Hijacked jet in Algeria; about 40 remain aboard

Associated Press

ALGIERS, Algeria-- A hijacked Kuwaiti jumbo jet carrying at least 30 hostages flew from Cyprus to Algeria on Wednesday, but the gunmen denied they would give up the plane.

The aircraft touched down at 3:07 a.m. local time (10:07 p.m. EDT Tuesday).

The Boeing 747 left Larnaca, Cyprus after the Shiite Moslem gunmen freed 12 more passengers in what they called a gesture of goodwill. The hijackers have killed two passengers during the grim nine-day odyssey.

Akis Fantis, a spokesman for the Cyprus government, told reporters "sources in Algiers" gave assurances that the gunmen would give up the hostages and plane there, but one of the hijackers denied it.

He said by radio just before takeoff: "We deny what has been reported by radios and by the media that we are ready to hand the plane to anyone. We refuse to do that, until martyrdom." He did not mention the hostages.

Police surrounded the brightly lit VIP lounge at Algiers' Houari Boumedienne airport. Squads of motorcycle police, normally used as escorts, stood by along with ambulances, fire trucks and police cars.

Algerian Interior Minister El Hadi Khediri and Information Minister Bachir Rouis were at the airport. Three members of the permanent Palestine Liberation Organization mission in Algiers entered the VIP lounge then were spirited into a guarded sideroom.

About 40 people, including the six to eight hijackers, remained aboard the Kuwait Airways jet. It was commandeered eight days ago on a flight from Bangkok to Kuwait and spent three days at Mashhad, Iran. It was subsequently allowed to land at Larnaca because it was running out of fuel.

Mock Convention delegates Tim Rock, Rita Robinett, David Fares, and Andy Richardson eagerly debate the platform points. The Mock Convention will continue through Thursday night at the Stepan Center. Story below.

Student reaction to task force mixed

By KENDRA LEE MORRILL

Assistant News Editor

The recent release of the reports of the Task Forces on residentiality and alcohol has sparked mixed reaction among students and rectors at Notre Dame.

Noel Murtha, a junior in Pasquerilla West and a resident assistant for 1988-89, said, "When I first read the reports I felt as a whole they were good. They raised issues that never get raised . . . that needed to be addressed."

"On the other hand," said Murtha, "there were things (in the reports) that were lacking." Concerning the report on alcohol, Murtha said, "I felt that when I read the recommendations, they were unreasonable to the effect that the report seemed like a liability report. (The task force members' concern was with liability, not with responsible drinking."

"It's an 'out of sight, out of mind' kind of thing," she said.

Four functions of the University that are sources of potential liability for alcohol-related injuries, according to the task force report, are the University as a supervisor of student conduct, property owner, seller of alcohol, and social host.

Rob Grahek, presently a resident assistant in Cavanaugh Hall, said he felt "University responsibility and liability definitely is a factor to be considered. Most people don't realize the University goes out on a limb."

Grahek said he felt the task force offered realistic answers and some solutions to dealing with problems.

Junior Mike Polcari, a Keenan Hall resident assistant for 1988-89, said he doesn't think the task force on alcohol "is doing things differently. It's just a matter of enforcing the alcohol policy more strictly."

Polcari said he felt University policy has "kind of been a paradox. There's a strict alcohol policy, but twice a semester you can get blitzed (at SYRs)."

"The University is trying to get more consistent," said Polcari.

Convention decides platform

By NATASHA WILSON
Senior Staff Reporter

About 200 delegates of the Mock National Convention adopted Tuesday a platform which keynote speaker former Ohio Governor John Gilligan criticized for its contradictions.

"The draft platform presented here for you delegates is a classic example of how to commit political suicide," Gilligan said.

The delegates debated the platform planks for four hours and approved several amendments before voting to adopt the platform.

An hour and a half of the discussion was devoted to a debate on an abortion plank.

Pro-life proponents, who were sponsoring an amendment to legally ban abortion, battled verbally with pro-choice delegates.

In the end the pro-life delegates prevailed. The plank which the convention adopted proposed a legal ban on abortion and advocated economic resources for sex education and medical aid for lower-class expectant mothers.

Pennsylvania delegate Rita Robinett said that although she favored the ban on abortion, she considered it "very unrealistic" for our majority pro-choice society.

"A legal ban could not be enforced in our society," said New York delegate Malini Chablani. "Perhaps there could be a constitutional ban, but never an immediate legal ban," she said.

Mary LaSata, Al Gore's campaign manager, contends the abortion debate "got a bit too heated and impassioned feelings took over." "The plank should not even have been on the platform. It's an issue the legislative and judicial branches should deal with," LaSata said.

The abortion debate developed into a discussion about whether the Mock Convention should represent the views of Notre Dame students rather than the views of the national Democratic party.

Most of the platform planks state "We the students of Notre Dame feel (or recognize). . ."

"I believe we are trying to elect someone ultimately who would represent the values that Notre Dame and St. Mary's students hold," said Robinett.

Wisconsin delegate Dan Izzo said he voted pro-choice because the delegates "should echo what the Democratic party would vote." "It's evident that Notre Dame is trying to make a statement, but not everyone comes from the economic and cultural backgrounds that ND students do. We have to take that into consideration," Chablani contends.

"The executive commission should have dealt with the two conflicting views before and decided which was most important to the convention," LaSata claimed.

The delegates also rejected an amendment to the defense plank calling for the United States to maintain a force of nuclear weapons as a deterrent against aggression by political adversaries.

Tuesday night's debate represented a "definite shift in the sentiment" from Monday night's more moderate opinions, according to John Farley, Jesse Jackson's campaign manager.

The conservative switch was Michael Dukakis and Albert Gore Jr. traded barbs in a New York debate Tuesday on the Middle East, welfare cuts and timidity in dealing with fellow Democrat Jesse Jackson. Republican George Bush said he "can't wait to take on" one of them in the fall campaign.

A week before the pivotal New York primary, the Democratic battle was turning into "a bloodletting," Bush said, as he moved sedately toward the GOP nomination that is all but his.

"I still intend to campaign right through the end of the primary season," Bush said in Schenectady. "I can't wait to take on whichever one of those three Democrats wins the Democratic nomination."

The balloting in New York next Tuesday is a foregone conclusion for the Republicans. But for the Democrats, the primary offers rich prizes and harsh judgments.

For Jackson, it offers another chance to prove he can attract white votes and continue the growth of a mainstream campaign.

"I was an underdog for 45 years and 11 months, and now I'm one of the top dogs, and I just love it," Jackson said in the New York Daily News debate. "New York loves a winner, and I'm a winner. . . . Vote for a winner. Vote for Jackson action."

Dukakis, the front-runner in the polls, is hoping to make it three primary victories in a

Compromise gives students a balance

At Stanford University the dust is still settling after the battle of the West versus the rest of the world. Controversy had been raging for months over how best to structure their equivalent of Notre Dame's Arts and Letters Core Course, which all freshmen are required to take. As it stood before the debate, the syllabus for their Western Culture Program consisted of 15 set authors, all of whom are male and come out of our own Western tradition: Homer, Dante, Freud, etc. Opponents of ethnocentrism and chauvinism cried foul, arguing such a stilted regimen should be thrown out in favor of a panorama of thinkers coming from all world traditions.

Guardians of the West such as The Wall Street Journal and William Bennet warned against "the trashing of Plato and Shakespeare." Revisionist groups said purge the course as necessary. Heated words were exchanged, mud slung, and the epic ended... in a compromise. The course receives both a new name (Culture, Ideas, and Values—sound familiar?) and a new syllabus with Western and non-Western thinkers. A let down? Indeed, no—a prudent decision which nearly was lost amidst all the polar thinking.

Polemics rather than discourse seemed to be the rule of thumb in this flurry of words; unfortunate, because a fundamental issue is at hand: how the classicists should properly respond to the ascendancy of non-classic thinkers. If the intellectual "giants" on both sides of the debate had put aside their egos in the name of disinterested analysis they would have quickly come to recognize a few guiding facts.

First, one cannot deny the world hegemony the West has held in the past. Its origins are debatable, but at least as far back as the Renaissance the West—and especially, Western men—has dominated world political and economic affairs. In its superior position, the West has generated an incredible amount of intellectual writings. This is not ethnocentrism, nor is it chauvinism. It is a fact. Revisionists like to overlook this fact.

Second, one cannot deny that the non-Western world has also flourished, albeit to a lesser extent. African and Asian civilizations have not lain dormant while Rousseau and Darwin gained immortality. They too have contributed to the world intellect, and only now are we discovering these worthy non-Western works. Classicists like to overlook this fact.

Matt Slaughter

Viewpoint Editor

Third, one cannot deny one's particular culture. Granted, the world is today becoming a truly global society where the actions of one small part inexorably affect all others—but by no means is it a homogenous one. Diversity among cultures will continue for generations. To recognize the diversity among cultures, then, should not entail the rejecting of one's own. Revisionists like to overlook this fact.

Fourth, one must remember the purpose of the Core-type course is to enhance the liberal education by providing a medium in which the intellect can analyze and criticize and thereby grow. The free flow of ideas is essential to such a course. Hinder the flow—whatever the source—and you stunt the intellect. Classicists like to overlook this fact.

Given these guiding truisms, a compromise syllabus stands as the only reasonable solution to the problem. Yes, the West has worthy classics—but so does the East. Ideally a course would study all such works, but logistics makes this impossible. Thus the compromise. To its credit our Core Course does an excellent job of presenting a balanced curriculum whose thinkers form a group of diverse origins. The extremist "intellectuals" who descended upon Stanford en masse nearly denied Stanford students such a worthwhile course.

Pom Pon squad formed by previous Dancin' Irish

By NATASHA WILSON
Senior Staff Reporter

The University approved Monday several proposals submitted by previous members of The Dancin' Irish to change the group's name to The Notre Dame Pom Pon Squad and to reconstruct its program.

The squad's co-captains met Monday afternoon with Father Peter Rocca, assistant vice president for student services, and Missy Conboy, assistant athletic director, seeking their agreement on the proposed changes.

Rocca and Conboy are members of a board established this year by Father David Tyson, vice president of student affairs, to review the Dancin' Irish.

The Dancin' Irish were operating on a one-year basis after being disbanded briefly last year.

In addition to the name change, the squad has adopted new objectives and duties.

"They will become more of a spirit group than a dance group," Rocca said.

"We intend to promote spirit for students and general audiences at athletic events and to promote the morals and identification of both Notre Dame men and women," states a letter written to Rocca by the group's co-captains.

"There was a question about how to differentiate us and the cheerleaders," said co-captain Melissa Howe.

"Pom pon complements cheerleading," said co-captain Erica Hinkle. "Cheerleading is supposed to be more athletic with lots of stunts. Pom pon involves performing routines to rhythm cadences and the drum beat, primarily with pom pons in hand," she said.

The board decided the squad will not attend men's varsity football and basketball games because the cheerleaders attend those events, Rocca said.

The squad will perform at designated non-revenue varsity sports, as determined by the squad and the coaches of each sport.

The squad will also continue to represent the University at bookstore pep rallies and through the selling of programs during football weekend.

During football season the squad will participate in the procession with the band, cheerleaders and Irish Guard to the pep rallies at Stephen Center.

Further participation by the group in the rallies will be decided later, said co-captain Hinkle.

"We are definitely pleased with the changes. We will become more representative of what Notre Dame is," Hinkle said.

"We will still be involved with the athletic tradition of Notre Dame and will give recognition to the non-revenue sports," she added.

Howe contends that the name change will take away the stereotypes everyone had associated with the Dancin' Irish.

"We have to start from the very beginning and build from there. We're glad (the Administration has) given us a chance to grow," she said.

The Notre Dame Pom Pon Squad will consist of both Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College female students.

The co-captains said they will hold an organizational meeting on April 13 from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. in the Notre Dame Room on the second floor of LaFortune Student Center.

The meeting is open to all students.

Fighting resumes in Afghanistan despite pact

Associated Press

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan--Spring thaws have opened the mountain supply routes of Moslem guerrillas and the seasonal surge of fighting in Afghanistan has begun despite a U.N.-sponsored accord on Soviet military withdrawal.

Leaders of the insurgency, which began after a communist coup in April 1978, were not parties to the Geneva agreement announced last week and have said repeatedly they would continue the war.

Western diplomats said Tuesday there was a sharp increase of military activity in the past two weeks in eastern Afghanistan near Pakistan. About 3.5 million Afghan refugees live in camps and cities just inside Pakistan that serve as bases and supply points for the guerrillas.

Insurgents overran seven Afghan army posts in Logar province in the first week of April and, on Monday, a 450-unit Soviet convoy including more than 100 armored vehicles headed south toward the province from Kabul, the diplomats reported. They said the level of fighting appeared normal for early spring.

Radio Kabul reported that Afghan guerrillas downed a Soviet-built passenger plane near the Soviet border on Sunday, killing all 29 people aboard.

Increased fighting also was reported in Kandahar and Khost.

The withdrawal agreement is expected to be signed Thursday in Geneva by the the Afghan government and Pakistan, with the United States and Soviet Union as guarantors. The guerrillas were not invited to the negotiations and Pakistan acted as their representative.

In Moscow, an Italian source said Yuli Vorontsov, first deputy Foreign Minister, told Italian parliamentarians that 50,000 Soviet soldiers will be withdrawn in the first three months after May 15.

Soviet soldiers entered Afghanistan in December 1979 and Vorontsov's reported statement was the first indication Kremlin officials have given of how many were there.

Under the accord to be signed in Geneva, the Soviets agree to remove all the troops within nine months of May 15, half of them by Aug. 15.

Based on the figure given by Vorontsov, the total Soviet force in Afghanistan would be about 100,000. Western sources have estimated it at 115,000.

Guerrilla leaders have said they would ignore any agreement reached without their direct participation, and contend that the only real parties to the Afghan conflict are themselves and the Soviets.

They consider the government in Kabul -- now led by Najib -- to be a Kremlin puppet.

Diplomatic and other sources reported more fighting in Kandahar, Afghanistan's second-largest city, and said wounded government and Soviet soldiers arrived in Kabul last week. All the sources spoke on condition of anonymity.

Insurgents knocked out a government radio station in the city March 25 and later did the same to the television station, diplomats said.

Father Joseph Carey, rector of Dillon Hall and a member of the task force on residentiality, said he was "concerned about the fact that the alcohol task force seemed to take a legal response to problems as opposed to a health point of view."

"More than a class is needed," said Carey. "There's a need for programs on campus; a need for opportunity for alcohol assessment; a need for much more in the way of helping people who abuse alcohol."

Sister Annette Giarrante, also a member of the task force on residentiality and rector of Pasquerilla West, said the task force study on residentiality "addresses the whole issue of community, and what residentiality is and what we want it to be."

"Residentiality provides space where people can grow --academically, emotionally, spiritually. This was the underlying thrust of the whole report," she said.

"The task force affirmed coed housing," said Giarrante. "We have questions if we can duplicate in a coed fashion what we have in single-sex dorms. It will be a challenge to adopt another model of living," she said.

Giarrante said she thinks the coed housing decision will get the most attention, "but if it is the only thing given attention, people missed the message the task force is trying to give. I hope the whole report doesn't get lost in that issue."

Polcari said he thought "the coed dorm should be explored. We've been restricting ourselves for too many years." Coed housing would add a new dimension to life at Notre Dame, he said.

"The interaction between males and females is definitely hampered by not having (coed dorms)," said Polcari. "We only see each other in an academic setting, not in every day affairs."

"I would love to live in one," he said.

One of the possible models for coresidential housing is an "Honors Hall." This hall would select residents based on academic achievement, demonstrated leadership and commitment to community life, according to the task force report.

Grahek said he thinks this type of dorm is "kind of silly. It should be open to anyone willing to try (the new arrangement)."

"I don't think it should be a privilege, it should be an option," he said.

"I think the task forces will have an impact," said Murtha. "People are talking about it, whether in a positive or negative sense."

Rozun named Rector of the Year by HPC

By DAN MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Hall Presidents Council presented Alumni Rector Father George Rozum with the Hall Presidents Council's Rector of the Year Award Tuesday night during the HPC banquet at the Tippecanoe Place Restaurant in South Bend.

Rozum said the award was unexpected and very flattering. The HPC presented him a plaque which reads "For demonstrating exceptional effort toward the improvement of hall life and establishing better relations between students and the University administration."

A committee of four hall presidents and an HPC co-chairman selected Rozum from among six nominees.

The committee was "looking for a specific, concrete attitude that improved resident hall living" said former Lewis Hall president Michelle LaRose.

The four other nominees were Sorin Rector Father Joseph McKenna, Pasquerilla East Rector Sister Joris Binder, Pasquerilla West Rector Sister Annette Giarrante and Badin Rector Sister Marietta Murphy.

The HPC presented another plaque to Pasquerilla East, winner of the Sowder Award for overall hall spirit.

The award goes to the hall that demonstrates the best spirit, creativity and involvement in the Notre Dame community, according to former HPC co-chairman Bob Daley. Carrol and Fisher Halls received honorable mentions.

A secret ballot taken at the banquet declared juniors Michelle LaRose and Kerstin White as the new co-chairmen of the HPC. "I felt we could bring something to the HPC" said White, "we take ourselves seriously, but not too seriously, keeping in tradition with Tim and Bob (Salmon and Daley, former co-chairmen)."

LaRose said the co-chairmen's new ideas include a booklet to help newly-elected hall presidents "get through the red tape, with input from the old presidents."

White said the HPC can provide a great medium for new ideas, especially if it has strong unity. "The new presidents are enthusiastic," she said. "They have the potential to be as unified, supportive and cohesive (as the former presidents)."

Peace with Justice Week spotlights various lectures

By MAURA KRAUSE
News Staff

This week marks the 25th anniversary of the Center for Social Concerns' Peace with Justice Week. The CSC began the tradition when Pope John XXIII wrote "Pacem in Terris," meaning peace on earth.

The CSC has arranged a series of lectures that began last Sunday and will continue through next Sunday.

The activities planned are meant "to emphasize peace on earth," said Kathleen Maas Weigert, associate director at the CSC.

The lectures are open to the public, said Weigert.

"It is important to have the conversation on peace continue." People should "reflect on issues with the people involved with them," Weigert said.

The event was coordinated by Dan Keusal, Coordinator of Justice and Peace Programs at the Center for Social Concerns.

The speakers were chosen either because they were experts in their field or because, as was the case with Chaves, they were "Just lucky to get him," as Weigert said.

Weigert stressed that the event is open to everyone. All are allowed to "share your views," she said.

Former South Bend Bishop William McManus will speak Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the CSC. McManus' lecture is entitled "Can Deterrence be Immoral?" McManus will evaluate the peace pastoral, "The Challenge of Peace," written in 1983.

Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. Aldon and Betsy Bell will present a program, "People to People." This talk concerns the trip which 31 Seattle Washington citizens took to visit their sister city in the Soviet Union, delivering a message of peace.

The events began Sunday night when Father Drew Christiansen, professor of theology, spoke about his work on "Pacem in Terris" 25 years ago.

Monday's speaker, Cesar Chaves, spoke on the United Farm Workers grape boycott. The boycott was planned to call attention to pesticides used in grape production.

Reagan 'outraged' by fake quotes

Associated Press

WASHINGTON-- The White House said Tuesday that President Reagan was upset and it was an "outrage" that former presidential spokesman Larry Speakes had made up quotes and given them to reporters as Reagan's words.

"Everyone is appalled that he made up quotes," said spokesman Marlin Fitzwater, who replaced Speakes 14 months ago.

In a kiss-and-tell book that has roiled White House officials, Speakes disclosed that he made up a widely reported statement that was attributed to Reagan during his first summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in 1985.

In another instance, when a Korean Air Lines passenger jet was shot down by the Soviets in 1983, the president "had almost nothing to say" during meetings with the Cabinet and Congressional leaders, Speakes said. So, he said, he took statements made by Secretary of State George Shultz and attributed them to Reagan.

Fitzwater, at a news briefing dominated by questions about Speakes' revelation, blasted his predecessor, who in his six years as White House spokesman had boasted that he never lied to the press.

"It's a damned outrage, that's what it is," Fitzwater said.

"I resent it so much. It casts aspersions on the presidency and on my position. It's wrong. . . . He shouldn't have done it and . . . I won't do it," Fitzwater said.

He said he had not talked to the president, "but I'm sure he would be upset about it. I'm sure he is."

Conservative leaders who met with Reagan on Tuesday also were angry. "I think Larry Speakes has done a disservice to the president," said Peter Flaherty, chairman of Citizens for Reagan.

Paul Weyrich, head of the Free Congress Foundation, said, "The president is ill-served by all of these people who are in public service and then write books the minute they get out and reveal things that ought not to be revealed."

"All they're in it for is making a buck . . . and frankly, they ought to be ashamed of themselves," Weyrich said.

Speakes had no reaction to the White House statements. "I'd be better off not to comment," he said in a telephone interview from New York, where he is vice president for communications at Merrill Lynch Corp.

However, he offered no apologies, saying "It's an honest book."

Marine killed on patrol in Panama; caught in U.S. soldiers' crossfire

Associated Press

PANAMA CITY, Panama-- A Marine sentry was killed at an American military facility, and U.S. officials said he apparently was caught in crossfire between fellow guards on a night search for intruders.

A Pentagon spokesman in Washington said the identity of the intruders was not known, but members of the Panamanian Defense Forces are thought to have slipped into the facility before.

A spokesman for the U.S. Southern Command in Panama said there was "no reason at all at this time to suspect" that the Panamanian military was involved in Monday's shooting. He said it appeared to be an accident.

The disaster was the second to befall U.S. troops in Panama on Monday. Earlier, two helicopters collided on a runway at another base about 50 miles away, injuring eight soldiers.

The Pentagon spokesman, Dan Howard, said there have been a series of intrusions at Howard Air Force Base in the past several weeks by "individuals who were uniformed and camouflaged."

"When one has intruders into the base perimeter, who are in uniform and are camouflaged, the assumption that one comes to is that of course they are" members of the Panamanian Defense Forces, Howard said.

However, Martin Alberto Paz, a spokesman for the Panamanian military, said the Defense Forces had "absolutely nothing to do this" shooting.

And Lt. Cmdr. Doug Schamp, a U.S. Navy spokesman attached to the Southern Command, said "we have absolutely no indication" the Defense Forces were involved in the shooting.

The dead man was identified as Cpl. Ricardo Villahermosa, 25, of Santuce, Puerto Rico.

Oscars receive best ratings in five years; "The Last Emperor" sweeps the awards

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES-- Viewers tuning in to watch Cher and her eye-popping dress helped the Academy Awards show rack up what may have been its best television ratings in five years.

Viewers who stuck out the full three hour, 33-minute telecast Monday night also saw "The Last Emperor," filmed amid the imperial splendor of Beijing's Forbidden City, sweep all nine awards for which it was nominated.

The show, broadcast live on ABC-TV, had a rating of 37.7 and a 59 share, according to an overnight survey of the 15 largest cities by the A.C. Nielsen Company. The rating is a percentage of the nation's 88.6 million homes with television. The share is a percentage of sets in use. The numbers may change as other areas are counted.

National overnight ratings were expected later Tuesday.

"I'm so staggered. I don't know what to say about it," Producer Samuel Goldwyn Jr. said Tuesday about the ratings for the 60th Annual Academy Awards.

The last time the Oscars show rated higher was in 1983, when it got a 38.0 and 59. Last year, the show had a national rating of 27.5 and a 43 share, according to Nielsen.

Cher's sheer, sequined Bob Mackie-designed dress left little to the imagination when she won the best actress Oscar for "Moonstruck." Another best-actress nominee, Sally Kirkland, showed up in a black gown with a deep plunging neckline.

The other acting winners were Michael Douglas, best actor for "Wall Street"; Sean Connery, best supporting actor for "The Untouchables"; and Olympia Dukakis, best supporting actress for "Moonstruck."

Reader shares ANC experience

Dear Editor:

March 25 you published a letter by Ron Kunkel who shares with your readers his opinions on the African National Congress (ANC) in response to remarks made by Professor Walshe. Kunkel writes that the ANC is "an extremely violent terrorist organization which is supported by the Soviet Union and its allies;" it is "abhorred by the vast majority of black South Africans;" it wishes "to impose a brutal communist regime upon the people of South Africa." All these are, Kunkel asserts, "well documented facts."

Since Kunkel did not refer to any sources, may I perhaps be permitted to share some personal experience regarding the ANC? I used to live in the Southern African region for three years earlier on in this decade. Among my tasks was to care to some measure for South African refugees. Some of the refugees were ANC members; some were members of the Pan-African Congress (PAC); some were union members and union officials; some were school children. Some joined the ANC while in exile; others didn't.

In the countries I worked in, the ANC had ambitious programs to provide housing, farmland and education to their members and members' children. I personally assisted in obtaining, disbursing and accounting for funds to pay for housing, to acquire farmland, to institute vocational training programs, to pay for primary, secondary and tertiary education as well as other programs. I knew some ANC members quite well. Some were my co-workers; some were refugees; a few were expatriates, mostly from Britain.

With some of the ANC members I hit it off well. We were friends, and our children played together in the yard. There were others whom I disliked greatly on account of their personalities. There were some who openly vowed to "avenge death with death;" there were others (the ANC leadership, as a matter of fact) who urged restraint.

Assistance for the programs the ANC ran came from all over the world. Poland, the Soviet Union, yes, but also from the United States, West Germany and the Netherlands. They all provided funds to train ANC members in all kinds of vocations. The governments of Sweden and Norway provided funds for purposes of education, health and other social services as well as for ANC conferences. Churches from all over the globe contributed money to acquire what refugees need to set up a temporary home in exile.

In traveling through the region I certainly failed to hear that the "vast majority of black South Africans" abhor the ANC. While some members of the Congress are self-professed communists, I would hazard to say most aren't. What does the Congress want? It wants freedom, it wants a voice and a vote. It does not want to "impose a brutal communist regime." For one thing, South Africa presently has one. No sensible person would want to replace one such regime with another. For that matter, I don't think anyone could impose such a regime on South Africa, once free—certainly not the Congress. I think it is much too heterogeneous to achieve such a feat.

I conclude on another personal note: while living in the region I have seen many white people with, indeed, abhorrent attitudes, racial and otherwise. As for the Africans, I have learned great respect and appreciation. I can't imagine a "brutal" free South Africa.

ANC displays many faces

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to Zandra Mencer's letter printed in the Apr. 6 edition of The Observer correcting the "inaccuracies" of an earlier letter written on the African National Congress by Ron Kunkel. I would like to point out that her letter, itself, contains both inaccuracies and unsubstantiated, though colorful, claims.

She claims, for instance, that neither the ANC nor its leaders condone necklacing. In fact, in an evening news report by one of the major networks on necklacing in South Africa, Willie Mandela was videotaped before a group of ANC members not only condoning necklacing but advocating it for those who opposed or stood in the way of the goals of the ANC. (Of course, this leads us to ask: Will the African National Congress, if it comes to power, defend and protect the rights it claims and struggles for itself for non-member blacks and whites? In light of certain facts, we can't help but think the answer to this question is no.)

No one supports apartheid. But in our opposition we must be careful not to uncritically jump to the support of the African National Congress. The ANC has many faces, and the face they choose to put forward depends upon the group they are dealing with and/or seeking sympathy and support from. They present themselves differently to the Western public than they do to the Communist governments which support them, the current South African government, and the blacks who oppose them. Zandra Mencer should not be so quick to judge Ron Kunkel's letter, nor to accept the face the ANC puts forward to the West. All of us share her opposition to this institutional, economic and social evil of apartheid, but we must proceed in our opposition with an activism informed by a perceptive and critical mind.

Power entails responsibility

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to Bob Dowd's letter in the March 23 edition, concerning the U.S. troop deployment in Honduras. Mr. Dowd states that he and the rest of Pax Christi Notre Dame are not "...so naive as to believe that the issues involved are simple." I agree with him completely in that there are no simple issues involved in the decision to send 3200 soldiers to Central America. However, after reading the rest of his letter, I am not so sure that he is not being naive.

Mr. Dowd, in calling for the withdrawal of the U.S. troops, claims that the deployment shows that the Reagan administration is not interested in peace in Central America. Mr. Dowd and the rest of Pax Christi are completely wrong in this assumption. Contrary to what Pax Christi may believe, the president is not out to perpetuate a war. The goal of the Reagan administration is peace in Central America, but they will not sacrifice democracy and human rights to attain that peace. The U.S.-backed contras have gone to the negotiating tables with Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega before, but the reason that there is no peace is not that the contras want to keep fighting the war, it is that Ortega's terms have never been acceptable.

Pax Christi also claims that the U.S. troops are there to "directly engage in war." This is a blatant falsehood. From the moment the sending of U.S. troops came about, it has been planned and made known that none of these troops would be anywhere near any of the fighting along the Honduras-Nicaragua border. In fact, reports have come back to the effect that some of the soldiers are bored because their situation is just like any other training exercise they would perform back in America. The U.S. is not engaging in open warfare.

Pax Christi would like to see the pursuit of "peaceful solutions to conflict." Believe it or not, so would the Reagan administration, the contras, and the 3200 American soldiers in Honduras. In fact, that is exactly what the troop deployment is—a peaceful measure in response to an urgent situation, which is the Nicaraguan intrusion into Honduras to destroy the Contra forces. The U.S. troops will not engage in any conflicts.

Pax Christi feels all peaceful means should be exhausted before engaging in war. This is an ideal I wholeheartedly support. What Pax Christi needs to realize, however, is that there are times when peaceful solutions simply will not work. If the contras stopped fighting now so that they could pursue "peaceful solutions," they would be completely defeated, giving the Sandinistas free reign in Nicaragua, and soon after, in most of Central America.

What Pax Christi needs to realize is that peace doesn't just happen, you have to struggle to achieve it and strive to maintain it. To do so by peaceful means is everyone's goal. But it must also be realized that when peaceful means failure, one must be prepared to fight to survive so that one can be able to keep looking for those peaceful means.

Meg Tilly and Rob Lowe star in 'Masquerade,' a film of betrayal and murder.

'Masquerade' intrigues

JOE BUCOLO
accent writer

Tired of movies about babies or about fathers and sons switching places? MGM's new thriller "Masquerade" provides a brilliant interweaving of romance, mystery, suspense, deceit and murder to create a quick-paced, enjoyable motion picture.

"Masquerade" stars Rob Lowe as Tim Whalan, a young yachtsman who finds himself in a deceptive game of love and murder. Tim becomes romantically involved with Brooke Morrison (Kim Cattrail), his boss's wife. But at a party, Tim gets his first glimpse of Olivia Lawrence (Meg Tilly), a young, naive and very rich heiress who returns to town after the death of her widowed mother. Olivia moves in with Tony Gateworth (John Glover), her drunken, conniving stepfather who decides to somehow get her fortune.

Eventually, Tim and Olivia fall in love, which leaves Brooke feeling neglected and angry. It is then that the masquerade begins to unfold.

In a mysterious scene between Tim and Tony, the audience discovers that the two are working together in a plot to get Olivia's money. In the meantime, the heiress bumps into an old friend, Mike McGill (Doug Savant), who is a policeman. It is Mike who is a key figure in the movie's finale.

Things really become thrilling when Tim and Tony plan to murder Olivia. While the two lovers are in bed, a drunken Tony stumbles into the room pretending to want to shoot Tim. There is a struggle for the gun, planned to convince Olivia that Tim is really in love with her. However, plans go awry, and the wrong person is shot and killed.

The already fast-paced movie becomes a whirlwind of suspense and intrigue as it prepares the audience for the finale. There are a search for a murderer, a surprise witness, a marriage, another revealed masquerade and three additional deaths. The finale becomes a race against time that puts the lives of all the major characters in imminent jeopardy.

The performances in the film are fabulous. Lowe develops his acting talent by taking on a challenging role which is unlike any of his previous ones. Tilly, nominated for an Oscar for her performance in "Agnes of God," does a brilliant job as a naive, lonely girl caught in a web of deception. Recently a star in "Hanoi Hilton," Savant has an opportunity to play a multi-faceted man as well as to gain some great publicity from this outstanding film.

Most importantly, this movie

Could there be a little more construction?

With all the renovation on campus, we tend to become immune to it after a while and don't even notice any progress being made. North Dining Hall seems to have been in this erector set-like stage for months, and just dust has been flying around Nieuwland for weeks. But since the year began, I have watched some definite progress from my window in Farley. I've witnessed--and listened to--two dorms burst into existence. There will soon be no more dump trucks and tractors at 7 a.m. because the finishing touches are being put on these new dorms that will be ready for the fall semester.

Located next to the Pasquerillas, and looking almost exactly like them, these dorms are dubbed Siegfried and Knott. They are reserved for female Dormers, which is either a relief or a dismay, depending on your persuasion. One hundred and fifty girls are already transferring to them next semester from their present dorms. It does seem strange to want to transfer into a new dorm, but these girls had a variety of reasons.

Probably the most popular reason is the fact that these are completely new dorms, and so will have new people and new traditions. Maureen Finnegan, a sophomore, decided to transfer into Siegfried "to get to know new and neat people--there will be a lot of transfer students." Tracey Shelton, a freshman, is "excited to meet different people." This whole new circle of girls will be responsible for what will become Siegfried and Knott traditions. "I really don't know what to expect with spirit," says Ronda Randle, a sophomore, "but I hope to start something new and different."

Room and roommate situations also prompted some of these girls to move. According to Ronda, transferring to Knott meant "a better chance to get a quad since there aren't many in Lewis." Tracey will be rooming with a girl from another dorm. Transferring to a new dorm was a compromise between the two. One junior, who has had terrible luck with roommates the past three years and is "tired of room picks" in her present dorm, asked a couple of friends to move over to Knott with her.

It will be only a matter of a few years before Siegfried and Knott become part of the family and not just "those new girls' dorms." Their traditions and spirits will be going strong, and all we will need then is some new male dorms to keep that seven-to-three ratio!

entertains--like very few of the newly released films. It is a roller coaster ride from beginning to end, full of shocks, plot twists and role reversals. Set in a world quite like that of Fitzgerald's "The Great Gatsby," "Masquerade" depicts the disintegration of the lives of these rich characters. For those viewers who hate "corny," happy endings, this movie ends in death and shambles. However, it still presents a ray of hope and love in the final scene.

The only bad thing about the film is that, due to the major role the element of surprise plays, it is not a movie people will want to see more than once.

"Masquerade" is a fascinatingly complex and intriguing film which entertains its viewers with a remarkable combination of many elements. With the prices of movies as high as they are and with the recent number of "copycat" films, it's great to attend a movie like this.

Notre Dame becomes more selective

accent writer

Based on the applicant pool, the incoming freshman class promises to be full of superlatives. It appears that the class of 1992 will have the most minority students, the most children of alumni, and will be the most selective of any class in the history of the University. These unprecedented trends are making it tougher than ever to get into Notre Dame.

Kevin Rooney, director of undergraduate admissions, describes the dramatic surplus of applications. "This year the pool of 9,635 applicants for 1,800 spots was the University's biggest ever. The number of applicants has increased 20 percent over last year's record-breaking high."

One recent trend is an increased percentage of minority applicants. Rooney speculates that the incoming freshman class will have the highest percentage of minority students ever. "The amount should surpass last year's record of 11 percent minority students," he said.

This year the pool of 9,635 applicants for 1,800 spots was the University's biggest ever.

Another interesting admissions statistic concerns children of alumni. This year 25 or 30 more children of alumni were admitted than last year. This is surprising because 25 percent of the class of 1991 consists of children of alumni. Ever wonder how Notre Dame graduates almost instinctively travel back to campus for an annual football game in their green plaid pants? For many alums it is hereditary.

Rooney said that the applicant pool has stayed steady the last few years at about 61 percent men and 39 percent women. This year's freshman class consists of about 64 percent men. So, it is easier for men to get into Notre Dame but only by about 3 to 4 percent.

Last year about 100 more women were accepted due to the conversion of Howard Hall into a women's dorm. Rooney said that there is a four-year plan in effect that will slowly increase the amount of women accepted in order to fill Siegfried and Knott, the two new women's dorms.

When asked to name the worst part of his job as director of admissions, Rooney responded, "The hardest part is to have to say no to so many well qualified students." If you happen to have friends or even brothers or sisters that did not get accepted here this year, console them with the facts. Certainly the size and the quality of the applicant pool for the class of 1992 may be the biggest and best yet.

resulted in records of 17-3-1 and 27-4-2, respectively. Often overshadowed by the the football and basketball teams, these two teams quietly put up the best numbers in Irish history for their respective sports.

Best Individual Portrayal in a Minor Role: Though certainly her role wasn't minor, her recognition occasionally was. Molly Sullivan, who seemed to struggle at times (for her, one loss is a struggle) during the season, regained NCAA fencing's individual national championship in late March after capturing the crown as a sophomore and placing third last year.

Best Female Newcomer: Muffet McGraw, in her first season as head coach of the women's basketball team, put the fight and the running game back in the Irish as they finished the campaign with a 20-8 record and just missed an invitation to a postseason tournament.

Best Male Newcomer: Tony Rice, who was thrust into the starting quarterback position in the fourth week of the season after just two months in a Notre Dame uniform. Running the option with a great deal of success, Rice paced the Irish running game to dominating wins over Southern Cal and Alabama.

DIVYA DE GARDE Spiritual Channel

Divya De Garde brings information through from the Spiritual plane to assist others in mastering their individual lives and circumstances. He is a clear and specific channel, accomplished in the New Age healing arts.

Understanding and Using Reincarnation

Did you live before? How can we remember our "Past lives"? Why don't we automatically remember? How do you make use of what you recall? How can we release ourselves from past vows, bonds or commitments? Have you been with people before whom you know presently? These and other aspects of reincarnation will be discussed, along with a group regression to illustrate the functionality of this type of personal growth experience.

Date: Thursday, April 14
Time: 7:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m.
Single Cost: $10.00

INCREASING OUR ABILITY TO LOVE

Many of us take for granted that we already know how to love and be loved. Why is true love and intimacy so important to us yet difficult to find and keep? What can we do about this? We can expand our ability to give and receive in a loving manner. This class will assist you in opening to this process.

Date: Friday, April 15
Time: 7:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m.
Single Cost: $10.00

BEGINNING CHANNELING

This will be a class for those who wish to bring through their own guidance and information but are having difficulty with where to start, clarity, or vocalizing. It will be a gentle, non-pressure growth experience, centering around the individual's own divinity and allowing growth at your own pace.

Date: Saturday, April 16
Time: 9:00 - 5:00 p.m.
Single Cost: $45.00

LEARNING TO WORK WITH CRYSTALS

This will be an in-depth class on how crystals work, what crystals can and cannot do, the history of crystals, how to do a crystal layout, what crystals to wear, how to pick out crystals for yourself and others, and crystal healing. There will be "hands on" practice so all participants will have practical application of what they have learned.

Date: Sunday, April 17
Time: 2:00 p.m. - 7:00 p.m.
Single Cost: $35.00

SEEING - DREAMING

This class will be in two parts. The first will consist of working to develop the ability to "see" intuitively, both within and outside of self, so you will be able to work more easily with your own inner being. The second part will be on understanding and using your dreams and working with whatever it is you see. We will cover how to remember your dreams, staying conscious while you dream and unfolding the layers of meaning in your dreams.

Date: Tuesday, April 19
Time: 7:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m.
Single Cost: $10.00

RELATIONSHIPS IN THE NEW AGE

As we move into the energies of the New Age, the roles of relationships are changing. This class will illustrate how we create and attract relationships, how we maintain and end them, when it is appropriate to stay in or leave a difficult relationship, how to evaluate your true needs and how to meet them and, finally, how relationships assist us in our spiritual growth.

Date: Wednesday, April 20
Time: 7:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m.
Single Cost: $10.00

Cost for attending ALL classes is $95.00.

Mr. De Garde will be accepting personal appointments for April 13 through 19. To register for the classes, personal appointments or for information, please call UNLIMITED RESOURCES/BOOKS at (219)234-2323. Irish, IU soccer play benefit

By PETE GEGEN
Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS—It may be the off-season for college soccer, but Notre Dame and Indiana will square off Thursday night at Indianapolis in what amounts to more than a spring scrimmage.

Organizers are calling it the Golden Boot soccer match, and this intra-state battle is the fulfillment of a dream of one of the biggest soccer promoters in the state of Indiana.

The idea was first suggested by Nick Matavuli, a soccer writer and promoter in Bloomington, who wanted to create a state rivalry with Indiana and either Evansville or Notre Dame.

Unfortunately Matavuli passed away last year, before he could see his dream become reality under the leadership of John S. Rosebrough and 16 central Indiana business men and women.

As chairman of both Golden Boot Inc., a non-profit organization, and the U.S. Olympic Committee for the state of Indiana, Rosebrough has created not only an intra-state rivalry, but also a fundraiser for the Summer Olympics.

"For the first match we've made nice monetary guarantees to Notre Dame and Indiana for coming to play," said Rosebrough. "Proceeds above and beyond that will benefit the USOC for the state of Indiana."

Although the ticket prices may seem a bit steep at $20, $10 and $5, the price includes pregame receptions hosted by both the Notre Dame and Indiana clubs in Indianapolis and entertainment by various bands before the game and by The Starlights during halftime.

The game is being played at the 12,000-seat IUPUI-Indianapolis track and field stadium, 905 W. New York St. An expected crowd of 5,000-plus Thursday ruled out using Kunz Field, the soccer venue for the 1987 Pan-American games, which seats only 4,500.

"In future years," said Rosebrough, "the proceeds will be used for a high school soccer players scholarship fund, similar to the one set up for caddies in golf, and also for buying more seats for Kunz Field."

The receptions outside the stadium begin at 6 p.m., with game time at 7:30 p.m.

Lax hosts Foresters in opener at Krause

By PETE LaFLEUR
Sports Writer

It's a case of "better late than never" for the Notre Dame lacrosse team as it prepares for its first game in Edward J. "Moose" Krause Stadium tonight at 6:30.

The Irish will play Lake Forest, a team they beat two weeks ago 11-6. The lacrosse team's debut in Krause was delayed when its first two home games last month were moved to Alumni Field because of conflicting events.

The team will be attempting to tie two school records by winning their ninth game in a season and by capturing its seventh victory in a row.

"The fact that we have a chance to tie those records and really have the momentum moving makes it very exciting to be playing at home," said senior tri-captain Tom Lanahan. "And getting to finally play at Krause makes it even better."

Lanahan cited the excellent condition of the field and the seating capacity for fans as the most exciting aspects about playing in Krause. He added that there will continue to be a halftime shootout among fans for a Notre Dame lacrosse stick.

Notre Dame has never lost to Lake Forest in six previous meetings, including an 11-6 win on April 1.

But the Foresters, who return 17 letterwinners from a year ago, are one of the tougher squads that Notre Dame faces in Great Lakes Conference play. The Irish victory over the Foresters on April Fools Day was a bit-tersweet one. In that game the team lost senior starting creaseman Jeff Shay with a season ending knee injury and had to thwart a quick fourth quarter comeback by the Foresters.

Irish head coach Rich O'Leary said the team will try to contain Lake Forest's Lyles Shirley by employing a zone defense. Shirley came up big in the previous game by scoring five of his team's six goals against the Irish man-to-man defense.

Most of the players agreed that they should respond positively to their unexpectedly close double-overtime win at Kenyon Saturday.

"A close win always makes you work harder in practice and it somehow gives you momentum," said Lanahan. "It's kind of ironic that in 1986 we had a close 10-9 win over Lake Forest and then went on to tool on Denison."

Denison also is somewhat on the team's mind. The Big Red already has beaten Michigan State, last year's NCAA Western representative, and travels to South Bend for a crucial game with the Irish on Saturday.

"The Lake Forest game is important to us in many respects," O'Leary said. "We will be approaching the game with the belief that whatever we do will affect our performance against Denison."

Washington's Mike Ridley falls during this encounter with Philadelphia's Peter Zezel, but it was the Capitals who came out on top Tuesday with a 5-2 victory over the Flyers in Stanley Cup play. Philadelphia still leads the best-of-seven series 3-2.

Flames, Oilers, Blues clinch

Associated Press

Rookie Brett Hull scored two goals, including his third game-winner of the series, Tuesday night to lead St. Louis to a 5-3 victory over Chicago as the Blues joined Edmonton and Calgary in eliminating first-round NHL playoff opponents.

Edmonton beat Winnipeg 6-2 and Calgary took Los Angeles 6-4. The winners advanced to a meeting in the Smythe Division final. St. Louis awaits the winner of the Detroit-Toronto series in the Norris Division.

Meanwhile, Aaron Broten, Kirk Muller and Pat Verbeek, limited as a line to just two points in four previous games, combined for six as New Jersey beat the New York Islanders 4-2 to take a 3-2 lead in their best-of-7 series.

Toronto staved off elimination against Detroit thanks to three goals by Ed Olyczyk including the game-winner just 34 seconds into overtime as the Maple Leafs edged the Red Wings 6-5.

Elsewhere, it was Washington 5, Philadelphia 2; Hartford 3, Montreal 1; and Boston 5, Buffalo 4. Detroit, Philadelphia, Montreal and Boston lead their respective series 3-2 with Game 6 in each Stanley Cup matchup set for Thursday night.

Oilers 6, Jets 2

At Edmonton, Mark Messier figured in the first four Oilers goals, all on the power play, and Wayne Gretzky had a goal and four assists.

Messier, who had 13 points in the five games, scored twice and set up goals by Esa Tikkanen and Jari Kurri.

Flames 6, Kings 4

At Calgary, Hakan Loob led the Flames with two goals.

tennis player Brian Kalbas' 12 points.

Tournament Commissioner Mike Manning couldn't have had a more care-free first two rounds of Bookstore.

"It's been great," said the sophomore. "The weather has cooperated for the most part, and we really haven't had a lot of problems. It's good to be past the prelims and the first two rounds—it all gets easier from here."

Third round action begins today at 4 p.m.

Harrick signs to coach UCLA

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES- Jim Harrick, the former coach of the Pepperdine University Waves, was introduced as UCLA's new head basketball coach Tuesday and said he didn't care about not being the Bruins' first choice for the job.

"Did you know that John Wooden was the fourth choice at UCLA? I'm serious," Harrick said at a packed campus news conference, referring to the legendary coach who led the Bruins to 10 NCAA championships in 12 years before retiring in 1975.

Harrick, a former UCLA assistant who was the head coach at Pepperdine the past nine seasons, was hired 13 days after Walt Hazzard, who had held the job for four years, was dismissed.

Since Hazzard's firing, several big-name coaches were interviewed by UCLA amidst much hoopla. Among them were North Carolina State's Jim Valvano and Kansas' Larry Brown, who was offered the job last Thursday night and accepted it, but changed his mind the next day, deciding to stay with national champion Kansas.

Harrick, 49, said he signed a four-year contract.

"I've worked every day of the last 28 years to prepare myself for this opportunity. I know the magnitude of this program. I know what we can accomplish. We have some great, young guys in the program. We're looking forward to a tremendous experience."

The Bruins were 77-47 under Hazzard, but only 16-14 this past season, well below expectations a year after they won the Pacific-10 Conference championship.

Under Harrick, Pepperdine was 17-13 this season and 167-97 overall. The Waves appeared in the NCAA tournament four times and the National Invitation Tournament twice in Harrick's nine years.

Harrick is the sixth coach at UCLA since Wooden retired. Gene Bartow, Gary Cunningham and Brown lasted two years each; Larry Farmer held the job three years and Hazzard four. None won an NCAA championship.

Harrick was an assistant under Cunningham from 1977-79. He took over at Pepperdine the following season.

Athletic Director Peter Dalis said he made up his mind to hire Harrick Monday night after an hour-long discussion with Louisville coach Denny Crum, a former classmate of Dalis' and an assistant under Wooden. Harrick was informed of the decision Tuesday morning.

"When I called Jim this morning I asked him if he was ready to join me in the toughest job in college basketball," Dalis said. "It is, without a doubt. This place is a fishbowl, it really is. There is a built-in anxiety at UCLA."

Contrary to what's been reported, Dalis said the job was actually offered to only Brown and Harrick.

UCLA point guard Pooh Richardson applauded the hiring of Harrick.

The Observer / Michael Moran

Pooh Richardson (24), shown here in action at Notre Dame this past season, will be playing for a new coach next year. Former Pepperdine coach Jim Harrick was named to replace the fired Walt Hazzard at UCLA.

Receivers look to start a new, post-Brown era

By GREG GUFFEY
Sports Writer

Irish quarterbacks will not have the luxury of looking upfield and spotting Heisman Trophy winner Tim Brown sprinting down the sidelines this fall, a sight Notre Dame fans grew accustomed to over the last four years.

SPRING

Tight Ends & Receivers

Brown caught 137 passes during his Irish career for 2493 yards and 12 touchdowns. He added 442 more yards on the ground with four scores.

The average Notre Dame fan might tend to savor those stats and memories for as long as possible, but not receiver coach Pete Cordelli. The third-year Irish assistant is ready to get on with business, leaving the past behind.

"There's only one Tim

Brown, and there will never be another," Cordelli said. "But you can't dwell on the past. You have to move forward. We're going to miss him, but the program moves on. You could say we're entering a new era."

With Brown gone, Cordelli is

experimenting with a number of young players. He likes what he has seen in the early spring drills.

"This is the fun time," Cordelli says. "It's interesting to see how people are going to develop. That's what coaching is all about."

The biggest change in personnel is the switch of tri-captain Mark Green from tailback to flanker. Green rushed for 861 yards on 146 carries last fall, but he is no stranger to his new position. He played flanker in 10 games as a freshman and caught 25 passes for 242 yards as a sophomore.

Last season, Green pulled in 13 passes for 98 yards. If not for the multi-talented Brown, he may have been the top receiver for the Irish. So far, Green feels at home in his new position.

"I'm adjusting to it," Green said. "It's not really that bad. I'm familiar with the offensive scheme we're trying to do. I know all of the formations and the plays we're trying to do."

Cordelli also likes Green's progress this spring.

"He's one of the better athletes on the team," Cordelli said. "He has a lot of ability and can add to the football team."

Even with Green's impressive performances this spring, Cordelli says no one has secured a starting spot on the team.

"We have a lot of competition at split end and flanker," Cordelli said. "I don't think anybody has a definite lock on the job. That's good because they can't let down. They have to be consistent every day. We won't be able to set the depth chart until after the spring game."

With sophomore Pat Terrell having moved from split end to free safety, freshman Bobby Carpenter has seen a lot of playing time with the Irish first team at split end. Freshman

Pat Eilers

Pierre Martin, junior Aaron Robb and junior Pat Eilers also have seen much action, mostly with the second team. Robb caught two passes for 21 yards in the fall, while Eilers is moving from strong safety.

Others competing for the two spots are James Dillard, Patrick Fallon and Steve Alaniz. Ricky Watters has even caught some passes, and he led the team in reception yards during last Saturday's scrimmage.

An encouraging sign for Cordelli is the fact that the receivers have suffered no injuries this spring.

The tight end situation is still unclear at this point. Junior tri-captain Andy Heck started all 11 games at that spot last season, but he has been seeing action at tackle this spring. It is still uncertain what position he will play in the fall. Heck caught five passes for 59 yards last year.

Freshman Frank Jacobs and junior Mike Brennan also are fighting for the tight end spot.

Too many conferences at the pitcher's mound like this one helped Baltimore manager Cal Ripken lose his job. Hall of Famer Frank Robinson, a former Baltimore player who previously has managed Cleveland and San Francisco, replaces Ripken.

Woeful Orioles fire Ripken

Robinson becomes first black manager in four years

Associated Press

BALTIMORE- Frank Robinson became baseball's first black manager in four years on Tuesday when he was named to replace Cal Ripken on the Baltimore Orioles in a move made in an attempt to rescue the club from its worst start in 33 years.

Under Ripken, the Orioles opened the 1988 season by losing their first six games after finishing the 1987 season with a 67-95 record, the third-worst mark by the team since the franchise moved from St. Louis in 1954.

Robinson, the first black to manage at the major league level, was also the last black to manage in the big leagues. He was fired by the San Francisco Giants in 1984.

"I don't profess to be a superman. But I do have ideas," Robinson said at a hastily called news conference at Memorial Stadium.

Baltimore General Manager Roland Hemond said had Robinson decided not to take job, Ripken would have stayed on as manager.

Robinson, elected to baseball's Hall of Fame in 1982, was six games into his first season in a front-office position as a special assistant to the president. He has been a member of the Orioles' organization as player, coach or in the front office for 13 years.

Robinson begins his third stint as a major league manager. His first assignment was with the Cleveland Indians from 1974-77 and then was with the Giants from 1981-84.

"I don't think I ever felt the pressure of being in the position of being a black manager," Robinson said. "I am aware of the pressure of the position, but I don't let it bother me."

Only two other blacks have managed in the major leagues, Larry Doby with the Chicago White Sox in 1978 and Maury Wills managed Seattle in 1980-81.

I THINK THE IMAGE WE NEED TO CREATE FOR YOU IS, "REPENTANT, BUT LEARNING."

YOU KNOW, SHOW SOME HUMILITY, AND PRESENT YOURSELF AS A REGULAR GUY TRYING TO LEARN THE ROPES OF A DIFFICULT JOB.

DIFFICULT DOESN'T BEGIN TO DESCRIBE IT.

I WORKED UP SOME SLOGANS. SEE WHAT YOU THINK.

It might not have been as easy as it looks here, but AF ROTC breezed Bookstore Basketball's round of 128 with a 21-10 victory over Floor Laimbeer on Tuesday. Pete Skiko has all the details on Tuesday's Bookstore action at right.

Bookstore field now at 128

Assistant Sports Editor

The second round of Bookstore Basketball XVII came to a close yesterday, with more seeded teams winning in impressive fashion and other unheralded squads hoping to cause them to look over their shoulders a little.

The final 128 teams includes Hahn's Funeral Home, which uprooted The Giving Tree 21-10 yesterday. Hahn's is composed of two members of 1987 final-eight entry Party at Chips When We Repeat (Bubba Cunningham and Tom Antonini) and is bolstered by the strong inside play of John McCabe.

Another team which may sneak up on some people is Malicious Prosecution, led by Peter Van Dyke and Irish soccer player Joe Sternberg. The Prosecution slashed A Couple of Hacks 21-9. Former final-16 entrant Tofu's Last Gig hushed Transport Phenomena 21-14, and 5 Slamma Jamma cracked Faculty Jokes 21-12.

Former Notre Dame guard Chris Nanni had a big day yesterday, going three-for-five as his Tequila White Lightning squad put a damper on The Fun Bunch 21-8, while Still Friends of Chris Nanni shut down Prime Time Scoots 21-18. Also, All The President's Men II continued its winning ways with a 21-13 broiling of Chicken Heads. Monk Malloy shot three-for-nine while pulling down four rebounds for his Men.

For the first time in the tournament, roommate met roommate as Sean Brown of Spidey's Netters confronted freshman roomie Joe Massman of The Disturbed. Massman threw his shoulder out of joint early in the game, resulting in an 0-for-3 shooting day and some harsh words for Brown.

"We'll see about room picks this year," said a disgruntled Massman after the game. "We knew he didn't have any athletic ability so we left him alone, and he still only scored three points. But I hurt my shoulder early, so our scoring punch was effectively neutralized anyway. We just ran into some bad luck."

Elsewhere, The Citizens cancelled Big Plans 21-8; Plug Players caught We Always Play in the Rain out of its environment and won 21-15; Shaggy and the Mystery Machine harpooned The Magnanimous Chubbies 21-11 as Shaggy and Co. pulled down 38 rebounds as a team; Orange Blossom Special whitewashed St. Michael's Shrinks Your Underwear 21-7; and Uncle Fester and the Chiefs scalped Get Out of My Face 21-5.

We're Pathetic So You Better Not Lose again underestimated its own ability and thrashed Mike Jones and 4 Guys 21-11; Carver High utilized the 'keep shooting and some are bound to go in' strategy in going 21-for-89 from the field but still dicing The Couch Potatoes 21-11. The Potatoes were an equally inept 11-for-68.

In the two tightest games of the afternoon, The Dukes of Slam mobilized Stationary Motion 24-22 behind Tom Connaghan's 11 points, and A SMC Chick, A Doormat, and Three Other... staved off The Bumblebees by the same score, despite Irish

Irish face Northwestern today at Jake Kline Field

Special to The Observer

Purdue jumped out to a 9-0 lead and withstood a late Notre Dame rally to defeat the Irish 11-7 in baseball Tuesday at West Lafayette, Ind.

The Irish, who now hold a 20-14 record, host Northwestern at 2:30 this afternoon at Jake Kline Field.

Notre Dame has lost 17 consecutive games against Big Ten opposition. The last time Notre Dame beat a Big Ten team was in May 1986, when the Irish defeated Northwestern 22-4.

The Boilermakers (13-19) rocked Irish starting pitcher Tom Shaw and reliever Rob Kramer for five runs in the first inning and four runs in the second.

Notre Dame closed the gap somewhat with single runs in the third and fourth innings, making the score 9-2.

The fourth-inning run came on a leadoff home run by senior first baseman Tim Hutson, his 10th of the season. Hutson's clout tied Rich Gonski's school record for home runs in a season.

Tony Livorsi, in his third pitching appearance of the season, kept Purdue from extending its lead during the middle innings. The sophomore from Glenview, Ill., allowed just two runs (one of them earned) in 5.1 innings of work.

Purdue scored twice more in the seventh inning and appeared to have put the game out of reach.

But the Irish mounted a furious comeback. Trailing 11-2 in the ninth inning, Notre Dame scored five runs to make the final score 11-7. The Irish had the bases loaded and the tying run at the plate when Boiler reliever Mark Blosser ended the rally.

Purdue's victory snapped a six-game Irish winning streak. Notre Dame still has won 14 of its last 18 games heading into today's battle with Northwestern.

The Wildcats held an 11-16 record in the beginning of the week, having lost four games over the weekend to nationally-ranked Michigan. Northwestern beat Notre Dame in both games between the two teams last year.

Kevin Chenail is the probable starting pitcher for the Irish today. His next start will break Don Wolfe's school record for career starts by a pitcher.

The Observer / Michael Moran

Tim Hutson's fourth-inning homer tied a school record for home runs in a season (10), but it was not enough to keep the Irish from losing to Purdue 11-7 on Tuesday. Notre Dame faces Northwestern at 2:30 p.m. today at Jake Kline Field.

It's the Academy Awards (Notre Dame style)

On Monday evening, the "stars" came out in Los Angeles for the Academy Awards.

Now before you turn the page and conclude that the Academy Awards have absolutely nothing to do with the world of sports, think again. As usual, Liza Minelli showed up at the gala presentations with a diamond-studded robe and hood, not unlike the garments worn into the rings by boxers and the sportsmen of sportsmen, professional wrestlers.

But that's not the only proof in this pudding that these two fields are comparable. There is little question that sports and show business have become interrelated in recent years. The Final Four is a massive television production, the basketball movie Hoosiers was nominated for two Oscars last year, and even the Little League World Series has TV timeouts now.

Closer to home, several Notre Dame characters and casts have had their moments on center stage of the national sports scene in the past year.

For some the limelight has been brief; for others, brilliant and almost blinding. But there is little question that the athletic endeavors at this small Catholic university in northern Indiana can grab the attention of sports lovers across the nation and even abroad.

None of the winners of the Irish Items Academy Awards will show up for the award ceremony in diamonds or tuxedos, if for no other reason than that I'm not holding an awards ceremony.

But enough of the pre-game show, or is it the opening credits? Here are this writer's picks for the Academy Award-winning moments on this campus this year in some nontraditional categories. The envelopes, please:

Best Drama: The Heisman Trophy Presentation at the Downtown Athletic Club in New York City. Irish eyes on campus and across the country were glued to their television sets on the afternoon of December 5 to see if Mr. All-Purpose Tim Brown would become Notre Dame's seventh recipient of the John W. Heisman Memorial Trophy.

The final three weeks of the regular season brought suspense to an otherwise one-horse race when Syracuse quarterback Don McPherson rode the Orangemen's undefeated record and the Eastern establishment's coattails into New York to become a potential upset winner. The previous certainty of an Irish Heisman was erased, and the Notre Dame world seemed to stand still for those final moments until the announcement that Brown would bring the huge trophy back to campus and his room in Cavanaugh.

Best (Worst) Tragedy: The failed two-point conversion against Penn State in November. To end any glimmer of hope for a Notre Dame bid to the Orange Bowl and shot at the national championship, the Nittany Lions swarmed Tony Rice to cap a 21-20 upset victory. There would be no Cinderella-like script this time.

Best Team Portrayal in a Minor Role: The Irish soccer and hockey teams, for seasons which
