

E.A. Wright, Phila.

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind. April 25 1893

My dear Friend

I am glad, indeed, to comply with your kind request of last week, to write not for your wise & able prescriptions, as an eminent Doctor, standing so high even among the best in your profession, God alone knows where I should be at this moment of penning you these lines of sincere gratitude. Indeed, each time you have visited me has increased my esteem for your devotedness & ability. This, however, does not express all my feelings towards you. While I admire you as a Doctor of the body, I would feel delighted to see myself recognized as one for the soul, especially for the souls I love best. Oh! what an unspeakable joy it would be for me to see you sharing in the blessings of my faith, thereby securing an eternal happiness!

I send you a little book, which may prove to you, as it did to me, not only interesting but seriously beneficial

Doctor Boynton
Chicago

Your true friend

E. Sorin Sup<sup>r</sup> Genl. Secy