Syria loses four MiGs Israeli, Syrian jets duel in Mideast air battle

BEIRUT Lebanon (AP) - Syrian jet fighters and U.S.-made Israeli F-15's duelled south of Beirut yesterday in the biggest air battle in three months. Four Syrian MiG's were downed both sides said, and Syria claimed two Israeli jets were "hit."

The Israelis said all their planes made it safely back to base.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Thomas Reston called the clash a "dangerous development" and appealed on all sides to exercise restraint.

Syria said its MiG-21s scrambled to intercept the Israeli warplanes after the Israelis attacked civilian camps - presumably Palestinian - in the Damour area 10 miles south of Beirut. The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv said its jets, including the F-15, America's most sophisticated fighter, were on a reconnaissance mission over Palestinian guerilla bases.

The planes headed back west and the dogfight erupted over the foothills near the airport, sources said.

Both sides reported four Syrian jets went down. Lebanese government sources said two crashed in flames near the airport, and their pilots were seen parachuting to safety. The other two reportedly went down further into the hills. A Syrian military communique issued in Damascus said two Israeli jets also were "hit," but did not say specifically that they had crashed.

"I saw two planes come into the sky and then suddenly two more appeared," said Ahmed Abdul Khale. "All of a sudden I saw this one falling down with fire coming from its left wing. It exploded when it hit. There was a huge flame."

Last June 27, Israeli warplanes shot down five Syrian MiG-21's in the dogfight over southern Lebanon. Western military sources said all were downed by a single Israeli F-15 that was on the ground in Israel when the began but was quick enough to get there in time to help the slower Israeli jets.

The Syrians, whose 22,000 troops police a civil-war armistice in Lebanon, have pledged to defend Lebanese territory against Israeli air attacks. Israeli jets frequently fly over Beirut and southern Lebanon on surveillance missions or to attack Palestinian positions.

State Department spokesman Reston had no comment yesterday on whether Israel's use of F-15s over Lebanon violates U.S. restrictions limiting the aircraft to self-defense missions. The Israelis say their Lebanon operations are pre-emptive missions to defend against Palestinian attack.

The MiG-21 was first introduced in 1955 and the latest version in production was introduced in 1970. In contrast the F-15 first entered service in 1976. The Soviet-supplied Syrian air force has more sophisticated MiG-23s and MiG-27s, but they apparently have not been using these in their challenges against the Israelis.

Van Wolvlear rejects keg proposal; CLC votes to appeal decision

by Michael Onufrak
Senior Copy Editor

Vice-President for Student Affairs Fr. John Van Wolvlear last night rejected the Campus Life Council's proposal which would have allowed kegs in hall "party rooms" at the discretion of a given hall's rector, staff and council.

Van Wolvlear also failed to approve a CLC proposal to change party room guidelines which restrict use of party rooms to Friday and Saturday evenings. The CLC proposal would have allowed party rooms to be used on any night.

A vote to appeal the rejection of the CLC's keg policy passed by an 11-5 vote with two abstentions. A motion to appeal Van Wolvlear's second rejection was tabled when it received no support.

According to Student Body President Bill Roche, the CLC's chairman, Van Wolvlear's decision will be appealed today to University Provost Dr. O. Timothy O'Meara. If O'Meara also turns down the keg proposal, his decision may be appealed to University President Fr. Theodore Hesburgh.

In his memorandum to the CLC explaining his decision, Van Wolvlear characterized the current party room guidelines as "experimental" in nature. He stated any keg policy that would be implemented would also be experimental, and he did not feel it would be in the University's best interest to conduct two such experiments at the same time.

He did add, however, that should the party room "experiment" prove successful, he would "be encouraged toward thinking about a keg experiment towards the end of the academic year."

"I will monitor the situation closely through close contact with rectors and possibly some unannounced visits to hall party rooms," he said.

Fr. Richard Conyers, Keenan hall rector and author of the CLC keg proposal, said he was "disappointed with the decision in view of the fact that the proposal represents the majority opinion of both rectors and students."

"I am pleased by the fact that Fr. Van Wolvlear bent over backwards to listen to us. And I am pleased that his decision leaves the way open for ultimate acceptance of the proposal. It looks to me more like a delay than a flat rejection," Conyers said.

He added that the proposal would be submitted again

"when some appraisal has been made by Fr. Van Wolvlear." According to Roche, this could come as early as next January.

In other business, the CLC unanimously passed a proposal to extend CLC input into the University Policies and Residence Hall Regulations sections of du Lac. At present, the CLC only has input towards the University Rules and Regulations section.

If approved by Van Wolvlear, this proposal would allow the CLC to exert its influence on matters of University policy regarding such diverse subjects as the size of refrigerators allowed in residence halls, housing, and student businesses.

The CLC also named a committee of volunteers to study the problems of alcohol and

Congressional committee passes details on canal bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - Members of a Senate-House conference committee agreed yesterday on a new compromise bill to carry out final details of the Panama Canal treaties.

The compromise replaces a measure rejected by the House last week, John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., who managed the canal bill on the House floor, predicted the new version would be approved by his colleagues.

The treaties, which provide for Panama to take control of the canal at the end of the century, take effect next Monday. The compromise bill offered by the conference panel establishes a U.S.-controlled commission to operate the waterway until the Panamanians take over.

The House rejected the last implementation bill last Thursday on a 203-192 vote - an embarrassment to the Carter administration. President Carter already has signed the treaties and they have been ratified by the Senate.

After yesterday's quick approval of a new compromise measure, Murphy said, "I think we have support for this package - in fact I'm certain we do." Murphy said he hopes to win final House approval of the bill tomorrow.

The new compromise provides for a statement, which is not actually attached to the bill, asserting that the President should consider putting the canal under U.S. military control if Soviet or Cuban combat troops move into Panama.

Under the compromise, if the president decided the canal was in military danger he would be authorized to order canal administrators to follow directions from the local U.S. military commander.

Moro kidnap suspect captured in Rome

ROME (AP) - Police critically wounded and captured a founder of Italy's feared Red Brigades terrorist gang yesterday, identifying him as the man who organized the abduction and slaying of former Premiere Aldo Moro, authorities reported.

Prospero Gallinari, sought by police on several murder counts, was captured after a gun battle near Rome's ancient Appian Way, officials said. They said Gallinari was hit by submachine gun bullets when police returned fire at a car they were approaching in response to a telephone tip.

Also apprehended was Mara Nanni, a woman sought on terrorist charges. A man escaped after being chased on foot by police. Authorities were investigating a report that another woman was involved in the incident but eluded capture.

Gallinari, 28, was hospitalized

Administration predicts inflation slowdown

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration is predicting a slowdown in inflation toward the end of the year as energy price increases abate. Whether that slowdown began in August should be reflected in the consumer price figures being released today by the Labor Department. Consumer prices rose near or above 1 percent in each of the first seven months this year. If that pattern holds, the nation could end up with a 1979 inflation rate of more than 13 percent -- the highest since World War II.

Papal visit inspires suits, boycott, dissent

NEW YORK (AP) - Holidays for school children and county workers in Iowa are the targets of the latest lawsuits inspired by Pope John Paul II's upcoming visit, and in Washington, D.C., dissident priests are urging a clerical boycott of the papal Holy Communion service. Plans for the rare papal visit have also prompted dissent in Boston, where a federal judge will rule today in a suit brought by birth control activists Bill Baird over the arch-diocese's decision to reserve for persons of its choosing 18,000 of the available seats for a papal Mass on the Boston Common.

Doctors open chest in rush with no anesthetics

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) - Operating in such urgency they had no time for anesthetics, Charlotte Memorial Hospital doctors cut into the chest of bartender Randy Cook to save his life after an assailant plunged a knife into his heart. One of the doctors halted the flow of blood from the heart by holding his finger in the hole made by the knife until stitches could be made. The work moved so quickly that Cook, whom doctors say has a good chance of returning to normal, was still wearing his pants and boots when the operation was over 90 minutes later.

Dollar flounders

Gold prices bounce back

LONDON (AP) - The dollar showed little benefit yesterday from the weekend of the West German mark. Gold prices bounced back from Friday's drop, but remained well below records set last week.

The boosting of the mark, Europe's strongest currency, against a handful of its neighbors, was aimed at helping the weak and fluctuating dollar.

But one currency dealer said in Paris that while the mark revaluation eased pressure temporarily against the dollar in Europe, a realignment of currency values on this side of the Atlantic was no answer to the dollar's fundamental problems-American inflation and lack of confidence in American leadership.

The late rate for gold was $378.50 an ounce in London and Zurich, the two major bullion markets in Europe. Friday's rates were $369 in London and $369.50 in Zurich.

The value of the mark was altered by finance ministers of the eight countries in the European Monetary System, a currency stabilizing body, after they met for 15 hours in Brussels with central bank governors.

In a widely expected move, the mark was revalued by 2 percent against the currencies of Belgium, France, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg and the Netherlands and by 5 percent against the weaker Danish krone.

Bonn financial sources said the Brussels meeting was initiated by West Germany and the revaluation was necessitated by the growing strength of the mark, because everybody who has money wants marks. Making marks more expensive presumably would dampen de-

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER M/F

Committee names James Reidman Junior Parent's Weekend Chairman

by Bruce Oakley

James R. Riedman, a junior Finance major from Flanner Hall, last Friday was named Junior Parents' Weekend Committee Chairman. He succeeds Mike Kenney in that post.

Riedman was selected from an impressive group of 16 candidates, according to Tom Behney, junior class president and a member of the selection committee. Other members of the selection committee were: junior class officers Kevin Lovejoy (VP), Jean Menoni (Sec), and Mary Pat Ziolkowski (Treas); outgoing chairman Kenney; and Fr. Mario Pedi, assistant director of student activities.

The new chairman immediately called for support from the junior class in order to make this parents' weekend a success.

"We would like to set up committees for each of the functions during the Weekend - the dinner, the breakfast, the mass, and so on - and we will need chairpersons and workers alike," said Riedman.

"There will be an organizational meeting Thursday, Sept. 27, at 8 p.m. in LaFortune Ballroom for all those interested in helping us in whatever way possible," he added.

Riedman also stated that he would use the past few parents' weekends as a guideline for his decisions regarding what events to include in the weekend's schedule.

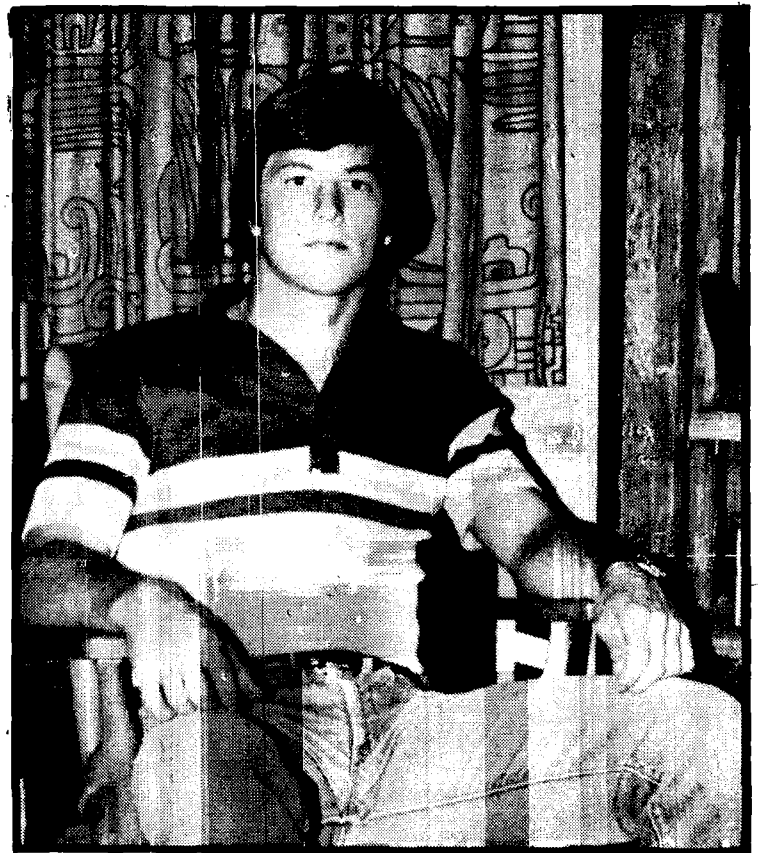

Riedman will receive a report on last year's activities from Kenney, who will serve as an unofficial adviser to the new chairman.

Kenney and Junior Class President Behney both expressed confidence in Riedman's ability to handle his duties effectively.

"We have great faith in Jim, and we're sure he'll do a good job with the weekend," said Behney.

All 16 candidates were interviewed last week by the selection committee. An identical set of five questions was presented to each candidate. The committee then reviewed the responses and the backgrounds of the candidates before making their selection. Kenney served in an advisory capacity and did not vote in the final selection process.

On the road to Tokyo Marching band will accompany team

by Kelli Flint

The Notre Dame marching band will accompany the football team on their visit to Tokyo Nov. 19-26 for the Mirage Bowl. The annual Mirage Bowl climaxes a week-long series of parades, concerts and television appearances which will feature the Notre Dame marching band.

According to Band Director Robert O'Brien, the band will participate in two parades, and at least two concerts: one in the baseball park, one open air. A television appearance with top Japanese pop stars in concert is also scheduled. The band's half time program for the football game, in which Notre Dame faces Miami, is still undecided.

Approximately 60 football players will travel to Tokyo for the game, which is scheduled to be played in the Olympic stadium.

A total of 197 bandmembers will also make the trip. Sponsors in Japan will finance Notre Dame's travelling costs plus expenses, said Assistant Director of Athletics Joseph O'Brien.

The domestic flying arrangements are still uncertain, however it has been decided that the band and team will fly Japanese Airlines out of Los Angeles and return to San Francisco via JAL Nov. 26.

"This should be a tremendous experience for the players, band, and cheerleaders," said Assistant Athletic Director O'Brien. "We decided to attend because we felt it would be an immeasurable experience for all."

... Tenure

According to Dr. Hickey, St. Mary's Vice-President for Academic Affairs and Dean of Faculty, it is impossible to tell how many teachers this policy will effect. "only one part-time teacher has applied for tenure under this new policy, with no decision reached."

The policy statement was finalized in 1977 and went through approval by steps: Faculty Assembly, Department Chairmen, Academic Affairs Council, Committee on Education, and was voted on by the Board of Regents in October 1978. It was overwhelmingly approved by both part-time and full-time teachers.

"This policy is new to us, so we need to see the impact. However, theoretically, it should allow us to tap a rich source of talent who otherwise would not be available. In addition it provides appointments to individuals for regular employment at a time when few positions are available," said Hickey. This policy affects married women who, because of family responsibilities, cannot devote full-time service to the college. Without such a policy the college might lose some part-time teachers to other colleges.

Hickey added that, such a policy allows the college "to recognize these teachers in a meaningful way." This policy provides not only financial benefits, but also privileges and status.

On June 28, 1979, the American Association of University Women (AAUW) cited St. Mary's for this tenure policy, as a means of achieving equity for women on campus. In this manner women faculty members are able to coordinate their professional careers with their family responsibilities.

Students volunteer to tutor "boat people"

by Kevin O'Brien

Fifteen to twenty Notre Dame students have volunteered to tutor South Bend's population of Vietnamese "boat people" in a program sponsored by the Neighborhood Study Help Program (NSHP).

Joe Witchger, spokesman for the NSHP, said that his organization is only one source for volunteer tutors to teach English to the approximately 400 Vietnamese refugees in the South Bend area.

The NSHP and other volunteers involved will be working under the direction of the South Bend Community School Corporation's "English as a Second Language" division (ESL).

The tutoring will begin with a workshop October 2, where ESL representatives will train the tutors by outlining and experience explaining the techniques of teaching for others to use as a second language.

The 400 Vietnamese are widely scattered throughout the South Bend area, with the children attending area schools.

According to Witchger, this scattering produces a problem for his organization.

The people are very spread out, and unless we have more people with cars, it is going to be hard to get out to them," he said.

St. Mary's charts buses to see Pope in Chicago

Margie Brassil
Saint Mary's News Editor

The St. Mary's Spiritual Commission has chartered four buses to take St. Mary's students to Chicago on Oct. 5 to see Pope John Paul II's planned mass.

There will be room for 165 students on the buses, and the price will be $16.50 for a round trip.

The price is so high because the buses are being chartered from Michigan. The Spiritual Commission has been trying for three weeks to charter buses. All the buses in the South Bend area are already reserved.

"I apologize for the price but I decided to go ahead with the trip anyway because there was such a positive response to the idea," explained Spiritual Commissioner Mary D. Ryan.

The buses will leave from St. Mary's at 8:00 a.m. and return that night by 8 p.m. They will drop students off at Soldiers Field where there is bus parking. From there it is an 11 block walk to Grant Park where the mass is being held.

The mass will begin at 3:00 p.m. The buses should arrive by 11:00 a.m. giving the students more than enough time to get to Grant Park.

The Commission will be selling tickets for the buses Thursday at 6:00 p.m. in the Student Government Office in Regina Hall. Money must be paid then to insure a reservation. Students can buy three tickets with a St. Mary's ID (which must be shown).

For any further information, students may contact Mary D. Ryan or their Hall Spiritual Commissioner.

Defectors allege Soviet spies operating inside U.N.

LONDON (AP) - The Soviet Union considers the United Nations "the tallest observation tower in the western world," and at least half the Soviet professionals employed there are spies, 5 former Soviet U.N. officials who defected said yesterday.

Arkady Shevchenko, interviewed on the British Broadcasting Corp. program "Panorama" claimed a Russian special assistant to U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim is a professional officer of the KGB secret police.

The BBC reported it could only find one Soviet special assistant to Waldheim: Victor Lessionski.

Shevchenko, former U.N. undersecretary general for political affairs, also named Geli Dneprovsky, recently appointed chief of personnel at the U.N. Geneva headquarters, as a high-level KGB officer.

Britain and other Western delegations tried to block Dneprovsky's appointment, but it was put through under Soviet pressure, the program reported.

New fire escape makes Morrissey's top floors safe

by Beth Willard

Plans to build a new fire escape from the third and fourth floor chapel wing of Morrissey Manor are now being finalized, according to Bro. Ed Luther, rector of the hall.

Twenty-two students living there have no escape route except through the windows on the third and fourth floors, he said.

Two years ago a fire on the third floor chapel wing made obvious that students living on the third and fourth floor had no safe means of escape from their section of the hall. Students would have to reach the main stairwell or the fire escape at the opposite end of Morrissey to get out of the building.

Luther said that if a fire blocked the stairwell or hall "students would have to stay in their rooms and wait to be rescued, or somehow get from the fourth floor to the third floor balcony with a rope or sheets, and wait to be rescued from there."

Although no students were hurt in that fire two years ago, discussion immediately began about installing a fire escape for the chapel wing of the building.

Luther revealed that when he arrived a year ago he set the acquisition of the fire escape as his first priority. "The budget had already been scheduled to allow for the escape," he said. "I keep hearing reports from maintenance that 'we're working on it', but I see nothing being done. I can't understand it. I feel they have been dragging their heels on the whole project."

Although only twenty-two students live in the third and fourth floor chapel wing Luther feels strongly that the whole hall would benefit from another escape route in case of a fire.

John Moorman, assistant director of maintenance, said that the fire escape is "under construction by Verkler Construction Co., but no definite date can be given as to when it will be installed."

Moorman attributed the delay in obtaining the structure to problems with the design and location due to the architectural structure of Morrissey. The present design calls for a ladder type structure reaching from the fourth floor to the third floor balcony, and from the balcony to the ground.

In the two years since the last fire Moorman stressed that Jack Bland, captain of the fire department, has been working on utilizing the existing escape structure on one side of the building for "maximum discharge of students."

"The maintenance department is interested in continually upgrading the safety of university structures in the event of a fire" concluded Moorman.

Anderson, R-Ill; and former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen.

Pressler said presidential campaigns have become too general in discussions of national issues, and so he will focus on a number of very specific questions, namely a huge federal program to encourage production of gasoline from grain, better benefits for Viet Nam veterans, housing for the elderly and a tax incentive program designed to create jobs for Indians living on reservations.

In spite of criticism

Young Pressler formally announces candidacy

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Larry Pressler concedes that some might view his campaign for president as premature for a young man first elected to office in 1974.

"Some people will look on it as an ego-centered thing, but we will just have to let the chips fall where they may," said the 37-year-old Pressler a few days before formally announcing his candidacy.

But Pressler said he became a Republican U.S. Senator from South Dakota by ignoring conventional wisdom that said he was either too young or unknown to win election to federal office.

At the moment, he said in an interview before his planned announcement today, "I am not perceived as a serious contender...I am not harboring any illusions," he said, "I am a realist."

From among other members of the Senate, he said, "There has been a good deal of good natured jostling" about his candidacy, which he said will be low key.

Nonetheless, Pressler can argue that he has come a long way in a short time, first as a House member elected five years ago at age 32 and now as a freshmen member of the Senate.

A boyish face who answers questions cautiously, Pressler says his initial support will come from among young voters in their 20s and 30s who are disenchanted with conventional politics.

So far, he has picked up six delegates in the Florida presidential preference convention, where Republicans will meet Nov. 17 to cast largely symbolic votes for various candidates.

Pressler notes that is more than are committed to Rep. Phil Crane, R-Ill., who has been running for more than a year, but far behind the 43 pledged to Ronald Reagan.

'A boyish face

questions cautiously'

To Pressler, Reagan is clearly the man to beat in the GOP competition. He quickly adds,

"I will support any of the Republicans who are running."

Republicans who have already announced their candidacies are Crane, former Texas Gov. John Connally; former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations George Bush; Sen. Bob Dole; Los Angeles businessman Benjamin Fernandez; Rep. John

Two Soviet skaters defect

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - Soviet figure skaters Ludmilla Belousova and Oleg Protopopov, two-time Olympic champions and aging darlings of the Russian ice rink, have defected to the West, the Swiss government announced yesterday. The 47-year-old Protopopov and his 44-year-old wife vanished last Tuesday, the day they were to have flown back to the Soviet Union after a four-week skating exhibition tour of West Germany and Switzerland. Swiss Justice Ministry spokesman Ulrich Hubacher announced they had asked for asylum in Switzerland last week, and said he said the government would make a decision within several weeks. He did not disclose their present whereabouts or plans.

SMC updates faculty tenure policy

by Mary Jo Russo

The new tenure policy designed to accommodate part time faculty at St. Mary's takes effect this year. The policy was approved by the College's Board of Regents in October 1978.

This policy provides an opportunity for tenure to those teachers who work less than full-time, and provided they work at least half-time. They may not be employed outside the college. Part-time faculty members are eligible for tenure according to the rules governing full-time faculty; approval of the position, a doctorate and the same evaluation for renewal, which is based on teaching, scholarship, and service.

Tenured part-time faculty are considered as Regular Faculty. They receive a proportionate share of salary and fringe benefits, also a proportionate share of responsibilities and privileges afforded to full-time teachers. Part-time teachers, on the tenure tract, hold their appropriate rank. Non-Regular Faculty with part-time appointments are ranked as either lecturers or visiting faculty.

Part-time faculty members may constitute no more than one-fourth of the Regular Faculty in any department except under extreme conditions.

SMC sponsors Mini Urban Plunge

by Cece Baliles

The Sociology Club of St. Mary's is sponsoring a Mini Urban Plunge to expose students to various social services and underprivileged areas within the South Bend community, according to Mary Kay Cohan, director of the new program.

Cohan believes that this will give students the "opportunity to view other lifestyles beyond the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's community." At present the program is only open to Sociology Club members; however, if successful, it will be expanded to include anyone interested from Notre Dame or Saint Mary's, Cohan said.

Last week members of the club visited several organizations involved in community improvement. They began the Mini Urban Plunge at the Justice and Peace Center. The center helped to organize the trip by providing the names of agencies that would be of interest to the students.

The next stop was to "Southhold" and "Renew," which are non-profit organizations involved in the restoration of low to middle-income housing. The group also visited "The Street Academy," which is a high school for children with disciplinary problems.

The group also visited the Welfare Department, where they discussed the typical family on welfare. Here many of the existing stereotypes were renounced. The group then discussed what they had seen during the trip.

One student who participated in the Mini Urban Plunge, Joan Driscoll, said she felt that "it was an excellent opportunity, especially for sociology majors, because it shows them the social services available around South Bend. It also brings many situations out of the textbook and into real life."

No other trips have been planned yet, Cohan said, but she added that the club hopes to hold these plunges regu-

British dictate Guerillas accept demands

LONDON (AP) - Guerilla leaders, in a major concession at the Zimbabwe Rhodesia peace talks, yesterday reluctantly accepted British demands that the white minority be initially given 20 percent of the seats in a new Parliament for the war-torn nation.

The Patriotic Front guerilla alliance had been adamant it wanted no special seats for whites, but the turnaround raised British hopes that a fresh constitution may be agreed on by the end of this week.

On Friday, the Salisbury delegation - led by the country's first black prime minister, Abel

Muzorewa - accepted the "general principles" of the constitution drafted by Britain, the conference sponsor.

But the guerillas said their concessions depend on the London conference agreeing to replace Muzorewa with a transition administration to oversee fresh elections and the building up of a new army.

The British draft strips the white minority, on which Muzorewa depends to run the army and the economy, of power to block constitutional change and control top jobs for up to a decade.

Group discovers '64 army hallucinogens test

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. Army tested the reactions of volunteers to a hallucinogenic drug and an antidote to it in open-air tests in 1964, according to government documents obtained by a citizen's group.

The documents obtained under a Freedom of Information Act request say eight male volunteers were given open-air doses of the psychochemical agent BZ at the Dugway Proving Grounds in Utah, the group said today. The army previously said it tested BZ on 362 persons from 1960 to 1969 but has not followed up to determine if there were aftereffect. The volunteers were not told they would be subjected to BZ, the Army said. The new documents said the eight men were tested to see what the effects of BZ would be at a distance of 1,000 yards and to see how effective a treatment called eserine would be at reducing delirium introduced by BZ.

... Money

French Finance Minister Rene Monory said the joint decision to help the dollar was a "big step forward," and the EMS is ready to meet with American authorities to find the reasons behind this and take appropriate action if it isn't up to us to analyze them.

On European money markets, the dollar firmed against all major currencies except the Dutch guilder, and gained nearly half a cent in London against the British pound, although Britain has not joined its eight Common Market partners in the EMS.

In Milan, an Italian dealer said he felt the 2 percent revaluation of the mark was not enough and the dollar will continue weak but steady in the next few months. "If it doesn't keep steady," he added, "we'll have another dollar crisis because the U.S. Government cannot act strongly to cut the rate of inflation in an election year."

Fuel development begins

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Energy Committee, beginning work on legislation to foster a synthetic fuels industry, agreed yesterday to include $1 billion in the measure for development of fuels from organic waste.

The committee's informal, unanimous decision means that loan guarantees and other kinds of financing would be available for firms that produce fuel substitutes from agricultural and forest products, garbage and municipal waste.

The committee estimated that 20 plants costing $50 million each would be built to produce new kinds of fuel using such methods, known as biomass.

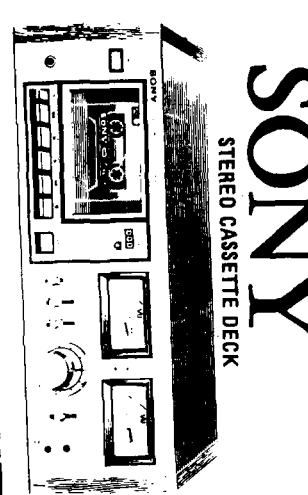

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-

Wash., committee chairman, said he hoped the panel would complete work on the measure, a key part of President Carter's energy program, by the end of the week.

The Committee took its action as an Exxon Co. official urged Congress to reject Carter's plan for a new government-funded Energy Security Corp. to nurture the synthetic fuels industry.

W.T. Slick Jr., a senior vice president at Exxon, told a House subcommittee that while the heavy federal financial support will be needed to develop synthetic fuels, existing government agencies such as the Energy Department should be in charge.

Keep Festival tradition alive

Dear Editor:

Last spring witnessed the birth of a new, but very unique, Notre Dame tradition - The Senior Arts Festival. Kathy Ryan, the festival director, described its inception:

"From the beginning stages of this event I have been told that this Festival was quite an ambitious project. Foolish is what it meant. Foolish to assume anything about the state of the arts. Foolish to begin something new in the ever dreary February months. Foolish to believe Seniors will participate and respond as their last months wind down... Vain, too, because I was taken to assume that there was a wealth of talent, untapped within the Senior Class... that greatness would emerge, merely given the chance."

But for one week last April such a chance was given. Artwork, sculptures, and photography were displayed in the Isis Student Gallery; music and the voices of drama resounded from the walls of the Nat. and fiction writers and poets carved their creative initials upon the pages of the first Senior Arts Festival Program. A new tradition was born - alive and well.

Now the search has been begun to find students from the class of 1980 with the enthusiasm to keep this tradition alive. I am confident that the search will not be in vain. Interviews for the position of Festival Director are now being scheduled. Interested Seniors should contact the Student Union as soon as possible.

Dining hall meals degrading

Dear Editor:

St. Food Service director Bob Robinson recently condemned "drunken, disorderly behavior and the throwing of food" by students, asserting that Notre Dames students presume to be entitled to privileges tantamount to juvenile delinquency.

We challenge this statement. Although drunkenness is prevalent on this campus, and excitement is generated by a football victory, destructive behavior among students has an obvious catalyst in more serious matters. The catalyst in the recent food fight was unrelated to the game. It was the justifiable disrespect for the food provided in the dining hall.

The students, to our disgust and chagrin, spend increasing amounts on food, then find the money wasted on meals of quality that can best be described as degrading.

Dining hall management evidently believes that being contract to provide food service gives license to provide as little service as tolerable to stud. its restricted to a full 7-day meal plan.

If dining hall management is incapable of preparing more than reheated food from previous poor meals, then perhaps they should surrender the service to a concern that can feed its customers.

Lessons not always related to books

Dear Editor:

A new semester has begun at Notre Dame. The quads are filled with energetic freshmen beginning their college careers and upper classmen returning to complete their own. The buzz of summertime fills the dining hall. Roommates plan picnics, trips to the dunes, and spend hours chatting on the quad with classmates, sharing the news of the summer months and the excitement of the ones to come.

But how long will the "time" last? How long will it take before that test or paper presides over our friends? How long before we stop sharing our time?

This semester we must realize that some of the most important lessons we will learn will not be related to books, but to involvement with other people. We must learn how to develop these personal relationships into a caring and sharing attitude about life. We must learn from involvement in the world we live in; C.I.A. study help, and the Northeast Neighborhood Center provide immediate opportunities in the South Bend area.

Perhaps we will be lucky enough to learn from a professor on a personal level, and possibly some of us will be able to claim a deepening in our understanding of God and our spiritual lives.

We must remember through the semester that books, tests, and GPA are important, but the greatest resource of this University is its people. We must make sure we always have the time for them.

Graduate praises

Joe Evans

Dear Editor:

Before I met Joe Evans, I thought I knew how to see, but I did not. Joe Evans knew how to see. He wondered at every beautiful speck of creation. He praised the unconquerable intricacy of the snowflake, the rose, and the dragonfly. He witnessed the poetry of the changing seasons.

Above all, he saw the Christ in us all, and he loved what he saw. He cared for us as if we were his own and in a sense we were. For a while he was ours, and I thank God for that.

Rely On Rosary to stop killings

Charles B. Rice

Thomas P. Flint's thoughtful essay in the September 12th Observer urged that we consider the question as to whether force should be used to prevent the performance of abortion. I hope these suggestions will contribute to that consideration.

If you saw a woman strangling her three-year-old child on a street corner, would you not interfere? And even if she were committing the murder in her own house but in plain view from the street, would you not break down the door to stop her? The law would surely recognize your right to do so. Why, then, do we not charge into abortion clinics to stop the killings that take place behind their doors?

The common law privilege of necessity would justify one in entering somebody's house to prevent the latter from knifing a person to death. But according to the Supreme Court the unborn child is a non-person whose life is practically as much at the disposal of his mother as would be the life of a goldfish. There is evidently, therefore, no legal right for any third party to interfere to prevent an abortion.

In moral terms, however, there may be a right to interfere in a situation where there is a reasonable prospect that such interference would be more than a mere gesture and would actually save lives. The laws which protect abortion clinics against those who would prevent abortions provide a legal sanctuary for murder. Those laws, therefore, are unjust and morally void, as are the Supreme Court's abortion rulings. Whether demonstration and obstruction should be used against abortion facilities is therefore a question of prudence and tactics.

There could be situations where it would be appropriate to enter the premises of abortion clinics, but this would generally be counter-productive.

The objective is not to confront abortion with the mere strength of numbers or with physical force. With the power of the state arranged on the side of death, there is practically nothing one can do to save the life of the child whose mother is resolved upon his death. Breaking up the furniture and sitting in clinic doorways will be of virtually no use in this respect. Our reliance here must be on the Rosary rather than the sledgehammer. The most effective technique would be to confront every abortion facility in the country with a continuous, peaceful Rosary vigil lawfully conducted on the public sidewalk, including the offering of pro-life literature to persons entering and leaving the premises. This would not involve any obstruction or interference with anybody. But it would dramatize the opposition of abortion to the law of God. And only through the grace of God will we succeed in removing this scourge from our land.

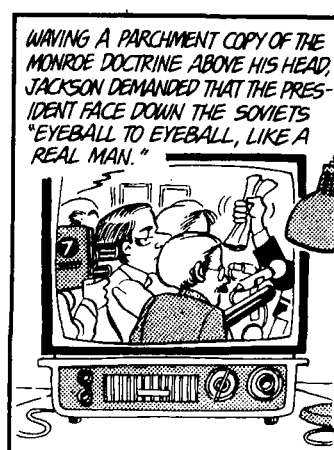

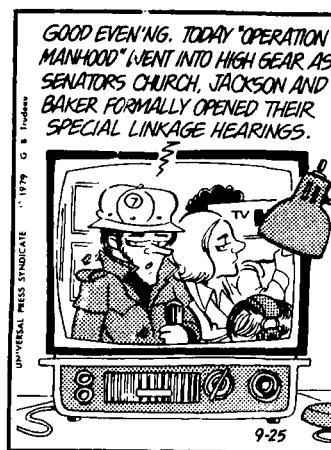

One objection to a prayer vigil outside of abortion facilities is that it would put an extra burden of guilt on some women who have abortions without really knowing what they are doing. It is not our function to try to make anyone feel guilty. And the subjective culpability of any person is ours neither to know nor to judge. However, in the objective moral order abortion is murder. It is proper for us to call it that and to do so in literature distributed to willing takers at the scene of the crime. If this incidentally causes some participants in baby killing to feel guilty, this is understandable. For they do have something to feel guilty about.

Another objection to prayer at abortion facilities is that prayer is effective wherever it is offered. We can do as much good, it is said, praying in church or in privacy of our homes as we can on the public sidewalk. Part of our national problem, however, is due to the tendency to restrict religion to a strictly private preserve, to keep it in the closet and thereby to deny its relevance to the public life of the nation. There is a needed element of witness in praying at an abortion facility. It is hardly too much to suggest that, in the face of the legalized slaughter of millions of babies, we ought to pray in public for deliverance. Various groups throughout the country are engaged in such peaceful prayer at abortion facilities. Every Saturday morning at nine, concerned citizens pray the Rosary before the abortion clinic across from St. Joseph's Hospital in South Bend. All are encouraged to participate, including especially Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students, faculty and staff.

We ought to put our pro-life activity on the proper basis. Our politicking has borne only limited fruit. While continuing to educate and to work for a constitutional amendment we ought to begin to pray in earnest particularly to the Mother of God, who is Notre Dame.

Experts predict

Two-thirds of future mothers will work

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two of every three mothers will be holding jobs in 1990 as a huge exodus of women from the home to the workplace continues during the next decade, a group of employment experts predicted yesterday.

The role of full-time housewife and mother is becoming the exception rather than the rule, according to six economists and sociologists who have written a book on working women.

The book, "The Subtle Revolution: Women at Work," describes the sharp increase in female employment as a revolution that is affecting "virtually all of our social and economic arrangements."

An estimated 11 million women will be entering the labor market by the end of the next decade, and the majority of them will be mothers, the authors reported.

As a result, the percentage of married women who will be in the labor force will grow from the current level of just over half to nearly two-thirds by 1990, according to the book. The same two-thirds percentage is expected to apply to all women who have children living at home - regardless of marital status.

An even higher percentage of women who are both married and have children living at home will be in the job market in 10 years, the authors reported. By 1990, "the stereotype of a wife as someone who stays home to look after children will fit only about one quarter" of American wives, said Ralph Smith, an economist who edited the book.

Currently, a little less than a third of American wives are full-time homemakers raising

The percentage of women who work has been growing steadily since reliable records first were kept in 1890. In that year, only 18 percent of females over the age of 13 and less than 5 percent of married women were in the labor force.

But the most dramatic exodus of women into jobs has occurred since the end of World War II, when the percentage of working women has risen from one-third in 1947 to one-half 30 years later, Smith said at a news conference yesterday.

Women have been streaming into jobs for a combination of economic and social reasons, Smith said. They include a sharply declining birth rate, increased employment opportunities and higher salaries for women, a family's desire to keep up with inflation by having two wage earners and changing social attitudes about sexual roles.

A principal consequence of the increases in working mothers will be the need for more child-care facilities, the authors noted.

During the next decade, there will be 3.1 million more working mothers with pre-school children. And the number of children under age 6 who will have working mothers is expected to rise from a current 6.4 million to 10.5 million - 45 percent of all American children that age.

Social psychologist Kristin A. Moore, one of the authors, said that studies conducted on child care have found no evidence that children of working mothers suffer any harmful effects.

Bokassa escapes death

'Common criminal' gets asylum

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (AP) - Deposed emperor Jean Bedel Bokassa condemned to death in his Central African Republic homeland and denied asylum in France, flew here yesterday and was given refuge by the Ivory Coast's government.

But his successor, President David Dacko, immediately announced he would demand Bokassa's extradition as "a common criminal ... who killed, raped and pillaged the state." Earlier, a radio broadcast from the republic's capital of Bangui said Dacko had condemned Bokassa to death.

Dacko said that under treaties with the Ivory Coast, which like his nation, is a former French colony, the extradition "should not pose any problem."

In France, newspapers were severely critical of the government's actions during the 56 hours Bokassa sat in his private aircraft at a military base in Evreux, 65 miles west of Paris, seeking asylum.

The influential Le Monde accused the government of "indecision, not to say cowardice."

Reports from Bangui, where Dacko with support from France and other African nations, ousted Bokassa in a bloodless coup last Thursday, said there was general bitterness that Bokassa was set free by France.

The reports also said students and intellectuals who had led opposition to Bokassa were already complaining of Dacko's retention of many of the officials who served under Bokassa.

Bokassa arrived in France on Friday in his personal Caravelle jet, but was denied permission to disembark. Yesterday, after the Ivory Coast agreed to give him asylum, he left his jet, boarded a French Air Force DC-8 and flew to Abidjan with at least six of the 26 persons who accompanied him to France.

The Caravelle took off late yesterday and while its destination was not announced, reliable sources who asked not to be named said at least 16 of Bokassa's party, with him in Libya when the coup was carried out, wanted to go back to Bangui and it was believed the jet was headed there.

Bokassa, still a French citizen by virtue of service in the French army, sought asylum in France, but the government said he was an "undesirable" and his presence there was "inopportune." The government's denial of entry to a French citizen drew the ire of the judiciary.

The ruling Ivory Coast Democratic Party announced yesterday that in consultation with senior ministers, army officers, and religious and women's leaders, it had appealed to President Felix Houphouët-Boigny to grant Bokassa asylum for "humanitarian reasons."

In Paris, official sources said Houphouët-Boigny had agreed Sunday night to pressing appeal in telephone calls from Bokassa's wife, Catherine, on behalf of her children, pleading asylum.

You've chosen law because you know you've got the ability and the dedication to protect the rights of others. But it can be hard to find the opportunity to practice in the courtroom what you've learned in the classroom.

Think about the Navy Judge Advocate General (JAG) program. In the JAG Corps you'll be a "working" lawyer and the experience you get will be on-the-spot-in the courtroom.

The JAG Program is available to first and second year law students as well as those students in their final year of law school.

The opportunity is for real... and so are we. NAVY

Residents uncertain about future after Three Mile Island

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP) - Like the unseen nuclear particles that peppered this rural town of 10,000 six months ago, the lingering anxiety of Three Mile Island's neighbors is hard to measure.

Its level of contamination varies from heavy to non-existent. Some believe the fear, like radiation, has a half-life of several generations.

"As long as the plant is there, people in the area will think about the accident constantly," said Mayor Robert Reid. "If the plant would be there for the next 100 years, I think (fear) is going to be passed down from generation to generation."

Last March 28, a series of mechanical malfunctions and human errors at Three Mile Island resulted in leaks of radioactive material when uranium in the reactor overheated.

Local clinics and medical offices have also logged a "boom" since spring.

"People reported experiencing stomach upsets, ulcera-

Commission wants to inform 'ignorant' students

by Luann Duesterberg

Notre Dame Student Government Third World Commissioner Roman Macia, working with St. Mary's Student Body President Pia Trigliani and advisor Fr. O'Neal, plans to implement several new projects this year designed to increase awareness of third world concerns.

Their goal, Macia said, is to educate an ignorant and often apathetic student body, isolated by its own culture from the lifestyles of third world peoples.

The organization's activities began this year with a film series co-sponsored by the Third World Concerns Commission and the Social Commission which featured several movies stressing third world problems.

A new project Macia said he hopes to implement is a series of cultural programs to be held in the Naaz once a month that will feature dances, songs and skits highlighting the culture of a particular third world country.

A question and answer session would follow to promote student participation and clarify various aspects of the life style.

Another project, Macia announced, is the Less Developed Countries Conference to be held on Feb. 29 and March 1-2, which will be incorporated this year with the International Students Organization's festival. Incorporating the two, Macia said, will attract more attention.

Plans are being made to bring in foreign students from all over the country as well as a variety of speakers lecturing on the various cultural achievements of their respective countries, Macia added.

Walsh urges Women to join Coast Guard

by Mary Kay Leydon -
Kathy Cauley

As a part of the College to Career Days sponsored by the St. Mary's Student Government several career women discussed their fields of interest here yesterday. Women representing a wide and varied range of jobs came to St. Mary's to discuss both the advantages and problems that students will face in the real world.

U.S. Coast Guard Civilian Employee, Ouida Bowers and U.S. Coast Guard Lt. J.G. Sarah Walsh spoke to students about the opportunities for women in the U.S. Coast Guard.

Lt. Walsh said she believed that success in the Coast Guard can provide a woman with a knowledge of her leadership ability and her own self reliance. She stated that the academic and physical training gives a woman a sense of accomplishment not found in ordinary professions.

After graduation from college, a candidate for the Coast Guard goes into an 18-week officer training program. Upon completion of the program, the

Young quotes Bible, supports Carter

NAIROBI Kenya (AP) - Andrew Young said yesterday his immediate aim is to help President Carter win re-election. Beyond that, he said recalling his grandmother's favorite quote from the Bible, "Let the day's own trouble be sufficient unto the day thereof."

With less than a month to go before his resignation as U.N. ambassador takes effect, Young discussed his plans and his role over the past 30 months in an interview with the Associated Press on a 5 1/2-hour flight from Cameroon to Nairobi, part of an African tour to promote U.S. trade with Africa.

"I've always taken by life one day at a time," he said, and his plans for the near future include doing some writing and speaking, and in November probably visiting several Middle East countries, including "at least Israel, Egypt, Kuwait and Jordan."

Would he accept an invitation to meet with Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasser Arafat?

"I wouldn't make a special effort unless I had something special to talk about," Young said. "I don't think of myself as a champion of the Palestinian cause. I think of myself as a champion of American interests, and it was strictly in the interest of the United States that I felt it was necessary to talk to the PLO at the United Nations."

His unauthorized meeting with a PLO representative led to a political storm in the United States and Israel culminating in his resignation.

Looking to his own future, Young did not rule out a race for the House, where he served for six years, or for the Senate. But he said his first goal is to help the Carter re-election effort.

Hesburgh is still the one: stars on all three networks

While the pope is not coming to the University of Notre Dame, those who will be covering his American visit have been.

ABC-TV starts its series Monday on its "World News Tonight," and Notre Dame's president, Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C., will be among interviewees of Correspondent Don Farmer on the first segment. Father Hesburgh was interviewed on changes in the American Catholic Church, and Rev. James T. Burtchell, C.S.C., professor of theology, on abortion.

CBS-TV News Correspondent Bill Plant interviewed Father Hesburgh on the state of the American church and on Pope John Paul II, whom Notre Dame's president saw recently as Castelgandolfo, for a network special the night of Oct. 1. NBC-TV is preempting the "Tonight" show on Oct. 1 for a 90-minute special on the pope's visit, and Father Hesburgh was interviewed by Correspondent Gene Farinet.

Father Hesburgh and Notre Dame students were interviewed for an hour-long special produced under ecumenical sponsorship for Chicago's NBC affiliate, WMAQ-TV, to be aired from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Oct. 4, the day the Pope arrives in Chicago.

graduate becomes a commissioned officer. The officer is required to serve three years of active duty.

Mrs. Molly Bernard, Director of Religious Studies at Sacred Heart Parish, discussed her profession. According to Bernard it is an ideal job for a woman with a family because it gives constant experience in dealing with children.

While Mrs. Bernard said that the job of Religious Study Director is an excellent one for a woman because of her attitude, "Men tend to visualize their jobs as 'out there,' something separate, while women tend to make their jobs part of their life style. Chatacismic careers are a way of life she said.

Peggy Donovan is a social worker

Peggy Donovan discussed careers in community service. She is a social worker who works for the Catholic adoption agency, counselling the unwed mothers and assisting them in making the decision to keep their child or to give it up to an adoption agency.

Mary Zimmer, a high school teacher and administrator, spoke about the problems and rewards of her profession. Zimmer, an alumni of St. Mary's, said that while those in her profession are among the poorest paid professionals in this country, they get much personal satisfaction from helping children both academically and emotionally.

Education as a crowded field is gradually leveling off, according to Zimmer. "The initial flooding of the market is tapering off," she added.

Casino decor ignites solar fires

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - The golden glitter of one of Atlantic City's new casinos is causing an unexpected problem on the Boardwalk. Officials say the sun's rays are bouncing off Caesars' new casino hotel and causing fires on the wooden way. Officials say some panels of the angular, plexiglass facade around Caesars' new Boardwalk Regency are warping inward, causing the concentration of the sun's rays onto a small area of the Boardwalk. A solar energy professor told fire officials that temperatures in the treated pine planks can reach up to 400 degrees in areas up to 18 inches in diameter. Fire Chief Joseph Goulker said firefighters have been called out several times to put out small fires and smoldering wood on the Boardwalk.

ATTENTION SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING MAJORS!

The Air Force has openings for young men and women majoring in selected science and engineering fields. Like Aeronautical, Aerospace, General and Electrical Engineering, Mathematics, Physics and Computer Technology.

To help prepare for one of these, Air Force ROTC offers two and four-year programs of study which will defray some of your college costs.

After completion of the AFROTC requirement, and upon your graduation, you'll be commissioned an officer in the Air Force. Then comes responsibility, experience in your specialty with some of the best people and facilities in the world, and a mission with a purpose. You'll get excellent starting salary, medical and dental care, 30 days of paid vacation beginning your first year, and more.

Look into the Air Force ROTC program right away. See what's in it for you. See how you can serve your country in return. You'll be glad you put your major to work on a job that really counts.

Franks
resigns
as manager

CHICAGO (AP) - Herman Franks, who indicated for more than a month he would not return to manage the Chicago Cubs in 1980, officially resigned Monday and coach Joey Amalfitano was named interim manager.

"It's been a lot of fun these three years," said Franks. "I love it here, it's a great city. I have no regrets except that I'm sorry we didn't win a pennant."

The Cubs finished fourth in 1977 with an 81-81 record and were third last year with a 79-83 mark. They were 78-77 under Franks this season.

Irish top Valparaiso, ISU; hike fall record to 4-1

by Bill Maquard

Balanced hitting and consistent pitching paced the Irish baseball team to a 2-1 weekend as Notre Dame upped its fall record to 4-1.

Pitchers John Ebert and Mike Kenahan combined to hurl a 3-1 one-hitter at Valparaiso on Friday as eight of the nine Irish batters reached base.

"Ebert pitched an exceptional game," commented Irish head coach Tom Kelly. "He had a no-hitter through six innings, striking out eight men and only walking two. I hated to take him out, but this early in the season I don't like to push our pitchers too far. John had already thrown 80 pitches and he agreed he was tired so we took him out."

Mark Simendinger led the Irish hit parade against the Crusaders with three singles in four trips to the plate.

On Sunday, the Irish split a doubleheader with Indiana State, dropping the opener 10-5 and clinching the nightcap 2-1.

"Although we fell behind early, the team never really gave up and fought back to the point where they almost tied the game," offered Kelly.

"We had a couple of defensive lapses which hurt us. Against a team like the Sycamores, who execute so well, you often pay for your mistakes."

Notre Dame spotted the Sycamores a 7-0 lead after four innings, but fought back with a five-run, five-hit outburst of their own in the fifth. The Irish put men on second and third with one down in the sixth, but failed to score while Indiana State picked up three runs in the bottom of the frame.

"Deasey pitched much better than the score indicates," noted Kelly, now in his fifth year as Irish mentor. "He slipped behind on a few batters and that hurt him."

The Irish rallied in the second game to clinch a tough 2-1 decision as Bob Bartlett went the route with a two-hitter. The lone run he surrendered was unearned.

For the third game of the weekend the Notre Dame offense punched out eight hits, with Jim Motagano's double and single in four trips the offensive highlight of the nightcap. Yet it was Mark Simendinger's RBI single in the top of the seventh which gave Notre Dame its winning 2-1 edge, after the Irish knotted the score at one-all an inning earlier.

"To come back and win after losing the first game of a doubleheader 10-5 on the road says something about the team," smiled Kelly. "Indiana

X-country runners tune-up

by John Smith
Sports Writer

The cross-country team held their most important tune-up for the regular season last Friday afternoon, the annual time trials. The squad ran a four mile route over the Notre Dame golf course. Afterward, Coach Joseph Piane indicated that he felt his team was ready for the upcoming Notre Dame Invitational meet, which will be held on October 5.

Piane was especially pleased with the performance of five of his runners who finished under the 20-minute mark. Those five: Tony Hatherly, Marc Novak, John Filosa, Carl Bicchichi, and Charlie Fox, were not the only optimistic points for Piane.

Returning runners from last year's team such as Pat Sullivan and Mike Maney, did not compete in Friday's trials.

Another man Piane is counting on a great deal is freshman Aldo Bartolini. Bartolini did not run Friday, but he figures to challenge for one of the top seven spots. His credentials include being a member of the Canadian National Junior Cross Country team.

An important name heretofore unmentioned is Chuck Aragon. Piane expects Aragon to be a major factor on the team. Aragon was on the two-mile relay team that placed fifth in last year's NCAA Track and Field Championships.

"It's all there, now it's a matter of two weeks of good training," said a pleased Piane after the trials.

Those two weeks are all that stand between the Irish and their invitational meet. Last year, Notre Dame finished a solid seventh out of over 50 competitive teams. This year Piane is more optimistic, "I'm

Taylor edges Notre Dame

by Carolyn Carson
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame football team was not the only team to fall victim to an Indiana team Saturday, as the field hockey team suffered a 3-1 loss to Taylor University.

The goal came early in the first half, scored by veteran Pat Crowell, assisted by teammate Kathy Ray.

Taylor continued the scoring from then on. She Thomet put Taylor on the scoreboard with her first goal of the game and later in the second half scored the game-winning goal. Karen Vitko scored an insurance goal in the middle of the second half.

"With each game our players are gaining a very positive and cohesive attitude," said Notre Dame coach Astrid Horveth after the game. "We had the opportunity to allow more players into the game. The experience gained shall be a benefit for us that we will realize later, as hockey is a game of eleven players, not separate units of offensive and defensive squads."

The Irish defense played well overall, as evidenced by the low number of penalty corners and only five shots on goal. Horveth noted that the team needed work on "specific defensive skills like tackling and converting the ball to offensive play."

The Irish hope to earn their first win this Friday when they face Marion College followed by DePauw University in a doubleheader on the astroturf at Cartier Field.

SMC volleyball team suffers three losses

by Kate Huffman

Saint Mary's volleyball team suffered three defeats this week in as many matches.

Last Tuesday, the squad fell prey to a strong team from Hope College. The Belles trailed off the match looking very impressive, but the Hope College team rebounded after a tough second game to finally overtake St. Mary's by scores of 15-9, 12-15, and 15-6.

Offensively for the Belles, Kathy Monahan again was effective at the service line, scoring three aces in the match. Amy Terry combined strong hits with aggressive play for an average of 30 percent kills on spike attempts.

On Thursday, St. Mary's was paired with Purdue-Calumet and host St. Joseph's College in a triangular meet.

In the first match of the evening, St. Joseph's was able to halle a disappointing 15-5, 15-4 loss. It was obvious to coach Erin Murphy that her team lacked the momentum and aggressive attitude it needed to win. "St. Joe got the jump on us, and we never caught up," said Murphy who is in her first year as St. Mary's volleyball coach.

In the second contest, the Belles jumped out to an impressive 9-0 advantage over Purdue. After a few side-outs, however, the Purdue-Calumet team began to chip away at St. Mary's lead and eventually went on to take both games from the Belles, 16-14 and 15-6.

Despite the teams poor performance thus far, Murphy is still confident the squad will fare better as the season progresses.

"The team is young," she said, "but I am still very optimistic about the season because the team has a great desire to do well." Murphy is still looking for a team leader to emerge who will instill a tough, competitive attitude which the squad has lacked thus far.

The Belles hope to notch their first victory of the season tonight when they play at Tri-State University.

Tennis squad squeaks past Wheaton in 5-4 upset win

The best way to rate any team is to rate its performance against top notch competition. Notre Dame's women's tennis team had a tough test this weekend and past with flying colors.

In Friday's showdown with last year's regional champions from Wheaton College, the Irish snuck away with a thrilling and impressive 5-4 win. Coach Jory Segal was thrilled with her team's performance. "I thought we played really well against Wheaton," she said. "Beating them on their home courts was very tough."

Saturday, the Irish downed visiting Northern Illinois 6-3, running their current winning streak to five straight matches after a season opening loss to Depauw.

The weekend's standout performer for the Irish was freshman Linda Hoyer. Playing in the number-two singles spot, Hoyer won both her singles matches and teamed with Cindy Schuster to win the number-one doubles competition against

Rose collects 200th hit for 10th time

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Pete Rose of the Philadelphia Phillies became the first player in major league history to get 200 hits in 10 different seasons when he singled to right-center field with two out in the second inning against the St. Louis Cardinals Monday night.

Rose's 200th hit, on an 0-1 pitch from Cards right-hander Peter Vuckovich, enabled him to break the record he had shared with the legendary Ty Cobb.

Only 27 major league players have managed four or more 200-hit seasons and only seven have done it more than six times.

Rose's hit also extended his current hitting streak to 22 games, tops in the major leagues this year. Seattle's Dan Meyer and Texas' John Grubb shared the previous high of 21 with Rose.

Rose had a 44-game hitting streak last year while with the Cincinnati Reds.
