Hurricane Frederic darkens Mobile

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)-Hurricane Frederic, paralleling the path of killer Hurricane Camille a decade ago, pushed onto land last night, darkening nearly all of Mobile County and sending swirling curb-deep water through downtown streets.

Winds just outside the eye of the storm, which came ashore around 10 p.m. CDT, were keeping their 130 mph fury. Tornadoes were spawned all along the Gulf Coast.

There were no early reports of storm-related injuries.

More than 400,000 people from four coastal states were evacuated, and National Guardsmen were alerted in Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, and Mississippi.

In Mobile, the one-storm 100-foot-long concrete block east west of the Fort Hardiman National Guard Armory was knocked down by the storm's winds. The building, which normally holds a medical company, was being used by the Mobile Police department as a temporary precinct house.

Officer R.W. Smith said about 25 police officers were in the building at the time, but none were injured because they knew the wall was coming down by the sound it made.

The roof of the Mobile City Hall, built in the 1800's, was torn off by the winds.

To the west of Mobile, in Pascagoula, Miss., a spokesman for the huge Ingalls Shipyards said the storm caused extensive damage.

"Heavy equipment was thrown everywhere, buildings are down," he said.

Frederic's prying winds tore roofs off of two of 22 emergency shelters in Pascagoula, forcing rescue crews to move 400 people to other buildings at the height of the storm.

In Mobile, windows in downtown buildings were blown out by the heavy winds or broken by blown debris.

Hijacker demands humane world

BONN* West Germany (AP) - A young man hijacked a West German jetliner in flight, held out in a day-long standoff at the Bonn airport insisting that the nation hear his demands for a "a humane world," then surrendered last night.

The hijacker freed the 119 other passengers and four of the eight crew members unharmed seven hours after the Lufthansa Boeing 727 landed at the Bonn-Cologne Airport, but had kept four crew members aboard the plane, demanding to talk to Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and a television news crew.

The man, who was not immediately identified, surrendered at 5:20 p.m. EDT.

Lufthansa spokesman Franz Cesari said no one was injured; and the weapon the man brandished during the hijacking turned out to be a toy pistol.

Cesari said Hans Juergen Wischniewski, Schmidt's top aide, talked to the hijacker "with great endurance and a lot of intelligence," persuading him to release the four crew members and surrender.

"The entire action ended happily," Cesari told reporters at the airport minutes after the surrender.

The flight originated in Paris and stopped in Frankfurt and was on its way to Bonn-Cologne when it was hijacked.

After the plane taxied to the parking area, drawn-out negotiations began with the crew radioing the hijacker's demands to Wischniewski in the tower.

Ham radio operators who listened in on communications between the cockpit and airport tower said the man read a 20-minute political manifesto demanding a West German

Alumni first

Busick confirms ticket policy

by Tom Jackman
Senior Staff Reporter

Ticket manager Mike Busick yesterday confirmed the University's policy concerning distribution of tickets for away football games: "We take care of contributing alumni first."

Students may obtain tickets only after the demand from alumni is satisfied, and several times a year the alumni demand forces either a lottery and/or a geographical restriction of ticket distribution.

Busick did receive inquiries from students last spring about obtaining tickets for this first-ever game at Michigan, but they were told they would have to wait for the outcome of the alumni distribution over the summer.

Busick did receive inquiries from students last spring about obtaining tickets for this first-ever game at Michigan, but they were told they would have to wait for the outcome of the alumni distribution over the summer.

For Notre Dame's upcoming game in Ann Arbor this weekend, the University was allotted 6000 tickets, but requests from contributing alumni (those who contribute at least $25 to the annual alumni fund) exceeded the availability. A lottery was held, restricted to those residing closest to Ann Arbor, and cancellations resulted in 60 tickets being made available to students. Busick said that these tickets were "snapped up within minutes."

Busick pointed out that tickets for games at Michigan State and Southern California are almost always available because the demand from alumni isn't as great. Purdue, Busick said, is traditionally a high demand game because it is closest to where most ND alumni reside. There are 25,000 contributing alumni across the country.

Deciding the number of tickets to be set aside for visiting teams is done by reciprocal agreement. For example, when Michigan contracted with Notre Dame in the late 1960's for a series of games, the two schools decided that 8.5 percent of the total seating would be allocated to the visitors.

However, several years later Michigan cut its visitors allotment to a flat 5000, hardly 8.5 percent in the nation's biggest college football stadium, which houses approximately 103,000. Michigan did agree, though, to allot 6000 tickets for the Notre Dame game only. Notre Dame reduced its number of available tickets from the customary 5000 approximately 8 percent to 3500 to equalize the reduction.

Purdue allots 5000 tickets to its visitors, "not nearly enough" for Notre Dame, said Busick. Michigan State 10,000 and USC 15,000. Busick added that he has heard through reports that Ohio State, not an ND opponent, allocates only 3800 tickets for its visitors section.

ND Faculty Senate approves final survey

by Mark Rust
News Editor

The final version of a survey intended to clarify faculty income levels and attitudes toward research was passed last night by the Faculty Senate in a two hour meeting, their first of the year.

The survey, which will be distributed among faculty members and compiled next week, concerns itself with a number of topics, but the importance placed by Senate members on income and research was reflected in their prolonged debate on those particular questions.

Both the Faculty Affairs Committee and the Committee on Administrative Affairs met during the meeting to set their agenda for the year. Mike Francis, professor of government, reported that the hiring of minorities and women and the general policy on retirement age will be topics his committee plans to take up with the Administration this year. Irwin Press, professor of Anthropology, said that his Faculty Affairs Committee would seek to clarify and study the appeals and grievance procedures for faculty hiring and appointments.

The Faculty Affairs Committee also talked extensively about salaries and fringe benefits. While the University has published an "average" salary figure and compiled a list of fringe benefits, committee members agreed that, for their purposes, the figures are inadequate. Press explained that the average salary figure does not reflect distribution according to race and sex, and the listing of fringe benefits are so complex that they are not easily reduced to dollar figures.

Under the direction of Press, the committee resolved to use survey information on income to do a comparative study of income levels at Big Ten schools, "peer group" schools and Notre Dame. A similar study was conducted by the committee last year, using the University's average salary figure. At that

House kills measure requiring draft registration

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House rejected an attempt yesterday to require 18-year-old men to register for the military draft, something they haven't had to do since 1975. By a vote of 252-163, House members turned down a plea by Rep. G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss., to require all 18-year-old men in the country to register beginning on Jan. 2, 1981. The House voted 259-155 to take the draft-registration measure out of a $42.1 billion weapons bill and instead directed President Carter to conduct a study on the matter. Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said he believed the House vote would end for the foreseeable future efforts in Congress to bring back registration.

Elephants to retrace Hannibal's Alp crossing

BRAMANS, France (AP) - Two adventure-seeking Americans and a Frenchwoman left this picturesque Alpine village yesterday with a couple of tons of hay, two rented circus elephants and the ambition to follow the 2,197-year-old footsteps of Hannibal into Italy. "The weather is fantastic," said Jack Wheeler, a 35-year-old former philosophy professor from Los Angeles who is heading the expedition. "We've got the elephants and we're leaving right now. We'll be in Italy sometime over the weekend." Wheeler's group plans to trace the route taken by the commander of the Carthaginian army when he crossed the Alps with 37 elephants, 20,000 infantrymen and 6,000 cavalry to fight Rome during the Second Punic War, which began in 218 B.C.

Mount Etna erupts; six dead, 20 injured

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) - Mount Etna spewed hot rocks, gas and ash on a group of 200 tourists yesterday near the summit, killing six persons and injuring at least 20, police reported. Police said three of the dead were Italians, one was a French woman, and the other two were not identified. A mountain guide said the crater Exploded like a cannon. "The state-run television said at least 35 were injured. Police said some were seriously burned and taken to hospitals at the foot of the mountain.

time the committee found that University faculty salaries ran $600 to $1400 below those at other schools.

Tenure, a subject sure to generate controversy within the coming months, was touched on indirectly through discussion of the survey. Many faculty members-particularly those who are "tenure tracked"-have complained that the criteria the University uses for tenure appointments is unclear.

While the University stresses publication and scholarly research as important in tenure decisions, faculty members complain that many times the University is concerned with how many dollars the researcher is getting from the government, rather than concentrating on the research itself.

"Research and publication-those words have flown around campus quite a bit and raised quite a bit of controversy," said one faculty member. "What does the University mean by 'research'?"

"We are using this survey to get an empirical view of the faculty opinion on these questions," Ken Goodpaster, Faculty Senate president, said at the meeting. "This survey will also be used to gauge the salary level, correlating it to different groups of minorities and women."

Other questions on the survey deal with such subjects as "senior seriousness." Faculty members will be asked their views on "the general tone of the senior year," and their response may have an impact on final exam policy for seniors and such diversions as the "senior death march."

The senators also chose a new chairman for the Student Affairs Committee. Steve Batill, professor of Aerospace Engineering, was chosen unanimously for the post.

Students witness security officers apprehending bike thief suspect

by John Ferrol
Staff Reporter

At least three students witnessed Notre Dame security officials chase and apprehend a young male suspect across the campus last night, the Observer has discovered.

One of the students stated that he saw a security car chase the youth down the sidewalk between LaFortune Center and Sorin Hall. Security officers then proceeded to pursue the youth on foot, and managed to apprehend the suspect when he tripped over a wire fence between LaFortune and Crowley Hall.

The student also reported that he thought the youth was a suspected bicycle thief, based on shouting by security officers which he overheard. Security officials declined to disclose details of the incident last night. One official did state that security had five suspects in custody, but he did not specify why they were being held.

Aides report Vance, Dobrynin in negotiation

WASHINGTON (AP) - Aides say Secretary of State Cyrus Vance is trying to cool down the crisis atmosphere over the presence of Soviet troops in Cuba by conducting a prolonged series of low key negotiations with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin.

The two continued their discussion of the issue over lunch yesterday.

Senate consideration of the SALT II treaty was virtually at a standstill pending the outcome of negotiations on the situation.

The Carter administration continued to refuse all comment on the substance of the Vance-Dobrynin negotiations.

But officials said they expected a long series of meetings might be necessary to achieve a satisfactory settlement.

This, they added, was part of the administration strategy. By meeting often and saying nothing, the administration hopes to develop an atmosphere of routine business.

This was seen as a way to end the crisis atmosphere which rapidly arose during last week's series of revelations and news conferences.

State department spokesman Hodding Carter said, however, that the administration has not been impressed by public Soviet denials that the troops in Cuba form a combat unit.

Spokesman Carter denied a contention by retired Maj. Gen. John K. Singlaub that the Soviets were in Cuba to guard nuclear bombs on MIG-23 fighters.

He said there is no evidence that there are nuclear weapons in Cuba, or that the MIGs are configured to carry nuclear bombs.

Meanwhile, President Carter said that rejection of the SALT II treaty could cause America's allies "to search for a weaker relationship with the Soviet Union and others."

Addressing 125 religious leaders at a White House breakfast, the President said Senate refusal to ratify the nuclear arms treaty could mean the end of a common U.S.-Soviet effort "to find a way toward reduction and eventual elimination of nuclear weapons from the face of the earth."

The breakfast began a full day of lobbying for the treaty by the religious leaders, who represented more than 40 organizations.

The Rev. William Howard, resident of the National Council of Churches, told reporters after the breakfast that concern over the presence of Soviet combat troops in Cuba should not weigh against acceptance of the treaty.

The coalition of 175 American religious leaders representing 40 religious organizations scheduled personal visits with 62 senators

"All I want is a humane world in which it is worthwhile to live," he was quoted as saying. He complained that ex-convicts are marked for life because of certain entries in their identification documents "after reading his statement, he freed the 123 hostages.

In negotiations that followed, Wischniewski asked the man "to be humane himself" and release the rest of the crew, Cesari said.

"The crew is free. I only have a toy pistol," Cesari quoted the hijacker as replying.

Wischniewski then agreed to meet the hijacker aboard the plane.

Wischniewski told reporters preparations had been made to end the hijacking by other means if the talks failed. He did not elaborate.

It was not known where the hijacker boarded the flight. Lufthansa officials said both the passengers who boarded in Frankfurt and the few continuing on to Bonn-Cologne from Paris underwent security checks.

Cesari said the man went to the front toilet carrying a black briefcase and an airsickness bag, and from there entered the cockpit. Passengers told reporters the man had faked illness and at his request was seated up front.

To improve quality

Band increases membership

by Kelli Flint

This year's Notre Dame marching band features a substantial increase in number as well as a change in practice schedule, according to Band Director Robert O'Brien. 197 students from Notre Dame, Saint Mary's, and Holy Cross Junior College were accepted for the band's 134th season.

Vice-president Mimi Sullivan attributes this increase to the high quality of the instrumenteers. "Our present band is better than previous ones because of the number," she added. "There is more brass and greater depth to the drum section this year."

Practice times were altered to concentrate on music and save marching time, band officials said. Instead of marching to the practice field every day, band members will meet on the field for musical rehearsal from 4:30 to 6 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays, Fridays, and Saturdays. Wednesdays and Thursdays are reserved for marching to the field.

Returning members view the shortened practice marches as a valuable move. "The walk-on schedule saves more time for music rehearsals and field marching," commented a sophomore member. Old members are also pleased with the larger number of members, which adds to sound quality.

The band is currently in rehearsal for Saturday's Michigan's football game. The format for the show includes four marches, beginning with an English march and ending with the traditional Victory march.

O'Brien, beginning his 28th year in this position, sees this year's band as one of the best ever. He also noted that about 12 new members are children of former marchers.

Associate Band Director James Phillips agreed that this year's band is one of the best, and attributed its success to hard work and training.

A total of 97 band members will be selected to travel to Tokyo for the Notre Dame-Miami football game scheduled for November. Details on the trip will be verified when O'Brien visits Tokyo Sept. 16.

O.C. Council meets, discusses neighbors

by Dan Letcher
Senior Staff Reporter

Shannon Neville, Off-Campus commissioner expressed concern last night about complaints she heard at a recent Northeast Neighborhood Association meeting. "The students are disturbing the neighbors to such an extent that some residents who have lived in the area for thirty years are considering moving," she said at the Off-Campus council meeting.

Assistant Housing Director Brother Ed Luther advised the council that "the more interest you show in being considerate towards your neighbors, the easier it will become to smooth out the problems."

The Off-Campus Council then discussed the inspection program which is being run by the Housing office. "We have about 800 units to be inspected and we just can't do it all," Luther said. He asked that the council try to find some volunteers who would be willing to inspect off-campus houses.

"If we start out with about six students I can set up a workshop where substandard housing people and the South Bend Police can come in and train these people," Luther said. He estimated that after an hour workshop, the students could then go out and recognize some of the problems which occur in houses.

Luther said that an inspector would rate the plumbing, the electricity, the house conditions and even the landlord. "Is the landlord gruff? Is he friendly? Does he understand the needs of the student? These are all things which the inspectors and myself should take into account," Luther noted.

The council then suggested that the volunteer inspectors be paid. Brother Luther said he had considered this and didn't know if it would be possible. Neville stated that the council may be able to get money appropriated to pay these volunteers.

No final decisions were reached concerning the council by-laws, which must be formulated by October first. Neville said that the by-laws would be patterned after those of the Hall President's Council.

The Off-Council is designed to insure the off-campus student as great a role as possible in Notre Dame Life.

The council should represent the students in government, provide avenues of communication between on and off campus students, and address the needs and problems of the off-campus student.

Neville said one need that will not be fulfilled is the Campus View morning shuttle bus. "It will cost an extra 25

ND professor criticizes Chrysler aid

by Beth Willard

Despite the Chrysler Corporation's claim that its financial collapse could cause an 8 per cent increase in unemployment, Notre Dame Professor of finance and business economics Animesh Ghoshal maintains that massive government aid for Chrysler is unwarranted at this time.

"We have a profit/loss economy," Ghoshal said. "In a competitive situation losses as well as gains must be incurred."

Chrysler has illustrated that statement with a vengeance; it has the worst financial report in American corporate history for this quarter. As a result, it has asked for government aid in the form of $1 billion loan. The government would be reimbursed by Chrysler paying extra taxes in future (presumably profitable) years. Chrysler has also requested special treatment with the temporary suspension of pollution requirements, saving them approximately $600 million.

Although government spokesmen have not committed themselves, Herbert Sim, Chairman of the Finance and Business Economics Department, feels that they are "meeting Chrysler half-way." They are reputedly considering offering to guarantee loans Chrysler secures from private sources. The government guaranteed $250 million in private loans made to the Lockheed Corporation in 1971 when it claimed it was in danger of bankruptcy, after refusing to do so for Penn Central in 1970.

Sim believes that "Chrysler shouldn't be given special treatment in our economic system," but explains the Lockheed situation as justified since that corporation produced critical defense materials and virtually nothing else.

If Chrysler declared bankruptcy, they claim that as many as 500,000 jobs could be lost; it employs 130,000 people directly and claims to affect another 370,000 dealers, suppliers, etc. Sim and Ghoshal both point out that such claims are unrealistic since many alternatives to simply shutting down the factories exist. Chrysler could be reorganized under new management, or be broken up and taken over by other industries or corporations.

A cessation of manufacture of products vital to our nation (Chrysler is the major manufacturer of army tanks) is not to be feared, says Ghoshal, since the profitable portions of the corporation will be picked up.

Ghoshal suggests that the economy would be adversely affected in the short run, with some small increase in unemployment and commercial interest rates, but would be only mildly affected in the long run.

Averting the economic upheaval of a Chrysler declaration of bankruptcy is simply not justified, says Sim, because of the dangerous precedent that would be established. In the future, corporations with large losses would be encouraged to go to the government for help if Chrysler received aid now.

Ghoshal admitted that the government would have an interest in Chrysler's financial success if it loaned the company $1 billion. "Certainly there would be claims of government partiality if Chrysler were awarded large contracts in the future." Yet what he sees as a danger, he said, is "not nationalization, but the danger of following the path that Great Britain blazed in the last twenty years; throwing away tax money to support inefficient industries."

"Why should the government guarantee what would be in effect a profit, instead of a profit/loss economy?"

If the government did loan Chrysler the money, he added, it would not be in a good position to supervise the corporation's efficiency. "After all, the government's efficiency record is not very good either."

Asked if Chrysler's financial difficulties were due to poor management, Sim hedged somewhat. "Chrysler has some very good managers," said Sim. "Only part of their problem is a failure of management to convert to the production of small cars that the market is demanding. That problem was compounded by the present gas crunch."

Ghoshal was less cautious in his response. "The problem in the short run is certainly poor management. They didn't read the demand for small cars three years ago, when they should have. They contracted to buy a fixed number of small car engines a year, instead of building their own plant."

Chrysler predicts increase in 1980 model car sales

DETROIT (AP) - Chrysler Corporation yesterday predicted its total car sales would rise about 0.5 percent in the 1980 model year, when total industry sales will be slightly less than the current model year, the company said.

Gar Laux, executive vice president for sales and marketing, said Chrysler would sell 1.15 million cars in the new model year, including imports from its Japanese affiliate, Mitsubishi Motors Corp.

The industry should sell 10.6 million cars and 3.65 million trucks, Laux said.

Laux' prediction was more pessimistic than that of General Motors Corp. Chairman Thomas A. Murphy, the most optimistic industry forecaster. Murphy predicted 1980 model year total sales of nearly 11 million cars and 3.75 million trucks.

Ford Motor Co. President Philip Caldwell last week made his prediction in terms of the 1980 calendar year - 10.5 million cars and 3.5 million trucks.

In the 1979 model year, which has four weeks remaining, the industry expects to sell 10.8 million cars and 3.7 million trucks.

"We expect the market to get over its fears about recession shortly after the first quarter of 1980 and to get stronger by next spring," Laux said.

A Chrysler spokesman said the automaker should finish the current model year with sales of 1,143,375 cars.

Chrysler's 1980 model year sales would include 150,000 Mitsubishi cars, an increase of about 8.8 percent from this year's Mitsubishi sales, Laux said. Sales of Chrysler's U.S. built cars thus would be about the same as the current model year, according to his prediction.

Laux spoke yesterday to reporters at a preview of the carmaker's 1980 models. All-new offerings for the year include smaller intermediate Chrysler Cordoba and Dodge Mirada and two-door Dodge Diplomat and Chrysler LeBaron.

Absence noted Hesburgh misses mass

Thomas C. Jennings

Where were you Father Hesburgh?

This year, as in previous years, Father Theodore Hesburgh, the esteemed president of this University, failed to appear at the official welcome for freshmen here at Notre Dame. The Welcome Mass for the new Freshmen signified the beginning of four years in the Notre Dame "family," but where was our "father"?

This time Father Hesburgh was in Vienna, Austria, at the United Nations Conference of Science and Technology. True, this function was a significant event in world affairs but... was Hesburgh so indispensable there that he could not fly in to meet with the impressionable young men and women who were about to embark upon the most important four years in their lives?

Of course, it can be said in rebuttal, "All Freshmen students will be afforded the opportunity to see Father Hesburgh at various times throughout the school term," but who have Hesburgh's defenders overlooked? "Overlooked" is appropriate; I dare not say they have forgotten.

The parents! The parents of the 1650 entering class were in attendance at this, the beginning of their son's or daughter's most momentous undertaking. Please Father Hesburgh do not forget the parents. Remember, these are the people who will be putting close to $25,000 in Notre Dame's treasury in the four years their child is enrolled here.

Just to highlight the importance of their tuition, these Freshmen parents will contribute to the coffers of the University of Notre Dame over forty-one million dollars! That is a little more than loose change even for this institution. In fact, according to the official Fact Sheet of Notre Dame, tuition accounts for 40% of the income of this University. Do not these "donors" deserve your presence Father?

I believe they do and although it is too late for my parents and for me to benefit from bringing this to your attention, I sincerely hope that my words here will help you see the importance of your presence at the opening of school next year and years to come.

Student Lists Housing Complaints

Dear Editor:

For years the University Administration has been telling us that they would be doing something about the ongoing housing shortage on campus which has plagued N.D. students. Now they reveal that there will be new dorms built by the Fall of 1980 which will be able to house 500 students. But lo and behold, they are also admitting 500 new students!!!

May I ask how this is relieving the current housing shortage? Answer: It doesn't. If this isn't bad enough, the rumor (?) circulating in the Towers is that one of the Towers is going to be used next year by the 500 new female students, and that the guys from the tower will be moved into the new dorms. (This will be done because the Administration feels that the Towers are too rowdy.)

But only one dorm, capable of housing 250 students will actually be completed by the Fall of 1980, leaving the other 250 guys out in the cold until they get around to completing the second dorm. If this occurs, the building of the new dorms and the acceptance of 500 additional students will not even be keeping things at the status quo. Rather, the housing situation will have worsened considerably, with 250 more people being thrown off campus.

Whether the scenario I have just laid out, and which was told to me by a couple of concerned friends who are Grace residents, actually occurs or not, can you blame those people now living in the Towers for believing it? All they have heard for years are empty words and broken promises!

But these new dorms to be built are particularly slaps in the faces of the 2,000 graduate students at Notre Dame. With the addition of 500 new beds for the undergrads, this raises the total of beds on campus for undergrads to over 6,000! This is a bed for 6 out of every 7.3 undergrads. Compare that to 250 beds for 2,000 graduate students. Of these 250 beds, only 75 of them are for the more than 1,400 graduate men currently enrolled at Notre Dame.

I could go on for pages on how the average N.D. grad student is in a much tighter financial bind than most all undergrads, how many of them have no transportation, and desperately need inexpensive housing on campus, etc., etc.

But what would be the use? Who would listen?

I have been accepted by a graduate program here at N.D., but for a variety of reasons, I have declined to attend graduate school here, and will be going elsewhere. After all, if an institution turns its back on you, then you are left with no choice, when they refuse to hear your pleadings, but to turn your back on the institution. Au revoir Notre Dame...

Indian Slur Marrs Article

Dear Editor:

Wednesday's article describing a young woman's experience in Appalachia was marred by the opening excerpt from American Magazine, which states that the early white mountain settlers had to trek through "Indian-ridden thickets." The expression 'Indian-ridden' conjures up similar expressions and suggests that the white settlers found the mountains 'lousy with Indians' or 'Indian-infested,' and thereby serves to obscure the Red Man's humanity. I am confident that this was not Ms. Dize's intent, and was surprised to find such a remark in an article which otherwise spoke so well of human sensitivity and Christian love.

The President and the Rabbit

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON--By now most people know the story about the President and the rabbit. For those who don't, it seems the President of the United States was out in a fishing boat alone and was attacked by a ferocious rabbit. The President splashed his oar at the rabbit and drove it away.

When he got back to shore he told his White House staff about the incident but they wouldn't believe him.

Now if this was just the story of a President and a bunny it would be none of the public's business. But the tale does have political implications and it says quite a bit about Mr. Carter's way of running the White House.

In previous administrations it is hard to imagine anybody on the President's staff doubting the word of his boss.

If Presidents Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy, or even Nixon had said they had been attacked by a rabbit on a pond a staffer's reaction would have been, "Thank God you're safe, Mr. President." Or in the case of President Johnson, Jack Valenti or Joe Califano would have said, "Please tell us about it, sir, and don't leave out one detail."

Even Gerry Ford's staff would have taken the Chief Executive at his word.

But such was not the case with President Carter. When he got back to shore with what he thought was a good tale to recount, his people refused to believe him.

As far as it could be learned not one person said, "Well done, Mr. President. That rabbit will think twice next time before he attacks the leader of the most powerful country in the world." or "If this doesn't show you can row and hit a rabbit at the same time, nothing will."

Instead he found nothing but skepticism when he related the story amongst his advisors and friends. Some insisted that rabbits could not swim; others doubted that, even if they could swim, they would attack a person holding an oar in his hand. Still others showed by their silence just how far morale in the Administration had declined.

It is rumored that Ham Jordan had even considered giving everyone who worked for Mr. Carter a loyalty test to find out who believed the President's bunny story and who didn't.

President Carter, who never shows his emotions, was crestfallen. The credibility of the Presidency had reached such a low point that, even when Mr. Carter said he had been attacked by a swimming rabbit, no one would take him at his word. Mr. Carter, chalked it up to the malaise in the country that had now infected even his own staff.

Fortunately for Mr. Carter, a White House photographer, who was on a bluff overlooking the pond, had taken a picture of the battle. Carter showed the photo to his staff who studied it, but they were still skeptical. Someone said, "It's an animal but how do we know it is a rabbit?"

For the first time since he took office Mr. Carter stopped smiling. He ordered Jody Powell to blow up the part of the photo which highlighted the thing in the water. Then he called in the staff again. "Well, is it a rabbit or isn't it?"

They finally decided by a vote of 5 to 4 that it was a rabbit. Jody Powell, who voted with the majority, went ahead and released the story.

Thus the country was assured that a President who had promised Americans when he took office that he would never lie to them had once again kept his word.

But the real question that goes begging is: "Why wouldn't Mr. Carter's people believe him in the first place?" [c] 1979, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ND Graduate is an Angel

Jane Barber

What do the words "angel" and An Tostal have in common (besides the fact that they both begin with "an")? Only Jim Brogan--and he could only come from Notre Dame.

One of the founding fathers of the ND Spring festival, James E. Brogan, Class of '70, graduated with a degree in Sociology. On Sunday night, he had another commencement--that of his introduction into the world of the television situation-comedy. He debuted as Random, an angel visiting Earth and star of the new ABC series, "Out of the Blue."

Brogan plays a guardian angel to five Chicago orphans sent to Earth to help their "Aunt" Marion (Dixie Carter) raise them. The kids are cute but even more amusing was the Boss Angel (Eileen Heckart). In the first episode, this grandmother-aged, feisty supervisor of angels almost sends Random back to his heavenly perch because he seems to be hurting the orphans more than helping them. But never fear--with a little help from his friend Mork from Ork, Random brings the dilemma to a happy ending, "just like a Shirley Temple movie," as the Boss Angel points out. The tale was touching in part but on the whole it was not tailored to Brogan's special talent.

Originally from Cleveland, Ohio, Jim Brogan has been playing improvisational clubs in New York and Los Angeles in the wake of Robin Williams, star of the hit "Mork and Mindy." But unlike Robin, Brogan is not an antagonistic comedian. He is more natural as a quiet, passive man who plays off other characters. By a quirk of casting he was placed in a role fit for a crazy, physical Orkan clown. Brogan's character is the equivalent of a Mindy without a Mork. Brogan needs a quick, antagonistic partner to work with and complement. Some lines of the script were clever, but the writing did not live up to the expectations that being a spin-off from "Mork and Mindy" creates.

"Out of the Blue" is suffering from the spin-off syndrome where the magic of the original show cannot be recreated no matter how hard the producers, writers and directors try. There is something uniquely special about the original that somehow cannot be found in the imitation.

Brogan's unique talent has been recognized by many. Time magazine called Brogan "the best since Robin Williams" to tour the improvisational circuit. Even here at Notre Dame, Jim Brogan's talent is recognized and commemorated. Every year, during

An Tostal week, a Jim Brogan Award is presented to the most original and outstanding contribution to that An Tostal celebration. His gift of originality and talent for making people laugh are certain, but maybe his star would be shining brighter in another galaxy.

This is Devo

- is it not?

Michael A. Korbel

I run into this problem just a little too often, and I'm getting tired of it. Too many people cringe and run the other way when you mention the New Wave bands--which they mistakenly refer to as "punk." Punk has been around as long as Johnny Rotten--not very long. The New Wave has absolutely nothing to do with ripped t-shirts, safety pin jewelry and nose rings. It has everything to do with a return to the simplicity that rock'n' roll began with.

Devo takes this New Wave simplicity and adds their unique electronic effects to convey their rather unconventional message. Sure, Devo is strange, but probably no stranger than any five guys you'd find around here. They have taken their own theory one step beyond Darwin's to DE-evolution, and cultivated an extremely small, but fanatic following.

Duty Now for the Future is their second release, and its worth a listen if you can ignore the strange glances from your friends--its their loss if they're not as open-minded as you are. Music is supposed to be entertaining, maybe even fun. Remember fun?

The "Devo Corporate Anthem" opens side 1, a solemn sounding instrumental hymn that is a tribute to the rise of the machine--the cause of man's de-evolution. It takes Devo a minute to do what Alan Parsons needed a whole album for--make you feel ominous mechanical despair.

"Clockout" mocks the big business ethic, extolling the virtues of power and wealth, and the all-American 40 hour week. When being important means making others crawl, DEVO tells you not to crawl; rather "Clockout!"

Electronics take over with "Timing X", the soundtrack playing in the memory of your friendly neighborhood robot. Fool your know-it-all friends by having them guess whose song this is--they'll never guess DEVO.

The New Wave beat arrives with "Wiggly World"--a tune with the message "Yeah, we know we're different, so what?" If every one wore alligator shirts, we couldn't tell who the cool people were.

"Blockhead" laments the single sightedness that is all too common today. Unable to think for themselves, blockheads find comfort in conforming to the crowd:

Cube top, squared off
Eight corners, 90 degree angles
Flat top, stares straight ahead
Stock parts, Blockhead!"

"Strange Pursuit" tells a story of unrequited love, an odd topic for these self-proclaimed spudboys, and they admit as much in the title.

Side 1 ends with the hangover classic "S.I.B. (Selling Itching Brain)" a paranoid song about the morning after. The bass line will give you a migraine if you don't already have one.

Three rather weak cuts begin side 2, enough to make the most loyal DEVO fan wonder why they were included. None of the songs offer the imagination that is characteristic of their music.

The cream of this potato crop is surely "Secret Agent Man". Its a little different than what you may remember from the TV show, yet it's easily recognized by its evil bass in the background and the now historic line:

They've given me a number and taken away my name

I guess it's safer to have DEVO on our side than not, we need all the help we can get these days.

"Smart Patrol/Mr. DNA" is next. The Smart Patrol is afraid nobody understands them and they're right. They plead that they're only

"suburban robots that monitor reality". Mr. DNA comes along and asks DEVO to sacrifice themselves that others may live. They don't mind, they feel they have a lot to give. I hope the Smart Patrol never joins forces with Elvis' "Goon Squad".

In "Red Eye", DEVO tells us something is wrong in Idaho, and that's something only they would know.

DEVO has performed their duty for the future, and now it's your turn. How can you refuse? Besides, there really are people somewhere out there who like this music. Just don't let the record store checkout girl pass her code scanner over the album cover; DEVO felt it was their duty to multi-code it.

The Features department requests that persons interested in writing reviews of jazz and blues albums and events contact Mick Mancuso at 8212. Events to be covered include performers on campus, at Vegetable Buddies, the Midwest Blues Festival and the Collegiate Jazz Festival.

Rockpile: Edmunds & Lowe

Mick Mancuso

Rock and roll, in the original sense of the term, was music for the young and the young at heart. It moved to a strong beat, was fairly simple, and most of all, it was fun. Names such as Chuck Berry, Buddy Holly, and Bill Haley stand out as central figures in the founding times of the style.

Through the years the form changed and expanded until it was nothing like the original. But suddenly in the late seventies a group of new performers arose to put rock back where it belonged all along. Terms such as Power-Pop, Rockabilly, and New Wave were being fused together by various artists through revival of old classics and top-notch new material. In the end, what was actually happening was the second coming of Rock and Roll.

One of the finest examples of this "new rock" is a group from England names Rockpile. But don't run out and try to find a Rockpile album, they don't exist under that name. Instead they have chosen to record under the names of their two most prominent members, Dave Edmunds and Nick Lowe.

One Repeat When Necessary the rockabillyside of Rockpile is heard, true to Edmunds' guitar roots. Many will remember Edmunds for his early seventies hit "I Hear You Knocking", an all-time classic. The Edmunds on Repeat When Necessary is not as strong as a whole as on previous albums, but on certain cuts elevates himself to a plateau usually seen only in live Rockpile performances.

Edmunds did not write any of the songs on the album, choosing instead to use oldies and castoffs from other artists and Edmundize them. Prime examples of this are Elvis Costello's "Girls Talk" and Graham Parker's "Crawling From the Wreckage", the latter coming close to summarizing the way this band came together.

Teaming up with Albert Lee on

"Sweet Little Lisa", Rockpile does it up with a fury that makes one wonder what ever happened to the Jerry Lee Lewis School of Rockabilly and how come there isn't more of this stuff floating around. It gets you out of your seat and dancing, and I don't mean disco dancing; I mean out and out rockin' and rollin' like they did it at The Hop.

Turning more toward the direction of power-pop is Nick Lowe's Labour of Lust. Not as disjointed as his Pure Pop for Now People, Labour of Lust shows the solidification of the song writing talents of Lowe. Lowe, whose credits include producing Elvis Costello's landmark My Aim is True album, has always been a force in the new rock scene originally brought out by Stiff Records in England. Only recently has he received the acclaim and prominence he has deserved. It would be extremely hard to pick any songs that are better than the rest on this album because they are simply all dynamite. How "Cruel to Be Kind" was picked for single release is unknown to this reviewer; I wouldn't have been able to make a choice. Edmund's influence is more evident on Labour of Lust as is brought out in "Skin Deep" and "Without Love." There is definitely more power in Lowe's power-pop this time around.

One thing that is disappointing in both these albums is that although they are both quite good they fail to maintain the intense high energy that one experiences at a Rockpile concert. That straight forward let-it-go feeling only surfaces on a few cuts and it's a shame because I am a firm believer in the theory that most anyone who sees or hears this band live will be impressed. Maybe it's only a hunger for a live Rockpile album, maybe it's a hunger for another Rockpile tour, but one things for sure: once you get hooked, you won't be able to get enough. And so it goes.

Interhall

INTERHALL TENNIS PAIRINGS

The pairing for all tennis tournaments will appear each Thursday in The Observer. It is the responsibility of the participants to contact his or her opponent and set up their match in each round. The results of all tennis matches must be turned in, in person, at the interhall office before noon on the following Wednesday. Failure to report the results to the interhall office will mean disqualification of both participants. Results will only be accepted if the participants have filled out the proper interhall insurance forms. After the first week of the tournament, any participant who has not met the insurance requirement will be dropped out of that tournament.

Due to the design of a single elimination tournament, some participants receive byes. Those participants listed as having a bye should check next Thursday's Observer for their opponent.

and we like to think we were a pretty good class. I guess you could say we have a lot of pride in ourselves and in each other." If all of that is to happen, a win Saturday might be considered a must.

"Definitely," Leopold emphasizes. "We have to win Saturday, and I really think we will."

In that case, Leopold's job is as important as anyone's on the team, for it is the linebackers that must bear a large part of the responsibility for stopping the option play--an offensive staple of Coach Bo Schembechler's squad.

"We've been working on it and I think we will be effective against it," comments Leopold.

"We know that Michigan uses the play and that they depend heavily upon it."

"And we know how important it is for us to stop it."

Leopold joins Mike Whittington and Bob Crable as Notre Dame's starting linebackers on Saturday and he thinks the trio can do the job.

"Mike and Bob are very good players and I think, on the whole, the three of us might be a little faster than last year's linebackers," he says. "Now that's not to say that guys like Bob Golic and Steve Heimkreiter weren't great players, but we can't worry about who we don't have. We have to play with who we do have and I think we have some good people."

Coach Kelly agrees. He calls Leopold "the fastest linebacker I've ever coached at Notre Dame," and he believes that he's got a very solid group of players at that position.

"We'll hold our own," he maintains. "With players like Bobby, Mike, Crable, Brendan Moynihan and a freshman, Mark Zavagnin, I think we'll be in pretty good shape."

With kickoff a little more than 48 hours away, Leopold is relying on the advice of his high school coach, Joe Washington Sr., to get himself in the right state of mind.

"Coach Washington used to say that in order to play well, you have to dream about what you're gonna do and then go out on game day and execute," he reveals. "It's like making a plan for the game. I dream about hitting someone or how I'll react in certain situations and I find it does help get me ready."

Notre Dame versus Michigan.

It's a game many experts predict that could be decided by "the big play" -- a Bobby Leopold specialty.

"I guess I dream about that, too," he grins.

So does Bo Schembechler. Only he calls it a nightmare.

Flood prevention work proceeds smoothly

by Bruce Oakley

Work intended to improve drainage and road conditions is scheduled for completion today at three sites across campus, according to Assistant Director of Maintenance John Moorman. Work at a fourth site was completed yesterday.

"In order to ease drainage problems, we installed 600-gallon catch basins near Badin Hall and in the Stepan parking lot," said Moorman. "We also did some work on the southside road by Corby and Sorin Halls, and on the road behind the architecture building."

Moorman said the southside road was finished yesterday, and a "finishing course" of asphalt would be applied at the other three sites today.

Weather conditions make it imperative that the work be done early in the semester, according to Moorman. This also means crews must sometimes begin work early in the morning, but students surveyed by the Observer had no complaints about the work disturbing them.

"They were there and done so quick, I hardly noticed them," said one student.

Moorman also noted that spot patching of campus roads would continue through September 21.

"This is all part of our continuing effort to improve the physical conditions around here," he added. "I think the new sidewalks on the North Quad and near the Memorial Library are further evidence of that effort."

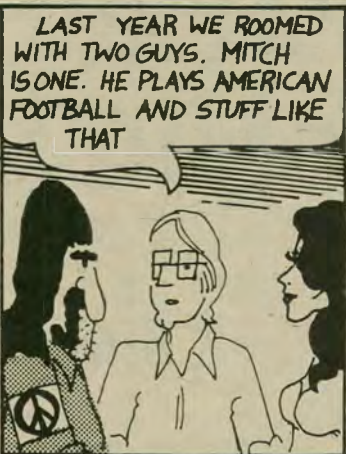

Logan Center organizes

There will be an organizational meeting for all Logan Center volunteers tonight at 7 p.m. in the library auditorium. Old and new volunteers are strongly urged to attend.

Those who are unable to attend should be at Logan Center on Saturday, September 15, at 9 a.m. for the first annual rec.

After a year

by Tricia Beaujean

Almost a year after the arson-sniper incidents which occurred over October break, the Notre Dame boathouse is nearing completion. The structure's wooden roof collapsed during last year's fire, damaging over $8000 worth of equipment and parts, according to Sailing Club President Don Condit.

Condit explained that the University approached the Sailing Club before renovation began and asked for ideas dealing with the boat house's reconstruction. Members of the Sailing Club then met with engineers and architects and came up with plans.

The future boathouse will retain the same walls, but the ceiling will be higher due to the conversion from a two to a one-story building. Improved facilities will expand the utility of the boathouse and Condit noted the possibility of installing showers.

During the summer months the boathouse is utilized by faculty and alumni and the added facilities will allow life-guards to work out of the boathouse. The building was originally used by the University as an icehouse.

Condit stated that at the time of the fire there were no boats inside, but masts, sail racks, and other equipment had been melted. However, the Sailing Club now appears ready to enter the new season, beginning with a regatta this weekend which will involve about 12 other universities from around the country according to Condit.

Concert Commissioner denies Grateful Dead rumor

by Jane Kirby

Student Union Concert Commissioner Mike Kelley denied last night the rumor that the rock group The Grateful Dead will appear at the Notre Dame ACC this fall.

"We looked into a variety of groups," Kelley said, "and the Grateful Dead would be a consideration." He stated, however, that the concert commission has not been approached by any Grateful Dead promoters, and that the commission has not attempted to pursue the group.

Joe Sassano, Assistant Director of the ACC, also denied the rumor about the Grateful Dead. "We have had no contact with them," he stated. He added that it is possible that the Atlanta Rhythm section will appear at the ACC.

Two concerts booked for this fall at the ACC included Styx on October 4, for which tickets are currently on sale, and for Kansas on October 19.

Two concerts which have been scheduled for Stepan Center are Pat Metheny on Nov. 9, and Pure Prairie League on Nov. 17.

dollars a month to get the bus heading towards Campus View. I think the morning shuttle is out," she concluded.

The off-campus newspaper, Off The Record, will be distributed next week, the council announced. They also started plans for this year's Mardi Gras Booth, which will be co-sponsored with the Saint Mary's off-campus council.

ND Students invest in publishing company

Nineteen Notre Dame men and women have invested in their own book publishing company, Juniper Press, and will release a book shortly before the Christmas holiday.

Leo Latz, a senior American Studies major and President of Juniper Press, is directing the entire operation of the company. The Editor-in-Chief, Mike Shields, along with the editorial department heads Jim Minutolo, Tim Creagan and Tim Tedrick, is in charge of reviewing the several manuscripts which have been submitted to the company for consideration.

According to Shields, the decision will be made by Sept.

17, at which time the author will be contacted, a contract drawn up, and Juniper Press will begin to publish its new title.

Juniper Press was established in 1976, and has published three books, Quick as a Dodo, Cleats, and Virgins and Martyrs, all written by members of the Notre Dame community.

If anyone is interested in submitting a manuscript for consideration, he should contact Jim Minutolo, Managing Editor (277-2652).

Thirty-five dollar shares in Juniper Press may be purchased through Aileen Lavin, Business Manager (6944).

golf team. "While the loss of Tim (Saur, last year's captain) will hurt, we have five guys on the team who have proven themselves." Lundgren added that he feels Notre Dame "has a good shot at going to the NCAA tournament this year." Right now, however, John Lundgren's thoughts rest on the final 36 holes of play in the Notre Dame Open. The remaining holes will be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and when all the numbers have been totaled, the players with the three lowest scores will receive beautiful medallions for their efforts. The gold, silver, and bronze medallions have been donated for the past thirteen years by William Burke Jr. The medallions carry the Notre Dame insignia, and they are mounted on plaques for the three award winners. O'Sullivan had some final comments about the Open. "The tournament does not serve as a tryout because I get most of my players through recruiting. However, I'm always hopeful that I'll find one or two players from the Open that will help our golf program." The Open means a lot of work for O'Sullivan, but he doesn't seem to mind. "I love running the tournament because the awards that I present to the top three players are priceless, and the attitudes of the competitors are superior. It is an enjoyable event for everyone involved."

The strong play of Notre Dame linebacker Bobby Leopold is a must if the Irish hope to beat the Michigan Wolverines this Saturday.

Leopold emerges as silent leader

by Frank LaGrotta
Sports Writer

Football games like Notre Dame versus Michigan tend to get a little blown out of proportion. Media coverage, ticket prices, fan reaction -- all are inflated for the so-called "big game." Sometimes it's all a little crazy.

Now, don't get me wrong. It is Notre Dame and they are playing Michigan. And sure, ABC television will be there along with 105,000 people -- just for effect, of course. But still, it is only a football game. No countries are in jeopardy, no lives are at stake. And it might be wise to keep that in mind. . . especially if you happen to be playing in it.

Maybe Notre Dame linebacker, Bobby Leopold has the right approach. He's excited about the game, and he's ready to play football, but he's keeping everything in perspective. Or, at least he's trying to.

"Before a football game, I try to remain real calm," the 6-3 senior points out. His responsibilities are many -- more than enough for him to think about.

"I basically try to concentrate on what I have to do during the game," he explains. "What plays they like to run, what coverages we have that work best against them, who my man is -- things like that."

It is thoughts like these that gets Bobby Leopold ready to play.

"I get up for every game, but especially a game like this," he admits. "I can remember when I was young and first started to play football. All you ever heard about were teams like Notre Dame, Michigan, Southern Cal. Now, for me to be a part of it all. . . Yeah, I'd have to say that gets me excited."

Linebacker coach George Kelly calls Leopold "a silent leader."

"Bobby has a somewhat different approach to the game," reflects Kelly. "He gets excited and mentally ready to play, but he is so steady that he never shows his emotions."

Kelly relates a comment made recently by one of the freshmen on the squad.

"He told me that in all the years he's been playing football, he's never seen a smarter, faster player than Bobby. And he thought his attitude was every bit as impressive as his ability."

About that there should be no question. A consistent three-year performer for Dan Devine's forces, Leopold has logged 114 tackles from his outside linebacker spot. He was a starter in 1978 until ankle and knee injuries forced him to the sidelines, and he needs to return only one more interception for a touchdown to break the Notre Dame career record of three. It is something he thinks about but, as you might expect, isn't concerned with.

"It's in the back of my mind," he smiles. "I would love to break the record but it's not my primary goal this season. If it happens, fine, but the six points I would contribute to the team would be much more important than any personal record."

A Sorin Hall resident after three years in Flanner, Leopold likes to relax listening to some good music or perhaps watching television. His stereo plays softly as he talks about this game and this season.

"I believe this team is closer than any team I've ever been on," he offers. "Especially the seniors. We want to win a national championship this year because we started together

Red Sox win

Yaz notches 3000th hit

BOSTON (AP) - Carl Yastrzemski reached the 3,000 hit plateau Wednesday night with an eighth-inning single and Chuck Rainey pitched a six-hitter as the Boston Red Sox beat the New York Yankees 9-2.

Before his ground ball shot into right field past the glove of second baseman Willie Randolph, the Red Sox veteran had been hitless in 11 at-bats since collecting his 2,999th Sunday against the Baltimore Orioles.

Yastrzemski thus became the first American League player to reach the 3,000-hit, 400-home-run plateaus in his career.

Rainey, 6-5, allowed a Yankee run in the second and one in the eighth, but the Red Sox pounded Catfish Hunter, 2-9, for seven runs on nine hits before he left in the fifth inning.

Jim Rice belted his 37th homer in the first inning, a two-run shot, to get the Red Sox off to a fast start. Boston scored three runs in the fourth and three in the fifth on eight hits, including RBI singles by Tim Lincecum, Mike O'Brien and Rick Burleson.

Lundgren grabs ND Open lead

The 1979 Notre Dame Open is well underway, signalling the beginning of this year's golf season. The Open is a 72-hole tournament which has been played annually since the early 1950s. It is open to all Notre Dame students, both male and female, regardless of their previous experience in golf.

Noel O'Sullivan, Notre Dame

golf coach, expressed his feelings about the tournament.

"The Open is an excellent opportunity for the students to test their skills under regular tournament conditions. It also affords the good players a chance to prove their ability in a pressure situation."

O'Sullivan added that "the competition provided by the tournament is healthy in that it helps the player who is highly skilled as well as the player who lacks tournament experience."

One individual who does not lack tournament experience is senior John Lundgren. Lundgren, a Minnesota native and three-time letterman in golf at Notre Dame, fired back-to-back scores of 68 for a 36-hole total of 136 and a one-stroke lead at the half-way point in the Open. In those 36 holes, Lundgren had one eagle, seven birdies, and only three bogeys. Right behind Lundgren is sophomore Bob Horak, who carded impressive rounds of 68 and 69. After Horak (137) are Mark Moryl and Bob Gibson (143), Bill McGuinness (144), and Tim Sackey and Jay Bryan (148).

Lundgren, the winner of last year's Notre Dame Open, had some thoughts about this year's tournament. "Since I won last year's Open, I have the added incentive of wanting to defend my title. I had a real solid summer, and I feel confident in the way that I'm playing right now." John competed in about ten tournaments over the summer, including the highly-regarded Western Amateur at the treacherous Point O' Woods Golf Course in Benton Harbor, Michigan. He won several tournaments in Minnesota, and he finished third in the Minnesota State Amateur.

John seems confident about the upcoming season for the Notre Dame erupts to down Loyola

Overcoming some sluggish play in the first half, the Notre Dame soccer team exploded for five second half goals to trounce Loyola of Chicago, 6-0, at a game played last night at Cartier Field.

Although they outplayed Loyola the entire game, the Irish could only dent the net once in the first half, as they failed to take advantage of most of their scoring chances.

Bill Wetterer scored the only goal in the first stanza, as he booted in a cross by Bill Murphy after an Irish throw-in. The goal was the first of the year for Notre Dame, since the Irish were shut out by Cincinnati in their only other game, 1-0, last Sunday.

"We were a little sluggish in the first half," Irish coach Rich Hunter admitted after the game. "But the second half was definitely better. Everyone was communicating well, and we played as well as we did in Sunday's game."

The persistent Irish pressure finally netted results in the second half, as Notre Dame consistently beat the weary Ramblers to the ball for the last 30 minutes of the game.

Sami Kahale opened the Irish scoring spurt 15 minutes into the second half, as he dribbled around a defender and put the ball into the net after a throw-in by Wetterer.

Joe Ciuni scored the next two goals for the Irish and also assisted on the fifth Irish goal, scored by Mai.

"Joe played really well tonight," Hunter commented. "He has some fine over-all skills, but his big problem is consistency. If he can continue to play like he did tonight, he will definitely help us."

Hunter was also pleased with the play of the other Irish reserves. "The second team played the way we wanted the first team to all night. If some of the players keep performing with that intensity, we might find some of them moving up."

"We need to maintain the excellent level of play that we showed in the second half tonight," Hunter added. "If we show some intensity early in the game, we should be able to wear teams out. If we can control the ball for 70 percent of the game, we are going to score, because we have so many fine shooters up front."

The Irish take to the road for the first time for their next two games. Friday night they face Dayton, where a crowd of over 12,000 is expected. Then on Sunday Notre Dame faces Xavier.

Meyers fails to pass rookie trials

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)--Ann Meyers has failed in her bid to become the first woman to play in the National Basketball Association, Indiana Pacer owner Sam Nassi said Wednesday night.

Nassi revealed that Meyers, a 5-foot-9, 140 pound guard who was an All-American women's player at UCLA, had failed to survive the club's cut following three days of rookie camp at Butler University.

No formal announcement of the decision that Meyers would not be invited to the club's training camp was made, although one was expected later. Nassi reportedly told the decision to a photographer at the session as Meyers and Pacer Coach Bobby Leonard held a private meeting.

Meyers participated in two-day workouts with nine male players, who also were bidding for an invitation to Friday's training session.

Leonard said earlier he would invite six or seven of the nine players to join the Pacer veterans. He originally planned to work with the rookies through Thursday, but he said on Wednesday the camp would end after Wednesday night's practice session.

Meyers, who announced in Los Angeles that she has signed with the Pacers, is assured a position with the club. Nassi was reported to have said that the 24-year-old sister of Milwaukee Bucks' forward Dave Meyers would remain with the club as a color commentator on its radio broadcasts.

Italian sets record in 200 meter dash

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Italy's Pietro Mennea, who had said he is the best 200 meter runner in the world, proved it Wednesday, smashing the world record with a clocking of 19.72 seconds at the World University Games.
