Hall Presidents Council discusses several alternatives to dry campus

By JANE KRAVCIK
News Staff

This week's Hall President's Council meeting could have had the theme, "Suds and fun," since the main topic of discussion was the recreational use of alcohol.

"It is pretty definite that there will be some restrictions on alcohol next year," said Council President Mike Carlin. "Right now the alcohol committee (Committee on the Responsible Use of Alcohol) is meeting with a lot of people," he continued. "There is nothing tangible yet, but every possibility is being considered. Restrictions will probably be made."

Not allowing freshmen to drink, not serving alcohol at parties after midnight, limiting the amount of beer in party rooms, and barring alcohol in private rooms were some of the suggestions brought up at the meeting Tuesday night to avoid a campus-wide alcohol ban.

Gary Strickland, St. Edward's president, suggested tighter control by resident assistants. "If a freshman is really loaded continuously, they should be sent to the rector," Strickland said.

Flanner president Paul Sheridan asked Carlin about the chances of the committee's recommendations being altered once they are submitted.

Carlin replied, "It's up to the Provost (Timothy O'Meara). It is a Provost-appointed committee, so it reports to the Provost. The committee will make a few recommendations, and indicate which recommendation the majority of the committee agrees with."

Carlin later said the committee expects to make its final recommendation by February. The decision will then be made and announced to the students before summer break and implemented next year, he continued.

Peggy Prevoznik, student body vice president, asked the council members to "encourage people to get in touch with student government about alcohol."

Karen Klocke, Mardi Gras chairman, told the council the event will be held from Feb. 28 to March 3. The event will feature a recreated Bourbon Street in Stepan Center and a 12-hour dance marathon. An organizational meeting for the event will be at 7 tonight in the Chautauqua Ballroom.

Hall thefts upset SMC students

By ANNE MONASTYRSKI

Three Lemans hall residents at Saint Mary's would probably say the holiday spirit is not bringing out the best in everyone. Money was stolen from their rooms on separate occasions recently.

Approximately two weeks before Thanksgiving break a resident reported $40 stolen from a third floor room. Four days later, another resident reported $23 taken from another room in the same hallway. Approximately five days ago $18 was reported stolen from a dresser drawer in the same room.

Robbery increase expected by police

By TOM SHAUGHNESSY

Robberies usually increase from the last week of November to Dec. 25, partly because "the robbers must need the money for Christmas," according to Cpl. Doug Way of the South Police Department.

Way warned that more armed robberies in the Five Points area are expected during this time of the year. Three Saint Mary's students said they were robbed of $56.25 at gunpoint last Wednesday night, and a Notre Dame junior reported being robbed of $10 on the previous Monday.

"In the Northeast precinct, we face a certain type of problem due to the influx of students, students drinking and walking alone," Way said, adding "the Five Points area can count on getting a few robberies."

"It is an annual problem, and our patrol personnel are aware that come Thanksgiving, there will be an increase in crime, and they adjust their patrol habits accordingly," Way commented.

There are two patrol cars assigned to the Five Points area. Their priority is "high visibility," said Way, to discourage potential muggers and to be in the vicinity in case of a crime.

Way said students should go immediately to the nearest pay phone and dial 911 if they witness a crime. "Many students wait until they get to the campus or to their destination," he said.

Way recommended the following preventive measures:

- Students, particularly women, should not travel in groups of less than four. Small groups "invite problems," Way said, "especially from robbers who prey on students." Wait for a larger group before walking back to campus from the Five Points area.

- Do not drink too much. "People who are drunk put up less resistance and cannot describe robbers to the police," Way said.

- Carry as little cash as possible, especially in the Five Points area.

- If you are being robbed, do not put up any physical resistance, Way emphasized. "People who commit strong-arm crimes either have a weapon or are capable of carrying out their threats."

- If you become a victim of a crime, remember as much as possible about the assailant's facial features. The better the description, the greater the chance of prosecution.

Snite to exhibit Rembrandt works

By BILL KRAIS
News Staff

A 70-piece collection of Rembrandt's etchings, including his masterpiece, "The Hundred Guilder Print," will be on exhibit at the Snite Museum of Art from Dec. 11 to Jan. 22.

The collection, a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Feddersen of Elkhart, Indiana, will remain as a promised gift of the museum.

Rembrandt, a seventeenth century Dutch artist, created nearly 300 etchings which primarily depict portraits, landscapes, and Biblical subjects. These etchings, each of which are in an excellent state of preservation, display "originality in technique and expression as well as Rembrandt's unique individuality," according to Steven Spiro, chief curator of the Snite.

Rembrandt's etchings were more popular than his paintings, Spiro continued, because the artist used a "democratic medium," depicting topics so the viewer could directly relate to the subjects. Also, these etchings, because of the technique used in their creation, could be reproduced several times. Such accessibility made it easier for artists of that period to attain instant fame, he added.

Spiro described the etching process as wax poured over a metal plate. The artist used an etching needle to create the design, then poured acid on the plate to bite the line into the metal. The plate with the design was then coated with ink and set through a press to create the final product.

An artist could alter any etching, Spiro said, by changing the amount of ink, type of paper, or even the etched design. Through these methods Rembrandt would alter etchings as many as 15 times in order to gain the desired result. These alterations gave each etching the distinction of being an original.

The exhibition will be preceded with a lecture on Rembrandt etchings, given tonight at 7:30 in the Annenberg Auditorium by Clifford Ackley, associate curator at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

United to defeat Reagan

In Brief

U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger on Tuesday asked the European allies to strengthen their defenses and denied that his drive for more sophisticated NATO weapons is a sales pitch for U.S.-made arms. Weinberger made the call at the opening of a two-day, 14-nation NATO defense ministers conference in Brussels, Belgium — a session that is stressing conventional defenses after years of NATO preoccupation with nuclear missiles. A senior U.S. defense official who spoke on the condition that he not be identified said Weinberger also warned the allies that a shortage of artillery ammunition in Western Europe is reaching dangerous levels. — AP

A Reagan Administration official said Tuesday he doesn't know whether the Soviets will resume talks aimed at limiting medium-range nuclear weapons in Europe. "There is no reason for them to stay away. They should return to the table. But will they come back? I don't know," said Ronald Lehman, head of the National Security Council's arms control group. Previously, administration officials, including President Reagan himself, had been more upbeat about the prospect of the Soviets returning to the Intermediate-range Nuclear Force talks. The Moscow delegation walked out Nov. 23. — AP

A key committee of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries said in Geneva, Switzerland, Tuesday that it would recommend the 13-member cartel leave its current price and production strategies unchanged when it met yesterday. Oil Minister Subroto of Indonesia told reporters that the OPEC market monitoring committee recommended that the conference should agree on maintaining the organization's benchmark price, which was slashed to $29 a barrel last March from $34. He also said the committee recommended leaving unchanged a combined production ceiling of 17.5 million barrels a day. — AP

Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado, a Democratic presidential candidate, called Tuesday for a special session of Congress "to reopen the question of military involvement in Lebanon." Meanwhile, Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., accused President Reagan of a technical violation of the War Powers Resolution, which authorizes U.S. troop involvement. He said the president failed to file a report on the status of the mission, as required under the act. — AP

Thomas Merton, the Trappist monk known for his books and articles on prayer, solitude and social action, is the feature of a conference Saturday at Saint Mary's Little Theatre. The conference, titled, "Thomas Merton 15 Years Later: The Difference He Makes," will bring together Merton scholars from around the nation including Victor A. Kramer English professor at Georgia State University; Lawrence S. Cunningham, religion professor at Florida State University; Paul Dinter, campus minister at Columbia University; and Sister Elena Malits, professor of religious studies at Saint Mary's. The conference will also feature the film, "The Last Day of Thomas Merton," filmed only hours before Merton died in Bangkok, Thailand, on Dec. 10, 1968. The film will be shown in the Chameleon Room of the Haggard College Center. Registration for the conference begins at 9:00 a.m. All students, faculty, and staff members at Saint Mary's and Notre Dame will be admitted free. — The Observer

Thomas Merton: synthesizer of the sacred and the secular

Saturday marks the 15th anniversary of Thomas Merton's death.

The prolific monk, who wrote about almost every conceivable subject, profoundly affected the Catholic Church of the 1950s and 1960s because he was able to synthesize the sacred and secular worlds.

During those years, the institutional Church was facing its greatest crisis: Should it follow its members and enter the modern world?

That crisis, however, is unknown to many of its students here because we have been indoctrinated in post-Vatican II theology — a theology which openly condemns the arms race and which questions the humanity of capitalism.

The Church, in the 18 years since Vatican II, has announced itself a conscience of the temporal order.

Merton, a convert, fell in love with the Church of our parents. He was not blinded by love, however.

He saw an institution which was attempting to live on its past glories of which we students catch a glimpse in the Latin Mass.

While he reveled in the art, music, and tradition of the Medieval and Renaissance Church, Merton knew its moment of decision had come.

He urged the Church to make its own "leap of faith" into the world of nuclear arms, racism, and poverty.

But what created this prophet? Why did Merton become a bridge-builder of the transitional Church?

Born in France of a New Zealander Episcopalian father and an American Quaker mother — neither of whom were devoutly religious — Merton came into the world amid the turmoil of World War I.

He left the world at the height of the Vietnam War, electrocuted by a frayed fan wire in Bangkok, Thailand.

The years in between saw one of the greatest life stories of the 20th century.

Having traveled throughout Europe and the eastern U.S. before he was 18, Merton entered Cambridge University in England.

After a disastrous academic year, during which he studied little and drank heavily, he sailed for New York where he entered Columbia University.

A voracious reader and diligent researcher, Merton easily completed a B.A. and M.A. in English.

His years at Columbia, however, gave him time to consider more than books — he became committed to social reform. More importantly, he became enraptured by the Church.

Baptized in the fall of 1938, Merton found himself yearning for the priesthood and ultimately the monastic life. And after much deliberation and three semesters as an English professor at Saint Bonaventure University, he entered the Trappist's Abbey of Gethsemani, near Bardonia, Ky., on Dec. 10, 1941.

What Merton found there was a community of men struggling to live out the Benedictine Rule while the world around them was caught up in World War II.

Yet Merton did not escape the horror of war. The loss of his brother ended any ties to an immediate family. It was then he adopted his new family, the Church.

And as a good brother, Merton was quick to offer encouragement to his fellow Christians, yet firm in his displeasure when one of his siblings failed.

Never a holier-than-thou writer, Merton, much like Saint Augustine, began his public writing career with a confession, The Seven Storey Mountain in 1948.

While remaining furiously active in the day-to-day life of the monastery, serving as master of scholastics and then as master of the choir novices, Merton wrote books and articles about contemplation, prayer, Eastern religions, liturgy and poetry.

The 1960s, much as they affected the lives of those in the city, also spurred Merton, who had become a hermit, to deliver his most decisive indictment of modern culture.

He decried nuclear weapons, the Vietnam War and racism as symptoms of a sick society which "developed too fast and too far for the psychic capacities of its members."

But Merton never lost hope in the world. For the Church, Merton believed though a community of sinners, was ultimately guided by a God who could unify the monastery and the city.

And perhaps it is time we, too, take heart.

United Way collects $1,086 at SMC

By SARAH WRIGHT
 News Staff

The United Way campaign has $1,086 more than they used to, thanks to the students, faculty and staff of Saint Mary's College, reported Mary Hughes at this week's Saint Mary's Board of Governance meeting.

"I'd like to thank all the halls and classes. And I'd especially like to thank the Senior class. They donated $600," said Hughes. United Way's deadline has been extended to Dec. 13, and Hughes said they hope to raise the total to $1,800 or $2,000 depending on donations from the Saint Mary's Christmas Bazaar.

Also discussed at the meeting was the Last Class Celebration, to be held on Dec. 14 in the Chameleon Room of Haggard College Center from 1 to 3 p.m. Punch and cookies will be served.

And the next Five-Hall dance is scheduled for Jan. 21, the first Saturday back from Christmas break. The dance will be from 10 p.m. until 2 a.m. at the Haggard College Center. There will be a disc jockey and a snack bar, and possibly the music will be amplified throughout the center. Dress will be casual.

The board concluded the business of the meeting by evaluating the Women's Opportunity Week.

Board members expressed their opinions of how the event turned out, the strong and weak points, and how to improve the program for next year.

is the final step before expulsion from the College.

The thefts in LeMans are not isolated incidents, but Hayes said there is "no rash of thefts." The red chair in the great hall of LeMans was "borrowed, probably for last Friday's dance," she added. The chair disappeared from the hall in front of Stapleton Lounge early last week, and was returned Monday morning.

A check and jewelry were discovered missing from a McCandless Hall resident's room when she returned from Thanksgiving break. The incident was reported to Michelle Valley, resident life director for McCandless.

In almost all cases when thefts occur, the doors to the students' rooms have been left unlocked, according to Hayes. "We've (residence life directors) been telling RAs to tell students to lock their doors," she said, adding that occurrences of theft "go up around the holidays, particularly money."

Bishop opens Church of Loretto for student and alumnae weddings

By ANNE MONASTYRSKI
Saint Mary's Editor

Wedding bells may be ringing for students and alumnae at Saint Mary's Church of Loretto by next autumn.

Bishop William McManus gave permission for students and alumnae to be married in the church, which until now was not possible because of Church law.

Several people from Saint Mary's had asked about having marriages performed at the Church of Loretto, according to Father Terry Place of the South Bend-Fort Wayne diocese. But because the church is not a parish, unlike Sacred Heart at Notre Dame, the diocese would not give permission.

The diocese "began exploring the possibility last fall," as a result of the inquiries, said Place.

It was during a visit to the College's campus in October that McManus announced weddings could be performed at the church beginning Dec. 1.

But Saint Mary's Campus Ministry office contacted the Bishop's office soon after the announcement to say the Dec. 1 date would not allow sufficient time to structure a pre-marital program at the church, said Place. The Dec. 1 beginning date "surprised everyone" because nothing was definite, said Father Tom Mayefsky of Campus Ministry.

As a result, the implementation date was delayed and will not be reset until a program for ceremonies is developed. The program should be ready by the fall semester of 1984, said Mayefsky.

The program, which is being developed by Campus Ministry, is composed of three areas. First, Church law requires a liturgical program to be set up. Loretto did not have one because of its standing as a campus chapel belonging to the sisters of the Holy Cross and not to the College. The second involves procedures, rules and regulations surrounding marriage ceremonies which must be planned. Finally, a pre-nuptial preparation program with the couples is being organized. Loretto also will be affiliated with a local parish which, for record keeping purposes, has yet to be chosen. Only students and alumnae would be given permission to marry in the Church of Loretto, Place said. It would not be open to South Bend area residents or others wishing to be married at Loretto, he added.

Soviets buy grain in deal with U.S.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union has bought an additional 300,000 metric tons of U.S. corn — about 11.8 million bushels — for delivery in 1983-84 under a new long-term agreement that took effect on Oct. 1, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

It was the second sale announced since the Soviets returned to the U.S. grain market last week after a two-month absence.

The sales were reported to the department by private exporters, as required by law. No prices or other terms were disclosed.

However, the department says the current estimated farm price of corn is $3.19 per bushel.

Officials fear stolen British gold to slip into eager world market

Associated Press

LONDON — With 6,800 little gold bars in hand, the thieves who pulled off Britain's biggest robbery could have eager buyers all over the world.

That's the opinion of police, security companies and the insurers who are paying out $36.1 million to the still unidentified owners of the three tons of gold.

Police announced the first arrest in the case Tuesday. Anthony John Black, 31, a security guard at the Brinks-Met warehouse, was charged with conspiracy in the Nov. 26 robbery. He was ordered held for three days of questioning.

But there was no word on other members of the gang, believed to number six men, or the whereabouts of the gold, which, if stacked, takes up the space of a twin bed.

Some officials fear the gold was quickly slipped into clandestine markets abroad.

Since the Bronze Age, the lustrous, heavy metal has been molded into shapes that have survived in their original form for centuries, such as King Tut's coffin with its unique signature of ancient Egypt.

But gold can also be anonymous and untraceable, and at almost $400 a troy ounce, very desirable.

Thieves can melt modern bullion bars to remove identifying serial numbers and assayers' stamps, and then slip them into any number of illicit markets to be transformed into jewelry, bought for hoarding or used to pay for other illicit goods such as arms or drugs.

"Gold is a commodity which is very easily disposed of in the world, particularly if it is melted down and you change its description," John Wheeler, a Conservative member of Parliament, said in an interview.

"You've only got to think of its value in the Middle East, the Far East, Taiwan, or any other place," said Wheeler, who specializes in police matters and is chairman of the British Security Industry Association.

David Powis, a deputy assistant police commissioner, said there are numerous "no questions asked" markets for gold around the world. But he refused to give any further information for fear of tipping the direction of the police investigation.

Asked at a news conference whether it would be hard to dispose of the gold, Powis said, "It would not be difficult knowing the amount of gold smuggled on the international scene."

A source with one of the insurers, who insisted on anonymity, said, "It will be difficult to get rid of gold in that quantity, but the most likely market is the backstreet jewelry market around the world."

It would have to be melted down and would take some time to disperse, the source said, indicating that the insurers "believe the thieves still have it."

Will students protest Billy Joel visit?

It's time for another campus protest. This year has seen protests on Cap'n Crunch, Christie Hefner's visit, Grenada and European missiles. Non-activists have charged that such meetings are "full of sound and fury, signifying nothing." Undaunted by the allegations, a few less enlightened activists have gone ahead with plans to form a "Save the Fieldhouse" campaign.

Keith Picher

But the latest protest involves Billy Joel's Feb. 2 visit to the Athletic and Convocation Center. Evidently, a group of students who call themselves W.B.D.I.T.G.T.G.A.W.T. (We'll be damned if they're going to get away with this) has met secretly at the headquarters of the local Reactionary Society. A friend placed an electronic bug in the office, hence the following conversation:

"What kinda muck we got on this Billy Joel character? Any Satanic lyrics? He ever beat up his mother?" the coordinator asked.

The assistant spoke up. "Well, when we played one of his songs backwards, we kept hearing the phrase 'evol, evol,' but none of us were sure what it meant. It did sound a bit Satanic, though."

"We'll have someone look into it. What about when you played his records forwards?"

"Heck, I never thought of that."

The coordinator paused a moment, looking for his notebook.

"I got some info on this Joel guy in the latest issue of Scum About Singers. They say he's an ardent anti-Catholic, and God knows we'd rather die than have a non-Catholic offer views at this great bastion we call Notre Dame, right?"

A chorus of voices chimed in, "Right" and proceeded to sing a few verses of "Onward Christian Soldiers" before returning to the matter at hand.

The coordinator began to read verses from Joel's "Only the Good Die Young" and "Sometimes a Fantasy" to strengthen his position.

"One of Joel's hits begins: Come out Virginia. Don't let me wait./You Catholic girls start much too late. What do you suppose he's talking about?"

A hesitant voice spoke up. "Either he means we don't baptize our children as soon as we should or, God forbid, perhaps he's thinking of that 's'-word."

"Oh, you mean sex?" an ingenue piped in.

"Shhhhhh! You're not supposed to say that word."

Thoroughly upset, they turned to another of his songs. "What do you think of these lyrics?" the coordinator continued. "I didn't want to do it but I got too lonely/I had to call you up in the middle of the night/I know it's awful hard to try to make love long distance/But I really needed stimulation/Though it was only my imagination."

"Whatever happened to the good old days at Notre Dame? You mean they're actually going to permit someone to come here and sing about autosexuality?"

"Shhhhhh! You're not supposed to say that word. I say we hold a rally? Anyone who cares about this University will attend. Where and when should we hold it?"

After a short discussion, they agreed on a time — Thursday evening, Feb. 2. The University suggested that the best place for such a gathering was in the coal field behind the Credit Union.

Perhaps you won't be able to attend the rally. You may even wonder, like me, why a more organized effort hasn't been arranged by those who complained when Hans Kung and Christie Hefner spoke on campus.

Snowball fight

Dear Editor:

This letter is to those students who sent iceballs and jagged glass flying through a Christmas display and 40 feet into the second-floor hallway of Alumni Hall on the night of Dec. 6, during the campus snow-fight. No less than six panes were smashed in the wake of your vandalism, and that's just in the observation window near my room. Whoever you are, this was thoughtless, cowardly, and totally inexcusable.

Luckily, no one near the window was seriously injured, although at least two friends suffered minor facial cuts from the flying glass slivers, not to mention all the cut feet from walking on the glass-strewn carpet.

Maybe it didn't occur to you that someone could have gotten seriously hurt, possibly sustaining an eye injury. Maybe you didn't think about the repair cost (more than $150) which eventually comes out of your wallets. Maybe you're just plain stupid. I don't know.

Were you also the ones who threw iceballs at the new stained-glass windows in Alumni's chapel, donated by the men of the hall? Fortunately, we were spared a tragedy there. Dillon wasn't so lucky, as three of their chapel windows were broken.

Perhaps you were the ones who fired bottle rockets and threw firecrackers into the crowd that night. This was probably the most mindless thing you did, just ask a former Keenan resident who was partially blinded by such a prank three years ago.

The annual North-South snowball battle is a great tradition and lots of fun, but it in no way gives you a license to vandalize the campus and endanger the lives of fellow students. Think about that the next time you slush-heads are about to throw.

Unfair abuse

Dear Editor:

After the latest of numerous letters to the editor, I decided that I was a little tired of being attacked without reason. Or perhaps "raped" would be a more fitting word. During the past few months there have been numerous articles and letters criticizing me and Student Government, which I sincerely would not mind if they were based on fact.

On quite a few occasions I have been abused for things I did not say, quotes taken out of context, or simply due to uninformed sources. The Observer should strive to have its reporters quote speakers correctly and within the proper context — they owe that to their credibility as the campus daily, as well as to the student body. Approaching speakers after meetings for some direct quotes usually works out the best for all concerned.

As far as readers criticizing an individual or organization publicly in the paper, they should do so only after they know as many of the facts as possible. If anyone has any complaints or comments for Student Government, our number is in the phone book. At least give us the benefit of the doubt and hear more of the details before deciding to vent your wrath elsewhere.

If the student who wrote the article condemning preferential tickets for the Billy Joel concert had gotten his facts straight before writing his letter, chances are he wouldn't have seen the need to write a letter at all. If he did, he would have found that his criticisms should have been directed elsewhere, and not at Student Government officials.

I ran for this position to work for the Student Body and their concerns and needs, and I think we've made some progress so far this year. So if you have a gripe with something we're doing, use the phone and give us a call first, before taking out the poison pen. A reputation is a terrible thing to unnecessarily ruin.

ACC ice rink

Dear Editor:

Early this fall the ACC ice rink once again opened its doors to allow students the privilege of gliding over its glistening surface for a total of three whole hours every week! Naturally, the use of this cooled facility was denied to those attending the summer session (one of the hottest in memory) because, after all, the hockey school comes first.

The fact that the ice was probably unoccupied during lunch-hour every day and available for use was, no doubt, a well-kept secret. After all, the potential beneficiaries were just the students.

Current counterclockwise (and clockwise — thanks to the personable young gentleman who takes it upon himself at the end of that first precious half-hour to reverse the traffic flow) skaters are having an increasingly hazardous time maneuvering their way through the growing number of participants.

That "glistening surface" referred to above has, however, usually lost its luster by noon on Monday, Wednesday and Friday — having been well skated upon during the previous hour. But, not to worry. The next users are, after all, just the students.

Joseph Fogarty

Editor's note: The headline of Guillermo O'Donnell's Dec. 5 letter to the editor (Kellogg response) may have mistakenly implied that his opinion represented that of the Institute. The letter and the original article (Kellogg members condemn Grenada action, Nov. 15) are personal statements of the individuals involved, not official statements of the Kellogg Institute.

We lied. For the NVA's "Wake 'em Up Week", there is an Early Bird Jog, part of the Century Club for fitness. Yesterday, we reported that the Early Bird Jog was for today. Well, we lied. It is tomorrow, no kidding. For all those who don't remember from yesterday, the Early Bird Jog is a 25-minute fun run with door prizes included. The jog begins at 7:30 a.m. and all joggers should report to Gate 4 of the ACC. If you are planning to come, call the NVA at 239-6100 in advance. — The Observer

Stormin' Gorman Thomas was traded by the Cleveland Indians with infielder Jack Perconte to the Seattle Mariners for second baseman Tony Bernazard. Thomas played the first 46 games of the season with Milwaukee before being traded to the Indians for center fielder Rick Manning. He hit .183 with five homers before going to the Indians, with whom he hit .221 with 17 homers and 51 RBI. He finished the season with 69 RBI. Bernazard, likewise, was traded during the 1983 season, from the Chicago White Sox to the Mariners for Julio Cruz, who became a free agent after the season. Bernazard, a slick-fielding second baseman, hit .262 with the White Sox and .267 with the Mariners. He wound up with 23 stolen bases on the season and 56 RBI. The Indians had been dangling Thomas in a possible trade since he demanded to be traded. — The Observer

In interhall basketball action, scores of 'B' league games were: Off-Campus 41, Dillon 40; Alumni 10, Pangborn 6; Morrissey 44, Keenan 42; Cavanaugh 44, Off-Campus 34; Sorin 65, Holy Cross 43; and Grace 35, Howard 28. — The Observer

The Notre Dame-Michigan women's basketball game tomorrow will be shown on television on a delayed broadcast. The game, which begins at 7:30 p.m., will be aired on WSJV-TV (Ch. 28) on Sunday from 4:30 to 6 p.m. The telecast is sponsored by First Source Bank. — The Observer

the game."

With Northwestern holding a 56-44 lead, Notre Dame began a come-back bid that proved to be too little, too late. Schueth, who led the Irish with 17 points and 12 rebounds, teamed with Laura Dougherty (14 points off the bench), to bring Notre Dame to within two points, 76-74, with 39 seconds left. However, Smith's basket ended the rally.

The loss drops Notre Dame's record to 3-3 and also represents the narrowest margin of defeat for the Irish in three years. They will try to rebound tomorrow night when Michigan visits the ACC at 7:30.

motion and ended up taking a long jumper with two seconds left that fell short.

Goode got a layup off an Aaron pass to open the overtime period. Dolan countered with the last of his 12 points by hitting a jumper, then dishing off to Sluby for a reverse layup.

Wildcat freshman guard Elliot Fulen, hit a 20-foot jumper from the corner to knot the score at 34 with 2:21 to go in overtime. Aaron and Northwestern center Paul Schultz then connected on two free throws each and the 'Cats led 38-34 with just 40 seconds left.

Sluby's dunk with 11 seconds left off a Dolan miss was not enough as the Irish dropped to 3-3 and the Wildcats their record to 4-1.

"To be able to come back and beat Notre Dame is great for us," said Northwestern Coach Rich Falk. "But I started this game at age 41 and ended it at 49."

The Irish played well defensively, holding Northwestern's big guns, Goode and Aaron, to seven and 16 points, respectively.

"Defensively, we did an excellent job on containing Aaron and Goode although the stats don't show that," Phelps said. "I thought Northwestern did the things they do well at the end to win, though. We are just not a very good offensive basketball team right now."

It would not be hard to agree with Phelps after last night's performance. But the Irish will have some time to work on that problem, though, as their next true test won't come until they travel to La Salle on Jan. 4.

applied at some other schools in Canada but none offered hockey scholarships. I applied just for the school."

When Lukenda's mind was fairly set on Notre Dame he learned of the demise of hockey's varsity status. "I didn't find out until January. At first I didn't know what 'club' meant. I was kind of disappointed. It was a let down," he said.

Although attendance at hockey games is not great, the freshman has no complaints. "I'm impressed with the fan support. The numbers aren't that bad. The ones that are there are hockey fans. They helped a lot in the comeback against St. Thomas."

Along with his hope to gain more experience at the college level, Lukenda would like to see Notre Dame return to varsity hockey. "I feel lucky. If this had been a varsity team I might not have had as good a chance," he said. "I'm looking forward to returning to varsity, but I wouldn't transfer if we didn't. I love hockey but I've got to keep schooling first."

Search for commissioner

Baseball winter meetings heated

Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III emerged yesterday as the leading candidate to replace Bowie Kuhn as baseball commissioner.

Reports of Baker's strong candidacy was the hottest topic of conversation at baseball's annual winter meeting even as New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner appeared poised to fire Manager Billy Martin and replace him with Yogi Berra.

In player trades, the San Diego Padres acquired three young prospects in a three-way swap with the Chicago Cubs and the Montreal Expos. And the Cincinnati Reds signed free agent Dave Parker.

News that Baker might switch jobs was ridiculed by a White House spokesman and President Reagan said he was surprised by the reports.

The possibility of the chief of staff succeeding Kuhn first came to light Tuesday when it was learned that the group delegated to find a successor to Kuhn was looking for a man in the nation's capital.

Yesterday, a source with contacts both in baseball and in Washington, said Baker had emerged as the top candidate for the job.

"Apparently, he was the fifth or sixth choice (of the search committee)," said the source, who asked not to be identified. "And it looks like that's how far down they have gone."

"They (the search committee) haven't been very popular," the source said.

After several candidates higher on the committee's list had declined the job, the source said, the committee began to look for the Washington connection.

"Their main concern there was the exemption from antitrust (laws)," the source said. "Also, there was the fear of a strike in 1985."

The source said outgoing American League President Lee MacPhail was "everyone's first choice." But, not only did MacPhail ask out, some owners also began to feel he was more important in his other role of baseball's labor chief.

As acting head of the owners' Player Relations Committee, MacPhail would direct management's end of labor negotiations next year. Management's concern over player relations was further exacerbated when union head Ken Moffett, perceived as a moderate, was fired and replaced by Marvin Miller, the former union boss who is considered a tougher negotiator.

Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., and former Treasury Secretary William Simon, now head of the U.S. Olympic Committee, both declined the job, the source said.

Two Irish wrestlers, Louis Carneseale and Matt Stamm, gave their best performances in their Notre Dame careers at the tri-meet.

"Louis wrestled the best I have seen him wrestle in three years," praised Bruno. "The same is true of Matt. That was his best performance in two years. Both wrestled really well technically."

The Irish will travel to Kankakee, Ill., this weekend to compete in the Olivet Nazarene Invitational. They will carry a perfect 6-0 record into the tournament, but not a full team. Once again, Bruno plans to leave many of his first team wrestlers home to rest their injuries. The Irish may not enter a wrestler in the 190-pound, 150-pound, and heavyweight divisions. That decision will be made immediately before leaving for the tourney Friday afternoon.

"Right now we are trying to emphasize the team-to-team competitions instead of tournaments," said Bruno. "Many of our guys cannot handle wrestling six matches in a tournament because of their injuries. Six matches is too physically demanding if there is an injury."

On own terms

Larry Holmes to continue fighting

Associated Press

PHILLIPSBURG, N.J. (AP) — Larry Holmes said yesterday he will continue to fight — but only on his terms.

"I'm not going to quit and I'm not going to be forced to quit by any organization or by any promoter," said the 34-year-old unbeaten World Boxing Council champion.

"I will not honor my contract for Greg Page unless they increase the purse," Holmes said at a news conference at his hotel here. The agreement with promoter Don King calls for a $2.55 million purse for a Page fight.

Holmes has a contract with King to make a mandatory defense against Page, the WBC's No. 1-ranked contender, in February or March. If he doesn't, he certainly will be stripped of title recognition by the WBC.

But while challenging the WBC and King, Holmes also said he would go to Las Vegas today and confer with Jose Sulaiman, WBC president, and King at the WBC convention at Caesars Palace.

Holmes, who last week said he might announce his retirement at yesterday's news conference, is angry about WBC pressure to meet the Page commitment, noting that he has until March to fulfill the contract.

The champion, 45-0 with 32 knockouts, said early in the news conference that Murad Muhammad would be his exclusive promoter. But later he said Muhammad would serve as his agent. "If you deal with me, you have to deal with Murad," said Holmes.

He also said, "I'm promoting my own fights. I'm Don King with a haircut."

The fight Holmes seems to want most is one with South African Gerrie Coetzee, the World Boxing Association champion. But yesterday he said that because of press criticism he would now fight Coetzee only in the United States.

Holmes also talked about possible fights with John Tate, the former WBA champion, and unbeaten Pinklon Thomas.

He mentioned a $4 million purse for a fight against Tate and $100 million for a Coetzee fight. Many boxing people consider both figures to be much too high.

Holmes was introduced at the news conference as "the heavyweight champion of the world and also a businessman." The champion then made it clear boxing was, for him, strictly business from now on.

"I feel I should fight one year for Larry Holmes," he said. "I remember fighting nine times one year (1975, three years before he won the title) for a total of $18,000. I really paid my dues."

Holmes has earned an estimated $25 million in the ring and has made 17 defenses of the WBC championship.

Cincinnati Reds sign slugger Dave Parker

Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds signed free agent outfielder Dave Parker, a two-time National League batting champion, yesterday.

Parker, the National League's most valuable player in 1978 when he batted .334 for Pittsburgh, is the second veteran slugger the Reds have acquired at baseball's winter meetings. Cincinnati obtained 41-year-old Tony Perez from Philadelphia on Monday.

Parker won his first batting title in 1977 when he hit .338 with 21 homers and 88 runs batted in. A year later, he enjoyed his finest major league season, drilling 30 homers and driving in 117 runs to go with his second hitting title.

He signed a five-year contract, averaging $925,000 a year and then batted .310 the next season as the Pirates won the world championship. It marked fifth straight .300 year.

Injuries then cut into his productivity for the next three years. He returned as a fulltime player last season when he batted .279 with 12 home runs and 69 RBI for the Pirates.

Parker, 32, has often been the subject of controversy in Pittsburgh and the signing with Cincinnati returns him to his hometown.

Parker will receive an estimated $800,000 for each of the reported two years in his contract with the Reds.

Poor execution, missed free throws leave Irish short in overtime loss

By JEFF BLUMB
Assistant Sports Editor

EVANSTON, ILL. — Plagued by turnovers and poor foul shooting in the clutch, the Notre Dame basketball team fell to Northwestern, 40-36, here last night in an overtime thriller. The Irish had 22 turnovers in the game and again could not make the foul shots when they needed them.

"We can't have 22 turnovers, at home or away, and expect to beat people," said an upset Irish Coach Digger Phelps afterwards. "It's the turnovers and foul shots in key situations that are killing us."

Throughout the game, it appeared that Notre Dame was attempting to play a slowdown game with the Wildcats. According to Phelps, however, the Irish were not looking for this style of play.

"Believe it or not, we were not playing a slowdown game," commented Phelps. "We were holding it to penetrate or get the ball to the foul line. I said earlier in the year that our outside shooting was suspect. Tonight that was the case."

Outside and inside shooting were suspect for both teams last night. The result was a 16-16 deadlock at halftime.

Neither team could manage a single point for the first 4:01 of the game. Finally, Irish captain Tom Sluby connected on a long jumper. Sluby, who played 40 of 45 minutes, would end up with a team-leading 14 points on 7 of 11 shooting.

Northwestern crawled out to a 6-2 lead, before the Irish ran off six straight points on two jumpers by Sluby and one by Jim Dolan. That brought the score to 10-6 with only nine minutes to play in the first half.

Six points by Art Aaron of the Wildcats highlighted an eight-point rally by Northwestern which Notre Dame was unable to answer.

At that point, the Irish put in a quicker lineup, substituting freshmen Scott Hicks, John Bowen, and Donald Royal for Sluby, Dolan, and an offensively-ineffective Joseph Price.

Royal got two power layups, sandwiching a Ken Barlow jumper, and the Irish had brought the game

Halftime saw the circus-type atmosphere of the newly-remodeled McGaw Hall get into full swing. There was a $100 giveaway, shooting contest, throwing out of 200 miniature basketballs and, believe it or not, a contest to see which of three teams could make the highest structure out of full cans of beer in three minutes.

The record-breaking crowd of 8,117 Northwestern partisans saw the Irish jump out 20-16 in the second half before Andree Good's three-point play narrowed the gap to 20-19.

Dan Duff's beautiful driving layup stretched the Irish lead to 22-19. Duff, who played the entire 45 minutes because of a knee injury to fellow Irish point guard Jo Jo Buchanan Monday night, was whistled for three five-second calls in the game.

After Dolan had hit on two free throws, Duff set up Dolan inside for another two on a nicely-executed play, and the Irish led 26-21.

Aaron again rallied Northwestern, this time hitting two jumpers and getting a follow-up layup to lead another eight-point Wildcat surge.

Trailing 30-28 with less than a minute to play and the Northwestern crowd on its feet, Sluby slid in for a layup after a cross-court pass from Dolan.

Northwestern played for the final shot, but their freshman guard Shawn Watts could not get a play in see MEN, page 8

But that is not the full story of the first half. The Irish could manage only 44 percent shooting in an offense where they were playing for very good shots. Northwestern could do no better, hitting only 40 percent of their shots, many of which were high percentage shots. Freshman guard Chris Berg of the Wildcats, in fact, missed three simple layups and saw little action thereafter.

Irish wrestlers throw Valparaiso, Elmhurst

By JOE BRUNETTI
Sports Writer

Twenty-six seconds, less than half a minute; that's not a lot of time to accomplish something. Yet, that was all it took for Glenn Glogas to complete his job.

Glogas, a sophomore redshirt, took only 26 seconds to pin his opponent in Notre Dame's 54-0 trouncing of Valparaiso Tuesday. The pin by Glogas was one of four for the Irish as Mark Fischer, John Carnesale, and John Krug also pinned their Valparaiso opponents.

"I didn't expect this," said Wrestling Coach Brother Joseph Bruno, C.T.S.C. "I knew we could wrestle them well when all our guys are rested, but I didn't think we would wrestle this strong since we aren't totally rested. Things just went well."

Notre Dame's other opponent in the triangular meet was Elmhurst of Illinois, who proved to be no competition as the Irish prevailed with a shutout, 43-0.

The one surprise for Notre Dame in the meet against Elmhurst was Irish football standout Mike Golic. Golic, a junior heavyweight, competing in his first match of the season, beat his Elmhurst opponent 13-6. Golic's opponent was a two-time conference champion and entered the meet undefeated.

"The meet was a good experience for Mike," said Bruno. "He now knows what he's going to have to do to get into shape for the wrestling season."

Krug, a sophomore from Dayton, Ohio, also had an impressive match against Elmhurst. Wrestling in the 167-lb. division, Krug beat his opponent, a one-time conference champion, 7-4.

"Elmhurst has a fairly strong program. They are one of the better small schools in the area," said Bruno. "They were surprised; I think they expected to do a lot better. And I didn't expect an outcome like

Freshman goalie

Lukenda saving Irish win streak

By JOHN MENNELL
Sports Writer

He has collected 53 saves, is averaging 1.88 goals against and has a 6-0 record for the Irish hockey team. He is freshman goalie Tim Lukenda.

Lukenda, from Sault Sainte Marie, Canada, has been on skates since he was four and started playing goalie at 11. "They needed someone to play goalie. They asked me to try it and I just stuck with it."

He saw his first college action in goal against Northwestern on Nov. 6. That night only one goal got by him. "It was exciting but it wasn't my hardest game this season," he said.

In his next game, Lukenda blanked Illinois for Notre Dame's only shutout thus far.

Coach Lefty Smith called on Lukenda in a tight situation against St. Thomas, when the Irish were behind 5-3 going into the third period. Lukenda stopped the Tommies as the Irish went on to win by two. "It wasn't due to me; the team just dominated the third period," he said.

Probably Lukenda's best play of the season was at Michigan-Dearborn where he led the Irish to a pair of victories. "That's where I saw the most action. Those games were the most rewarding," he said.

Lukenda attributes some of his success to his teammates. "I can really trust the team. The defensemen help me out a lot. We communicate pretty well. It's important that you gain trust in the team."

Jim Dolan scored 12 points and pulled down nine rebounds, but poor execution and clutch free-throw shooting helped Northwestern defeat the Irish in overtime. See Mike Sullivan's story at left for more on last night's game.

Women's basketball

Wildcats tame upset-minded Irish

By MIKE SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

EVANSTON, ILL. — The Notre Dame women's basketball team traveled to Northwestern's Welsh-Ryan Arena last night flying high from a big win over UCLA last weekend. However, the Wildcats quickly brought the Irish back to earth by riding the performance of 6-1 forward Anucha Browne to an exciting 78-74 victory.

From the opening tip, the game developed into a shootout with momentum changing hands a number of times before Northwestern's Anne Smith hit an eight-foot turnaround jumper with 17 seconds left to clinch the victory. The fact that it was an offensive struggle rather than Notre Dame's usual tight defensive battle made it easy for Irish head coach Mary DiStanislao to explain the defeat.

"Our whole game is geared to defense," she said, "and if we give up 80 points and allow Anucha Browne to score 40 points or whatever, we are not going to win."

The incredible play of Browne, who actually scored 35 points to set a Northwestern single-game scoring record, was the difference. She scored from everywhere on the court and the Irish could not seem to find anyone or any defense that could stop her. She also added 10 rebounds to go with her record-setting point production.

"Anucha Browne is one of the best basketball players in the country," said DiStanislao, whose Northwestern homecoming was marred by the loss. "She's a well-kept secret because she plays in the Midwest and in the Big Ten."

Despite the performance of Browne, however, Notre Dame did have its opportunities. The Irish led by as much as seven points in the first half as the Wildcats found themselves in foul trouble. Some missed foul shots, especially on the front end of bonus situations, kept the hosts in the game early. Then, late in the game, trailing by four, Notre Dame blew three opportunities to get within a basket.

"In order to win, our team needs to play 40 consistent minutes and it didn't do that," said DiStanislao. "The UCLA game was 40 good minutes and we won. Tonight we let them back into the game when we let up in the first half. We really had to claw to get back into it. But then, near the end, we did some very non-aggressive things that let them win."

Unlike in previous losses the Irish controlled the early part of the game and, at times, made it appear that they would rout Northwestern. Despite their own poor shooting and NU's good shooting, they were able to control the offensive and defensive boards and break the Wildcat press easily. When Mary Beth Schueth hit a four-foot jumper with 10:49 left in the half, Notre Dame held a 19-12 lead.

Then Browne went to work, scoring 12 points in the next six minutes to put the Wildcats back into the game. The Northwestern press also began to work and, by halftime, the Wildcats led, 37-36.

After the intermission, Northwestern exploded. The Wildcats outscored the Irish, 19-7, in the first six minutes of the half, forcing Notre Dame to play catch-up for the rest of the game.

"They came out of the locker-room and we didn't," explained DiStanislao. "I don't know what it's going to take but our players are going to have to learn that they can't let another team take total control of
