IN LOCO PARENTIS

One of the hottest issues on campus early this fall was not who would be the starting quarterback, but does the University have the right to tell the students what to do with their private lives — in the campus dorms.

Included in the students' registration packets this year was a copy of a letter from Edmund A. Stephan, ND Board of Trustees chairman, to the Student Life Council, a tri-partite group made up of administrators, faculty and students (see page 6).

Stephan said the Board members were concerned because students who violated dorm rules were for the most part going unpunished. He called for the SLC to draw up specific sanctions for specific violations of dorm rules.

As we have indicated before in this magazine, life in the dormitories at Notre Dame is not what it used to be (see "New Life in the Old Dorms," Alumnus, Dec. 1970). Bed checks, Morning checks and lights out are not things that today's student will be reminiscing about at some future reunion. There is no curfew. The rules say that girls are allowed in the dorms until 11 p.m. on weekdays and until 2 a.m. on weekends. Parties at which drinking is a public display, i.e., in hallways or lounges, are prohibited. Those over 21 may keep alcoholic beverages in their rooms, however.

The sweeping away of petty regulations and the efforts to achieve Christian community in the dorms through a certain kind of participatory democracy led to something called hall autonomy. Each hall made up its own rules for the members to follow. This has worked well in halls with strong leadership — both from students and rectors. Apparently, though, it has not worked well enough in the Board's vision of the total community.

The preamble to the campus judicial code, enacted a little less than a year ago, states: "In a university, concern for the social order and for personal growth are functions of education. Students — as the majority component — must assume responsibility for setting rules and seeing that they are observed as they ready for more public responsibility beyond the campus. Faculty and administrators, whose commitment to the school is more enduring, and who are charged with fostering the character of the campus community and selecting its members, must share responsibility in this task of social learning."

The Board of Trustees has decided that a certain minority of ND students are not living up to the responsibilities implicit in the greater degree of freedom they have been granted. Thus the mandate to the Student Life Council.

To a certain degree, anyway, in loco parentis is still alive and well at Notre Dame.

50th ANNIVERSARY MARKED BY COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

The first American university to offer a four-year course in foreign commerce, Notre Dame observed the 50th anniversary of its College of Business Administration in September. The college, with an enrollment of some 1200 students and a full-time faculty of 40, offers concentrations in the fields of accountancy, finance, marketing, and management. There are more than 10,000 alumni of the college.

To mark the anniversary of the college, once the largest in enrollment on the campus, a 50th birthday celebration was planned for Sept. 16 when members of the College of Business Administration advisory council would be attending their fall meeting. A 1939 Notre Dame graduate, Richard J. Anton, manager of corporate personnel policy development for the General Electric Corporation, New York, N.Y., was the principal speaker and Frank E. Sullivan, South Bend insurance executive, was toastmaster.

Noted for a strong program of liberal studies during the first 70 years of her existence, Notre Dame initiated a series of commercial classes for the business-minded student in 1913. Rev. John F. O'Hara CSC, who was later to become president of the University and a cardinal in the Catholic Church, was asked in 1916 by Rev. John W. Cavanaugh CSC, the ninth president of Notre Dame, to guide the growth of the new department.

From the total of six students enrolled in the limited schedule of commerce classes in 1913, the department grew to 85 classes in 1924, the third year of Fr. O'Hara's deanship. The absence of a building where the expanding commerce classes could be centralized was a matter of great concern to the priest. However, in 1930, the chairman of the United States Shipping Board, Edward Nash Hurley, contributed $200,000 for the erection of a new building to be known as the College of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

Fr. O'Hara was succeeded as dean in 1925 by James E. McCarthy who was to serve a total of 30 years in this position. Under his direction, the College became the largest on campus and a trend away from a trade and foreign commerce orientation toward one of management and administration was started.

Dr. James W. Culliton, a graduate of the Harvard School of Business, joined the faculty during the latter years of the "McCarthy era" and began an experimental program for administrators. Succeeding McCarthy in 1955, Dean Culliton used the results of his experimental program to revise the four-year curriculum, de-emphasizing specialization and strengthening a focus on the whole administrative process. During his deanship the College's name was changed from the College of Foreign and Domestic Commerce to the College of Business Administration.

Studies of trends in business education have been continued by Thomas T. Murphy, who became dean in 1962 and his associate dean, John R. Malone. Results showed a critical shortage of professional managers—people with the ability to organize, plan, inspire and direct the work of others successfully in large-scale operations. In the fall of 1967 Notre Dame launched a full-time, two-year program leading to the degree of master of business administration (MBA). In this program the University combines the two most prevalent approaches to management education: the basic disciplines approach—which emphasizes subjects such as economics, statistics, sociology, psychology, and law, and the case study approach—which stresses the analysis of actual business situations.

To house this new program the Hayes-Healy Center was constructed immediately north of the Hurley Building at a cost in excess of $1 million. The building was a gift of Mr. and Mrs. John F. (Ramona Hayes) Healy of Chicago.

Between the buildings, a courtyard was dedicated during this past summer to the memory of Ralph and Philip J. Lucier, independent telephone company executives.

50TH—Preparing to cut the cake, baked in the shape of the Hurley classroom building, are Frank J. Sullivan, South Bend insurance executive and toastmaster; Dean Thomas T. Murphy, fourth dean of the college; Edmund A. Stephan, chairman of the trustees; Father Hesburgh, president; and Richard J. Anton, manager of corporate personnel policy development of General Electric Corp., a 1939 graduate and speaker at the anniversary dinner.

Map Fund Plans

In an effort to gather alumni suggestions for the best possible methods of obtaining even greater participation in the revitalized Annual Fund campaign of the University and also to test such proposals in the field, Notre Dame this fall will launch a Pilot City Program. The program was mapped out by Frank G. Kelly, ND development director.

With the successful completion of SUMMA following Challenge I and Challenge II, the University is honoring its pledge not to engage in any special capital fund solicitation before 1977, Kelly noted. "However, the University continues to rely upon gifts from alumni and friends to fund at least 11 per cent of the budget required for each year. Of this the Annual Fund must generate approximately $3 million per year with an equal amount provided by nonalumni sources."

In SUMMA, some 22,000 of Notre Dame's approximately 40,000 living graduates have made contributions, large and small. "The Pilot City Program is being undertaken to seek the best methods of gaining support from those who have not participated," Kelly said.

The program will be conducted mostly during October and November of this year so that results can be presented for review and approval by the Board of Trustees, the Alumni Association Board, the Alumni Senate, the Public Relations and Development Committee and the University Administration.

"From such experience and study, the talents and energies of the professional development staff as well as those of alumni volunteers throughout the country can be marshalled in behalf of the Annual Fund," the development director stated. "The experiences garnered in three capital campaigns in a decade, as well as the fund-raising know-how of 24 years, will be infused into such a program."

The cities in which the Pilot Program will be tested are: Boston, Detroit, Chicago, Dallas, Memphis, Peoria, San Francisco, Los Angeles and St. Louis. Notre Dame clubs in those cities will form the nucleus of a group working through personal contact, telephone calls and direct mail solicitation. The four regional directors of development, Brian Regan in the Middle East and East, Thomas Sullivan in the South and Southeast, John Micheca in the Midwest and James Kinnane in the West, will assist in starting the program and again in reviewing the findings and results.

At the spring Alumni Board and Senate meeting in 1972, it will be possible to articulate the long-range monetary goals of the University and the role the Annual Fund will play in helping to achieve them, according to Kelly. Suggestions as to how volunteers would be organized will be described, as well as appropriate fund-raising techniques to be employed. Finally, materials to be used in connection with the Annual Fund program will be presented to this combined body for use in general campaigns to follow.

Pollution Treatment

Engineers of the University have been asked by Telecommunications Industries, Inc., of Copiague, N.Y. to assist in the development company's wastewater treatment system. The agreement was announced by Dr. Joseph C. Hogan, dean of the College of Engineering, and Alfred J. Roach, chairman of the board for the firm.

The process uses sonics and ozone to purify water. Roach explained that ozone, a strong purifying agent, acts to destroy bacteria and break down organic pollutants in the water. Since the ozone does not attack solid masses or particles, sound at varying frequencies is used to break up solid blocks of matter in the water, allowing the ozone to act on tiny particles.

The firm is building a pilot plant to demonstrate effectiveness of the new technique. ND engineers will try various combinations of ozone concentration and sound application in an effort to devise an optimum process.

Dr. Philip Singer, assistant director of civil engineering, will direct the water chemistry aspects of the program and Dr. Francis H. Verhoff, assistant professor of chemical engineering, will direct the process design and process control.

$8.7 Million in Awards

A total of $8,704,058 in fund awards was received by ND in the 1970-71 fiscal year. The amount is up slightly from the previous year's figure of $8,374,764, largely due to increased support from government agencies.

The College of Science received almost half of the awards, or $3,897,874. This includes a major science development grant from the National Science Foundation of $900,000 and is the highest ever received by the college. Last year science received $2,465,414.

Support for educational and service programs remained constant over the past year while funds for facilities and equipment dipped sharply. The total for educational programs was $1,490,316; for service programs $105,883 and for facilities $226,267.

Government agencies provided support of $6,886,730, up from last year's $6,481,349. Support from non-government agencies was $1,837,328, a decline of about $50,000.

Arts and Letters received $809,481; College of Business Administration, $51,000; College of Engineering, $725,626, and Law School, $8,400. The Radiation Laboratory received its annual budget of $1,319,000 from the Atomic Energy Commission, and the Institute for Studies in Education, $243,218.

Hesburgh Chairman

The chairmanship of the Overseas Development Council, a private group that aids underdeveloped countries, has been accepted by Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh CSC, ND President.

The Washington, D.C.-based council acts as a clearinghouse for overseas development information and activities, conducts studies, serves as a forum for discussion of development policies, and tries "to keep the urgency of the challenges of development before the public and responsible authorities."

The nonprofit corporation has a professional staff of 10 and an annual budget of approximately $600,000, underwritten by grants from more than 40 corporations, foundations and private individuals.

The 67-member board which Father Hesburgh heads includes Arthur J. Goldberg, Supreme Court justice; Vernon E. Jordan, head of the Urban League; James A. Linen, chairman of the executive committee of Time, Inc.; David Rockefeller, Chase Manhattan Bank board chairman; John E. Swearingen, Standard Oil Co. of Indiana board chairman; Leonard Woodcock, United Automobile Workers president; and fellow university presidents Malcolm Moos of the U. of Minnesota and Clifton R. Wharton Jr., of Michigan State U.

Bartell to Stonehill

Rev. Ernest J. Bartell CSC '53, who was director of the ND Center for the Study of Man in Contemporary Society, is the new president of Stonehill College, North Easton, Mass.

Father Bartell succeeds Very Rev. John T. Corr CSC '46 who had served since 1964. Father Corr resigned but will remain at Stonehill to devote full time to the college's enrichment and expansion program.

The new Stonehill president is former chairman of the ND Department of Economics and is serving as director of an economic analysis of non-public school education in the U.S. for the President's Commission on School Finance. He had been a member of the ND faculty since 1966.

HARRY C. ELMORE, who took the above photo and others of ND men in sports, class dances and other campus events, died of cancer May 19 in Miami, Fla. He was 89 and until recent years was nationally known as scorer for the Masters and other major golf tournaments. He was staff photographer for the South Bend News-Times and in that capacity was on the campus hundreds of times. When Grantland Rice christened the 1924 ND backfield "The Four Horsemen," Elmore posed them, in football gear, astride horses, and sold hundreds if not thousands of prints.

Toughen Dorm Rules

The Notre Dame Board of Trustees has moved this semester to establish more stringent enforcement of rules of conduct in the campus dormitories. Of particular concern to the trustees was the violation of rules regarding drinking and the visitation of women.

In a letter to Prof. William F. Eagan, chairman of the Student Life Council, Edmund A. Stephan, trustees chairman, pointed out that while progress had been made in certain areas of hall life at Notre Dame, there was still room for improvement.

The Board reaffirmed its understanding that the hall rector, "must bear the ultimate burden of responsibility for the good order and well-being of the hall. In this regard, it should be observed that the rector has always retained the authority to require a student to live elsewhere if he has, by his own actions, made his continued residence in the hall obstructive of good order."

Stephan repeated the statement of the board last April, that resident assistants in the dorms: "Should be available to the students a major portion of the evening hours, should provide leadership by the example of his own life, should counsel those who seek academic or personal advice, offer assistance to those in need, and if normal student self-discipline breaks down, he should, with the rector's support, be responsible for restoring the good order of the hall."

Stephan also asked the SLC for a clarification of the position of the campus Disciplinary Boards. "Disciplinary Boards have too often in the past tended to ignore or alter regulations with which they did not agree," Stephan stated. He called for "precise guidelines" for Disciplinary Boards in order that sanctions "be clear and unequivocal for the offenses committed. . . ."

The Board stated again its commitment to limited visitation hours for women in the dormitories. "This experiment was inaugurated in the hope that such visitation procedures would improve the social life on campus and would contribute to the growth and maturity of the individual hall residents," Stephan said. "Although the Board . . . is seriously concerned over the many abuses in this area . . . it is still of the view that the present rules, if conscientiously observed and enforced, will effectively contribute toward these goals."

The Board also reminded the SLC of its stand that all parties where alcoholic beverages were to be served would be held off-campus. "The University's status before the law and its responsibility for the welfare of each student requires that this original policy be retained and strictly enforced," the chairman stated. Students are allowed to have alcoholic beverages in their rooms if they are 21 years old.

In a letter to the Notre Dame students summarizing the Stephan letter, Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh CSC said that the problem that the Board faces is: "How preserve the gains, how recognize the good will of the many while bearing down on the few who abuse the permissive atmosphere that has been deliberately created? There seemed to be only one reasonable solution: To state again, and clearly, what were the hopes and expectations of the many members of this community, while establishing procedures that will take account of the few that cannot act maturely in a free and permissive atmosphere, who disdain the will of the many for a better quality of life in the halls."

New Position

Dr. Robert E. Gordon, associate dean of the ND College of Science, has been appointed to the newly created position of vice president for advanced studies, effective Sept. 1.

The new post combines the previous functions of the vice president for research and sponsored programs and the dean of the Graduate School. Dr. Frederick Rossini, who now holds the vice presidency, and Rev. Paul E. Beichner CSC '35, dean of the Graduate School, both are retiring.

Gordon, a specialist in ecology and vertebrate zoology, did his undergraduate work at Emory U., received an M.S. from the U. of Georgia and a Ph.D. from Tulane U. He joined the biology faculty at ND in 1958. From 1958 to 1967 he edited The American Midland Naturalist at ND.

STUDENT VIEW

by Jim Fanto '73

The creating of a collective responsibility within each residence hall is no simple matter. Students are as diverse in life style as the geographical settings from which they come. The simple habits we have acquired at home, our bedtime, drinking habits, relationships with girls, may differ widely. We must often sublimate or alter some of our habits in order to live peacefully, and humanly with our roommates.

And yet the concern and respect we may offer our roommates or close friends do not usually extend to the students two doors down the hall, in another section, or several floors below us. While a common place of living breeds a familiarity on the level of hall football contests, card games, and parties, it cannot automatically produce a personal knowledge and respect of individuals.

Students, then, can be rightly expected to understand that a more personal social interaction is necessary in our halls. That is why hall sections were formed. By developing acquaintances and concern among immediate neighbors within small groups, an individual student may then relate more personally to other hall members. Yet each one of us must also show an elemental courtesy and concern to all our neighbors, whether or not we know them personally. We must have the courage to act with a responsibility in all our actions in the dormitories, realizing that we owe others this responsibility.

Unfortunately, the success of the section programs in promoting a personal awareness among hall members as well as the sensitivity of Notre Dame students is at a low ebb. When outright vandalism in dormitories is caused by students, a majority of students ignore the others' actions. Other times, thoughtless residents demonstrate their lack of respect by harassing fellow students' dates.

While the majority of us are to blame for our unconcern and irresponsibility in the face of these actions, there do exist faults in the administration which add to the havoc of the dorms. Halls could be improved by adequate soundproofing of individual rooms, the refurbishing of lounges, and by the bringing of more classes and faculty into the halls through already existing programs. These would help ease student tensions and make the halls more livable. Students feel a certain "facelessness" before the University in the form of mass dining, registration queues, grading procedures, oversize classes. These do not strengthen the students' personal values or their value of others. In short, the dormitory problems are a University-wide concern.

Fr. Hesburgh and the Board of Trustees in their recent ruling on pariets and drinking have ignored several facets of the dormitory problems—particularly those facets which involve other members of the University besides students. I am not trying to de-emphasize student responsibility and insensitivity, but to point out that the administration, the faculty, and the Trustees should not skirt their responsibility by shifting complete blame for hall troubles to the students. Unfortunately, there is a certain blindness exhibited in Mr. Stephan's letter to the students. This blindness obscures the possibility on this campus of developing stronger personal relationships between students and other members of the University community as well as a healthier physical setting in the halls. The Trustees and Fr. Hesburgh opt instead for a condemnation of student responsibility on two controversial hall issues, place the burden of further action on student shoulders and, ultimately, add more tension to the already uncomfortable dormitory life.

IRISH EYES—The reigning Miss U.S.A., Michele McDonald of Butler, Penn., was a September visitor on the campus. Escorted by John Barkett, left, student body president, and Orlando Rodriguez, vice president, she was a guest at a Morris Inn luncheon and a tour of the campus, including classroom visits and an introduction to the football team.

YVES SIMON

AT NOTRE DAME

BY JAMES CORBETT

A PERSONAL RECOLLECTION OF ONE OF THE UNIVERSITY'S MOST ACCOMPLISHED PHILOSOPHERS

We first met Yves Simon in September, 1938, a week or two after his arrival in South Bend from France. He had moved with his wife and four children into the white house which was to become his permanent home in the United States. It was less than a hundred yards from the small apartment where I lived with my young French wife and first child. We had heard of Yves' coming to Notre Dame on our return from a summer spent in France and were anxious to meet him and his family. Yet we both wondered whether we would like them. It did not necessarily follow that because they and my wife were French we would become close friends.

It soon became clear, however, that we had much more in common than the French language and French background. There quickly developed all that rich warmth, affection and understanding which is friendship. It was to endure untroubled for the next 23 years.

When Yves and Paule first arrived at Notre Dame, Yves' spoken English was poor; his wife spoke not a word of it. He realized that his most urgent problem was to master English in order to be able to teach. During the first fall and winter we spent many evenings together using Commonweal as our text for grammar and vocabulary while I tried to help him with his pronunciation. It is very difficult for a man in his middle thirties with a somewhat limited reading knowledge of English to learn quickly to speak it well enough for the classroom. What was remarkable about Yves' effort was his determination to master it and to settle for nothing less than correct speech and facility. Within a few years he was thinking and writing in English. He paid close attention to every correction made of his grammar. He would always ask for an explanation of the construction or idiom involved, then repeat it aloud two or three times. From then on he would rarely repeat the same mistake.

Yves Simon came to Notre Dame as the country was emerging from the Depression. As student enrollment increased, Rev. John F. O'Hara, CSC, President of the University, with the strong encouragement of Rev. Philip Moore, CSC, at the time secretary of the Graduate School, had started to hunt for scholars of repute to strengthen the faculty. These were the prewar years during which Notre Dame engaged not only Yves, who had been recommended by Etienne Gilson, but Waldemar Gurian, the founder of

The Review of Politics, and Aloya Hermens for the department of political science. Karl Menger in mathematics and Emile Artin in Physics. Yves was the most important addition to the Department of Philosophy.

Yves was much more than a narrow professional philosopher. He was very much a citizen of France. We had known him only a week or two before the humiliation of Munich took place. All during the following months up to the outbreak of World War II and then the disaster of June, 1940, the fate of France was much on his mind. As a Frenchman he was torn by the collapse of France and soon took a passionate interest in the Isolationist versus Interventionist controversy which raged in this country and with great intensity on the campus. As a foreigner he felt obliged to observe a certain restraint; as a Frenchman he could see that the only hope for France was in American intervention. A common concern for the fate of his relatives and friends in France as well as of those of my wife brought us closer together than ever. Despite his own worries, Yves was ever the sympathetic friend to my wife who was so deeply concerned about her family in occupied France.

It was during this tragic war period that Yves, crippled since childhood and unable to do active military service, wrote, "The Fall of the Third French Republic."¹ Political philosophy was an area which always fascinated him. The collapse of France prompted him to reflect on the political life of his generation. Much of it was written from memory for he had an exceptional one for the events, movements and key personalities in the France of the '20s and '30s.

It was this memory of his which helped make him such a fascinating person. He could recite dozens of French poems he had learned in his youth and loved to tell anecdotes in which he, his friends or outstanding personalities were involved. He would drop in, usually on Saturday afternoons, after a day's work at his desk. He came to relax and talk. Some of our most cherished memories of him are of these stimulating conversations. Yves inspired trust. He was deeply learned not only in philosophy but also in theology, history and French literature. He loved to talk at length on these subjects. And we loved to encourage him to do so with leading questions. He had the wonderful quality of never becoming angry however much we might disagree with him.

It was during one of these Saturday afternoon conversations that he first told us of the diagnosis given of a lump which had developed on the left side of his face. For a long time he thought something could be done to cure it. An operation in Chicago failed. The cancer spread throughout his body; he became bedridden and subject to increasing pain. It was for us now to return the many Saturday afternoon visits he had made when he was well. During the last two years of his illness we visited him nearly every day even though it was so heartrending to see him suffer. But it seemed to help him to see us; so we went. For a number of months he was still able to work for a few hours a day at his long, plain table covered with books and papers. Then he had to give this up. The ever-thoughtful and kind Rev. Leo R. Ward, CSC, came to his house to say the last Mass Yves was to hear on this favorite worktable.

Though finally bedridden in his study he continued to have classes there. His students from the University of Chicago came down regularly to hear him. It was one of his few pleasures during these last months to be able to lecture to them.

Yves was well aware of his exceptional intellectual powers. He was also determined to use them to the maximum by hard work. This was particularly evident during his last illness. Although his body gradually became weaker and required sedation, the spirit and drive were as active as ever. Inevitably as the long months went by he came to realize that he was not going to recover his health. The problem of death and afterlife had become much less academic; now it was personal and near.

A man of profound faith, he had also an awesome fear of death. There was the fear of punishment for sin, the fear that he might not be prepared to die. There was too a sort of human resentment that death was so near. He had planned a series of 21 volumes to be called "Philosophical Enquiries." Some were completed; several others done in part. The Lord must give him at least the time to finish them! But this was not to be for on Ascension Thursday, 1961, he was called to his eternal reward.

Unification Update: Procedures Unite

Those planning the "marriage" of ND and SMC probably wish at this point that the two institutions had just eloped. But unification is an arranged marriage if there ever was one, and perhaps the best way to summarize progress is in terms of the work of the interinstitutional teams.

Academic Affairs: The melding of departments on both sides of the highway has been progressing well, with the heads of SMC cognate departments becoming, for this transitional year, associate department chairmen at ND. Two administrative offices—Admissions and Registrar—have been unified.

Thus far, this committee has been concerned with solving immediate—but fairly minor—problems, such as fee discrepancies. Major policy decisions are yet to be made affecting such areas as library services and proposed new academic programs.

Student Affairs: Little work could be done during the summer because of the absence of student members of the committee. It seems evident that the problems lie not in the area of student activities—where integration of the student bodies is already a fait accompli in many cases—but in student services, such as psychological counseling, infirmary operation and housing.

Business Affairs: Much of the initial committee work has been surveying and comparing modes of operation on the two campuses in such key areas as personnel, purchasing, bookstore, maintenance, and food service. In many cases, decisions hinge upon the overall study of unification of financial arrangements.

Development and Public Relations: Notre Dame Information Services now handles the public information function for Saint Mary's and in other areas—such as alumni affairs, development, placement—unification plans are in the works with SMC counterparts. The boards of directors of the ND and SMC alumni bodies will meet jointly this fall to discuss the implications of unification.

Financial Planning: The top priority item in unification is planning for a financially viable institution, which includes the development of a common operating budget and arrangement for the use of SMC physical facilities. Father Edmund P. Joyce CSC, Notre Dame's treasurer, and Sister M. Gerald Hartney CSC, his SMC counterpart, are working with Ernst & Ernst, the accounting firm which services both institutions, to solve this major issue.

Space utilization and transportation loom as two highly complicated problems in unification, and the man who has been asked to confront them is Leo M. Corbaci, Notre Dame's newly appointed Dean of Administration. Corbaci and his staff moved over to Saint Mary's early in the summer with their tape measures and discovered that SMC's dowry in unification is an excellent physical plant with elbow room Notre Dame sorely needs. Corbaci's square-foot figures boil down to one significant statistic—with five times as many students, Notre Dame has only 2.5 times the space of Saint Mary's. The Notre Dame campus is nearing utilization limits, while space at SMC is being underutilized.

Tied closely to decisions about what Notre Dame academic units move to the SMC campus is the transportation problem, now barely being met with a fleet of shuttle buses. It is obvious that movement between the two campuses has to be minimized in the absence of a multi-million-dollar outlay for a monorail system, but much less clear is how to do this.

While the unraveling of unification problems seems at times to discover more difficulties than it solves, there is one major change in attitude which is a cause for optimism. "Procedures unite, ideologies divide," is the way the veteran of unification discussion, Father Charles Sheedy, once summed it up, and it is evident that the ideological skirmishes are over and the planners are at work.

Pat Mudron, class of '71, played on the Irish football team for four years, but his name will only remain in the minds of those who knew him personally. For Pat wasn't one of those men constantly mentioned in Sunday's sports page headlines—or even in Saturday's starting lineups.

Pat was a "prepper," a member of the third team defense. His job each week was to prepare the offensive team by simulating the defensive formations of the upcoming opponent.

Pat wasn't the happiest member of the prep defensive unit, nor was he the most sullen. He had a lot to be thankful for. Football had been good to him. His athletic scholarship paid college expenses, enabling him to get his degree; he found a great bunch of guys not only on the team, but also among the student body; and he had many experiences that no amount of bench sitting could take away.

Yet, he'll always have that feeling of what might have been if his knee hadn't been injured during spring practice of 1969. It wasn't corrected until after the '69 season and by that time capable replacements had been found and his football career as a starting defensive tackle was over.

Still he came out every day and tried his best. He accepted his fate as a prepper, always keeping alive the hope that maybe things would change and he would become a starter again. The change never came. By his senior year, football had become little more than a job. Three hours a day of going nowhere.

NEVER ON SATURDAY

by Jack Cahill '71

The Notre Dame prep squad works as hard as the varsity from Monday through Friday, but can only dream of glory on Saturday.

They go through their motions, but, as Pat says, "you are always on the alert for a cheap-shot tackle or a blind-side block because self-preservation is a must among the preppers." After all, where do they go once they aren't even qualified to be a prepper?

Despite doubts about their contribution to the team's overall effort, preppers as a whole are very spirited because the sophomores and juniors still have hopes of making the varsity. So they do their best to impress the coaches.

Gary Kos, who started for two years at offensive guard, was a prep team linebacker during his entire sophomore year. He recalls, "The coaches didn't know exactly where to play me. But I kept a good attitude, did the best possible, and hoped that someday my break would come. Luckily for me, it did."

Kos' break came about because each member of the entire team is evaluated after practice every day. In their recently published book, "Parseghian and Notre Dame Football," Coach Parseghian and his assistant, Tom Pagna, talk about the evaluation of players: "Our players know that at least once a day, for no less than an hour's time, we on the staff have discussed each man on our squad. His attitude, physical condition, technique, size, speed, agility, and desire have all been assessed and perhaps sometimes severely criticized in an open atmosphere of discussion. In such evaluations we have one thought in mind: Where can this young man be of the greatest help to our team? The young man knows this. He also knows that an evaluation on a particular day is not permanent, it can be changed the next day. Performance counts, and players are not static performers. Improvements are made, injuries force changes, and no one is ever excluded from making a major contribution to the team. The players have faith in the decisions of the staff exactly in the measure of their loyalty."

Keeping the faith as a senior prepper, however, can be almost as difficult as giving a 20-point lead to Southern California and then trying to catch up—in the rain. Unlike the sophomores and juniors, the seniors know their days in uniform are numbered, time is running out.

Yet, they come out to practice daily. Why? Some because they feel they owe it to the University for the education they are receiving. Others do it just to show the coaches they have what it takes. They are motivated by an intense personal pride and self-respect which constantly pushes them. Still others, such as Pete Schivarelli, came out because "This is Notre Dame and I want to be a part of that tradition no matter how small a piece I get."

"Playing with the prep team allows a guy to be more natural and just be himself" one veteran of prep wars said. "There isn't the constant pressure of win, win, win, breathing down your neck every Saturday." A preppler is more apt to take a lighthearted approach to his duties. A couple of years ago, the prep defense was using red-dog patterns and linebacker blitzes that the upcoming opponent frequently used in key situations. One of the coaches had gone through about ten different variations of the "dog" maneuver and had been very explicit in describing them to the prep defensive unit. So Dennis Kilanney, a prep linebacker, said to the coach, "We have a new dog for you." The coach asked what it was and Kilanney responded with, "The Philly Dog, man," and the entire prep defensive team started into the dance which was the current rage that year, the Philly Dog.

Despite some clowning around, members of the prep team realize they have a serious job to perform and the coaches are always there to remind them of this.

All major schools have a prep team. Coaches and players alike know that it is a necessity for the success of a football program. But this doesn't make it any easier for a preppler to accept his fate.

Do your dreams of being a personal success in football end right there or do you put the team above yourself and sacrifice for the good of the team? The inner frustrations and futility of a preppler can be seen in the team cheers they make up at the completion of each week of practice.

Friday afternoons are light workouts and they conclude with three cheers: the offensive team, the defensive team, and the prepplers. The first two are usually very inhibited and quite conservative. Then comes the prepplers' turn.

"They get back at everything that is bothering them through their cheer," Chuck Nightingale said. "When you are not playing and you are down because you feel like you are not contributing, the Friday cheers bring a smile to your face and enable you to summon up the courage to face another week of practice." Another week of another team's defense, another week of inner futility echoed in this Friday cheer:

"So this week it's Army
But that should be no test;
Because the prepplers could beat 'em

(Pause)

If only we were dressed."

THE MEN FROM U.N.D.E.R.C.

SCIENTISTS FROM NOTRE DAME STUDY THE ENVIRONMENT IN THE WISCONSIN WILDS.

The University of Notre Dame's Environmental Research Center (UNDERC) lies just north of the popular Wisconsin resort area known as Land O'Lakes. Cars back up along the two-lane highways each summer, filled with people seeking lake-side relaxation. The little towns along the roads sport cheese stands, ersatz Indian totem poles and junk stores offering cans of fresh Wisconsin air and pine pillows.

In contrast to the bustling activity of the surrounding resort areas, UNDERC's 5,500-acre tract remains almost deserted. A few scientists drive its dirt trails pursuing various research projects. Occasional conferences crowd the complex of buildings on Killarney Point. But in general the area remains the province of deer, bear, porcupine and beaver—wildlife becoming increasingly rare where man is more populous.

Dr. Robert Gordon, vice president for advanced studies at ND and director of the research program at UNDERC, explains that the area functions as a wilderness preserve, a conference center and a research station. Gordon believes the area has two major advantages over other biological field stations in the country—its huge size and its enforced remoteness.

Its remoteness means biologists can use radioactive tracing techniques to follow the flow of important chemicals through plant and animal systems. Although the small amounts of essentially harmless radioactive materials used in these experiments pose little danger, their release would be unthinkable in an area populated by curious visitors and their children.

Its size means researchers can use entire lakes or bogs in experiments, an unusual situation for scientific studies. The classic research on nutrients in lake systems was done by a U. of Wisconsin professor on Peter and Paul lakes at UNDERC. He forcibly divided the single lake into two halves, and could then prove fairly easily that increased fish yields on one side were due to added nutrients supplied by him.

Gordon, a biologist who specializes in reptiles and amphibians, has guided the development of Land O'Lakes since ND decided to create a research capacity there in 1968. Acquiring authority just after the government stopped providing ready money for such projects, Gordon has scrounged for mattresses, fixed the plumbing himself on occasion, bullied graduate students and university officials alike and eventually succeeded in gaining a new laboratory for the site. Perpetually smoking a cigar "to keep the mosquitoes away," he is most at home in an old flannel shirt and a specimen hat where he stores strange plants for later identification.

One of the first orders of business at UNDERC is a survey of existing plants and animals simply to find out what's there. Dr. George B. Craig, director of the Vector Biology Laboratory at ND and a specialist in the tropical Aedes aegypti mosquito, began a survey of mosquito species in the area two years ago. He and his graduate students have identified 32 different types of mosquitoes each breeding and living in different areas (small compared to the hundreds of species living in tropical climates). Some favor the grasslands, others the deep woods, others the mat of plants which edge the bog lakes. One breeds in the small amounts of water left in tree holes after rain.

Dr. Milan Trpis, assistant faculty fellow in biology, plans to make a particular study of this tree-hole mosquito, Aedes triseriatus. The insect carries a newly identified disease misleadingly called "California encephalitis," common in several Midwestern states. Similar to the Venezuelan encephalitis that struck horses and people in Texas, the disease is incurable and sometimes fatal. The mosquito that carries it is very hard to control since it breeds in tree holes rather than open water, and so is not vulnerable to most spraying or swamp-drainage programs.

A graduate student of Craig's, William Conner, is studying a mosquito which lives and lays its eggs in the water found at the bottom of pitcher plants. Pitcher plants are generally insect death traps, luring small bugs with a sweet smell and then poisoning and digesting them in the juices within. These particular mosquitoes, however, are apparently able to thrive on the substance that poisons most other insects. Conner would like to learn why.

To collect adults for identification, Craig and Trpis take a direct but uncomfortable approach—they sit in the woods and wait for mosquitoes to bite. When full of blood, the insects are trapped by the scientists in a glass tube plugged with cotton. The researchers hope to raise some of these northern types in the laboratory in spite of considerable difficulties—these mosquitoes will not mate in the laboratory. Even where eggs are produced, they take about nine months to hatch, rather than the few weeks common in tropical mosquitoes.

The possibilities for environmental research are only beginning to be exploited at UNDERC, Gordon explained. The first project was begun by Dr. Thomas Griffing, an assistant professor of biology who has since left ND. Griffing and his graduate students study "Nutrient Cycling in Bog Lakes," essentially an effort to learn why old, decaying lakes are unproductive despite the presence of much organic material.

Griffing explained that lakes go through several stages of development, beginning as clear, quite unproductive lakes, becoming extremely productive as plants and animals increase in the lake, and finally becoming acidic, brownish bogs which fill in with sphagnum and other floating mat plants.

Graduate students Tom Kane and Gary Logan are studying the Northgate Bog to gauge the plant activity at various depths in the bog. Using radioactive carbon 14, they take samples at various depths, introduce the carbon, and return the bottles to original positions for several hours. They then study the activity of living things in the bog by measuring how much carbon the plants at each layer have used. The depths differ markedly in plant life and a variety of other features. For instance, temperature may drop 10 degrees within a few feet of the surface. The bottom is quite chilly and dark, so that the rich nutrients trapped there cannot be used by plant life because of the lack of warmth and light.

Later in the summer, Griffing's students plan to introduce calcium into the bog system in an effort to increase its productivity. In the laboratory, calcium increased the availability of carbon to plant life, permitting increased growth.

A graduate student from the U. of Michigan, Leo Montroy, is studying the next step up the food chain from the algae and plant life. He is trying to relate changes in the plant forms to changes in the population of small animals that live in the bog. These animals vary according to layers within the bog, and with temperature and season as well. If the addition of calcium does produce an increase or change in plant life, Montroy expects it will change the type and number of small animals as well.

David Imes, also from the U. of Michigan, is studying another nutrient important in bog life—phosphorus. Fish farmers who are concerned about maintaining the yields of their ponds are interested in this common fertilizer, which mysteriously disappears soon after application in bog lakes. Imes found in earlier experiments that much of the phosphorus ends up in the mat of plants which forms the edge of most bogs—the semisolid layer of sphagnum that "quakes," giving rise to the name quaking bog.

This summer he studied the opposite approach—adding phosphorus to the mat and watching to see if any makes its way into the lake itself. If so, this might be an alternate method of fertilizing the lake. To study the progress of phosphorus through the tangle of plants, he applies radioactive phosphorus 32 at three major sites, and samples the water at various depths to gauge the progress it makes downward toward the bog.

His case filled with 36 tubes of water, Imes goes back to the laboratory after sampling the bog to analyze each one. The laboratory is one of Gordon's special projects, a spacious, light room atop the garage on Tenderfoot Lake. Complete with dormitory, cubicles for study, a chemical laboratory, a darkroom and kitchen, the whole complex can be heated for winter use.

At the lab, Imes transfers the sample liquid into numbered, metal caps lined with special paper and dries the caps in an oven. The paper must then be sent over to U. of Michigan's nearby forestry camp for final analysis of the radioactivity, and therefore the amount of phosphorus registered at each station.

With the laboratory in operating shape, Gordon is now seeking to improve living facilities for graduate students, faculty and their families. Although set on lovely Tenderfoot Lake and quite near the laboratory, the buildings left by Martin Gillen when he willed the property to ND in 1943 hardly form an idyllic setting. Old, eaten by porcupines and split by settling, they will need extensive reworking before they are habitable. The most promising, Gordon explained, is the church (abandoned in 1967) which he plans to turn into a dormitory.

The seminarians once used the Moreau Camp as a summer study and recreation facility, until the priests decided that their true place during the summer was serving in the cities and parishes. They then vacated the camp, and the land reverted to the University.

Since Notre Dame acquired the property from Gillen, it has been used largely as a remote conference site. The complex of buildings on Killarney Point retain that function. Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh CSC, ND President, has periodically used it for meetings of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, which he heads, as well as for gatherings of ND trustees and advisory council members. The site gained some attention when a prestigious group of Catholic educators met there and drafted a forward-looking statement on the nature of the Catholic university, which became known as the Land O'Lakes statement.

A New York Times profile of Father Hesburgh mentioned that he boasts of his skill as a fisherman, and relaxes by fishing the rich, uncrowded lakes at Land O'Lakes. However, strict plans have been drawn up so that the recreational purposes of the land will not interfere with the rare natural environment so valuable to researchers in zoology, ecology, forestry and other fields.

This was not always the case in past years. Before environmental awareness hit the country, the University allowed its land to be lumbered, so that most of the timber now standing is second growth. Some of the small hollows still have no trees established, perhaps, Gordon speculated, because the cold settles in these bowls and kills the young trees.

Craig is particularly indignant over the now-distant lumbering enterprise, as it cuts down the population of tree-hole mosquitoes, which he would particularly like to study.

Gordon hopes the region will become increasingly useful to scientists at a variety of Midwest universities for environmental and ecological research. It has already been of service to faculty at U. of Michigan and U. of Wisconsin, and he feels it can be developed to serve the entire area as a unique opportunity for environmental research.

Alumni, Please Speak!

by Robert A. Erkins, President,
ND Alumni Board

The fall Alumni Board meeting will be here shortly, and the Board will want to discuss matters that interest you the most. To do this, we need your views (preferably in the form of letters) written either directly to the Alumni Board member in your area or to me. Much is happening at Notre Dame, and the members of the Alumni Board are becoming more involved than ever in reflecting Alumni views to the ND Board of Trustees and the administration.

With Notre Dame and St. Mary's unifying after coexistence for over 100 years, we certainly need suggestions from you in order to set the Alumni Board policies for the future.

At the present time, it appears that both SMC and ND administrators will follow a broad outline of unification along these general lines:

This fall the ND student body will be made up of approximately 8,050 men. This group includes 1,625 freshmen. The overall student body will be down about 100 from the previous fall, primarily due to an expected decline in graduate school enrollment. On the other hand, SMC will increase by approximately 175 students, bringing its undergraduate student body to 1,775, including 515 freshmen. The ND and SMC Registrar and Admissions offices have been combined and will be working this fall in handling the 9,825 men and women on both campuses.

By September 1, unification was scheduled to be completed by many academic departments of both institutions. SMC has already turned over its public information function to the Notre Dame Department of Information Services.

During the academic year 1971-72, there will be no change in campus housing. This fall, women can register in any of the various programs for degrees that will be offered under the unified academic departments. ND undergraduate degrees with the name "St. Mary's," as the college of record, will be given to women undergraduates starting in 1973.

The student governments of SMC and ND should blend together quite easily. SMC women have been playing an active part in ND student activities for quite a few years now. You must have noticed the girl cheerleaders at various sports activities.

One of the main problems facing this unification is that of financial arrangement. This fall, both the ND and St. Mary's Trustees will review a report on joint financing. The financial burden of operating a private university is extremely heavy today. Tuition this year at ND will be raised in an attempt to keep even with the rising costs. Certainly a fair amount of federal tax money from various government agencies is given to ND. During the past fiscal year ending June 30, the University received over $8.7 million in government awards, an increase of $330,000 over what was received the previous year. Of the amount received, more than three-fourths will support research programs with the College of Science receiving almost half of the total awards. Funds for facilities and equipment show a sharp decrease, while support for education and service programs remains constant in comparison to recent years. Support from nongovernment agencies has declined about $50,000, and now stands at $1.8 million.

Certainly an area of decision for the alumni of both St. Mary's and ND is to develop plans for the future of these two associations. We would particularly like your views as to whether you feel that the two groups should be unified, function as separate but coordinated organizations, or continue as they now are as separate and autonomous operations.

This coming academic year will be one of transition, working towards an eventual goal of a single coeducational institution with one administration, one faculty, and one board of trustees. This year, department heads from St. Mary's will become associate chairmen of their respective Notre Dame departments. Sister Alma Peter CSC will not only continue as president of SMC, but she also will be vice president for special projects at Notre Dame, the first lady officer of the University.

Father Ted Hesburgh was re-elected this past summer by the board of trustees, and will begin his twentieth year as president of ND.

Of course, the question still being echoed which was originally asked by ND Chairman of the Board of Trustees, Ed Stephan, is "So what do we do about the line 'While her loyal sons are marching'?"

Your Board is guided by your views. Let's have them, please!

ARE YOU WITH IT?

A new wrinkle has been added to the Class news section this issue. The percentage of participation in the Annual Fund by each class as of July 1971 is listed at the heading of the Class columns. Annual Alumni support of the University was organized in 1943 in the form of the Annual Alumni Fund. Since its inception, the Fund has produced the largest continuous source of unrestricted income to Notre Dame. In short, annual Alumni giving has helped keep the wolf (and various and sundry other specters) from Notre Dame's doors for nearly 30 years.

Class participation percentages will be recorded in each issue henceforth, in recognition of the fine efforts of the Class Agents and the generous response of their Classmates. Obviously, we hope this will serve as a gentle but consistent reminder to those of us who may have neglected an annual gift thus far.

Let's face it, in these days of harsh economic realities, annual support of Notre Dame is just about the most important service we can perform for a school that has given us some of the best years of our lives. Check out your class, then check your own involvement. Are you with it? — James D. Cooney, Executive Director, ND Alumni Assoc.

Old Faces-New Places

Two Holy Cross priests, once prefects of religion at ND, though of different eras, have been associated in the same work at Saint Mary's College for the past two years. Rev. Glenn Boarman CSC prefect from 1958 to 1962, has been director of campus ministry and Rev. John Cavanaugh CSC prefect 1934-40 (later, president of the University and director of the Foundation), associate director. Recently they talked about how their work has changed with the times.

"Fr. O'Hara's idea," says Fr. Cavanaugh of his predecessor in the prefect-of-religion office, "that Christ could do more for students than he could and that, therefore, the thing to do was to get them to Him is as valid as ever, but the manner and means are different today." And Fr. Boarman adds, "Today, the approach to campus ministry must be broader and the minister must be ready to move with the students, rather than be available at all hours in an office, the confessional or chapel." Both priests agree that while today's students may not be as committed to daily Mass and the sacraments, most are, nevertheless, deeply concerned with what it is to be a Christian and will ultimately come to the realization that the Mass is the "indispensable source of the true Christian spirit."

Fr. Boarman feels that the job of the campus minister is not so much to provide students with support for their faith as to help them become well-informed, thinking Catholics, involved in social-action projects as well as traditional religious activities. But in his talks with students, Fr. Cavanaugh emphasizes that humanitarian service must not become a substitute for supernatural Christian faith. "Such service," he says, "requires divine action and must be accomplished with the right motive: to serve Christ in others."

Both Fr. Boarman and Fr. Cavanaugh stress the importance of the students' profound craving to be understood. To achieve such understanding involves meeting them where they are: in the halls, on the campus, at meals, at lectures and social events, in pastoral counseling sessions, at demonstrations—as well as in the Mass and the sacraments. (In all-out dedication to this principle of availability, on most mornings not long after dawn, Fr. Cavanaugh can be seen jogging around the Saint Mary's campus, sometimes with a student or two.)

Fr. Boarman (left) and Fr. Cavanaugh greet St. Mary's students outside Le Mans Hall at SMC.

Such understanding also requires endless and creative listening. "Student concerns," notes Fr. Cavanaugh, "are the old standbys: faith, sex, their careers, the infallibility of the Pope and so on. But they're broader now. The students are deeply caught up in movements devoted to ending the war, the draft, racism, poverty, air-water-noise pollution and injustice of all kinds."

So-called "situation ethics," the "new morality," and the role of peer opinion in arbitrating what is good and evil add a new dimension to student counselling today, according to the two priests. "By the time students reach the campus, most have been influenced by the 'new' views, whether they realize it or not," Fr. Cavanaugh believes; "they are products of our permissive society—homes, schools, television, theatre, friends—and they sometimes fail to recognize this same permissiveness when they encounter it at the university or college level. It takes a strong character, a person of much discipline, to sort out the truth and survive the confusion. Our job is to help them, not just by negative preaching, but by assisting them to discover positive values to live by."

Fr. Boarman and Fr. Cavanaugh agree that an effective campus ministry today requires more than what the priest alone can give. The ideal is to involve everyone on campus: religious and lay faculty, students, and staff. Says Fr. Boarman, "Campus ministry today must be a team effort on the part of those assigned to it full time. But CM (campus ministry) could also be translated 'common ministry'—it's got to be by everyone to everyone else, a common effort to build a total Christian community in a college setting. To offer leadership here is our task."

'15 CHEERFUL NOTE 28.1%*

A very cheerful note was received from our good friend, GEORGE B. WAAGE '18. It was nice to know that I was missed at the June Reunion. Am sorry to have missed WILLIAM M. CARROLL SR. LL.B. '15 of 621 W. Judd St., Woodstock, Ill. 60098 and EDWARD F. RIELY LL.B. '15, Minok, Ill. 61760. George thought I might be ill so I am glad to report that I am feeling fine.

A welcome note of thanks came from JAMES C. FENESY '14 who had a birthday on June 16. Jim resides at 1705 Davie Blvd., Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. 33312. He informed me that WILLIAM J. REDDEN '14, 125 N.E. 10th Ave., Ft. Lauderdale, had taken him to lunch on his 81st, joined by ERNEST J. BAADER '13, 2500 N.E. 9th St., Ft. Lauderdale. After lunch they journeyed to Pompano Beach where they visited CHARLES W. BACHMAN '17 at 11 Sunset Lane, and JOSEPH F. FLYNN '17. "In all, Bill showed me a good afternoon with an elegant lunch and time to spend with old Notre Damers."

JOHN A. WELCH '15 sends a happy note from his insurance office in Indianapolis, Ind. "How did you pick out my 75th birthday? June 24 is the feast of St. John the Baptist, a date that goes back to John Cardinal O'Hara's Eucharistic League at ND in 1912.

"Last Saturday I attended my granddaughter's wedding to an ND grad, STEPHEN F. JOHN '69, from Falls Church, Va. The bride graduated from St. Mary's in 1970. She was Mary C. Shiel of Decatur, Ill. Father ERNEST J. BARTELL CSC '53, performed the ceremony."

John's mention of Cardinal O'Hara when he was still a student reminds me of many visits to Old College where he and my brother, HENRY J. KUHLE '11, LL.B. '13 were among the privileged half dozen who roomed there. I treasure an autographed picture of the cardinal.

Following is a letter from JAMES E. ARMSTRONG '25 on "Moral Values" which will be of interest to readers of ALUMNUS:

"Two articles in the (South Bend) Tribune of June 14 disturbed me because they point so clearly to the moral collapse of our country. One, a feature on 'Is Marriage Obsolete?' seemed to indicate acceptance of much of our moral chaos. The other voiced advocacy of the continuing on the payroll of employees who steal from their employers as long as they remain moderate. . . ."

On the subject of morals I must acknowledge receipt of a letter from Mrs. JOHN F. HART '52 who was kind enough to say that she had seen my column in the ALUMNUS. The purpose of the letter was to pass on to me that Dr. Charles E. Rice, professor of constitutional law at ND "has done a great work defending the sanctity of human life." My attention also was called to a book "Let Us Be Born" on the inhumanity of abortion, by Robert E. and Mary R. Joyce which can be obtained from the Franciscan Herald Press, 1434 W. 51st St., Chicago, Ill. 60609. Mrs. Hart informed me that "the Joyces are a philosopher husband and wife team who studied some at ND." The Harts live at 607 N. Polk St., Little Rock, Ark. 72205.

A very welcome letter was received from HUGH A. BARNHART '15 of 117 W. 8th St., Rochester, Ind. 46975, who on July 14 celebrated a birthday. He informed me that while activities are growing less and less each year, he is still active in the business founded by his father. He is chairman of the board of the Rochester Telephone Co., and president of the Sentinel Corp., which publishes a daily newspaper.

"Quite some time ago," he continues, "I served nine years in the state government and later had one of those dollar-a-year jobs in Washington—however I never was paid my dollar."

He says that he and Mrs. Barnhart live on Lake Manitou and still enjoy life. Hugh says he always sees a few old ND friends on visits to Indianapolis "which helped me to relive the old days in Walsh Hall when I played basketball against Corby Hall whose players were members of the football team."

I regret the necessity of reporting the deaths of two ND alumni. JOHN W. SCHINDLER '09 on April 27. He is survived by Mrs. Schindler at 810 Lincoln Way E. Mishawaka, Ind. 46544. A son, JOHN W. JR. '43, also survives. FRANK O. BARTEL '15 died May 7. Masses were said at ND for John on July 18 and for Frank on July 25. Eternal rest grant unto these men of Notre Dame, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon them.

'16 GOOD OLD DAYS 19.3%*

Here I am up in the woods of Northern Wisconsin, felling trees (65-70 ft. tall), wonderful swimming, fishing, food and friends and a note must get to ND now. I have my old ND albums of pictures—I was photographer for the Dome, 1912-13. GUS DORAIS was the country's best quarterback and kicker, JOE BYRNE was cheerleader, ROCKNE was end, HEINE BERGER left halfback, RAY EICHERLAUB all west fullback, DEAK JONES left tackle, LOE PLISKA halfback, AL FEENEY center, etc., etc. Thursday was "Reck" Day—or military drill in the a.m., chow at Mike & Hullies. The Novitiate, across the lake, burned.

Father Burke and Father Farley drove to town in a buggy to catch "skivers." Mr. Studebaker came out to visit school in his open white car. Cap. Stogsdale was in charge of drills assisted by Sgt. Campbell. The marble champion demoralized class for a few weeks. MIKE NIGRO (doctor now) was Corby's star fielder. JESSE HARPER was football coach and EDWARDS was his assistant. Now I look at a picture of the ND mob doing the bear dance the night before the So. Dakota game at ND. The old wooden bleachers collapsed during the game—no injuries. I'll close with "Tony" and his popcorn wagon and horse. I have all the above in pictures and lots more. Those were the good old days.

'17 A ROMAN BUST 27%*

Well, another class reunion has come and gone and to be truthful, it was a Roman bust or as grandpa used to say, you could count them on your fist. There are many reasons no doubt, such as our devoted class president, who never misses, BERNARD VOLL with Ina, his wife, who had a foot operation at the Mayo Clinic, and others who were sick or had an accident the same week-end. So let's forget it and start now to build for the big one next year, the fifty-fifth, if there are any of us left. The two big questions to be decided by you are:

Do we want our wives like some of the classes had this year? Shall we try for a private dining room of our own for the 55th?

Your class Secretary, the Goat, does not have the time, the health or the facilities to present these matters in a personal letter. We would like to discuss them from time to time in our class column and have you tell us what you would like. There may be some '17ers who cannot make it for some legitimate reason and we would like to have you tell us now, so we will know if we have a potential of 20, 30, 40 or 50 to attend.

Back to the big question. Do you want to bring your wife to the class dinner and alumni banquet? Or, does your wife want to come? No effort has been made for a private dining room for our class dinner and none can be made until we can guarantee a certain number, probably, 20. Then we will all know one another.

The Alumni Office has reported the passing of JOHN M. MILLER on March 28 of Sun City, Calif., who was with us at our previous reunion. A fine gentleman, a great fullback and very successful in his profession. Cards and letters may be addressed to his family at 25921 Cherry Hills Blvd., Sun City, Calif. 92380.

They also told us that WILLIAM C. (CRIM) O'BRIAN, E.E. has passed away. Crim was a quiet, easygoing and well-liked member of the '17ers. Letters and cards of sympathy may be addressed to Mrs. William C. O'Brian, P.O. Box 277, Sturgis, Mich. 49091. Please remember these two well-liked and popular '17ers in your prayers.

'18 TAKEN TO TASK 24.3%*

"De Judge," JOSEPH T. RILEY LL.B. '18, took me to task regarding the STAN COFFAL poem. All I can state is that they are reading the ALUMNUS. Have not heard from PETER J. RONCHETTI, but have talked with "BIG FRANK" RYD-ZEWSKI. Frank put me straight as Rydzewski played for Stan professionally. Then there is a "guy" named BERT SENG. You are not getting by with anything on Bert, so the phone rings and I have to listen.

Sorry to report that last I talked with MAX KAZUS his wife was still in hospital. Max "kinda" thought he'd make a trip to Chicago, but I question it.

Pleased to state that NEIL (Whitey) WHALEN and Rosemary are "all set" for the football season. Gotta cut this "chitchat" short. I'm "hightailing" to my sister. Her husband is in the hospital with a stroke.

May you all be enjoying the best of health is my sincere wish.

Peace.

'21 PLAN 2-YEAR REUNION 22.9%*

Eighteen of the 63 living members of the class attended the 50-year reunion. Nine brought their wives. JOE MAAG had made arrangements to come, but called just a few days before saying he was recuperating in the hospital and would not be able to make it. AL SCHMITT, too, was not able to be here because of illness. And, as you know, DAN DUFFY, who never missed a reunion, went to his eternal reward a couple of weeks before.

At a meeting on the evening of June 11, the class elected JAKE KLINE president and RAY SCHUBMEHL secretary and treasurer. The members also approved a resolution indicating that the ranks could be rather thin in another five years; therefore, the next reunion for the class should be in 1973 rather than 1976. Everybody reported a grand time. It may be added here that JOE BRANDY was at his best at the reunion with his "you wouldn't believe it" stories. Sorry to report that Joe has since died (see On Record). A Mass for Joe has been arranged in the name of the class. He was past president of the Monogram Club and also past president of the Northern New York ND Club.

'22 50TH COMING UP 21.3%*

We of '22 extend to our beloved classmate EMILE JOHN HILKERT, 1821 E. Willetta St., Phoenix, Ariz., our sympathy and beseech your prayers for the repose of the souls of four members of the Hilkert family who died within the past year. The deceased are: His wife, Priscilla; a sister, Sister Mary Norbertine, and two brothers Robert and Carl. Mrs. Hilkert died on June 3.

Emile John was dean of the College of Business Administration at Arizona State U. in 1933. He may be No. 1 man on our class roster in degree awards.

Already much interest is being generated by '22 men in connection with plans for the most important of all of our class reunions—the 50th or golden anniversary on the ND campus in June 1972. Of course, we do not anticipate a greater attendance than we enjoyed at some of our past five-year reunions but if all those who failed to show at earlier reunions will make gallant efforts to be in attendance next year, plus those who never fail to show, we could very well have a showing worthy of our great class. We have never failed to show a good attendance and this is no time to falter. Soon the very important reunion committee from South Bend and the St. Joseph Valley will be reactivated—such stalwarts as RANGY MILES, HAROLD WEBER, PAT MANION, PAUL PADEN, PAUL SCHWERTLEY, WALTER SHILTS and Father SIGMUND JANKOWSKI CSC are awaiting the starter's whistle. We long for the return of our classmates from Central America, South America and from countries overseas.

At present HARRY DENNY, 1503 Shenandoah St., Los Angeles, Calif. 90035 is high man on the totem pole. He is the farthest removed from the ND campus who has indicated he hopes to attend our 50th.

Congratulations and best wishes continue to pour in for Doctor EDDIE ANDERSON, former football coach at Holy Cross College and the U. of Iowa, one of only two football coaches elected to the 1971 Football Hall of Fame. It shall not be forgotten that Doctor Eddie is one of the few coaches who, as coach of the College All-Stars football team, was able to forge out a real victory over the opposing professionals. Eddie's current address is the Mansfield Training School and Hospital, Mansfield, Conn. 06251.

'23 LONG, COOL SUMMER 9.8%*

Time Gallops On . . . ED KREIMER is now a great-grandfather. So proud that he forgot to say ND or St. Mary's. Anyhow a Yankee Doodle Dandy born on the Fourth of July. . . . How many other greats do we have in our class? Ed reports a new address for PAUL CASTNER: 1625 Cedar Lane, Newport, Minn. 55055 . . . Ed is about to close the Class Membership list for printing and distribution to us by the Alumni Office. So if you have any changes send to our hard-working Veep at 2827 Westbrook Dr., Fort Wayne, Ind. 46805. . . . The Kreimers and Gin Bruggner visited with the ART DIEDRICHS in July.

Hope the national chairman and the local chairman of our Golden Dome Reunion did some conferring; and isn't it nice they are so chummy?

Hiways and Byways . . . Kreimer's letter was the sum total of class communications; perhaps because the sec and spouse have been sampling summer weather in Cocoa Beach, Fla.—which is great as long as the Atlantic Ocean and air-conditioning hold out. (I was invited to watch the July 26 Moon Shot from close up in the Mutual Broadcasting radio booth.) Maybe other class members are also vacationing; so to fill up this space, let's also take to the hiways and byways.

Hollywood . . . VERNON (Tex) RICKARD reports on stationery of the Hollywood Comedy Club of which he is monologist; but this typed monolog wasn't funny. It seems that word of the Man of the Year Award and other campus capers has penetrated the smog and the over-thirties look longingly back to the Rockne, Nieuwland, O'Hara, O'Donnell backfield. NICK LUKATS, who was as good a halfback one day against Army as any human would dare to be, revisited the actor-phase of his career during the summer. Nick now lives at Barberton, Ohio.

John Campbell . . . Tex added his to the cheers for JOHN CAMPBELL for the work he did in organizing the Los Angeles chapter of Sports & Games under the chairmanship of DR. LEO TURGEON . . . John is really for real and just what dear old S&G has needed. In late June he did a similar job in the place most needed—New York City. Here is the group he gathered in GENE CONNALLY's restaurant June 23: FRED CARIDEO, JOHN BALFE, JAMES J. O'NEAL, JOHN H. BEGLEY, JOHN A. HOYT, FRED A. JOYCE, GERALD F. SAEGERT, WILLIAM F. MURPHY, JIM MCGOLDRICK and JOE F. CAMPBELL (John's brother). Prestigious guests were Jimmie McDowell, secretary of the National Football Hall of Fame and Eugene H. Alnwick, president of Mutual Sports who really should also be listed in capital letters because he is the man behind the Irish radio network which brings us the football games each Saturday afternoon. And (plug) The Fighting Irish record.

There was real dedication among these tried-and-true veterans of so many ND causes. Fred Carideo switched an out-of-town date to take over as chairman; and he will be a real leader. John Campbell assembled this group after weeks of preparation . . . Nor was that all by any means. New York is supposed to be no town to walk around in these days. I wouldn't know because I was usually in the back seat of a chauffeured limousine with John and brother Joe. Bob Hall, one of the top administrators in college football, couldn't make our luncheon but we got together at 21. We caught up with Toots Shor and his son Rory; and the young man promised to search among the papers of his father. This could be a treasure trove.

Name-Dropping? . . . Yes but with a purpose; for these casual contacts reveal what can be done once Fred Carideo's team gets to operating. At the luncheon I mentioned several such possibilities and Jack Hoyt volunteered to contact Wellington Mara of the Football Giants and Gene Tunney. And that just about sums it up: One of our people knows or does business with potential donors of collections. He talks to him. It may take a while but people are very friendly to ND. Every so often the city committee gets together and talks things over. . . .

Harvey Foster . . . That's what the Chicago committee has been doing for five years now; and results are showing. DAVE CONDON gave his entire column in the Chicago Tribune to the acquisition of microfilms of the Avery Brundage papers, a tremendous catch. HARVEY FOSTER's group has other notable captures and prospects. Nor does Harvey stop there. Because of him we have Fred Carideo in New York. And Harvey has volunteered to go to New York, San Francisco or wherever else American Airlines flies into to help organize city groups.

Dave Warner . . . Meanwhile, up at Rochester, DAVE WARNER has climaxed several years of patient plugging by making a very solid contact with Eastman Kodak. We already have some of the Eastman material and there will be more. So let's hear it for Foster, Campbell, Warner, Carideo, team, team, TEAM.

'24 LOOK TO '74

As these notes are written in mid-July for the September issue of ALUMNUS, it is a little early to publish any results of the balloting for class officers. It has been a growing opinion of mine that when we vote in public elections, we have such little intimate knowledge of the candidates and complex issues that we are expressing our feelings against candidates and issues that we know a little about and do not approve. We have quite a different situation in class elections. We would be well served by any of the candidates. We would hope that they would bring some new life to Class of '24 activities and especially at our grand reunion in 1974. Only by our votes will we know who are the most "popular" leaders. To use the hip jargon, we need a speed pill, not a tranquilizer. Time alone has supplied the latter. We want to make that 50th reunion one to remember for our twilight days.

EDWARD TIGHE, mentioned once before in these columns, and onetime roommate of mine and my brother Bill's (in an end suite in Walsh Hall, and next door to Father JOHN O'HARA) died in Long Island on July 5. Ed finished his law course at Fordham U., and, for some time after graduation, worked for the City of New York as public defender (legal aid). We knew him as a very empathic counselor. Mass was said at ND by Rev. William Toohey on July 11 in remembrance of Ed.

These class notes are for your pleasure . . . a place to see an old classmate's name which should bring back some nostalgic memories. We will continue to insert names at random and hope it will stimulate more of the silent majority to send us notes of past history or present activities. How about FRANK DUFFICY in New York City; RAY FLAHERTY in Birmingham; J. HENRY FANNAN in Chicago; DAROLD GOOLEY in North Hollywood; LEVI A. GENIESSE in Green Bay; TOM HODGSON in Chanhassen, Minn. (surely that is a suburb of someplace else); ED HUETHER of Richmond, Ind.; HAROLD HOLDERMAN of Mishawaka (there were some pretty girls in Mishawaka in 1923); DR. DAVID KING of Alger, Ohio; and MARK KREUTZER of San Mateo. Names like these and many more should remind us that there are many in our class we would like to know better.

Somehow ELMER LAYDEN '25 got into our Class of '24 list . . . must have been a fullback plunge through center. We know he meant a lot to all of us in '24, but could I possibly be wrong? Isn't he officially '25?

We will sign off with some very familiar names like ED CANTWELL who is spearheading the class election project and a mighty fine job. He surely made it easy and convenient to vote. And the Hon. THOMAS DONOVAN who, we hope, is busy tallying your votes. We owe them a word of acknowledgment and appreciation.

This column's notes were just about to be sealed and mailed when a phone call was received from LEO HARINGER who has been on a tour of the West from San Francisco to Vancouver, B.C., and is now on his way back home to Normal, Ill., via Boise, "Kukamunga and points East." Leo recently returned to campus where he found many changes and many remaining points of interest. The physical changes didn't seem to bother him but the social changes were so obvious to him that he couldn't resist letting Father Hesburgh know about his feelings. Leo felt the old school needed to be turned back to some of the old traditional standards. I'm sure we could open a subject here that would polarize even the most placid alumni. My own answer is to consider it as a grandparent should behave in regard to grandchildren . . . love 'em but leave the discipline to the parents.

Here are a few of the 24ers who are shifting around a little. JOE RYAN has left the campus and is now in Chicago, 1360 Lake Shore Drive zip 60610; CHARLES DeBARRY moved uptown a few blocks to 320 E. 53rd St. in N.Y.C. 10022. LEWIS FRICKE did about the same in South Bend, and HENRY THENKLE in Dubuque, Ia. The big hop was made by Rev. JOHN W. KANE CSC who returned to Holy Cross House NDU 46556 . . . from Dacca, East Pakistan, India.

Don't wait for your obituary, drop me a card even if you have to talk about your grandchildren.

JAMES H. CROWLEY was the principal speaker at the 47th annual dinner of the Transportation Club of Rochester, N.Y. in May.

HANK WURZER passed on a note from JOHN D. MAHON saying he had a couple of interesting letters from RAY DECOURCEY and appreciated hearing from him. What a change in 45 years—39 of the '26 group enjoyed the air-conditioned luxury of the new high-rise Flanner Hall. The Alumni Office and the grad students assigned to look after us all did a great job; they were tops. In addition to those listed last month, Rog Nolan was among those present. JIM VALLELY of the class of '27 was back for the first time in years. Many of us knew him and were glad to have him with us.

CIRCUIT RIDER

Like a fleeting glimpse of early Americana, Rev. James E. Norton CSC '29, Catholic chaplain at Philmont Scout Ranch and Explorer Base, Cimarron, N.M., appears at services in the towering Sangre de Cristo mountains in the guise of a circuit-riding chaplain—vintage 1871.

Exchanging the traditional Philmont four-wheel-drive vehicle for a horse, Father Norton, like his counterparts a century ago, dons chaps and spurs, totes necessary equipment for Mass in his saddlebags and travels to the far corners of the sprawling 214-square-mile ranch to carry the word of God to many of the 15,000 Scouts who come to hike Philmont's trails each summer.

"Holding services along the trail—setting up an altar on tree trunks or large boulders—gives Scouts a deeper sense of reverence and a profundity to God," Father Norton explains. "And they enjoy seeing me hold services in a western outfit!"

Traveling 10 to 12 miles daily, the chaplain will stop dozens of times to perform religious services or to "just talk" with Scouts on the trail.

The idea of the circuit-riding chaplaincy originated last summer, according to the Holy Cross priest. Long-experienced in horsemanship, Father Norton approached Philmont's horse department foreman, Lawrence Sanchez, with the idea. "Sanchez agreed to supply a horse for me, so every chance, I ride trails, both existent and nonexistent, to hold services," Father Norton explains.

Riding over narrow, twisting trails, often hundreds of feet above rocky stream beds, can be a harrowing experience, Father Norton notes, and not one for novices. "One must have extreme confidence in his horse and his horsemanship," he says.

Father Norton, former vice president of student affairs at ND, also has served as assistant director of studies and was on the faculty of St. Edward's U., Austin, Tex., before his wartime service as a Marine Corps chaplain. His chaplain duties took him to Cherry Point, N.C., Santa Barbara, Calif., and the Western Pacific.

The circuit-riding priest began his riding career in the late 30's while he was teaching at St. Edward's U. Since then, he has spent a great deal of time in the saddle. "While I served as a faculty staff member at Notre Dame, I had many opportunities to ride with friends from the Manion Arab Horse Ranch, located near the University," he explains.

Now serving as associate director of admissions at the U. of Portland, Portland, Ore., Father Norton finds the surrounding area ideal for his riding skills. "I was fortunate to accompany a group of Explorer Scouts on a week-long horseback expedition into the rugged back country of Oregon," he recalls. "We carried a bedroll and saddlebags and took pack-horses for equipment."

An avid scouter, the priest has served as a member of the executive board and the advisory board of the Columbia Pacific Council, headquartered in Portland. "I wish I had been more active in Scouting during my youth," he says. "I've gotten much more out of Scouting than I've been able to give. I guess my greatest interest in Scouting is Philmont."

As a circuit rider, Father Norton, chaplain at the national Scout ranch since 1962, has many experiences he will cherish. "The chance to view the beauty surrounding the lush green meadows and the high, towering peaks of Philmont is a rare privilege in this age of rush, rush, rush. It's nice to travel at a slow gait and enjoy nature at its finest," he notes.

Philmont, which annually hosts more than 25,000 Scouts and scouters in its many varied programs, has been dubbed by the visitors "God's Country."

Father Norton wholeheartedly agrees—and it's entirely possible that he is one of the reasons for it.

Stopping to chat with a group of Scouts on the trail at Philmont Scout Ranch and Explorer Base, Father James Norton carries his ministry to thousands of Scouts in the manner of the old circuit-riding ministers of a century ago.

class Mass Saturday morning. We were late starting and had some trying moments until we found the key to the locker that contained the vestments and other Mass essentials.

Several had indicated they would make the reunion but for various reasons did not come, JACK ADAMS, VINCE CAPANO, LES CLARKE, PAUL JACKSON, GERRY MCGINLEY, STEVE PIETROWICZ and JIM RONAN.

We heard from IZZY PROBST. He had a boy graduating that weekend down Florida way. We missed him. A note from BILL FOOHEY reported illness in the family prevented his coming. Also a note from M. A. (Al) NOLAN said he would try for the 50th. Illness kept JIM PEARSON away and the loss of a leg stopped PETE LA CAVA.

JOHN PROBST did not arrive until Sunday morning but that removed him from the missing list. He has retired and has a new home on a lake near Three Rivers, Mich.

DR. BERT COUGHLIN had a couple of anxious days. They let him off the plane at South Bend but not his baggage. It caught up with him Saturday.

RUDY GOEPFRICH saw that everyone had their favorite beverage. Rudy and wife, Nellie, took off for a trip to Alaska the week following the reunion.

The new officers for the next five years, the Lord willing, are MALCOLM KNAUS, president; ART HALEY, treasurer and FRANK DEITLE, secretary.

The only sad note of the weekend was word from Tom Farrell that my old roommate in Freshman Hall JIM (Monk) WALDRON had passed on. The Lord rest his soul, we all liked Monk.

'28 THE FORMERLY SILENT 17.6%*

I am pleased to be able to bring you up to date on a number of classmates who wrote for the first time in many years. It makes me feel as if my 43 years of effort were not in vain when I received a note from WALLACE (Gus) MacDONALD of Farmington, Conn., who retired in 1969 as secretary-treasurer of the Connecticut National Gas Corp. and who has 21 grandchildren. Gus observed "You finally got me. Many times I've been tempted to answer one of your pleas, but, by lying down for a few minutes, I could always overcome the temptation. Now, let me see you raise HARRY SCHUBMEHL and CLARK WALLACE." Believe it or not, I did get a response also from Harry Schubmehl from Wayland, N.Y. He retired four years ago as supervisor of reproduction with Foster Wheeler Corp. I hope Clark Wallace responds to the challenge given to me by Wallace MacDonald.

Other formerly silent classmates who finally responded include the following: ED BRESNAHAN wrote from his summer place at a lake near Cromwell, Ind., advising that just prior to RAY MULLIGAN's sudden death, Ray, who had been out of touch with him since 1928, had tried unsuccessfully to reach Ed by phone at his home in Omaha. Ed retired from the Retail Credit Co. in 1969 after 35 years of service. He is a widower and spends time between Omaha and Lake Papakee in Indiana. WALTER LAYNE wrote from Palo Alto, Cal., where he lives after having retired in 1966 as editor and writer for the Dell Publishing Co.

My unpleasant assignment of reporting deaths of classmates continues with the following: FRANK HOLDAMPF died in Milwaukee on May 7. Although he had a chronic painful illness for a number of years, Frank continued his work as a consulting and designing professional engineer in Milwaukee. He is survived by his wife and three children. Frank attended all of our class reunions. VICTOR ZIMMERMANN died on June 22 in Scarsdale, N.Y., after a long illness although he carried on his food brokerage business until near the end. CARL PETERSCH wrote that he had had lunch with Vic and his wife just two months before Vic's death. Vic has a son at Holy Cross College. Thanks also to JOHN GRUNING '27 for writing from Brooklyn concerning Vic's death and for John's kind reference to me as "the one class secretary who really watches out for his flock."

LESTER HEGELE died on June 25 in San Diego, Cal., where he had retired last January as associate editor of The Southern Cross, the diocesan newspaper, and was eulogized as a "true apostle of the Catholic press." Les died following intestinal surgery. He was a widower and is survived by three daughters, nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Thanks to FRANK DONOVAN for advising me of Les' death.

DONALD BALDWIN, LL.B. '29, died in Danville, Ill., on Feb. 17 after a short illness. Here's the final reminder—Let JOE DORAN and ED QUINN know the number in your party if you plan to attend the '28 get-togethers following the Purdue and Michigan State games respectively. Joe's address is R.R. 1, Lafayette, Indiana 47906, and Ed's is 426 N. Sunnyside Ave., South Bend, Ind. 46617. The 16th Annual '28 Cocktail Party will be held after the Michigan State game in the Continuing Education Center across from the Morris Inn. The entrance to the Center is through an underground concourse from the lower floor of the Inn.

Our Class Treasurer, JOE LANGTON, has been hospitalized in Chicago for surgery and treatment of a leg ailment. Joe's Chicago classmates kept in touch with him while he was in Chicago. As you know, Joe has been kept busy arranging with priests in our class to say Masses for the increasing number of deceased classmates.

JOHN LARSEN advised that JOE DEBOTT had a heart seizure while at work at Geneva Federal Savings Bank in Geneva, N.Y., prior to his recent retirement. John Larsen retired last year from the Seneca County (N.Y.) Department of Health in Waterloo, N.Y. PHIL QUINN is making progress in recovering from leg surgery a few months ago.

'29 COMPARE NOTES 18%*

Father JOE BARRY CSC was a recent visitor to the campus. Father continues to expend himself working with the youth of all ages but primarily the fortunate students of Bishop Hoban H.S. in Akron, Ohio. We compared notes, usually for no net gain, on several '29ers including Father OTEY WINCHESTER of St. Ann's Parish, Cleveland Heights. We readily concur that it must be increasingly difficult for parish priests to find time and manpower to meet the many demands on them.

A year ago Killarney was a summer highlight. This evening it is a letter from (217) Tipperary (Lane, Winston-Salem, N.C.) addressed to his former roommate PAUL BARTHOLOMEW by our classmate and mutual friend MARC KIRCHNER. We will share with you its cheerful message of news bad and good from an exemplary '29er with heart (if we have any other kind I never meet or hear from them). I'm proud of Men of Notre Dame like him and thankful for the opportunity to submit copy for print which is in refreshing contrast to most of what one reads in the daily press.

"Dear Paul:

"It was nice to receive your newsy letter on my birthday. It was my 65th and will be worth a welcome added $650 deduction next April 15. . . .

"Marc (son) continues to do well in school. He is a member of the Society of Outstanding American H.S. students but that is not our elation. He was selected to attend the Governor's School this summer on the campus of Salem (Va.) College for 400 intellectually gifted N. Carolina H.S. students, all expenses paid. . . .

I would gladly have helped him if I had felt better. I talked with Tom by phone from Winston-Salem and from my office in Burlington and gave him what suggestions and information I could. I missed a golden opportunity to get involved with the Alumni Association at headquarters but really could not carry the burden."

'30 SAFARI 17.3%*

I am writing this column as a fill-in reporter for your "regular" columnist, who is on his annual grouse shooting safari. Seriously, our devoted and hard working scribe needs a rest. He has faithfully brought news to the '30ers for the past 40-odd years. If he misses an issue of the ALUMNUS, the Riflemen have themselves to blame for not furnishing Dev with class news. With my blessing, every classmate is hereby appointed a roving news reporter. Please make a sincere effort to channel news, gossip, rumors and other chitchat direct to Devere.

The Campus Ground Crew Advisory Committee headed by your secretary has completed preliminary arrangements for a get-together party, following the Southern Cal football game on October 23, 1971. In a special mailing and in sufficient time to make individual arrangements, each member of the class attending the game will be notified of the particulars. This should be a great one as the 1930-31 championship football team will be reuniting the same weekend.

Your president's fall vacation plans include a visit to campus for both the North Carolina and USC games. Classmates with gripes, seeking appointments and information on social security retirement can meet with me each day at high noon in the East Campus Cafeteria.

Speaking about appointments, the following have been selected as regional honorary class Vice Presidents: East, Thomas J. Bradley, Bronxville, N.Y.; Mid-Atlantic, George O'Malley, Washington, D.C.; Midwest, Karl T. Brennan, Rockford, Ill.; South, William H. Miller, Jackson, Miss.; and Far West, Patrick J. Goggin, Jr., Seattle, Wash. Hopefully, these energetic classmates and civic leaders will take their duties seriously and report regularly to the class secretary with appropriate class news. The swearing-in ceremony will be at the clam bake following the Southern Cal game.

John Healy and Father Jim Rizer sent post cards while on European tours. Members of the class will be pleased to learn of my second visit to Ireland this past June. The trip was a bit of an archaeological venture, giving me an opportunity to study background of the historic places. JACK SAUNDERS '31 and Yours Truly are serving as Boston Area cochairmen for the International Sports and Games Research Collection to be housed in the Memorial Library. Classmates and friends of ND are invited to contribute any articles or equipment of significant interest in the development of international athletics to this very fine project. FRANK WALLACE '23 is national chairman.

"May you be in Heaven a long time before the Devil knows you are gone."

Remember, keep sending in those letters to Devere.

'31 SKIP PARTY 15.8%*

It's that time again for 1931 class news and it is a bit scarce currently probably due to a letdown from the tremendous interest and activity at our wonderful 40th REUNION. As I mentioned earlier many who attended our postgame cocktail parties suggested that we skip the usual party at the Monogram Lounge and join in the general reunion following the Southern Cal game, Oct. 23. I have written John F. Plouff, managing director of the A. & C.C., canceling our reservation for the Tulane game Nov. 13. I hope this will not upset someone's plans for that game. We have a tentative reservation at the A. & C.C. for either Oct. 14 or Oct. 21, 1972 when Pittsburgh and Missouri play ND. A final date will be announced prior to ordering tickets for the 1972 season.

Word was just received of the death of MYRON C. HERSHFELD, Goshen, Ind. on May 25. CHARLEY MILNER sent a short note following the reunion as did FRANK CONOLE. Frank plans on attending the Southern Cal game and mentioned being in the lobby of the Morris Inn, but I am sure he will join us after the game. Many thanks for your note and comments, Frank. Locally I have talked to RAY COLLINS and BERT METZGER, along with BILL ALLEN '21, who lives a block away from me. F. X. MURPHY sent a note telling of his family reunion which prevented his attendance at the reunion. His wife, the former Elizabeth Tigner, St. Mary of the Woods, has been in ill health for some time. His main contact in his area is genial JOE DUNNE. DON O'TOOLE had to miss the reunion due to the illness of his wife, Marian. His telegram to the class, sent to JACK SAUNDERS, was never received. LOUIS GODOY also sent a wire which was received a week later. Recently I saw a familiar name in the Voice of the People, Chicago Tribune. It was our wonderful former Alumni Secretary JIM ARMSTRONG stating the case for private schools. I wrote Fr. Charles M. Carey who celebrated our class Mass and received the following from him: "I am most grateful to you for your note, and for the enclosed check. I shall use it as stipends for Masses to be said for the deceased members of our class. In your notes, you might mention that you have made arrangements for a Mass each month for the deceased members. I shall take care of this with your check for the coming year. I was surprised and gratified at the number attending the Mass at that early hour—and their participation in the responses. All good wishes to you." I understand that BUD GEIS and ED SHEERAN will attend the Southern Cal game. I should like to hear from JIM MULVANEY on how JOHNNY BURNS is coming along following his convalescence from recent illness. Please remember our ill and departed classmates in your prayers. I hope you will all have a wonderful summer and are sufficiently rested so you can take time out to send news for the 1931 column. Best wishes to all.

'32 LETTER FROM MOON 14.4%*

The best news this time is a letter from WALTER F. (Moon) MULLEN. "Dear Mac, How the hell are you? Here's my personal scoop. A couple of years ago, JOE McCABE and I met for the first time since 1932. Joe had just come back from a vacation in Ireland. He described Ireland so enthusiastically that he got me interested. At that time, I had never set foot on the island. I don't even think that Joe knows this but, last year, I retired and moved my wife and five kids over here. We love it! Will see you all at our 40th reunion and, if you are interested, will tell you all about it. In the meantime, if any of you '32ers are over this way, my number is in the Dublin phone book (Dublin 87-45-40).

Very best regards, W. F. (Moon) Mullen, The Old Rectory, Delgany, County Wicklow, Ireland. P.S. Drop me a line."

Additional good news is that ROBERT J. ROHRBACH has been named treasurer of The New York News and elected to the board of directors. He has been the News' controller since 1958. He joined the News in 1952 as auditor and accountant after 10 years at The Chicago Tribune.

Our good friend JOE PETRITZ has joined the Chicago Mercantile Exchange in the newly created position of director of editorial services.

And, LLOYD G. WATERSON, president of the Credit Bureau of South Bend, was given the International Leadership Award, Credit Reporting Division, by the Associated Credit Bureaus, Inc., at the association's annual conference in New Orleans, La.

'33 POLL PICKS GAME 12.7%*

This year's Conley poll shows the Southern Cal game, Oct. 23, as the one most preferred by our classmates. When the alumni football applications were mailed, the Class of '33 quickly indicated that weekend as the one they wish to attend. We are apparently remembering not only last year's defeat but also that cliff-hanger in '31, when we saw our first loss by an Irish team. Irene and I hope to be there and have made reservations at the "new" LaSalle Motor Inn. We will have the benefit of the Monday holiday, Veterans Day, on Oct. 25. PHIL FAHERTY called early to confirm that he and his family will head West on Interstate 80 with their friends, Bill and Rita Losch. RAY NABER then telephoned to say that he and the mayor would lead a Louisville delegation. JACK KENNEY and CONAL BYRNE '36 plan an early departure from the Philadelphia Main Line. ALFRED (Josh) D'AMORA '35 of Wayne, Pa. not only hopes to see the Southern Cal fray but the N. Carolina game the week before. TIM TOOMEY '30 will see these same back-to-back home games, leaving Boston unattended for a week. Timothy, incidentally, just returned from a glorious trip to Ireland.

As the pre-game crowd makes it difficult to arrange a formal reunion, I suggest we meet casually in the Morris Inn lobby (or on the putting green if the weather is clear) and then on the way into the Trojan fray to stop by the LARRY SEXTON tailgate party at Gate 10. After the "victory," the recommended gathering place is the '33 area in the Athletic and Convocation Center where drinks are available at reasonable prices. MOE LEE promises to preside at the A. & C.C. to accept suggestions for our 40th reunion in June '73. The Faculty Club is jammed with fans immediately after the game but the crowd thins out later in the evening. With these pleasant oases available, we should be able to meet over the long weekend.

Please send me reports on people you meet at other games. RED BARRETT will be at the Northwestern opener and promises to drop over to the A. & C.C.

Phyllis and JACK SOISSON, 42 Hampton Court, Rockville Center, N.Y. 11570, send regards and report that all in their family are well. I'm still grateful for the wonderful '69 Army game reunion sponsored by Jack, SAM HYDE, CHARLIE QUINN, JACK HOYT and other New York City area classmates.

On July 1, 1971 the new Illinois constitution changed the status of Judge Maurice W. Lee to associate judge of the circuit court. Maurie's son, Bob, will not complete his studies in the ND College of Law until August '71 due to a stint in the U.S. Army.

JIM DEGAN '29 sent the obituary of DON M. HAECKER who was survived by his widow, Helen; two daughters, Mrs. Dona Kimple and Mrs. Diane Dale; 11 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Don had lived in Sarasota, Fla. for the 7½ years prior to his death. Before that his home was in Toledo, Ohio, where his daughters still reside. Father JIM DONNELLY wrote to Mrs. Haecker to extend the sympathy of our class and to inform the family that Don would be remembered in his prayers and Masses.

PAT CROWLEY mailed an announcement that the name of his law firm is now: Crowley, Barrett & Karaba. Robert A. Sprecher withdrew from the firm to accept an appointment as Judge, United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit. The office address is 111 W. Monroe St., Chicago, Ill. 60603, telephone 312-726-2468.

EDMUND A. STEPHAN, Chicago attorney, is chairman of the ND board of trustees which now includes 35 Laymen and 7 Holy Cross priests.

ND prof, JAMES DANEHY, is the chairman of the Human Relations Commission of the Fort Wayne-South Bend diocese. Jim was the campus representative for our 35th reunion in '68 and did an excellent job.

This is being written in a hot, sticky July. I look forward to meeting you in cold, crisp October.

'34 11TH QUINN DEGREE 13.5%*

JAMES D. COONEY, executive director for the ND Alumni Association informs me of the death of Dorothea Gleason, wife of JAMES H. GLEASON. Dorothea died on June 18, 1971. A Mass was to be said for her by Rev. William Toohey, CSC, at ND on Sunday, July 4. Jim's address is 478 Clay Road, Rochester, N.Y. 14603.

CHARLES QUINN of 1011 N.E. 9th Ave., Del Ray Beach, Fla. sends on the following report: The Charles F. Quinn family has just obtained its 11th college degree. Charles himself recently obtained a master's degree in Library Science from Long Island U. His wife, Catherine, holds a B.S. degree in nutrition from St. Mary's College, Notre Dame. Their oldest son, Chuck, received his B.S. in chemistry from ND; his M.A. in philosophy; and just obtained Ph.D. in symbolic logic (this is related to math). Daughter Catherine graduated from SMC, then received her M.S. from St. Louis U. and is now teaching nutrition at St. Mary's Medical School. Sister Eileen Marie Quinn is now a Dominican nun, having gotten her diploma from Sienna Heights in Adrian, Mich. She will be teaching in Miami next year. Kevin also graduated from ND with an A.B. in business administration. Mary Clare, the youngest of the Quinns, just received her B.A. in music education at Barry College in Miami. It is said that education is the only hope for a distressed world. From here it looks as if the Quinns have made a head start in the right direction!

JAMES R. MORRISON, 1834 Summer St., Hammond, Ind., sent along a copy of the Charley Quinn story that appeared in the Del Ray Beach (Fla.) News Journal. Charley Quinn sent on a copy of an article written by Dave Condon of The Chicago Tribune. The paper was dated Feb. 3, 1971. Your secretary was mentioned in the article. I wonder where Charles got the copy?

JOSEPH CLARK had a Dan Lee of Chicago call me. The two gentlemen met on the Aran Islands off the coast of Galway in Ireland. I saw BILL FROMM at a party on July 11. Only got a chance to say "Hello." Ray and Audrey Foley of River Forest were the hosts. The party was held for Thomas A. Foran, who is seeking a chance to run for governor of Illinois in 1972. There were many ND men at this party but Bill Fromm was the only man from the class of 1934.

JOSEPH P. BURNS has been appointed national accounts manager for Rich Products Corp., specialty frozen foods packer, Buffalo, N.Y. The last address I had for Joe was 355 River Road, Mount Carmel, Conn. 06518.

JOSEPH L. FITZMAURICE '36 is looking for tickets to the LSU game. Joe can be reached at the Civil Aeronautics Board, 1825 Connecticut Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20428. Joe's phone number is 202-382-7755. Don't forget that TOM DAVID is also looking for tickets to the L.S.U. game. Tom has a new address, 1022 — 10th St., Alexandria, La.

I received a call from Joseph Gaffney, a neighbor of mine in Elmhurst, informing me of the death of ROBERT WILKE '37, 3 Brittany Ln., Larchmont, N.Y. 10538. Bob was a freshman during our senior year. He was a great halfback and FRED WEIDNER said he never blocked for a better runner while playing for ND.

By the time you receive this report, I should be home from the Elmhurst Memorial Hospital. This will be my fourth trip to a hospital this year. Would love to get down to ND for the opening game with Northwestern. Let's hope all goes well—God willing.

My daughter, Marcia, is now with the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. in the Lombard, Ill., office. Renee is working for me at the store as a switchboard operator for the summer. She will return to Loretto Heights College in Denver in August. My son, Ed Jr., is working here also. Ed is getting our advertising out for us.

The following are new addresses for our classmates of '34: BERNARD J. CRONIN, 19 Ridgefield Rd., Lutherville, Md. 21093; ERWIN J. KIEP, 12000 Edgewater Dr., Apt. 206, Lakewood, Ohio 44107; ROBERT J. '35 WAITING FOR NEWS 13.7%*

As is my usual custom, I am writing this column a day before the July 26 deadline in the hope that last-minute mail would bring forth more fodder of interest. Didn't materialize, so must use what I have on hand. As a matter of information, this column will not appear until the September edition to be mailed about Sept. 20, so any news I receive after today will not be printed until the October-November edition.

Only 10 days after the June 21 deadline for the July-August issue (in which this column did not appear for lack of news), I received the totally unexpected and sad news of the sudden death of FRANK HOLAHAN. Frank passed away at his home of a heart attack. He leaves his wife Louise, two sons, John and Bill, a sweet daughter, Rita, and a grandson. Louise's address is: 4 Long Pond Court, Windmill Farm, Armonk, N.Y. As you know, Frank was valedictorian of our class graduating magna cum laude and at the time of his death was senior vice president of the National Bank of Westchester. Frank and Louise, to my knowledge, attended at least one football game every year at ND since his graduation, and they always spent some time during their trips with the Ryans. Your Class had a Mass said by Father Jim Corrigan. In behalf of the class, I extend our profound sympathy to Louise and family. Former Lt. Gov. RAY BRODERICK is now a judge of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. FRED SHANLEY, a member of the sociology department faculty at California State College, Los Angeles, since 1965, is now a full professor. Congrats, Fred. VIC METTLER sent a card to prove he is "still alive and kicking." Vic intends to be at the Michigan State and Southern Cal games. (Don't forget our intended mini-reunion at the latter game, Vic.) BILL MURRAY contributed some news of himself and family. Bill is regional sales manager of the Western States of the B. F. Goodrich Co. He and his wife, Phyllis, have two sons, a daughter and seven grandchildren. Bill says "if possible I'll be at the Southern Cal game." Make it definite, Bill, and confirm it to me soon.

Believe it or not, GEORGE McGRATH finally wrote a note from Ware, Mass.—now a guidance counselor at Ware High School—has a daughter Louise, a junior at St. Mary's. And he and wife Isabelle plan to attend the "Revenge Bowl." (George, please bring a capsule of dirt from my home state—just for me!)

JIM JENNINGS denies he was at the Cotton Bowl game which I mentioned in a previous issue. He says he was in Fort Dodge, Ia. for his son's wedding. Jim, are you sure you were at a wedding on the date of the Cotton Bowl? Any documentary evidence to prove your whereabouts? Jim is trying to drum up business for the LSU game in Baton Rouge. Quite a South Bend and New York contingent planning to attend. Anybody making the trip will let us know. Already heard from JOE LYNCH and long lost NORB HART that they will be with us on Oct. 22 at South Bend. In desperation we are trying to extract from the ticket office the names of the '35ers who applied for—and successfully got—tickets for the Southern Cal game. At this writing no success. It's a secret! So, please drop us a card if you are coming. We want to plan a mini-reunion. But, I ask you, how can we do it if we don't know how many are coming? Just a postcard to me or your prexy ED VAN HUISSELING would help. Only takes a few minutes to write a card—so how about it? We've been trying for several years to have a mini-reunion at South Bend for a game—with no success. This is the last call!

'36 MISS 35th 17.1%*

From IRWIN CROTTY, 11827 25th Ave. S., Seattle, Wash. "Was sorry to have missed the 35th reunion. Hope to be around for the next one. The past two years followed the football team at a few games including two Cotton Bowls. All of the family (seven children, four boys and three girls) are now married except Mike so that gives me and Grace a bit of a chance to get out in the fall. S. Bend is a long way from Seattle but we still have relatives in Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota and Indiana so get in a lot of visiting between games."

Had a nice letter from ED CROTTY '37 this past spring and was pleasantly surprised at hearing from him after all these years. Met BOB WALDRON and ANDY PUPLIS at the hotel in Dallas. Had seen Andy a year ago at the New Year's Party but first time I had seen Bob since ND days. Have often wondered what happened to JOE UNDERKOFER, used to play semi-pro baseball against Joe in Northern Iowa. He writes:

"Been working for the U. S. Immigration Service for 30 years and the past 15 have been supervisor at the Seattle-Tacoma International Airport in Seattle. Number-two son, Jim, graduated from ND after earning three letters in football and Mike will now be a senior this fall and has earned two letters in football to date and should make it again if he isn't hurt. The years have been good but begin to feel older and slowed down (don't we all). Have 13 grandchildren who keep us on the go so can't slow up too much. Or should I say down?"

When this coming football season ends I plan on getting back to fishing and hunting biding my time until a grandson appears in sports picture and I start running after athletic contests. That is one thing I missed when I left the coaching and teaching profession but have never been too far away from the action. Hope to see many of you at the next reunion.

Rev. ANTHONY J. LAUCK CSC, director of the art gallery at ND, is celebrating his silver jubilee of ordination this year. He has taught art at ND since 1950.

Brother SIMON SCRIBNER, a longtime faculty member has received an Alumni Appreciation Medal from the St. Edward's U. Alumni Association. Brother Simon has served as vice president, registrar, director of student activities and alumni director at St. Edward's.

Creation of a 4-year scholarship honoring the memory of the late CARMEL A. BELMONT is under way in Fall River, Mass., where he was instructor in evening classes of the Bristol Community College and where he formerly taught languages in the Durfee High School. Belmont died Dec. 31 and had been attending Bridgewater State College to obtain a master's degree in education. The scholarship move was started by A. Steven Raymond, a former pupil.

Sad to report the death of LEO McFARLANE, STEPHEN B. NOVAK and wife of JUSTIN O'TOOLE, Jeanette. Kindly remember them in your prayers and Masses.

In closing I wish to take this opportunity to thank JERRY VOGEL, committee chairman, Father JOHN BURKE, MORRIS B. COOPER, GEORGE McNEIL and JOHN SCHOONOVER for their very fine program of activities in behalf of the past 35th-year reunion of the Class of '36. A wonderful time was had by all. Hope more of us meet in '76.

Theodore C. Rademaker '46 has been appointed assistant regional commissioner, appellate, for the North Atlantic region of the Internal Revenue Service in New York, N.Y. The region serves six New England states and New York. He began his career with the service in 1948 as a special agent at South Bend, Ind.

John L. Hoeck '48 is now president of United Mercantile Agencies, Inc., Louisville, Ky. He joined the firm in 1948 and has served as vice president and treasurer since 1958. Hoeck lives with his wife and three children at 809 Alden Rd., Louisville.

met in St. Louis while Walt was there for daughter Sue's graduation in June. This completes Walt's tuition duty as son, Jay, finished law school also. Tom's party lost on the races and Walt came home with some of the loot. BOB BURKE and JERRY GOHMAN visited with Walt in Cincy for a few cold ones. With a daughter in Germany, Walt may still make the journey over for a visit. As to the games, the Cincy contingent will be there for the M.S.U. and S.C. games, staying at the Holiday Inn, and have already promised to make the Reunion. Director of City Parks & Recreation, City of Danbury, Conn., ED CROTTY says that he will be going to the USC game and will be available for reunion discussion. Ed is also retired H.S. coach of Danbury. Ed lost one of his sons in an auto accident, this after spending 4 years in the Marines, etc. BUCKY JORDAN called all the way from Chicago Tribune office one day saying he had lunch with Father JOE RACE, ELMER LAYDEN, ANDY PUPLIS and when in the NYC area he calls on JACK GILLESPIE. These journalists have to swap news items. Bucky also hopes to make a couple of games this fall, along with a visit for business to Miami. Jack Gillespie in the Mobil tower in NYC still is the tennis man and has visited with a long unheard of member, GEORGE CECALLA, who resides in Conn., is a film producer, also a script writer and does documentaries. How about doing one for '37 and the Reunion next year, George???

I talked with Judge Marbach of the Superior Court of N.Y. over the phone and all law angles are under control in Westchester County.

Press reports ED NEAHER's confirmation by the U.S. Senate of his nomination as a federal judge for Eastern District of New York, comprising Brooklyn, Queens, Staten Island and Long Island. Judge Neaher has been the U.S. attorney for the Eastern District since 1969. So, Marbach and Neaher should keep us out of jail at the next reunion. All this news is a result of the letter on death of BOB WILKE in July. Bob had a serious operation a couple of years ago as reported, then came around and played some golf, etc., but lost out on fourth down. We also have lost DICK DICE and BILL O'SULLIVAN recently. Please remember Bob, Dick and Bill in your prayers.

Don't forget to head for the Athletic and Convocation Center after the games and look for the Class of '37 group. We have a lot of work to do for Reunion '72.

'40 FATHER TOBIN DIES 18.6%*

It is with sincere sorrow that I report the answer to my question regarding Father BILL TOBIN. Father Bill died in May. At the time of his death he was assistant vicar general of the Servants of the Paraclete after serving the order in many locations throughout the world establishing retreat homes for priests. After graduating from ND and then from the Harvard School of Business Administration, Bill served in the Navy for ten years, retiring as a Lieutenant Commander. He was called to more meaningful and significant work when he joined the order. He was recently named ND man of the year by the Alumni Club of New Mexico and he truly was a ND man all of his life. Although I never saw Father Bill after his ordination in 1958, I have heard numerous reports of his inspiring work with both the religious and lay communities.

He has now joined many other men of '40 who are with us all in spirit and who attend all of our reunions with those physically present. Let us remember Father Bill and all of our classmates and friends, both living and deceased, in our daily prayers. Remember CHUBBY GILLAND's family in your prayers—they have lost three members of their family in the past 10 months.

TOM FLAD and his wife spent some time in Phoenix this spring with the Gillands. Chubby comments that he has not received any word from NORV (Skinhead) HUNTHAUSEN, nor from MIZE (Miserly) MORRIS. He asks, "Did Mexico, Mo., withdraw from the states?"

BOB LAWRENCE, Fifth Air Force sports director since 1962, was presented the Merit of Appreciation during the 11th Annual Industrial/Collegiate Track and Field Meet at the Odawara Athletic Stadium near Tokyo in June. He is retiring this summer and plans to work for the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Anadarko, Okla., as a recreation supervisor and Indian school counsellor. You men of '40 in Oklahoma look up Bob this fall.

The class was well represented at UND night in NY this spring. The following men attended with their wives: JIM BROWN, JIM KELLY, BOB CRUICKSHANK, JERRY SEXTON, JOE CUMMINGS, HANK DOWD, LEO SANTINI, JIM SPELLMAN, and GERRY SAEGERT, the new club president.

JIM DELAHANTY, through the efforts of his good wife, reports that DICK BURKE is doing quite well and looking great. He has also seen DICK ALBERT and DON HOSINSKI during the summer. CHUCK OSHINSKI has left Uniroyal after many years service and is now at Columbus Coated Fab.

We have not done well this issue, but expect to see many of you during football season, and also expect to hear from even more of you. All you have to do is write me.

'41 MAIL IS NEEDED 17.9%*

Not much news this time, so all you helpful lads come to my rescue and fill me in with news items you promised at reunion time. Notes for my next column have to be in the Alumnus office by Sept. 13, so write.

Did have a note from MILT WILLIAMS, one of old debating team members. Milt is a teacher in the public school system. His oldest son, Rhys, is married and is teaching in Anaheim, while the youngest, John, is off to Cal-Fullerton this fall.

Milt informed me of AL VANDER-VORT's death from leukemia in 1970. Al leaves his wife, Jill, and three sons in Palo Alto.

My own son, TIM '69, is now in the Teaching Corps at Livingston, Ala. teaching the disadvantaged, as he studies for his master's.

'43 DUDLEY ON BOARD 13.4%*

A May bulletin from Christian Brothers College, Memphis, contains the following: A. B. (Bud) DUDLEY, founder of the Liberty Bowl, is the latest to join the board of trustees at Christian Brothers College. A man known for his "firsts," Dudley was first to receive NCAA authorization to stage a major college football game in the East. He introduced the "Liberty Bowl" in Philadelphia in December, 1959.

Dudley received the Memphis "In-Print" award for creating the most favorable national publicity (for the City of Memphis) in 1967.

In 1964, Dudley was in charge of the U. S. Ice Hockey Team which made a 10-game tour behind the Iron Curtain. He wrote an article entitled "The Lost Image" in 1965 which was made part of the Congressional Record that year. It earned him the George Washington Honor Medal for a "substantial contribution to the American way of life" from Freedoms Foundation, Valley Forge.

A letter from LEO LEWIS states that he plans to attend the Southern Cal game.

Let's get on the ball and drop a line, so we can keep this column going.

'44 LIST GROWS 17.5%*

Once again it is my unfortunate task to report the death of a fellow classmate EDWARD GHIGLIOTTI, Staten Island, N.Y. in June. It is an ever growing list and Ed's death is the ninth since the 25th reunion two years ago. To his wife and to his family the prayers and sympathy of fellow classmates are extended.

ROBERT W. GALVIN has been elected an honorary governor of the Electronic Industries Association. He is chairman of the board of Motorola, Inc. and a former president of the association. He and his father, the late Paul V. Galvin, had leadership roles in the association for 37 years. JAMES F. GORMELEY, Fairfield Conn., has been named vice president for manufacturing of General Signal Corp., manufacturer of control components, with headquarters in New York.

Among the travelers this summer were (Black) JOHN MURPHY and his wife who were on a Personnel Association People to People tour. A card was received from Geneva where he had been for five days. From there they were to go to Berlin, Moscow, Leningrad, Bucharest and Belgrade. Recently there was a surprise telephone call from JERRY STANTON, a partner in the accounting firm of Arthur Andersen & Co., headquartered in Chicago. Jerry was curious about the Door County Peninsula and Washington Island in particular. He figured that yours truly would have firsthand information since the area is only 30 miles from Green Bay. Needless to say, it was a pleasure to report to him that it is a great vacation area—excellent accommodations, fine eateries, good golf courses, tremendous fishing, everything as far as water sports are concerned, fairly good skiing in winter, beautiful scenery, etc., etc. An article about Door County appeared in National Geographic a year or so ago. In it the area was referred to as the Cape Cod of the Midwest. This really is not a C of C plug, just a personal commentary.

News was received about the Class of '44's first secretary, JOHN LYNCH. John lives in Framingham, Mass. In his "spare time" he does some free-lance photography and has been represented in Yankee, National Wildlife, American Forests, Horticulture and Vermont Life. In addition he is involved in his parish council and CCD program. His family consists of son, TOM '71 who plans to enter U. of Mass. graduate school in fall; daughter, Christina, a Webster College senior; daughter, Ellen, a Webster College junior; daughter, Karen, a St. Joseph College freshman and three homebodies—Kathleen, Molly and Christopher. John traveled back to ND for graduation in June (his first visit to the campus since '59) and saw fellow classmates BOB FAUGHT, WARREN LEARY and JOE FIEWEGER who also had sons graduated. Other '44ers with whom he has had contact recently were CHUCK

PATTERSON, JOHN HICKEY, DAN
DOWNEY and HARRY YEATES.

'45 RETURN TO SENDER 20.8%*

Several letters mailed to the class have been returned to me because the class member has moved and left no forwarding address. Therefore, if you know the new address of any of the following, please forward to me: ARTHUR (Chuck) C. SARTORE, 3001 Farmington Dr., Greensboro, N.C.; MICHAEL BISESI, Olin Hotel, 1420 Logan, Denver, Colo.; ROBERT FITZPATRICK, 16230 Lilac, Detroit, Mich. 48221; WILLIAM E. HARRS, 86 Algonquin, Massapequa, N.Y.

Two congratulations to JOHN J. DOWLING, M.D., for two nice honors. John has been associate professor of clinical orthopaedic surgery at the Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia for some years, and has recently become chief of orthopaedics at the Lankenau Hospital. In addition, the class of 1971 senior medical students from Jefferson chose him to receive the Lindbach Award for Distinguished Teaching. John's older son John Jr. is presently a junior at ND. Congratulations on all counts!

I received a nice note from HENRY (Hank) PAYNE in which he says, "When I call on Caterpillar at Peoria, I see something of KEN SCHULZE. You will remember him as one of our aeronautical colleagues. Ken inquires about CLIFF MARKS. I reply that, at last word, Cliff was still prospering at McDonald Douglas in St. Louis. Cliff is one guy who studied aeronautical engineering and is still working at it. I don't know what aeronautics has to do with tractors (Ken) or conveyors (me)." Class secretary's note: Or editing and publishing! (AVL). "Possibly, fellow aeronautical colleague JOE HAGGER, in Dallas, may be using some of his aeronautical training to design space pants and suits in his slacks business. Best regards."

Two additional deaths in our class have come to my attention recently, although the deaths occurred several years ago. ROBERT PHILPOTT died on Nov. 9, 1969; and FRANCIS KELLY in 1966. Mail to them recently brought this sad news to our attention.

JOSEPH E. MAHONEY is a judge in the Court of Common Pleas in Jefferson, Ohio. Joe and his wife, Clare, have three children: Joseph E. (18) who is a freshman at Ohio State U.; Timothy J. (17) who is a junior at St. John's H.S.; and Francis X. (16) who is a sophomore at St. John's H.S. After graduation from the school of Commerce in August 1948, and Law School in January 1949, Joe was admitted to the practice of law in the State of Ohio and practiced for about one year. Thereafter, he became a special agent for the F.B.I. from 1950 to 1957. After this, Joe was the director of investigations for the city of Philadelphia until 1961, when he returned to practice law in Ashtabula, Ohio, with his brother, JOHN P. MAHONEY '38. Joe was prosecuting attorney for Ashtabula County from 1965 to 1968, and became judge of the common pleas court in November 1968.

Class of 45 Big Brother Program: I continue persistently to try to gather enough funds to help effectively defray college costs for the young fatherless boy, Dennis Kehne, from Syosset, Long Island, N.Y. The good news is that he is starting at ND this coming September, about the time this issue is out. Dennis needs help from each of the class members who can afford it, so please send your contribution to my address below. And to all those of the class who have helped, a sincere thank you from me and from Dennis and his mother.

'46 SILVER REUNION 16.2%*

Frank Foss, recording secretary, sends this report of the Class of '46 Silver Anniversary Reunion:

"Terrific! Great! Fantastic! The verdict was unanimous — the 25th was the biggest and best reunion the '46ers have had yet. Thirty of us made it.

"The biggest and best news concerned BOB ROSSITER, our blind classmate. Bob regained his sight recently after several operations and saw his classmates for the first time! The sight of us brought forth a few of his usual wry comments, of course. Bob, who brought his lovely wife and children, is doing well as an attorney in Brooklyn. ELMER ANGSMAN showed up Saturday at the golf course. He didn't play, but rented a cart and drove TOM BURNS and Foss around. Elmer looks as fit as he did in his All-American days. STEVE NEMETH dropped in, too, and exchanged stories with JOHN MCGUIRE. John's Irish tenor is as lilting as ever, as he demonstrated, by popular request, at the class banquet.

"The banquet, thanks to ED MIESZ-KOWSKI's M.C. talents, was one of the highlights. ART KERNEN, the DON RICKLES of '46, was in in fine form. HARRY SURKAMP was lovable as ever, but there's a lot more of him to love. NICK COMMISA brought samples of all the Bookstore's monogrammed items (he also brought along his cousin, who got hooked on the Bookstore, too). GEORGE DeLOACH was here from Mississippi with his charming wife. (George was looking for PAUL DOYLE and almost found him, didn't he, Nick?) FRANK PAULSON, the '46 expert on watches, had some interesting tales to tell.

"The class Mass was well attended, and we were honored to have as celebrant Msgr. Egan, brother of JIM EGAN.

"ND's golf course took a beating from swingers like BOB WELCH, FRANK KOWALSKI, JOHN PRAWDZIK, PETE RICHISKI, and TOM SCHREIBER. The refreshment tents drew the '46ers in the evenings. Swapping recollections were JAMES CRONIN, BILL DUNNE, BILL FAHRNER, NORB GEIER, JOHN HEYVAERT, VINCE JACOBS, Bro. BARRY LAMBOUR, JOHN MCINERNEY, JACK MEULENDYK, TOM SHULER, BARNEY SLATER and RICHARD WILSON, as well as those named earlier. 'Twas a grand time, lads, and may the 30th reunion be even bigger!"

Now for other news of '46.

It was brought to my attention by TIM HUGHES '61, managing editor of the ND ALUMNUS that THOMAS WARD '46 was to present the trophy to the winner of the 550,000 ARCH WARD Memorial Race at Arlington Park, Chicago, on Aug. 4. The race is named after Tom's father, the late sports editor of The Chicago Tribune, a 1921 ND graduate. Tom is with U.S. Steel in Chicago and formerly worked for the company in New York and Washington.

JAMES MOLIDOR '46 has been appointed president and chief operating officer of Air Control and Air Shields, Inc., subsidiaries of Narco Scientific Industries, Industrial Park, Fort Washington, Pa. James was vice president of marketing for C. R. Bard, Inc., in Murray Hill, N.J., prior to accepting the Narco appointment.

Last month I met FRANK KOWALSKI '46 at the New Jersey golf and dinner outing held at the Braidburn Country Club in Florham Park, N.J. The affair was a resounding success as those great ND Quarterbacks ANGELO BERTELLI '43 and FRANK TRIPUCKA '48 called all the plays. We were fortunate in hearing Coach JOSEPH YONTO '48 brief us on ND's academic and athletic future. Coach Yonto and Frank made my day a complete success.

PETER RICHISKI '46 has called yours truly in regards to class news. Peter has been wonderful. On July 22 PETER and Helen with Judith, Peter Jr., Ellen and Carol were gracious enough to stop en route to Connecticut from Wildwood, N.J. to visit us. The Richiski children were absolutely wonderful. They are proof positive of the grand job Helen and Peter are doing. Come again.

Hoping to see or hear from you '46ers.

'49 UNTIL TUITION 19.2%*

I recently received notice of the deaths of two classmates: JIM CLYNE Jr. died April 22. I recall Jim as a tall, thin, personable lad who lived on the fourth floor of Badin. Jim was from New York City and rooming as he did near JOHN DUGGAN of N.Y.C. and PETE KERNAN of New Jersey that fourth-floor wing in Badin had some mighty lively "discussions." Just a few days later word from school reached me telling of the sudden passing, by heart attack, of PAUL LAMMERS on June 21. Muscular, strong and quiet, Paul is remembered by many as a stalwart on both the basketball court and the baseball diamond. Paul's family burdens now fall to son David '71. Please remember all these people in your prayers.

BILL BROCKHOFF sent me a note from Conover, N.C., to advise that his son, John, has been accepted for the frosh class at ND. That has to be a great feeling. . . . At least until the tuition notice arrives. Bill was enthusiastic that ND night was celebrated "down South and East" in Carolina. Since this was essentially a local effort, four ND alumni agreed to bring wives and meet at St. Aloysius Church in Hickory, N.C., for Mass. Afterwards the group moved to the home of JIM FARRELL '49 where "all enjoyed some good conversation and a toast or two to all alumni." While there DON WALZ '56 and his wife, Evelyn, showed slides of their recent "April in Paris" trip that was sponsored by the Alumni Association. It was most enjoyable, according to Bill. GEORGE STEWART '70 read a note addressed to the group by Father Hesburgh which, as always, was most appropriate and heartwarming. They concluded the evening at dinner "at a local Chinese spot." I don't know what plans you boys formulated at that Chinese place but it is significant, I think, that Nixon now has to visit Peking to straighten out the matter.

I have a few promotions and announcements that the Alumni Office passed along to me. You will enjoy knowing, for example, that PAUL F. Paul received his master's in business administration from Northeastern U., some time ago.

W. JAMES TYRRELL has been elected president of the First National Bank of Bradenton, Fla. Jim joined the bank as executive vice president in 1969 after working with the First Bank of Memphis, Tenn. Jim obviously is a "doer" because he pursued additional studies at Memphis State U., and earned an LL.B. He also holds degrees from the Graduate School of Banking at LSU and the Industrial Development Institute of the U. of Oklahoma.

Or take the case of quarterback DON BEGLEY who has been named vice president and general manager of the chemical concentrates division of Baker Industries of Hanover Township, N.J. My old buddy, MIKE MCGUIRE, has been appointed to a second five-year term as social services commissioner of Oneida County, N.Y. He has been welfare commissioner since 1960 when he was elected to a three-year term which was followed by appointment to another three-year term under a new county charter. In 1966 he was appointed to his first five-year term. Mike lives in Utica, N.Y., with his wife and their four children. And, Mike, when you see JACK O'ROURKE and RAY BELDEN, tell them we said "hello" and would appreciate a little note for the column.

Naturally, the same thought goes out to all the readers of this space. I depleted a goodly portion of my news supply so the "help" flag flies once again. You'll be reading this in September. Cooler weather will be at hand and writing me won't seem like such a chore. You'd be surprised what help a simple postcard can be to me.

'54 NEWS OF ONE 24.5%*

Were it not for the fact that I just spent a wonderful evening with a long-lost classmate, I'd probably skip this article for the lack of mail. But just the other evening I had dinner with GEORGE B. O'CONNELL, his lovely wife and their four little ones: Bridget, Mike, Pat and Eileen. Now, let's face it, I've always been fat, but "fat" now has caught up with George. As I guzzled his gin, George put away two, maybe three Diet Pepsis. We enjoyed discussing old times. George is with Raytheon, just north of Boston and resides in Methuen, Mass.

I've located a home and signed myself into debt (big) for the next 25. My new address is 6 Russet Lane, Andover, Mass. 01810.

After just a few weeks in the area I think Boston is about ready for another tea party. Massachusetts taxes are unreal! Anyway, I'm only 40 minutes from Logan Airport and the Monsanto plant is only 15 minutes away, so give me a call and I'll bus over and feature you in the next article.

Oh, I forgot — JERRY FINNEY 17, JERRY FINNEY 18, JERRY FINNEY 19, (GERALD J. FINNEY, 4741 Casann St., Raleigh, Tenn. 38128).

Surely CHARLIE SPICKA can work in a flight up to Bean Town. Lt. Col. TOM SCHWIETZ has been graduated from the National War College at Ft. Leslie McNair, Washington, D.C. He's headed for duty in Thailand.

I don't expect to be at our reunion party after the first home game of this season, so hopefully DICK PILGER will send me an account of the proceedings. Possibly R.W. and R.P. might also send an account of the party if they stay sober long enough.

Well, that's about it. I'm sure the total lack of mail these past few months sets some kind of record. Are you trying to tell me something?

'55 COVER STORIES AND CABBIES 21.8%*

Hope you all caught RAY KENNEDY's cover story on Lee Trevino in Time magazine. Of course, I thought the publisher's note on Ray and family in the front of the book made better reading. In case you missed it, here are some quickies:

"I'm just your typical, over-the-hill jock." . . . (Now, Rodent, how could a 5-7, 150-pounder be an athlete?) . . . "They would have paid me $35 a week, but I had a college degree, so I got $40." . . . (And who said an ND degree didn't mean anything?) . . . "I hung up my sneakers because when it comes to softball, I'm a real male chauvinist pig. Somehow I cannot see myself hook-sliding into a lovely second baselady." . . . (Don't believe you could hit one far enough for a double, Ray.)

Ray and Patsy have eight children, and she stole the editor's column with this news note. "Patsy now has a new extra-curricular scheme. Accustomed to chauffeuring her kids to and from their West Side Manhattan apartment, she has applied to become a licensed cabbie as soon as her ninth child is born in December. Says Patsy: 'I'm looking forward to the fun part of driving a taxi — bawling out the customers.'" (And who said it wasn't Fun City?)

Want to bring you up to date on a few guys on the move. DAVE HOENE now is at 6610 Wedgewood Dr., Beaumont, Tex.; BILL TUNELL, 1309 Cadiz St., New Orleans; TIM NORTON, 4738 D La-Villa Marina, Marina Del Rey, Calif.; ART EGGERS, 5153 Vernon Ridge Dr., Dunwoody, Ga.; and BEN REIDY, 714 S. Hats off to Class Agent GEORGE SHELTON and YOU for helping the Class of '55 lead the parade in last year's fund-raising.

Looking forward to seeing you all after the USC game on Oct. 23. We'll have the same room in The Morris Inn — The Shamrock Room at the back of the building. Be there!

JOE MADIGAN, now director of public relations for the Marschalk Co. in Cleveland, checked in with his comments on the football reunion: "I intend to be there with bells on. Particularly since I missed the 15th reunion last June. I'm anxious to get back and cut up a few touches. And who knows, perhaps I can import some members of the Cleveland contingent as well."

Let's hope that some of you other guys in areas within driving distance — Indianapolis, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Detroit, Toledo, etc. — get groups together so that we'll have a record turnout.

For those of you starting the Christmas shopping, here are some new addresses: LEO KEENAN, 60 Washington St., East Orange, N.J.; GREG ESCH, 1303 Hillcrest, St. Paul; TOM GALLAGHER, 40 Brompton Rd., Garden City, N.Y.; JOHN JAHODA, 122 Turtle Cove Lane, Huntington, L.I., N.Y.; JOE McGLYNN, 65 Broadview, Clayton, Mo.; PETE HARRISON, 811 Forest Ave., Wheaton, Ill.; JOHN HESTER, 4817 Central, Western Springs, Ill.; DON EWBANK, 1127 6th St., Hermosa Beach, Calif.; KEVIN O'DONNELL, 1344 Willow Lane, Birmingham, Mich.; AL KAELIN, 717 "K" St., Sacramento, Calif.; JOE HAGGERTY, 604 E. Penn, Hoopeston, Ill.; TOM SIERON, 5801 Kendon Dr., Dayton; KENT ROWE, 211 W. Washington, South Bend; DR. BILL O'TOOLE, 189 Park Ave., Centerville, Mass.; and JOE HENEHAN, 1862 Douglass Blvd., Louisville.

Believe that GENE CARRABINE is handling Big Ten football games this year. Have striped shirt, will travel. If he's as good at calling penalties as he was at playing defensive halfback, he'll be among the best.

Let me hear from you, gang!

'56 CALLS DOCTORS 21.7%*

Here is my first effort as a big-time columnist, and already a failure. I mean to tell you I've hardly a tidbit of news. I guess I blew the wad on that letter last month. Good thing I made the reunion after all or I'd be the most uncommunicative class secretary you've ever had. On the other hand, too bad I did make the June bash; some other sucker would have been "hustled" into the post. So let's go, guys — if you don't drop me a line once in a while, how else am I going to decide if you're worth writing about?

Of course, I'm lucky to have some friends who write to me all the time — LEO LINBECK from Houston, JOHN FANNON from Cincinnati, GENE O'CONNOR in Buffalo, FRANK BEYTAGH out of South Bend. Some friends! All I get is grief: do this Al, do that Al, make sure you cover this Al. They just love me for my typewriter, not as a real person.

Take our next reunion. DON CARLIN, our class prez, calls "Misty" FANNON, who in turn calls me to make sure I'll get the poop to you guys every chance I get: Southern Cal, Oct. 23; bug them about getting their tickets in; remind them about room reservations. Then Carlin gets a hold of Beytagh who can't stop writing me stupid notes about my showing up early to arrange this, set up that, leave the game during the third quarter, etc., etc. You want to know why they want me to miss half the game?

Just so I'll be at the door early enough to personally greet all you slobos. Are you ready for that? I have to go all the way to South Bend, at my own expense no less, to play doorman. I have news for those guys — I'm not even going to show up! How do you like that? I'll just send the "Hippie" — RESCINITY.

Linbeck's not so bad. He sent along a card from BOB MACKAY who said he was sorry he couldn't make the reunion because he got "detained" on business in Russia. I was so happy to receive this news about Bob since it confirmed a suspicion I've had about him all these years: the guy really is a spy. (We found that out the time we filled Bob's room full of paper balls, clear up to the ceiling, in Lyons Hall: Bob rattled on us.)

Anybody remember JOHN A. NUTANT?

Eugene C. Ashby '56, Ph.D. '57, chemistry professor at the Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta, Ga., received the Lavoisier Medal of the French Chemical Society at Lyon, France. He attended the meeting of the society as a plenary lecturer. Dr. Ashby has been on the Georgia Tech faculty for eight years.

Robert M. Byrnes '59 is the new manager, labor relations, of the St. Regis Paper Co., New York, N.Y. Byrnes joined the firm in 1960 and served in various field positions. He lives at 253 Franklin Turnpike, Allendale, N.J. 07401.

Capt. Ronald H. Blake '60 is the new chief of the data processing division at Sandia Base, N.M. He previously served at Phu Cat Air Base, Vietnam. Commissioned in 1962, he received an M.S. from Southern Methodist U. in 1969.

James T. Blair '62 has been appointed director of banking for the U.S. Postal Service. He entered the Postal Service in 1969 after four years in the Navy and also served as a financial analyst with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Nicholas G. Muller '64 was elected corporate secretary and general counsel for Gates Learjet Corp., Denver, Colo. He joined Gates Learjet in 1969 as legal counsel for Gates Aviation Corp. Muller earned his J.D. degree from Boalt Hall Law School, U. of California at Berkeley.

Thomas E. Smith '65 has been elected an assistant vice president of the Bank of the Commonwealth, Detroit, Mich. In his new capacity he will have broad responsibility for underwriting activities of the Municipal Department. After graduation at ND he received an M.B.A. from the U. of Michigan.

Seems John was recently picked by the government to join the Environmental Protection Agency, a 1-2-year gig. John's a real heavyweight ecologist, we're happy to report — he's an environmental systems project manager for Westinghouse, where he conducted, we're told, hydrodynamic studies underseas from 1966 to 1970 (he came up for air just once during all that time); he's also a Ph.D. from Maryland and a postdoctoral fellow at Johns Hopkins. (For such a smart guy, you'd think John could fix the stinking air.)

Now how about a big, big hand for LEONARD L. HIERATH, who'll need one. Len just opened an office as an engineering consultant in Arvada, Colo. (a nice place to visit, but who'd want to live there?). Len's got guts—an engineering firm is just the thing to get into in this booming economy.

I'll bet you don't remember Monsignor OSMUNDO A. CALIP. (I do.) Who can forget that terrific smile of his? But did you know he was one of our very own classmates? It seems Msgr. Calip, a professor in the Graduate School of Education, St. John's University, Jamaica, N.Y., was just cited for "outstanding spiritual and educational leadership among Filipinos in the United States" by the Philippine Communities Executive Council of New York and New Jersey. The award, by the way, was presented on the very day Msgr. Calip celebrated his 35th anniversary as a priest. (Double congratulations, Monsignor — from all your fellow '56ers.)

Well, that's the extent of the news, folks. One last thing. I would like all the doctors (medical doctors, that is; no dentists, please, you're all much too expensive) to drop me a line and tell me where you are, what you're doing, etc. We're going to give a plug to all the "Ben Caseys" in our class in one of our future columns. So all you GP's (better scratch that; nobody's a GP anymore), ENT's, gynecologists, orthopedists, plastic surgeons (are you listening, Ange?), let's hear from you soon. I promise, it will only be a very light roasting.

Take care. I'll talk to you next month.

Bob was the author of a paper presented at the conference. He received an M.S. and Ph.D. from the U. of California at San Diego. The condolences of our class are extended to JOHN CHRISTENSEN, whose father died July 9. (John has a sister, SISTER HELEN CHRISTENSEN, R.S.M., who received an M.S. from ND in '62.) John has recently moved to Tallahassee (275 Knox Road, Apt. C-203) where he has assumed the position of County Administrator.

DAVID A. MILLER is administration manager for IBM's Data Processing Division in Houston and is also practicing law (2152 Watts Rd.). Dave is one of the few people I know who hands out two different business cards! Another attorney in our class (actually he's in a class by Ann and JIM COONEY (and five children) returned to the Canadian Lodge where they honeymooned 12 years ago for their family vacation this summer. And now the Cooney children number 5½!

BOB HASSENGER reports the birth of Robert Kennedy Hassenger (June 27), that he spent last year teaching at Western Michigan U. and became Associate Professor of Sociology at Kalamazoo College this month, and that he is the new editor of "Sociological Analysis," the official publication of the Association for the Sociology of Religion. One of the last bastions of bachelorhood has vanished. On July 27, JOE MARINO married Mary Lucille Mack in Washington. Witnessing the event along with the writer was JOE CLANCY '58L.

An avid ALUMNUS reader, Mrs. ROBERT K. BRANNON, SR. '30, noticing our plea for news in the last issue, reports that her son, ROBERT K. BRANNON, JR. '60, was presented The Chicago Tribune's Campbell Award for outstanding salesmanship.

'61 HOW ABOUT THAT! 24.4%*

Some reunion leftovers: JOE LIBBY came all the way from the Washington, D.C., area to take a test at ND. Some said it was an old accounting exam that he forgot to take 10 years ago. Joe claimed it had something to do with becoming a certified life underwriter.

DAVE SOMMER and TOM TAFELSKI rode in together from the East Coast. Dave is using those tricks of the trade he learned as a Dome photographer in his job as photo editor for Religious News Service in New York City. Tuffy Tafelski was in the process of getting his family moved from North Jersey to South Jersey. The executive V-P has been doing some long-distance commuting. I thought you had to be Irish or Italian to live in South Jersey.

MARTY RONAN, still red-haired and freckle-faced but 50 pounds heavier, rolled in from Washington, D.C. He's working for the U.S. Information Agency. Also saw Marty later in July at a combined meeting of the ND-SMC Washington Clubs.

BILL PFLAUM and JIM BROGAN made it from Dayton, O. Bill is in the publishing business and Jim is a lawyer. JOE PICHLER, Kansas U.'s answer to Mr. Chips, came back and waxed professorial to all those who would listen. No one did. Would someone please pass the hemlock?

BOB DUFFEY hobbled back, injured leg and all. It seems that New York's finest free-lance artist was struck down by a wayward taxi in mid-town Manhattan. DENNY O'SHAUGHNESSY was rumored to have driven a Cadillac up from Jacksonville, Fla. Well, he works for the company — why not?

PETE RODGERS, still from Drexel Hill, Pa., returned, but without his old sidekick ED McCAFFERTY. Ed had to cancel out at the last minute. His wife made him paint the house or something like that. Did you get a load of JOHN RYAN? I made sure his photo was in the last ALUMNUS. Easily the most mod of the Class of '61. Everything's up-to-date in Kansas City.

Must have talked to ED McANANEY a half-dozen times, but failed to ask him what he's doing to earn his room and board. PAUL HOLMAN is doing his own thing in Fort Wayne.

Thanks to Rev. OLLIE WILLIAMS for saying the class Mass. Attendance was sparse, but big ED DALY was there. That alone renewed my faith in the Class of '61.

Other news of classmates: GEORGE O'CONNELL, (now Rev.) is assistant director of labor and urban affairs at the U. of Minnesota. He was recently promoted to Research Fellow at the University. BILL WOLTER has been admitted to the Illinois Bar in Springfield. He received a J.D. degree from John Marshall Law School, Chicago. DR. BOB BREVKA is practicing orthodontics in Littleton, Colo.

Now is the time to sit down and jot a note to ARNIE LEPORATI, a man who has moved from the loading dock to the executive chair of letters for the Class of '61. As Arnie's all-time favorite sportscaster would have said, "How about that!"

The Split-Screen, Stop-Action, Slow-Mo, Video-Tape Instant-Replay Kid

September 24, 1966. The Irish entertain Purdue. A debut for three of Notre Dame's finest — Terry Hanratty, Jim Seymour, Don Ohlmeyer.

Before you ask "Don Which?" consider this: Now, five years later, as Hanratty and Seymour struggle to crack starting lineups in Pittsburgh and Chicago, Donald W. Ohlmeyer, Jr., '67, of Bronxville, N.Y., spends his autumn as director of the replay unit for ABC Television's Monday Night Pro Football series.

Son of a 1949 ND graduate, Ohlmeyer got his ABC break via Jim Feeney, a '58 alumnus. Ohlmeyer wandered into a pool hall on Michigan Street the night before the Purdue game. There he found Feeney, an ABC associate producer in for the game, shot him a rack of pool and accepted his invitation to join the telecast crew.

Next afternoon, Fling and Cling did their thing for 12 completions, 187 yards and two touchdowns. Ohlmeyer, meanwhile, "gofered" (go for this, go for that) the sidelines for ABC's production assistant. He worked the legendary Michigan State game that year and a few other remotes.

Don was married to the former Dossie Mahaffey during Easter break of 1967, graduated with a communication arts degree in June, vacationed a few weeks in Europe and joined the network full-time in July, 1967.

One year later, at age 23, he became the youngest associate director in the history of ABC sports. Since then, he has covered such events as the Gold Cup hydroplane races, the 1968 Summer Olympics, the World Bobsledding Championships, the Indianapolis 500 and directed two series, Pro Bowlers Tour and the NCAA Football Scoreboard postgame show.

"My most enjoyable and rewarding show was the tribute to Vince Lombardi, which aired last year," says Don. He regards his new assignment with nearly equal relish, however.

"We're going to try to do things on Monday that you won't see on Saturday or Sunday," Ohlmeyer explains. "We've tried to humanize and personalize the events we telecast."

"For instance, Chet Forte, our producer-director on the Monday series, favors a tight facial shot of the quarterback calling plays in the huddle. We want to show him as a person with reactions and emotion, not as a mere figure in helmet and shoulder pads."

ABC will cover pro football with an all-time-high nine cameras and continue to pioneer a two-unit system for production. "We've reached a level of sophistication which permits one unit to be concerned with only the live broadcast, while the other works with isolation, slow motion and video tape replay," says Don. "I'll be directing the tape unit and working very closely with a producer named Denny Lewin, who," Ohlmeyer adds with a half-smile, "happens to be a 1966 graduate of Michigan State."

By the time you peruse this bit of class news both fall and the gridiron season will be upon us — and it looks like another good football year for the Irish, so place your bets now. Keep in mind our class get-together following the MSU game Oct. 2 in the ACC. Simply look for the '66 banner.

PAUL O'BRIEN writes that after spending more than three years in the Marines, part of which was in the Far East, he will complete work on an MBA at NYU this fall. CHRIS RONAY and his wife, Pat, report that they are still soaking up the seasonal Ft. Benning, Ga., rains this summer but hope for a change this coming spring. It seems Chris's tour of Army duty may take them to Greece. After his discharge he is hoping for an assignment with the FBI as a special agent.

BOB SCHWARTZ writes of his work with Investor's Diversified Services in Killeen, Tex., following a service tour that deposited him in the Lone Star state. Bob has just been promoted to branch manager and will be transferred to another Texas location. Recently, while on vacation in Buffalo I was headed out for a round of golf when I was stopped by a "you probably don't remember me, but..." from MIKE MEUSE, a classmate of ours who spent three years with us under the Dome before joining the Marines. He finished up at ND in 1970 and is now completing work on an MBA at the U. of Buffalo. Mike, when you read this, send us your new address.

BOB CONWAY recently wrote Cap that he is working with a finance company in NYC and expects to be out this way in the fall. By the way, the Gagnons should be able to handle upcoming company as they just bought a home here in South Bend. Housewarming gifts may be sent to the Admissions Office.

DON BOUFFARD reports that JOE JOHN is now a resident in medicine at Rush Medical Center in Chicago and was married this past June. JACK SULLIVAN is currently employed as a tax manager with Peat, Marwick, Mitchell in Chicago, and he and Cindy have quite an Irish family going for themselves.

'67 NEWS DELUGE 21.1%*

As in past articles, there is an enjoyable presence of news from first correspondents. But dozens of you guys are yet to break the ice. I promise — it's painless; so how about a short note?

Former ND swimmer BOB HUSSON came up for air long enough to drop me a note explaining that for the past two years he has been a programmer in the Navy. In the meantime, he is working towards a master's degree in numerical science at Johns Hopkins U. which he hopes to complete by June '72. Bob assures us that he is "quite" single and really likes the Washington, D.C., area. Bob's programming work has brought him into contact with another NDer, ED HULTGREN, who is also doing some computer work for Uncle Sam as a civilian.

TOM GETZ reports from Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich., that he is still with Ford Motor Co. now as a systems analyst at Dearborn. Tom's work location has made it possible for him to pursue his MBA at the U. of Michigan, Dearborn Extension. Since Aug. '69, Tom and his wife have been enjoying marital bliss; and as a couple have been with the TIM LONG-STRETCH and JOHN HEGARTY clans for a visit to the alma mater. Tim is in his home town of Zanesville and supposedly still teaching and coaching high school.

After teaching in an all-girl high school in Cleveland for two years, DICK VEIT has spent this past year "ski-bumming" in Aspen. Fellow Innsbruckers who have "bummed" off of Dick this year include TOM MALONE, DAVE BUCKLEY, and JOHN TSCHETTER. Not to be outdone, Dick's former roommate, CHARLIE IMBUS, and his wife, Sherri, came to enjoy the Aspen country, too. Dick will be entering the Ph.D. program in English at the U. of Iowa. Some brief notes include: JOHN L. HOELSCHER JR. has been elected president of the Buffalo Jaycees and is the youngest person ever elected to his post; Capt. CHARLES E. FEICHT is supply management officer at Da Nang AFB providing service for F-4 Phantom jets; JOHN M. ATKINSON has been assigned to Columbus AFB, Miss., for pilot training following his commission as a 2nd Lt. in the USAF; and now that ED and Kathy MANKEY have a home in Peru, Ind., a little Mankey, Michelle Babette, decided to arrive this past May to share the new surroundings.

After graduation BILL CROWLEY spent three years in the Army infantry including one year in Asia. Having made it back safely, Bill has been pursuing a MBA at the U. of Miami in Florida. He is looking for the Irish in the fall.

Having graduated from the Cornell Law School and having been admitted to the Michigan bar, BERNIE MCARA is presently practicing law in Flint, Mich., with McAra & Palmer. In January '70 Bernard was married to Louise Skeen in Atlanta, Ga. Among those in attendance were STEVEN WASSINGER, STEVE NORTHRUP, PAUL McCONVILLE, and DON POTTER. Steven is presently in Oxford, England, working on his doctorate. He and his wife, the former Kay Casalini (SMC '66), are the proud parents of twin girls. Steve Northrup recently has returned from his service in Viet Nam and is presently considering acceptance from Harvard Law School and the U. of Michigan Law School. PAUL, having proved himself to be a "basket case" to the satisfaction of Army examiners, is practicing law in New York City. He also graduated from Cornell Law School. Having sold his soul to Standard Oil Company, Don Potter presently is working out of their London office where he has managed to create several monetary crises. He journeyed to the U.S., Chicago no less, to be married. Bernie continues by mentioning that two of our classmates are presently in the warm climes of So. Calif. JIM VERNETTI and his wife, Joanie, live outside of Los Angeles with their daughter. Jim is coaching and teaching in high school. MIKE IRVINE and his wife, Carolyn, (SMC '66) are also in the L.A. area where

Mike is being presided over by his two daughters. Also graduating from the Cornell Law School is TOM HYDEN who has returned to the Grand Rapids area as a married man. It's reported that Tom was looking forward with a certain amount of relish to the Old-timers' Hockey game. In his concluding remarks Bernie surprises us with the fact that CHUCK VEGARA "is presently serving thirty-five years in the Navajo Penitentiary for impersonation of a Medicine Man."

Thanks, fellas, for the deluge of friendly and informative mail.

'69 AT LAST!

18.5%*

At last, a letter from JOHN KENEFICK! John was sparked to write when he ran into ERNIE GARGARO in a local pub in Chicago, who boasted about his master-piece(?). John noted that I forgot to mention that Ernie has lost about 40 lbs. besides changing to the dry look. Ernie was in Chicago at the time for EBBY MORAN's wedding. Anyway, on with the letter.

In January John traveled to Fowler, Ind., for DEAN BENNER's wedding to his long-time sweetheart Cheryl. Attending Dean in the wedding party were LOUIE LEONE, TOM "T R" RYAN and GREG SCHATZ. Other ND men at the occasion were TOM BREEN, JOHN QUINN and RALPH WILLIAMS. Two well-wishers called everybody on the night before from Dallas. AL LUTZ and DICK MERRITT both expressed that they were enjoying the southern climate. Louie, T R, Greg and Breeno are all in their third year of law school. John Quinn is an accountant in Indianapolis. Ralph is in sales in Minneapolis. Al is in Dallas with PP&G and Dick is working on his master's. Dean and his bride are back in Chicago as Dean is studying for his MBA at Loyola.

St. Patrick's Day in Chicago called for the usual celebration and BILL WADE organized a small gathering at a local pub. He and his wife, Cindi, were celebrating a new addition to their family — a baby girl named Erin. I ater in the evening RICK REMBUSCH and his wife, Jeral, stopped by all the way from Indiana U. where Rick is in law school. He reported that his classmate JOHN STURM is doing well. One of the last to arrive was BILL LUKING who attends Northwestern Law School. Bill mentioned that two of his classmates, TOM DUDA and BOB SACOFF, both had their studies interrupted by the Reserves. Tom, however, fared the better of the two by being discharged while on active duty and was married over Memorial weekend at ND.

Also enjoying life in Chicago is MIKE

McDERMOTT. Mike is working for the Northern Trust Bank and attending Loyola at night for his MBA. KEVIN REARDON, a fellow employee of John, has also received his MBA from Loyola. John ran into SANDY BISIGNANO at the U. of Chicago. Sandy mentioned he, too, had received his MBA and like Kevin has his ROTC obligation ahead of him.

TOM LADKY recently left Chicago to reside in Milwaukee where he has accepted a sales position. Located in the Washington, D.C., area are DICK FARRELL and his wife, Irene. Dick is now the managing editor of a weekly magazine. He reports that TOM (Alto Bear) ALTMAYER was still living at the U. of Conn. where he received his MBA.

Early in the summer ED "Z" ZAWACKI was in Chicago for a wedding, stating that he and BOB FOLKS were doing well in New York at law school. In June, LOU LANWERMEYER and his wife, Barb, moved to Chicago. Lou has finished his hitch with Uncle Sam and is currently working for his MBA at Northwestern.

As for himself, John reports he has been working for Inland Steel since graduation and has now started night classes at the U. of Chicago for his MBA.

Thanks for all the news, John. You write a good letter. Only the next time try to mix in a few Ph.D.s, J.D.s, M.S. for variety.

From Texas, JOHN PUTZEL let us know that he is now at the U. of Texas Law School in Austin. For the past two years John has taught high school in St. Louis. John reports that BILL DELL is now teaching high school in Los Angeles after spending two years in Cleveland. At last word BARRY BREEN was teaching at a girls' high school in New Rochelle, N.Y., and enjoying it. STEVE HELLRUNG is in his third year of law school at ND. CRAIG MALONE is at Stanford working on his doctorate in political science. BILL McCULLY is presently spending six months in Paris doing research for a doctorate in history from ND. JIM PELLEGRI is working at a hospital in Boston, doing his alternative service as a CO.

The news on JACK MORAN is that last summer he received his MBA from Syracuse. The next month Jack was drafted and later assigned to the Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N.J. He has since become an instructor of the Communication Security Division. Within this busy schedule Jack was even able to spend 10 days vacationing in Hawaii. Lt. PETER SULLIVAN completed the academic phase of combat aircrew training as a pilot at Castle AFB, Calif. He has now been assigned to Beale AFB, Calif. for duty with a unit of SAC.

Enjoyed a few brews tonight with PETE McKEE and his wife, Diane. Pete is currently employed with Standard Oil of N.J. in New Brunswick. Pete reports he occasionally sees TOM O'CONNOR and his wife, Judy, as Tom is gainfully employed with Humble Oil of nearly Plainfield, N.J. Also, JIM RICE was married last summer to Kathy Dent (SMC). Jim delayed his law studies at U. of Michigan for one semester, as he and his new bride honeymooned in Europe through Thanksgiving. (Excellent idea.) DICK NICOLosi and his wife, Kathy, apparently are still in Chicago as Dick continues his work with Procter and Gamble.

The mail was light this summer, a sure sign everyone was having a great time. Suddenly now the football season is upon us. Let's make it a point to gather in our designated area of the A & CC after each game. There is no better way to recall those tremendous years of the past than shaking hands (and maybe indulging in a few) with you old roommate. If I'm not there to take notes (can't make everything) please forward any gossip you might be willing to share with the rest of the class.

PEACE,

'69 MBA DOUBLE CONGRATS

Belated congratulations to JIM and SANDY HORES on the arrival of their second child. Liane Jean was born on May 25, just in time for brother Brian's second birthday. Double congratulations are due the Hores family; Jim has recently been named the acting director of the planning division of West Virginia's Governor's Office of Federal State Relations.

We were recently favored with some photographs of the JOHN KNITTEL family, which is getting to be quite a group. John, Rita and the two kids are looking great. Rita must be working John too hard; he appears to be a mere shadow of his former self.

JOE McCOURT has a new assignment with V. Mueller Co. Joe now represents V. Mueller in the New York - Northern New Jersey territory. The McCourts' new address is 44 Center Grove Rd., Apt. 47, Dover, N.J. Joe and Peg have been busy visiting with some of our East Coast MBA's including ARCHIE SULLIVAN and KEN SAMARA.

I'm afraid that's all the news for now. Many of us will soon be seeing each other in South Bend and exchanging news. We currently have definite plans to attend the Northwestern and North Carolina games. Hope to see you there. Look for the guy with the reporter's notebook.

'70 DRUMMERS AND BUGLERS

Several people have sent me letters with news of the Class of '70. It seems the best feature of this position is the mail I get.

RALPH HORVATH wrote from Lowry AFB in Denver, Box B-4073, where he will be director of the drum and bugle corps until October. After graduation he worked for four months for NASA in Cleveland before enlisting. Now his engineering talent is employed on the electronics and mechanics of B-52 navigation. Ralph is not too happy with the work but is proud to report his corps was judged better than the Marine drummers and buglers.

Other Alumni Hall veterans were mentioned in his letter. BILL HEDERMAN is studying for his M.S. in electrical engineering at M.I.T. JAY FLEMING is doing the same at Cornell. DAN OBERST was at M.I.T. in linguistics for a short time but is now with the Teaching Corps in San Jose, Calif. LARRY MOSER met a girl in Washington, D.C., while on active duty with the National Guard and will be married this winter.

I missed the BILL SORRELL-Ruth Dennis (SMC '70) wedding, July 3, but FRED NACHTWEY made a full report. Father Bartell said Mass to the accompaniment of four old Moreau musicians, including BILL WOLFE. Guests included JOHN ZIMMERMAN, now at Wisconsin Law School, and his roommate, JIM MURPHY, who is studying reproduction biology and expects to receive his master's next summer. MIKE MORRISSEY now lives with a bachelor professor in Madison and teaches four hours a week. In the fall he will fly to Europe to visit sisters in Spain and France. He expects to return for the national bicentennial celebration in 1976. RICK MORAN is in the Tufts graduate English program. He will teach two courses in the fall. DENNY HAND is now sweating in the Gary steel mills. In September he will enter the seminary either in Boston or Rome. KELLY KNAUER sent greetings from Europe and reported he will resume teaching in New York this fall. JOHN WALL also will teach again in St. Louis.

Now for some news of those underprivileged souls who did not live in Alumni. Some I didn't meet at ND but I have enjoyed looking them up in the yearbook. So might you.

Four men are back in South Bend. NEWT UNDERWOOD is in bio-engineering, ELMER J. KUHN III in structural analysis, BOB MCGREGOR in environmental control and BOB MITSCH is in electrical engineering. He married Bernadette Volpe (SMC '71) in June.

JOHN and Marie COUGHLIN became parents on April 19. They and their son, Michael, are now in Middletown, Conn.

DAVE DEWAN and wife, Marsha (SMC '70) are in Houston where he is a chemist and she is a teacher. DAN McELROY is selling coast to coast for a grain products company. JOE COSTORE wrote from the Bronx where he is a securities analyst for Stone and Webster. He wants JOHN (Fuzzy) DWYER to write him at 334 E. 239th St. in the Bronx.

RUSSELL BYRNE and JOHN HENNESSEY are trying to become sawbones at Virginia. BOB CABAJ and Harvard get along well, too. CHARLES (Eagle) PATTERSON, after a year of graduate work in geology at Nevada, will return to ND in the fall to work for an MBA.

RUSTY WEITZEL finally graduated in August and now works in St. Joseph, Mich. I hope he patronizes my cousin's pizza parlor there, Petrone's Patio. PHIL RICE just finished his National Guard active duty and will enter Marquette Law School. PHIL EGAN works for All-State in White Plains, N.Y.

Among the more adventurous of our class is RICK LIBOWITZ. Perhaps you read his article in a recent ALUMNI about his studies in Israel. He returned to the States in July and may attend Temple in the fall. This according to RICK McDONOUGH, whose fame is spreading up and down the Jersey shore. Also in the National Guard, Rick is very active in the communication business. After six weeks at Lackland AFB, he wrote for the McGuire AFB newspaper for the rest of basic training. This was followed by six months of radio news and now he's a disc jockey from 3 to 8 p.m. daily for WOBFM, Toms River, N.J. Give him a listen.

MIKE LAVELLE is back home working for an MBA at Ohio State. Another MBA candidate is BILL McCAHILL at Hofstra while working at the Chase Manhattan Bank in New York. GARY GLEASON was married in June to the former Sue Bracco (SMC '70) and is working for the Metropolitan Transit Authority in New York.

Prospective lawyers from our class include DICK WHITE at San Francisco, BILL BROWN at Boston College, PAT ZIKA and NICK SHIRALLI at Indiana. Nick spent the summer with a community legal clinic in Denver. JOHN MICHA and Atlanta are agreeing, but I wonder if GREG GICZI and Norfolk and the Navy Reserve are as happy.

SERGIO BAEZA is now with the Economics Institute at the Catholic U. in Santiago, Chile. He may pursue doctoral studies in 1972 in America or France.

I received a very nice letter from MIKE McALEER. He wrote, "After graduation last year the memory of ND was jolted out of my mind by the Navy. Those stimulating days are well remembered now. I am in Long Beach, Calif., in an apartment with JACK and WILL PIERCE. Jack is assigned to the U.S.S. Juneau LPD-10 and Will is doing fine also. Since Jack and I have arrived back in the States from seven-month tours in the Western Pacific we have had several letters from CHRIS SERVANT. Chris is in great shape and as always his own exuberant self."

Mike also mentioned the death of TIM MACCARRY on March 18. His influence at ND will always be warmly remembered. When many of us were very timid about our relation to the war and the military in general, he had the courage and good sense to speak out. He was a gentle man, full of love for his fellow man. It is with sorrow that I note his death.

This wraps up my news for the month, but I'll be back with you next issue. Thanks go to all of you who have written. If you are ever in St. Louis, stop by or give me a call.

'71 MAIL CALL

Now that I've left South Bend I have to rely on what I hear through the mail for this column. This summer at school I could always count on picking up bits of information from people passing through. In late July I ran into BOB BRAMLETTE who stopped by the campus on his way home from summer camp. He was due to be commissioned shortly. About that same time ED DAVEY was leaving for Army Reserve training at Ft. Dix, N.J. That's not too far from home for him.

On the job scene, CASEY SCHWEINFEST works for Avis and they keep him travelling. Last I heard, he was in Miami. PAT O'NEILL now works for the Internal Revenue Service in Chicago. PAT LENEHAN works in a liquor store in Cleveland. Both Pats have been deluged with requests for friendly considerations.

STEVE PRICE is going to Zambia to teach in a Jesuit school there. MIKE SHAUGHNESSEY spent most of the summer travelling around the country. "Shag" spent a lot of his time going to weddings. One was TIM CONNER's wedding to Terri Gebhardt. Also in attendance were RON WALRO, RON ZABOROWSKI, GREG SMITH and TIM ROST. Afterwards Tim Rost returned to ND to continue work on his master's in Chem. Engineering. MARK ZIMMERMAN made it up from Athens, Ga., for JACK SHAEFER's wedding in Detroit. Jack married Cathy Higgins of Warren, Mich., and M.S.U. Best of luck to them and to all the couples who were married this summer.

Right now I am at the Navy's Nuclear Power School along with GENE SULLIVAN and CLYDE McFARLAND. Note that I have a new address for the next six months. I hope some of you will get the chance to write or stop in and see me. Until then, peace.

'71 MBA TIME LAG

In case you're wondering, there is a lag of about five weeks between the time I mail the column in to the Alumni Office and the time you receive the ALUMNUS issue. Anyone wishing to notify the Alumni Office of a change of address can send the address to me and I will forward it. TODD and Mary HELMEKE are now at 2925 Drew Ave. South, Minneapolis, 55416, and extend an invitation to any of the class who might be in the area to stop in. Todd says that MIKE GREENE and TERRY WALTZ both have been given a three-month option by Uncle Sam. Same is true for LES LARSEN. It is my understanding that Les will be assigned to a telephone booth just outside the Pentagon, and will also be on temporary assignment with Perry Wilson of the Daily Planet!! SOCKETS VAUGHAN and JOHN HAL-LORAN stopped by the house! Sockets will start with Arthur Andersen on July 17, and John will be off to London in September to study — as will FRANK WOELFLING. TERRY and Judy BLAIR also were over. He's off to Ohio State in September to get his Ph.D. in marketing. The Imparatos joined us for dinner at the Diamond Harbor Inn, and the ladies both wanted to know if they'll have to wait a year for a return visit. This will be the last issue you'll receive before the USC game on Oct. 23; so we'll look forward to seeing you that evening at 1955 Trent Way — Tel. 291-3051. Let's hear from the rest of you with some real news or you'll have to keep putting up with my corn.

LAW

Dean Shaffer's textbook, "Handbook for Planning and Drafting Wills and Trusts," will be published by Foundation Press on its spring 1972 list. Tom is also writing the first chapter in the new Indiana Trust Manual, a practice text on the new Indiana Trust Code. The Indiana Continuing Legal Education Fund is publishing the new book and Dean Tom will be a panelist on two of its institutes. Tom is also a member of the commission which drafted the Code.

Dean Shaffer has also been appointed to the faculty for the National Trust School at Northwestern University, which was held Aug. 19 through 21, and to the faculty for the Estate Planning Institute at the University of Miami to be held Jan. 2 through 7, 1972. Dean Shaffer has also authored the following recent Law Review articles: "Fifty Estates in Elkhart County res gestae 1969, 22 through 24"; "The Psychological Autopsy in Judicial Opinions under Section 2035," Loyola University of Los Angeles Law Review, Vol. 3, 1970; "Experience-based Teaching Methods in Legal Counseling," Cleveland State Law Review, Vol. 19, 1970 (with R. T. Grismer)

Professor Jack Broderick (the Chief) was co-director of the 19th Annual Union Management Conference held at St.

Mary's College on July 11. The conference was attended by approximately 500 representatives of management and unions and was sponsored by the Department of Economics and the Law School. Second-year law students Dennis Curran, Jim Farrell, Ed Farrell, Marilyn Maledon, Dick Reinthaler, Mike Tighe and Ron Zadora assisted Professor Broderick in conducting the conference.

Professor Frank Beytagh has written a book review of Professors Bickel's and Curland's recent books on the Warren Court which will be published this fall in the Vanderbilt Law Review. Professor Beytagh is also working as a consultant to the Administrative Conference of the United States regarding problems relating to judicial review in selective service cases. Frank will also be vice president of his ND undergraduate class of 1956 for the next five years. Professor Frank also demonstrated his continued prowess in golf by winning the Law School tournament for the second time in a row this past spring.

Speaking of golf — Miss Carmen Piasecki, '73L, recently captured the South Bend Municipal Women's Golf Tournament crown as well as the Indiana Women's Golf Championship at Fort Wayne during the last month.

Anticipated first-year enrollees still stands at approximately 157. A first-year three-day orientation program commenced Aug. 29.

HISTORY

You thousand of ecstatic readers of this column are once more reminded that your ex-classmates would like to hear from, or at least about, you. To assure the latter you need only to write to me. I received a long, interesting letter from RICHARD MEISTER. He taught for four years at Xavier after leaving ND and has been at the U. of Michigan at Flint for the past two years. Richard has a wife and three children now. He has been exceptionally busy at Flint doing research and writing as well as attempting to establish oral history and urban history projects. He delivered a paper at the 1969 convention of the Assn. for the Study of Negro Life & History, will give another at the Duquesne History Forum this fall, and is slated to comment on still another at the AHA convention next winter. In a few months Heath & Co. will publish "The Black Ghetto: Promised Land or Colony?" which Dick has edited for the Problems in American Civilization series. Congratulations on all counts!

Sister MARY JEAN FRANCIS BOES S.N.D. who has been teaching at St. Wendelin high school in Fostoria, Ohio, writes that she will soon leave the U.S. to begin missionary work in New Guinea. She would appreciate letters (Notre Dame Academy Kumdi, Mt. Hagen, P.O. Box 164, Western Highlands Territory of New Guinea). Brother RICHARD SITAR, back from research in Europe, will teach at Holy Cross Junior College in South Bend next year. In June I had a nice visit with Brother WILBERT LEVELING, formerly of St. Joseph High School in South Bend who is now teaching at Holy Cross High School, River Grove, Ill. RALPH WEBER of Marquette and wife Rosemarie are the proud parents of a baby boy, their eighth child. Ralph now appears on Zero Population Growth's "Ten Most Wanted" list. JAMES O'NEILL, formerly of the N.D. History faculty, has resigned as director of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library at Hyde Park, N.Y., to take a position in the National Archives in Washington. REV. JUAN FLOREZ, O.F.M. Cap., an Air Force chaplain for the past two years, is back from Vietnam and is currently stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Rev. THOMAS E. BLANTZ, C.S.C., has won the Solon J. Buck Award for the best article to appear in 1970 in Minnesota History. The article was entitled "Fr. Haas and the Minneapolis Teachers' Strike of 1934." Despite his multiple duties as University Archivist and vice president for student affairs Fr. Blantz still finds time to offer a course in the History Department.

Each year at the History Teachers Conference (held this year July 10) I have an opportunity to renew acquaintances with many friends and alumni from years past. This year the conference was attended by Sister ANNELLA GARLAND, O.P., of St. Clement High School in Centerline, Mich. Sr. Annela is current president of the History Teachers Assn. Also on hand were ROBERT CLEMENTS of Central High School in South Bend, the current secretary-treasurer for the association; Rev.

JOSEPH C. STROOT, principal of Notre Dame High School in Niles, Ill., and past president of the association; Sister AMATA CANNON, H.M., of Central Catholic High School in Canton, Ohio; Brother JOSEPH CERNICK of St. Joseph High School in South Bend; and GILBERT CIPRIANO of LaSalle High School in South Bend. One of the major addresses at the conference, a most interesting account of a particularly complex Indian massacre, was given by PHILIP GLEASON.

SPORTS SECTION — When the summer softball league began play History prospects did not appear bright. Gone from our sensational, undefeated, pennant-winning spring squad was the peerless glove man JOHN HIGHBARGER and such muscular sluggers as EDWARD GRODE, CARL SCHOTT, and LESLIE RUDNYANZSKY. However, we formed an entente cordiale with the progressive wing of Sociology and offered asylum to worthy displaced persons from both the ND and St. Mary's campuses. This athletic popular front, masterfully directed by skipper RICHARD ELMORE (the Leo Durocher of Cartier Field), proved semi-irresistible on offense and intrepid on defense. We slaughtered 8 opponents, and were edged out by only 2, a particularly fine record considering that we were forced to begin the season under the sign of Cancer.

PHYSICS

For a starter this time, here are some local department and college news items. Dr. Darwin J. Mead, Associate Professor of Physics, has been named assistant dean of the College of Science by Dr. Bernard Waldman, Dean of the College. You will recall that for a good many years Darwin has been introducing our freshman physics intents to the mysteries and beauties of physics. His work in this assignment has been outstanding, and he received the Thomas P. Madden award in 1968 for excellence in teaching freshmen. He has also served in recent years as a counselor in the Freshman Year of Studies Program. An important part of his new duties will be the supervision of all of the undergraduate students in the College of Science. Fortunately for the department, Darwin will continue to teach our freshman physics intents.

The Department of Physics conducted two NSF-sponsored institutes during the 1971 Summer Session. One of these, under the direction of Dr. James T. Cushing, was for college teachers. The other, under the direction of your columnist, was for high school teachers. The total enrollment in the two institutes was about 72 teachers.

Next, your columnist wishes to thank HANK PRASK for a nice long letter containing news about CHARLEY DICK, TED MADEY, FRANK SCHIMA and SAM TREVINO. Hank and Sam are still affiliated with Picatinny Arsenal, but are now carrying out their lattice dynamics studies via neutron scattering with the NBS Reactor. Hank reports that the unofficial Notre Dame Club referred to in an earlier column is really a "Gourmet Club," the club members being Charley and Vivian Dick, Ted and Jane Madey, Frank and Joanne Schima, Sam and Julie Trevino, and Hank and Judy Prask. Membership requirements (for the husbands) appear to be an ND Ph.D. degree in physics and employment at NBS. The club sounds like a great organization, and this information should be very useful to all of you grads when you make your next trip to the D.C. area. To assist you, here are some further important items of information.

Hank and Judy Prask live at 18901 Bluewillow Lane, Gaithersburg, Md. 20760. (See column for June-1971 issue for further information on Hank.)

CHARLES E. DICK '63 (nuclear physics), wife Vivian, and (as of April 1968) two children, Timothy and Victoria, live at 14000 Manorvale Rd., Rockville, Md. 20853. Charlie's NBS address is National Bureau of Standards, C215-Bldg. 245, Washington, D.C. 20234. His occupational specialties and interests are accelerator technology, electron scattering, and X-ray production.

THEODORE E. MADEY '63 (physical electronics) is with the Surface Chemistry Section of NBS., and FRANCIS J. SCHIMA '64 (nuclear spectroscopy) is with the Radioactivity Section of NBS. Since neither Ted nor Frank has yet checked in, I am unable to provide you with home addresses and other vital information.

The editor says that's all.

ATLANTA

By now most of us have learned of the tragedy which befell the family of PAUL F. LOMBARDI '60 on July 20, when Paul's wife, Janet, and his two children, David and Lisa, were killed in an automobile accident. All the members of the ND Club of Atlanta join together in expressing to Paul our sympathy and prayers.

At the request of the club, five Masses will be offered at the Monastery of the Holy Ghost in Conyers, Ga., for Janet, David and Lisa.

Janet was a graduate of St. Mary's College, Notre Dame. The St. Mary's Alumnae Club asked that as many ND alumni as possible attend a Mass for Janet, David and Lisa at Our Lady of Assumption Church on July 29.

BOSTON

The trip to Miami is scheduled for the weekend of Oct. 8-11. The Garden City Travel Service is in charge of mailing applications and organizing the program. So we would appreciate it if our members would react and make a decision soon.

The freshman sendoff took place Sept. 1 at the Naval Officers Club, Boston, under the chairmanship of ART MURPHY '59. All area freshmen from Notre Dame and St. Mary's were invited.

JACK KARLE '56 is organizing the September sports night at the McKeon Post, Dorchester, Mass., where last year's football highlights will be shown along with the Cotton Bowl game.

David A. Fay '60

CINCINNATI

The Cincinnati Club held its annual golf outing at Hyde Park Country Club July 28. BOB McCAFFERTY '43 took low gross honors, while Howard Rohan captured low net honors. Judge Raymond Shannon was guest speaker following a buffet dinner. A special thanks goes to PAUL NIKLAS '59 who did a fine job planning this successful event.

The annual freshman picnic was set for August 9, under the capable leadership of PAUL KELLEY '54 and TOM HOCK '69 at Mt. Airy Forest to welcome all incoming freshmen and to give them some insight to ND.

Tim Schilling '69

COLUMBUS & CENTRAL OHIO

The first order of business is to announce the appointment of TOM GERLACHER '64 as our new president for the remainder of the '71-72 year. Tom was appointed by the board of directors and officers to fill out the term of ERNIE KLETZLY '57 who is leaving our area. Many thanks to Ernie for his able leadership, and good luck in his new job. For Tom, congratulations and good luck.

On July 30, the club convened at Scioto Downs race track to try its Irish luck against the trotters. DON ROTHERMICH

ANGEL—While this man may not look much like your idea of an angel, the San Diego ND Club has given him their Guardian Angel Award. He's James L. Kinnane '57, regional development director for the University of Notre Dame. Jim was cited at the annual UND Night dinner for his encouragement and advice to club organizers.

'63 and Gerlach are to be congratulated for a fine evening. A tip for next year's track meeting: follow Rothermich. Don tried to clean out the track betting on No. 4 and almost succeeded! Now we know why he organizes this affair.

Next up—the "almost" annual picnic. Reports on bruises next issue.

DALLAS

The club is proud of the special award presented to it by the directors of the Alumni Association for its "Excellence in preparation for participation in Cotton Bowl activities the last two years." Although many club members helped with the work necessary for these two events, there were a few men (and their wives) who had to carry the burden of responsibility to see that the job got done right. These men and their wives are: Kay and ED FLEMMING '63; Katie and JOHN RONAN '56; Marilyn and LARRY BEDFORD '57; Ann and CHICK MARTIN '59; Pat and JOE BRASSARD '53; BOB WILLIAMS '59; and Evonne and HUGH BRAY '54. The club would also like to extend a sincere "thank you" to all committee chairmen and other hard workers for their time and efforts.

The home of Larry Bedford, president, was the scene of a meeting July 25 between ND and SMC club officers to discuss the eventual merger of the two local organizations. St. Mary's was represented by Mrs. Jeannette F. Lynch (wife of MICHAEL LYNCH '63), Miss Gladys Smith, and Mrs. Mary Ellen Malone (wife of BERNARD P. MALONE '63L). In addition to Larry, the following members were also present: Joe Brassard, Chick Martin, John Ronan, JOHN BRADLEY '64, and JERRY BRADLEY '64. The consensus of opinion at the meeting was that there are many aspects of the coming union of the clubs that will be beneficial to both groups. Currently all concerned are waiting for additional guidelines from University officials.

DETROIT

Perfect weather on June 16 set the stage for Detroit's annual golf outing. Through the generous sponsorship of ERNEST GARGARO '33, the club was able to tee off at one of Michigan's finest courses, the Detroit Golf Club. The 125 Alumni and guests who spent the afternoon golfing were joined by 35 more alumni for dinner to hear Football Coaches Tom Pagna and Paul Shoults talk on this year's Fighting Irish. This very successful program was chaired by RAY BONANNO '63 with the assistance of ERNEST GARGARO JR. '69, JOHN DESMOND '67, DENNY STEROSKY '62 and SEAN SCHAEFFNER '62. RICHARD WHITING '45 won the trophy for the best round of the day with a 76 on the north course.

FAIRFIELD COUNTY

One hundred and twenty-five members, their wives and friends gathered on May 14 for dinner and dancing at the Shorehaven Country Club in Norwalk, Conn., to celebrate UND Night. ROY JANN '48 was in charge of the excellent arrangement ably assisted by BOB DEVINE '36. JIM POWERS '52 was M.C. for the happy occasion.

The highlight of the evening was honoring DENNIS J. P. O'NEIL '51 as ND Man of the Year for the Fairfield County Club. Denny was a previous president of the club and a former president of the Cleveland Alumni Club.

New officers named for the year are PETER M. HEARDEN '37, president; ROBERT SINGEWALD '64, vice president; WILLIAM S. VALUS '55, secretary; and JEROME WHALEN '64, treasurer. Outgoing President G. SANSFIELD FORD '55 is chairman of the club board of directors.

The club is anxious to see many younger alumni in the area more active. Bob Singewald '64, vice president, and Tom Siff will head up the membership committee for the year.

FORT LAUDERDALE

The ND Club of Fort Lauderdale has kicked off the new season with big plans for many activities. The first of these was the Freshman Sendoff Dinner August 31 at the Governors Club, Fort Lauderdale, where the class of '75 from Broward County area was honored.

The next and the biggest since ND beat Texas will be the Miami game Oct. 9 in the Orange Bowl. There was a terrific response to the first mailing for tickets and plans are under way to provide bus transportation to and from the game. A gala cocktail party with evening meal is being planned before the game with the buses leaving after all are in the victory spirit.

Election of officers took place in August with the following assuming the duties for the coming year: JOHN B. KENNA '62, president; JON KRUPNICK '65, vice president; RICHARD STRITTER '64, secretary; PAUL A. GORE '65, treasurer.

The second event of the club year was the golf outing held at the Country Club of Indianapolis on July 22 with guests Wally Moore, ND assistant football coach and Dick DiBiasi, ND assistant basketball coach. Wally delivered a talk, Knute Rockne-style, about the upcoming football season. He said the current rumor is 11-0 in '71 for ND. Dick discussed the new basketball coaching team at ND and said that recruitment is well under way. Dick asked for help in recruiting in the Indianapolis area. Other guests included ND Golf Coach FATHER CLARENCE R. DURBIN CSC, former Rector FATHER CHARLES M. CAREY CSC and former Purdue Ticket Manager JOE DIENHART '26. The activities of the entire day including the smorgasbord in the evening was run very smoothly by the chairman of the event, LEO BARNHORST '49. The long drive of the day on the 8th hole was a 305-yarder by JAY HARMON '70, whereas the closest drive off the 6th tee was JIM O'HARA '51, a distance of four feet to the hole. BOB BOWERS '60 was the club member with the low gross, a 76, and, as a result, won the three main trophies of the tournament in addition to a gift certificate. Steve Mayhew, a guest, tied with Bob for the low gross. Third, with a 77, was Leo Barnhorst with 4th and 5th spots being awarded to Howard Barnhorst and BILL FOX, respectively. The bent shaft award went to JOHN QUINN '30. The winner of the low net handicap for a club member was AL OBERGFELL '49 who won the Fighting Irish wall clock.

The club Friday football luncheons are being held again this year at the Murat Shrine Club at 510 N. New Jersey. The luncheons start at 11:45 and are over by 1:15. The luncheons are being held on Sept. 17, Sept. 24, Oct. 1, Oct. 22 and Nov. 12. Excellent speakers have been lined up for the luncheons and, hopefully, we will have a taped phone conversation with Ara at every luncheon. The luncheon is a good way to wind up the week and prepare for the Saturday game as well as conduct transactions for game tickets. Ticket transactions may also be conducted through F. QUINN via his office or home phone.

Club dues may be forwarded to the Club office at 5715 N. Pennsylvania. In addition, you might invite one or two of your friends to become associate members in the club. Many people would love to join our club if asked.

KENTUCKY

August was marked by two wonderful happenings. On Aug. 3 our annual outing was held at Midland Trail Golf Club. Although it was a rainy day, the golfers were not held back and scores were fairly good. The dinner was tremendous as usual and plenty of beer was drunk. What really marked this outing was the fact that for the first time the Club did not go in the red. Special thanks for this go to our chairman, LEO REHERMAN, who was assisted by two shapely young ladies.

The second happening was the arrival of a new baby girl (Erin Burke Casper) at my house on Aug. 5.

Aug. 14 was the Orphans' Picnic. Our thanks to Chairman JOHN BRENZEL and Student Club President Tim Lawson for making this a successful outing. Thanks also to the many people who helped man the booth.

Remember Oct. 16 is our next general business meeting. DON MOSER assures me this will be more of an old-timers' film festival than formal meeting. He has arranged to have films of all the great ND teams of the past to be continually shown at this meeting. So set this date aside now. More details will be coming later.

Coming events and chairmen: Business Meeting, Oct. 6, Don Moser; Mass-Banquet, Dec. 8, TOM HELRINGER; Woman of the Year Award, Dec. 8, JOE DONALDSON; Notre Dame-Kentucky Basketball Game, Dec. 28, and Business Meeting, Jan. 18, Don Moser.

Your officers and board of directors held a freshman sendoff meeting Aug. 25 at the Howard Johnson's Inn on Shelbyville Road. Student President Tim Lawson gave a brief resume of life at ND and the officers and directors answered all questions.

LANSING

Approximately sixty club members and guests attended the annual summer potluck picnic at the home of Dr. JERRY CORDES. This function has become the club's most successful annual social function, thanks mostly to the gracious hospitality of Jerry and Rosa Cordes.

BRUCE PAPESH was project chairman for the annual fall drawing of tickets to the Michigan State game. Proceeds from the event are partly used to underwrite the club's CLEMENT E. MC FARLANE scholarship fund at the University.

MAINE

The ND Alumni Association of Maine held its formal annual meeting at the home of JOSEPH D. DOYLE '42 Aug. 17. Among those attending were ANTHONY SILVA '56, Joseph D. Doyle, EUGENE G. GEIGER '71, RAY GEIGER '32, J. PAUL SCULLY '41, JESS DeLOIS '42, NORMAND LAURENDEAU '66. It happened to be a rather bad evening and a number had to beg off at the last minute.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: JOHN B. BELIVEAU '59, who in addition to being one of our leading legal eagles is the Androscoggin County district attorney, was elected president. Vice president elected was VINCENT ALLEN '65, who is currently with Sylvania Corporation in North Windham, Maine.

Reelected to the treasurer's spot was DANA DEVOE '59, and reelected secretary was your correspondent RAY GEIGER '32.

It was decided to have several meetings at various homes to listen in on games and for the camaraderie such meetings engender. Apropos of our scholarship fund, it was decided to allot $250 to each of three boys who are now attending the University—Joseph DeLois, Richard McLoy and Kevin Muse. Our little scholarship fund has been able to assist nine boys in the last 12 years and very gratifyingly we report all the outstanding monies up to the most recent graduates have been repaid at no interest. We are quite pleased that our little club in Maine is able to sustain a very active scholarship program.

Plans are being made to have a dance to which both alumni and students will be invited around the Christmas holidays and further word on this will be announced shortly.

McHENRY COUNTY

The ND Club of McHenry County honored LEO J. POWERS '25, past president, as its ND Man of the Year at the annual Universal ND Night dinner on June 24, in Crystal Lake, Ill.

The club also elected two new directors and a new slate of officers for the coming year. Elected as officers were JOHN CORRIGAN '35, Crystal Lake, as president; CLAIR LAMBERT '43, Crystal Lake, as vice president; and MIKE UNGVARSKY '65, as secretary-treasurer. Elected as directors were WALTER TURNER '51 and Ungvarsky.

Coach GEORGE KELLY, ND assistant football coach, delivered a fine speech.

Powers, a resident of Crystal Lake, Ill., and a graduate of the ND Law School, was honored for his many outstanding contributions as past president of the ND Club of McHenry County.

Ungvarsky, chairman for the dinner, was assisted by JOHN NORSO '50, JOHN CORRIGAN, DON FREUND '55 and JOE CONERTY '44.

MICHIGAN CITY-LA PORTE

The ND Club of Michigan City and La Porte held its annual Irish Greens Golf Outing on July 26 at the Long Beach Country Club. The club had hoped to have FRANK LEAHY attend, but since he was recuperating, his son, FRANK LEAHY JR. filled in. The outing itself was a huge success and with 38 members and guests playing golf and 50 enjoying the evening program. The highlight of the dinner was the "Fighting Irish Coffee" served afterwards. Honored guests for the outing were Dean of Students Father JAMES RIEHLE CSC and Coach Tom Pagna. They entertained all the members and also brought with them the '71 Cotton Bowl film. ROBERT McBRIDE, former coach under Frank Leahy, was the toastmaster and distinguished members of the club in attendance included Mayor CONRAD KOMINIAREK. Michigan City has always been a spirited ND town and this was once again proved by the generous donations of the local industries which greatly contributed to the success of the outing.

The Club has prospered under the administration of President ROBERT LAKE and the "Irish Greens '71" was just one of the many events planned for the members.

NEW HAVEN

The University of Notre Dame Alumni Club of Greater New Haven has recently reorganized with the election of a new slate of officers and plans for varied activities during the coming year.

First activity for the group will be a "Freshman Send-Off" pool party honoring eight area students who will be leaving to enter ND as members of the Class of 1975. This event, for the second consecutive year at the Pellegrino residence, 4481 Whitney Avenue, Hamden, was scheduled for Aug. 27. Alumni, undergraduates, wives, parents and friends were all invited to attend.

Other events have been scheduled as follows: Oct. 2—a smoker highlighted by the live telecast of the ND-Michigan State football game; Dec. 5—Communion Breakfast; Jan. 15—Dance; April 29—Universal ND Night Dinner. Times and places will be set soon for these events and club members will be notified via mail.

New officers include the following: President, JAMES PINO '59, 38 Meadowbrook Road, West Haven; vice president, JACK DOLAN '59, 39 Pleasant Drive, Cheshire; secretary, WALTER MARUT '49, 454 Oak Avenue, Cheshire; treasurer, Attorney JOSEPH PELLEGRINO '58, 23 Marion Drive, North Haven; and parents' representative, WILLIAM HARTIGAN, Crestwood Road, Bethany.

Any Notre Dame alumnus living in the area who may have either recently moved here or who is not on the current mailing list is urged to contact one of the above men to make membership arrangements.

PEORIA

The ND Club of Peoria met the merger of ND and St. Mary's head on by having its first "non-stag" meeting on July 15. Not only were women invited, but they were encouraged to come, and were greeted enthusiastically. To start the evening off in a typical ND fashion, we saw the football highlights of 1970, after which JOHN MACHECA, regional director for ND filled us all in on changes to come with the new ND-SMC relationship. The highlight of the evening came with the election of new officers. JOHN R. PUSEY '65, was chosen president; JACK REVORD '58, vice president; DOUGLAS J. CASSIDY '67, treasurer. And for the first time the club decided to add a feminine touch by naming MARY LOU (Mrs. Michael F. '67) BARTLEY SMC '69 as secretary. Many thanks to outgoing president, JERRY HIGGINS '56, and the other officers for a job well done!

PITTSBURGH

We had a full house for the meeting on May 27 at the Rosa-Villa restaurant on the North Side to see the 1971 Cotton Bowl films. It was great to see a rerun of that outstanding Irish victory. Present at the meeting was one of the stars of the show, Jim Bulger '73. Also shown was the excellent NBC "First Tuesday" television show on ND. Particularly gratifying in the large turnout was the wide distribution in the attendance with many alumni of recent years in the group.

The results of the yearly elections were announced that night. The new officers are: BILL GOMPERS '48, president; NEIL SEAMAN '59, vice president; PETE SHEPTAK '59, treasurer; and JOHN RYAN '65, secretary. GEORGE FARRELL '53, DAN DILLON '48, MIKE CONNOR '63 and '66, JIM SMITH '53; and BILL DADDIO '69, were elected to the executive board, joining MIKE JOYCE '64, JOHN MASTRANGELO '47, FRITZ WILSON SR. '28 and JOE GASPERELLA '50. Completing a successful term of office were JIM SMITH '53, president; Gompers, vice president; Dillon, treasurer; and Seaman, secretary.

ROME

As per the previous issue, we deem it useful to repeat our "historic" Roman announcement: The ND Hospitality Center, for the past 11 years, located at 82 Largo Brancaccio, will move to the following address in collaboration with Gus Rossi's "Scoglio Di Friso Restaurant" which will move and enlarge at 13 Via Parigi, rear of Grand Hotel. The ND rendezvous will occupy a lounge on a mezzanine level with direct access to Gus's bar and dining facilities. The move will be effected sometime, hopefully, in the late fall. In the nonce, ND will continue to host at the present "Scoglio" address: 256 Via Merulana, near St. Mary Major Basilica. Telephone us at: 734.619.

In our excitement in making the foregoing announcement last issue, we neglected to report our joy in helping to host the ND Glee Club which gave an excellent concert in Rome in early June at the American parish here, Santa Susanna. We have the entire concert on tape and will proceed to send it to the Glee Club's archives as historical evidence on the Club's very first Roman concert. Added first: It was the first time in Roman history and in the ancient history of the Church of Santa Susanna that "McNamara's Band" was sung lustily from the sanctuary!

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY

President DAN O'BRIEN, at the last Board meeting, discussed unification between St. Mary's and ND. He is working closely with Martha Michaud, president of the St. Mary's Club.

Mrs. Dianne Killilea, wife of BILL KILLILEA '60, is the new permanent recording secretary of the club.

DENNY TROESTER '57 is the chairman of the 1971 football banquet. This year's varsity team will be honored on Dec. 2 at the A. & C.C.

Dues notices for the year will soon be mailed by treasurer NORM COOK '57. All area alumni are asked to respond immediately.

In September, the continuing education seminar on abortion, "Who Shall Live and Who Decides?" will be provided for the club.

SAN DIEGO

Our club has been selected by the directors of the Alumni Association as winners of the "Outstanding Club" award for effective organization and involvement in community activities. San Diego was cited for "outstanding and sustained efforts which produced effective club organization, efficient club administration and diverse club programming." The award aptly indicates the level of effort and dedication expended by our 1970-71 club officers, TIM HINCHEY '61, DICK HESSLING '49, TONY MALONEY '43, DOUG GIMBER '61 and BRUCE LANCASTER '54—well done. In addition the club has been advanced to class "B" category (200-750 members) due to an increase of alumni in San Diego. The new president, Doug Gimber, has his work cut out for him.

The second event of the new year was a family beach party held on Silver Strand beach south of Coronado. It was well attended and most enjoyable, thanks to the energies and planning of MIKE CAREN '61.

Committee chairmen are completing plans for this year's activities and solicit your participation. RUBEN CARRIEDO '65, schools committee, continues his work with local secondary schools. TOM HENNESSY '67, student affairs, will be working to assist San Diego students currently attending ND. BOB LONERGAN '43, athletic recruiting, will be searching for outstanding high school athletes for Moose Krause to consider. Volunteers?

Congratulations to JOHN L'ESTRANGE '64 who recently passed his bar exam and will be entering private practice in San Diego.

SPOKANE

Assistant Football Coach BRIAN BOULAC and new students Tom Laney and Frank Tombari were guests of the club at an indoor steak fry on July 10. Brian showed the Cotton Bowl Highlights film and discussed the behind-the-scenes activity which was required to overcome the effect of the Southern California game on the team members and make them the Cotton Bowl winners. DICK ST. JOHN '56 was in charge of arrangements for the affair which was well attended.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

The new, integrated ND-SMC had its effect on the club's monthly luncheon in July. JIM COONEY '59, MIKE JORDAN '68 and TIM HUGHES '61, from the Alumni Office, were joined by Diane Davis, assistant director of the alumni for St. Mary's, to answer the members' questions about the merger. In attendance were approximately 25 Notre Dammers and eight St. Mary's graduates. Included was Mrs. Thomas Campbell, the Washington area president of the St. Mary's Alumni Club. The luncheon arrangements were ably handled by RAY RAEDY '62, who achieved a coup in allowing women into the previously all-male Touchdown Club.

The club's successful community action program continued during July with the club serving as host for an activity day, held in the Washington, D.C., Park View Recreation Center, an inner-city park. Chairman BOB BROWN '56 was aided by HARRY DUTKO '54, GAR ISSACO '66, BOB WHITMORE '70, and the club's chaplain, Father JOHN FORD CSC. The members assisted in judging athletic events and the distribution of refreshments.

Plans are now being made for the club's trip to South Bend for the Northwestern game. We will travel by charter jet to South Bend Friday night and stay at the Holiday Inn. Former Washington area residents are encouraged to join us there to renew old acquaintances.

New members are encouraged to contact the club by writing the ND Club of Washington, D.C., 5454 Wisconsin Ave., Suite 750, Chevy Chase, Md. 20015.

Club Happenings

by Michael Jordan, Assistant Director,
ND Alumni Association

This column is my inaugural report printed in the magazine. In the future I will endeavor to highlight interesting and unusual Club activities which are undertaken by so many of our Notre Dame Clubs. Keep reading my news chronicle and sooner or later you are bound to read about your own Club. In order to make sure that I know what your Club may be doing, double check to see that the alumni office is included on the Club mailing list.

In customary style, the temp of Club activity is picking up as the school year gets underway on the campus. More Notre Dame Clubs than ever before contributed to the Freshman Send-Off Program that has been developing strength over the last five years. The start of the football season augurs well for a full schedule of Club activity focused on (you guessed it) the Notre Dame football team.

The various smokers and sports nights which are planned are too numerous to mention. There are several Clubs which plan football trips to both home and away football games. Miami, over the weekend of Oct. 8, seems to be a particularly popular destination for the Clubs along the Eastern Seaboard and in the Southeast part of the country. Television parties are in the planning stages as well in many Club areas in anticipation of a tremendous gridiron battle between Notre Dame and L.S.U. on Nov. 20, a game being televised nationally from Baton Rouge.

Probably the most unusual occurrence to come about this fall will be the appearance of the 35-member Notre Dame freshman football team in Mexico City in a game against the varsity team of the University of Mexico. The Notre Dame Club of Mexico has worked quite hard on this project, and it is scheduled to take place on Oct. 23. The Club managed to secure a sponsor to pay for the expenses of the team (transportation, accommodations, and meals), to contract the largest stadium in Mexico (Estadio Azteca — 105,000 seating capacity) as the site on which the game will be played, and to arrange for national television coverage of the game in Mexico.

Profits from the game will be used to create a scholarship fund for the support of Mexican students enrolled in a course of study at Notre Dame. The fund will be administered by the Club itself.

CALUMET—Six priests from the Calumet, Ind. area now on the faculty at Notre Dame were honored as "ND Men of the Year" at the Club's annual UND Night observance in Highland, Ind. Pictured from left to right are: Rev. Ralph Dunn CSC; Rev. Patrick Maloney CSC; James Brocke, club president; Rev. Jerome Boyle CSC; Rev. Thomas McDonagh CSC; Rev. Robert Ausgen CSC; and Rev. Anthony Molnar, Club chaplain.

Old-Timers' Game

ND LaCrosse Club alumni will do battle with present club members on Oct. 23 at Cartier Field after the ND-Southern Cal football game.

An estimated 25 graduates and former club members will return, according to Jack Tate '66, founder of the club. It is the second year for a student-alumni game. The students downed the old-timers 7-4 last year.

Although La Crosse is officially a spring sport, the club will hold two matches this fall with the U. of Michigan. The games will be held in Ann Arbor on Oct. 10 and at ND on Oct. 17. The team had a 6-4 record last year.

The ND La Crosse club was founded in 1963 and it is estimated that there are about 200 alumni who participated in the sport while undergraduates here.

REPRINTS of the South Bend Tribune front page published on October 19, 1924, are available free of charge upon request from the Alumni Office. On this page is the main portion of the now famous article written by Grantland Rice, recounting the upset victory of the ND team led by the Four Horsemen over Army. If you would like to receive a reprint, simply write a brief note to the Alumni Office, Administration Building, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

Alumni Ask

BOXERS AND DJ'S

Your article "Look What They've Done to My Gym, Ma" (Aug. 1971) omitted reference to one of the old fieldhouse's first cultural uses: the student-operated radio station, WND, then WNDU and finally WSND.

The station occupied quarters next to "Nappy's" boxers providing adventure for DJ's like myself. (Ever try to play a record with an enthusiastic heavyweight skipping rope on the wooden floor next door?) In those days, virtually everything WNDU had—studios right through tech equipment—was handmade by the mad geni in Engineering's EE department. It wasn't until later that the move was made to O'Shaughnessy's slickly professional quarters. — DAVID N. PFAFF '56, 685 Bow Line Dr., Naples, Fla. 33940.

WHAT'S TO REMEMBER?

The legendary "Notre Dame Man" supposedly has everything—including, it now seems, extraordinary longevity.

How else account for your cover photos in the August ALUMNUS, which according to your signed statement were designed "to arouse memories"? The "nostalgic" photos include one from "the late 1880's"; another from the "late 1800's." A third from 1917. And the fourth, 1896. Even assuming that among your readers are men who were in "dipes" back in that early Notre Dame history, those stirred to nostalgia today would have to range in age from about 70 to 95. Isn't this a rather narrow audience for a cover story?

Perhaps I'm overly conscious of the age spread, having graduated myself some 41 years ago. But for the life of me even the latest of your photos—1917—doesn't ring a nostalgic bell. Whose memories, for heaven's sake, are you reviving?

Ah, time, the arch-enemy, is so mischievous. You speak of "the good old days" in terms of Dean Pedtke. Now, that's more like it! Alas, I was gone more than a decade before this distinguished gentleman arrived on the scene. — JOHN W. GIBBONS '30, 1776 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

DOESN'T DIG IT

On page 5 of the June issue, Bill Mitchell '71 expounds his views in which, inter alia, he: (1) Cites and quotes Daniel Berrigan as a responsible and reputable authority on the state of the nation and Notre Dame. Berrigan languishes in an American prison by reason of his conviction by the American judicial system of criminal violation of American laws. His crime was the senseless destruction of official draft records. His other qualifications for American expertise are not readily discernible.

(2) Condemns the blessing of our national flag at the Baccalaureate Mass because, in his view, the flag "stands now for the kind of power that remains unresponsive to the claims for survival and justice of so many citizens who are victims of the war, and of so many victims of a domestic policy of benign neglect," and is now nothing more than "the symbol of blind American Nationalism." The alternative would seem to be the (criminal) burning of the flag at the altar.

(3) Characterizes the prevailing American Nationalism as one which "respects the flag too much and people and justice too little." What people? The loyal and patriotic Notre Dammers who honor the hallowed inscription "For God, Country and Notre Dame" and proudly serve our nation in war and peace? Or would it be that frantic fringe of reformers, protesters, defilers, demonstrators and disrupters who burn draft cards and records and scream for civil disobedience, defy all laws except their own, and advocate such "civil rights" as free abortion, free love and free living—at government expense?

Mr. Mitchell has the absolute and truly American right to have and espouse his views and opinions, and the ALUMNUS has equal rights to publish them. But you can be sure that they are diametrically opposed to those of the vast majority of our alumni. Otherwise we must view our diplomas as mere scraps of paper and ourselves as educational flop-outs.

On behalf of some of the ancient members, let me welcome young Mr. Mitchell to membership in the Alumni Association. Let me console him with the assurance that the maturity which will flow from his contact with the realities and facts of life will ultimately reveal to him that our nation now makes available to all of its citizens the finest and best way of life in the history of mankind; that the problems and shortcomings which he now deplures are not new but have existed in lesser degree for decades; that great improvement and progress toward perfection have been accomplished by his forbears; that he and his contemporaries cannot and will not achieve instant perfection, and most importantly, that his best hope for the achievement of his goals lies within the framework of our system of government and justice, and not in the futile aberrations of Berrigan and Associates.

Let Mr. Mitchell shake down the thunder from the sky, but let him learn the futility of his thesis that "we need to find a new harmony, where our rituals celebrate what is true and do not bless what is not." Let him learn to look through and beyond rituals to the substance of our system of government and justice. Let him remember that the way to victory is to march in the traditions of such Notre Dame greats as Sorin, Corby, Cardinal O'Hara, the Cavanaughs, O'Donnells, Rockne, Manion and countless others whose patriotism is unimpeachable, who loved their country, revered her flag and labored incessantly and effectively within the system to improve the administration of justice and the benefactions of citizenship. In short, let Mr. Mitchell cease and desist from taking himself so damn seriously and arrogating to himself and his associates the role of saviour of civilization. We love you, Bill Mitchell, but we don't dig you! — JAMES P. SWIFT '24, 1807 Ross Ave., Dallas, Tex. 75221.

SPEAK UP FOR FATHER TED

It was with a great feeling of sorrow that I heard Father Hesburgh say on a TV interview (published in the August ALUMNUS) that he receives a bushel basket full of hate mail whenever he takes a stand in support of the Civil Rights Act.

Did we not learn that when a priest received the sacrament of Holy Orders, he received a gift from the Holy Spirit to help him in the awesome responsibility that went with the priesthood?

Certainly ND has not remained static since 1842, or we would still find the log chapel adequate, and the original building in use. Or let us consider how proud we are that Sorin Hall is the first residence hall on a college campus. Was this not risky, to remove boys from the easy surveillance of a dormitory? Could these youngsters be trusted in the solitude of a private room—two to a room? I'm sure that Sorin Hall was built over many objections.

In my case, over 30 years have passed since those secure four years in an insecure world. In retrospect, I would change none of it, but I am hardly proud of the football weekends when we leaned out of the window to whistle at the strange sight of an attractive young lady from St. Mary's or a co-ed from the visiting state university. Is it not more wholesome that our students do not look on their female contemporaries as a sex symbol, but another human of the opposite sex who is undergoing the same experience of seeking an education, thereby hopefully finding truth?

Any parent who is afraid to send his son to Notre Dame should stop questioning the motives of Father Hesburgh and ask himself the question "Why?" and then in all honesty not be shocked at the answer that there exists a generation gap because the parent is out of touch with reality. He is living in the past.

Perhaps I have rambled too much, but, let us hear from the real Notre Dame men—let us find out if it is the silent minority or the silent majority. My feeling is that there is too much silent approval of what Father Ted is trying to do and most certainly has achieved. We have heard enough from those who write the hate mail. Now let us hear from those who really understand what our Church and our beloved Notre Dame tried to teach us. — JOHN J. GRIFFIN, JR. '39, 10 S. Brentwood Blvd., St. Louis, Mo. 63105.

ASSOCIATIONS AND MERGER

The merger of ND and SMC is probably one of the best decisions both schools have made in recent years. The present and future students of both institutions will benefit from the combined use of facilities, faculty and staff.

When considering possible changes in the two Alumni/Alumnae Associations one must recognize not only the vast age span, but also the various attitudes and the variety of reactions. The disadvantages we see in an immediate complete merger of the two Associations prompt us to recommend that they continue to operate as separate, but coordinated organizations. Our limited contacts with alumni/alumnae of different ages indicate that there will be some alienation and rejection and probably further polarization of the different attitudes if a significant change were made at this time.

Those of us who support the merger will not be bothered by any change in the two Associations, but feel that better contact with all alumni/alumnae will be maintained if drastic changes are deferred for the present.

Regardless of this heterogeneity we believe the main concern of all of us today must be the well-being and betterment of both schools. With this in mind we wish to encourage everyone involved to meet and solve each problem (and we know there will be many) as it arises with an openness of mind, and a thought for the future, rather than a nostalgia for the past. Let us all seek guidance from God and Our Lady of Notre Dame and St. Mary's for the mutual benefit of all alumni/alumnae and the present and future students. — Mr. and Mrs. ROBERT G. SANFORD '40, 947 Oakcreek Drive, Dayton, Ohio 45429.

The Frozen Wage at ND

by Richard W. Conklin, Director,
Information Services

Football fans who eat a lot of hot dogs have reason to be happy, but few professors do.

That's one way to indicate the extent to which the wage-price freeze of President Nixon affected the University of Notre Dame—from the price of Stadium wieners, rolled back to 35 cents from a contemplated nickel increase, to the wages of most University teachers and researchers, frozen until the middle of November.

Administrators, most of whom work on a 12-month basis without a contract, and hourly rated University employees were safe because their raises are effective at the start of the new fiscal year July 1. But virtually all of the 750-member faculty came under the ruling because their contract period does not begin until Sept. 1, despite the fact that they had signed contracts the previous spring. Four other categories were exempt from the freeze—those promoted in rank or entering or discontinuing an administrative appointment; those newly hired or appointed; those on 12-month contracts, and those whose salaries were reduced.

Tuition increases, announced in early summer and for which payments had already been made by some, were allowed to stand by the government. There were no increases in room and board this year, so there was no problem to wrestle with there, but at last word the question of an increase in hockey ticket prices was one of many awaiting attention by the University's general counsel, Philip J. Faccenda. Rent increases in Lewis Hall ($30 a year) and Brownson ($50) were cancelled.

Students with jobs paid through the payroll department did not get their 10-cent hourly increase, but those who receive service credits toward tuition did receive increases because tuition remission is viewed as "financial aid" and not "wages."

Even several weeks after the wage-price freeze, many questions remained unclarified by the Federal Government. One thing was clear, though, on campus. Rev. James T. Burtchaell, CSC, provost, promised faculty members that "every legal means" would be taken to try to pay them wages they contracted for, the University budgeted for, but the government froze.

Alumni Speak

Crosses and Coeds

by James D. Cooney, Executive Director, ND Alumni Assoc.

Someone levelled the charge a while back that the crucifixes had been removed from ND classrooms. This prompted your ever-vigilant Alumni Office to make an excursion through O'Shaughnessy Hall recently. A room-by-room inspection (there's a fortune in doorknobs in that place) revealed that 70 per cent of the crucifixes are indeed intact. When quizzed about the missing lot, a maintenance man cited "wear and tear" as the villain. "They hang this audio-video junk all over," he said, "and things are bound to get knocked off the walls." A hall-wide inventory was scheduled shortly, we were assured, with appropriate replacements planned. We must confess a certain sadness in learning the students hadn't been pilfering the items for private devotional purposes. Confident the campus was spared yet another godless conspiracy, we marched back to the Administration Building. The Library loomed on our left, with its cross-dominated mural of Christ, the saints and scholars of the ages . . . 132 feet high and 65 feet wide.

The 1971 football season, Ara's eighth, shapes up as one of the best ever. Alumni interested in urging the team on to bigger and better things a la Western Union should send wires in care of Ara Parseghian, Head Coach, Football Office, Athletic & Convocation Center, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556.

The ABC-TV documentary "The Wishbone Incident" appeared to have a heavy Texas flavor for some. Aside from their 30-game success which certainly earned the Longhorns the spotlight, there's the thought here that Ara's aversion to sideline mikes also contributed. The memory of a North-South Shrine game exhortation in living color lingers on.

Richard (Digger) Phelps (his dad did the digging and Dick got the handle), ND's new basketball coach, knew his first year on the job offered a set of challenges. Lest he misinterpret their extent, Team Captain Doug Gemmell, one of only two returning lettermen, broke his leg in two places this summer, and will in all probability be lost to the squad. Welcome to South Bend, Dick!

In the same vein, ND men and women everywhere owe the Digger's predecessor, John Dee, a hearty thanks. The ND basketball program today is top drawer. John's record was a cool 117-80, one NIT Tournament berth, four NCAA ventures, and Austin Carr. That's big-time basketball any way you look at it. And John Dee brought it to ND. The Dee family deserves every blessing and success back home in Denver.

Perhaps a portent of the year yet unfolded is the new pocket basketball schedule. In contrast to the '70-71 version which featured the inimitable

Carr in the act of a driving, twisting lay-up, this year's schedule presents cheerleader Terri Buck, the photogenic symbol of ND's coed interests. Now entering her senior year, Terri's already captured more attention than most student bodies.

The student word is that unification presents some hidden advantages. ND students report that registration queues were much more amicable this September. Registration was a joint affair with the women of SMC. The Boards of Directors of the Notre Dame and St. Mary's College Alumni/Alumnae Associations will gather in late October to hash out the implications of unification for the Associations, the Clubs, the Classes, the magazines, etc. Individual opinion beforehand is actively sought. Let's hear from you.

A 16-city Alumni Club trek in late summer produced good Alumni reaction to unification, mostly in enthusiastic form. With the faces of ND and SMC changing, nostalgia gave way to a complex kind of realism. As one alumnus put it: "I'm sorry the kids who will come to the new institution won't know the one I treasured, but I'm jealous as hell of every one of them!"

And, as we enter this 129th academic year at Notre Dame, Ind., it seems somehow right and proper that the University named for and dedicated to the Mother of God, has finally opened its doors to the daughters of men.
