

The Observer

VOL XIX, NO. 129

the independent student newspaper serving notre dame and saint mary's

THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1985

A good cause

Dan Poorman (left) prays he will not be dunked again while Mark Herkert winds up. The dunking booth helped raise funds for the Notre Dame Ethiopian Relief Fund.

Policies questioned by South African panel on campus

By DAN McCULLOUGH
News Editor

A discussion of Notre Dame's South African investments took place last night minus one very important viewpoint -- Notre Dame's.

The South African Network, a campus group which examines South African policies, invited Father Richard Zang, the University's investments officer, to participate in a discussion of the effects of U.S. investment in South Africa and the University's present South African investment policy.

"I wrote to Father Zang to invite him to participate in this discussion," said panel member Peter Walshe, Notre Dame professor of government and international studies and the director of the African studies program. "He wrote back saying that he would not appear at a meeting where I was present."

In a telephone interview last night, Zang said, "There was a reason (for not attending) but I don't know if I want it to be in The Observer or not."

"I really don't know who this group is that met tonight, but that's not the reason I didn't attend," he said. "I guess you could say the reason is that the University's position has already been made well-known. We have already published a statement."

Walshe said he had discussed this matter with Zang in the past "and I think he feels as he was harshly treated."

"Father Zang should be sharing his problems with us, not hiding behind the closed doors in the administration," said Walshe.

Professor David Burrell, Notre Dame professor of philosophy and theology, said a lobbying effort is needed for the sale of the particular University securities in companies that have dealings in South Africa. "I think they can keep turning us down, but we can keep pressing them," he said.

Burrell said that convincing the Notre Dame administration to reexamine its South African investment policy isn't going to be easy. "It's an uphill battle," he said.

Last night's panel discussion was sponsored by the African and Black Studies Programs in cooperation with Notre Dame's student government. The panel, which was made up of Walshe, Burrell and Motumbo Mpanya, a Kellogg Fellow from Zaire, discussed the possible approaches to aiding the black people of the Republic of South Africa through Notre Dame's investment policy.

Walshe was critical of the current Notre Dame policy of allowing investments in companies in South Africa that adhere to the Sullivan principles, a list of guidelines that protects the blacks' rights. "The es-

see PANEL, page 4

Law professor named to Illinois Court of Appeals by the President

By FRANK J. MASTRO
Staff Reporter

President Reagan has appointed Notre Dame Law Professor Kenneth Ripple to the Court of Appeals for the 7th Circuit in the state of Illinois.

Ripple's appointment is subject to Senate approval which is expected within the next two weeks. The Court of Appeals is the nation's second highest court, ahead of a trial court and behind only the Supreme Court.

Reagan personally telephoned Ripple to inform him of his appointment to the court, which is made up of nine judges and three senior judges.

"I'm delighted about his nomination. I'm pleased for both the nation's judicial system and the University of Notre Dame," said David Link, dean of the Law School.

"Ripple received recommendations from local senators and the American Bar Association. He has been given high ratings by the American Bar Association," said Link.

It is tradition for those appointed to a government position to wait until after Senate confirmation to discuss their new position. Ripple was thus unavailable for comment.

As a judge, Ripple will hear all kinds of appeals coming out of lower courts, including Constitutional issues, inconsistencies in opinions and procedural cases.

"Ripple's expertise is clearly Constitutional law and litigation. His strength is that he is a diligent researcher and is so dedicated to getting the just answer," said Link.

Ripple has taught courses at Notre Dame in many areas of law, including his areas of expertise. He has written extensively for top level journals. His book, "Constitutional Litigation" was researched at Notre Dame and published in 1984.

Prior to coming to Notre Dame in September of 1977, Ripple served as Special Assistant to the Chief Justice of the United States from 1973 to 1977, and as Legal Officer to the Supreme Court of the United States from 1972 to 1973.

"Ripple will give up his full-time teaching status but will continue to teach one course each semester," said Link. "He will be a person with both the intelligence and determination to do the job."

Alcohol policy viewed as a success

Editor's Note: The following article is part two of a series examining the after effects of the alcohol policy on the Notre Dame/St. Mary's campuses.

By DIANE PRESTI
Staff Reporter

There are no students rallying on the steps of the administration building. No one is gathering signatures for petitions. And the alcohol policy is celebrating its first birthday.

There is little doubt that this year's spring is a little different from last year's.

Although the alcohol policy is one year old, there are many questions that remain unanswered. Has the alcohol policy been successful? Will there be any changes in it? Will it remain in effect?

According to Father Francis

Cafarelli, assistant vice president for residence life, the alcohol policy has been "reasonably successful, one should not expect 100 percent success." He added that the student response to the alcohol policy has been "positive."

According to John Goldrick, associate vice president for residence life, Sister Jean Lenz, assistant vice president for student affairs, and Cafarelli, there have been those students who have walked a tight line and those who have shown great support for the alcohol policy.

Alcohol: One year later

Said Lenz, "Student leaders have offered support" in the creation of non-alcoholic alternatives for fun.

Cafarelli, Goldrick and Lenz agreed that the majority of the students have accepted things as they are and are working toward a full social life within the limits of this policy.

They added that when a rule is broken or a problem does arise, Student Affairs has been strictly following the punishments and consequences established by the policy makers.

When the policy was instituted many thought more students would be moving off campus to escape these rules. This, however, has not happened. In fact, on-campus housing requests have increased this year as compared to last.

Some have speculated that more people are going off campus on the weekends because of the alcohol

see ALCOHOL, page 6

Kilpatrick applauds writer Red Smith

By MARY BETH MURRAY
News Staff

James Kilpatrick, America's most widely syndicated columnist and author of "The Writer's Art," praised Red Smith at his lecture last night, calling Smith "one of the all-time great spinners of yarns."

Kilpatrick's lecture, entitled "The Art of the Craft," was the third in the yearly Red Smith lecture series. The lecture series is in honor of Smith, a 1927 Notre Dame graduate and one of the greatest sports writers in American history. The series was initiated in 1982, the year of Smith's death.

Kilpatrick lauded Smith's ability to analyze daily life, people, and sports teams. According to Kilpatrick, whether it was a feature sports story or a quip about the man on the street, "Red Smith had something to say."

"He looked, but the point is, he looked intently" at all that he saw, Kilpatrick said. According to Kilpatrick, this intensity with which Smith looked at life gave his writing a distinct style.

Moreover, Kilpatrick said, anything Smith wrote was written with incomparable flavor. "Smith tuned his typewriter to the tune of mock seriousness and made it play beautiful music." He cited Smith's beautiful music by recalling phrases like "A rich woman on a cold day was turtled down into her minks."

James Kilpatrick

Kilpatrick further praised Red Smith for the integrity of his writing. While maintaining his wholesome view, he said, Smith "covered (stories) with a solemn irreverence."

Kilpatrick, whose reputation of being as colorful and witty a speaker as he is a writer drew students, professors, and South Bend residents to hear his

see KILPATRICK, page 6

In Brief

Saint Mary's held hall elections yesterday. Michaelleen Green and Patty Fallon captured the presidency and vice presidency in Augusta. Lori Janko and Liz Meehan carried LeMans. Holy Cross residents elected Lenore Massa and Maureen Erny while McCandless residents choose Halane Young and Mary Costa. The new president and vice president of Regina are Mary Flynn and Lisa Hagen. - The Observer

Of Interest

A public auction will be held by the Notre Dame security department tonight. A variety of items including bicycles, watches, calculators, and other miscellaneous items which have been abandoned on Notre Dame's campus will be put on the auction block. The items can be inspected beginning at 6:30 and the auction will start at 7. - The Observer

Italian Culture Week continues with the Italian opera "Francesca di Rimini" tonight at 6:30 in the Media Center of the Cushwa-Leighton Library. Also tonight from 7 to 8 is a symposium on the fourth production of Dario Fo's "We Won't Pay, We Won't Pay," in the Lab Theater of Washington Hall. The symposium is sponsored by the Communication and Theater Department. Also, tomorrow morning at 11:15, Dr. Edoardo Lezano, president of the American Association of Teachers of Italian will speak on "What Makes Italians Tick" in the faculty lounge of Memorial Library. - The Observer

Saint Mary's English department is presenting readings by local writers this week and next week in Cushwa-Leighton Library. Today, widely published author Robin Hemley will read from his stories. Monday, Joan McIntosh, a local poet, will present poetry readings, and next Wednesday, April 24, poet Phyllis Moore, an instructor in the English department, will read from her poetry. All readings are open to the public at no charge and will take place at 4:30 in the South Lounge on the second floor of Mezzanine. - The Observer

What do you think about student government at Notre Dame? Student Body President Bill Healy will be looking for your opinion at an open forum tonight at 9 in the LaFortune Little Theater. - The Observer

Emil T. Hofman, dean of the Freshman Year of Studies, will be in the North Dining Hall during dinner tonight encouraging students to attend the ND/SMC Charity Ball: A Family Response to the Crisis in Ethiopia. Hoffman also will be selling tickets to the event, which will be Saturday at 9 p.m. in Stepan Center. Tickets are $6 per person and $10 per couple. - The Observer

AnTostal Kisser Registration has been extended. Those interested in registering may do so today from 4 to 5 p.m. in the New Orleans Room of LaFortune. - The Observer

The Schiller Institute is sponsoring a video tape and discussion on economics and third world development projects. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the LaFortune Little Theater. - The Observer

Weather

Ahh, paradise. Sunny, windy and warm today with highs in the low to mid 80s. Mostly clear tonight with lows in the mid 50s. Partly sunny and warm tomorrow with highs in the low to mid 80s. - AP

The Observer

The Observer (USPS 599 2-4000) is published Monday through Friday and on home football Saturdays, except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $30 per year ($20 per semester) by writing The Observer, P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556. The Observer is a member of The Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

Today's issue was produced by:

Design Editor..... Anne Long
Design Assistant..... Mark McLaughlin
Layout Staff..... Ruth Bennett
Typesetters..... Jennifer Bigott
News Editor..... Scott Bearby
Copy Editor..... Mark Pankowski
Sports Copy Editor..... Larry Burke
Viewpoint Copy Editor..... Mary Ellen Harrington
Viewpoint Layout..... Priscilla Karle
Features Copy Editor..... Margaret McCabe
Features Layout..... Tom Hall
ND Day Editor..... Alice Gromer
SMC Day Editor..... Toni Rutherford
Ad Design..... Anna Marie Furlough, Lisa Dickinson
Photographer..... Phil Deeter

Notre Dame is a Catholic soap opera with low ratings

Notre Dame - The Catholic soap opera - is about to wrap up another successful season with its worst ratings yet, according to the latest Odud poll.

The joy of Notre Dame, as with all soap operas, is that one can miss a whole semester of episodes and not miss any of the action. Oh, perhaps a character or two has been killed off, but Notre Dame suffers too many characters away.

Other soap operas have plots that creep forward. Notre Dame's repeats itself.

Each fall, for example, big guys battle it out for first string and then fight for the Irish knowing all too well their performance is being judged by viewers used to seeing the likes of George Gipp, Johnny Lujack and Joe Montana. In football, the war being waged tests strategy and physical strength. Each play has meaning.

As football fades from the picture, the extras - the students - begin in earnest to make the passage into adulthood. How they act could determine future leads.

Halfway through each season though, the finals curtain falls on those actors unable to pass their screen tests. The plot, then, putters along until the season ends five months later without much of a cliff-hanger.

The predictable plot serves its purpose: Students concentrate on writing the scripts which they will then follow for the rest of their lives.

I began this column by calling Notre Dame a soap opera and it is. The struggles which occur on television soap operas occur at Notre Dame. People play off each other. Disputes develop. Tempers rise. And a friend today may be an enemy tomorrow.

But Notre Dame is not just a soap opera; it is a Catholic soap opera. I expect characters on television to blow conflicts out of proportion, to exaggerate truths, to form entangling alliances, to resort to senseless name calling, to verbally kill each others' characters and to put their personal interests first. I do not expect to watch scenes such as these unfold on this campus.

The Notre Dame plot, based upon Catholic beliefs, has turned nasty for no reason.

It is one thing to argue about the role of student government and the musical ability of Tommy Shaw. It is another for supposedly sophisticated performers to wage personal attacks against each other.

Remember for example, the recent election scandal, which divided even further leaders who were never united.

Remember the attacks last fall on Gerry Faust, not

Joe Murphy

Viewpoint Editor

only as a coach, but as a person.

Remember the verbal barrage between administrators and students when the alcohol policy was proposed.

I am not saying these campus characters are corrupt, but rather comical. They are legends in their own minds. Stars whose radiance is blocked by a black whole between their ears.

I am one viewer who has grown weary of watching scene after scene where characters argue over nothing - for nothing. These actors make statements that have no meaning.

There is a difference between characters and men of character.

Characters fight battles in which no one wins or loses anything. Their triumphs have no meaning. They are the cynics, content to tear other people down rather than build themselves up.

As the camera continues to roll, I suggest these characters remember that they are being watched not only by their peers but by their parents.

Put your performances into perspective.

I urge other viewers to write the Odud network and express their displeasure at the amount of verbal violence and idiotic insults taking place among certain characters on this campus.

Currently, viewers are only threatening to turn the channel, but if the producers of Notre Dame aren't careful many viewers, like myself, might just turn the set off.

It has gotten to the point where I can't wait for the commercial breaks.

The views expressed in the Inside column are the views of the author, and do not necessarily reflect the views of the editorial board or staff.

THE ANSWER IS

YOU
YOU

HELP
SAVE
BABIES

Support the March of Dimes
BIRTH DEFECTS FOUNDATION

HOLLY'S DINING COCKTAILS
LANDING

1717 Lincolnway East
Reservations 289-4122

NOTRE DAME

Tippecanoe Place

SMC

So you thought Spring Break was over! Well not at Tippecanoe Place. We are extending Spring Break with a special offer for students. Bring this ad in for a special price 'Break'.

$1.00 OFF our fabulous Sunday Brunch
Good on the following Sundays:

April 14
April 21

670 W. Washington St. -- Reservations Required -- 234 - 9077

The Observer/Phil Deeter

Insomnia

Ray Mulera doesn't seem to be able to get any sleep, but Joe Whalen isn't having any trouble at all. Both are taking time out to enjoy yesterday's sunny day.

There's no doubt you're going to make it in the real world, but what about your car?

Ford and Lincoln-Mercury have $400 for graduating seniors toward the purchase of selected cars and trucks.

Ford Motor Credit also has preapproved credit for qualified graduating seniors. Offers end August 15, 1985. For more information call Ford College Graduate Purchase Program Headquarters at 1-800-321-1536.

FORD • LINCOLN • MERCURY

Naisbitt looks ahead to future world trends

By CINDY RAUCKHORST and MIRIAM HILL
Copy Editors

"We're in the process of reinventing the world we live in . . . My God, what a fantastic time to be alive," said John Naisbitt, author of best-selling "Megatrends."

Naisbitt explained his observations of the positive and negative trends transforming today's society in a speech to a capacity crowd of 2,000 at the Elco Theatre in Elkhart last night.

Naisbitt, the chairman of The Naisbitt Group, a firm that advises companies such as General Motors, IBM, Merrill Lynch, and ABC on significant social trends, counsels heads of state both in the United States and abroad.

But Naisbitt's predictions influence not only business and political leaders - young people also benefit from his 30 years of business experience. He encouraged students at his lecture to "learn how to learn," a skill which will prepare them to adapt to different challenges in the job market.

People today switch career directions more than once in their lifetime, causing a movement from job specialization to generalization. This trend will continue in the future, he said.

Students, therefore, should explore many possibilities before choosing a specific career. "Education is too often thought of as a step to another stage of life. But education is life, not a step to life," he said.

A liberal education has the added benefit of making students more attractive to corporations who are looking for young, entrepreneurial types. In the future, the most successful companies "will reconstitute as federations of entrepreneurs," he said.

"If companies are smart, women will play a strong, if not equal, role in the entrepreneurial growth trend," Naisbitt said approximately one-third of new entrepreneurs are women.

Because the old industrial society is evolving into one which relies primarily on information, human resources are the key to future growth, Naisbitt said.

"Human beings will make or break our companies," he said.

"This new emphasis on the quality of human resources is occurring at a time when the new economy is accelerating and the number of people entering the work force is going down," he said. "Starting in 1986, more people will leave the work force than enter it for the rest of this century," he said.

In his soon-to-be-released book, "Reinventing the Corporation," Naisbitt discusses how corporations can survive and be successful in the new economy. Last night he predicted the job market will become a seller's market, forcing corporations to invest in the personal growth of their employees.

Companies, he said, will have to offer benefits like stock ownership, profit sharing and flexible work schedules to attract the "best and brightest" of the new generation.

Naisbitt said the recent growth in the U.S. economy has paralleled growth in countries such as Japan and West Germany, contributing to the development of one global economy. In this economy, countries function as a unified whole rather than just trading between one another.

Wygant Floral CO. Inc.

"Flowers for all occasions
Come in and Browse

327 Lincolnway

232-3354

EUROPE ON SALE!

$459 CHICAGO	$399 NEW YORK	$599 ORLANDO
$449 DETROIT		$419 BALTIMORE/WASHINGTON

AND ICELANDAIR INCLUDES ALL THESE EXTRAS:

☐ Free wine with dinner, cognac after — in flight. ☐ Free deluxe roundtrip motorcoach between Luxembourg and select cities in Germany, Belgium and Holland. ☐ Reduced train fares to Switzerland and France. ☐ Super Saver Kemwel car rentals at $59 per week in Luxembourg.

WE'RE THE ONLY WAY TO FLY TO THE BREATHTAKING BEAUTY OF ICELAND.

From a 24-hour stopover to a grand tour of two weeks or more, we have the perfect package for a visit to Iceland, Europe's most beautifully kept secret.

All fares subject to change and $3.00 international departure tax. All fares valid 4/14-6/8/85, except Orlando — 5/1-5/31/85. For information, restrictions and reservations for all of Icelandair's low fares, call Icelandair toll-free at 1-800-223-5500. In New York City 757-8585.

ICELANDAIR
NOW MORE THAN EVER YOUR BEST VALUE TO EUROPE

Panel discussion

Motumbo Mpanya and Notre Dame Professor Peter Walshe discuss University investments in South Africa. Story continued below.

Panel

continued from page 1

sential point is that the Sullivan principles deal with the workplace and have no impact outside of the factory gates," he said.

Walshe cited specific problems with the University's policies of disclosure of their investments and the surveillance of the companies in South Africa in which they invest.

"With disclosure, we don't know how Notre Dame invests its funds," he said. "As far as surveillance is concerned, if we are committed to the Sullivan principles, what procedures do we have for judging the performance of the companies we invest in?"

Walshe said that Leon Sullivan, the author of the Sullivan principles and a Detroit reverend who is on the board of directors of General Motors, has since "tightened" his principles. The revised principles, said Walshe, include the free movement of black workers from job to job and that corporations which subscribe to the principles support recension of all apartheid laws.

"There is a real greyness here," said Walshe. "I looked up that word 'recension' in the Oxford dictionary and found out it means 'revision.'"

Walshe said it is not revision of the laws that support apartheid, but a suspension of them.

"We must examine whether or not the investment policy has actually strengthened the apartheid system, whether it has polarized blacks and whites or whether it has been putting pressure on the South African to negotiate," he said.

Walshe proposed a "revised policy for Notre Dame investments." It included "the Sullivan principles plus." According to Walshe, the University should adopt the expanded Sullivan principles and that it should interpret the word "recension" in that policy as "rejection" rather than "revision."

He continued that the University should "support resolutions that favor a moratorium on further University investments in South Africa."

Burrell said that the net rate of profit from investment in corporations that do business in South Africa is 18.7 percent while the average world net profit is 16 percent. "What we must ask ourselves is if these 2 percentage points are worth it," he said.

"The issue is not whether a firm should disinvest but whether or not an institution, such as this University, should themselves refrain from contributing to investment or should withdrawal from firms in South Africa," said Burrell.

He recalled a conversation he had with an American businessman who had just established a plant in a third-world country. He said the man explained that it was cheaper to pay labor there than in America. As to the treatment of the workers, the man said, "We could never get away with it at home," according to Burrell.

Mpanya criticized the argument that disinvestment would only hurt South African blacks. "Since when has the welfare of the blacks been the concern of big business," he said. "It would be a very poor business practice to use this kind of industrial charity. Black people want to bear the burden of being hurt by disinvestment."

"It hurts the pocket book. That's the real reason companies won't disinvest," Mpanya said.

Student Senate rookies start terms; government restructuring a goal

By CHRIS BEDNARSKI
Senior Staff Reporter

"I hope that we can put a lot of the things that happened behind us. We are starting at zero and can only go up," said Student Body President Bill Healy at the first meeting of the new Student Senate last night.

Healy said the senate has "good potential," and added, "We should start anew and push forward."

The senate still will have to deal with restructuring attempts, however. Chris Abood, District 1 senator, said he will continue to work for progress in restructuring. "I won't let it die," he said. "The last senate spent a whole year trying to restructure. We should learn from their mistakes."

Abood challenged Healy's decision that the revised constitution, passed by the Hall Presidents Council, was passed as an adoption from the old The senate backed up Healy's senate, and not as a proposal.

Because an adoption cannot be brought before the senate, the revised constitution could not be put into effect. Healy argued that the adoption, which came from the old senate, was from a "nullified" body and therefore no good to begin with.

Abood said he felt the HPC passed the new constitution as a proposal and it could be brought before the senate. The senate body, in a vote, sided with Healy. For the revised constitution to be brought before the senate now, the HPC would have to repass it.

Abood hopes to get a new committee established, at the senate's next meeting, that will work toward a restructured student government.

In other business, District 3 Senator John Ginty, informed the senate of various charges the Notre Dame Credit Union levies against Notre Dame students but not against its other customers. Ginty pointed to a new $2 service charge that will be levied against those with less than $500 in their checking account. "I think they mistreat us," he said.

Healy said students could affect changes in the Credit Union. "If the student body started deserting the Notre Dame Credit Union, it would be in big trouble," he said.

The senate also approved the new Student Government Cabinet as well as reappointing Meghan Brennan as secretary of the senate and Brian Holst as parliamentarian.

Mother hires clown as 'hitman'

Associated Press

A mother hiring a clown to throw a pie in the face of a school official at her daughter's graduation was found guilty of breach of peace Wednesday, but innocent of bribery and tampering with a witness.

Mary Diorio reacted to the verdict by crying and hugging her attorney. Outside court she said, "I'm thrilled. I couldn't be happier. I've never been happier in my life."

Her attorney, Joseph Ganim, said "Two out of three ain't bad. I'm happy with the two not guilty. We may appeal on the third."

Members of the jury refused to comment, saying they had agreed among themselves not to discuss the case.

Authorities had said Mrs. Diorio, 37, paid a balloon-store owner, Robert Fuller, $34.95 plus tax and a $10 tip to stuff a pie in the face of William Stansfield, a dean at Fair-field's Tomlinson Junior High School, in front of 1,000 people at an eighth-grade graduation ceremony in June.

She and her husband, James, were also charged with trying to scare Fuller and offering him $10,000 not to tell police she was behind the prank.

Diorio will be tried separately. Stansfield had disciplined Mrs. Diorio's daughter, Allison Barbeau, in May. The state claimed the pie was thrown in revenge.

Happy
22nd Birthday

Carrie Altergott !!

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO THROW SOMETHING AT STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT, BILL HEALY?

Questions?

Comments?

Are you sick and tired of Student Government Bickering?

Do you feel you have no say?

Do you want some answers?

THURSDAY, APRIL 18
9 pm LAFORTUNE LITTLE THEATER

Student Body President, Bill Healy will be there to answer any questions.
Come out and voice your opinion!

(This is only an exhibition - Please no wagering)

It's never too late to become a bronze God or Goddess!

Deepen that Spring Break
tan. Call us at 277-7026

TAN-HAWAIIAN

J.M.S. PLAZA
4609 Grape Road
Mishawaka

a unique opportunity for Math/Science

(Majors/Minors/Aptitudes)

For you and for the world, Peace Corps will combine your education with training to prepare you for a volunteer position in: • Education • Fisheries • Health • Agriculture • Forestry or other areas. You'll meet new people, learn a new language, experience a new culture and gain a whole new outlook. And while you're building your future, you'll be helping people in developing countries learn the basics of technological advancement.

Apply NOW for summer openings!
Pick up application in your Placement Office, or call
1-800-621-3670

The toughest job
you'll ever love

PEACE CORPS

Correction

Because of an editing error, Bud Luepke was not included in yesterday's Observer promotions article. Luepke, a sophomore from St. Louis, Mo., has been promoted to senior staff reporter.

Because of a reporting error, some facts in the Campus Life Council story were wrong. The manager of the Student Activities Board is a member of the council. During Student Body President Rob Bertino's administration there were eight meetings of the CLC.

Ted Turner attempts takeover of CBS

Associated Press

CHICAGO - CBS Inc. kept its corporate eye wide open yesterday at the network's annual meeting, as its stock prices soared and broadcasting maverick Ted Turner moved toward a hostile takeover.

The nearly three-hour meeting ended with no indication Turner was any nearer to acquiring the company than when the day began.

However, Turner's lawyers met late yesterday afternoon with the Federal Communications Commission's general counsel to tell him they planned to file papers today detailing Turner's intended takeover of CBS Inc., said William Russell, a spokesman for the FCC in Washington, D.C.

Published reports had said a takeover bid by Turner, who owns 80 percent of Turner Broadcasting System Inc. and operates Cable News Network, could come after the CBS meeting, which drew only about 100 of the corporation's 20,000 shareholders. He reportedly would be aided by his corporation's investment banker, E.F. Hutton & Co.

Turner's lawyers gave no details of their plans to the FCC's general counsel, Jack Smith, Russell said.

The FCC wasn't sure what form the filing will take, he added. "We're not sure because we don't know how they intend to do it," Russell said.

The "CBS Evening News" reported yesterday that a Turner lawyer informed the Federal Communications Commission that Turner's formal application for approval to take over the network would be filed today.

Turner, who was in New York, refused comment.

Chairman Thomas Wyman reiterated that CBS will resist any bid for controlling interest in its stock. Earlier this month, the network secured a $1.5 billion line of credit from several banks that could be used to fight a hostile takeover.

"Over the past several months, we have faced challenges from several parties who would either oversee or overturn the organization that has provided news and information for 58 years to the American public," Wyman said.

"We are quite clear that the integrity of CBS news and the independence of CBS news are inextricably linked. Those who seek to gain control of CBS in order to gain control of CBS news threaten that independence and integrity and this country," he added.

Toward the end of the shareholders' meeting, Wyman was asked whether he felt Turner was "moral" enough to run CBS.

"I have expressed something less than total enthusiasm in the past for the thought of him managing this enterprise," Wyman said.

Former anchorman Walter Cronkite, a director of CBS, said Tuesday the network had always given its news division freedom to operate.

THURSDAY, APR. 18TH FRIDAY, APR. 19TH

Ford is back on campus with FORD GREAT START DAY! Come see, kick, and feel the latest cars and trucks from Ford Division and ask about the special values available to your campus community.

Win a Sailboard!

Fill out the entry form below and drop it off at FORD GREAT START DAY. The winning entry will be drawn at the end of your school's GREAT START DAY event!

CO-SPONSORED BY

STUDENT ACTIVITIES BOARD

FORD DEALER

BASNEY FORD

LOCATION/TIME

Stepan Center Area
9:00 a.m.—3:00 p.m.

WIN A SAILBOARD FROM FORD!
(Complete this form for a chance to win. Please print.)

Name _____

Address (home) _____

Phone Number (____) _____

Major _____

Graduation Date _____

Make and Year of Vehicle Owned _____

Did you purchase your car ☐ new or ☐ used?

HOW TO WIN: By attending your school's Ford Great Start Day event you can be eligible to win a sailboard from Ford Division of Ford Motor Company. Just fill out this entry form and drop it in the box marked "Ford Sailboard Drawing." The winning entry will be drawn at the end of the Ford Great Start Day event. Winner need not be present. Good luck!

Golden arches extend campus wide in new McDonald's delivery service

By TRACYSCHINDELE
News Staff

Hungry students rejoice. Effective last Monday, McDonald's Campus Airlift has expanded its services and will now deliver McDonald's items every weekday night to all Notre Dame residence halls.

The service was begun by Roseland's McDonald's March 28, but until Monday was limited to deliveries to Keenan and Stanford halls.

The Airlift menu now includes nearly all the items McDonald's offers regularly. However, the grocery service originally advertised was eliminated. According to Charles Watson, owner of the Roseland McDonald's, the grocery service's only purpose was to generate initial awareness of the Airlift.

So far there has been no official word on whether or not the service meets with University approval. The question of approving the Campus Airlift has opened up issues such as insurance coverage on those making deliveries to the campus. According to Director of Student Activities, Joni Neal, the issue will not be approached for a few weeks. "It may mean that a unified university policy may have to be set up concerning businesses making deliveries on campus," said Neal.

Watson, a Notre Dame graduate, said he expects the service to be popular with students. "When I was a student at Notre Dame, many students felt locked onto campus. There is more mobility now, but there are still a lot of students who don't get out, especially during the week," said Watson.

The Airlift takes orders and makes deliveries Sunday through Thursday evenings and delivery time averages between 30 and 40 minutes. The Airlift driver calls to confirm all orders 20 minutes after they are made to check for crank calls and to give the expected time of delivery.

Watson is open to new ideas for the Airlift. He began late in the year for testing purposes. Said Watson, "We are trying to find out when the students want the service."

Reading highlighted at colloquium

By LAURA S. GRONEK
News Staff

"All forms of rituals of reading are to be cherished, encouraged, and most of all utilized," said Ray Browne, a professor at Bowling Green University, speaking Monday at the Friends of the Memorial Library's Fourth Annual Colloquium entitled "American Popular Reading."

Browne, director of The Popular Press and chair of popular culture at Bowling Green, stated that people either read "thoughtlessly and obsessively to pass the time from birth to death," or tend to discount the benefit of reading as "mere entertainment," focusing solely on its academic and intellectual value.

Browne stressed the importance of using all of one's senses to share in the experiences of the author, and introduced the topic of popular culture. He later discussed how film, mass media, ethnic studies, and even architecture are mediums by which we can learn about our history and about life.

The second half of the colloquium was presented by Professor Michael Marsden, editor of The Journal of Popular Film and Television and author of several books and articles on American popular culture.

Marsden emphasized that books serve a very crucial purpose. According to Marsden, books offer new insights and psychological release, and they leave the reader better able to handle the real world.

Marsden centered his lecture around the popular fiction of Louis L'Amour and Father Andrew Greeley, two authors who share traditions in America's industrialized society through the mass media. Their works in printed form do not call attention to literary writing styles, but rather follow the informal approach of oral tradition, said Marsden.

L'Amour and Greeley are successful storytellers, observed Marsden, because they form a unique, personalized bond between themselves and their audience. According to Marsden, their stories provide "an escape into another world, through the refracted lens of the story world."

Prosecutors say rapist is guilty

Associated Press

CHICAGO - Prosecutors who helped put Gary Dotson back behind bars say they have no doubt he is guilty of rape, although one acknowledges she at first believed Cathleen Crowell Webb's story that she had lied about being attacked.

Peggy Frossard, 33, a Cook County assistant state's attorney, said that when she first heard Mrs. Webb recant, "My gut reaction was that she was telling the truth."

But the other prosecutor, J. Scott Arthur, 35, said the 1979 case against Dotson was overwhelming. Arthur and Ms. Frossard handled the state's case during recent hearings on whether to free Dotson. Neither was involved in the original case.

Mrs. Webb, 23, now of Jaffrey, N.H., testified during the 1979 trial that she was raped by Dotson in a car in July 1977.

Kilpatrick

continued from page 1

speech, said that writers of today should emulate the clarity and quality of Smith's writing style. "There must be some clear notion of where we want to be when we finish writing."

Some of the shortcomings of today's writers, according to Kilpatrick, are that they do not take enough pains with their writing, they do not edit enough, and they do not adjust their sentence structure well enough.

"It has always been important for the writer to search for the right word," said Kilpatrick, adding that all writers must "find time for reflection."

A quote of Smith's, Kilpatrick said, is imperative to anyone wanting to pursue a career in journalism.

The special language and style that comes to experienced writers, said Kilpatrick, quoting Smith, functions as "a stockade that gives insiders the cozy sense of belonging and mystifies outsiders and keeps them outsiders."

Earlier in the afternoon, Kilpatrick gave a press conference in which he gave more advice to aspiring journalists. Foremost, he said, "Edit your copy one more time." And to develop good writing style, Kilpatrick said, it is important to read and write extensively.

At the root of what Kilpatrick considers to be a relatively poor age of journalists is the lack of a solid education. He said that a stronger emphasis needs to be put on English studies and disciplines such as Latin.

Kilpatrick stated that because students presently are receiving a poorer education, basic qualities such as proper grammar and syntax are missing from current journalism. Today's writers, he said, have "lost some of the skills in communication that we used to have."

Kilpatrick is optimistic about newswriting in the future, however. He said reporting is headed in a specialized direction which will create better news coverage.

Kilpatrick, who was first published at the age of six in a children's magazine, plans to continue in his field until 1989, after devoting 25 years to the perfection of his art. After he retires, however, Kilpatrick plans to write another book because, like Red Smith, Kilpatrick feels he will "die if he doesn't write."

James Kilpatrick will be speaking to classes of American Studies courses today at 1 p.m. in the Library Lounge.

Father William Beauchamp last year, Father Hesburgh had said that if students did not cooperate with the new policy, the campus would go dry. There has been no discussion of a dry campus, according to Goldrick. "I think we've made some progress," he said.

It was not the aim of this policy to abolish drinking on campus, instead, said Goldrick, the aim was "to make a statement that we believe that our students are capable of learning responsible drinking habits."

If the aim had been to abolish drinking, Notre Dame would have disallowed all alcohol consumption, according to Cafarelli, Goldrick, and Lenz.

By allowing alcohol in the rooms of the students, Lenz says "we are on the cutting edge" of a possible problem arising. The responsibility lies in the hand of the student, she said.

The alcohol policy was not implemented only to reduce University liability, Cafarelli said, but that was "part of it." He said, however, the issue of liability "was not what initiated the committee."

"If liability were the question we would have gone dry," Goldrick said, adding, "I am very proud of the Notre Dame student body."

B & B STORAGE

3001 S. U.S. 31

Building J

(1/2 mile south of K-Mart -- same side of highway)

Students' Special Group Rates
683-4280 or 684-4880
10 ft x 22.5 ft spaces available

The way He leads those truly willing to follow will not be easy but a path calling for courage, risk, trust.

But He only asks for one step at a time.

HOLY CROSS PRIESTS

For further information about the Holy Cross Fathers' Undergraduate or Graduate One Year Candidate Programs, contact:

Vocation Director
P.O. Box 541, Desk 4
University of Notre Dame
Notre Dame, IN 46556
(219) 239-6185

WHY CORNELL?

A great location. Study at one of the most beautiful Ivy League campuses and spend the summer in the magnificent countryside of the Finger Lakes region. Located on forty-mile-long Cayuga Lake, Ithaca is a small cosmopolitan city with restaurants, nightlife and all the urban advantages.

A great university. Choose from a remarkable variety of courses and learning opportunities—more than 300 courses taught by distinguished Cornell faculty members. The curriculum includes computer science, fine arts, pre-law and pre-med studies, and languages. Sign up for a few weeks or the entire summer. Courses are offered in three-, six-, and eight-week sessions.

A great adventure. Explore beautiful lakes and parks, spectacular waterfalls and ravines. Enjoy swimming, sailing, tennis, golf, climbing, camping, soaring, biking, birding, and hiking. A rich and lively schedule of free outdoor concerts and theater makes Cornell an ideal place to meet people and make friends.

Why Cornell? Because we love summer as much as you do. Make plans now. For a copy of the 1985 Summer Session Announcement call or write:

Cornell University Summer Session
Box 84, B12 Ives Hall
Ithaca, New York 14853-3901
607/256-4987

Alcohol

Continued from page 1

policy. "Some think (the number of students leaving campus on weekends) has increased but we don't know this for sure," said Goldrick.

Cafarelli, Goldrick, and Lenz said they had no knowledge of the recent bar raids, off-campus party raids, or the recent closing of Corby's. They said there always have been raids and there probably always will be.

According to a statement made by American morality is not based on consensus

In the debate over abortion, a naive and dangerous philosophical idea has become fashionable in the past months on campus - several pro-choice spokesmen have taken a stance which marks a radical departure from former pro-abortion arguments. Namely, the question of whether abortion is morally right or wrong, killing or not killing, now is considered moot. Fixed moral norms, they say, do not belong in a democracy - only consensus should decide matters. Thus, because consensus in this country supports it, allowing nation-wide abortion is justified.

Chris Julka

guest column

Most who are pro-choice, however, are reluctant to carry this Machiavellian premise - Machiavellian because it holds that the government, in this case democracy, determines morality - to its ultimate conclusion. If consensus precedes morality, for instance what right does one have in demanding legislation to support the poor with federal funds when such an action would clearly violate today's comfortable status quo?

By using consensus to justify federal support of abortion in fact, one implies at the same time that slavery before the Civil War and the Jim Crow Laws before their dismemberment were not only permissible but justifiable. Moreover, any politician opposing the Spanish-American War at its inception would not be justified since consensus favored it. The fact that it was incited by inflammatory newspaper coverage of the sinking of the USS Maine, for which the Spanish may not have been responsible at all, would be irrelevant.

When one uses Christian moral norms, of course, these claims are outrageous. If one, however, claims that democracy can survive only if it is devoid of any ethical prejudice, one automatically justifies the historical existence of slaves, discriminated minorities and child laborers - in addition to aborted fetuses. Why? The reason is that the overall efficiency of the democratic machine evidently has more importance than the people who get caught in its gears.

For the most part, however, supporters of the view that consensus automatically justifies abortion avoid these conclusions and portray American history as a golden, semi-utopian episode in which morality and consensus invariably coincided. As seen before, however, contrary to the rosy picture of democracy as some infallible machine efficiently saving the human race, the people riding the band-wagon were seldom the ones who stepped forward to make this country's critical decisions.

Roosevelt's supplying of Nazi-beseiged Britain, for instance, with both military armaments and economic aid prior to America's entrance into World War II not only violated the United States' self-declared neutrality but also contradicted a clear isolationist consensus within this country. Furthermore, the North proceeded with the Civil War against the South, whose member states from a strictly historic and legal perspective, possessed the right to secede. It was a group of states - nations - which signed the United States Constitution to form the Union, not the Union which divided itself into states.

For that matter, if one is to decide all matters on a purely consensual basis, one must question the very justification for the existence of this country since the agitations of a Boston intellectual elite played a greater role than the American revolution than did a sudden massive upheaval of popular opinion.

These arguments, of course, are not so much an assault on contemporary democracy as they are on the wholly arbitrary premise that democracy and absolute values are incompatible. Quite the opposite, the much-invoked Constitution bases itself on a number of definite moral presuppositions. "All men are created equal and are endowed with certain inalienable rights," is - for example - a definite stance in ethics. Although having been drummed into the American consciousness, it is nevertheless not universally accepted. One has only to look at the social inequities of Latin America and the caste system of India to see this.

In addition, American democracy rests on further moral assumptions - the essential worth of the human being, his right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" and the belief in the progress of humanity toward a definite historical goal stand as examples. Although in the United States and the Western World in general, these phrases have been repeated to the point of becoming platitudes, they are by no means undisputed propositions. The belief that human beings possess definite, unique worth, for instance, is by no means an axiom which holds consensus in this world.

Marxism, behavioral psychology and Darwinist-capitalism all arrive at their various conclusions by presuming physical matter to be the ultimate reality of the universe with the human being as essentially derivative of this matter, thus not valuable in himself. Even the acceptance of progress as something totally natural stems from the Christian assumption that time is finite and has a definite end. In almost every other system of thought, time is infinite and events nothing more than parts of endlessly repeated cycles, thus leaving no room for progress as anything but an illusion.

What does all of this have to do with the Constitution in general and the abortion issue in particular? Simply that the Constitution is not a dry document from which ethical decisions can be inferred like mathematical theorems out of a textbook. The Constitution was written by a group of deistic Protestants who made use of definite moral presuppositions about the nature of human beings that are both Christian and by no means self-evident and uncontroversial. Democracy itself was adopted to better put these moral premises into effect since many American colonists felt that the monarchist bureaucracies in Europe were hindering rather than advancing the goals which these premises imply, allegedly by perpetuating corruption, social elitism and intolerance.

To do away with the premises themselves, however, is destroying democracy's only purpose, as democracy in this country was adopted to serve a moral conception rather than vice versa. Any government, after all, has the capacity to be immoral. What distinguishes democracy is its ability - or so contested Jefferson and Adams - to best enforce a distinctly Christian form of ethics. Remove this moral code and the Constitution is no longer the same document. In fact it is nothing more than a confusing and meaningless scrap of paper. Hence morality is antecedent rather than subordinate to consensus. The founding fathers sanctioned consensus to promote certain presupposed absolute values - not as an end in itself. The people were not intended to act collectively as a Machiavellian prince against this country's minorities and undesirables.

Thus the abortion question should remain as it once was: Is it or is it not murder? Is it just or unjust? Is it moral or immoral? When one claims, as many are today, that these questions should not be asked and asks instead whether the government should even respect morality at all, one is not only conceding an inner suspicion that abortion may indeed be immoral but is also attacking the very principles upon which the Constitution was founded.

Chris Julka is enrolled in the Freshman Year of Studies at Notre Dame.

P.O. Box Q

Parking garages would solve many problems

Dear Editor:

Last Saturday night my car was broken into. My stereo was stolen and all-important wires were cut. In an effort to get my speakers, the thieves ripped the rear dash apart. They must have pulled harder when the speaker grills are bent. I think I have a good reason to be angry. In one shot, thieves caused nearly $500 in losses and damages to my car.

I was not the only one ripped off Saturday. Five other cars were either broken into or vandalized in the D2 parking lot that night alone. There is no reason to believe that Saturday was anything unusual. Only a month ago, a friend's car was badly damaged when someone threw bricks through almost all of his windows and then dented the sides of his car. I think this situation must be changed. As things stand, student property is an easy target for thieves. Although there are probably many ways to solve the problem, let me mention the only one that I think would really work.

I believe the University should build parking garages. Goodness knows there is enough space in the fields surrounding the campus. Parking garages have been used by many institutions, in part to solve problems like theft. The University of Iowa, for instance, has minimized theft by building parking garages for students and faculty. There is always a guard on hand - stationed at the entrance/exit of the garage. There are cameras on every stage of the garage, allowing the guard to monitor activity on every floor.

Clearly, there are many advantages to this parking system. First, and most importantly, it would be the best security, aside from leaving one's car at home, against theft or vandalism. If six cars get broken into in one night in only one parking lot, there is a need for this benefit. In this way, Notre Dame could remove itself from being an easy target for thieves.

Second, a parking garage would be great shelter for student and faculty cars during the winter. There would be no problems involved with snowplowing the parking lots or digging one's car out. Keeping the cars out of the cold would help them last longer too.

Third, a centralized garage, or maybe two, on each side of the campus, would free up a great deal of ground space previously devoted to asphalt parking lots. We could rip all of those up and put in sports fields or basketball courts. These lots would no longer need to be maintained, thus the University would save more money.

A parking garage would also be a great help to the many visitors to the Notre Dame campus. All in all, one or more buildings would be a great investment on the part of this University.

Notre Dame security is not stopping these thefts as was shown clearly in D2 last Saturday night. I do not think there is any question but that a change is needed and I think a parking garage or two would be the way to solve the problem and also benefit the entire Notre Dame community.

Joe Merchant
Grace Hall

Garry Trudeau

Doonesbury

Quote of the day

"Communism is the corruption of a dream of justice."

- Adlai E. Stevenson

The Observer

P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556

(219) 239-5303

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and as objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of a majority of the Editorial Board. Commentaries, letters and the Inside Column present the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community, and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

Editorial Board

Editor-in-Chief: Sarah E. Hamilton
Managing Editor: Amy Stephan
News Editor: Keith Harrison Jr.
News Editor: Dan McCullough
Saint Mary's Executive Editor: Theresa Guarino
Sports Editor: Jeff Blumb
Accent Editor: Mary Healy
Viewpoint Editor: Joe Murphy
Photography Editor: Peter C. Laches
Copy Chief: Frank Lipo

Department Managers

Business Manager: David Stephenitch
Advertising Manager: Anne Culligan
Controller: Bill Highduchuck
Systems Manager: Mark B. Johnson
Production Manager: John A. Mennell

Founded November 3, 1966

What's new...and old at Saint Mary's?

1. In what year was Saint Mary's founded?
2. How much was board and tuition for Saint Mary's in 1866?
3. Which Saint Mary's dorm is the oldest?
4. What words are enlightened above the statue in Augusta Courtyard?
5. What poem is raised above the floor outside Carroll Hall in Madeliva, as a tribute to Sr. Madeleva?
6. Which Saint Mary's dorm is the newest?
7. As late as the 1960s, what two requirements were necessary before a Saint Mary's student could leave for the weekend, other than to go home?
8. Where was the sports arena (Angela) located before the New Angela was built?
9. When was the first Mass said in the Church of Loretta?
10. What is the name of the Saint Mary's yearbook?
11. In what year was the Mosaic put up on the northwest wall of Moreau Hall?

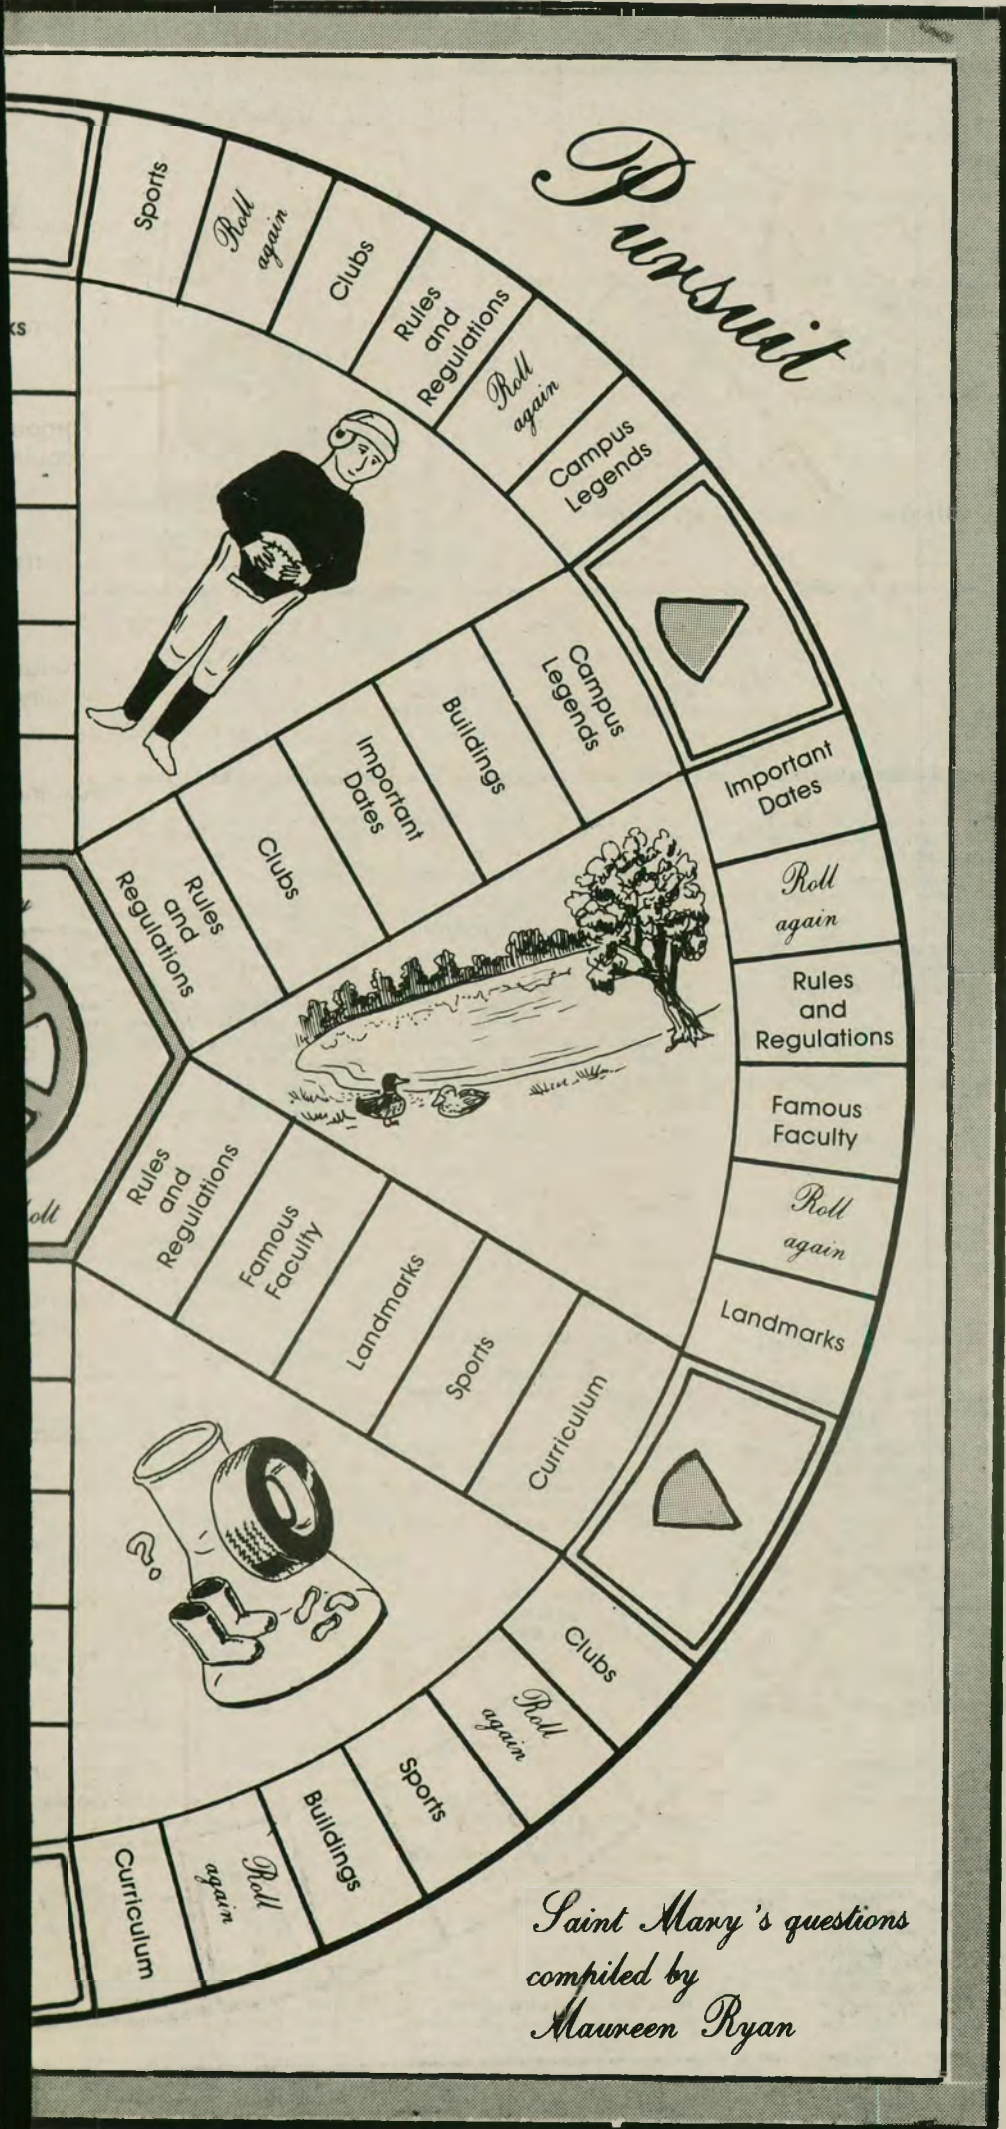

SMC photos by Mary Flynn

12. What was the original purpose of Regina Hall?
13. In what year were Saint Mary's students no longer required to wear uniforms?
14. When were Saint Mary's students first allowed to attend Notre Dame football games?
15. What was the name of the first literary magazine published by Saint Mary's?
16. What was the name of SMC before it was officially called Saint Mary's College?
17. When did the groundbreaking ceremonies take place for the new Cushwa Leighton Library?
18. What was Sister Madeleva's last name?
19. When was the first issue of Holy Cross Courier published?
20. What was LeMans Hall named after?
21. Who was the first president of Saint Mary's?
22. In what school year did Saint Mary's abolish the previous curfew rule?
23. In the 1940s what was required to be worn by all Saint Mary's students that distinguished them as "Saint Mary's girls"?
24. When were Saint Mary's students allowed to try out for Notre Dame cheerleading positions?
25. When was the first dance for SMC and Notre Dame students held at Saint Mary's?
26. What was the name of the Saint Mary's newspaper before The Observer?
27. What was done to the Church of Loretta in 1956?
28. Why was Holy Cross's study lounge named "the pebble"?
29. What was the original purpose of the building that is now Haggard College Center?

Rules

1. Whoever submits the most correct answers to all questions, including those of both Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, wins the prize. In case of a tie, the earliest entry submitted wins.
2. Print or type your answers on a piece of paper with your name, phone number and address. Submit your entry to the office manager at The Observer between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., any day until Friday, April 26.
3. No Observer employee is eligible to win the contest.
4. Solutions to the contest will be printed on Monday, April 29 in The Observer. The contest's winner will be announced at the same time.
- Good luck, and above all, enjoy!
Remember, it's only trivia!

Championship up for grabs in women's tourney

By MICHAEL FLANNERY
Sports Writer

The women's Bookstore basketball tournament reached the second round of play yesterday afternoon after a week of first round games. The second round will continue through next Tuesday as the field is slowly whittled down to the "sweet sixteen."

When the first game began last Thursday, 64 teams were in the hunt for the championship. It was immediately apparent, however, that some teams had substantially more firepower than others. In fact, some teams didn't even bother to put up a fight. Seven first round games were decided by forfeit.

About half of the first round games were played at the Angela Athletic Facility on St. Mary's campus due to the glut of men's games on the other side of U.S. 31. However, as the "other" Bookstore field thinned out, the women returned home and will play the remaining games at the Stepan courts.

One variation in the women's rules should be noted. Captains have the option of playing to either 15 or 21 points, presumably to allow a blatantly inferior team to bow out with some dignity. Several teams chose to play to 15 in the first round.

With a long way to go, it appears that eight or nine teams have a legitimate shot at winning the title. Talent has been evenly-distributed, for the most part. There were few surprises in the first round.

Nucleus Breakers, led by Mary Beth Schueth, had the toughest go of any of the favorites. Schueth had 13 points as the Breakers slipped by Seventh Heaven Less 2, 21-16. Less 2 was stocked with members of PE's interhall basketball champions, including Susie Fessler, Susan Hayes, Colleen Donnelly, and Leslie Heinemann. Donnelly led her team with seven points.

Going All the Way won its first game over Massive Attitude Problem by a score of 21-10. Kathy Immonen led the Way with ten points. Laura Dougherty tossed in four points to help the cause. Going All the Way also has the Schwebel twins, Julie and Theresa, reportedly the best set of twins since the Van Arsdale.

Going All the Way will have to beat Five Women Who Want to Go

All the Way (and Play B-Ball, Too). Five Women... advanced to the second round by beating The Joyless Wonders 21-7. Janice Monagle and Ann Curoe led Five Women... with six points apiece.

RTHBKA bombed The Bombing Starts in Five Minutes, 21-5. Dava Newman led RTHBKA with six buckets. Lisa Ehrhart and Ann Willard split ten points for the winners.

Have No Pride, Suffer No Embarrassment couldn't stomach the onslaught from The D.U.I.'s and collapsed, 21-1. Ruth Ann Kaiser and Christina Weinmann led the D.U.I.'s with seven apiece. Coleen Nolan drilled the lone shot for Have No Pride, etc.

Foul Trouble hacked their way to a 15-12 victory over Larks. Carrie Bates almost single-handedly won the game with 12 points. Janeen Olds scored the other three points.

We Shave Points But Not for Drugs absolutely destroyed Jam On It!, 21-0. Julie Pietras scored seven points to lead We Shave... As expected, no one scored for Jam On It!

Two other teams, The Violent Femmes and Does on Their Own should also challenge for the title. Mary Borkowski and Laura Gleason lead these two squads, respectively.

Bookstore

continued from page 16

The Pedophilic Day Care Center overcame Stork and the Four Eggs, 22-20, at 6:15 on Lyons 12. Dan Duffy's 9-of-17 and Jeff Waters' 9-of-22 paced the foot-loving babysitters, while the eggs scrambled to keep up, led by Mike Sperry's 12-of-24.

A Gynecologist, a Proctologist and Three Other Guys Looking for a Good Opening couldn't find one on Lyons 12 at 5:30. Four People and a Short Fat Guy took the game, 21-19, with Steve Skolozynski hitting 7-of-16, Jeff Nickelski getting 5-of-9 and John Richard going 5-of-11. "Doctor" Yogi Spence led all scorers with 8-of-24.

The Ozone Rangers should have kept their feet on the asphalt of Lyons 11 yesterday at 4:00. If they had, perhaps they would not have lost, 21-19, to a team billing itself as Maladroits. Kevin McCarthy kept the Rangers flying high with 11-of-21 shooting, but he didn't get enough help from his teammates to pull off the victory. Tom Geyer led the uncoordinated winners with 6-of-20.

Paddle Goes to Russia went to Stepan 8 yesterday at 6:15 and came away with a 21-18 victory over Hoop Da Doop. Two John Mooneys teamed up for the Ruskies, one hitting 8-of-17 and the other going 7-of-19. Greg Abowd hit 7-of-16 for the losers.

Phi Runna Gunna was able to run enough to overcome an army yesterday on Stepan 2 at 5:30. Masciopinto's Irish Army, that is. Commander-in-Chief Jeff Masciopinto hit only two of his eight shots as his army was defeated, 21-17. Mark Palaski and Kelly Brothers died valiantly in the battle, hitting 6-of-14 and 6-of-15, respectively.

In a preview of next week's Blue-Gold football game, Mr. Coffee and the Non Dairy Creamers broke through the defense of Defense Plus Two to win, 21-13, on Stepan 2 at 6:15. Football receivers Tony Eason (6-of-12) and Milt Jackson (5-of-14) of the Creamers took apart three members of the defensive backfield, Mike Larkin (5-of-17), Mike Haywood (2-of-16) and Pat Ballage (0-of-12).

The governor of Idaho would have been proud yesterday to see Spudz Zaremba and the Couch Potatoes take the sheer energy out of Five Guys That Wear Panty Hose on Their Heads, 21-12, on Bookstore 10 at 5:30. Dave Smith got the Mr. Potato Head Award for the second consecutive game, hitting 8-of-22 to lead his team. Teammate Karl Turro added 7-of-25, while Kurt Petersen led the footwear fetishists with 5-of-13.

Four Dingleberries Looking for a Good Opening and a Kresgie had better luck finding an opening on Lyons 11 at 6:15 than the doctors on Lyons 12 at 5:30. The Dingleberries toasted After Birth on Rye, 21-8, as each player on the team scored at least three times. John Madden led the way with 5-of-9 and Doug Pratt followed suit with 5-of-12.

We Needed Five Dollars to Play but Couldn't Get It From Bernard Goetz could have used some assistance from the subway vigilante yesterday on Bookstore 9 at 5:30. Two Dillon Sweetwater Dudes and Three Tools From Alumni overcame the traditional dorm rivalry and We Needed... 21-5. Mike Grace paced the united dorms with 11-of-18 shooting, while Jim Vizzini was high-scorer for the impoverished losers with 4-of-8.

When Feeney's Weenies scored first in their contest on Stepan 1 at 6:15 with Revenge of the Fun Bunch, exuberant fans showered the court with hot dogs, but the Weenies did not have much fun. It was the Fun Bunch, out to revenge its semifinal loss in last year's tournament, that rolled to a 21-4 victory. The Bunch's balanced offense hit 21 of its 30 shots, led by Steve Treacy's 6-of-7 and Matt Dingens' 5-of-6. Don Feeney got the Oscar Meyer Award for Leadership, pacing his team on 0-of-7 shooting.

Kelly's Uncles cried "uncle" loudly as they fell victim to the biggest blowout of the day on Stepan 3 at 6:15. Gumby Bloody Gumby rolled to the 21-2 victory without shedding any red stuff, as the Uncles shot 2-of-25.

Little Caesars prepares you for the real world.

WHERE TO MEET MEN.

Well, once you get out of college, you're probably going to look for The Guy. Well, there's lots of guys in bars. But why would you want a man who hangs around in bars? You could also try personal ads. But come on, you wouldn't answer one, so why would you expect him to? Another place to meet men is in a supermarket. But what if he's buying those extra lamb chops for his wife? I mean, lots of guys don't wear wedding rings. Well, maybe you'll meet him where you work. But, didn't last month's Cosmo say never to get involved with someone you work with? Then again, maybe a friend will introduce you to someone. But if he's so great, how come your friend didn't want him for herself? Maybe she's secretly seeing him. What kind of a friend is that? And who wants a two-timing guy?

Who knows, maybe you'll meet someone when you pick up your 2 for 1 pizza. Let's face it, any guy smart enough to use these coupons must have something on the ball.

Corner of Elwood and Portage
(4 minutes from Campus)

From your local Little Caesar's manager - Jay Freet

233 - 3200

Give us a try - You won't regret it!

© 1984 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc.

VALUABLE COUPON

FREE PIZZA!

Buy any size original round pizza at regular price, get identical pizza FREE with this coupon at participating Little Caesars. Carry-out only. One coupon per customer.

Expires:

Little Caesars Pizza

SUMMER STORAGE SPACE

(5 x 10 spaces available)

Call 259-0335 to reserve space self lock storage of McKinley

816 East McKinley

Mishawaka

Security Patrol Checks

SEE FOR YOURSELF

Village Optical

6502 Grape Road

(219) 277-2400

SAVE ON CONTACT LENSES!

$49 SPHERICAL
DAILY WEAR
SOFT LENSES

$99 SPHERICAL
EXTENDED WEAR
SOFT LENSES

Offer includes trial wearing plan. Examination & care kit not included.
Offer good on initial pair only w/ Village Optical prescription.

Expires 5/11

Expires 5/11

25% off
all sunglasses

-Bausch & Lomb
-Ray Ban
-Logo Paris, etc.

SAVE ON EYEGLASSES

20%
off

1st complete pair of prescription eyeglasses

Expires 5/11

Men's volleyball team rallies to take MIVA title

The men's volleyball team captured first place in the Midwest Intercollegiate Volleyball Association championship tournament last Saturday at the University of Michigan. Notre Dame posted a 12-3 record for the day, winning its last eight in a row. Ed Apt, middle hitter, and Geoff Westrich, setter, were selected to the All-Conference team, and Westrich gained tourney MVP honors.

"I was very surprised to be named tournament MVP," said Westrich. "Usually the hitter get all the glory and the setter only gets recognized when he messes up. All of our hitters played well and there were many fine players at the tournament, so I didn't think I would be in the running for the award. The award means a lot to me because I was selected by the coaches and I have never won anything like this before. But I feel that without all of my teammates's help, I would have never been able to win the award."

Notre Dame's first match of the double-elimination tournament was against Bowling Green. The Irish won a tough opening game, 15-3, and then went on to win the match, 15-8. Next the Irish met the number-one seed Northern Illinois, who knocked Notre Dame into the loser's bracket by scores of 17-15 and 15-12. After an easy match over Ohio Wesleyan, the stage was set for a rematch with Bowling Green. Notre Dame's "cardiac kids" lost the opener, 15-13, and Bowling Green was looking to send the Irish home early as it took a lead of 13-6 in the second game. The Irish, however, started to click. With good passing and power-hitting from Glenn and Mark Trautmann, Notre Dame rallied to win, 16-14. The Irish then won the third game of the match by the score of 17-15.

Notre Dame then met Michigan for the finals of the loser's bracket. The Irish, still hot after their match with Bowling Green, defeated Michigan in straight games, 15-11 and 15-11.

Notre Dame was intent on ending a five-year jinx of finishing second, and in the championship match against Northern Illinois, the Irish came out pouding.

With Apt and Trautman running the middle well, and with some solid blocking, the Irish proved to be too much for Northern Illinois, as they won the first game by a convincing score of 15-2. In the second game, Notre Dame jumped out to a 10-4 lead and held off a Northern Illinois rally by a score of 15-13. By winning the third game by a score of 15-6, the Irish forced a one-game tiebreaker that would determine the champion.

Tom Yoon

Club Corner

In that game Notre Dame took an early lead of 4-0 but were tied at eight. Mike O'Grady then crushed two spikes over NIU and the Irish took a commanding 13-8 lead. Then at 13-10, Andy Reardon hit a blistering shot down the line and the Irish were one point away from the win. Ed Abt then clinched the championship with a service ace.

"After a somewhat frustrating season, it was gratifying to see the team pull together and play the best volleyball they ever had," said Apt. "Winning the club division is a stepping stone for us towards our goal of achieving varsity status. This weekend we are competing in a tournament which sends a team to the NCAA final four. Winning a match this weekend would be an extra bonus on an already successful season."

WOMEN'S GOLF: With the weather getting warmer and the grass turning greener, the Notre Dame women's golf team has started practicing for its spring season. After returning from Houston, where it practiced during spring break, the team begin the year with only eight golfers.

"Since we are a relatively young club, it has been difficult getting recognized on this campus," says Angie Lloyd, club vice president. "Hopefully through this article, we can get more women on the team. And, I want to stress that we're not looking for just par shooters."

The women's team competes mostly at away tournaments and goes up against such teams as Purdue, Southern Illinois, Ferris State, and Stevens College. But, it does host the Notre Dame Ladies' Labor Day Golf Tournament every year.

At the tournaments, five women compete against in the match. The four most consistent ladies for the Irish are Lloyd, Mary Huffman, Laura Gleason, and Jane Boland. The last spot is determined by a tournament that is held before each match. The four women who compete for that spot are sophomores Trave Collins and Jackie Schwartz, Chris DiDonato, a Saint Mary's freshman, and Tamara Sewell, a graduate student.

"Mary Huffman, a Saint Mary's freshman, is our number-one golfer and turns in consistent scores in the high 70's and low 80's," says Lloyd. "Since she has been playing golf the longest, she is able to assist the other golfers on the technical aspects of the game. Lori and myself are sophomores and we turn in solid scores in the mid to high 80's. And then there's our president, Jane Boland, a junior. She sets up our practice schedule and tries to expand our season with outer opponents. She also is trying to get our club varsity status so we can get more members."

"A way we hope to get more women involved in our club is by hosting a ladies' tournament next fall so we can look at new golfers. And the tournament will allow the women to meet new golfers."

Next weekend, the team will travel to Columbia, Mo., to compete against Stevens College. And any lady golfers would like to know more about the club, they are invited to go out to the Burke Memorial golf course on Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday, or Sunday, and talk to the players.

ROWING CLUB: The Notre Dame Rowing Club won the Notre Dame Invitational Regatta last weekend beating such schools as Michigan State, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio State, Northwestern, University of Chicago, and Lincoln Park. The men's varsity light and heavy teams each took first place and the Men's light four had the best time of the day with a 4:24. Bill Milon and John Marciniak stroked the novice boat to first place.

In the women's division, captained by Patty Bergin, the Irish took first in the novice and light four, and second in the varsity light eight.

"This regatta was helpful in preparation for the Midwest Sprints in Madison in two weeks," comments Paul Sherman.

This weekend the rowing club travels to West Virginia and one of the rowers, Cory Timpson, has this to say: "We should do very well this weekend because we are rowing a lot better as a team."

Belles' track team takes 1st in two events

By ANDREA LaFRENIERE
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's track team played host to Anderson and Goshen Colleges yesterday at a meet held at Clay High School in South Bend.

Sophomore Trish McPartlin and freshman Cathy Kennedy each earned a first place award for the Belles. McPartlin received a first in the high jump, and Kennedy finished first in the 1500-meter race.

McPartlin received second place in both the long jump and the triple jump, as well.

In the javelin, sophomore Megan McMonigle captured second place, and senior Diane Hartwig took fourth place.

McMonigle came in third place in the 200-meter race, and she finished in fourth place in the 100-meter race.

The 400-meter relay team, consisting of Kennedy, McMonigle, sophomore Cris Cox, and freshman Jill Simonie, finished in second place.

Senior Diane Hartwig captured second place in the shotput and took third place in the discus. Junior Barb Blanchette came in fourth place in the shotput.

In the 5000-meter race, sophomores Mary Ann Vantassell and Mariclaire Driscoll finished in third and fourth places, respectively.

Sophomore Diane Cancro took fourth place in both the 800- and 3000-meter races. Mary O'Conner, a freshman, placed fourth in the 400-meter race.

The Belles will travel to North Manchester, Ind., Saturday to compete in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) District 21 Tournament at Manchester College. The meet is scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m.

3 Credits in 2 Weeks

Redbud Summer Workshops 1985

May 20th - June 1st

Choose from: Drawing, Biology, Ceramics, Printmaking & Photography

Sponsored by the St. Mary's Art Department
For further information contact:
Moreau Gallery, 284-4655

Applications for Student Government
ASSISTANT TREASURER
available in Treasurer's Office
2nd floor LaFortune
Must presently be a
Sophomore Accounting Major
If you have any questions call
Eric at 239-7417
Applications due
Monday, April 22, 4:00 PM

We're #1 in Making Student Loans

Get cash to cover college expenses without the worry or the hassle.

Visit our main office downtown, or call our student loan experts at 237-5410, today.

Because We Make Them Simple.

ST. JOSEPH BANK
MEMBER FDIC

MID - EASTERN VEGETARIAN

• Vegetarian & Meat Dishes
SHAWERMA - MUGEDERA - BABA GHENOJ
HOMMUS - FELAFEL
TEBBOULI SALAD
• LEBANESE STYLE
GYROS

FOODS

288-5639
838 Portage Ave

SOUTH BEND
• Pita Stuffed Sandwiches
• Delicious Pastries • Turkish Coffee
Tues - Sat 5:30PM - 9:30PM
COMPLETE CATERING FOR PARTIES & BANQUETS

LOGAN CENTER

ND/SMC Council for the Retarded

Needs Volunteers for
THE CAMPOUT
THIS WEEKEND
4/20 - 4/21

Leave from Logan Center
8:30 am Saturday

CALL TOM (x2508) or KATHY (x3604) for info

SENIOR PARTY at LEE'S BBQ

Thursday, April 18
5 - 10pm

$3.00 ALL YOU CAN DRINK
BBQ

$5.50 RIB TIPS
BBQ

$4.00 CHICKEN

28 more bite the dust...

Bookstore Tournament

Today's Games

Stepan 1
6:15 - Still Virtually Unknown v. Byrne's By-Products

Stepan 2
6:15 - John Murphy's Slime Train VI v. 4 Guys Who Go All the Way

Stepan 3
5:30 - Dribbling Dyx II v. Post Consumptory White Castle Movements
6:15 - Jack & the Giant Killers v. Raging Ray's CPAs

Stepan 4
5:30 - Two Ionic, Two Doric & 1 Early Corinthian v. Tofu Vegetables I
6:15 - John Henry & the Longshoremen v. The Fastest White Guys on...

Stepan 5
5:30 - Don't Laugh v. Crimes Against Nature
6:15 - PB & Who Knows v. Little Waterbirds on the Prairie

Stepan 6
6:15 - Showtime v. 5 Seniors Without a Job

Stepan 7
6:15 - Phillips v. Johnny Wad & the 4 Squirts

Stepan 8
6:15 - Bricklayer & the Hoopers v. That's What Made It Such a

Bookstore 9
4:00 - We Love ND - Right v. 5 Guys Worse Than Tim Kempton
4:45 - Negative v. Peewee & the Weebies
5:30 - Red Barons v. Sweet Lou's Wild Kingdom
6:15 - Pubic Hairs on Soap v. Rhythm Method

Bookstore 10
4:00 - The Dougherty Dudes v. Your Freudian Slip is Showing Again
4:45 - Cubs Lose! v. Chicks Dig Us
5:30 - Los Malandros v. The Beanheads
6:15 - What the Duck v. Chicks Dig Fred Bassett

Lyons 11
4:00 - Catherine the Great Meets Mr. Ed Again v. Relax, We'll Do It
4:45 - Law School Sucks v. Prime Time
5:30 - Grappling in the Cosmic Wash v. Chicks Dig Us Now That We're...
6:15 - Lumpy, Cheese v. Captain Flathead & The Turbulent 4

Lyons 12
4:00 - Ruinin' & Gunnin' Banties v. Maydog & 4 Men Named Dick
4:45 - Ed Smierciak & 4 Other Guys Better Than John Paxton v. DM3 B
5:30 - Uge & the Dragline Buckets v. Shooting C-Men
6:15 - 5 Guys With Packages the Mailman Can't Carry v. Return of the Queen

Women's Bookstore

Stepan 1
4:45 - RTHBKA v. Mexican Connection & the 3 Wetats

Stepan 2
4:45 - Samurai Sue & the Hari Kari v. The Dialectics

Stepan 3
4:45 - The DULs v. The 5 W's

Stepan 4
4:45 - Skippies Need Not Apply v. Grin & Bear It

Yesterday's Results

Stepan 1
Hey Shi-Happens over Projectile Earwax From Hell by 7
Revenge of the Fun Bunch over Feeneys Weenies by 17

Stepan 2
Phi Runna Gunn over Masciopinto's Irish Army by 4
Mr. Coffee & the Non-Dairy Creamers over Defense Plus Two by 8

Stepan 3
Big Black Mac Attack over International Man by 7
Gummy Bloody Gummy over Kelly's Uncles by 19

Stepan 4
The Shysters over Alpha Pi Sigma by 14
Wild, Woolly & Wicked over MBA All-Stars, 25-23

Stepan 5
Chuck's Social Handicaps over Cyril Scooter & the Salvations by 6
Dangling Manhood over Hitler Youth by 10

Stepan 6
Demented Doormats over Off by 6

Stepan 7
Rink Rats & a Zamboni Driver over Bobby Knight & the Chair Throwers, 22-20

Stepan 8
Poodle Goes to Russia over Hoop Da Doop by 3

Bookstore 9
Drunk Drivers Against Mothers over 4 Halfway Rectifiers & Zenerdiode by 14
2 Dillion Sweetwater over We Needed $5 To Play But Couldn't... by 16
4 Geeks & Pissy Little Ship over Psycho Eddie & the Domebuffers by 5

Bookstore 10
The Supreme Courtiers over Ron Reagan & 4 Other Guys Who Can't... by 11
5 Ethiopians Hungry to Win over Spaghetti With Noodles by 12
Spudz Zaremba & the Couch Potatoes over 5 Guys That Wear... by 9
4 Guys Who Still Wonder Why Barney... over Rand's Tuna Fishers by 8

Lyons 11
Maladroits over The Ozone Rangers by 2
Six Shooters over Doctor Ruth Westheimer Eats Onion Rings by 5
Arsenal Gunners over Your Mother Does Deep Knee Bends... by 8
4 Dingleberries Looking For a... over After Birth on Rye by 13

Lyons 12
The Old and Injured over No More Next Years by 11
Cubs Lose, Cubs Lose over Just Curious, 26-24
4 People & a Short Fat Guy over A Gynecologist, A Proctologist... by 2
The Pedophilic Day Care Center over Stork & the 4 Eggs, 22-20

Women's Bookstore

Stepan 5
Foul Trouble over LAGNAF by 10
Grin & Bear It over USA for 5 Girls Who Couldn't Score by 2
Cabbdrivers No. 2 over Ann Pettifer & the Female Circumcisions by 15

Freshman javelin standout

Driscoll helps Irish in weight events

By MIKE SZYMANSKI
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's track team has not been traditionally known for its weight events, but javelin thrower Brian Driscoll is determined to change that image.

Driscoll, a freshman from Philadelphia, has been noted by both Coach Joe Plane and Coach Ted Potts as an extremely good competitor and hard worker. "He loves to throw the javelin, which helps him maintain a good attitude over the long indoor season with no meets," said Plane.

Driscoll has thrown 205-7 in high school, and 191 this year. He and the coaches would like to see him throw 200 feet this weekend against good competition at the Indiana Intercollegiate. Plane sees Driscoll as "having the potential to win his event."

Since Driscoll primarily uses arm motion for distance, Potts wants him to develop better lower body motion. "I need to get my technique down and continue weight training," said Driscoll.

When he throws, Driscoll pictures a hole to throw through, and strives to release at a 45 degree angle. "I am working on getting my front leg down and then coming through with more momentum," he added.

Driscoll's long range goal is to throw 210 feet by the end of the season. He is hoping for better weather conditions, since the majority of the meets have been in heavy wind. "College competition involves more pressure, but I have had more time to concentrate on the javelin," he said.

Driscoll will lead the weightmen this Saturday at the Indiana Intercollegiate. "Our objective is to win the meet, but because of key injuries, that will be difficult," said Plane.

The mile relay will be weakened by the loss of Mitch Van Eyken, who will be replaced by John McNelis. In addition, sprinter Phil Gilmore is lost for the season because of two stress fractures.

The Irish will face a tough Indiana University team, Purdue, Indiana State, and Ball State who won seven events against Notre Dame earlier this year.

The Knights of the Castle

Men's Hair Styling at its finest
(minutes from campus)

$5 HAIRCUTS

54553 Terrance Ln. S.R. 23
(across from Martin's)

272-0312
272-8471

McDONALD'S Campus Airlift

We are expanding our delivery test for the remainder of the school year.

Sunday thru
Thursday

We will take orders from all ND halls from 5pm to 10pm

277-1688

Big Mac	1.65
Quarter Pounder w/ Cheese	1.70
Quarter Pounder	1.60
McNuggets - - 9 piece	2.30
McNuggets - - 20 piece	4.40
Filet-O-Fish	1.25
Cheeseburger	.90
Hamburger	.80
Large French Fry	1.00
Any Pie	.80
Any Cookies	.60
Large Orange Juice	1.00
Any Shake	1.00

Our driver will call within 20 minutes to confirm the order and give you the time for delivery.

We should have the order to you within 15-20 minutes of the confirmation call.

New deliveries start Monday, April 15th

277-1688

CANCER.
NOT KNOWING
THE RISKS
IS YOUR GREATEST RISK.

Irish set at tailback, but fullback spot wide open

By JERRY MELIA
Sports Writer

In recent years, people have associated Notre Dame football with a good running game. A successful rushing attack is important to a team because it makes the other aspects of an offense that much stronger. The reasoning for this being that the defense must first try to guard against the opponent's strength. In keeping the ball on the ground the offensive team can control the clock and keep the defense on the field while wearing the defense down at the same time.

The recent Irish rushing success has depended a great deal on the efforts of Allen Pinkett, whose talents have brought him to be recognized as one of the nation's best. When Pinkett performs to his capabilities, the Irish have been able to win a lot of football games easily. However, on those occasions that the junior tailback has an off game, a great deal of pressure is placed on other members of the team to pick up the slack.

Alonzo Jefferson has been the one to add some diversity to the tailback spot when the defense keys on Pinkett. To backup Pinkett is a tall order because much is expected of you. Jefferson was up to meet this challenge, and has given the Notre Dame faithful a lot to cheer about in the last two seasons. He has proven himself, especially during the 1984 campaign, and can only improve as his Notre Dame career progresses.

Spring Football '85

Junior Lester Flemons who has seen spot time throughout his career and will play a more contributing role during his senior season.

The fullback position is one that needs to be developed during the spring and fall practices because of the loss of Chris Smith and Mark Brooks to graduation.

These two seniors will be missed because of their dependability of coming through on short-yardage situations on third and fourth downs. It also was not unusual to see one of these bulky fullbacks come out of the backfield for a short pass play or screen. The 1985 Notre Dame fullback corps must be able to show the flexibility and diversity that Smith and Brooks displayed during their years wearing the blue and gold.

Running back coach Mal Moore will be trying many different players to fill this wide-open position. Pernel Taylor will be one that will be given a long hard look. Taylor, a 5-11, 211-pound sophomore, has not yet played a down for the Irish because of rehabilitation from knee surgery in 1983, but has been working hard towards playing in the season opener.

Freshman Frank Stams will also get a good chance for playing time. Stams, 6-4, 225-pounds, earned many prep honors in high school and will be a strong contender to replace Brooks or Smith.

With less than two weeks remaining in spring practice, the Irish have some starting spots not yet filled because of starters lost to graduation. Spring and fall practices give those players who are low on the depth charts a chance to prove themselves and possibly earn a starting position. These practices also are viewed as a way for regulars to get in shape for the upcoming season.

Heisman Trophy Candidate Allen Pinkett is one of those players who fits in the second category. Although Pinkett is not practicing this spring, he has had the opportunity to watch what is going on from the sidelines. His absence from the field is due to a shoulder separation suffered in the Aloha Bowl.

"I have been working very hard to recover," says Pinkett. "I will be 100 percent by the fall."

In observing the team, Pinkett has been able to view the practices more closely and feels the team is progressing rather well.

"The attitudes of the players seems great," says Pinkett. "This is due to our strong finish a year ago."

Pinkett is hoping that his final year will be the best one ever.

"I am not going to make any predictions about next year, but I want it to be the best because it is my last," says Pinkett.

Men's tennis team sees record drop to 15-11 after loss to Northwestern

By MIKE CARNEY
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's tennis team was defeated by the Wildcats of Northwestern, 8-1, on a very cold and windy Tuesday afternoon in Evanston, Ill.

The match was much closer than the score might indicate, as three of the singles matches were lost in final-set tie-breakers.

Captain Joe Nelligan started off strong for the Irish, winning the first set of his match. After dropping the second set, Nelligan fought to tie the third set at 6-6, setting up the tie-breaker.

Although Nelligan lost the tie-breaker and the match, Irish coach

Tom Fallon said, "Joe looked very sharp and played perhaps his strongest match of the season against a very tough opponent."

Mike Gibbons, playing No. two singles, also won the first set of his match. However, Gibbons lost the second set and the third set to produce another tie-breaker. Hard luck continued for the Irish, and Gibbons lost the tie-breaker on a controversial call.

Another good performance was turned in by No. four singles player Dave Obert, who fell just short, 7-5, 7-6, as Northwestern swept all six singles matches.

The lone victory for the Irish was provided by the No. 2 doubles team of Nelligan and Paul Daggs. The other doubles teams did not fare quite so well, as Northwestern wrapped up its 8-1 victory. The Irish season record slipped to 15-11.

The Irish next travel to St. Louis to participate in the Midwestern City Conference tournament.

"The Northwestern match was a good match for us to play before the conference tournament," comments Fallon.

"We played pretty well in most of the matches, and several players are ready to peak. We should do well in the conference tournament."

With a little luck and some nice weather, the Irish should do very well.

SMC splits in softball twinbill vs. Valparaiso

By ANNE KARNATZ
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's softball team split with Valparaiso University in a double header yesterday on its home field, bringing the Belle's season record to 9-4. Valparaiso, an NCAA Division I school, defeated Saint Mary's in the first game, 11-2, but the Belles came back in the second to win, 15-6.

Freshman pitcher Betty Mihalik started out strong as the Belles kept their opponent scoreless in the first two innings. Valpo began picking up runs fast after that, beginning with four in the third inning, two of which were scored on errors.

The Belles' only two runs came in at the bottom of the second inning on senior Elaine Suess' line drive to right field. Saint Mary's only came up with two hits in the last four innings, while Valparaiso knocked in a run in both the fourth and fifth innings, three in the sixth, and two in the seventh.

Despite their lack of hits, the Belles exhibited some fine fielding. Senior Trish Nolan snagged line drives at shortstop in the second, third, and fourth innings. Center fielder Teresa McGinnis caught a high fly in the fourth, then rifled it home where catcher Janine Adamo tagged the runner out.

The Belles' hitting turned around in the second game as they exploded in the second inning with nine runs. Suess, Adamo, and junior Cathy Logsdon all had base hits while Susan McCrory, McGinnis, and third baseman Katy Boldt hammered in a double, triple, and a double respectively.

The Belles kept up their hitting streak with two runs in the third, fifth, and sixth innings. Valpo was never shut out, though. They managed single runs in the third and fourth innings, and a pair in both the fifth and sixth.

Saint Mary's fielding was up to par again in the second half of the twinbill. In the second inning, Nolan picked up a grounder and tossed it to second baseman Kris Pantelleria, who fired it to Barb Theiss at first base for a double play. Adamo was also in rare form in the top of the third, as she faked out the runner at first, picking off the third-base runner and tagging her out.

Logsdon, the winning pitcher for the Belles, also performed well. Her season record stands at 6-1.

Saint Mary's assistant coach Sue Becher attributed the reversal in the team's performance in the second game to better concentration and less errors.

"It was more of a team effort in the second game," noted Becher.

"If our bats had been as strong in the first game as they were in the second we would have taken two," said Saint Mary's Head Coach Scott Beisel.

"Our heads just weren't in the first game," said Beisel. "Our defense was also not as good."

The Belles will take on Grace College today at 3 p.m. at Grace.

Looking for Summer Excitement?

Join the group going to Yellowstone Ranch School
in Emigrant, Montana

Exciting experience in horse handling, mountain survival, float trips, Yellowstone outings and many more outdoor activities. A REAL WESTERN ADVENTURE!

For info write:

Yellowstone Ranch School
Box 663
Emigrant, Montana 59027

or phone:
(406) 848-7570

THURS

18

FRI

19

3/$1 BUDS
LIVE.... "COLD DRINKS"
(They're friends of Billy Idol, I think)

90¢ IMPORTS

PRICES GOOD THRU 4-20-85

INCOME TAX

KINGS CELLAR

RELIEF SALE

"THE BEST SELECTION"
Humble Bob Says, "Good As Carlo Rossi."

Charles LeFranc
Superior red & white table wines
Maison Blanc, Maison Rouge
3.49 750 ML

BACARDI RUM
LIGHT OR DARK
1.75 L.
10.40

CELLA CADORO
750 ML
1.99

CANEI
750 ML
2.99

HIRAM WALKER
PEPPERMINT SCHNAPPS
4.49

ANDRE
EXTRA DRY, PINK
COLD DUCK
2/5.00

BUDWEISER
1/2 BARREL KEG
33.99

4.0 LITER
• CHABLIS • RHINE
• BURGUNDY • VIN ROSE

BECKENHOF
Chablis

YOUR CHOICE
5.99 CASE

VODKA
1.75 L.
6.99

GRIZZLY CANADIAN
12 OZ. 1/4 L.
BOTTLES
3.99

BUDWEISER
7.99 CASE

J&B SCOTCH
17.99 1.75 L.

CALVERT GIN
8.99 1.75 L.

JIM BEAM
BOURBON
10.99 1.75 L.

BEAM'S BLEND
9.99 1.75 L.

CORDIAL OF THE WEEK
HIRAM WALKER
CIDER MILL
APPLE SCHNAPPS
4.99 750 ML

Budweiser 1/2 bbl $33.99
Little Kings 1/2 bbl 31.99
Old Milwaukee 1/2 bbl 27.99
Red, White and Blue 24 bottles 9.99

272-2522 233-4603 233-8430 277-7176 295-6310

Bloom County

Zeto

Kevin Walsh

The Far Side

Gary Larson

"Criminy! Kevin's oozing his way up onto the table. ... Some slugs have a few drinks and just go nuts!"

The Daily Crossword

- ACROSS
1 Son of Noah
5 Pied —
10 Sweet potato
13 Alliance letters
14 Shaped like an egg
15 Time periods
17 Bedouin
18 Grass cutters
20 Lend a hand
22 Lines of flight
23 Sloths
24 Bone: pref.
25 Short approach to the green
29 Singer Eydie
33 Some actors
34 Outer: pref.
36 Term of affection
37 — Peron
38 Put away
40 To and —
41 Hence
43 — alcohol (solvent)
44 Ship

© 1985 Tribune Media Services, Inc. All Rights Reserved

4/18/85

Wednesday's Solution

- 45 Hangs on to
47 Bar connecting wagon wheels
49 — among ladies
52 Kind of verb: abbr.
53 Practical one
56 Fruit
60 Quibble over fine points
62 Shove
63 Adolescent
64 Declaim
65 A Gardner
66 Eng. river
67 Lilts
68 Wild plum

- 6 Russ. ruler
7 Handle roughly
8 Lab vessels
9 Pardon
10 "Of true wood, of —"
11 Region
12 Martin or Moore
16 Draft org.
19 Salem's state: abbr.
21 Possessive
24 Footstool
25 Nerve
26 Le —, Fr. port
27 Reflection
28 Eight: pref.
30 Direct attention

4/18/85

Campus

- 4 P.M. - Research Seminar, "Attitude as a Mediator in Advertising Effectiveness," Prof. Scott MacKenzie, Indiana University, GTE Emerging Scholar Series, Hayes Healy Board Room.
•4:30 P.M. - Mathematics Colloquium, "Minimal Surfaces and Function Theory On the Unit Disc," Prof. Frederic Jose de Vasconcelos Xavier, Purdue, Room 226 CCMB.
•4:30 P.M. - Reading, Robin Hemley, Widely Published Author, Reading From His Stories, South Lounge, 2nd Floor Mezzanine, Cushman-Leighton Library, Sponsored by SMC Dept. of English, Free.
•7, 9 & 11 P.M. - Film, "Bachelor Party," Engineering Auditorium, Sponsored by Student Activities Board, $1.50.
•7 P.M. - Lecture & Film, Jack Gordon Historian, On the Kennedy Assassination, Sponsored by SMC Government Club, Carroll Hall (SMC).
•7-9 P.M. - Ticket Distribution, For Tommy Shaw Concert & Rock-Alike Contest, LaFortune Ballroom & Haggard College Center, Free.
•8 P.M. - Play, "Moonchildren," Washington Hall, Sponsored by St. Edward's Hall, $1.

- 8 P.M. - Theater, "Our Spring Concert," Dance Studio, Regina Hall (SMC), Sponsored by ND/SMC Dance Theater, $1.
•8 P.M. - Lecture, "Problems of a Trinitarian Reformulation of the Concept of God," Prof. Wolfhart Pannenberg, University of Munich, Library Auditorium.
•8 P.M. - Colloquium, "The Living Dead: Art and Immortality Among the Yoruba," Prof. Babatunde Lawal, University of Ife, Nigeria, Annenberg Auditorium.
•8 P.M. - SMC Student Recital, Caroline Dillion, Soprano and Mary Nessenger, Mezzo, Little Theatre.

Dinner Menus

- Notre Dame
Beef Burgandy
Curried Chicken & Rice
Eggplant Parmesan
- Saint Mary's
Baked Meatloaf w/Mushroom Gravy
Sweet & Sour Pork
Broccoli Cheddar Quiche
Turkey Brazil

TV Tonight

6:00 p.m.	16 NewsCenter 16	9:00 p.m.	16 Cheers
	22 22 Eyewitness News		28 Eye to Eye
	28 Newswatch 28		34 Mystery
6:30 p.m.	16 NBC Nightly News	9:30 p.m.	16 Night Court
	22 CBS Evening News	10:00 p.m.	16 Hill Street Blues
	28 ABC's Nightly News		28 20/20
7:00 p.m.	16 M*A*S*H	11:00 p.m.	34 Masterpiece Theatre
	22 Three's Company		16 NewsCenter 16
	28 Jeopardy		22 22 Eyewitness News
7:30 p.m.	16 Barney Miller		28 Newswatch 28
	22 WKRP in Cincinnati	11:30 p.m.	16 Tonight Show
	28 Wheel of Fortune		22 Newhart/Movie
8:00 p.m.	16 Bill Cosby Show		28 ABC News Nightline
	22 Special - Space		34 Movie
	28 Wildside	12:00 a.m.	28 Love Connection
	34 34 Front	12:30 a.m.	16 Late Night With David Letterman
8:30 p.m.	16 Family Ties		28 Africa: Cry on a Continent
		2:00 a.m.	22 Nightwatch

An outrageous new comedy from the creators of "Police Academy" and the star of "Splash."

BACHELOR PARTY

© 1985 BACHELOR PARTY PRODUCTIONS. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.

20 FOX

SHOWING

in Engineering Auditorium
April 17 & 18
7:00
9:00
11:00
$1.50

Custom-designed Imprinted Sportswear

T-shirts * Pullovers * Sweatshirts
Polos * Sweaters * More

SE corner of LaFortune Basement
(Below the Deli)
OPEN MWF 2:30-4:30 TT 3:30-5:30

(Formerly the N.D. T-Shirt Shop) 239-5157

Senior third baseman John Murphy takes a cut against Purdue in action from yesterday's doubleheader at Jake Kline Field. The Irish ran into some hard luck, as the Boilers took both ends of the twinbill, 13-3 and 13-8. For details, see Dennis Corrigan's story below.

Second round continues with physical play and close games

By PHIL WOLF
Assistant Sports Editor

Yesterday started off as a rather cool spring day, but it certainly warmed up as the day progressed. One reason for the higher temperatures in the afternoon could be the heat generated on the asphalt basketball courts as the second round of the Bookstore Basketball Tournament continued.

Tempers flared on several courts and many intense, close games heated the crowds gathered around the courts as 28 teams earned spots in the 128-team third round.

Lyons 12 was the site of one of the most closely contested games yesterday at 4:45. Cubs Lose, Cubs Lose,

Cubs Lose beat Just Curious, 26-24, in a foul-filled game, which was the highest-scoring of the day. Scott Sulentic led the way by scoring 18 points on 34 shots for the Anti-Cubies, and Mike Fitzpatrick turned in a 13-of-28 performance for the curious ones.

In another high-scoring contest, Wild, Woolly and Wicked came out on top of MBA All-Stars, 25-23 on Stepan 4 at 6:15. Patrick Reymann paced WWW with 16 points on 40 shots. Mike Kearney was the all-star for the MBAs, hitting 8-of-31.

Four Rink Rats and a Zamboni Driver needed 22 points to overcome Bobby Knight and the Chairthrowers on Stepan 7 at 6:15. A balanced scoring attack provided the points for the Rink Rats, as Andy Cernicky hit 7-of-18, Hamil Cupero hit 7-of-19 and Tom White was 6-of-17. Mike Sadlon gave a performance any Olympic coach would be proud of, with 10 points on 25 shots, and Shaun Powell added his 8-of-21 effort for the losers.

see BOOKSTORE, page 11

Irish pitching falters, Purdue takes both games of twinbill, 13-3, 13-8

By DENNIS CORRIGAN
Sports Writer

The Purdue Boilermakers paid a visit to Jake Kline Field yesterday and showed the Irish why they lead the East Division of the Big 10. The Boilers pounded 28 hits and scored 26 runs en route to a doubleheader sweep. They breezed through the opening game, 13-3 but needed eight innings to get by the Irish, 13-8, in the nightcap. With the sweep, the Irish fell to 11-21-1.

In the first game, Purdue pitcher Tom Mayer was too much for the Irish batters. Mayer scattered three hits over five-and-one-third innings before a line drive off the bat of Jackie Moran forced him from the game. Moran later scored the first of the Notre Dame's three runs on a single by shortstop Tom Shields. Shields followed Moran home on an RBI single by Mike Dorning. The Irish added a meaningless run in the seventh on a single by Moran and a double by John Loughran.

Meanwhile, the Purdue batters roughed up three Irish pitchers. Starter and loser Buster Lopes (2-5) allowed single scores in the first and fourth before surrendering three in the fifth. The big blows were shortstop Elam Rossy's sacrifice fly and Troy Aeschliman's double. The Boilers added two more in the sixth before starting the hit parade in the top of the seventh

The Boilers sent 11 men to the plate as they scored six times in the frame. After Irish reliever Steve Powell gave up singles to Rossy and Pete Maniago, pinch hitter Gus Weismiller greeted Mike Harmon with a three-run homer over the leftfield wall. The Boilers scored three more in the inning on two walks, three singles and an error by left fielder Darryl Keilen.

The second game of the twin bill featured more hits than the Hagler-Hearns fight, as the Boilermakers dashed Irish hopes for a split. After starter Joe Dobosh gave up an unearned run in the first, The Irish manufactured a run in the third on an error by Purdue's Jose Rossy which allowed Scott Rogers to reach second, a sacrifice by Moran, and a sacrifice fly by Rich Vanthournout.

Purdue scored single runs in the fourth, fifth, and sixth innings, by which time the Irish had taken a 4-3 lead. From then on, what had been a tight game turned into a slugfest. The Irish scored three times in the bottom of the sixth. Vanthournout stroked a two two-out double off reliever Tracy Sprinkle to score first baseman Tim Hutson. When Shields followed with two-run homer, it appeared that the Irish were on their way to a split.

But appearances were deceiving. After Jason Schoemer, the second Irish reliever, walked leadoff hitter Jose Rossy, Bob Gerhart, Don Cox, and Elam Rossy all doubled to knot the score at seven. One out later, Boiler leftfielder Mark Stolarz reached Paul Mauk, on in relief of Schoemer, for a run scoring single.

The Irish, though, refused to fold. With two away in the bottom of the seventh, catcher Mike McNeil cracked a homer to send the game into extra innings. But as the sun faded, so did the Irish hopes of a split. Jeff Allison led off the eighth with a double. After Jose Rossy sacrificed him to third, Allison scored on Cox's sacrifice fly. Bob Shoulders followed with a double which brought on the fifth Irish pitcher, Bob Lee. Lee promptly delivered a wild pitch, allowing Shoulders to score from second. After a walk to Elam Rossy, Gus Weismiller hit his second roundtripper of the day. The Irish went down meekly in the bottom the inning, and Purdue had its sweep.

Yesterday's twinbill was a good picture of the season to date. In the first game, the Irish had neither pitching nor hitting. When the Irish found their bats in the second game, their pitchers were not up to the task of holding the opposition. The Irish will hope to find consistency this weekend on the road at Detroit in Midwestern Cities Conference play. Notre Dame currently stands at 1-3 and in second place in the northern division.

Memories flow at Wrigley Field

Chuck Freeby

Irish Items

Hello again, everybody!
Wrigley Field.

A timeless place, where the echoes of yesteryear mix with the sounds of today. A place where grown-ups play the game made for little boys, and more often than not, have played it like little boys. Nevertheless, no matter the circumstances, Wrigley Field is my Mecca. Yes, folks, I am a longtime Cubs fan.

Pardon me, if you happen to not like the Cubs, and especially if you are a Mets fan. I know many of you heard the phrase "Cubs Win" ad nauseam last year, and really don't care to hear anymore about the exploits of the Cubs. Please be patient with those of us who are Cub fans. Remember, for some people, last year was the first time they had ever heard the word win follow the word Cubs. We had to repeat it often to get used to it.

Still, 1984 carried nearly as bitter a pill as 1969. Oh yes, I hear all you Mets fans laughing with glee at the mention of that year, when your team came from behind to fly past the Cubs and win the National League and the World Series. That hurt Cub fans, although at the tender age of four, I was too small to care. However, I don't see how it could have hurt more than 1984, when one game - one lousy game - kept the Cubs from getting to the World Series for the first time since 1945. It was a lesson that life gets more cruel as we get older.

However, on opening day at Wrigley, memories of '69 and '84 blew away with the wind off Lake Michigan. Hope springs eternal on opening day at the corner of Clark and Addison every year, but last Tuesday was something special. It was my first Cubs opener, and with the aid of a press pass, my first chance to actually be on Wrigley Field. All of a sudden this 19-year old became six again. Come with me to this time machine called Wrigley.

It was a day filled with memories, and they started coming out as you stepped onto the field from the third-base stands. The grass behind home plate was soggy from snow the day before, but the soft ground made it feel like you were walking on air. This is the same area which has been covered by such great Cub catchers as Gabby Hartnett, Randy Hundley, and Jody Davis. Yes, it is also the same ground that has been covered by such Cub catchers as George Mitterwald, Steve Swisher, and Barry Foote. It seemed appropriate that you sink a little into the ground with every step you take.

Walk a few steps, take a seat in the dugout, and look out on the field. It's not exactly the best view, but it's still the best seat in the house. Think of the people who have sat here - there have been a lot of them. Winners like Leo Durocher and Jim Frey. Losers like James Rufus Marshall and Preston Gomez. Jovial men like Charlie Grimm and the less-than-jovial likes of Lee Elia and Herman "Ball Park" Franks. Sit here and wish that you could have traded places with any of them for even one game.

Now leave the dugout, but slowly, as though you were going to the mound to put in Oscar Zamora from the bullpen. If you have never heard of him, you need only hear a few words from a bleacher lyric which recounted Zamora's pitching effectiveness to get a feeling for him.

*When the ball hits your bat
On a pitch that is fat
That's Zamora!*

Well, maybe you shouldn't leave the dugout that slowly. Take a few strides towards the mound, and look to the bullpen. Think how you could have once put in Bruce Sutter. Think how one year later, you would have had to put in Dick "30 seconds over Tokyo" Tidrow (he earned his nickname because it took him only 30 seconds to blow a lead). Thank goodness a ball rolls to your feet to bring you back to reality.

As you pick up the ball, you notice that it came down from the bullpen and bullpen coach Johnny Oates is calling for it. Now's your chance to be discovered. You knew those sessions with the pitchback would pay off sometime. Show him that fabulous fastball. Now cringe as you see your toss bounce three feet in front of Oates like a wounded duck. Now you know why you had to get a press pass to get on the field.

Shake it off, and stroll out to the wall and touch the ivy. Yes, it's brown now, but soon it will be as green as the outfield grass, and swallowing up fly balls. It's the ivy that Ernie Banks was swinging from on my first visit to Wrigley on August 19, 1970. It's the ivy that some fans swear Lou Novikoff never touched during a four-year career as a left fielder for the Cubs. Touch the ivy, rub it in your hands and against your cheek. Dream of leaping into this stuff, and coming out with a baseball to the delight of the bleacher bums above you. Even though, it's brown, the ivy is beautiful.

However, the dream world of your mind is once again confronted by reality. Batting practice is over, and the people with the funny tags hanging from their belt loops have to leave so the grown men with the holes in their socks can play the game of little boys. It's funny how until the game starts, you had forgotten that it was windy and 35 degrees. That doesn't matter, though. Keith Moreland homers. Rick Sutcliffe and Lee Smith pitch marvelously. Your final is Chicago 2, Pittsburgh 1. Cubs win!

And Wrigley Field remains timeless as it etches another memory.