94 killed in British stadium catastrophe

Thatcher promises inquiry

Associated Press

SHEFFIELD, England—Crowds surging against a steel anti-riot fence in a packed soccer stadium crushed 94 fans to death and left at least 200 injured Saturday in Britain's worst sports disaster, police said.

Most of the dead, some of whom were trampled after the fence collapsed, were teenagers and children, ambulance official Michael Boyce said.

The crush appeared to be the result of overcrowding. Reports said hundreds of fans without tickets poured through a turnstyle gate behind one of the goals, crushing those in front.

"It seemed as if it was four deep in dead bodies with people climbing over them," said a survivor, 22-year-old Stuart McGeah.

In the wake of the tragedy, law makers Sunday demanded changes in stadium designs, including a ban on anti-riot fences.

Prime Minister Margaret

Thatcher visited Hillsborough stadium Sunday and promised a public inquiry into Saturday's disaster, which turned a soccer cup semifinal into a nightmare.

Then she visited hospitalized survivors and listened to their accounts of Britain's worst sports disaster.

"We were shouting out to (the police) to get us out and they just couldn't move us," 33-year-old John Davis told her. "It was just sheer bedlam. It was every man for himself. There were people screaming and screaming."

Seventeen-year-old Wayne Adams said he was about five rows from the front of the crowd. "I realized it was serious when I saw one of the lasses standing near me just turn blue in the face. She went down. She was dead. That was it," he said.

Police defended the decision to open 16-foot-wide steel gates outside the stadium just as the match between the Liverpool and Nottingham Forest teams

200 attend divestment rally

By JOHN ZALLER
Staff Reporter

Nearly 200 people danced and sang to the sounds of Allen Faye and the McNeils on the steps of the Administration Building as the Notre Dame Anti-Apartheid Network capped off its Apartheid Awareness week.

The event was billed as a celebration for those who are aware that divestment from South Africa is the only way to abolish Apartheid.

"This is a concert and celebration for everyone who is in step. We know why we're here tonight," said John-Paul Checkett, a member of the Anti-Apartheid Network and organizer of the celebration. Checkett stood in front of a banner reading "Divest For Justice" and lead the crowd in chants and songs at the end of the celebration.

"I am pleased with the turnout," Checkett said later, "it shows that people are aware that divestment is the answer. I think it is a disgrace that the University still has investments in South Africa."

"This was a very important event," said freshman Eric Hurtt, "it really raised awareness. Hopefully people left here with a little more knowledge about what is really going on in South Africa."

"This was a celebration," said Mike Penman, also a member of the Network, "we are happy we have the right ideas about South Africa. It was a great chance for people who have the right ideas to get

Hiler speaks at ND about ethics report

By FLORENTINE HOELKER
Senior Staff Reporter

Rep. John Hiler

Speaker of the House Jim Wright is "not taking very lightly" his predicament concerning the investigations of his alleged violations of House ethics, according to Congressman John Hiler.

Hiler, who spoke on campus Saturday, said that Wright is basing his defense on his belief that he has done nothing wrong. Wright is currently under investigation by the House Ethics Committee for various violations of House ethics rules.

"At the end of the investigations," said Hiler, "there are two possibilities. Jim Wright may either survive politically, or he may be forced to step down as Speaker of the House."

Hiler said that the matter concerning Wright is clearly of great importance. "This is serious politics, since never in 200 years has a speaker stepped down," Hiler said.

Water balloon breaks window at Theodore's

By KELLEY TUTHILL
Senior Staff Reporter

A water balloon launched outside of Theodore's in LaFortune Student Center Friday night shattered a window and caused minor injuries in two band members, according to Phil Johnson, assistant director of Security.

The band was unable to continue performing as two band members reported slight cuts from broken glass, Johnson said. One member of the band suffered from a cut on his left hand while another was cut on the arm. Both refused medical attention, said Johnson.

According to Johnson, the window was broken and security was notified at 11:15 p.m. Friday. No damage to equipment was reported.

No other injuries were reported and Security will do a follow-up investigation of the incident.

WORLD BRIEFS

Two more bodies were discovered Sunday buried on a collective farm two miles south of a ranch where 13 victims of a cult of human sacrifice were found last week. Investigators said it was possible the victims found on the collective farm were killed by the same cult suspected of performing human sacrifices on the 13 discovered at Rancho Santa Elena, about 20 miles west of Matamoros, Mexico. Acting on a tip from some children, a 77-year-old man led police to the common grave in a clearing in an orchard on the farm. The children had told the man, Hildago Castillo, that they had seen some people burying a body in an orchard last October. Castillo's son, Moises, 52, had disappeared last May. Castillo had discounted the children's tale until the 13 bodies were dug up.

The Afrikaner de Klerk brothers disagree sharply on politics, but their dispute is unique. F.W. de Klerk is expected to be the next president of South Africa, and his brother helps lead the anti-apartheid opposition. F.W. is head of the governing National Party and is the odds-on favorite to succeed President P.W. Botha after elections to be held by September. Willem de Klerk is chief policy adviser to the new Democratic Party, which seeks to end the Nationalists' policy of apartheid and give voting rights to the black majority.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Four winners in the Illinois lottery will have to be content with $17.25 million apiece as four tickets sold matched all six numbers in the world's biggest-ever lottery jackpot of $69 million. None of the winners had stepped forward by midday Sunday, but Lottery Director Sharon Sharp said two of them bought their tickets in the Chicago area, one in west-central Illinois and one in southern Illinois. "For all of you who said it's easier to be struck by lightning than to win the Lotto, four people were struck last night and they struck gold," Ms. Sharp said at a news conference. The four winning buyers will each receive at least $17.25 million before taxes, paid out over the next 20 years, she said. The total may rise after final sales figures are tallied Monday, she said.

House Speaker Jim Wright said Sunday he is eager to defend himself against allegations of ethics violations, asking that a hearing be held within hours after the release of a formal ethics committee report. CBS news reported Sunday night that the ethics report on Monday morning would charge Wright with five counts including 69 instances of alleged ethical wrongdoing. The network said the charges would accuse him of converting speaking fees to bulk purchases of his book in an effort to avoid limits on honoraria, and of receiving unreported gifts from business associate George Mallick. CBS said the report would say the gifts were tainted because Mallick had a business interest in influencing legislation.

INDIANA BRIEFS

The body of a male juvenile was found Sunday in the St. Joseph's River, 300 feet south of the State Street bridge in Fort Wayne, the Department of Natural Resources said. A canoeist spotted the body lying in 4 and a half feet of water at 5:17 p.m., said DNR dispatcher Melinda Ross. "It appeared the body had been in the water for several months," Ross said. The badly decomposed body of the white male was fully clothed. The juvenile's parents were notified after identification was discovered on the body, however, they were unable to make a complete identification, Ross said. Ross said dental records would be used to confirm the identification.

Campus town is an improbable dream

Notre Dame's social life is lacking. Heard that before? This space is regularly used to complain about the social alternatives available at this school.

This time, I want to address one aspect of this campus that, if improvements are made, would not only dramatically improve the social life on campus, but also would help the administration solve some of its concerns.

This weekend, I visited two other midwestern universities, Illinois and Northwestern. These are two schools which have a student body similar to our own, both socially and academically. Their campuses, however, differed from ours in many ways. The one that was most noticeable was the existence of a campus town area of the city (Champaign and Evanston, Ill. respectively).

Their campus towns were a strip of bookstores, movie theatres, bars, drug stores, copy centers, restaurants, grocery stores and other retail outlets of various sorts. All of these businesses depended almost solely upon student business.

These stores, restaurants and bars, all privately owned and controlled, catered to the needs of the students of those universities. These retail establishments accepted students checks, provided goods and services that the students needed and wanted, and were located in an area accessible to students.

The advantages of this setup are obvious: students are able to reach stores, bars and restaurants without the need to drive ten or fifteen minutes. The stores benefit from the relatively free-spending students.

But, of course, Notre Dame does not have a campus town.

There are several reasons for this. Most important among these is the physical layout of the campus. The student residences are located in the midst of University-owned land. Students would be unwilling or unable to walk the distances required if such a campus town existed on, for example, Angela or Douglas Roads. As a result, student-oriented businesses have been unwilling to locate near the campus.

A solution to this problem is relatively obvious, but requires a great deal of effort and desire on the part of the administration.

'We are unlikely ever to see a campus town at ND.'

Matt Gallagher
Exec. News Editor

The University would have to sell off a tract of land, most likely to a developer who could then create a campus town. A University-owned campus town would never work. First, retailers would be unwilling to establish a business in an area guided by University regulations, and subject to the whims of the administrations. Granted, the administration in place when this area is opened may allow bars there, but who is to say what the next administration might do?

Second, a University-owned campus town would prohibit the establishment of either bars or restaurants. Restaurants would be prohibited because of University Food Service's monopoly on selling food on campus, and independently-owned bars would be prohibited by the alcohol policy.

The University obviously would object to the loss of control the establishment of independently-owned bars would represent. A situation similar to the current Senior Bar would not work. The independent businessmen would never be willing to submit to the kind of control the University exercises over the Senior Bar.

Needless to say, based on the past track records of Notre Dame administrations, we are unlikely ever to see a campus town at ND. This is unfortunate. A privately-owned campus town would prevent needless tragedies such as deaths due to drunk driving, while at the same time improving social life on campus.

Cab Driver allegedly strikes ND student early Sunday

By KELLEY TUTHILL
Senior Staff Reporter

A Notre Dame student was assaulted by a taxicab driver on Saturday morning near Stepan basketball courts.

According to the report that the student filed with Security, the student saw a taxicab try to exit campus at the east gate near Juniper Road and Stepan Center at 2:30 am, said Phil

Johnson, assistant director of Security. The east gate was closed and the cab driver was cussing about the gate, the student told Security.

The student approached the cab driver and made a comment to the man about his use of foul words, said Johnson. According to the student the cab driver struck the student after hearing his comments.

The student sustained minor injuries and was treated and released from St. Joseph Hospital emergency room, said Johnson.

The student summoned Security and the cab driver immediately drove away from the scene and left University property, said Johnson.

The case will be further investigated, said Johnson.

Diplomat among 17 killed in Beirut Sun.

Associated Press

BEIRUT- Spain's ambassador to Lebanon and at least 16 other people were killed Sunday in fierce artillery exchanges between Christians and an alliance of Syrian and Moslem gunners, police said.

Ambassador Pedro Manuel de Aristegui, 61, died while undergoing surgery to remove shrapnel fragments that hit his head when an artillery shell blasted his villa in the christian suburb of Hadath east of Beirut, police reported.

Police said his Lebanese father-in-law, poet Tewfic Youssef Awwad; and Awwad's other daughter, Samia, were killed when the shell exploded.

The envoy's Lebanese wife, Jomana Awwad, was seriously wounded and his 2-year old son Diego suffered unspecified injuries, police reported. Earlier reports said Ms. Awwad was killed. De Aristegui's 1-year-old daughter, Alexandra, escaped unhurt.

De Aristegui had served in Lebanon since June 1984. Police said the shell that killed him was fired from a Syrian-controlled area in west Beirut. They did not specify who fired it. But the Christian-run radio stations said it was a Syrian artillery unit on a hill above the capital.

Police said at least 17 people died in the ferocious 18-hour blitz that raged from dusk Saturday to mid-afternoon Sunday. They said at least 90 people were wounded.

That raised the casualty toll from 40 days of fighting to at least 234 killed and 847 wounded.

Hiler said that the issue of Wright violating rules is such a serious concern because the Speaker is the second in line to the office of the presidency. Since he is so close to the office, in the event of an accident it is important that the Speaker's character be upright, said Hiler.

Hiler also discussed the beginnings of the Bush administration.

Bush's agenda has seemed lackluster because he faces different challenges than those Reagan faced, said Hiler. Inflation is down, the economy continues to grow, and foreign policy is different, so Bush is "working on different critical needs" of the nation, Hiler said.

Among these are the current drug problem, the S&L crisis, and improving education. Hiler said that Bush is working on all these issues and that "the criticism he's taken in not presenting a formidable agenda is unfair." In closing, Hiler thanked students for their involvement in the fall elections.

5 tribes attend Pow Wow at ND

By Janice O'Leary
News Staff

The first Native American Pow Wow, attended by five different tribes, took place this Sunday in Stepan Center.

The Miami, the Ottawa, the Sioux, and the Lakota tribes all came from the midwest, while the Pottowatomie tribe represents the South Bend area.

The Pow Wow was arranged by the Native American Association of Notre Dame (NASAND). NASAND was started three years ago and has been planning this Pow Wow for the past two years. Currently, there are a total of 15 active members, all Native Americans from tribes across the country.

The Pow Wow featured inter-tribal dances including the "Two-Step," the "Round Dance," and the Eagle Feather Honor Song. In the latter, the veteran warriors present Eagle feathers to younger members of the tribe. You can only receive the feathers by having them awarded to you. This is one of the highest honors an Indian can receive.

The dances are family-oriented and both the children and the elders play a very important role in the Native American society. This is "very different from the American society where the children are kept quiet," according to Mary Feliz, chairman of the Pow Wow.

The purpose of the event was to make the Notre Dame community "open their eyes to something that was here before them," said Elizabeth Bird, president of the organization.

The Pow Wow was "here for the Notre Dame students. It was our gift to them. We wanted to show them who we are," added Ms. Feliz. "It was something that needed to be done."

The dancers performed in a ring with the drum at the center of it. The drum consisted of 5 different drums and the singers representing different tribes.

Also present were vendors selling turquoise jewelry, moccasins, and various crafts. The wares, like the traditional dresses or costumes, are all fashioned from things found to exist in nature.

The event was sponsored by 10 campus organizations in addition to NASAND. University Food Services helped with a concession stand for both the participants and the audience.

together." "I think the University sticking to the Sullivan Principles is made ridiculous by the fact that Sullivan abandoned them himself," said Hurtt, referring to the set of guidelines prepared by the Rev. Leon Sullivan aimed at breaking down apartheid through "constructive investment." Last year Sullivan reversed his position.

Others expressed the belief that total divestment is not the answer to apartheid.

"We're all struggling to do the moral thing and there is much debate about what that is," said Associate Provost Oliver Williams, "Divestment isn't the answer, there is no quick fix for the problem. I don't think the great majority of blacks want U.S. companies to pull out," added Williams.

"The situation in South Africa is very complex," said Professor of Chemical Engineering James Carberry, "you can't solve complex problems with simple solutions. Selective investment is the answer, we have to invest on our terms. We invest in companies who follow the Sullivan principles," said Carberry, referring to the University's $400 million in investments in South Africa.

"I don't see any chance for the two sides (for and against divestment) to come to a compromise because we have completely different ideas about how to solve the problem," said Checkett.

"The Administration looks shoddy and embarrassed," said Peter Walshe, director of African Studies and a divestment advocate. "It is finally obvious, after a long struggle, that strong economic sanctions are the answer."

With such a stalemate in opinions, the future course of Notre Dame investment in South Africa is very unclear.

Should Martin Sheen speak on politics?

Actor's speech promotes intellectual awareness among students

Dear Editor:

I am writing on behalf of the I am writing on behalf of the response to a letter to the editor by Jeremy Mayernik on April 11th. In essence, Mr. Mayernik claimed that Martin Sheen had no right to speak on issues of social justice, or "on politics." He claims that Mr. Sheen is "using his popularity to further the movements of the various groups and causes he supports." Another point made by Mr. Mayernik was that he found it "very dismaying that the sponsor of the lecture was forced to donate to the charity of Sheen's choice."

Martin Sheen was invited to Notre Dame by the Center for Social Concerns and SUB as part of the American Films and American Values Week. The purpose behind this undertaking was to show how the values of American society are reflected in the film industry. Unfortunately, one of the main components of the week, a panel discussion with Gene Siskel and some members of the faculty had to be canceled due to the death of Mr. Siskel's father. However, Mr. Sheen's contribution to the week was essential. He is an example of an individual within the film industry who feels that his position as a popular figure gives him not only the right, but the responsibility, to voice his concerns on social justice issues. We, as sponsors of the week, feel that Mr. Sheen's presence decisively demonstrates the power of those within the film industry to articulate the values of the society.

In response to the question of Mr. Sheen's honorarium, it is not SUB policy to dictate where that honorarium is to be spent. Every speaker we bring to campus requests a speaking fee. In fact, Mr. Sheen requested a very low honorarium, in comparison to some of the other speakers we have invited. Mr. Sheen's decision to donate his honorarium to a charity only seems to reinforce his commitment to the values he represents.

Finally, as a member of a non-political student organization, it is not my position to support Mr. Sheen's comments. The insinuation of SUB's political or social leanings (in Mr. Mayernik's comment about SUB not giving money to a right-wing group) is simply unfounded. We do not pursue any political or social agenda; the mission of the Ideas and Issues Commission of SUB is to promote intellectual awareness on campus by bringing in speakers of various political, social, or religious persuasions. I hope this letter clears up any misconceptions concerning Mr. Sheen's appearance on campus.

Gender studies builds concern

Dear Editor:

An intensely exciting program of discussion, critique, and a rethinking of our own social identities has just finished its first year of existence at Notre Dame-- the gender studies concentration. Leaving few disciplines untouched (courses are offered in literature, theology, sociology, government, history, etc.), gender studies provides an interdisciplinary area for the constructive questioning of the many aspects of our lives, personally and socially, that have been left unquestioned.

As the first graduates with this concentration, we can attest to the fact that a personal awareness broadens and deepens as contemporary issues, academic paradigms, and methods of social change are confronted from perspectives centered around gender. Who is doing the confronting? Women and men who realize the often subtle yet powerful position gender plays within our lives have proven that it is possible to reinterpret intelligently without irrational attacks against the "other" sex-- to grow with an ego still intact.

Rather than describe specific requirements for this five-course concentration, we would simply like to extend an invitation to all students who are not only open to self-enrichment, political awareness, and discussion, but willing to act upon these desires-- gender studies is for you.

What about other actors in politics?

Dear Editor:

In response to the letter printed on April 11, 1989 regarding Martin Sheen's reputation as a political speaker, I have one question. If actors are unqualified to be involved in political issues solely because of their star status, then explain the overall approval of the performance of Ronald Reagan.

Any individual has right to express political views to better the world

Dear Editor:

I would like to comment on the derogatory letter written about Martin Sheen and his political lecture (The Observer, April 11). I did not hear Sheen speak nor do I know the content of his lecture, but that is totally irrelevant to the point I would like to make. Any individual has the right to express his or her political views, and that includes Martin Sheen. The person who wrote the letter about Sheen says, "What could possibly give him authority on politics?" Many people hold this myopic view, and it really disturbs me.

Placing everything in the hands of the politicians and so-called experts is lazy and dangerous. You don't have to be a politician to know that apartheid must be abolished, illegal dumping of toxic waste is wrong, discrimination is wrong, etc. . . Every citizen has the right to express his or her opinion in an attempt to better the world. If we just sat back and left everything up to the politicians, Congressmen would vote themselves million-dollar salaries and laugh all the way to the bank.

Cavanaugh and Lewis defend last year's titles

After such an enthusiastic response in only its third year, the Fisher Regatta promises to be a popular tradition for years to come.

JANICE ARCHER
accent writer

The third annual Fisher Regatta was a rousing success this Saturday. Enjoying beautiful spring weather, teams from various dorms took to St. Mary's Lake to test their homemade boat racing skills. After about two and a half hours, last year's defending champions were victorious again, and the most original boat carried a well-fed crew for the second year in a row.

St. Edward Hall's Firebrewed Warrior, the most original craft, had a Viking motif this year. The crew was dressed in traditional Viking costumes, complete with horned helmets modeled after those in the comic strip Hagar the Horrible. The boat did not complete its first heat, opting instead to remain stationary in the middle of the lake, cooking hot dogs and hamburgers on the grill aboard the Warrior. The crew remained there, barbecuing for most of the afternoon.

Cavanaugh 2 successfully defended its title as the men's fastest boat. Cavanaugh Hall joined Lewis Hall, which again won women's fastest, on the list of repeat winners. The men's final included Cavanaugh's A and B boats, and the four-man B boat emerged victorious. It was a canoe made of wood, covered with plastic, and powered with rented oars. The craft was a replica of last year's winner, but only "lighter, skinnier, and faster," said crewman Mike Schween.

Cavanaugh had a serious challenger in Fisher Hall's first Green Seaman boat. This vessel, made from sheet metal and crafted into a canoe, beat Cavanaugh's time in the first heat by 30 seconds. Unfortunately, although it wanted to recapture the title it won in the Regatta's first year, Fisher's captain had a Bookstore Basketball game. No one else was sure how to guide the boat, and the craft went off course in the semi-final against Cavanaugh and Zahm Hall.

One of the more amusing events of the afternoon occurred when the second of Fisher's two boats sank. The boat, constructed from two fiberglass bathtubs joined by a wooden board, made it only 20 feet from shore before disaster struck. The vessel became unbalanced when two rowers leaned too far to one side. After that, water started pouring in, and the boat took only about four seconds to fully submerge. A crew member, A.C. Dumaul, lamented that their carefully built vehicle was now "part of the graveyard of ships at the bottom of St. Mary's Lake."

When the afternoon's races and cookout ended, not only were all the winners excited, but all the spectators and participants had enjoyed themselves as well. After such an enthusiastic response in only its third year, the Fisher Regatta promises to be a popular tradition for years to come.

Keenan and Howard's crafts race toward the finish line, while crew members aboard St. Edward's Firebrewed Warrior chose not to finish but, instead, to enjoy the day on St. Mary's Lake, barbecuing and tossing water balloons at spectators.

With the score tied 4-4, Santovenia doubled off the top of the left field wall to lead off the 11th. He moved to third on Damaso Garcia's groundout and scored on pinch-hitter Hubie Brooks' sacrifice fly off reliever Jeff Robinson, 1-2.

Cards 5, Mets 3

ST. LOUIS-- Ozzie Smith had three singles and drove in two runs and Joe DeLeon pitched a four-hitter as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the New York Mets 5-3 Sunday.

DeLeon, 2-1, surrendered two solo homers to Darryl Strawberry but was otherwise almost unhittable in beating New York.

He struck out five and walked four and held New York hitless between a two-out triple by Dave Magadan in the fourth and Strawberry's two-out homer in the eighth.

The Mets took a 2-0 lead on Kevin Elster's RBI single in the second and Strawberry's two-out homer in the third.

LOS ANGELES-- Tim Leary pitched a five-hitter and Mike Marshall extended his hitting streak to nine games with his third home run in four days as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Houston Astros 2-1 on Sunday.

B.J. Surhoff led off the inning with a single off Keith Atherton, 0-1. After Gary Sheffield popped out to shortstop, Robin Yount doubled, sending pinch runner Mike Felder to third.

Atherton walked Rob Deer intentionally to load the bases but Braggs greeted Jesse Orosco with a hard grounder through a drawn-in infield.

Irish get past Michigan 6-3 for 12th consecutive victory

By BARB MORAN
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's tennis team extended its winning streak to 12 with a 6-3 win over Michigan last Saturday.

Despite the wide margin of victory, the win wasn't an easy one, according to Irish coach Michele Gelfman.

"Michigan was a much tougher team than the score indicates," said Gelfman. "They had a lot of depth-- we really weren't comfortable until the singles matches were over."

Notre Dame took four of the six singles contests, giving them the advantage going into singles play. Irish top seed CeCe Cahill beat Stacy Berg, Michigan's top player, by scores of 6-2, 6-0.

"CeCe played a great match," said Gelfman. "We were surprised because Berg totally changed her game plan, but CeCe started off strong and Berg just couldn't keep up with her."

Gelfman also praised several other Irish players for tough singles play.

"I think that everyone played well in the singles matches," she said. "Kim Pacella played the gutsiest match I've ever seen her play, and Tracy Barton also played an outstanding match. When Tracy hits her shots, most guys can't even hit them back."

"Katie Clark also played well, considering that she was sick all week and only practiced Friday. She played with a really bad chest cold and I was pleased with her performance."

In the doubles competition, the Notre Dame duo of Cahill and Barton marked up another win, beating Michigan's top team 6-3, 6-1. The Irish team of Clark and Pacella was also victorious, winning by scores of 6-4, 7-5.

Anne Bradshaw, in her first match back after surgery on her thumb, paired with her sister Kathy and lost a 7-5, 7-6 heartbreaker.

The Notre Dame women (15-4) will look to continue their winning streak Tuesday against Northwestern.

Gelfman is confident of her team's ability to give Northwestern some strong competition.

"We're playing well right now," said Gelfman. "We just need to get our confidence level up a little, and then we'll prove that we can play with the best in the region."

Irish lacrosse outlasts Denison for 7th straight

By PETE LaFLEUR
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame lacrosse team continued to soar to further heights, beating Denison 8-5 Saturday in Granville, Ohio.

The Irish (7-3) won for the first time at Denison and stretched their winning streak to a school-record seven games. Senior tri-captain John Olmstead led the Irish with a goal and four assists on his way to securing two career Irish scoring positions.

Olmstead moved past 1985 graduate Bob Trocchi into second place on the Irish career scoring list with 144 points. He also passed 1986 graduate Tom Grote to become the all-time Irish assist leader with 63.

Denison entered the game ranked eighth in Division III. The Big Red had held a 7-2 series edge over the Irish, but Saturday was unable to hold off a relentless Notre Dame effort.

"It's a great victory, there's no doubt about it," said senior tri-captain Kevin O'Connor. "It shows how capable we are of playing, and although Denison beat Michigan State and Ohio State, we know we still have to play very well."

The Denison wins over Ohio State and Michigan State take on added significance, because the Irish will battle the Spartans and Buckeyes for the NCAA western regional bid in late April. According to Olmstead, the Irish have a sense they can capture the bid with continual improvement.

"In the first couple of games, we weren't sure what we had to do to win," said Olmstead, in reference to the team's three opening losses on the road. "But now we've learned what we have to do, and that's simply play as a team."

Notre Dame broke out to an early 4-1 lead only to see Denison rally at the start of the second half to go up 5-4.

In last year's 14-6 Big Red victory, the Irish got out to a similar early lead and Denison also came back. In that game, the Big Red scored 11 straight goals to put the game away.

But this year, the Irish responded to the Denison rally by scoring the final four goals to secure the win.

"We really wanted to come out and score the first goal of the first half," said Olmstead. "Instead, they scored two quick goals and took the lead."

"But it was great to see our team not worry about it (the Denison goals) as we did in earlier losses," he continued. "We came back in one minute and Chris Nelson assisted John Capano on a great shot. That's great when you can have a freshman and sophomore take things into their own hands and get back the momentum."

Another Irish freshman, Kevin Patrick, made a contribution in an uncharacteristic way.

Patrick, a midfielder, runs on the defensive middle line with two defensemen. His role is almost entirely defensive and Patrick, who also plays defense for the Irish hockey team, has shut down virtually every opposing player this

Freshman Mike Sullivan (7) has scored nine goals in the last three games as the red-hot Notre Dame lacrosse team has reeled off a school-record seven victories in a row.

But Saturday Patrick came up with a goal that fired up the Irish squad and set the tone for the emotional win.

On that goal, Patrick had just cleared the ball up to the Irish offense and was leaving the field on substitution. The Denison defenseman covering Patrick then raced ahead of him to beat him to the substitution box.

Patrick then switched his direction and took off towards the Denison goal unguarded. Olmstead saw him racing to the net and set up the freshman for his first goal of the year.

"That was a real heads-up play on Kevin's part," Olmstead said. "It pumped everyone up because all year we've been stressing the importance of playing your role."

"Kevin Patrick's role is not to score but to shut down the opposition, which he's done every game," he continued. "His scoring probably shocked Denison and was exciting for us to see another guy become a scoring threat."

Notre Dame faces its most threatening opponent, Ohio Wesleyan, Saturday, April 22. The Battling Bishops are ranked second in Division III and hold an 8-0 series edge over the Irish.

Adworks begins quest for 2nd Bookstore title

By FRANK PASTOR
Assistant Sports Editor

"I just want to have a good time. If you lose, you lose."
—Tony Rice, April 2.
"We want to go all the way this year. We just want to win."
—Rice, April 16.

What a difference two weeks can make in the minds of those playing Bookstore Basketball, particularly for the defending champs.

Twelve days after Bookstore Basketball XVIII officially began, the defending champion Adworks All-Stars took to the court for the first time Saturday in defense of their title.

Adworks received a bye in the preliminary round, but the layoff didn't seem to hurt the team as it pounded Copy Center Copy Cats 21-5 as the field of 512 was narrowed.

New recruit Tony Rice, who gained a little bit of seasoning in the pretournament Hall of Fame game, scored 10 points to lead Adworks in their quest to repeat as champion.

Ironically, Adworks was paced by all three of its newcomers—Rice, Derek Brown and Derrick Johnson, who combined for 18 points. Returning players John Buscher and Kevin Keyes contributed the other three points.

"We all played together as a team," said Rice. "We just got the ball to whoever was open and he took the shot. There weren't any bad feelings."

Minahoonies, another highly-regarded team, won two games over the weekend despite taking the court only once. Sean Connor scored seven points Saturday to lead Minahoonies to a 21-18 victory over Four Men and a Baby. Minahoonies won by forfeit on Sunday.

This weekend also saw the first shutout of the tournament, as Rubber Cement blanked 3168 21-0 on Friday afternoon. The losers shot a combined 0-for-21 on the day.

"They (3168) didn't shoot very well," said Phil Kraker, who led all scorers with eight baskets. "We played well, but it wasn't our full team out there. We scraped up some quality players. We play again Wednesday, so hopefully we'll have our full team back by then."

Touch-N-Go had a relatively easy time in disposing of Josie and the Pussycats 21-6 on Saturday behind Ed Kosgrow's 11-of-13 shooting from the field. Touch-N-Go went on to defeat Crispus Attack, Joe Satriani, Sonny Liston and Two Others 21-13 the following afternoon.

Naked Gunners also won impressively this weekend, first knocking off The Return of the Mad Latin Lover 21-15 on Saturday. Oui Les Pipe proved to be less of a challenge on Sunday, as Naked Gunners romped, 21-5.

Monk Malloy's All the President's Men exercised their authority over Nag and the Winners, who proved to be otherwise in their 21-8 defeat.

No-shows popular in first round

There's nothing like the feeling of winning, the feeling of getting one step closer to the top.

And what could be more gratifying to a team than arriving at the game ready to play, only to find that your opponent had a more pressing engagement than basketball?

But a forfeit does count as a win, and 10 teams managed to advance in the women's Bookstore tournament last weekend without even setting foot on the court.

Eight of these teams accomplished this feat Saturday, as Five Funny Fickle Females Sitting Sipping Scotch and Fawn Hall, Jessica Hahn and Three Other Girls Who Are Easy To Score On became the first teams to win by forfeit in their games in the South bracket.

Jerome and the Bouncers, Wait To You See Us Really Play and One Girl With Experience did it again in the East bracket and Traveling Sleighbells, We Wanna Score and Five Under 5'5 followed suit in the North bracket.

Some of the 38 teams scheduled to play Saturday did manage to get their games started, as Five Most Undesirable Basketball Players defeated Five Girls Better Than Tower in a tight game,

The Notre Dame baseball team won three out of four games against MCC rival Dayton this past weekend, sweeping a doubleheader Saturday and splitting a twinbill Sunday.

Special to The Observer

The Notre Dame baseball team took three of four from MCC rival Dayton over the weekend, raising its record to 27-7.

The Irish swept the Saturday doubleheader, but on Sunday lost the first game to break a 10-game winning streak.

On Saturday, the Irish beat the Flyers 6-5 and 13-4, with Mike Coffey, 4-0, and Erik Madsen, 6-2, picking up the wins.

In the first game, the Irish rallied from a 5-3 deficit in the seventh inning when catcher Ed Lund singled home Dan Peltier for the go-ahead run. Before that, James Sass singled home the tying run.

In the second game, Madsen went the distance behind the team's 13 runs and 22 hits. The 22 hits were a season-high for the Irish.

On Sunday the Irish lost the first game 7-3, managing only five hits and leaving eight runners on base. In the process, the Irish made three crucial errors.

Brian Piotrowicz took the loss, giving up seven runs (only two earned) in 5-2-3 innings. He gave up five unearned runs in the third when the leadoff batter reached base off an error by Mike Coss.

Secondbaseman Mike Moshier followed with an error on the next batter, which opened the floodgates for a Dayton rally. The Flyers followed with a double, triple and homerun.

Down 7-3 in the seventh, the Irish threatened with the bases loaded and one out. Joe Binkiewicz grounded into a double play to end the game.

In game two the Irish were victorious 22-9, their highest run output of the season. Their 25 hits were also a season high.

Peltier led the way for the Irish, going 4-for-6 with five RBI. Pat Pesavento, Craig

The Notre Dame defense dominated the offense for most of Friday's football scrimmage, but it was the brutal hitting on both sides that caught Irish head coach Lou Holtz's interest.

"Brutal," described Holtz aptly.

The hard hits caused several fumbles, most in the first half of the scrimmage. The defense also managed three interceptions, one returned for a touchdown by Todd Lyght.

"I was impressed with the defense," Holtz said. "I saw some good hits out there. It was the most physical we've been. We had too many turnovers, but a lot of them were caused by the tackling."

The defense made life difficult for quarterbacks Steve Belles and Kent Graham, both of whom played with the first offensive unit at times. Both had trouble getting started against the obsessive defense, but the offense picked up in the final third of the scrimmage.

Belles completed 4-of-10 passes for 66 yards, and Graham was 5-of-14 for 61 yards, two of those completions on consecutive passes to split end David Jandric.

"We told the quarterbacks not to make the mistakes, not to make turnovers," Holtz said. "We said to take a sack, take a loss, but eliminate the big mistakes. Graham and Belles both competed hard and were leaders, and that's all we ask."

The two saw more playing time with the absence of Tony Rice, who missed his second straight practice in order to concentrate on academics. Holtz said it was still "wait and see" as to whether Rice would participate in Sunday's annual Blue-Gold game. Also absent from play was flanker Raghib Ismail, who suffered a concussion in practice Tuesday and was held out of action Friday.

On the ground, tailback Ricky Watters took the brunt of a lot of the brutality of the defense, carrying 21 times for 91 yards, despite being slammed by two defenders in the second period.

"I was very impressed with Mr. Watters," Mr. Holtz said. "He ran physical and he ran tough."

The Irish offense scored three touchdowns, one by Rodney Culver, running up the middle, another by Rusty Setzer, a nine-yard run capping a short drive.

The scoring and the scrimmage ended with a Belles flip
