Workers walk the scaffolding as they continue the Main Building's exterior renovation. The building's 4.3 million bricks are being cleaned, and windows and the roof will be replaced as part of the $5 million renovation. Engineers hope to have the project completed by next August, at which point the building's offices will be moved to Grace Hall to allow an interior renovation to begin in 1997. See story below.

Notre Dame welcomes record-setting class

By DAVE TYLER
News Editor

Contrary to the popular adage, bigger did indeed mean better for Notre Dame's class of 1999.

Notre Dame received a record 9,999 applications for admission into this year's freshman class. In turn, the applicant pool — the largest ever — produced the most academically talented class ever to be admitted to the University, according to Kevin Rooney, director of undergraduate admissions.

Approximately 1900 first-year students will enroll for the fall 1995 semester, which begins August 22.

"This pool—which was our largest and most talented—has yielded a class with the strongest composite academic credentials we have seen," Rooney said.

The average member of the 1995 freshman class was in the top six percent of their high school class and scored a 1239

Expectations already set for SMC freshmen

Director of Admissions Mary Pat Nolan is very pleased with the number of incoming freshman at Saint Mary's. Of the 815 applicants, 700 were accepted and an estimated 385 will attend, according to Nolan.

This brings Saint Mary's to a 55 percent conversion rate, which is very good by national standards, Nolan said.

The mean grade point average for the class of 1999 is 3.54, which is up from last year, according to Nolan. Five percent of those accepted were in the top one percent of their high school classes. Thirty-one percent were in the top ten percent and fifty-five percent were in the top 20 percent of their classes.

Business administration is the most popular major among freshmen, though many women

Expansion of Notre Dame Stadium will add 22,000 seats, a new press box and a new concourse. Construction, to begin in November after the last home football game, is set to be done by August 1997.

59,075.
It's a familiar number at the bottom of Notre Dame football game summaries found in newspapers. But after the renovation and expansion of Notre Dame Stadium is completed before the 1997 football season, that number will rise to about 81,000.

The stadium is just one of several construction projects dotting the campus these days, including the renovation of the Main Building, the construction of Keough and O'Neill residence halls, and even possibly a new golf course on the north side of campus.

The $50 million stadium project will begin after the final home game this season on November 4 against Navy. After the Irish battle the Midshipmen, workers will raze the existing press box and begin adding 26 rows of seats around the stadium.

The additional rows will extend the stadium upward and outward, but Mike Smith,

Carpe Diem before you're too old

What I wouldn't give to be in your shoes right now. The car is unpacked. You've got enough rolls of quarters on you to call China every day for the rest of your life. And all your laundry is clean.

Relish it. Because before you know it, you'll be like me. A senior. You'll be talking about MCATs and LSATs and GREs. Career and Placement will be your second home. And you think you might actually miss the dining hall after you graduate. And you'll look at all the freshman moving in and you'll think to yourself, "God, I'm old."

Now's your chance to start over. You've got a clean slate. No one cares about your SAT scores or whether you were valedictorian or salutatorian or even bottom of the barrel. College is an entirely different kettle of fish. Carpe Diem now, guys, because if you don't, it might just be too late.

I am not going to debug the myths or let you in on any big secrets. That comes with the territory and you get the lucky job of figuring it all out for yourself. (Although, taking an umbrella with you wherever you go might be a really good idea.) Before you know it, you'll be an expert at e-mail and DART and CBLD and the Transpo bus to the UP Mall. Soon enough, you'll be giving other people advice.

This weekend is key for you. You get to meet lots of guys named Matt and lots of girls named Jen. Maybe you'll even meet that special someone. (You'd be surprised at the number of couples who met at the Graffiti Dance and the Luau!) You get to meet your roommate(s) who probably falls into one of two categories...really cool or just a bit odd. You get to move into a room that is smaller and more crowded than the Apollo 13 space module. And you get to know the people who will be your friends for the rest of your life.

College will be a major event in your life. You're about to meet more people whose last names begin with Mc and O than you've ever met in your entire human existence. Soon, you'll find yourself depending on those dining hall theme nights to give yourself that extra lift. Your first off-campus party will be a major event in your life. (Kisses aren't contracts, kids.) And all-nighters in the 'Brare during finals, boy will that be fun! You'll find that you shouldn't ever pay more than $10 for a contraband T-shirt. (Remember, the University frowns on unofficial merchandising.) And parents, remember to send lots of care packages full of sugary, greasy treats every once in a while. Cash and checks are also appreciated.

But this is the weekend that you leave your family and enter into a new one — the Notre Dame family. Membership lasts a lifetime and definitely has its privileges. (Plaid pants are recommended, but optional.) The post-graduation years hold tailgaters and football games, kids and grandkids in tow. You will get shivers and goosebumps when you hear the alma mater. You'll have a friend in every city and reunions will be major occasions in your life. If you're lucky and do great things, they'll name a building after you.

But that's the future and this is now. Take it slow and don't spend all your quarters in one place. Homesickness, if you've got it, will pass before you know it. Senior year you'll joke about how pathetic you were. Be young, have fun, drink (Pepsi) and don't let the moment pass you by.

Hendricks appointed to planned giving

Kenneth Hendricks, formerly a tax manager with Coopers and Lybrand, has been appointed assistant director of planned giving at the University of Notre Dame, according to Michelle Shakour, director of planned giving. A Chicago native, Hendricks was graduated from Notre Dame in 1981 with an undergraduate degree in business administration. In 1984 he was graduated from the Notre Dame Law School. Before joining Coopers and Lybrand in 1988, he worked for three years in Chicago with the Grant Thornton accounting firm. He has been active in several community service projects and is a member of the Protective Services Board of Logan. Hendricks lives in South Bend with his wife, the former Lori Goodin, who teaches special education at Coquillard School. They have three children.

Weber appointed provost of SUNY

Stephen Weber, a 1969 graduate of Notre Dame, has been appointed interim provost of the State University of New York, the world's largest university system with more than 391,700 students. Currently president of the SUNY campus in Oswego, Weber will serve as chief academic officer for the system while a national search is conducted for a permanent replacement for Joseph Burke, the previous provost. Weber said he has no interest in holding the position permanently and will return to his present post when a new provost is appointed. Weber earned a doctorate in philosophy from Notre Dame and served as a teaching assistant at the University for three years. He is among more than two dozen Notre Dame alumni who preside as chief executive officers of American colleges and universities.

West, O'Grady alumni board directors

Roderick West, a 1990 graduate, became president of the board of directors of the Notre Dame Alumni Association on July 1. West, the youngest alumnus and the first African-American to head the 95,000-plus-member association, earned a law degree from Tulane University after majoring in American studies and finance at Notre Dame and was a member of the 1988 national championship football team. The president occupies ex officio positions on the University's Board of Trustees. In another action, the Alumni Association has created a new position on its board of directors to represent the University's 2,139 graduates living in 112 countries. Robert O'Grady, a 1963 alumnus, was appointed to a three-year term as the international representative on the board. O'Grady's appointment raises the number of alumni board members to 23.

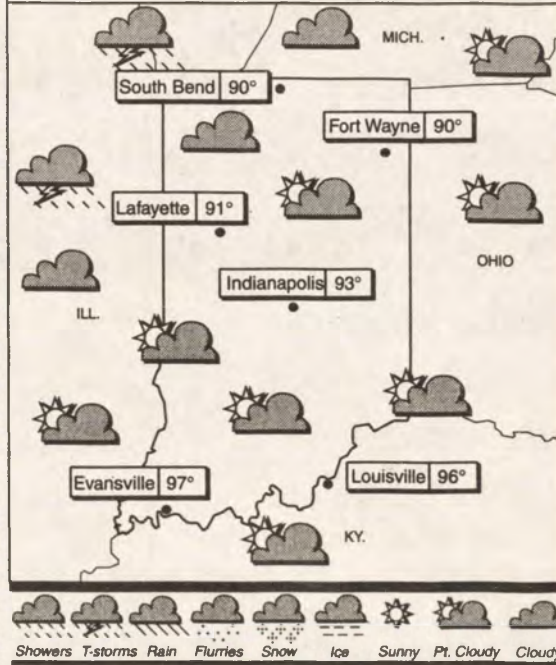

Spencer, Laux leaders in NACA

Two staff members in the Office of Student Activities at the University Notre Dame have been appointed to leadership positions with the National Association for Campus Activities (NACA). Gayle Spencer, assistant director of student activities, will serve as regional coordinator for the Illiana region of NACA, acting as a liaison between colleges and universities in Illinois and Indiana and the association's national office and board of directors. Rob Laux, a program coordinator at Notre Dame, has been appointed chair of NACA's Commission for Campus Activities. The commission offers learning opportunities, resources, and services to college and university student activities administrators. NACA is a national organization of more than 1,200 institutions of higher learning and 580 talent firms in the United States and Canada. Headquartered in Columbia, S.C., the organization provides education, information, resources to students and professional staff. Spencer and Laux will serve during the 1995-96 academic year.

Cavanaugh conversion still creates dorm pinch

By ETHAN HAYWARD
Assistant News Editor

Two years after the fact, Cavanaugh Hall's conversion to a female dorm has caused another overflow in male student housing. For the second year in a row, there will be students living in the study lounges of Grace and Flanner.

The overflow is due to the acceptance of a larger-than-average freshman class, which is required to live on-campus, as well as an effort to keep the male and female waiting lists at a fairly even level.

Presently, both male and female housing are filled at least to capacity.

As a result, there will be 40 male freshmen calling study lounges home, and not in the figurative sense that they spend the majority of their time hitting the books.

"It's a situation that's not optimum, but we can live with it," says Grace Hall rector Fr. Terence Linton. Citing that this is Grace's last year as a dormitory, Linton remarked, "This is the last year we'll have that problem."

Flanner Hall rector Fr. William Seetch says the housing shortage is not an ideal situation, "but you do what you can to help out."

Seetch says that many students have enjoyed living in the lounges due to their larger size.

He notes that some returning students have even asked if they could choose the rooms as future residences.

Rita case goes to an appeal

By DAVE TYLER
News Editor

The retrial of a Notre Dame law school graduate on a charge related to the death of a freshman in 1993 has been postponed while the Indiana Court of Appeals reviews defense motions in the case.

John Rita, a 1994 graduate of the Law School stands accused of leaving the scene of the November 13, 1993, accident that killed Mara Fox, 18, of Oakton, Virginia. Rita, 25, was acquitted by a jury in 1994 of a charge of causing a death while driving drunk.

The jury deadlocked on the leaving the scene charge, causing St. Joseph County Superior Court Judge William Albright to declare a mistrial. County Prosecutor Michael Barnes then petitioned the judge for a retrial.

This past May Albright permitted Rita and his attorney Charles Asher to initiate an interlocutory appeal of several pretrial motions before the second trial commences. That trial was to have begun on August 7, but the appeal has pushed that date back at least six months, and possibly up to a year.

In his ruling Albright noted that there are "substantial questions of law whose determination can expedite or even terminate the second trial."

Albright specifically allowed Asher to appeal the judge's denial of motions to dismiss the case, to limit the use of the windshield of Rita's car as evidence, and to allow the defense to issue investigative subpoenas.

The defense has argued that the windshield and police photographs of it should not be admitted as evidence. Asher maintains that the windshield has been damaged and altered by its removal from Rita's car and subsequent moves.

Earlier this year, Albright granted a prosecution request to amend the charge in the second trial to reflect a failure by Rita to "return to" the scene and "render aid" to the victim. In his most recent ruling Albright said the prosecution did not advance that theory in the first trial.

"The danger is that concluding a second trial upon the amended charge resulting in a general verdict of guilt is fraught with uncertainty...A ruling on the amendment is needed," Albright said.

The judge also stated that a normal appeals process may be inadequate for this situation, and would possibly necessitate a third trial.

Barnes has turned all of his office's files over to the Indiana Attorney General, who is pursuing the appeal.

Holy Cross fourth floor new senior 'mini-dorm'

By PATTI CARSON
Saint Mary's Editor

This year marks a new lifestyle for the seniors living on the fourth floor of Holy Cross Hall. It is the first year for the new form of senior housing at Saint Mary's.

Augusta Hall, the dorm which used to house many senior students, was returned to the Sisters of the Holy Cross for renovations. The renovations are necessary to convert the dorm back into a retirement home for Sisters from all over the country, according to Pam Miller, Housing Director at Saint Mary's College.

45 women have opted to live in the new section zoned especially for seniors, according to Rachel Tenyer, Residential Director of Holy Cross Hall. While all policies in the student handbook still apply to the seniors, they do gain some special privileges by living on the fourth floor.

First, the opportunity to live there is unique because it lends itself to creating a community environment since all these seniors will live on the same floor, Tenyer said. Augusta rooms were spread out over four floors, Tenyer added.

Also, the college has purchased new lamps, a television, sofa, tables, and other novelties for the lounge on the fourth floor, which commonly used to be referred to as "the barn," since it housed five students before the conversion. Room 411 will contain a large refrigerator and freezer and there will also be two coin operated washers and dryers there. The fourth floor rooms also have new beds and they have been painted and touched up recently.

Another privilege for fourth floor seniors is 24 hour access through the North Detex Door. Their identification cards will have slightly different security codes from those of other students.

The fourth floor "mini-dorm" also has its own hall council which consists of Betsy Killian, president, Heather Durie, vice-president, Kelly McDevitt, secretary, and Paulette Raczkowski, treasurer. The two resident advisors on the floor are Teresa Raddostits and Julie Powell.

RAs praise workshop on sexual orientation

Training stems from GLND/SMC controversy

By ETHAN HAYWARD
Assistant News Editor

In response to the issues raised during last year's debate over the Gays and Lesbians at Notre Dame/Saint Mary's College (GLND/SMC), the administration has decided to implement a workshop on sensitivity toward sexual orientation as a part of resident assistant training.

The workshop was one of a number of programs this year's RAs attended. Among the other areas dealt with were alcohol use, gender issues, and sexual assault.

Ann Firth, Assistant to the Vice President of Student Affairs and chair of the Ad Hoc Committee on Gay/Lesbian Student Needs, headed the RA workshop on gay and lesbian sensitivity.

The point of the program was to provide RAs with information and skills to help welcome and support students who may be homosexual or may be struggling with issues of sexual identity.

The workshop consisted of a wide panel of presenters, including a professor from the theology department who discussed the Catholic Church's ethical tradition in dealing with issues of homosexuality; personnel from Campus Ministry, who discussed their outreach efforts toward Notre Dame's gay and lesbian community; personnel from the Counseling Center; and two students who related their experiences with being homosexual and Notre Dame undergraduates.

Ben Huser, an RA from Flanner Hall, thought the student portion of the program the most enlightening.

He said their discussion made him realize how daunting their experiences had been and how important it is for gay students to know that they have someone to whom they can look for support.

Jeff Wojcik, another Flanner RA, found the program beneficial, especially in light of the conflict raised last year by GLND/SMC's efforts to gain official recognition from the University.

He said it was especially helpful to hear the perspective of the students rather than just that of the committee members.

Shiela Zachman, an RA from Siegfried, called the experience an "extremely good program", despite the fact that the University personnel did not actually deal with the issue of recognizing GLND/SMC.

She said it was beneficial to be able to see the sense of isolation felt by many homosexual students, and that this in turn would enable RAs to make such freshmen more at ease.

Fuentes not a replacement

By JENNIFER LEWIS
Assistant Saint Mary's Editor

Author, statesman and scholar, Carlos Fuentes will begin the Multicultural week at Saint Mary's on Saturday, Sept. 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the O'Laughlin Auditorium of the Moreau Center. Contrary to rumors that have been circulating, Fuentes is not scheduled as a replacement for Maya Angelou, who canceled her commitment with Saint Mary's twice last spring. Angelou is not rescheduled to appear at Saint Mary's at any time during the academic year.

According to Dennis Andres, Director of Special Events, there is no bitterness about Angelou canceling at the last minute. Saint Mary's understands that Angelou leads a busy life and unexpected events do occur, Andres said.

Alex Fish, a transfer student at Saint Mary's from Stephens College, said Angelou was scheduled to speak at Stephens in the spring of 1994 and canceled the day before. Stephens chose not to reschedule.

"I still respect Angelou as an author, but I am disappointed by her inconsideration for her readers," said Fish.

Multicultural Affairs is proud to announce Fuentes as an addition to the speakers for the fall of 1995 multicultural week, Andres said. Author of "The Hydra Head," "Aura," and "The Death of Artemio Cruz," Fuentes is a wide-ranging fiction novelist.

However, he is most notorious for being the first Mexican author to become a best-seller in the United States for his novel, "Old Gringo." Fuentes increased his popularity in the United States when Jane Fonda and Gregory Peck recreated the movie version of "Old Gringo" on the silver screen.

Fuentes will speak about his literary fame and his political involvement as Mexico's ambassador to France.

Notre Dame welcomes 155 transfer students

Arts & Letters, Business School admit most

By DAVE TYLER
News Editor

Freshmen will not be the only new students on campus this week.

The University of Notre Dame will welcome about 155 transfer students to the school for the fall semester according to Kevin Rooney, director of Notre Dame admissions.

The number is down from last year's 175, but Rooney said the incoming transfers represented a "typical year for us." The transfer students are compromised of juniors and sophomores, and come from a variety of four-year and two-year schools.

For the third year in a row, the College of Arts and Letters admitted the largest number of transfer students, followed closely by the College of Business Administration.

The College of Arts and Letters admitted 63 students as transfers, and the College of Business Administration admitted 54.

The College of Science admitted 21, College of Engineering, 12, and the College of Architecture, 5.

An Orientation Committee, composed of students who have transferred to Notre Dame, is over-seeing the welcome for these new transfer students.

"It really helps them adjust," said Rooney. "It's a valuable service."

might change their minds before actually declaring their majors at the end of the sophomore year, according to Nolan.

The regional breakdown of incoming freshmen is very similar to the class of 1998:

- 75 percent from the Midwest
- Nine percent from the South
- Eight percent in the Middle States
- Five percent from the West
- One percent from the Southwest
- One percent from New England
- One percent is made up of international students

"Incidentally, 18 percent of the freshman class is alumnae related, whether by a single connection or a multiple connection," Nolan said.

on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), according to Rooney. The previous high SAT score for an incoming class was 1222.

"This is a sizable step forward," said Rooney. "It shows the high quality of our applicant pool."

Rooney said several factors contributed to the size and quality of the incoming class.

"For the first time we organized a group of 40 volunteer Notre Dame student ambassadors who called a large number of our most talented prospects and gave them their personal perspectives on the University."

The program was aimed at a specific group of high school students, Rooney said, "and we think it contributed greatly to the quality of the applicant pool."

Notre Dame's jump from 25th to 19th in U.S. News and World Report's rankings of the United States best colleges also helped boost the quality of applicants, said Rooney.

"The perceived academic quality of an institution is a most important factor in how prospective students make their college choices," he said.

"The U.S. News rankings seem to play a significant role for some students and their parents."

Other interesting facts about this year's freshman class:

- The class of 1999 is expected to have a male-to-female ratio of 54% to 46%.
- This year's record number of applicants exceeds a record set in 1989 of 9,931.
- A full 40% of the freshman class hails from the Midwest. 26% are from Eastern states, 13% from the West, 10% from the Southeast, 7% from the Southwest, and 4% are either foreign citizens or citizens of United States territories, or U.S. citizens living abroad.

McMullin receives doctorate

Special to The Observer

Father Ernan McMullin, John Cardinal O'Hara professor emeritus of philosophy at the University of Notre Dame, has received an honorary doctoral degree from Maynooth College, Ireland's national seminary.

Fr. McMullin, a member of Notre Dame's faculty since 1954, received the degree during a convocation last April in Maynooth.

The college has scheduled three such events to honor its distinguished alumni this year, the second century of its foundation.

A native of Donegal, Ireland, Fr. McMullin received degrees in physics and theology from Maynooth in 1945 and 1948, respectively. He also did graduate work in physics at the Institute of Advanced Studies in Dublin before going to the University of Louvain, from which he received a doctoral degree in philosophy in 1954.

An internationally prominent scholar in the philosophy of science, Fr. McMullin chaired Notre Dame's philosophy department from 1965-72. He has published numerous articles in popular and scholarly journals and has written and edited several books including "The Concept of Matter"; "Galileo, Man of Science"; "Newton on Matter and Activity"; "The Concept of Matter in Modern Philosophy"; "Death and Decision"; "Issues in Computer Diagnosis"; and "Evolution and Creation."

He is also the only person ever to have been elected president of all the following organizations: the American Philosophical Association, the Philosophy of Science Association, the Metaphysical Society of America and the American Catholic Philosophical Association.

Among those honored with Fr. McMullin during the same ceremony was John Hume, the peace activist.

Sorin almost goes co-ed after data entry mistake

By ETHAN HAYWARD
Assistant News Editor

An error in data entry almost became a reenactment of the Threesome plotline, or in this case a foursome.

Over the summer, two male freshmen and two female freshmen with gender-ambiguous names were placed together in a quad in Sorin Hall. Student Residences Director Kevin Cannon asserts that there has been no change in housing policy and that the whole incident was a mistake.

It seems almost fitting that one of the nation's first college dormitories would be one of the first at Notre Dame to bridge the gender gap.

"Sorin blazes a trail once again," laughs Sorin's rector, Fr. Steve Newton. "We're the first dorm to go coed. But it only lasted about a week."

According to Fr. Newton, student residence workers neglected to check the gender entries on the two women's transcripts when assigning them housing. The mistake was brought to the department's attention when one of the female students called the office to confirm whether Sorin was a male dorm or if it had followed Pangborn and Cavanaugh in a rash of gender conversions.

Emerson endows fund for MBA scholarship

Special to The Observer

Notre Dame has received a $100,000 commitment from the Emerson Electric Company of St. Louis to establish a scholarship program for international students pursuing a master's of business administration degree.

"We are grateful for the generosity of the Emerson Electric Company," said Fr. Edward Malloy, president of Notre Dame. "its commitment will greatly enhance the diversity and hence the attractiveness of our MBA program."

"We at Emerson are pleased to support the outstanding, innovative business school programs at the University," said James Berges, executive president of Emerson Electric.

The Emerson Electric scholarships will cover tuition and summer internships for second-year MBA students, particularly from Latin America and the Asian Rim.

A recent survey in Business Week magazine included Notre Dame's MBA program among the "up-and-comer schools" which feature creative curricula that enhance the relevance of an MBA degree. The Notre Dame program impressed Business Week with its emphasis on ethics and the loyalty of its alumni in job searches.

Headquartered in St. Louis, Emerson Electric is a worldwide manufacturer of a wide range of electrical and electronic products and systems.

Stadium

director of facilities engineering for the University, says that the view of Touchdown Jesus will not be completely obstructed from within the facility.

"If at the south end of the field you can see Touchdown Jesus from rows 30 and up now, then you'll still be able to see it from about 30 more rows up after expansion," he said.

A new wall will be constructed around the stadium, and the area between the new wall and the present wall will become the new concourse.

"The new concourse will have an upper and lower level, and within this new expansion there will be additional restroom facilities and concession stands," Smith told Blue & Gold Illustrated. "The existing concourse will still be there after the renovation, but it will serve as just a gathering area."

Although the preferred seating areas in the first few rows will be furnished with theater-type seats, all seats in the expanded area will be bleachers. These new bleacher seats will have an extra inch of space on each side and another six inches of leg room.

Among the other changes to the stadium is the new press box, which will be enlarged but will retain the same three levels that it now has. Instead of keeping parking spaces directly around the stadium, that area will be landscaped. Additional parking spaces will be added to the south of the stadium.

Construction will continue through the 1996 football season, but precautions will be taken to ensure the safety of the stadium, Smith said.

If stadium workers ever need scaffolding to begin their project, they need to look no further than the Main Building, where the support structures have been up since the early part of the summer.

Since May workers have been cleaning the 4.3 million bricks of the Main Building and preparing to replace the windows and roof in an ongoing exterior renovation expected to last until August 1996.

The renovation, which costs $5 million, will also include electrical and mechanical modifications and a cleaning of the base of the statue of Mary on the top of the dome. "We plan to make the colors on the hoods over the windows darker," Smith said, "and the front porch will be repainted."

Following the construction of Keough and O'Neill Halls on the south side of campus and the movement of students from Grace Hall to the new dorms in August 1996, the offices within the Main Building will be moved to Grace, and an interior renovation will begin.

Expected to last from summer 1997 to summer 1999, the interior renovation will include a restoration of the building's murals and paintings and a rehabilitation of the fifth floor, which is currently unused and closed to the public because of serious structural damage.

Three classrooms will be added, and some of the current offices, such as the Registrar's Office, will be rebuilt, Smith told The Observer in May.

"The functions of the offices have changed over time," he said. "They need to be updated as technology changes and as their roles change."

South of South Dining Hall, across Dorr Road, construction continues on the new residence halls that will house the Grace Hall residents.

Slated to open in August 1996, Keough and O'Neill Halls will include more social areas than existing dorms and a first floor room to be used as a computer lab, according to Smith.

"There are going to be social spaces in each section on each floor," Smith said, "as well as an overall dorm social space."

Each dorm room will also be wired for direct connection with the campus computer network.

The exterior of the residences will maintain the architecture style of that area of campus, Smith said.

"Each dorm will have sloped slate roofs like Alumni and Dillon, but without the detail," he said. "It will be a modern building that is still sensitive to the area in which it's built."

The addition of the two dorms to the south side of campus will also cause some changes to the physical structure of South Dining Hall in order to handle the influx of students. The Oak Room may be moved to an addition at the rear of the building to create more space for the dining hall.

"Something is definitely going to be added to the back of the building," Ronald Athey, assis-

The Observer/Mike Ruma
Workers have laid in the foundations for Notre Dame's new dormitories and have begun work on their superstructure.

stant director of food services, said. "We want to make the back cosmetically beautiful for the students who will live behind it."

The section of Dorr Road

from South Dining Hall to the main gate will be permanently closed so that the new dorms are not separated from the rest of campus. Service drives will remain open to allow delivery trucks to reach the dining hall.

A new road will be built that will lead from a point south of the Morris Inn, along the west side of the new dorms, to a point behind Pangborn Hall.

Two additional dorms may later be added to the area where the new dorms will be located. These two dorms would be female dorms and would house the residents from two of Mod Quad's female dorms, which would then be converted into male dorms to preserve the male-female ratios on both the north and south sides of campus.

Because Keough and O'Neill Halls are being built on land formerly used by the golf course, which was reduced to nine holes, plans are tentatively being made to build a new course north of Douglas Road. Ben Crenshaw, a professional golfer and course architect, walked over the land this summer to determine if and how a course could be built there.

Plans for the golf course would not begin until the present projects on campus are wrapped up.

"Nothing will happen within the next five years," Smith said.

MacLeod contributes new ND scholarship

Special to The Observer

University of Notre Dame head basketball coach John MacLeod has given $100,000 to the University to establish an academic scholarship endowment to be known as the Coach John MacLeod Scholarship Fund.

In accordance with MacLeod's wishes, preference in the awarding of these scholarships will be given to minority students in need of financial assistance.

"Having come from a family with limited financial resources, I can appreciate what a struggle it is to pay for a college education today," MacLeod said in announcing his gift.

"Basketball has been good to me and to many others, but the great need today is for financial aid for deserving students who are not athletes.

This gift is my contribution to meeting that need by putting something back into a great University."

"We always have had outstanding individuals involved in sports, but in recent years not all of the publicity we've received has been positive," MacLeod added.

"This is my way of attempting to offset some of the negative perceptions that exist, and I hope also that it may motivate others who have benefited from intercollegiate athletics to take similar action."

"This is a welcome and a significant gift both for the aid it will provide to deserving minority students and for the statement it makes in John MacLeod's name," said Fr. William Beauchamp, the University's executive vice president.

"In making Notre Dame's top fund-raising priority his own, John has demonstrated that his commitment to the University reaches beyond the basketball court and to the heart of our educational mission. It is a matter of special pride to us that our coaches support the academic aims of the University."

Gift endowes Dante studies

Special to The Observer

The University of Notre Dame has received a $1 million gift from William and Katherine Devers of Winnetka, Ill., to establish a program in Dante studies.

"We are deeply grateful to Bill and Kitty Devers for the generosity and foresight of this benefaction," said Notre Dame's president Fr. Edward Malloy.

"Our library's Dante collection already attracts international scholarly attention, and the William and Katherine Devers Program in Dante Studies will help secure the University's international distinction as a leading center in Dante studies."

William Devers is president of Devers Group, Inc., a consortium of computer companies providing application software to publishing, utility, and other diverse industries. He also is a member of the advisory council for Notre Dame's College of Engineering. He and his wife have four children, one of whom, Connie Devers, graduated from the Notre Dame Law School in 1990.

The Devers' gift will expand

Gates named librarian of Cooperstown shrine

Special to The Observer

James Gates, Jr., a 1981 graduate of the University of Notre Dame, has been appointed librarian of the National Baseball Hall of Fame Library & Archives in Cooperstown, N.Y., according to hall president Donald Marr.

Gates earned a master's degree in government and international studies from Notre Dame. He received a bachelor's degree from Belmont (N.C.) Abbey College and a master's in library science from Indiana University.

Most recently, Gates has directed the Legal Information Center at the University of Florida. He previously served as assistant director for technical services at Notre Dame's Law Library and as director of technical services at Boston University's Pappas Law Library.

Gates assumed his new responsibilities in June.

Notre Dame's Zahm Dante collection, fund an annual visiting professorship in Dante studies and support electronic and print publication, by the University of Notre Dame Press, of a regular series in Dante studies.

In addition to its benefits for some 500 Notre Dame undergraduates who each semester encounter Dante's writing through a variety of courses, it will accelerate Notre Dame's development of graduate education in Dante scholarship.

The inauguration of the program, during the 1996 spring semester, will include seminars and workshops on Dante, exhibitions at the Snite museum and the Hesburgh Library, and several other public events.

Notre Dame's Zahm Dante collection, consisting of more than 400 volumes, includes nine incunabula (pre-1501) editions of the Divine Comedy.

OBITUARIES

Edward Murphy

Edward Murphy, the John N. Matthews emeritus professor of law at Notre Dame, died July 24 after an illness. He was 68.

A native of Springfield, Ill., Murphy joined the faculty in 1957 and taught classes in contracts, jurisprudence, negotiable instruments and remedies.

He served as the law school's acting dean in 1971 and directed the University's summer program in Japan in 1974. He also was co-editor of the American Journal of Jurisprudence and co-author of two books.

When he retired last year, Murphy had taught more students than any professor in the law school's 125-year history.

A prominent and outspoken advocate of pro-life causes, Murphy joined six other Notre Dame law school faculty members two years ago to denounce President Clinton's executive order rescinding the so-called "gag rule" that barred abortion counseling by institutions receiving federal family planning funds.

Murphy is survived by his wife, Mary, nine children, and numerous grandchildren.

Dominic Lizzardo

Dominic Lizzardo, an alumnus and benefactor of Notre Dame, died this summer.

A native of Baragiano, Italy, Lizzardo graduated from Notre Dame in 1933 with a bachelor's degree in business administration.

He worked as an examiner for Illinois Insurance Department until 1949 when he formed his own company, Industrial Fire and Casualty, in Oak Park, Ill. He retired as the company's president in 1985.

Among his benefactions to the University are a professorship in accountancy named after his parents, Vincent and Rose, and the Lizzardo Magnetic Resonance Center.

Notre Dame president Fr. Edward Malloy presided at the funeral Mass July 26 in Oak Park.

ND members build in Watts

Special to The Observer

Notre Dame alumni, students and faculty members helped build a house for a low-income family in the Watts neighborhood of Los Angeles June 18-24.

David Link, dean of the Notre Dame Law School, and Fr. Robert Dowd, of the University's campus ministry office, were among more than 20 Notre Dame community volunteers assisting the Cecelia Bradshaw family in the construction of their new home.

An anonymous gift of $50,000 to the Notre Dame Alumni Association underwrote the project, which was part of Habitat for Humanity's 1995 Jimmy Carter Work Project. Fr. Dowd presided over Mass for the volunteers each day at the site.

Bradshaw works in the insurance disability office of the King Drew Medical Center in Los Angeles.

A child development major at Compton Community College, she hopes one day to establish a 24-hour preschool.

Her 18-year-old daughter Sherese attends Cypress College. Last year the Bradshaw family moved in with her parents to save money for school expenses.

The Notre Dame volunteers were among some 2000 people joining Jimmy Carter and wife Rosalynn for Habitat's "blitz-building" project to construct houses for 20 families in the Watt area.

The project will make use of four tons of nails, 40,000 sheets of plywood, and 560,000 board feet of lumber.

Notre Dame's 224 national and international alumni clubs have pioneered the concept of alumni community service.

The alumni association's community service program is committed to encouraging and expanding such efforts by fostering an awareness among alumni of the role of faith in community service; deepening alumni sensitivity to the plight of poor and oppressed people in their communities; suggesting means by which alumni might positively affect their communities; and providing opportunities for prayer and reflection on the meaning of community service.

This summer 115 alumni clubs will sponsor 167 students for eight-week community service projects. Alumni clubs have also "adopted" inner city schools, organized English-as-a-second-language programs, organized bone marrow donor programs, aided prisoners and their families, staffed homeless centers, and delivered meals to AIDS patients.

Habitat for Humanity is an ecumenical, Christian ministry that seeks to eradicate dilapidated housing using volunteer labor, management expertise, and tax-deductible donations of money and materials. The organization accepts no state or federal funding.

News story guidelines

By DAVE TYLER
News Editor

In order to better serve the Notre Dame Community, The Observer News Department uses the following guidelines in its news gathering:

The Observer News Department strives to report on all campus and local events that affect the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community. The News Department also uses Associated press photographs and stories to bring national and world events to ND/SMC readers.

As stated in our editorial policy, "The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible." We realize that the department is comprised of amateur journalists, yet we strive to conduct ourselves as professionals at all times.

Our story ideas come largely from Notre Dame's Department of Public Information and Relations. We also generate our own story ideas from advertisements in The Observer and other publications, and from campus posters.

A final and important source of story ideas is from members of the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's community who call or write to us regarding events they are planning. We encourage groups to call or write at least one week prior to the event.

As a rule, we do not run previews of lectures that we are planning to cover. We simply do not have the staff or space to run previews of every campus lecture. Exceptions to this rule sometimes will be made if a lecture is to be given by a speaker of international or national prominence.

We suggest, however, that the sponsoring group fill out an "Of Interest" or "Lecture" form at The Observer by 1 p.m. the day before the event. Another alternative is taking out an advertisement in the paper at our special campus rate.

However, for certain events we only run previews. For instance, if a group is sponsoring a career day or an off-campus event, we might simply run a story on the fact that the event will happen. Basically, we run previews when having a reporter cover the event is not feasible.

We understand that there are times when a preview article is more appropriate than a article reporting on the event. This type of decision is made by the News Editors. However, we are always happy to discuss News Department coverage of an event, provided a group representative contacts one of the News Editors at least one week prior to the event.

If you have any additional questions, please contact Dave Tyler, News Editor at The Observer, 631-5323.

Timm new SMC Student Affairs head

Special To The Observer

Linda Timm has been selected as the new Vice President for Student Affairs at Saint Mary's College.

Timm began her duties on July 17. She replaces Sister Mary Brassil, who served on an interim basis for three years and was recently appointed to the position of Assistant to the College President.

In her new position, Timm will be responsible for the administration and supervision of the departments of athletics and recreation, campus ministry, counseling and career development, health service, residence life and housing, and student activities.

Other responsibilities include implementing the philosophy and policies of student affairs according to the objectives and purposes of the college and developing an environment conducive to the spiritual, personal, intellectual and social growth of students.

Prior to coming to Saint Mary's, Timm most recently served for fifteen years as Director of the Student Judicial Office at Illinois State University.

Before that, Timm served the following roles at Illinois State University: student judicial counselor, area coordinator with the office of residential life, residence hall manager and freshman academic advisor.

Timm earned a doctorate in educational administration and foundations from Illinois State University, as well as a master's degree in educational administration and foundations and a bachelor's degree in communication from the university.

A center for teaching will be created at the University by a gift from trustee John Kaneb of Manchester-by-the-Sea, Massachusetts.

"The John A. Kaneb Center for Teaching Excellence reaffirms our commitment to the core activity of faculty in the classroom and the laboratory," said Fr. Edward Malloy, president of Notre Dame.

"We are deeply grateful to John Kaneb for providing the means for us to hone the art of teaching that has characterized a Notre Dame education over the years."

Kaneb has been a trustee since 1980 and currently chairs the board's committee on student affairs.

A native of Worcester, Massachusetts, and a graduate of Harvard, he is chairman and chief executive officer of Gulf Oil and other family-controlled companies.

In each of the University's most recent capital campaigns, he created $1 million scholarships endowments, one for students who encounter severe financial problems during the course of their Notre Dame education and the second for Hispanic students.

Kaneb

He is active in several Catholic charitable organizations and is a trustee of two Boston area hospitals.

He also is chairman of Harvard Medical School's capital campaign. He and his wife Ginny are the parents of two Notre Dame graduates, Peter and Gary.

The Kaneb Center for Teaching Excellence will help faculty members to evaluate and improve their teaching performance, graduate students to develop teaching skills and to function effectively in their teaching roles, and students to become more effective learners.

The center, which will be located in DeBartolo Hall, will be staffed by a director, one or more professional faculty, and support staff.

It will report to the Office of the Provost and have an advisory board consisting of representatives of the colleges and schools, as well as other appropriate University entities.

In collaboration with departments and other University units, the Kaneb Center will on request provide analysis and critiques of classroom instruction; reviews of assessment mechanisms; information about and assistance in developing teaching techniques, methods and resources; pan-University stimulation of reflection on teaching and learning; and help for students through tutorials, analyses of written and oral communication skills, and other appropriate strategies.

The formation of such a center has been recommended by several campus groups over the years, most recently by the Academic Council in February 1994.

Grad school announces student award winners

Special to The Observer

University of Notre Dame doctoral degree recipients Thomas Williams, Debra Lynn Deleat, William Christiansen II, and Christopher Roberts have been named recipients of the 1995 Graduate School Awards in humanities, social studies, science and engineering, respectively. Established in 1990, the awards are given to recognize superior academic and research accomplishment in graduating studies.

Susan Fischer, a Ph.D. recipient in physics, received the Alumni Association Graduate Student Research Award, and Jaishankar Raman, an economics doctoral student, won the Alumni Association Graduate Student Teaching Award.

• Thomas Williams, who received his doctorate in philosophy in August 1994, wrote his dissertation on the moral philosophy of John Duns Scotus.

According to his dissertation director, Alfred Freddoso, professor of philosophy, Williams is a talented teacher as well as a first-rate translator of Latin philosophical texts. Now assistant professor of philosophy at Creighton University in Omaha, Williams came to Notre Dame as a summa cum laude graduate of Vanderbilt University in 1988.

• Debra DeLaet received her doctorate in government and international studies in May. Her dissertation on domestic politics, interdependence and the regulation of international migration used current U.S. immigration policy as a case study.

Her director, Alan Dowty, professor of government and international studies, calls her dissertation a "model of what dissertation should be," citing her exceptional clarity and precision. In August, she will join the faculty at Drake University as an assistant professor.

• William Christiansen received his doctorate in chemistry and biochemistry in May. His dissertation identified the specific functions of the protein domains present in the major anticoagulant proteins — protein C and activated protein C.

Christiansen received his bachelor's degree in biochemistry and biophysics in 1991 from Oregon State University. He intends to enter law school, envisioning a public policy career focusing on the complex ethical issues of biotechnology.

• Christopher Roberts received his doctorate in chemical engineering in January 1995. His dissertation focused on the use of laser flash photolysis to study the effects of solvent reactions in supercritical fluids.

According to his dissertation director, Joan Brennecke, associate professor of chemical engineering, his research has several environmentally-driven applications, such as using supercritical carbon dioxide as a replacement for hazardous solvents or using supercritical water oxidation in commercial processes to eliminate hazardous byproducts.

Now assistant professor of chemical engineering at Auburn University, Roberts received his bachelor's degree with honors from the University of Missouri in 1990.

• Susan Fischer completed her dissertation, "Spectroscopic Studies of the Nucleus 195 Au (Gold)," under the direction of Ani Aprahamian, associate professor of physics.

According to Aprahamian, the focus of Fischer's research was the complexity of a type of a nucleus less understood than any other. Fischer currently is employed in the physics division of Argonne National Laboratory and is involved in the development of radioactive beams.

• Jaishankar Raman, who holds a bachelor's degree in economics from Ramnarain Ruia College in India and a master's degree in economics from Fordham University, began his graduate studies at Notre Dame in 1989. As a teaching assistant he has received student evaluations rivaling or exceeding those of tenured faculty members.

SMC prof makes 'Who's Who'

Special to The Observer

Saint Mary's College professor William Shannon III has been selected for inclusion in the 1995 edition of "Who's Who in America," a biographical reference of "individuals who have demonstrated outstanding achievement in their own fields of endeavor and who have, thereby, contributed significantly to the betterment of contemporary society."

Shannon, a full-time tenured faculty member of Saint Mary's department of business administration and economics, is also coordinator of the White House Conference on Small Business in Washington, D.C.

He presently serves as the vice-chair for international trade on the U.S. Government National Advisory Council for Small Business. He was just named a judge for selecting the 1995 Small Business Person of the Year by the U.S. Small Business Administration.

Recently, he met in Washington, D.C., with Dr. Laura Tyson, a member of the Cabinet and chair of the President's Council of Economic Advisors. Several months ago, Shannon was invited to the White House to join President Clinton, Vice President Gore, Labor Secretary Reich, and Education Secretary Riley in a meeting of selected business leaders to focus on "American Business: Meeting the Challenge." In Indiana, Shannon has served as Governor Bayh's appointed vice-chair of the State of Indiana Enterprise Zone Board.

Currently, Shannon is the chair and co-founder of Hacienda Mexican Restaurants, a regional restaurant chain. In addition to co-founding Hacienda, he served in senior executive positions, including CEO, with several corporations. Shannon has been national vice president for Entrepreneurial Education for the United States Association for Small Business and Entrepreneurship; academic advisor for the U.S. Small Business Administration National Women's Network for Entrepreneurial Training; director of the Indiana Small Business Council; chair of the American Marketing Association Michiana Professional Chapter.

In addition, he is the recipient of several awards including the Indiana Entrepreneur of the Year and U.S. Small Business Administration's Advocate of the Year for Women in Business in Indiana.

Shannon was elected the first chair of the Holy Cross College board of trustees and continues to serve as a member of the board's executive committee and chair of the board's education committee.

He has served in leadership roles on many community organization boards including Junior Achievement, Mental Health Association, Chamber of Commerce of St. Joseph County and the Small Business Development Center. Shannon is currently a member of the editorial advisory board of the Tribune Business Weekly.

He is the author of more than sixty articles in business and professional periodicals.

Professor Shannon and his wife Bonnie, also an entrepreneur, have endowed the Shannon Executive Scholar Program at Saint Mary's College which enables students to meet and learn from accomplished alumnae in a variety of professional areas.

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, News Editor, Viewpoint Editor, Accent Editor, Photo Editor, Sports Editor, and Saint Mary's Editor. Commentaries, letters and Inside Columns present the views of the authors, and not necessarily those of The Observer. Viewpoint space is available to all members of the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

Welcome

There is a world in which all your anxieties from the past few years seem trivial, where high school life pales in comparison to your present biography-in-the-making, where every day something new and exciting propositions your very essence.

Well, maybe it won't be that profound, or maybe it will, but you will find whatever it is you're looking for in the Viewpoint Department.

On behalf of the staff here behind the Viewpoint desk, let me welcome you to The Observer. Now that you're ready to start a new sort of life for yourself — you know, the kind devoid of parental supervision and full of your own inner guidance — you're ready for Viewpoint.

Think of Viewpoint as the battleground for all the hottest issues, each one vying for your attention and immediate, impassioned response. This is the place to take out all your aggressions on society and on the world.

This is the moment you've been waiting for, isn't it? The time in your life in which your wisdom, experience, and opinions really do count. It's your chance to take a fresh look at the world around you and speak your mind.

We're counting on you to let us know (in writing) what inspires you and what makes you sick. Let us know your concerns, doubts, and, on the lighter side, the little things you feel you need to share with whomever happens to be reading, which, by the way, will be essentially everyone.

The Observer, I must add, is a great place to work. Viewpoint is one of the best places to bump into the finest of what Notre Dame, Saint Mary's, and the entire Michiana region has to offer.

So next week, when you've settled into your new life, make Viewpoint a part of it. There is more to campus life than the dining hall and worrying about parietals. Find it here in Viewpoint.

Associate Viewpoint Editor

VIEWPOINT

I. All members of the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's community may submit columns, letters to the editor, quotes, poems or cartoons to the Viewpoint department of The Observer.

Individuals not associated with the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's community are also welcome to submit, but preference is given to members of the University communities.

II. All material submitted to the Viewpoint department becomes the property of The Observer. Any further use of these commentaries without the written consent of The Observer is prohibited.

Not-for-profit organizations, those organizations which have a reciprocal-usage agreement and those organizations of which The Observer is a member may be granted permission to publish commentaries with the permission of the editor-in-chief or the permission of the managing editor and the Viewpoint editor.

III. The Viewpoint department reserves the right to edit all commentaries submitted to the Viewpoint department. The Observer has no obligation to print commentaries submitted.

Commentaries will not be printed if they are libelous or unintelligible or irrelevant as applied to interest of a particular issue on a local, national, or world interest on a particular issue, its extension of existing issues on the Viewpoint pages, and/or its role in fostering spirited and intelligent discussion.

A disclaimer will appear with any letter deemed highly graphic, profane or discriminatory, yet nonetheless relevant. The disclaimer will appear at the beginning of the letter and will alert readers to the serious nature of the piece in question.

IV. All commentaries submitted to The Observer must bear the signature of the author.

V. Commentaries submitted as letters to the editor may not exceed three in number from the same individual or organization within the same academic semester.

There is no limit to the number of times an individual or organization may have their commentaries appear in print as columnists.

VI. All commentaries printed in the Viewpoint section must be verified before being printed. Authors of all columns, letters to the editor, quotes, poems and cartoons must be notified before being published in The Observer.

VII. Only those individuals authorized to speak as representatives for a group will be allowed to use the organization's name. In such cases, the primary author of the commentary is the individual(s), and the commentary is, in effect, only being co-signed by the organization.

VIII. Commentaries which appear in the Viewpoint section may not have been printed previously in other newspapers, magazines or publications. In exceptions, the author of the previously printed material must give legal consent.

Exceptions to this procedure are those organizations of which The Observer is a member, quotations used for commentaries and "Quote of the day." Syndicated columns also are excluded from this procedure.

IX. The opinions expressed in the Viewpoint section are not necessarily those of the editorial board. House editorials appear in the Viewpoint section of The Observer.

Regular columnists, those whose columns appear on a regular basis; guest columnists, those whose columns do not appear on a regular basis; letters to the editor; poems, quotes and cartoons are commentaries.

Such status is determined by the Viewpoint editor in all incidences except house editorials. The House Editorial Guidelines and the Insta House Guidelines are included in the House

Editorial Policy.

X. Paid employees of The Observer are not permitted to have their commentaries appear in the Viewpoint section as letters to the editor.

Regular columnists and members of the Viewpoint staff also are not eligible to have their commentaries appear in the Viewpoint section as letters to the editor. The status of such individuals is determined by the Viewpoint editor.

XI. This policy must be approved by the editorial board and can be amended by a majority vote of the editorial board.

All procedures not covered in this policy statement are left to the discretion of the Viewpoint editor. The procedures outlined in this policy apply only to the Viewpoint department of The Observer.

XII. No commentaries of any kind will be printed in the Viewpoint section concerning any candidate for student government or hall office once the official campaign period has begun for that office.

This ban on commentaries is to continue until the election for this position has been completed. The Observer reserves the right to comment on any candidate or issue it wishes throughout the campaign period. At any time, the editor-in-chief and the Viewpoint editor may suspend this article.

XIII. This policy is available to the public during normal business hours and must be prominently displayed in the Viewpoint department of The Observer.

XIV. The Viewpoint editor is responsible for editing all Inside Columns. The Inside Column contains views expressed by the author and are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer. The Inside Column is not to be used for self or activity promotion.

XV. Letters to the editor may not exceed 350 words. The Viewpoint editor may shorten any letter regardless of length or deem it worthy of print in its entirety as an Opinion commentary, though the length of the Opinion commentary may not exceed 550 words.

ORIENTATION WEEKEND '95

TOBACCO POLICY

In accordance with an administrative directive issued two years ago, all buildings on the Notre Dame campus are smoke-free in their entirety. This ban extends to the seating area of Notre Dame Stadium. Chewing-tobacco is not expressly included among the substances prohibited indoors. Ash cans are provided outside most buildings for the convenience of smokers. Your cooperation is appreciated.

SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE

Notre Dame's sister school is located directly across South Bend's major north-south highway, U.S. 33/Business 31 (directly behind this panel on map). The schools offer an exchange program via which students from both institutions may take advantage of the opportunity to study on the neighboring institution's campus. Also, the schools cosponsor the crew, downhill skiing, golf, gymnastics, and sailing programs.

LAUNDRY SERVICE

Formerly available only to males and at no charge, the campus laundry service is now available to all students for a fee. A contract for $92.00 worth of services can be purchased for $75.00 per semester; without the contract, transaction amounts will be charged to your student account. Identification labels, complete with your account number, are required. Bundled laundry is collected at your dorm and available for you to pick up at the Laundry Distribution Center (directly below on map); the schedule of designated days is posted in your dorm. Other services available include dry cleaning, tailoring/alterations, and summer storage.

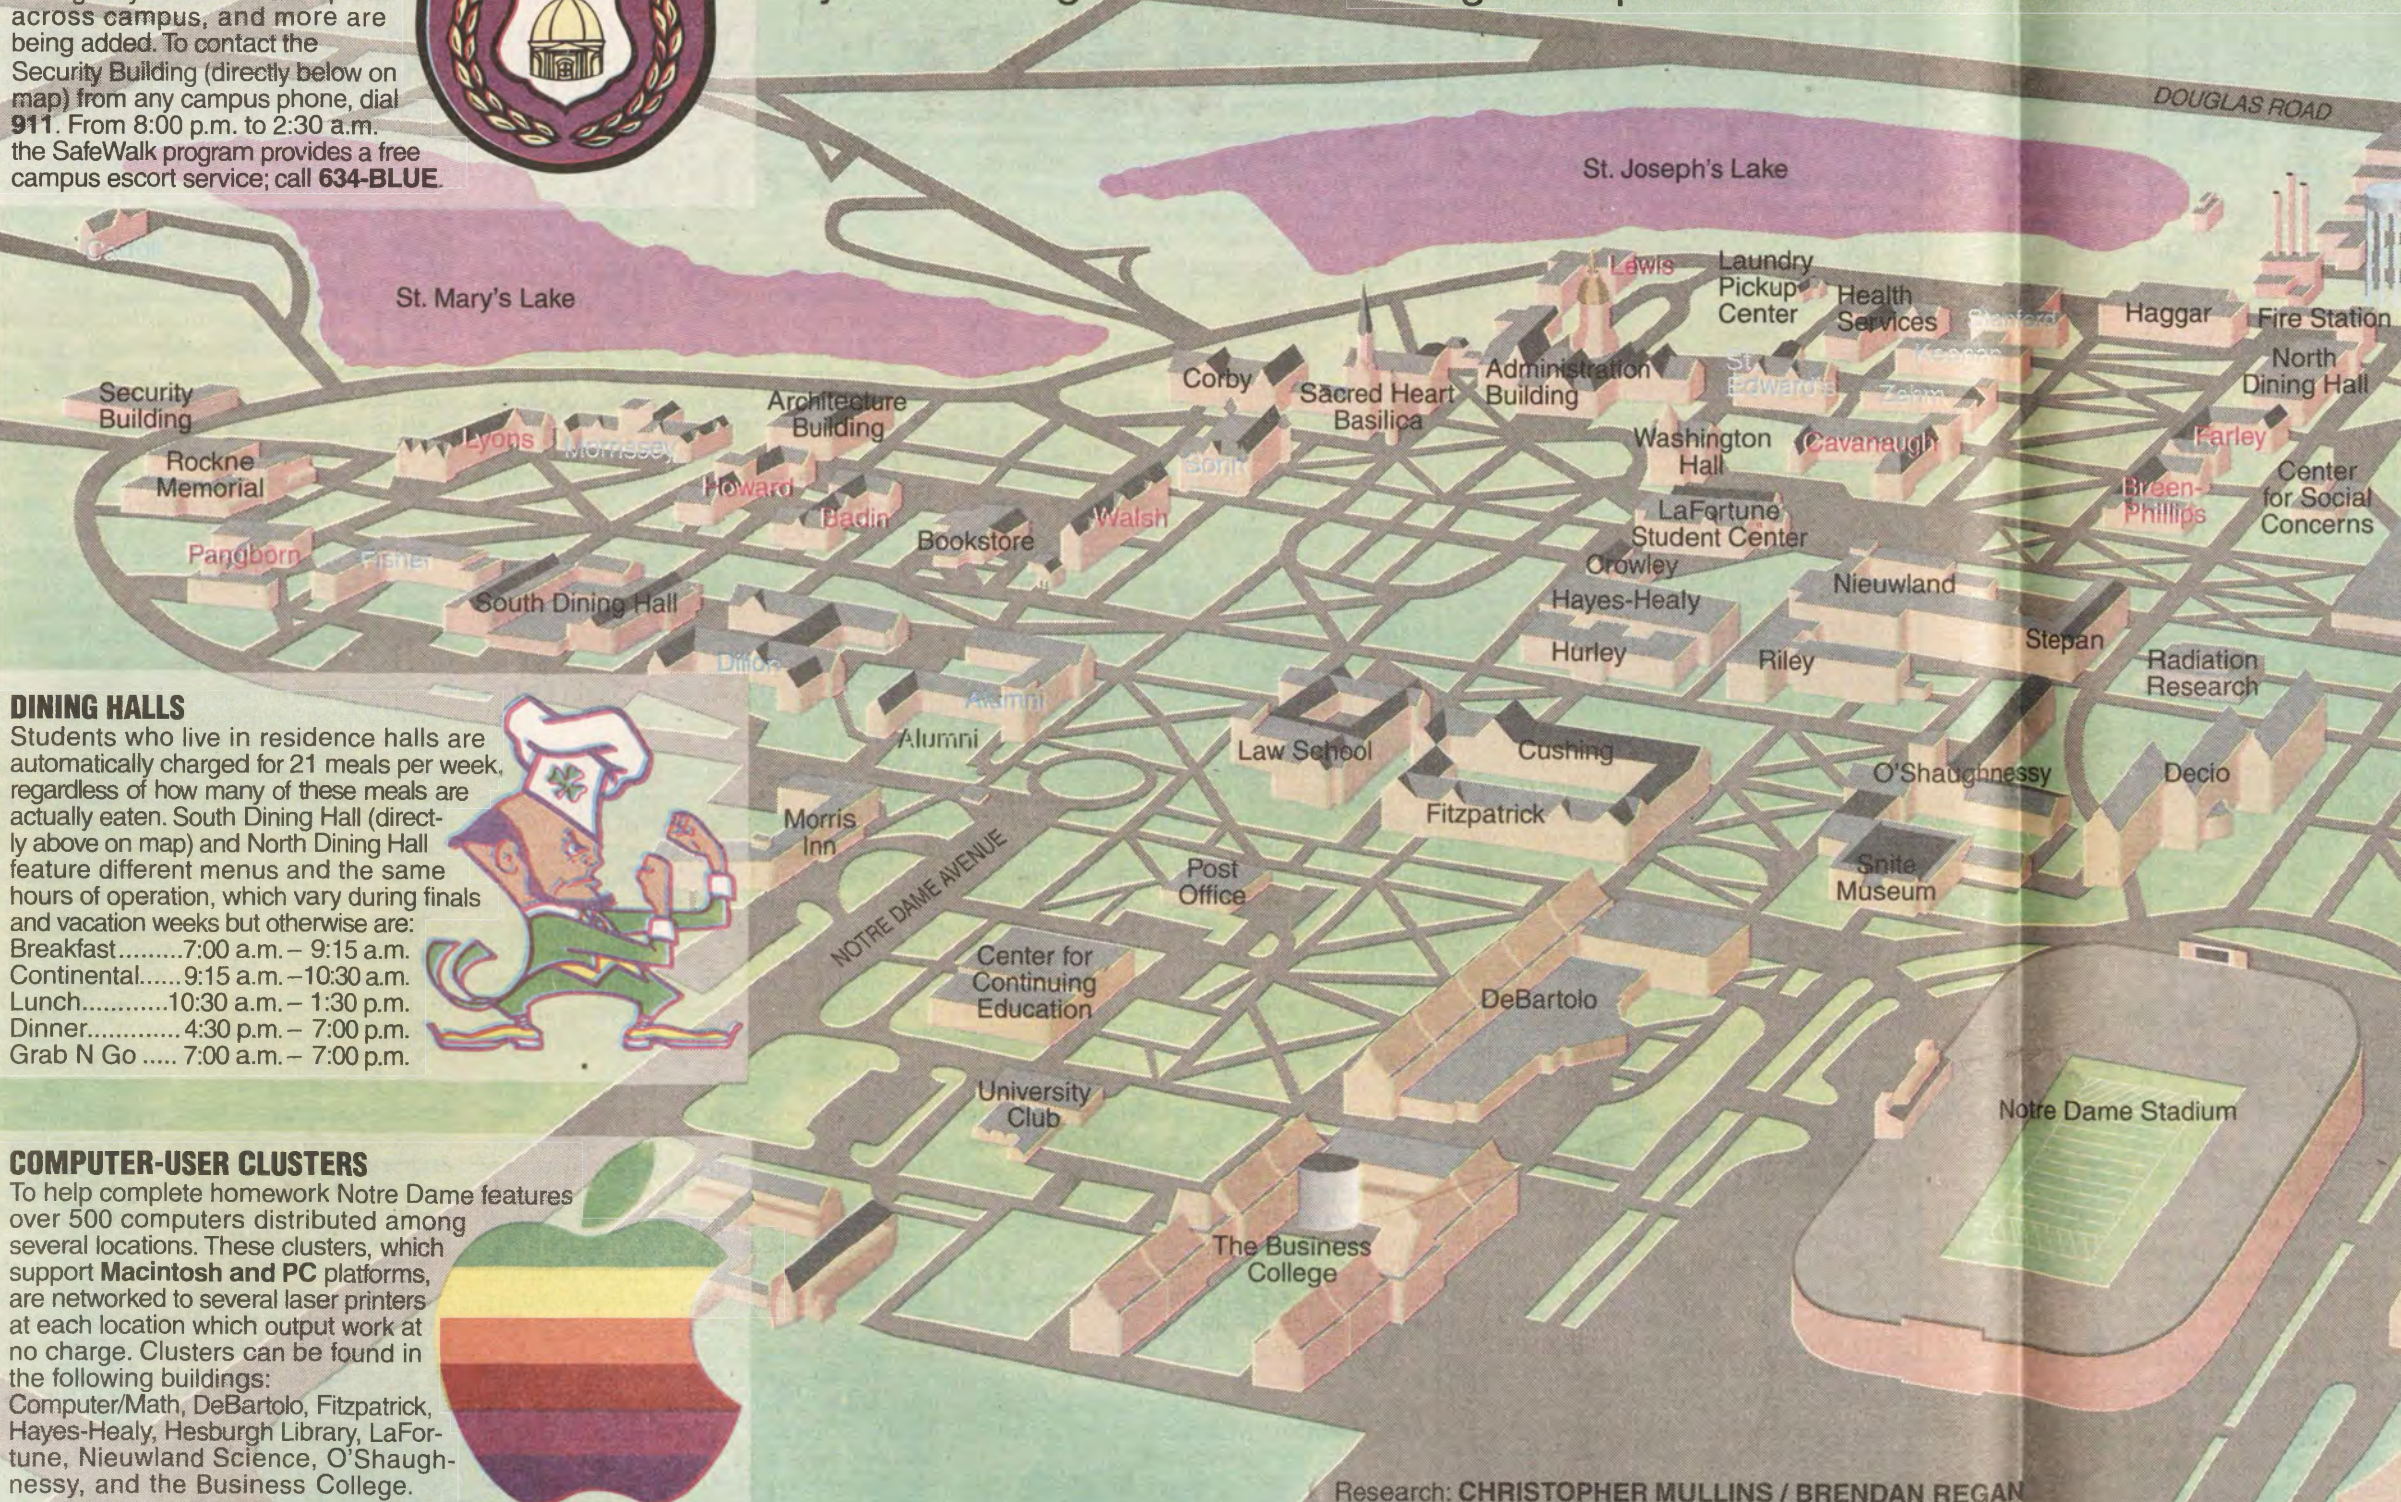

CAMPUS SECURITY

For your protection Notre Dame employs a staff of uniformed police officers who provide 24-hour foot and vehicular patrols on the campus property. Additionally, eighteen emergency call boxes are spread across campus, and more are being added. To contact the Security Building (directly below on map) from any campus phone, dial 911. From 8:00 p.m. to 2:30 a.m. the SafeWalk program provides a free campus escort service; call 634-BLUE.

Welcome and congratulations on choosing Notre Dame! While no introduction could be entirely comprehensive, this guide will answer some frequent questions, highlight some things you may want to know, and help you get your bearings on this rather large campus. Good luck!

DINING HALLS

Students who live in residence halls are automatically charged for 21 meals per week, regardless of how many of these meals are actually eaten. South Dining Hall (directly above on map) and North Dining Hall feature different menus and the same hours of operation, which vary during finals and vacation weeks but otherwise are:

Breakfast.....	7:00 a.m. - 9:15 a.m.
Continental.....	9:15 a.m. - 10:30 a.m.
Lunch.....	10:30 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
Dinner.....	4:30 p.m. - 7:00 p.m.
Grab N Go	7:00 a.m. - 7:00 p.m.

COMPUTER-USER CLUSTERS

To help complete homework Notre Dame features over 500 computers distributed among several locations. These clusters, which support Macintosh and PC platforms, are networked to several laser printers at each location which output work at no charge. Clusters can be found in the following buildings: Computer/Math, DeBartolo, Fitzpatrick, Hayes-Healy, Hesburgh Library, LaFortune, Nieuwland Science, O'Shaughnessy, and the Business College.

STUDENT REGISTER

For those of you who are unfamiliar with the above term (upperclassmen included), it is the official name for what is more routinely and famously known on campus as the Dogbook. This thin, bound black-and-white volume contains the photograph and brief biographical information each incoming freshman was requested to provide shortly after being admitted. Its reputation is for frequently being the sole basis for selecting one's date to dormitory-sponsored theme dances (also known as "SYR"s, for which one is "set-up") and formals.

POST OFFICE

Notre Dame has its own campus Post Office (directly above on map), which features a special mail slot for letters to be postmarked "Notre Dame, IN." All mail not dropped in this slot will be postmarked "South Bend, IN." Be forewarned: the usual long lines often prevent being helped at the counter in the 15 minutes between back-to-back classes.

PARIETALS RULES

As a feature of its in loco parentis policy, Notre Dame enforces restrictions upon the dormitory visiting hours of guests of the opposite gender. Beginning at 10:00 a.m. daily and ending at midnight on Sunday through Thursday and 2:00 a.m. on Friday and Saturday, students enjoy unlimited visitation. Violations of these rules are considered serious, and can result in suspension or dismissal of the offender. Male dorms are identified on this map in blue text, female in pink.

PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION

Providing direct service to the U.P. Mall in Mishawaka and transfer service to most areas of South Bend, the city bus stops outside the Library (below on map) every half hour Monday-Friday from 7:01 a.m. until 6:31 p.m. and then at 7:40, 8:30 and 9:20 p.m., and stops hourly on Saturday from 7:31 a.m. to 5:31 p.m. Service in this area, Route 7, is not provided on home football Saturdays. The fare is 75¢.

PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL

For seven years the South Bend Silver Hawks have made downtown's Coveleski Stadium their home. The Class-A affiliate of the Chicago club, the local White Sox have featured the likes of Jason Bere and Carlton Fisk in their lineup. When the desire for seeing major-league action hits, Comiskey Park is a quick 88-mile jaunt on Interstate 90 (behind this panel on map). The exit for the friendly confines of Wrigley Field, home of the Cubs, is 12 miles further.

ACTIVITIES NIGHT

A thorough opportunity to explore the wide range of campus organizations occurs Sept. 5 from 7:00-9:00 p.m. in the Joyce Athletic & Convocation Center. Student representatives from the various academic, athletic, media, musical, and political clubs will be stationed at booths arranged for your perusal to answer questions and register prospective members.

FOOTBALL TICKETS

All students are guaranteed the opportunity to purchase one season ticket apiece. The procedure is as follows: application cards will be in student mailslots the week before tickets go on sale. Bring this card with your student ID and cash or check for $90 to the Joyce Athletic & Convocation Center. Be prepared to wait in a lengthy line; many students camp out overnight. Any person may submit up to four applications provided he or she also furnishes a matching student ID and payment for each of the applications. For freshmen, season tickets will be available on Aug. 31 from 2:00-7:00.

IDENTIFICATION CARD

Your Student ID is your ticket to the privileges and immunities granted to "Domers"; carry it with you at all times. Among the many instances it is required: eating at the dining halls, library services, registration, football and basketball games.

ALCOHOL POLICY

According to du Lac: Student Life Policies and Procedures, "students are responsible for compliance with Indiana Criminal Law regarding alcohol consumption. The University will enter a private residence room for the purpose of enforcing Indiana laws if drinking in such a room becomes public in any way." Public is defined as that which extends beyond the privacy of the room. It clarifies: "No alcoholic beverages may be carried in open containers in the corridors or any other public area of the residence halls such as lounges or lobbies." So keep it in your room.

HOME FOOTBALL WEEKENDS

As you may have noticed by reading these panels, home football Saturdays are a slight departure from status quo in this area. Festivities and activities abound all weekend. This year's home games are:
September 2 vs. Northwestern;
September 16 vs. Vanderbilt;
September 23 vs. Texas;
October 21 vs. USC;
October 28 vs. Boston College;

TIME ZONE

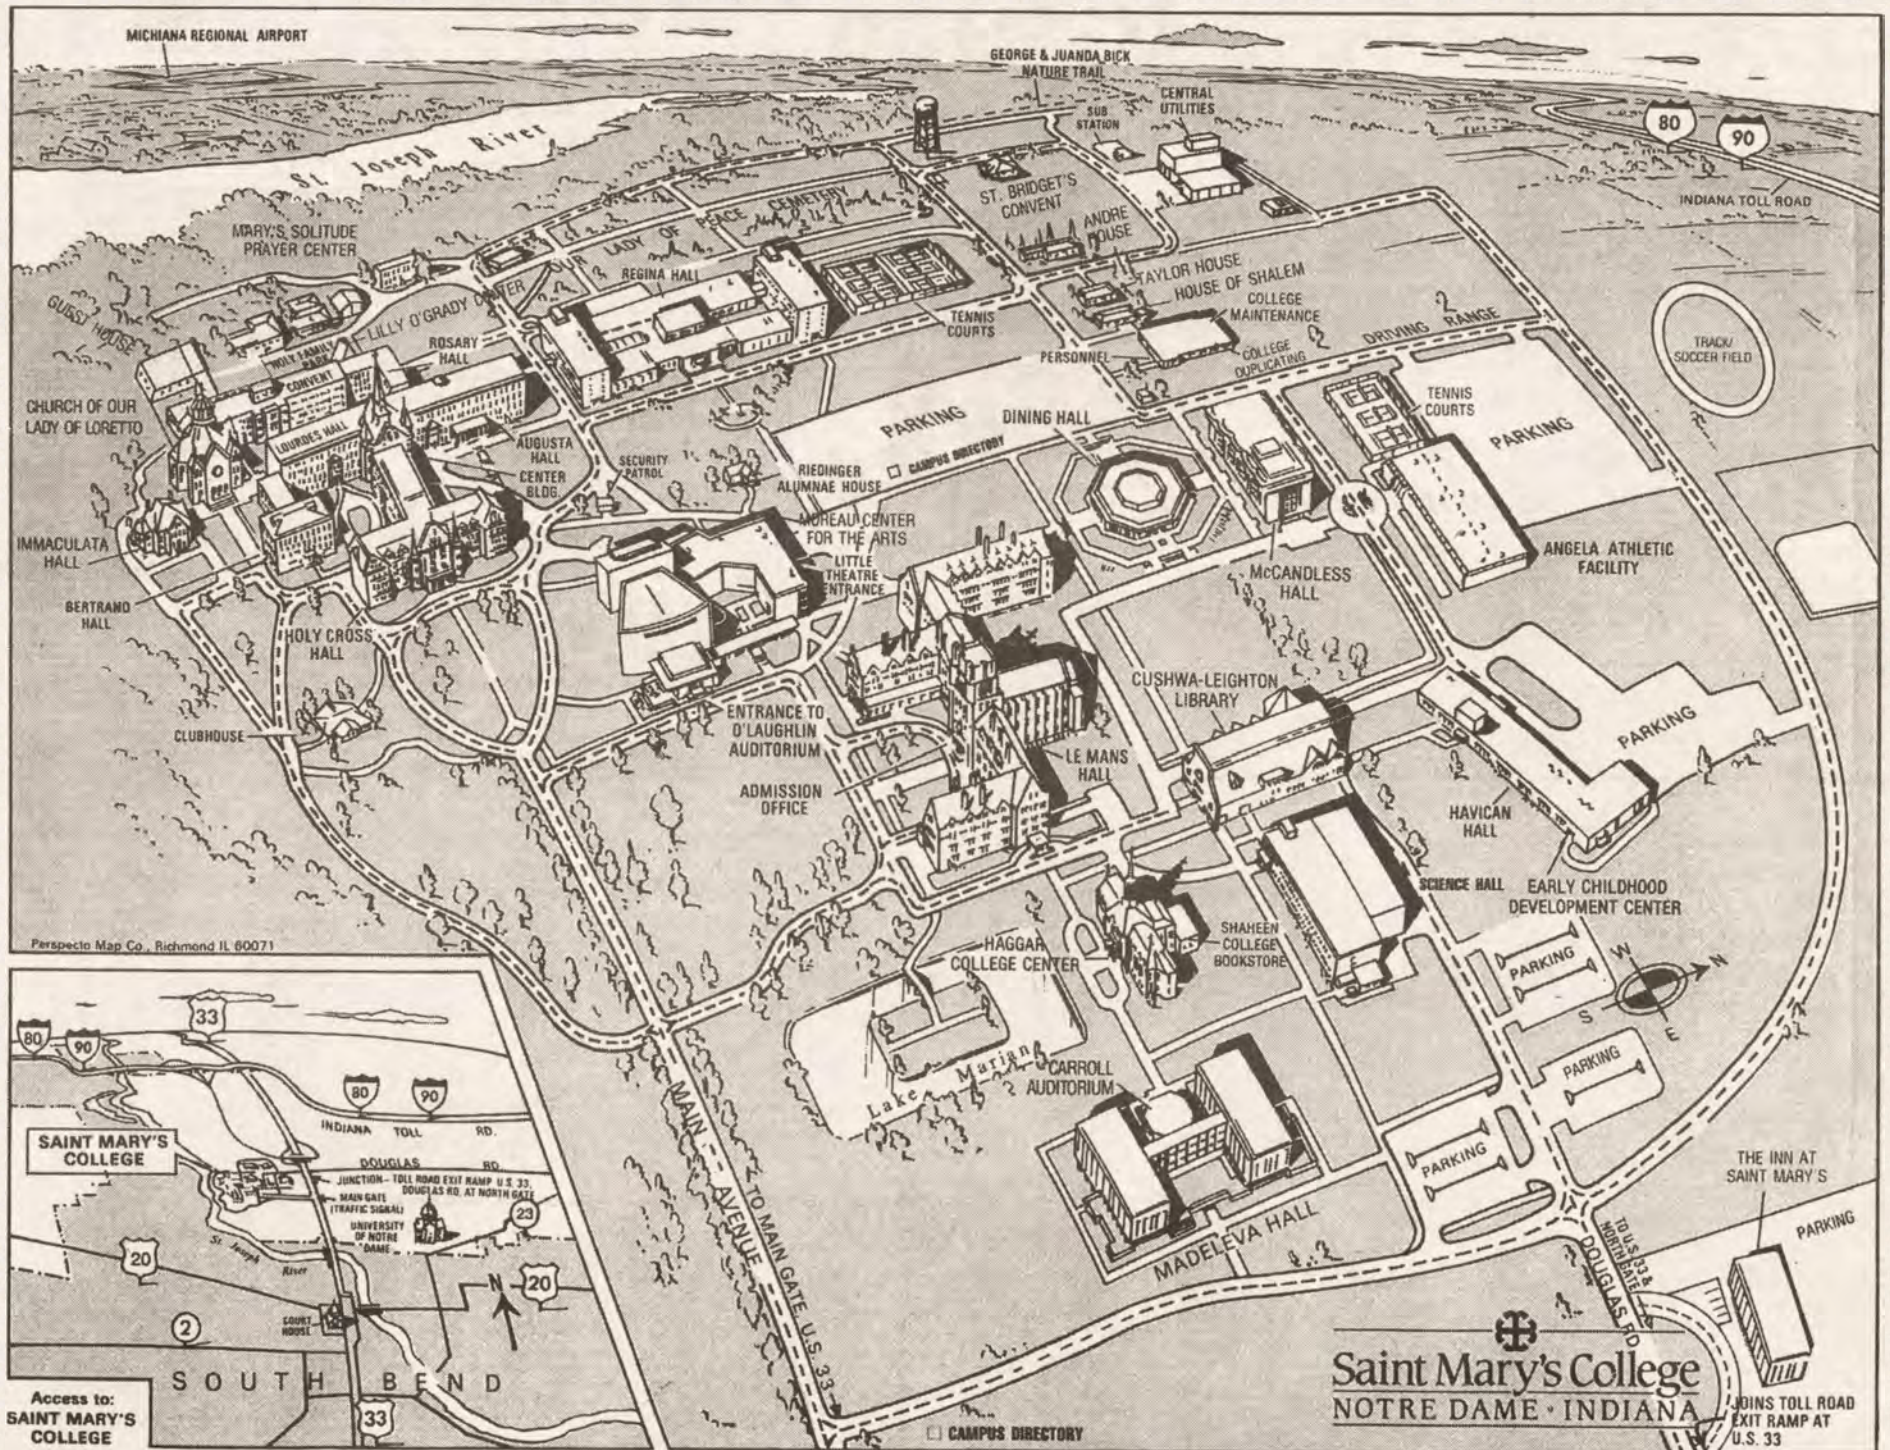

Twice annually, when America adjusts its clocks for Daylight Savings, Arizona, Hawaii, and regions of Indiana do not change; Notre Dame is located in such a region. South Bend keeps its clocks set to Eastern Standard Time year-round. Therefore, from spring through fall it is the same hour of the day here as in Chicago, whereas from fall through spring it is the same hour of the day here as in Detroit.

For any student stranded off campus, the security police provide a service which will either send an officer or a cab to bring the student back to campus (students must reimburse security for cab fare). Call boxes, identifiable by blue emergency lights around the campus, provide a direct line to security. Students are permitted to park in the lot behind Angela after purchasing the proper decal from the security/information building.

DINING HALL. All resident students are allowed unlimited access to the dining hall from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. are accessible 24 hours a day with student identification. McCandless is not tunnel accessible. No males are allowed in the tunnels at any time.

Alcohol Policy. Saint Mary's complies with Indiana State law and, therefore, students under the age of 21 are not permitted to possess or consume alcohol on campus. Students over the age of 21 are the only students permitted to consume alcohol on campus. Social gatherings with alcohol are permitted in student rooms as long as all the guests present are 21 years of age or older, alcoholic beverages remain in the room, and the event does not infringe upon the rights of others.

ACTIVITIES NIGHT. Want to become a member of a campus club or organization? Representatives from both Saint Mary's and Notre Dame organizations will be available to answer questions and sign up new members at the College's Activities Night. Read The Observer to find out when the Activity Night at Angela will take place.

Welcome to South Bend

By KRISTA NANNERY
Accent Editor

The fatal moment has arrived. The car is unpacked. You've met the roommates. You've discovered that your new home away from home is about the size of a Raid Roach Motel. And you're hungry. The time for that "last supper" with your parents has finally come. Where to go? What to do? Have no fear, we're here to help. The following is a partial listing of the fun and food South Bend has to offer—partial being the operative word. Now, contrary to popular belief, our word is not gospel so don't be afraid to set out into the surrounding wilderness, to go where no one has gone before. Life is an adventure, and a short one at that.

Fun

The University Park Mall (1) is really a mall! It's got Sears, J.C. Penny's, L.S. Ayres and Hudson's. Although Hickory Farms did go out of business, there is an Orange Julius. Gap, Ann Taylor, The Limited, Spencer's, etc. A movie theater. Food Court coming soon! You get the picture. The UP Mall is located at the intersection of Grape Road and 23. There's also the Scottsdale Mall (14) for your shopping pleasure.

Putt-Putt! (6) Voted best miniature golf course in Michiana by The South Bend Tribune's very own John Lucas, this putt-putt offers three courses and an arcade inside. Just east of Grape Road on North Main, right next to the Brewery.

More Movies! Take your pick. Cinemark (12) is on the corner of Edison and Hickory. Then there's also UP East (4), Town and Country (13) and Scottsdale 6 (14). For a cheap thrill, try The Reddy, all the way up in Niles, MI. Just stay on 31 until it bears left in Niles. It's on the left and oh so cheap! (A bit cramped, but worth it.) There's always the option of renting too. Try Videowatch (9) for videos. Two for the price of one on Wednesdays. $1.50 for non-current stuff.

The College Football Hall of Fame. (15) 'Nuff said. Check it out downtown on 31.

Coveleski Stadium (22) is home to the South Bend Silver Hawks, the Chicago White Sox single-A minor league team. Watch for special class nights and activities. 501 South Street.

Food, Glorious Food!

For cheap eats, try anywhere north of campus on 31 (The Big 16). You'll find Wendy's, Bob Evans, Perkin's and Fazoli's (fast food-Italian). Steak and Shake on Grape is also a good option (17). They're the only people that can call their milk shakes "milk shakes." If you head south on Grape, you'll find Chili's, TGI Friday's and Lonestar Steakhouse right by Meijer's (18). Don Pablo's (Mexican) is right over there too. Cactus Jack's (20) is another Mexican option. Bruno's Pizza has always been a favorite (21) and is definitely worth the ride. Nick's Patio Garden (10) is right by Videowatch and open 24 hours. Check out the Mishawaka Brewery (5) for interesting beverages and good, hearty fare.

Books and Stuff

Barnes and Noble's (19) is very big and therefore has lots of books. But please don't forget about our favorites...Little Professor's (8) (by Martin's) and Pandora's (make a right by Goodwill (7) from ND Ave. southbound onto Howard).

So that's the gist of it. Most everything you could ever possibly desire can be found on or around Grape or 31. There are a couple of big strip malls on Grape with big stores like Venture. Meijer's is open 24 hours and has everything--groceries, clothing, housewares, etc. But seek and you shall find. Otherwise, enjoy your unpacking and have fun settling in!

Southern Cal paces Pac-10, Washington a factor

By JOHN NADEL
Associated Press

When John Robinson was hired for his second tenure as Southern Cal's coach following the 1992 season, he said he planned on returning the Trojans to the nation's elite in short order.

That's exactly what he's done.

Following a pair of eight-win seasons and a 55-14 Cotton Bowl victory over Texas Tech, the Trojans have been selected by at least two publications to win the national championship and are solid favorites to win the Pac-10 title.

Those kinds of expectations are just fine with Robinson, who coached the Trojans to a share of the national championship in 1978 — the third year of his first tenure at the school.

"Going into the season, we probably have more talent than we had in the first two years by quite a ways," Robinson said. "It's a young team; a team pretty much without stars — with the exception of Keyshawn Johnson."

Johnson, a wide receiver who caught 66 passes for 1,362 yards and nine touchdowns last season, is one of 12 returning starters for the Trojans, who are ranked seventh in The Associated Press preseason poll.

USC has been awaiting word on the resolution of a Pac-10 investigation concerning a loan Johnson received from a longtime friend who is a sports agent. The loan was made while Johnson was attending West Los Angeles Community College.

Those close to the situation believe Johnson will not be penalized.

The Trojans will have a new starting quarterback this season. Brad Otton and Kyle Wachholtz — both of whom subbed when Rob Johnson was injured during the last two years — are competing to succeed Johnson, who graduated.

"Our quarterbacks both have a lot of ability and very little experience," Robinson said. "(But) offensively, we could be so much better than we were last year."

"The tailback position was one of our weakest when we came here and it's one of our strongest now."

The Trojans return their top eight running backs from last year, including starters Shawn Walters and Terry Barnum.

Also expected to contend for the Pac-10 title are defending champion Oregon, a major surprise last season; UCLA, which is ranked 16th in the preseason poll; Arizona, ranked 19th, and Washington, tied for 24th.

"It's exciting to have your first head coaching job in the Pac-10 and taking over for the defending conference champions," said Oregon coach Mike Bellotti, who succeeded Rich Brooks, who went to the St. Louis Rams. "We're still riding that peak. I know it can't last forever. We have to earn it again."

The Ducks return 15 starters from last year, but they lost quarterback Danny O'Neil to graduation. He will be replaced by Tony Graziani, who directed Oregon to a 22-7 victory over USC last season while O'Neil was injured.

UCLA returns 17 starters from a team that won its final three games after losing six in a row.

"If we don't lose some of our key players, I think our team can be highly successful," said Terry Donahue, about to begin his 20th year as the Bruins coach. "We've just got to hope that lady luck smiles on us this year, that we can keep our best players on the field."

Donahue needs four conference victories to pass former Washington coach Don James and become the Pac-10's career leader in conference wins.

UCLA returns its entire offensive line, receiver Kevin Jordan (73 catches for 1,228 yards last season) and Karim Abdul-Jabbar, who rushed for 1,227 yards last year when he was known as Sharmon Shah.

Like USC and Oregon, the Bruins must change quarterbacks, having lost Wayne Cook to graduation. The starter heading into the season is Ryan Fien.

Arizona lost all its starting offensive linemen, but the Washington free safety Lawyer Milloy will have his eyes on the Pac-10 receivers and, later in the season, they'll be on the Irish wide outs.

Wildcats return Dan White at quarterback as well as several members from an outstanding defense.

"I really, sincerely, like this team, maybe as well or better than any we've had at Arizona," Wildcats coach Dick Tomey said. "The attitude is so fresh and so excitable and it's a team with a lot of personality. And I think that all rubs off from the leadership we have."

Washington is finally free of Pac-10 penalties after two years.

"It's hard to explain what it's like to work with that cloud over you for two years," Washington coach Jim Lambright said. "I'm just excited about this year. Now the challenge for our program is how fast we can bring it back to the level that Don James brought it to."

Defending Western Athletic Conference champion Colorado State is expected to battle Air Force, Brigham Young, Fresno State and San Diego State for the league title.

The Rams, coming off a 10-2 season, kept coach Sonny Lubick, who stayed instead of pursuing the coaching job at Miami after Dennis Erickson was hired by the NFL's Seattle Seahawks.

Air Force won seven of its final eight games last season, losing only at Notre Dame 42-30. BYU is coming off a 10-3 season, including a 31-6 victory over Oklahoma in the Copper Bowl.

Fresno State has added several outstanding junior college transfers in an attempt to rebound from a 5-7-1 season, while San Diego State has 16 starters back in Ted Tollner's second year as its coach.

Nevada, UNLV and Southwestern Louisiana, all 5-1 in the Big West Conference last season, figure to fight it out for the title again.

Nevada, the preseason favorite, returns most of its key players. They include quarterback Mike Maxwell, who passed for 3,735 yards and 29 touchdowns last season, and wide receiver Alex Van Dyke, who had a school-record 98 catches.

Buckeye captains announced

Associated Press

COLUMBUS, OH
Ohio State's players have selected three seniors as captains.

The team on Thursday picked quarterback Bob Hoying and tailback Eddie George as offensive captains and tackle Matt Bonhaus as defensive captain.

Hoying, of St. Henry, is in his third year as starting quarterback for the Buckeyes. He led Ohio State to a 10-1-1 record and a share of the Big Ten title in 1993 and a 9-4 finish in 1994.

George, of Philadelphia, ran for 1,442 yards and 12 touchdowns last year.

His yardage total was the best showing by a Buckeye since Keith Byars ran for 1,764 yards in 1984.

Dying Southwest Conference still strong

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press

DALLAS

There's a picture in the Texas A&M dressing room that depicts the Aggies' goal for the 1995 season.

It's a shot of Sun Devil Stadium, where the national championship will probably be decided Jan. 2 in the Fiesta Bowl.

"We've worked hard to position ourselves for this run at the national title," said Texas A&M coach R.C. Slocum. "We want to be in Tempe, Arizona playing for the championship."

The Aggies are ranked third in The Associated Press pre-season poll, the highest since 1957 when Bear Bryant's team was second.

Slocum said the high ranking "is a compliment to our program."

The Aggies haven't lost a Southwest Conference game in four seasons, and would love to go undefeated again in the farewell season of the 80-year-old league.

Texas A&M, Texas, Texas Tech and Baylor will begin play in the Big 12 next year, while Rice, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian will play in the Western Athletic Conference. Houston has joined the newly formed Conference USA.

Texas could be A&M's most serious challenger. The Longhorns, ranked No. 18 in the AP preseason poll and fresh off a Sun Bowl victory over North Carolina, should have a potent offense. If the defense improves, the Longhorns could spring an upset when the two teams meet on the final day of the SWC on Dec. 1 at College Station.

Coach John Mackovic is feeling pressure to beat the Aggies and win the league title.

"We could have our best team since I've been here," Mackovic said. "If our defense gets going, we could be solid."

Texas has tough non-conference tests against No. 9 Notre Dame, No. 15 Oklahoma and No. 17 Virginia. Texas A&M has only two ranked teams on its schedule, No. 13 Colorado and the Longhorns.

A&M's offense will be led by flashy running back Leeland McElroy and quarterback Corey Pullig, who has started 28 consecutive games for the Aggies.

"Leeland could be the best we've ever had, and we've had some good ones," Slocum said. "I told Leeland to get in shape. He's going to get the ball a lot."

"We've finally got a shot at the national title," he said. "That's what I want more than any individual honors."

Alstott, Purdue looking to roll

By STEVE HERMAN
Associated Press

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. Purdue's Boilermakers will go as far this season as Mike Alstott's sturdy legs will carry them.

The Boilermakers, who have not had a winning season in football since 1984, showed a big improvement last year and return of most of the players from a potent offense that averaged more than 30 points a game.

"We have no reason not to win," said Alstott, a 240-pound senior fullback who could become Purdue's career rushing leader this season. "We don't have the reason of injury, we don't have the reason of youth. Everybody knows the system. We only lost four starters. We had a great spring. We have the experience, so there's no reason we shouldn't win." Of course, that's what the Boilermakers thought last year after rebounding from a 1-10 record in 1993 with victories in four of their first five games. But Purdue managed only two ties and four losses after that, including losses in the final three games against Michigan, Michigan State and Indiana after quarterback Rick Trefzger tore a knee ligament.

"I've had the opportunity to play in some big games, against some great teams, some great defenses," said Trefzger, a senior who has played in only 14 games in his Purdue career. "This is going to be a full season for me. That's what I'm going to strive for, to stay injury-free and do the best I can for my teammates."

Having a player such as Alstott in the backfield, of course, helps.

"It relieves pressure off me," Trefzger said. "With a runner like Mike, all you have to do is give him the ball and he's going to make something happen. ... It also opens up the passing game a lot, because a lot of guys will be focusing on stopping Mike and stopping our tailbacks."

That opens up our passing attack, and we have some great wide receivers with a great offensive line that's been around for a while. So I think we're going to have an explosive offense."

Alstott rushed for 1,188 yards last year and needs 1,117 to break Otis Armstrong's career record of 3,315. He needs two touchdowns to break the record 29 by Leroy Keyes, now the Purdue running backs coach.

Purdue (4-5-2) lost receiver

Burt Thornton and tackles Mike Cardona and Ryan Grigson from last year's offense. Edwin Watson, who started three games as a freshman, is listed as first-string tailback, although Corey Rogers could be contesting for his former starting spot once summer school grades are official.

"He's done a phenomenal amount of work, but his transcript is about as complex as there is in America," coach Jim Colletto said. "He's done a great job since last spring."

"It's a good group of kids personality-wise in terms of their effort. You don't have to prod them as much to do the things you want them to do."

"That allows us to spend more time on the execution of things and not have to spend as much time in here on the blackboard."

■ THE PEOPLE OF NOTRE DAME SPORTS

Beauchamp, Wadsworth head list of athletic department big wigs

The student athletes are not the only people involved with sports on the campus of the University of Notre Dame. Behind the scenes stand the men and women who organize events, control television contracts, and even run interhall sports.

Here's a look at some of the people that keep Notre Dame athletics running smoothly.

Rev. E. William Beauchamp, C.S.C.—Executive Vice President: A member of the NCAA's Olympic Sports Liaison Committee, Beauchamp has been a constant push for reform in intercollegiate athletics.

He oversees every sports decision made at Notre Dame, and he handles the press when the university deals with the firing and hiring of coaches.

Beauchamp has been a part of the Notre Dame family since 1977.

Mike Wadsworth—Athletic Director: As a 1966 Notre Dame graduate and former Fightin' Irish defensive lineman in football—and most recently the Canadian ambassador to Ireland, he brings a wealth of experience in business, law, finance and media to his new role as athletic director at Notre Dame.

He has previously held positions as a senior executive in the financial services and manufacturing industries, a trial and appellate lawyer with the designation of Queen's Counsel, a radio and television sportscaster and sports columnist—and a rookie of the year and five year performer for the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League. He had previously been mentioned as a potential candidate as commissioner of the CFL and the National Hockey League.

Missy Conboy—Associate Athletic Director: A 1982 graduate of the University, she serves as Notre Dame's liaison to the NCAA in the area of legal compliance and certification. In addition, she monitors many Irish Olympic sport athletic teams. Conboy serves as one of Notre Dame's representatives to the BIG EAST Conference.

She was named to the NCAA's Legislative Review Committee in May of 1992. She was appointed to the NCAA Interpretation Committee in 1993 and serves on the executive committee of the National Association of Athletic Compliance Coordinators.

Brown, Corrigan among Irish coaches with continued success

You don't find too many colleges in the country that can boast both their football and basketball coaches also coached in their respective professional venues.

But there are several other coaches of strong Olympic programs that often go unnoticed or without recognition.

In recent years, dramatic strides have been made in many of Notre Dame's non-revenue sports. In fact, squads like lacrosse, volleyball, and men's tennis are now annual top twenty programs. Talent on the field is an obvious requisite but the task of finding and developing this talent is just as crucial. Kevin Corrigan, Debbie Brown, and Bob Bayliss are shining examples of this.

Corrigan, who played his college lacrosse at powerhouse Virginia, has guided the Irish lacrosse squad to national prominence. With no scholarships, the affable Corrigan has managed to still recruit some of America's most talented players. The Irish, after four first-round exits in the NCAA Tournament, finally broke through last spring and advanced into the Elite Eight. Corrigan will be hard-pressed to duplicate that feat this season but he has gradually collected a fabulous nucleus of talent making the future of Notre Dame very bright.

Brown too, has experienced top-flight NCAA tournament play, both on the court and from the sideline. A volleyball hall-of-famer for her stellar career at USC, Brown was a member of United States National and Olympic teams. She has also served as an assistant coach.

More recently, Brown has turned Notre Dame into a consistent NCAA tournament invitee. 1993 saw the Irish advance to the Elite Eight and was followed by another strong showing last season coming home with a Sweet Sixteen distinction. Brown arrived at Notre Dame in 1991.

Preceding Brown by three years was men's tennis coach Bob Bayliss. Bayliss has consistently raised his winning percentage over the past six years, steering the Irish to numerous NCAA appearances.

In addition, Bayliss was instrumental in bringing the NCAA Championships to South Bend in 1994.

This event solidified the Irish as a legitimate tennis power and was a sign of good things to come.

We Need Your Help

As you walk around campus, you might notice construction in process. During the past few decades, the number of buildings constructed on campus has increased dramatically. Additional residence halls are being built and there are plans for expanding the football stadium.

It might seem that the University of Notre Dame is like one big construction project.

Notre Dame is under construction. But, the most important and long lasting construction which is taking place is not with bricks and mortar, as important as buildings and facilities are. There is a "construction process" of sorts which Notre Dame was meant to be a part of since it was founded by the Holy Cross priests and brothers in 1842. It is a construction process that has been going on since Jesus walked this earth. The blueprint for this construction process is, "Love one another as I have loved you." It's about building a world which promotes the dignity of each human being. But, in order for this to take place, we need to keep building a Notre Dame based on the love lived by Jesus.

A large amount of construction has taken place. We can be thankful that we, in 1995, are not building this Notre Dame from scratch. There is the wisdom and generosity of many people tied up in this place, people who have spent their lives trying to serve others. There is a foundation on which to build.

There is a large amount of construction that is taking place. There are people who are here now, students, teachers, rectors and others who pray together, in their halls or in the Basilica. There are groups of students who reflect together, in small groups, on what God is calling them to in "Communities N.D." all over campus. There are people who have chosen to be with those who suffer in order to serve them and learn from them at the Center for the Homeless and other places. There are people who gather together to support and challenge each other in matters of faith through retreats like the Notre Dame Encounter and weekly meetings in the Stanford-Keenan Chapel. There are people who have chosen to love each other and to be honest with each other. There are people who help us see that the world is bigger than Notre Dame and that Notre Dame is called to be in that world, serving its people.

A large amount of construction needs to take place.

Notre Dame is not a finished product. The construction process will continue, God willing.

We need you all. You do not have to lay bricks or pour cement (unless you really, really want to). You do not even have to be the smartest person in the world. You do not have to be great looking. You do not have to be perfect, whatever that is. Come as you are.

Ultimately, this construction project is in the hands of God.

We do not know exactly what it will look like when it's finished, but we believe that it will be something very good.

■ THE PLACES OF NOTRE DAME SPORTS

Plenty of places to go, know for athletic Irish

Sure, you know any trivia question related to Notre Dame sports, but where can you go for a quick dip in the pool? Where is the best place for some pick-up basketball games late at night?

Here is some practical information on the places to know while touring the campus of Notre Dame:

NOTRE DAME STADIUM

The student section and origin of the most noise is located in the northwest section of the stadium, starting in the end zone with the freshman and wrapping around to the fifty-yard line where seniors are awarded with the prime seats. "Seats", though, is kind of a misnomer because the students do not sit in Notre Dame Stadium, standing is the requisite.

Enjoy the House that Rock Built this year because expansion hits in 1996. The tradeoff is lose a little tradition, gain a modern facility.

"The Rock" is a place to go for swimming and racquetball.

JOYCE CENTER

The "Athletic and Convocation" part of the name is fading but "the JACC" is the more common name to the dual-domed athletic facility. The North Dome houses the basketball arena, homecourt of the men's and women's basketball squads and volleyball team.

The South Dome features the home rink of the Irish hockey squad as well as a weight room, indoor track, and boxing room. In addition, the JACC is home to the Monogram Club and the impressive Notre Dame Athletic Heritage Hall. Connected to the Joyce Center is the Rolfs Aquatic Center, a modern natatorium.

FRANK ECK STADIUM

The most impressive new athletic structure on campus, "The Eck" is located on the far southeast corner of campus. This will be its third year of hosting the Irish baseball team.

LOFTUS SPORTS COMPLEX

Quite possibly the most impressive Irish athletic facility is this indoor astro-turf field. Loftus is occasionally open to students but is primarily designed for varsity athletics. Loftus houses the 8,000 square-foot Haggar Fitness Complex as well as Mayo Field, a full 100-yard Astro-Turf football field. The surrounding one-fifth mile track is a gem. Varsity indoor meets are held here with field events on Mayo Field. The Track is a life-saver for the avid runner in sun-forsaken winters of South Bend.

THE ROCKNE MEMORIAL

This monument to the Irish legend is on the end of South

Quad and offers the majority of fitness opportunities for students and faculty. Facilities featured include a swimming pool, basketball and racquetball courts, a weight room, dance and aerobic rooms, and a room of aerobic exercise equipment.

"The Rock" as it is usually referred to by students also is the home to many freshman physical education classes.

STEPAN FIELDS

The place for interhall football games and rugby matches. Volleyball courts are also available next to the space-age dome.

BOXING

Tyson comeback fight not low on hype, trash talking from fiery opponent

By TIM DAHLBERG
Associated Press

LAS VEGAS

Mike Tyson didn't need Peter McNeeley to sell tickets for his first fight in more than four years. Just the curiosity generated by Tyson's return to the ring was enough to give him a $25 million payday.

While McNeeley, unlike Tyson, has done his best to promote Saturday night's scheduled 10-round fight, it's Tyson's mystique that will make the event one of the richest in boxing history.

"He's Back," the posters and merchandise at the MGM Grand Hotel scream out.

Indeed he is, and even the most casual boxing fan is curious to find whether the most fearsome fighter of his time still has his stuff after spending more than three years in prison.

"When this man walks down the aisle, it will be mind-tingling," promoter Don King said.

Tyson's appeal was demonstrated at Thursday's weigh-in, where some 3,000 fans came to watch Tyson take off his shirt and shorts and stand on a scale clad only in his underwear.

He appeared muscular and sleek while weighing in at 220 pounds, four more than he weighed in his last fight on June 28, 1991 against Donovan "Razor" Ruddock. It was the most Tyson has weighed for a fight since he was 220 1/2 for James "Buster" Douglas, his only loss.

The crowd that gathered for the weigh-in paid little attention to McNeeley, who barely got a response when he took off his shirt, raised his arms and let out a roar. McNeeley weighed 224 pounds.

"I'm coming at you," McNeeley yelled, apparently to no one because Tyson had already left the arena.

Fans may not get much chance to judge how the 29-year-old Tyson has handled the layoff of more than four years.

Odds makers not only made Tyson a 17-1 favorite, they are taking bets on whether or not the fight will last two full rounds.

"I will knock Peter McNeeley out," Tyson said.

Tyson's handlers wanted a fighter that would stand in front of the former champion and not make him look awkward.

They found him in McNeeley, whose 36-1 record is littered with no names who collectively have a 205-441-21 record. One of McNeeley's opponents hadn't fought in 15 years, while 10 others had never won a fight. In his last bout, he earned $500 for a first-round knockout of a fighter who had 67 losses in 83 fights.

"He has a pair of gloves and he has determination," Jose Sulaiman, president of the WBC, said when looking for McNeeley's attributes.

McNeeley's father, Tom, who was knocked down eight times while being stopped by Floyd Patterson in his Dec. 5, 1961, bid for the heavyweight title, might be the only one singing his son's praises.

"I know this comes from a father's heart, but he isn't the least bit intimidated," Tom McNeeley said.

Tyson's first comeback fight prompted the MGM Grand to add some 1,200 extra seats to bring the indoor arena's capacity to more than 16,000 seats. But it remains to be seen whether the arena will be sold out at prices ranging from $200 to $1,500.

If it is a sellout, the live gate would be a record $15 million, while revenues from the pay-per-view broadcast are also expected to approach the record gross of $48.9 million for the George Foreman-Evander Holyfield fight.

The selling of the fight has been accomplished without much help from Tyson, who worked out behind closed doors and only grudgingly appeared at press conferences.

"I'm just interested in doing my thing," Tyson said. "You know what I do."

What he used to do was knock out other fighters with a ferociousness unmatched in the game. Clad in black trunks and black shoes without socks, Tyson intimidated many of his 41 victims before they even left their corners.

"This is the only thing I'm interested in doing," Tyson said. "This is what I love."

Asked what fans could expect in the bout, Tyson said:

"You come out and watch. I'm sure you'll find it very stimulating."

McNeeley, who graduates from college in December, has been a virtual one-man show for the fight, and seems to enjoy the persona he has created for the media.

Hometown of a palooka

By JIMMY GOLEN
Associated Press

MEDFIELD, Mass.

Lose, draw, or — is there another outcome? — the people here aren't about to forget Peter McNeeley and his long-shot fight against former heavyweight champion Mike Tyson.

"Bottom line is everybody's going to be proud of him on Sunday morning."

Corneropia coffee shop owner Allan Larkin said. "I mean, he's got the whole town turned upside-down."

"Everybody who's coming in is really into it. I betcha nine out of 10 are talking about it," Larkin said. "If it was somebody from Kansas, we wouldn't be involved with this. But this is our hometown kid."

With McNeeley in Las Vegas preparing to fight Tyson on Saturday night, Medfield is preparing to watch. The American Legion hall is gearing up for a big crowd; others will head to a block party on McNeeley's street.

They are proud, hopeful and excited. But just about everyone is realistic, too.

"I'd like to see him win, but I don't know how much of a chance he's got," 17-year-old Brian Polagye said while sipping a lemonade slushee outside the shop.

"This is a great shot for him. Not everybody gets to fight Mike Tyson."

Tryout time for soccer, volleyball hopefuls

Freshmen hope to mesh with new soccer coach, make final roster cuts

By CAROLINE BLUM
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

"We are an athletic team, but above all we are friends."

These words, spoken last year by softball assistant coach and Director of Angela Athletic Facility Jan Travis, describe what several freshmen seek to discover through trying out for the sports teams at Saint Mary's this year.

Today is the second day of tryouts for the volleyball and soccer teams, who could definitely use a few new faces to offer a lift.

The soccer team is depending on new freshmen to revive the team from last year's painful 4-12 record.

Also helpful to the team's success this year is the appointment of a new head coach, Sierra Leone, Africa native Solomon Scholz. He claims, however, that his final team roster will not be derived from holding tryouts.

"I don't hold tryouts," said Scholz. "Tryouts are for football or basketball. In soccer, we go out and practice, play the game, and then decide who the better players are."

Nine freshmen have arrived for Scholz's "tryouts" so far, but more are still expected. As for the eleven returning players, Scholz is anxious to meet them later this week.

On the opposite end of the spectrum is the volleyball team, which was composed of nine freshmen and three juniors last year. The team will use their new recruits from this year to build an even more powerful team.

"About ten freshmen attended tryouts so far, but I expect that number to increase during the next few days," said head coach Julie Schroeder-Biek.

Although today was only the second day of tryouts, Schroeder-Biek has already seen great potential from the new players.

"I saw a few freshmen that I was really happy about, and due to Orientation I have yet to see the whole batch," said Schroeder-Biek.

Together, the freshmen will compete for the five open spots on the team. The rest of the spots are already occupied by the base returning from last year.

"With the addition of this year's freshmen I see a great year ahead for the team," said Schroeder-Biek. "Last year the team was able to recognize their potential, which opens the door for a great future."

Last season the team finished with a 12-17 record and a second place finish in the Saint Mary's Invitational. The team finished second to an NCAA national championship team.

As is true for the soccer team, Schroeder-Biek trusts that once her team becomes motivated this year, they will once again be a tough team.

Schroeder-Biek expects to have the final roster completed by next Thursday.

on the offensive line.

Among those expected to step into regular playing time are linebackers Jimmy Friday and Kory Minor. Both were Parade and USA Today All-Americans, with Minor selected as the USA Today's defensive player of the year.

Six other players were honored by Parade, including running backs Autry Denson and Jamie Spencer, offensive linemen Tim Ridder and Mike Rosenthal, defensive back Mario Strayhorn and defensive lineman Jerry Wisne. In addition, Ridder, Rosenthal and Wisne were named to the USA Today All-America first team.

Rosenthal and Ridder have already moved up to second on the depth chart and right and left tackle, respectively. "The offensive line is the place where many freshman will have to step up and be on the second team the day we start practice," Holtz says. Holtz also expects Spencer to contribute from the fullback position. Spencer is listed second on the depth chart behind junior Mark Edwards.

Other potential impact players include Joe Thomas at linebacker, Antwon Jones at defensive lineman and Kevin Kopka at kicker.

Defensive end Lamont Bryant, expected to challenge for time behind senior captain Renaldo Wynn, suffered the class of 1999's first injury. Bryant and his family were involved in a car accident en route to the University from their home in South Carolina. An ear injury suffered in the accident forced Bryant to miss much of the Culver camp.

THE FRESHMAN FILE

A look at the Irish recruits that are looking to make an immediate impact:

Bobby Brown (WR, 6-3, 175)
The fleet-footed Florida native may make everyone forget about a guy named Moss.

Jimmy Friday (LB, 6-3, 230)
The prototype Bob Davie linebacker--quick and hungry.

Antwon Jones (DL, 6-4, 237)
Maybe undersized, but Jones has the talent and plays a position where the Irish need help.

Kevin Kopka (PK, 5-8, 175)
Glaring weakness at kicker makes "Thunderfoot" one of the most important freshman.

Kory Minor (LB, 6-2, 225)
The most heralded Irish rookie should impact immediately. Impressive reviews thus far.

Tim Ridder (OT, 6-7, 280)
Penciled in as back-up tackle so he should see the field quickly. Physically ready.

Mike Rosenthal (OT, 6-7, 290)
Again, the body is ready. Second on depth chart so we'll soon see if the rest is.

Hunter Smith (P, 6-3, 195)
Texan should assume punting duties starting with Northwestern. Quite athletic.

Jamie Spencer (FB, 6-1, 245)
Inevitably compared to Jerome Bettis, this load will press for time if blocking is sound.

Jerry Wisne (DL, 6-7, 282)
Big body will look to fill big hole in Irish defensive front. Prep credentials say he is ready.

game. It can only add up to one thing—jealousy.

The amazing thing is how adamant some people can be in their hatred. Listening to them, you would think the Irish are Satan's helpers.

But as a student and fan, this won't intimidate you. It will only fuel your desire to get them mad.

A Notre Dame hater approached me two weeks ago and told me a joke.

"A man goes to a foreign country and wants to learn a language," he begins. "So he goes to a teacher and wants to know the word for (insert expletive here). The man answers, 'Da.'

"That's pretty cool," the man answers. "What if you have a two (insert expletive here)?"

"Da, Da," the teacher answers.

"What if you have a million of them?"

"Da, Da Da, Da Da Da Da," the man sang to the tune of the Notre Dame fight song. He started laughing hysterically. So did I.

"Why are you laughing?" the man asked me. "Don't you know when you're being insulted?"

"I told my friend the same joke the other day," I answered. "Except I used the Michigan fight song."

light while easing into the college game, which suits them just fine.

"This has been hard work," said Gerardo of the grueling two-a-day practices this week. "The practices are intense throughout."

"Their biggest adjustments will be to the speed of the game and the physical nature," added Petrucelli. "They won't be able to bump people off the ball as easily."

The Irish freshmen could not ask for better role models to emulate in learning the college game.

In fact, those role models might even be too good.

According to Petrucelli, midfielders Margo Tufts from Seattle, WA and Laura Vanderberg from Kalamazoo, MI would "start on most other teams." However, when the names ahead of you on the depth chart read Cindy Daws and Holly Manthei, two of the best players in the country, you will likely have some time to watch and learn from the sidelines.

Yet in the almost obligatory self-effacing way of freshmen, this year's crew is ready to do whatever it takes for the proverbial "good of the team." As Boxx explained, "Whether I'm playing or not, I can cheer the eleven players who are out there."

However, in the future, look for the role of cheerleader to decrease substantially for this year's freshman class as they get to their real business of preserving Notre Dame's winning tradition.

Men

While both have had strong preseasons, no one has claimed the starting spot.

"We'll probably go into the season with that position open," Irish head coach Mike Berticelli said. "Both (of the freshmen) and Peter Van de Ven have looked good in pre-season. Velho has a little more experience, but Short is a very athletic kid."

"The experience has been great," Short said of the pre-season. "It's been a big change stepping up to the next level. Everything is more intense and faster, but the guys (veteran players) have been doing a lot to help us (freshmen) out."

Goal isn't the only place where the freshman presence will be felt. Aside from the goalies, Matt Johnson could make the quickest contribution to the team. As a starter for the U.S. under-18 squad and a final four Gatorade Player of the Year, he brings experience and great talent to the Irish.

"Matt Johnson is making a strong bid for a starting spot," Berticelli commented on the defensive midfielder. "He is intelligent and has all the tools. He is a very mature player. He will make a major contribution."

"I wasn't quite sure what to expect, but everyone has been very supportive," Johnson said. "I just want to play and give a consistent 110 percent."

The Irish also hope for solid contributions from freshmen Matt Mahoney, Benjamin Bocklage and Phillip Murphy.

Mahoney is a member of the Canadian under-18 National Team and will add valuable size and strength to the Irish defense.

"Matt Mahoney has had a strong preseason," Berticelli said. "He has great potential."

Both Bocklage and Murphy

were high school All-Americans and may play up front for the Irish.

"Murphy could see some time," Berticelli said. "He has been a pleasant surprise."

The life of an Irish fan

There's just black and white. There are no gray areas when you talk about Notre Dame sports.

Seeing that you decided to attend this university, chances are you are a pretty big fan of the Fighting Irish. And as much as you love Notre Dame, you know someone who loves to hate the school.

You've probably already run into this, possibly at your high school graduation party this summer.

"You're going to Notre Dame?" your mom's former roommate's business associate asks. "Rudy is my favorite movie."

"I hate Notre Dame," retorts Butch, your blue-collar construction worker neighbor who spent two years at Ohio State. "Lou Holtz whines too much."

It seems that whenever a person says, "Notre Dame," a gold helmet and shoulder pads come to mind. Knute Rockne, Ara Parseghian and Lou Holtz are gods. Football is not just a way of life. It is life.

But the University prides itself on more than just the House that Rockne Built. There are several other programs that help make it one of the finest overall athletic programs in the country.

In 1993, the fencing team enjoyed the school's first national championship since Tony Rice and company did it in 1988. The women's soccer team competed in the national championship last year.

And the men's basketball team is, well, the men's basketball team. At least this year they'll be drubbed by teams like Villanova and Connecticut instead of Butler and Dayton. But with the last two recruiting classes, anything can happen.

But it's the football team that gets most of the focus, as well it should. Notre Dame is the measuring stick to which all other football programs are compared.

That's probably why people don't like Notre Dame. The NBC contract, the number of top ten finishes, the way they always win the big

Irish land top class despite no-shows

What a difference a year makes.

At the beginning of the 1994 football season, head coach Lou Holtz was describing the freshman class like a blind date, saying they had "a lot of personality."

Now, Holtz is trying to calm the frenzy the surrounds the much-anticipated Class of 1999.

This season the Irish welcome one of the deepest classes in recent memory, including eight Parade All-Americans and five USA Today All-America selections. Although the loss of celebrated recruits

Randy Moss and James Jackson brought Notre Dame's stock down according to some prep gurus, Holtz believes that many of the class of 1999 have the potential to make immediate impact.

"The freshman are going to have to play a major role on this football team," Holtz said.

The need for the freshmen to meld immediately with the rest of the squad contributed to Holtz's decision to have training camp at the secluded Culver Military Academy.

"I think with the variety of things that happen on campus at Notre Dame during pre-season drills, they can't give the total focus," Holtz says. "I think the focus, the togetherness and blending in the upper-classmen with the freshmen will be much easier."

Holtz refrained from singling any particular frosh out. "I won't praise any of them individually because they are a group and are a very impressive group. But if there has ever been a year where we needed more help from freshman, I can't recall."

Indeed, coming off a frustrating 6-5-1 season which saw the Irish unranked in the post season, Holtz and his staff will look to the frosh to fill some holes on defense and

Additions to women's team insurance for the future

By TIM SEYMOUR
Associate Sports Editor

You are the inheritors of an emerging tradition of sports success, playing under the most imposing microscope in intercollegiate athletics. You have to compete for playing time against the best players in the country. You may be responsible at some point for defending the preseason No. 1 ranking. And by the way...have fun and welcome to college.

This blunt message confronts the five freshmen who join the women's soccer team as it makes another run at the national championship.

"My concern is not so much with this year, but with the future of the program," stated head coach Chris Petrucelli. "Those freshmen are the future, and they are the ones who have to win in the future."

Based on early indications, that future might not be far away for some of the class of 1999. Both Shannon Boxx, a midfielder from Torrance, CA, and Monica Gerardo, a forward from Simi Valley, CA, have the ability to make an immediate impact.

"Monica and Shannon will get a significant amount of playing time," explained Petrucelli. "Shannon is very versatile and well-rounded, while Monica may be our best player with her back to the goal."

Of course, on a team laden with returning stars, the freshmen will also have the luxury of avoiding the spot-

Men's soccer team in need of freshmen to step into lineup

By THOMAS SCHLIDT

Once again its time to talk of potential. To dream of the future. The old class is out and the new is in. The freshman class has arrived and all of the worries and weaknesses of the past year are solved.

Never mind that they usually need time to mature. Forget the big gap between high school and college soccer.

Actually, the Notre Dame

men's soccer coaches may have to do just that. With the losses of seven starters to graduation, the Irish have gaping holes up and down the field. The good news for the Irish is that this is one of their strongest recruiting classes.

They brought in two goalies, high school All-American Greg Velho and Gerick Short, to fill the vacancy in goal after the graduation of Bert Bader.
