

Scene previews theatre students' upcoming performance of "They Dance Really Slow In Jackson."

■ The fragile peace agreement formed Tuesday between Israel and Palestine was shaken by grenade attacks in Israel yesterday.

Scene • 14-15

World & Nation • 5

VOL XXXII NO. 29

WWW. ND.EDU/~ OBSERVER

Provost's Office opens tenure system inquiry

By DEREK BETCHER Assistant News Editor

As the academic world debates the place of tenure in higher education, Notre Dame quietly prepares to consider the issue as well.

The Provost's Office recently began an informal investigation of the state of the tenure system nationwide, and the Faculty Senate's academic affairs committee has placed the tenure issue at the top of its agenda for the coming academic year

"There is no thought here of doing away with the tenure system, although we do have faculty not on the tenure track," said associate provost Carol Mooney of the Provost's Office.

Debate fueled by an increase of non-tenure track faculty on campuses across the nation can be simplified into two positions. Supporters of the tenure system note that it protects academic freedom by granting permanent employment to carefully selected faculty. Critics argue that the tenure system protects unproductive faculty members from dismissal and accountability

Growing employment of non-tenure track faculty has intensified the most recent round of debate. These individuals, labeled professional specialists in Notre Dame's nomenclature, are faculty members declared ineligible to apply for permanent tenure positions. In some cases, these individuals do not hold the requisite Ph.D. degrees to seek tenure. In other cases, they lack either the personal desire or the University's invitation to participate in tenuretrack employment.

Non-tenure track faculty are employed at Notre Dame and engage in a variety of duties, including undergraduate instruction.

"A lot do not teach," Mooney noted. "They are everything from high-level lab technicians to clinical faculty in the law school to Center for Social

see DEBATE / page 4

• Ctudents filling out the TCEs need to know that the forms are Ja big part of the process. These things are, in fact, important about deciding a person's continuation on the faculty.'

Carol Mooney, associate provost

9-	STEP PROCESS FOR GAINING FACULTY Tenure
1	Candidates submit applications
2	Field experts review scholarship samples
3	Departmental Committee on Applications and Promotions (CAP) prepares report
4	CAP makes recommendation on tenure offer
5	Departmental chairperson makes recommendation
6	Dean of College makes recommendation
7	23-member Provost's advisory Committee (PAC) evaluates file
8	Provost reviews the PAC decision and makes a recommendation
9	University President makes a final decision on whether to offer a tenure appointment to the applicant

Fenure: what it is, how it's granted

BV DEREK BETCHER ssistant News Editor

Notre Dame's tenure system, one of the most important processes to the quality of academic instruction on campus, affects students daily, albeit indirectly.

This process shapes the Notre Dame faculty by granting permanent appointments to qualified faculty members. This permanence is designed to protect the academic freedoms of tenured faculty.

Students come into direct conact with the tenure process only hrough the biannual completion of teacher-course evaluation forms TCEs). The most substantive

see TENURE / page 4

Members support clause change

By TIM LOGAN Assistant News Editor

UDENT RENATE

Despite concerns over a lack of detailed information on the issue, the Student Senate passed a resolution last night urging the Academic Council to approve the addition of sexual orientation to the University's Stefko. "None of us really know what we're talking about ... we honestly have no clue.

It was acknowledged, however, that the Academic Council debate would delve deeply into the legal and religious implications of adding sexual orientation to the clause. Some senators saw this as reason to support the measure despite the objections raised.

[given up] the student voice to a group of faculty; you're counting on them to do the research."

This move comes two weeks after the senate called for the issue to be placed on the council's agenda for its Oct. 8 meeting. Last night's resolution is the original version of that bill and came to the floor with little warning

NCAA: Dunbar's actions may not require penalty Associated Press

The date when a former booster became a Notre Dame representative under NCAA guidelines is critical in determining the football program faces penalties, an NCAA official said Wednesday. NCAA director of enforcement Chuck Smrt, who would not discuss details of the case, said any potential violations before such a date involving Kimberly Dunbar would not be the school's responsibility. "The institution is only responsible for activity of individuals who are its representatives or coaches, so if something happened prior to an individual becoming a representative, then the institution is not responsible for that," he said. Dunbar, 29, has alleged that she gave a former Notre Dame player $5,000 to pay off an agent who threatened to reveal their contact. She also told school officials she paid for the relatives of several players to attend games, among other things. She was sentenced to four years in prison Monday for embezzling more than $1.2 million from her former employer, some of which she used to purchase gifts and trips for at least a dozen current and former Notre Dame players.

nondiscrimination clause.

The body voted 18-6-2 to approve the measure, which was opposed on several grounds, including a lack of information about the ramifications of such a move. Most members present supported the resolution as a statement of support for equal rights for homosexuals, however.

"We cannot discriminate against people based on their sexual orientation," said Pangborn senator Susan Roberts. "That's what this is all about.'

"It seems like common sense," agreed Lewis senator Sophie Fortin, the Gender Relations committee chair who originally co-wrote the resolution and presented it to the senate.

Other senators urged their colleagues to hold off until more could be learned about the issue, noting that a body of theologians and legal experts were consulted when the University considered this move in 1997.

"We haven't looked into this thoroughly," said Zahm senator Spencer

• WE CANNOT DISCRIMINATE AGAINST PEOPLE BASED ON THEIR SEXUAL ORI-ENTATION. THAT'S WHAT THIS IS ALL ABOUT.'

SUSAN ROBERTS PANGBORN HALL SENATOR

"We're not making the decision, we're just showing that we support it." said O'Neill senator Kevin Shannon.

Director of Student Activities Joe Cassidy warned the senators against acting despite a lack of information and relying on more senior bodies, such as the Academic Council, to undertake detailed examination of issues.

"[To be an effective student voice] you've got to have credibility. The only way to have credibility is to do the research and talk to your constituents," said Cassidy. "You've just as senators hoped to craft a statement in the wake of the announcement on Monday that the council would take up the issue.

In other senate news:

• Members approved a letter welcoming former U.S. Senator Bill Bradley to Notre Dame despite objections over his record of votes supporting abortion rights.

"We realize that true education can only occur when one is exposed to a variety of opinions and ideas and appreciate the experience that you bring to campus," reads the letter.

The statement had undergone revisions from its original version which criticized Bradley's stance on abortion, and some present wanted that. criticism to remain.

We don't oppose Bradley's being here, but we would like to see some opposition to his voting record on abortion," said Catriona Wilke, co-

School spokesman Dennis Moore wouldn't discuss the details of the allegations regarding contact between a former player and an agent.

see SENATE / page 4

see DUNBAR / page 4

page 2

The Observer • INSIDE

Thursday, October 1, 1998

improving the care for patients. This grant will allow us to greatly expand our research into the optimum methods of treating people with MS," he

In recent years, the UW's MS clinic

Studies done at the UW have pinpointed depression as the most common symptom: one of the new areas of study will be to evaluate different medications to treat depression.

Researchers will also be testing new drugs which are not yet approved by UW researchers will continue to emphasize improving the quality of care for people with MS. They hope to learn more about what environmental

MS is caused by the immune system attacking the nerves in the brain and the Food and Drug Administration.

factors contribute to the disease.

has tested new drugs for controlling said.

the flare-ups of MS.

It's been a long day in a long week... long, long, long.

If that's not a "hook", then I don't know what is. Speaking of long though, I'll tell you one thing that won't be long today — the intro to this inside column. Long week, but only half complete.

Chris Kusek Assistant Viewpoint Editor

What I wanted to speak about today is speech, or lack thereof. I was talking to someone recently who seemed to be upset about the Viewpoint column titled "Year of the Woman: The Further Erosion of American Culture." She had the chance to respond in print, but passed it up. To be fair, though, the column may be on the way — stay tuned.

This response is not uncommon under the dome, however. People complain of parietals, dining hall rules, the football team, etc., etc. These are the same people who would never think to speak to residence life, petition the head of the dining hall, or write a thought out criticism of the Irish or its coaching staff.

Last week, The Observer ran an editorial complaining of it's operating conditions. Today, The Observer ran a letter to the editor responding to the column. Whether you agree or disagree with it's message, read it. Thought went into it.

Tuesday, a column entitled, "Why can I complain?" ran in this space. The writer may like to hang out in trees, but I do give him credit for speaking. Why not, you know?

Some Reserved Book Room girl once wrote a column right here about e-mail forwards. Well, I received a forward recently from a friend of mine. I like it, because it says something. Here it is:

Imagine there is a bank that credits your account each morning with $86,400. It carries over no balance from day to day. Every evening deletes whatever part of the balance you failed to use during the day.

What do you do? Draw out every cent, of course!

Each of us has such a bank. Its name is TIME.

Every morning, it credits you with 86,400 seconds. Every night it writes off, as lost, whatever of this you failed to invest to good purpose. It carries over no balance. It allows no overdraft. Each day it opens a new account for you. Each night it burns the remains of the day. If you fail to use the day's deposits, the loss is yours.

There is no going back. There is no drawing against the "tomorrow."

You must live in the present on today's deposits. Invest it so as to get from it the utmost in health, happiness and success! The clock is running. Make the most of today.

To realize the value of one year, ask a student who failed a grade.

To realize the value of one month, ask a mother who gave birth to a premature baby.

To realize the value of one minute, ask a person who misses a train.

To realize the value of one second, ask a person who just avoided an accident.

To realize the value of one millisecond, ask the person who won a silver medal in the Olympics. Treasure every moment that you have!

And treasure it more because you shared it

Washington receives grant for multiple sclerosis research

SEATTLE, Wash.

A $3.5 million grant awarded to the UW Medical Center earlier this month will help establish the nation's first Multiple Sclerosis Research and Training Center.

The UW currently treats MS patients in the MS clinic. The MS clinic and the MS Research and Training Center both will be administered by the Department of Rehabilitation Medicine.

In addition to the 750 patients UW already treats, the center will be able to add 1,200 patients to take part in a wide range of research studies. Patients will be drawn from the five states that the UW Medical Center serves: Washington, Wyoming, Alaska, Montana and Idaho. Patients from Hawaii will also participate.

The federal grant, given by the National Institute on Disability and Rehabilitation Research, will last five years, after which time the UW must

■ UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA-BERKELEY

Researchers discover new energy wave

BERKELEY, Calif.

After observing the most powerful wave of energy ever recorded from beyond the sun, a UC Berkeley researcher joined other scholars in Washington, D.C., yesterday to announce findings suggesting the existence of a new form of star energy. Kevin Hurley, a UC Berkeley physicist and an expert on intense gamma rays, joined researchers from universities around the country to announce the discovery of what may be extremely dense neutron stars, or "magnetars." Hurley and his co-researchers said they discovered the possible existence of a new star energy while conducting an experiment on the satellite Ulysses this August. The wave of energy was actually a burst of radiation from a distant neutron star, according to the researchers. Hurley was the first researcher to observe the burst, said UC Berkeley spokesperson Bob Sanders. The information collected by Hurley and his colleagues during this major energy release confirms theories developed several'years ago.

■ PRINCETON UNIVERSITY

Endowment drops with market

PRINCETON, N.J. The university's endowment, which currently totals $5.5 billion, fell 6.5 percent, about $357 million, during the first two months of the 1999 fiscal year, President of the Princeton University Investment Company (PRINCO) Andrew Golden said. "As financial markets have gone down, (the endowment) has gone down slightly. We have not been immune to the turbulence," Golden said. The recent stock crashes, adding up to a 15 percent loss on the market, made the month of August "the second worst month in the past 50 years," Golden said. Though the environment is unstable, PRINCO's long-term investment policy has not changed. "The policy was formed with rough times in mind," Golden said. "A strength of our plan is the ability to do relatively well in times of crisis." Economics professor Burton Malkiel said the recent negative dips are not terribly significant. "...it is not unexpected for the economy to correct itself by falling a little," he said.

reapply. New York's Albert Einstein Medical College has received the money the past 15 years.

Receiving the grant, which is specified for clinical research, is recognition of the quality work the UW School of Medicine has done in recent years, said Dr. George Kraft, professor of rehabilitation medicine, who will head the new center.

"Most of the research institutions are involved with immunology. Ours is somewhat different," Kraft said.

"We've been more involved with

DUKE UNIVERSITY

Prof says clause could harm Clinton spinal cord.

DURHAM, N.C.

In a pile of videotapes, photographs and papers, the evidence presented by Kenneth Starr about President Bill Clinton's alleged sexual impropriety has come to overshadow a much smaller document which may ultimately decide Clinton's fate: Article I, Section IV of the Constitution. Partisan votes allegedly decided the release of much of the sensitive Lewinsky-related evidence, and Clinton's harshest critics come from the Republican party. But William Van Alstyne, professor of law, says that the processes of impeachment are not always governed by political motives. Instead, he said impeachment cases depend on specific interpretations of the law. Although he said the word "misdemeanor" - written in the 18th century to mean an act that shames or embarrasses a public office - could be applied to the Clinton case, Van Alstyne cautioned lawmakers against applying it without careful consideration.

VIRGINIA TECH

Athlete accused of firing gun in air

BLACKSBURG, Va.

Kenny Harrell, a sophomore communication studies major, faces charges of possession of a concealed weapon, firing of a weapon, removing a serial number from a weapon and intent to endanger life, limb or prop-erty. "(This is) a damn serious crime," said Larry Hinker, associate vice president for university relations. "Horsing around is one thing, having a .38 caliber and firing it in the air is something else. I hope people will wake up and realize this is dangerous and doesn't belong on a campus." Sergeant Jack Ridinger, of the Tech police, arrested the 6-foot-2-inch guard at 12:42 a.m. Saturday on Washington Street in front of Cassell Coliseum. Harrell pointed the gun into the air and fired a shot, said Mike Jones, chief of Tech police. Along with legal charges. Harrell faces an indefinite suspension from school. Harrell was suspended for violating rules applying to all Tech students, not just athletes, Hinker said.

y physicist and an decide Clinto earchers from unie the discovery of of much of the rs, or "magnetars." Clinton's harshe with someone special, special enough to spend your time. And remember that time waits for no one.

■ NATIONAL WEATHER

Yesterday is history. Today is a gift. That's why it's called the present!

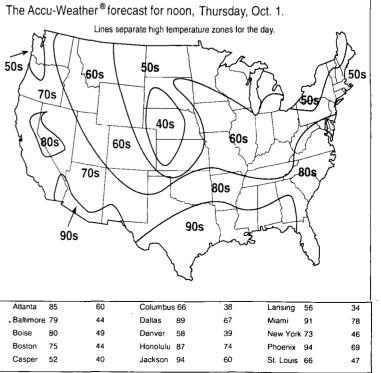

. The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

TODAY'S STAFF

•
Scene
Sarah Dylag
Graphics
Pete Cilella Production
Noah Amstadter
Lab Tech
John Daily
· •

The Observer (USPS 599 2-4000) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

	×	Η	L
Гhursday		61	39
Friday		61	42
Saturday		65	47
Sunday		70	52
Monday	A	77	52

Network helps SMC grads

By KATHERINE Lewandowski News Writer

Saint Mary's graduates may not have the strength of large numbers, but they certainly have the advantage of alumnae working on their side, particularly in the business department.

Many recent Saint Mary's graduates find themselves in job situations with other Saint Mary's alumnae, and many soon-to-be-graduating seniors find the bonuses in alumnae networking, including the chance to make connections in the job world that are usually only affiliated with larger universities.

Alumnae The Association at Saint Mary's is the oldest association for Catholic women's colleges in the United States. This contributes to its strength and the number of resources it is able to provide.

Among the resources available to students is the Alumnae Resource Network, where students can locate alumnae working in their field and contact them. This valuable tool can also be used by students seeking internship opportunities.

'Because of the small size of Saint Mary's, alumnae are vital for representation of Saint Mary's graduates," said Mary Ann Merryman, associate professor of accounting.

6 D ECAUSE OF THE SMALL SIZE OF SAINT MARY'S, ALUMNAE ARE VITAL FOR REPRESENTATION OF SAINT MARY'S GRADUATES.'

> MARY ANN MERRYMAN ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF ACCOUNTING

Examples of alumnae who assist graduates include Susan Gallagher, a partner at Arthur Anderson who facilitates recruiting, and Leigh Samarzija Sierra, an employee of CNA Insurance who was recently on campus telling seniors what her company has to offer.

The presence of alumnae like Gallagher and Sierra in corporations causes them to come to Saint Mary's to recruit.

"There are many companies that return to Saint Mary's for graduates because they've had success with them in the past and love their work," said Joyce Hicks, assistant professor of marketing and accounting.

Among these companies are Baxter International, First Chicago Bank, and Chizek, a Crow regional accounting firm. Faculty members often receive information on job openings from companies that are looking exclusively for a Saint Mary's graduate.

A number of company representatives and Saint Mary's graduates will be on campus to speak about their firms at the Showcase of Careers on Nov. 12.

For more information about this event, students can contact the Counseling and Career Development Center.

Prof wins award for best dissertation in '97

By MAGGY TINUCCI News Writer

Christina Wolbrecht, assistant professor of government and international studies, was recently cited by the Women and Politics section of the American Political Science Association (APSA) for the best doctoral dissertation for 1997.

In her dissertation, entitled "The Politics of Women's Rights: Parties, Positions, and Change, 1952-92," Wolbrecht examines such factors as the revolution in women's social and economic roles and the emergence of a mass women's movement. She also discusses changes in the party itself, which help to explain the 40-year realignment of political parties' positions on women's rights.

"The work I did in my dissertation certainly informs the teaching I do," said Wolbrecht, who teaches a class about political parties and interest groups and a senior seminar dealing with women in politics.

In the work, Wolbrecht explains how the Republican Party has moved from a generally supportive position on women's rights to a largely opposing position, while the Democratic Party has moved in the opposite direction.

"We were absolutely thrilled to hear that Professor Wolbrecht had won this award. She is a very talented young scholar,' said Jim McAdams, chair in the department of government. Wolbrecht's dissertation was chosen from a number of works that were read by leading scholars in the field.

"I was very pleased and very honored to be chosen by people 1 respect for this award, " said Wolbrecht.

The APSA award stated that "Wolbrecht's dissertation is, on one level, an extremely careful and detailed legislative history of women's rights initiatives in the latter half of the 20th century. On another level, her research uses the shifting positions of the parties on issues related to women as a way to speak to larger issues of party change and change in the national political agenda. This is an ambitious and complex project successfully carried out.

Grant to endow chairs in ethical law

Special to The Observer

Notre Dame has received a grant of $5 million from the John P. Murphy Foundation of Cleveland, Ohio to endow three faculty chairs in the law school for scholars whose teaching and research emphasize moral and ethical values in law.

"This generous gift will have a profound effect on teaching and scholarship at Notre Dame Law School," said Edward Malloy, president of the University. "We are confident that the John P. Murphy chairs will strengthen Notre Dame's already considerable reputation as the standard bearer in the teaching and scholarship of legal ethics."

The Murphy Foundation was established by the late John Murphy, chairman of the board of the Higbee Company of Cleveland, Ohio, and a Notre Dame trustee for 36 years until his death in 1969. A native of Westboro, Mass., and a 1912 graduate of Notre Dame, Murphy practiced law in Minneapolis and in Montana before the outbreak of World War I, when he joined the Army Air Corps.

After the war, Murphy practiced law in Cleveland, eventually becoming president of the Higbee Company. In 1928, he was elected president of the Notre Dame Alumni Association, and he received an honorary doctor of laws degree from the University in 1952. During his lifetime, he contributed more than $650,000 to Notre Dame. Previous benefactions to the University from the Murphy Foundation amount to $1,611,000 and have funded the purchase of collections and expanded services in the Kresge Law Library.

The Murphy Foundation grant is a component of Notre Dame's $767 million Generations" fund-raising campaign. Announced in May 1997, the campaign is the largest endeavor in the history of Catholic higher education.

Faculty: new office space not enough

By MAGGY TINUCCI News Writer

The shortage of office space that continues to plague the faculty, especially junior faculty in the College of Arts and Letters, ensures that the construction sites sprinkled across campus will continue to be present well into the future.

"It is an acute issue that is being addressed," said Michael Detlefson, head of the Faculty Senate, who said that it will take a few years to properly address this issue.

The conversion of Grace and Flanner Halls from men's dorms to office space did not alleviate the need for space, according to vice president and Associate Provost Jeffrey Kantor.

Grace and Flanner "were never expected to be enough," he said.

What the project did accomplish was to allow major offices such as Career and Placement to move out of the basement of the Hesburgh Library and to convert that space into offices for junior faculty. The Grace and Flanner project was a only "partial solution," according to Kantor. While the lack of office space remains an important issue, Kantor stresses that this is not "a one-dimensional issue." Currently in the works are plans for a performing arts center, an increased number of teaching labs, as well as a building to house the Arts and Letters faculty. "These are large projects that are governed by need and availability," said Kantor. Because of these factors it is impossible to give an estimated completion date to any of these projects.

3)

page 3

Select Solomon Skis plus great savings on K-2, Rossignol, Volkl & Dynastar skis

3602 N. Grape Rd. • Mishawaka, IN 46545 • 219-259-1000 Hours: Monday -Friday 10:00 a.m. -9:00 p.m. • Saturday 10:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m. • Sunday 12:00p.m. - 5:00 p.m.

Check out all our sale items at www.outpostsports.com

We've got the gear and clothing at great prices to get you ready for one doozy of a winter. So get into Outpost for the La Niña Ski & Snowboard Sale!

News: 1-5323

continued from page 1

work takes place within departments, colleges and the Office of the Provost in a six-year-long process which includes numerous steps.

Individuals enter Notre Dame's tenure system when they accept appointment as assistant professors in the teaching-and-research faculty. Ordinarily these new hires hold doctorate degrees.

Employed under two threeyear contracts, the new assistant professors are expected to excel in three areas: teaching, research and service. These are the benchmarks that will later be used in the decision to grant or withhold tenure.

At the beginning of their sixth year, assistant professors may apply to begin a year-long tenure certification process (described in the graphic at left). Assistant professors denied tenure have one year to seek employment elsewhere before they are terminated from the University. Roughly 70 percent of applicants are approved, according to Mooney.

"The vast majority of cases are clear cut," she added.

If tenure is rewarded, a faculty member commonly then receives the title of associate professor and commensurate salary upgrade.

A professor granted tenure can be dismissed, but only for serious offenses.

"Conviction of a felony, "professional incompetence" and "continual serious disrespect or disregard for the Catholic character of the University" are among the few causes for which Notre Dame may terminate a tenured faculty member, according to the University of Dame Notre Faculty Handbook.

Dunbar

continued from page 1

He said there is still some dispute over whether the contact happened, and he wasn't sure whether the incident is alleged to have occurred after June 1995, the date the NCAA determined Dunbar became a representative of the universi-

"It's not necessarily an open and shut matter,"' Moore said.

Moore also said the trips Dunbar has claimed to have paid for happened before and after June 1995, when she became a representative of the university through her association with the nowdefunct Quarterback Club.

The allegations are the latest in a series of incidents involving Dunbar and players. Dunbar, who has a child with former Notre Dame player Jarvis Edison, became the center of a university probe in February after the school found out she had paid the way for several players to attend a Chicago Bulls game and another trip involving herself and two players, athletic director Mike Wadsworth said.

The university forwarded some of its preliminary findings to the NCAA in March for a ruling, including whether Dunbar qualified as a representative of the university. Notre Dame also asked the NCAA for interpretations on whether the two trips constituted violations because Dunbar had a personal relationship with several of the players. The five current players involved in the Bulls trip were cleared of any wrongdoing after they donated the cost of their tickets to a charity.

Wadsworth said school attorneys interviewed Dunbar twice in the past month, revealing several incidents before and after June 1995 that have been forwarded to the NCAA. He said none of the incidents involved current players, coaches or administrators associated with the football team.

"Whether she gives money, a gift, a trip, whatever it may be, before June 1995, has no relevance to the NCAA because she is not in any way a representative of the university," Wadsworth commented.

"Now, if there is any evidence that one of our former student-athletes in fact had contact with an agent improperly, then that is a potential violation. But that's a separate matter," he said.

Smrt said institutions only face sanctions for player-agent contact if school officials knew about it and allowed an ineligible athlete to play.

In the majority of agent situations, the institution didn't know, and there's no reason for it to know in the majority of the situations we deal with." he said. "Most institutions work pretty diligently to keep agents away from their players.

Lewis Hall senator Sophie Fortin was among the supporters of a senate resolution urging the Academic Council to approve changes to the non-discrimination clause. The measure passed by a margin of 18-6-2.

Senate

continued from page 1

president of ND/SMC Right to Life.

Other senators disagreed on the grounds that a critical letter could be interpreted the wrong way, however. "If we say that 'you are wrong,' is that a letter of wel-come?" asked Dillon senator Jason Linster. "Bradley knows he's voted against Catholic teaching and he understands that.'

The letter was approved by a vote of 17-9-1.

• At one point in the meeting, Fisher senator Phil Dittmar and Morrissey senator Rvan Costantini conducted a filibuster to protest the speedy manner in which debate was being carried on.

"On important debates, I think everyone's voice should be heard," said Dittmar, who was concerned that, on several occasions at the meeting, debate was cut off with senators still waiting to speak.

Last night is not the first time this has happened this year, with debates at times being held to five minutes in order to end the meetings sooner.

'We're here to debate issues. We're here to act as the voice of the student body and we're not doing that late-

Debate

continued from page 1

Concerns position-holders."

The largest number of professional specialists teaching at Notre Dame are instructing introductory-level language courses, Mooney reported.

An advantage to employing professional specialists is that they can be assigned to teach a heavy load of classes - four rather than two, for example.

This distinction exists because the University expects tenuretrack faculty to conduct research and publish work, while no such expectations are placed on those not seeking tenure. A disadvantage to this system is the erosion of the existing tenure plan, a system that professes to protect academic freedoms. The campus has witnessed limited public debate of the issue and there are no rep'orted plans for a change in Notre Dame's commitment to the tenure system. One certainty is that participants recognize the need to understand the details of the larger nationwide debate before committing to any action on the question.

"Our interest is to take a good hard look at this tenure issue before the debate is over." said chairman of the Faculty Senate academic affairs committee Greg Sterling, professor of theology.

Observer.obsnews.1

Are you looking for something to do tonight? No plans for the weekend?

No more excuses!

Check out the new Notre Dame

Events Calendar!

Only $44

Attention Students:

Purchase your men's basketball season tickets!!

BASKETBALL

On sale now— Sept. 30, Oct. 1 & 2 From 8-5pm

Gate 10 Joyce Center Ticket Office—

It's online, it's up-to-date, and it'll do miracles for your social life.

http://www.nd.edu/~stdactiv/

Brought to you by your Student Activities Office.

Thursday, October 1, 1998

COMPILED FROM THE OBSERVER WIRE SERVICES

page 5

waster March States

Jeanne weakens over Atlantic

MIAMI

■ WEST BANK

Jeanne, downgraded to a tropical depression, was passing through the Azores in the Atlantic Ocean on Wednesday. Jeanne weakened significantly, with top sustained winds near 35 mph, down from a high of 105 mph a few days ago, according to the National Hurricane Center in Miami. Wednesday afternoon Jeanne's center was about 25 miles south of Horta in the Azores and about 95 miles west-southwest of Terceira in the Azores. It was moving east-northeast near 14 mph, having slowed considerably from its 21 mph forward speed on Monday. By last night, Jeanne was expected to lose the circulation and other characteristics that make it a tropical weather system, forecasters said.

Starr bill exceeds $40 million

WASHINGTON

The cost of the independent counsel's investigations of President Clinton's Whitewater dealings, his affair with Monica Lewinsky and other controversies has topped $40 million. A government audit report released yesterday showed that Kenneth Starr spent $3.9 million during the six-month period ending March 31, the latest figures available. That brings Starr's expenses to nearly $33.5 million since he took over the investigation in 1994, according to General Accounting Office audits. Starr's predecessor on Whitewater, Robert Fiske, spent $6 million, making the cost of investigating the Clinton administration almost $40 million, a number that will climb significantly when updated with the past six months activity. Starr has estimated that he spent at least $4.4 million on the Lewinsky investigation alone over the last eight months.

Tribe revives ancient ritual

NEAH BAY, Wash.

The Makah Indians are about to embark on their first gray-whale hunt in 70 years, reviving a tradition that died out when world demand for whale oil brought the animals to the brink of extinction. There is no one alive among the Makahs who has ever gone whaling, but they have heard stories and songs about it all their lives, and they plan to set out as early as Thursday. Like their ancestors, they will paddle out in a cedar canoe and strike first with a harpoon. But in a departure from tradition, they will use a .50-caliber rifle to kill the whale and at least two motorized boats to tow it home. The hunt was approved last year by the International Whaling Commission, which ruled that the 2,000-member tribe could take up to five whales a year from 1998 through 2000.

HEBRON Undercutting the latest U.S. peace tant. efforts, an assailant yesterday hurled two grenades at Israeli troops guarding a downtown square in the volatile West Bank city of Hebron, injuring 11 soldiers and 11 Palestinians. The attacker was shot in the leg before he vanished into the Palestiniancontrolled area of the city. The Israeli army poured reinforcements into Hebron and imposed a curfew on the area it controls.

Coming at a time when the United States is trying to conclude agreement on an Israeli troop withdrawal in the West Bank, the attack gave a boost to Israeli claims that the Palestinian Authority is not doing enough to prevent attacks on Israelis.

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has said he would not hand over more West Bank land until the Palestinians rein in militants.

Troops also set up roadblocks around Hebron, barring Palestinians from leaving or entering the city of 130,000 Palestinians and 450 Jewish settlers.

Tensions in Hebron have been rising since the Aug. 20 killing of a settler rabbi, apparently by a Palestinian mili-

In a related development, Israel TV's Channel Two said that Palestinian security forces raided a Hamas bomb factory in Hebron on Tuesday, seizing 640 pounds of explosives and bombmaking materials. The report said it was the largest Hamas laboratory uncovered.

Yesterday's violence erupted during Yom Kippur, the holiest day on the Jewish calendar, as Israeli troops enforced a blanket closure on the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

The bloodshed came amid intensive U.S. efforts to broker an agreement on an Israeli troop pullback from 13 percent of the West Bank. Under a compromise, three percent of that land is to be set aside as a nature reserve in which Israel retains control over security

Earlier this week, President Clinton hosted Netanyahu and Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat separately and then in a three-way summit. Israeli and U.S. officials were upbeat, saying the land issue had been resolved.

However, Palestinian negotiators said yesterday that some differences remained. Hassan Abdel Rahman, the Palestinian representative in Washington, said one point of contention was whether Palestinian police could enter the nature reserve.

Secretary of State Madeleine Albright and U.S. envoy Dennis Ross are to return to the region Tuesday to prepare Mideast summit in another Washington in mid-October, Palestinian negotiators said.

In other developments yesterday, some 400 Palestinians threw stones at Israeli soldiers near the West Bank village of Biddou. Troops fired rubber bullets, injuring six Palestinians.

The clashes erupted after the funeral of a Hamas activist, Zahran Ibrahim Zahran, who was killed Tuesday when a car rigged with powerful explosives blew up in the village of Beitunia, near Ramallah.

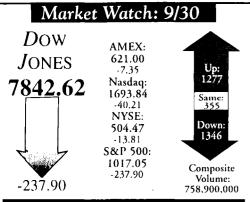

Suleiman and Salim Abu Eid, two Hamas activists who survived the blast, denied they were preparing the car for a bombing attack in Israel, Palestinian police said.

An Israeli police officer surveys damage done to a vehicle in the aftermath of grenade attacks. Twenty-two people were injured in attacks aimed at Israeli troops yesterday, in the war-torn West Bank city of Hebron.

Attacks reinforce Israeli fears of war

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ľ	l.	0	-	ł.	Ì	Ũ	li	Ł	9	1	Ŀ	L	J	E	5	T	1	I	H	1	ł	5

COMPANY	LICKER	% CHANGE	$ GAIN	PRICE
DELL COMP	DELL	-3.04	-2.0625	65.75
CWEGROUP	CBTSY	+2.3.4.3	+2.5625	13.5
CISCO SYSTEMS	CSCO	-4.35	-2.8125	61.8125
ESC MEDICAL SYS	ESCM	-27.16	-3.9375	10.5625
GILLETE CO	G	-5.94	-2.3750	37.625
FUCENT FYCH	1.0	-7.22	-5.375	67.062
MCI WORLD COM	WCOM	-3,34	-1.6875	48.875
CBS CORP	CBS	-9.71	2,500	23.25
INTEL CORP	INTL	-3.11	-2.75	85.75
CHASE MANH.	CMB	-3.89	-1.75	4.1.25

YUGOSLAVIA

Massacres target need for peace

ASSOCIATED PRESS

GOLUBOVAC International pressure grew Wednesday to stop the war in Kosovo following the grisly discovery of bodies from one massacre and claims that 13 people were slain in another killing frenzy.

Accusing security forces of trying to wipe out ethnic Albanians in the Yugoslav province of Kosovo, Britain called an emergency meeting of the U.N. Security Council to condemn the killings.

The latest allegations of massacres by Serb police and the Yugoslav army came after diplomats, journalists and human rights workers saw as many as 18 mutilated bodies earlier this week in nearby Obrija (Oh-BREE-ya), including those of women and children.

Five miles to the south, residents of Golubovac said Wednesday that Serb forces surrounded a pocket of refugees there last Saturday and singled out the men to kill.

They said the victims were already buried, but pointed to saucer-sized pools of dried blood and empty cartridges in front of fence where they a said the refugees were shot.

"They pointed to the men and took them beside my house," said Naim Hodzaj, a 53-year-old farmer in the village about 20 miles west of Kosovo's capital Pristina. They shot them all."

The ethnic Albanians' Kosovo Information Center claimed late Wednesday 18 more bodies had been found nearby in the area around Glogovac, showing clear signs of torture and three shot in the back of the head. The claim could not be confirmed, and it was possible it referred to the Golubovac site.

Britain and Austria called Wednesday for an international investigation into what Austrian Foreign Wolfgang Minister Schuessel called the "bestial" massacre at Obrija, which the Serbs call Gornje Obrinje.

"This was not an act of war, it was plain cold murder," British Foreign Secretary Robin Cook said in calling later for the Security Council meeting.

Panel debates Clinton scandal

By TOM ENRIGHT News Writer

Reflecting American society, a panel of Notre Dame professors presented their diverse reactions yesterday to the Clinton scandal. Discussion topics ranged from the religious right's increasing influence to the affair's impact upon current gender relations.

The panel, entitled "Clinton, Starr, and You" presented several perspectives on the Clinton scandal from government professors Sortirios Barber, David Leege and Christina Wolbrecht, and professor of philosophy Paul Weithman.

"While I don't think that Clinton should be impeached, I do think his behavior was reprehensible," said Weithman, who believed that the Clinton scandal has not damaged the Democratic party. "We don't look to the President for guidance on our moral lives anymore."

Pointing out that the Clinton issue did not involve as big a cover-up as in the Nixon administration or Reagan's Iran-Contra controversy, Leege presented both the arguments for and against Clinton's impeachment. He noted that campaign funding drives politics today and called donations modern day bribes.

The impeachment process, he argued, would be a diversion from the type of campaign system developing and would draw attention away from the funding issue. Leege also described the progression of sexual norms in America and related it to the current Clinton situation.

"We use public rituals to solve certain things," he said. "We don't have conflict over the economy... but we do over sexual norms."

Leege presented the idea that Clinton is taking the blame for the greater problem of marital infidelity among Americans.

"It is expedient that one man should 'die' for his country,"

WE DON'T LOOK TO THE PRESIDENT FOR GUIDANCE ON OUR MORAL LIVES ANYMORE.'

PAUL WEITHMAN professor of philosophy said Leege, who feels that Clinton is now paying for the sins of society. "We could reassure the nation that we've reasserted sexual norms with the impeachment process," he said.

Weithman supported this idea and gave a different perspective about why society could see Clinton as a sacrificial lamb. He believed that the rise of the religious right has used the scandal as a spokes-movement for its ideals. "Is this about lying or the moral issues associated with it?" asked Wolbrecht, who discussed the effects of the Clinton scandal upon politics and described how feminists felt about the issue.

"This scandal tells us about agenda setting and ... the words we use," said Wolbrecht. "Politicians understand the power of words."

Wolbrecht argued that the issue makes clear how unsettled women's issues remain today. She noted that society is still not sure where to draw a line between what is and is not acceptable in gender relations.

While women seem divided on the Clinton issue, Wolbrecht said, the women's movement gave rise to the belief that the "personal is political," an idea which could hurt Clinton.

Barber further asked what constituted an impeachable offense and said that a consensus seemed to lie between two extremes. On one side is what Barber calls a "whatever theory," which says that anything is impeachable that a majority of the House of Representatives and two-thirds of the U.S. Senate feel is inappropriate.

The other extreme view is the "smoking gun theory" advanced by Nixon, in which a president cannot undergo impeachment unless he's committed criminally indictable offenses.

"President Clinton's mistake arguably falls within these categories," Barber said.

Associated Press

NOBLESVILLE, Ind. Ten years after their parents were shot to death, two brothers who took over the family insurance business and had offered a $100,000 reward for the killer's arrest were charged with the crime.

Brian Setters, 37, and David Setters, 40, were taken into custody Tuesday at Creative Underwriters, the family-owned insurance business.

The younger brother showed no emotion Wednesday as he was charged with two counts of murder and held without bond. He could face the death penalty. David Setters was released Wednesday on $10,000 bond. He is charged with two felony counts of assisting a criminal and false informing. He allegedly provided his brother a false alibi.

Elwood Setters, 60, and Shirley Setters, 57, were found dead in February 1989 in a house they were remodeling in Noblesville, just north of Indianapolis.

The father had been shot four times in the head with a .25caliber pistol that belonged to him. The mother was shot three times in the head and had an ice pick shoved through her eye.

"We believe Brian is wholly and completely innocent of this crime," Brian's girlfriend, Kerry Hinerman, said as she left the courtroom.

After the deaths, the couple's children — Brian, David and a third son, Doug — offered a $5,000 reward for information that would lead to an arrest. They eventually upped that to $100,000.

Brian Setters was quoted in local newspapers at the time pleading for witnesses to come forward with any detail that might help, and some of his friends also put up 500 posters in the area that said, "Murderers, we know who you are."

Hamilton County Prosecutor Sonia Leerkamp said yesterday that a combination of bits and pieces of information came together for the arrests to be made.

"There's not a magic piece of evidence that has wrapped this all up," she said.

Investigators said they reopened the case in 1995 and, after talking to witnesses that had previously been uncooperative, took the case to the grand jury.

"I know that it's not going to be the easiest case I ever prosecuted, but I feel confident that we can present a viable case and hopefully obtain convictions," Leerkamp said.

When something is too extreme for words, it's to the Nth degree. And that's the level of technology you'll experience at Raytheon.

Raytheon has formed a new technological superpower–Raytheon Systems Company, composed of four major technological giants: Raytheon Electronic Systems, Raytheon E-Systems, Raytheon TI Systems and Hughes Aircraft. The new Raytheon Systems Company is driving technology to the limit. And we're looking for engineers who want to push the envelope. Break new ground. Make their mark.

At Raytheon, you'll take technology – and your career – to the highest possible level. You'll take it to the Nth. We'll be visiting your campus soon. Contact your career placement office now to schedule an interview, or check out our website at www.rayjobs.com. If you are unable to meet with us, please send your resume to: Raytheon Resume Processing Center, P.O. Box 660246, MS-201, Dallas, TX 75266. We have many exciting opportunities available and we would like to talk to you.

Raytheon

Internet: www.rayjobs.com • E-mail: resume@rayjobs.com U.S. citizenship may be required. We are an equal opportunity employer.

On-line appliances on the way

Refrigerators, ovens will be Internet capable

Associated Press

MILAN Need an oven with Internet access? How about a refrigerator smart enough to keep track of what's inside, store recipes and make your grocery list?

High-tech companies in Italy and Japan are betting you do, or will, in the near-future.

Italy, Merloni lπ Elettrodomestici announced a new product line Wednesday that includes appliances that can do everything from preventing blackouts to surfing the Net.

The "intelligent oven" even has remote-control cooking programs and will soon have built-in Internet access for recipes.

Under the brand name Ariston Digital, Merloni has developed washing also machines, refrigerators, dishwashers and cooking appliances that can communicate with each other — and the outside world.

Merloni, Europe's fourthlargest home appliance producer, plans to unveil the new product line at the Smau information and telecommunications show in Milan in October and start selling it in the second half of 1999.

The company spent five years and about $18 million to develop the new line, but says the futuristic appliances will only be a little bit more expensive than more conventional items.

Meanwhile, a Japanese company has developed what it calls the "internet refrigerator." With a speedy Pentium II microprocessor and huge hard drive, it packs more computing power than most home PCs, and has separate compartments for fruit and vegetables.

The refrigerator — unveiled Wednesday at the opening of the PC World Expo in Makuhari, east of Tokyo - is controlled with a touch panel monitor in the door or verbally through a built-in microphone.

The company that developed the refrigerator, V-Sync, recommends using it as the command center of a wired home by hooking it up to similarly equipped household appliances such as telephones, air conditioners and televisions.

More than 600 computerrelated companies are displaying products at the annual computer expo in Japan, which runs through Saturday.

Hillary Clinton visits South American peers

• EMPOWERMENT OF WOMEN IS AS CRITICAL

FOR A VIBRANT DEMOCRACY

AS ARE ISSUES LIKE TRADE ...

AND NATIONAL SECURITY.'

Associated Press

SANTIAGO Hillary Rodham Clinton came to South America to give a boost to women and got a boost herself from her fellow first ladies of the Americas.

"I'm new at this job and you're a role model for me," one said in a note she slipped to Mrs. Clinton after the U.S. first lady spoke of the need for more women in leadership roles, said her chief of staff, Melanne Verveer.

One after another, they embraced her and shared private comments. In public, no one even hinted of President Clinton's affair with Monica Lewinsky.

Mrs. Clinton, attending an annual conference of first ladies of the Americas, stuck to her designated topic.

"Empowerment of women is as critical for a vibrant democracy as are issues like trade, diplomacy and national security," she said. While complaining that women still do not hold enough positions of authority, responsibility and power,' noted she with approval that "today a growing number of countries require a minimum level of women's participation in local and national elections.'

Many countries, she said, have surpassed the United States in increasing the percentage of elected representatives and other leaders who are women.

The crowd of several hundred seemed to appreciate Mrs. Clinton's willingness to follow through on her commitment to speak here, the fourth first ladies meeting she has attended.

"For her, it's a very difficult situation, but she is facing these facts with great dignity, I think," said Maria Elena Ovalle, an economist and member of Chile's central bank.

> Saint Mary's College and the Lilly Fellows Annual Conference present

Mrs. Clinton, on a four-day trip that will also take her to Uruguay, flew here after touring damage in Puerto Rico caused by Hurricane Georges.

Her day began with a visit to an art museum, where she and the other first ladies viewed an exhibit of art created by Chilean children under the guidance of professional artists from each of the countries represented at the conference.

"What a wonderful idea!" Mrs. Clinton enthused, her arm around Chilean first lady Marta Larraeches de Frei, who had suggested the exhibit.

The first ladies tousled the hair of some of the young artists and chatted with them before strolling around the garden, greeting the professional artists along the way. The U.S. artist, 50-year-old Jesse Trevino of San Antonio, who was chosen by a presidential commission, got an effusive welcome from Mrs. Clinton.

"She gave me a hug and a kiss cheek," he said later, laughing. "She's like my hero." Trevino said he began draw-

four

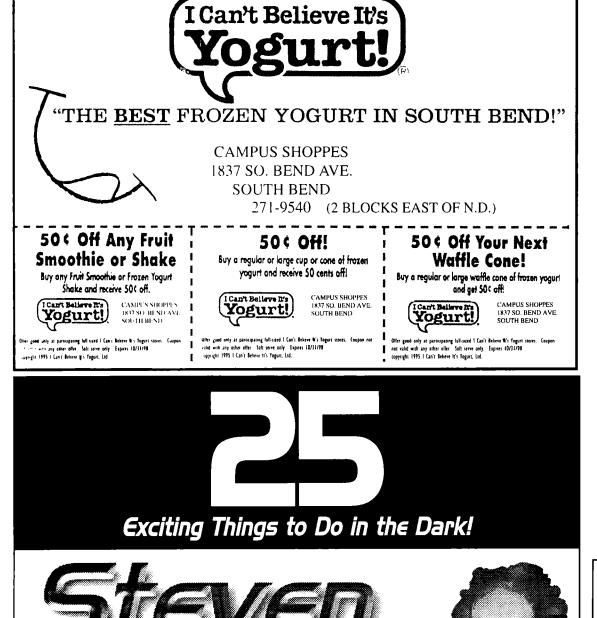

HILLARY CLINTON ing when he FIRST LADY was and stuck with it even after losing his right hand in the Vietnam War. "I spent two years in the hospital," said Trevino. "1 couldn't walk. And I had to learn to do everything with my left hand." Mrs. Clinton also spoke at a ceremony for a signing of two international agreements. One is a U.S.-Chilean scholarship program to bring up to 30 students from Latin America and institutions. The United States will provide $250,000, while Chile will contribute $125,000. The other is a $5 million U.S.financed program to bring American city and county managers together with their counterparts eleswhere in the Americas.

(A true comic original)

Wednesday, October 14, 8:00pm, $25

His delivery is deadpan, his manner stoic and he's the hottest act to catch today. Steven Wright brings his uniquely funny observations about reality to our stage. An Academy Award winner, a regular guest on "The Late Show with David Letterman," "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno," and "Late Night with Conan O'Brien," Steven Wright will surely entertain you with his special brand of adult comedy.

THE MENDEL CENTER at LAKE MICHIGAN COLLEGE

The Mendel Center Box Office (616) 927-1221 Weekdays 10am - 6pm (EDT) and 2 hours before the shows.

The Mendel Center is located on the campus of Lake Michigan College. Exit 30 off I-94. Free Lighted Parking

TICKET SON'S, REPEAT THE BEAT

Music, the Creative Process and the Path of Enlightenment

A Lecture/Performance by Pianist Lorin Hollander

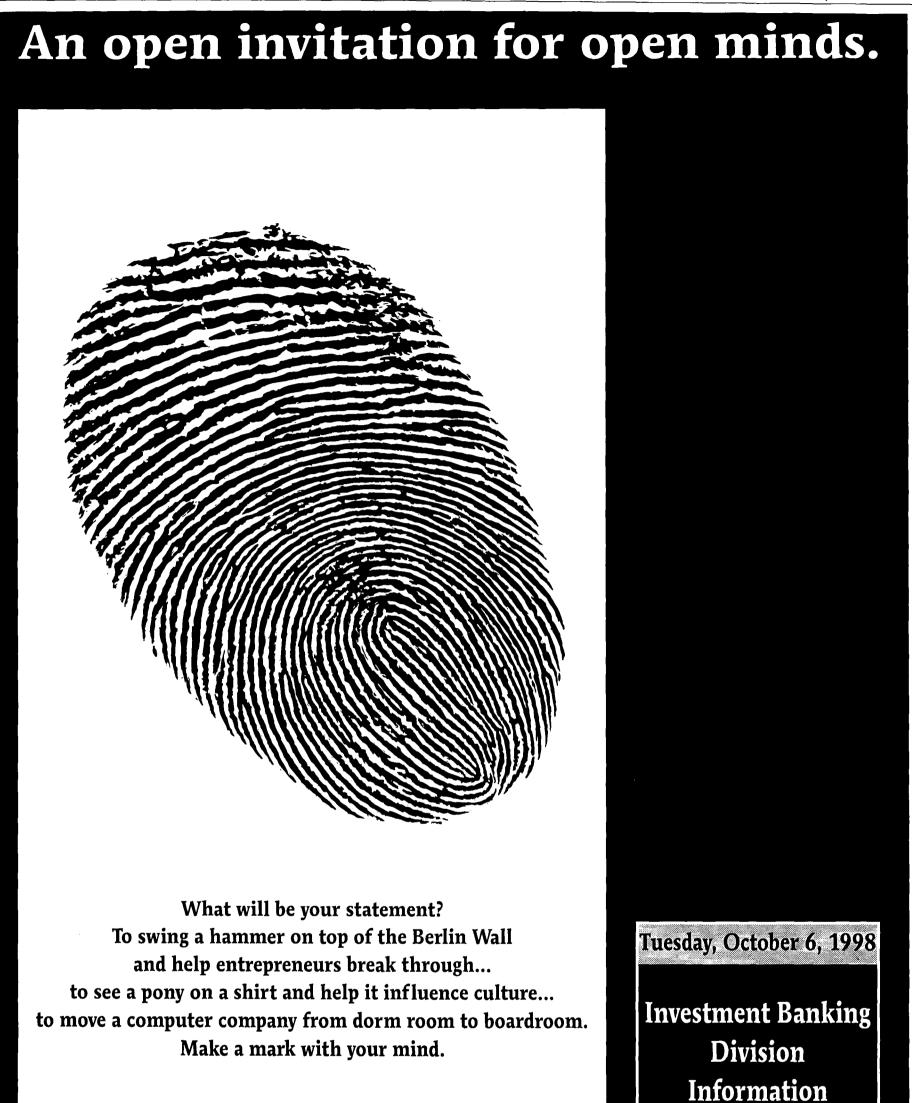

Friday, October 9, 1998 at 8 p.m. Moreau Center • O'Laughlin Auditorium

> This event is free and open to the public. For further invormation call (219) 284-4626.

page 8

Thursday, October 1, 1998

MINDS. WIDE OPEN.[™]

www.gs.com

Goldman Sachs, an equal opportunity employer, does not discriminate in employment on any basis that is prohibited by federal, state or local law.

Session for Undergraduates 7:30 pm - 9:00 pm Morris Inn Notre Dame Room

Casual Attire

43216 Notre Dame 10/6 Ad

The Observer • INTERNATIONAL NEWS

■ NETHERLANDS

Crashed jet spills chemicals

Associated Press

AMSTERDAM An Israeli cargo jet that crashed in Amsterdam six years ago was carrying chemicals used to produce the deadly sarin nerve gas, a Dutch newspaper reported Wednesday.

The El Al plane was carrying 50 gallons of the chemical identified as dimethyl methylphosphonate when it crashed into an apartment block outside Amsterdam in 1992, according to the respect-ed national daily NRC Handelsblad.

Citing a freight document, the newspaper said the chemical came from an American company in Pennsylvania and was headed for the Israel Institute for Biological Research in Ness Ziona near Tel Aviv.

The U.S. company was iden-tified as Solkatronic Chemicals Inc., which was bought this year by Air Products and Chemicals Inc., of Allentown, Pa.

spokesman, confirmed Solkatronic sold 480 pounds of the chemical to the Israeli government. Morth said the Israelis claimed the chemical would be used to test absorption filters.

A copy of the freight document was printed on the front page of the Dutch newspaper, which did not say how it acquired the papers.

El Al spokesman Nahman Klieman said the cargo manifests were turned over to Dutch authorites immediately after the accident.

He also said that El Al flies all cargo materials in accordance with international regulations.

However, Klieman would not comment when asked whether chemicals used for making the nerve gas sarin were aboard the plane when it crashed over Amsterdam six years ago.

Nearly six years after the accident, controversies still surround the plane's cargo, despite repeated investigations.

Ahead of the report, the Steve Morth, a company Dutch parliament announced it will launch a parliamentary inquiry into the accident.

According to NRC, the amount of dimethyl methylphosphonate on board was enough to produce up to 594 pounds of the nerve gas.

The raw material also is used in building materials as a flame retardant.

Four main components are needed for the production of sarin and three of them were on board the El Al jet, the newspaper said.

The newspaper said it was not clear whether the burning of these chemicals following the accident was to blame for health complaints by residents near the crash site.

The Boeing 747-200 crashed into an apartment complex in southern Amsterdam on Oct. 4, 1992, killing 43 people. Israeli officials said earlier the plane did not carry any dangerous materials.

A spokesman for the Dutch Transport Ministry declined comment on the report, saying all the details were announced previously.

Storm hits S. Korea, hurts crops

Associated Press

SEOUL, South Korea Tropical Storm Yanni killed at least 13 people and left dozens others missing in South Korea, before moving into the Sea of Japan on early this morning, government officials said.

The storm washed away rail lines and highways, flooded vast residential areas and inundated 622,000 acres of rice paddies — a quarter of South Korea's total crop land.

"A considerable reduction in rice production is feared because the damage was done only a few weeks before harvest was to begin," Lee Eun-ho, an Agriculture Ministry official, told Ministry MBC-TV.

BOOK SEARCH ✓ Used, rare and out-of-print books ✓ Initial cost of $2.00 Nationally - circulated ad

RECENTLY, MORNINGSTAR CALLED US CHEAP. IT'S NOT EVERY DAY YOU GET A COMPLIMENT LIKE THAT.

PRINCIPLES of SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

Il financial companies charge operating fees An and expenses - some more than others. Of course, the lower the expenses you pay, the better. That way, more of your money goes where it should-towards building a comfortable future.

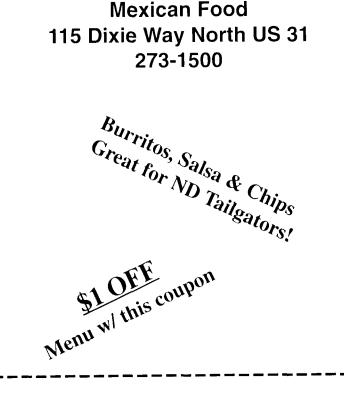

We make low expenses a top priority.

As the largest retirement system in the world'-a nonprofit company focused exclusively on the financial needs of the educational and research communities - our expenses are among the lowest in the insurance and mutual fund industries.² In fact, TIAA-CREF's 0.31% average fund expenses are less than half of the expense charges of comparable funds.3 It's why Morningstarone of the nation's leading sources of annuity and mutual fund information - says, "At that level [TIAA-CREF] is cheaper than any other

[variable annuity] policy, and is even competitive with the cheapest mutual fund complexes, though it offers far more benefits."4

"TIAA-CREF sets the standard in the financial services industry."

Of course, expenses are only one factor to consider when you make an investment decision. Morningstar also noted our commitment to "consumer education, service" and "solid investment performance." Because that can make a difference in the long run, too. At TIAA-CREF, we believe people would like to spend more in retirement, not on their retirement company. Today, over two million people count on that approach to help them build a comfortable and secure future. So can you. To find out more, call us at 1 800 842-2776. We'd consider it a compliment.

RAPHAEL'S

Visit us on the Internet at www.tiaa-cref.org

Ensuring the future for those who shape it.[™]

Based on $236 billion in assets under management. 2. Standard of Poor's Insurance Rating Analysis, 1998; Lipper Analytical Services, Inc., Import-Directors' Analytical Data 1998 (Quarterly). 3. Of the 4,829 variable annuities tracked by Morningstar, the average fund had total fees combining annual expenses of 0.82% plus an insurance expense of 1.27%. Source: Morningstar, Inc., for periods ending 7/31/98.
 4. Source: Morningstar Principia Variable Annuities/Life 4/30/98.

TIAA-CREF expenses are subject to change and are not guaranteed for the future. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. TIAA-CREF Individual and Institutional Services distributes CREF certificates and interests in the TIAA Real Estate Account. For more complete information, including charges and expenses, call 1 800 842-2776, extension 5509, for the prospectuses. Read them carefully before you invest or send money.

1	✓ Success rate of 50%	Ľ
\mathfrak{P}	✓ Time required: 2 months	É
Ø.	ERASMUS BOOKS Open noon to six ij	•	þ
ų	Tuesday through Sunday	P
19	1027 E. Wayne	P
	South Bend, IN 46617
7	(219) 232-8444	Ē
(\mathfrak{s})		Ę
		_

Are you willing to speak out about sexual assault or rape? Do you have a story to share? Campus Alliance for Rape Elimination would like your help at the Take Back the Night March. Please call Lori at 284-5187. Thank you.

student union HAPPENINGS

STUDENT UNION BOARD

Movie: Truman Sho	w
10/01.	Thursday.	Cushing Auditorium.	1030PM.	Tickets: $2.
10/02.	Friday.	Cushing Auditorium.	0800PM & 1030PM.
10/03.	Saturday.	Cushing Auditorium.	0800PM & 1030PM.
Acousticafe.
10/01.	Thursday.	LaFortune Huddle.	0900PM-1200AM.
First Fridays.
10/02.	Friday.	LaFortune Notre Dame Room.	1200PM-0200PM.	Co-sponsored by SUB and OMSA.
1) 4) 4) 1	• 1			Friends and free food.
Hula Dance Works	hop.
10/07.	Wednesday.	LaFortune Ballroom.	0900PM-1100PM.	2 instructors teaching hula moves. Absolutely FREE.

HPC (HALL PRESIDENTS' COUNCIL)

Manor Unplugged 10/02.	l. Friday.	Morrissey Hall.	0300PM-0545PM.
Camp Lewis. 10/04-10/	09. Sunday-Friday.	Lewis Hall.
Pep Rally. 10/02.	Friday.	JACC.	0700PM.

CCC (CLUB COORDINATION COUNCIL)

 American Chemical Society: General Meeting.

 10/01.
 Thursday.

 Nieuwland Science Hall.
 0730PM.

 NASAND Landscape Exhibition.

 10/04.
 Sunday.

 Snite Museum of Art.

CLASS OF 2001

Concession Stand. 10/03. Saturday. By

By Alumni Hall.

LaFortune Ballroom.

Class Dinner with "Who's Yo Daddy." 10/06. Tuesday.

CLASS OF 2000

Class Mass. ~ 10/04.

Sunday.

Keenan-Stanford Chapel.

hapel. 0700PM.

Fr. Baxter will preside.

Class Dinner. 10/07.

Wednesday.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Saferide. 631-9888.

10/01.	Thursday.
10/02.	Friday.
10/03.	Saturday.

Where the Action Is. Where the Action Is. Where the Action Is. 1000PM-0200AM. 1000PM-0300AM. 1000PM-0300AM.

0600PM-0800PM.

Can be used with invisible tape as tattoos.

[Submissions for next week's tattoos can be sent via campus mail to SUB, 201 LaFortune]

234567890123456789012345678901234567890123456789012345678901234567

The Observer • NEWS

North Korea expels international aid group

Associated Press

HONG KONG

North Korea has ordered the charity group Doctors Without Borders to stop treating sick and starving people in the secretive communist nation, forcing the group to pull out in protest, the charity said Wednesday.

The Paris-based group is joining at least two other agencies that have recently withdrawn staff from North Korea, frustrated by restrictions on how they can operate and where they can go.

In the case of Doctors Without Borders, North Korean officials had asked the group not to focus on treating the sick, but to supply raw materials and chemicals to the country's pharmaceutical plants, the group said.

"They do not acknowledge the fact that there is huge humanitarian need because of a 3-year-long famine," said Dr. Dominique Lafontaine of the charity. The group recently withdrew 11 of its 13 professionals, including nine doctors, when talks with the communist government broke down. It said the last two were leaving Wednesday.

Kim Myong Gil, counsellor at North Korea's U.N. mission in New York, said he was not familiar with the specifics of the group's complaints.

But he said his government provides access to areas that can receive donations, while some regions are closed for security reasons.

to the bottom.

About a half-dozen relief agencies have been helping North Korea cope with the famine that has left the country's 23 million people largely dependent on foreign aid.

Groups that have left recently include the Paris-based Doctors of the World and Chesci, an Italian medical and agricultural aid organization.

Food shortages and a collapsed economy appear to have left every sector of the nation's economy in ruins, except the gigantic military that North Korea maintains. Two years of flooding and a drought have devastated the country's inefficient state-run farming system.

Doctors Without Borders had operated health centers in four provinces north of the capital, Pyongyang, providing basic medical equipment and medicine, and helping to train local doctors and health workers. The group also said it served more than 15,000 children at 64 feeding centers.

Lafontaine described a grim scene in North Korea, where he said hospitals are so ill-equipped that abortions and appendectomies are performed without antiseptics, anesthesia or even gloves. Incisions are made with ordinary scissors, he said.

The international Red Cross is continuing its work North Korea, said Enkas Chau, a Red Cross international relief service officer based in Hong Kong. He said the organization has been able to cover its target areas across the country because of its working relationship with the North Korean Red Cross.

In Rome, Tom Shortley, of the World Food Program, said the situation in North Korea was difficult but gradually improving, and he hoped Doctors Without Borders would return.

"I think from our perspective — and we've always approached the children as our top priority — you have to keep engaged, you have to keep pressing the authorities for access," he said.

Worm-like tunnels surprise researchers

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Complex animals may have evolved far earlier in Earth's history than previously believed, according to researchers who say tiny tunnels preserved in rock in India were dug by burrowing, worm-like creatures more than a billion years ago.

The tunnels, about the size of a soda straw, are thought to be the oldest trace fossil ever found and probably were carved by worms that lived under the muck at the bottom of a shallow sea, Adolph Seilacher of Yale University said Wednesday.

A report on the study is to be published Friday in the journal Science. Multicellular animals made a dramatic appearance in the fossil record about 540 million years ago at the beginning of what is called the Cambrian period. Animals then developed skeletons, shells and mineralized bodies that were preserved in the fossils.

Before that, it has been believed, life consisted of primitive, soft-bodied organisms that left no trace in the fossil record. Scientists generally believed that life started some 4 billion years ago with simple, single-celled creatures that crept slowlyup the evolutionary ladder until there was an explosion of new, complex life forms during the Cambrian.

But Seilacher, a professor emeritus at the University of Tubingen in Germany, said that discovery of the worm tunnels in India shows that there were multicellular animals, with complicated and intricate lifestyles, more than a half-billion years before the Cambrian.

"This means that the birth of multicellular animals was at least twice as long ago as we thought," he said. "It means that animals have a much longer history that we once believed." The announcement, made at a German news conference, met with immediate skepticism among some paleontologists.

"It this were true, it would be very important," said Bruce Runnegar, a UCLA paleontologist. "I would like to see evidence for animals 1 billion years old. But I don't think this discovery represents the final, unequivocal proof."

Seilacher and his colleagues found the tunnels, now eroded to mere meandering grooves, in sandstone in northern India. The rock was formed from sand that once was the floor of a shallow sea. Seilacher said he believes the worm-like creatures lived in the sand and fed on a mat of decaying organic matter that coated the sea floor. The organic matter, he said, probably was the bodies of microorganisms and algae that lived in the water, died and sank the tunnels seem to purposely follow the contours of the sea floor, as if the animals were feeding from below on the organic debris. Some of the tunnels have branches, he said, suggesting that the animals sometimes dug forward and then backed out to take a new burrowing path.

Seilacher said the path of

This, he said, suggests a complex life form that had norves, instincts and senses. The shape of the tunnels, said Seilacher, suggests the animals moved by a wavelike action and could have been coated with a mucous that eased the passage through the sand.

Seilacher said the sand containing the tunnels hardened over time to become rock and this preserved the impressions of the tunnels. In recent geologic times, the rock has been lifted up and layers eroded away, revealing the tunnels as grooves in , the soft stone.

Wall Street Forum Your opportunity to learn more about: Investment Banking •Asset Management Commercial Banking •Insurance Careers for Business and Non-Business Majors

Wednesday, October 7th, 1998

College of Business Administration 3:00 - 10:00 pm

Open to all Students

Dinner Tickets $5 On Sale: September 28th -October 2nd COBA 102 and O'Shaughnessy Advance Purchase Necessary

For more information call: Professor John Affleck-Graves at 631-6370

VIEWPOINT OBSERVER

page 12

THE OBSERVER NOTRE DAME OFFICE: P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 631-7471 SAINT MARY'S OFFICE: 309 Haggar, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 284-5365

1998-99 GENERAL BOARD

BUSINESS MANAGER

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Heather Cocks.

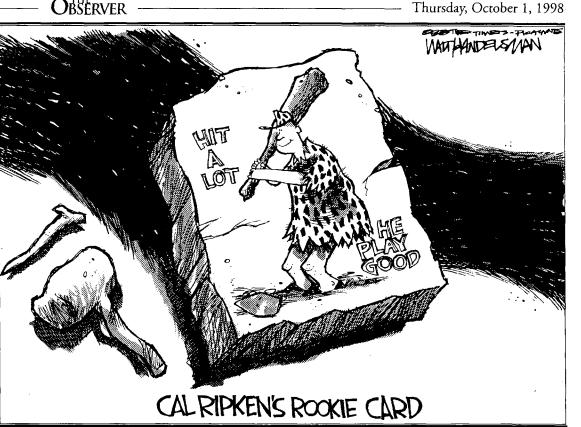

MANAGING EDITOR

Assistant Managing Editor Heather MacKenzie

NEWS EDITORMichelle Krupa	ADVERTISING MANAGERKerry McPartlin
VIEWPOINT EDITOREduardo Llull	AD DESIGN MANAGERBrett Huelat
SPORTS EDITOR	SYSTEMS MANAGERMichael Brouillet
SCENE EDITORSSarah Dylag	CONTROLLER
Kristi Klitsch	WEB ADMINISTRATORJennifer Breslow
SAINT MARY'S EDITORM. Shannon Ryan	GRAPHICS EDITORPete Cilella
PHOTO EDITORKevin Dalum

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, Assistant Manging Editor and department editors. Commentaries, letters and columns present the views of the authors, and not necessarily those of The Observer. Viewpoint space is available to all members of the Notre Dane/Saint Mary's community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions theauth letters is concurrent. through letters is encouraged.

Contacting The Observer
Editor-in-Chief	631-4542	Business Office	631-5313
Managing Editor/Assistant ME	631-4541	Advertising	631-6900/8840
News/Photo	631-5323	Systems	631-8839
Sports	631-4543	Fax	631-6927
Scene/Saint Mary's	631-4540	Viewpoint E-Mail	Viewpoint.1@nd.edu
Day Editor/Viewpoint	631-5303	Ad E-Mail	observer@darwin.cc.nd.edu
Office Manager/General Information	631-7471	News E-Mail	observer.obsnews.1@nd.edu

FOR A MORE JUST AND HUMANE WORLD Seek Justice, Give Hope and Get Dancing Lessons from DeWitt

"Morals, straight teeth, and four years of college.

The first time my father recited those words to me, I was getting fitted for braces. It was his and my mother's "mantra," the promise they had made to their children. At the time the most important part of the promise was the straight teeth, the morals being too vague and the four years of college too distant for my 11 years to appreciate.

Seven years later, the time came for me to choose my college. Notre Dame was my first choice. My brother was a student here and would come home with stories of tailgates, roadtrips and SYRs. I loved football and thought I had some pretty solid dance moves, so I felt Notre Dame was a good match for me. A few months later, I received the news for which I had been waiting. I was going to Notre Dame.

When I began my freshmen year, the formerly ambiguous subject of "morals" was now a topic of discussion in two of my classes. As I took my introductory courses in theology and philosophy, I realized that my parents had at some point instilled morals in me. While they were never wrapped in ribbon and placed under the Christmas tree, my parents had given me the strength and courage to recognize the distinction between right and wrong. More importantly, my parents had taught me that recognition of what is right and what is wrong was not enough. If something was wrong, you had to work for change.

It was at that time that I became more involved in service projects and student life. While I eventually served as a Hall President, my most rewarding experiences came not on campus, but from the Northeast Neighborhood yards south of campus. During a course I participated in entitled, "Theology and Community Service," I took part in a program in which we were paired with 'shut-in" senior citizens in the neighborhood. My partner was a 98-year-old man named DeWitt. Each time I visited him, he would greet me at the door dressed with a bow tie and his lucky shirt. Inevitably he'd ask me to dance; claiming he needed the practice in case a lady would catch his eye. We'd do a quick dance to the Glenn Miller Orchestra's Pennsylvania 6-5000 and then chat about South Bend politicians. As the visits continued, DeWitt gave me much more than an appreciation for big band music and then-Mayor Joe Kernan. DeWitt was also sensitive to the needs of his neighbors. He read letters for the 88-year-old next door. He served lunch every day at the Northeast Neighborhood Center for, as he would call them, "the old folks." DeWitt was a man who not only talked about serving others, but lived his words. My senior year I continued to visit DeWitt and served as the Service Learning Coordinator for the Northeast Neighborhood through the Center for Social Concerns. It was my job to recruit Notre Dame students to paint homes, clean up parks, mentor children and visit senior citizens. While some of the largeprojects received more a both on campus and in the media, the senior citizen visitation project was closest to my heart. I had learned through my relationship with DeWitt that serving others could not simply be an extra-curricular activity, it had to be an integral part of my life.

AAAAAA

Dame prepared me for the position I took following graduation. I spent a year working in Chicago at The Children's Place Association. The Children's Place is the Midwest's only residential center for the treatment of AIDS-affected children. I watched as friends and classmates worked as accountants and consultants during the day and volunteered at the Homeless Hotline, Catholic Charities and AIDS Ministries in the evening. My friends and I struggled with integrating our commitment to social justice into our career plans and goals.

After a year at The Children's Place, I realized that I needed to continue mv education. While could rock AIDSaffected babies to sleep at night or provide after-school programming for toddlers, I recognized that I would be able to affect the lives of more individuals if I worked to change underlying structures and policies. I

Many of my classmates feel the same way, and I know we will continue to struggle with how to integrate our desire to work for social change with jobs, families and other commitments.

As the Assistant Rector of McGlinn Hall, residents have asked me similar questions. First year students have shared with me that they refrain from participating in service activities for fear of academic time constraints. I appreciate and understand their concerns but hope they are not waiting for more free time to get involved. As I have learned, time constraints do not lessen after graduation.

I have also spoken with a number of McGlinn residents who do take the time to work in the community. I see their excitement when they return from a day of tutoring or an evening of sharing at a nursing home. Most importantly, I see how the upperclassmen's compassion and commitment to service affects the first year students. I am witnessing the formation of a new generation of Notre Dame students who will leave the campus, leave South Bend and will continue a tradition of service and commitment to social change. I hope that these students will continue to integrate the challenge of working for social justice into their lives regardless of their chosen professions.

I am grateful for the gifts given to me by my parents, friends and Notre Dame, but I know theses gifts must be shared, nurtured, and employed. To show my appreciation I have made a promise to myself.

'Seek justice, work for change, and get dancing lessons for DeWitt.'

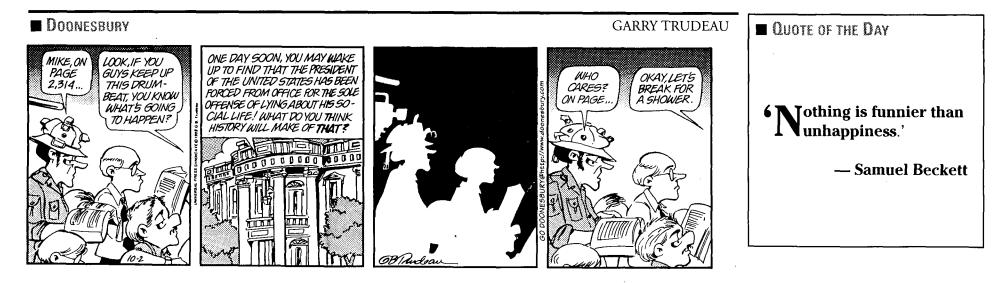

Karen DuBay is a 1995 graduate of Notre Dame and is currently a third year Notre Dame Law School student. For A More Just And Humane World is a biweekly column sponsored by the Center for Social Concerns.

My education and experiences at Notre chose to enter Notre Dame Law School to prepare me to work as an advocate for social justice.

Although many members of the administration, faculty, staff and student body of Notre Dame Law School support working for social change, I worry that the financial burden of law school will limit my ability to work for the public interest.

The views expressed in this column are those of the author and not necessarily those of the Center for Social Concerns or The Observer.

VIEWPOINT

Thursday, October 1, 1998 -

OBSERVER

■ WE LEARNED MORE FROM A THREE MINUTE RECORD, BABY

Learning about Our Lives for the First Time Isn't Easy

How did this journey begin? I suppose it began one lazy day in eighth grade when I had just finished watching Pump Up the Volume; I took Christian Slater's role as the disaffected graffiti artist a tad too seriously.

I whipped out a can of green paint and some brushes and attacked my bedroom walls. I began with T.S. Eliot, "We shall not cease from exploration," I painted "and the end of all our exploring will be to arrive where we started and know the place for the first time." So there I was, a little traveler beginning in my secondstory room, the world ripe and waiting outside my door. Then it's Spring of 1998; my freshman year. I have caught the bug. The fever washes over me. My toes begin to itch. I don't know exactly why or how or where to but every bone in my body rattles with restlessness and I know I must go. There are things I must see; people I must meet; foods I must taste. So I begin to search. I find Namibia

Now it's a dewy Thursday morning in late August, 1998. Before l'arrive in Africa I will say goodbye to the United States in the most fitting way; a roadtrip. My older sister, Elisabeth, and I wake before dawn to cram our suitcases and a cooler into the back of her old, blue Subaru. In two days we will drive from Colorado to Kentucky where my sister will be working back in the green, green hills as a midwife and I will stay with friends

Her car is pitiful, but it moves faster than my mountain bike, so here I am, riding shotgun. She calls it the 'Peacemobile.' Indeed, the sole bumper sticker commands "CREATE PEACE." tell her that I don't think I'm righteous enough to drive this subaru as my lane changes tend to foster more should obscenities than brotherhood. There is a tiny little fan attached to the dashboard and a tape player resting on the parking break. The Peacemobile devours tapes. The Peacemobile is too environmentally and economically conscious to have an air conditioner. Somewhere in Kansas, in the 103 degree heat, the Peacemobile almost kills me. We frequent various truck stops that sell all manner of daily devotionals (including one advertising the Christian Woman's Weight Loss Plan. hmm...) and Doritos products so that I can get a wet pile of paper towels and lay them all over my steaming body. We turn the tape player all the way up but still can't manage to hear our mixtapes. All four windows are down, various undetermined (and most likely essential) car parts are jingling around somewhere and the Peacemobile sounds as though it's going to take flight or collapse into a thousand rusty pieces as soon as we hit 60. It's a Karaoke party on 1-70. We play the songs that we already know the words to; Indigo Girls, Joni Mitchell and a little Tribe Called Quest, since the singers voices are indistinguishable above the cacophony. On day two we find ourselves stranded on the shoulder of a Lousiville highway. We are at the mercy of the sweaty man, clad only in cutoffs and gold chains, who offers us a lift in the taxi he's taking. We are stuck in traffic - a bonding experience. Sweaty man is very angry at the world. He wants our poor grandmother cabbie to drive on the shoulder so we can take the next exit, he's like the mad hatter, running late for a very important date.

Unfortunately a semi is in our way. Sweaty man asks me to pass him his briefcase from the backseat so that he can get out his "laser gun." He tells my sister and I, fresh from the overheated Peacemobile, that he knows how to kill a man with his bare hands. My sister pinches my leg. He jumps out of the cab and runs barefoot down the highway to where the evil semi is blocking our escape. We can see his little red silhouette jumping up and down, yelling and being so very manly. The semi swerves at him. He runs back to the car. He asks me if I want to marry him. I say no. He asks me if I want to get a beer. While I contemplate this sterling offer he demands that we must take the next exit so that he can get a tank or a helicopter from the army base there.

'That's the ticket," he says, with a lot of swearing. "I need a helicopter so I can land on that [truck driver]." Yes, traffic enforcement through armed vehicles, I see the dream. Yikes. We thank the cabbie and our mother who is somewhere in Colorado praying for us when we get dropped off at the next gas station. I hide behind the potato chips until sweaty man gives up on me and leaves. Our tow truck driver is a chapter of his own. One week later I leave Kentucky rested and anxious for the semester stretching and batic. Their bodies are the rounded shapes of fertility and of joy. Their hands are rough. I do not know why they are so kind to me, the little American girl, who doesn't know how to sew.

Our conversation is half in English and half in Damara, their mother tongue. Damara is one of several 'click' languages and contains four distinct clicks. When spoken it is all stacatto and dancing, like birds chirping or fireworks crackling. Evelydia speaks a staggering eight languages. She has never gone to high school. They want to know what I think about Prince Charles and President Bill. My own inability to speak another tongue keeps me from expounding on sexual politics, perjury, the office of the President and the intricate weave of promises and principles that our judicial system is built upon. For now, I must listen. Albertina doesn't want Charles to marry Camilla. "She's too old," she says, flashing a three-toothed smile. Evelydia likes Clinton. She likes what he did in the Middle East. She's a Christian, she says, and as such she knows how to forgive. Then the two old friends giggle and shout in Damara. I hear 'Monika' and 'Clentun.' Evelydia switches back to English to tell me a story. She makes my mother tongue sound like a lullaby. Each syllable soothes me. She is telling a story about Jesus and how he knew that everyone was boyfriend or girlfriend with everyone and how those without fault could cast the first stone.

Her expression softens, her flying hands are now gathered in her lap. I sit. I listen. Evelydia wants to talk about the transformation of truth telling and the liberation of forgiveness. When it comes from the mouth of an old, black Namibian woman who has endured apartheid and still believes. I am compelled to listen. I am humbled. Clinton bores us after a while. Goodness, these wise women know, is the true mystery, ever generative, ever new.

"When I look at the sunset I say WOOH! What a wonderful world God has created us," Evelvdia says, "I must leave the house and go to the field to see the beauLETTER TO THE EDITOR Observer Move to SDH Truly a Tragedy I could not agree more that the move of campus publications to SDH is the worst thing to happen to ND since the resignation of Lou Holtz. For the Administration to move The Observer to this God-forsaken location is absolutely ridiculous and borderline stupid. And what terrific journalistic acumen for the editorial board to respond in like manner!

How can the Administration expect The Observer to continue to provide us with a good daily paper if it is in such an out-of -the-way place? What would the student body do without all three comic strips and a crossword puzzle to stimulate brain activity? And how can we live without the Wednesday SMC feature, which for some of us is the only reason to get out of bed on Monday morning? Most importantly (as the editorial points out), the news section will not be able to obtain any information without the constant flow of tips from faculty and students whose phones and e-mail accounts are simultaneously malfunctioning. What if they actually pass the resolution to let us bring backpacks into SDH and we find out a day late? Are we supposed to take this sitting down?

The editorial also suggests that if The Observer can't have the third floor of LaFortune, then Reckers should, so that those of us who live on North or Mod Quad - or, for that matter, any students who no longer want to use their legs - don't feel discriminated against. This is an excellent idea. After all, South Quad already has the Rock, half a golf should they get social space, too?

In fact, I think that in fairness to residents of all quads, we should move all of the important buildings on campus to the centrally-located third floor of LaFortune. The Library, for starters, would be of more use to more people if it were moved to the exact center of campus. Sure you can study at LaFortune, but what if you want to check out books? Don't tell me the Administration expects us to walk all the way across North Quad! What do they think this is, a pedestrian campus?

And what about the Stadium? The band should not have to march all the way from Bond Hall to the Stadium six times a year; nor should drunken alumni be expected to stagger there from the far-off bookstore. Why should the Administration force anyone to walk anywhere on football weekends, when we could easily build a new stadium/ bookstore/ JACC/ tailgating complex right in the center of campus? But instead, they fund the refurbishing of the Administration Building. I may be only a freshman, but I can recognize oppression by the proverbial Man when I see it! So, on behalf of the entire student body, thanks to the editorial board for standing up and showing the Administration that we students are not apathetic when it comes to getting whatever makes our lives more convenient.

page 13

before me in pure possibility

On the flight from New York to Johannesburgh, I am thankful that no one around me speaks English. I have much time to think, to read, to fall in and out of fitful dreams. In the middle of the night, the voice of our friendly flight attendant announces that we are stopping in Sal to refuel. In my sleepy stupor I think that she says "Seoul" and, "goodness," I muse, "Korea seems a little out of the way."

So here I am. I've been living in Windhoek, Namibia, for over two weeks now. The land is a lonesome sort of beautiful. The history is heartbreaking. Every hot day here unfolds in mystery. Everyday unfolds in grace. I'm sitting under a roof made of plywood and water-stained cardboard. I'm chatting over rose tea and mosquitoes with two older Namibian women at the Khomas Women in Development Center, where I have an internship, in one of the city's poorest areas. These mothers are weathered and strong. Albertina is a Herero. Evelydia is Damara. They are employed at the center to teach sewing ului sunset in Namibia.

"But don't go the field alone" she adds to me with a stern nod.

So here I am. I have hurtled myself through every inch of time and space. And it's good to be here. We are asking discomforting questions; essential questions about race and identity and culture and we are making the journey. Please come with me.

It's true. We travel and travel and travel to arrive where we started. And in all the exploring, I hope, my eyesight will grow keener from so much startling newness so that I may arrive where I started, at that blessing table, and know the place for the first time.

Mary Margaret Cecilia Nussbaum is a sophomore PLS major studying in Namibia through the Center for Global Education. She may be reached at cgest@iafrica.com.na.

The views expressed in this column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

Katie Freddoso Freshman, Breen-Phillips Hall September 30, 1998

page 14-

Thursday, October 1, 1998

THE WORLD IS ND Theatre students shine in 'They Dance Really Slow In Jackson'

By JULIA GILLESPIE Scene Copy Editor

Do you ever feel trapped in the Notre Dame existence of monotonous uniformity, where the majority of students seem carefree and content in a world oblivious to the harsh realities beyond campus, where people are not graceed with as many fortunate opportunities as our education allows us?

The upcoming play "They Dance Really Slow in Jackson" forces students to think beyond long lines at the South Dining Hall and hell weeks full of tests and papers.

The performances are Oct. 14 and 15 at 7 p.m., at Washington Hall in the Lab Theater. Admission is free and the show lasts about two hours.

Senior theater major Ricky Ramon directs the play "They Dance Really Slow In Jackson." This is the second play that he will direct through Notre Dame.

"I like to deviate from traditional Notre Dame themes and conservative issues, because I want to educate people on campus of alternative and diverse lifestyles beyond campus that others must face daily," said Ramon.

Students at Hanover College in Indiana first performed this play on their campus, but since then it has not been performed often.

The play portrays the struggles of a disabled young woman, Elizabeth Willow, who suffers from paralysis of the waist down. A talented freshman, Maura Malloy, debuts in this powerful role as the leading lady.

'This compelling play asks its audience to stop and think about people different from themselves and how their attitudes and reactions toward them affects those individuals," Malloy said.

The character Elizabeth does not feel confident in herself because adults and children in her working class town of Jackson, Indiana discriminate against her and do not take the time to understand her disability. Even her parents detach themselves from Elizabeth, who they refer to as "special." This further deepens her intense feelings of isola-

THIS COMPELLING PLAY ASKS ITS AUDIENCE TO STOP AND THINK ABOUT PEOPLE DIFFERENT FROM THEM-SELVES."

The people in Elizabeth's life do not trust her to

The stereotypes people share of Elizabeth limit

Although she suffers from a disability, she pos-develop her individuality because they wrongly feel her amount of freedom and detract from her image sesses many gifts and talents as a bright and determined young woman with goals for her future.

her handicap overpowers her," said Ramon.

tion.

of self.

MAURA MALLOY

The play traces her development from the ages of seven, 15, 18 and 24.

"They Dance Realyl Slow in Jackson" deals with how the six other characters in the play react toward Elizabeth's disability and how this makes her feel.

Notre Dame students performing in this play include Luke Brennan, Rachel Jones and Rob Sudduth — all of these students are familiar to Notre Dame theatre. Greta Zandstra of Saint Mary's College is also well-known in campus plays. Freshman Jared Marx will perform for his first time at Notre Dame in this play.

The action of the play unfolds on stage, which the crew designed as Elizabeth's bedroom, as she fights to define herself as an independent woman. It rests on a three-foot platform, which Elizabeth always speaks from. The steps leading up to the platform symbolically separate her from other members of society in her small town.

The small size of the Lab Theater enhances the emotional and dramatic mood of the performance because the cast shares a closeness with audience. This provides a more intimate feeling as audience members experience what Malloy calls "a disturbing reality check."

Students, faculty and other members of the Notre Dame community may enjoy the performance of the gifted cast and crew of "They Dance Really Slow in Jackson" and increase their understanding of the impact of discrimination on individuals, while campus groups simultaneously promote awareness of the handicapped.

PLAY INFORMATION THEY DANCE REALLY SLOW IN JACKSON' Dates: Wednesday, Oct. 14 &

UPCOMING PLAYS FROM ND THEATRE

- "Three Tall Women" - November 6 & 7 Student Directed by Elaine Bonifield

Thursday, Oct. 15

Times: 7:30 P.M.

Location: Lab Theater, Washington Hall

Tickets: Free Admission

- "Getting Wrecked" - November 18-22 Written by ND graduate Christina Gurman

- "Angels' Cradle" - February 10-13 By Theater Grottesco

- "School for Scandal" - April 14-18

- Student Projects shown at the end of each semester.

Center for Social Concerns CENTER FOR SOCIA For a More Just and Humane World CONCERNS Learning through Service and Social Actiony ENVIRONMENT 1998-99 DIRECTORY Foodshare UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME AND ◆ Recyclin' Irish SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE ◆ Students for Environmental Action (SEA) SERVICE AND SOCIAL ACTION HOUSING AND HOMELESSNESS GROUPS ON FINDING A MENTOR Broadway Christian Parish Center for the Homeless This directory includes more than 30 Center-related stu- Habitat for Humanity dent groups (*) as well as some 40 community agencies Hope Rescue Mission seeking volunteers. The agencies in green print have Project Warmin Service Learning Coordinators on site (see article St. Margaret's House on this page), For more information on any organiza-St. Vincent de Paul tion, see the description on the following two pages. Salvation Army South Bend Heritage Foundation ADDICTIONS YWCA Women's Sheiter Life Treatment Centers HUNGER CONCERNS Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) ♦ FoodShare YWCA Women's Shelter St. Vincent de Paul ADULT LITERACY Salvation Army Center for the Homeless World Hunger Coalition ◆ Center for Basic Learning Skills MEDICAL Dismas House AIDS Awareness/Students with Aids Training (SWAT) El Buen Vecino AIDS Ministries/ Aids Assist Literacy Council of St. Joseph County American Cancer Society South Bend Community Schools Adult Education Center for the Homeless St. Margaret's House Chapin St. Clinic YWCA Women's Shelter tunity to work at La Casa in a variety of roles. First Aid Services Team ADULT-OLDER Harbor Lights Hospice Milton Home ◆ Helpful Undergraduate Students (H.U.G.S.) REAL Services, Inc ◆ Hospice Chapter, ND CHILDREN & YOUTH Hospice of St. Joseph County (Also see Tutoring) Memorial Hospital Medical Explorers Big Brothers & Big Sisters St. Joseph's Chapin St. Healthcare Boys and Girls Club MULTI-SERVICE GROUPS Broadway Christian Parish Arnold Air Society (4) Casie Center Catholic Charities Center for Social Concerns South Bend Circle K International Community Schools Partnership ◆ Community Alliance to Serve Hispanics (C.A.S.H.) Center for the Homeless Goodwill Industries of Michiana organizations. Center for the Homeless Children's Group Northeast Neighborhood Center Circle K International World Hunger Coalition ◆ Council for Fun and Learning El Buen Vecino PEACE AND JUSTICE ISSUES El Campito Day Care Center ◆ Annesty International F.I.R.E. Home Right to Life Grace Neighborhood Center World Hunger Coalition Hansel Head Star TUTORING Helpful Undergraduate Students (H.U.G.S.) (Also see Children & Youth) Home Management Services

 Junior Achievement Club of Notre Dame Madison Center Manantial Ms. Wizard Day Program Team Neighborhood Study Help Program St. Hedwig's Outreach Center St. Margaret's House Student Tutorial Education Program South Bend Heritage Foundation YWCA Women's Shelter SuperSibs

 Big Brothers & Big Sisters Center for the Homeless Circle K International Council for Fun and Learning El Buen Vecino La Casa de Amistad Neighborhood Study Help Program St. Hedwig's Outreach Center St. Margaret's House South Bend Juvenile Facility

Community Parnerships and Student Leaders

One of the most important things that college students do is to identify people who are role models for them as they begin to shape the direction of their lives. The Center for Social Concerns offers students the opportunity to interact with people whose values and commitments have led them into full-time work in the not-for-profit sector.

The Center has developed partnerships with organizations in South Bend that make it possible for students to meet people like Eva Sanchez. Eva is the daughter of a migrant worker. She came to South Bend with her family and, after years of struggle, found La Casa de Amistad. Eva, now the mother of three children and a Notre Dame graduate, serves as the Assistant Director of La Casa. She is also a Service Learning Coordinator (SLC) for the Center for Social Concerns. This means that some of her time is devoted to helping Notre Dame students expand their education by giving them the oppor-

Currently the Center for Social Concerns works with eight Service Learning Coordinators in the community. These special people are available to help students find placements in their agencies (listed below and in green on the following two pages) that meet both the needs of the community based organization and the student. These SLC's are aware of the importance of finding ways to connect the students' real life experience with their academic work. They are all committed to making reflection a part of the student's experience in their

But even more important, the SLC's are themselves role models for students who seek to build meaningful lives as they study and eventually leave Notre Dame. It is a pleasure to introduce the Notre Dame community to some of the finest teachers in South Bend. The Service Learning Coordinators who work with the Center for Social Concerns are a great resource to students. SLC's also serve as resources to faculty by assisting them in creating course related community-based learning opportunities. The Center for Social Concerns is able to inform and educate students, faculty, and staff about community service and social action because of this valuable resource. The Service Learning Coordinators are willing and able to find the right placements for students who come to them either individually or as part of a course related assignment.

Service Learning Coordinators

Aids Ministries/Aids Assist

Kathy Eaton hey 234-2870

Youth Services Bureau CRIMINAL JUSTICE

University Young Life

YMCA

 Amnesty International Dismas House Legal Services South Bend Juvenile Facility Sex Offense Services United Religious Community

CULTURAL ISSUES Community Alliance to Serve Hispanics (C.A.S.H.) La Casa de Amistad

 Manantial South Bend Heritage Foundation

DISABILITY SERVICES Best Buddies Camp Millhouse Corvilla Council for Fun and Learning · 28" Certas ♦Logan Volunteers Madison Center Reins of Life SuperSibs

WOMEN'S CONCERNS ◆ Campus Alliance for Rape Elimination (C.A.R.E.) Home Management Services ◆ Right to Life, ND/SMC St. Margaret's House Sex Offense Services Student Advocates for Inclusive Ministry Women's Care Center YWCA Women's Shelter ONE TIME SERVICE OPPORTUNITIES

Student Tutorial Education Program (STEP)

YMCA

YWCA Women's Shelter

Youth Service Bureau

Christmas in April ◆ Circle K International Dismas House ♦ Habitat for Humanity ◆ Project Warmth Salvation Army St. Vincent de Paul

NOTE: Dorms, classes, or special interest groups may wish to organize special projects with groups or agencies listed here. For further information, contact Kathy Royer, Director, Community Based Learning and Partnerships at 631-5293.

Special thanks to Mike Daigler and Kristie McCann for their assistance in compiling this information.

Center for the Homeless	Matt Toohey
Chapin St. Clinic	Michelle Pete
La Casa de Amistad	Eva Sanchez
Logan Center	Rosie McDov
Northeast Neighborhood Center	Marcia
	Brown-Hump
Center for Social Concerns South	-

Bend Community Schools Partnership Tonya Sextor South Bend Heritage Foundation

Matt Toohey	282-8700
Michelle Peters	289-7662
Eva Sanchez	233-2120
Rosie McDowell	289-4831
Marcia
Brown-Humphrey	235-9675
Tonya Sexton	631-9405
Jessie Whitaker	631-3211

The Observer • CSC PAID ADVERTISEMENT INSERT

Community

Thursday, October 1, 1998

♦ AIDS AWARENESS / STUDENTS WITH AIDS TRAINING (SWAT) Volunteers give social support to individuals who are HIV+ by providing. support and assistance with office tasks.

> Student Contact: Rebecca Hammel @ 634-4171 Agency: Aids Ministries/Aids Assists; Contact Service Learning Coordinator Kathy Eaton @ 234-2870

AIDS MINISTRIES / AIDS ASSIST

Volunteers work with the agency to support and enhance the lives of those infected with or affected by HIV and AIDS

> Contact: Service Learning Coordinator Kathy Eaton @ 234-7870

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY Volunteers organize on-campus awareness raising and fund-raising events.

> Student Contact: Kelly Cavanaugh @ 287-1964

AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL Volunteers are needed for letter writing, petition signing, special campaign work, and informal discussions about human rights issues worldwide.

Student Contact: Brian Monberg @ 277-2767

♦ ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY Volunteers are members of a national collegiate organization of Air Force ROTC dedicated to interaction with the community. (Only Air Force cadets may join.) Student Contact: Angela Polsinelli @ 624-2594 6-

♦ BEST BUDDIES

Volunteers develop their relationships with persons with mild to moderate mental retardation by going to movies, sporting events, concerts, museums, and by participating together in recreational activities.

> Student Contact: Erin Lovell @ 634-1324 Community Agency: Logan Center; Contact Service Learning Coordinator Rosie McDowell @ 289-4831

BIG BROTHERS & BIGSISTERS

Volunteers provide shared time and friendship between a student and a child.

> Student Contact: Amanda Deerhake @ 243-5964

BOYS & GIRLS CLUB

Volunteers assist with tutoring, health and recreation programs for ages 5 through 18.

Agency Phone: 232-2048

BROADWAY CHRISTIAN

PARISH Volunteers help with the Sunday meal (cooking, serving and cleaning up) as well as the food pantry and neighborhood projects. Agency Contact: Mike Mather @ 289-0333

CAMP MILLHOUSE

◆ CAMPUS ALIANCE FOR RAPE ELIMINATION (C.A.R.E.) Volunteers are students and faculty/administrators from both Notre Dame and St. Mary's College. C.A.R.E. members make dorm presentations about rape on campus and sponsor rape support group on campus.

> Student Contact: James Schuyler @ 634-1539

CAMPUS GIRL SCOUTS, ND/SMC

Volunteers work with local Girl Scout groups as sponsors. Student Contact: Heidi Winker @ 634-1533

CASIE CENTER

Volunteers assist with intakes in this organization which provides advocacy services for abused children. Agency Phone: 282-1414

CATHOLIC CHARITIES

Volunteers provide support services to refugees.

Agency phone: 234-3111

◆ CENTER FOR BASIC LEARNING SKILLS

Volunteers tutor adults from 9:30-11:30 Monday through Thursday mornings at the Center for Basic Learning Skills in South Bend. Student Contact: Chris Hahn @ 631-5293

CENTER FOR SOCIAL CONCERNS SOUTH BEND COMMUNITY SCHOOLS

PARTNERNSHIP

Volunteers also give classroom presentations and work with grade school children as mentors and tutors. Contact: Service Learning Coordinator Tonya

Sexton @ 631-9405

CHAPIN STREET CLINIC Volunteers work in a medical clinic that provides services to low-income adults and families.

Contact: Service Learning Coordinator Michelle Peters @ 289-7662

♦ CHRISTMAS IN APRIL Volunteers upgrade neighborhood homes and lift residents' spirits. Contact: Mary Edgington @ 631-4077

Volunteers work on a variety of service activities including working with children and neighborhood clean up. Student Contact: Matthew Banach @ 634-3807

♦ COMMUNITY ALLIANCE TO SERVE HISPANICS (CASH)

Volunteers reach out to the Hispanic community of South Bend through a variety of service activities, educational programs, and cultural awareness projects.

> Student Contact: Jaime Ullinger @ 634-3456 Community Agency: La Casa de Amistad; Contact Service Learning Coordinator Eva Sanchez @ 233-2120

CORVILLA, INC.

Volunteers develop one-to-one relationships with Corvilla residents. Corvilla is a home for persons with mental retardation. Agency Phone: 289-9779

COUNCIL FOR FUN AND

LEARN ING

Volunteers work with learning disabled children every Saturday morning at the Children's Dispensary.

DISMAS HOUSE

Volunteers are needed to cook for the residents on weeknights. Students are also needed to live at Dismas House. Agency Phone: 233-8522

EL BUEN VECINO

Volunteers tutor people in English and help them study for their high school equivalency. They also help with child care and work with mothers to teach money management skills and health and nutrition information.

Agency Phone: 287-8228

EL CAMPITO DAY CARE CENTER

Volunteers act as role models for young children from single parent families. Volunteers also assist regular • FOODSHARE Volunteers deliver, in groups of four or five, the leftover food from the campus dining halls to the Center for the Homeless and Hope Rescue Mission in South Bend. Student Contact: Julia Dayton @ 634-1393

Partnersh

GOODWILL INDUSTRIES OF MICHIANA

Volunteers help with half-price sales at Goodwill stores. Agency Contact: Joan Wesolowski - 234-1661

GRACE NEIGHBORHOOD CENTER

Volunteers work with children in an after school program. Agency Phone: 232-0181

◆ HABITAT FOR HUMANITY

Volunteers work on construction crews, donate materials, and provide meals for the work groups. Student Contact: Katy Fallon @ 634-1074

HARBOR LIGHT HOSPICE

Volunteers work with terminally ill people, especially in nursing homes. Agency Contact: Sr. Celeste R. Shoppy, IHM - 1-800-237-4242

HANSEL HEAD START

Volunteers are needed to work two hours per week with children on a oneto-one basis.

Agency Phone: 234-2150

◆ HELPFUL UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS (H.U.G.S.)

Volunteers work with the Memorial Hospital Pediatric Intensive Care Unit. Student Contact: Megan Marcuccilli @ 243-5607

HOME MANAGEMENT SERVICES

Volunteers help with individual counseling for women in home management, finances, etc. They are also needed to help with child care. Agency Phone: 233-3486

HOPE RESCUE MISSION

Volunteers serve meals to persons who are homeless and destitute, assist with the maintenance of the facility, and visit residents on a one-to-one basis. Agency Phone: 288-4842

♦ HOSPICE CHAPTER, ND

Volunteers visit terminally ill patients in their homes. Student Contacts: Sara Doorley

@ 631-2170, Rachel and adults on weekends. Agency Phone: 233-2202

CENTER FOR THE HOMELESS

Volunteers provide a variety of services to homeless adults and children.

> Contact: Service Learning Coordinator Matt Toohey @ 282-8700

CENTER FOR THE HOMELESS CHILDREN'S GROUP

Volunteers spend time once a week with the children who live at the CFH. Usually on weekends, volunteers might tutor, organize field trips and plan art and craft activities.

Student Contact: Laurie Friedman @ 631-2241 Community Agency: Center for the Homeless; Contact Service Learning Coordinator Matt Toohey @ 282-8700

day care instructors in planning and implementing their organized program. Agency Phone: 232-0220

FIRST AID SERVICES TEAM

Volunteers provide coverage for inter-hall sports, concerts, home foot ball games, AnTostal, Keenan Review, campus runs, and any other ND/SMC activity that requests the team's service.

> Student Contact: Jonathan Cook @ 634-3324

F.I.R.E. HOME

Volunteers work in a supervised visitation center for physically, sexually abused, or neglected children and their parents/guardians. Agency Contact Fran Anastasio-Quirk

@ 287-4375

Lustig @ 4-2170

HOSPICE OF ST. JOSEPH COUNTY, INC.

Volunteers provide support services for terminally ill patients and their families.

Agency Phone: 237-0340

♦ JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT CLUB OF NOTRE DAME

Volunteers teach three different programs at area schools: Project Business, The Basics of Business, Economics of Staying in School. Student Contact: Kim Smith @ 634-2978

The Observer • CSC PAID ADVERTISEMENT INSERT

LA CASA DE AMISTAD

Volunteers work in a youth and adult center on the west side of South Bend that serves the needs of Hispanics.

> Contact: Service Learning Coordinator Eva Sanchez @ 233-2120

LEGAL SERVICES

Volunteers serve as intake workers. The program provides free legal representation to low-income persons. Agency Phone: 234-8121

LIFE TREATMENT CENTER

Volunteers provide various services in the alcohol rehabilitation program. Agency Contact: Steve Newton @ 233-5433

LITERACY COUNCIL OF ST. JOSEPH COUNTY, INC.

Volunteers tutor adults in both basic reading and English as a Second Language.

Agency Phone: 235-6229

LOGAN CENTER

Volunteers work with disabled adults and children in a variety of capacities. Contact Service Learning Coordinator Rosie McDowell @ 289-4831

♦ LOGAN VOLUNTEERS

Volunteers assist with organizing games and doing arts and crafts projects with and for Logan Center clients.

Student Contact: Caly Nguyen -634-4191 Community Agency: Logan Center; Contact Service Learning Coordinator Rosie McDowell @ 289-4831.

MADISON CENTER

Volunteers assist emotionally handi capped adolescents to adapt to a normal school and community life. Other programs include Sex Offense Services, Children's Day Treatment and Children and Adolescent Tutoring. Agency Phone: 234-0061

♦ MANANTIAL

Volunteers are trained as mentors to Hispanic young people ages 8 - 15. Student Contact: Mariela Marin @ 634-1219 Community Agency: La Casa de Amistad; Contact Service Learning Coordinator Eva Sanchez @ 233-2120

◆ NEIGHBORHOOD STUDY HELP PROGRAM

Volunteers tutor at a variety of centers twice a week for a one hour period each time.

Student Contact: Chris Summar @ 634-1567

NORTHEAST NEIGHBORHOOD CENTER

Volunteers repair homes, sponsor a Neighborhood Day, which includes a cookout/picnic setting, assist people in finding homes, and tutor children.

> Contact: Community Service Learning Coordinator Marcia Brown-Humphrey @ 235-9675

◆ PROJECT WARMTH

Volunteers help collect, sort and distribute jackets and coats to share with individuals in need.

Student Contact: Suzy Tompkins @ 243-0247

REAL SERVICES

Volunteers visit the elderly. Agency Phone: 233-8205

RECYCLIN' IRISH

Volunteers organize throughout the dorms and facilities on campus the various recycling efforts, which include newspaper, glass, aluminum and now paper, plastic, and polyurethane. Student Contact: Gretchen Hasselbring @ 634-4692

REINS OF LIFE

Volunteers act as horse leaders or sidewalkers for people with disabilities during therapeutic horseback riding classes. Agency Contact: Sharon Burnside @ 291-4540

♦ RIGHT TO LIFE, ND/SMC

Volunteers focus on the national abortion issue. Activities include weekly picketing at the Women's Pavilion, dorm forums, trips to Washington, D.C., and a Right-to-Life week during the year.

Student Contact: Catriona Wilkie @ 634-2140

ST. HEDWIG'S OUTREACH CENTER

Volunteers help with tutoring and provide a stable role models for children who come from families that are in crisis. It involves one or two afternoons per week from 4:30-6:00 p.m.

Agency Phone: 287-0845

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL

Volunteers work in the thrift store to prepare used goods for sale. Anyone organizing a food or clothing drive can work through this grassroots organization.

Agency Phone: 234-6211

SALVATION ARMY

Volunteers provide food for Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter baskets for families in South Bend. Student volunteers can "adopt" a South Bend family through the Salvation Army.

Agency Phone: 233-9471

SEX OFFENSE SERVICES (SOS)

Volunteers work at Madison Center and assist victims of sexual assault and their families.

> Agency Contact: Laurel Eslinger @ 289-4357

SOUTH BEND COMMUNITY SCHOOLS ADULT EDUCATION

Volunteers work individually with adult students who are studying for their GED or simply learning literacy skills.

> Agency Contact: Gayle Silver @ 282-4000

SOUTH BEND JUVENILE FACILITY

Volunteers tutor, organize recreational activities, and act as mentors. Agency Contact: Rebecca Petit @ 277-3070

SOUTH BEND HERITAGE FOUNDATION

Volunteers work with children in after school programs. Volunteers are also able to work in all facets of neighborhood revitalization from planning to financial services. Contact: Service Learning Coordinator Jessie

Whitaker @ 631-3211

♦ STUDENT ADVOCATES FOR INCLUSIVE MINISTRY

Volunteers assist in planning programs that encourage dialogue about ministry especially how to make it a more inclusive part of church life. Student Contact: Susan Roberts @ 634-0700

♦ STUDENTS AGAINST DRUNK

DRIVING (SADD) Volunteers plan and present ed ucational programs and activities about the problem of drinking and driving especially as it relates to Notre Dame students.

Student Contact: Jennifer Imundo

♦ STUDENT TUTORIAL EDUCATION PROGRAM (STEP)

Volunteers visit the South Bend Juvenile Facility one night a week and spend an hour with a resident completing work or talking about con structive topics. The residents are also given a Christmas Party and a Picnic in the Spring which is provided by STEP and the Facility.

> Student Contact: Jeff Wincko @ 634-1676

♦ SUPERSIBS

Volunteers work with children who have siblings with disabilities. Student Contact: Todd Church @ 243-4715 Agency: Logan Center; Contact Rosie McDowell @ 289-4831

UNITED RELIGIOUS COMMUNITY

Volunteers are trained in mediation skills and work on special projects, the Victim Offender Reconciliation Program and the Advocacy Center. Agency Phone: 282-2397

UNIVERISTY YOUNG LIFE

Volunteers plan events to work with local high school students. Student Contact: Elizabeth Ayer @ 634-1535

WOMEN'S CARE CENTER

Volunteers help welcome pregnant women and couples by helping them gather the resources that they need to complete the pregnancy. Agency Phone: 234-0363

Ð

WOMEN'S RESOURCE CENTER

Volunteers provide assistance to the women of Notre Dame with issues and problems that are particularly acute for women, such as rape and sexual assault, eating disorders, sexual harassment, etc.

Student Contact: Marnie Bowen @ 634-0534

WORLD HUNGER COALITION

Volunteers raise awareness and support for the poor and hungry in the South Bend community and around the world. Volunteers aim to grow spiritually and mentally in their efforts to alleviate hunger and to have fun doing it. The group's main source of funding is the Wednesday lunch fast.

> Student Contact: Sarah Jacobs @ 234-4060

YMCA Volunteers tutor high school students.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL MEDICAL EXPLORERS

Volunteers work with staff at Memorial Hospital and assist with medical procedures. Student Contact: Krista Maizel @ 634-1365

MILTON HOME

Volunteers visit elderly residents on one-to-one basis.

Agency Phone: 233-0165

♦ MS. WIZARD DAY PROGRAM TEAM

Volunteers organize a one-day science fair in February for young women in middle school.

Student Contact: Mary Bertsch @ 634-1830

◆ ST. JOSEPH'S CHAPIN ST. HEALTHCARE

Volunteers assist in providing clinic health services for those who are medically indigent: Student Contact: Brigid Molen @ 273-6306 Community Agency: Chapin St. Clinic; Contact Service Learning Coordinator Michelle Peters

@ 289-7662

ST. MARGARET'S HOUSE

Volunteers help with children, answer the phone and serve as hosts for guests. Volunteers also help with literacy work, cooking, aerobics, spiritual groups and other activities that would be useful to the guests. The House is open to adult women and girls and boys under twelve.

> Agency Contact: Kathy Schnieder 234-7795

@ 634-0939

♦ STUDENTS FOR ENVIRONMENTAL ACTION (SEA)

Volunteers promote awareness of environmental issues amongst the student body and the South Bend community. We cooperate with the Notre Dame Environmental Task Force and environmental groups in South Bend to create environmentally sound policies on campus and off.

> Student Contact: Chris Wilmes @ 233-6372

STUDENTS FOR RESPONSIBLE BUSINESS

Volunteers assist not-for-profit organizations in South Bend using their business expertise.

Student Contact: Jason Moskowitz @ 273-9227

Agency Phone: 287-9622

YWCA WOMEN'S SHELTER

Volunteers listen, provide transportation, tutor, and work with children and to perform other important services at the shelter. Volunteers may also serve at the Women's Journey Chemical Dependency Program Agency Phone: 233-9491

YOUTH SERVICES BUREAU

Volunteers work in a temporary shelter care facility serving youth in crisis. Agency Phone: 235-9231

Key:

Organizations in green have Service Learning Coordinators on site

◆ Student Groups

 \sim

N.S

For a More Just and Humane World

Learning through Service and Social Action/

Student Government Service Commissioners

FOF

Α

Student Government Service Commissioners provide leadership in organizing campus-wide service and social action projects.

Emily Schmitt	4-3475
Maggie Wood	4-1480
Peter Cesaro	4-4698
Andrea Selak	4-0584

Hospitality is an important part of the Center's work and presence on campus. Center hospitality includes: a coffeehouse and kitchen, a large multipurpose room, seminar rooms, a resource room, a library, a reflection room, and vehicles. These facilities are available for use by approved student and community groups. Contact the Center at 631-5293 to reserve rooms for lectures, films, liturgies, meals, other gatherings, and to inquire about vehicle use.

Center Hours:

M-F 8:00 a.m. - 10:00 p.m. Sat. noon - 2:00 p.m.* Sun. 6:00 p.m.- 9:00 p.m. *On home football weekends, the Center opens 2 1/2 hours before game time and closes 1/2 hour before game time.

Please stop by! You can also reach the Center at 631-5293 or nd.cntrsc.1@nd.edu. Check out our web page at http://nd.edu:80/~ndcntrsc/ We look forward to meeting you!

The Center for Social Concerns provides educational experiences in social concerns inspired by Gospel values and Catholic social teachings Central to this process is enhancing the spiritual and intellectual awareness of students, faculty, staff, and alumni/ae about today's complex social realities, calling us all to service and action for a more just and humane world.

Experiential Learning Council

The Experiential Learning Council is designed to develop and enhance experiential and service learning opportunities for Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students, particularly through the student-facilitated experiential learning Seminars offered by the Center for Social Concerns. The organization brings together student leaders of each of the Seminars to create a forum for ideas, to coordinate planning, and to share resources.

The ELC is a imaginative organization that builds on student initiative to prompt learning and foster just actions in relation to the world.

Founded three years ago, the ELC is a developing organization that serves over 600 students a year. Some areas of focus for the 1998-1999 year are academic integration within the University, action for justice, and the development of new resources. This year also presents two new seminars: The Children and Poverty Seminar & The Civil Rights Seminar, as well as a collaboration with Campus Ministry on the Chilean Youth Seminar.

Experiential Learning Council 1998 Officers

Officers
Angela Anderson	Chairperson	4-1669
Matt Brummer	Secretary	4-1887
Katie Cousino	Saint Mary's College Liaison	284-4316
Clare Felton	Web Page Coordinator	4-3801
Marjorie Hill	National Communications Coord.	4-1523
Krista McCarthy	Campus Ministry & Theology Liasion	243-5341
Bridget O'Connor	Campus Communication	4-0550
Matt Renaud	Treasurer	4-1230
Jessica Smatlak	Academic Integration Coordinator	4-1543
		1 0005
Shaunti Althoff	Migrant Experience Seminar	4-2685
Karen Boselli	Washington Seminar	4-2770
Micheal Fierro	Coachella Seminar	4-1173
Adriana Gallegos	Coachella Seminar	4-4160
Maureen Hoover	Chicago City of Hope Seminar	4-4341
Jennifer Johnson	Washington Seminar	4-2744
Sherrechia Jones	Cultural Diversity Seminar	4-2468
	Civil Rights Seminar
Tom Kilroy	Appalachia Seminar Co-Chair	271-1901
Sarah Kolasa	Appalachia Seminar Co-Chair	4-2892
Arnold Lacayo	Migrant Experience Seminar	4-1712
Jenny Leary	Phoenix Seminar	4-0565
Erin Neil	L'Arche Seminar	4-3219
Suzanne Penny	Urban Plunge	4-1535
Amanda Roberts	Washington Seminar	1-9473
Nicole Shirila	Phoenix Seminar	4-1478

CENTER

SOCI

CONCERNS

Nursing Homes and Student Volunteers

Volunteers visit individual residents and help with group activities such as bingo and musical programs at the following nursing homes:

St. Paul's Retirement Community	291-8205
Holy Cross Living Center	259-5050
Holy Cross Care and Rehabilitation Center	271-3990
Countryside Place	259-1917
Healthwin	272-0100
Meridian-Cardinal	287-6501
Milton Home	233-0165
Portage Manor	272-9100
Tanglewood Trace	277-4310

'Cat on a Hot Tin Roof' in the Spotlight Next Week

Special to The Observer

Notre Dame Film, Television, and Theatre will present Cat on a Hot Tin Roof October 7-11 at Washington Hall. Reginald Bain, associate professor in the Theatre Department, will direct the first mainstage play of the 1998-99 season.

A masterpiece of American theatre, Cat on a Hot Tin Roof presents some of the most vivid and memorable characters to be found on stage. They struggle to survive the pain of their lives, their deep loneliness, their inability to communicate with one another, and their need for illusion to deal with the realities of human existence. Tennessee Williams said that he was attempting to "catch the true quality of experience in a group of people, that cloudy, flickering, evanescent fliercely charged — interplay of human beings in the thunder cloud of a common crisis".

The context of the crisis in this play is the impending death of the patriarch, Big Daddy Pollitt who, with his wife Big Mama, controls the "richest land this side of the valley Nile," and the fight for succession and inheritance of his estate. Brick Pollitt, his favorite son, has withdrawn into alcoholism and silence. Maggie (the "cat" of the title) has determined to find a way to save her marriage and secure Brick's inheritanc, which is threatened by the manipulations of his older brother and sister-in-law, Gooper and Mae, and their "no-neck monster" children.

The play presents these events in a uniquely realistic and poetic combination of people, events, atmosphere and thought that is the world of Tennessee Williams. In the bedroom of Maggie and Brick (haunted by its former occupants), this ritual of death and succession is played out as secrets are revealed, lies uncovered and new illusions created to deal with the pain of human experience. But Williams' vision here is essentially hopeful, as Maggie the "cat" says: "Life has got to be allowed to continue even after the dream of life is—all—over..."

Performances of Cat on a Hot Tin Roof will run from Wednesday, Oct. 7, to Saturday, Oct. 10, at 7:30 p.m., and Sunday, Oct. 11, at 2:30 p.m. Tickets are $9 for reserved seats and are available at the door or in advance at the LaFortune Student Center Box Office. Students and senior citizen discounts are available for all performances. For Master Card and Visa orders, call 631-8128.

PLAY INFORMATION 'CAT ON A HOT TIN ROOF'

Dates: Wednesday, Oct. 7 to Sunday, Oct. 11 Times: 7:30 P.M., Wednesday to Saturday; 2:30 P.M., Sunday Location: Washington Hall Tickets: $6 for students available at LaFortune Info Desk or at door

page 16

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL Marlins' Leyland to decide on future

Associated Press

MIAMI Jim Leyland says he'll have a surprising announcement Thursday, which may mean he plans to remain the manager of the Florida Marlins.

Or maybe not.

"I think we're going to shock the world," Leyland said Wednesday night. "That's all l can tell you.'

Most observers expect Leyland to quit and take a $500,000 buyout, rather than remain with a team that is in ownership limbo coming off a 54-108 season, the worst in the National League since 1969

Leyland, speaking by phone from his home in Pittsburgh, said he has revealed his decision to only his wife and their two children. He said he'll notify Marlins general manag-er Dave Dombrowski on Thursday. "I've thought about it long and hard, and I've made my decision," said Leyland, who led the Marlins to the World Series championship in 1997. There's been speculation that Leyland may be the next manager of the Colorado Rockies, who fired Don Baylor on Monday. Leyland and Rockies owner Jerry McMorris are good friends, and the Rockies have been awaiting permission from the Marlins to interview Leyland.

MAJOR LEAGUE SOCCER

I've talked to nobody about a contract, but I've got a feel for what's out there," Leyland said. "Nobody has offered me anything. I've had people inquire, What are you going to do?' But has anybody sat down and said, 'We'd like to offer you a contract."? Absolutely not."

Later, with a chuckle, Leyland said a reporter's questions about the Rockies job were "way off base. Leyland, 53, would be gambling if he decided to stay with the Marlins because the future of the franchise is uncertain.

Vikes' Cunningham loves the game

Associated Press

🗖 NFL

EDEN PRAIRIE, Minn. He used to check after every game. Where do I rank? What's my rating? Any chance for individual honors?

Randall Cunningham admits his 11 seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles were mostly about fulfilling his own goals, about looking good first and worrying about the team later.

That's changed during his two seasons with the Minnesota Vikings. A season in retirement in 1996 and a deepened religious faith helped Cunningham see there are far more important things than how good he looks on paper.

This week, for example, Cunningham was surprised when he was told he was the NFC's top-rated quarterback and had been chosen the conference's offensive player of the week for his role in Sunday's win at Chicago.

"I am appreciative of things like that, because I put my faith in God and I hope people understand all I have is faith,''Cunningham said.

"Here I was trying to do my own thing in the past. Retirement, that was my thing.'

Winning is his thing now.

The Vikings (4-0) have won both games Cunningham started, and he came off the bench to throw the winning touchdown pass three weeks ago at St. Louis when Brad Johnson broke a bone in his lower right leg early in the fourth quarter.

At Chicago, Cunningham threw for 275 yards and four TDs in a 31-28 victory. He has thrown for six TDs with no interceptions, and shares the NFL's top quarterback rating with John Elway at 115.5.

"You go against guys like Brett Favre and Steve Young and all those guys. Man, I'm old-timer, just an Cunningham said.

That's something his teammates frequently remind him, too.

"A lot of us younger guys idolized Randall when we were in junior high and high school," offensive tackle Korey Stringer said. "We're never surprised by anything he does. We expect it from him

Cunningham will face his biggest test of the season Monday night when the Vikings visit Green Bay in a matchup of unbeaten NFC Central leaders. Minnesota hasn't won at Lambeau Field since the 1992 opener, Dennis Green's first game as coach, and the Packers' 29-game home winning streak is just two short of Miami's NFL record.

There also is a chance Monday could be Cunningham's last game as the starter. The Vikings have their bye week after playing Green Bay, and Johnson, who still wears a walking boot to protect his leg most of the time, could return as soon as the Oct. 18 game against Washington.

Cunningham is more confident, more calm, more committed to doing whatever it takes to help his team fulfill its Super Bowl aspirations.

`Don't be too anxious about anything," Cunningham said, explaining his playing philosophy. "Just appreciate the great plays and come back from the plays that don't go so well."

Lassiter and Moreno lead D.C. past Miami for MLS playoff victory

Associated Press

WASHINGTON Roy Lassiter and Jaime Moreno scored goals as twotime defending MLS champion D.C. United beat the Miami Fusion 2-1 on Wednesday night in Game 1 of the Eastern Conference semifinal series.

United has won 11 consecutive postseason games since 1996, including a 7-0 run at RFK Stadium. Game 2 of the best-of-3 series is Sunday night in Miami. If necessary, Game 3 would be Oct. 7 in Washington. Lassiter opened the scoring in the 28th minute, and Moreno made it 2-0 in the 38th minute. Miami's Paulinho McLaren scored in the 69th minute.

United, 24-8 in the regular season, won despite of the absence of four starters, including Marco Etcheverry. The Bolivian playmaker, sidelined by a hamstring injury, is questionable for Sunday's game.

Crew 5, Metro Stars 3

Ohio Brian McBride scored twice and Ansil Elcock had three assists as the Columbus Crew beat the New York-New Jersey MetroStars 5-3 Wednesday night in the opening game of the MLS Eastern Conference semifinals.

The Crew will go for a sweep in the best-of-3 series Saturday night at the Meadowlands in East Rutherford, N.J.

The eight goals were the most ever scored in an MLS playoff game. The previous high was five goals, which happened six times.

goalkeeper Columbus Juergen Sommer had four saves, including three during a 10-second flurry of shots in the first half that protected the Crew's 3-0 lead.

McBride gave the Crew a 2-0 lead early in the first half with goals in the ninth and 11th minutes. His second goal was a one-timer off a pass from Andy Williams that hit the right post and went in the net.

Williams set up the play when he knocked down Diego Sonora's muffed clearing attempt.

Columbus added goals by Rob Smith and Jason Farrell and led 4-0 at halftime.

Eduardo Hurtado got the MetroStars on the board with a short goal in the 53rd minute.

Columbus' Ricardo Iribarren set up the MetroStars' next goal when he tripped up Hurtado in the penalty box in the 60th minute. Iribarren drew a yellow card and Mike Sorber knocked the penalty kick past Sommer.

lassifieds

NOTICES

THE COPY SHOP LaFortune Student Center We're Open A Lot!!! Mon-Thur: 7:30 am - Midnight Fri: 7:30 am - 7:00 pm Sat: Noon - 6:00 pm Sun: Noon - Midnight When you need copies, we're open!

Early Spring Break Specials!Bahamas Party Cruise!6 Days $279!Includes most meals!

WANTED

ABSOLUTE SPRING BREAK ... "TAKE 2 2 FREE TRIPS ON ONLY 15 SALES and EABN $$$$ Jamaica, Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Padre!Lowest prices!Free Meals.Parties & Drinks. Limited Offer, 1800-426-7710/www.sunsplashtours.com

I'm looking for 2 "Irish Comfort" tshirts for me and my dad. If you sell

1,2,3,4,5 BDRM HOMES. NEAR CAMPUS. AVAIL. NOW GILLIS PROPERTIES,272-6551

That Pretty Place, Bed and Breakfast Inn has space available for football/parent wknds.5 Rooms with private baths,$80-$115,Middlebury,30 miles from campus.Toll Road,Exit #107,1-800-418-9487.

BED 'N BREAKFAST REGISTRY

tic.$225 219-862-2082

content without issuing refunds

93FORD TAURUS Wagon, Power

TICKETS

I NEED GA TIXS ALL HOME

GAMES.272-6306 TICKETMART Inc BUY-SELL-TRADE

STANFORD game. Call me (Amy) at 243-0247

The Observer accepts classifieds every business day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Notre Dame office, 024 South Dining Hall. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is 3 cents per character per day, including all spaces. The Observer reserves the right to edit all classifieds for

Need 4 Stanford GAs x3501 Eric

Pretty Pretty Please- Need 2 GA's for Stanford Call Anne or Michelle 243-9371

Need Army G.A.s -not in student section-Call Stephanie @273-0893

FREE PHONECARD 1 per home.$25 activation.Send SASE:Brenda Horton, Dept.0, POB

Oct. 23 - 11am - 11pm LOGAN CENTER 1235 Eddy & Angela

For Info, call 257-0039

ATTENTION LESBIAN, GAY, BISEXUAL AND QUESTIONING STUDENTS Original student group will hold general meeting TONIGHT. Call info line for details 236-9661

ROOMS IN PRIVATE HOME FOR ND/SMC EVENTS, VERY CLOSE TO CAMPUS, 243-0658.

Beautiful brass bed,queen size,with orthopedic mattress set and deluxe frame.New, never used, still in plas-

AC 133K V.Clean $4290. Call 2773254

83461, LA,CA 90083

NOTRE DAME COLLECTIBLES

Sale & Auction

٠

Awesome Beaches, Nightlife! Departs From Florida!Cancun & Jamaica Air, Hotel, Meals & Parties $339!Panama City Room With Kitchen,7 Free Parties $129!Daytona Room With Kitchen $149!1998 BBB Award Winner!springbreaktravel.com 1-800-678-6386

"OWN A BMW" Earn $$ While you Learn 247-0736

LOST & FOUND

Gitano antique gold & brown glasses found in grass outside of O'Shag. Claim at Lost & Found in O'Shag

LOST - BEAR-SHAPED SILVER PIN w/TURQUOISE. PLEASE CALL 273-9695.

Lost on 8/28.

LOST steel watch with blue crown. Blue and black face. Very sentimental. $50 for return. X2254 them or have a few extra, please help me out. Call Michelle at 4-0562

SPRING BREAK '99! Cancun*Nassau*Jamaica*Mazatlan *Acapulco*Bahamas Cruise*Florida*South Padre Travel Free and make lots of Cash!Top reps are offered full-time staff jobs.Lowest price Guaranteed.Call now for details! www.classtravel.com 800/838-6411

Now Hiring NEW RESTAURANT/ WINE BAR The Vine 122 S Michigan St South Bend, IN (next to the Football Hall of Fame) Know a little about wine? Want to learn a lot about wine? Come apply as a server or bartender. Want to join an exciting new business and be a part of our team? Please apply within for all positions: servers, bartenders, cooks & bussers. Mon-Fri 9 to 5. Now interviewing info: http://Business.michiana.org/bnbreg 219-291-7153.

FOR RENT

THE PRIMROSE PATH BED AND BREAKFAST-LOCATED 15 MINUTES NORTH OF CAMPUS HAS OPENINGS FOR FOOTBALL WEEKENDS.LOVELY HISTORIC INN.FULL ELEGANT BREAK-FASTS.4 GUEST ROOMS, A/C, CABLE TV.2 NIGHTS REQUIRED.$99.00 Call 616-695-6321

Lg 2BR apt, 4 blks from ND. $475/ mo. 234-8017.

Bed and breakfast Football weekends two miles from stadium 219-277=6832

BED & BREAKFAST.Football weekends for ND parents.Two nights minimum.10 mins, from campus.272-5640

FOR SALE

PREPAID PHONE CARDS 198 MIN. $20 CALL 258-4805

Notre Dame Football Tickets 258-1111 No student tickets please

FOR SALE FOOTBALL TICKETS 271-9412

WANTED ND FOOTBALL TICKETS 271-1526

ND Ftbl. tix BUY-SELL 674-7645

ND Football-Buy-Sell.Seasonal and Individual Game Tickets. GA-only 674-7645

ND Football Tickets Needed. AM 232-2378 PM 288-2726

ND FOOTBALL TIX FOR SALE AM 232-2378 PM 288-2726

Always buying and selling N D football tickets. 289-8048

HELP!! I need TWO tickets to the

Will trade 2 Baylor tickets for 2 ASU tickets.Please call 908-722-7901

1 Stanford G.A for sale Dave x1902

2 Stan GA's 4 sale Dan 634-0951

2 Stan Tix. B.O. Leave Message. 273-1510

2 for Army & Baylor call Steve @ 901-763-7100, x4302

3 Stanford Ga's (together) for sale. Will trade for any remaining home game.42795

NEED 2 STANFORD TIX GA OR STUDENT 634-3006

PERSONAL

FAX IT FAST!!! Sending & Receiving at THE COPY SHOP LaFortune Student Center Our Fax # (219) 631-FAX1 FAX IT FAST!!!

UMPHREY'S McGEE makes their debut at the world famous

VIP ROOM

123 W. Washington St., above Bw-3

TONIGHT!

If you feel like you might be a very important person, then this could be for you.

> You better not shout you better not cry thats because i'm telling you why. Santa Claus is coming to town HAPPY NEW YEAR

You Make it Happen Global Graduate Career Opportunities

You've seen the headlines...now read the small print.

"Without question...an investment banking powerhouse" - Wall Street Journal "...a worthy contender to rival the American groups that style themselves as 'global' players" -The Times

In June 1998, Union Bank of Switzerland merged with Swiss Bank Corporation to create the new UBS AG.

The investment banking businesses of both banks came together to form Warburg Dillon Read* - one of the world's most significant investment banks.

As a world leader among financial institutions, Warburg Dillon Read has opportunities for students interested in joining an organization that has built it's franchise as the investment bank of choice, meeting the global banking needs of our clients. We cordially invite the students of University of Notre Dame to learn more about graduate opportunities on:

Wednesday, October 7, 1998 6:30 PM - 8:30 PM La Fortune Center Foster Room

All applications for graduate and internship positions can be made via our website. WWW.Wdr.com

We are an equal opportunity employer.

🗱 Warburg Dillon Read

*References to Warburg Dillon Read in the United States refer to Warburg Dillon Read LLC, a registered broker dealer.

page 18 📕 In Remembrance

Associated Press

cancer. He was 45.

tumor.

reliever for the Royals whose droll wit and funky delivery charmed fans and baffled batters, died Wednesday of brain

Ouisenberry died around dawn in his home in Leawood,

Kan., after a nine-month battle with the illness. He had undergone surgery twice since

December when sudden, persistent headaches were diagnosed as the most lethal type of people I've ever known," said

Atlanta Braves general manager John Schuerholz, who headed the Royals' scouting department 20 years ago when an undrafted Quisenberry had to Quisenberry, a three-time

All-Star, was the major league career saves leader from 1979-

85 and helped the Royals win

two American League pennants

News of his illness last winter

quick-witted

jolted Kansas City, where the Quisenberry had remained a popular and active member of the community. During his playing days, he devoted a great deal of time and energy to gathering food for the homeless and needy. While continuing that work since retiring in1990, he had also begun giving poetry readings in public guy who got all the ground balls and double plays," said Jamie Quirk, a Royals coach

"I don't remember him as the plead for a tryout.

and a World Series.

affable,

libraries.

"Dan was one of the finest

The Observer • SPORTS

511110 ON 123

Brain cancer claims life of Royals' great

Thursday, October 1, 1998

SPORTS BRIEFS

Domer Run - The annual Domer Run is scheduled for October 10 at 11 a.m. Race begins at Stepan Center. It is a 3 mile, 6 mile run and 2 mile walk. Pancake breakfast after the race. Register in advance at RecSports. It costs $6. Proceeds benefit the Catherine Peachey Foundation, Inc. for Breast Cancer Research. For more information, contact RecSports at 1-6100.

One Night Badminton Sign-ups begin Sept.28 for the one night tournament. Singles and doubles divisions. The tournament will be held on October 9 at 6 p.m. at the Rolfs Sports Recreation Center. For more information, contact RecSports at 1-6100.

Saint Mary's Track Anyone interested in track and field should attend a meeting on October 6 at 8 p.m. in Angela Atheltic Facility on the campus of Saint Mary's College.

Men's Basketball Season Sale - Get your season tickets at the Joyce Center Gate 10 Box Office for $44. Bring your ID and come anytime between September 30 - October 2 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information call 1-7356

Women's Boxing Notice Informational meeting will be held Oct. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Joyce Center Boxing Room (enter Gate 3 and the stairs down to the room are located on the opposite wall of the Football and Basketball offices. For more informatio please call RecSports at 1-6192.

and longtime teammate. "He was more important than that. KANSAS CITY, Mo. He was much more." Dan Quisenberry, a star Quisenberry came up late in 1979 when injuries devastated the Royals' pitching staff. Pale and skinny, he had an awkward-looking, submarine delivery and a sinkerball that bigleague hitters figured to murder.

Instead, they usually pounded balls into the ground, where a talented infield headed by ninetime All-Star second baseman Frank White scooped them up.

"You'd go, 'God, why can't I hit this guy?" Quirk said.

In a 12-year career, he compiled 244 saves — 13th all time. He was the AL saves leader five times while helping the Royals win pennants in 1980 and '85.

His 45 saves in 1983 was then the major league record. Between 1979 and 1985, when Kansas City beat St. Louis for its only World Series title, Quisenberry's 217 saves were tops in the majors.

'I lull them into a false sense of security by letting them watch me pitch," he once deadpanned. "If overconfidence can cause the Roman Empire to fall, I ought to be able to get a ground ball.'

The inveterate jokester's humor was usually directed at himself.

"I found a delivery in my flaw," he once explained after coming out of a slump.

During his 10 years in Kansas City, Quisenberry was a pivotal figure in many of the team's greatest moments. He got the save in the famous "Pine Tar Game" against the New York Yankees after Billy Martin protested George Brett's bat. And he got the victory in a 2-1 win over St. Louis in the sixth game of the '85 World Series.

"He was not only a very big part of the great success we enjoyed in Kansas City, but he was as fine a man as I've ever met," said Schuerholz, the Royals' GM during their championship seasons.

"The transformation from modestly successful college pitcher to dominant major league closer took place

Quisenberry's career statistics
YR	Team	IP	W-L	Sav
79	KC	40	3-2	5
80	KC	128	12-7	33
81	KC	62	1-4	18
82	KC	136.2	9-7	35
83	KC	139	5-3	45
84	КС	129.1	6-3	44
85	· KC	129	5-3	45
86	KC	81.1	3-7	12
87	KC	49	4-1	8
88	KC-StL	63.1	2-1	1
89	StL	78.1	3-1	6
90	SF	6.2	0-1	0

because of Dan's determination, intelligence and competitive spirit. When we lose someone like Dan Quisenberry, we

In 1986, Quisenberry's

sinkerball seemed to desert

him. Once-harmless grounders began turning into line drives.

He was released in 1988, spent a year with St. Louis and then retired after a brief stay with

Bret Saberhagen, his teammate in Kansas Čity from 1984-

1988, called him "a really great the San Francisco Giants.

human being.

have lost too much.

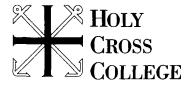

Admissions Office now open 8:00 a.m. – 12:30 p.m. on Notre Dame home-game Saturdays.

whole new world opened up one Saturday morning."

"That's when we visited the campus of Holy Cross College — and my daughter decided she had to go there."

Good decision! No doubt it was aided by the fact that they could talk with someone from our Admissions Office. It's now open on all Notre Dame home-game Saturdays. So college-bound students and their families who are in town for a game can get the full scoop on what our college has to offer. Of course, you can talk with someone in the Admissions Office any weekday. And, if you can't visit us when you're in town for a game, you can learn more about us at the Holy Cross Hospitality Table in Joyce Center. We're a two-year, transfer-intent liberal arts college with a knack for nurturing young minds and giving wings to young dreams. Stop by. And let us open up a whole new world for your son or daughter.

P.O. Box 308 Notre Dame, IN 46556-0308 219-239-8400 • Fax 219-233-7427

Website: http://www.hcc-nd.edu E-Mail: vduke@hcc-nd.edu

0 m h t. Ri g h 0 r ou, g h e t а r

CAMPUS MINISTRY 漆

Calendar of Events

Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament Monday, October 5, 11:30 pm until Tuesday, 10:00 pm, St. Paul's Chapel, Fisher Hall Friday's, 12 noon until 4:45 pm, Lady Chapel, Basilica of the Sacred Heart

Rejoice! Black Catholic Mass Sunday, October 4, 4:00 p.m. Rev. Richard V. Warner, C.S.C.

Freshman Retreat #18 (October 9-10) Sign-ups

Monday, Oct 5, Deadline 103 Hesburgh or 112 Badin, or see your Rector. Targeted Dorms: Carroll, Cavanaugh, Dillon, Lewis, Sorin, McGlinn, Pangborn, Siegfried, Zahm

Campus Bible Study

Tuesday, Oct. 6, 7:00-8:30 p.m. Badin HII Chapel

Seven Gifts of the Holy Spirit Part 3: Knowledge

Wedesday, October 7, 7:00 p.m. Log Chapel Lecture by Dean Carolyn Woo

Cross-Cultural Ministry

Career Planning and Preparation Seminar for traditionally under–represented groups Co-sponsored with the Office of Multicultural Student Affairs

NDE #52 Team Retreat

Sunday, October 4, 10:00 am-8:00 pm, St. Joe Hall

27th SUNDAY OF ORDINARY TIME

Weekend Presiders at Sacred Heart Basilica Saturday, October 3 30 minutes after the game Rev. James Foster, C.S.C.

45 minutes after the game (Stepan Center)

It's a Matter of Life

Jim Lies, C.S.C.

Some of you know, I was born eighth in a family of ten children. My parents had their first nine children in ten years. At our house, we used to joke that my dad would come home from work and ask my Mom, "What's new?" and she would reply, "Look in the Crib!" As big as my family is, however, most of you know that it wasn't that unusual in the days following World War II. Ten, twelve, fifteen, even twenty kids wasn't unheard of. It was a time when you simply took what was comin' to ya. My Mom and Dad didn't have much money. My Dad was a Catholic grade school teacher and my Mom was kept mightily busy at home, as you might imagine. But it wasn't about money, it was about life. And when my Dad died six months before their tenth child was born, and some suggested she give up the baby, Mom's decision wasn't about economics, it was about life. She would keep that child because it wasn't about convenience, or even security, it was about life.

This is Respect Life Week here at Notre Dame. And during this time we remind ourselves that indifference will never be enough. To sit idly by, will never be enough. But it isn't only about the major cultural threats to life that we have to concern ourselves. If we are as we say we are, "Prolife", then we need to promote and support life wherever we are.

It will never be enough to say that I am opposed to abortion, and then fail to care for the needy child. It will never be enough to stand in protest against capital punishment and not concern ourselves with the care of the death row inmate. It will never be enough to preach against euthenasia and never visit the sick, and the suffering, and the dying. It is no small task we undertake. We who call ourselves pro-life must stand up for life, for all life! We must stand in solidarity with thousands and millions who disdain the culture of death which pervades our time.

We must stand in solidarity with the millions of children whose lives were cut short by abortion. We must stand in solidarity with the young women who, out of fear, seek abortion because they see no other way out of an unexpected pregnancy. We must stand in solidarity with those whose lives are somehow deemed unworthy. We must stand in solidarity with the prisoner, and the death row inmate. We must stand in solidarity with the mentally and physically disabled. We must stand in solidarity with those who are sick with terminal or seriously debilitating illnesses. We must stand in solidarity with all in whom the sanctity of life is denied.

We are, all of us, called by God to stand together against death, and to stand together for life. In his 1995 encyclical, Evangelium Vitae, Pope John Paul II reminds us:

We are facing an enormous and dramatic clash between good and evil, death and life, the "culture of death" and the "culture of life." We find ourselves not only "faced with" but necessarily "in the midst of" this conflict: we are all involved and we all share in it, with the inescapable responsibility of choosing to be unconditionally pro-life.

Rev. Richard V. Warner, C.S.C.

Sunday, October 4

8:00 a.m.

Rev. Nicholas Ayo, C.S.C

10:00 a.m.

Rev. Timothy Scully, C.S.C.

11:45 a.m.

Rev. Thomas Doyle, C.S.C.

Vespers - 7:15

Rev. Peter Rocca

Scripture Readings

1st Reading	Habakkuk	1:2-3; 2:24
2nd Reading	2 Timothy	1:6-8, 13-14
Gospel	Luke	17:5-10

It is no small matter. It is truly all that matters! If we are to be truly pro-life, however, we do not stand only with the unborn, the prisoner, the infirm and the elderly. We must, as believers in the Lord Jesus, stand together for one another. We must acclaim and affirm the life in ourselves, and in others! It is for us to see and nurture and support the life in all those around us. We must stand with our enemies as well as our friends. We must stand with our roommates, with our professors, with our families, and with all men and women, regardless of race, creed, nationality, or orientation.

John Paul II urges each of us, in Evangelium Vitae, to adopt a new scale of values - to give primacy to being rather than having, to persons rather than things. "This renewed life-style," he tells us, "involves a passing from indifference to concern for others, from rejection to acceptance of them." Together, says the Holy Father, "we sense our duty to preach the Gospel of Life, to celebrate it in the Liturgy and in our whole existence, and to serve it" through "programs and structures which support and promote life". As Christians, we are people of life. Now, more than ever, we are called to live what we profess!

Major League Baseball

Smoltz tames Cubs in 7-1 win

Associated Press

ATLANTA John Smoltz's dominating performance on the mound was expected. Michael Tucker's power at the plate wasn't Smoltz became the winningest pitcher in postseason history, allowing only five hits in 7 2-3 innings as the Atlanta Braves cruised to a 7-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs in Game 1 of the NL division series Wednesday.

Tucker, who had just two home runs in the past three months and was dropped to eighth in the batting order, got the offense going with a tworun homer in the second inning.

Ryan Klesko turned the game into a rout with a seventh-inning grand slam against Matt Karchner, but the runs really weren't needed with Smoltz on the mound. He pushed his record to 11-3 in 21 postseason starts, breaking the record for wins shared with Whitey Ford and Dave Stewart.

Smoltz was picked for Game 1 based on his playoff success and a12-1 record in the second half of the season. The Braves' pitching is so deep they have 20-game winner Tom Glavine and four-time Cy Young winner Greg Maddux ready to go in the next two games.

Smoltz was 17-3 and had the best winning percentage in the majors during the regular season — a remarkable performance considering he had elbow surgery in December and went on the disabled list twice early in the season.

The Cubs, weary from a three-team wild-card race and forced to win a one-game playoff against San Francisco on Monday, were in a fullscale letdown mode, going down meekly in their first playoff game since 1989.

Through the first seven innings, Smoltz allowed only one runner past first -Sammy Sosa on a seventhinning double. Tyler Houston led off the eighth with a homer to end the shutout, and Smoltz left to a thunderous ovation after getting the next two outs.

Sosa, cheered each time he came to the plate, couldn't add to the 66 homers he hit during the regular season. He went 2for-4 with a double.

During the regular season, the Cubs had more success against the Braves than any NL team, winning six of nine an unprecedented seven straight division titles.

Mark Clark (9-14), a stopgap starter for the Cubs, pitched respectably in his first playoff appearance, pitching into the seventh and allowing two earned runs on seven hits. But respectable isn't good enough when going against Smoltz in the postseason.

The playoffs have become so blase in Atlanta that Game 1 drew only 45,598 — about 4,000 short of sellout at Turner Field. There were large sections of empty blue seats in the upper deck on a cloudy, gray day, the fans sending the message they don't intend to get serious until the Braves are in their fifth World Series of the 1990s. The Braves took the first step Wednesday with a surprising home run from Tucker, who hit a disappointing .244 and had only one homer after Aug. 9. In the second inning, Clark retired the first two hitters before Jose Hernandez bobbled Andruw Jones grounder for an error.

That turned out to be a critical mistake. After Jones stole second, Tucker worked the count to 3-2 before hitting a fastball into the right-field seats. Clark had a base open and Smoltz up next, but he chose to throw a pitch that drifted right over the heart of the plate.

The Braves added another run in the sixth on Jones' sacrifice fly, then blew it open in the seventh. After three walks loaded thebases, Klesko hit a 3-2 pitch for a grand slam that made it 7-0.

At least Chicago was able to rest Terry Mulholland and Rod Beck, who had performed ironman duties in the previous two games. Felix Heredia, Karchner and Mike Morgan worked in relief.

Cleveland 9 Boston 5

CLEVELAND Mike Hargrove went nose-to-nose with umpire Joe Brinkman. Dwight Gooden had to be restrained fromdoing the same.

And one of the wildest first innings in postseason history was just beginning.

The inning between the Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians in Game 2 of their first-round AL playoff series Wednesday took 37 minutes to complete.

It ended with Boston ahead 2-1 after a bizarre sequence that included 50 total pitches, three walks, two stolen bases, games. But the postseason is two passed balls, one hit batmore familiar territory for ter, one error, one sacrifice fly and 45,229 fans in a frenzy.

Cubs' rookie likely to start game three

Chicago's Kerry Wood, who hasn't pitched in a month because of a sprained elbow ligament, was put on the Cubs' postseason roster Wednesday and is likely to pitch Game 3 of the NL division series against the Braves.

The Cubs hedged a bit by going with 11 pitchers on their 25-man roster, but they expect Wood to be on the mound Saturday after an encouraging performance in the Arizona Instructional League.

"I'm excited to get back out there," Wood said. "It's been kind of frustrating of late to be watching the team go out there and play in some big games and not being able to be a part of it.'

Wood, who has been out since Aug. 31, pitched two 2-3 scoreless innings in the instructional league Monday, allowing three hits and striking out three in the Arizona game. He threw 51 pitches, his fastball reaching 95 mph.

Mark Clark (9-14) started Game 1 for the Cubs, and Kevin Tapani (19-9) will work in Game 2 Thursday. When the series shifts to Wrigley Field, the Cubs expect to go with Wood (13-6, 3.40 ERA), the only Chicago starter with an ERA below 4.00.

Wood tied a major league record in May by striking out 20 batters in a nine-inning game. The 21-year-old righty wound up third in the league with 233 strikeouts despite missing the final month.

"We're pleased to be able to activate him," manager Jim Riggleman said. "We're not sure how he's going to be control-wise. He hasn't pitched in a major-league game in a while."

The Cubs aren't planning a strict pitch count for Wood. Instead, they will let him work as long as his mechanics are sound. "It's not so much how many pitches he throws," Riggleman said. "It's the position of the arm when he's throwing. There's a certain spot that he reaches which is a problem. When he's not doing the mechanical flaw, he's fine.

UBS

Given the weary state of Chicago's pitching staff after a stretch drive that included a wild-card playoff victory over San Francisco on Monday night, a healthy Wood would be a major boost.

Ile pitched three times against the Braves - all Chicago victories— going 1-0 with a 2.18 ERA and 20 strikeouts in 20 2-3 innings. He has been especially tough at Wrigley Field, winning nine of 10 decisions with a 2.97 ERA.

Riggleman said he wouldn't change his decision to use Wood based on where the bestof-5 series stands after two games.

The only reason he wouldn't start is just if I feel Atlanta is swinging the bats extremely well against our right-handed pitchers. Then I'd go to (lefty Terry) Mulholland," the manager said.

The likelihood is that he will pitch. The decision will not be made whether we're down 0-2, up 2-0 or 1-1.

t Houston

"It's probably one of the weirdest things I've ever seen," Indians first baseman

Jim Thome said after

Cleveland beat Boston 9-5 to even the first-round AL playoff series at 1-1. "Our fans were cheering Mike and Doc

[Gooden] and booing the ump at the same time. It was Boston leadoff hitter Darren

Lewis walked on four pitches,

the first three of which were

The fans booed louder with each call by home plate umpire Joe Brinkman, and Gooden came off the mound

after ball three. Hargrove came out of the dugout and began a heated argument with

The umpire ejected the man-

Then came ball four to Lewis and a walk to John Valentin, triggering another chorus of

Gooden struck out Mo

Tuesday, but then Nomar

Garciaparra lined a double high off the left-field wall.

Lewis scored and Valentin was waved home. The relay throw from shortstop Omar Vizquel appeared to have him beat and catcher Sandy Alomar applied a sweeping tag. Brinkman called Valentin safe, but replays showed he Alomar said. Gooden went wild, and was quickly ejected

"Sure, I wanted those early pitches," Gooden said. "After that call, I told him, 'Hey, let's get in the game.' I didn't know

Gooden tried to get to Brinkman, but was steered to the dugout. Once there, he

"It wasn't even close,"

Vaughn, the hero of Boston's ager, who departed to a stand-close to the strike zone.

weird.'

Brinkman.

ing ovation.

boos.

11-3 win

was out.

by Brinkman.

he tossed me.

home plate.

hardly uneventful.

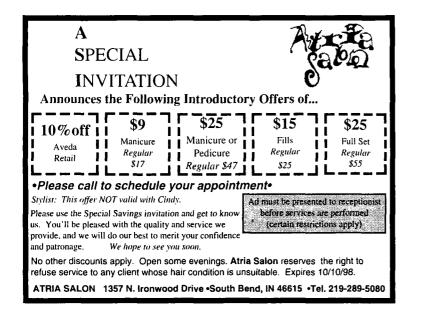

David Justice.

Associated Press ATLANTA

_Varitek, who struggled to corral two more sharp-breaking pitches.

Manny Ramirez was hit by

Sports Trivia

Q: When was the last time the Braves won the World Series?

9661 ∶Y

Former Senator Bill Bradley of New Jersey will lecture on

-America's Role in the Post-Cold War World-

Friday, October 2, 3 p.m. Hesburgh Center for International Studies Auditorium Senator Bradley's address is the third of five public policy addresses he will deliver on campus this fall. Live on the web at: http://www.nd.edu/~webcast

The Observer • SPORTS

page 22

Thursday, October 1, 1998

Recovered Elway vows return to game

Associated Press

DENVER A week off not only helped heal John Elway's ailing hamstring. It made him realize how much he missed the game.

Vowing he will start in Sunday's home game against Philadelphia, the Denver Broncos quarterback practiced on Wednesday and reported no ill effects. He was upgraded to probable on the team's injury report.

"It seems to be getting bet-ter and better," Elway said. "The week off definitely helped me. It's a lot better today.'

Elway strained his right hamstring against Dallas on Sept. 13, aggravated the injury against Oakland the following week, then felt a twinge in the hamstring during pregame warmups against Washington last week and spent the game on the sideline.

Elway, 38, was a full participant in Wednesday's practice, although he didn't do rollouts or bootlegs at full speed.

'We didn't test him, we didn't sprint him for obvious coach Mike reasons,'' Shanahan said. "But this is the furthest he's been along at this stage of the week since the Oakland game.

"He practiced good and said he felt pretty good. He's doing a little work on a treadmill right now, so hopefully it just keeps on getting better. Unless there's a major setback in the next couple of days, I'd be very surprised if he's not able to go.'

Asked after the morning walk-through if he intended to miss another game, Elway said, "No. I don't get paid to sit on the bench. You want to play. I was playing well before I got hurt, so I want to get back out and start playing again.

"When you don't miss many games, as I haven't, and then you miss one, it kind of puts everything back in perspective. So every once in a while it's good for the psyche to miss a game, because then you realize how much you enjoy playing Bubby Brister replaced Elway in the second quarter of the Oakland game and engineered a 34-17 victory. Last week. Brister made his first start since 1995 and led the Broncos (4-0) to a 38-16 win.

Shanahan and the Broncos medical staff have attributed Elway's pregame sensation last Sunday — which the quarterback described as a 'pop" — to scar tissue breaking loose.

The Broncos were in good health for the game against winless Philadelphia (0-4). Offensive lineman David Diaz-Infante is the only player likely to miss the game. He's listed as questionable with a knee injury.

"It takes a little longer for offensive linemen to get their legs back in shape,'' Shanahan said. "David is making a lot of progress, but I don't know if he'll be ready for this weekend. I anticipate him being pretty close to full-go for Seattle (the fol-lowing week)."

Associated Press

NEW YORK Add the name of Shane Spencer to the long list of New York Yankees legends.

An unknown a month ago, the compact rookie capped his amazing September by homering in his first postseason atbat to lead Andy Pettitte and the Yankees past the Texas Rangers 3-1Wednesday night for a 2-0 lead in their AL division series.

Pettitte atoned for a seasonlong struggle and pitched perfectly into the fifth inning. Texas led the league in batting this year, but managed only five hits in a Game 1 shutout and got only five more against the AL's top staff.

The Yankees will try to sweep the best-of-5 playoff on Friday night at Texas. David Cone (20-7) starts for New York against Aaron Sele (19-11).

Spencer got his chance to start in left field partly because of an ominous medical report on Darryl Strawberry. Told that doctors had "found some-thing" on his colon, Strawberry left the team for more tests Thursday. It is not known when he will rejoin the Yankees.

Spencer seemed to catch the Rangers by surprise, much the same way he startled Yankees fans with his power down the stretch. He hit a solo home run

Texas

1

0

0 0

off Rick Helling in the second inning, then singled ahead of Scott Brosius' homer for a 3-0 lead in the fourth.

Yankees take 2-0 lead over Texas

The sellout crowd of 57,360 rewarded the rookie with standing ovations all night, the way fans used to respond to the likes of Reggie and Mickey. At 26, the humble, aw-shucks Spencer had to be urged by his teammates to take a curtain call.

Spencer had spent eight full seasons in the minors before finally getting his chance in the majors this year. He made three roundtrips between Triple-A Columbus and New York.

Promoted for a fourth time on Aug. 31, he hit eight home runs in September and three grand slams - joining Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Joe DiMaggio among the seven players in team history to hit three slams in an entire year.

Spencer, who hit 119 homers in the minors, earned AL player of the week honors for hitting six homers in the last week. But his home run against Texas drew the biggest cheer yet.

Helling, who emerged to tie for the league lead with 20 wins, struck out three of New York's first six batters and threw two fastballs past Spencer for called strikes. On a 2-2 pitch, however, Spencer launched a drive over the 399foot marker in left-center field for the game's first run.

234567

0

0

Spencer quickly ran around the bases with his head down, nearly running past home plate when he arrived. The Yankees spilled out of the dugout to greet New York's newest hero.

Spencer did it just the way they teach in the minors in his next at-bat, grounding a hard single up the middle. Brosius followed with a drive over the wall in right-center.

With his big "1.000" average still posted on the scoreboard, Spencer took a called third strike in his final at-bat.

Pettitte protected the lead, setting down the first 12 batters with ease. Juan Gonzalez doubled to begin the fifth and later scored on a single by Ivan Rodriguez for Texas' only run.

Pettitte gave up three hits in seven innings, striking out eight and walking none. He improved to 6-0 lifetime at home against Texas and ended a slide in which he won just four of his last 12 starts, leaving his spot in the postseason rotation in doubt.

Jeff Nelson got two outs in the eighth and Mariano Rivera closed for his second save of the series.

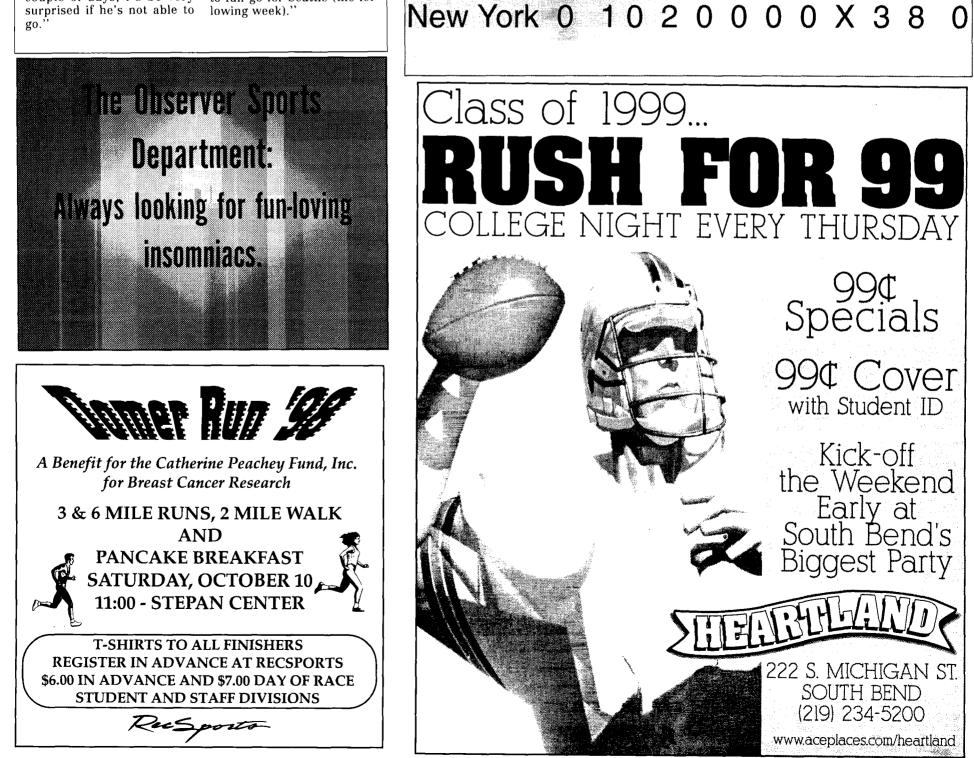

Aside from Spencer and Brosius, Helling had little trouble. He pitched six innings and struck out nine. As in Game 1. the bottom of the order did most of the damage for the Yankees.

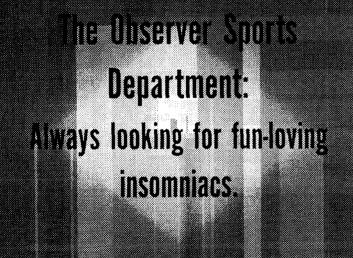

5

0

8

9

Носкеу Irish hockey prepares for 1998-99 CCHA season

1998 MEN'S HOCKEY

SCHEDULE

OCTOBER

LAKE SUPERIOR STATE

WESTERN MICHIGAN

at Lake Superior State

at Western Michigan

NOVEMBER

at Boston College

BOWLING GREEN

at Northwestern

MICHIGAN

at Wisconsin

at Ferris State

OHIO STATE

By TED BASSANI Sports Writer

Following last season's return to respectability, the 1998-99 Irish hockey team will be looking to establish itself as a strong force in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association.

Fourth-year head coach Dave Poulin, a member of the Irish hockey squad some 16 years ago, will again look to lead this talented crop of players to the promised land of the CCIIA Playoffs. Last year marked the first time in Poulin's brief coaching career that his team reached that destination.

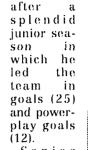

Last season saw the Irish improve in many aspects of their overall game, but none more so than special teams, power play and penalty killing. In conference play last season, Notre Dame ranked fourth lout of eleven] on both the power play and the penalty kill.

Also, the Irish allowed the second-fewest short-handed goals (2), while tallying the second-most short-handed goals themselves (7).

Nothing, however, puts a team on the national map more than big wins, especially on the road. Notre Dame excelled on the road last season, winning big games at Michigan (in the playoffs), Ohio State, Michigan State, and Wisconsin, all of whom qualified for last year's NCAA tournament.

Last year's game in Wisconsin was one which saw the home fans booing their team after being railroaded by the Irish on their home ice, something to keep in mind when the Irish open their season Saturday night in that same arena.

Many players who played key roles in last year's success will return to the ice this season. Senior forward Aniket Dhadphale returns to the ice led team

corps,

especially on special

Oct. 9 Senior Oct. 10 Brian Urick begins his Oct. 16 fourth season as a Oct. 17 starter for Oct. 23 the Irish at forward. Oct. 24 Last season, Urick the in plus-minus ratio (+14). Nov. 6 Senior Nov. 7 Benoit Cotnoir will Nov. 13 once again anchor the Nov. 14 defense teams, where he tied for the team lead last season with three shorthanded goals, in addition to scoring four power-play goals.

Oct. 3

Nov. 20

Senior Forrest Karr brings with him three years experience in goal; however, this season will be his first as the Notre Dame starting goaltender.

The junior class returning for the Irish is headed up by center Ben Simon and forward Joe Dusbabek, both of whom played last year for the United States junior national team. Simon led the team in assists and points last year (28, 37). Dusbabek's aggressive style of play and his great speed should provide a tremendous boost to the trish offense this coming

WESTERN MICHIGAN year. Junior Nathan Borega will bring his physical game to the ice once again this year, helping solidify the Irish along the blue line. A talented sophomore class returns to the ice this year, with no one's return more anticipated than that of forward Dan Carlson. Carlson also tied for the team lead in short-handed goals last season (3), as well as providing great speed and a gritty game up front and in the corners.

Although the Irish will see many of last year's starters back on the ice this year, the squad did suffer some significant losses during the past offseason. One player lost was Matt Eisler, a four year starter in goal for the Irish, who has since signed with the Calgary Flames organization. Also departing was center Lyle Andrusiak, whose experience will be missed at the center position this season. Center Steve Noble, who captained the Irish squad last season. also graduated, and has since signed with the Chicago Blackhawks organization

Of all the four players from last year's team not returning, none will be more sorely missed than freshman defenseman Mark Eaton. Eaton was the CCHA's rookie of the year for 97-98. What Eaton brought to the ice for the Irish as a freshman was phenomenal. His poise and smooth skating on defense was incredible for someone of his playing experience. His ability to go end to end and create offensive chances was also way beyond his years. Over the summer, Eaton signed a three-year contract to play in the Philadelphia Flyers organization.

With the departure of two starting centermen and a the starting goaltender, the outlook is bright for the incoming freshmen. Jeremiah Kimento will begin the season as the thirdstring goaltender behind Karr and sophomore Kyle Kolquist. By next season, however, the starter's job will be wide open once again.

Sam Cornelius will look for some playing time on defense this season. Cornelius played for Edina High School in Edina, Minnesota, where current Notre Dame players Dan Carlson and Neal Johnson also played.

With two centers from last season gone, the Irish will look to freshmen centers David Inman and Brett Henning to pick up some of the slack. Inman played junior hockey with the Wexford Raiders before coming to Notre Dame, while Henning played for the United States under-18 national team last year.

Also, if pedigree speaks anything of his talents, then we can expect a lot from Brett Henning, whose father Lorne was a member of two Stanley Cup Championship teams in 1980and 1981 (New York Islanders).

One aspect of the team's game which improved greatly last season and will hopefully continue to improve is the team's physical play. The Irish certainly have size on defense, embodied in Nathan Borega and Ryan Clark.

The Irish can also look to junior forward John Dwyer to be a valuable addition to the offense with his tough, physical play which netted him seven goals last season.

Sophomore forward Matt Van Arkel can always be found hustling and grinding it out on the boards and in the corners as well, thus creating offensive chances for his teammates.

Speed is also essential for a team to play winning hockey. While Mark Eaton certainly will be missed, the Irish have plenty of speedsters who can turn a game around at any moment. One such player is junior center Ben Simon, whose end to end rush against Bowling Green last year was probably the single most memorable play of the season.

Another forward who can supply the team with a boost of speed is Dan Carlson, who can stickhandle on the rush as well as anyone on the team. Joe Dusbabek is another player with the speed and scoring touch the Irish will need to compete against the big boys in the CCHA.

Expectations are high this year for this talented bunch of players, as they should be. This team consists of a good mix of experienced upperclassmen and talented young players. With the right coaching and leadership, Notre Dame can look to assert itself as a power in college hockey.

Following up on last year's playoff appearance is a must. Expect the Irish to continue their ascendancy through the ranks of the CCIIA by performing well in the toughest rinks in the country.

MORGAN STANLEY DEAN WITTER

Cordially invites students of all majors to attend a presentation on the Investment Banking Financial Analyst Program

Thursday, October 1st 7:00 p.m. Center for Continuing Education (lower level)

Interviews: November 9th www.ms.com Morgan Stanley Dean Witter is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Morgan Stanley Dean Witter is a service mark of Morgan Stanley Dean Witter & Co.

First 50 People Receive AT&T Prepaid Calling Cards! Refreshments to Follow.

Please feel free to e-mail Stephanie Lynn on slynn@att.com or Kevin Manning on kevin.manning@attws.com with questions.

SAINT MARY'S GOLF Podraza leads SMC golf in campaign

By ALEXA HILAL Sports Writer

What motivates junior Saint Mary's golfer Heather Podraza? According to Saint Mary's head golf coach Teresa Pekarek, sheer competition drives the top shooter this year.

'The word to describe Heather is competitive," said Pekarek. "It is what separates her from many other players. She loves competition.

In this inaugural season for the Saint Mary's golf team, Podraza has helped lead the team to success, however, she is no newcomer to the sport. She has been playing since the second grade.

"Actually 1 started with miniature golf," Podraza said. "My dad started me out there and then we played on the regular course together."

During her freshman year in high school, Podraza discovered that girls golf was not offered to students. So, she tried out for the boys varsity team and by the end of the season, was playing in the number five spot. For the next four years, Podraza continued her play in the number five spot and advanced to the state tournament.

Podraza's golf background has helped her excel throughout her extensive career. She has carried much of that with her to the Belles golf team this Year. "Heather brings experience and intensity to the game. She has a lot of natural ability, but she also works hard. She is currently our top shooter.'

Upon attending Saint Mary's, Podraza opted to run for the cross country team because golf was not available. She is excited about the implementation of the golf program.

"This program gives Saint Mary's an opportunity to broaden our athletic horizons," Podraza said. "This shows that our athletic program is growing and meeting the wants and needs of the students.'

Captain Kyle Veltri agrees that Podraza's experience has helped her.

"She [Podraza] has been well taught by her father, and as a result, plays a solid round of golf," Veltri said. "She is also a great team player.'

Podraza has been a key element in the Belles' achievements this year. After shooting an even 100 in the team's first match at Albion College, she improved at Alma College to 88. She hopes to stay focused and keep improving.

"Although I want to better my game, ultimately I want to learn how to coach," Podraza said. "I am really interested in pursuing coaching and with Pekarek and my dad setting great examples, I think I will learn a lot.'

Pekarek thinks Podraza has what it takes to be a top competitor in the MIAA.

"She is already playing with the top players," Pekarek said. "If she works hard, she has a good chance at earning All-Conference honors. Heather just needs to maintain her playing level."

When asked why she is still playing after such a long career already, Podraza smiles

"I love and respect the game because it requires so much patience. I don't have a lot of patience, so it is a real challenge. And, of course, the competitiveness of the sport."

Podraza has based much of her playing style on her father's lessons. It is his game that she tries to emulate.

'Of course I admire Tiger Woods - he is confident and works hard," Podraza said. "He has also brought a lot of new elements to the game. My father has gained my full admiration, though. I hope someday I can be as knowledgeable, passionate, and especially patient as he is. Woods is a close second."

Despite all of her recent success, Podraza focuses on the team as a whole.

"She is a great team player," Veltri said. "She also has the ability to really put the numbers up. She plays great golf and you really can't ask for anything else."

Observer

Sports:

A

Slumber

Party

in the basement

of

the

SDH

The Observer/Jeff Hsu

The Notre Dame Women's rowing team is preparing for their first season as a varsity sport by practicing daily.

By NOAH AMSTADTER Sports Writer

When thinking about the University of Notre Dame, one of the first characteristics that comes to mind is tradition.

Whether it be on the playing field, in the chapel or even in the dorms, various rituals occur here that those of our parents generation also practiced. In a place where such as this, it is a privilege to watch a new tradition in the making. That is exactly what is occurring this year as the Notre Dame Women's Rowing team is beginning its inaugural season as a varsity sport.

Today, most large colleges are careful to be in accordance with Title IX, a law which requires gender equity in college athletics. Notre Dame is no exception. Having already had a competitive club team in place, the decision was made to make the women's rowing team Notre Dame's 13th women's varsity sport.

"We look at in a way that the women's participation numbers would increase and would give us a viable program that was growing at the collegiate level," said Notre Dame Assistant Athletic Director Brian Boulac.

After the decision was made to give the program varsity status, a head coach had to be chosen. After a nationwide search, Martin Stone was selected for the job. Stone brings an impressive record to South Bend, having won the 1994 Division II championship as coach of the United States Naval Academy. In an eerie coincidence, Stone is a 1990 graduate of St. Mary's College. No, not the one in South Bend but the school in Moraga, California where he was named most valuable oarsman. 'We were excited to have a coach of his background and stature be interested in our program. He can only help our program grow," said Boulac.

Having a new coach is not the only difference in this season's team. The athletes no longer have to fund the program, the University has purchased new equipment, and the athletes now have access to tutoring and other benefits of the Life Skills program. The most important change, as Stone points out, is in the level at which the women are training

On the club team if a woman paid her dues and said she wanted to row, she was going to row. Here that's not really true. In order to make a racing boat you have to train pretty hard, you have to be competitive during practice, and you have to show that you have the ability to compete at the Division I level said Stone.

This new level of training has led to a positive outlook for the coming season. "We're definitely at a higher level at this point in the fall than we were last yearÉ We have a lot more competition within ourselves and we're definitely working a lot harder," said team co-captain Katy Fox. While Fox has stood out on the team so far, having rowed over the summer, other athletes are also being looked upon to contribute. Coming up from last year's novice team is Quinn Vanderberg. Sophomore Molly Kinder brings high school rowing experience to the team. Colleen Kraft, the team's other co-captain, is also looked upon to contribute.

5:00-7:00 PM DJ and Kara©ke

Dance Contest Pizza Party

Ditch the DH and come to Mod Quad and get free pizza and drinks!!!

Women's Crew

Women's crew

THE BEIGER MANSION INN MICHIANA'S BEST KEPT DINING SECRET!

Voted best entree "Taste of Michiana", 1998. Big city dining with small town atmosphere. Only 15 minutes from Reservations accepted. Notre Dame. We also offer elegant overnight accommodations.

> 317 LINCOLNWAY EAST * MISHAWAKA * INDIANA 255-3939

One of the unique aspects of rowing is that most athletes have no experience with the sport coming into college. For this reason a novice team trains and competes along with the varsity. Women with a variety of athletic backgrounds have been successful in the sport. Any women interested in taking up the sport should call Coach Stone at 631-3071.

2

9

23

7

14

		DECEMBER
3	Thurs.	ND Invitational 10 am - 6 pm
4	Fri.	ND Invitational 10 am - 6 pm
5	Sat	ND Invitational 10 am - 6 pm

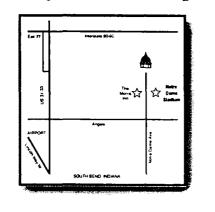

DEACHDED

Save our world recycle The Observer.

"Your Notre Dame Hospitality Headquarters"

PUBLIC WELCOME Open Fridays 3:00pm - 10:30pm Saturday 9:00am - 7:00pm

continued from page 28

"Linda was unusual in that she was the most durable distance swimmer I've ever coached," Weathers said. "We are extremely excited for Tara's potential, not just in the Big East, but also at the NCAA Championships."

Riggs and classmates Brooke Davey and Allison Lloyd have all qualified for the Olympic Trials in 2000. Joining them are five other talented freshmen.

This powerful class will help the Irish succeed in the Minnesota Invitational in November and compete against opponents strong like Michigan.

The combination of faster returning swimmers and a strong freshman class has propelled the team to a higher level of competitiveness according to Weathers and senior cocaptain Anne Iacobucci. This will be helpful when the Irish face many Big Ten teams.

"We are that much better this year," lacobucci said. 'Swimming Big Ten teams will be good for us. Three years ago we wouldn't have had a shot in the dark at beating them, but now I think we can.

The team's chief goal is long term: They expect to win the Big East title for the third consecutive year and move into the top 15 teams at NCAA Championships. Helping to achieve this will be three returning NCAA qualifiers, sophomore sprinter Carrie Nixon, junior breastroker Shannon Suddarth and senior breastroker Brittany Kline.

"Our main focus this season in NCAAs," junior co-captain Liz Barger said. "We're looking to qualify more individuals and

Thursday, October 1, 1998

FOXTROT

DILBERT

ANOTHER CLEVER

THING SCOTT ADAMS

DID EARLY ON WAS

TO ESTABLISH AN

LETTER FOR FANS.

ELECTRONIC NEWS-

LOOKING THROUGH THE WIZARD OF ND

THIS CONCLUDES THE INDUCTION OF THIS INGENIOUS PIECE OF

ģ0

MOM

OFF TO THE

BOOK

STORE.

MODERN ART TO FURTHER BEAUTIFY OUR SOUTH QUAD. THANK YOU.

I IMAGINE THIS

GIVES HIM QUITE

A LEG UP ON THE

DON'T HAVE MUCH P.R.

MACHINERY AT THEIR

DISPOSAL

A LEG UP ON THE BOOK THATS COMPETITION, SINCE JUST I'D WAGER CARTOONISTS COME OUT

I HEAR

GREAT NEW

BUT YOUR E-MAIL

NEWBIE IDENTITY.

YOU'RE PROBABLY A

GOAT HERDER OR A

CARTOONIST

ADDRESS REVEALS YOUR

THERE'

THINK ABOUT IT -

INFORM AN ARMY

PRODUCT FOR SALE

THE POWER TO

OF FANS THE

INSTANT YOU

HAVE A NEW

Ø 1998 Bill A

THE ONLY

THING THAT

COULD TOP

THE STRIP

ITSELF.

HOW DOES IT FEEL

TO BE AN ELITIST

TECHNOLOGY

BIGOT ?

THAT WOULD COULD BE

BE TO PLUG THAT

STUFF IN SHAMELESS

Ð

Ð

IT'S ONLY

$12.95,

BARGAIN

TOO! A

DAN SULLIVAN

BILL AMEND

OH, COME

ON-

NO ONE

DID I

THE ISBN

⊒≭0-836

SCOTT ADAMS

I PREFER TO

MYSELF AS A

THINK OF

MENTION

`ററ്റ

YOUR HOROSCOPE

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS

DAY: Robert Redford, Christian Slater, Patrick Swayze, Shelley Winters Happy Birthday: Don't be afraid to start something new. You'll have the discipline to finish whatever you the discipline to finish whatever you begin. Your sensitive nature coupled with charisma aid you in getting oth-ers to help you in your efforts. Set your mind on achieving your goals and you won't be sorry. Your num-bers: 8, 17, 20, 29, 38, 47

ARIES (March 21-April 19): It's a great day to spend time with family or friends. You'll be entertaining with your quick wit and ability to find humor in most situations. A positive attitude will be your guide. GO TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be looking around at property. A resi-dential move will be profitable. Don't allow your emotions to hold you back organize and delegate will be a real asset. Be sure to include your mate in your events. OOO VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It's not

page 27

EUGENIA LAST

or changes to your personal life. You'll be feeling a little rejected. Take some time to look at your options and consider your career directions.

break. Do things that you enjoy and get involved in groups that will pro-vide you with physical activity and social interaction. OO SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Look into home improvement projects. You can better your living standard if you do the work yourself. Don't hesitate to ask older family members for help. Their experience is valuable. OOOOO SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21):

It's a great day for romance as long as you aren't unnecessarily aggressive with the one you love. Let things flow in a harmonious way and be sur-prised at how compatible you are.

You may want to get a new pet or give extra attention to the one you have. Take time to appreciate your companion's loyalty. Long walks will

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You'll do well in social settings today. Romantic encounters will be fruitful. Don't hesitate to go after an individ-ual who has held your interest for some time now. OOO PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Fami-ly members may not be handling their percent situation unit. Sten in Birthday Baby: Once you master practicality, you'll be able to conquer the world. Your fun-loving approach to life will win hearts but can also lead you down a dismal financial path if you don't learn the value of a dollar. Learn early and you will prosper, late and you will struggle. (Need advice? Call Eugenia at 900-484-7827. Your phone company will bill you $1.99 per minute.) © 1998 Universal Press Syndicat

the best day to make decisions about

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Take a allow your emotions to hold you back from making the right decision con-cerning children. 0000 GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Emo-CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): tional instability may cause you to say things that you'll regret later. Keep your thoughts to yourself when dealing with your mate. Passion, not arguments, should be your focus.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Visit a friend who hasn't been too well. You can make significant alterations to can make significant alterations to your living arrangements if you want. Don't let your partner put unreason-able demands on you. OOO 5. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You'll be able to contribute a lot to the groups that you work with. Your ability to arranging and delarate will be a mail their personal situations well. Step in and listen, but refrain from trying to tell them what to do. You could be blamed if you get in the middle of a dispute. OOOOO

Puzzle by Daniel R. Stark 26 Pirate 39 Rude look 42 Window variety need 29 One side in the Civil War 46 Unaged Italian brandy 31 Drop out

56 Gradually fell 58 Gallerv 61 Sea shocker

CROSSWORD

- ACROSS 34 Like loaf bread 1 Numinous 9 Try out Osmond Naniwa short

Sports

Fri.

Fri.

Fri.

Fri.

Sat.

Thurs.

Fri.

Sat

2

9

16

23

7

3

4

5

Irish icemen to begin season Saturday at Wisconsin.

4:00 pm

6:00 pm

6:00 pm

4:00 pm

11 am - 6 pm

11 am - 6:30 pm

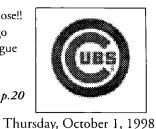

11 am - 6:30 pm

11 am - 6:30 pm

p.23

Cubs lose!! Cubs lose!! Atlanta routs Chicago 7-1 in National League playoff action.

p.20

page 28

Swimming

OBSERVER

Swimming teams ready to dive into new season

98-99 ND Women's Swim Schedule

OCTOBER

NOVEMBER

DECEMBER

PURDUE, MIAMI (OH), PITT. 11:30 pm

STANFORD

ND RELAYS

20-22 Fri-Sun at Minnesota Invitational

ND Invitational

ND Invitational

ND Invitational

at Miami (FL.)

AIR FORCE, ARMY

By WES RICHARDSON Sports Writer

The men's and women's swim teams will kick off their most ambitious seasons yet when they host defending national champion Stanford on Friday.

The meet at Rolfs Aquatic Center will give each team a chance to assess its capabilities and possibly achieve its goals in the face of a difficult schedule.

The schedule has taken a giant step," said Tim Welsh, men's head coach. "We're proud of that, but we also recognize that it is significantly faster than a year ago. A tougher schedule means a tougher record but we will get faster with this schedule.'

The teams hope to replace swimmers lost to graduation and non-returning team members. For the men, this means filling a gap in the sprint freestyle events. With the graduation of freestylers Ron Royer, Brian Najarian and Slade Stoltz, the Irish will look to seniors Vice Kuna and Mike Doyle and sophomore Russ Preston to lead the sprints.

Along with Steve Cardwell, the Irish men graduated four members of last season's Big East squad which included members from all three freestyle relays.

The men are optimistic about their abilities to succeed with the current squad. Many returning swimmers experienced excellent training summers, according to Welsh. Sophomore Dan Szilier turned in the most notable performance when he powered his way to a seventh place finish in the 200 breastroke at the U S Nationals in August. Szilier's time of 2:17.13 earned him a spot on Team USA for the World University Games to be held July in Mallorca, Spain. Also returning are six University record holders.

"We have a lot to be excited about this year," Welsh said. 'We have the advantage of beginning the season with the same people faster than they were a year ago."

Seven new swimmers will help the team compete against formidable opponents such as Purdue and Michigan State, as well as a host of challenging teams at the Notre Dame Invitational in December.

Freshman Travis Kline will power the Irish in the freestyle and IM events. Freshman Mike Koss will use past experience training with Tom Byorick (ND '94) and women's head coach Bailey Weathers when he competes in the freestyle events. Season goals focus on individual improvement, a topthree finish at the Big East championships in February and entering Notre Dame's first swimmers in the NCAA championships in March. Junior Ray Fitzpatrick narrowly missed the chance to compete at the NCAA championships last year when he swam a consideration time of 1:39.20 in the 200 freestyle.

"The biggest challenge will be for everyone to score points at Big East and for the team as a whole to take it to the next level," senior co-captain Chris Fugate said. "Everyone on the team is looking at these goals very positively, and we're ready to compete."

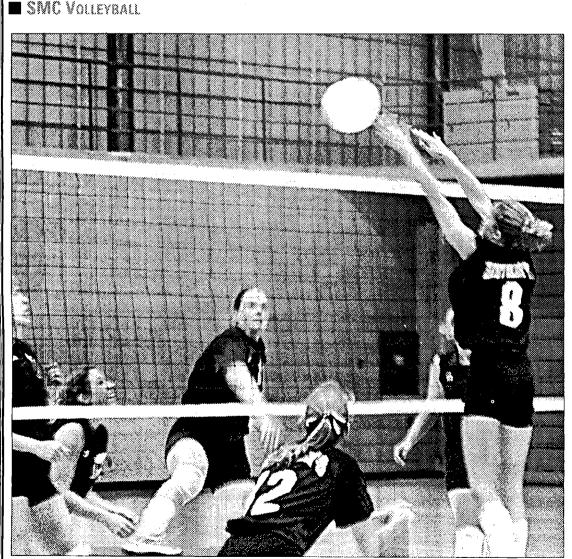

The Stanford meet will be the second time the Irish have faced a defending national champion squad. An exhibition meet was held against then champions Auburn in January. Friday's meet will also be a learning experience and a valuable opportunity to compete against the best, according to senior co-captain Steele Whowell.

"If we can be in a position during the race where a Stanford guy looks over at you and says,"Hey, this guy is still in the race,' that's good,' Whowell said.

Like the men, the Irish women will also need to step up to the challenge of a tougher schedule and loss of talent in the new season. The team expects to defend its title as Big East champions and move up at the NCAA championships.

The biggest loss was experienced with the graduation of All-American Linda Gallo, holder of four Notre Dame records according to Weathers. Hoping to fill Gallo's role in the distance freestyle events is freshman Tara Riggs.

see SWIMMING / page 28

Belles upset Albion in conference play

By SARAH MAGNESS Sports Writer

The Belles proved they were ready to win last night with their upset win over Albion College, the third ranked team in the conference.

Saint Mary's won three out of four games [7-15,15-13,16-14,15-4] to win its first home match of the season.

"lt's refreshing to get to show our local fans the team can come and play an intense match," said head coach

Jenny Joyce. Albion led the match after her average above the NCAA average of five digs per game. Canter served 11 points in the match and had three aces. Both the coach and the team were very pleased with last night's play: "The game was awesome and I hope we continue to play like that," Martin said.

"We stayed aggresive. The team did an incredible job at net," Joyce added. Junior Jayne Ozbolt had a strong game with 15 kills and nine blocks. "We really got together and stopped playing independent-ly," Ozbolt said. "We acted as a team. The strong points of our game were definitely the short passing and block touches.

The Observer/ Lara Becker The Saint Mary's Volleyball team picked up a crucial conference victory over rival Albion college Wednesday night. The team now has a record of 7-10, thanks to outstanding play by freshmen Suzanne the first game, but the Belles turned the match around and won every subsequent game.

"We started out pretty slow, but we picked up our game," said junior Mary Rodovich. We played good volleyball tonight.'

The freshmen Belles showed off their developing talent throughout the match with freshmen Suzanne Martin, Angie Meyers and Brianna Canter.

Martin had 54 assists, keeping her average above the NCAA average; Meyers helped her with 20 digs, also keeping Junior Agnes Bill continued to play an integral role on the team, contributing 19 digs.

The team is now finished with its matches for the week and has earned a rest, according to Joyce.

The Belles are now 7-10 and they have earned a break," Joyce said. "They have played every single weekend since school started."

SPORTS AT A GLANCE

Martin, Angie Meyers and Brianna Canter.

vs Stanford Saturday, 1:30 p.m.

vs. Butler Tomorrow, 7:30 p.m.

at W. Michigan Today, 4:30 p.m.

vs. Seton Hall Tomorrow, 8 p.m.

Notre Dame Invitational Tomorrow, 3:30 p.m.

Volleyball vs. Hope College Wednesday, 6 p.m.

SC

Soccer at Adrian College Saturday, 12 p.m.