

The Observer

VOL. XVII, NO. 131

the independent student newspaper serving notre dame and saint mary's

MONDAY, APRIL 18, 1983

Associated Press
Cardinal Joseph Bernardin, Archbishop of Chicago, will be the main speaker at Notre Dame's 1983 commencement ceremonies, The Observer has learned. Bernardin is pictured here as he leaves the Vatican City after being elevated to Cardinal by Pope John Paul II. See story at right.

Cardinal Bernardin to deliver ND commencement address

By PAUL MCGINN and MARK WORSCHER
News Editors

Joseph L. Cardinal Bernardin, archbishop of Chicago, will deliver the commencement address to Notre Dame's class of 1983 at its graduation ceremony May 15, The Observer has learned through an anonymous source.

Peter Foote, director of communications for the Archdiocese of Chicago, would neither confirm nor deny the report. "That's news to us. We don't know anything about it. We haven't yet received the cardinal's schedule for the month of May," Foote said.

Director of Notre Dame Information Services Richard Conklin, contacted by The Observer yesterday, said, "Father Hesburgh's policy has been that we won't release the name of the commencement speaker until all the honorary degree recipients have responded. There's one person who hasn't said yay or nay."

Neither Bernardin nor his chief aide, Father James Roach was available for comment.

Bernardin, 55, has been archbishop of Chicago since Aug. 24, 1982 when he was selected by Pope John Paul II to fill the post which had been vacant since the death of John Cardinal Cody on April 25, 1982. Bernardin was elevated to the cardinalate by the pope Feb. 2.

The Archdiocese of Chicago, the nation's largest Roman Catholic see, has more than 2.4 million members. As archbishop, Bernardin also heads the Chicago parochial school system, the fourth largest school system in the nation behind the public school systems of New York City, Los Angeles, and Chicago.

Before assuming his duties in Chicago, Bernardin had been the archbishop of Cincinnati, Ohio.

An outspoken critic of nuclear proliferation, Bernardin heads the drafting committee of the National Council of Catholic Bishops' Pastoral on War and Peace.

He is credited with much of the planning and writing of the document, the third draft of which is to be voted upon by the American bishops at their next meeting May 2 and 3 in Chicago. The document, released earlier this month, criticizes both the United States and the Soviet Union for their parts in the continued testing and deployment of nuclear arms.

"Asa people," the letter states, "we must refuse to legitimize the idea of nuclear war." Further, the pastoral rejects any first-use nuclear strategy because "the moral responsibility of beginning nuclear war (is) not justified by rational moral principles." The drafting of the letter has provoked much debate concerning the role of bishops in politics.

Many critics of the third draft of the pastoral argue that the Reagan Administration applied pressure to the bishops to change the wording of the first two drafts to soften stances on the use, deployment and deterrent nature of nuclear weapons.

In the discussion of the pastoral document, Bernardin has cited six major areas of specific concentration: Scripture; the "just war" theory and its relationship with the non-violent tradition of Catholicism; the dialogue between the U.S. and the Soviet Union; the moral question of deterrence; the practical strategies for peace and the "distinction between moral principles and their application in concrete circumstances in order to clarify the different levels of moral authority in the document."

The son of an immigrant Italian stonemason, Bernardin was born on April 2, 1928, in Columbia, S.C. His father died when Bernardin was six, and his mother supported the family by working as a seamstress.

He attended a parochial school in Columbia before receiving his high school diploma from the public Columbia High School, where he was a straight-A student. Bernardin received a scholarship from the University of South Carolina to study premedicine. While working at a Catholic hospital, however, he turned to the priesthood, dropping out of U.S.C. after three semesters. He matriculated at Saint Mary's Seminary in Baltimore in 1948, where he earned a B.A. degree in philosophy.

Four years later, after receiving his master's degree in education from Catholic University in Washington, D.C., Barnardin was ordained a priest of the Diocese of Charleston, S.C.

Bernardin was consecrated a bishop in 1966 and was assigned as auxiliary to the late Archbishop Paul Hallinan.

Two years later, he returned to Washington as the full-time general secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops (NCCB).

Chosen archbishop of Cincinnati by Pope Paul VI in 1972, Bernardin immediately became known for his diligence and humble lifestyle.

He was known to spend many sleepless nights working in the chancery office writing policy statements, sermons, and a weekly

See McMANUS, page 6

Walesa meets Glomp

Warsaw uprising commemorated

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Police armed with machine pistols routed 1,000 Solidarity supporters in Warsaw yesterday, while Cardinal Jozef Glomp traveled to Gdansk and met with Lech Walesa in a strong gesture of church support for the outlawed union.

Police in Warsaw moved in after the crowd flashed victory signs and sang union songs at an unofficial ceremony marking the 40th anniversary of the Warsaw ghetto uprising.

Authorities detained at least three people, including Solidarity's former national spokesman, who told the crowd that if the Warsaw ghetto fighters were alive today they would join Solidarity in the "fight for truth, freedom and human dignity."

At another gathering, Glomp told 10,000 faithful at an outdoor Mass in Warsaw that the Communist government has not responded to initiatives to open a dialogue with Solidarity, and that the Polish people are "humiliated before the world."

Glomp later went to Gdansk for ceremonies consecrating Auxiliary Bishop Tadeusz Goclawski. The Roman Catholic primate received Walesa in the sacristy of St. Mary's Cathedral for 30 minutes before the consecration, according to Polish sources and Western reporters who witnessed the meeting.

They said the two men discussed the interrogation of Walesa, his wife and their driver last week by police seeking information about his secret meeting with underground union leaders.

The developments came a day after police announced the arrest of at least 26 Solidarity backers in apparent retaliation for the underground's call for nationwide protests May 1. Lech Walesa, leader of the outlawed union, met with the underground a week ago, and agreed they would coordinate policies.

Janusz Onyszkiewicz, Solidarity's former national spokesman, was led away by two plainclothesmen yesterday after giving a speech at a monument to the 70,000 Jews who were killed or captured in the 1943 ghetto uprising against Nazi occupation forces.

Addressing the crowd, Onyszkiewicz said, "We came here because we could not find a place in the official ceremonies."

The wreathlaying was organized by those refusing to take part in an elaborate anniversary sponsored by the government. The official commemoration has drawn about 1,500 foreign visitors, most of them Jews, but has been marred by protests over a plan by a Palestine Liberation Organization representative to take part tomorrow.

Onyszkiewicz told the unofficial gathering that "If the heroes of the ghetto were alive today, I am sure that they would join us in the fight for truth, freedom and human dignity."

Onyszkiewicz spoke moments after another speaker, Roman Zimer, read a letter from the only leader of the uprising still living in Poland — Dr. Marek Edelman, who was blocked from leaving his home in Lodz, 80 miles southwest of Warsaw, to attend yesterday's wreathlaying.

"My most heartfelt wish and duty was to be here with you," Edelman wrote. "Unfortunately, the security forces prevented me."

South Bend diocese

Bishop discusses peace letter

By SONYA STINSON
Senior Staff Reporter

Referring to the threat of nuclear war as an "insanity," Bishop William McManus of the Fort Wayne-South Bend diocese joined Father Richard Warner, an Indiana provincial superior, in a discussion of the forthcoming U.S. bishops' letter on war and peace last night in the Library Auditorium.

The third draft of the letter, which is titled "The Challenge of Peace: God's Promise and Our Response," was released for publication April 6. The bishops will meet in Chicago on May 2 and 3 to consider the latest draft, which must pass by a two-thirds majority.

McManus said the final draft probably will pass. He and Warner discussed some of the alterations made in the latest version of the letter. One change which has been the focus of a lot of media attention is the replacement of the word "halt" with the word "curb" in reference to the nuclear arms build-up.

"There's a lot of chatter going around about who got to the bishops' committee," McManus said. He said there have been suggestions that the current administration put pressure on the bishops to make the letter sound more in concert with its views.

Bishop William McManus

McManus called these suggestions "downright insulting," and said the reason for the changed wording was the attempt to reflect the wide-ranging views of the bishops and assure a passing vote.

"If there isn't a two-thirds vote for the statement, there won't be a statement," McManus said.

But the bishop also revealed he personally disagrees with the change. "I think that the word 'curb' ought to be dropped, and the word 'halt' restored," he stated.

Warner explained in greater detail the major changes made in the third draft and discussed the process of forming the committee and composing the letter.

The idea for the document first came about in November, 1980, when the bishops met in Washington. An ad hoc committee on war and peace was formed, and its first meeting was in July, 1981. At that meeting, the bishops decided to use an open process in drafting the letter.

According to Warner, the bishops held hearings and spoke to consultants in many areas of expertise. The consultants included Secretary of Defense Casper Weinberger, former Secretaries of Defense Harold Brown and James Schlesinger, a physician, and a host of theologians

See ADDRESS, page 6

By The Observer and The Associated Press

Saint Mary's Board of Regents was on campus this weekend for its spring session. The Regents attended classes on Thursday, and committees on development, education, student life and finance and budget convened. The board met Friday to discuss the transfer of funds to reserve for fire and safety improvements, and to report on the college center, among other topics. The board would not release information regarding its decisions. Dr. Jack Dugan, College President, said a press release will be issued by tomorrow. — The Observer

Millionaire lawyer Bernard Epton, who criticized the news recently during his unsuccessful bid to become mayor of Chicago, is trying to put together a syndicate to buy the Chicago Sun-Times. The Chicago Tribune reported yesterday that Epton had spent the past few days arranging to make a bid for the newspaper from Palm Beach, Fla., where he arrived Wednesday for a vacation after his loss to Democrat Harold Washington the day before. Epton also said that if he acquired the newspaper, he would "immediately" fire Pulitzer Prize-winning columnist Mike Royko and another Sun-Times columnist, Roger Simon. Epton criticized both columnists during his unsuccessful mayoral campaign. Kenneth Towers, the newspaper's assistant managing editor, said Royko and Simon were not available for comment, and reiterated the newspaper's earlier statement that "all reasonable, qualified bids" for the newspaper would be considered. — AP

A hamburger, french fries and soft drink — the ever-popular American meal — may be producing the criminals of tomorrow, warns a Tacoma, Wash., criminologist. Alexander G. Schauss, author of "Diet, Crime and Delinquency," realizes many people will shake their heads and snicker when they hear his theory. "This does not mean that people commit crimes because they eat Big Macs and Twinkies," said Schauss, the director of the American Institute of Biosocial Research. But he insists there is a connection between junk food and crime. Schauss outlined his theories here at last week's Indiana Conference on Nutrition and Behavior. He claimed that food allergies foster violence, that too much sugar and milk in a child's diet can sometimes lead to disruptive behavior. Parents and taxpayers would both save money and headaches if problems created by poor diets are treated, he said. "I know it's part of our American life style (junk food), but we've got to try to change that life style." — AP

Princess Diana has put on a few pounds during her month's tour of Australia, say British journalists, but Buckingham Palace yesterday denied rumors that she is pregnant. The denial was issued first in Auckland, New Zealand, where Diana arrived over the weekend with her husband, Prince Charles, and 10-month-old Prince William. "The Princess of Wales is not pregnant," said Buckingham Palace, confirming the Australian statement. Nigel Dempster, gossip columnist for London's Daily Mail, said in an interview Friday with Australian television, "I believe there could be another royal birth in November." Dempster based his prediction on 21-year-old Diana's apparent weight gain in Australia and the lack of any official engagements published for November. The Press Association, the British domestic news agency, quoted royal aides as calling the speculation about a royal pregnancy "total rubbish." — AP

"Hopping mad" — that's how investors in Michigan and three surrounding states feel towards an Indiana firm whose owner promised their investments would multiply as fast as the rabbits he sold them. But instead of their cash, investors say, their problems with Conejo Rex Co. and owner Richard Kloche are the only things doing any multiplying. "I've had as many as 500 rabbits around here," said a Bad Axe, Mich. farmer who invested in Conejo Rex. "I've been butchering them and selling the meat. I quit breeding them because the feed bill is too high." Investigators say investors lost thousands of dollars. Company sales agents offered a special breed of rabbit, called a rex, at the price of four for $1,800. Investors also received for the price a pen, a feeder and the verbal promise Conejo would purchase offspring at $2 a pound — twice the going rate. Most investors who signed up never saw Kloche or his agents again, said James Karpen, enforcement director of the Corporations and Securities Bureau of the Michigan Department of Commerce. Authorities in Ohio, Indiana and Wisconsin also are investigating Conejo. — AP

A teen-ager jailed for failing to say "Yes, sir," to a judge was released yesterday, three days after a state appeals court ordered him freed. Michael Anthony Washington, 19, was ordered released Thursday by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin on a $100 personal recognizance bond. But officials at the Harris County Jail refused to release Washington until they received written notice from the court in Austin. Sheriff Jack Heard said the notice arrived yesterday afternoon. State District Judge ordered Washington to serve 30 days in jail March 30 after the defendant, who pleaded guilty to burglary, answered "Yeah" instead of "Yes, sir," to the judge's questions. — AP

An Tostal Ice Pits? Perhaps. Today will be cloudy and very cool with high in the mid and upper 30s. Cloudy and cold at night. Low in the mid and upper 20s. Cloudy tomorrow and cool. High in the low and mid 40s. — AP

"What's the use?"

What ever happened to the Nuclear Freeze Referendum that Saint Mary's voted on during the February general elections? The students voiced their opinion on an issue by marking an "x" on a slip of paper. They passed the referendum for a unilateral freeze of nuclear weapons.

By passing the referendum, the students did the unexpected. They stepped out of the shadow of the Golden Dome and voted for a unilateral freeze, unlike Notre Dame. But why Saint Mary's students passed the referendum while Notre Dame students did not cannot be answered simply. Perhaps women have a traditional understanding of the situation and are not power-minded people seeking power for its own sake at the risk of the world's future. Perhaps Saint Mary's women realize that the useless power plays between the United States and the Soviet Union only serve to fuel aggression between the two nations. But after the referendum passed the concensus on campus seemed to be, "what's the use?"

Saint Mary's students believe the United States should take the initiative and put a freeze on the nuclear arms build-up. But the U.S. government would never put itself in such a vulnerable position since it has always fought for peace by exerting its power. In effect then, all the students proved was that they are not influenced by Notre Dame when deciding if the "x" goes by "yes" or "no" on the ballot — wrong.

The students at the college did much more. They moved out of the Dome's shadow and shed the light of their message that spread over Notre Dame, the nation and the world. The referendum was not merely an issue about which to vote and then cast aside. Now that the students have taken a stand they are also taking action. Letters will be sent to President Reagan and Prime Minister Andropov to inform them of the students' political stand.

Realistically, the letters will not have a terrific impact. But asking for a bilateral freeze over a unilateral freeze is not making much of a statement because the possibility of it becoming a reality is so slim. Still, we are allowing others to sign our death sentence if we do not make our views known. Saint Mary's students realize the danger of apathy by leaving the decision to heads of states and other "experts". If we allow the volleying of political power between the United States and the Soviet Union to continue, the responsibility will still weigh on our shoulders.

The arms build-up is a game for these two powerful

Anne Monastyrski
Saint Mary's Editor

Inside Monday

nations and the country with the bigger gun is supposed to win. But the nuclear arms issue is not a game. There will be no winners and the world has everything to lose — our future is at stake.

The students have made it known they do not want any part of this mindless game. The future of our world does not lie with the "experts" and so the students do not want them to decide. And we cannot rely on the USSR to take the initiative and halt their build-up in the interest of world peace.

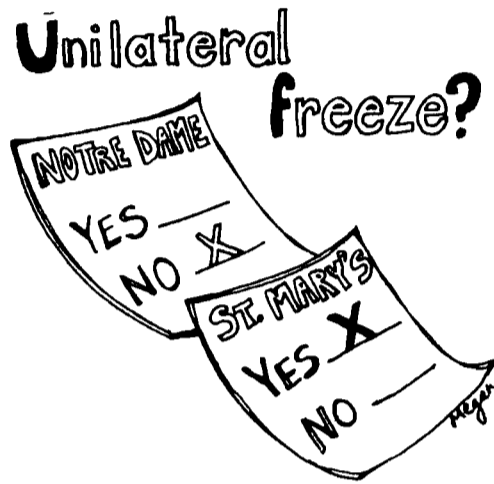

Therefore, demanding a unilateral freeze is the answer. We have the power to influence our government by voicing our opinion. It is up to the United States to make the first step. As a leader in technology, a freeze on the nuclear arms build-up would be a strong statement to all other nations of the world, especially the Soviet Union. The Soviet Union would then react to our initiative.

An International Peace Day is designated as May 1 for Saint Mary's. In this way, students are converting their political statement into action. Saint Mary's women will show their dedication to world peace through a campus-wide Mass celebration and other activities as a visible sign of their commitment.

The referendum issue sparked casual conversation and heated debates campus-wide as students became involved in the political life which ordinarily seems far removed from campus life. What the impact of the students decision might have in halting the nuclear arms build-up can only be measured by the actions they take to influence other students and the governments of the world. The International Peace Day is the second step towards that goal.

The Observer is always looking for new talent. If you are interested in newspaper writing or newspaper production, stop up at The Observer office on the 3rd floor of LaFortune.

The Observer

Design Editor.....J.P. Keyes-A.A.
Design Assistant.....Pete
Typesetters.....BWD
The ghost
News Editor.....Diane
Copy Editor.....Kath
Features Layout.....Mary, Sarah
Editorials Layout.....Libby
Sports Copy Editor.....Mike
ND Day Editor.....Mike B.
Typists.....Libby
Ad Design.....?
Photographer.....Scott
Guest Appearances.....Robin Brown and her tunes.
Sick Sandunista.
Jeb-future big time cartoonist.
Colleen 'On her way' Q.
Dennis Ryan-?
Pete's Beast (Loose five more-please).
Jim's Maria and Planet Claire.
Teresa and Andrea for Friday lunch.

"Call me Ishmael."

The Observer (USPS 598 920) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $30 per year ($15 per semester) by writing The Observer, P.O. Box Q Notre Dame, Indiana 46556

The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

ND — SMC STUDENTS SUMMER DISCOUNT GROUP
RATES B & B Storage
Self - Service

1/2 mile south of Niles K-Mart
3001 U.S. 31 - east side of highway.

THE DEPARTMENT OF ART, ART HISTORY AND DESIGN

Degree programs:
B.A. in Studio Art, Art History and Industrial Design
B.F.A. in Studio Art and Industrial Design

Elective Courses and Complete Programs in:
Ceramics - Pottery and Ceramic Sculpture;
Fibers - Weaving and Papermaking;
Product Design and Advertising;
Painting - Watercolor, Oil, etc.;
Photography - Black and White and Color, ect.;
Sculpture - Wood, Metal, etc.;
Art History

For more information about our degree programs or electives please contact the Department Office, 132 O'Shaughnessy or call 239-7602.

Architecture prof honored by AIA

By WARREN BERRY
News Staff

Patrick Horsbrugh, Notre Dame professor of architecture since 1967, has been named to the American Institute of Architect's College of Fellows, a lifetime honor awarded for important contributions to the architecture profession.

Horsbrugh has devoted time to educational and design issues concerning environmental conditions, energy, transportation, and social factors in urban and regional planning, in addition to speaking and consulting with experts worldwide on environmental and urban planning issues.

Horsbrugh will speak in Sydney, Australia at the first international conference on Energy Efficient Buildings with Earth Sheltered Protection on the topic of the ancient and modern below-earth design he reviewed on a recent trip to China. Horsbrugh has served as a planning consultant in several Middle Eastern and Far Eastern countries including Pakistan, Burma and Saudi Arabia.

Horsbrugh was graduated with honors from the Architectural Association School of Architecture in London and was awarded the Bernard Webb Fellowship at the Academia Britannica in Rome to study hill town planning in Italy. His designs encouraged postwar urban renewal in London as well as city planning in the Middle East.

He served as deputy director of the Hamilton-Wentworth Planning Board of Ontario, Canada before joining the faculties at the University of Nebraska (1960) and the University of Texas (1965).

At Notre Dame Horsbrugh established the graduate program in Environic Studies, and in 1970 founded the Environic Foundation International, a non-profit organization supporting innovative environmental concepts including new transportation systems. His concern with environmental issues extends to the protection and adaptation of historic buildings and landscape architecture.

Horsbrugh recently received a commendation from Indiana Governor Robert Orr for his participation in the Educational Task Force of the Indiana White River Park Commission. He recommended the reconstruction of a working water mill in the planned White River Park as part of a museum on the influence of wheat.

As a fellow of the AIA, Horsbrugh is entitled to use the initials FAIA after his name. He will be inducted into the 60-year-old College on May 22 at the 1983 American Institute of Architects national convention in New Orleans.

Sr. Mary Julien, C.S.C., formerly a member of the Saint Mary's College community, took the Michigan City Boy's Choir to Notre Dame this weekend to hear Gerry Faust speak on Saturday. The boys ranged in age from fourth to seventh grade.

The Observer/Scott Bower

At Saint Mary's

Ex-UN official speaks on peace

By THERESA GUARINO
News Staff

The United States must be more open in peace negotiations to the ideas of communist and militant regimes according to former United Nations Ambassador Donald McHenry.

McHenry, U.S. ambassador to the U.N. during the Carter administration, was guest speaker for the Saint Mary's Business Associates' annual dinner last Friday.

Taping a "Straight Talk" show for Channel 34, McHenry said in regard to the Middle East, "The U.S. must come to the realization that there won't be any permanent peace until the legitimate aspirations of all concerned are observed.

"We're restricting the aspirations of the Palestinians," McHenry observed. "It is not a question of recognizing the PLO because they are not a nation, but of course we should sit down and talk with them. We've pictured the PLO as all devils. But with any organization, there are devils and saints. It's a mistake to label an organization by any one of its components."

The United States' attitude towards the Soviets has gone past the point of concern to become an "obsession," according to McHenry. "The Soviets constitute a major problem, but we shouldn't let our worry cause us to take an opposite point of view on an issue just because the Soviets hold the other view."

Historically, the U.S. has been viewed by other nations, especially in the third world, as idealistic and humanitarian, but this is changing.

"We've have a reservoir of goodwill because of the traditional view of the U.S.," McHenry said. "We also have been charged with the violation of civil rights. In the eyes of our government, any violation is overshadowed by communism," McHenry noted.

McHenry was asked about his stand on the nuclear freeze issue, recently voted on at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's.

"Obviously the most desirable (option) is a mutual freeze and then to proceed with negotiations," he commented. "But I don't have any problems with a unilateral freeze. It's not that much of a gamble; we're strong, and hopefully it would induce the Soviets to do the same."

The U.N. does not play much of a role in the nuclear freeze decision, according to McHenry.

"We're basically another forum for the question," he said.

McHenry commented on the overall role of the U.N. in keeping the peace.

"With the U.N., you feel you've achieved in the sense that you are part of a building process.

Louis MacKenzie, Jr.

ND grad to head Angers program

Jeff Choppin
Staff Reporter

A 1969 Notre Dame graduate has been selected to be Director of the Angers Foreign Studies Program for next year, and he says he will try to balance the academic and cultural aspects of that program.

Louis MacKenzie, Jr., a 1969 Notre Dame graduate, has been serving in the Department of Romance Languages and Literature at Princeton University. He received his masters degree from Middlebury College, Vermont, doing part of his work in Paris. He received his doctorate in 1977 from Cornell.

"I have a responsibility to Notre Dame to maintain students' well-being — their physical, psychological and legal well-being. I will have a counselor role," commented MacKenzie, who also said it will be his responsibility to make sure that the courses offered in Angers are up to Notre Dame standards.

"The SUNDEF (Stage Universitaire de Notre Dame en France) program is a very viable program," MacKenzie noted, "but the relative success of a (SUNDEF) program depends on its director ability to keep students engaged in activities and functions. The program has a tradition of success. I would like to insure the continuation of that success," MacKenzie added.

"I have the impression that the program is loaded with great potential for student profits. Living in a different culture is an opportunity for growth in a broadening sense," MacKenzie said. While recognizing the advantages of travel and experiencing the culture, MacKenzie stresses the academics of the program. "It would be a risk to consider the gesture of living in a different country as being compensatory for taking easy courses," he said.

MacKenzie emphasizes a balance between the "rigors" of an academic program and the "rigors" of a foreign experience. "A year away from the academic current may be dangerous," MacKenzie noted. He highlights the distinction the French make between "instruction" and "education." "Instruction" indicates a strong emphasis on classroom activity while "education" centers around learning about "life, living, people, and morale." The year abroad, he says, is more of a year of education than instruction.

MacKenzie said that learning French is a "self-motivating" activity. "One could get away without learning much French," he commented. The students should, however, recognize the dual importance of language as having a value in itself and as a mode of communication, he said. "I don't see most students shirking from a challenge. Most good students would not want to have wasted a perfect opportunity to learn the language," MacKenzie added.

Saint Mary's library wins award

By WARREN BERRY
News Staff

The Saint Mary's Cushwa-Leighton Library is one of five libraries in the country to be honored with an Excellence for Library Architecture award in the 11th annual Library Buildings Award Program as announced by the American Institute of Architects recently.

The Institute's jury cited Cushwa-Leighton's seating in its decision. "With its natural emphasis on seating, the Cushwa-Leighton Library has an excellent distribution of individual and group seatings that avoids uncomfortable, large massings of seats," the jury commented. "The entry level is well designed with major public service," the jury added. The architect of the Cushwa-Leighton Library is Evans Woolen of Indianapolis. He will be honored by the Institute's prestigious College of Fellows on May 22 in New Orleans along with Notre Dame professor Patrick Horsbrugh. (see story on page 3)

The Library Buildings Award Program is sponsored by the AIA and the American Library Association. The awards will be presented June 27 in Los Angeles.

Let's Give It A Try

SUB Night

at

The Yellow Submarine

For Notre Dame, St. Mary's, and Holy Cross Every Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday Evening 9 - 12pm

Free Delivery - Every 1/2 hour
5 Sub Minimum Order

Drivers carry under $15.00

GOOD TIME

836

PORTAGE AVE. PIZZA

PHONE

232-1883

Monday Special!

16 in pizza with 1 item
32 oz pepsi

Free Delivery
$6.90

NO COUPON NEEDED
OFFER NOT GOOD WITH OTHER COUPONS

John Schlesinger, a senior, eyes a sculpture at the annual student show held by the Snite Museum of Art. The show opened yesterday and will continue through May 15, displaying the work of seniors and master of fine arts students.

The Observer/John Wachter

Scientists conduct research on sugar

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — For those who grab a junk food snack for a quick jolt of energy, science has bad news: sugar makes folks sleepy.

Sugar is America's favorite food additive. People eat 128 pounds of it a year. They have lots of views about how it affects their behavior, even though scientists generally have shunned the subject.

But now psychiatrists, nutritionists and others have begun looking at how food influences the way people act.

A series of studies being published in the Journal of Psychiatric Research provides some surprising clues about the effects of sugar. It seems to make children calm and grown-ups sleepy. And it may hinder concentration.

The findings cast doubt on the claims of some natural food advocates, who say ordinary sugar makes children hyperactive and prisoners aggressive.

"A carbohydrate meal will, by causing insulin to be secreted, change the proportions of certain amino acids in the blood," said Richard Wurtman, who organized the meeting. "There's good preliminary evidence that this will tend to make you sleepy, diminish your sensitivity to pain and very definitely suppress your desire for carbohydrates."

Sugar does not affect everyone the same way. Dr. Bonnie Spring, a Harvard psychiatrist, found that older people are more apt to notice its effects. She compared the effects of a high-carbohydrate meal — a dish of sherbet — or a high-protein meal — a plate of turkey breast.

Women said they felt sleepier after the carbohydrate meal than after the protein. And men said they felt calmer after the sherbet.

People over 40 complained that they felt more tension and anger after the protein. When they had sherbet, the older people had more trouble concentrating when asked to repeat words.

"I studied a single, ordinary meal, and the fact that it could have effects of that magnitude is surprising," said Spring.

Many people worry about the effects of sugar on youngsters. There is no doubt it can cause cavities, but Dr. Judith Rapoport, chief of the Section on Child Psychiatry at the National Institute of Mental Health, says there is no scientific evidence to show that it makes children hyperactive.

Scientists are beginning to understand how carbohydrates influence the way people act. It raises blood levels of an amino acid called tryptophan. That, in turn, is used to manufacture serotonin, a neurotransmitter that relays messages in the brain.

Some scientists have indirectly studied the effects of sugar by watching the effects of extra doses of tryptophan. Dr. Michael Yogman of Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston found that babies go to sleep faster when tryptophan and carbohydrates are added to their bottles.

MONDAY FOCUS

The alleged ills of sweets have gained wide acceptance. In 1978, former San Francisco Supervisor Dan White invoked a "Twinkie defense" in his trial for the manslaughter of Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk. He claimed that his mental capacity was diminished by an overdose of junk food.

Some jails limit the amounts of sweets inmates can eat.

"I think it's fair to say that the scientific community in general has not been convinced that either sugar causes hyperactivity or that diet can convincingly be used to control the behavior of prisoners," said Dr. Harris Lieberman of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Most of the studies being published in the psychiatric journal were given at a conference last November at MIT. Several of them looked at the effects of carbohydrates, which can be either sugar or starch.

Says Kremlin ideologist

Andropov faces party challenges

MOSCOW (AP) — Five months after taking over as Communist Party chief, Yuri Andropov is meeting stiff challenges from the Brezhnev political machine led by Kremlin ideologist Konstantin Chernenko, Soviet sources say.

The latest and strongest signal of fighting within the ruling Politburo, the sources say, was the postponement of a Central Committee plenary session scheduled for the last week of March.

The strength of the Brezhnev machine in the party's upper echelons frustrated Andropov's plan to call the plenum and ram through a number of major personnel and policy changes, said the sources, who spoke on condition they not be named or otherwise identified.

The informants say the plenum now won't be held until June, delaying changes Andropov hoped to make by at least two months. It remains to be seen if, during that period, he can muster the backing to restart the shakeup he began shortly after taking over following Leonid Brezhnev's death last November.

Plenary sessions are never announced in advance, making it impossible to confirm officially that one either was planned for March or postponed.

Andropov also was reported by other sources to have been hospitalized in mid-March for heart and kidney ailments, but he reappeared in public March 25.

According to Western diplomats, Andropov, 69, has shuffled procedures inside the decision-making bodies to short-circuit the 71-year-old Chernenko's phoenix-like political resurgence.

Many observers had expected that Chernenko, once considered a likely successor to Brezhnev, would be consigned to a background role after Andropov beat him in the contest for power.

But Andropov's moves have not been totally successful so far, as the Soviet sources claim the reported postponement of the plenum indicates.

Andropov also has not been named president, a ceremonial post Brezhnev held in addition to party general secretary. That could be a sign of disarray or simply Andropov's wish.

Growing concern, especially among regional party bosses, about the heavy-handed manner Andropov was using in shaking things up has caused the old regulars to rally around Chernenko, the sources said.

Since Andropov became party leader, he has created what observers say is a closer link between the KGB, which he ran for 15 years,

By Vietnamese

Chinese respond to border attacks

PEKING (AP) — Chinese artillery pounded Vietnamese border gunners along a second front yesterday, the government announced. It charged Vietnam had been continuing cross-border shelling and warned Hanoi that "aggression against China must be stopped at once."

Peking also accused Vietnam of launching border attacks to divert attention from its battle against Khmer Rouge guerrillas on the Cambodia-Thailand border.

The official Xinhua news agency said the shelling yesterday was conducted from China's Yunnan province and followed artillery bombardments launched Saturday on Vietnamese border posts from the neighboring Guangxi province of China.

"The shelling (yesterday) destroyed the enemy's surface fortifications," it said. "The Vietnamese position is in a mess."

The weekend reports made no mention of Vietnamese casualties.

There was no immediate comment from Vietnam nor was there independent confirmation of the Chinese report. Vietnam, which has accused the Chinese of firing on Vietnamese border settlements and outposts in the past, said last week that Chinese troops crossed into Vietnamese territory and burned houses.

Xinhua said Chinese troops opened a "fierce" artillery attack Saturday in retaliation for repeated Vietnamese shooting that had killed at least 15 Chinese soldiers and peasants.

Yesterday, Xinhua said, "The Chinese frontier guards in Yunnan were (again) compelled to fire back at the Vietnamese troops.

"Since the latter half of March, the Vietnamese troops had repeatedly fired at Chinese border areas, killing Chinese border inhabitants working in the fields," it added.

Xinhua said Vietnamese agents had sneaked into Chinese territory and set fire to more than 1,500 acres of woods, bamboo groves and rubber trees. The agents also destroyed communications wires and houses of Chinese border inhabitants, it said.

Western military observers predicted China would keep up the pressure on the Vietnamese until Hanoi pulls back troops battling Khmer Rouge guerrillas along the Thai-Cambodian border.

Chinese forces crossed into Vietnam for a month in 1979 in response to Vietnam's invasion of Cambodia in late 1978, which toppled the Chinese-backed Khmer Rouge regime. Vietnamese forces crossed into Yunnan province in May 1981, and Chinese troops killed 100 of them.

The People's Daily said Vietnam recently stepped up military provocations and incursions along the Chinese border in an "attempt to tie up China and prevent it from supporting the just struggle of the people of Kampuchea (Cambodia) and Thailand."

AN TOSTAL '83

- Daisy Sales continue tonight and tomorrow at Dinner in the Dining Halls.
- Chance To Dance tickets go on sale tomorrow at Dinner while you feed. $3.00 to hear 'Heat Wave' and the 'Kinetics' Friday Night.
- Impersonations Contest, get your act together and call Mary at 284 - 5111 for details.
- Picnic Tickets for Thursday's festivities at St. Mary's will be available for Free Tuesday at 6:30, 1st floor LaFortune. First come, first served.

Buy Observer classifieds!

ND April 15-16-17 1983
L'il Sibs Weekend

Starting off on the right foot.

Quiet companionship.

L'il Sibs, L'il Sisters join their their collegiate kin

Future Domers and Belles enjoy weekend taste of college

They descended upon the campuses this weekend wearing extra-small ND/SMC sweatshirts. Some carried highly prized care packages from home to give to their big sibs. Others simply carried high hopes for a fun weekend with a big brother or sister. The impetus for this "little people" immigration was the annual ND/SMC Little Sibs Weekend, an event planned to provide potential Domers and SMCers with a taste of college life. Both younger and older sibs had a wide variety of activities such as movies, games, picnics and dances from which to choose.

The reactions to the weekend were many and varied. Some little sibs had a terrific time, others were slightly disappointed in the weekend. One little brother, Lou Perry, 13, was among the sibs who enjoyed themselves.

"Little Sibs Weekend is the only chance I'd ever get to watch three movies without getting in trouble for being lazy," commented Perry. Missy Glomb, 10, said she had a good time because "My sister lets me have pizza every meal."

Debbie Hickey, 14, said her favorite activity was the sock hop on Friday night. "The only problem was that alot of the boys didn't know how to dance," she added.

One of the less enthusiastic sibs was Ray McPartin, 10. "I thought there would be more to do," said McPartin.

Tommy Souder, 16, agreed. "I wanted to come and meet lots of college girls, and when I heard that the parties were cancelled I was pretty bummed!" said Souder.

Linda Mae, 17, didn't have any problem meeting guys in spite of the scarcity of parties. "She went out on a date last night while I stayed home," commented her sister, Sophomore Mary Ellen Mae.

Whether the weekend turned out as expected or not, all the sibs agreed that Little Sibs Weekend was a great chance to get away from home and spend some time with a big brother or sister. It also was the perfect opportunity to visit Saint Mary's and Notre Dame and see what college life is like. Patti Ryan, 6, summed it up by saying, "This weekend has been so much fun that I could live here all the time with my sister and never get sick of it!"

Moving in.

Too young for Bookstore?

Little sister.

Story by Beth Walsh
 Photos and page design by Scott Bower

A future domer?

Keeping different hours.

A guard at Western Penitentiary stands outside the prison in Pittsburgh Saturday afternoon. Two inmates have been holding two hostages since Thursday morning in the prison, and discussions still are underway between negotiators and the inmates. See story below.

Officials bargain in prison standoff

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Officials and a pair of inmates holding two hostages in a prison basement have reduced and revamped the inmates' list of items for discussion as work continued toward a "surrender agreement" late yesterday, the fourth day of the standoff.

"The list has been changed through negotiations to definite points," Kenneth Robinson, spokesman for the state Corrections Department, said at an 8:30 p.m. EST news briefing.

"Most of the things that could be dealt with early, were," he said outside the State Correctional Institution at Pittsburgh. "It's a lot shorter than it was initially."

"We aren't at the end. It's just trying to work out the details of the surrender agreement," Robinson told reporters earlier in the day during a briefing outside the stone walls of the prison, where the standoff began with a bungled escape attempt Thursday. Both were armed with handguns, prison officials said.

The two hostages — civilian prison employee Kostas "Gus" Mastros, 51, and guard Daniel Kohut, 39 — spoke to negotiators yesterday morning and said they were well, but tired, according to Robinson.

The specifics of the inmates' list of "points for discussion," handed out Saturday, has not been made public.

The prison officials gave the inmates a written response to the list, but would not reveal the contents.

The institution's 1,300 other prisoners remained locked in their cells yesterday, where they have been kept without a break since Thursday. They were calm despite the lockdown.

About 60 inmates in one section of the large prison along the Ohio River shouted and banged on cell doors briefly Friday to protest being denied commissary items such as cigarettes, officials said.

On Saturday, Mastros passed out the inmates' four-page list in return for sandwiches. Until then, prison officials had repeatedly refused requests for food.

Negotiators seeking proof that the hostages were healthy traded four more sandwiches later Saturday for a brief look at Mastros through a door, and again yesterday.

The basement room, located in the section of the prison where inmates are processed for transfers, has received no newspapers and has no television or radio. The inmates have refused medicine for Kohut, who suffers from high blood pressure.

Henkel and Coviello seized the hostages in the Western Diagnostic and Classification Center, a section of the prison, before they were to be strip-searched for court appearances Thursday morning.

... Address

continued from page 1

newspaper column. He sold the mansion of the former archbishop and moved into a simply furnished three-room apartment.

Elected president of the NCCB in 1974, Bernardin opposed the ordination of women, abortion and capital punishment, but supported the rights of women. He was considered a liberal concerning structural reforms of the Church.

After leaving the presidency, Bernardin became chairman of the bishops' committee on war and peace in 1977, a position he still holds.

Recent commencement speakers at Notre Dame include Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau of Canada (1982), President Ronald Reagan (1981) and former President Jimmy Carter (1977).

... McManus

continued from page 1

and scripture scholars. "We felt that it was important to show reasonable familiarity with the very complex matters with which we were dealing," Warner said.

The earlier versions of the letter were circulated for responses, many of which were critical of the approach taken on the subject of deterrence, Warner said.

In response to the criticism, the new letter states a "conditional acceptance" of deterrence where it had before condemned such a policy. Critics of the earlier drafts called to the bishops' attention a 1982 address by Pope John Paul II in which he said that deterrence may be considered morally acceptable in some cases.

The latest draft takes the pope's statement into account, while proposing the condition that there be "progressive moves toward arms control. It also takes into account the views of bishops who oppose deterrence as inadequate, Warner.

The letter also addresses the role of the scriptures and suggests the practice of prayer and fasting for peace among the faithful.

"I think that this thing has gotten so far out of hand... that even the best language the bishops put together will not do the trick," McManus said. "We are so far gone that only divine intervention will save us."

Reverse discrimination case

Supreme Court hears arguments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, entering the home stretch of its public deliberations this year, will hear arguments today on a "reverse discrimination" case growing out of hard times.

At issue is whether employers can preserve jobs for minority workers by laying off whites with more seniority.

The "affirmative action" dispute from Boston — closely watched by civil rights groups and organized labor — may highlight a final two weeks of arguments in cases to be decided by July.

The case arose when city officials in 1981 laid off more than 400 police officers and firefighters. Had the layoffs been based on seniority, the percentage of blacks and Hispanics among Boston police would have dropped from 11.7 percent to 6.2 percent. Minority firefighters would have dipped from 14.7 percent to 9.1 percent.

Both departments have been under court orders to increase the number of blacks and Hispanics who work for them.

Lower courts said that despite the layoffs, the percentage of minorities within the departments could not decrease. That meant that the jobs of 222 minority members were spared and 222 whites with more seniority were laid off. White workers carried the dispute to the Supreme Court, charging "reverse discrimination."

Among other thorny issues to be decided by the court:

— How far can states go in providing tax help for parents who send their children to private schools?

The justices will study decisions that upheld a Minnesota law allowing state income tax deductions for tuition, textbooks and transportation. The high court decision could directly affect the Reagan administration's hopes to provide federal tuition tax credits.

— How should federal appeals courts handle emergency requests from death row inmates seeking last-minute postponements of executions?

The decision in a case from Texas will go a long way in determining how soon the nation's 1,500 condemned murderers may die.

— Did federal safety regulators exceed their authority when they lifted requirements that all new automobiles sold in the United States someday be equipped with air bags or automatic seat belts?

A lower court said yes, and imposed a September 1983 deadline for passive restraints.

— Must waste disposal considerations influence the licensing of every nuclear power plant?

A lower court said the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission must always weigh such considerations, which could significantly delay the nuclear industry's growth.

— May the government continue to collect billions of dollars under the 1980 windfall profits tax on oil?

A lower court said the tax, which produced $26 billion in revenue as of late 1982 and is expected to yield more than $40 billion more over the next five years, is unconstitutional.

Professor stresses social responsibility

By AMY STEPHAN
News Staff

David O'Brien says that we should be proud of the work done in starting the Center for Social Concerns, although he adds that he does not want to settle for concern.

"Caring is not enough," said O'Brien, a history professor at Holy Cross College, in his talk which opened the symposium on social justice last Friday. O'Brien spoke on the social responsibility of higher Catholic education.

"Does the challenge of Catholic education extend beyond the theology department?" asked O'Brien, stating that the relationship between Christianity and education has personal, cultural, political and economic dimensions as well. "We need education appropriate to the lives we wish to lead," he added.

Since his graduation from Notre Dame in 1960, O'Brien has noted changes in public attitudes and in Catholic understanding affecting Catholic higher education. He said that Catholic colleges have experienced a decline in their sense of public responsibility, as well as a decline in general education and creative dealing with issues.

O'Brien noted that many universities have instigated volunteer activities (such as the Center for Social Concerns) and stated that Notre Dame is at the forefront of these efforts. He said that these volunteer programs are "marginal to academic life," however, and are not integral elements of the overall academic programs.

Another problem O'Brien sees in these programs is their explicit Christian element. O'Brien said that this element helps in the development of critical sense and prompts reflection on society and morals. Nevertheless, it also causes tension in some students and is not the language of the overall academic community; it does not move us towards a new social order.

O'Brien warned that if Catholic universities are isolated from the mainstream of Catholic life, gaps between rhetoric and serious study could develop. "Our mission is not to judge how bad the world is... we are called to enter more fully into the life of our times," said O'Brien.

Christian responsibility for the world is not fully covered by volunteer service once a week, O'Brien said. "We each have talents that we are called on to use for the service of Christ and the world," he said.

O'Brien noted that there is a need to assist students in making decisions related to faith and values. He said that Catholic universities should give students an opportunity early in their education to examine disciplines in a social context.

Notre Dame Ave. Apts.

has apts. for the summer/very special reduced rates
CALL 234-6647

Apts. still available for next school

RECENT WORK BY

EILEEN O'MEARA
PHOTOGRAPHS
CARL BEITZINGER
POTTERY

ISIS GALLERY
3RD FLOOR WEST
ART BUILDING

Opening Reception: Tomorrow at 7PM

Mr. Goodbar clue

This is the first clue in the "Looking For Mr. Goodbar" contest. Clues will appear each day this week. Use them to determine where a Mr. Goodbar wrapper is hidden on campus.

"To find Mr. Goodbar you must search near and far. Go to the place where man and woman meet."

Call Rosemary Buckle at 283-6858 with guesses.

Ending a Chicago tradition

Harold Washington's chances were not hurt by the defection of several members of the former Chicago machine. The machine is in ruins; it was irreparably damaged by the election of Jane Byrne in 1979 and will never run again.

Tom Mowle

Monday Analysis

He was not hurt because most people who voted for Republican Bernard Epton would have voted for him even if their alderman, precinct captain, and street cleaner had told them to vote for Washington.

These white ethnics were terrified because Jesse Jackson led a baptist-style revival in Washington headquarters the night of the primary. Because of Washington's slogans and association with Jackson, they saw him as a black militant determined to compensate for years of black suffering under white mayors by extracting the same suffering from the white working-class.

In most years the Democratic primary is equivalent to the mayoral election. In the primary, voters select the candidate they know will win in April, so they pay careful attention to the quality of the people who are running. But in the general election, the vast majority of Chicagoans simply vote straight Democratic, regardless of who the opponent is.

If Washington had been white, and had he won the nomination — not a likely prospect — he would have easily been elected, in spite of his record. Voters would have decided that his crimes were in the past and he'd paid for them and he'd learned his lesson and he deserves another chance.

But in this election, people who had voted Democratic all their lives looked at the candidates and said they wanted a Republican mayor this year. It may seem good that, for whatever reason, voters are looking at the records of the candidates. But it is the root cause that is wrong: these people only looked at the records because Harold Washington is black.

No one could come out and say they were racist and voting for Epton because he was white. They compared the records of the two to justify their actions, but the essence of the election on both sides was race.

While Epton himself is probably not a racist, he allowed his managers to run a campaign filled with racial innuendoes, much of it very subtle: "Vote Republican — Before It's Too Late!" Washington on his part need not have made his allegations that Epton was a racist, because he was assured the black vote anyway. He only alienated many whites by implying that anyone who supported Epton was a racist as well.

The injection of national figures into Washington's campaign further alienated many Chicagoans who reject the idea that a Minnesotan or a Californian understands the problems that Chicago faces. These celebrities only wanted to get support for their presidential campaign next year, and the people of Chicago know it.

Washington promised to reform Chicago politics; the courts may require him to do so in any case. Because he has a very strong power base, and very few debts to Chicago politicians, he will not need to fall back on the machine for survival. But his support is not strong enough for him to form his own machine, were he inclined to do so. Washington will keep his promises of reform.

Michael Bilandic's defeat in 1979 sealed the fate of the Democratic machine by proving that it cannot elect its own candidates no matter who the people want. Byrne tried to take over the machine, but luke-warm support for Teddy Kennedy in 1980, despite her strong backing, and the defeat of Bernard Carey by Richie Daley in the State's Attorney race proves that she failed.

The machine's fractured support for the party's nominated candidate shows that it no longer works as a single unit. The voters continued their trend of ignoring the advice of their alderman and voting the way they pleased. What the party officials had to say about the candidates was irrelevant to the results of the election.

The only hope for the machine is that Washington will prove to be a very incompetent mayor, allowing Richie Daley to use his position to attack the mayor and win his office in 1987. He could then try to restore the machine, although he could never rebuild it to one his father would recognize.

But Washington should prove competent enough to allay the fears of the whites, allowing his re-election, and consigning the Chicago machine to the scrap heap forever. After twelve years without a powerful machine, Chicagoans will be reluctant to eliminate the reforms Washington plans to implement.

Power to decide right from wrong

Recently Dean of Students James Roemer allowed a student who had behaved in an improper manner to complete his education at Notre Dame. I need not repeat what the student did; he admitted his mistake, and that is enough for me.

Abuid Amaro

Guest Columnist

Some people praised Roemer for his decision and I also feel he made the correct decision. In the past, he has shown that he can make similar sensitive and intelligent decisions.

But what I strongly object to is his power to expel this student, a student engaged in a private activity over a 1,000 miles from the University.

To put the problem in perspective, one might examine the reaction of Marquette administrators to their students who participated in the same activities: none. No one has heard of anything concerning the disciplining of Marquette students involved at The Button.

Far be it for me to suggest that Marquette University does not care about the morality of its students. This Catholic institution is as respected (if not more) as our University in guiding the behavior of its students. Why didn't Marquette follow the great route of morality that our University did? Maybe because they believe that it is none of their business to deal with the private life of an individual, even when his behavior is unbecoming. And I think that they are right.

There should be no one anywhere telling people how they are supposed to behave unless that person is the father and-or mother of that person. Even then the parent's role is specifically advisory. Parents should not simply tell their children to do something simply because they are their children, especially when those offspring are old enough to make their own decisions.

The student in this case is a senior. He is old enough to make those decisions, right or wrong. Everybody should have the power to do whatever he wants as long as he does not injure anyone. If anyone has a moral hangup, that is his prerogative. Is it logical to believe that if our moral sensibilities are offended we can punish that person who made an individual moral decision? The Moral Majority, and the Ayatollah Khomeini think so.

Monty Python's Meaning of Life presents a satirical piece in which a troupe of talented comedians poke fun at Catholic inhibitions concerning birth control. Does this mean that this movie will not be shown in the Engineering Auditorium?

In the Realm of the Senses, an X-rated movie, has been called a masterpiece by people like Vincent Canby. Does this mean that if I am seen leaving a theater where it was shown I could be liable for disciplinary action?

I get nervous anytime someone has such a power to judge my individual decisions. I am reasonable enough to know what is good for me. I do not need any form of in loco parentis to tell me what society accepts.

Do we want someone to have the power to tell us what is good or bad concerning our behavior, especially when this behavior in no way concerns itself with the University? I don't think that we do. And as far as I am concerned, the student at The Button need not excuse himself to me.

Abuid Amaro is a junior Arts and Letters student from Guayama, Puerto Rico. In addition to writing guest editorials, he is also a staff reporter for The Observer.

P. O. Box Q

Vigilante mentality leads to misguided theology

Dear Editor:

I welcome Freshman Michael D. Quinlan's valiant effort to refute my critique of Prof. Charles Rice's benighted understanding of authority in the Church, but I reject as utterly false and unworthy his insinuation that I have "denied the teaching authority of the Church." The issue is how "authority" should be understood logically; my only "interest" has been to serve the truthful discourse of the University community by correcting distortion with informed comment. In all candor, I regard the fixation upon a Marine Corps model of authority as a distraction from the point of Christian obedience commanded by the Lord Jesus: "You therefore must be perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect" (Matthew 5:48).

Surely there is cutting irony in that those who so insistently (and lengthily) pretend to represent the official Magisterium dabble so prejudicially in its teaching texts. Vatican

II's Dogmatic Constitution on the Church (No. 30) affirms decisively that the Church is the whole People of God; indeed "all the faithful" are by baptism "made one body with Christ" and are even "made sharers in the priestly, prophetic, and kingly functions of Christ." It is to this new and entire messianic People that God has promised the relentlessly active presence of the Spirit of the Christ; it is to this whole eucharistic community that the empowering authority of God has been given. But unity in communion does not entail uniformity of witness; as the Constitution on the Church puts it, "If therefore everyone in the Church does not proceed by the same path, nevertheless all are called to sanctity and have received an equal privilege of faith through the justice of God. . . . In their diversity all bear witness to one, because 'all these things are the work of one and the same Spirit'" (1 Cor. 12:11). Mr. Quinlan's notion that the Holy Spirit reposes solely in office-holders while remaining ineffectual among the laity is thus incoherent and contradicted by our experience of holy people. In the words of Pope John Paul II, "It is one and the same Spirit of truth who directs the hearts of the faithful and who guarantees the magisterium of the pastors of the flock."

Sad to say, currently there is abroad in the University a "vigilante mentality" among some misguided students who stand most to gain from the reflective discipline of course work in Theology, but who seem intent upon harassing faculty of the department over confused statements of "doctrinal orthodoxy" every one of which requires exacting study for educated appreciation. This is a pernicious and coercive development which undermines the unity of this community. I call upon the administration of the University to exercise public leadership over this matter. Let such self-appointed "arbiters" display docility to the teaching of John Paul II regarding such conduct: "A Catholic university or college must make a specific contribution to the Church and to society through high-quality scientific research, in-depth study of problems, and a just sense of history, together with the concern to show the full meaning of the human person regenerated in Christ. . . . No university can deserve the rightful esteem of the world of learning unless it applies the highest standards of scientific research, constantly updating its methods and working instruments, and unless it excels in seriousness and therefore in freedom of investigation." Mr. Quinlan would do better to talk a course in the study of scripture than to write letters to The Observer, for then he might realize the shabbiness of misrepresenting others' arguments and then violating the integrity of scriptural texts to support his own budding polemic.

Philip Foubert

The Observer

Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and as objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of a majority of the Editorial Board. Commentaries, letters, and the Inside Column depict the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community, and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

(219) 239-5303

Editorial Board

Editor-in-Chief David Dziedzic
Managing Editor Margaret Fosmoe
Executive Editor Paul McGinn
News Editor Bob Vonderheide
News Editor Mark Worschch

Department Managers

Business Manager Daniel O'Hare
Controller Alex Szilvas
Advertising Manager Chris Owen
Saint Mary's Editor Anne Monastyrski
Sports Editor Michael Riccardi
Features Editor Sarah Hamilton
Production/Graphics Joseph Musumeci
Photo Editor Scott Bower

Circulation Manager Mark Miotto
Systems Manager Bruce Oakley
Founded November 3, 1966

Famous last words

Well, since there's no Observer on May 2, I guess this will be my last column of the year.

I know this sad-but-true fact will bring a flood of tears from everyone's eyes.

Okay, just mine.

The school year is on its final stretch, and I'm still trying to figure out what all the little numbers mean in Finance.

It's getting late, and I'm starting to realize that I will soon be doing many routine activities for the last time. I guess I'm sentimental, but I watch for these things.

For instance, that last trip to the Oak Room. I figure that should be around the eighth or ninth of May, depending on how late in the year the Oak Room remains open. It will require a tremendous amount of self control to keep myself from breaking down as I sink my fangs into the my last Oakburger.

Marc Ramirez

features

Then there's the last game on the Missile Command machine. It used to inhabit the basement of our dorm, but was taken away one sunny day and moved to LaFortune. Many a quarter of mine has been plugged into that machine. I certainly will miss blasting those enemy planes to bits as they fly across the screen, bombing my cities and missile bases.

And which will be the last class that I blow off? It won't be my English class because that's my favorite one. And it won't be Finance because I have to get a clue in that class. Reliable sources say the smart bet is on Informal Logic.

I look forward to the last meal in the dining hall. I suppose they have done a better job this year, but I hope we've seen the last of their veal.

The all-nighter count for my sophomore year is up to thirteen. I have a feeling that my last one will be on the night of May 8, the night before my Finance exam.

In the tradition of year-ending extravaganzas, I am proud to present for public viewing the award-winning "Quotes of the Day" for the 1982-83 academic year. These are quotes which I have heard throughout the year which titillated my funny bone and prompted me to scrawl them down on a long sheet of paper which adorns the wall space above my desk.

First, in the Declaration of Personal Skill category, my interhall-football-playing friend Joe has the winner with, "I'm getting pretty good at spitting out of my helmet." Runner-up in this category goes to his roommate John, who on the night of November 29, screamed, "I'm talking like a steak!"

Then there's the Historical Speculation category. There was only one nominee for this award, and it was easily the winner. On the evening of January 23, Casey O'Connor speculated, "Can you imagine how the Greeks must have suffered in the Olympics? Running around without any pants on?"

The Statement of Personal Opinion had its share of nominees. It was the statement of March 6 by a friend named Beth that came out the winner: "I hate Ziggy. He's just a fat, ugly little ball with a shirt on." Runner-up in this category went to a freshman named Phil, who on December 3 told someone, "You are what you eat, (expletive)."

The Wishful Thinking Award goes this year to a junior named John who, after a date on December 4, informed someone of what he thought the girl's opinion of him was: "By the next date, I could become a 10 in her eyes."

In the Variation of a Well-Known Quote category, a sophomore named Tony had the winning quote with, "I came, I saw, I sucked face." Runner-up here goes to Dave, also known as "The Voice," who asked the winner of this category one night, "It's twelve o'clock, Tony. Do you know where your mother is?"

The Blow-Off Award took a while to choose, but a decision was finally reached. My roommate Greg came away with this one for his quote on September 20, stating a philosophy he still employs: "I don't want to be famous. I just want to go to sleep." Tom Hardart claims second place in this category with his April 6 statement: "I'm not lazy. I just slept all day."

The Philosophical Question Award was perhaps the most difficult to choose a winner for. Third place went to James Anderson for his question on September 18: "Do you think trees scream when you saw them down?" Second-place goes to my roommate again for his thought of January 27: "Wouldn't it be great to get into heaven and give God a high-five?" And finally, the winner, by James Anderson on the morning of September 8: "I wonder how tall God is?"

The Most Clueless Award goes to an unidentified roommate who on January 22, wondered, "Does the Wall Street Journal have a sports section?" This quote narrowly edged another whose source is also unknown: "Do you have to go through Africa to get to Italy?"

And finally, the Hard-to-Categorize Award goes to a resident of Lyons, who, when asked which was better, sex or ice cream, answered, "I have yet to experience all types of ice cream."

I guess that is the last award which will be presented in my last column which I write as I sit down at the last terminal on the right for the last time this year.

The year is almost over, and I hope I can figure out Finance before too long.

Anybody want to share that last Oakburger with me?

A silver (and brass) jubilee

MORNING'S makes a great evening

Joe Musumeci

theatre review

Well, they're at it again. The South Bend Civic Theater's Firehouse Theater is bringing another show to the stage of the old firehouse at 701 Portage Ave. Morning's at Seven by Paul Osborn is a splendid piece to fill the small stage of the renovated building, and the company does a very creditable job with it.

The story reminded me from the start of Arsenic and Old Lace and several similar scripts; the major characters are a set of interrelated cousins, brothers, sisters, aunts and uncles who inhabit or visit a pair of houses, the back porches of which form the set for the production. Two sisters, Cora and Aaronetta, live in one house with Thor (Theodore), Cora's husband, next door to Ida, another sister, who lives with her husband, Carl. They are visited by Esther, the other sister, and her husband David; meanwhile, Ida and Carl are living host to their son, Homer, and his fiancée of (get this) seven years, Myrtle. The plot unfolds in a generally hilarious sequence of twists and surprises which lend a great deal of insight to the relationships of families and people in general.

It seems that Homer and Myrtle have been sweet on each other for upwards of twelve years, and have been up to a little more than the various aunts and uncles and parents suspect; how we find this out is one of the most hilarious moments of the show — I won't spoil it. At any rate, without going into much of the plot, all turns out well in the end, and the various characters all get more or less what they want.

The performance was very enjoyable and generally competent. Terry Ryan was very impressive as Thor Swanson, a stolid type who plays the foil for the lunacy of the other family members. His mannerisms were sometimes comical in nature but never stereotyped, and his stage presence was felt throughout the small room. In general, all the acting was well thought out and directed. Two exceptions tended to throw a jarring note into the evening; Mark Allen Carter as Homer Bolton, the son, and Judy Hess as Myrtle Brown, his fiancée, were ostensibly supposed to be 40 and 38, respectively. Their ages were mentioned several times in the play, and while their characterizations were engaging, they both came off as being in their mid 20's, and this was disconcerting.

It never ceases to amaze me what the Firehouse company manages to do in the minute stage space available, and the set for this production is no exception. The backs of the two houses are presented on the stage, complete with screen doors and hanging plants, lined with box shrubs; the whole thing looks a little like a set for Mayberry, R.F.D. in miniature. The only annoying thing about the set is that, in fact, it's a little too neat. I first thought that it was the fronts of two houses until a note in the program set me straight.

This is the second production by the Firehouse group that I have seen, and several points have made a strong impression on me. The intimacy of the small room that serves as the actual theatre is still refreshing, as compared to the mammoth halls of Washington and Moreau. I didn't notice the quaint ceiling fan on my last visit, but this time its influence was obvious and welcome. Out in the lobby, which could comfortably seat a half dozen sardines, is a plaque commending the group for "the best use of a renovated building — or something like that. The only disappointing thing about the building is that in the course of an evening, one gets to see very little of it. The theatre is definitely worth going to see, and the show that is there now is a great evening. For ticket information call 233-0683; the show will be running again this Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Observer/Scott Bower

Notre Dame, Bimini

This is getting ridiculous. It didn't bother me when it snowed on Easter. But come on. This is the middle of April. And it's snowing. I think it's time the University did something about the climate situation to which the students are subjected.

The first thought that comes to mind is changing the school year. Everybody knows that Notre Dame is not a part of the real world, so why should we act like we are? Why not start the school year in April? That way, we could all be someplace else for the worst three months of the year — January, February and March. There would also be the added plus of coming home at Christmas and not having to worry about finishing up an academic year after all the turkey and candied yams are gone.

The only problem this raises is "What can we do for vacation?" I don't imagine many people relish the idea of trying to find a job for looking in three months in the winter. And what fun would the debauchery of Ft. Lauderdale, etc. be if half the rest of the country were already staying there for the season?

Joe Musumeci

Another solution could be to change the thrust of the acceptance for acceptance as a freshman would be to have lived at least four years in either the tundra, a tropical rain forest, or Passaic, New Jersey. (A combination of all of the above would qualify one for a full scholarship.) The problems inherent in this idea are obvious, and anyway, it wouldn't do anything for those who are already ensconced here.

But I think I may have thought of the perfect idea for solving the weather crisis of Notre Dame. It's time to move the University. The logistics of such an operation are, admittedly, monstrous. One would not want to leave behind such architectural masterpieces as Sacred Heart, the Administration Building, or Washington Hall. But there are certainly buildings such as The Memorial Library and the Pasquerillas which could be left behind to serve as low-rent housing for the cockroaches who will be displaced by the removal of Pangborn and Fisher. How to move the buildings is not a worry; doubtless it will be handled by the same people who are "on the verge of a breakthrough" in beam weapons. The key question that must be confronted when considering such a move is where to put the place once it is mobile.

And I have the answer.

Let's move the University to Bimini.

Where?

Where?

Nobody knows where Bimini is. Notre Dame students, of course, are used to this, having constantly fielded questions on the location of their beloved institution. "South Bend. You know, Indiana? No, it's not in India..." Bimini, for the record, is one of the northernmost islands of the Bahamas. It is, as far as I can see, the perfect location for a small University that no longer desires to be Midwestern. The island is sparsely populated, with plenty of room for expansion. The main thrust of industry is breadmaking, which thrives alongside a rapidly growing monopoly on harvesting floating bales of marijuana. Obviously there would be plenty of cheap (and very happy) labor available for traditional University positions such as leaf-raker and sidewalk demolition-derbyist — usually filled by the same sort of folks. The neat part is that there are no leaves in Bimini, so the help would not need to waste nearly as much time looking like they were working; they could just come in each week, collect their checks and go back to being lazy of their own homes.

A location in Bimini would do a great deal to alleviate the drinking problem so consistently harped on here. A case of Heineken costs $18 in the islands. So does a case of Bud. Anyway, one bout with the local hooch would cure any Domer of a craving for a quarters game.

But most importantly, there is Sun.

The sun burns with a ferocity in the Bahamas that most of us can not even imagine. Burns are instant; serious tans take less than a week with little effort. The water and the sky are both of a hue that reminds me of what my eyes should have looked like. The water is always warm (scratch $10 million for a new swimming pool) and the air is clean (not an automobile plant within six hundred miles). The only problem with moving to Bimini would be when to have vacations.

Of course, there's always the monsoon season...

South Carolina reduced the ranks of the nation's independent basketball schools by one last weekend as the Gamecocks athletic department decided to join the Metro Conference. South Carolina, which, like Notre Dame, had participated in the National Invitational Tournament rather than the NCAA tourney last season, said that the snub had nothing to do with the decision. — AP

Joe Wolf, a 6-10 high school center from Kohler, Wis., decided to attend the University of North Carolina Saturday, it was announced. Marquette University was also in the running for Wolf's services. Wolf's announcement was good news for Digger Phelps, who still retains hope of getting another top big man, 6-10 David Popson. Popson, whose choice is between the Tar Heels and the Irish, will announce his choice Wednesday at Bishop O'Reilly High School in Scranton, Pa. — The Observer

Clem Crowe, a member of the "Seven Mules" that blocked for the famed Four Horsemen, died Thursday. Crowe was also the head coach of the basketball Irish in the 1944-45 season. Crowe, 80, was the oldest of seven brothers who were athletes at the University. — The Observer

The Notre Dame golf team participated in the Keiper Invitational in Columbus, Ohio, this weekend, and weren't in very good position as it entered the tournament's final day yesterday. Noel O'Sullivan's Irish were tied for 19th place in the 23-team tournament as Dave Moorman's two-day 159 led ND. Other Irish golfers' marks were John O'Donovan (160), Frank Leyes (166), Craig Peters (168), Dave Pangraze (166) and STony Ferlmann (183). The host Ohio State Buckeyes held a 26-shot edge over second-place Indiana. — The Observer

John Paxson was awarded a 2,000 post-graduate grant from the NCAA last week. Paxson adds this scholar-athlete award to his many other accolades of this past season. Sharing the fellowship with Paxson is John Pinone of Villanova. Paxson scored 12 points in this weekend's Aloha Classic for the Midwest team. — The Observer

Marathon today

Over 6,000 converge on Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Boston's hotels were packed yesterday as thousands of runners and spectators converged on the city for the 87th Boston Marathon on what promised to be a chilly and cloudy day today.

Greg Meyer and four-time champion Bill Rodgers are favored in the prestigious 26-mile, 385-yard race, which has attracted 6,664 entries, including about 700 women.

"Every runner wants to say they've run Boston at least once," said Fred Lebow, director of the New York City Marathon. "It's like the Moslems must go off to Mecca once in their life. So must runners go off to Boston, and it will always be that way."

Rodgers, at age 35 the Arnold Palmer of road racing, was suffering from a cold and expected to decide late Sunday or early Monday whether to run.

Crowds flanking the course will be boosted by the closing of banks, school and courts for Patriot's Day, a state holiday honoring the colonists who helped cut the ties to Britain 207 years ago.

The weather was cooperating as well, with 40 to 50 degree temperatures and some tail wind expected.

The Boston Convention and Tourism Bureau reported that hotels were fully occupied and some visitors had to stay in the suburbs.

This year's event is the qualifier for the United States team in the World Track and Field Championships at Helsinki, Finland, August 7-14.

But with marathons in Rotterdam April 9, London April 17 and Rome April 24, many of the best foreigners will skip Boston. So will Alberto Salazar, the defending champion from Eugene, Ore., who is running at Rotterdam.

In the women's competition, New Zealand's Allison Roe, who holds the women's world record of 2:25:28, is entered but not considered the favorite. She was the first woman finisher in the 1981 Boston Marathon and set her record in the New York City Marathon later that year, but she has been slowed by Achilles' tendon and knee injuries in 1982 and hasn't run a marathon in more than a year.

Picked to win Monday is Joan Benoit, a 25-year-old native of Portland, Maine.

Would-be contestants have to qualify to take part in the Boston Marathon. Men under 40 must have run a marathon in 2 hours, 50 minutes and men over 40 must have run one in 3 hours, 10 minutes. Women must have run a marathon in 3 hours, 20 minutes.

Waitz tops women's marathon record

LONDON (AP) — Grete Waitz, Norway's 29-year-old long distance specialist, fought off two nagging injuries yesterday to equal the world's best marathon time for women.

She completed the 26 miles and 385 yards of the London Marathon in 2 hours, 25 minutes, 29 seconds, equaling the record taken from her by Allison Roe of New Zealand two years ago in the New York Marathon.

But it was a bittersweet victory for the Norwegian, running in her first marathon outside the United States.

Desperate to regain her world best crown, Waitz — who said she plans to retire after the inaugural world track and field championships in Helsinki, Finland, in August — at first was timed at 2:25:28, one second inside Roe's record time.

She threw up her arms in triumph and told a news conference later, "I don't usually run for records, but this time I had to. I had some problems during the race with both my knee and my thigh muscles but I knew near the finish that if I ran a fast last kilometer, I would have a good chance of breaking the record."

Just over an hour later, however, race officials announced that the time had been changed to 2:25:29.

Race press officer Alan Pascoe, a former European and Commonwealth hurdles champion, said, "We all believed she had broken the record."

The Observer LaFortune office accepts classified advertising from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The Saint Mary's office in the Regina Hall basement is open from noon to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Classifieds

NOTICES

Typing ALL KINDS 277-8534 after 6pm

Typing AVAILABLE 287-4082

Typing, Jackie Boggs, 684-8793

EXPERIENCED TYPIST WILL DO TYPING VERY REASONABLE RATES CALL: 287-5162

Typing, my home. Experienced in all phases of college typing. 277-3085

EARN $500 OR MORE EACH SCHOOL YEAR. FLEXIBLE HOURS. MONTHLY PAYMENT FOR PLACING POSTERS ON CAMPUS. BONUS BASED ON RESULTS. PRIZES AWARDED AS WELL. 800-526-0883

Typing: $75/page. Fast & accurate. Call Dan, 282-1680

Part time or Summer-Energy department Sales, Energy Auditing, L.S. Ayers 291-7700 Ext. 2028

1K Gold or Sterling Chains resodered for $3.99 Returned Insured Marti Pabio's Attic 121.5 North Normal, Il 61761

Boarding horses. 1 mi. from N.D. Covered arena. 277-5828 (ring 12x)

UMOC IS BACK!!!!

LOST: wallet lost Thurs. nite at campus view-southern section parking lot. No $$ was in it, but there is a reward offered for its return. Call Mike 233-6068 if found please.

FOUND ON SOUTH QUAD: Casio live-function watch. Has initials on the back. Blue, with silver watchband. Call Marty at 1022.

I lost an indoor/outdoor Spalding basketball at Stepan #3 on Tues. at about 4:30. The ball was brand spankin' new and a gift. Please give Pat a call at 8625 if you took the ball by mistake or found it.

$40 REWARD! Green bookbag lost in South Dining Hall. Desperately need the contents to finish school - Please call Bob 277-6880 &&&

LOST Wilson raquetbill raquet in south dining hall Tuesday night. Please call 6957 if found, or drop outside 260 Badino questions asked.

NEED A CHEAP PLACE TO STORE YOUR STUFF OVER THE SUMMER? PLEASE CALL MARIE 277-0487

WANTED

NEED RIDE TO I U FOR LITTLE FIVE. APR 22 JOE 1154

Need Ride to Los Angeles area after exams 10 May. Will share usual. Must get to sisters graduation. call TIM 6853

1 GOLDEN DOME hat OR info on how to get one - CALL MO SMC4412

Wanted Backpacks
Do you have an exterior-frame backpack you would like to sell? Maybe two or three? Call Jeb, Joe, or Jim (but not Ed) at 8641. Thank you.

1982 Female grad student looking for roommate to share apt. in Chicago. Please call (312) 687-8723 after 7 p.m.

WANTED: Companion for coast-to-coast bicycle trip across the U.S. Start from Oregon around May 22. 9 to 10 weeks. need be only mildly crazy. Call Mike at 1582

Need ride to PURDUE Fri 4/22 call 6781

FEMALE GRADUATE STUDENT FROM OREGON SEEKING RESIDENCE SUMMER AND/OR FALL. CONTACT MARY AT 1480 PEARL, TILLAMOOK, OREGON OR CALL COLLECT (503) 842-4243.

WANTED: ENGLISH TEACHER FOR PRIVATE LESSONS. 5 HOURS WK. CALL EVENINGS FROM 9-11. PHONE 234-0141, EXT. 339

RIDE NEEDED to Cleveland wknd of 23rd. Call 239-5918, leave message for Tim M. Need RIDERS to DAYTON for graduation (Apr. 22-24). Julie-3725

TICKETS

Please Help! Need One LOWER ARENA TICKET for GRADUATION EXERCISES --Will trade one upper arena ticket or will buy. Please call Debbie at 234-7961 Thanks!

HELP! Last member of good Catholic family (i.e. large) needs SEVEN graduation tickets. Will pay $$$ Call Mike at 1159 after 11 pm.

PERSONALS

EARN $5000 this summer painting houses in your hometown. Contact Placement Office for more info and application at Room 213, Adm. Bldg.

THE IMPOSSIBLE DREAM COMES TO NOTRE DAME!!! The Notre Dame Student Players present the magic of MAN OF LA MANCHA, coming to the stage of Washington Hall on April 21, 22, and 23 at 8 p.m. Tickets go on sale Wednesday, April 13, at the Student Union ticket office. ST Prices are $3.50 in advance and $4 at the door. There are only three nights this year, so get your tickets early; remember what happened to Cabaret tickets! Don't miss the best show of the season — MAN OF LA MANCHA!!!!

The Ark is coming!

Get the Porn out of the libraries!

MECHANICS — What is the shear force of personality at any given moment?

Beth Hackett for UMOC!!!!

COME PLAY QUARTERS AT AN TOSTAL. MORE INFO COMING!!!

Ciao Fox!
Hope you had one H--- of a B-day. D--- IT! Thanks for everything, especially Bruce! I'll miss you lots next year.
Love, Me

Have you seen JIM CLEVENGER? Without the beard that little boy face makes him a sure win for UMOC!

Thinking of going to the NUMBER ONE baseball town. Is anyone interested in going to ST. LOUIS for the weekend of April 22-24? I really need the riders, must celebrate my 21st in style. Call Diane at 7983

Did a soaked Sok get sacked?

Did the Pup get locked out in the rain? Should the Crown be frowned on?

Volunteers needed Saturday A.M. April 30th, to canvas door-to-door in the South Bend community for $1 donations for Logan's SPECIAL OLYMPICS PROGRAM FOR THE HANDICAPPED. Get your friends to join you in this fundraising effort. Logan needs YOU! Call CSC 239-5293 or 239-7862 to sign up.

What did Mike Doonesbury and Mark Slackmeyer find in their search for America? I don't know either, but I want to find out. See the WANTED add for bicycling companion.

BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND . . . The first one was such a success, we just had to schedule another one. THE OBSERVER STAFF FORUM II Do you do anything for us? If so, we can do something for you. Have you ever wanted to make a complaint, suggestion or just ask a question, but didn't know who to ask? Come to the Staff Forum and you'll get an answer Tuesday, April 19 at 7 p.m. in the Library Auditorium. Be there

WE SLAM NO DUNKS!!!
WE SLAM NO DUNKS!!!
WE SLAM NO DUNKS!!!
WE SLAM NO DUNKS!!!

Men of Stanford:
Are your doors locked? Are you sure you're safe?

Hope your B-day was great Catwoman!!! SH, MN, and JA

IF YOU HAVE $160 AND A WAY TO NEW YORK, YOU CAN BE IN EUROPE BY THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW. FOR DETAILS, CALL AIRHITCH. TOLL-FREE, (800) 372-7234.

TONY THE PONY FOR UBOC!! (ALIAS FRUITCAKE)

UMOC UMOC UMOC UMOC

And the Lord said unto them, "Let your ugliness shine forth among men" Ugly Man is coming

IF YOU'RE INTO SPEED or enjoy exercise in the spring air, sign up for the AN TOSTAL CHARITY 5K RUN this week during dinner in the dining halls. This 3.1-mile race will be held this Saturday. There is a $3.00 registration fee with all proceeds going to Sister Maria's School. Medals for 1st-6th men & women. ALL FINISHERS ELIGIBLE FOR PRIZES donated by Athletes Foot.

WGRB FM 86 says GOOD-BYE HOOSIERS!

LOST/FOUND

$50 REWARD!!! Daniel Hechter black jacket with red inside. Lost in South Dining Hall before Easter. Please call 277-2222. NO QUESTIONS.

LOST: One Pair of Bronze/Brown metal framed GLASSES. Lost in the vicinity of TANFORD lobby after the Mr. Stanford contest on Friday April 8. They have a high sentimental value being that without them I cannot see!! If found please call or return them to Jim at 8708-07, 329-30 Stanford. (REWARD)

LOST: IN Senior Bar last Saturday night (3/8/83) a lightweight, navy blue jacket with NOTRE DAME BAND in yellow on the back AND NE BAND OF THE FIGHTING IRISH on front. If found (You'll know whether it belongs to you, or not) call Mike at 8876 or 8872.

navy blue athletic bag w/ socks, clothes, checkbook. Find any of above items w/ Frisno id call Mike 287-346.

FOR RENT

4Rent 4 Bedroom House $250 mo. all utilities included June or Sept. Call 319-322-8735 Patty

FREE RENT - House sit for faculty member, summer. 319-322-8735 Pat.

6 bedroom house 4rent completely furnished at 806 n stious also security alarm system connected to police for further information call 1 362-7160 excellent condition price negotiable

House to sub-let for summer 3 or 4 bedrooms. Fully furnished. 2 miles from campus, good neighborhood. Rent negotiable. Call 239-7097, leave message for Randy

Summer School? Apts. for Rent near N.D. Utilities Pd. Less Gas ph.272-0261

SUMMER RENT- 3 BDRM HOUSE. NEXT TO CAMPUS, CHEAP. CALL 8657 OR 8676 JOHN

4 BEDROOM HOUSE, GOOD SAFE AREA, FURNISHED, LIKE-NEW INTERIOR. $400/ mo. & util. MUST SEE. 287-3530 Day; 233-9947 Night.

1 bdrm, unfurnished, $180 mo -summer sublet-must be married student. Call 3852.

Faculty of Grad Students. 4 Bedroom House, fully furnished with washer/dryer. Nice! $400/month. 288-3109

FOR SALE

House for sale, University Heights, 3 bedrooms, $12,000 total. Immediate Terms. 319-3228735, Pat

STEREO SYSTEM, 7-wt Receiver & Spkrs. LIKE NEW $100 Joel 1794

Observer reporters, production workers, artists, photographers, newscasters, dayeditors, typesetters, copyeditors, and business-types. It's almost here — THE OBSERVER STAFF FORUM II Tuesday night at 7 p.m. in the Library Auditorium. Come with complaints, questions or suggestions. If nothing else, drop by just to meet some of your colleagues. By there

BANDMEMBERS:
FOR RESPONSIBILITY, FLEXIBILITY, CREATIVITY, ORGANIZATION, AND EFFICIENCY, VOTE MARY LANG FOR BAND VICE-PRESIDENT!! ELECTIONS ARE TUESDAY!!!

TO ALL THOSE WHO CAME OUT TO WATCH US GO FARTHER THAN WE'VE GONE BEFORE, WSND RADIO CLASH SAYS THANKS, WITH SPECIAL THANKS TO ROBIN, PETE, BRUCE, TOM, "THE N.C. STATE" CHEERLEADERS AND ASSORTED OTHERS WHO BRAVE THE RAIN. TO EVERYONE ELSE WE WILL RETURN NEXT YEAR!!!

TOGA
TOGA
TOGA
TOGA
TOGA
TOGA
TOGA
TOGA
TOGATOGATOGA
TOGATOGATOGA
CAVANAUGH
FRIDAY NIGHT
9 30
APPROPRIATE DRESS MANDATORY

HAVE YOU CHECKED THE CHILDREN?

Bogeys fell opponent

Zoeller wins Heritage Classic

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Fuzzy Zoeller, given breathing room when double bogey disaster struck down Jim Nelford, needed only a round of par 71, to score a two-stroke victory yesterday in the Sea Pines-Heritage Classic.

Zoeller, the PGA tour's resident free spirit, acquired the fourth title of his career with a 275 total, nine strokes under par on the picturesque but deceptively difficult 6,650-yard Harbour Town Golf Links.

The victory, on a beautiful but breezy spring day on this resort island, was worth $63,000 from the total purse of $350,000. It raised Zoeller's earnings for the year to $111,105 and enabled him the join the elite gathering of winners only who will congregate for the Tournament of Champions next week.

It was Zoeller's first triumph since the 1981 Colonial National Invitation and only his second since taking the 1979 Masters title.

Zoeller, the leader after 54 holes, surrendered the top spot over the front nine, and a host of challengers emerged. Among them were Craig Stadler, persistent Mac O'Grady, Bob Eastwood, Nelford and David Graham.

One by one they began dropping back and Zoeller regained the lead with birdies on the tough 10th and 12th holes.

Nelford, a Canadian who has yet to win in six seasons on the American tour, was the last contender. He tied Zoeller with a 25-foot left-handed putt on the 14th.

That tie, at 10 under par, was a fleeting, momentary thing, however, as Nelford, too, fell victim to the subtle demands of the course many players regard as the finest on the Tour.

Nelford got his third shot in a bunker on the par-five 15th, just got out with his fourth, played a weak chip and had to make an eight-footer for bogey-six that dropped him one back.

On the 16th, he again found the sand, exploded long and then three-putted for a double bogey that provided the steady Zoeller with a three-shot lead with two holes to go.

Despite triple-bogey

Adams defeats Carner in LPGA

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Lynn Adams triple-bogeyed the first hole but regained the lead with an eagle on No. 12 and went on to win the $150,000 LPGA combanks over JoAnne Carner and Janet Anderson yesterday.

The victory was the first in six years as a professional for Adams, who shot a final round 71 for a 54-hole total of eight-under-par 208. Her best previous finish was second in the Tucson Conquistadores Open in February.

Carner, chasing her 38th tour victory, but her first in 1983, matched par on the final day over the 6,274-yard Cypress Creek Country Club course for a six-under 210 total. Anderson fired a 68 to quietly remain among the leaders all day.

Carner bogeyed three straight holes to lose the grip on the lead she inherited when Adams took a triple bogey on the par five, 515-yard first hole.

The woman other tour players like to call "Big Mama" led by one shot when she bogeyed No. 12 — a hole she eagled the previous two days — and then watched Adams soar to a two-stroke advantage with an eagle of her own on the par five, 453-yard hole.

Adams' lead went to three shots over Anderson and four over Carner when she birdied fourteen, but Carner trimmed her deficit to two with a birdie on 16 after Adams dropped a stroke on 15.

Adams, who led the Women's Kemper Open for two rounds before faltering last month, wrapped up the title by matching par on the last three holes.

She had started the day with a one-stroke lead, but trailed by three strokes after Carner birdied No. 2. She began her comeback with birdies on seven and eight and won $22,500 to boost her 1983 earnings to $47,447.

Debbie Massey shot a 70 Sunday and finished at five-under-par 211, three strokes back. Patti Rizzo, Alice Miller and Donna White, who captured her first LPGA title here in 1980, were at 212.

Defending champion Patty Sheehan finished well behind the leaders at 213 after a final-round 70, and first-round leader Ayako Okamoto struggled again, shooting a 77 to wind up with a 220 total.

Double one-hitters

Irish shut off by ISU pitching

By NEAL SMITH
Sports Writer

The Irish baseball team was zero-for-three this weekend. Saturday Notre Dame lost a doubleheader 3-0 and 4-1 to two one-hitters pitched by the Indiana State Sycamores. The team lost to Mother Nature Sunday as a doubleheader against Purdue was cancelled due to the cold weather. At game time the temperature at Jake Kline Field was 32 degrees.

Freshmen Andy Ghelfi and Paul Quinzer of Indiana State allowed the Irish only one hit in each of the games Saturday. Both hits came off the bat of Irish captain Rick Chryst.

Irish coach Larry Gallo remarked that the players were just not hitting the ball. Gallo added that the team probably only hit the ball hard three times all day.

In the opener, Ghelfi pitched a no-hitter through the fifth inning. In the sixth, Chryst reached first base safely with a bunt on the third base side of the diamond.

Notre Dame had a scoring opportunity earlier in the game. The Irish loaded the bases on a walk, an error, and a hit-batsman. The inning ended on a Casey Snyder grounder to second.

Junior Mark Clementz took the loss as he went the distance on the mound for the Irish. The loss was Clementz's first at Notre Dame. He is 2-1 on the season and 8-1 for his Irish career.

The Sycamores scored their first run in the third on a lead-off single a triple by outfielder Rob Baker. In the fourth, Indiana State picked up another run on a single, two sacrifice bunts, and another single. The final run was a Tony Colucci homer over the left field fence in the sixth.

In the second game, Quinzer pitched a perfect game for Indiana State except for a solid Chryst single to right field in the fourth inning.

Chryst, who stole second base and advanced to third on a deep fly to center. He scored the lone Irish run on a wild pitch.

The Sycamores scored one run in each of the first, third, fifth, and sixth innings off of Irish pitcher Bill Stonikas (1-2). The first inning run was made possible when the lead-off batter was awarded a stolen base after it appeared that the runner was thrown out by a couple of steps. The umpire stated that the tag was never made. The runner later scored on a grounder.

IRISH ITEMS — The 11-15 Irish could possibly travel to Purdue today to make up this weekend's cancelled doubleheader. It was not known until late this morning if the team would make the trip... If the team does not go to Purdue today, its next game will be tomorrow in Evanston, Ill. against the Northwestern Wildcats... No matter when Notre Dame plays its next game, second baseman Jack Moran will be in the line-up. Moran, the team's leading batter with a .342 batting average, did not suit up for the Indiana State games due to a broken nose he suffered in Friday's practice.

The Observer/Scott Bower

In this light welterweight bout, Brent Ernsberger and Kirk Backer went at it as the Professional Karate Association promoted a card at the ACC Saturday night.

ATTENTION ALL Graduating Students

Measurements will be taken for Caps and Gowns

Tuesday April 19, 1983
and Wednesday April 20, 1983
Between 9:00 and 4:00
at the

Notre Dame Bookstore

The Observer/John Wachter

If Rick Chryst didn't pick up a pair of hits in Saturday's doubleheader against Indiana State, the Irish would have been no-hit twice. Neal Smith reports above.

The Observer/John Wachter

The Notre Dame tennis team beat Big Ten foe Michigan State impressively Saturday, 8-1. The Irish continue their stand against teams from that conference Thursday when Wisconsin comes in.

Tennis vs. MSU

Notre Dame beats Big Ten foe

By MARK B. JOHNSON
Sports Writer

Almost as surprising as the unexpected sunny skies, Coach Tom Fallon's men's tennis team charged into Courtney Tennis Center Saturday and behind near-flawless play, blasted Michigan State, 8-1.

As if it was meant to be, the weather and team play jelled to produce one of Notre Dame's strongest performances of the season. Despite strong winds and hustling Spartans, the Irish served up a sweep in singles competition and lost only a three-set doubles match in the third slot during the teams' 26th confrontation.

Leading off for the Irish, senior captain Mark McMahon patiently outshot a totally frustrated Joe O'Brien in a 6-2, 6-2 No. 1 matchup.

After a seemingly easy first set win, sophomore Mike Gibbons faltered for a moment, but quickly recovered to finish in a flurry, as he outlasted quick and diminutive Spartan captain Steve Yorimoto, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4 in his second spot.

At No. 3, freshmen Joe Nelligan overcame an early deficit in both sets, as he worked meticulously to a 7-5, 6-4 Irish victory over a weary Curtis Wright.

Sophomore St. Louis southpaw John Novatny was nothing short of impressive in his 6-4, 6-2 domination of his No. 4 counterpart Ron Smith, as Novatny neared perfection in every aspect of his game.

After dropping his first three games while filling in for his feverish brother at No. 5, sophomore Tom Pratt took charge, as he forged into the lead and never looked back on Joe Webster in his 7-5, 6-4 victory.

Junior Tim Noonan won the first game of the afternoon against Andy Salsia, and he never relinquished the lead, as he picked up the intensity of the match to earn himself his seventh straight singles victory, 6-3, 6-0.

For Coach Stan Drobac's Spartan's, the doubles competition could have been a chance to save face, but the day belonged to the Irish, and Michigan State could only deny the Irish of a sweep by one match.

Noonan and Novatny combined their talents at Notre Dame's No. 1 spot, and they proved their worth by downing O'Brien and Yorimoto, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4 in a swaying battle.

At No. 2, senior Paul Idzik and McMahon could have been giving tennis lessons, as their superior combination had no problems defeating Smith and Webster.

Still looking for his best No. 3 doubles team and wishing to give Gibbons a rest after his long singles match, Fallon put Nelligan and Pratt to the test against Steve Hooley and Wright. Although playing well for a first-time team, the Irish combo could not complete the sweep, as the Spartans finished strong for a 6-4, 6-7, 3-6 win.

"It was great to finally beat a Big Ten team, and it was even sweeter because we really needed a win like this about now," commented Gibbons.

Riding high fresh off their Big Ten victory, Fallon and his players were raring to go against defending Big Ten champion Michigan on Sunday, but an early morning telephone call from Wolves coach Brian Eisner brought disappointing news to the squad. Apparently the overnight snow was too much for the Wolverines, as they claimed to be snowed in and unable to make the trip.

As they fought for their lives at the ACC two years ago, maybe the weather was not the only thing the Wolverines were afraid of, but the match will be rescheduled, and although the Irish will not be riding the wave of their Spartan win, they will get their shot.

White Sox beat Tigers; Cubs lose again

CHICAGO (AP) — Rookie Ron Kittle's two-run homer, his fourth of the season, capped a four-run first inning and Dennis Lamp hurled a two-hitter Sunday to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 6-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Rudy Law opened the Chicago first with a single and scored on a double by Tony Bernazard, who reached third when third baseman Howard Johnson dropped the relay throw for an error. Bernazard scored on Johnson's second error, a wild throw home on Greg Luzinski's grounder, and Kittle followed with a shot through the wind into the upper deck in left field.

Lamp, 2-1, gave up a single to Lou Whitaker leading off the game and lost his shutout bid in the fifth when Larry Herndon hit his third homer. The game was a wind chill that made it 17 degrees.

The Sox added a run off loser Jerry Ujdur, 0-2, in the fifth and a final run off reliever Dave Rozema in the sixth.

Pirates 7, Cubs 0

PITTSBURGH (AP) — John Candelaria and Rick Rhoden combined

on a three-hitter Sunday as the Pittsburgh Pirates weathered two snow delays and temperatures in the mid-30s to beat the Chicago Cubs 7-0 in the first game of a doubleheader.

The second game was postponed due to the bad weather.

Candelaria, who also scored two runs, gave up just two hits before being lifted in the bottom of the sixth after two delays caused by snow flurries. Rhoden earned his first save.

The Pirates took a 1-0 lead in the third off loser Steve Trout, 1-2, when Candelaria reached on an error by first baseman Bill Buckner and came around to score on Lee Mazzilli's sacrifice fly.

Brian Harper led off the Pirate fourth with his second home run, and the Pirates added two more runs on a two-out, bases-loaded single by Bill Mallock.

The Pirates added two more runs in the sixth despite the weather delays on run-scoring singles by Mazzilli and Jason Thompson. Lee Lacy doubled, then came home on Mazzilli's sacrifice fly in the eighth.

Belles sports weekend

SMC track, softball in action

The Saint Mary's track team hosted a meet Saturday morning, but it was not at the Belles' usual home site of Clay Township High School. The unfamiliar setting, Adams High, wasn't very kind, as Saint Mary's finished third behind Manchester College and Anderson College.

However, coach Jean Kerich had something to smile about as Lisa Johnston set a pair of SMC records on a sunny, but cold morning. Her first-place high jump of 5-3 and and third-place 100-yard hurdles of 17.10 both were school records.

Cindy Short ran the 1,500 in 4:54.5 to get the first and set another SMC mark.

The Belles had another runner qualify for the NAIA national meet next month at Charleston, W. Va., as Annette Isom ran the 3,000 in a school-record 10:35.4.

Barb Theiss, Diane Yasinski, Teresa McGinnis and Elaine Suess each pounded out a pair of singles as Saint Mary's beat Anderson, 9-2 in the first game of a doubleheader Saturday. Anderson came back in the second game to shut off the Belles, 10-4.

In the first game, the Belles' tight defense led the way as Anderson got only 13 baserunners. Winning pitcher Annie Day could thank the SMC defense for only committing one error behind her.

— The Observer

ND Clubs & Organizations

TIME TO RE-REGISTER FOR 83-84. NEW SYSTEM THIS YEAR!

1. Registration - now thru April 22.
2. Activity Report - Due by April 22.
3. Applications for activity funds for 83-84 - Due by April 22.
4. Football Concession Stand for Fall, 83 - Due April 22.
5. Movie Application for Fall, Spring 83-84 - Due April 15

All forms available in the Student Activities Office, LaFortune.
FUNDS FOR NEXT YEAR WILL BE AWARDED THIS SPRING.

1st Annual "Clubbers" Golf Outing

FRIDAY, APRIL 29th

GET YOUR FOURSOMES TOGETHER!

Tee Off's Start at Noon

Club - Look Out Afterwards at the Presidential Manor

$10.00 per person

Sign - up by Fri., April 22 in Marketing Office

ND volleyball team announces award

The Notre Dame volleyball season ended a long time ago — November, to be exact — but it never officially ended until yesterday, when the team celebrated its successful season with a brunch. There was a presentation of a few awards and a chance for the lone graduating senior, Jackie Pagley, to say goodbye.

Karen Bauters and Terese Henken were the award winners. Bauters, one of the freshmen stars, was honored as the Best Offensive/Defensive Player during the season, while Henken, a junior, was given the Most Improved Player award.

Coach Sandy Vanslager then announced a new award for special attitude in honor of Pagley, who impressed Vanslager and her assistant, Dan Anderson, with her dedication and personal qualities. The award will not be presented annually, but rather will be presented when a player that the coaches feel deserves the award comes along.

The brunch puts an end to a 25-9 season for the team, but, at the same time, marks a beginning to the upcoming season which will see the Irish play its toughest schedule ever.

— The Observer

... Lacrosse

continued from page 16

wide five-goal lead with under five minutes left in the half.

Then the Notre Dame offense opened up. Three quick goals at the end of the half made the score 9-7 and gave the Irish players some confidence against their highly-touted opponents.

The second half began where the third left off as Dwayne Hicks, Franklin, and Pearsall scored to give Notre Dame a 10-9 lead with eight minutes left in the third quarter. Wesleyan evened the score soon afterwards, but not until the Irish had held them scoreless for more than 13 minutes with some sensational saves by goalie Rob Simpson, and Shay and Corscadden.

Wesleyan retook the lead and increased the margin to two, 12-10. Goals by Franklin and Driscoll, sandwiched around a Wesleyan goal, brought the score to 13-12, setting the stage for Notre Dame's scoring opportunity in the closing minutes.

One of the major reasons for the tough loss was Notre Dame's inability to clear the ball from its end of the field. In failing to get the job done eight of eighteen times, the Irish bottled themselves up in their own end, giving Wesleyan countless scoring opportunities.

"The key was them getting a lot more shots than us," said O'Leary of the large deficit of 50 shots to 32. "They had a lot more chances to score than we did."

One of the reasons that they only scored two goals more was the play of Simpson, Shay, and Corscadden. Simpson stopped 22 Wesleyan shots, including some sensational blocks. Shay and Corscadden were also very impressive, blocking about 10 shots with their bodies when the ball got past Simpson.

In fact, Shay was not limited to only defensive play. He was used at the midfield to utilize his ability to pick up the ball. However, his biggest contribution was shutting down Wesleyan's star attackman, Mitch Rocina, in the second half.

Irish third in Indiana state meet

Notre Dame finished third in the Indiana Intercollegiate Championships held Saturday at Indiana University's Track and Field Stadium in Indianapolis. Indiana University won the meet while Purdue University took second.

Irish winners were John McCloughan, who ran the 110 hurdles in a personal best time of 14.37, and Jim Taylor, whose 3:48.82 won the 1,500-meters.

Three members of the ND squad qualified for the IC4A championships to be held at Villanova University next month. Mark Wozniak and Dan Walsh were timed in 30:21.6 and 30:35.29 in the 10,000 meters and Ed Juba ran a 9:16.04 3,000-meter steeplechase as the Irish came in with 73 points.

Indiana Central's Randy Heisler won the shot put and the discus to earn outstanding performer honors. Assistant Coach Ed Kelly ran the Irish unit as Head Coach Joe Piane was unable to attend the meet because of a death in the family.

Next action for the Irish runners will be next weekend at the Purdue Invitational at West Lafayette.

— The Observer

Trocchi, Pearsall, and Franklin were the major part of the Irish offense. Franklin had five goals and an assist, while Trocchi contributed three goals and two assists and Pearsall chipped in two goals.

The loss left the Irish with a 4-5 overall record and a 3-2 record in the MLA. MLA leader, Wesleyan, now holds a 10-1 overall record and the only undefeated record in the MLA.

Notre Dame will not have to wait long for a chance to get back on the winning side as another MLA foe, Wittenberg College, visits Cartier Field at 3:30 tomorrow.

Wittenberg is a new member of the conference and is pretty much a mystery team to O'Leary. One thing he does know about the team, however, is that it lost to Wesleyan by a very lopsided margin last week. The game is expected to be a breather before a grueling three-day road trip to Ohio over the weekend.

Dwayne Hicks (30) had a goal in Saturday's Notre Dame lacrosse match with Ohio Wesleyan University, ranked 11th in Division III. The Irish, in their third year as a varsity sport, gave Wesleyan a scare, losing 14-12.

The 'Scintillating 64'...

Bookstore Tournament

Friday's Results

Stepan 1
Armed & Dangerous M-21 Explosive B-Ball Unit over Hawkeye & The Chicken Chokers by 9
Team # 361 over Team # 289 by 8
Lumber Lobbers over Win One ... by 10
That's Right Wez Bad over Shari's Darlings by 6

Stepan 2
Kintuckee over Two Fourth Generation Domer Brothers ... by 4
Team # 178 over 5 Short White Guys With No Athletic Ability by 3
Team # 394 over The Details by 10
Play At Your Own Risk over G.G. & The Soilers by 10

Stepan 3
The Brick Throwers over John Murphy's Slime Train IV by 15
Boom-Boom Mancini & The Oriental Vegetables over Team # 402 by 7
Team # 341 over Stalking The Wild ... by 12

Stepan 4
FOAK over John Hinkley's School Of Esteem by 14
B.O. & The Bouncing Balls over Duk Koo Kim & The Bloodclots by 8
Team # 377 over The No-Name Kids by 4

Stepan 5
The Last Of The Stoothers over B. Lube A.V.'s by 3
Mercury Morns Chose Coke Over Pepsi over Love, Skull & The Chicken Wings by 6

Stepan 6
Cancelled Due To Lack Of Interest over Team # 21 by 7
Rich Hunter & The Polish Nationals over Crime Doesn't Pay — Part II 23-21

Stepan 7
Eugene over Team # 504 by 6

Stepan 8
Running Rebels over Doug's Gunners by 7

Bookstore 9
Pangloss ... over Four Gringos ... by 2
Annd ... We're Out Of Here over The Cuban Missile Crisis by 8
Team # 65 over FLOC ... 22-20
Embarrassing ... over 4 Throats & A Real Domer by 8

Bookstore 10
Team 7 # 490 over The Purdue Hockey Team by 13
Name Withheld Upon Request over No, But Seriously ... by 5
Captain Lips ... over Team # 8 by 5
John Holmes ... over Team # 380 by 6

Lyons 11
Great American ... over Paul & The Penta-Tonics by 14
Our Last Chance To Take No Prisoners over Vermir by 8
Motown over Showtime by 10
Not At All Associated With The Evenless Jacksonless Five over Bara Ray by 2

Lyons 12
Team # 392 over Blum's Bums 22-20
Team # 335 over Team # 415 by 15
Hey ... over Steve Stipanovich ... by 7
John DeLorean ... over 5 Guys With ... by 4

Saturday's Games

Stepan 1
Knockouts over Dry Grinders by 2

Stepan 2
Field Ed over Geek Hunters by 13

Stepan 3
Jack Patrick ... over WSND Radio Clash by 9

Stepan 4
Gramke's Gorillas over Team # 455 by 11

Stepan 5
Vanilla Wonders over DGW II plus 2 by 3

Stepan 6
Cash Amberg & The Country Boys over The Early Risers by 16

Stepan 7
Clinton's Core's Encore over The Strip & Go Naked by 9

Stepan 8
43C — 130 over Cooter ... by 8

Bookstore 9
The Militant Pigs over Duk Koo Kim ... by 8

Bookstore 10
The Social Retards over Muldoon's Men by 15

Lyons 11
Menold Sheet Metal over Team # 304 by 10

Lyons 12
Gil Thorpe's Varsity Squad over Old Men On The Block by forfeit

END OF ROUND TWO

ROUND THREE

Yesterday's Games

Stepan 1
Motown over Hey ... by 9
John Shoe & The Sneakers over We're Short by 11
Sons Of Thunder over The Scroggs by 12
Mercury Morns Chose Coke Over Pepsi over Rich Hunter & The Polish Nationals by 10
B.O. & The Bouncing Balls over The Last Of The Stoothers by 10
Tequilla White Lightning III over We Can Beat You ... by 2
The Bleeding Ax Wounds over Francis Hotel LaSalle by 13
Love & The Shooting Stars over Team # 62 by 11

Stepan 2
Armed & Dangerous M-21 Explosive B-Ball Unit over Kintuckee by 8
We Go 5 over POA ... by 9
Team # 30 over Spoolhounds III 23-21
Cancelled Due To Lack Of Interest over Team # 430 by 10
Nutmeggers Are Back Again over Pendejos by 11
Shondell ... over Run & Gun by 7
J.B. & Co. over 5 Alternatives To Dave Popson by 5
Bigger, Better ... over Show Her Your Love ... by 7

Stepan 3
Ja's Men over Make Believers 22-20
Macri's Preferred Stock over Annd ... We're Out Of Here by 14
Boom Boom ... over Hey Vince ... by 5
NEBO's IV over Slow, White, & Can't Jump by 8
Double Decker Oreo Cookie over Eugene by 14
Rousseau's Noble Savages over Freddie Brown ... by 9
4 Guys Who ... over Team # 88 by 5

Stepan 4
Team # 361 over Team # 178 by 11
Our Last Chance To Take No Prisoners over Ed Sees Red ... 22-20
Capt. Crunch ... over Lumber Lobbers by 17
Team # 263 over Where ... by 4
Running Rebels over Whoosh, Jerk, ... by 2
That's Right, Wez Bad over The Combine Brothers & Assorted Mothers 24-22
Pig Bag over Mangled Baby Ducks Bleed Again by 3

Stepan 5
Ralphie ... over 3 Tremendous Tan Masters & Some Pretty Fair Irishmen by 6
Orange Crush over Sex & The Four Offenders by 8
The Brick Throwers over FOAK by 13
WEBB's Encore over PGFN In Stereo by 3
Play At Your Own Risk over Team # 136 by 7
Final 512 Or Bust over Knockouts by 5
Showdown over Jack Patrick ... by 2

Stepan 6
Team # 65 over Captain Lips & The Amazing Zulu Brothers II by 6
People Who Died over The Mallone Kids by 11
Team # 371 over But We Had A Good Recruiting Year by 13
8th Floor Losers over Field Ed by 2
Team # 257 over 4 Human Beings ... by 6
WBBS over Team # 377 by 11
Fun Bunch Five over Grammke's Gorillas by 10

Bookstore 9
The Creamers over Team # 368 by 10
Geritol Express over Slim Joe Gruber by 7
Cash Amberg & The Country Boys over 4 Basketball Players & 1 Guy With A Lot Of Guts by 5
Joe Jakubik ... over Silky ... by 7
Evenless Jacksonless Five over Last Chance Express by 10

Bookstore 10
3 Beers & 2 Grape Nehis Please over Name Withheld Upon Request by 10
Pangloss ... over Team # 490 by 7
43C — 130 over Clinton's Core's Encore by 4
Passion & Romance & Commies From Mars over Kevin Quinn ... by 5 Bad To The Bone over Embarrassing ... by 13

Lyons 11
Chicks Dig Us over Gil Thorpe's Varsity Squad by 6
The Screaming ... over Great American ... 22-20
4 Jerks ... over The Militant Pigs by 12
John Holmes ... over John DeLorean & The All-

Lyons 12
Showdown v. Fun Bunch Five (6:15)

Stepan 6
4 Guys Who Haven't ... v. That's Right, Wez Bad (6:15)

Stepan 7
Mercury Morns Chose Coke Over Pepsi v. Shondell ... (6:15)

Stepan 8
Rousseau's Noble Savages v. Pig Bag (6:15)

Bookstore 9
John Shoe & The Sneakers v. We Go 5 (4:00)
US v. Beaucoup ... (4:45)
Social Retards v. Geritol Express (5:30)
Even-less Jacksonless Five v. Passion & Romance & Commies From Mars (6:15)

Stepan 5
Showdown v. Fun Bunch Five (6:15)

Stepan 6
4 Guys Who Haven't ... v. That's Right, Wez Bad (6:15)

Stepan 7
Mercury Morns Chose Coke Over Pepsi v. Shondell ... (6:15)

Stepan 8
Rousseau's Noble Savages v. Pig Bag (6:15)

Bookstore 9
John Shoe & The Sneakers v. We Go 5 (4:00)
US v. Beaucoup ... (4:45)
Social Retards v. Geritol Express (5:30)
Even-less Jacksonless Five v. Passion & Romance & Commies From Mars (6:15)

Bookstore 10
Ja's Men v. Team # 361 (4:00)
3 Beers & 2 Grape Nehis Please v. Chicks Dig Us (4:45)
43C — 130 v. 4 Jerks ... (5:30)
Bad To The Bone v. John Holmes ... (6:15)

Lyons 11
The Brick Throwers v. Team # 65 (4:00)
Macri's Preferred Stock v. Our Last Chance To Take No Prisoners (4:45)
SWC v. The Creamers (5:30)
Vanilla Wonders v. Cash Amberg & The Country Boys (6:15)

Lyons 12
Motown v. Armed & Dangerous M-21 Explosive B-Ball Unit (4:00)
Ralphie ... v. People Who Died (4:45)
Pangloss ... v. The Screaming ... (5:30)
Joe Jakubik ... v. MacNamera's Band (6:15)

Lyons 11
Chicks Dig Us over Gil Thorpe's Varsity Squad by 6
The Screaming ... over Great American ... 22-20
4 Jerks ... over The Militant Pigs by 12
John Holmes ... over John DeLorean & The All-

Lyons 12
Showdown v. Fun Bunch Five (6:15)

Stepan 6
4 Guys Who Haven't ... v. That's Right, Wez Bad (6:15)

Stepan 7
Mercury Morns Chose Coke Over Pepsi v. Shondell ... (6:15)

Stepan 8
Rousseau's Noble Savages v. Pig Bag (6:15)

Bookstore 9
John Shoe & The Sneakers v. We Go 5 (4:00)
US v. Beaucoup ... (4:45)
Social Retards v. Geritol Express (5:30)
Even-less Jacksonless Five v. Passion & Romance & Commies From Mars (6:15)

Attn. First Degree Members, Second and Third Degree

April 24, 1983

Call 239 - 7018 Now To Register (Deadline April 19)

ATTENTION

ALL THOSE INTERESTED IN WORKING ON THE 1984 DOME

AS PHOTOGRAPHER OR STAFF MEMBER MEETING IN DOME OFFICE 3RD FLOOR LAFORTUNE APRIL 19 AT 7PM

NOTRE DAME SAINT THOMAS COMMUNICATION & THEATRE

MONDAY FILM SERIES I

The Atomic Cafe (1980)
An hilarious and frightening look at America's Cold War and the cult of the atom. The Atomic Cafe is one of the most entertaining and disturbing documentaries in recent years. Directors Jayne Loader and Kevin and Pierce Rafferty have collected and juxtaposed government and commercial footage into an ironic, mordant and passionate polemic.

Annenberg Aud., Snite Museum Admission TONIGHT $ 2.00

Write the Sports Editor

The Observer/Scott Bower
Debbi Hensley, shown here in her last Notre Dame varsity game, shot 9-for-30 in her women's Bookstore game yesterday, as her team, Last Drool... Uvulas, advanced to the final 32. Mike Sullivan reports at right.

To 'Sweet 16'

Top women's teams advance

By MIKE SULLIVAN
Assistant Sports Editor

If there is one thing that the 1983 Women's Bookstore tournament has not been marked by, it is hard-fought defeats. When teams have lost, they have lost big time. For instance, in the second round of the tournament which was played over the weekend, the closest score was 21-11. Now, after the slaughters, 16 teams remain.

The weekend marked the first action of the four top seeds and none of them had too many problems with their outclassed opponents. We Ain't So Bad made Mort and His Skibbobolettes... look really bad in a 21-3 victory. Mary McQuillan led We Ain't So Bad with her 8-of-10 shooting, while Carrie Lucpke made nine of her 17 shots. Mort and His Skibbobolettes... didn't have as much luck, making just three of its 27 shots.

Another seed, Who Cares, had a little tougher time with Twisters, finally emerging with a 21-11 win. Jackie Barry and Kathy Marnocha led Who Cares with seven and five points, respectively. Twisters was made of most of the players who won last year's tournament.

The other two seeds, Oreos and Last Drool... were not too successful shooting, but still were able to sleep walk through their games. Oreos, led by Notre Dame basketball star Shari Matvey, eased to a 21-7 win over We're Not Big... as Dava Newman and Maureen Milota scored six baskets apiece.

Last Drool... beat Just Fast Enough to be Fun, 21-8, but seemed to be having so much fun itself that it decided to drag things out a bit. Last Drool... needed 78 shots to finally end the game. Another Notre Dame player, Debbi Hensley, led the Last Drool attack(?), shooting more times in the game (30) than in her entire Notre Dame career and scoring nine baskets.

Joining the top seeds in the third round was Pneumothorax, a team led by Saint Mary's basketball player Missy Van Ort, which destroyed Wild Women, 21-3, as Van Ort hit an impressive 13 of 14 shots. Wild Women was so outmatched that it could only get 19 shots off during the entire game.

Mary Reilly of Leather and Lace also led her team into the next round with some hot shooting. Reilly made 11 of her 14 shots as Leather and Lace beat Pretenders, 21-3.

Women's Bookstore

Notre Dame volleyball player Josie Maternowski made 10-of-23 shots to lead Real Farley Women... to a 21-3 rout of One Amiable Zany... Maternowski didn't get too much help from her teammates, though, as Kendra Erven and Patty Hackett combined for an awesome 6-of-39. She did get a lot of help from One Amiable Zany... who could make only three of its 23 shots.

Probably the most tremendous feat of the day was the shooting performance of Betsy Dooley of the infamous Supply team. After shooting 1-for-23 in her first game (the 10-8 marathon game), Dooley must have figured that she couldn't do worse. She came close, though, as she made just one of her sixteen shots in Supply's 21-7 loss to Annette Buford... That gives her a combined performance of 2-of-39 for the tournament. If her team had not lost, there's no telling how well she could have done.

Dooley's performance over the weekend was not even the worst of the day as Kathy Bego was shutout in 16 shots. In fact, her team, French Connection, had a hard time connecting on anything as it shot just 7-of-56 in its 21-7 loss to Chippendales.

Finally, there was the team called Five Chicks... that had an even worse time shooting than Chippendales. Led by Eileen Carney's 2-of-17 shooting, Five Chicks... gunned in three of 31 shots in its 21-3 destruction at the hands of Double Trouble.

Action now turns to the third round which will be held tomorrow on the Stepan courts starting at 4 p.m. The fourth round games will be played on Thursday at Saint Mary's, also starting at 4 p.m.

Hopefully, there won't be any more 21-3 games.

WOMEN'S BOOKSTORE BASKETBALL

Saturday's Results

Stepan 2
Who Cares 21, Twisters 11
Annette Buford 21, Supply 7
Leather and Lace 21, Pretenders 3
Rim Wreckers 21, Fluid Fun 2

Stepan 7
We Ain't So Bad 21, Mort and His Skibbobolettes 3
Double Trouble 21, Five Chicks 3
Chippendales 21, French Connection 7
Pneumothorax 21, Wild Women 3

Yesterdays Results

SMC 1
Last Drool 21, Just Fast Enough 3
Blow-offs 21, Goody Ten Shoes 8
Kahlua and the Cremes 15, Rudy Kaplensky 2
Negligence 21, Boom Boom s Bombers 5

SMC 2
Oreos 21, We're Not Big 7
Cameras 15, Ballhandlers 5
TBA 21, Hoosier Hoopsters 9
Real Farley Women 21, One Amiable Zany 3

Tomorrow's Games

Stepan 1
Oreos vs Cameras (4)
Kahlua and the Cremes vs Negligence (4 45)

Stepan 2
TBA vs Real Farley Woggen (5 30)
Last Drool vs Blow-offs (6 30)

Stepan 3
We Ain't So Bad vs Double Trouble (4)
Chippendales vs Pneumothorax (4 45)

Stepan 6
Who Cares vs Annette Buford (4)
Leather and Lace vs Rim Wreckers (4 45)

See Herschel Walker!

Chicago Blitz vs. N.J. Generals

Monday, April 25 Bus leaves Main Circle at 7PM

See NDers at 7PM

Tim Koegel, Jim Stone, Luther Bradley!

$11

Sign up at NDSU ticket office/record store

Get Involved!!

Cultural Arts Commission

sponsor of SLF, C&F, Student Players, ISIS, etc....

is looking for committee members.

Applications are available in the Student Union office
2nd floor LaFortune

coupon

Students and Staff of St. Mary's and Notre Dame

$100 additional off

On your best deal on any new Toyota.
Just present coupon and I.D. to

Michael Fahey at GATES TOYOTA over 100 staff, alum, & students sold

Call 237-4052 one per customer

coupon

Hey Freshmen and Sophomores
Need a Job for Next Year?

The Observer is looking for a few good salesmen to work in the Advertising Dept. Access to car preferred.

Contact Chris Owen at 239-7471 or 239-5313
(this week)

REMEMBER

Yearbook Senior Portraits!!

April 5 to April 22
9:30 - 1 and 2 - 5:00
YOU CAN STILL SIGN UP FOR YOUR PORTRAIT BY CALLING 239-5183 NOW!!

Sittings: Traditional $5.00
Contemporary $8.15

Please pay by Check or bring Exact Change....

... Shove

continued from page 16

behind Pinkett, dove over from the one on the next play.

"Smitty looks really good," praised Faust of his fullback who is battling Mark Brooks for the fullback position, "but Brooks is also playing very well. Both of them will see a lot of action this fall.

"Ray Carter is coming along well, he's a nice surprise," continued Faust. Carter had 40 yards in 11 carries.

Inside linebacker Joe Bars of the No. 2 unit led the team in tackles with six. Fellow No. 2 linebacker Rick DiBernardo had four as did three members of the No. 1 defensive line, Mike Golic, Eric Dorsey and Jon Autry.

No. 1 free safety Chris Brown intercepted a Grooms toss while No. 2 strong safety and walk-on Dan Corsaro picked off a pass by Kiel.

The team will have seven more practices before concluding with the Blue-Gold contest on April 30.

Thursday-
The Observer
Bookstore
Extra

Bloom County

Berke Breathed

Simon

Jeb Cashin

Fate

Photius

Campus

- 12:15 p.m. — Workshop, "Incentive Systems as Policy Instruments for Alternative Development Strategies," Prof. Denis Goulet, Library Lounge
- 3:30 p.m. — Seminar, "Substrate Limitation of Microbial Growth," Dr. Frederic G. Bader, 356 Fitzpatrick Hall
- 4:30 p.m. — Lecture, "Biochemical Adaptation to the Environment: Macromolecular Strategies," Prof. George N. Somero, Galvin Life Sciences Auditorium
- 6 p.m. — Meeting of the Student Senate, 124 Hayes Healy
- 7 p.m. — Monday Night Film Series, "The Atomic Cafe," Annenberg Auditorium $2
- 7 p.m. — Meeting, For Students interested in the London Summer Program, 348 Madeleva Hall
- 7:30 p.m. — Lecture, "Is There a Feminist History?" Prof. Anne Perotin-Dumon, Stapelton Lounge
- 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. — Film, "Take the Money and Run," Carroll Hall, Sponsored by SAPB, $1
- 8 p.m. — Meeting, For students interested in Rome Summer Program, 348 Madeleva Hall
- 8 p.m. — Lecture, "In Memory of Her," Prof. Elisabeth Schussler Fiorenza, Center for Social Concerns
- 8 p.m. — Concert, Festival of New Music,
- 9 p.m. — Monday Night Film Series, "Sisters or: The Balance of Happiness," Annenberg Auditorium, $2

T.V. Tonight

- | | | |
|------------|----|--------------------------|
| 7:30 p.m. | 16 | All in the Family |
| | 22 | Family Feud |
| | 28 | Tic Tac Dough |
| | 34 | Straight Talk |
| 8 p.m. | 16 | BoB Hope Special |
| | 22 | Archie Bunker's Place |
| | 28 | That's Incredible |
| | 34 | Frontline |
| 8:30 p.m. | 22 | Foot in the Door |
| 9 p.m. | 22 | Alice |
| | 28 | ABC Monday Night Movie |
| | 34 | Great Performances |
| 9:30 p.m. | 22 | One Day at A Time |
| 10 p.m. | 22 | Cagney and Lacey |
| 11 p.m. | 16 | NewsCenter 16 |
| | 22 | 22Eyewitness News |
| | 28 | Newswatch 28 |
| | 34 | Indiana Lawmakers |
| 11:30 p.m. | 16 | Tonight Show |
| | 22 | Trapper John and Columbo |
| | 28 | ABC News Nightline |

The Daily Crossword

- | | |
|------------------------|-------------------------|
| ACROSS | DOWN |
| 1 Nine inches | 1 Burning particle |
| 5 Bette of movies | 2 Soup |
| 10 Notorious Ugandan | 3 Ballet positions |
| 14 Spotless | 4 Beak |
| 15 Ignore | 5 Degrade |
| 16 Adriatic wind | 6 Upward |
| 17 Nasser or Sadat | 7 Clamp |
| 18 Brazilian dances | 8 Psyche divisions |
| 20 Resister, for short | 9 Red or Black |
| 21 Secure | 10 Cuts short |
| 22 Gladiator's milieu | 11 Motivate |
| 23 Most sharp | 12 Persia |
| 25 Harbor | 13 Astronaut's org. |
| 27 Lesion | 19 Nostril |
| 28 Railing | 21 Withered |
| 32 Brimless hat | 24 Part of speech |
| 34 Spurious tree | 25 Debra of movies |
| 35 Brazilian tree | 26 Burden |
| 36 Astonish | 28 Pretty, in Scotland |
| 37 Sound units | 29 Italian dance |
| 38 Pedant | 30 Grandiose |
| 39 Devoured | 31 Latest fashion |
| 40 Exhausted | 32 Despot |
| 41 Absence of strife | 33 Director Preminger |
| 42 Singer Clooney | 34 Dutch Africans |
| 44 Nooned | 37 Petty quarrel |
| 45 Angora and Persian | 38 Equal |
| 46 Car part | 40 Diminutive |
| | 41 Bartlett or Bosc |
| | 43 Two-handed card game |
| | 44 Equal |
| | 46 Cache |
| | 47 — Rice |
| | Burroughs |
| | 48 Prepared |
| | 49 Crest |
| | 50 Ostrich's relative |
| | 51 Fuel abbr. |
| | 52 Bandleader Kenton |
| | 55 Recede |
| | 56 Canals in Michigan |
| | 57 Language case: abbr. |

Friday's Solution

The Far Side

Custer's first stand

© 1983 Tribune Company Syndicate, Inc. All Rights Reserved

MAN of LA MANCHA

APRIL 21, 22 and 23
8 p.m.

WASHINGTON HALL

Tickets are on sale in the Student Union Ticket Office. Also on sale tonight in the St. Mary's Dining Hall.

STUDENT UNION PUBLICITY DEPT. NEEDS

Poster Hangers

for the 83 - 84 school year.
Contact Ann at S.U. 239 - 7605
(Must demonstrate financial need)

Fullback Chris Smith was one of the brightest spots of a contentious Notre Dame scrimmage Saturday. He ripped many holes for Irish tailbacks Allen Pinkett and Ray Carter, as Louie Somogyi reports at right.

Pinkett, Smith shine Push comes to shove at scrimmage

By LOUIE SOMOGYI
Sports Writer

Defensive tackle Jay Underwood may have known something before Saturday's scrimmage that the other players didn't.

He was more prepared than most of the Notre Dame football team, wearing a boxing glove on his right hand while scrimmaging.

Actually, the glove served the purpose of shielding Underwood's strained fingers from further damage. At times during the scrimmage, though, it looked as if the glove would be very handy for its more common use.

In what is considered a rarity in collegiate circles, Head Coach Gerry Faust has been pitting the No. 1 offense and defense against each other the last two weeks for a couple of series. The move was made, he has stated, for the purpose of getting more hitting and intensity involved in the practices.

On Saturday he may have gotten more hitting and intensity than he bargained for. Hard hitting action brings out the best in safety Joe Johnson and linebacker Mike Larkin. On a couple of occasions in the practice, some members of the offensive unit took exception to their ferocity. A shoving match resulted on one occasion, while a free-for-all brawl almost ensued in the second series between the top units.

The heat of battle can do that to competitive athletes, but in the end the tempers had stilled, the team gathered together for their prayer, and all was peaceful again as they departed towards the locker room.

The defense may have slightly gotten the better part of the offense overall in their three confrontations. Two incomplete passes in the first series along with a holding penalty against the offense stopped them was really crisp. There was some good hitting out there," Faust noted. "But we got sloppy in the second part of the scrimmage."

That was about the way the Arizona loss and Oregon tie went last year. After taking early leads with crisp play against those two teams, the team suffered breakdowns for the rest of the game as they were unable to deliver the knockout blow that would have defeated them.

Thus, eliminating complacency is a second goal that Faust hopes his team can attain once autumn rolls around.

"We have got to develop a killer instinct," says Faust. "When you get someone down you have got to keep them down."

Two people that were very difficult to keep down or take down Saturday was tailback Pinkett and fullback Chris Smith.

Pinkett simply is getting better and better every time one watches him play. For the day he finished with 88 yards on 19 carries and scored the first two touchdowns on the first two drives by the Kiel-directed first offense against the second team defense.

On the 75-yard opening drive he had a 16-yard burst to his credit before scoring from the three-yard line. Other key plays in the drive was a 21-yard Kiel to Mike Haywood toss and a 17-yard scamper by Smith. On the following 40-yard touchdown drive, Pinkett's 20-yard breakaway was the big play that set up his touchdown dive from the one-yard line.

Smith picked up 57 yards in just eight carries. But it was his blocking, especially in the final series for the No. 2 unit, that really stood out. From the defense's 35 yard line, Smith made back-to-back rock 'em blocks to spring the trailing tailback Ray Carter on successive gains of 12 and nine yards. On the next play Smith broke free to the outside on an inside handoff and picked up 13 yards to the one-yard line. Lester Flemons, the alternate with Carter cold in a drive that started from mid-field.

See SHOVE, page 14

Spring Football '83

In the second series, the offense played brilliant ball-control offense as they moved from their own 12-yard line to the defense's 27-yard line in 14 plays. Two clutch third-down passes from quarterback Blair Kiel (6-for-10, 76 yards, one interception), highlighted the march. The first was a 21-yard screen to Allen Pinkett while the second was a nine-yard toss to tight end Mark Bavaro. The drive ended with a 44-yard Mike Johnston field goal.

Scott Grooms (7-for-10, 67 yards, one interception) took over for Kiel in the third series which started from the defense's 15-yard line. Johnson proceeded to sack Grooms on a safety blitz on third down, while contain tackle Greg Dings forced Grooms out-of-bounds at the defense's 30-yard line on fourth down.

"I thought the first offense played well at times and the first defense played well at times," said Faust. "But we've got to be consistent all the time, on every down."

Inconsistency was one of the flaws that Faust saw in the scrimmage once the first units competed their battles against each other.

"The first part of the scrimmage

'Store wars

Top teams 'get physical,' move on

By JEFF BLUMB
Sports Writer

"Let's get physical" easily could have been the theme of the third round of Bookstore XII played yesterday. The day's action was full of rough play, disputes and near fights.

"It was the roughest day so far," said Commissioner Dave Dziedzic, "because a lot of teams are starting to feel that they can make it to the Final 16.

"Most of the mediocre teams have been weeded out," continued Dziedzic, "so mostly good teams are left. There are no refs, and a lot is on the line. You almost have to go through a traffic jam to score the last point. I saw at least three or four near fights today."

But the day's action was not without its finer points. Defensive end Kevin Griffith of the football team made all 11 of his shots in helping his team, seeded Play At Your Own Risk, over Team 136 by a 21-14 score.

No official Bookstore records are kept but Griffith's 11-11 shooting is thought to be a new record for Best Shooting Percentage — Most Shots. It is, for sure, the best shooting that anyone associated with the tournament can remember.

Junior Rick Louthan has now shot an impressive 34-42 in leading his team, Armed and Dangerous . . . , to three victories and into the fourth round. Louthan was 12-14 in his team's latest win, 21-13 over Kintuckee.

Stanford Hall resident Keith Sawayda drilled 13 of 14 from the field in helping his team, 257, over Four Human Beings . . . by a 21-15 count.

And grad student Ed Hjerpe continues to do the job for the seeded Evenless Jacksonless Five. This time Hjerpe connected on nine of nine shots as Evenless beat Last Chance Express 21-11. Last Chance, it should be noted, played the entire game with just four players.

Double Decker Oreo Cookie also continued in its quest to be Bookstore Champs yesterday, this time rolling over Eugene, 21-7. Showing the great balance of Double Decker, lesser known member Pete Smith was 6-7 to lead all scorers. Casey Newell and Mansel Carter added five apiece to aid the winner's cause.

In one of the day's more physical games, Running Rebels edged Team 387 by a 21-19 score. This game went back and forth, the lead changing hands many times, until finally Running Rebels took a decisive advantage at 18.

Bookstore XII

A game such as this one deserved a unique ending — and have one it did. Freshman Ken McManus hit his ninth basket of the game literally blindfolded to win the game, as his stocking cap had been pulled down over his eyes as he started to put up the shot.

Geritol Express, a team composed entirely of faculty and staff members, continues to impress those associated with the tournament. Yesterday, Geritol advanced to today's fourth round with a decisive 21-14 win over Slim Joe Gruber, paced by Paul Winum's eight points.

Rousseau's Noble Savages, an unseeded team that looks especially strong, also advanced, beating Freddie Brown . . . 21-12.

Rousseau's will play Pig Bag, a 21-18 winner over Mangled Baby Ducks Bleed Again. The interesting thing about the Pig Bag game was the presence of Father Edward Malloy, C.S.C., Assoc. Provost for the University, on the Mangled Baby Ducks team. Malloy, who once played for Notre Dame while a student here, has now played in every Bookstore tournament, minus one, since its inception 12 years ago.

There were no real upsets in third round action, with all 15 of the remaining seedings moving on. Bad to the Bone, spurred by Tim Andree's 10 points, beat Embarrassing Stains Come Again 21-8.

Other seeds advancing to the fourth round yesterday were: Love and the Shooting Stars, S.W.C., Tequila White Lightning III, Showdown, John Shoe and the Sneakers, The Brick Throwers, and W.E.B.B.'s Encore.

BOOKSTORE BRIEFS — The teams played on by Gerry Faust and Rich Hunter both quietly dropped out of the tournament this weekend, Faust's on Saturday, Hunter's on Sunday . . . Look for these games to be the closest and hardest fought today: Tequila White Lightning vs. J.B. and Co. at 6:15 on Stepan 1; Rousseau's Noble Savages vs. Pig Bag 6:15 on Stepan 8; and Double Decker Oreo Cookie vs. Running Rebels also at 6:15 on Stepan 4. So, it looks like the real basketball fans will be at Stepan tonight at 6:15

Lacrosse showdown

ND takes Ohio Wesleyan to limit

By MIKE SULLIVAN
Assistant Sports Editor

The Notre Dame lacrosse team was expecting to have one of its better crowds of the year and wanted to put on a good show in its game against Ohio Wesleyan, probably the best lacrosse team in the Midwest. And it did not let the fans down.

However, the Irish found themselves a couple of players short and two goals down when the clock ran out, losing a tough 14-12 decision.

"We probably played our best game of the year," said Notre Dame coach Rich O'Leary. "But, then, we had to, considering who we were playing."

The team they were playing was the 11th-ranked Division III team in the country, which had used its speed and experience to beat up on Midwest Lacrosse Association opponents. In each of its three previous MLA games, Wesleyan had won by at least 11 goals.

It wasn't so easy on Saturday as the Irish kept the game close right up to the end. However, lack of depth eventually caught up with them as they grew tired at the end and allowed Wesleyan to score an insurance goal with a minute remaining in the contest.

Despite being outmanned, however, Notre Dame had a chance to tie the game, 13-13, in the last three minutes. But, after calling a timeout to set up an offensive play, the Irish wasted their chance as they threw the ball away.

"We really thought we had a play that would score," explained O'Leary. "Justin (Driscoll) was supposed to go to the right and Danny (Pace) was going to clear out so that Justin could go one-on-one with his man. We had set up a double pick away from the ball, so Danny could loop around the outside away from the goal and take the pass. But he just couldn't reach the pass."

The turnover seemed to take the wind out of the Irish as they couldn't keep up with the more rested Wesleyan players. When Chris Healy scored for Wesleyan with 1:09 remaining, Notre Dame's hopes for a big upset were over.

"We relied on three or four players the whole game," said O'Leary. "We knew we were taking a gamble that we might not have them at full strength at the end of the game, but we didn't have a choice."

The players that he was relying on heavily to keep the team in the game were attackmen Joe Franklin, Steve Pearsall, and Bob Trocchi, and defensemen Justin Shay and Sean Corscadden. They did what they were supposed to, as they accounted for 10 of the 12 goals and played a major role in keeping the Wesleyan goal total to 14.

It was Trocchi who got things going for the Irish early in the first quarter. He took advantage of a loose ball in front of the Wesleyan goal and appeared to make the Wesleyan goalie lose control of the ball and accidentally put it in his own goal. The fluke goal gave the Irish the first of their two leads in the game.

Wesleyan did not take long to make up the early deficit, scoring two quick goals before Pearsall took a pass from Franklin to tie the score at 2-2. Wesleyan went back ahead, but Franklin scored the first of his game-high five goals to even things up again.

A three-goal Wesleyan surge opened the game up for the first time, giving the visitors a 6-3 lead at the end of the first quarter. The surge continued into the second quarter as Wesleyan opened up a

See LACROSSE, page 13