. & P.

1948

From HERMAN ZITT in office of the Notre Dame Foundation, Notre Dame, Ind.:

For the benefit of the '48 men who may not have received a copy of the May-June ALUMNUS I might say that this is the second edition of the '48 Class News. In the last issue I volunteered temporarily to gather all the dope and bits of information about the '48 class until we appoint a permanent class secretary. So fire into me all of your suggestions, votes, etc. Also please send in the following information which BILL DOOLEY will use for the Notre Dame Directory which will be coming out in the near future: Full Name, Class, Title of Position, Business Address, Nature of Company's Business, Your Occupational Classification, and Residence Address.

The class of 1948 wants to express its sympathy to the parents of TOM BUONO of Saugerties, N. Y., who would have graduated in June, whose body was found in the Calumet River in Chicago on April 13. The report of Dr. Karl Pfeiffer of the University of Illinois shows that there was a sufficient quantity of sleep producing drug to have caused a stupor but not death. Death resulted from drowning.

DON WEIBEL is working for Firestone in

Eau Claire, Wis. STEVE PAVELA (just married on June 12) will coach at St. Mary's High in Michigan City, Ind. LEO ZUCHOWSKY has been employed by the Red Cross as director of first aid water safety and accident prevention. GERRY KERSCHEN is doubling up with coaching and teaching history at Garden Plain (Kansas) High School. DON DIEDERICH is taking grad work at Michigan and BILL RUSSELL at the University of Pittsburgh. BOB LAUER has been appointed senior director of the youth bureau in Oneida, N. Y. BOB NEWGARD is a salesman for the Newgard X-Ray Co. BERNIE POPHAM is interning at St. Joseph Hospital, Louisville, Ky. CLIFF WOOD is with Lever Bros. in Cambridge, Mass. JOHN CAHILL is in law school at Marquette. JOHN NOONAN is doing public relations work in Medford, Mass. BUSTER HILLER has been named head basketball and assistant football coach at St. John's College, Collegeville, Minn. JIM JOHNSON is at Tufts Medical School. JOE RENINGER is selling real estate in Benton Harbor, Mich.

BOB LUTZ is a metallurgist with the Timken-Detroit Axle Co. in Detroit. TED MANYAK is a Buick distributor in Detroit. NORM HEMMELGARN is the district manager for Club Aluminum Products in Chicago. DICK O'CONNELL is the business manager for O'Connell Motor Sales in Marshall, Minn. TOM FOLEY, WALT JONES, BILL PREKOWITZ, DON PATRICK, CHARLIE CAVANAUGH, and JOHN BUZZKOWSKI have passed their bar exams in Indiana. FRED FOWLER is a reporter for the Plaindealer Publishing Co. in St. James, Minn.

Address to the Alumni

I think that if we were to judge Notre Dame on the spiritual success of her graduates, this institution would certainly rank among the great universities of the world.

But if we are to exercise that leadership in the world, which we are agreed the world so sorely needs, then we must look beyond the spiritual equipment of our graduates, beyond their power to reason well, to contemplate wisely, to read intelligently, to converse interestingly.

The graduates of Notre Dame must be equipped to compete for leadership with similar zest, similar skill, similar coaching, similar equipment, that combine to produce the football teams that have brought first rank leadership to Notre Dame.

Our lawyers must be as able as they are honest, so that in the years ahead we will find them on the Supreme Court bench, the political rostrums of the Congress, the seats of the courts of international justice, and in other high posts of influence.

Our scientists must know the methods of research that will open the doors of this world to men, as they know the well defined path to the doors of the next. Father Nieuwland and Father Zahm were no less great priests because they were great scientists.

Our engineers must be competent to assume leadership in the great technical advances of the world. Leadership comes to the man whose proficiency is evident in his profession. Usually it comes first as a result of this phase of his life. In proportion to his ability to achieve this influence and position can he hope to exert the richer influences of character and morality with which he may be happily endowed.

Perhaps most vivid in our minds is the opportunity that exists for moral leadership in the universal fields of communication—the press, the radio, the moving pictures, books and magazines, the stage, and, lately, television. But in these fields the tradition of technical excellence is so deeply entrenched that our hope of a moral leadership depends almost entirely upon our training of young people so demonstrably endowed with technical excellence that they cannot be denied.

So we remind you that our objective is in a sense a dual one. We have our great spiritual mission, and we are richly endowed to carry it out. In fact we feel that we are succeeding admirably in this great purpose of Notre Dame through the edifying lives of our individual alumni.

But in the social significance of this mission, the extension of our religious influence into the creation of a leadership that will bring this rich heritage to the world, we are sorely in need of the physical facilities to permit the job to assume the proportions of the present challenge.

We can ask you, as we have this year through the Foundation, to keep conscious of the things that are God's, but to render unto the Caesar of the material side of education the things that are Caesar's.

After all, we can subscribe to the building up of our secular facilities with the inspiration of a spiritual stewardship.

With your help, Notre Dame can go on to develop an academic power and an influence on American thought in proportion to its spiritual strength and its tremendous potentialities.

Alumni Reunion

day night was the climaxing feature of the Alumni Reunion. President Harry Hogan presided and introduced as the principal speakers Dean Clarence "Pat" Manion of the Law School and Father John Cavanaugh. James E. Armstrong, alumni secretary, gave a report covering the activities of the Alumni Association for the past year. Father Cavanaugh's impressive address, as well as the Armstrong report and the substance of Mr. Hogan's remarks, are printed elsewhere in this issue.

Meanwhile on the Main Quadrangle the Band presented a concert at 6:30, and the Glee Club, led by Daniel Pedtke, gave a Saturday night concert.

Most of the reunion classes had special Masses on Sunday morning in their respective residence halls (see the class news in this issue). Particularly impressive was High Mass offered for the Class of '28 in the Morrissey Hall chapel by Rev. James Gallagan, c.s.c. Serving the Mass were Jim and Frank O'Toole, freshmen in the University last year, who are the sons of the late Frank O'Toole, '28, and the first sons of '28 men to enroll at Notre Dame. Music for the Mass was provided by a '28 choir composed of former Glee Club members directed by Rev. Andrew Mulreany, c.s.c., himself a former Glee Club man. Vince Carney, '28, played the organ. This feature of the weekend—an innovation in Notre Dame reunions—was in charge of Frank Creadon, '28, a member of the Paulist Choir of Chicago. The singers had gathered at Frank's home in Riverside, Ill., near Chicago, for one rehearsal, and had had another rehearsal at Notre Dame on Saturday afternoon, June 5.

Sunday morning, it should be particularly noted, was rainy. For the second consecutive year, the academic procession from the Main Building to the Drill Hall, preceding the Baccalaureate Mass, had to be omitted, as did the traditional procession to the flag pole for the raising of the 1948 flag following the Mass. But a capacity crowd offered the Holy Sacrifice with Most Rev. John F. Noll, bishop of Fort Wayne, and heard Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, archbishop of Boston, deliver a brilliant baccalaureate sermon, the text of which is printed in full in this issue of the ALUMNUS.

Sunday afternoon—and it was raining as hard as ever—saw for the first time a Commencement division of the graduating class at Notre Dame. Because of the size of the class and the limited seating capacity available, it was necessary to have two different ceremonies for the awarding of degrees, one at 1:30 and the second at 3:30. At the former, honorary degrees were awarded and degrees in courses were awarded in the Graduate School, the College of Arts and Letters, College of Science and College of Law. The 3:30 gathering saw the awarding of degrees in Engineering and in Commerce.

Paul C. Hoffman, administrator of the Economic Cooperation Administration, generously consented to give his Commencement address (printed in this issue) to both graduation groups.

Archbishop Cushing, Mr. Hoffman and Dr. Roy J. Deferrari, secretary-general of Catholic University, Washington, D. C., received honorary Doctor of Law degrees at the Commencement. The same degree was also awarded, posthumously, to the late William J. Corbett, Chicago, a member of the Associate Board of Lay Trustees until his death on May 26. Vincent J. Schaefer, Schenectady, N. Y., internationally distinguished research chemist with General Electric, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Science.

And thus the weekend, except for the meeting of Notre Dame lawyers and the luncheon-meeting of the Monogram Club (about which you'll find separate stories elsewhere in this issue) and except for the faculty "at homes" and the Administration reception for seniors and their families, both of which have become such a pleasant feature of the Commencement weekend.

Monday morning the campus was quiet, almost deserted. But it wasn't raining.
