Man apprehended by ND Security

By MARY HEILMANN
Assistant news editor

A man allegedly armed with a shotgun was apprehended by Notre Dame Security outside Morrissey and Lyons Halls at approximately 9:45 Monday night, according to several Morrissey residents.

The residents said the suspect had an accomplice who had not been apprehended. He was last seen running in the direction of Morrissey Hall, they reported.

Director of Notre Dame Security Rex Rakow said a report on the alleged incident had not yet been filed. He would not release any further information.

Reports that a shotgun was taken from the suspect's car could not be confirmed Monday night.

According to a Morrissey resident, who saw the suspect taken into custody, the man was apprehended in the parking lot between Morrissey and Lyons Halls. "I saw at least three security guards around a man by a blue camaro," the student reported.

"Police were searching his car and taking out various items, one of which looked like a shoebox. By the time I was leaving the scene they had handcuffs on him and were putting him in the police car," he added.

Morrissey resident assistants, looking for the suspect's accomplice, conducted a search in the hall, according to one RA. The accomplice was not found Monday night, however, and it was assumed he had left the dormitory, the resident assistant added.

Reagan warns against false hopes for summit

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan sought Monday to dispel what he termed "inaccurate speculation and false hopes" that his summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev will lead to new superpower agreements.

Reagan also said he would confront Gorbachev in Iceland this weekend on the Soviet Union's continued military operations in Afghanistan and "unceasing" human rights violations.

Meanwhile, House Democrats, saying they don't want to hamper Reagan's arms bargaining power at the summit this weekend, said they were willing to compromise on arms control restrictions added to a Pentagon budget bill.

"I believe we will be able to find a way to compromise," said House Majority leader Jim Wright, D-Texas. "We do not want to make his task more difficult, we want to make it easier."

He said Democrats are talking with Senate Republicans in an ef-

French hostages plead for release in videotape

Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Three French hostages said in a videotaped appeal for help Monday that they believe their government has abandoned them to a slow death and they cannot survive captivity much longer.

Islamic Jihad, the fundamentalist Shiite Moslem group that holds the Frenchmen and at least three Americans, said it would free them if Kuwait releases 17 prisoners convicted of bombing the U.S. and French embassies there in 1983.

The Islamic Jihad statement did not mention the American captives, but the group made the same demand in the past in exchange for their freedom.

Copies of the 20-minute videotape and the typewritten statement in Arabic from Islamic Jihad, whose name means Islamic Holy War, were delivered to offices of Western news agencies in Moslem west Beirut.

Hostage Jean-Paul Kaufmann, a journalist, appealed for diplomacy by Premier Jacques Chirac's government similar to tactics the U.S. government used to gain the release of American journalist Nicholas Daniloff from the Soviet Union. All three Frenchmen were kidnapped early last year.

In a similar videotape from Islamic Jihad last Friday, two American hostages asked the Reagan administration to work as hard for their freedom as it did for Daniloff's.

That appeal was made by Terry Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, and David Jacobsen, director of the American University Hospital in west Beirut. Anderson, 38, was kidnapped March 16, 1985, and Jacobsen, 55, was abducted May 28, 1985.

In its statement Monday, Islamic Jihad said: "we still are waiting for a serious move by the French government toward the release of the 17 strugglers in Kuwait."

It added: "France is capable of solving this issue and of getting what it wants from the countries of the area, which will lead to the release of three French hostages with us."

Student chosen as pageant finalist

By HELENE GOUDEAU

Gertie Wimmer, a Saint Mary's senior from Hobart, Indiana, has recently been chosen as a state finalist for the title of 1987 Miss Indiana. The preliminary Miss U.S.A. competition will be held December 7 in Merrillville, Ind. at the Holiday Star Theater.

Wimmer said she entered the competition in August, adding, "I was chosen to participate in the competition when the pageant director received several of my pictures." The winner of the competition is chosen on the basis of beauty, personality and intelligence, she said, and added that talent will not be considered until the national competition.

Until the competition in December, Wimmer said she must work at obtaining sponsors and advertisers, as well as preparing a wardrobe including an evening gown, swim suit and a dress for the judge's interview.

Wimmer said the interview will be conducted by five judges and is the first part of the competition. Questions asked will pertain to plans for the future, she said.

Wimmer also said she will be working with Nina Grills, who tests in 1983 after being named Indiana's Miss Love's Baby Soft.

Wimmer is an English literature writing and German major. She is also employed by The Observer as a Viewpoint writer and Features copy editor. At Saint Mary's, she serves as both copy editor for the Blue Mantle yearbook as well as the newsletter commissioner for the Senior council.

"I am interested in pursuing a career in broadcast journalism and I am now interning with the WSBT eyewitness news station. Working as the operations director at WSBT also gives me experience in my desired field," she said.

Upon graduating from Saint Mary's, she said she hopes to attend Northwestern University for broadcast journalism, or the University of Iowa for its creative writing program. "What my career is depends on who accepts me," she said.

Until then, she will be quite busy preparing for the Miss Indiana competition to be held on Dec. 7.

'Bull sessions' an essential part of college social experience

"Yeah, well, one night I had two papers, a lab prep, a physics test, and my parents were in town, so I had to take 'em out to dinner."

"That's nothing, - I had a philosophy prof once who -"

"What was his name?"

"Harmemwell. Man, he was a -"

"Oh, yeah, I heard about him. He use to think that God and mankind were supposed to live on some kinda direct-link-type relationship, whatever that means. Zat so?"

"Kinda. He felt that some sorta 'Ultimate Fulfillment' was the absolute director of all our actions, and we have to try to get on some kinda communal level with it. Can you believe it? Anyway, Harmemwell made us write a full-scale philosophy dissertation every night . . ."

The scene: it always begins innocently enough. You walk into a friend's room across the hall, pick up a photo album, a high school yearbook, or some other personal artifact, and a conversation begins. You start talking about all the work you've got to do, your teachers, your future, God, life, the universe, etc. Amazing, isn't it, how speedily two and a half hours whizzes by when spent discussing such relevant subjects?

Before you know it, you've succumbed to a common college phenomena: the bull session. Or shooting the bull, the breeze, the wind. A Rap session. A discussion. Chatting. Talking.

You can get into one at any time or place, with anybody; although roommates are ideal bull session partners. Think it's ironic the bull session most often schedules itself at those wee hours of the morning, when you're awake anyway because you're working on a term paper?

It's not. The bull session is just another way to blow off responsibility: "avoiding the task at hand," as one of my management-majoring roommates described it. The bull session is an oft-chosen alternative to studying.

"Waste of time," my dad always said. That was a part of the wisdom he bestowed on me before I left Tennessee for my first year at Notre Dame. "Don't ever waste any time sitting around talking about nothing at all."

After more than three years of plunging myself into topics such as politics, sports, religion, movies and other pressing social and existential concepts, I must admit that not a word I ever heard or spoke in one of these late-night talks was ever useful to me.

Like the popular conversation game "Trivial Pursuit," bull sessions are a medium of useless facts and knowledge. But are the sessions themselves useless?

In his semi-autobiographical work "Life on the Mississippi," Mark Twain describes the rough river-running keel-haulers who sat around, filling each others' ears with the wildest, most colorful lies. These river-day versions of the bull sessions often came to blows, of course, but nonetheless they always established one thing.

They designated who was the boldest and most fearsome of the pack, the so-called Big Cheese, or the "Cock of the Walk," as they called him in those days.

Today's bull sessions feature the same bravado and exaggeration that graced those earlier, more violent ones. Each tale imparts to its teller the chance to stand alone in the spotlight with his opinion, funny anecdote, or memorable experience. The spotlight shifts to a different center of attention as often as the subject is changed, with reckless disregard for what's being talked about in the first place.

It's down in the trenches of daily discussion that friendships are formed and strengthened. Dad was right about the uselessness of knowledge gained from shooting the bull with my buddies. But what he didn't realize was how memorable such times would be during my years at Notre Dame.

That's why as long as there's chapters to be read, tests to study for and papers to write, they'll all suffer. Because there is also people to toss the bull around with.

I have a German paper due tomorrow, but you know what I heard about this new parietals revision proposal . . . ?

Soviet submarine sinks after crew abandons

Associated Press

WASHINGTON -A nuclear-powered, nuclear-armed Soviet submarine, apparently doomed after experiencing a fire and explosion last Friday morning, sank and was abandoned by its crew early Monday in the western Atlantic Ocean.

The Soviet news agency Tass said no lives were lost when the so-called Yankee-class submarine went down at approximately 4 a.m. EDT, and the Pentagon said it had no reason to doubt that statement.

The vessel sank in waters 18,000 feet deep approximately 1,060 nautical miles to the east of Cape Hatteras, N.C., or roughly 600 miles east of the island of Bermuda. A Soviet merchant ship, which earlier had been attempting to tow the vessel, collected survivors and remained in the area on Monday, the Pentagon said.

Two ranking U.S. military officers said the sinking posed no threat to the environment, even though the submarine was powered by two nuclear reactors and carried up to 16 nuclear-tipped, SS-N-6 ballistic missiles.

The warheads atop one of those missile could very well have been blown into the sea and sank when the submarine experienced a fire and explosion while submerged on Friday, said Vice Adm. Powell Carter Jr., the staff director for the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The other warheads have undoubtedly been crushed and rendered useless by the pressure of the ocean's depth, he said, adding that the fuel inside the reactors is encased in a heavy metal that will likely deteriorate only over thousands of years.

Asked if the sunken submarine posed a threat to the environment, Carter responded: "Really, if you're talking about radioactivity or a nuclear explosion, none."

The Soviet news agency Tass, which reported earlier that three men had been killed in the initial fire, announced at midday Monday (Eastern time) that the submarine had gone down. It said the crew had been evacuated and that there was no further loss of life.

Floodwaters move across Midwest

Associated Press

Flood crests moved downstream across the Midwest on Monday, allowing people to return to some of the thousands of flooded houses from Oklahoma to Illinois, but other communities were threatened as water from up to 2 feet of rain drained toward the Mississippi.

A new levee break in Missouri slowly flooded two trailer parks and National Guardsmen were sent to help evacuate them.

During more than a week of flooding, up to 48,000 people are estimated to have been forced out of their homes at one time or another, including 30,000 in Oklahoma, 15,000 in Illinois, 1,000 in Missouri and 1,500 to 2,000 in Kansas.

At least eight deaths have been linked to floods in that region. Illinois Gov. James Thompson declared five new counties disaster areas Monday, for a total of eight.

Flood damage to Oklahoma roads and highways is so widespread it may take months to even assess the damage, Deputy Transportation Director Monty Murphy said Monday.

Traffic on Interstate 35 had to take a 26-mile detour on two-lane roads because part of the deck of a bridge over the Cimarron River dropped about 6 inches, apparently because of river bed erosion, he said. A two-mile section of U.S. 81 between Dover and Kingfisher was washed out by the river.

I-70 across Missouri, however, was reopened Monday, after being closed for 100 miles by high water since Wednesday.

In Oklahoma's hard-hit Bartlesville and in the Tulsa area, many residents returned Monday to homes inundated by up to 8 feet of water when the Army Corps of Engineers was forced to open flood gates on nearly overflowing reservoirs.

And while the flood crest on the Arkansas River moved past Muskogee, Okla., on Monday, at 4.5 feet higher than flood stage and expanded its normal 100-yard width to three miles over farmland, the river was still rising downstream, the National Weather Service said.

Senator says public figure 'anti-student,' behind raids

By DAVID T. LEE
News Staff

Looking for ways to ease the rash of party busts, Off-campus Senator Race Thoman suggested students get involved in a campaign to remove the city councilwoman who Thoman said supports the raids.

South Bend Councilwoman Ann Puzzello has been "hard on students," according to Thoman. "She has fostered a police mentality that is totally anti-student," Thoman said.

"Many robberies are blamed on students, when street gangs are running wild," added Thoman.

She said most off-campus students live in Puzzello's District Four, while Notre Dame lies under Roseland city council jurisdiction.

In a related matter, the Senate was informed of the reason that two resident assistants were dismissed from their jobs as a result of serving alcohol to minors. Hall Presidents' Council Representative Clay Stephens reported the "only reason (the University) acted on the RA's was that they were employees."

University Food Services Director William Hickey is considering a proposal to provide a 14-meal plan for off-campus students instead of the current 10-meal plan.

Financier offers nearly $8 billion to purchase troubled USX Corp.

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Financier Carl Icahn offered nearly $8 billion in cash Monday to buy USX Corp., the troubled steel and energy giant that has been the subject of repeated takeover speculation in recent weeks.

The $31-a-share offer for USX's 257.3 million shares outstanding was one of the biggest acquisition proposals in U.S. corporate history and the largest proposed leveraged buyout, a transaction financed largely by borrowed money that is repaid with the target company's earnings or sale of assets.

The proposal offered the possibility of giving USX's unions part ownership in the company and came against a background of growing troubles at the parent of the nation's largest steel-maker, a symbol of U.S. corporate might.

The largest USX plant is the Gary Works in Indiana, where about 6,000 United Steelworkers union members have been idle since their national contract expired at midnight July 31. The company has called the work stoppage at numerous plants a strike and the union says it's a lockout.

The bitter labor dispute is caused partly by a slump in the steel industry. At the same time, USX's Marathon Oil Co. unit has suffered from declining oil prices.

Icahn, a New York investor who specializes in takeovers, said in a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission that he and the companies he controls own 25.34 million shares of USX stock, or nearly 10 percent.

Under U.S. law, when an investor acquires more than 5 percent of a company, he must inform the SEC within 10 days of the purchase.

Icahn said in the SEC filing that he made the acquisition proposal in a letter to the Pittsburgh-based company's chairman, David Roderick, and its board of directors.

If USX accepted the offer, Icahn said he would try to win contract concessions from its steelworkers in exchange for part ownership of the company or profit-sharing.

Such arrangements, he wrote, would make USX "and the domestic steel industry more competitive with foreign producers and provide greater opportunities for USX's employees."

USX spokesman Bill Keslar said the company had no comment.

Higher risk of cancer among poor

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Poor people run higher risks of getting cancer and dying from it, according to an American Cancer Society report and a new study.

Among the reasons are cigarette smoking and a tendency for cancers to be diagnosed at later, less curable stages among the poor, scientists said.

Research had previously found disparities between blacks and whites on the frequency, and deadliness of cancers, but a re-analysis shows that much of that effect really comes from differences in socio-economic status, said Dr. Harold Freeman, chairman of the committee that produced the report.

"You can clearly show that poor people develop cancer more and die more from cancer simply because they're poor. It means you have to reassess how you're confronting the problem as a nation and as a cancer society," said Freeman, director of the surgery department at Harlem Hospital Center in New York.

Freeman and his committee called for more research, consideration of government-provided insurance for cancer treatment, better cancer education for the poor and more cancer screening. The Pap smear for cervical cancer, mammography for breast cancer and rectal exams with stool sampling for colorectal cancer are top screening priorities, Freeman said.

For overall cancer survival, Freeman said, poor people fare 10 percent to 15 percent worse than middle-class patients. That gap is very close to national figures that show overall cancer survival for whites at about 50 percent and for blacks at about 37 percent, Freeman said.

An income-linked disparity also shows up for surviving specific cancers, such as those of the colon and breast, he said.

In terms of getting particular cancers, he said, poor people show higher rates of cancer of the lung, cervix and esophagus.

About half the difference in the overall cancer death rate results from a tendency of cancer to be diagnosed among the poor at later, less curable stages, he said.

That arises partly because medical care for poor people tends to focus on treating an immediate problem rather than providing services for prevention, he said.

Institutional barriers could discourage a woman without insurance from getting a breast lump diagnosed, for example, he said. In addition, poverty breeds a "day to day existence" that discourages thinking about preventing future problems, he said.

People in the lowest one-fifth income group showed a 40 percent higher cancer death rate for 1979-81 than those in the top one-fifth, his study found.

The highest disparities were for cancers of the stomach, cervix, respiratory system, ovary and fallopian tubes, while the lowest were for those of the brain and nervous system, breast and colon-rectum, said Lerner, a professor in the department of health policy and management.

Reagan

fort to "postpone any confrontation" over five major restrictions added by the Democratic-run House to a stop-gap budget bill.

Reagan, speaking to a business group meeting at the White House, said in the strongest terms since the Iceland summit was announced last week, that he viewed it as merely a preparatory session for the full-scale meeting he and Gorbachev envisioned after they first met in Geneva last November.

Officials in both Moscow and Washington have said both sides appear to be narrowing differences on ways to reduce numbers of medium and long range missiles, but Reagan said the purpose of the session in Reykjavik is "planning and preparations, not treaty signing and publicity."

"I hope that in explaining all this I have done something to dispel some of the inaccurate speculation and false hopes raised about the Iceland talks," he said. "I expect these talks to be useful and successful, but only as preparation for future summit conferences."

He added, moreover, "It would be simply unthinkable for world leaders to meet in splendid isolation even as the people of Afghanistan, Central America, Africa and Southeast Asia undergo terrible sufferings as a result of Soviet intervention."

Reagan also said the Soviet decision to arrest and hold U.S. News & World Report correspondent Nicholas Daniloff on spy charges "underscores the differences between our two systems."

"It was an extremely grave step, but one that could hardly surprise us. After all, human rights violations in the Soviet bloc remain unceasing because they are institutionalized and sanctioned by the state ideology."

At the same time, Reagan brushed aside suggestions by conservative critics that by going to the summit, he is "soft on communism."

The White House reinforced Reagan's view that the summit was a working session, by announcing that Nancy Reagan would remain behind in Washington, despite plans by Gorbachev's wife to go to Iceland.

Until Raisa Gorbachev's plans were revealed on Icelandic television, the United States had no inkling that she would accompany her husband to the hastily-called superpower summit.

WALL STREET'S TOP QUANTITATIVE CAREER MAKER IS COMING TO YOUR CAMPUS.

HERE'S WHY.

There's a new career option for today's quantitative graduates. It's not in academia. It's not in Corporate America. It's not in the Silicon Valley.

It's on Wall Street.

Today, Wall Street "quants" are literally shaping the future of high finance. They're developing a new generation of investment products, pioneering new ways to improve profitability, and creating new opportunities for investors and issuers. And for their quantitative creativity, they're being recognized with qualitative rewards. With challenge, responsibility and recognition.

Yet you might be surprised to learn that many of Wall Street's most successful "quants" have no prior experience in finance or economics. They come from backgrounds in math, physics, engineering, operations research, computer science, and other quantitative disciplines.

Today, Wall Street firms are hiring more quantitative graduates than ever, and Salomon Brothers Inc. is no exception. A major investment banking and market-making firm, we're Wall Street's leading employer of "quant" graduates. And since our research and technology management departments are the most respected in the industry, you'll be working with some of the top talent in your field.

Want to learn more about the challenge of working with a Wall Street leader in one of today's most rewarding quantitative careers? Don't miss the Salomon Brothers presentation scheduled for your campus:

Question of the week: World Series

What Major League baseball team do you think will win the World Series and why? How many games will it take to clinch the title?

Students respond on campus infirmaries

"I think the infirmary should run its schedule by appointment. Most infirmary cases are not emergency situations, so it would be a lot more efficient to have appointments. When I sprained my ankle I waited one and 1/2 hours. The infirmary would run more efficiently if they had better organization. Students have busy schedules and shouldn't have to wait all day."

"Although I never have had to use the facility, I think the infirmary is handling the situation adequately. I know they make referrals to outside doctors if an optometrist, dentist or specialized doctor is needed. They also provide blood drives which is a benefit to the community."

"The infirmary does not seem to really help in some instances. If you have a cold, they tell you to take aspirin and won't let you see a doctor. They are understaffed and need more overnight facilities. Last year I had a bad case of the flu and couldn't stay because all of the beds were full."

Appearance of student houses can draw crime

Dear Editor:

Although Mary Jacoby in her article of October 2, contrasts the student's concern with crime in the Northeast neighborhood and the neighborhood residents' concern with student parties, she did not explore a possible correlation between these two issues.

We are one of the many university families who live in this neighborhood. In the past fifteen years we have had only one theft. . . a bicycle which was left outside of our garage. We have had no rocks thrown through our windows, our car has not been vandalized. How can it be that we have very little trouble and students have so much?

Students are such wonderful targets for crime. Rather like attractive nuisances, they seem to invite thieves into our area. Our students are not the starving variety who have sold their extra shirt for a textbook; rather they come equipped with "$7,000 worth of jewelry and other items," which they consider indispensable in obtaining a higher education. Students are rich pickings.

Not content with stocking a treasure trove for potential thieves, students then advertize thier location. Students may notice that permanent residents rarely hang banners across their porches, play their stereos at full volume or entertain large numbers of people in their front yards. We do not generally drag our couches outdoors to sunbathe or decorate the yard with litter. A casual drive through the neighborhood is all that is needed to pinpoint student houses.

Houses earn reputations. While this year's student resident may be a paragon of prudence, last year's party crew may have firmly established the address as a student's house. Did you think to ask the landlord about previous burglary?

Residents of the Northeast Neighborhood are concerned about crime. We do not like being considered a high-crime area (much less being considered thieves ourselves), we do not like the effect it has on our real estate value, we do not like the possibility that crime might spread from the student houses to our own. We don't even like students being robbed. But we are well aware that the problem will not be solved until all of the off-campus students are willing to live in the neighborhood in a responsible manner.

More participants and trophies seen at runs

Dear Editor:

In response to Mark Weimholt's column "Non-Varsity Domer Runs too much in the Fast-Lane" (Sept. 29, 1986), I would like to clarify some information about the Domer Run.

Really, the Domer Runs haven't changed as much as Weimholt thinks they have. Non-Varsity's goal has always been to provide a fun, safe and challenging event for both the recreational runner and the serious racer.

In 1984, NVA added a three-mile run to give more runners at various levels the opportunity to participate. Incidentally, the growth of the three-mile run has been super - 18 people ran in the first Domer 3, compared to 89 in the most recent one (113 three-milers signed up).

We have continued to call the runs just that - the Domer Runs - instead of the Domer Races, for precisely the same reasons that Mark mentioned. We want fun-runners and competitors to be able to enjoy what we think are the best-run runs on campus.

We have also been having door prizes at the runs the last couple of years to encourage all runners to participate, not just potential trophy winners. We did have more trophies this year than in the past. With as many runners as we have, we felt second place finishers deserved a trophy as well.

The awards that were being handed out as Weimholt crossed the six-mile finish line were for the three-mile race. For the first time, NVA ran the three- and six-mile races simultaneously. We have always presented the three-mile awards at the conclusion of that run. Since there was over 41 minutes' difference between the first place three-miler and the last place six-miler, we didn't think it was fair to ask those being presented awards to wait. Presenting awards for the shorter run before the conclusion of the longer one is a common practice.

The Domer Runs and their sister race the Irish Spring Runs have been very popular events at Notre Dame. We're glad that people like Mark Weimholt and his friend Chris enjoy participating "just-for-the-fun-of-it." We'll be cheering for you in the spring.

"MOONS"

JOE BUCOLO
FEATURES WRITER

If there is one thing that is always evident on the Notre Dame campus, it is trends. Students at this school are into every possible trend: wine coolers, Jams, Swatches, you name it. One of the hottest trends on campus showed itself proudly at about 8:55 last Tuesday night, Sept. 30. The trend is "Moonlighting."

One-and-a-half television seasons ago, a new show called "Moonlighting" appeared. It was an awkward show that combined detectives and comedy, two elements that mix about as well as oil and water. The show started late in the season and received mixed reviews. While some liked the show, most found it unamusing. As a result, it soon began to flounder in the ratings. At the end of that season, the show's future was in question; ABC threatened to end the show's short life.

During the summer of that season, however, ABC used reruns of the show. It was then that something incredible happened: the show's audience increased incredibly and the ratings began to improve. Viewers wrote to the network and told it to keep the show. Because of this immense response, ABC renewed the show for the '85-'86 season.

Last year, the show that was doomed from the start reached new highs in the ratings and attracted more attention than ever before. People loved the show and soon made it part of their weekly schedule. "Moonlighting" quickly became an American pastime.

For those who have been detained in the barren deserts of Africa for the past two years and don't know what "Moonlighting" is, it is a show about two people, Maddie (Cybill Shepherd) and Dave (Bruce Willis), who run a detective agency called "Blue Moon," hence the title "Moonlighting." Together, these two solve crimes of the strangest sorts. Dave is a witty and very funny guy who plays much more than he works. Maddie, on the other hand, is more conservative. She drives a BMW, which says it all.

"Then, at about 8:55, it happened. As the show was ending, Maddie and Dave kissed! It was only a dream but that didn't matter to the students..."

A third character, Ms. Dipesto, is just as popular as the main characters she supports. Dipesto works as the "Blue Moon" secretary and is full of cute and funny ways to answer the telephone. Each week, Maddie and Dave (and Ms. Dipesto,

Under close inspection, Maddie Hayes (Cybill Shepherd) is the more beautiful of the two series partners too) solve a mysterious and usually bizarre case.

Funny plots and great characters don't always satisfy the viewing audience. Because Maddie and Dave have become part of the viewers' families, they must meet certain expectations. These days, the viewers aren't satisfied until Maddie and Dave become romantically involved. Ever since last season, viewers have hoped and prayed for Maddie and Dave to "get together," and it's more important to viewers than the writers ever thought it would be.

At 8:00 p.m. on Sept. 30, "Moonlighting" began to show its episode. As usual, it was great. Then, at about 8:55, it happened. As the show was ending, Maddie and Dave kissed! It was only a dream, but that didn't matter to the students at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's. As Maddie and Dave's lips met, loud screams and cheers were heard all over both campuses. It was incredible. If a tourist had been on campus, he would've thought that a pep rally was going on. He would never guess that an entire campus was cheering for a TV show. Hundreds of avid "Moonlighting" fans in South Bend (and across America) were beginning to see their dreams turn into realities.

People watch "Moonlighting" every week for many reasons. Saint Mary's Judy Beacom says she likes the "repartee" that the show offers.

"Besides, it offers a good escape from studying," Notre Dame freshman Vince Pellegrini says. "I see a lot of myself in Dave. His mixture of comedy and class make for the ultimate personality." That's why Pellegrini never misses an episode.

Kelly Ryan likes the show because "Maddie and Dave play games with each other's minds and keep the viewers wondering if they'll ever get together."

For these reasons, and a few others, "Moonlighting" has become one of Notre Dame, and America's, hottest shows.

Will Maddie and Dave kiss again? Will Maddie and Dave get married? Will Ms. Dipesto think of even more clever riddles? Tune in and find out. One thing is for sure, most Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students will spend their future Tuesdays moonlighting.

Always in fashion, Cybill Shepherd and her partner Bruce Willis star as the dynamic duo of the eighties.

Two Hydrorobics classes are being sponsored by NVA this semester. Monday and Wednesday evenings, participants meet at 6:45 for an hour of aerobics in the water. Tuesday and Thursday at 12:15 p.m. there is a half-hour class. Call NVA at 239-6100 or stop by one of the classes for more details. - The Observer

In the NFL last night, two records were broken in Seattle's 33-7 victory over San Diego. In the second quarter, Steve Largent's 17-yard reception from Dave Krieg was the 128th straight game he has caught a pass, breaking Harold Carmichael's mark of 127. And in the third quarter, Charlie Joiner set a career receiving yardage mark on a 20-yard pass from Dan Fouts. He ended the game with 11,855 career yards receiving. - Associated Press

more Tony Kahill with partner Wallace posted wins over Oral Roberts and Evansville. At second doubles, Carr and Reitter were undefeated. At third doubles, three different teams each representing the Irish lost.

Despite the loss to Western Michigan, Notre Dame won the tournament due to their direct win over Evansville, who also finished with a 2-1 record. Oral Roberts placed third and Western Michigan fourth in the tournament.

The tournament gave Fallon a good chance to look at the team. He says that from here on out the team will play challenges amongst themselves and work on the doubles combinations.

Notre Dame is like the Green Bay Packers because

- Both teams last had great seasons
under Dan Devine
- The subsequent coaches at each place had no coaching experience in their new league
- Paul Hornung did great things at both places
- Green Bay, like ND, can only beat teams from their home state
- Both teams often use several QB's in the same drive
- ND is also negotiating for Jim
Everett
- Knut Rockne was born in Norway;
Green Bay is also north of civilization

Best start ever for Women's Golf Club

Many clubs had to tangle with both opposing schools and rainy weather conditions across the Midwest this weekend, but that was no problem for the Women's Golf Club.

Off to its best season ever, the golfers participated yesterday in a tournament at Evansville, a city which had not seen rain all week.

In matches prior to yesterday, Notre Dame placed third out of nine teams in its own Labor Day tournament, came in second out of 12 teams in the Loras College Invitational on September 19, and got another second-place finish in a five-team tournament the following weekend at Franklin College.

"This is our best year so far," said Club President Laura Gleason. "This is our fourth or fifth year of existence, and we've never placed first or second in a tournament before this year."

The club has managed to accomplish all this despite losing Saint Mary's freshman Amy Junius, the top player in the season-opening match, for the remainder of the year due to illnesses. Golfers picking up the slack have included Gleason, Meghan Barrett, Carolyn Burke, Melissa Houk, Mary Huffman, and M.C. Malloy.

Following the Evansville tournament, the golfers close the season this weekend with a tournament in Purdue. Gleason showed cautious optimism about their outlook for this match - their biggest of the year.

"We usually don't come out as well in the standings because the competition's so good. I say we'll be in about the middle of the pack," said Gleason. "We usually don't beat the lower-level varsity teams like DePauw and Evansville, but I expect to beat them and end even give some of the schools like Purdue some competition."

Notre Dame defeated DePauw and Evansville earlier in the season.

Evansville might not have seen much rain last week, but Milwaukee had buckets full, making the Rugby Club's match at Marquette on Saturday a low-scoring affair.

Neil Garrison scored a try for the Irish, then added the two-point kick to provide all the Notre Dame points in a 6-4 victory. The B team fell to Marquette, 14-6, with Jack Regis scoring a try in a losing cause.

"The conditions were really sloppy because it had been raining for about two weeks there," said Club President Quentin Williams. "We got good play from our special teams, and that helped a lot."

With a 2-3 record, the club will take a week off from competition to hold its alumni game on Saturday behind the Stepan Center.

Also having to play in terrible conditions, the Women's Soccer Club lost two games over the weekend to fall to 5-6.

The Irish lost to Hope, 5-1, last Friday, and fell to Marquette, 3-1, on Sunday. Susan McConville got the only Notre Dame goal against Hope, and Kate Titterton scored on an assist from Kerry Haverkamp against Marquette.

"Marquette was a really tough game. We played well, but they did too," said Club Secretary Susan Haling. "Friday we didn't get it together, and we weren't playing as well as usual. The weather made the fields really tough."

Notre Dame next plays Saint Mary's in a home game tomorrow. The Irish will be trying to avenge a 2-1 overtime loss to the Belles on September 12.

Rain even forced the shortening of events in places as far as Ontario, but it did not keep the Rowing Club from coasting to another successful showing last weekend.

Competing in the Head of the Trent at Peterboro, Ontario, the women's eight placed first, and three men's eights finished fifth, sixth, and tenth.

Because it rained throughout the regatta, the course was shortened from two and a half miles to just over two miles.

"Overall we did a lot better than last year," said Club President Joe Brunetti. "The women's finish was particularly impressive because there were a lot of tough Canadian teams out there. The women's program is really taking off this year."

Rowers will next compete in the Alumni Row at the boathouse on Saturday from 8 a.m. till noon.

After not playing last weekend, the Water Polo Club is looking forward to a tournament in Dayton, Ohio, next weekend. The four-team tournament will include Dayton, Miami (Ohio), Kenyon, and Notre Dame.

"I think we can do really well," said Club President Dave Patchin. "We're in a lot better shape than we were in the first tournament."

About 30 students are preparing to get their first taste of boxing experience in the Novice Bouts on the week before Fall Break. The Novice Bouts are a fall prelude to Notre Dame's traditional springtime charity Bengal Bouts.

"It's just for anyone who wants to learn boxing techniques who has never boxed before, and if they want to go on to the Bengals, that's fine," said Boxing Club President Thomas Newell.

Women's tennis falls to Michigan State in close match, 6-3

By SHEILA HOROX
Sports Writer

One service break and two points in the tiebreaker. That's how close the Notre Dame women's tennis team came to beating Michigan State on Saturday. Instead, the Irish fell to the Spartans 6-3, dropping their overall season record to 0-3.

It was the kind of loss where a coach just takes a deep breath and says, "tough match." Four of the six singles matches went to three sets.

Freshman Stephanie Tolstedt registered the only Irish win in singles competition. Tolstedt defeated Marimar Alonso, 0-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Alice Lohrer, Tammy Schmidt, and Resa Kelly were also involved in close three set matches. Lohrer lost to Tracy Balagna, 3-6, 6-2, 7-5. Schmidt fell to Nancy Redman, 6-2, 2-6, 7-6 (10-8 tiebreaker), and Kelly was defeated by Sara Ramirez, 6-2, 6-7, 6-1.

Head Coach Michele Gelfman was quick to point out that of the four matches that lasted three sets, the Irish dropped the opening set in three of those matches yet were able to maintain their composure and force a third and deciding set.

"We had problems in our opening sets but we made the necessary adjustments and performed really well," said Gelfman. "All the matches were close and a few points made the difference in us winning and losing."

In the other singles matches, Michelle Dasso lost to Kathleen Monczka, 7-5, 6-3, and Natalie Illig came up short against Joelle Lukasiewicz, 6-3, 6-2.

The bright spot for the Irish had to be the play of the doubles teams, which took two of three matches.

The number-one doubles team of Dasso and Tolstedt chalked up a win against Monczka and Balagna, 6-3, 6-2, raising their doubles record to 5-4. Playing at the number-three doubles position, Schmidt and Kelly defeated Lukasiewicz and Ramirez, 6-4, 6-2.

Lohrer and Illig, the second-seeded doubles team lost to Redman and Alonso, 6-0, 6-1. Gelfman attributes the lop-sided score to the flawless play of the MSU team.

Everything (Redman and Alonso) did, worked," said Gelfman. "Every shot went their way. The score doesn't reflect how well Alice and Natalie played."

The doubles teams continue to improve every week, and their hard work is definitely paying off.

"At Michigan State we were able to execute the things we've been emphasizing in practice," Gelfman said.

The Irish don't have time to dwell on the loss. They travel today to Milwaukee to face North Star Conference opponent Marquette. The Irish are seeking their fourth consecutive NSC title, and today's match will have a direct bearing on the seedings for the NSC championship.

B.P. undefeated

P.E. holds off Farley, 20-14

By KATHY BERRY
Sports Writer

Breen-Phillips is the only undefeated team left in women's Interhall football after Pasquerilla East downed Farley, 20-14, in the completion of their suspended game.

Starting with 6:43 left to play in the game, Farley scored on their first drive with a thirty-five yard touchdown pass from Marilu Almeida to Sue Shelton. The two-point conversion was successful, tying the game at 14.

The Farley defense held P.E. on three downs. But on fourth down and fourteen, Colleen Donnelly connected with her favorite receiver, Annie Shrenk, for a thirty-five yard game-winning touchdown. Pasquerilla East failed to convert and the score stood at 20-14.

Farley got the ball back but could not produce anything.

"We had a twenty game winning streak going, so I guess it was about time we got put in our place," said Marilu Almeida. "I think that this will make us even more psyched for our upcoming games."

In last Thursday's action, Farley crushed Walsh, 29-0, B.P. defeated Lewis, 6-0, and Lyons won by forfeit over Badin.

In the B.P.-Lewis game, a controversial pass-interference call allowed B.P. to score the winning touchdown in the last 20 seconds.

In Sunday's games, Lyons edged Pasquerilla West, 16-14, Lewis defeated Badin, 20-6, and P.E. downed Walsh, 20-0.

The games to watch this Thursday include undefeated B.P. facing defending champion Farley and 3-1 Lyons against P.E. So come out and watch some great football action.

Boston third baseman Wade Boggs assures fans that he and pitcher Roger Clemens are recovered from injuries and will play in the first game of the American League Championship Series tonight.

AL playoffs start tonight

Associated Press

BOSTON - Roger Clemens, the most dominant pitcher in baseball this season, said his injured right elbow was "100 percent" ready yesterday as the Boston Red Sox prepared to meet the California Angels in Game 1 of the American League playoffs.

Clemens, who was 3-0 against the Angels this year, admitted his elbow that was hit by a line drive last week was still "sore to touch."

But the right-hander, who led the AL with a 24-4 record and 2.48 earned-run average, said he would be fine to start Tuesday night's playoff opener against Mike Witt.

"My arm's 100 percent," Clemens said. When pressed for details about his recovery, he firmly replied, "I don't want to talk about my arm anymore."

Witt was 18-10 this year and 1-2 against Boston. Overall, the Angels won the season series 7-5, with the teams splitting six games at Fenway Park.

While Clemens' problems may have cleared up, another injury clouded the outlook for the start of the best-of-seven series.

Reggie Jackson, the Angels' designated hitter, again was in the postseason spotlight, nursing a left hand injured when he hit a dugout wall Saturday night during a game at Texas. California Manager Gene Mauch said the incident occurred when Jackson got upset after making an out.

X-rays on Jackson's hand were negative, and he took batting practice Monday.

Two other Boston players who had been slowed by minor injuries, third baseman Wade Boggs and catcher Rich Gedman, were expected to start Game 1.

Boggs, the major leagues' batting champion at .357, did not play in Boston's final four games because of a right hamstring injury.

Miami retains top spot; Alabama shrinks lead

Associated Press

The University of Miami remained No. 1 Monday in The Associated Press' college football poll but second-ranked Alabama made up ground on the Hurricanes while Stanford and Mississippi State cracked the Top Twenty for the first time in five years.

Miami, which climbed into the No. 1 spot last week after beating Oklahoma, cruised past Northern Illinois 34-0 on Saturday for its fifth consecutive victory. The Hurricanes received 55 of 58 first-place votes and 1,155 of a possible 1,160 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Alabama also raised its record to 5-0 by defeating Notre Dame 28-10. The Crimson Tide received two first-place votes and 1,084 points. Last week, also with 58 voters participating, Miami led 56-1 in first-place votes and 1,156-1,058 in points.

The first nine teams are the same as last week. Third-ranked Nebraska edged South Carolina 27-24 and received 988 points while Michigan remained No. 4 with 959 points after downing Wisconsin 34-17.

The other first-place ballot went to fifth-ranked Penn State, which knocked off previously unbeaten Rutgers 31-6 and received 937 points.

Sixth-ranked Oklahoma rebounded from its loss to Miami by crushing Kansas State 56-10 and received 867 points. Auburn stayed seventh with 828 points by blasting Western Carolina 55-6. Arkansas held onto eighth place with 726 points by whipping Texas Christian 34-17 and Southern California remained No. 9 with 709 points thanks to a 35-21 triumph over Oregon.

Arizona was idle, however, and slipped from 10th to 11th while Iowa moved up from 11th to 10th. The Hawkeyes turned back Michigan State 24-21 and received 614 points.

Miracle finish

Flanner wins battle of towers

By KEVIN MCCORMACK
Sports Writer

Behind a play that Flanner coach Jim Fitzgerald called "a miracle," Flanner defeated Grace, 6-0, highlighting the third week of Interhall football in the Parseghian Division, the league's most hotly contested bracket.

On the game's final play, Flanner set up for an apparent game-winning field goal. However, the snap was too high for holder Dave Kelly and he scrambled to pick up the ball and get it to any open receiver in the endzone. He threw it towards the vicinity of Pete Kazmierczak, who was being covered. The ball was tipped, Kazmierczak fell down, but the ball fell in his chest, as did the victory for Flanner.

While most of the game was a defensive struggle, Flanner made a run at scoring several times in the second half. Twice, drives were halted by stingy fourth-down defensive stands of Grace deep inside Grace territory. Finally, after a key interception by Flanner with 1:40 left in the game, Flanner had one last opportunity. After several attempts to get the ball in the endzone, the clock ran down with six seconds remaining, setting the stage for the game's final dramatics.

In other Parseghian games, Morrissey, behind freshman quarterback Joe Fuqua's one-yard touchdown run and five-yard pass to Joe Fiedler, shut out Keenan, 12-0. Dillon tied Off-Campus, 3-3.

In Leahy division action, the anticipated matchup between undefeated Zahn and Stanford ended in a 14-0 Stanford victory. The option play was working to perfection for Stanford as they marched in for an early 7-0 lead. Then mistakes plagued the Zahmbies.

On the ensuing kickoff, they fumbled on the five-yard line and three plays later the score was 14-0, Stanford, still in the first quarter. Inclement weather in the second half prohibited any offensive drives by both teams and when it was over, Zahn fell to 2-1 while Stanford upped its record to 3-0.

In other Leahy play, Holy Cross defeated Pangborn 6-0, while Cavanaugh put to rest any chances of Alumni defending its Interhall title, by defeating the depleted Dogs, 3-0.

Finally, in the Rockne division, Sorin continued its run for the Interhall title by easily defeating St. Ed's, 14-0. The Screaming Otters utilized their balanced attack of a timely passing game combined with the strong running of John Kennedy.

In other Rockne play, Howard dumped Fisher 15-0,

had rolled out of bounds, midfielder Rolfe Behrje was kicked in the knee by a Marquette player while on the ground. He is questionable for today's contest with Akron with a contusion of the knee.

Grace criticized the officiating, which he said was inconsistent and not in control of the game.

In one situation, forward Pat Murphy was taken down from behind by a Warrior defender on a breakaway. The referee only gave the Irish a free kick, even though a yellow card usually is issued in such a situation.

Forward Bruce "Tiger" McCourt also ended up on the short end of a referee's call. McCourt was tripped on the edge of the penalty area, but the referee allowed play to continue. McCourt, however, was caught retaliating and was issued a yellow card.

At first Grace thought that McCourt had dissented to the referee. But when McCourt said he did not dissent, Grace entered the field while play was in progress.

"I wanted to know why (the referee) had issued the yellow card," said Grace.

In the rulebook, Grace's action is also a yellow-card offense, but the referee did nothing but to turn and give Grace an answer.

"That just shows the lack of control he had in the game," said Grace.

Grace was quick to point out, though, that the referee did not lose the game for the Irish. The Warriors controlled play much of the game.

"The important point is that we were still in the game up til the end," noted Grace. "We launched an attack with 45 seconds left, and with a little luck, we could have tied it."

Luck is currently running a little short for Notre Dame. Statistically they dominated the Wisconsin game on Friday, but the Badgers got the breaks and the 2-1 victory.

"We're just in a rut right now," said Grace. "If we make a little mistake, the other team has capitalized. We're in control of the game, but we haven't been able to put them away."

"If we would have had any luck, we would have won one of the three games."

Today's game is the last for the Irish until they head east for a game against nationally-ranked Connecticut on Oct. 19.

ND soccer faces Akron after bruising road trip

By PETE SKIKO and PETE GEGEN
Sports Writers

After coming off of three road losses to Bowling Green, Wisconsin-Madison and Marquette, the Notre Dame soccer team could probably use a relatively easy home opponent to regroup against in their next game.

Unfortunately the Irish will not get a break as the Akron Zips invade Alumni Field today at 3 p.m.

The Zips are fresh off of a victory over perennial power Indiana, whom they hadn't beaten since 1974. The Irish have yet to beat Akron in five tries, and last year took a 8-1 drubbing in Akron.

Irish head coach Dennis Grace realizes his squad has no easy task ahead, but is looking forward to the contest.

"Akron is tough," said Grace, "but I'm convinced that when we play well, we can play with any team in the country, and I really mean that. Despite the recent close losses we've had, I feel that the team has played well enough to win all of them with a break or two. They (Akron) beat us badly last year, and I think the guys really want this one."

The team had a break from practice yesterday as it nursed the bruises suffered in the Marquette contest.

On Sunday Grace was fuming about his team's 2-1 loss to Marquette. But he was not directing his displeasure against his players.

Instead he was upset with the officiating and the cheap shots taken by Marquette players in the soccer game.

"Marquette is a hell of a team," said Grace. "They're very good, but they're very cheap, and that bothers me."

"The would charge from behind, take our players' legs out from behind. It was very sad."

The rough play resulted in one injury for the Irish. After the ball

Irish tennis takes home invitational despite bad weather, W. Michigan

By GREG ANDRES
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's tennis team survived a weekend of surprises to capture its third consecutive Irish Fall Invitational. Rain caused the tournament to be moved indoors to the South Bend Racquet Club where matches were shortened from the standard two out of three sets to eight game prossets.

The Irish won their opening match against Evansville, 6-3, but were defeated by Western Michigan 5-4. In the end it was a 7-2 win over Oral Roberts that won it for Notre Dame.

Number-one singles player Brian Kalibas clinched the tournament with a 6-1, 3-6, 7-6 (9-7) win over Wayne Stewart of Oral Roberts. In the match, Kalibas erased two match points in the tie breaker to capture the victory.

"This type of match was typical of Brian," said Head Coach Tom Fallon. "He hung in there and gutted it out. He knows what to do to win."

Kalibas split in the two prossets he played, needing the maximum 16 games to win, 9-7, over Evansville, while dropping an 8-6 decision to Western Michigan.

"It is really tough to play," said Kalibas of the prossets. "When you get down it is really hard to come back."

Sophomores Dave Reiter and Tim Carr, playing third and fourth singles for the Irish, respectively, compiled a combined record of 9-0 over the weekend. Each won their three singles matches, while collaborating on 3 doubles victories.

Carr, whose shoulder has restricted his practice time, showed no signs of any weakness in his play. Carr cruised to an 8-5 victory over Evansville and an 8-2 win over Western Michigan, and triumphed in straight sets over Oral Roberts 6-4, 6-0.

Reiter won convincingly over Evansville and Western Michigan, spotting his opponents only three games. Reiter's opponent on Sunday, however, proved to be tougher competition. He rebounded from down a set to post a 3-6, 6-4, 6-0 win.

This win was important to Reiter because it was this type of match which he feels he would have lost last year.

"The team win was a good victory in a tournament with good teams," Reiter also noted. "We played really well against Oral Roberts and will get another change against Western Michigan later in the season."

Freshman Mike Wallace and junior Dan Walsh contributed at fifth and sixth singles. Wallace, in the sixth position against Evansville, won convincingly, 8-2, and split at the fifth position, winning in straight sets against Oral Roberts while losing, 9-7, to Western Michigan. Walsh, who stepped in after Paul Daggs pulled a muscle in his opening match, won both of his singles matches.

In doubles action, the Irish won 5 of the 9 matches. Sopho-

Baseball playoffs encourage 'hot-dog' antics

Are you serious? You mean the baseball playoffs really start today?

I guess I've been so caught up in trying to figure out when (or if) Notre Dame is ever going to win another big football game, that I completely forgot that the World Series is coming up soon.

So let's talk baseball.

On second thought, let me tell you a story about baseball, with my apologies for leaving Houston and California out of the tale because they probably don't have a chance anyway, and because I didn't see them play this past summer.

I did, however, have the good fortune (or bad fortune in one case) of getting out to Boston's Fenway Park and New York's Shea Stadium over the summer for a couple of ballgames. Each was only four hours from the Upstate New York city I worked in, and, as Harry Caray might say, you can't beat fun at the old ballpark.

Harry Caray couldn't have meant Shea Stadium.

New York was first. The first-place Mets were playing my favorite team (yes, I admit to being a Cub fan) and my friend and I had what we thought were good seats - yeah, right.

I had never been to the City and I must admit that I despised the obnoxious Mets even before I stepped out of the car and onto a rain-drenched parking lot. My friend and I were greeted by about 30-40 ticket scalpers and a few winos just outside the stadium - a large, dirty, semicircular structure, in which any seat above the mezzanine level gives you a good shot at flagging down the airplanes which fly overhead every five minutes.

If you haven't seen the Mets this season (four of them even have mugshots in United States post offices for messing with a police officer in a Houston bar), then you've missed perhaps the most class-less team organized sport has ever seen.

Just take a look at the hot-dog antics of Gary Carter as he taunts opposing pitchers while rounding the bases, or the way Len Dykstra snaps his glove at pop-ups. Or how about the hot-tempered Jesse Orosco storming off the field when pulled from a game by that gentleman of gentlemen, skipper Davey Johnson.

With the score tied in the bottom of the eighth, Johnson sent in Tim Teufel (jailbird no. 1) to pinch hit. Teufel had blasted an extra-inning grand slam three days earlier, but walked back to the dugout to a chorus of boo's this time after flying out to end the inning. Talk about spoiled fans.

Then Keith Moreland homered to win it for the Cubbies, and I was pelted in the back of the head with assorted food items for simply standing up and cheering. Needless to say, we left town quickly. I don't plan on returning soon.

I thought Boston might be even worse. I can't say I have ever disliked the Red Sox, but if Sox fans were anything like Celtic fans, I figured we'd be in for a long day.

Especially since I was rooting for the Chicago White Sox.

Much to my surprise, however, I was overwhelmed with the atmosphere of Fenway Park. I thought Wrigley Field was the next-best thing to Heaven, but now I'm not so sure. People were actually friendly, and the fans gave Red Sox pitcher Dennis 'Oil Can' Boyd a standing ovation in his first game since walking out on the team a few games earlier.

Mets fans would have run him out of town.

The White Sox won the game, and I even left with a clean shirt on my back. I stuck around for a few minutes afterwards to soak up the tradition of Fenway, and to say 'good-bye' to the friends I had made in the surrounding seats.

Now, it's playoff time, and the two teams I saw this summer are the favorites to do battle in the World Series.

To Houston and California: Good luck, you'll need it.

To Boston: Do us all a favor and humiliate the Mets in four straight.

And to the New York Mets: Watch out for one angry Notre Dame student above your dugout, armed with a sloppy hot dog, the next time you set foot on Wrigley Field grass.
