Students must show proof of draft status to obtain federal aid

By BOB VONDERHEIDE
News Editor

Students receiving federal financial aid have until Oct. 1 to submit a form stating they have complied with Selective Service laws.

Failure to sign the form will force the financial aid office to reverse the credit of federal assistance dispersed after July 1, according to Financial Aid Director Joe Russo.

The new rule is the result of a two-sentence law that easily passed through Congress last year. The Education Department originally set July 1 as the deadline for submitting the form, but financial-aid directors complained of too little time to handle the paper work.

A month ago, the Education Department moved the deadline to Sept. 1, but this week the department again extended the deadline one month to Oct. 1.

Under the law, male students between the ages of 18 and 22 will have to submit a form to the Office of Financial Aid stating that they have registered with the Selective Service.

Female students receiving or applying for federal assistance after July 1 will have to check the line stating, "I am female." Women are not required to register with the Selective Service.

Students born before 1960 will have to indicate that fact on the form.

But being a "conscientious objector" is not listed as a reason for failing to register. Conscientious-objector status is recognized as a legal reason not to be drafted into military service.

Except for additional paper work, Russo said the new law "is not a problem at Notre Dame," where about half the students receive federal aid - especially from the Guaranteed Student Loan program.

Of the forms already submitted to the financial-aid office, no male student has refused to register. That means no aid will have to be denied, Russo said.

The federal aid programs linked to students' registration status are: the GSL, the Pell Grant, the Work/Study program, the National Direct Student Loan and the Supplemental Education Opportunity Grant.

The original language of the law mandated that the forms signed by the students would have to be verified against Selective Service records. But the law did not say whether the federal government or

At ND, greater percentage of accepted students enroll

By PAT SAIN

An improved economy has caused more applicants to accept admission offers to Notre Dame despite the $8,660 price tag.

Director of Admissions John Goldrick said about 6,300 students applied to Notre Dame this year, and 2,800 were accepted.

Goldrick said the ratio of students who are accepted to the University to the number who enroll as freshmen has improved.

A better economy has enabled more students to afford the cost of a private education, he said.

The 1,775 freshmen at Notre Dame begin two days of orientation today, followed by registration on Monday at Stepan Center. During registration, students will receive their schedules, have I.D. photos taken and fix any scheduling problems.

Goldrick said the 1,775 figure was set by the PACE report - a document released last year that analyzes the University's goals for the 1980s. The figure takes into account about 30 expected "no-shows," where students accept admission offers but do not show up to register.

"This class reflects the good years of the last decade," said Goldrick. "Thirty-five percent of the incoming freshmen are in the top five of their high school class, an many of them are quite accomplished in many areas."

The student Freshman Orientation staff, which arrived Thursday and Friday, is providing picnics, dances, social hours and other services for freshmen.

Each residence hall also has an orientation staff which has planned activities for the new students. The hall-orientation staff members are essential in getting freshmen settled into place before classes get underway, supplying transportation, information, and friendship.

Freshmen reported yesterday to begin taking guidance tests used by the Freshman Year, and to take placement tests for course credit.

Emil T. Hofman, dean of the Freshman Year of Studies, said the freshmen are encouraged to be open and friendly, and not to remain isolated.

There are 250 transfer students this year, down considerably from 390 last year. There are few "no-shows" with transfer students, Goldrick said, because "they really want to come here."

More diverse events added to program at Saint Mary's

By ANNE MONASTRYSKI
Saint Mary's Editor

For whatever the reason, and several were offered, 476 women are now Saint Mary's freshmen.

"Notre Dame and the football team" attracted freshman Coquis Casavantes to Saint Mary's from El Paso, Texas. For freshman Tracy Caulfield of Grand Beach, Mich., it was the "beautiful campus." Saint Mary's "reputation as an all-around good school" and its "small classes," said Chris Schanne of Omaha, Neb., was the deciding factor for her.

Enrollment is up one student from last year's 475 students.

Orientation week begins today for the Class of 1987, providing general campus information and first impressions.

In an effort to make Saint Mary's Orientation 1983 a well-rounded program, and to "set the tone for the year," more educational and informative events were added to the list of activities, said orientation General Chairperson, Julie Strazzabosco.

Complaints that previous orientation programs have been too lopsided - stressing social or cultural events more than other aspects of campus life - prompted the additions, said Strazzabosco.

One of the educational additions is the Nutrition Education program, a project designed to deal with Bulimia and other eating disorders becoming prevalent on college campuses.

A Relationship and Sexuality series begins Sept. 8, and will integrate Christian values with decision making in relationships.

A new social activity, a pre-dance party, will be in the Haggar College Center for both Saint Mary's and Notre Dame freshmen before the annual ACC dance tomorrow. The party will be the first major function in the new facility, according to Strazzabosco.

"We want to take the emphasis off the 'party' atmosphere," said Strazzabosco. "We don't want the flow (of Saint Mary's students) to go over there (Notre Dame)," she added.

"Participation is vital to the success of orientation, said Strazzabosco. I want to stress that freshmen take advantage of the program. If freshmen are willing to participate, we'll come through for them."

Housing Shortages

ND uses study lounges to relieve campus demand

By VIC SCIULLI
Assistant News Editor

An unusually high number of room reservations this year means only one thing to 34 freshmen: temporary housing.

Eleven women and 23 men are being housed in study lounges in both Pasquerilla dorms, and Grace and Flanner halls.

Father Michael Heppen, director of housing, said that the study lounges will be restored as soon as other rooms on campus become available.

Heppen said that the 94 female and 136 male transfer students awaiting on-campus housing will be taken care of after all the freshmen are placed in regular rooms.

Heppen said he does not like the idea of taking the study lounges away from the students, but he considers it a better idea than a housing lottery.

The lottery was averted last April when Student Government Housing Commissioner Jorge Valencia suggested that study lounges in some of the women's dorms and in Flanner and Grace halls be used as dorm rooms.

Off-campus Housing Director Brother John Campbell said that although there is still a waiting list for the Campus View and Turtle Creek apartment complexes, there is an ample supply of apartments available in other areas.

19 freshmen in dorm parlors at Saint Mary's

By ANNE MONASTYRSKI
Saint Mary's Editor

A housing shortage has forced 19 Saint Mary's freshmen to live temporarily in dorm parlors, leaving other residents with almost no recreational space.

McCandless' basement will house nine students, six will stay in the LeMans guest rooms and four will be placed in one of Holy Cross' three parlors until permanent housing becomes available.

Last year eight students lived in all of Holy Cross' parlors, and one parlor served as temporary housing until second semester.

"It's monetarily better for the College to fill to capacity," said Director of Residence Life Pat Rissmeyer. "A lot of people like to come to Saint Mary's. Unlike several colleges in the country Saint Mary's is not underenrolled and we don't want to discourage students from coming."

This year only freshmen were guaranteed housing. "We told a number of students that we don't have space," said Rissmeyer.

Rissmeyer said the College will have to wait to see how many students withdraw before deciding when freshmen will get permanent housing and when recreational areas will become available.

'It's so heavy!'

Sandra Gonzales, a senior Resident Assistant in LeMans Hall, Saint Mary's complained about the weight of the extinguisher, but undauntedly, put out the practice blaze at a training session yesterday.

Lawyers must fix attitudes, says Burger

By MARK WORSCHER
News Editor

A lawyer's primary goal should be to "keep client out of court," Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Warren Burger, told a Notre Dame audience in London this summer.

Speaking at a July dinner dedicating the University's London Law Center, Burger said lawyers should return to their role as the healers rather than the warriors of society.

"Other methods must be used to resolve disputes, but to do that we must change the attitude of a good many lawyers."

"In America, the current generation of lawyers or at least far too many of them, seems to act more like warriors eager to do battle than healers seeking peace. Our society is indeed a litigious one with over 600,000 lawyers and over 25 million new lawsuits each year," he said.

"We desperately need a generation of lawyers - and law teachers - who understand that access to justice does not invariably mean access to courtrooms," he said.

Burger also charged that the problem is not what the U.S. system of legal education teaches, but what it doesn't teach.

"American law schools for the most part perform very well the task of training in the law and in legal analysis," he said. "But a system of legal education that teaches lawyers to think brilliantly yet fails to teach them how to act with civility and according to high professional standards with a commitment to human values has failed to perform its mission."

The American legal system itself must be subjected to adversary examination; if not, "it may be too fragile to survive the stresses of the 21st century," he said.

Law student is recovering after wreck

By VIC SCIULLI
Assistant News Editor

William Kovalcik Jr., a second-year law student, is in good condition following surgery yesterday for injuries incurred during an accident near the Grotto Wednesday.

Kovalcik was riding his bicycle on the road between the Grotto and St. Michael's Laundry when he was struck by a car driven by Notre Dame quarterback Blair Kiel.

Glenn Terry, director of security, said that Kovalcik failed to see the stop sign located where the road intersects the lake road. Kiel's car was moving east, coming from the direction of the ROTC building.

Kovalcik underwent surgery at the St. Joseph Medical Center to repair muscles and tendons in his fractured left leg.

Terry said the intersection has been a problem in the past. The stop sign has become obscured by trees and shrubs, and there have been "many near misses" as a result of bikers and runners not stopping before they cross the road.

Terry is not sure what can be done to remedy the situation but emphasized that no one should cross the path without checking traffic.

Tuition rise is below nation's average

By BOB VONDERHEIDE
News Editor

College costs at Notre Dame rose by 7.42 percent this year, but that's about 2.5 percent less than the average increase at other schools.

Notre Dame students would have paid $206 more on the average if college costs had risen the same as the rest of the nation.

Saint Mary's students will pay 11.9 percent more than last year. That figure covers tuition, fees, and room and board, according to Karen Heisler, spokeswoman for the College.

In a letter to the parents of undergraduates, Father Theodore Hesburgh, University president, said the increase is necessary "if Notre Dame in all its dimensions is to grow in excellence."

And, Hesburgh said, the increase in tuition and fees is "considerable less than in recent years."

Last year, the cost of Notre Dame - tuition, room, board and fees - rose by 13.4 percent, almost twice this year's increase. In the 1981-82 school year, college costs increased by 10.48 percent.

This year's increase, which was approved by the University's Board of Trustees in May, puts the total cost of Notre Dame at $8,660. That figure varies according to what dorm and what type of room a student lives in. And it is slightly lower for women, who do not pay a laundry fee.

Tuition is $6,450 - up $500 or 8.4 percent. Room, board and laundry fees increased $145 or 7 percent to $2,210.

Still, college costs are rising faster than inflation. Consumer prices were up 3.9 percent last year and grew at only a 3 percent annual rate for the first five months of this year.

Nationwide, colleges and universities increased prices by an average of 10 percent, according to a survey released this summer by The College Board. Costs rose by an average of 11 percent in both 1982 and 1981.

Kathleen Brouder, associate director of the board's College Scholarship Service, explains that "many colleges are still playing 'catch-up' after a decade of inflation." She argues that college costs during most of the 1970s rose at a slower rate than consumer prices.

But double-digit increases aren't reserved to the 1980s.

In the school year 1957-58, Notre Dame raised tuition, room and board 20 percent - up a stifling $150 to $900 per year.

In an inter-office memorandum to the Public Information Director James Murphy, Father Edmund

Joyce, executive vice president, expressed reluctance at the increase.

"I trust you will keep this information completely confidential for a few days," Joyce wrote in March 1957. "I shall break the news at a special meeting with the Student Senate."

... Assistance

the universities would have to verify the students' statements.

"It's kind of difficult to object to the law," Russo said yesterday. "But higher-education institutions did object to having the burden of verification."

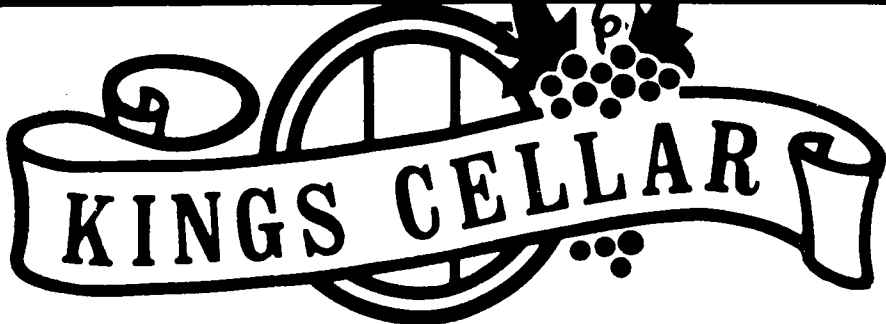

But Russo said a "massive outcry" by financial-aid directors forced the Education Department to scrap the verification procedure until the 1985-86 school year.

The basic idea of tying federal aid to students' registration status has firm support from the White House and in Congress. President Reagan has supported the law as a way to force male students to comply with Selective Service registration.

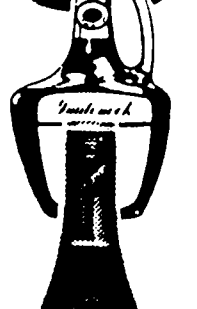

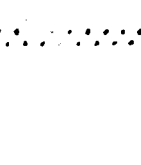

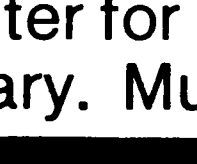

But a federal district judge in Minnesota overruled the new law, calling it unfair because only students who need assistance are involved.

The Education Department appealed the decision to the Supreme Court, and in late June one justice ruled that the law should remain in effect until the entire Supreme Court hears the case.

Some work delayed 3 buildings renovated

By PAT SAIN
Copy Editor

LaFortune Student Center, Washington Hall and the Engineering Auditorium received major renovations this summer.

Also renovated was the old library at Saint Mary's, now the Haggard College Center, and the tunnel between Holy Cross and LeMans halls.

But at Notre Dame, only the work on the Engineering Auditorium is complete because shipments of materials were delayed.

LaFortune should be completed in two weeks, and Washington Hall will be ready to use by Nov. 1, said Physical Plant Director Don Dedrick.

Workers were on the job 24 hours a day for two days to complete the work in the auditorium, Dedrick noted. The work was finished yesterday morning at 7:30.

The renovation included installing cushioned seats similar to the ones in the Annenberg Auditorium. The auditorium also has provisions for handicapped people.

To compensate for the level floor in the auditorium, the movie screen and the stage were elevated. A slanted floor would reduce the number of seats and would cost too much, said Dedrick.

A new sound system and lighting were also put in, Dedrick said, as well as carpeting in the aisles and on the walls to aid the acoustics in the room.

LaFortune's first floor and the women's restroom in the basement were redone. The main entrance and lobby were made "more pleasing and useful," Dedrick said.

The entrance had already undergone some work last year, with bushes and greenery planted around it to make it more appealing.

The lobby was divided lengthwise by a walkway paved with bricks, and an information and ticket counter are to the immediate left of the entrance. New furniture and interior decorating will be completed in two weeks.

Caron Court, the sunken courtyard in the center of LaFortune, was filled in and made level with the rest of the first floor. The main entrances to the Huddle are now through doors in the rear of Caron. The former Tom Dooley room has been made into an extension of the eating area of the Huddle, similar to the area presently between the Huddle's serving counter and the Deli.

The Little Theatre, on the opposite side of Caron, was also refurbished. "It is mostly paint work to make the place look better," Dedrick said. The main entrance to the theatre is now from the side of Caron Court. The old entrances to both the former Tom Dooley room and the auditorium were filled in.

The round lounge on the side of LaFortune's lobby has been converted into a "formal little area, similar to a motel-type lounge," said Dedrick. "We put in a nice floor and wooden doors," along with new furniture.

The downstairs ladies room was redone completely. "The situation down there had gotten a little out of hand," Dedrick said.

"We looked carefully at the student use of the place before we made a major financial commitment," Dedrick said. "It is a versatile building with many possibilities."

The LaFortune renovation cost around $150,000.

Washington Hall will take two years to completely renovate. On the ground floor, the lobby and stairs were redone, and an elevator was added for handicapped people. The restrooms and costume area were also redone.

In the theatre area, the air system, the electrical system and lighting were replaced. A light dimming system and a sprinkler system were also added.

New chairs, identical to the ones in the Annenberg Auditorium, will be put in. "The auditorium is used as a classroom, and the students were using lapboards to take notes, which was bad," Dedrick said. "The new seats have note boards."

The new chairs are staggered so the line of view to the stage from all seats isn't blocked. The steps in the balcony have been reconstructed, and more chairs have been added.

Dedrick said work should be done by Nov. 1 — two months later than originally planned.

Next summer, the band wing of Washington Hall will be redone. The complete renovation is expected to cost $1.2 million.

Roemer emphasizes policies on alcohol, parietyals at ND

By MARK WORSCHER
News Editor

While states and schools around the country have been instituting stricter policies governing the consumption of alcohol, Notre Dame has not changed its rules.

But Dean of Students James Roemer said that "we will be even more vigorous and diligent in enforcing the present alcohol policy."

That policy has been outlined in a directive from the dean which dictates the rules concerning alcohol consumption on campus.

The following violations will result in a minimum $100 fine:

Possessing or drinking from a pony or a keg on campus. Such containers will be impounded by Security and will not be returned.

Consuming alcohol outside of private dorm rooms or residence hall party rooms. Alcoholic beverages are not allowed in the football stadium nor the ACC, and are not permitted outside on the campus.

Entering or attempting to enter of anyone under the age of 21 into the Alumni-Senior Club (Senior Bar).

Entering the club by any entrance other than the front door, or opening a door to allow others to enter.

Bringing alcoholic beverages into the club on certain announced non-alcoholic nights.

In addition, Roemer stressed that parietyal will be enforced just as diligently as the alcohol policy. Some violations could result in the expulsion of the students involved.

"Our parietyal regulation has been that serious violations — such as overnight stays — will involve the separation of the student from the University," Roemer said. He believes that some students do not realize how seriously the University will handle such situations, even on the first offense.

A full treatment of the University's disciplinary rules is contained in the 79-page Du Lac, the guide to student life. The booklet, which will be distributed to freshmen by the hall staffs, also covers Notre Dame's policies on drugs, academic dishonesty, theft, injuries to persons or property and human sexuality.

One key regulation restricts the height of elevated beds, or lofts. Students who build lofts in their rooms must obtain permission from their rector, and sign and return a form.

Suspect arrested for '82 hit-and-run

By DIANE DIRKERS
Assistant News Editor

The driver of the vehicle that allegedly struck two Notre Dame students last fall has been arrested after police enlisted the help of South Bend's new Crime Stoppers program.

Russell Micinski, 28, of South Bend was arrested Aug. 18 in connection with the hit-and-run of students Beth McNerny and Kerry Mannion on Sept. 26.

Micinski has plead innocent to charges of two felony counts of driving under the influence and causing serious bodily injuries, and a misdemeanor count of leaving the scene of an injury accident.

Police had exhausted all leads when they handed the case over to Crime Stoppers in May.

Crime Stoppers, a new program in South Bend, re-enacts local crimes on television and in local newspapers, and offers cash rewards for tips leading to arrests.

A tip received by South Bend Police Sgt. Sam Walsh on July 8 helped police track down the suspect. Police said a piece of grill found at the accident site matched that of Micinski's vehicle. And, police said, paint chips from Micinski's car matched samples taken last September. Traces of the victims' clothing were found on the car, police added.

Micinski had allegedly been driving back from the Linebacker's Club, a tavern on South Bend Ave. He recalled having "a little bit more than I should have to drink," and could not remember clearly what happened that evening.

"It's hard to believe they (the police) really did anything," said McNerny. "I thought the whole incident was over, and now it's being stirred up again. I'm not looking forward to going through it again."

Mannion agreed. "It's almost a year gone by now. I can walk. My head is fine. I don't have any bad feelings now. I want to forget about the whole thing. Actually, I feel more sorry for him (Micinski) than I do for me."

Two students and two priests die

By TOM MOWLE
and PAT SAIN
Copy Editors

Two Notre Dame sophomores and two retired priests died during the summer.

Cathy Pax, 19, a resident of Walsh Hall, was killed in a two-car accident Aug. 20 while returning to her home in Coldwater, Ohio, from a summer job. According to the Hamilton post of the State Highway Patrol, her vehicle crossed the center line and was struck by a motor home. She was pronounced dead at the scene.

Pax was a copy editor and a senior staff reporter for The Observer. She also was fund-raiser chairman for Walsh.

A Sorin resident, Mark Lamping, 19, died at his home in Colorado Springs, Colo., on June 13. He was an Air Force ROTC cadet and a member of Alpha Phi Omega, a volunteer services organization.

Father Louis Thornton died Aug. 5 in the Holy Cross House at the age of 77. Before he retired in 1970, Thornton was registrar and director of the placement bureau.

Former professor of psychology Father Francis O'Hara, 84, died on June 23 at the Holy Cross House. O'Hara taught at Notre Dame for 10 years, and lived here in retirement since 1970.

You're traveling to a new dimension...
a dimension not only of sight and sound, but of fun...
You're now entering....

SBPs see vital role for freshmen

Notre Dame

By TOM MOWLE
Copy Editor

Notre Dame student government officials hope this year's freshmen will get involved in the many activities planned.

These activities include — for the first time in many years — a Homecoming celebration in addition to the traditional events such as An Tostal, Mardi Gras and the Mock Convention.

Student Body President Brian Callaghan said it is important for freshmen to help plan these events because "freshmen haven't been around long enough to forget their ideas."

Callaghan will continue the programs that were successful last year and encourages freshmen to participate. The Chance to Dance program, which "satisfied a need for a lot of people," will be continued, but the coordinator hasn't been chosen yet.

More exchanges with colleges are being planned; Callaghan plans to schedule schools similar to Notre Dame.

Saint Mary's will also sponsor the Homecoming celebration, which will be the weekend of the Pittsburg football game. A men's and women's hall will work together on floats, and the festival will include a concert and a bonfire.

Student Body Vice President Peggy Prevoznik said a political convention will be another major event on campus — probably in March. This convention is held every presidential election year to inform students about the candidates running for office.

Student government, she said, will try to keep the students more informed of its activities than it has in the past by publishing a newsletter every two months. The Student Union will also keep a comprehensive calendar of events on campus to aid scheduling.

Callaghan said that the goals of student government this year are "concrete and realistic." Among these are a teacher-evaluation program to help students decide which classes to take, the use of Senior Bar by undergraduates on certain nights, and a greater variety of electives for science and engineering students.

Saint Mary's

Saint Mary's Student Body President Elaine Hocter expects this year's freshmen to quickly come together as a class.

Student government and the halls have planned several activities that will enable the freshmen to get to know each other. These include socials, hayrides and movies.

Freshmen should have an easy time getting involved in student government, Hocter said, because the officers in Regina Hall, where most freshmen live, will be elected in the fall, as will a freshman council.

Major social events set for next month include the dedication of the new student center and a five-hall dance, said Vice President for Academic Affairs Madeline Hoch.

The dedication week will begin on Sept. 10 with an outdoor concert by a variety of area bands, and will conclude with the dedication itself on the 16th. That night the celebration will feature an Irish Band, Jim Coor & Friends.

The dance will be Sept. 24 in the college center and will be "similar to the Chance to Dance at Notre Dame," Hocter said.

This year many of the events on campus will be preceded by lead-in activities to encourage participation. Student government is keeping a schedule to coordinate the various hall and government-sponsored events.

Additional events include Senior Father-Daughter Weekend on Sept. 30, Women's Opportunity Week in November, and the Performing Arts Series.

Hoch noted that this year a social-justice commissioner will work to get the students "more involved in community service." Hocter added that she is "looking forward to working with Notre Dame on activities, especially Homecoming."

The volleyball team is looking for statisticians and line judges for its home games this fall. A good knowledge of tennis or volleyball is preferred but not necessary. Matches are played on weekday nights and on the morning of home football games. There is a small salary. If interested, call the volleyball office at 284-6281 as soon as possible. - The Observer

Athletic Facilities

Rockne Memorial Building

Located at the west end of the South Quad, "The Rock" is the center for the physical education program. The huge brick structure contains basketball courts, handball-racquetball courts, a weight room, a light apparatus room, a swimming pool, and the golf pro shop. Use of the Rockne Memorial facilities is free to all students and faculty members upon presentation of a University identification card. Closing time is 11 p.m. daily.

Stepan Center

Outside the Stepan Center one can play basketball, football, soccer, rugby, and softball. Many of the interhall sports are conducted in this area of the campus (directly north of the towers). Within Stepan Center are basketball and volleyball courts, open for recreational and league play.

Athletic and Convocation Center

The double-domed ACC, located east of the Stadium, contains more area than the Houston Astrodome. Within the structure are handball and racquetball courts, squash courts, and courts for basketball, tennis, and volleyball. One may also take advantage of the ice rink, boxing room and running track. A swimming pool is also being built on the east side of the ACC.

Burke Memorial Golf Course

On the west end of campus is the 18-hole, 6,500-yard University golf course. The course is open until late fall and reopens in early spring. Green fees are $2.50 for students, faculty and staff. Alumni can golf for $5.50.

Saint Mary's

Angela Athletic Facility

Located north of the Saint Mary's library, Angela includes basketball and volleyball courts, as well as some fitness equipment. Information about use of the AAF can be found by calling 284-5549.

Faces in the athletic department

Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, C.S.C. — A 1937 Notre Dame graduate, Fr. Joyce was appointed executive vice president of the University in 1952, just three years after his ordination. As Chairman of the Faculty Board in Control of Athletics, Joyce maintains, "First things come first, and the first thing for us are academics. I tell every squad of athletes that when the students return to campus each fall."

Rev. Edmund Joyce, C.S.C.

Gene Corrigan — Since succeeding the legendary Moose Krause as athletic director in 1981, Corrigan already has made his presence felt. He has been instrumental in the planning and organization of Notre Dame's first-ever athletic endowment fund which will increase opportunities for all Notre Dame students at all levels of competition. Corrigan also is credited with the introduction of two new varsity sports — lacrosse and women's swimming — in his first full year as athletic director. Before coming to Notre Dame, Corrigan was responsible for the rapid growth of the athletic department at the University of Virginia during his nine years as director of athletic programs.

Gene Corrigan

Brian Boulac — This former Notre Dame tight end comes off the field and in to the office as he begins his job of assistant athletic director. This will be a change from the last 13 years which he spent on the football coaching staff as recruiting coordinator, offensive and defensive line coach, receiver coach, and specialty teams coach.

Col. John Stephens — This is Jack Stephens' 16th year in the Irish administration, but this year he embarks on a new job as director of special projects. He assumes this role after spending seven years as associate athletic director and another eight as assistant director. Despite holding his present job for only a short time, however, he has already made an impact, playing a major role in the formation of the North Star Conference — a conference in which several women's sports now compete.

Faces in the athletic department

Roger Valdiserri — Following his 1954 graduation from Notre Dame, Valdiserri served briefly as an administrative assistant to Fighting Irish head football coach Terry Brennan. In 1966, after public relations stints at Mercedes-Benz and the Kansas City Chiefs, he returned to his alma mater to become sports information director and ten years later added assistant athletic director to his duties. Regarded as one of the best in his field, Valdiserri has received 37 awards over the past six years from the College Sports Information Directors of America for his sports publications, many regarded as the best in the nation.

Dr. Tom Kelly

Joseph O'Brien — A 1949 Notre Dame graduate, O'Brien is beginning his eighth year as assistant athletic director and the department's business manager. In 1955 he became director of personnel functions at South Bend's second largest employer — the University of Notre Dame. He has been here ever since.

Astrid Hotvedt — Since becoming coordinator of women's athletics at Notre Dame in 1974, just two years after the University began admitting women, Hotvedt has overseen the program's growth from its infancy. Currently, Irish women compete in a number of sports and are now approaching national prominence in basketball, volleyball, and tennis.

A 1969 Eastern Michigan graduate, Hotvedt received her master's degree from EMU in 1972.

Astrid Hotvedt

Joe O'Brien

Steve Orsini — Orsini returned to his alma mater in 1981 to assume the position of ticket and promotion manager after three years as a certified public accountant. Recently, he has been given the job of assistant business manager. "Ors" served as specialty team captain on Dan Devine's 1977 national championship team, and earned three monograms in his playing career at ND.

Steve Orsini

Dr. Tom Kelly — As director of non-varsity athletics, Kelly oversees one of the nation's most extensive intramural program for a university the size of Notre Dame. Since there are no fraternities or sororities here, dorm life and its accompanying spirit fill the bill, and this enthusiasm is often seen in interhall competition. Also, this spring he was named assistant athletic director. Kelly received his masters degree in physical education from Penn State and his masters and Ph. D. in Educational Administration from Notre Dame. After 11 years as NVA's assistant director, Kelly was elevated to his present post in the spring of 1979. Kelly also served as Notre Dame's baseball coach for five seasons before committing himself full-time to the NVA office following the 1980 campaign.

Notre Dame/Saint Mary's

Faces in the athletic departments

Erin Murphy — In her fourth year at Saint Mary's, Murphy serves as director of athletics and recreation. A graduate of Lewis University in Joliet, Ill., she has served as assistant director of athletics and recreation and volleyball coach for SMC since 1979. Along with supervision of the college's intramural, club, and varsity programs, Murphy continues her volleyball coaching duties. Murphy plans "to refine and perfect the programs that we have now at all three levels. I want the community to take advantage of the facilities and programs we have available," and wants SMC's Angela Athletic Facility to be used for recreation and leisure as well as competitive sports.

Timothy J. Dillon — With degrees from Slippery Rock State College and Eastern Kentucky University, and experience as a Division I gymnastics coach at ECU, Dillon views athletics "as a part of education." Dillon is the assistant director of athletics and recreation for SMC under Murphy.

Sharon Petro — The chairman of the physical education department is always one of the first faces an incoming freshman sees at Notre Dame, since phys ed is a required part of the freshman curriculum (except ROTC students). Petro was appointed to her present position two years ago, but she certainly is no stranger to the Notre Dame community. Like Hotvedt, she also did graduate work at EMU, earning her master's in 1976. Beginning her sixth year at Notre Dame, Petro served as women's tennis coach during the 1977 and '78 seasons before deciding to devote herself full-time to her basketball coaching duties. She had been serving double duty for two years. After the basketball team was elevated to Division I status, Petro left the ACC and returned to the Courtney Courts to coach tennis once again.

where I fit in with the people on the campus and the people on the team. Notre Dame has just what I wanted."

"My father was instrumental in my my decision to come here," says Wilson, "because he pointed out that a degree from here would really help me in the future."

For Banks, who was named as national high school "Player of the Year" by the Columbus (Ohio) Touchdown Club, the attraction came down to the coaching staff's concern for the well-being of the players beyond the gridiron.

"Coach Faust seems to be concerned about athletes on and off the field," says Banks.

That concern is important when freshmen at Notre Dame step on to the football field for the first time.

"I was very timid the first day," recalls safety Scott Rogers of Carmel, Indiana. "I really experienced tension then."

"They do some damage," states offensive lineman Tom Riley with a half-smile and half-grimace about his early experiences of contact with veteran members of the Irish line.

Surprisingly, after concluding two-a-days last week, and three sessions of three-days the week before, Tom Rehder, a 6-7, 225-lb. tight end from California, noted that the physical toil was less of a strain than the mental toil.

"You definitely get more tired from a mental point," states Rehder. "You go out on the field worried and scared about not doing well and not impressing the coaches. You try to do your best, and when you do screw up it becomes even a worse feeling."

Such are the pains of freshman who have to pay some early dues in their careers. But the players agree that the pleasant welcome from upperclassmen made the initial suffering bearable.

"I've known people who have gone to other colleges and have said that the freshmen there have to serve the upperclassmen are treated like dirt," says Riley. "Here they (upperclassmen) definitely help you out."

And contrary to what many people think, two sub-par football seasons in a row have hardly tarnished the image of Notre Dame throughout the country.

"No one said anything about Notre Dame while I was being recruited," says Rehder. "In fact when I mentioned that I was considering Notre Dame, other recruiters seemed to have gotten worried about it and did a double-take."

"Basically, this is the place to be," says Miller. "This is family. The talent is here and you just know that things are going to get rolling around here."

Maybe it is a coincidence, but the upperclassmen have been saying the same thing since spring.

he worked with in that tenure were All-Americans Tom Gatewood and Pete Demmerle at split end and all-America tight end Dave Casper.

After Parseghian resigned in 1974, Stock was given the position of offensive coordinator for Wisconsin from 1975-77. He next served as the head coach Eastern Michigan from 1978-82 before becoming the offensive backfield coach for the USFL's New Jersey Generals.

In other news, junior offensive tackle Larry Williams and senior cornerback Stacey Toran are the Irish players whose names appear most frequently in the pre-season all-America selections of various big-name publications.

Williams, who comes off a sterling sophomore campaign in which he played more minutes than any other Irish offensive player, and Toran, who will begin his fourth year of starting duty in the secondary, were both tabbed for the Sporting News All America squad.

Toran was also selected as a second-team pick by Street & Smith and an honorable mention pick by Gamble Plan. Williams was an honorable mention choice in both of these publications.

Senior kicker Mike Johnston, who set a Notre Dame record last year by kicking 19 field goals in 22 attempts was also an all-America pick by Sporting News as well as an honorable mention selection by Street & Smith.

Despite sitting out all of last season with a foot injury, Sporting News thought enough of nose tackle Tim Marshall to select him on their all-America squad. Game Plan also chose him as an honorable mention pick. Marshall, incidentally, weighed in at a svelte 235 pounds after having weighed as much as 282 pounds during the off-season last year.

Junior linebacker Mike Larkin and junior defensive tackle Mike Gann round out the pre-season honor selectees from Notre Dame.

Freshman football players attempt to deal with college pressures

By THERON ROBERTS
and LOUIE SOMOGYI
Sports Writers

For some 1,800 Notre Dame freshmen, the next four years will offer a challenge of mental and spiritual growth.

For the last two-and-a-half weeks, 28 of those freshmen have already experienced some of the pains and pleasures that come with adjusting to the collegiate scene at Notre Dame.

The 28, this year's scholarship freshman football players, comprise Head Football coach Gerry Faust's third straight freshman class that features talent good enough to be ranked among the very best recruiting crops in the nation.

Of all the talented players, however, perhaps none matches the talent of Kirkwood, Missouri native, Alvin Miller. The 6-4, 205-lb. flanker was selected a magazine "Player of the Year" this past season - an honor that has previously been bestowed on last year's Heisman Trophy winner Herschel Walker, last year's Heisman runner-up Eric Dickerson, and last year's first sophomore offensive lineman in recent memory to make first-team all-America, Bill Fralic of Pittsburgh.

The athletic prowess of Miller was perhaps best demonstrated in last spring's Missouri state track meet where he won the 100- and 200-meter dashes along with the 110- and 300-meter hurdles to win the state crown for Kirkwood High School.

His 40-yard dash has been clocked in 4.45, and his size and great leaping ability should make life difficult for defensive backs who are assigned to cover him.

Yet, even an athlete of Miller's stature cannot avoid the emotional effects that come with adjusting and playing big-time collegiate football at Notre Dame.

"It's been really a scary experience to go out and play against some of the best players in the country that are here," admits Miller who speaks for the class of 1987 as a whole. "We haven't got it together yet. We're still learning. You realize real quick when you're out there on the field that you're a freshman."

Nevertheless, Miller has been one of six freshmen who are or have been working with the second-team units this fall, and who can perhaps make a strong impact on the team as the season progresses.

Other freshmen who have seen action with the second units so far this fall include 5-9, 172-lb. split end Alonzo Jefferson; Steve Beuerlein, a 6-3, 195-lb. quarterback; 6-5, 235-lb. defensive end Robert Banks; Steve Lawrence, a 6-0, 180-lb. cornerback; and 5-11, 170-lb. cornerback Troy Wilson.

Under the tutelage of first-year offensive coordinator and second-year quarterback coach Ron Hudson, Beuerlein, who hails from the same high school as last year's backup, Jim O'Hara, has been especially appreciative of the transition to collegiate level football.

"I'm getting coached more and am working more on technique," says the Fullerton, California native. "In high school I was always team-instructed, now I'm instructed as an individual. Coach Hudson really knows what he's talking about and has shown me new ways to do old things."

Beuerlein completed 150 of 226 passes (66 percent) for 2,244 yards and 21 touchdowns last year while being chosen as one of the top 100 freshmen for 1983 by Sporting News, Football News, and several other publications.

For most of the freshman, it's just a matter of learning to be ready if and when his services are needed.

Last year's Ohio prep player of the year and USA Today first-team tailback, Hiawatha Francisco, seems to be in the same position that Allen Pinkett was in as a freshman last year. Pinkett started on the third squad last year, but was soon the buzz of the campus when he filled in for the injured Greg Bell and Phil Carter.

Francisco, "H," as he is dubbed by teammates, has also been working with the third unit this fall and accepts it gracefully.

"I realize they're talented," says Francisco of the competition playing ahead of him. "I'm not expecting to walk in and take over."

Like the rest of his classmates, like Pinkett last year, "H" is simply waiting for the chance to compete. He and other members of Notre Dame's freshman class could probably start and even star at other institutions by their second year. But football is just part of the package at Notre Dame.

James Bobb, a safety from Texas, perhaps best summarized the attraction and lure of Notre Dame.

"I took it in perspective," says Bobb, a National Honor Society member. "I was looking for a school

Football report

Stock joins Faust's coaching staff

By LOUIE SOMOGYI
Sports Writer

While you've been away...

Tom Lichtenberg, receiver coach and recruiting coordinator for Notre Dame's 1983 football squad, resigned from his position on July 21 to become assistant athletic director at Iowa State.

Lichtenberg was an assistant coach at Iowa State from 1974-78 before becoming head coach at Morehead State in 1979. He then came to Notre Dame in 1981 as Gerry Faust's offensive coordinator - a position that was given to Ron Hudson this spring. Lichtenberg also coached the quarterbacks in 1981.

Replacing Lichtenberg as receiver coach and recruiting coordinator is 43-year old Mike Stock. Stock is no stranger to the Notre Dame scene since he had previously served as the Irish receiver coach from 1969-74 under Ara Parseghian. Among the receivers

Robert Banks (56), like 27 other freshmen, is still trying to get used to the college game. For more on the initiation process, see the story to the left.

There's more to ND athletics than meets the eye

Now that you, the class of '87, have embarked on what will be the greatest four years of your life, it is time to take your first quiz.

Are you a sports junkie? Does it matter to you who wins the NCAA championship? Do you watch the NFL doubleheaders every Sunday? Are you going to play quad football in the snow (yes, it does snow a little bit in South Bend)? Will you read the back page of The Observer before the front?

If you answered yes to all of the above, you're not alone.

It's probably safe to say that Notre Dame is one of the most sports-crazy colleges in the world. Nearly every male on campus played some sport in high school and so did a good number of the women. Even those few people who did not may join in.

As a result, Notre Dame is one of the few colleges that has an intramural full-contact football league. There is also intramural flag football, men's and women's basketball, hockey, soccer, softball, baseball, and many others. Not to mention Bookstore Basketball, the world's largest basketball tournament. Last year, 512 teams competed in the men's tournament and 60 in the women's.

But, while active participation in sports is important, talking sports, arguing sports, and watching sports are also popular. Listen to the upperclassmen as they greet each other. They rarely talk about this semester's courses. Instead, they talk about sports.

The number one topic is, of course, football. Even two mediocre (poor, by Notre Dame standards) seasons have not soured the students on personable Gerry Faust and his squad. If anything, the students, alumni, and subway alumni are hungrier and more excited than ever. High preseason rankings just add to the excitement.

You don't have to take my word for it, though. Wait until September 16 and 17 - the first home football weekend. It's something you will not soon forget.

If you've never seen a person dressed in green polka-

Mike Sullivan

Assistant Sports Editor

dotted pants and a blue and gold plaid shirt, if you've never heard a car horn play the Victory March, if you've never seen an old lady drunk before 11 a.m., then this fall is your chance.

Depending when the football season ends (January 2 would be nice), the talk turns to another much-publicized sport - basketball.

Time and time again the Notre Dame basketball team pulls off a major upset of the UCLA's and DePauls, carving its own niche in athletic history. Even in the last two seasons, when not even John Paxson could lead the team into the NCAA Tournament, Digger Phelps has found ways to score some thrilling wins.

But if you are a true sports junkie, you probably knew a lot about football and basketball before you got here. Notre Dame has become a household word thanks to these sports.

What you don't know, and what many of the upperclassmen don't seem to know, is that there is more to Notre Dame athletics than football and basketball. There are the so-called "minor sports."

Here's the final question of your first quiz.

Did you know that Notre Dame fields teams in volleyball, soccer, field hockey, tennis, women's basketball, golf, baseball, lacrosse, track, swimming, wrestling, and fencing? Or that Saint Mary's participates in basketball, volleyball, swimming, tennis, track, and softball?

You probably missed this one. After all, it's hard to imagine anyone talking about the field hockey opener instead of the football opener.

But, then, why should the students care about these sports?

Nobody became a subway alumni because the fencing team was the best in the country. Alumni don't donate thousands of dollars because the soccer team competes with the best in the country without the help of scholarships.

There are many other reasons students give for not supporting these sports, but, I'll tell you what. Why don't you ask the soccer player or volleyball player in your section what it means to the team to know the students appreciate its efforts to chalk up a win and some respect for the same school that the football and basketball teams represent?

Why don't you ask a former hockey player if he'd still be skating if the students had supported the team by going to the rink instead of protesting after the axe had been dropped on the program?

Why don't you ask a coach who can't field the best team possible (translate: scholarship players) because the athletic department does not want to sink a lot of money into a program that nobody seems to care about?

They will tell you why you should care about the minor sports.

Don't get me wrong. I'm not trying to tell you that you should be blowing off a paper to see a baseball doubleheader against Sam Smith State or a fencing match against Kokomo College. And I'm not going to pretend that any of these sports is anywhere near as important as football or basketball. They are minor sports.

Just keep in mind that, at a football game, each fan is one of 59,075. But, at a lacrosse or field hockey game, each student is one of 20 or 30 cheering the Irish.

The coaches will appreciate your face and your support, and your next-door neighbor, the soccer player, probably won't toss you in the lake on your birthday.

Anyway, welcome to the sports capital of the world.
