

The Observer

VOL. XVII, NO. 43

the independent student newspaper serving notre dame and saint mary's

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1982

President Ronald Reagan reaches to shake hands with Fred Napolitano, President of the National Association of Home Builders, Tuesday in the White House after he had signed a proclamation for National Housing Week. Reagan faced a more difficult situation yesterday during a campaign swing through the economically hard-hit Midwest. (AP Photo)

Urges humanities

Rickover blasts technical majors

By RYAN VER BERKMOES
Managing Editor

"The amount of technology you can learn at Notre Dame you can fit into a thimble, maybe two," said retired Admiral Hyman Rickover yesterday.

Speaking to about thirty people in the Center for Continuing Education, Rickover touched on a number of topics during a talk entitled "The Development of the Nuclear Submarine."

Rickover, who has received several honorary degrees including a doctorate from Notre Dame in 1974, claimed that titles mean nothing. "Masters of Science think they know a lot, and as for Ph.D.'s, God help us." He asked all those in the room with doctorates to raise their hands. When about one half the audience complied, Rickover responded, "If I had known what kind of house this was, I wouldn't have come."

Rickover urged undergraduates not to specialize in any one technical major, but instead concentrate on the humanities. "I've accepted theology majors into my nuclear training schools," he said.

Rickover joined the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) in 1949. He supervised construction of the first seagoing nuclear powerplant, which power atomic submarines.

"In 1950, all the subs were diesel, they could only stay submerged for a few hours. Atomic subs can stay submerged for days."

"The best part about the project was I got the AEC to pay for all the development. Then when I was successful, I signed an order transferring all $100 million dollars worth of equipment to me in the Navy," said Rickover.

Commenting on his drive for perfection, Rickover said, "To me the efficiency of the project was everything. I had the romanticism of a chipmunk."

Rickover blames civilians for the bad publicity nuclear power has received. "The problems at Three Mile Island were that there was no proper supervision. I don't have any problems with nuclear power, you damn civilians do."

"I took responsibility for my actions. The rest of the military is like politics, Reagan blames Carter, the next guy, provided he is a Democrat, will blame Reagan," added Rickover.

Rickover was born in Poland in 1900. He joined the Navy in 1917. He attended the Naval Academy in Annapolis from which he graduated in 1922. He spent most of World War II in Hawaii. He saw combat duty in the closing days of the war in 1945. He constructed a naval repair base on Okinawa, which was wiped out by a hurricane shortly after completion.

Reagan announces relief for farmers

PEORIA, IL (AP) — President Reagan, campaigning across economically distressed sections of the Midwest, delivered some pre-election help to farmers yesterday and subsequently declared, "I didn't cause this recession."

At an appearance on behalf of House Republican Leader Robert H. Michel of Peoria, the president again blamed past Democratic administrations for the nation's economic woes.

"Our nation is still paying the penalty of those tragic excesses of the past," he said. "Unfortunately, many are paying with their jobs."

Reagan also referred directly to his actions to prohibit sales of American products used in construction of a Soviet natural gas pipeline into Europe — a decision

See REAGAN, page 4

Electronic eyes

Surveillance system use increases

By RICK HAMPSON
Associated Press

If you have waited for a Manhattan subway train, walked down a Miami Beach street or bought Extra-Strength Tylenol in a Chicago drug store, you may be among the million images on file in the monitored society.

The kind of automatic camera that photographed cyanide poisoning victim Paula Prince, and may also have caught the image of James Lewis, a prime suspect in the seven Tylenol killings, is an increasingly popular surveillance tool.

By design and by chance, Americans are being watched in stores and factories, jails and hospitals, barnyards and locker rooms. Long a fixture in banks, where they are required by law, surveillance systems now reach from embassies to department store mannequins.

Sales by the industry, now about $500 million a year, are expected to nearly double by the end of 1984, according to Kathy Sowder of ADT security Systems. Demand for surveillance systems has "exploded," she says, because "people are having money problems," and stealing to solve them.

about $500 million a year, are expected to nearly double by the end of 1984, according to Kathy Sowder of ADT security Systems. Demand for surveillance systems has "exploded," she says, because "people are having money problems," and stealing to solve them.

"It seems wherever you look you've got a TV camera staring down at your face," says Jack Greenfield, Ms. Sowder's colleague at ADT.

In the next few years, cameras attached to recorders or monitored by human eyes will scan homes, stores and public places, "wherever people expect vandalism or theft," says Ms. Sowder.

Properly used, a television camera might have prevented the Tylenol killings, according to Bill Rudd, vice president of DA general in Needham, Mass., one of the nation's top makers of surveillance cameras.

"With a well-equipped surveillance outfit you can watch people pretty closely," he says. "If somebody's been doing something funny, it's probably going to be seen by the trained eye."

Dealers say their devices are moving beyond banks and stores and into some unusual locations:

- A house on the intercoastal waterway in Florida has underwater cameras to guard against aquatic intruders.

- A midwestern pig farmer uses cameras to make sure his animals, who are packed tightly together as they fatten up, do not trample each other.

- New York City has cameras in several subway stations and is installing more at crime-ridden Times Square stations.

- Cameras scan the First National Bank of Chicago's public plaza in the Loop.

- On Wall Street, cameras monitor areas where negotiable securities are handled and traded. Microfilm certificates worth about $1 million were located in a discarded box after a review of video tape showed the box was out of place.

- Cameras allow officials in several cities to keep an eye out for highway traffic jams and accidents.

- Fears of street crime in Miami Beach led authorities to install cameras that monitor a shopping area.

Part of surveillance systems' popularity is attributable to reusable video tape, which is easier to use and less expensive than film, although the picture is not as clear.

Most cameras are cheaper than guards, and they don't fall asleep or go out to the bathroom, salesmen say.

Systems now cost as little as several hundred dollars or as much as $50,000. A good bank system goes for $6,000 to $10,000.

Many systems are activated only by a particular event: the camera at Walgreen's that photographed Miss Prince buying the cyanide-laced Extra-Strength Tylenol that killed her was linked to a Northern Trust Bank automatic teller which clicked when a customer used a bank card to begin a transaction. The camera focused on the area in front of the bank machine, but took in the checkout line as well.

See CAMERA, page 3

Priest dispels mythical interpretations of 'grace'

By PAM RICHARDSON
News Staff

The word grace "connotes some type of medieval magic" to many. Father John Lahey tried to correct this statement last night in a lecture sponsored by the Thomas More Society entitled "Grace: Medieval Magic."

Following Father John A. Hardon's book, "The Catholic Catechism," Lahey stressed that grace is not a superstition, but rather a gift of God that says something about dignity.

"When we feel we are in need of some of God's grace, prayer is a good way to achieve it."

Lahey commented that "grace is a sublime topic." He gave as an example a person praying hard in order to receive something he wants. Lahey called this a great distortion, describing the doctrine of grace as actually a "divinization of the Christian — God's own free sharing of his life with Christians."

This is the way, Lahey believes, that God comes to live in each man.

In an attempt to make a distinction between grace and nature, he said that "a natural person can be understood without grace. Grace builds on nature."

Lahey went on to explain that God was very gracious in creating man, and giving man God's own life. God even goes so far as to give man a gift, according to Lahey, and that gift is grace.

Lahey commented that many in today's society believe they receive grace by doing good work in their own lives. He said "man in his nature still has an openness to the grace of God and has within him or her the capacity to do God's work."

Lahey stated what the actual grace teaching says "God desires every human person to be saved." In the same manner he stated that "the call of God is universal."

Father John Lahey

Ronald R. Parent, the late editor of Notre Dame Magazine, will be memorialized by a national award for improvement in periodicals publishing to be established by the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE). CASE, for whom Parent was a trustee and in whose institutes and workshops he taught, will also dedicate next June's Sibley Conference for editors to Parent, who was scheduled to be its chairman. A victim of leukemia, Parent died August 21. In the dozen years he edited Notre Dame's alumni magazine, the publication was twice chosen No. 1 in the nation and finished consistently in the top 10. — The Observer

Ecuadoran President Osvaldo Hurtado declared a state of emergency last night, banning public protests on the eve of a nationwide strike called by the left-leaning United Federation of Workers. The move, announced from the capital city Quito, came after three days of demonstrations, bus burnings and an attempt to march on the presidential palace — the most serious unrest since Hurtado took office two years ago. Minor street demonstrations were reported near the presidential palace a few hours after the announcement. Police took up positions outside the palace and other public buildings, and soldiers were posted outside public utilities and communications installations. "Today the country is in a state of economic war," Hurtado said in announcing the state of emergency on national radio and television. He said the decree was necessary because of attacks on public and private transport and "against authorities of legislative power." — AP

Professor George Stigler of the University of Chicago won the Nobel Memorial Award in Economic Science yesterday for pioneering research that included studies of the impact of government regulation on the economy. It was the 11th time that an American has won the prize, which this year carries a stipend of $157,000. Stigler was the second American to win a Nobel prize this year. Professor Kenneth G. Wilson of Cornell University won the prize in physics Monday. The literature prize is to be announced today. The Swedish Academy of Sciences, in giving the award to Stigler, cited the 71-year-old economist for "his seminal studies of industrial structures, functioning of markets and causes and effects of public regulations." — AP

A Huntington, W. Va. judge dropped charges yesterday against a 5 year-old boy accused by school officials of disrupting his kindergarten class, but ordered a Welfare Department hearing to determine "what to do with the child." In the meantime, Circuit Judge D.B. Daugherty ordered the child be accompanied by an adult if he returns to school. The young defendant, Julius, napped through the closed-door hearing. The boy's defense lawyer and his mother, Lea J. Turner, had both protested the filing of juvenile charges by Elmer Hayes, principal of the Spring Hill Elementary School. Mrs. Turner said her son was a "perfectly normal" little boy who was just fidgety. Hayes said he filed a petition accusing Julius of being incorrigible, a "status offense" under state law, because the parents failed to respond to repeated complaints about his classroom behavior. Daugherty said after the hearing that he dropped the charges "because he (Julius) was too young to know what he was doing." — AP

Top leaders of the United Auto Workers met behind closed doors yesterday, one day before the union decides whether to call a strike against Chrysler Corp. for refusing an immediate wage increase. UAW president Douglas A. Fraser and Marc Stepp, UAW vice president in charge of the union's Chrysler department, met with the 10-member bargaining committee. Fraser said no announcement would be made before a meeting today of the UAW's 150-member Chrysler council. "The union is in the throes of decision-making. We're trying to decide what's the next course of action," UAW spokesman David Mitchell said before the union session broke up. — AP

The Interstate Commerce Commission cleared the way yesterday for the merger of three railroads into a new line covering 22,800 miles of track and becoming the nation's second largest in revenue. The ICC's final action approves the merger of the Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific and Western Pacific railroads into a single line that will serve 21 states from the Puget Sound to the Gulf Coast. The ICC, by a 5-1 vote, approved the merger Sept. 13 and released its final documents on the merger from Omaha, Neb. yesterday. The Southern Pacific Railroad, which has fought the merger for two years, has asked the U.S. Court of Appeals to overturn the ruling, but no decision has been rendered in the railroad's request. The ICC has asked that the appeals be dropped, said Union Pacific public relations spokesman Ed Trandahl. He said UP expects legal opposition to the merger and "we'll deal with it at that time." — AP

The United States will seek to extend a two-year ceiling on Japanese car imports for an additional 12 months to protect the ailing domestic auto industry, the top American trade official said yesterday. The U.S. automobile industry, plagued by its lowest sales in two decades, needs more breathing room so that it will not be hurt by imports before the economy improves and sales recover, said U.S. Trade Representative Bill Brock. — AP

Mostly cloudy and cold today. Highs in the mid 40s. Clearing tonight and cold. Lows around 30. Tomorrow, sunny and cool. Highs in the low to mid 50s. — AP

Sauntering . . .

The other day, while lying around, suffering from one of the apathy attacks that occasionally come over me, I noticed that something has been missing this semester. Namely, the Now and Then newsletters, written by our (Flanner hall's) former rector, Bro. Pete Mahoney, which every now and then would find their way into our mailboxes.

These imaginative and warm letters, stenciled in Bro's barely intelligible handwriting, conveyed his refreshing outlook on life, calling us to enjoy the world and the people God has put in it. One of Pete's most recurrent themes was the call to examine new perspectives, to look in the corners and maybe see things in a new light. One of Pete's favorite methods for gaining new insight was sauntering.

Sauntering is quite a pleasant activity, it can put new energy into your approach to life, and is not too hard to learn. Start by emptying your pockets, take nothing with you but your curiosity, an old sweater, and a clear head. Next, start walking, but not at a fast pace. Take your time, don't be in such a hurry. The faster you move, the more you are going to miss.

Look around you and examine everything you see. If something catches your eye, stop, ask questions, find out what is being said, and move on. Soon you will see a world full of fascinating things, a world that you cannot see when caught in a fast-paced race for grades or money.

The road you take while sauntering is also important. Stay away from the long, straight pathways. These breed conformity and complacency, because they always show you what lies ahead. There is no excitement in straight paths, they are too safe, they belong to people who are afraid of living. So instead, take winding roads.

Winding roads bring the promise of new adventures and surprises with every bend. Since you never know what to expect, you must always be more open. Winding roads are for people who believe life is a gift, that should be cherished and enjoyed.

When you saunter put a warm smile on your face. Say hello to the people who pass by, and listen to people who stop with something to say; four billion people means four billion different perspectives. And if someone will give you an ear, share your perspective with him, it is just as good as the next guy's. Just remember to be open.

Two days ago, while out sauntering, I noticed that the main quad was dotted with art students. As I walked from one student to another, examining their watercolor paintings, I suddenly saw something new. Something countless romps through the main quad had never shown me. There, on the artist's paper, I beheld a beautiful scene of scarlet leaves and sunshine.

I know how easy it is to get bored, to get trapped in the rut of school work and grades. Don't let that be the

Dave Grote
Day Editor

Inside Thursday

most important thing you do, though. What does any of it mean if you have no one who cares, no one to care for? How can any grade be more important than loving what you do?

True saunterers refuse to be labeled with a stereotype. They are always seeing things from different perspectives, gaining new knowledge. Therefore, they are ever growing, ever learning more about themselves and those around them.

Saint Francis must have done considerable sauntering in his time, for he understood the miracle in creation. Men like Socrates, Plato, and Sir Issac Newton (who, incidentally, was hit on the head by an apple while sauntering, thus spurring the formulation of the laws of gravity), all had unique perceptions of the world around them. These people were great, because they walked down the side-roads everyone else ignored.

So be an individual, the responsibility for your life is yours alone. Make sure that you fill it with what really counts, what makes you a better person. Put into your life all the beautiful things you can find. Color it with things that bring joy.

At the end of The World According to Garp, as Garp lies dying in his wife's arms he says, "I remember everything." For him, everything in life had value, had purpose. For Garp, life was a beautiful happening that should be cherished.

The next time you catch yourself running through life, stop and take a look around. Slow down and enjoy living. Nothing is that important that it can't wait. As Bro Pete said in one of his more memorable letters, "Saunter, don't jog — it's easier to smell the flowers."

The views expressed in the Inside column are the views of the author, and do not necessarily represent the views of The Observer or its editorial board.

Observer note

The Observer is always looking for new people. We need people in layout, production, news, sports, etc. If you would like to get involved, call 239-5303.

The Observer

Design Editor...Deirdre "is this aesthetic creation?" Murphy
Design Assistant...Sergeant Cerabona
Layout Staff...Captain (Always here) Reggie Typesetters...Bruce, Tari, & Tom
News Editor...Mark "Take me home" Worschch
Copy Editor...Tim Vercellotti
B & T Layout...Alex "Cleveland shoulda won" Szilvas
Hockey Layout...Ed Konrady
Sports Copy Editor...Rich O'Connor
Editorials layout...Tim Neely Typists...Betsy Porter
Ed Konrady
Ad Design...Marilyn Larkin
SMC Day Editor...Tari Brown
ND Day Editor...Dave Grote
Photographer...Tommy "The St. Louis Boy" White — I'll take Molson Paul
Guest Appearances...Soon to be AWOL! Monk, The Nipples Man, Needless, Where's Cleveland?

The Observer (USPS 598 920) is published Monday through Friday and on home football Saturdays except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $25 per year ($15 per semester) by writing The Observer, P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.
The Observer is a member of The Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.
Second class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

When you think diamonds think

15% Discount

N.D.- S.M.C. Students

FOX'S JEWELERS SINCE 1917

DIRECT DIAMOND IMPORTERS

University Park Mall and Concord & Pierre Moran Malls — Elkhart

In Tylenol case Suspects sought in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Authorities said yesterday that James L. Lewis, wanted in connection with the Tylenol killings in Chicago, had lived with his wife in a cheap Manhattan hotel for six weeks, including the period when seven people died from cyanide-poisoned capsules.

A special squad of 100 FBI agents and New York police officers were searching the city in hopes the couple might still be there, FBI agent Kenneth Walton told reporters at a news conference. Walton said Mrs. Lewis may have a kidney ailment and agents were checking New York hospitals.

Walton said that Leann Lewis, 35, had signed the couple into the Rutledge Hotel on Sept. 6 and was last seen there Oct. 16. Lewis, 36, was last seen at the hotel on Oct. 14.

They stayed in Room 200, Walton said, registered under the name of Nancy Richardson, an alias Mrs. Lewis had previously used, with the Lewises' Illinois address.

"We think they stayed here," said James T. Sullivan, chief of detectives. "We don't think there was traveling back and forth. The woman was working regularly during that time and her husband was seen with her."

"He met her at lunch and met her after work and walked her home," Walton added.

All seven cyanide victims in Chicago swallowed the tainted capsules on Sept. 29.

Lewis has been charged with attempted extortion for writing a letter to McNeil Consumer Products

Co., the manufacturer of Tylenol, demanding $1 million to prevent future poisonings. The letter was mailed from New York City. He is also wanted for questioning in the slayings themselves.

"We have no evidence that directly connects the Lewises to the Tylenol murders," Walton emphasized. "No evidence. No evidence."

One motive that has been put forward for Lewis' possible involvement was revenge for the death of his 5-year-old daughter, Toni, in 1974.

"We do know that he was very upset about the death of his daughter," Walton said. "Reportedly on occasion he carried a recording of her voice that he would play for people."

When asked whether Lewis blamed Johnson & Johnson, which owns the maker of Tylenol, for his daughter's death, Walton said, "I have no idea."

A police officer in the Missouri town where Lewis grew up has said Lewis blamed Johnson & Johnson for the death. But a police spokesman in Carl Junction, Mo., called the revenge motive "just a theory," and the Kansas City pediatric surgeon who operated on the girl six weeks before she died discounted the idea.

"I think it's far-fetched, incredibly far-fetched," Dr. Keith Ashcraft, the surgeon who operated on Toni Lewis in late 1974, said yesterday in an interview in his office. "It's a little bit silly."

He said the Lewises "obviously loved the child very much and were very saddened by the death of their daughter," but added that they had not shown any anger toward him or anyone else.

Toni suffered from Down's Syndrome and Ashcraft operated on her for a congenital heart defect common among victims of the disease. He said she had run a after surgery and that he had prescribed aspirin. Ashcraft said he did not know if the Lewises had given her Tylenol instead of aspirin or what brand of aspirin they might have used.

The girl died six weeks later when a blood vessel ruptured just above her heart.

This is a Chicago Tribune artist's rendering of how Theodore Wilson might look if he shaved, changed hair style, and whether or not he continues to wear glasses. Wilson, who is also known as Robert Richardson and James Lewis, is currently the "prime suspect" in the cyanide killings of seven Chicago area persons, according to the Illinois Attorney General. (AP Photo)

PITTSBURGH CLUB

Fall Break Bus Schedule Buses will leave from Notre Dame (North Side of CCE) and St. Mary's Holy Cross Friday, October 22, 1982 4:00pm Will arrive in Pittsburgh about 1:30am (Pgh time)

Buses will return to ND/SMC from Pittsburgh Greyhound Terminal Sunday October 31, 1982 1:00pm (Pgh time)

Be there 15 minutes before leaving time

... Camera

continued from page 1

Other recording systems begin when someone enters the monitored space; still others come with infrared cameras that see in the dark.

The surveillance frontier is the home, says Carmine Pellosie, vice president of CCS Communication Control here. "You're not talking big money any more, and you're getting a feeling of security," he says. "It's going to get so cheap you'll use a camera instead of a front doorbell."

Although the trend toward a monitored society worries civil libertarians, they note that much of the surveillance is in public places.

"Someone on a subway platform really has no expectation of privacy," says New York Civil Liberties Union attorney Richard Emery.

Meanwhile, — "photographs from these systems support evidence in court cases every day," Rudd says. "The surveillance camera picture has become such a tool for law enforcement it is readily accepted as substantial evidence. It is now accepted more and more without expert testimony."

ARE YOUR CAREER GOALS COMPATIBLE WITH YOUR PERSONALITY

- * Learn the career fields that best suit your personality
 - * Direct your academic efforts efficiently
 - * Prepare for the career offering greatest self-gratification
 - * Avoid time-wasting attempts to become what you are not
 - * Learn the personality traits to work on to achieve your goals
- By comparing your personality profile with the personality profiles of thousands of successful men and women in a variety of career fields, PERSONAMETRIX can determine the extent to which your personality is suited for a specific career.
- Simply complete our 60-minute self-administered personality inventory in the privacy of your home and return it to us. We will assess your personal data professionally and return a comprehensive report describing your personality profile and the extent to which your profile resembles the profiles of those who have achieved success in career fields that interest you.

Send your name, address and $25.00 (check or money order) to:

PERSONAMETRIX

9171 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 300, Beverly Hills, CA 90210

The Martians are coming!

WSND - FM
presents

'War of the Worlds'

with Orson Welles

and
The Mercury Theatre

Halloween night 11 p.m. on 88.9

A bit of love,
a touch of class, and a pinch of tradition...

The Student Union Movie Series
IS COMING
November 2-9

Watch for it!!!

Special Rates
Sheraton Inn No.
(ND — Pitt) $29.95
plus tax

Up to 4 people/room with this coupon

Sheraton Inn North

4859 McKnight Rd.
Pitt., Pa. 15237
(412) 355-5200

Rev. Ian Paisley, head of the Democratic Unionist Party, leaves a Belfast polling place yesterday morning during elections for a single-body assembly in Northern Ireland. A policeman stands guard. (AP Photo)

continued from page 1

that has added to unemployment in Illinois and elsewhere.

"I know they are not popular with Peoria or Bob Michel," Reagan said. "But a president sometimes has to make decisions that are painful even to his best friends — it's one of the toughest parts of the job."

Then the president said, "The sanctions have substantially hurt the Soviet Union and of course they have hurt some of our own companies like Caterpillar as well."

There have been repeated layoffs from the huge Caterpillar Tractor Co. near here, which Michel's Democratic opponent, G. Douglas Stephens, blames on Reaganomics in general and on administration embargos on the sale of natural gas pipelaying equipment to the Soviet Union.

At a 2,000-acre farm owned by the Illinois agriculture director, the president announced a reduction in federal loan rates for farmers and new credits to spur agricultural exports.

Even though the announcements came less than two weeks before the Nov. 2 election, White House officials insisted they were not politically motivated.

Reagan said Farmer Home Administration loan rates will be reduced to 11.5 percent, from 13.25 percent, and that the government will make $100 million available in credits — at zero interest — to promote agricultural exports.

The $100 million will be "blended" with $400 million in guaranteed credits already authorized at regular commercial rates, he said.

"With so much on the line in these difficult economic times," Reagan told the farmers, "I know you need more than just a pat on the back."

Agriculture Secretary John Block, who accompanied Reagan, said the combination of the $100 million credit program and the guaranteed credits will provide money for agricultural exports at four points lower than regular commercial rates.

He said the program will make American farm products more competitive on world markets by providing incentives to foreign buyers interested in purchasing U.S. products.

The decrease in FHA loan rates applies mainly to money borrowed for farmers' operating costs. FHA now provides about 12 percent of the outstanding farm loans.

Although they listened intently, the crowd of farmers was largely silent during the president's speech, applauding only twice.

Afterward, Reagan climbed on a big green tractor for a ride across a corn field. It was supposed to help illustrate new soil conservation methods, but several days of heavy rains had left the field muddy and rendered the demonstration largely ineffective.

In the general, openly political part of his speech, Reagan implored voters to have the "gumption" to stick with his programs through the current hard economic times.

Making a special campaign pitch for House Minority Leader Bob Michel of Illinois, the president could hardly have chosen a tougher territory to defend his programs.

Unemployment has hit 15.1 percent in nearby Peoria, Michel's home town, and is 12.5 percent statewide. Farmers here, like those throughout the Midwest, are struggling to cope with rising operating costs and sharply falling prices.

"I know you face a real uphill battle here on the farm," Reagan said during his campaign appearance at the farm owned by Larry Werries, who succeeded Block as head of Illinois' agriculture department.

From the farm, Reagan was to travel to a Republican rally in Peoria for appearances with Michel and Illinois Republican Gov. Jim Thompson. He then was to push on to Omaha, Neb., where he was spending the night in advance of more Midwestern politicking Thursday.

Reagan acknowledged the "high unemployment and hardships here in the counties of rural Illinois" but insisted that "the best farm program is one that returns prosperity to all sectors of our economy."

YOUR BSN IS WORTH AN OFFICER'S COMMISSION IN THE ARMY.

Your BSN means you're a professional. In the Army, it also means you're an officer. You start as a full-fledged member of our medical team. Write: Army Nurse Opportunities, P.O. Box 7713, Burbank, CA 91510.

ARMY NURSE CORPS. BE ALL YOU CAN BE.

INTERESTED IN AN MBA?

Stella Catanzarite, Assistant Director of Admissions at the Graduate School of Business Administration

University of Southern California

will be on campus at the

MBA Day

November 1, 1982

to talk about programs at the GSBA

For schedule and location information, please contact Placement Bureau

Pittsburgh Club

Sign-ups for round trip bus to Pgh for Pitt-ND game. Everyone Invited

Thurs. Oct. 21, 1982 LaFortune Little Theatre 7pm

Tentative schedule: Bus will leave Fri. Nov. 5, at 4pm. Bus will return Sun. Nov. 7 at 1pm. Round Trip Fare is $45. Payment must be paid in FULL at time of the reservation.

-no refunds - First come/ First served. Must be at the meeting to sign up. No Exceptions

Note: If there are not enough people at sign-up no bus will run

call Brian at 1743

BLESSED BROTHER ANDRE, C.S.C.
1845 — 1937

FRIENDS OF HOLY CROSS

You are invited to join Bishop McManus and the Religious of Holy Cross --

Sisters, Priests, and Brothers, in a joyful celebration of the Beatification of Blessed Brother Andre on Saturday,

October 23, 1982, at 2:30 p.m.

in St. Joseph Chapel at the Holy Cross

Brothers' Center on Holy Cross Junior College Campus, Notre Dame, Indiana.

The MUSIC BOX

PROUDLY PRESENTS IN CONCERT

THIS WEEKEND, A TRIBUTE TO

Jim Morrison and the Doors
WITH THE BAND

RIDERS ON THE STORM

With Special Guests

Victrola

FULL EVENING OF DOOR'S MUSIC

Members Formerly of South Shore, I.C. Holt, and Blackstone

THIS MONDAY OCT. 25th ONE NIGHT ONLY

The Fusion Jazz of Jeff Lorber

featuring Kenny G.

BILBOARD MAGAZINE #17 HIT

OF THE NATION

256-1934

120 W. Mishawaka Ave., Mishawaka

Democratic Socialists

Youth organizer lectures tonight

By KATHARINE STALTER
News Staff

As part of their ongoing effort to educate the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community on democratic socialism, the campus chapter of the Democratic Socialists of America will present a youth organizer of the national group in a lecture this evening.

Peggy Schantz, of the DSA, will speak on "What Is Democratic Socialism?" tonight at 8 in the Library Auditorium.

The spread of information on the organization, through lectures such as Schantz's, as well as other activities, is the primary concern of the campus group at present.

The first obstacle in this process, according to members of the campus organization, is to overcome the general fear of the word "socialism."

Instead of running counter to democracy, socialism complements democracy, say student members of the organization.

The DSA claims that the basis for a truly democratic society lies in full worker and community control of all economic decision-making. This goal can be reached by reforms within the American political and economic systems.

According to DSA member Chris Beem, "We have to work within the Democratic party to instigate structural changes in society. We have a responsibility to understand the problems of capitalism, and to make other people aware of these problems."

Members of the campus DSA branch agree that they are not satisfied with the status quo, and that the group's efforts toward improvement must be geared toward the campus atmosphere in terms of what is possible to achieve.

Student members explain that the organization is committed to the notion of a society oriented toward the needs of people, rather than toward capital. Inherent in their socialist dream, they say, is a vision of people freely and democratically controlling their lives and society.

The DSA makes two proposals, that America's workers, the people who have created this nation's wealth, should be able to share in the wealth, and that people have the opportunity to participate in decisions affecting their lives. Today's "crisis of democracy" can be alleviated only by extending democracy to all realms of society, fostering a spirit of popular control and a cooperative, rather than competitive, approach to politics, they claim.

The DSA points to several characteristics of modern society which they say represent this "crisis". High unemployment, millions subsisting below the poverty level and forced to accept inadequate housing, education, and health care, and the richest one percent of Americans controlling over fifty percent of the nation's wealth.

DSA projects concentrate on discussing these and other issues. One proposed project is the sponsoring of a referendum for the Kennedy-Hatfield version of the Nuclear Freeze bill, in coalition with other campus political and religious groups.

A related topic of concern to the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's DSA branch is the resumption of American-Soviet tensions. The group plans to sponsor an educational week, in the hope of raising questions about the reasons for the recurrence of the Cold War, and what can be done to ease East-West tensions.

The educational week, featuring speakers, films, and discussions, will be patterned after last April's DSA-sponsored El Salvador educational week. The campus DSA branch showed two documentary films on the Salvadoran situation, hosted two guest speakers, and arranged a session with a representative of the Revolutionary Democratic Front, a Mexico City-based coalition of nine Latin American activist groups.

Group members stress the importance of their own extensive preparation for the educational weeks. Before the El Salvador week, students spent over two months researching the history, sociology, culture, and politics of the country.

Much of this work is done at the group's weekly meetings, held each Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in 342 O'Shaughnessy. The first hour is spent in discussion of socialist texts. The second hour is devoted to the practical application of those theories.

Charles Kirkpatrick, who has been active in the ND/SMC branch since it began a year ago, concedes the difficulty of applying abstract theories to real situations of culture and politics in the eighties.

He feels that democratic socialism has the potential to become a strong agent of reform by encouraging students to re-think problematic issues.

"DSA's strength lies in its local chapters. We get no commandments from on high to tell us what to do or think," he said.

Kirkpatrick noted that, in accordance with the DSA's philosophy, the group has no officers.

John Z. De Lorean sits in one of the first models of his stainless steel, gull-winged sports car in New York in April, 1981. De Lorean was arrested Tuesday for alleged cocaine smuggling. See story, page 8. (AP Photo)

Thank You

The men of St. Ed's thank the Brothers of Columba Hall for the invitation to a buffet supper, given in celebration of the feast of St. Edward.

We thank them for the buffet, housing us during the Hall restoration,
and for their brotherhood.

Ireland Program St. Patrick's College
MAYNOOTH, IRELAND

Important and required meeting for all interested
Carroll Hall Madeleva Building
St. Mary's College

Thursday, October 21, 1982----6:30 p.m.

"Papa & Mama Do The Cooking"

Francesco's Famiglia

277-6155 Restaurant 277-6156

featuring
FOUR SEASONS PIZZA
The Original Southern Recipe

Lasagna, Home-made Spaghetti,
Chicken Cacciatore, Veal Parmigiana All Varieties of Sandwiches
(Francesco was chef for Holy Cross Fathers for 21 yrs.)

1636 N. Ironwood
"WE DELIVER"

Proprietor: Francesco Catanzariti

east bank

EMPORIUM
restaurant

Dine among the antiques and enjoy our view of the new downtown!

Reservations Appreciated 234-9000
121 South Niles South Bend

NEED A BAND?

for parties, weddings, etc.
call...

BANDS UNLIMITED
Booking Agency
233-5727

Collectible Records

hard to find out of print records

Lincolnway East and Cedar in Mishawaka
(5 blocks east of downtown)

Tues. - Fri. 5-8 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

BUY SELL TRADE

Tonight is Ladies' Night
at Artio's Irish Pub

Everybody Welcome
Tonight after 9pm

★ 2 for 1 Mixed Drinks ★
★ 75¢ Domestic Beer (cans) ★

★ Artio's
Cleveland Rd. ND

Grape Rd.

Norbertine Fathers & Brothers!

We offer the opportunity for Teaching and Pastoral Ministry with life in community.
We are men seeking God through † shared life † shared prayer † shared ministry

This is our challenge!

For more information write to: Rev. Gene Gries, O.Praem.
Vocation Director
St. Norbert Abbey
De Pere, Wisconsin 54115

Name _____ Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Age _____ Completed High School _____ College _____

Chicago

is coming to
NOTRE DAME!
Monday Nov. 8 8pm

Tickets $10.50, $11.50
On sale at Student Union
Box Office

YOU'RE WASTING YOUR MONEY BUYING ANYWHERE ELSE!

PRICES GOOD THROUGH SATURDAY,
OCTOBER 23RD, 1982

"A World of Wine III" presented by Kings Cellar
for the benefit of
The Muscular Dystrophy Association
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1982
5:00-9:30 p.m. at the A.C.C.
WATCH FOR FURTHER DETAILS!

South Bend Ave. Store Only 1621 South Bend Ave.
(ND's closest liquor store)

OLD MILWAUKEE REGULAR & LIGHT 5⁴⁹ CASE OF 24 CANS 		KEGS 29⁹⁵ Bud, Bud Light, Pabst, or Strohs Deposit Required!! 		LABATT'S BEER & ALE 2⁹⁹ 6-12 OZ. BOTTLES
LORD CALVERT 10⁹⁹ 1.75 LITER 	CALVERT EXTRA 10⁹⁹ 1.75 LITER 	CALVERT GIN 9⁹⁹ 1.75 LITER 	VODKA 8⁹⁹ 1.75 LITER CHOICE OF 4 BRANDS	SCHENLEY RESERVE BLEND 1.75 LITER 10⁹⁹ 750 ML. 4⁹⁹
KENTUCKY TAVERN 1.75 LITER 10⁹⁹ 750 ML. 4⁹⁹ 	CASTILLO RUM LIGHT OR DARK 9⁹⁹ 1.75 LITER 	PHILADELPHIA BLEND 10⁹⁹ 1.75 LITER 	GALLO VERMOUTH SWEET OR DRY 1⁹⁹ 750 ML. 	CARLO ROSSI DINNER WINES 4⁹⁹ BIG 4 LITER
J. ROGET SPUMANTE 1⁹⁹ 750 ML. 	RIUNITE LAMBRUSCO 2⁴⁹ 750 ML. 	BONIFATO ITALIAN RED & WHITE 2⁹⁹ 1.5 LITER	PETRI TABLE WINES 4⁹⁹ BIG 4 LITER 	PAUL MASSON LIGHT WINES 3⁹⁹ 1.5 LITER
CHRISTIAN BROTHERS •CHARDONNAY •CABERNET SAUVIGNON •CHENIN BLANC WHAT A VALUE! 7⁹⁹ 1.75 LITER 		SUNGLO POP STILL ONLY 3⁹⁹ A CASE CHERRY, STRAWBERRY, PUNCH, COLA, ORANGE, ROOT BEER, LEMON-LIME, GRAPE		MR. & MRS. "T" BLOODY MARY MIX 99^c ONLY 750 ML.

Research Update

The Pentagon is now spending $1 billion a year for research contracts on U.S. campuses, an increase of 70 percent in just three years, a Quaker peace group says. The money comes as other aid sources dwindle and represents "an alarming, growing militarization of campus research across the nation," the American Friends Service Committee reported Wednesday. The group said it surveyed 250 campuses and found Pentagon money generally well accepted. Spokesman Tom Conrad said that by holding purse strings, "the Pentagon will increasingly be able to call the shots on U.S. campuses by bankrolling projects with military potential." — AP

Wall Street Update

A new wave of buying swept through the stock market late Wednesday, lifting the Dow Jones industrial average to its highest closing level in almost 10 years. The Dow Jones average of 30 big name stocks, up about 7 points going into the last hour of trading, finished with a 20.32-point gain at 1,034.12. That stood as the highest close for the venerable average since it finished at 1,036 on Jan. 12, 1973. The record of 1,051.70 was reached on Jan. 11 of that year. Volume on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 98.68 million shares, against 100.85 million Tuesday. There were almost three stocks advancing for every one that declined in the overall count on the Big Board.

Russians lead U.S. in 'space race'

By BOB JOHNSON
News Staff

Russia has recently shot past the United States as the leader in space exploration according to the "Space Programs Around the World" lecture given by Larry Boyle on Tuesday night.

Boyle, a member of the Chicago Society for Space Studies, said the Russians have surpassed the U.S. because "they have the political will to do their space program properly." The "U.S. has been drifting" with no apparent goal according to Boyle.

Publicity surrounding the U.S. space program has given it the appearance of being the number one program. Foreign nations, meanwhile, have spent little on publicity for their space programs, preferring to remain secretive about their developments.

Russia launches more rockets into space than any other nation, but Boyle noted that "they are using a primitive technology." In the past they have been unable to build engines of the same quality as U.S. engines.

The Soviet Union has concentrated its recent efforts on space stations. Boyle said that "they (Russia) took a very critical step to larger space stations in 1981." These new stations can carry up to five cosmonauts.

Until this year these cosmonauts would have all been males. The Soviets, though, sent a woman up with their last space station mission. Boyle said that since the U.S. is now training a woman astronaut, "speculation was that Russia decided not to get shown up so they added women to their space corps," Boyle said.

Boyle's presentation utilized a slide show to discuss the space programs of other nations. The Europeans have the third largest space program. Their programs are split between the European Space Agency (ESA) and the programs of individual nations.

Individual nation programs tend to be militarized. The ESA, though, is a non-military space organization.

Boyle remarked that from a financial point of view, it appears that satellite communications is "the one aspect of space programs which will make a profit in the future."

Boyle's lecture was sponsored by the L-5 society. They are a chapter of a national organization which seeks to promote space industrialization and colonization. Their purpose at Notre Dame/Saint Mary's is to help keep the campuses informed about space.

Without side effects

Male contraceptive sought

By JOHN LANGONE

Discover News Service

Exploding populations, especially in Third World countries that can least support them, lend urgency to the search for simple, cheap and safe contraceptives for man. But why a male pill when so many effective contraceptives are available for women?

Coils, diaphragms, vaginal suppositories, cervical caps, foams or jellies and the pill all sharply reduce the chances of pregnancy. Yet, despite the fact that these methods work, some of them are far from foolproof, and others can have serious side effects. Furthermore, many women ask, with all the recent advances on science, why should the burden of birth control continue to rest largely on the woman?

In fact, some feminists blame the failure to develop a male pill on male chauvinism. That charge seems unfounded in the midst of the current flurry of research into a male pill. Indeed, the problem seems to lie not in sexual politics, but, like that posed by the female pill, in serious side effects.

There is another difficulty: Men are always fertile; they release millions of sperm with each ejaculation. Women usually release only one egg each month. In fact, the sheer numbers of male sperm have made it difficult even to define male infertility.

Thus a drug that merely lowers the sperm count decreases the probability of fertilization, but does not necessarily rule it out.

Dr. Dolores Patanelli, a reproduction physiologist at the National Institute of Health, explains, "It's a mean problem. Everything we have done has raised more questions than we have answered."

At the University of Washington, Dr. C. Alvin Paulsen has given 400 male volunteers various combinations of drugs: Some took a daily pill containing danazol (a synthetic male hormone) along with testosterone, either orally each day or by injection once a month; others got an injection of testosterone combined with depo-provera, a female hormone used to treat menstrual difficulties.

In all the volunteers, sperm counts dropped and side effects were minor: weight gain, increase in breast tissue, flare-ups of acne.

Paulsen found that testosterone on combination with depo-provera worked best "in terms of cost effectiveness and acceptability."

Yet doctors have reasons for caution. The hormone has been found to cause changes in the uteruses of female rhesus monkeys who have been given it for ten years, as well as changes in the breasts of female beagles. Obviously, says Paulsen, more testing is needed.

Another promising approach is the use of luteinizing hormone-releasing hormone, or LHRH, which is produced naturally in the hypot-

One result of this study disturbed the scientists, to say nothing of the volunteers. The severe drop in testosterone levels caused some of the men to become impotent and lose their sex drive, effects that continued for several weeks after the injections were halted.

There is another possible way to block fertilization, based on the fact that the motility of the sperm and their ability to fertilize the egg increase once they arrive in the female reproductive tract. Says Dr. George Witman, an expert in cell movehalamus.

Dr. George Witman, an expert in cell movement, organizes flasks of algae in his lab at the Worcester (Mass.) Foundation. One-celled green algae are used as a surrogate in studying sperm motility. (Discover magazine photo)

Normally, LHRH stimulates the production of sex hormones and the growth of sperm. But some modified forms of LHRH have the opposite effect: They actually block production of the hormones.

In a study conducted at Vanderbilt by Dr. David Rabin, eight men were injected with a synthetic LHRH every day for six to 10 weeks. The result: Testosterone levels fell sharply, sperm production was cut by 75 percent to 100 percent, and the ability of sperm to move about was hampered.

ment, "If somehow you could interfere with the interaction between sperm and egg, there should be no side effects, because such an interaction does not affect any other type of cells."

If that turns out to be the best solution, the quest for the male pill would end in a final irony. Says Dr. Federico Welsch of the Worcester (Mass.) Foundation, "It might turn out again to be something that woman might have to take to prevent such an interaction. It would be that the male pill would end up being, again, a female pill."

Economy remains stagnant

By ROBERT FURLOW

Associated Press Writer

Still well short of recovery, the U.S. economy slowed to a meager 0.8 percent annual growth rate in the third quarter, the government reported Wednesday. Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said little improvement is likely before next year.

The Commerce Department's report on inflation-adjusted gross national product — a measure of all goods and services produced during the summer — was the last major estimate of U.S. economic health before the Nov. 2 elections.

At the White House, presidential press secretary Larry Speakes tried to make the best of the figures. "We're grateful the economy did turn upward in the third quarter and we expect our growth to continue," he said.

But the gain was so tiny that

Baldrige made no claims of recovery from the recession that has stifled the economy for most of President Reagan's first two years in office.

The report, he told reporters at a briefing, "is another indication that the economy is in an interim period between recession and recovery."

That analysis was nearly identical to Baldrige's statement to the same group three months ago, when he said sluggish second-quarter growth — eventually pegged at a 2.1 percent rate — "suggests that the economy is in a transition stage between recession and recovery."

Asked Wednesday how long the "interim period" might last, Baldrige answered "through this quarter," that is, until the end of the year.

He said real GNP probably will grow only at an annual rate of "2 percent or less" in the current October-December period, considerably less than the 3 percent to 4 percent rate forecast by Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan.

There is no official administration forecast for the period.

Baldrige said growth would pick up to a rate of 3 percent to 4 percent next year — only about half the pace of typical recoveries in the seven previous recessions since World War II.

But it should be enough to bring down unemployment — now at a 42-year high of 10.1 percent — "after the first of the year," he said.

Arthur Levitt Jr., chairman of the American Stock Exchange, said in a prepared statement that the figures "demonstrate that the long-awaited economic recovery remains elusive. The economy cannot quite seem to turn the corner to a strong, sustainable economic recovery."

Real GNP had fallen at annual rates of 5.3 percent and 5.1 percent in the last quarter of 1981 and the first quarter of this year. And Baldrige said that after such a plunge, "you don't jump into a full recovery, full-blown."

A painting by a Berlin artist depicting a refugee, in addition to a montage of amateur graffiti, can be seen on the western side of the communist-built wall dividing Berlin. The wall is a favorite "screen" often used by Berlin visitors for souvenir engraving. (AP Photo)

De Lorean arraigned on cocaine charges

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Z. De Lorean, who said two days ago that he had found the cash to save his failing auto company, was arraigned yesterday on charges of being the moneyman in a $24 million cocaine deal.

De Lorean, a high-rolling international entrepreneur, was accused of conspiring to possess 220 pounds of cocaine with the intent to distribute it. He did not enter a plea, but his attorney, Bernard Minsky, said he would plead innocent to all charges.

Bail was set at $5 million after a heated argument in which Assistant U.S. Attorney James Walsh contended De Lorean "views himself as well above the law."

Minsky said De Lorean would post the $5 million bail.

Walsh, who had sought bail of $20 million, told U.S. Magistrate Volney Brown he was afraid De Lorean would flee.

"He is a staggering and astronomical bail risk," said Walsh. "If he runs away, and well he may — so the government is $5 million richer, so what."

A Nov. 1 preliminary hearing was scheduled.

De Lorean listened intently as Minsky portrayed him as a selfless entrepreneur concerned only with saving his company.

De Lorean, unshaven and with his hands cuffed behind him, strode briskly through a mob of reporters outside the courtroom. His wife, international model Christina Ferrare, embraced him when he entered the courtroom and the couple spoke briefly.

The 57-year-old former General Motors executive was "financier" of the drug operation, according to Richard T. Bretzing, special agent in charge of the Los Angeles FBI office. Bretzing said De Lorean had several pounds of cocaine with him when arrested Tuesday.

Also charged were William Morgan Hetrick, 50, owner of a Mojave, Calif., aircraft service company, and Stephen Lee Arrington, 34, of San Diego, described as a Hetrick associate. The three were accused of conspiring to distribute cocaine and possession of cocaine with intent to distribute.

Bretzing said De Lorean came to Los Angeles to buy 220 pounds of cocaine — worth $24 million on the street — and speculated that the deal was meant to salvage the failing De Lorean Motor Co.

"His company is in severe financial problems," Bretzing said, "and he feared the possibility of his company being closed down by the government which had extended loans to him..."

Ironically, De Lorean was arrested on the day the British government announced the closing of his company's manufacturing plant in Belfast, Northern Ireland, because of financial problems.

In a Monday interview with the British Broadcasting Corp., De Lorean said he had secured the money needed to save the firm.

"We're planning to keep this company alive no matter what happens," De Lorean said. "And we have the funding in place. It's in the bank."

De Lorean declined to say where he got the money.

"I'm not allowed to say that until the transaction is concluded," he said.

"The man must have been driven to distraction to try and raise the money in order to recreate his dream," Ben Wilson, who represents De Lorean creditors in Northern Ireland, said in London.

Before We Put You In Charge Of The World's Most Sophisticated Nuclear Equipment, We Put You Through The World's Most Sophisticated Nuclear Training.

It takes more than 16 months of intensive training to become a fully qualified officer in the Nuclear Navy. You begin with four months of leadership training. Then as a Navy officer you get a full year of graduate-level training unavailable anywhere else at any price.

Navy training is based on more than 1900 reactor-years of experience. Right now the Navy operates over half the nuclear reactors in America. And the Navy's nuclear equipment is the most sophisticated in the world. That's why your Navy training is and must be the most sophisticated in the world.

As an officer in the Nuclear Navy, you have decision-making authority immediately. You get important management responsibility fast. Because in the Navy, as your knowledge grows, so does your responsibility.

Your training and experience place you among the country's most qualified professionals. (No surprise that most of the men who operate the reactors in private industry started in the Nuclear Navy.)

It takes more time and more effort to become an officer in the Nuclear Navy. But the rewards are greater, too.

The rewards can begin as early as your junior year in college. Qualify, and the Navy will pay you approximately $1000/month while you finish school.

After four years, with regular promotions and salary increases, you can be earning as much as $37,400. That's on top of a benefits package that includes medical and dental care, and 30 days' vacation earned every year. More responsibility, more money, more future. So, if you're majoring in math, engineering or the physical sciences, and you want to know more about a future in nuclear power, fill in the coupon.

Today's Nuclear Navy is an opportunity like no other in the world.

NAVY OPPORTUNITY INFORMATION CENTER W 214
P.O. Box 5000, Clifton, NJ 07015

☐ Please send me more information about becoming an officer in the Nuclear Navy. (ON)

Name _____ First _____ (Please Print) Last _____

Address _____ Apt. # _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Age _____ +College/University _____

±Year in College _____ ♦GPA _____

▲Major/Minor _____

Phone Number _____ (Area Code) _____ Best Time to Call _____

This is for general recruitment information. You do not have to furnish any of the information requested. Of course, the more we know, the more we can help to determine the kinds of Navy positions for which you qualify.

Navy Officers Get Responsibility Fast.

Thousands mourn slain Polish youth

NOWA HUTA, Poland (AP) — Marching slowly to Chopin's funeral dirge under banners declaring "Solidarity Lives," thousands of angry and despairing Poles yesterday buried a young unionist killed by police in riots set off by a government ban on the independent union.

Hundreds of riot police backed by helmeted paratroopers kept a tight grip on Nowa Huta to prevent new unrest as an estimated 10,000 mourners and at least 21 Roman Catholic priests left the funeral of 20-year-old Bogdan Wlosik.

"My son, oh my son," cried Irena Wlosik as she threw herself twice onto her son's coffin. Her husband Jozef and their daughter Malgorzata wept as the coffin was lowered slowly into the ground by friends.

"My son, sleep calmly in our Polish earth on which you were not permitted to live in peace," said a banner on one of about 60 wreaths placed amid flowers piled over six feet high on Wlosik's grave.

Dawning age of 24-hour television

Insomniacs on campus, take heart. Now, you too, can stay up late and watch T.V. No longer will you be forced to listen to Fr. Hesburgh read the prayer of St. Francis and the national anthem just after midnight. Never again will you have to stare at test-patterns right after the "Columbo" reruns.

Skip Desjardin

On the Media

The networks have gone the way of Ted Turner, and they are staying on much later at night. CBS never goes off the air anymore.

Before you get too excited, however, sit down and watch the late-night T.V. fare. It's news, news, and a dose of talk. No more

Charlie Chan movies, no "Sunrise Semester."

NBC brings you "Overnight," a recap of the days events, presented with healthy banter from the show's anchors, Linda Ellerbe and Lloyd Dobbins. The show is getting better. In this column several weeks ago, I chided the producers for offering us the stories "not quite good enough to make the evening news." Though that still happens occasionally, it occurs with much less frequency than before.

"Overnight" is growing into the role of information/entertainment supplier. Whereas the initial shows were technically sloppy, with missed videotape cues, and sound rop-outs common, the production has improved vastly. The show flows well from one segment to the next, and the time-lags between stories have been eliminated. In short, "Overnight" is a tighter program now.

With better story material to work with, more time in which to tell those stories, and two fine writers staffing the anchor desks, the show surpasses "Nightline" for catching the viewers' attention, and keeping them interested in what's going on.

At ABC, there are plans to expand "Nightline" somewhat. The news operation is drooling at the chance to grab the late night/early morning time slot. Though the show, which began as a nightly recap of events during the Iranian hostage crisis, provides in-depth coverage not found anywhere else during the week, its format is, in itself, limiting.

The expansion of news coverage will give ABC a chance to focus on the day's top story, examine it thoroughly, and still cover the other events in the world. We will still have to look at the back of Ted Koppel's head as he talks to world leaders — but at least we'll get to know what is going on in the rest of the world, too.

CBS has made the biggest plunge into all-night news. "Nightwatch" is a headline service that runs from 1:00 to 5:00 in the morning. Patterned after the many successful all-news radio stations in America, "Nightwatch" repeats itself periodically, and begins to cover the news again for anyone who just tuned in.

Turner is definitely the culprit behind this move. Several CBS stations threatened — and some carried through the threats — to subscribe to Turner's headline service "CNN 2" to fill the overnight time slot. Those threats sent CBS scurrying to the blackboard.

They came up with a headline service that fills spare time with radio-style talk shows: "Hello, Peoria, what do you think of Reaganomics?"

Well, it can only be carried so far. CBS is trying to compete with Turner, NBC, Mutual Radio's Larry King, and whoever else is out there. They are biting off more than they can chew. The news itself needs work — the same kind that "Overnight" needed (and got) after its debut.

The talk show has got to go. It's too small-town.

Given time, however, and a monetary commitment CBS has got to resign itself to, "Nightwatch" just might earn its keep.

After all, anything is better than "Sunrise Semester."

Technology with faith

Dean of the College of Engineering Roger Schmitz officially received the McCloskey Chair at a mass this past Sunday. Fr. Hesburgh gave an inspiring homily during which he noted: at Notre Dame we are not just to become educated in the field of our vocation;

David M. Schorp

Chautauqua in Faith

more importantly, we are to learn wisdom necessary to guide any vocation. His theme was that the McCloskey Chair is bestowed not only upon an outstanding engineer, but upon a very fine human being as well. A dean who so exemplifies the integration of faith and science is truly one of God's great blessings to this University.

How earnestly is wisdom pursued by the students he and the other deans of Notre Dame colleges are responsible for? Anyone who has personal contact with a man in so high a position, yet so kind and considerate, can't help but be touched. But of course the transmission of wisdom takes place not only through personal contact with the many truly great men who compose the faculty of this University.

The most important courses a student can take are those in philosophy and theology. The basis of any true education is wisdom, which begets the ability to realistically embrace the goodness of life. Philosophy teaches us to think for ourselves, about life, and so is the basis for a faith built on reason. Philosophy is not a specialized subject reserved for liberal arts majors or seminarians. In fact, who might need wisdom (the fundamental, God-inspired grasp on reality) more than those pupils of science and engineering who will focus their study on man's attempts to describe the world? Or business students who will be much involved with the material aspects of life, or the students of the humanities?

A major schism between the Church and Science concerned Galileo's discoveries in astronomy in 1609. The Church, understandably, could not assimilate into itself ideas so challenging and radical to its teaching. Galileo was cast out of the Church because of his teachings (reminding us of a man 16 centuries earlier). This is a classic example of the courage and strength necessary for an institution, as well as for an individual, to examine our way of living — the beliefs which constitute our wisdom.

God gives man both the capacity to explore his world and the grace so necessary for him to become wiser for his effort. But He also gives man a free will. If a scientist has not faith, might he be tempted to believe solely in the power of man (of education only?)

What remains of the first division between the Church and Science? Or at least, what parallels are present in today's society? Robert M. Pirsig, in Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance succinctly portrays the separation of caring from technology. "...Typical of modern society (is) an overall dullness of appearance so depressing that it must be overlaid with a veneer of 'style' to make it acceptable. ... Now it's not just depressingly dull, it's also phony. Put the two together and you get a pretty accurate description of modern American Technology: stylized cars and stylized outboard motors and stylized typewriters and stylized clothes. ... Plastic stylized toys for stylized children, who at Christmas and birthdays are in style with their stylish parents. ... It's the style that gets you; technological ugliness syruped over with romantic phoniness in order to produce beauty and profit by people who, though stylish, don't know where to start because no one has ever told them there's such a thing as Quality in this world. ..."

How well these words describe a materialistic society in which, sadly, so few of those who produce and consume truly realize the guidance of faith.

In his inaugural address, Dean Schmitz addressed the mutual distrust and misunderstanding between scientists and engineers, and the other, great majority of society possessing nontechnical backgrounds. Dr. Schmitz' answer to the problem of this division is a communication between these opposing groups — a communication based on shared appreciation for the good of humanity. And in Fr. Hesburgh's words, it is the call of the engineer to realize that "he builds not just a house, but a home for the security of a family." How wise are the words of these men.

The integration of religion and technology is desperately needed in today's society. For the scientist's part, he needs the humility and generosity faith brings, to focus the great power of his work. How will the consumer respond if he perceives the technologist as humble and caring, and receives the scientist's love in his quality technology. By realizing that technology is his way to "love the world," a scientist puts love, the ingredient of highest quality, into every piece of his work.

Quality and Craftsmanship are the blending of Art and Technology, possible through a rich appreciation of Human Good, which stems from Wisdom, begotten of Faith and Love, graces of God.

P.O. Box Q

O-C newsletter insulting

Dear Editor:

In his October 6 edition of The Off-Campus Newsletter, Bill Brombach writes: "I like to mix a little humor in with the news, so read the articles in the spirit in which they are written. Apparently some people are not doing that. ... After reading his article on page 2 about off-campus crime, I am definitely among the latter group."

Speculating about a recent robbery at his own house, Mr. Brombach writes: "Maybe some people were irked at being called South Bend vermin, and decided to implement their own version of the trickle-down effect. I don't know. I didn't think the tenebments were on my mailing list." The "spirit" here is more vicious than humorous.

Mr. Brombach continues: "Basically, we (O-C students) are sitting ducks. We know it, the police know it, and worst of all, the scum know it." And in a final insult to his fellow students, white and black, and to the community of which he is now a part, he tells us that a O-C security log is being kept, "entitled 'A little ditty, 'bout Rufus and Tyrone.'"

Whatever his frustrations at the undeniable fact of off-campus crime, this mean-spirited article, in "The Official Voice of the Off-Campus Commission," goes nowhere in addressing the problem.

What it does accomplish is an even further estrangement of Notre Dame students from their fellow South Bend residents. I hope Mr. Brombach will keep his humor to himself from now on.

Brian McFeeters
Class of '83

Stick to reporting

Dear Editor:

I would like to direct this letter to our loyal sports editor and his sidekick the Emeritus.

First of all, Mr. Needles and Mr. Desjardin, I would like to straighten you out on your roles as writers for The Observer. Your job should be to report fairly the results of each athletic event. When you get paid to make coaching decisions fine; but until such a time comes, please keep your amateurish opinions to yourselves.

I thought you were on our side, but your cynicism has done more to undermine the Notre Dame spirit than could a decade of losing seasons, football and basketball both. The repercussions of your pessimism among the student body have been truly sobering. Where there once was a "never say die" spirit, there is now criticism of any and all coaching decisions. My disdain for the both of you is of the level of my disdain for the person who poisoned the Tylenol.

Why do you try to destroy the Notre Dame family by constantly second-guessing the coaches and discrediting the players? Are you trying to motivate them through their hatred for you? I would tend to believe that love is a stronger motivator than hatred, for I would hardly die to harm my enemy whereas I would risk my life to help a friend. Why not use your columns to boost morale?

I'd expect to see articles such as yours in Miami or Ann Arbor. Mr. Needles, what happened to your wave of optimism following the Michigan game? Oh you poor fair weather fan, you don't bleed Notre Dame blue nor even the red of a gentleman. You bleed the yellow of a coward.

Mr. Needles, you snake in the grass, why don't you just slither away unnoticed. As for you Mr. Desjardin, o eternal skeptic, what makes you think that the football team owes you a national championship? They only owe themselves — not the fans or the press. Mr. Desjardin, your betrayal of the Notre Dame community is reminiscent of Iago's betrayal of Othello. Would that you would fall on a sword! A final word for our dissenting duo: stick to reporting the facts and let the coaches do their jobs.

Charley Rafferty
St. Edward's Hall

The Observer

The Observer is an independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and as objectively as possible. Editorials represent the opinion of a majority of the Editorial Board. Commentaries, opinions and letters are the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community, and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

P.O.Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 239-5303

Editorial Board

Editor-in-Chief.....Michael Monk
Managing Editor.....Ryan Ver Berkmoes
SMC Executive Editor.....Margaret Fosmoe
Sports Editor.....Chris Needles
Editorials Editor.....Paul McGinn
Features Editor.....Tari Brown
Photo Editor.....Rachel Blount

Department Managers

Business Manager.....Tony Aiello
Controller.....Eric Schulz
Advertising Manager.....Chris Owen
Production Manager.....Maura Murphy
Circulation Manager.....Ray Inglin
Systems Manager.....Bruce Oakley

Founded November 3, 1966

Laurion, Poulin

Graduation losses hurt '82 Irish

By RANDY FAHS
Sports Writer

With the graduation losses of goalie Dave Laurion and the top scoring line of Dave Poulin, Bill Rothstein and Jeff Logan, the Notre Dame hockey team will have a lot of new faces.

Last year the Irish icers compiled a 23-15-2 record which earned them a fourth place finish in the CCHA. The team capped a late season surge by making it to the finals of the CCHA playoffs where it lost to Michigan State, narrowly missing a berth in the NCAA tournament.

Coach Charles "Lefty" Smith doesn't want to apply too much pressure to his incoming freshmen, but clearly they have to be counted on to pick up the slack caused by the loss of six of last year's top nine scorers. Center Steve Dianchi and right winger John Devoe may work their way into a regular forward line. Other new faces include Todd Toumie and Jim Murphy, a transfer student from Colorado College.

Seniors Kirt Bjork, Rex Bellomy and John Higgins will figure to be ND's biggest scoring threat. Last year the three combined for 41 goals and 63 assists.

Over the summer, Rex Bellomy injured a knee and required surgery.

Early reports suggested that the speedy center might not reach top form until around Christmas time, but according to Smith, the knee has responded well, and Bellomy is skating without trouble. He is expected to be in the lineup when Notre Dame opens its season tomorrow night at Michigan.

Other returning players who figure to be important parts of the Irish offense are Brent Chapman, John Deasey and Tim Reilly. Last year, Chapman contributed 12 goals and seven assists. Deasey has been moved from center back to left wing where he originally started. The rugged Reilly will be counted on for his hustle and checking ability.

The Irish defense is going to be without big Jim Brown and John Schmidt, who have graduated. The development of replacements was set back due to the losses of Sean Regan for four to six weeks with a broken arm, and senior John Keating who will also be out four to six weeks, but with a deep thigh bruise.

Returning to the Irish defensive corps will be Joe Bowie, Rob Ricci, Tony Bonadio and Steve Ely. Freshman backliners Mark Benning, Greg Hudas and Bob Thebeau are also expected to get a long look.

Returning in goal will be senior Bob McNamara, who had a 4.13

G.A.A. and a 7-5 record last season. He is listed as Smith's No. 1 goalkeeper, but freshman Mickey Kappelle from St. Charles, Ill., has been the most consistent goal keeper in practice. The battle between the two players figures to be an interesting facet of the 1982-83 season.

It will be quite a feat for the Irish hockey team to do as well as it did last season. Smith is concentrating on fundamentals and disciplined passing. The Irish expect to put an exciting team on the ice, one whose forte will be desire.

Smith also wants to get the Notre Dame student body behind the team, realizing that it is an important part of any team's success.

Overall, Smith is highly optimistic about Notre Dame's chances for success this season. He sees many technical improvements from the team's work in practice and feels that the team is now jelling.

"It may be a little premature to tell," says Smith. "Last year's squad didn't put it all together until the Great Lakes Tournament over Christmas break."

So, it may take a while to tell if the Irish can repeat last season's success story. But, in any event, it all gets underway tomorrow night at Ann Arbor.

Rex Bellomy is coming off knee surgery this summer and will be at 100 percent at Christmas time. See Randy Fabs' preview of the Irish season at left. (Photo courtesy Sports Information)

1982-83 season

Higgins, Doman serve as captains

By JUDY McNAMARA
Sports Writer

In April, seniors John Higgins and Mark Doman were elected co-captains of the Notre Dame hockey team for this season. The senior duo say that the team "is planning a few surprises."

Mark Doman

"Last year we were one game away from making the NCAA playoffs," says Doman. "We finished second in the league. This year we are predicted to finish eighth but we've got a few surprises."

"The big class ahead of us really played a lot. Most of us played under them for three years and are looking forward to taking advantage of the new openings."

The team lost ten seniors from last year and is looking towards Higgins and Doman to provide the leadership needed.

Gone are defensemen Jim Brown, John Schmidt and John Cox; wingers Dan Collard, Jeff Logan, Jeff Perry and Bill Rothstein; goalies David Laurion and Dan O'Donnell; and center David Poulin.

Doman, a center, played in 38 games last season, scoring seven goals and adding seven assists. Doman is known as a clutch performer. He scored the second-period goal that put the Irish ahead to stay in the 8-5 Central Collegiate Hockey Association semifinal victory over Bowling Green last season.

"It's quite an honor being elected co-captain," says the Minnesota-born Doman.

"I think we were elected because of the example we set," adds Higgins, a Toronto native, "not because we are the big scorers."

Higgins, a right winger, scored nine goals and had 11 assists while playing in 36 games last season. Higgins' great attitude and hard-nosed playing style make him a natural team leader.

When asked how Notre Dame hockey has changed their lives, Doman says, "It's basically a full-time job that has allowed us to become pretty close with the other guys, who we live with practically seven days a week."

Higgins, who acts as the Irish enforcer on the ice, set a team record with 27 penalty minutes in a 3-2 loss at Northern Michigan last season.

"I think fighting is a thing of the past in college and pro hockey," says Higgins. "Most teams can't afford to carry a big brawler on their squad anymore."

When asked how they get prepared for a big game, Doman says, "We all try to think about the game but not really think about it. We do this by relaxing and joking around with the other guys in the locker room."

Neither player intends to go on to a career in professional hockey. Doman plans to follow a career with his major in psychology and minor in business, while Higgins will be seeking a future in business administration after graduation.

Both co-captains feel that a vital factor in the success of the Irish this season is student support. Last season, the hockey program lost a great deal of revenue due to paltry attendance figures. As a result, they have reinstated the dollar student ticket policy this season to help stimulate support.

"It only costs one dollar for a ticket," says Doman, "so just sacrifice a beer and come watch us play."

Senior Bob McNamara will probably be starting in goal this year, but he is facing stiff competition from freshman Mickey Kappelle. (Photo by Sports Information)

Smith begins 15th year as Irish coach

By ED KONRADY
Sports Writer

Charles "Lefty" Smith.

Those three words sum up the Notre Dame hockey program since 1968. That was when Smith took a club sport and turned it into a winning varsity team that played against the best college hockey teams around. Smith posted a 16-8-3 record in his first season.

Thirteen years after that initial season, Smith boasts a career record of 292-238-25, and 14 teams of hockey players, all of whom have graduated — on time.

How did the modern-day Notre Dame hockey program begin?

"I was coaching some high school hockey and some senior hockey up in Minnesota," says Smith. "Notre Dame had let out the word that they were going to start a varsity hockey program. An alumnus from Minnesota talked to Mr. (Moose) Krause and recommended me. Mr. Krause talked to me, and I met with Father Joyce, and I got the job."

"My main reason for taking the job was the fact that when I was offered three or four other coaching jobs, they really didn't coincide with my philosophy of what I thought college athletics should be all about. Notre Dame was the first school that I had run across besides the Ivy League schools that had the philosophy of not exploiting the athlete — letting him get his education while letting him use his athletic talent to develop himself as a person as well as represent the university."

Fourteen years is a long time, especially in sports, and the game of hockey has had its share of changes. When Smith was a player, at age 21 he was considered too old for a hockey career.

"At that time a 15- or 16-year-old was considered ripe for a professional hockey career," says Smith. "Starting in the late 60's, it developed that the college hockey player was suddenly able to play in the pro ranks. Now this opened up a whole new era. Formerly, kids who had been drafted from the junior high or high school ranks were now getting an education and going into the professional ranks later. So I'd have to say that the caliber of college hockey has risen tremendously since the base of talent has increased as far as recruiting."

"In Canada you have a great educational system in that kids start 'tracking' after grade eight, and combine sports and education early on. So the caliber of individual has improved. The size has changed dramatically. In the 70's we went through 'goon' hockey, but now we see more of a finesse game with skating and speed. Today there is more parity in hockey than in any

Kirt Bjork, an alternate captain this year, played and won a gold medal in the National Sports Festival. See Steve Labate's story at right. (Photo courtesy Sports Information)

Olympic hopeful

Bjork shines in Sports Festival

By STEVEN LABATE
Sports Writer

The year was 1980; the town was Lake Placid, N.Y.

It was a Sunday morning and all of America were watching their boys of winter, the United States Hockey Team, defeat Finland to win the Olympic gold medal. With just a few seconds left on the clock, ABC play-by-play man Al Michaels provided the epitaph for "America's Team": "Who were they a week-and-a-half ago? Morrow and Ramsey, Baker and Silk, Broten and Johnson, Pavelich and McClanahan, and all of them. We know them all now." Moments later, the United States had won its first Olympic ice hockey gold medal in 20 years.

Now, with the 1984 Winter Olympics just a little more than a year away, the list of players vying for one of the 20 spots on the U.S. Hockey Team is lengthy and unfamiliar. However, one player's name, Kirt Bjork, should seem quite familiar to Notre Dame hockey fans. The senior alternate captain has a very good chance to be among those who are chosen to represent the United States in the 1984 Games in Yugoslavia.

Consider the following:

Every year in preparation for the Olympics, the top 80 amateur hockey players in the country are invited to play in the National Sports Festival. The players range from 15 to

23 years of age. "It's quite an honor to be selected," says Bjork. "The heart of the Olympic team comes from here (the Festival)."

The 80 players are then divided into four squads of 20, each representing a broad geographic region of the country. The members of the winning team in this round-robin tournament receive a gold medal.

Kirt Bjork has participated in two Festivals thus far, and has two gold medals to show for his efforts. The first gold came at the 1981 Festival held at the University of Syracuse. Over the course of the tournament, Kirt netted four goals and four assists. This past July in Indianapolis, he received his second gold after contributing a goal and three assists to his team's performance.

Bjork's accomplishments at the National Sports Festivals merit considerable attention when you realize that 19 out of 20 members of the 1980 Olympic hockey team were former Festival participants. Since 1980, only four players other than Bjork have played on two gold medal teams.

Every National Hockey League team has scouts at the Festival games, but it is Lou Vairo, head coach of the 1984 Olympic hockey team, whose attention Bjork seeks at the present time.

No NHL team has signed him to a contract yet, but should one do so this season, Bjork says he will "defer playing for an NHL team until after the Olympic tryouts." Those tryouts will not be easy.

"The competition is very good," Bjork says. "Out of the 80, the roster will be trimmed to 48. Then they (the Olympic hockey coaches) will run tryouts and keep jockeying the players."

"I would say that right now the only shoe-in's are Bob Brook from Yale and Mark Hamway from Michigan State."

Although Bjork is the only current Irish player to participate in the Festival games, three of his ex-teammates from last season (Dave Laurion, Jeff Logan and John Schmidt) joined him at Syracuse in 1981. Last week it was announced that the trio had been selected as members of the U.S. National Team to play in a world tournament next March in Japan. This squad is also a prime source for Olympic players.

Whether history repeats itself in 1984 remains to be seen. Equally indeterminate is whether Bjork & Co. will be part of the team when they put on the red, white, and blue. But one has to like their chances.

Especially Kirt Bjork's.

... Irish

continued from page 10

other sport.

"At Notre Dame, right now, we have more talent than ever before," continues Smith. "However, because of the parity, it isn't easily seen. I think the talent has changed tremendously, especially as far as size, speed and finesse. When we came here in 1968, we only had three recruits. All the rest were just kids who happened to be on campus, and we played a Division I and II schedule. It was very tough."

Charles "Lefty" Smith

"While we don't have the same amount of scholarships as other schools, we think that because of the quality of education, the tradition of Notre Dame, has enabled us to get the young man that we want."

With the change in players came a change in coaching style. "The style changes every year with a change in personnel," Smith says. "If you've got people who are big and strong then you have to change to a more hitting game; if they are small and quick you want to go to a more finesse game."

"The greatest change in style came with the Russians' domination in hockey for a number of years. More puck control came into play, which is quite different than the United States and Canada was accustomed to, which was more of a power style of hockey, a dump and run. Now, of course, we wish to see that we can react to every situation that presents itself to us, and then try to react to that situation."

But that is the past. This will be a year of rebuilding for Smith and his Irish, a year that could try the patience of the elder statesman of the ACC ice arena.

CCHA predictions for 1982-83

By RANDY FAHS
Sports Writer

1982-83 PREDICTIONS

1. Michigan State
2. Bowling Green
3. Michigan Tech
4. Michigan
5. Notre Dame
6. Lake Superior St.
7. Ferris State
8. Northern Michigan
9. Miami (Ohio)
10. Ohio State
11. Chicago Circle
12. Western Michigan

Michigan State

The Spartans, coached by Ron Mason, are everyone's preseason favorite to take the CCHA. They were tough enough last year to finish second overall in the CCHA standings, win the league championship, and earn an NCAA tournament berth. The thing that makes them so tough is the fact almost everyone from last year's squad is returning.

The key to the team's success is junior goaltender Ron Scott who may be the best at his position in college hockey. He posted a 76-14-2 record last season, playing in all of MSU's games. In front of him will be a veteran defense led by all-league performers Ken Leiter and Gary Hought.

All of State's big scorers are back. The names to watch are Mark Hamway, who tallied 65 points on 34 goals and 31 assists last year. The big playmaker is Newel Brown, who had a league record 51 assists to add to his 22 goals for a total of 73 points. The Spartan offense is young. Some sophomores to look for are Kelly Miller, Tom Anastos, Gord Flegel and Lyle Phair.

The offense and defense forms a one-two punch that should be hard to beat.

Bowling Green

This is the only other CCHA team to land a spot in the NCAA playoffs last season. All-Americans George McPhee and Brian MacLellan have graduated, but a third all-American, center Brian Hills, will be returning. Hills was the CCHA's leading scorer last year with 34 goals and 47 assists for 81 points.

Other members of Bowling Green's offense who will be back are Pete Wilson, Peter Brown, Dave O'Brian and John Semanski. The first three players combined for 65 goals last year; Semanski missed most of last season with a broken wrist.

This team probably won't challenge MSU for the top spot, but it should be strong enough to place second in the CCHA.

Michigan Tech

Tech will have a strong club, but the loss of three senior defensemen from last year will prevent them from taking one of the top two spots in the CCHA standings. All is not lost on the back line though. Mike O'Connor and Wade Sparrow will anchor the back line. They will be aided by freshmen Scott Compton, Dave Reirson and Jim Husted. In goal for the Huskies will be sophomore John Dougan and freshman Bob Krautsak. Allen had a 16-8-1 record last season with a 3.62 goals against average.

The forwards see a return of Bill Terry, whose 50 points were the team's best a year ago. Also returning are Steve Murphy, Frank Lansole and Ron Zuke, all of whom scored at least 32 points or better. Look for Tech to be among the CCHA's better teams in 1982-83.

Michigan

Coach John Giordano's team had a tight defense last year, but it couldn't manage to put the puck in the net often enough. Most of last year's forwards are returning with a year's experience and should show some improvement. Ted Speers led last year's team with 63 points. He'll be joined once again by double-digit goal scorers Brad Tippett and Paul Kobylarg.

This is an exciting club that is bound to upset a few teams during the season, en route to a solid finish in the standings.

Notre Dame

Coach Lefty Smith's Irish were one of the hottest teams in college hockey at the end of last season. But they were decimated by the loss of two top defenseman, goalie Dave Laurion and six out of nine of last year's top scorers. The Irish offense will be led by Kirt Bjork and Rex Bellomy, who tallied 44 and 40 points respectively last season.

The Irish could have a strong team, but there are a lot of question marks going into the season.

Lake Superior St.

Coach Bill Selman's team will have even more new faces than Notre Dame. Twenty of his top 27 players are either sophomores or freshmen, with 13 being newcomers. Returning forwards include Steve Mulholland with 56 points last year and Wayne Vetro, who chipped in 39 points. Other key offensive players include Monty Beauchamp and Allan Butler.

The defensive corps is led by Dave Keegan, who scored 31 points last season on 14 goals and 17 assists. Other backlines include Brian Gratton, Chris Guy, and freshmen Jim Becker and Mark Vichorek.

The top goalie is Lawrence Dyck who compiled a 3.87 against average last season. He is being challenged by freshmen Scott Anderson and Joe Shawcan.

There are too many new faces or youngsters this year for this team to finish much higher than the middle of the standings in the CCHA.

Ferris State

The Bulldogs will be led by returning all-CCHA defenseman Jim File and new uniforms. In his second season, File scored 13 goals, 24 assists for 37 points. He'll be joined on the back line by seniors Rob Smith and Leo Brideau, as well as sophomores Brad Hildestad and Rob Brownie.

The goaltending duties will be handled by Rob Hughston who posted a solid 3.95 goals against average last season.

Last year's team MVP, Paul Cook, returns after compiling 45 points on 18 goals and 27 assists. He'll be joined by junior center Randy Merrifield, who chipped in 26 points last season, and freshmen Dean Clark, Rob Humphries and Dave McGilloy.

When you get down to this point of the division, you run into some of the weaker teams in the CCHA, but the Bulldogs will not be an easy opponent for most teams.

Northern Michigan

Last year this team started by winning 13 of its first 18 games, but finished by winning only two of the remaining 18. The offense is strong and will be led by Dave Mogush, who scored 29 goals last season. Other top pointgetters from last season are Eric Ponath (53 points) and Bruce Martin (48 points). The problem here is a lack of depth.

The defense is the weak link of the team. Freshman "Big Todd" Morrisette will not shore up a defense led by juniors Bill Schafhauser and Dave Smith.

Goaltending is another big question mark with Jeff Poeschi and Scott Stoltzner. Poeschi posted a 4.84 g.a.a. last year.

This team is weak, but a tightening of the defense could make Northern Michigan the sleeper of the CCHA.

Miami (Ohio)

The Redskins will return 18 of 23 letterwinners. Among these are last year's three top scorers: Steve Morris (50 points), Dave Weeldon (45 points) and Rick Kuraly (38 points). Top freshman recruits are Paul Beirnes, John Ciotti and Bill Easdale, who will put up a strong challenge for the remaining forward spots.

The defense is led by senior Kevin Beaton, who tallied 42 points last season. The experienced backlines include Doug Salmen, Dave McClintock, Joe Block and Andrew McMillin. The goaltending duties will be handled by junior Alain Chevaier, who posted a 4.16 g.a.a. last season, and freshman John Davis.

Ohio State, Illinois-Chicago Circle, Western Michigan

Who cares how they finish? They should all be pronounced dead on arrival. All three are in need of serious rebuilding and will probably fail to crack the top eight teams that make the playoffs.

Notre Dame-Penn State could be televised. ABC is considering whether to televise the Nov. 13 game starting at 3:30 p.m. EST. The The Observer reported yesterday that the game was being moved ahead from its scheduled 1:30 p.m. kickoff time and that special lights have been ordered. ABC had not been determined whether the telecast would be regional or national. Bernstein told The Associated Press yesterday that the game is "not officially locked into place yet. We have looked at it and discussed it with Notre Dame people and the lighting company. But if indeed we go with it, it won't be locked into place until the Monday before the game." — (AP).

Notre Dame soccer team blasted Valparaiso University last night by a 10-0 margin. Dave Miles, Mario Manta, and Brian Berry each had two goals for the Irish. Mark Bittenger, Ed Graham, Rich Hardegen, and Mike Pecoraro each scored a single goal to close out the scoring. The game was shortened by about ten minutes because the referees felt that the contest was getting out of hand, and they didn't want to see anyone injured. — The Observer.

Interhall Deadlines have been announced by the Office of Non-Varsity Athletics. November 10 is the deadline for IH basketball, men and women's, Club basketball, Grad basketball, IH hockey, and open squash. Further information can be obtained by calling NVA at 239-5100. — The Observer.

Fiery Billy Martin whose Oakland A's slipped to a fifth-place finish just one year after winning the American League West title, was fired as manager yesterday by team president Roy Eisenhardt. In a statement, Eisenhardt said he did not blame Martin for the team's poor showing this season, but said he felt a change was necessary for the good of the A's. In Martin's statement, made by his attorney, Eddie Sapir, he expressed appreciation to Eisenhardt and team owner Walter Haas. Martin led the A's to West title in 1981, his second year with the club, but watched as it collapsed to this season with a 68-94 record. — (AP).

Student hockey tickets may be picked up at the ACC second floor ticket window today and tomorrow from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Additional student tickets which were not purchased via the summer applications will be on sale on a first-come, first served basis. Students wishing to sit together must present their ID's at the same time. Each student may present a maximum of four ID's. The student hockey season ticket price has decreased since the summer sale. The entire 16-game ticket package now costs $16. A refund will be issued to those who paid the original price. — The Observer

The Off-Campus Hockey team will hold its first practice, as well as a tryout, immediately after break. The session will take place Monday, Nov. 1 from 10:15 to 11:15 p.m. Players should bring full equipment, and $3.00 for ice time. All off-campus students are urged to attend. For more information, call Mark Curley at 234-5414. — The Observer

Mid-American College Health Association is holding its annual meeting today and tomorrow. The theme for the two-day event to be held in the Center I for Continuing Education is Sports' Medicine. Students are encouraged to attend any of the lectures or workshops connected with the meeting. For additional information call 239-6691. — The Observer.

Novice boxing championship fights were held yesterday afternoon in the boxing room of the ACC. In the 132-lb class Mike Aiello defeated Craig Calaman by TKO. At 140-lbs, Matthew Albano beat Marty Tyrre by TKO. Paul Daiber defeated Greg Arbour in the 150-lb class. Joe Collins beat Mark Primich at 154. Ed Grogan got past Dave Odland. Bill Butler won over Dan Walsh as the referee stopped the contest in the 167-lb class. In the Light Heavyweight class Jim Kenney TKO'd Mitchell Nihart, and Greg Foley defeated Jim Garvey by TKO. — The Observer.

INTERHALL

INTERHALL WEEK IN REVIEW
Week of October 10-17, 1982
(continued)

WOMEN'S FOOTBALL
Standings

- x-1) Breen-Phillips (6-1)
- 1) Pasquerilla West (6-1)
- 3) Farley (5-2)
- y-4) Pasquerilla East (4-3)
- 5) Lewis (4-3)
- 6) Lyons (1-5)
- 7) Walsh (1-6)
- 8) Badin (1-6)

x-clinched first place by virtue of victory over P-W in head-to-head competition
y-clinched fourth and final playoff spot by virtue of victory over Lewis in head-to-head competition.

Last Week's Results
Tuesday's Game

Pasquerilla East 20, Lyons 0

Games of Sun. Oct. 17

Breen-Phillips 16, Badin 0
Farley 18, Walsh 0
Pasquerilla West 36, Lewis 30 (OT)

Games of Thurs. Oct. 14

Breen-Phillips 8, Lewis 0
Walsh 22, Lyons 0
Pasquerilla West 26, Pasquerilla East 6

Highlights: In a pivotal game, P-W defeated Lewis, 36-30, in overtime to gain a playoff berth. Tied 6-6 after regulation, the two teams, according to the rules, took seven two-play attempts from the five-yard line to determine the victor. P-W scored five times in seven attempts, while Lewis managed only four scores.

Lewis has now been eliminated from the playoffs

Playoff Schedule

Playoffs will begin after October Break. Here is the schedule, with all games to be played on Carter Field:

Thurs. Nov. 4

Semifinals
Breen-Phillips vs. P-E, 6:30 p.m.
P-W vs. Farley, 7:30 p.m.

Sun. Nov. 7

Championship Game
Winners of Thursday's games play at 7:30 p.m.

Classifieds

The Observer will accept classifieds Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. However, classifieds to appear in the next issue must be received by 3 p.m. the business day prior to insertion. All classifieds must be prepaid, either in person or through the mail.

NOTICES

NEED CREDIT?

Information on receiving Visa, MasterCard, with no credit check. Other cards available. Free brochure call Personal Credit Service: (602) 946-6203 ext. 3648

Flying Fingers typing service. Proofreading and editing included. 85 cents a page. Margaret or Ann 277-1624.

THE MARTIANS ARE COMING!
"WAR OF THE WORLDS"
HALLOWEEN AT 11:00 PM
ON 88.9 WNSD FM

SHHHHHH! Don't Tell the old man. Wanted Offspring of the Class of 1960. If you are a student who is fortunate enough to have had (to have) — oh where is Don Costello when we need him? a dad in the class of 1960, I need your help.

My column for the Class of 1960 in the "Notre Dame Magazine" is already terrific, but it needs a new shot in the arm, as it were.

Your stories about your dad's memories of Notre Dame sent me will help the column. Now, make-up is okay, too, though most of our class' guys are really class guys and didn't resort to that sort of thing.

So, when you go home on break, elicit a story or two from the old man, jot it down and mail it to me. And hey, give me a break, I don't need to hear the 'hot bowling ball' story again or how he dressed you in ND di-dees. And if your dad is one of the ones who owns one of those car horns, leave that out too. We don't want to embarrass him. Quizzing your mom is fair play, however. Seriously folks, send these great stories to: Bob Keeley; 10532 S. Bell; Chicago, IL 60643 And P.S. Don't tell him. This will be our little secret, okay?

TYPING: EX-LEGAL SECRETARY 272-5337.

Space Available on Long Isl. Bus. Leaves Fri. Call 4619.

LOST/FOUND

FOUND: Anne Klein change purse Call 3889

FOUND: 1981 class ring in Math & Comp Building orange stone call Gina 6553 at 212 Lewis

LOST: PENTAX 35mm camera. In Green Field area. Help! Call 1025.

HEPL!!! lost my class ring on Saturday! Black onyx with diamond in the middle, initials HLS 83 on the inside. I can't leave 4 years at ND without something to show for it!!! Please call 3564, or 8055 Reward

LOST:

BULL

Are you animal molesters planning on abusing Bevo over fall break? 8765

LOST: a Seiko digital watch silver solar battery Please call Larry at 1722 REWARD REWARD REWARD

LOST: Adidas sweatpants, dark blue with white stripes. Dropped somewhere between Stepan Center gate and Zahm Hall late on 10/17.

Call me stupid. Call me foolish. What I am is BROKE! Help a poor O.C. student find her grocery money. If you found $519.00$ at the Huddle (or anywhere between Haggar and So. Dining Hall) on Monday, 10/18, please call Debbie at 277-4820.

LOST: White folder with Observer logo on front cover and white legal pad inside. Also green Saint Mary's spiral notebook of news class notes. Lost on Friday the 15th. Help! Anyone with info call Margaret at (284)4316 or leave message at Observer office (239-5303).

LOST: Adidas sweatpants, dark blue with white stripes. Dropped somewhere between Stepan Center gate and Zahm Hall late on 10/17. If found, please call 8917

FOR RENT

Nice furnished house 2 blocks to N.D. 277-3604 or 288-0955.

Student Housing — Clean — Safe $100/mo 291-1405

Furn. efficiency $100 Also 1 bedroom apartment $175 Call 255-8505.

WANTED

Help South Bend Juliet wants to see her Milwaukee Romeo. If you could give me a ride to Milwaukee on Oct. 23 after the GMATs, I'd appreciate it! Will share the usual. If you're Milwaukee bound, please call Julie at: 3882

IF YOU NEED A RIDE TO LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY, CALL DAN AT 277-3832

Ann Arbor/Detroit is where it's at! (Actually where he's at!) If you're headed to Ann Arbor/Detroit for break, I'd be eternally grateful for a ride, leaving Oct. 23 after the GMAT's. Will share the driving and expenses. If you can help me out, please call Lisa at 3882. Thanks!

NEED RIDERS FOR FALL BREAK TO LANCASTER-LEBANON PA AREA CALL JEFF 232-4731

Tentatively need riders for rent-a-car to Philadelphia, or vicinity, leaving Sunday after the GMAT's. Call Chris Needles at 1240 or 239-7471 and leave a message.

PLEASE! I need ride to Minn. Will pay. Dave 3039

RIDE NEEDED GOING SOUTH!!! NEEDED RIDE TO OR NEAR LITTLE ROCK ARKANSAS! READY TO LEAVE AFTER 3:00pm THURSDAY WILL SHARE USUAL CALL 1318

Need ride to Cincinnati for two. Will share the usual. Can leave Thursday or Friday. Call Dave 8810

Ride needed to Chicago or area (Hinsdale), can leave Fri. 12:30. Call Jeff 2257

Riders wanted to Eastern N.Y. — Western Mass. along I-90, leaving Friday morning. If interested, call Rico at 8648.

DESPERATELY NEED RIDE TO BUFFALO AREA FOR BREAK CALL 8703 IF YOU CAN SPARE THE ROOM AND USE THE CASH

RIDER needed to New Orleans for break Leaving Sat call 5329 smc

NEED 1 RIDER TO SYRACUSE NY AREA FOR BREAK Leaving Friday noon. Call Cheryl 6354 ALSO NEED RIDERS COMING BACK TO ND FROM PHILA. PA AREA

FOR SALE

ERASMUS BOOKS Bought, Sold, Searched USED BOOKS BOOKS Tues-Sun, 12-6 1027 E. Wayne. One Block South of Eddy-Jefferson Intersection.

FOR SALE JVC 30 WATT/CHANNEL RECEIVER AND JVC TAPE DECK FOR 240.00

Reliable car for cheap! A none explosive type 74 Pinto Station Wagon, runs great, ideal for school, only $400 J.B. 283-8286

GOING TO O'HARE??

For sale: one round trip ticket on the UNITED LIMO Discount prices!! Please call 4420.

FOR SALE: JVC 30 Watt / Channel Receiver & JVC Tape Deck for $240 Total Call 1008, ask for Rod

TICKETS

WILL PAY BIG MONEY FOR 4 PENN STATE GA. TIX. CALL 312-565-5959 COLLECT AND ASK FOR STEVE LONGLEY.

HELP! I NEED PENN STATE GA (2) AND STUDENT TIX (2)! PLEASE HELP FOREIGN RELATIVES FIRST VISIT TO USA & ND BE MEMORABLE! CALL 1674 $5

Need Penn. State GA's. Will pay cold hard cash 8539

GOLLY JEEPERS! I need two PENN STATE GA's, big brother would like to see a game with Pop. Call DAVE at 1165

NEED PENN ST GAS BIG TIME! $$$ CALL 1627

will pay any amount necessary for two Penn State GA tickets. Call Paul at 272-5744 or leave a note in the "L" box at the Law School

NEEDED DESPERATELY! 2 g.a. tix to the penn st game. The earlier you call the more deluxe your bus. call matt 277-4573

NEED TICKETS FOR PENN ST OR PITT GAME CALL GOODILL AT 232-4731

I NEED PITT, PENN ST GAS $$$CALL BRENDAN 3207

I need the BEST 6 GA's for Penn State. Must be 15 yd line or better. Call me. I have the $ Steve-1061.

NEED 2 Penn State GA's and 1 student tix for family $$ Please call Nancy 4449 (SMC)

NEED 2 PAIR PITT GAS PHIL 1764

Wanted 4 G.A. Penn St tickets; will pay $; call Steve at 233-2651 or 239-5845

I need Penn State tickets! Student or GA Melissa x1308

For Sale: 1 Penn State Student Ticket Call Laura at 4624

FOR SALE: 67th row seats to see RUSH Call 1195

PERSONALS

ASSOCIATE WITH US
HOLY CROSS ASSOCIATES, 1-2 YR. POSTGRAD SERVICE PROGRAM WITH SIMPLE CHRISTIAN LIFESTYLE IN USA AND CHILE. CHILE DEADLINE NOV. 4. CALL MARY ANN ROEMER 5293.

SENIORS
FOR 1983-85, CONSIDER WORK WITH HOLY CROSS ASSOCIATES PROGRAM IN CHILE. APPLICATION DEADLINE NOV. 4TH. CALL MARY ANN ROEMER 5293.

HOW ABOUT AMSTERDAM? International Suitcase Club Party, Thurs, Nov. 4, 8:30PM SMC Clubhouse. Members and guests welcomed

THE MARTIANS ARE ATTACKING!
"WAR OF THE WORLDS"
HALLOWEEN AT 11:00 PM
WNSD FM 88.9

GOING TO O'HARE SATURDAY MORNING?
DON'T WANT TO PAY RIDICULOUS UNITED LIMO FARE?
CALL GREG AT x1421

ATTENTION ALL STUDENTS! Elections are the first Tuesday after break. At that time it will be late to do anything about absentee ballots. While you are home, contact your LOCAL election board for the proper procedure. If you're not going home, call or contact them to get your ballot. Remember, VOTE the choice is yours!!!

Vivian
We're gonna miss you all 185 lbs of you!!! Have a great break, and don't eat too much! Love ya!

Being here late at night is a bit exhausting, but there are a few benefits. Have a good break all you "smashing & shiney, not to mention cymbily fun" friends. Pitt here I come (Paul, can someone from Loogootee survive in such a place?) M

Dear Colleen,

Why didn't you return my call? love,

George

Hey you Carroll Hall DUFUS —

Sorry about your calc test. Don't worry though, my mom still loves you. I still think you need some sympathy — so, Mr. Moosey says hi. Where's Joe Id? We'd better find him. See you tonight.

Love,
S.W.

Eugenia
I thought that it would be a nice night for a ride, then it rained. I hope that a little honesty and sincerity helped clear the sky. I am guilty of ignorance but certainly not apathy.

Hickies and handshakes

BEAUX ARTS Fri Nov 12 A tacky costumed ball to be held in BAD TASTE

Mana
Answering my BEAUX ARTS personal by throwing a rock through my window as in BAD TASTE (but considering that I live on the 11th floor, I'll give you credit) Think about it. Why not make your first date fun and exciting?

Religiously yours,
Bob Johnson

Eileen How's this your very own personal Hope it takes the place of a rose. Just wanted to wish you well over your break in Boston — and to tell you not to strut your stuff too much there. Hurry back — will miss those Irish smiles. P.S. How about dinner my place — Friday — you abd kathy MJJ 277-0955

MEG
"WINTER, SPRING, SUMMER OR FALL, ALL YOU'VE GOT TO DO IS CALL AND I'LL COME RUNNING. HAVE A GREAT BREAK. WINK, WINK, NUDGE, NUDGE. SAY NO MORE, SAY NO MORE LOVE, P-BUTT

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!
MARY COLLEEN IS THE BIG 19
Happy Birthday Mary! Have a GREAT day!

Thanks Alot, APO!
You Party Animals provided some kind of service!
The halftimers from Grace

HELP!

Need ride to Northeast South Bend for Fall Break! Haven't seen Mom since freshman year! Can leave Friday at noon. Will share driving and expenses. Call Mary, 555-4335.

LAUREL — You impersonal human being — have a HAPPY BIRTHDAY over break. Will think of you on the 25th — for a couple of minutes. Love — Kevin

MICHAEL J
Far be it for me to be intelligent? OOOO that hurts!! Well, I can deal with it!! May the Force/Tour be with you —
Until Halloween —
Your cohort in heavy situations

To: Cindy, Joanne, Annie, Katie, Kathy, Colleen, Susie, Mary Nel, Gretchen, Cheryl, Mary, and ESPECIALLY Carol — When you're down and troubled and you need some love and care — just call out my name. I'll come running. You've got a friend — Thanks for being such special friends!! Love, Scoop

...Series

continued from page 16

awoke in Game 5 after going 0-for-16, and who finished with a Series-high eight RBI.

The lights also shone on Hendrick, who had nine hits in the Series and drove in the winning run last night, capping the Cardinals' rally in the sixth.

They shone brightly on Dane Iorg, whose nine hits as a designated hitter tied two other players for the World Series record. And they shone brightly on Herzog.

These Cardinals inevitably will be compared to the Gas House Gang, St. Louis' 1934 World Series champions featuring Dizzy Dean, Ducky Medwick and Pepper Martin.

This was not a mean, spikes-high team like that outfit of 38 years ago — Herzog had called this a "lady's game" with no brushbacks and no beanballs — but the Cardinals nevertheless were world champions for the first time since 1967, when they beat the Boston Red Sox in seven games.

For the Brewers, who led the major leagues this season with 216 homers, it may have been a case of teasing fate once too often.

They needed to win in the final day of the regular season in Baltimore to clinch their first AL east title. They had to stage a history-making comeback from an 0-2 deficit in the AL playoffs against California to get to the Series. And they did.

But even under the gentle hand of Manager Harvey Kuenn and with the power of men like Robin Yount, Ben Oglivie and Cecil Cooper, the Brewers could not beat fate a third time.

The Brewers trailed 1-0 as St. Louis clawed for a run in the fourth inning but caught up on Andujar's first pitch in the fifth.

Oglivie hit a drive into the lower deck in right field, and there were murmurs of doubt among the vocal crowd of 53,723.

Was Andujar really fit to pitch? With one out in the seventh inning of Game 3, Milwaukee's Ted Simmons hit a one-hopper off Andujar's right shin, forcing the pitcher out of the game after giving up only three hits.

Before last night's game, Andujar, a tough Dominican, had said: "no big deal, I no get killed."

He was, indeed, very much alive.

In the sixth inning, the Brewers took a 3-1 lead, scoring one run on a throwing error on Andujar and another on a sacrifice fly by Cecil Cooper. But the Cardinals came roaring back in the bottom of the inning to retake the lead and chase Milwaukee starter Pete Vuckovich.

With one out, Ozzie Smith singled and Lonnie Smith followed with a double, bringing in left-hander Bob McClure, who had saved Games 4 and 5.

Gené Tenace pinch-hit for Ken Oberkfell and walked, loading the bases. Mike Ramsey ran for Tenace, a star of Oakland's championship teams in the early 1970s, then Hernandez singled in both Smiths to tie the score as the crowd — many in Cardinal red and white — rose to its feet. Hendrick then singled in Ramsey for the go-ahead run.

Then they turned things over to Sutter, who had two saves and a victory in the Series, and the Cardinals added two insurance runs in the eighth on RBI singles by Porter and Steve Braun.

The crowd was on its feet as Sutter worked to Gorman Thomas with two outs in the ninth and the bases empty. The count on 3-2, and Thomas — who had 39 home runs this season, fouled off three pitches before striking out swinging.

Cardinal fans had fun in the rain Tuesday night sending a message to their American League counterparts in Milwaukee. — (AP Photo).

15 REASONS:

- Broiled Seafood Platter
- Charbroiled Halibut Steak
- Charbroiled Salmon
- Shrimp De Johnge
- Charbroiled Swordfish
- Walleye Pike
- Red Snapper
- Trout Ala Mer
- Stuffed Flounder
- New England Scrod
- Rock Lobster
- Pan Fried Rainbow Trout
- Gulf Coast Shrimp
- Stuffed Shrimp
- Pan Fried Frog Legs

5:30 Nightly
All Day Sunday
100 Center Complex
700 L.W.W., Mishawaka
259-9925

O.K. SMARTY PANTS. THIS ONE'S FOR YOU.

The 1983 Pentastar Challenge Calendar.

A chance to win a scholarship, Chrysler product and more.

If you thought The New Chrysler Corporation was something different from other car makers, we're out to prove that you're right. We've developed the "Pentastar Challenge" as a small, but deserving tribute to American ingenuity and intelligence.

The Riddle

The challenge in the calendar is an intellectual one. Within the story and illustrations, we've woven an intricate pattern of clues in five different areas of academics: Music, Math, Computer Science, Chemistry and Literature. There's nothing physically hidden or buried. All you need to unravel the conundrums is a fairly sharp pencil and a very sharp mind.

The Reward

If you are the first to have solved any one of the five riddles, you'll be awarded a $5,000 scholarship, a $5,000 cash prize to your school, your choice of a 1983 Turismo or Charger to drive for a year and a gold Pentastar Medallion. There are also 100 second place prizes of silver medallions. The official rules are on the back of the calendar.

The Reason

We think you'll enjoy the Pentastar Challenge Calendar because it's functional, attractive and entertaining. Maybe you should also know that through special arrangement with your College Store, we're helping to support the operation of this very important part of your campus. Is Chrysler getting out of the car business and into the calendar business? No. But at $4.98 maybe you'll be impressed with Chrysler enough to someday look at our cars. For us, that's the challenge.

1983 PENTASTAR CHALLENGE

The 1983 Pentastar Challenge Calendar.

On sale now at your college book store.

★ THE NEW CHRYSLER CORPORATION

Vote for your favorite!

Editor's Note: Here it is, the first ever Observer cartoon runoff election. Here's your chance to let us know which cartoons will continue to run on a daily basis and which will get the axe. Ballot boxes are located in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's dining halls and in LaFortune Student Center. Just put your 'x' on the attached coupon and drop it off in one of the ballot boxes. Please vote for just one cartoon.

In The Rough

by Sven Johnson

Aspirin Man

by David J. Adams

Spike's World

by T.J. Wrobel

Fate

by Photius

(Tear Out)

CHECK ONE:

☐ IN THE ROUGH

☐ NOBODY'S PREFECT

☐ SPIKE'S WORLD

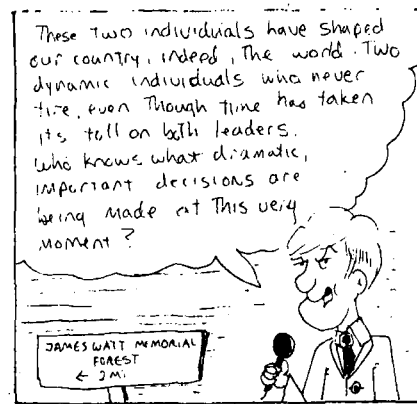

☐ ASPIRIN MAN

☐ FATE

(Tear Out)

Please drop ballot in box.

Nobody's Prefect

by K.C. Ryan

Doonesbury

Garry Trudeau

Simon

Jeb Cashin

Aspirin Man

David J. Adams

The Daily Crossword

- ACROSS
- 1 Mall unit
 - 5 Some exams
 - 10 Take — view
 - 14 Roof feature
 - 15 Wide-bladed sword
 - 16 Ice-cream holder
 - 17 Zany trio
 - 20 — Joaquin
 - 21 Tactician
 - 22 Takes on
 - 23 Airmail
 - 24 Gyrate
 - 26 Cried out
 - 29 Fancy centerpiece
 - 32 Town in Italy
 - 33 Compile
 - 34 "— body meet a..."
 - 36 Zany quartet
 - 40 Help!
 - 41 Functions
 - 42 Top pilots
 - 43 Raged
 - 45 Grave
 - 47 $100 bills
 - 48 Encourages
 - 49 Reservations
 - 52 Reserve
 - 53 Links letters
 - 56 Zany single
 - 60 Russian sea
 - 61 Came up
 - 62 Ineffectual
 - 63 Floribunda, for one
 - 64 Lama land
 - 65 Name in autos
 - 27 Aramis' friend
 - 28 Extort
 - 29 Bury
 - 30 Family member
 - 31 Mr. Zimbalist
 - 33 Wheel holders
 - 35 Part of YMCA: abbr.
 - 37 Take to jail
 - 38 City of Romulus and Remus
 - 39 Robust
 - 44 Sonnet part
 - 45 Part of USSR
 - 46 Precursor
 - 48 Ship area
 - 49 Open a bit
 - 50 Galoot
 - 51 Slaughter of baseball
 - 52 Smug one
 - 53 Strip
 - 54 Alumnus, for short
 - 55 Seeks info
 - 57 Bowler, for one
 - 58 "Exodus" hero
 - 59 Couple

Wednesday's Solution

Campus

- 12:15 p.m. — Faculty Forum Open Discussion, "University Governance at Notre Dame: A Critique," Prof. Kenneth R Thompson and Prof. Edward A. Goerner, Library Lounge
- 4:30 p.m. — Goethe Commemorative Lecture, "Goethes 'Die Leiden des jungen Werthers'" Prof. Ulrich Fulleborn, Faculty Lounge, Memorial Library
- 4:30 p.m. — Biology Lecture, "An Ecosystem Approach to Nutrient Cycling and Forest Management," Dr. Gene E. Likens, Galvin Life Sciences Auditorium
- 6:15 p.m. — Portage Manor Visitation, Meet at Main Circle
- 6:30 p.m. — Informational Meeting, for students interested in spending their sophomore year in the Ireland Program
- 7 p.m. — Meeting of the Ladies of Notre Dame, Library Lounge
- 7 p.m. — Puppet Show, "The Ramayana for Shadow Puppets," Clubhouse at Saint Mary's, Sponsored by Students of Arthropology Course, Free Admission
- 8 p.m. — Lecture, "What is Democratic Socialism?" Penny Schantz, Library Auditorium, Sponsored by ND/SMC D.S.A.

T.V. Tonight

- 6 p.m. 16 NewsCenter 16
- 22 22 Eyewitness News
- 28 Newswatch 28
- 34 The MacNeil/Lehrer Report
- 6:30 p.m. 16 M*A*S*H
- 22 Family Feud
- 28 Tic Tac Dough
- 34 Straight Talk
- 7 p.m. 16 Fame
- 22 Magnum PI
- 28 Joanie Loves Chachi
- 34 All Creatures
- 7:30 p.m. 28 The Star of the Family
- 8 p.m. 16 Cheers
- 22 Simon and Simon
- 28 Too Close for Comfort
- 34 Wild America
- 8:30 p.m. 16 It Takes Two
- 9 p.m. 16 Hill Street Blues
- 22 Knots Landing
- 28 20/20
- 34 Odyssey
- 10 p.m. 16 NewsCenter 16
- 22 22 Eyewitness News
- 28 Newswatch 28
- 34 The Dick Cavett Show
- 10:30 p.m. 16 Tonight Show
- 22 Quincy and McCloud
- 28 ABC News Nightline
- 34 Captioned ABC News
- 11 p.m. 28 Vegas
- 11:30 p.m. 16 Late Night with David Letterman

Brian

The saga of a 6 month old domer.

CHECK IT OUT!!!

CLONE

IN CONCERT

Sr. Br - Sunday, Oct. 31 9:30 - 12:30

Cost: $1/person ALL WELCOME!!

Slither into

Senior Bar

tonight for our

Snake Bite Special

OPEN 9:30 - 2:00am

The Cardinals, seen here celebrating a previous victory, had further cause for jubilation after they defeated Milwaukee 6-3 last night to win the 79th World Series. — (AP Photo).

Porter MVP Cards defeat Brewers, take Series

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, molded by Manager Whitey Herzog in his own feisty image and driven by the persistent bats of Keith Hernandez and George Hendrick, ended 15 years of frustration last night by beating the Milwaukee Brewers 6-3 to win baseball's 79th World Series.

The Cardinals won their ninth Series and the fourth straight by a National League team with three runs in the sixth inning of the decisive seventh game, on RBI hits by Hernandez and Hendrick and the seven-hit pitching of Joaquin Andujar and Bruce Sutter.

The Cardinals — a replica of Herzog's three American League West Division champions in Kansas City, with perhaps a little less power, pounded 15 hits.

They were the Mississippi riverboat gamblers, unafraid to risk the present for the future either in the front office or on the field. Eight of the 25 players on the World Series roster were not on the team when Herzog became manager before the 1981 season, including Andujar and catcher Darrell Porter, voted the Series Most Valuable Player after going 8-for-28 with one home run, two doubles, and five RBI's.

Perhaps the most daring of them all was Andujar, who came back from a painful leg injury to pitch seven innings for his second victory of the Series.

He was not perfect, but he had help, and he made the big pitches when it was necessary. Sutter pitched the last two innings for his second save.

Sutter retired Gorman Thomas for the last out on a strikeout with the crowd shouting "Bruce, Bruce." As fireworks exploded over the stadium, Cardinal players mobbed the ace reliever at the pitcher's mound and fans poured onto the field despite the attempts of security to hold them back.

When the lights were turned on at Busch Stadium last night, they shone on a new era of baseball in St. Louis, which had been in 12 previous World Series.

And the lights shone brightly on Hernandez, whose sleeping bat

See SERIES, page 13

Irish tennis team beats SMC to end fall season

By DAVID A. STANG
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's tennis team completed its fall season by sweeping Saint Mary's Tuesday, 9-0, on the Angela Tennis Courts.

The win upped the Irish record to an impressive 8-2, while dropping the Belles' to 5-3.

The Irish were led by No. 1 singles player Laura Lee, who defeated Debby Laverie 6-4, 6-3. Notre Dame's Mary Colligan, playing at No. 2, beat Maureen Fitzgerald 6-3, 6-0. Lisa LaFratta overcame the rain, which forced play indoors, and No. 3 Ann Huber of Saint Mary's, 6-1, 6-0.

Playing well at No. 4 singles for the Irish was Cathy Schnell, who downed Heather Temofeew, 6-2, 6-4. Camille Cooper had a difficult match with the Belles' Kristin Beck at No. 5, but she held out for a tough, 7-5, 6-7, 6-4 win. Freshman Greta Roemer wasted little time in her easy, 6-1, 6-1 victory over Kim Kaegi in the final singles match of the day.

All of Tuesday's doubles matches consisted of 10-game pro-sets because of the limited amount of space indoors. Susie Panther, who has played only doubles lately, and her partner Laura Lee, were victorious at No. 1 doubles, 10-4 over Laverie/Fitzgerald. At No. 2, the exciting team of Roemer/Schnell defeated Saint Mary's Huber/Temofeew, 10-2.

Saint Mary's No. 3 team of Kristin Beck and Allison Pellar played well, but they fell to Camille Cooper and Louisa DeMello, 10-8.

"A lot of good tennis was being played," said Coach Sharon Petro. "I am very pleased." However, the injury-prone Irish couldn't escape without adding a new name to their list of walking wounded. Greta Roemer was the victim this time, as she reinjured her ankle, needing it heavily taped during her second match.

Petro was understandably "frustrated" with the weather and with the injuries that have plagued her team this fall. "I'm glad we finally have a rest," said Petro. "The girls now will have a break until we get back on the courts in December, and during that period we will work on conditioning and strength training."

The team members also are happy that their fall season is over, and that they have a well-deserved break.

The women's fall campaign has been a learning experience which will serve them well when they meet their tough NCAA Division I foes next spring.

Volleyball team beats Belles at Saint Mary's

By MIKE SULLIVAN
Sports Writer

Last night, the Saint Mary's volleyball team had its counterparts from Notre Dame right where it wanted them — on its home court, but the superior Irish talent overcame the pumped-up Belles by scores of 15-9, 15-9, 15-3.

The match may be the last between the two schools because the Irish, who moved up to Division I competition this year, are committed to playing more Division I schools. Only if they need a "filler" game will they be able to schedule Saint Mary's, a Division III team.

The outcome showed once and for all that Notre Dame has overcome its jinx against Saint Mary's. After being dominated by the Belles for two years, the Irish have coasted to two easy victories this year.

Both teams entered the match without the services of important players. Notre Dame was missing one of its co-captains, Josie Maternowski, while Saint Mary's had to play without one of its more talented players, Ann Boutton. The difference was that the Irish had a team full of talented players to fill the gap, while the Belles were lacking in depth.

Early in the match, Saint Mary's tried to make up for the lack in talent with inspired play. It jumped out to a quick lead and hung tough while Notre Dame made some errors and played poorly. The score was tied 7-7 in the first game before the Irish finally pulled away to win.

The second game was similar to the first. The Belles took advantage of a Notre Dame service error and moved out to a 4-0 lead. The Irish straightened themselves out, however, and took a big lead. They fought off a Saint Mary's comeback attempt and took the game.

It was apparent in the third and final game that the Irish had worn down the Belles. Despite making some more service errors, they never let Saint Mary's get anything going.

"We won, but we didn't play well," said Notre Dame coach Sandy Vanslager. "The girls were very slow. The passing was mediocre and they played too conservatively."

"The girls just lacked the footwork to get to the ball and they didn't watch the ball consistently."

Nevertheless, there was some excellent play on both teams. Mary Viola and Beth Kieber played excellent games for the Belles. For the Irish, Robin Israel and Karen Bauters made some impressive spikes, while Mary McLaughlin passed the ball well.

"Mary McLaughlin has been passing consistently," said Vanslager. "She played the strongest as far as passing was concerned. Also Karen did a good job at the net."

This is especially a good sign for the Irish because this match was Bauters' first action in two-and-a-half weeks after she suffered a severely sprained ankle in a tournament.

The victory gives the Irish a 9-1 record in dual meets this year.

IRISH ITEMS — The team goes on its longest road trip of the year this weekend when it travels to Philadelphia. It will compete in the Penn Invitational at the University of Pennsylvania on Friday and Saturday. On Monday, it will travel to Villanova to take on the host Wildcats at 6 p.m.

At mid-season

Voters announce special awards

As is custom, the Bottom Ten voters gathered for their annual Mid-season Chicken Fricasse and Awards Banquet. This year, the sumptuous spread was served up at an anonymous refugee camp in suburban Beirut.

A star-studded dais applauded as various award recipients stepped to the lectern to accept the coveted hardware.

Herewith is a recap of the fabulous event.

The Roy "Wrong-Way" Riegel Memorial Small College Award went to Wilkes College in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. In the late 1960's the school won 26 football games in a row. Then they saw the error of their ways. Currently, Wilkes has the longest losing streak in Division III — 14 games.

The Amazing Kreskin "Watch the watch" Award went to the Eastern Michigan Hurons. The team — which has the longest losing streak in Division I at 24 games — employed a hypnotist to help them out. Since the good doctor joined the staff, EMU has lost four games in a row.

Bottom Ten voters love the occult. It gives them the constant hope that a winning program can always be on the brink of disaster. That's a comforting feeling. Hence, another magician has an award named in his honor.

The Harry Blackstone, Jr. "Watch me pull a rabbit out of my hat" Award goes to tiny Illinois Benedictine. After three quarterbacks were felled by injury, student-coach Joe Pudlo got the start against Loras. Pudlo was 9-of-21 for 74 yards, but IBC won, 27-10. Sorry, Joe.

The Paul Bunyan "Can't see the forest for the trees" Award was awarded to West Texas State. Last week they threw for 403 yards against Florida. They lost 77-14.

The David Letterman "More fun than humans should be allowed to have" Award had a familiar ring. It went to Florida Coach Charlie Pell. After that same game, he said, "I don't particularly get any thrill out of a score like that."

Speaking of scores... One of the highlights of the night was the presentation of the Tony Bennett "I left my heart in San Francisco" Award. This season, the proud recipient was Penn State Coach Joe Paterno. It seems that Paterno came out of the closet — so to speak — after his team's 42-21 loss at Alabama. "You really don't get to know your squad until you get away together to a strange place," Paterno said.

Tony Clements
Dave Roberts

Bottom Ten

One of the big topics of discussion at the banquet began when the scores from across the country were reported. The wire services reported the final score — East Central University 52, Northwest Oklahoma 47. Voters battled long and hard, wagering huge sums of money. But the question was never answered: Just where is East Central University?

Many voters plan this week to attend one of the most long-awaited games in decades.

Northern Illinois, the team that broke Northwestern's losing streak, has their sights set on another upset. They travel to Eastern Michigan this week, and could stop the new losing streak in college.

The latest "Game of the Century" promises to be a Bottom Ten classic.

Here are the post-celebratory rankings:

- 1) Oregon (0-6)
- 2) Memphis State (0-6)
- 3) Eastern Michigan (0-6)
- 4) Rice (0-6)
- 5) Richmond (0-6)
- 6) Kent State (0-6)
- 7) Virginia (0-5)
- 8) Michigan State (0-5)
- 9) Texas Southern (0-6-1)
- 10) Kentucky (0-5-1)

Also receiving votes:

- Purdue (1-5)
Colorado (1-4-1)
John DeLorean (0-220)

Quote of the Week:

Dan Marino, Pitt quarterback, after he threw only three interceptions against Temple: "For the first time this season, I had a real feel for the game."