BSERVER

Wednesday, February 9, 1994 • Vol. XXVI No. 86

THE INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER SERVING NOTRE DAME AND SAINT MARY'S Candidates try to answer questions as campaign ends

NEWS ANALYSIS

After a week of campaigning, one debate and thousands of words, the election of next year's student body president and vice president comes down to a vote today between candidates on two poles.

David Hungeling and Matt Orsagh — relative newcomers to the campus political scene — took more than 43 percent of the vote in Monday's general election with a platform pushing a change from the ways of past student government administrations.

Bryan Corbett and Karen DuBay — student government veterans -ran a long second on a platform stressing more conventional ideas and a continuation of current programs.

NOTRE DAME

ELECTIONS

Runoff elections for student body president and vice

%150 YEARS数

Editor-in-Chief

One question seems to beg for an answer.

'Can they do it? Can David Hungeling and Matt Orsagh bring the Grateful Dead to campus, get students free Notre Dame football tickets and essentially dissolve student government?'

'Will they really try to do it?' might be a better question.

Or, 'Does it matter?'

Hungeling and Orsagh have won a measure of success on one of the more unusual platforms in recent years. Among the ideas:

• Strip student government of about $50,000 culled from the administration, public relations and special projects budgets, then give the money to Student Union Board. With that money, they would push for a Grateful Dead concert on campus, or at least here in South Bend.

• Push for a $2 increase in general admission tickets to Notre Dame football games. The added revenue would allow students to get their tickets free.

• End all projects that are not fun, including Board of Trustees reports and The

see HUNGELING / page 4

see CORBETT / page 4 BOG authorizes service oriented club for SMC

By PATTI CARSON News Writer

Corbett

By DAVID KINNEY

Editor-in-Chief

opponents.

Wellman.

them," they wrote.

reaches out to students

Bryan Corbett and Karen

DuBay are tired of people telling them that student gov-

In fact, they say, it is involved in more projects than most realize, from the Women's Resource Center to class pro-grams. "If student government is dissolved, students don't realize what they are going to miss," they wrote in a statement after Monday's election.

So when Corbett and DuBay heard the election reports

Monday night, they re-thought their strategy. No longer would they just push their platform.

They wanted to discredit their tration was bad with student government, wait until you eliminate it and students have no voice in what happens to much in the mold of recent student government administrations, including this year's

Frank Flynn and Nikki

They've moved through the ranks of student service, as class presidents, committee representatives and hall presidents. They've worked with other students and the admin-

Corbett and DuBay are very

If you thought the adminisernment doesn't do anything.

BOG (Board of Governance) members voted on whether or 10 a.m. and the cost is $6 per person. Only 94 seats are available and the deadline to purchase tickets is Thursday. Contact Emily Ruffner for more information. •The Storybook Festival volunteer meeting is Feb. 17 at 5:30 p.m. in the Haggar Game Room. Even those who have not yet signed up are welcome and encouraged to attend.

Brazilian democratic system fails

David Hungeling

By LAUREN AIMONETTE News Writer

Brazil, prior to 1980, had a robust growth rate, but has become the one country in Latin America that has not adjusted receive a share of the national tax revenues that is at least double their share in the 1970's, according to Mainwaring.

The power of the state governments, the uneven representation of the smaller states ing policies it claims to support, it has lost its credibility, according to Mainwaring.

Failure of the government to succeed in efforts to open the Brazilian market, collect on interest on loans, change the current tax system, or break the not to grant Saint Mary's students two new clubs at last night's meeting.

Bryan Corbett

The Homeless Shelter Children's Group was officially given Saint Mary's club status, according to Student Body President Mary Beth Wilkinson. This group of approximately 40 students is planning an outing to the park when the weather gets warmer.

BOARD OF GOVERNANCE

The Notre Dame Pre-Vet Club, which was seeking club status on the Saint Mary's campus, will resubmit an application next semester. This group is invited to Student Activities Night at Saint Mary's. If enough interest in the Pre-Vet Club is aroused, BOG will reconsider the proposal for club status.

In Other Business:

•The Freshman class is planning a spring break shopping trip to the Michigan City outlet mall on Feb. 26. Buses leave at •BOG discussed the possibility of purchasing a fax machine. The board members also talked about ways in which to enhance internship programs and graduate school program knowledge.

Unica Resource and Volunteer Center (S.U.R.V.) is planning to meet monthly to hear various speakers from places such as the Homeless Shelter and the Hope Rescue Mission. The group also hopes to coordinate other activities this semester along with the distribution of a newsletter.

•Board members discussed staff appreciation day T-shirts. Next week, BOG will discuss a particular day on which to celebrate this event.

and whose inflation is still increasing rapidly, according to Scott Mainwaring of the Kellogg Institute, department of government and international studies.

The escalating inflation rate, combined with a decreasing per capita income and decreasing investment per capita over the last four years, lends proof to the claim that the Brazilian democratic system is failing, he said.

The constitutional powers of the president are impressive, maintained Mainwaring, but there is difficulty in the retaining of results.

Five factors contribute to the lack of results, but perhaps the most prevalent problem is the overwhelming power of Congress and state and local governments, Mainwaring said. The states can effectively push the national government to succumb to their respective desires. Presently the states on the Congress level and the decree that Congress must give their okay on ordinary legislature lead to an institutional arrangement of a federalism problem in Brazil, Mainwaring said.

Four other institutional arrangements that have created difficulties for the new democracy include the presence of weak political parties, the polarization of political parties, the extremely fragmented party system, and the problem of presidentalism, he said.

Mainwaring explained that presidentalism makes it more difficult to handle coalition building among the parties, thus leading to an inability for a president to form a base of support.

In an effort to gather support, many prospective government officials use the system of patronage. Because the federal government has proved itself largely incapable of implement-system of wage indexation, has lead to the people's general expectation that the government will not come through," he said.

Speaking of the fragmented and polarized party system, Mainwaring referred the audience to statistics showing Brazil as having more fragmentation in parties than any other democracy in South America.

This extreme fragmentation and the added problem of polarization makes coalition building all the more difficult because of ideological differences amongst the parties, he said.

"The system is so unmanageable," said Mainwaring," that even a 'good' president could merely muddle through."

Mainwaring's lecture entitled "Political Institutions and Democratic Failure in Brazil" took place yesterday in the Hesburgh Center for International Studies.

INSIDE COLUMN

page 2

NATION AT A GLANCE

Kodak shrinks digital camera

NEW YORK

The Associated Press and Eastman Kodak Co. today announced they had developed a digital camera that closely resembles the size and portability of one using film.

The Observer • INSIDE

The NewsCamera 2000 does not use external batteries and cables that were cumbersome for many news photographers.

The companies have also improved the lighting, color and storage capabilities of the machine over previous generations of digital cameras.

A digital, or electronic, camera stores an image the same way computers store data. With such a camera, no chemical processing of film is required, saving time for photographers trying to meet a deadline.

An image can be taken and transmitted on a network within a few minutes.

The machine is a modified Nikon 35 mm camera with a pack at the bottom for battery and storage diskette. Each diskette can hold 60 to 70 images, which can then be viewed on a personal computer.

"The name of the product really sums up the market," said David Tomlin, director of technology market-ing for the AP. "But we are sure there are applications outside news such as law enforcement, science and medicine and a variety of corporate environments where speed and quality are important.

The camera has a list price of $17,750 but will be available to members of The Associated Press, a cooperative of more than 1,500 U.S. newspapers, for $16,500.

Castro comments on Clinton's affairs

Conjecture about President Clinton's sexual history is a violation of his human rights. That's the word from Fidel Castro. "It's an interference in his personal life," the Cuban leader said in the March issue of Vanity Fair. On the other hand, noted Castro, "There are many countries where it is a good idea for the candidate in order to be elected to have a lot of girlfriends, where being a womanizer is a virtue.' Castro, long fodder for romantic legend, was asked how many children he has, "Well, I don't have a tribe," he laughed. "Not that much. Fewer than a dozen." He paused. "I think."

Jewelry back with the economy

NEW YORK

NEW YORK

The sparkle has returned to the jewelry industry after years of, well, lusterless sales. An improved economy, repeal of the luxury tax and new marketing options, such as home-shopping television, are behind the turnaround, which began a year ago. 'I think the confidence in wear-ing jewelry is coming back," said Simon Teakle, who heads the U.S. jewelry division of Christie's auction house, where 1993 sales rose 25 percent over the previous year. Teakle says consumers not only are buying more baubles and bangles but have become savvier about what's available. Many may know, for instance, that the finest red rubies come from Burma, that Mexican opals are fiery orange and that diamonds occur naturally in nearly every color of the rainbow.Yet distinguishing a ruby from a red spinel, an emerald from a tsavorite garnet, or even 10 karat gold from 14 karat gold can be extremely difficult. This lack of expertise — along with the availability of lab-grown synthetics and imitations resembling the real thing but usually worth less - can leave the average buyer vulnerable to unscrupulous dealers or suppliers.

INDIANA Weather

Say it and phone it

New computer technologies are emerging that recognize the human voice and dial a phone number automatically when the caller says the name of the person being called. Here's how the system by Sprint Corp. works compared with current calling card technology:

Using a calling card now

] Dial "0" and the area 2. Wait for automated 3 Dial credit code and phone number being called. command. card number. 0 Using Sprint Corp.'s Voice Foncard J. Dial Sprint's 800 number. Caller speaks access code, which is social security number plus one more digit. Computer verifies by "123-456-789-5") comparing caller's voice print to one previously recorded by account holder. If they match Automated Caller speaks name of person or 4, Automated 5 place being called. Computer verifies voice again, operator says: "Place call." operator says: "Calling ." this time matching i "Betty to a previously recorded phone Place call number list. ୍ଭ -32 Source: Sprint Corp. AP/Bob Bianchin

USAir cuts rates up to 70 percent

NEW YORK

USAir lopped up to half the price off some business tickets and 70 percent off leisure fares Tuesday in response to pressure from Continental Airlines' cheaper rates. The lower prices, which apply to 96 destinations, are not a sale but new fares USAir will charge for the mostly short- to medium-haul routes, airline spokesman Dave Shipley said. Continental said it would match USAir's prices on routes where they compete. Several other major carriers said they were studying the reductions and likely would match them on routes where they compete. Most of the destinations are on the East Coast. The move is a direct response to low-fare competitors, including Continental, which has introduced cheaper fares for more than half its daily departures.

"Razzies" awarded instead of Oscars

LOS ANGELES

"Indecent Proposal" and "Sliver" led nominees for the 14th annual Razzie Awards, which salute the worst in movie making."The Razzies like to call themselves a banana peel on the floor for the movie business, rather than a slap in the face," John Wilson, president of the Golden Raspberry Awards Foundation, said Tuesday. "Their basic intent is to be humorous."The nominees were announced on the eve of Wednesday's Academy Award nominations. The Golden Raspberry Awards will be announced March 20, a day before the Oscars. Nominees and winners never show up for their Razzie trophies, a golfball-size raspberry atop a film reel that's painted gold. It's worth $1.97, Wilson said. The box office hit "Indecent Proposal" and the Sharon Stone thriller 'Sliver'' had seven nominations each. Arnold Schwarzenegger's megabudget bomb "Last Action Hero' and "Body of Evidence," starring Madonna, followed with six apiece. All four films were nominated as the year's worst picture, along with "Cliffhanger," starring Sylvester Stallone.

Sega: The child lure of the nineties

I should have known better when Adam, my next door neighbor and fellow Chicagoan brought his Sega back after Christmas break. It was a novelty at first— World Cup Soccer, Pat Riley Basketball, Bulls Vs. Blazers, a game of Sonic here and there— but

John Lucas Associate News Editor

nothing serious. Yeah, the pessimists down the hall in 324 predicted doom for everyone. "You guys are gonna fail," they would come in and yell. We knew the risks. Everybody talked about the the rumors and the disease--- "Mandatory half-point point drop in your GPA," somebody said.

I thought I could control myself. I've orga nized my time carefully, I reasoned— class work, studying. A few games here and there aren't going to mess with my life.

Then I met NHL Hockey '93-'94. The guys at home all messed around with it a little bit. Summer nights when everybody got bored, we'd pile in the car and head over to Blockbuster to rent it. It was just fun then-pretty harmless stuff. A way to waste warm nights when nobody felt like playing basketball at the park.

As the weeks went by, it started to get more and more serious, though. After toying around with a bunch of different teams, I finally realized my loyalty lay at home, with Ed Belfour and the mighty Chicago Blackhawks. I began to develop my skills, practicing the art of checking, one-timers and backhand shots,

After a while, you could walk by room 327 and be guaranteed of hearing cheering, screaming, and the whining siren, indicating that a goal had just been scored.

The computer even knew the Hawks fight song, and dang if I couldn't stop singing it. I kept hearing it everywhere. I would be enjoying the pleasures of the Pasta Bar at the dining hall and suddenly burst out singing "Here come the Hawks, the mighty Blaaack-hawks!"

After a few weeks, nothing mattered. I forgot about classes and stopped answering phone calls. As long as the little Sega Jeremy Roenick was putting the puck into the net with regularity, I was riding high.

Well, things started to get ugly. After a controversial overtime goal in a big Boston-Detroit showdown, the clowns from across the hall started pushing and shoving. "I never win in overtime!" one yelled in a thick New England accent, as he started swinging his fists

Last week, Adam got angry. "Where's Mike?" Adam would ask, searching for his roommate. "Uh, not here, I think," someone would answer, briefly lifting his eyes from the glowing screen. "You don't mind us using this thing when you're not home, do you Adam? Adam frowned and threw us out.

The other night we even had to stop playing because Mike had a test to study for- "What do you think the library's for?" Boston Boy screamed in his goofy "clam chowdah" accent. "The study lounge is down the hall!" Well, I'm definitely on the road to recovery from "Sega sickness." Through a tremendous use of willpower, I've gone cold turkey. I haven't played in four days. I've been going to class on a regular basis again. My professors told me how good I look— I seem to be regain-ing a little color. Yesterday I opened one of my books. The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

Wednesday, February 9, 1994

DAY'S STAFF
News	Lab Tech
Mary Good	Macy Hueckel
Beth Regan	Production
-	Susan Marx
Sports	Cheryl Moser
Tim Sherman	Nora Buckley
Viewpoint	Graphics
Brian Seiler	Brendan Regan

The Observer (USPS 599 2-4000) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

Wednesday, February 9, 1994

Practice makes perfect

Juniors Marc Hedahl and Jen Andre practice during auditions for the Junior One Acts. Try-outs will continue tonight in Montgomery Theater in Lafortune Student Center.

HPC works for extended 24 hour areas on campus

By JOSLIN WARREN News Writer

Tremendous support is needed if an expansion of 24-hour social areas is to become a reality, according to Student Body Vice-President Nikki Wellman.

Student Government is sponsoring "Late Night at the Hud-HALL PRESIDENTS' COUNCIL

dle" in which the hours of the first floor of Lafortune will be extended until 3 a.m. starting Monday, February 21 through the end of the semester.

The television in the dining area of the Huddle will be showing two movies at 11 p.m. and 1 a.m. every night and during the first week Notre Dame Food Services will be sponsoring free popcorn.

"We have to show that there is a need for this stuff and it's really important that everyone take advantage of this," said Wellman.

Student government is also working to extend the hours of the Oak Room as well.

On February 21 at 5:30 p.m. in the Center for Social Concerns lecture room, an accreditation committee will be holding a conference to listen to the concerns of students.

"The committee comes every ten years to speak to students and get reactions about colliloquy and get feedback on what's going on with our university," said Hall Presidents' Council Co-Chairman Chris Canzoniero.

Students can voice their concerns and the committee will make recommendations to the university based on these concerns.

"Any particular concerns can be brought up here and they will take them to the university," said HPC Advisor Gayle Spencer.

In other HPC news, volunteers are still needed to help in the presentation of the Aids Quilt. Men, in particular, are needed in the setup and tear down of the event.

"People have worked really hard to get the Aids Quilt to campus and it's going to be an exciting event and we need a great deal of support," said Spencer.

• Pasquerilla West is selling Valentine's Day carnations for $1 at North and South Dining Halls all this week. Flowers will be delivered on Sunday to anyone living on campus at St. Mary's or Notre Dame. The money raised will go to the Tara Deutsh Memorial Fund.

• Junior Class Play auditions are continuing tonight from 8:30-10:30 p.m. in Montgomery Theater in Lafortune. The show consists of four one-act plays. No talent is needed to audition, but you do have to be a junior.

NOW HIRING ALL POSITIONS

We're looking for energetic, dynamic individuals who share our enthusiasm for the business. "Mountains" of experience not necessary. Working a flexible schedule in our exciting environment, you will receive:

Generous Pay • Health Insurance Meal Discount • Profit Sharing Stock Purchase Plan

Time is running out - don't miss your chance to get on board! For an immediate interview, please apply at 6402 N. Grape Road (formerly Jeremiah Sweeney's), Mishawaka, Daily, 9am - 7pm. (Please use East entrance, located at rear of building). Interviews end Thursday, Feb. 10th, training starts Friday, Feb. 11th.

Opening March 1st!!!!

page 4

Kelso covers up sexual misconduct at Tailhook Convention

By JOE TAYLOR Associated Press

NORFOLK

Adm. Frank B. Kelso II was accused by a military judge Tuesday of witnessing sexual misconduct in the 1991 Tailhook scandal and trying to cover it up. The judge dismissed charges against three aviators who contended their cases were tainted by the Navy chief's actions.

The judge, Navy Capt. William T. Vest Jr., also accused the Navy's top brass of not paying attention to instances of sexual misconduct at earlier Tailhook meetings.

Had they done so. Vest said, "a high probability exists that both the assaults and much of the Navy's embarrassment could have been avoided."

The dismissals leave only one case pending in the investigation of the scandal that damaged the Top Gun image of Navy and Marine Corps aviators. Of 140 cases, no one was ever court-martialed and about 50 received administrative discipline.

"That fact that here it is over two years later and nothing has occurred, to me it's outrageous," said Karen Johnson, national secretary for the National Organization for Women and a retired Air Force lieutenant colonel.

Pentagon investigators concluded that 83 women were assaulted or molested at the convention, many of them on the third floor of the Las Vegas Hilton, where men lined the hallway on Saturday night, Sept. 7, 1991, and grabbed women as they tried to pass.

Kelso, chief of naval operations, "manipulated the initial investigative process and the subsequent (discipline) process in a manner designed to shield his personal involvement in Tailhook '91," Vest wrote in his decision.

The judge concluded that Kelso was "in error" when he testified that he didn't go to the third floor that Saturday night and didn't see any misconduct.

"This court specifically finds Adm. Kelso visited the third deck patio at some time during the evening hours," Vest wrote.

This court further finds Adm. Kelso was exposed to incidents of inappropriate behavior while on the patio on Saturday evening, including public nudity and 'leg-shaving' activities.

Kelso, who is scheduled to retire in July, declined comment. The Navy was reviewing the decision and declined comment.

Vest's ruling in the cases of Cmdrs. Thomas R. Miller and Gregory Tritt and Lt. David

Hungeling

continued from page 1

Guide. They originally proposed that the student government office consist of only two phones, one to receive calls from students and another to harass the administration about student concerns.

But if they are elected, will they really try to do it? Hungeling admitted he and Orsagh have recently changed their perspective on how they would run student government.

"The second that we get into office, we become part of the institution and we'll have to compromise," he said. "I hope we'll get the support of student government."

Can they carry out their platform? Probably not, at least under current governing documents, the Constitution of the Undergraduate Student Body and its bylaws.

Much of what a president does requires the approval of the Student Senate, a body composed of 15 voting members elected either by the student body or by this year's Senate.

If the ticket's "grass roots, campus-wide social movement" is as widespread as they say, Hungeling and Orsagh could support candidates with similar intentions for several positions that include Senate membership.

If next year's Senate including the four senators themselves, hall presidents and class representatives --- is sympathetic to their causes, implementation might be feasible. But if whatever "machinery' they have fails and they do not have supporters on the Senate and its Budget Committee, their program would falter.

But a larger question looms. Would the administration allow it?

For example, an advisor to the Senate Budget Committee is Joe Cassidy, director of Student Activities. And all activities proposed by SUB must go through at least four administrative agencies, including student activities and student affairs.

The idea of a Grateful Dead concert in South Bend could still work, but only if Hungeling and Orsagh could get an outside promoter to plan the event.

Students supporting Hungeling and Orsagh say the ticket is a welcome change. They are tired of the same proposals year after year that either are not implemented or are simply not important to them.

"I think that everyone is aware that they (the proposals) are completely long shots," Hungeling said. "It's not like we're trying to win by saying 'What is it that students want that we can give them?' "

In the end, the feasibility of their plans may not matter to the voters choosing Hungeling and Orsagh. In the end, the candidates' supporters may just be voting for change for change's sake.

Valentines Specials 🖡 CASH & CARRY SPECIAL ROSES $37.50 dozen Cordially FREE DUI'S on the Avenue MYLAR BALLOON

Corbett

jects. They know the ins and outs of student committees.

before the campaign, coming up with a few concrete ideas to present to students, researching past efforts at reform and running through them with the appropriate administrators. They've presented everything in polished posters and handouts

That's why they believe they are natural choices for student body president and vice president. But the results from Monday's election seem to be a message from students: 'That's just not enough."

attacked Corbett and DuBay, accusing them of running too polished a campaign and using the offices to pad their resumes. They've said students want a change in the way stu-

But Corbett and DuBay insist they hear student concerns and that they plan to answer them. They say they want to use forums or hall council meetings to get a feel for the concerns of the average student. But Corbett admits that it is difficult to reach out to students who don't care.

'Ideas never get out of the dorm room," he said. "You cannot blame that on student government. The programs are there. The support from the administration is there. It has to be broken down to the dorm leaders and to the hall commissioners.

Corbett and DuBay propose a number of ideas, both new and old, to solve student qualms:

The Pub would be a late. night club in LaFortune Student Center offering food and live entertainment on Thursdays and weekends.

• A program dubbed "I.M.P.R.O.V.E." would provide a comprehensive library of internships and establish an alumni mentor system. The program is an effort to build on this year's job network.

• DART restructuring would give students two times to register. The plan is an effort to ensure that no student is shut out of several classes because of a late DART time.

• A Student Review would be an effort to replace The Guide with a combination of Teacher Course Evaluations and voluntary student surveys

It is clear that the ticket approached the campaign from a different perspective than their opponents, using practical tactics. Equally clear is that student government under their administration would be very different.

Corbett and DuBay spent Tuesday night trying to convince voters that their opponents' plans are unreasonable. But they were out to try to prove another point: that their version of student government would be responsive to students.

Today, they find out if students think they could.

Attention Juniors!!! It's audition time for the Junior One-Act Plays. Auditions will be held 8:30-10:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday in Montgomery Theater. No Acting Experience Necessary!

continued from page 1 istration on a variety of pro-

They did their homework for students.

Hungeling supporters have dent government works.

Notre Dame Law Review

presents

Dr. J. Clay Smith, Jr.

Former Dean and Current Professor of Law at the Howard University School of Law

"Justice and Jurisprudence and the Black Lawyer"

Barry Courtroom, Notre Dame Law School Wednesday, February 9, 1994 at 2:00 p.m.

All are welcome.

U.S. ends empty threats on Bosnia

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Six months after NATO authorized air strikes against the Bosnian Serbs, the United States is asking the alliance to do so again. And this time to mean it.

The problem: how to make these new threats credible after countless previous warnings evaporated. NATO warplanes fly daily missions over Sarajevo, swooping low over the surrounding mountains from which gunners bombard the city. Never once have the planes unleashed their bombs.

No more empty threats, President Clinton said Monday.

He said the same thing a month earlier.

And six months earlier. In fact, for two years, U.S. leaders have warned the Serbs that if they didn't halt their aggression, they'd suffer military retaliation.

Time and repetition diminished the threats. The West was clearly reluctant to act and the Serbs knew it.

The leader of Bosnia's besieged Muslims, Alija Izetbegovic, met with Clinton in August, during another period when Serbs were being warned by the West.

At the time, Secretary of State Warren Christopher stood in a NATO air base hangar and intoned, "The military opera-

Movie Night

Kevin Costner, Julia Roberts,

Robin Williams, and Robin Wright

tion is ready." It may have been, but the pilots never left the ground.

'Ōf course, threats cannot be credible for a long time if they're not followed by willing-ness to realize them," Izetbegovic said then

"I'd really like to think we're going to make them move the guns this time," said Marshall Freeman Harris, who quit the State Department six months ago in frustration over the lack of action to help the Bosnian Muslims.

'Clearly the intention of the administration is to issue another threat that's more credible than the one at NATO last month and get the Serbs to respond."

During a NATO summit in January, Clinton said that if the Western allies threaten the use of force in Bosnia, "we have to mean it." The president said whether air strikes were undertaken "depends upon the behavior of the Bosnian Serbs from this day forward.'

Since that day, shells have rained down upon Sarajevo, killing hundreds of civilians shoppers at an outdoor market, children playing in the snow.

The tough talk began during the Bush administration.

On July 9, 1992, President Bush told the Muslim president of Bosnia he would consider the use of U.S. air power against Serbian artillery shelling Sarajevo. And so it continued until Bush left office and Clinton took over.

By TONY SMITH Associated Press

SARAJEVO Ten years after welcoming the world's finest athletes to the 1984 Winter Games, Sarajevo marked the anniversary Tuesday by laying more war dead to rest in the shadow of its wrecked Olympic stadium.

The stadium, now a base for French peacekeepers, has been ruined by Serb shelling from the hills ringing the capital during a 22-month war that has killed more than 200,000 Serbs, Croats and Muslims.

One shell Saturday killed 68 market-goers and injured 200 others in Sarajevo. Serbs are suspected of firing the shell, but U.N. monitors cannot confirm that, and the Serbs have denied it.

It was perhaps no surprise that Sarajevo observed the anniversary of its Winter Games with more funerals and rage at the Serb gunners who, according to one mourner, "have broken the Olympic record in murder.'

In the shadow of Zetra stadium, where the Olympic flame was lighted Feb. 8, 1984, 20 victims of the market massacre were laid in graves hacked from the hard-scrabble ground of a former soccer field

The stadium has been struck by Serb shells, many fired from cannon and mortar emplacements set up on ski slopes and bobsled runs on the Olympic heights surrounding the city.

At a commemorative ceremony in the national theater, a girl's choir called "The Snowflakes" — named for Sarajevo's Olympic emblem — lip-synched to "The Flame is Still Alive," the city's Olympic theme song.

The mood among the 100 Sarajevans in attendance was dejected but dignified. The building's facade was battered by shelling, but its baroque gold and velvet interior is intact.

"For the riders of the Apocalypse riding across our former Olympic fields, we are guilty only because we are Bosnians,'' said Mayor said Mayor Muhamed Kresevljakovic.

He bitterly invited mayors of other Olympic cities to visit 'the city of love and death. ... The biggest Olympic paradox in the world."

It's doubtful dignitaries from such host Winter Olympic cities as Albertville, France (1992); Calgary, Alberta (1988); Lake Placid, N.Y. (1980); and Innsbruck, Austria (1976) could relate to what's happened to Sarajevo.

Dozens of former Yugoslav Olympic team athletes are now fighting on the Bosnian Muslim side, said Izudin Filipovic, head of the Bosnian Olympic Committee. Five are fighting with the separatist Serbs, he said.

About 10 Bosnian athletes are competing next week in the 1994 Winter Games in Lillehammer, Norway.

"They have to fight three battles - to defend their country, for their athletic performance, and for their lives,' Filipovic said.

Alija Izetbegovic, the Bosnian president, promised in a letter to the International Olympic Committee that his Muslim-dominated forces would hold their fire during the games.

The Bosnian Serb leader, Radovan Karadzic, made a similar promise two weeks ago, but his forces kept firing into the city.

"During their Olympic truce, the Serbs have broken the Olympic record in murder," said Samir Hadzic, 29, who lost one of his best friends in the market shelling.

Karadzic wrote Tuesday to Russian President Boris Yeltsin and President Clinton, urging them to back the Serb demand for an investigation of the massacre by U.N., Bosnian government and Serb experts. Such an inquiry is needed because peace in the Balkans and in Europe is at stake, Karadzic argued.

U.N. officials reject that suggestion.

...Brought your favorite Fairy Tales to life in:

Once upon a time...

8:00 pm Robin Hood 10:15 pm Pretty Woman 12:15 am Aladdin 1:45 am The Princess Bride Friday, February 11in the LaFortune Ballroom FREE REFRESHMENTS It's a FUN and FREE night with a HAPPY_ENDING!

The Third Annual Breen-Phillips Hall

The Observer • INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Comfortable in the computer lab

The Observer/John Bingham

Morrissey junior Brian McCandless works in the new Nieuwland computer lab. Since the lab was often over-crowded it was renovated over Christmas Break and now accomodates more students.

Speculation surrounds legislator's death

By AUDREY WOODS Associated Press

LONDON

The death of a promising Conservative Party legislator and reports that his body was found clad in women's underwear have stunned the government and left party officials struggling to limit the damage.

Stephen Milligan was found dead Monday afternoon in his London house after associates had been unable to reach him all day.

Police called the death suspicious but would not confirm or deny widespread newspaper reports that the 45-year-old bachelor was found wearing only women's stockings and a garter belt, with an electric cord around his neck and a plastic bag over his head. Scotland Yard said they still hadn't determined the cause of death.

Newspapers speculated about the sexual context of the death. Theories include murder and indulgence in the dangerous practice of starving oneself of oxygen to heighten sexual pleasure.

Some newspaper reports said he was strangled. Others said he suffocated. Still others said he was found bound and gagged.

Milligan's parliamentary secretary, Vera Taggert, found the body when she went to his house after he failed to show up at the House of Commons and did not answer the telephone.

A former British Broadcasting Corp. journalist, Milligan won his seat in the 1992 general election and had already reached the first step up the ministerial ladder as parliamentary private secretary to Defense Minister Jonathan Aitken.

'Stephen Milligan was a rising parliamentary star," Aitken said. "His sterling character, his intellectual ability and his formidable talent as a communicator had already marked him out for a distinguished political career.'

Milligan had served in senior reporting posts for The Economist magazine, the BBC and The Sunday Times newspaper, where he became Washington correspondent and foreign editor

Mir cosmonauts contact Pennsylvania middle school

By MARCIA DUNN Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL Discovery's history-making cosmonaut called Mars on Tuesday. What's more, Mars answered.

After two days of trying, Sergei Krikalev got through to students in Mars, Pa., via ham radio.

"It was just like an amazing sensation, just talking to them," said Julia Dawson, a sixth-grader at Mars Area Middle School who came in with five other students even though classes were canceled because of the cold.

The students asked Krikalev about the differences between the American and Russian space equipment and how he was chosen for the mission.

Krikalev, who visited the school in 1989, had trouble understanding some of the questions, so astronaut Jan Davis answered for him.

Earlier in the day, Krikalev exchanged greetings with his comrades on Russia's Mir space station as their spacecraft zoomed around Earth half a world apart.

"I hear you loud and clear. Can you hear me?" Krikalev asked the three Mir men. As his words were translated from Russian into English for the benefit of American TV viewers, laughter erupted aboard Mir.

"Sergei, why are you speaking English to us? Have you forgotten Russian?" one Mir cosmonaut asked jokingly. He was assured Krikalev indeed had spoken in Russian.

Discovery was 210 miles over the South Pacific and Mir was flying at about the same altitude over the Caribbean when the crews linked via the Morning America."

"We have flown for a long time with Sergei," Mir cosmo-naut Valery Polyakov said in Russian. "I just wanted to wish him successful work among his American colleagues and a safe return to Earth and a safe landing and future meetings.'

Krikalev, who has spent more than a year on Mir, is the first Russian cosmonaut to fly on a NASA shuttle. Several other joint shuttle flights are scheduled in coming years. American astronauts are to begin flying on Mir in early 1995.

All this is supposed to lead to a joint space station by 2001.

Discovery's commander, Charles Bolden Jr., said this flight has confirmed "what I knew in my heart all along, that people are just people no matter where they happen to come from.'

'I am very, very encouraged by the experience," Bolden said. "I think it bodes well for the world."

Scientifically, Discovery's eight-day flight has been less of a success.

The $13.5 million Wake Shield Facility had to stay aboard Discovery instead of flying 46 miles away, forcing researchers to develop semiconductor film in the dirty shuttle environment. Had it gone as planned, the experiment could have produced high-quality film needed for faster computers.

Other experiments also had to be scrapped because of the crew's inability to release the satellite, including shuttle plume tests intended to help prepare for planned shuttle-Mir dockings. Discovery's pilots were supposed to fire the shuttle jets near the Wake Shield, just before retrieving it, to see how the blasts would affect the satellite.

page 6

For Football Season, Fall 1994 Apply at LaFortune Information Desk by February 18.

Activities Office. Deadline: February 18 adworks

Clinton seeks $300 million for aid

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

President Clinton asked Congress on Tuesday for an additional $300 million to help flood recovery efforts in the Midwest.

And he ordered the release of $111 million in contingency funds already appropriated for flood relief.

The White House said that after consultations with Midwestern governors and House and Senate members it was determined the new money was needed in communities throughout the region to help rebuild roads, bridges and community facilities, for relocation assistance and for housing construction.

Clinton requested:

-$250 million, for a total of $500 million, for the community development block grant program to help in the rebuilding and relocation projects.

-$50 million, for a total of $550 million, for the president's contingency fund. The money would be available for emergency conservation, flood prevention, community services and other projects. The money is in addition to the $435 million for the flood states included in pending legislation, which also contains money to aid earthquake recovery efforts in Southern California.

The president also released $100 million in Commerce Department money to meet repair needs caused by last summer's flooding of the Mississippi River and its tributaries.

He also released $10 million in Health and Human Services Department funds to meet public health and social services needs.

Slick spreads to Puerto Rican beaches

By LISA M. HAMM Associated Press

SAN JUAN

An oil slick from last month's major spill has spread to two internationally renowned beaches, causing surfers to abandon waves and hoteliers to lament lost business.

About 200 cleanup workers headed to the northwest beaches Tuesday to join a 144member force that arrived Saturday. They are trying to clean up tar balls and oil globs soiling a 20-mile stretch of coastline about 65 miles west of San Juan, said Coast Guard spokesman Chris Haley.

Wind and currents carried the slick to the northwest. The slick originated from about 750,000 gallons of heavy oil that spilled from the Morris J. Berman barge that ran aground Jan. 7 off San Juan.

Most tourists have left Jobos and Surfers beaches, and nearby Shacks Beach, said Geraldo Gonzalez, a marine biologist with the University of Puerto Rico's Sea Grant Program.

Hotel owners said the impact has hurt their business, and fishermen complained their livelihood and ships were damaged.

Puerto Rico's government Tuesday handed out 60 checks of $150 to $300 to help San Juan fishermen who have lost business.

You Are Invited to Attend "Winning in the Value-Conscious '90s"

A Procter & Gamble Presentation on the Key to Creating and Leveraging Consumer Value

Featuring

Mike Milligan Senior Vice President

$8.6 billion quake aid package moves to Senate

By DAVID ESPO Associated Press

WASHINGTON An $8.6 billion package of Los Angeles earthquake relief advanced to the Senate floor Tuesday after lawmakers voted for a companion round of spending cuts, including funds once approved to promote democracy in Russia.

In addition to the earthquake aid, the bill contains $685 million to help Midwesterners recover from last summer's flood — an increase of $250 million from last week, when the measure won House approval.

Also approved was $1.2 billion to finance Pentagon operations in Somalia, Bosnia and elsewhere, and $315 million to repair a freeway damaged in the 1989 San Francisco Bay earthquake.

The full Senate is expected to debate the measure Wednesday, and congressional leaders hope to have it on President Clinton's desk by the end of the week.

The earthquake money includes grants and loans for victims of the Jan. 17 quake, which killed 61 people and caused property damage expected to reach $30 billion.

Total spending was pegged in the bill at $11.6 billion. In contrast to the House, where there was intense controversy generated by the subject of offsetting cuts, the Senate Appropriations Committee rolled together two separate packages of reductions that totaled slightly more than $3.4 billion.

In the total was $145 million to be trimmed from more than $3 billion approved in the past several years to promote the transition to democracy in Russia and other former Soviet republics.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., chairman of the subcommittee that oversees foreign aid spending, said "management and implementation problems" made it impossible to spend all the money in the pipeline.

Recent disaster relief bills have been paid for through deficit financing, and the current drive to offset at least part of the costs reflects growing congressional concern over the deficit.

Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Neb., said he would attempt to persuade the full Senate to approve a temporary increase in the gasoline tax to pay for the emergency aid legislation.

There was little controversy over the bill in committee, with the exception of Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev., to tighten a House-passed provision that would restrict aid going to illegal aliens.

The House voted to deny all but emergency relief to illegal aliens, and Reid proposed a requirement that federal bureaucrats make a "reasonable effort" to establish proof of citizenship on anyone applying for longer-term assistance such as Small Business Administration loans.

New Date: Tuesday, February 15 5:30 p.m. Center for Continuing Education Auditorium Rescheduled from January 20, due to inclement weather.

We apologize for any inconvenience.

Reception immediately following. Food and beverages will be served. Dress is casual. Students from all majors welcome.

ΩE

Meet P&G managers from: `

- Finance
- Sales
- Management Systems
- Product Development
- Product Supply
- Brand Management

Disaster strikes again in Southern California

By JEFF WILSON Associated Press

page 8

MALIBU

Fires level 1,000 homes. An earthquake kills 61 people. Now, Southern California has a new disaster: mudslides.

Cars were buried, people were plucked from upper floor windows and houses were swamped as heavy rain unleashed tons of mud and debris from fire-scarred mountains. No injuries were reported.

On Tuesday, bulldozers and dump trucks plowed up to 3 feet of muck from Pacific Coast Highway at Big Rock Canyon, where at least 10 beach front homes were damaged in Monday's cloudburst. Storm-tossed waves 8 feet high plowed into home pilings, shaking the structures much like last month's deadly earthquake.

'We have the fire, the earthquake, the mud and now we're worried about the surf. What could be next?" said resident Carrie Sutton, whose house wasn't damaged.

Besides the mudslides, the storm unleashed high wind that toppled trees, shattered windows and downed power lines.

At the height of the downpour, about two dozen people were plucked from secondstory windows by bulldozers. A five-mile stretch of the coastal highway remained closed Tuesday.

"I should have stayed in Illinois. I should have been a farmer," said Larry Myers, a Pepperdine University graduate student from Avon, Ill., as he surveyed his debris-filled home.

Nearby beach front homes owned by Janet Jackson, Bruce Willis and Demi Moore escaped damage.

Also unscathed were Broad Beach homes owned by Jack Lemmon, Sylvester Stallone, Frank Sinatra, Steven Spielberg, Eddie Van Halen and Mel Gibson.

About 25 Malibu homes were damaged, with estimated losses of about $1.6 million, said sheriff's Deputy Diane Hecht

The damage could have been worse without the frantic hillside receding and sandbagging following the Nov. 2 arson fire that scorched 18,500 acres of the Santa Monica Mountains in Malibu.

Almost two dozen wildfires burned from Ventura County to the Mexico border in late October and early November, killing four people and destroying about 1,000 houses. Many were blamed on arson.

As dump trucks hauled tons of goo from the coastal highway and dumped it into the ocean, sunshine poked through the clouds. Bikers and joggers emerged, and dogs ran along the beach.

Isolated showers and thunderstorms lingered over the region, and more heavy rain was predicted for next week.

"We are going to have to rebag and rebag quickly," said Sarah Maurice, spokeswoman for the city of 15,000 located on the coast 25 miles west of Los Angeles. "Los Angeles has its own troubles from the quake and we just can't ask them for a hand.

Malibu sustained minimal damage in the quake.

In fire-scarred Altadena, about 10 miles northeast of downtown Los Angeles, up to 5 feet of mud smashed through sandbag berms and chased residents from 40 homes. At least 12 people were temporarily stranded, and five homes sustained water damage, sheriff's Lt. Jim Hays said.

In Laguna Beach, where wildfires destroyed 366 homes, extensive sandbagging and debris dams kept hillsides intact.

But other parts of Orange County south of Los Angeles were battered by high wind.

A tornado skipped 10 miles from Newport Beach to Tustin, toppling trees onto cars, shattering windows and downing power lines. A funnel cloud in Irvine downed tree branches and broke windows.

^{BD}GREAT

ALL YOU CAN EAT

WAL

SPECIAL CHINESE NEW YEAR BUFFET Sebruary 9 & 10 nalf price

Includes Soup, Appelizer, 8 Entrees and Dessert (Other menu items also available)

130 Dixie Way S., South Band (next to Randall's Inn) 272-7376

Clinton defends health-care plan

By NANCY BENAC Associated Press

SHREVEPORT President Clinton struck back Tuesday at critics' charges that his health-care plan would give people less choice and more government.

"Don't fall for all this rhetoric," the president told a friendly crowd of nearly 2,000 factory workers on the floor of a General Motors truck plant. Clearly sensitive about insurance industry his plan, the president challenged "these ads of these folks that are so desperate to keep the system we have now.'

'They say, 'Oh, the president wants to have the government take over the health care system.' It isn't so," he insisted. "What the president wants to do is to keep the system we've got now and give it to everybody."

Clinton also took several swipes at a rival plan sponsored by Rep. Jim Cooper, D-Tenn., though he didn't single Cooper out by name. He criticized any proposals that he said would try to make insurance more affordable but would not guarantee coverage for all.

"Others say, 'well, we make insurance companies cover everybody," he said. "Yeah, well, you can get insurance now. We have universal access now - if you've got $10,000 or $15,000.

The president is trying regain momentum for his healthcare plan after an onslaught of criticism from business groups

Chinese-American

Restaurant &

5 - 9 p.m.

Cocktail Lounge Authentic Szechuan

Mandarin & Hunan Cuisine

that particularly dislike his proposal to make companies pay most of the premiums for their workers' health coverage.

Clinton was introduced at the GM plant by United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber, who said the union backs Clinton's plan enthusiastically, and by GM chief executive officer Jack Smith, who spoke by satellite hookup about a need for health-care reform without specifically endorsing Clinton's proposal.

'It is time for us to listen to the enlightened business leaders like Jack Smith and the enlightened labor leaders like Owen Bieber who say the time has come for everybody to take some responsibility for health care," Clinton said.

Clinton, speaking to workers with some of the best health benefits in the country, told his audience that others should have the same security.

'What if you had a dream of starting a small business and you were willing to risk giving up working here, with all the security that it has?"" Clinton asked them. "If you had a sick kid and you did that, you couldn't insure your family."

Painting insurance companies as the villains of the current system, Clinton declared, "Our approach completely outlaws insurance company dis-crimination" against people who have pre-existing medical conditions.

The Health Insurance Association of America is running a series of ads that suggest Clinton's plan would result in a mushrooming federal bureaucracy while limiting patients' choices in selecting medical care.

Clinton countered that the failings of the current system were due to insurance companies "writing thousands and thousands of different policies, charging old people more than young people, and saying who cannot get health insurance. We ought to stop it.'

He said rival health-care plans in Congress would limit workers' choices in selecting health coverage while his would give people their pick of at least three options - basic, average and premium.

"A lot of the plans competing with us would drive workers down to one choice: the least expensive HMO," Clinton said. "That may be a good plan. A lot of these HMOs give great care at low cost, but one of the reasons is they have some competition."

Clinton was accompanied to the plant by Sen. John Breaux, D-La., who is sponsoring the Cooper counterpart in the Senate. Breaux said he remains optimistic a compromise can be found, but acknowledged that a major sticking point was Clinton's desire to have all employers pick up the tab for insurance.

Be a part of The Observer! Call 631-7471 for info.

3703 North Main Street (Just South of Edison on Main Street)

* Cornish Pasty / Pub Pie / Fish 'N Chips Scotch Eggs / Shepherd's Pie Our Famous "Pubburrito" & Traditional American Fare  Sunday-Thursday: Study Booths Available OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK FOR LUNCH & DINNER Phone: 256-9993

- SPACIOUS 2-BEDROOM APARTMENTS
- NEW APPLIANCES, CABINETS, AND CARPETS
- ENTRY SECURITY
- LAUNDRY FACILITY AVAILABLE
- 4 BLOCKS FROM NOTRE DAME CAMPUS
- PROFESSIONAL MANAGEMENT TEAM
- Skilled Maintenance Crew
- PRIVATE OFF-STREET PARKING FOR TENANTS
- SEVERAL UNITS AVAILABLE FOR IMMEDIATE OCCUPANCY

NOW TAKING APPLICATIONS FOR '94-'95 SCHOOL YEAR FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL 232-8256

North purges name from files

By PETE YOST Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Senate hopeful Oliver North purged his name from court files detailing his efforts to suppress the prosecutor's final report on the Iran-Contra scandal, sources familiar with the matter said Tuesday.

A three-judge panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals released hundreds of pages of previously secret court documents filed in December by former President Reagan and former Attorney General Edwin Meese III seeking to block the Jan. 18 release of the prosecutor's report.

But North's name was absent from the court files. One court document had black ink blotting out the name of a third party seeking to suppress the report. The name was North's and it was blacked out by court officers at the request of North and his lawyers, according to the sources, who have closely followed the seven-year investigation of the scandal and who spoke on condition of anonymity. In addition, said the sources, North's lawyers removed from court files their secret motions seeking to stop release of the report.

"We just don't have any comment," North lawyer Nicole Seligman said when asked about the former White House aide's decision to keep his court motions off the public record.

North is seeking the Republican nomination for the Senate seat held by Charles Robb, D-Va.

The report by prosecutor Lawrence Walsh concludes that Reagan acquiesced in a cover-up of the Iran-Contra scandal spearheaded by Meese. It also concludes that North regarded Reagan's comments about secretly assisting the Nicaraguan Contras as "an invitation to break the law."

In the newly released court papers, filed Dec. 3, Reagan's lawyers complained that Walsh's then-secret report "contains page after page of innuendo that former President Reagan and others might have transgressed criminal laws." Walsh's report "is fraught with scurrilous accusations intended to damage the good name of honest public servants like former Attorney General Edwin Meese III," his lawyers said in the newly released court filing.

Meese's lawyers asked the appeals court judges to delete from Walsh's report "accusations ... pertaining to any alleged criminal conduct on the part of Edwin Meese III."

Reagan asked that the court refuse to release Walsh's report "to the public or any other entity or person" unless it was rewritten to remove "opinions, conclusions and innuendo."

The sources said North made similar objections. Walsh's Dec. 8 court filing arguing against suppression addresses Reagan's objections side-by-side with the objections of the blacked-out third party.

North was tried and convicted of three felonies in the Iran-Contra scandal. The convictions were later set aside and eventually dismissed because prosecutors were unable to show that North's trial was free of taint from his immunized congressional testimony in 1987.

North Korea fortifying main nuclear complex

By JU-YEON KIM

Associated Press

SEOUL Facing the possibility of U.N. sanctions, North Korea is fortifying and staging defensive maneuvers around its main nuclear complex, a South Korean security official said Tuesday.

North Korea, meanwhile, accused the South Korean leadership of "sword brandishing" and bringing Korea to the "brink of war."

North Korea is suspected of developing atomic weapons. It denies this, but has blocked foreign inspectors from its nuclear facilities.

In a meeting Tuesday of security-related ministers in Seoul, national security adviser Chung Jong-uk said intelligence reports show North Korea is conducting defense training around its main nuclear complex at Yongbyon, 60 miles north of the capital, Pyongyang.

Chung said North Korea also has fortified its underground military facilities at Yongbyon, but he said there's no sign North Korea is trying to provoke a confrontation.

Wednesday's edition of the Chosun Ilbo newspaper quoted an unidentified high government official as saying South Korea has increased surveillance of North Korea "to be informed of possible military maneuvers ahead of time."

The stepped up tension comes less than two weeks before the International Atomic Energy Agency votes on whether to refer North Korea's continued refusal to allow nuclear inspections to the U.N. Security Council for possible international sanctions.

"In case dialogue and efforts fail, the government must take all necessary measures to safeguard national security and survival and to win public confidence," South Korean President Kim Young-sam said Tuesday.

Kim faulted what he called exaggerated reports from the United States that he said could aggravate tensions on both sides of the Korean Peninsula.

He said North Korea must not be isolated and the appearance of confrontation should be diminished to avoid spoiling last-minute hopes for a peaceful resolution of the crisis.

South Korean Foreign Minister Han Sung-joo said the nuclear impasse can still be solved through negotiations with North Korea.

"Slight progress has been made through IAEA-Norea Korea negotiations," Han said, without elaborating. However, he said, if North Korea continued to block inspections, sanctions were inevitable.

Han was to depart for the United States on Wednesday, a week earlier than expected, for talks with Secretary of State Warren Christopher on the nuclear standoff.

An expert on North Korea who visited Pyongyang last week said the Communist country seemed tense and ordinary citizens seemed worried about an outside attack.

"North Koreans do not want a war with South Koreans," said Stephen Linton, a New York professor who accompanied evangelist Billy Graham to North Korea.

North Korea's official Korean Central News Agency said, in a dispatch monitored in Tokyo, "It is a foolish dream for the South Korean war maniacs to overpower our republic by military force."

Seniors,

Come on Down... to Senior Bar

for a chance to win these fabulous prizes!

Office of Multicultural Affairs and B. C. A. F. proudly present:

Dr. Debbye Turner "1990 Miss America"

1. A trip to Mardi Gras—includes plane, hotel, and spending money.

- 2. Senior Formal package—includes second city, ticket, hotel, and spending money
- 3. Four movie passes
- 4. Dinner for four at Macri's
- 5. Brunch for two at Tippecanoe

... and many other prizes including Rocco's, C.J.'s, and others.

Join Bob and his Beauties on Wednesday, Feb. 9 at Senior Bar. The cost is $1^{oo} per raffle ticket. The games will begin at 11:00 p.m. "Excellence in Life's Pursuits: Remembering Community Responsibility"

Wednesday, February 9, 1994 7:00 p.m. Hesburgh Library Auditorium Reception to follow in Library Lounge

VIEWPOINT

page 10

THE OBSERVER

NOTRE DAME OFFICE: P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 631-7471 SAINT MARY'S OFFICE: 309 Haggar, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 284-5365

1993-94 General Board

Editor-in-Chief

David Kinney

Rusiness Manager Brian Kennedy

Anne Heroman

.Steph Goldman

.Cheryl Moser

.Patrick Barth

.Brendan Regan

Mark Meenan

631-4540 631-5303 631-6900/8840

631-8839 631-7471

News Editor Meredith McCullough Advertising Manager Viewpoint EditorSuzy Fry Ad Design Manager Sports Editor Production Manager .George Dohrmann Accent Editor ..Kenya Johnson Systems Manager Photo Editor ...Jake Peters OTS Director... Saint Mary's Editor. .Jennifer Habrych Controller

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, News Editor, Viewpoint Editor, Accent Editor, Photo Editor, Sports Editor, and Saint Mary's Editor Commentaries, letters and Inside Columns present the views of the authors, and not necessarily those of The Observer. Viewpoint space is available to all members of the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

Observer Phone Lines 631-4542 631-4541 Accent/Saint Mary's Day Editor/Production

631-5313

631-5323

Advertising Systems/OTS Office Manage

Editor-in-Chief
Managing Editor/Viewpoint
Business Office Sports
News/Photo

Managing Editor Kevin Hardmar

JOSH OZERSKY

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Even grad students get the blues A student's plea for pity from abyss of despair

My cracked and withered fingers can barely tap the keyboard; lumbago, gout, and arthritic joints make my seated posture here at The Observer an agony. The weight of years bears heavily upon me, and "th' eternal editor" awaits my final copy. The end is nearer that it is far, and thus I have claim upon your pity, reader: as a graduate student- lowest, and ow I envy your youthful frolics, reader, in the summer of your undergraduate bliss!'

eldest, of men.

How I envy your youthful frolics, reader, in the summer of your undergraduate bliss! How I long to tap dextrously at the controls of Mortal Kombat II, to have my hooded yellow man yell, "C'mere!" in an aggressive voice, hurling a bloody harpoon into my foe's muscular chest.

Such will never be my fate, reader. For me never the gloss of the beer-mirror, reflecting the mirth of the dorm-room, nor the prideful conquest of the nubile co-ed. Never for me the athlete's sweat-pants and backwards baseball cap, nor the nose-ring and goatee of the libidinious bohemian.

need not add, awaits this prisoner.

No, the graduate student is a pitiable and feeble being, condemned to an indefinite term of labor whose end is distant and whose reward is dubious.

Trudging bonelessly up the library stairs, representatives of our race have the glazed eyes and cadaverous faces of men who know and expect defeat. Who speak publically of the hopelessness of their getting a job, and the dissatisfactions of having one; who leer at the passing beauties, and scorn the better, stronger men whom the universe has rightly ordained for them in our stead.

And yet... And yet... There is still some creeping pathos in the plight of the graduate student, some redeeming poetry in melancholy which, in the end, justifies him. Though our buckling spines can barely hold up the mortarboards of postgraduate eminence, are we not the heirs to Albertus Magnus? Toiling away in obscurity, groping after entry to a refereed journal or university press, we represent the working masses of University life, enduring and abiding the hardships and solitude.

mantis faces peeking at you from behind the fryers, and the brittle jointed "hands" which give you your change. Or watching the rotating sandwich cylinders of the library basement mock you with their empty shelves. The oppressive, menacing hum of that room! No tomb could be more oppressive. The moist caress of a tentacle, the cyclopean gaze of an eye-pod... I can bear no more of

I, FARRINGTON

So, submitted to your consideration, the graduate student. Harassed by vast and shadowy entities, oppressed by work and despair, he sits with his hot plate in a monklike cell, dreaming of tenure and Priapism.

Is there no room in your heart, good undergraduate, for such a being? With your radiarassed by vast and shadowy entities, oppressed by work and despair, the graduate student sits with his hot plate in a monklike cell, dreaming of tenure and Priapism.'

University must increase AIDS awareness education

Dear Editor:

Over the last several days 1 have read the AIDS articles in The Observer and, much to my dismay, have read commentaries that just plain miss the mark. For the last five years I have been employed as a firefighter and as an emergency room technician working on both the East Coast and here in South Bend. Through this work, AIDS has become a part of my everyday life and fears. The articles in The Observer are treating AIDS education as a moral issue; an issue likened to the debate about sex before marriage. It simply is not a moral issue, it is an issue of health. Though AIDS is a sexually transmitted disease, it is not exclusively transmitted in this manner.

It is time for Notre Dame as a community of adults to realize two things. The first is that AIDS kills. The second is that as adults we will all make our own decisions. These decisions range from career choice to sexuality. If one chooses to engage in only marital sexual activity, that is his or her choice. If one chooses to engage in monogamous extramarital sexual relations, that again is the individual's choice. It is also the choice of the individual to engage in sexual freedom. It is not within the realm of parents, society or the Church to make the decision for the individual. It is, however, within their realm to educate and inform individuals so that they may make their best decision.

It is everyone's responsibility to educate; mine, yours, our parents, Notre Dame and the federal government.

The government has recently taken steps to educate about "safer sex" on national television. This education has been scrutinized for appealing to children and making sex more acceptable when coupled with latex. The critics of government education may have a point.

But, as part of the Notre Dame community we live in a special environment, a society exclusively of adults. Adults who will make their own personal decisions. Adults whose decisions can affect the future of this disease, and the future of generations to follow. As long as these decisions are informed and intelligent our college education has been worth while.

My point is this: let us educate about monogamy, about marriage, about latex, and about good sense. We are in a unique position where all of what we say can be directed solely at the intelligent adult. We do not run the risk of promoting sex by informing about condoms. Simply, I am asking both the University and the student body to open their eyes to the reality, to the fact, that AIDS and sex are here to stay. It is everyone's responsibility to educate, be educated and be smart.

Wednesday, February 9, 1994

I exist in a neither a region, a phantom zone much like that into which Superman's enemies were once banished, only to be freed by an exploding atombomb. No such liberation, I

DOONESBURY

I mean, it's hard, man! You don't know! Forget about Finals. Try sitting at home with 400 pages of Major Problems in American Colonial History between you and your unmade bed! It's murder.

Murder! Try pulling into Burger King after a long session in your study pen, and seeing, with growing alarm, the ant health and undimmed ambitions, spare a pity for the poor graduate, his weak coffee, his tension and unkempt coat. The call of Vocation may, someday, strike you down, too.

Josh Ozersky is a graduate student in history.

HOLT MURRAY Sophomore Flanner Hall

QUOTE OF THE DAY GARRY TRUDEAU

VIEWPOINT

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

pportunity to practice Christian values at Dismas

Dear Editor:

Let's talk about the Christian Character of Notre Dame. I'm not talking about the hypocrisy of this place though. As Father Griffin pointed out in his last letter, hypocrisy is sort of inevitable when an institution tries to live up to the Christian ideal (especially when there's a $18,000 price tag on it).

We forget our down sides and inabilities and we are eventually hypocritical in our shortcomings. And that's OK. But what is not OK is where we simply give lip service to our Christian ideals, where we fail to even try to achieve them.

One place we have failed, where it would be easy to do a lot more that just flap our 10,000 collective sets of gums, is a home known as Dismas House. Dismas House is a community of forgiveness, mutual support, and growth for students and ex-offenders. That is, at Dismas House students and ex-convicts live together, support each other, forgive each other, and grow together.

The house is an ideal based on the image of Jesus' forgiveness and invitation into the community of heaven, as Jesus showed to a criminal crucified at his side (Luke 23: 39-43). Dismas is located in South Bend in order to try and live out this ideal with Notre Dame's students. The house holds 16 with an ideal of eight students and eight ex-offenders.

Unfortunately, we are failing with our great lack of effort. During my four years here, about three students from Notre Dame have tried living at Dismas house over the combined time span of about two semesters (a few others have communed with the people of Dismas by regularly cooking dinner there.) Now, out of a possible eight students for each of the eight semesters of my Notre Dame life, three students for two semesters isn't just coming short; we are failing (no offense to those few who try or cook).

We've all been too busy flapping our lips in seminars about what it means to be a "national Catholic research University. We've been flapping so much "We are ND" that we've failed to notice that no one is sharing our Christian community with Dismas House. We've been too busy trying to be cool, off-campus, real world adults to realize that no cool students are living at Dismas House. Most of us are too busy to even know where Dismas House is.

The address there is 512 S. Saint Joseph street right behind the South Bend Post Office- a short bus, bicycle, or car ride from campus. But if you look, you see eight vacant student residents at Dismas House for next year. . . again. That is, unless we try to live up to our ideals next year.

Please, when you're thinking about a place to live next year (there is still time to think), and your thinking about how cool it could be to live with your friends off campus. or in a dorm quad, THINK about how cool it would be share that community of friendship in Dismas House. Maybe your friends aren't thinking community but you are, THINK about Dismas House. It's not Cripe St., the Swamp House, the Swim House, the Potato House, the Creek, Navarre, Campus View, Lafayette, ND apartments or anything that distinguished.

Nor is Dismas House the campus life in "the quad," "the box," "the eight man," or "holy R.A.ness," or anything that cool. But I can tell you that living at Dismas House is cool and distinguished. In fact, living at Dismas house is probably something more than distinction and probably something more than coolness.

If you are interested in Dismas house at all and would like more information a group of lips called the "student recruitment committee" is having a meeting on Tuesday, February 15th at 4:30 PM. in the CSC- please attend. If you need information before or after that date you can call Dismas House at 233-8522 and maybe attend a dinner at the house, or you can meet with Kathy Royer in the CSC or Brother Bonaventure in Keenan Hall

Oh. veah! Don't just bring your lips, but bring your hearts, and your minds as well. We don't want to leave Dismas stranded on the cross without forgiveness and an invitation to achieve the heavenly community we're supposed to strive for here at the University of Notre Dame.

CHRIS MARTIN Senior Keenan Hall

SYR's in need of their own multi-cultural office

Dear Editor: " Pinara

After reading Christian Guerrero's recent letter to the Observer ("Semi-formals exclude students of color," The Observer, February 7, 1994), I thought it my duty as a member of the Notre Dame community to share the solution to this devastating problem.

First, the Office of Multicultural SYRs should be formed. This office would undoubtedly make students of every color feel more welcome at SYRs. Or, at the very least, the office would provide multicultural students with an outlet to discuss their multicultural problems with these not-so-diverse SYRs.

Diversity is such a noble and wonderful pursuit that the Office of Multicultural SYRs should immediately set a quota on the racial makeup of the students attending the SYR. It should be mandatory that 20 percent of all SYR dates be "students of color." Such quotas would help to bring multiculturalism into SYRs. "eople of color" would then be able to "dance enthusiastically" all night long. The failure of Notre Dame students to have proper music for our multicultural "friends of color" also needs to be addressed immediately. It will therefore be the responsibility of the Office of Multicultural SYRs to set a guota on what music students can bring on campus. A full 20 percent of all music must be of a more diverse nature. Therefore, the Multicultural Executive SYR Council, comprised of multicultural "students of color," should be formed to review a student's music selection before it is brought on campus. But if we truly want to integrate our multicultural friends into the full SYR scene, we must provide musical preference for the music approved by the Multicultural Executive SYR-Council. In other words, if a 'student of color" wishes a song played, he or she will have preference over the selection of music by a "student of noncolor. " Thus, a new hall committee must be formed to ensure the enforcement of the musical preference policy.

However, I fear this may not be enough. The University needs to start SYR Prejudice Reduction Workshops to ensure that no "people of non-color" have any other ideas except complete compliance with this program to increase the number of "students of color" who attend SYRs. Multicultural people of color" are vital to the Notre Dame Family, and we must nurture them at all costs.

To broaden the effects of this important program, a requirement specifying 20 percent of all items purchased for SYRs must be bought from busi-nesses owned by "people of color" should be added as well. By working with the community, we can foster relationships and diversity that have a truly salubrious effect on and offcampus. It is important that we, as a school, unite and demand this program immediately. I fear it is the only way to remedy our failing SYR system- a system that excludes just too many "students of color." Past discrimination has made it hard on these individuals, must we make it hard on them in the present as well?

Dear Editor: Regarding

Christian Guerrero's letter of Feb. 7 ("Semi-formals exclude students of color") I have one question to ask: What is the point? Guerrero fills a quarter of the page with something he cannot understand, nor explain, more than "we feel shut out at SYRs."

He does state that when he, or another "student of color" requests a song, he receives the reply, "Sorry, we don't have that. May I suggest, few students on this campus own an infinite collection of compact disks, so such a reply seems innocent enough. Unless, of course, Guerrero's friends have an endless supply of money, which is an impossible accomplishment for anyone paying to attend Notre Dame.

Guerrero also claims that when he dances with his date, people stare. Unfortunately, I believe the same thing occurs to numerous white students, or should I say, students of no color.

When you dance, there could be three reasons why people stare at you: 1) you are a great dancer and people are in awe of your incredible moves, or 2) you are a lousy, out-of-control dancer, and people are spilling their drinks because of your pathetic moves, or 3) the room is full of "15 couples standing around drinking beer," and you are the one couple dancing. In that case, allow me to recall the famous words of Sesame Street: "One of these kids is doing his own thing."

Since he claims "in no way am I suggesting that SYRs are racist or prejudiced," what is Guerrero suggesting? I wonder, has it ever occurred to him that there are many people who experience the same problem as him, regardless of color. It's called paranoia. And that has to do with personality, not race.

I think Guerrero's problem is in his mind, not on the dance floor. But in conclusion, since Guerrero did not suggest a solution, I will. Next time you feel outcast at a section party, remember, you too have a room. Use it.

I urge every single one of you reading this letter today to do your best to implement these changes- our voice must be heard!

Or you could just get a life.

BRIAN FITZPATRICK Freshman Stanford Hall

Flanner Hall Mutilation doesn't deter abuse

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to comments published recently in the Viewpoint section of The Observer regarding the Bobbitt case. Whether or not one agrees with the premise that mutilating a perpetrator's genitals is a reasonable form of punishment, it is important to consider that this may not be a deterrent after all.

Sexual predators are not looking for sex, they are attempting to exert their power. They choose to express their need for power by resorting to sexual aggression. Rape is not the aggressive expression of sexuality, it is the sexual expression of aggression.

Some may suggest that by taking the aggressors weapon away they will no longer be able to commit that crime again. In the case of a rapist, once his penis is removed, he will no longer be able to use his penis as a weapon again (unless of course it is surgically re-attached)

It is important to consider that just because a penis has been removed, this does not mean that their desire to express their aggression sexually will be diminished. If anything, he will be more hostile and determined to get power back. His new weapon of choice will likely be a stick, knife, or some other object.

Another solution to the problem is a humanistic solution

(rehabilitation through various forms of therapy), which may not satiate the understandable rage of a victim and community that wants retribution. We must ask ourselves however, who we'd rather have out on the streets, a rehabilitated sex offender or a perpetrator whose penis has been cut off?

In closing, I'd like to point out that a rapist whose penis was removed and then reattached may now be more dangerous than ever. He has something to prove with an even bigger chip on his shoulder.

MICK FRANCO

Staff Psychologist University Counseling Center

e

- 5

ACCENT

Wednesday, February 9, 1994

my Mutha

Somewhere in the middle of 1973, my father and my mother decided to bless the world with the fruit of their passions. I will not delve into the "Flash Gordon saves the Nebraskan princess from the evil corn-husking Druids" routine that precluded conception, but will go straight to the birth of a small creature that looked

page 12

Kris Kazlauskas Accent Columnist

less like fruit, and more like a miniature Mr Clean. On that day, Patti Kazlauskas not only unleashed an unbridled stallion whose lust for life is evident in the way that he feeds the squirrels on campus, but she became a mom too. I might also add that according to my dad, I came out sideways, and though my mom was playing 'Frogger" on an Atari 2600 at the time, she didn't even flinch. I suspect that her career as a professional rodeo clown made her somewhat insensitive to the pains associated with being gored or giving birth.

From day one, my mom was always there for me, teaching me about life. By the age of six months, I was earning an allowance doing small chores, such as dumping trash and changing the oil in the cars. Actually, my mom rarely thrusted labor upon me except for the weekly dog poop duty, which I have since delegated to my brother, Kevin. He may not be happy now, but someday he will come to fully appreciate his title as the "1994 California Poop Scoop Champion.'

My mother tells me that the trophy sits proudly on the mantle over the fireplace.

By the time I was a toddler, I was still young enough to be cute and innocent, but old enough to eat solid food and steal car stereos. My mom had her hands full between my climbing on top of the refrigerator to eat the marshmallows, ringing up long distance bills through random number punching on the telephone, and force feeding my couple-month-old baby brother Chee-tos.

The fun didn't really begin until I was about five and my brother was three. Star Wars was the craze, and when my dad threw the soundtrack onto the old turntable, Kevin and I were spiritually transformed into frenzied freedomfighters, leaping over couches, jumping off of chairs, shooting hordes of invisible storm troopers that seemed certain to steal our parents and take them away in their Tie-Fighters where they would be used as slaves on the Death Star. Kevin was obsessed with Chewbacca, while I preferred the restless spirit of Han Solo. We always made a mess, but my mom cleaned it up. I guess we expected her to. After all, when you're rescued from the Dark Side, putting the Word to Run, walk, or jog

Loftus Center provides an open door to the senior citizens of the community

Many senior citizens find soothing relief from the busy streets on the soft floors of Loftus Center.

By MELANIE WATERS Accent Writer

Notre Dame has expanded its contact with the community through the Loftus center, much to the enjoyment and gratitude of the many senior citizens that use the facility during the mornings.

Loftus, opened in 1987, now offers a comfortable atmosphere for South Bend's senior citizens to walk, jog, and exercise. Most members use the facility in the mornings to walk laps around the track.

Loftus director Lefty Smith said that Loftus' benefactors had always intended for the facility to be enjoyed by the whole community.

The center was founded by the and Meyo families," Smith said, "under the condi-great asset with its facili-

tion that they ties. wanted to service

the entire Notre Dame community."

Smith said that varsity sports take top priority at Loftus, followed by RecSports and academic uses. The center opens each morning with use by ROTC from 6:30 to 8 a.m. The physical education department then uses the facility from 8 to noon, as do many of the senior citizens that are Loftus members. Varsity sports then have use of the center from 3:15 to 10:15 p.m., and RecSports and club sports use Loftus for the remainder of the night. Smith said that when Loftus first opened to the community, the response was so overwhelming that Notre Dame staff and families were crowded out. "We had to decide then that only the Notre Dame family and those 55 and older in the community could use it," he said. For these senior citizens, Loftus is malls and busy streets.

"It's much easier walking," said Norma Walker, a Loftus regular. "You never have to worry about watching out for traffic.

Observer file photo

Lillian Zakrzewski and her hus-band Joseph walk 10 laps a day on the Loftus track.

"It's very easy walking," Zakrzewski said. "We used to go to the mall, but the floor is so hard, my legs would ache."

To many, exercising at Loftus has great health benefits.

"I went through two heart bypasses," Albano said. "I found out about Loftus through a reha-bilitation doctor."

'Walking, jogging and exercise help them to prevent heart disease," Smith Loftus, Haggar 6 think Notre Dame has heart disease," Smith offered the public a rehabilitation after surgery. Many of the seniors also said that exercis-Mike Albano ing at Loftus offers a social aspect as well.

"There's constantly people here," Albano said. "It's a good social atmosphere. People are very congenial, and the staff is excellent."

3

pillows back on the couch isn't such a bad price to pay. Heck, some days she even had a bowl of 'Spaghettios" waiting for us. YUMMERS!

Eventually my mom thrust me out into the world of childhood education. I was not adverse to the kindergarten curriculum, which included such classics as, "A Pig can Jig," and activities like "Paper Airplane Wednesday." However, as a private school kid, I would have to get used to navy blue cords for the next nine years. Yet, that didn't disturb me as much as the helmet cut that my mom always had me get at the barber shop. "You look adorable," she said. Adorable or not, Q-Bert-playing delinquents called me "Helmet-head" and chucked dirt clods at me several times. At least the helmet offered maximum cranial protection.

The rest of my life has been soccer. My mom has survived over a decade of mud, blood, and sweaty shin guards. She nursed the wounds, drove me to the emergency room (three times), and made hundreds of post-game 7-11 stops.

For all of the times that she fed the dogs when I forgot to, made my lunch, fell for the "I think I'm gonna puke" line and let me stay home from school, made my dinner, and gave me hugs after a lousy day, I just wanted to say, "I love you, Mom, Happy Valentine's Day, and don't take candy from strangers."

a welcome sight.

"It's a godsend," said Mike Albano, one of Loftus' senior citizen members. "I think Notre Dame has offered the public a great asset with its facilities. It's comfortable in the winter and pleasant to come in the summer."

Many agreed that Loftus' soft floor was a soothing relief from ship with the seniors helps to bridge the gap between the university and the community.

"When I came here in 1968, there was hardly any relationship between the two; it was more like animosity," Smith said.

Smith said that now, there is a better level of communication with the surrounding community.

The seniors that use Loftus seem to carry a positive view of the university.

Zakrzewski, a university retiree, still praises the school.

"It's a great place, a good place to work," she said. "I'll never have anything bad to say about it!'

Most of Loftus' members share Zakrzewski's view, as many of them were involved with the university in the past.

Today, Notre Dame students, staff and retirees can use the facility just by showing ID. Alumni are also welcome to use Loftus, and seniors need only show proof of age to use the Loftus center.

lilwaukee shocks Houston; Dallas wins in overtime

By ARNIE STAPLETON Associated Press

Eric Murdock scored 28 points and led six Milwaukee players in double figures Tuesday night as the Bucks stunned Hakeem Olajuwon and the Houston Rockets 106-98.

The Bucks, blown out 115-94 on Saturday by Seattle, the team with the best record in the NBA, held their own with the Rockets, who own the second-best record, now at 33-12.

Milwaukee, with a record of just 14-33, played its best game of the season in winning for just the sixth time in 23 home games. The Bucks led 73-68 after three quarters and used a 12-2 run, including five points from Ken Norman, to stretch their lead to 91-79 with 4:58 remaining.

Kenny Smith's 3-pointer with 1:01 left pulled Houston to 101-95, but the Rockets, who were led by Olajuwon's 27 points, couldn't recover. Murdock hit four free throws to ice the victory.

Frank Brickowski added 19 points for Milwaukee, followed by Todd Day with 15.

The Bucks led 26-24 after one quarter and held a 47-45 advantage with 30 seconds left in the half before Houston's Vernon Maxwell hit a 3-pointer. Smith's bucket just before the buzzer gave the Rockets a 50-47 halftime lead.

Smith's 3-pointer to open the third quarter sparked a 15-7 run, including two dunks and a spinning hook by Olajuwon, as Houston grabbed a 65-54 lead.

The Bucks answered with 12 straight points, seven by Day, for a 66-65 lead with 3:41 left in the third quarter.

Brickowski's jumper with 1:52 left in the third quarter gave the Bucks the lead for good at 68-67.

Robert Horry, starting for the Rockets for the first time since his trade to Detroit was nixed Sunday when Sean Elliott failed a physical because of a kidney condition, scored eight first-half points and 12 overall.

Bulls 118, Clippers 89

Scottie Pippen had 22 points, 14 rebounds and nine assists Tuesday night as the Chicago Bulls beat the Los Angeles Clippers for the ninth consecutive time, 118-89.

The Clippers, who haven't beaten the Bulls since Nov. 26, 1989 at the Sports Arena, were led by Danny Manning with 22 points and Ron Harper with 18.

Horace Grant scored 22 points for the Bulls, who shot 55 percent from the field, making the Clippers 0-11 when their opponent makes 50 percent or better.

Pippen, who will make his third consecutive All-Star start next Sunday, finished one assist shy of his 14th career tripledouble and third of the season. He was taken out by coach Phil Jackson with 7:49 remaining and the Bulls ahead 103-79 after a 14-4 spurt at the start of the fourth quarter.

Jazz 96, Nuggets 95

Jeff Malone's 18-footer from the corner with 12 seconds left squelched a wild Denver rally and gave Utah a 96-95 victory Tuesday night.

The Jazz led 94-86 in the final minute, but Rodney Rogers hit three 3-pointers in a space of 8.8 seconds, giving the Nuggets a 95-94 lead with 20 seconds left before Malone's winning jumper. Denver stole two inbounds passes by Karl Malone, leading to the second and third of Rogers' 3-pointers.

After Malone's basket, Rogers tried another shot, but it was blocked by Tyrone Corbin. LaPhonso Ellis got the rebound for Denver, but lost control and time ran out after a wild scramble under the basket.

Karl Malone scored 24 points and John Stockton had 22 points and 12 assists for the Jazz. Rogers, who made all four of his 3-point attempts, led the Nuggets with 23 points, while Ellis scored 18 points and Robert Pack 17.

The Jazz went on a 13-1 run to break a 16-16 tie at the start of the second quarter and led the rest of the way except for Denver's 95-94 lead near the end.

The Nuggets trailed 68-46 with 4:39 left in the third period before Kevin Brooks sparked a rally with two 20-foot jumpers that enabled Denver to close to 76-63 entering the final period

Pack had two baskets and a free throw to pace a 9-2 rally that made it 78-72 with 9:20 left. The Jazz pushed their lead back to 12 points on two occasions, but Denver pulled to 86-80 on a 22-foot jumper by Ellis with 4:16 left.

After Utah moved ahead 92-81 with 1:21 left, Rogers hit the first of his four 3-pointers and Bryant Stith scored on a layup to reduce the Denver deficit to 92-86 with 1:12 to play.

Mavericks 108, Timberwolves 105 (OT)

Doug Smith scored five of his 20 points in overtime Tuesday night, including a key tip-in with 31 seconds left, and the Dallas Mavericks defeated Minnesota 108-105, their fourth victory over the Timberwolves this season.

The Mavericks are now 4-1 against Minnesota, including 3-0 at Target Center in Minneapolis, but they are 1-41 against the rest of the NBA.

Smith's follow shot gave Dallas a 103-99 lead after his three-point play with 2:10 remaining in overtime put the Mavs ahead 99-94. Jamal Mashburn hit three free throws in the final 23 seconds and Jim Jackson added two foul shots with 3.6 seconds left to seal the victory and hand the Timberwolves their sixth consecutive defeat.

Jackson and Mashburn scored 24 points each to lead the Mavericks. Doug West had 24 points and Micheal Williams 20 for the Timberwolves.

Minnesota trailed 89-84 with 54 seconds left in regulation before converting six free throws in the final 48 seconds to force the overtime.

The Observer accepts classifieds every business day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Notre Dame office, 314 LaFortune and from 12 p.m. to 3 p.m. at 309 Haggar College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is 2

0		cents per character per day, including all spaces.
HELP! Need ride to IU, Bloom on Fri. 2-11 to see my	FURNISHED ROOM, AIR, KITCHEN, PHONE, 3 MIN. N. OF CAMPUS. 272-0615	Personal	College of Business Administration MUGS!!!
Valentine! Will pay for gas. Call Jen at x4109.	FURNISHED 8 BEDROOM HOME GOOD NEIGHBORHOOD NORTH	ADOPTION: Loving, financially secure couple longs for a newborn	Only $10 and on sale Feb 7-11 from 11 am to 1 pm in the Hayes-Healy Lobby	So did you get the gist of the pu zle/ Senior Bar Ads??
SKI RESORT JOBS. Up to $2000+ in salary & benefits. Ski/Snowboard	OF ND FOR NEXT SCHOOL YEAR 2773097	to join our family. Please call Nancy and Jerry 1-800-272-5810.	Sponsored by the ND Marketing	If you want GREAT specials figure them out and uncover the best for th
instructors, lift operators, wait staff, chalet staff + other positions - (including summer). Over 15,000 openings. For more information call:	BED 'N BREAKFAST REGISTRY- APPROVED HOMES-JPW, GRAD., etc. •219-291-7153•	SPRING BREAK! Student Holidays, the nation's leader in Spring Break vacations	Club_ JODI:	secret in town!!!!! Deals! Deals! Deals! Deals!
(206)634-0469 ext. V5584 Campus newspaper carrier/manag-	2-5 BEDROOM HOMES SECURITY SYSTEM	offering the ultimate trip to CANCUN, MEXICO! The #1 Student Spring Break	You are absolutely the sexiest and most erotic girl this side of IUSB. PS Drop the attitude!	&&&&&&&&&&&&*
er needed immediately for St. Mary's campus, call City News Service Inc., 232-3205.	ALL APPLIANCES 1/2 MILE FROM CAMPUS 232 2595	Destination from $399 Package includes hotel, flight and parties! Organize a small	happy 21rst birthday KYLE HAR-	PW CARNATION SALE:
Home delivery newspaper carriers needed for morning delivery, car	FREE MAID SERVICE '94-95 Big 6 bedrmgreat area, B.B. &	group and travel for FREE! CALL RICH! 1-800-360-TRIP	GETTI -anabel SUMMER JOBS - ALL	Carnationas will be sold in both ing halls during lunch and dinne this week for $1. All proceeds b required. Call City News Service Inc., 232-3205.	sand V-ball courts. 234-3831 or 273-0482	SNAP-A-SCAM. Want a picture of that someone special without revealing your identity? We'll get it	LAND/WATER SPORTS. PRES- TIGE CHILDRENS' CAMPS ADIRONDACK MOUNTAINS NEAR	fit the Tara Deutsch Scholarship Fund. Flowers will be delivered Sunday, Feb. 13.
SENIOR needs extra GRADUA- TION tickets. Will pay CASH. Call Dave @ 273-3008	PARTY TIME '94-95 Big 6 bedrm. Safe area. Free maid	for you! Sign up Tues., Wed., and Thurs. at NDH and SDH during din- ner hours. $2.00/scam. Proceeds go to the Mara Fox Scholarship	LAKE PLACID CALL 1-800-786- 8373 Spring Break Bahamas Party	Tell that special someone how much you care:
Help! 4 desperate girls need ride to Long Island or NYC for	sevice. Beach V-ball & B.B. courts. Furnished. Washer & dryer. 273-0482 or 234-3831.	Fund. Anyone going to Columbus, Dayton,	Cruisel 6 Days $279! Trip Includes Cruise & Room, 12 Meals & 6 Free Parties! Hurry! This will sell out!	Red= I love you. Pink≖ I like you.
Spring Break - will pay gas and tolls. Call x4881		or anywhere in Ohio this weekend? If you have any room in your car, please call Michelle at X4376	1-800-678-6386 Spring Break! Cancun & Jamaica!	White= Let's get acquainted. Yellow= We're friends. and
AA CRUISE & TRAVEL EMPLOY- MENT GUIDE, EARN BIG $$ +	For Sale		Fly out of Chicago and spend 8 days on the beach! We have the	Green= ???????
TRAVEL THE WORLD FREE! (CARIBBEAN, EUROPE, HAWAII, ASIA!) HURRY BUSY SPRING	86 VW Jetta $1250 or best offer 277-0485	Taylor- I don't want you to feel deprived any longer for your per- sonal classified ads. I am sorry that	best trips & prices! Includes air & hotel & parties from $399! 1-800- 678-6386	*&
AND SUMMER SEASONS APPROACHING, FREE STUDENT TRAVEL CLUB MEMBERSHIP!	VALENTINES DAY GIFT? For Sale: 16 .01 Diamond Ring	i have slacked lately. Love, Jamie	· ··· ································	III VALENTINES DAY Monday, February 14 Come on in to IRISH GARDEN
CALL (919)929-4398 ext C29	A-Quality Appraisal Value: $550 Will Sell for Less Cally4-4205	Hey BECCA PETERSEN— Thanks for the great dancel. You	Quality Copies, Quickly.	(basement of LaFortune) for all

lassifieds

Notices

USED TEXTBOOKS Pandora's Bks ND ave & Howard ' 233-2342 /10-6 M-Sat 9-3 Sun

بصادف فلافتلغ ملمافهم

CANCUN 4 best Spr Brk ever! Fly from Chi. or Indy. Seats going fast! x232-7109

Lost and Found

LOST - Has anyone seen my necklace under all this snow? Gold chain with 3 gold letters:

Has anyone seen my necklace somewhere under all this snow? Gold chain with three gold letters A-R-I, has great sentimental value. Will give reward and be eternally grateful to finder. Please call Ari @ 259-0219 w/ any info

Lost: gold chain with two lockets Thurs. afternoon-2/3-near b-ball courts in ACC next to ice rink. Great personal value. If found, please call Sanmit at 1684

Blue sweatshirt with gold Irish lettering lost either outside or in the basement of LaFortune. Call X1882 ouz-

gure t kept

8*8*8 th din bene d on

8.8

!!! ENS your Valentine's Day needs. We have a plethora of flowers, balloons, cards, and candy. We also deliver on-campus and to surrounding apt. complexes. V-day deliveries and pick-up orders must be placed by 5:00 Fri.

page 13

Wante

SPRING BREAK '94 Cancun, Bahamas, Jamaica, Florida & Padre! 110% Lowest Price Guaranteel Organize 15 friends and your trip is FREE! TAKE A BREAK STUDENT TRAVEL (800)328-7283.

Need one extra JPW ticket for all events DESPERATELY Will pay $$$$$. Call Kelly at x3506

SMC women looking for spontaneous and thrill-seeking men to do the group thing at the Senior Formal. No strings attached. Call Marv ASAP by Wed. 284-5255.

Need ride to Washington D.C. for Spring Break(Mar.5-12/13). Will help pay for gas and tolls. Call Katie X 4594.

\Desperate! Need ride to Daytona Beach for Spring Break. Price is negotiable. Please call Roger at 3508!

COUNSELORS: CAMP EMER-SON, coed Massachusetts. Swimming, tennis, land/water sports, arts/crafts, theatre, woodworking, rocketry, archery, computer, vearbook, photography, video, radio, more! Super kids, great food, friendly, fun! No general counselors. 800-955-CAMP.

SITTER NEEDED My Juniper Rd home, 2 yr old & infant, 4/hr, SAT 1-5, some Fri or SAT NITES. Prefer early ED Maj but will consider all. Must have car & refs. 273-0582

Have pity on a car-less Freshman! I also need ride to Worcester for break-or anywhere in MA! Drive stick, split gas/tolls, nice company for 16hrs- call X2608

Brunos needs waitresses. Must be 21 and able to work weekends. Please call 288-3320 for interview

For Rent

Will Sell for Less Callx4-4205 Leave Message w/Offer

Tickets

I have an extra ticket to Garth!! Call Sean at x3102 and give best

offerl

WILL PAY BIG BUCKS FOR 1 JPW TICKET TO ALL OR SOME EVENTS! CALL MEGAN 4-2630

Need to trade two Garth Brooks tickets for Sun. 13 to Sat. 12. Call x2126/x3219

Begging you to trade your Sat. Garth tix for my Sun. tix Patrice 232-5030

Plane Ticket to Boston for Spring Break -REALLY CHEAP. call Alex at x1679

2 tickets to the Sun. Garth concert for sale! Call with your best offer at x3610

Thanks for the great dance! You and your drinks were as tasty as ever you sexy little freak!

valentines day special university hairstylist $2.00 off any service monday feb. 14th 9am-9pm 631-5144

SEAN MCKENNAL

SEAN MCKENNA!

Do you like to talk on the phone? Come to the Women's Care Center Phone-A-Thon Feb.7,8,9,14,15,& 16 6:30-8:30pm 2nd floor- Admin. Bldg.

SEND SOME LOVE! U.P.S. a Valentine to your Sweetheart thru THE COUNTRY HARVESTER LaFortune Lower Level M-F 10-5 Sat. 11-4

THE COPY SHOP LaFortune Student Center Phone 631-COPY

4-year-old, loving Mom and Dad in Washington, D.C. area wish to adopt infant brother or sister. Close extended family in area. Let's help each other. Med/legal paid. Please call Jessica or Bob 1-800-864-8385.

BEAT THE RUSH VALENTINE'S DAY is quickly approaching, and if you want to write a classified to that special someone, you can type your ad now. Your message will appear in the special Valentine's Observer on Feb. 14. We are located on the 3rd floor of Lafortune.

What are you doing for Spring Break???? Try out the APPALLACHIA SEMINARI Slots are still available - inquiry at the Center for Social Concerns.

Feb. 11.

Ħ

VALENTINE'S DAY III

VALENTINE'S VALENTINE'S VALENTINE'S

Suzy Zoo Cards, KC Knox Kids Photo Cards, Seinfeld and Farside Chocolate Lips, filled hearts and cuddly bears, kitties and puppies! Luv cuffs with /keys and Love Matches! Your heart's desire!

The Country Harvester LaFortune Lower Level M-F 10-5 Sat. 11-4

I'm going insane--where's the photo album!

*

Skating will be show no matter what happens

By DAVID CRARY Associated Press

LILLEHAMMER, Norway Yes, CBS would like Tonya Harding to compete. Soap opera plus detective show plus "High Noon" on ice add up to record ratings.

But even if Nancy Kerrigan skates without her rival, the network's coverage of the women's figure-skating finals Feb. 25 is a good bet to be the most watched Olympic telecast ever in the United States.

"A lot of people would be interested in seeing both of them skate, the drama that goes with it," said Mark Harrington, CBS Sports' vice president for the Olympics. "But if she doesn't come, it will still be a great night of skating.'

Among the CBS legions in Lillehammer — more than 700 strong --- opinions are divided as to Harding's chances of competing.

Harrington said he's stopped guessing: "The story's taken so many twists and turns."

The women's figure-skating final traditionally is the most watched Olympic event, summer or winter. The record Olympic Nielsen rating, according to CBS Sports senior vice president Richard Gentile, is 30 for the 1998 Games in Calgary, when Katerina Witt won her second gold medal.

CBS posted a 27 rating in 1992 with Kristi Yamaguchi's gold in Albertville, and 30 this year seems easily withing reach.

But Harrington and his colleagues don't want to make projections, fearing they might create unrealistic expectations about Super Bowl-level ratings in the 40s.

"We're going to have a big story no matter what," said Verne Lundquist, who will handle the skating play-by-play. "But what happens if Nancy falls in her short program (Feb. 23), and suddenly she's struggling just for a place in the top five? You can feel America go, "Oh my God."

"That's the fear we all have." CBS hopes the Harding-Kerrigan drama will fuel interest in other events, rather than distract from them.

"There will be more emphasis and talk about the Olympics in general," Harrington said. 'There are going to be some other great stories that are going to burst on people suddenly when the Games start."

He cited the Olympic comeback of 1988 gold medalist Brian Boitano and the contrasting quests for gold by U.S. speedskating stars Bonnie Blair, a three-time winner already, and Dan Jansen, stymied in three past Olympics.

But there is no question what event will take the spotlight, and not everyone thinks the public fascination is healthy.

Lundquist said his CBS colleague and analyst, 1984 gold medalist Scott Hamilton, is fed up with the furor.

"He's very sorry that something like this has intruded in his sport, and I'm sympathetic to how he feels." Lundquist said Tuesday. "But as a journalist, it's a great story."

The saga has not altered CBS Sports' plans for coverage of the skating event itself, but offthe-ice developments have prompted extra deployments by the network's news division, Harrington said.

At no point has CBS been tempted to alter its programming schedule and show the skating final live, he said. It starts at 7 p.m. local time, or 1 p.m. in New York, but CBS won't show it until the primetime broadcast from 8-11 p.m. EST.

"A lot more people are going to be able to watch it then," he said.

The ratings outcome hinges on how many people tune in who normally wouldn't bother with figure skating. Harrington doesn't know how big that group is, but he says the public fascination stems in part from the jarring nature of the attack on Kerrigan.

US Hockey skating with speed

By MIKE NADEL Associated Press

OSLO They used to be the Ugly Americans of the Olympics, the bad boys of international hockey. They'd take on all challengers, throwing elbows and swinging sticks and talking trash with the best — or worst — of them.

Those days are over. The only thing physical about the way we play," United States hockey coach Tim Taylor says, "is our reputation."

The fast and free-wheeling U.S. team practiced Tuesday in Oslo and will finish its exhibition schedule Wednesday night at Goteborg, Sweden, against Sweden's Olympic team.

In 1992, the Americans solidified their rough-house reputation in two bone-jarring games against Sweden.

Pushing and pounding the Swedes all over the ice, the U.S. team won its final pre-Olympic tuneup. The teams then played to a tie in a bloody Olympic battle — which included Mats Naslund's cheap-shot check of American defenseman reputation endures in Europe. Greg Brown, a dozen other altercations, and U.S. coach Dave Peterson's refusal to shake hands with Swedish

"B" team beat the United overly physical play.

do. They hit you everywhere," said Par Marts, the "B" team coach and a Swedish Olympic assistant. "They tried to scare us a little bit."

"We don't scare anybody," he bouncing off of us."

U.S. center Peter Clavaglia, one of only two Americans playing in the Swedish Elite

"When I came over, they said, 'We don't think of you as typical," " the 5-foot-10, 175pound Ciavaglia said. "When the Swedish players talk about Americans, they say things like, 'Very aggressive, bigger, rugged.' They talk of a dumpit-in, checking style.'

They certainly aren't talking about these Americans.

The 1994 U.S. team, which plays its Olympic opener Sunday against France, is young and small, built on speed rather than power.

"If you're gonna have guys who go a million miles an hour, then they're probably not gonna be physical players," said Ted Drury, the only skater to return from the '92 team. 'We've got some big defensemen — Matt Martin, Brett Hauer, Barry Richter - but we're not intimidating. Our best body-checker is probably the smallest guy on our team, John Lilley.

Said Lilley, a 5-foot-9, 170pounder: "I knew if I made the team it'd be as a checker. My main role is to go out there and shake things up."

coaches. Last weekend, after Sweden's States in an exhibition at Rouen, France, Sweden was still accusing the Americans of

"They played as they always

The always-serious Taylor rarely laughs. But he chuckled when he heard that one.

said. "We've got maybe one guy who hody-checks, John Lilley. I wish we took the body more. I thought they out-hit us and were stronger on the puck. We were certainly bouncing off of them more than they were

League this season, said the United States' rough-house is the last day to turn in your $10.00 deposit for the Junior Class Ski Trip to Bittersweet!

Wednesday

Turn in money to the Junior Class Office.

ophomore Literary Festival with nightly readings in the Hesburgh Library Auditorium at 7:30 pm, reception to follow featured in the 1994 festival: Michael Harper (Sun. 2/13) (Mon. • June Jordan 2/14) •Alison Lurie* (Tues. 2/15) •Charles Johnson (Wed. 2/16) • Joy Harjo (Thurs. 2/17)*Frank Deford has been rescheduled for 4/13/94

USOC to have final say on Harding's Olympic status

By LARRY SIDDONS Associated Press

LILLEHAMMER, Norway The U.S. Olympic Committee, troubled by Tonya Harding's role in the Nancy Kerrigan assault, called a special hearing for next Tuesday at an Oslo airport hotel to decide whether to bar the U.S. champion skater from the Winter Games.

If Harding is banned, her only chance of competing in Lillehammer would be through a court order.

The USOC's decision to convene its Games Administrative Board was buttressed by a 400page volume of evidence from a figure skating federation inquiry, and Harding's own statements.

"It's not a matter of hearing more, it's a matter of giving Tonya Harding a chance to respond, which she has not had a chance to do," USOC president LeRoy Walker said. He said Harding could submit her case in person or in writing, but hoped she would testify. There was no immediate word if she would.

Project

"But we would like to present her, in person, the charges and grounds for charges that have been leveled by the (figure skating) panel to get her response," said Walker on NBC's "Today".

'They want to talk to Tonya,'' USOC executive director Harvey Schiller said. "I think it is a response that is required by the grounds surrounding the attack on Nancy Kerrigan."

The inquiry will deal more with "sportsmanship and fair play aspects rather than criminal culpability," he said.

The administrative board is the USOC's ultimate authority at the Games, and its decision is final. Harding could sue if she were removed from the team, but Walker said that possibility would not affect the USOC's decision.

"We do not wish to respond to this in terms of what may eventually come in terms of suits," he said. "We want to do what is absolutely fair."

"They have described kind of a broad spectrum of concerns and issues, much of which, but not all of which, are the same things raised by the United States Figure Skating Association," Harding attorney Bob Weaver said.

He said the Olympic committee had "some different provisions of their own standards and bylaws" that diverge from the figure skating association's rules.

John Ruger, a member of the panel and chairman of the USOC athletes advisory commission, said the board was committed to treating Harding fairly.

"It would be difficult for me to speculate about what she is going to say. That would be pre-judging her situation,' Ruger said. "From an athlete's standpoint, the key point is that this is due process and that she gets due process.'

Harding will remain on the team until at least the end of the hearing, Feb. 15, three days after the Winter Games begin and eight days before the start of women's figure skating, its glamour event.

The glamour of the ice is what lured Harding to skating as a 3year-old. Now, after a bizarre series of events and disclosures, she may never reach the ultimate trophy of athletic accomplishment — an Olympic medal. The meeting will be held at the SAS Park Royal Hotel, across the street from Fornebu Airport. Schiller said the USOC wanted to meet out of town to keep from disrupting preparations at the Olympic site.

Between nine and 13 people will hear the case. Walker will decide how many votes are needed to decide Harding's fate.

The USOC panel will be the third to investigate Harding's role in the attack on Kerrigan, who was clubbed on the right knee as she left a practice rink at the U.S. Figure Skating Championships in Detroit Jan. 6.

The U.S. Figure Skating Association is conducting its own investigation of Harding, a process that won't be finished until after the Winter Olympics but which could result in her expulsion from the sport. Last Saturday, a USFSA panel Portland."

found "reasonable grounds" to believe Harding was involved in the plot to injure Kerrigan.

In addition, a grand jury in Multnomah County, Ore., is hearing evidence to determine if allegations by Harding's exhusband, Jeff Gillooly, are true: That the skater gave the goahead to attack Kerrigan, and was involved in the plot and the cover-up.

Harding says she learned of the plot after the attack but admits withholding information from authorities. She says she feared her former husband and his friends would retaliate.

Her admission on Jan. 27 was accompanied by a plea to have "my last chance" at an Olympic gold medal. The confession and the figure skating panel's findings weighed heavily in the USOC's decision to call its own hearing, Schiller said. "There are a number of issues to be considered," Schiller said, "and among them are statements that she's made in the past few weeks about her knowledge of the attack when she returned to

SUMMER SERVICE PROJECTS $1500.00 SCHOLARSHIP Summer Service for eight weeks of your summer devoted to service work * APPLICATION DEADLINE February 11 stop by the Center for Social Concerns for info and application

Another U.S. skater must cope with tragedy

By LISA CORNWALL Associated Press

SHEFFIELD LAKE, Ohio Olympic skater Elizabeth Punsalan wept as she prayed today during a funeral Mass for her father, who police say was killed by her brother hours after the brother was released from a psychiatric hospital.

Punsalan — supported on one side by her husband and skating partner, Jerod Swallow, and on the other by her sister, Ellen Negar - knelt and prayed after receiving communion.

Dr. Ernesto R. Punsalan, 57, was stabbed Friday as he slept in his home in this Lake Erie shoreline community about 20 miles west of Cleveland.

His son, Ricardo Punsalan, 20, on Monday pleaded innocent to a charge of aggravated murder and waived his right to a preliminary hearing. Lorain Municipal Judge Gustalo Nunez ordered Punsalan held without bond.

During the Mass at St. Thomas the Apostle Church, the Rev. John McCaffrey asked the congregation's prayers for all of the Punsalans, including Ricardo.

Of the doctor, he said, "His love for all five of his children continues, without exception, and is perfected in heaven."

Punsalan is survived by his wife, Theresa Punsalan; the two daughters and three sons — Ernesto Jr., Ricardo and Robert.

The church service followed a private service at a funeral home.

Ricardo Punsalan's case has been turned over to the Lorain County grand jury. His courtappointed lawyer, Joseph Grunda, said Punsalan appeared alert and aware Monday.

INDATORY MEETING FOR THOSE INTERESTED IN RUNNING FOR: STUDENT SENATE CLASS OFFICE OFF-CAMPUS CO-PRESIDENT FOSTER ROOM, 3rd Floor LaFortune

Northwestern's Byrdsong takes leave

By RICK GANO Associated Press

CHICAGO

Ricky Byrdsong came to Northwestern with a tough approach for a struggling basketball program, promising an opportunity for his players to show they were better than their record.

Now, the rebuilding is on hold and Byrdsong has taken a leave of absence after a weekend game that saw him roam the stands, slapping hands with fans and the opponent's mascot.

When Byrdsong took over, he removed Patrick Baldwin as team captain, made Dion Lee

Irish

continued from page 20

Travis Trice hit a pair of free throws to end the Irish threat.

The pair combined for 33 points.

But the Bulldogs won the game on the defensive end, holding Monty Williams to just 14 points on 6-for-14 shooting.

Williams makes Notre Dame seem like a loaded gun being waved around the room," Collier said. "Fortunately, we kept him from going off."

Butler also kept Notre Dame's other weapons from firing. Guice and Trice blanketed Hoover and Keith Kurowski, who combined for just 7-for-19 from the field including 2-for-8 from 3-point range.

'Statistically, (Williams, Hoover and Kurowski) are tough practices.

The Wildcats initially responded, opening with nine victories before reality arrived in the form of the Big Ten season. Now, after eight straight losses, the Wildcats are back in their familiar spot in the conference basement and Byrdsong has asked for some time off.

Both athletic director Rick Taylor and assistant coach Paul Swanson, now in charge of the team, say they are not sure why Byrdsong asked for the leave of absence.

"I didn't see any more strain than any other coach has gone through," Swanson said there three big guys," Collier said. "We wanted to key on them and we did a good job of Notre Dame watched a quick

6-0 lead evaporate as Butler went on a 17-2 run to take control of the game midway

Kurowski then scored five of his seven points in the last minute of the half to pull the

But the rally faded after the

"We couldn't come out in the second half and fire," MacLeod said. "They were sharper than we were and they kept the de-

In the wake of a pair of surprising weekend wins, it appeared that the loss to Butler would be particularly disap-

But MacLeod quickly tired of fensive pressure on us."

through the first half.

Irish to within one.

intermission.

pointing.

that idea.

that tonight.'

change his name and ran Tuesday, the day after the leave of absence was announced. "He'd been very focused in practice. Other than that I can't see any additional strain.

> "I don't think there was a buildup of pressure based on losses. We were building a foundation this year."

Swanson has spoken with Byrdsong since the team returned from the trip to Minneapolis, where they lost to Minnesota 79-65 Saturday night. Taylor, who just became the athletic director last month, said he had not talked to the coach as of Monday night but had been in touch with his wife.

"Yes we wanted to win. We wanted to win in the worst way," he said after hearing enough from the media about disappointment and frustration.

"I'm not going to beat on our kids, they've been playing their tails off. This is a temporary setback. We're going to keep trying like a bulldog.³

BUTLER (67): Taylor 1-7 2-2 4, Miskel 5-11 0-0 10, Cowart 3-7 0-1 4, Graves 2-4 0-1 4, Guice 4-9 7-8 17, Trice 5-8 4-5 16, Kon 1-5 4-6 6, McKenzie 2-5 0-0 4, Wilson 0-0 0-0 0. TOTALS: 23-56 17-22

NOTRE DAME (57): M. Williams 6-15 2-3 14, Taylor 5-7 0-0 12, Joe Ross 1-4 1-2 3, Hoover 4-10 2-2 12, Justice 3-7 1-2 7, White 0-2 0-0 0, Jon Ross 1-3 0-0 2, Miller 0-2 0-0 0, Cozen 0-1 0-0 0, Hughes 0-0 0-0 0, Kurowski 3-9 1-1 7, J. Williams 0-0 0-0 0, Ryan 0-0 0-0 0, Keaney 0-0 0-0 0. TOTALS: 23-60 7-10 57. Halttime: Butler 28, Notre Dame 27. 3-point goals: Butter 4-11 (Trice 2-4, Guice 2-5, Graves 0-1, McKenzie 0-1), Notre Dame 4-17 (Hoover 2-6, Taylor 2-3 Kurowski 0-2 M. Williams 0-1 Miller 0-1). Total fouls (fouled out): Butler 11 (none), Notre Dame 20 (none). Rebounds: Butler 39 (Miskel 10), Notre Dame 35 (M. Williams 10). Assists: Butler 13 (Trice 7), Notre Dame 12 (M. Williams 3, Justice 3). Turnovers: Butler 13 (Taylor 4), Notre Dame 13 (Hoover 5). Attendance: 8,674.

Duke nips Ga. Tech

Associated Press

IRVING, Texas

Dallas owner Jerry Jones said Tuesday that the new Jacksonsville franchise could be severely penalized if it tries to hire away Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson.

The Florida Times-Union said the Jaguars met with Johnson last week in Miami and the coach expressed interest in joining the expansion organization.

"If Jacksonville contacts him, it's very much against the rules and the club could be subject to severe penalty," Jones said.

Jaguars owner Wayne Weaver denied a meeting took place.

"We've had absolutely no con-personally, by phone or by contacts," Weaver said from his office in Connecticut. "There is no validity to any of it." The Times-Union stood by its story.

"We've been on top of this situation from the start," sports editor Joe DeSalvo said.

Jones said the NFL told Jacksonville that Johnson has five years remaining on his contract with the Cowboys and there are "no outs."

SPORTS BRIEFS

ND/SMC Equestrian Club will have a meeting for all members concerning the show, on Monday, Feb. 14 at 8:30 pm in 22 hesburgh Library. Questions?- Megan 634-2812 Attention Sailors- There will be a meeting on Feb. 10 this Thursday in rm. 120, O'Shag at 7pm. If you can't make it call Patrice at 284-5238.

Don't Forget that Special Someone. . . 15 Specials starting at $20.00! FREE DELIVERY!

Bear In a Balloon with candy......$28.00 and up

Everlasting Love......$40.00

Gigantic 36" mylar with jumbo latex, large bear and Hershey's Kisses

> Ball Bar & More your flower alternative 511'East Jefferson 232-0302 is now accepting applications for the

1994-95 General Board

Any full-time undergraduate or graduate student at Notre Dame or Saint Mary's is encouraged to apply. Please submit a three page statement of intent with a résumé to Jake Peters by Thursday, Feb. 10 at 5 p.m. For questions about the application process or for more information about any position, call The Observer at 631-5323.

NEWS EDITOR

Applicants should have news reporting, writing and editing skills. The News Applicants should be business majors with management and sales skills. The Editor manages a staff of editors and reporters, generates story and series ideas and is responsible for the content of the news section each day.

VIEWPOINT EDITOR

ADVERTISING MANAGER

Advertising Manager oversees an assistant and a staff of account executives and is responsible for generating advertising revenue.

AD DESIGN MANAGER

Applicants should have editorial writing and editing skills and an ability to Applicants should have solid Macintosh experience and knowledge of deal with the public. The Viewpoint Editor manages a staff of copy and layout QuarkXPress, Aldus Freehand and Adobe Photoshop. The Ad Design Manager oversees a staff of designers, works closely with advertising and marketing departments and is responsible for the design and layout of advertisements.

editors and columnists and decides what letters will run each day.

SPORTS EDITOR

Applicants should have sports reporting, writing and editing skills. The Sports Editor manages a staff of editors and reporters, generates story ideas and special sections, arranges travel accommodations for reporting trips and is responsible for the content of the sports section each day.

ACCENT EDITOR

Applicants should have features writing and editing experience. The Accent Editor manages editors, reporters and columnists, generates story ideas, oversees the Etc. page and is responsible for the content of the Accent pages each day.

PHOTO EDITOR

Applicants should have photography and developing experience. The Photo Editor manages a staff of photographers and lab technicians and must work closely with department editors in assigning photographs.

SAINT MARY'S EDITOR

Any full-time undergraduate student at Saint Mary's is encouraged to apply. The editor manages Saint Mary's department heads, coordinates coverage with Notre Dame staff, generates story ideas on the Saint Mary's campus and is responsible for the Observer office at Saint Mary's.

PRODUCTION MANAGER

Applicants should have solid Macintosh computer experience, knowledge of QuarkXPress and design, layout and newspaper production experience. The Production Manager oversees a staff of night production designers and works closely with department staff on layout and design.

SYSTEMS MANAGER

Applicants should have solid Macintosh computer experience and knowledge of computer networking. The Systems Manager maintains and updates the Macintosh network and printers and is responsible for training the entire Observer staff on the use of the system.

OBSERVER MARKETING DIRECTOR

Director will be responsible for generating new ideas and campaigns for advertisers. The marketing director will oversee one assistant and will work closely with Ad Design manager and account executives. Applicants should have solid Macintosh experience and strong self-motivation.

CONTROLLER

Applicant must be a junior accounting major at Notre Dame or Saint Mary's. The Controller is responsible for preparing The Observer's operating budget and taxes, accounts payable, cost-tracking and order transaction duties.

Hall of Fame yesterday.

Crum tops list of Hall of Fame elects

By TRUDY TYNAN Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. While other kids of the '50s were trying to pass like Cousy, Denny Crum looked to the sidelines for his boyhood heroes.

"I idolized my coaches," said the Louisville coach, who was elected to the Basketball Hall of Fame on Tuesday along with two other coaches and two players.

"I thought they were the ones who should get most of the credit," Crum said. "They're the ones that teach the kids what to do and how to do it. I always looked up to them because of it.'

Also entering the Hall are New York Nets coach Chuck Daly and Cesare Rubini, one of the founders of Italian basketball who led his Milan team to 15 Italian championships, five as a player and 10 as a coach.

Elected as players were Carol

Blazejowski, the most prolific scorer in the history of women's basketball, and Harry "Buddy" Jeannette, a standout backcourt player in the 1930s and 1940s.

The new members will be inducted on May 9.

Blazejowski was nominated by the women's committee, Rubini was picked by the international committee and Jeannette by the veterans committee.

"It's the kind of thing you think of as happening to someone else," Daly Daly said.

"But let me tell you, it's a thrilling feeling," said the coach who won back-to-back NBA championships with the Pistons, four Ivy League titles at Penn and an Olympic gold medal with the Dream Team. "I was talking about it with my daughter. The last time I was at the Hall of Fame was more than 20 years ago and she was just a toddler.'

Photo courtesy of Louisville Sports Information

Louisville head coach Denny Crum was inducted into the Basketball

A FIRESIDE CHAT

Come learn about the Anabaptist history and culture. Gain a new perspective on the components of the Anabaptist religions - the Mennonites, the Amish, and the Hutterites to Copier.

Tennis

continued from page 20

Team members were pleased with the outcome of the match.

'As a team, we all played pretty well," said Vitale. "Wisconsin is a good team and a big rival of ours. This is definitely a test for us if we want to move into the Top Ten.

These matches have been a good preperation for us, but we have to raise our leve! of play," said Crabtree. "Last year we had a lot of close matches, but now we have to win and pull them out."

page 17

page 18

Dan Pees, defensive coordinator the last four years at the University of Toledo, has joined the Notre Dame football staff, according to Irish head coach Lou Holtz. Pees replaces Irish secondary coach Joe Wessel, who left after three years at Notre Dame to become defensive line coach with the NFL's Cincinnati Bengals.

Cincinnat Bengals The 43 year-old produced a series of top-rated defense for the Rockess, including a 1992 unit that ied the Mid-American Conference in scoring defense, rushing defense, and total defense, and ranked eighth, 12th and 11th in those catagories initionally. Pees previously spent three years (1987-89) as secondary coach at Navy. He heldped the midshipmen rank seventh, 13th and fifth nationally in pass defense in those three seasons.

The 1971 Bowling Geen graduate served as defensive coordinator and secondary coach for four years (1983-86) at Miami of Ohio. His final season in Oxford, the Redskins won the MCC crown, led the nation in turnover margin and set Miami records with 23 interceptions and 21 fumble recoveries. Among the redskins victories that season was a 21-12 triumph over fourthranked LSU in Baton Rouge. Pees' defenses ranked among the top three in the MAC all four years at Miami, including 1985 when the Redskins led the conference. Pees spent four years (1979-82) as defensive coordinator at Findlay (Ohio) College, in two of those seasons producing defenses that ranked among the top 10 nationally among NCAA Division II schools.

Michigan crushes IU, moves into first

By HARRY ATKINS Associated Press

ANN ARBOR, Mich. It was a sweet return Tuesday night for Jimmy King and Ray Jackson. Chris Webber loved it, too.

With King and Jackson back in the Michigan lineup from one-game suspensions and Webber rooting from the end of the bench, the No. 11 Wolverines beat No. 12 Indiana 91-67 and took over sole possession of first place in their Big Ten showdown with the Hoosiers. King scored 17 points and Jackson 13 for the Wolverines (16-4, 8-2 Big Ten) who never trailed. Jalen Rose scored 20 points for the Wolverines and Juwan Howard had 19 points.

It was Bobby Knight's 700th game as coach of the Hoosiers (14-5, 7-3). As fate would have it, the only one of the previous century games he lost was No. 500, a 72-60 loss to Michigan on Jan. 24, 1988.

Michigan's defense held Indiana's Alan Henderson to 18 points and Damon Bailey to 17. But it was the offense that won this game. The Wolverines it was the offense that this game. The Wolverines q hit 20-of-32 shots for a blistering 62.5 percent in the first half and finished with 54 percent on 34-of-63 shooting. It was the first time this season the Hoosiers have allowed an opponent to shoot 50 percent or better.

The Hoosiers, who came in riding a four-game stretch of shooting 50 percent or better, shot 40.4 percent, hitting 23-of-57 shots.

The other key was keeping Indiana away from the free throw line. The Hoosiers frequently make more free throws than their opponents take. But in this game the Hoosiers were 14-of-21 from the line, the Wolverines 16-of-21.

King and Jackson both started and played key roles in staking the Wolverines to a 16-point halftime lead.

With Webber, in town for a brief visit, sitting on the end of the Michigan bench, the Wolverines led all the way after a 2-2 tie.

A 3-pointer by King triggered a 12-1 run that put Michigan ahead 40-25 with 5:52 left in the half.

Norbut

continued from page 20

all faculty advisor Dr. Charlie Rice told us when we stepped in the ring.

I think that's about the time my heart stopped.

It didn't take long for it to start again, though. One quick jab to the forehead from Todd and I was jolted back to reality. For some reason, I just could not help laughing inside while I was in the ring. I (a Murphy jab connects with my face) was boxing (a double jab knocks my head backwards) one of my best friends (another Murphy jab connects with my face but a right cross misses).

But suddenly, the laughter faded away. It wasn't about pussyfooting around in the ring anymore or looking tough hitting the bags. I had to bury my emotions and hit my opponent. For four minutes, Todd Murphy, my roomate, would have to become a moving piece of meat.

A moving piece of meat that

$3.75 ALL SHOWS BEFORE 6 PM

BLINK (0): 1:45, 4:30, 7:30, 18:00

SCOTTSDALE 6- 291-4583

ACE VENTIRA (PG13): 12:30, 2:45, 5:00, 7:00, 8:30 Beetweven's 200 (PG): 1:00, 3:00, 5:15, 7:15, 8:15

CRUMPY OLD MEN (PG13):1:15, 4:15, 6:45, 6:00 Non Will (PG): 12:15, 2:30, 5:15, 7:38, 8:45

TOWN & COLNTRY + 259-9090

PHILADELPHIA (PG13): 1:30, 4:45, 7:15, 0:45

NARS. DOMETTINE (PG13): 4:15, 7:15, 8:45 The Air up Thene (PG): 4:30, 7;00, 8;30 Wayne's World II (PG13): 5:00, 7:30, 10:00

We had neither strategy nor any form to speak of. We did very little dancing and absolutely no blocking, but we sure did a lot of punching. I found myself a few times fighting like I did in third grade— with my eyes closed and both fists flailing.

Even though Todd had a reach advantage, it did not stop me from getting some good shots on him. I popped him twice with my right hand across his head just before the round ended. But the biggest thrill was yet to come. Todd had given me a bloody nose.

I don't know why I was so happy, but I suddenly felt like a real boxer. The reasons for putting myself through all the pushups and situps were finally realized in the few drops of red ooze that trickled from my right nostril.

I only wish that I could have left it there for round two.

The second round went a lot like the first, with the only difference being that we moved a lot slower. My legs felt like pudding and my lungs were heaving. Even my gloves were too heavy to lift.

It didn't seem to matter to Todd, though. His arms were too tired to jab at me anyway.

I returned Todd's first round favor in the second, giving him a bloody nose as well. But somehow, it didn't feel as sweet as being on the receiving end. Maybe I was just too tired to enjoy it.

The best part of my first sparring experience, though, had to be walking out of the ring and giving my opponent, roommate, and friend a high five. No matter what anyone says, nothing compares to the honor and respect shared between two boxers after they're finished slugging it out with one another.

That doesn't mean I'm not going to try to knock him senseless next time, though.

Diocese of Samoa - Pago Pago will be in LaFortune Student Center basement near the Society Bank on February 12 from 12:00 noon to 5:00 p.m.

to speak with those students who might be interested in the two year teaching program in American Samoa.

......

O W N H O M Enjoy & Afford" E "Luxury Living You Can Enjoy & Afford" "Where Tenants Are Of The Utmost Importance"

- 4 & 5 Bedroom Townhomes
- 2 BATHROOMS
- SECURITY SYSTEMS & SECURITY GUARDS
- KITCHENS WITH DISHWASHER, GARBAGE DISPOSAL, REFRIGERATOR & RANGE
- WASHER & DRYER IN EACH UNIT
- Gas heat
- CENTRAL AIR CONDITIONING
- PROFESSIONAL MANAGEMENT
- SKILLED & RESPONSIBLE MAINTENANCE
- Only 1 Mile From Notre Dame Campus

Meet Our Friendly Staff And Let Them Show You Our Beautiful Townhomes

Now taking applications for '94–'95 School Year For more information call 232-8256

page 19

OF INTEREST

Dr. J. Clay Smith, Jr., professor of the Howard University School of Law, will give a lecture entitled "Justice and Jurisprudence and the Black Lawyer" today at 2:00 p.m. in the Barry Courtroom of the Notre Dame Law

Dr. Debbye Turner, former Miss America, will be hosting a Black History Month Forum, "Excellence in Life's Pursuits: Remembering Community Responsibility" in the Auditorium of the Hesburgh Library at 7:00 p.m. tonight.

The Notre Dame Council on International Business Development presents Father Williams to speak on the prospects and challenges of the reborn South Africa. The forum will be held tonight in the Montgomery Theater in LaPortune at 7:00 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

A Bach Organ Festival begins tonight with the first of a three-concert series. Notre Dame music faculty member, Craig Cramer, will present three recitals of music by Johann Sebastian, Bach tonight, next Tuesday, February 15 and the following Sunday, February 20. All three concerts will begin at 8:00 p.m. in the Basilica of the Sacred Heart. They are free and open to the public.

Э

 	•	-			•	•	· ·	1			_		_	_	voice
C	0	0	L	Α	S	A	С	U	С	U	Μ	В	E	R	1
			A	Т	н			Ρ	U	Ν					14 More than misgivings
	S	Т	R	T	ĸ	Ε	S		в	Τ	Α	F	R	Α
P	ō	υ	R	C	o	L	D	W	A	Т	E	R	ō	Ν	19 Shoots an average scor
A	Т	N	U		s	L	A	Y		Ε	R	E	С	Ŧ	22 Deducted sty
s	L	A	Ρ		н	Ā	ĸ	E		S	0	D	A	s	points from
	_			_			-	_			_		_	_	2 pointo nom

	34 Political tract
re than aivings	35 Purr-fect pets?
oots an	36 Show piece?
rage score	37 Station that ducted style	went on the air
nts from	in 1978

46 L.B.J., e.g. predecessor

Get answers to any three clues by touch-tone phone: 1-900-420-5656 (75¢ each minute).

HAVE A SPRING BREAK TO REMEMBER

Spring Break. . . isn't that one of your favorite things to hear? It's that break from the stresses and strains of school, if only for a short time. But just because you're resting your body and mind doesn't mean you can stop thinking.

Play it safe. Because memories are fond only if you have them.

MAKE THIS A SPRING BREAK TO REMEMBER. . .

- You don't have to be drunk to be impaired -- even one or two drinks affect your driving skills.
- Drinking, drugs and driving don't mix.
- Take your turn be a designated driver and get everyone where they are going safely.
- Respect other people's right, and your own -- to choose not to drink. There's plenty of fun to be had without alcohol.
- Respect state laws and campus policies.
- Don't let your friends drive impaired -- it's one of the fastest ways to end a friendship.
- Wear your seat belt -- it's your best protection against an impaired driver.

Office of Alcohol and Drug Education 631-7970

SPORTS

Average better than Irish ished in the second half.

John MacLeod said.

Butler did.'

a sluggish Irish team that van-

Trailing just 37-36, Notre

We were in a quagmire with

We had something called

Dame couldn't find the basket for four minutes and the Bull-our hip boots on," Irish coach three in four (three games in four days). Fatigue was a factor, but that's no excuse. I don't want to take away from what

What Butler did was take advantage of Notre Dame's fatigue to build its lead and some late Irish miscues to pro-dogs opened an 11-point lead.

Butler too much for sloppy Irish ^{By JASON KELLY}

Associate Sports Editor

page 20

It was a meeting of the mediocre.

And Notre Dame was more ordinary that its opposition, dropping a 67-57 decision to Butler Tuesday at the Joyce Center.

"We're just an average team trying not to be average," But-

PART Two

The second in a series of articles by Assistant Sports Editor Mike Norbut as he trains for his first Bengal Bouts ler coach Barry Collier said. Average was enough against Irish forward Billy Taylor scored two of his 12 points to cut the lead to 60-55 with 1:05 remaining.

But after the teams traded baskets, Ryan Hoover developed Webber's Disease, calling a timeout Notre Dame didn't have to draw a technical foul.

"We obviously didn't make it clear enough that we didn't have any timeouts left," MacLeod said. "I'll take the blame for that." Then Guice and Trice iced the Irish. Jermaine Guice hit one of his two technical foul shots and see IRISH / page 16

"Todd has the wing span of a small condor, and can easily hold me off with one hand while whaling on me with the other."

In every walk of life, there comes a time when you must take a journey, a leap of faith if you will, to really test your enthusiasm for a cause. For Catholics, it's known as Confirmation.

For Jewish people, it's called a Bar Mitzvah.

But for boxers, it's a ritual called sparring. Anyone who is halfway Our fearless editor learned he could take a punch better than he could deliver one

Name the Norbut Contest

Top - A nose bleed slows Mike during his first

Left - Mike throws a left jab at sparring partner sparring session.

Todd Murphy.

The first week brought some interesting entries, but the search continues for the perfect name for Mike. Suggestions should be given to the sports desk at The Observer, third floor LaFortune or by phone at 631-4543. Wednesday, February 9, 1994

The Observer/ Brett Moraski

Butler guard Travis Trice drives past Notre Dame's Lamarr Justice during the Bulldogs' victory last night.

Women's tennis aces No. 25 Wisconsin

By KATE CRISHAM Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's tennis team proved that they are worthy of their 18thplace national ranking as they soundly defeated 25th-ranked rival Wisconsin 7-2 in a dual match yesterday at the Eck Tennis Pavilion.

The Irish responded well to the challenge of playing the season's first nationally ranked opponent, overcoming an early case of nerves to improve their record to 4-0.

"We played a little nervous," admitted head coach Jay Louderback. "But winning 7-2 against a good team will be good for our confidence."

"Wisconsin is ranked third in our region, and it was important for us to play well against them."

Louderback was pleased with his team's performance.

"Our number two doubles team played very well," he said. "They played hard against a real solid Wisconsin team."

Louderback also praised the play of sophomore Wendy Crabtree.

"Wendy Crabtree played very well in singles," he said. "I think making it to the quarterfinals of the Rolex Indoors definitely helped her mentally."

Crabtree followed this weekend's impressive performance with wins in singles and doubles. She defeated Marija Neubauer 6-2, 6-1 at number one singles and teamed up with senior Lisa Tholen to defeat Neubauer and Colleen Lucy 3-6, 6-4, 7-6 in number one doubles.

Senior Christy Faustmann, sophomore Holyn Lord, and freshman Erin Gowen also recorded double wins. Faustmann and Gowen defeated Lauren Gavaris and interested in being a boxer will gladly get in the ring to spar. Of course, I was no different. I saw it as an opportunity to take some actual punches and show what I could do.

Picking my first sparring partner was easy. My roommate, Todd Murphy, has been a Bengal Bouter for as long as I have, two weeks, and had also never been in the ring before yesterday.

I have spent just about every waking second of my training with him, and I figured that since we were such good friends, maybe we'd take it easy on each other in the ring.

There was one slight problem, though.

For one thing, Todd has a wing span of a small condor, and can easily hold me off with one hand while whaling on me with the other.

Oh, and the agreement I thought we had about not hurting one another? That must have been a figment of my imagination.

"You just better keep your guard up, because that's the only way you'll survive our little scuffle," my roomate growled before yesterday's practice.

Well, I figured, at least the trainers would be there to keep a close eye on us. I thought they'd start us off the way they did with almost every group up until that time. Some dancing around, trading jabs for a while, maybe practice blocking punches...

"Two rounds, anything goes," was

see NORBUT / page 18

Marjon Copier 6-4, 6-3 at number two doubles, while Lord and sophomore Sherri Vitale defeated Stephany Benz and Jamie Fouret 7-5, 3-6, 6-3 in a hard-fought match at number three doubles.

Lord easily defeated Benz 6-2, 6-0 at number three singles. Faustman defeated Lucy 6-2, 6-2 at number four singles, while freshman Gowen was impressive in her 6-1, 6-1 match against Shannon Tully at number six singles.

The only Irish losses were Tholen's 6-3, 6-3 loss to Gavaris at number two singles, and Vitale's hard-fought 1-6, 7-5, 6-1 loss

see TENNIS / page 17

Duke tops Tech Mike Krzyzewski's Blue Devils come from behind to sneak by ACC rival Georgia Tech.

see page 16

Inside SPORTS

NBA Action Rookie Jamal Mashburn scores 24 points to lead Dallas over Minnesota see page 13

Aloha Hoosiers

Indiana heads list of invites for next year's Maui Invitational see page 17