

SLC listens to status of blacks

Black Student Affairs Director addresses meeting

by Kurt Heinz
Staff Reporter

The status of Black Students on campus was the dominant concern of Monday's Student Life Council meeting.

Cassell Lawson, director of Black Student Affairs, addressed the meeting and then answered the council's questions along with students Ron Newkirk, Lionel Phillips, and Stan Harris.

Lawson said that he was satisfied with University's improvement in the area but suggested that more should be done.

Noting that the University had adhered to the demand of hiring him, Lawson called for the hiring of more black rectors assistants. Last year there were two black RA's while this year there are three.

Black house plans

Lawson said that the demands for a black house somewhere off-campus are dormant due to the success of the Black Cultural Arts Center. The center is used by the UJAMMA Society, the New Frontier Society, and Black graduate students.

Lawson claimed that the criticism that white students are intimidated by the Black Cultural Arts Center is not valid. He noted that at the last function 25 whites were present out of a crowd of 75.

Lawson also criticized the administration for not consulting black leaders before making administrative appointments.

"The appointment of the Minority Affairs Commissioner seemed to be arbitrary," he said. "Though I do not disagree with the appointment, I feel that some of the black leaders should have been consulted. I would hope that the University would not follow this precedent."

Long range goals

Lawson said that his long range goal was to assure the academic excellence of black students.

He revealed that there was a strong chance that a faculty member would donate $1,000 to help this goal. The money would be used to reward students who improved their grade point averages.

Under the plan, Lawson said, groups of students in each dormitory would register with Lawson's office. Money would go to the group with the most improved average, as well as the student who most improved.

Increased enrollment

When asked in what areas the University could be doing more, Lawson replied that they could be doing more to increase black enrollment. "The national average is 5.6 per cent black students, while Notre Dame has less than 3 per cent. So, I think a lot more could be done here," he said.

Newkirk, Phillips, and Harris generally concurred with Lawson's remarks. They emphasized that spending money was a great problem among black students, noting that many students accepted on scholarship still can not afford to attend.

Newkirk said that "most blacks need more money. We feel that we can handle the problems of grades and the social life, but money is the real problem."

Blacks in student gov't.

All three expressed the desire to elect qualified blacks to Student Government. The possibility of representatives of Lawson's office attending SLC meetings on a regular basis was also discussed.

In other business, the SLC discussed the rewriting of the Student Manual. Father David Shlaer, director of Student Affairs said that the entire manual needed rewriting, not just the rules. It was decided that the new rules would be promulgated by the dean of students office.

Student rights next topic

The council will take up the question of rewriting the student rights section of the manual, at next Monday's meeting.

Nominations for the University and Appeals Boards will also be voted on at the next meeting, which will be held in executive session.

S.B. policeman hurt in game enthusiasm

by Valerie Zurblis
Staff Reporter

The enthusiasm of last Saturday's victory celebration resulted in the destruction of the goal post at the south end of the stadium and the injury of a South Bend policeman.

Sergeant Bruce Stickley apparently tried to stop the group of fans from tearing down the poles when he was hit over the eye with one of the poles.

The unconscious policeman was then taken to the hospital by squad car, received five sutures and was released. He went blank on the incident and doesn't remember what exactly happened. The investigation is still under way and as of yet there is no evidence that any other assault occurred.

Robert Cahill, Business Manager of Athletics, says his main concern at the game was where he was going to get another goal post for this week's home game against Navy. Since it is too late in the season to order another pair of $1800 goal posts one from a practice field will be modified to comply with collegiate rules. It will not be arched and therefore it won't match the other post but it will be workable.

Cahill expected the students to try to pull the poles down but didn't expect them to be completely destroyed. "If they pull this one down, I won't know what to do," commented Cahill.

The injury to Stickley was regretted most by Cahill. He was also concerned about the extra trampling the field received. Due to a bad fungus on the turf this year even the J.V. players have been forced to play on the artificial turf instead of the stadium.

He felt that it was unfortunate for the coaching staff and football team that they have to play on a field that is not up to par.

Dean of Students, Fr. Terence Lally, understands how the fans felt after the win but was worried that someone could possibly be trampled or seriously hurt. He was more apprehensive, though, with students, alumni, and staff who drink in excess at the games. He feels they are "unaccountable for their actions and are unconscious to the other people around them."

Fr. Lally commented that although the victory was a great one and he understands the exuberance of the fans, he wonders what they do with the goal post after they take it home."

Washington UPI - The White House recommended Monday that the controversial issue of trade concessions for the Soviet Union be temporarily shelved while negotiations are under way to achieve peace in the Middle East.

But Peter M. Flanagan, an assistant to the President for international economic affairs, said the basic position of the administration that commercial reactions with the Soviet Union should be broadened had not changed.

Chicago UPI - The federal government, rebuffed in a move to enter tape recordings of the first Chicago Seven trial into evidence at a retrial of contempt charges, Monday staked its case in the new prosecution on 27,000 pages of transcripts of the tumultuous 1969-70 trial.

Prosecutors rested their case against the seven antiwar revolutionaries and their two original trial attorneys in the opening session of the new trial. The defendants, in opening statements, indicated they might use weeks in their defense against contempt charges.

Quebec City UPI - Voters in predominately French-speaking Quebec province cast ballots Monday in an election that was billed as a major test of the separatist movement in Canada's biggest province.

Turnout among the 3.7 million registered voters was heavy in the election to choose 110 members of the provincial National Assembly from candidates of four parties.

Detroit UPI - The chief governing board of the United Auto Workers Monday recommended that the union's 185,000 members at the Ford Motor Co. ratify a new three-year contract with the nation's second largest automaker.

The unanimous approval of the 26 member International Executive Board had been expected. The agreement now goes to the 200 member Ford Council which also is expected to approve the agreement.

Prof. Hermens suggests U.S. parliament

by Pat Hanifin
Staff Reporter

Prof. Ferdinand A. Hermens claimed in his lecture last night that Vietnam and Watergate are inherent in our system of government and that we should change to an English-model parliamentary system.

"The President has acted in disregard of the people and reality," according to Hermens, which Congress has failed to take positive action.

"The executive must be more than an executor" Hermens said. "The law cannot cover all situations, especially in foreign affairs, and we need somebody who can take quick and decisive action. But at the same time this has raised the danger of irrational decisions by presidents who are cut off from the American people and from reality by their power."

Hermens, a former government professor, claimed that this separation from reality was particularly apparent in the domestic Watergate situation where inexperienced White House staff members failed to criticize decisions and acted in "a vacuum of free and independent discussion." Without this independent criticism, Hermens said, there is no "test of reality."

It is here that Congress becomes valuable in foreign policy making and according to Hermens view, Congress has three special roles: using its broad contacts with the people to develop a consensus; restraining the executive by independent criticism; and taking constructive action as part of the foreign policy team.

"Unfortunately," Hermens pointed out, "Congress has been isolated from the decision making process, and when in the past they have taken action, it has generally been merely negative opposition to the President. Because Congress is so large and varied they find it very difficult to reach agreement on positive action."

Hermens, Fellow of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars at the Smithsonian Institute, offered as a possible solution to the problem the change to a parliamentary system as in England. "The advantages would be that the members of the cabinet would also be members of the legislature, powerful and independent in their own right, and would represent all major views in the majority party. And if the prime minister goes his own way too much the legislature can throw the rascals out."

However, Hermens pointed out there was far too much opposition on the part of the public for this to have any practical chance of coming to pass. "As a partial solution we might retain the

Nine offenses alleged against Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Federal Communications Commissioner Nicholas Johnson Sunday listed nine non-Watergate actions which he said would justify impeachment of President Nixon.

In a petition to the House of Representatives, Johnson, a Democratic appointee said "members should not let the prospect of Nixon being found guilty by the Senate and removed from office to deter House members from impeaching him."

In his list of alleged impeachable offenses, Johnson cited the authorization of an unconstitutional war in Cambodia; a systematic campaign against a free press, Nixon's impounding of funds for programs voted by Congress, and use of government funds to improve Nixon properties in Key Biscayne and San Clemente.

He also listed "dirty tricks" employed on Nixon's behalf in the 1972 campaign, efforts to interfere with the independence of the CIA and FBI, wrongful legal procedures such as the break-in of the office of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, and invasion of privacy through illegal wiretapping and bribery through the collection of campaign funds.

"It is not my judgment that the President should be convicted after a trial," said Johnson.

"The only issue before us now is whether the facts, charges and allegations I have summarized here are sufficient cause for the House to send the matter to the Senate. That they require such action seems to me clear beyond doubt —although I expressly reserve judgment on whether the President should be removed from office.

"The only question," he said, "that is now before the American people —and it is they who are the ultimate actors in this drama —is whether the House of Representatives should send to the Senate for trial the allegations against the President."

"Prejudgments of guilt or innocence should no more frighten us into motionless inaction than should outrage propel us to judgment," Johnson said.

As an FCC commissioner, Johnson is part of the executive branch and in effect works for President Nixon. "As a Presidential appointee and currently active federal official, I recognize the seriousness of this action," he said. "But I also recognize the seriousness of continued silence, that not to decide is to decide."

Connally asks for 'better explanation'

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said Sunday President Nixon owes the country a better explanation than he gave for firing Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, and Nixon should have turned over the Watergate tapes months ago.

"I must say that the President owed the country a better explanation for his actions than we got," Connally said on the weekly state press-panel television show "Capital Eye."

"If indeed he was going to change his mind about the tapes, I'm sorry that he didn't do it three months ago or four months ago. I think it would have saved him and saved the country an awful lot of trouble and chaos and confusion in the minds of some," Connally said.

Pre-meds discuss careers with panel of pros

by Kit Baron
Staff Reporter

Four medical professionals met with pre-med students to discuss health careers yesterday night in the Galvin Life-Science auditorium. Sponsored by the Pre-Professional Department, the Pre-

Professional Student Advisory Committee has initiated an annual program to introduce students to all of the medical professions.

Speaking to the group last night were Mr. Montrose, local hospital administrator; Dr. Eugene Kuzmic, DDS, periodontist; Dr. Melvin Nevel, DDS, orthodontist and oral surgeon, and Dr. Harris, DDS.

Following last Wednesday evening's first program, the meeting was oriented for those interested in specializing in dentistry, the second most popular career for N.D. pre-med students. With a total attendance of 170 students for the two sessions, the Advisory Committee estimates that at least one of every six pre-med students have shown interest.

"The general success this year indicates that these programs will be sponsored annually," stated Committee Secretary Jim Napier. The cooperation of the people in the health professions in the community has helped bring them closer to Notre Dame.

For their next activity, Rick Drelick is organizing a program which would give pre-dental students an opportunity to observe practicing orthodontics and periodontics.

We're standing up to them in the fields— will you stand up to them in the stores?

Boycotts are a drag. You're tired of them, just as the farm workers are tired of striking. But the workers will not be reduced to chattel again. Cesar Chavez asks consumers to unite as never before. Nothing less will cause the growers to grant workers the simple right to vote, by secret ballot, on which union will represent them: the UFW or the Teamsters.

Three years ago a massive consumer boycott dragged growers kicking and screaming into the 20th Century. Now, when UFW's hard-won contracts are up for renewal along come Teamster honchos who, without a word to the workers, sign a ready-made contract with the growers. That Teamster contract reinstitutes the notorious Labor Contractor hiring system, reduces the workers' already minimal pay, imposes no restrictions on the use of man-killing pesticides and leaves the workers without any effective medical benefits. There are other cruel inadequacies in the Teamsters' sweetheart contract, but that Teamsters are now importing scab labor should be enough to make you lose your taste for grapes.

So how come these union-hating growers welcome Teamster advances rather than negotiate with a worker-controlled union? Growers, not surprisingly, prefer to deal with bosses who have nothing in common with the men and women who spend their lives bent over in the fields.

The farm workers are seeking redress via the courts and by petitioning the growers for secret-ballot elections. The (many of whom arrive not knowing they are strike-breakers and who are coerced to keep working by the Teamsters' inelegant persuasions!). The bitter fruit of this labor is now arriving at stores in your neighborhood. If these grapes sell, other growers will be tempted to follow the lead of their Coachella and Delano peers and invite the Teamsters to "organize" the fields on their terms i.e., a lower hourly wage; no restriction on the use of condemned sprays, including nerve gas; reinstitution of the slave-labor contractor system, and a medical plan that neatly excludes seasonal workers!

To strike is to go hungry, and for many workers it means going to jail. But strike we will, even knowing this may not prevent the harvest.

You are our last line of defense. You are the one critical element the Teamsters cannot control. If you are sickened by this attempt to return farm workers to the status of cattle, then the workers' cause is not yet lost.

The Growers understand sales. The memory of the last great boycott is their recurring nightmare. To be stuck with a worthless crop is a fate even worse than negotiating with a worker-controlled union.

Nothing less than a massive consumer boycott of grapes and iceberg lettuce will cause the growers to recognize a union that represents the workers.

So here's what you can do to support the farmworkers in their non-violent resistance to the Grower-Teamster consortium: 1. Boycott all table grapes. 2. Contribute money to help feed the workers who will miss the few months of work when they can earn wages. The money you send will be used for basics: food, clothing, medicine. 3. Continue to boycott iceberg lettuce, Safeway and A. & P. stores.

Give A Ticket

The Neighborhood Study Help Tutoring Program is once again asking the Notre Dame student body to donate their tickets to the Navy game this Saturday and the student body should answer that call.

For the past three years, the program has met with amazing success having been endorsed by both Fr. Hesburgh and Ara. Upwards of two hundred South Bend kids have benefited from this program each year in the past. And now the program needs the help of us all again.

The time is appropriate. Fresh from the exuberance of the ND over USC triumph, the team is going to match plays with Navy. Let's face it, barring unforeseen accidents and bad breaks, we should beat Navy without too much trouble. The game will nonetheless be exciting as always but to give up your ticket for such a worthy cause this time will not work all that great a hardship on you. WNDU will televise the game anyway. These kids will most likely be getting their first chance to see a college football game. Moreover, it is a Notre Dame game which will mean a great deal more to these kids not only now but in retrospect in years to come.

As for future home games, there will be Air Force on Thanksgiving Day and, most likely, a bowl game in our immediate future, so missing this one Navy game at home, while a sacrifice since we must keep rolling on, in the long run will not hurt either you or the team. Giving up the tickets will mean a lot to the team and having a stand full of kids cheer for the Irish can only spur the team to even greater heights of glory.

But more important than these pragmatic reasons is that you should donate your ticket not only as a sacrifice, but also because it is a Christian act of giving something needed to one who needs.

Art Ferranti

Sorry, Psych-ers

Charges in yesterday's Observer that Friday's rally was a poor one stand today. However, the charges that a lack of foresight plagued the rally were perhaps a bit injudicious.

Rally organizer Dan Doody accepted the full blame yesterday for the poor rally but admitted that many of the problems were things beyond his control.

For example, Stepan Center had been contracted last May for the rally and three weeks prior to the rally, the event was kicked out to make room for the Homecoming dance. Use of the Fieldhouse and the ACC could not be obtained so Doody was forced to find a well-lighted area and the Stepan lot was the best available area.

A proper stage could not be built because the materials had been destroyed when the storage barn on campus burned down in September. The area for the band was roped off, but Doody said they missed the entrance prepared for them and in attempting to get in from the other side of the stage, a great many students had to be pushed out of the way. In that excitement, the two speakers that were to be used were pushed over and one of them was knocked out of commission.

Doody claimed that it was a minor miracle that the rally came off and no one was hurt in a crowd that was clearly out of control.

He's right on the point and The Observer must admit that we jumped the gun on Doody's group. Even though it was a bad rally, the circumstances surrounding it make it now impossible to pin any blame.

Last Point Impeachment on Suspicion j. napier

"Impeach Nixon," the cry rises. "Yes, impeach him." Why?

"Because we suspect he is guilty of stealing money to build two palaces, we think he offered ITT a plum in exchange for San Diego; and we think he danced in the cacophonous ethics of Robert Vesco. Yes, because we think he did all this, he must be impeached. No need for further investigation. We suspect him now; impeach him now."

And so history may now record the first President ever impeached on suspicion.

This suspicion is a verypotent tool. Many peoples have used it to eradicate the worst elements in their societies. Suspicion enabled the Puritans to eradicate witches. Ancient societies employed suspicion to stone devils out of people, while the inquisition utilized it as a weapon against heretics. Fortunately, suspicion excised this villainy from each of these societies before it was too late.

Let it be with America, too. Let Richard Nixon and the witches stand together on the same scaffold.

Local Lynching

"Nixon is above the law," claim the impeachers.

But where does their suspicion end and their direct proof begin? One would hardly state such drastic condemnations on mere suspicion. Indeed, respectable journalism and formal critics often pride themselves on being above suspicion and conjecture. For them, judgment begins where rumor ends and guilt can be proven.

Perhaps local, respectable journalism is privy to information inaccessible to the remainder of the world. Local journalism may have found a cache of Perry Mason evidence buried in the laws of logic. If the world also follows the rules of the syllogism, maybe they too will become as enlightened as the local seers. Try it world:

Premise: Richard Nixon is a crook. (Impeachers say they've always known this.)

Premise: Some crooked acts have taken place while Nixon was in office.

Conclusion: Nixon must be in on it.

Clearly, numerous "If's" permeate this "Syllogism" (pardon me, Greeks). When these ifs are viewed by people who have never claimed a close affinity to Richard Nixon, they may encounter a propensity to jump from the springboard of suspicion into the empty pool of unjustified conclusions.

The Cox Issue

Was Cox's firing an impeachable offense? From a strictly legal point of view, Cox is an employee of the executive branch. Does the head of the executive branch of the United States have a legal right to terminate the employment of an executive branch employee? No one denies Richard Nixon possesses this legal privilege.

However, if Nixon does have this right and if he does exercise this right, can he be impeached for what he was legally entitled to do? Although the impeachers amazingly still cry, "Yes", the absurdity of their position is obvious. The impeachers simply do not realize impeachment is not a question of whether one agrees with the firing of Cox, but whether or not the President may be impeached for actions well within his legal rights.

Keep Away From Salem

If the House of Representatives does intend to continue with impeachment proceedings with only the suspicion of the present, it must revert to a definition of impeachment last used when Justice William O. Douglas was threatened with impeachment. As one House leader said, "An impeachable offense is anything the House thinks is an impeachable offense." The danger in this attitude is clear.

Unless the impeachment movement rises above the primitive "Gut", suspicion level of the present, the movement will continue to wallow somewhere in between a political vendetta reminiscent of Andrew Johnson's days and the suspicion of Salem.

Our republic needs neither.

Kissinger's Prize

Editor:

Mr. Barrett's editorial on Kissinger and Tho misses the whole point of the Nobel Peace Prize. The record of award winners would seem to indicate that the Prize is awarded more for honest effort to achieve peace and a stable world order than for the achievement of peace itself. So it was, for example, with Willy Brandt. By no stretch of the imagination could it be said that he achieved detente in Europe or that he even achieved detente between the two Germanys. He did change the direction of West German foreign policy by committing the Federal Republic to an acceptance of the status quo in Europe and to the renunciation of violence and force in redressing whatever wrongs may have been inflicted on Germany as a result of World War II. We do not know whether Brandt's policy in the long run will achieve peace in Europe. Dissident men of letters in the Soviet Union have warned us that detente may actually lead to greater tyranny than now exists in the world. Be that as it may, Brandt won the Nobel Prize, and justifiably so, because of his honest effort to achieve detente and thus to pierce, however slightly, the barriers that separate men from each other in today's world. Some men have been awarded the Nobel Peace Prize because of their dreams of peace. Witness Martin Luther King. Why then should we reproach Kissinger for accepting the peace Prize. We forget that peace comes in many shadings. Though the guns in Vietnam are not silent, the level of violence has been reduced immeasurably, and largely because of the patience, good will, and craftsmanship of Tho and Kissinger. This is no mean accomplishment and one fully deserving, in my view, of the Nobel Peace Prize.

Mockery of Prayer

Editor:

I was shocked to encounter this noon. over the execrable coffee of the North Dining Hall, the little blurb hiding at the bottom of the second last page of today's (October 25th) Observer entitled "Stanford Prays for Irish Victory." I thought that the idea of purchasing favors from the almighty, banished once from the Church in her shame over the simonistic practices of John Tetzel and others in the Middle Ages, and banished again to a lesser degree by Vatican II, was a thankfully dead practice.

But the consciousness of Western consumerism, coupled with a misguided thirst for victory, manages once again to raise this unperturbed Lazarus from the dead. The next step, I guess, is to equip the football players with shields and paint small crosses on their helmets.

For there exists a subtle difference between praying for the ability to live up to one's potential; for the ability to remain gracious win or lose, and praying for God to use his influence to direct events in one's favor. Upon reflection, the latter type of prayer defeats the purpose of the competition: to show the excellence which man can achieve through hard work and determination. What good are our achievements if they are handed to us by God on a silver platter? If "Notre Dame will win over all" is fulfilled merely due to divine intervention, the pride we take in the achievements of our community is made a mockery.

Sincerely,
J. Timothy Walsh

The Need for Mary

Editor,

Notre Dame - 23
So. Cal. - 14

I for one do NOT necessarily believe that there may be even the slightest connection between the above score and the Stanford Hall rosary of which you wrote on Thursday the 25th:

"Jim Hoolihan commented that 'Stanford is sponsoring the rosary to re-establish the old Notre Dame tradition of putting God on our side.'"

However, for those among our Notre Dame Students, who through human respect, (which stems from accepting very questionable theology, or doctrines which violate what they learned at home) have not the intestinal stamina they need as good Catholics from a genuinely good Catholic family to continue their true and inspiring traditions of their homelife here at Notre Dame, Jim Hoolihan's words are Providentially a clarion call to ALL Catholic students (not only the football squad) to get back to center.

Where were all of you this month when 20 to 50 of us daily at 7 p.m. gathered at the Grotto to pray the rosary. Two nights we had the leader of the great Family Rosary Crusade himself-Father Pat Peyton, a Holy Cross priest.

This, boys, is only a reminder of something that Notre Dame has to give that does not ask more money of you but grants benefits far beyond anything money can buy. Perhaps you might start an evening rosary in your hall chapels, and when May - the Month of Our Lady comes around, we'll all gather around the replica of Lourdes - 1,000's of us - to praise in prayer and song the true Notre Dame (French for Our Lady) whose statue tops the golden dome and in whose name this the greatest Catholic University in the USA was brought to life, and will continue as Catholic and the greatest ONLY if you do your part...be faithful to your background 100 percent.

Wishfully and prayerfully yours,

Harrassed Male

Dear Editor:

In reply to a sick letter written by a member of the not-so-silent minority female sex on campus in Tuesday's, October 16th issue of the Observer, I must say - Grow Up, Laureen Goers! Your high school publication immaturity is out of line here. Mike Welby wrote a very good article about the ratio of men (some of us) and girls at Notre Dame, (Observer, Thursday, October 11th.) I saw no implication that he was, "dumped by a Notre Dame student". If he was, and assuming it was a girl, I'm sure he realizes that no better fortune could have fallen upon him. After all, general consensus has it that dating SMC or ND girls can be hazardous to one's health.

The implication of a loser being a guy who succeeds in obtaining a date with an ND or SMC girl is a journalistic masterpiece because of its truth in many cases. The statement about "wallflowers" is basic fact! How many of us have ever gone to a party where wallflowers were not present? Very few, Miss Goers refers to Welby's passage about wallflowers as "worthless trash." I must wonder whether she feels a sense of guilt for herself and some others of her sex.

I am not trying to harass anyone in this letter. I am merely trying to help an innocent male, a victim of unjust female harassment. Be realistic, Laureen! Open your eyes and see exactly what the situation is on this campus.

I hope that your letters in the future will have justifiable meaning, rather than being just worthless trash.

Sincerely also,
Tom Ross 435
Keenan

Hesburgh guests at Bulla Shed

Fr. Theodore Hesburgh will be the first guest at the new Bulla Shed bi-monthly luncheon beginning this Wednesday, October 31, at 12:00 noon. All members of the ND-SMC community are invited to join the guest of the day for an informal luncheon and talk session.

"There are many good people on this campus who most of us only hear about, or see from afar," said Fr. Tom Stella, director of Bulla Shed. "I think it is a real service to the community to offer an opportunity for closer contact, and an exchange of ideas," he added.

Farley Hall sophomore Chris Gallagher and freshman Kevin McCormick are the student organizers of the luncheon program. Submarine sandwiches, soup, and potato chips are on the menu for these twice monthly Wednesday gatherings.

3 new officials

appointed at SMC

Two new admissions counselors and a housing coordinator have been appointed at Saint Mary's College.

Joan Ellen Organ and Mary Anne Madden, the new admissions counselors, will be responsible for the recruitment of qualified students for admission to Saint Mary's College. This involves extensive traveling and high school visitation, as well as coordinating activities between alumnae and prospective students.

Organ was graduated summa cum laude from Saint Mary's College in 1973 with a bachelor's degree in English and secondary education. Originally from Youngstown, Ohio, she presently resides in South Bend, Indiana.

Madden attended Saint Mary's and was graduated from the University of Notre Dame in 1973 with a bachelor's degree in modern languages. A native of West Bloomfield, Michigan, Madden also lives in South Bend.

Karen O'Neil has been named housing coordinator for the College. She will report to Dr. Mary Alice Cannon, vice president for student affairs.

In her new position, O'Neil will be responsible for the residence hall program, including room assignments, supervision of housekeeping and maintenance, budget preparation, communications, policies and procedures, and future planning.

A graduate of Jaohn Adams High School, South Bend, and a 1971 graduate of Saint Mary's College, O'Neil holds a bachelor's degree in philosophy. Prior to accepting her current position, she was employed as an assistant teacher at the Little Flower Montessori School, South Bend. She and her husband, Paul, reside in South Bend.

New art exhibit spans 5 centuries

Portraits from the permanent collection of the University of Notre Dame Art Gallery are being featured in a new exhibition which opened last Sunday. Works exhibited will include portraits from the 15th to the 20th century, from Polluiole to Picasso.

Gallery officials have assembled several paintings showing the dramatic change in portraiture from the Renaissance profile view of Bartolomeo Veneto's "Portrait of a Young Lady" to the Baroque convention of three-quarter and frontal views.

Interesting insights on the lives of Jacques Villon, Kathe Lollowitz and Max Beckmann may be obtained from viewing self portraits displayed in the exhibit.

Other excellent examples of former years will include Jan Anthonisz van Ravestein's "Portrait of a Nobleman of the Van Does Schiedam Family" and Jean Marc Nattier's portraits of the French bourgeoisie, which reveal the insecurity of a society uneasy with themselves. Also exhibited will be Thomas Eakins portrait of Reverend McDevitt.

Also on display will be portraits of Mary the Second, Queen of England, Beatrice d'Este, Marie Antoinette's brother, and others. The gallery in O'Shaughnessy Hall is open daily from 10 to 5 and weekends from 1 to 5.

Jack 'O Lantern contest set

Notre Dame Student Government, with the approval of the Ministry of Propaganda, will stage its second annual Jack 'O Lantern contest in the bookstore parking lot behind Badin Hall on Oct. 31, at 11:00 p.m.

Prizes will include a copy of the March 1968 Harvard Law Review, a pamphlet on How to Win Campus Elections (used), an old Notre Dame student directory, a Do It Yourself Coffee House plan, two copies of the Notre Dame Judicial Code, ND traffic and parking regulations, a 1970 United (fly United) air lines schedule, three turtle doves and a partridge in a pear tree.

All Jack 'O Lanterns are eligible regardless of size, shape, or type of pumpkin used. Jack 'O Lanterns should be lighted. There will be no registration fee. All judging will take place in the bookstore parking lot. In the event of inclement weather the contest will be moved to the covered area between Gilbert's and the bookstore.

Computer class starts tonight

George J. Hach, local representative of Honeywell, Inc., a leading computer manufacturer, will present a new educational program being co-sponsored by Honeywell and Saint Mary's on Tuesday, October 30, at 7:00 p.m. in Carroll Hall.

Titled "Computer Automation Training Workshop," this program will offer vocational training that will supplement the academic program to prepare the student with computer use in his or her chosen profession.

Tuesday's introductory session will explain the purposes and goals of the workshop, which will take place after normal class hours. No tuition will be charged and no college credit will be given.

Pre-requisites for the program are:

1. The students must be registered at eight Saint Mary's College or the University of Notre Dame.

CAP nominations due by end of this week

by Janet Deneffe
Staff Reporter

Arts and Letters students who are thinking about applying to the Committee on Academic Progress should have their nominations in by the end of this week, according to Director of C.A.P., Dr. Thomas Werge.

The primary function of the Committee is an advisory one. Thirty or forty professors in the closely with the students and help them "arrange a specific curriculum in terms of the capacities and interests" of each. The Committee also works with experimental courses; one such course being offered currently is "Shakespeare and Depth Psychology."

C.A.P. consists of approximately 125 AL undergraduates who feel College of Arts and Letters work that they need extra guidance in planning a course of studies. The Committee would like to dispel the image that they are "student elite" who have unlimited access to all the "good" courses. Only a small percentage of pre-registration class cards are reserved for C.A.P. students and this applies only to courses which are extremely difficult to get into and have special intellectual merit.

Applications are being accepted, generally speaking, from sophomores, transfers, and returning students. Students are often nominated by their professors, but it is possible to nominate oneself. A two or three page autobiography of one's intellectual concerns is required and this paper is due November 7. The most important criterion for selection to the Committee is the interview conducted by two faculty members who are C.A.P. advisors. These interviews begin November 10.

Anyone who would like to apply or obtain additional information should inquire at the C.A.P. office in 346 O'Shaughnessy.

In conclusion Hermens pointed out that some good could come of the Vietnam and Watergate crises. "They give us the spur to reassess our government as we approach our bicentennial, and to decide again as the men who wrote the Declaration of Independence did, if it still provides sufficient 'safeguards for our future security.'"

Senate agrees to Ford hearings

Washington UPI - The Senate Rules Committee agreed Monday to open public hearings into the nomination of Gerald R. Ford as vice president Thursday.

Chairman Howard Cannon, D-Nev., said he hoped the appointment would reach the Senate floor "well before Thanksgiving."

Truck thief given probation term

A probationary term until the age of 21 was ordered for a University of Notre Dame student who pleaded guilty Thursday in Superior Court to a charge of "unauthorized control of a motor vehicle."

He was arrested by police near his dormitory after police investigated the theft of a pick up truck belonging to Dennis Bailey from Howard street and Notre Dame Avenue on September 12.

ND co-ed reports Saturday assault

An 18 year old University of Notre Dame co-ed reported she was raped 1:30 a.m. Saturday in the vicinity of the 800 block of Notre Dame Avenue after attending a party nearby.

The girl told police she had met a man at the party and the man asked her to go outside. She said she went with him and he raped her. Two friends drove her to St. Joe Hospital for treatment.

Keenan, Dillon, Howard on top

by Sam Yanucci

By 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon Notre Dame's varsity football team had taken a gigantic step in the direction of a post-season bowl game and a possible national championship. By that same time Sunday afternoon three IH teams—Dillon, Howard, and Keenan—had captured league titles and are now looking forward to the interhall playoffs.

Powerful Dillon (who are those guys?) won convincingly 34-0, while Howard, which dethroned Morrissey as League number 1 champs, defeated St. Joe, 8-0.

Keenan notched the final playoff berth in the easiest of all possible ways, by forfeit as Off-Campus was unable to field the required 11 men.

Howard and Keenan square off this Sunday in the opening playoff game.

Wed., October 24

SORIN 14 PANGBORN 0

Although not quite as happy as the three league champions, Sorin did manage a small celebration after capturing its only win of the season.

Tim DeMarais provided the only points necessary when he returned a Pangborn punt 65 yards for a touchdown. DeMarais also figured in the insurance TD as he caught a 30 yd. bomb from QB John Lar-sburgh.

Sorin captain John Powers wished to express the teams gratitude to Coach Doctor James Carberry for all the time and effort he spend on the team. He also added "It's a great way to end the season."

STANFORD 8 GRACE 0

Everyone knows that statistics are for losers. This adage was illustrated once again Wednesday night. Grace, although playing a fine overall defensive game, lapsed once, but that once was enough to cost them the game.

Stanford struck when a backup quarterback George Parker hit Mike Pulman with a 40 yd. TD bomb. The 8 points was cushion enough as Stanford's staunch defense stymied Grace twice inside the 10 yard line. The win kept

ALUMNI 21 HOLY CROSS 7

In the nightcap Holy Cross shocked Alumni with a quick first period touchdown, a 55 yard strike from Jeff Butryn to Mike Hildebrand.

Alumni remained cool, however, and scored three times in the second half. It was a particularly frustrating game for Holy Cross as 2 long touchdown plays were nullified by penalties.

Sunday, October 28

MORRISSEY 25 LYONS 0

Morrissey ended its season in a predictable way—by clobbering winless Lyons. The Marauders, borrowing a play used by Alabama last week, scored on the first play of the game when quarterback Tim Puntarelli connected with Bob Zierk on a 65 yard touchdown pass.

Puntarelli struck against from long range (45 yards) in the third period and then from in close (8 yards) in the fourth quarter; Fran Finnegan was the target on both occasions. Fullback Jim Dwyer added a final TD when he dove over from 2 yards out. Wayne Waver capped the Marauder scoring by drop kicking the extra point.

DILLON 34 HOLY CROSS 0

Undefeated Dillon, showing off its rugged ground attack, prepared for the interhall playoffs by walloping Holy Cross. Mike O'Neil provided more than enough offensive punch scoring three times and accumulating over 200 total yards in offense.

Also seeing paydirt for the "Big Red" were Craig Tighe and Joe Reppenhoff. Holy Cross gridders had nothing to cheer about Sunday afternoon and little to show for the IH season finishing 0-3-1.

Booters go 1-1-1, two games left

by Hal Munger

The Irish soccer squad has been busy the last two weeks with two road games and a game under the Cartier Field lights.

Bradley beat Notre Dame in Peoria, Illinois 5-4 on October 13. The Irish had a bad first half but got one score each from Louis Monserrat and Pat Flood, and a pair of goals from Jafar Moghadam in the second frame. Mike Fitzgerald and Rich Hichwa were the other Irish standouts in the loss.

On Friday night at home, ND ripped apart Eastern Michigan 4-0. Steve Malpica tallied once, Bob Donovan canned one, and Moghadam collected 2 more points. Jafar leads the team in scoring this year with 8 goals.

Yesterday Grace College tied the Irish 2-2 at Grace. Shawn Carroll and Pat Flood supplied the scoring punch for the Irish. "We played a good second half after they played a strong first half," said team captain, Mike Fitzgerald. He added, "We snapped out of it after they scored but we couldn't get the ball in the net."

Friday night at 7:00 p.m. ND hosts Northwestern on Cartier Field. The Irish will be trying to improve their 2-4-2 record against NU. The Irish are expecting a close ball game. Notre Dame has only 2 remaining games after Friday's contest.

The Interhall season came to a close Sunday; playoffs will get underway next weekend.

STANFORD 14 FLANNER 7

Upset minded Flanner, which held a 7-0 halftime lead, finally succumbed to Stanford's 14 point second half surge.

Flanner had grabbed the lead on a 10 yard scoring pitch from Steve Sonetello to Al Bucci. Stanford retaliated with Bill Blum's 12 yard bootleg. Blum then bombed 25 yards to Mike Pulamn for the decisive score. DHB Pete Diamond doused Flanner's upset hopes with 2 second half interceptions.

HOWARD 8 ST. JOE 0

Howard, coming on stronger than Tarzan after the ivory thieves, picked up its fourth win of the year as well as the League number 1 championship.

Although the offense sputtered after Rick Arrensburgh's first period touchdown, the defense registered its third consecutive whitewash.

The loss dropped St. Joe's season record to 2-3.

ZAHM 20 CAVANAUGH 0

Cavanaugh's offensive antics were wilder than a monkey on 50 feet of new grapevine but they weren't enough to stop Zahm from gaining its third victory.

Zahm tailback Jack Leich scored twice, once on a 53 yard sweep and the other on a 10 yard run. Mike Mountford also got into the act by picking off a Cavanaugh fumble in mid-air and bee-lining it 35 yards into the end zone.
