'Murder is murder'

John Paul II urges Irish peace

KNOCK, Ireland (AP) - Pope John Paul II took his peace pilgrimage yesterday to Ireland's most sacred shrine, in the bogs of Coun y Mayo, and in a forceful denunciation of terrorism declared, "Murder is murder, no matter what the motives or ends."

The pontiff called the Northern Ireland conflict "This great wound now afflicting our people" and appealed to the Virgin Mary to "cure and heal it."

"Mother, protect all of us and especially the youth of Ireland from being overcome by hostility and hatred," he said.

Late in the day the pope prayed at the little church of St. John the Baptist, then boarded a helicopter for a flight back to Dublin. But his second long day in Ireland was not to conclude until he held a meeting with Irish bishops, in which he was expected to urge them to become involved in settling the Irish conflict.

It appeared the pope's pleas for peace were not persuading the mostly Catholic guerrillas in British-ruled Northern Ireland to put down their arms. A nationalist spokesman in Belfast said the "war of liberation" would continue.

Earlier yesterday, John Paul made a similar appeal for nonviolence to some 250,000 cheering Irish youths gathered for a Mass at Galway's race track. But he made a broader appeal as well, telling the Catholic youth of the world that a "moral sickness" stalks society.

"How many young people have already warped their consciences and have substituted the true joy of life with drugs, sex, alcohol, vandalism and the empty pursuit of mere material possessions?" he asked. It was one of the most explicit denunciations yet by the 59-year-old Polish pontiff of the growing material concerns of Western consumer societies.

The Pope's stop here produced two security scares.

A young man rushed onto the podium as the pope was addressing the crowd and began gesturing and shouting. The pope extended his hand to the man - who wore jeans and a windbreaker and appeared to be in his 20s. Vatican aides led the man away still gesturing to the crowd.

Another man shouting "I am Jesus Christ!" dashed into a open area and toward the pope but was grabbed by two policemen several hundred feet from the papal altar, police said. The man, in his late 30s, appeared to be from India, a police spokesman said.

Meanwhile, thousands of Brit

Board of Commissioners faces inflationary problems

by Mary Fran Callahan

Into the early hours of the morning, the Student Government Board of Commissioners continued its deliberation to allocate $128,353.00 to Student Union, Student Government and over fifty clubs and organizations that requested funds.

Due to a fixed annual budget, determined by the flat activities fee paid by every student, the Board is faced with the problem of inflation. In addition to this, many new clubs have applied for assistance.

Bill Roche, Student Body President commented, "We've had twice as many requests from clubs and we split up the days to hear them. We are going through, taking our time, and making recommendations to the clubs as well as fine toothcombing Student Union and Student Government to try to cut unnecessary expenditures."

Because of this analytical approach to the funds allocation,

Greg Sebasky, Student Government Treasurer, was not expected to have any figures available until today. Sebasky commented on the limited budget, "The $17.00 student fee hasn't gone up for 4 and a half years. We have had to lessen our commitment to the Hall President's Council. Next year, we might make an appeal to the Board of Trustees to increase the student fee."

The treasurer also added that the process is so lengthy because it requires a Board vote on the proposed allocations. After the initial allocations have been made, the budget then must be totalled to be certain the proposed figures coincide with the actual dollar amount to be allocated. If the figures do not coincide, then more cuts are required which again necessitate Board approval.

Roche cited the cause for the increase in funding requests, saying "We have taken more care to let people know that funding is available."

Russian military troops occupy Japan - USSR disputed Shikotan

TOKYO (AP) - While President Carter wrestles with the question of Soviet troops in Cuba, the Russians have become involved in a similar issue on an island just off Japan.

According to a U.S. intelligence report, about 2,000 Soviet military personnel recently were moved to Shikotan - one of four small islands off Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost main island.

In addition to being thousands of miles apart the islands and the controversies surrounding them have some basic differences.

Cuba, 90 miles from U.S. shores, is an independent country where the Russians are officially welcome. Shikotan, 60 miles from Hokkaido, has been claimed by both the Soviet Union and Japan since the Soviets took it over at the end of World War II.

But there were some parallels in the way the two controversies unfolded, and in the reactions of the U.S. and Japanese governments.

The Soviet-Cuban issue was forced on President Carter by two U.S. senators, both Democrats facing re-election in 1980.

Shikotan has its own political overtones. First leaked to Japanese reporters in Washington, it captured the headlines in Tokyo in the midst of Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira's campaign to tighten his grip on Japan's parliament in a general election set for next Sunday.

Japanese commentators suggested the timing might be connected with the election, especially in view of, the fact that the Soviet troops had actually moved in several weeks earlier, part of a buildup over "recent months," according to the U.S. State Department.

The territorial dispute with the Russians over Shikotan and its sister islands is of particular importance in Hokkaido, where many thousand former inhabitants of the islands - Japanese citizens and voters - now live.

Carter, who has scheduled a television address for tonight on the Cuban issue, has said previously that the Soviet troops in Cuba posed no threat to U.S. security.

Japan's foreign minister, Sunoda, returning from the United Nations, told reporters he did not regard the Soviet troops on Shikotan as a threat to Japan's security. Ohira said his government would take "appropriate action," evidently a protest to Moscow.

Japan's Defense Agency has taken the position that the troops are "defensive," and speculates that 260 tanks, 300 armored personnel vehicles, anti-aircraft missiles and rockets are on the islands.

The United States has called the troops in Cuba combat troops, and President Carter said intelligence reports indicate they have about 40 tanks and "some field pieces." Cuba and the Soviet Union have denied the troops are combat troops.

The Cuba controversy set off new alarms in the White House just as the administration had become confident that the SALT II arms limitation treaty with the Soviets would win Senate ratification.

Dumpster fire blazes behind Walsh

by Beth Willard

Early Sunday morning a pile of trash next to a dumpster behind Walsh Hall flared up into a large fire which had to be extinguished by the fire department.

While the cause of the fire has not been documented, the Security department theorizes doused, but not extinguished, coals from the Knights of Columbus steak sale may have been responsible. A large heap of cardboard boxes and paper overflowing from the trash bin between Walsh and the Knights of Columbus Hall ignited in a 10 to 15 foot blaze.

Tracie Paris, a resident of Walsh, stated that she and a friend were in her second floor room overlooking the site and smelled smoke. "We looked out the window and there were flames shooting up from the dump," she said. She reported the fire to Walsh rector Sr. Kathleen Rossman, who then contacted Security at approximately 12:45 a.m.

Rossman and assistant rector M.C. Chandler immediately rushed to the scene with two fire extinguishers, to find that a knight had also brought a fire extinguisher outside. "Within minutes someone from Security arrived," emphasized Chandler.

The officer (later identified as Ray Garcia) used all three extinguishers to keep the fire under control until the fire truck showed up about 10 to 15 minutes later.

When contacted, Garcia noted that the fire extinguishers were simply inadequate to douse the flames which flared skyward once again as the firemen pulled up.

The fire alarm at Walsh was not the only one of the evening, Garcia revealed. Alarms were reported by three men's dorms earlier in the evening, although the fire reported by Walsh was the only one that turned out to be real.

"Howard, Dillon, and Fisher, in that order, called in alerts," Garcia said. While the tumult in Howard was attributed to a faulty alarm, the other two were apparently due to pranksters. "I'd like to catch just one of the guys who pulled

Mao gets mixed reviews as China enters new decade

PEKING (AP) - China entered its fourth decade today with some words of praise for Mao Tse-tung, some criticism of him, and a national policy that owes more to his old adversaries than to him. On the eve of the 30th anniversary of Communist rule, 5,000 people shared a toast yesterday with Mao's successor, Communist Party Chairman Hua Guofeng (Hua Kuo-feng) in the Great Hall of the People. The party leadership at the banquet looked, with some exceptions, like a role call of the Maoist era's victims - old men and women purged by Mao in the turbulent years since the 1949 revolution. Reunited, they aim to turn China into a modern nation by the year 2000.

Balloonists continue set distance record

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) - A helium-filled balloon was headed back toward its projected course yesterday as the four adventurers aboard continued their attempt to make the first coast-to-coast balloon flight. The balloon had drifted over the western portion of Kansas overnight as it gradually changed direction to the more northerly direction, toward its original course. Aboard the 100-foot high balloon are Vera Simons, of McLean, Va.; Fred Hyde, an eye surgeon from Prairie Village, Kan.; Rudolph Enselman of Boulder, Colo., and NBC-TV cameraman Randy Birch. The four adventurers lifted off Wednesday from Tillamook, Ore., hoping to be the first persons to fly non-stop in a balloon across North America. The crew set a long-distance flight record Friday for balloonists in the continental United States.

Man breaches papal security as pope addresses mass

GALWAY, Ireland (AP) - A young man breached tight security Sunday around Pope John Paul II as the pontiff was addressing a Mass attended by 300,000 young people here. The pope smiled, beckoned him forward and placed a hand on his shoulder and the incident passed without danger. Unchallenged, he slowly walked up the red carpet leading to the 40-foot-high altar and stood behind the pope as the pontiff addressed the crowd. The pope smiled at the man and extended his arm, touching him. Two priests then quietly escorted the youth back into the crowd.

Court ruling overturns order on train runs

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court overturned yesterday a lower court order which would have required Amtrak to continue running its New York-Kansas City train, the National Limited, after Sunday. The ruling does not affect four other trains whose future is being contested in other courts. Amtrak spokesman Jim Bryant said there would be no immediate appeal of another court order requiring passenger service to continue on three other jeopardized routes originating in Chicago and going to Seattle, Houston and Miami. And Amtrak issued orders Sunday night to train crews and its own employees to prepare to run those contested trains Monday.

Starting in October Counseling Center holds workshops

by Michael Moder

Starting in October, the Counseling Center Staff will be conducting workshops that may improve a student's chances of landing the job of his choice.

The workshops consisting of four different programs designed to improve skills in assertiveness, studying, career planning and interviews, are open to all students from Notre Dame and Saint Mary's. The classes are conducted free of charge.

The first workshop to be held will be on Assertiveness Training. This class will be held on four separate dates, October 2, 4, 9, 11, from 7:00 - 9:30 p.m. According to Greg Meimeyer, Assistant Training Coordinator of the Counseling Center, this program is designed to improve interaction on interpersonal levels and sharpen social skills.

On October 16 and 18, the Counseling Center will hold a class on Job Interview Skills, also from 7-9:30 p.m. Students will learn basic principles to follow during job interviews, and then participate in interview situations. They will then watch themselves on videotape, and find out what they did right and what skills they did not put to use.

Life and Career Planning is the topic of the next workshops. These will take place October 31, November 7, and 14, from 7-9 p.m. This class will benefit sophomores and juniors as they attempt to narrow down their career choices.

The final workshop in the series, Study Skills, will take place November 5 and 6 from 7-9 p.m. This class will help students learn techniques in organizing their studying and will benefit freshman and sophomores the most. All students are encouraged to attend.

The workshop will meet in the Counseling Center of Notre Dame which is in room 400 of the Administration Building. The programs will emphasize involvement using techniques such as roleplaying and discussion groups.

Meimeyer said that in the past these programs have been very successful. Students have indicated a 75 per cent improvement rate after having attended one or more workshops, he said.

Although all classes are free, some have limited openings so all are encouraged to sign-up for the workshops early. For more information contact the Counseling Center at 1717.

Commission sells tickets to see Pope

Saint Mary's spiritual commission announces that space is available for 165 students wanting to go to Chicago and see the Pope. Saint Mary's and Notre Dame students interested in going to Chicago must purchase their ticket tonight, at 7 p.m. in the lobby of LeMans Hall at Saint Mary's. Tickets cost $16.50 for the day which takes place Friday, Oct. 5. Buses will leave at 8 a.m. and plan to return by 8 p.m.

It takes more than a degree in engineering to make you an engineer.

You're working hard for your degree in engineering. But what will you do when you get it? Where will you get the practical experience you need to make that degree pay off?

More and more people like yourself are discovering that one of the best places to get on-the-job engineering experience is in the U.S. Navy. As a commissioned officer in the Civil Engineer Corps.

Don't let the word "civil" mislead you. The Navy's looking for applicants with degrees in electrical, mechanical, industrial, architectural, construction, nuclear and chemical engineering, too.

The standards are high. And the opportunities impressive. You'll have a chance to travel. Stretch your mind. And get your hands on projects you couldn't expect to touch for years in civilian life.

Think you measure up to a get-ahead job like this? Why not find out.

Fills auditorium Carpentier lectures on 'The Inklings'

by Tom Koegel

Noted literary critic and author Humphrey Carpentier spoke Saturday to a filled Hayes-Healy auditorium gathering about the literary group "Inklings." The group, had as its members one of the most highly acclaimed and popular writers of this century, including C.S. Lewis, J.R.R. Tolkien and Charles Williams.

Carpentier, the author of Tolkien: The Authorized Biography, and is currently collaborating on a collection of Tolkien's letters with Tolkien's son, Christopher. He classified Tolkien and Lewis as being among the greatest "mythopoeians."

The word mythopoeian has been coined to describe the process of myth-making, a process by which Tolkien and Lewis created the new worlds of their literature.

Carpentier chose the emphasize Lewis and Tolkien in his lecture, and he noted that their mythopoeic work was directly related to their love for Christianity.

Tolkien was a Catholic from childhood, and his faith was reflected in his most famous work, The Lord of the Rings. "The Lord of the Rings," Carpentier noted, "is basically a Catholic myth. Incorporated in it are various Catholic references, most notably to the Virgin Mary."

Lewis came about his Christian beliefs in quite a different manner. As Lewis himself recounted in some of his autobiographical works, he went through a period in his life where he "was determined to be rational, and believed that there was no rational way to prove the existence of God, therefore God did not exist."

"As his views on Christianity changed to the point where he could accept Christ and His resurrection as the important point of Christianity, Christian themes began to appear in his fictional works," Carpentier explained.

The Chronicles of Narnia, a set of books that Lewis wrote specifically for children, "should not be interpreted as allegory, but rather as a story of Christ in another world," Carpentier said.

Together with his "space trilogy," which included the novels Out of the Silent Planet, Perelandra, and That Hideous Strength, Chronicles illustrates how Lewis transplanted Christian beliefs into his novels.

Tolkien's first work, but the one which was the last to be published was The Silmarillion, his effort to develop a set of stories for the English people.

"It is a collection of myths which deal with the creation of the world and the eternal battle of good versus evil," Carpentier stated.

"Tolkien's elves, who are the main characters in The Silmarillion myths, are nothing but man without the stain or original sin and the pain of mortality," Carpentier said. "They are what we might have been, at least in Tolkien's view."

"In contrast, Tolkien's most beloved and original characters, the hobbits, are nothing but, as he once put it, 'short Tolkiens.'", Carpentier claimed. "They like the same things that Tolkien liked, and distrust the things that he distrusted."

Carpentier explained that, Tolkien was occasionally taken to task for creating a mythology which was at odds with Christian beliefs.

"One gentleman wondered how he, a Catholic, could in essence rewrite all he believed," Carpentier recalled. "Tolkien replied that the creation of myth was the ultimate tribute to the Creator, because it emphasized the diversity and ability of his Creation."

... Peace

ish Protestants prayed an "amen" yesterday to Pope John Paul II's appeal for peace between Roman Catholics and Protestants in Northern Ireland.

But few in the officially Protestant country thought the plea will end terrorism.

"Most of our churches today included prayers for the pope's visit to Ireland," said David Watson, spokesman for 300 Congregational churches in England and Wales.

"I believe that the vast majority of ministers and members of the Church of Scotland will strongly support the powerful appeal that the pope has made," said the leader of that million-member Protestant church, the Rt. Rev. Robin Barbour.

Elsewhere in Britain reactions ranged from rejoicing to rejection, but the consensus was a welcome tempered by caution. "It may not win peace, but it's magnificent," declared a headline in London's Sunday Telegraph.

That summed it up for many in Britain, which ruled all Ireland until 1922 and has stood uneasily on the sidelines of the papal visit, eyeing its implications for the sectarian feud in the British province in the north.

Vance, Dobrynin discuss Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) - Top U.S. and Soviet officials held a surprise meeting at the State Department yesterday as President Carter remained at Camp David working on a speech concerning the Russian brigade in Cuba.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin began their meeting at 2 p.m. but State Department spokesman David Nall would give no indication of the purpose of the meeting or even which side had first suggested it.

Nall said later the meeting lasted an hour and 24 minutes. "I can't give you any idea what they talked about," he said. "I don't know."

President Carter announced that he would address the nation today at 9 p.m. EDT after negotiations with the Soviets apparently had broken down, with the Russians refusing to budge on Carter's insistence that they change the "status quo."

When Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko returned to Moscow last week after meeting in New York with Vance, he gave no indication whatever of softening the Soviet position. The Soviets maintain that the brigade - which U.S. officials say has 2,000 to 3,000 soldiers, 40 tanks and artillery and armored personnel carriers - has been stationed in Cuba since the 1962 missile crisis with the full knowledge of previous American presidents.

In a news conference Friday, Cuban President Fidel Castro echoed the hard Soviet line and accused Carter of creating an artificial crisis.

Carter then huddled with 15 retired national security officials including former secretaries of state Henry Kissinger, William Rogers and Dean Rusk. The president flew by helicopter to his mountaintop retreat Saturday afternoon accompanied by his wife, Rosalynn.

White House spokesman Dale Leibach said yesterday the president was spending the day working on his Monday night address. Leibach said he did not believe Carter had summoned any speech writers to Camp David, indicating he was going over a draft of the speech alone with his wife.

Students form nuclear disarmament committee

A growing number of Notre Dame students, faculty, and religious have recently expressed their concern over some very important issues that affect us as individuals, Christians, Americans, and members of the world community. These are matters directly related to military expenditures, nuclear policy (power and armaments), and the possibilities of disarmament.

In response to these concerns, an organization is now being initiated to deal with these most urgent issues: The Student Committee for the Investigation of Military, Nuclear and Disarmament Policy.

The primary thrust of this group will be educational. It will attempt to heighten student awareness of such issues as nuclear power, energy, weapons, military expenditures, and the real possibilities of global disarmament. Its focus will be discussion of the inter-economic conversion to a peacetime economy, the Third World, political realities in the Nuclear Age, and the role of church as a prophetic voice in the wilderness.

Since the group's orientation is educational, it realizes that to build awareness it must possess the tools to inform. We hope to increase knowledge about these issues through a variety of sources, among them films, written materials (magazines, books, special government reports), research material and occasional guest speakers. Furthermore, we hope to locate a place on campus in the very near future where faculty, students, religious and interested lay persons may go to find out more about disarmament, nuclear policy, and military expenditures. Awareness is our primary goal, not rhetoric.

Because of the imposing complexity of these issues, our group will require input from a variety of sources within the ND community if it is to be successful.

Therefore, we strongly urge all interested persons to contribute in whatever capacity they are able to. Persons from arts and letters, business, engineering, law, all the sciences, and the religious community are encouraged to explore this effort. If Notre Dame responds to this challenge, we may spark other Catholic (and non-sectarian) universities to heighten students' awareness at their campuses. In the long run, it may be our efforts that make all the difference in securing peace for our children's future. If we fail to respond to the call, there might not be any future beyond our own generation. Let us pray that we make the right choice.

Fr. Hesburgh is to be commended for his positive commitment to our organization. He has seen to it that the necessary funds became available so that the Student committee could be launched in the first place. Without his help, you would not be reading this article.

We would also like to thank Bill Roche, Student Body President, and Don Cleary, Social Concerns commissioner, for their complete support on this vital matter. The Student committee will function as an organ of Student Government, under the aegis of Social Concerns.

A special appeal is extended to faculty members in government, engineering, science, economics, business, and the humanities to contribute their expertise, critical judgment, and guidance to this effort.

All interested persons are asked to call Renee Leuchten 3848, Rob Gabriele 8827, Tom Nobrega 1372, Chris Lyons 8828, Lou Reifschneider 1418, or Student Government, 7668.

P.O. Box Q

United Way decision clarified

Dear Editor:

As a voting member of the Saint Mary's Board of Governance I would like to stress a couple of points concerning the United Way decision.

Saint Mary's student body will this year, as in past years, choose a school charity. The Board, as servants of the students, will direct their efforts to support that charity. For the past two years, The United Way has been the only charity we solicit for door to door. It seems much more consistent with our duty to represent the students for us to concentrate our full efforts and time on the charity chosen by the students.

As advocates of student responsibility we are not removing any opportunity for the women at Saint Mary's to act. The annual United Way drive will continue in St. Joseph's County and there will be ample opportunity for anyone to contribute time and money. Our Development Commissioner Adri Trigiani will need dedicated women to volunteer their services. What we are doing is remaining true to the students' trust in us both as their representatives and as responsible thinking adults. So I ask the students of SMC to begin their own research in the area of our college charity and to keep us, your leaders, informed.

SMC students challenge energy crisis

The present energy situation is a world-wide dilemma, one which often seems beyond our immediate range of concern. Until we are affected by shortages--of gasoline, of heating oil, of electrical power--energy resources seem to be at our command. However, in many respects, we do not control energy; energy controls us. This past summer the public felt the impact of gasoline shortages and was forced to readjust vacation plans and daily work transportation labels.

From this experience and other past events we have been forced to realize that we must educate ourselves in order to better manage available resources. Energy is not misused, but over-used. By becoming more aware of personal energy consumption, we may be able to better manage energy resources and in so doing, ease energy shortages.

The state of Indiana has named September as Energy Month. October has been named International Energy Month. In observance of these programs, the Student Government and the Saint Mary's Affiliated of the American Chemical Society (SMAACS) are challenging the Saint Mary's student body, faculty, staff, and administration to increase their awareness of personal energy consumption and as a result, conserve energy. Through more intelligent and efficient use of appliances, lights, water, and heat, Saint Mary's energy consumption could be decreased by 20% from previous consumption. This is the challenge which Saint Mary's Student Government and SMAACS extend.

Throughout the month of October, we seek to develop in students, faculty, staff, and administration an awareness as to the amount of energy consumed by the college. It is our hope that this education in energy use will motivate the community to improve energy consumption habits.

We are responsible for what we use--and over-use!

*Pia Trigiani

Belgian students compare universities, lifestyles

Two visitors from Belgium, on a three week stay in America, are guests of Chemistry Professor Dr. Emil T. Hoffman. Charntal Devuyt, cousin of Dr. Hoffman and economics student at the University of Leuven, and Martine Gerard, optician and graduate of Leuven, arranged and paid for their trip. Their vacation, which ends Tuesday, was spent observing the Notre Dame campus and lifestyle.

A major difference between Leuven and Notre Dame is student attitude, according to the girls. "Notre Dame students seem comfortable and relaxed, while students of Leuven are more conservative," said Charntal. This difference is mainly due to the contrasting lifestyles of America and Europe. "It would never enter a Leuven student's mind to wear shorts and a tee-shirt to class, because he wasn't taught to see college as that type of place," she explained.

The two schools also differ in their attitudes toward sports. "Leuven students are not as athletically involved as Notre Dame Students," Charntal commented. "Sports such as football are organized by the community, and do not generate a great amount of student interest."

Another difference between the universities is the academic situation. "Notre Dame professors help in every way possible to benefit the student," Charntal noted. "At Leuven, everyone is on their own. Exams are given at the end of January and the end of June. There are no assignments or quizzes between exams, so it's impossible to know your standing. Often it's too late for a student to catch up before exams, if he's weak in a subject."

"The Leuven students are in general more competitive and less open than Notre Dame students. The atmosphere at Notre Dame is more friendly," Charntal said. "The concentration at Leuven is mainly on studies, while at Notre Dame there is more of a balance between study and social life," she added.

The grading system of Leuven is based on the average of all exam scores. Instead of letter grades, a title is given based on the cumulative average. The titles range from Satisfaction for a 60-70% average, to Most Great Distinction for an average in the upper 80%.

Martine and Charntal were most affected by the attitude of students and members of the community. According to Martine, "People seem more tolerant and open here, whereas Europeans are more strict." "There is more institution to respect and follow in Europe, while Americans are free and relaxed."

When asked whether they would prefer living in America, the girls agreed that although they enjoyed the easygoing nature of Americans, they would have to spend a year or two more here before deciding to stay permanently.

an alarm. It's a real danger to others," commented Garcia.

Frances Tisak, a knight, told firemen that coals from the Knights of Columbus pre-game steak sale had been thoroughly doused with water and were "stone cold" before they were dumped on the bare ground adjacent to the dumpster.

Grand Knight Tom Leibowitz cited the time factor (the coals were lit at 9 p.m. and the fire occurred 15 hours later) and stated that he thought it was unlikely that the coals caused the fire. The coals were dumped shortly before the blaze was sighted.

Although Leibowitz quoted a rumor that a male had been seen lighting a cigarette next to the dump and could have thus lit the fire, he was unable to verify its accuracy.

"Dumping coals is not our normal procedure," he reiterated. "This is the first time it has happened." He explained that ordinarily coals are left in the braziers to burn out and dumped the following week.

"In the future we won't take any chances and will fill the pits with water. We recommend that other organizations do the same," Leibowitz said.

ped back to pass and avoided a linebacker blitz long enough to throw a perfect strike to Tony Hunter for a touchdown.

State came right back with a drive of their own on the next series, ignited by a 45-yard kickoff return by Derek Hughes. Two long runs by Hughes and Steve Smith brought State to the Irish 11-yard line, but free safety Tom Gibbons stepped in front of a pass intended for Samson Howard at the goal line and returned it past Bert Vaughn was hit after he threw the ball, and was taken to the hospital for back x-rays, which later proved negative.

Gibbons' interception started another Irish drive which came up short, as Ferguson's dive on fourth down failed to get into the end zone.

The defense held the Spartans inside the five, and a 36-yard screen pass to fullback Ty Barber after the MSU punt set up a 49-yard field goal by Chuck Male, the longest of his career. Bernie Adell, who gained 73 yards on 10 carries in relief of Ferguson, set up another Male three-pointer with a 34-yard run. The 39-yard boot was Male's eighth consecutive field goal and puts him within reach of Dave Reeve's record of 12 for a season.

The Spartans launched their only scoring drive late in the first half, as Bryan Clark, the son of Detroit Lions' coach Monte Clark, took over for Vaughn at quarterback. Morten Anderson, who was in the hospital earlier in the week with back problems, came on to kick a 53-yard field goal, the longest ever against the Irish.

Notre Dame destroyed any momentum gained by this last second kick, as they drove 87 yards on their first possession of the second half. Ferguson scored the first rushing touchdown of the year for the Irish, as he burst through a tremendous hole over center and streaked into the end zone.

Ferguson's second score came on the next Irish possession, as Notre Dame faced another fourth and short, this time at the State 48-yard line. Devine elected to go for it again, and Ferguson took the pitch from Lisch, tightrope down the sidelines, and then cut back before striding into the end zone.

"That play was designed just to get the first down," Ferguson noted. "Coach said anything you get after that is great, whatever happens, happens."

Michigan State could not make it happen all afternoon, as head coach Darryl Rodgers noted.

"We thought without a doubt Notre Dame was the best team we have played up to this time. They were exactly what we expected. It was our first physical game of the year, and we didn't hold up to it very well."

"Rockne once said that you can only play a few emotional games a season," Devine added, "but with us every game is emotional."

"Now we must look ahead to Georgia Tech. We know they will come in here fired up, but we'll have to play another emotional game like we did today."

a 1-0 lead at the 42:14 mark.

At halftime, coach Hunter was encouraged that his team was still in the game, but felt, "They shouldn't have scored. We got a foot on the ball and didn't clear it."

The second half brought better news for Irish fans. Notre Dame's non-existent first half offense was resurrected. Sami Kahale found a hole in the Hoosier defense in the first minute, but his shot from the left side carried wide.

Quickly, Kevin Lovejoy and Kahale got another break going. Lovejoy fired from close range and Putna got a piece of

it. Mike Mai pounced on the rebound and followed it into the net only to have a handball violation called and the goal nullified.

Soon after that sequence, Putna made a tremendous effort to bat the ball with his fist away from Bill Wetterer in front of Indiana's goal.

Notre Dame maintained its pressure until about thirty minutes remained in the game. Still leading only 1-0, Indiana began to regain command.

Betancourt worked a picture perfect give-and-go play with teammate Pat McGauley for a 2-0 lead with 29:03 left in the game.

Six minutes later, Betancourt, a native of Honduras, chipped a pass behind the Irish defense to Tim Walsh who shot past a fallen Cullather, who injured his leg.

John Milligan came in to replace Cullather, and after a number of incredible stops against IU's second team, was finally beaten. McGauley hit Mike Freitag with a pass through the middle of Notre Dame's defense for the fourth and final goal with 16:31 left to play.

In the locker room after the game, Hoosier coach Yeagley saw a big difference in Notre Dame from a year ago. "Last year I think they were in awe of us", he recalled "this year they weren't. This year they had confidence."

About the first sixty minutes, he said, "We had a ballgame on our hands. There's a lot to be said for (a team with) heart and desire. I just think they ran out of gas."

Yeagley's favorite Irish player was Tom Crotty. "That kid really had his head in the game," the Hoosier mentor related. "He always knew what he was doing."

Co-captain Crotty spoke for the Notre Dame squad about IU saying, simply, "Hey, those are the best players in the United States. We gave them our best."

"Notre Dame soccer gets better every year," Yeagley added "With the natural rivalry, this has the makings of a great series."

... Future stars

playing on the prep team last year and riding the bench so far this year, it really felt good to finally contribute."

Tony Hunter was the nation's most sought after high school receiver last year. In his first two games with the Irish, the highly touted rookie from Cincinnati, Ohio, had a simple case of the "freshman jitters," missing passes under pressure. But Saturday Hunter hauled in a pass from Lisch and pounded over Spartan James Burroughs at the three for a 14-yard touchdown play.

"I was a little nervous in the first two games," admitted Hunter, "but today's game really did a lot for my confidence. I was starting to get a little depressed because I hadn't been doing so well, but that touchdown really felt super. Now I know I can compete with some of the nation's best."

With youngsters like these joining forces with the likes of sophomores Bob Crable, Joe Gramke, Steve Cichy and Dean Masztak, the future looks to be coming up roses (make that Oranges, or Sugar, or...).

[Mao gets mixed reviews] to pace Irish victory

by Mark Perry
Sports Editor

When a running back carries the ball nearly 30 times every game, you would think sooner or later the opposing defense would find a way to stop him.

Vagas Ferguson carried the ball 28 times for Notre Dame in their 27-3 victory over Michigan State in Notre Dame Stadium on Saturday, and the Spartans couldn't even stop him the last time he touched the ball.

The Spartans spent most of the day trying to halt the Irish offense, which erupted for 434 total yards, including 318 yards rushing.

"For the past three years that I've been here, it has always taken the offensive line two or three games to get coordinated," commented Irish offensive tackle Tim Foley. "We owned that line of scrimmage today. We worked together as a unit to make the count and open the holes."

Ferguson, who gained 169 yards on the day to pass George Gipp on the Notre Dame career rushing list, echoed Foley's comments. "The offensive line was really up today. They hung tough, right in there."

Now only 281 yards shy of Jerome Heavens's leading career total, Ferguson turned in his best performance of the year, highlighted by touchdown runs of 24 and 48 yards in the third quarter, the last score coming on his final carry of the day.

"We played a tremendously emotional game," commented Irish head coach Dan Devine. "I am proud of the team and way they bounced back from the loss to Purdue."

"We hoped to be 3-0, but I'm very happy to be 2-1."

Team emotion played a big part in the victory, as defensive tackle Scott Zettek noted. "We had a different attitude today, because we had to make up for the Purdue loss. We worked on consistency all week because against Purdue we had good plays and bad plays."

The Irish had very few bad plays on Saturday, as they dominated the line of scrimmage for most of the game, but they couldn't capitalize on their first big scoring chance. A 51-yard punt return by Ty Dickerson gave Notre Dame the ball on the MSU five-yard line, and three running plays left them within inches of the goal line. Devine elected to go on fourth down, but Rusty Lisch was stopped short on a quarterback sneak.

Lisch, who missed the Purdue game because of an ankle sprain, finally put Notre Dame on the board late in the first quarter. With the ball on the State 14-yard line, Lisch drop-

...but Duerson was right there. Barber returned the kickoff to the Irish 28-yard line.

Adell's finally stopped after a 36 yard gain.

...and Hunter's in for the score.

The radio announcer probably said all these things during Saturday's thrashing of Michigan State. It is also very likely that a number of listeners (and spectators) were pleasantly surprised by the sparkling performances of these players who most had never heard of.

Of the four, only one had played a single second during Notre Dame's '78 campaign. Ty Barber logged just over eight minutes of playing time on special teams and when the games were out of reach. So, understandably, little was known about this talented foursome. Dave Duerson, the only defensive player of the four, started Saturday's game in place of injured cornerback Dave Waymer. A member of Dan Devine's outstanding crop of freshmen, Duerson saw limited action near the end of the Purdue loss last week, making two unassisted tackles in as many series. Saturday the Muncie, Ind. native made four solo tackles and added two more assists.

But his biggest contribution was on special teams where he returned three punts for 50 yards including a nifty 28-yarder which set up Notre Dame's first touchdown.

Of course, when Waymer's sore knee is healthy again, possibly this week, he will return to the starting lineup. But it is a big asset for any team to know that that kind of depth is there when it is needed. "I'm really glad I could make a contribution," said the happy freshman, "but Dave (Waymer) comes back, the job is his. I'm ready whenever they need me."

John Sweeney, Barber and recently Tony Belden have been alternating in the troubled full-back spot, relaying plays from the bench. But against the Spartans, Barber made the first significant contribution of his two-year Irish career. The sophomore from our nation's capital took a Rusty Lisch screen pass and scampered 36 yards to set up Notre Dame's first field goal. Like Duerson, Barber also sparkled on special teams, returning the opening kickoff 27 yards to improve his season average to 25.8 yards on five returns.

Another sophomore running back, Bernie Adell, surfaced as a possible heir apparent to senior Vagas Ferguson's spot with an eye-opening 10-carry, 73-yard performance.

"In a way, it was my first game at Notre Dame," said the Ipswich, Mass. native. "After

Defeat Oakland

Kickers rebound from Indiana loss

by Gary Grassey
Sports Writer

Rebounding from their 4-0 loss to Indiana last Friday, the Notre Dame soccer team came back to defeat Oakland College by a score of 2-0 yesterday on Carter Field.

After a scoreless first half, Irish forward Bill Wetterer broke open the scoring at the 11:47 mark on an assist from senior co-captain Tim Nauman. Notre Dame's scoring leader, Kevin Lovejoy, netted an insurance goal fifteen minutes later on a feed from Wetterer. The victory pushed Notre Dame's won-lost record back over the 500 level to 6-5-1.

Indiana's no. 5 ranked soccer team came to Notre Dame Friday afternoon, armed with their potential All-Americans--Armando Betancourt, Tim Walters, and John Putna. They fielded a team with 15 scholarship athletes. And they brought along some very lofty goals--like winning a national championship, for instance.

But for more than sixty minutes, the Hoosiers had, in the words of their coach Jerry Yeagley, "all (they) could handle." For sixty minutes, Indiana pounded the ball mercilessly into the Irish line of defense, as Notre Dame was capable of only occasional burst of offense. All that Indiana offense, though, produced only one goal.

The match began with instant fireworks. The Hoosiers kicked off and sent a long ball towards Irish goalie Brian Cullather. Forward Armando Betancourt streaked in after the ball and leveled Cullather in the process.

Betancourt, IU's leading scorer, was immediately assessed with a yellow warning card from the officials. This slap on the wrist, though, did not appease Notre Dame coach Rich Hunter.

"It was a disgrace," he fumed. "That was a set play designed to intimidate Notre Dame. I can't believe a skilled team resorting to that kind of play. That player should have been thrown out."

Indiana coach Yeagley had a different opinion about what happened. He denied the intimidation motive and added, "It's a shame so much emphasis was placed on that, because when you start worrying about the officials, you stop thinking about playing soccer."

Defenders like Tom Crotty and Tom Luerkehans, who shadowed the explosive Betancourt all afternoon, managed to throw the Hoosiers just a fraction offstride by positioning themselves to pounce on every loose ball and making good clearing passes. Indiana's shooters were missing the net high and wide. The Irish gameplan, which was to remain conservative and wait for Indiana to make mistakes, was working as well as had been hoped, at least on the scoreboard. Yeagley admitted, "Notre Dame gave us all we could handle in the first half."

But as the half came to a close, the Hoosiers produced the decisive goal. Jeff Sendobry's throw-in was trapped by Tim Walters, who then chipped the ball toward Notre Dame's goal. Betancourt's volleykick ricocheted off the crossbar. Cullather then batted the ball away, but the Irish couldn't clear it, leaving Rudy Glenn free to follow in the rebound for
