

900 Parents Expected To Attend 12th Annual Junior Weekend

The Twelfth Annual Junior Parents-Son Weekend opens Friday with registration in Morris Inn. General Chairman Nick Sordi expects attendance of about 900 parents, representing about one-third of the junior class. The committee sold about 1,400 tickets to the President's Dinner, the main feature of the weekend.

In his initial letter to the parents, Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, C.S.C., said that this weekend was the only time that parents could experience the actual pulse of campus life. Football weekends and graduation days do not allow this.

The schedule for the weekend is:

Saturday:

9:00 a.m.—Conducted tours of the campus leaving the Morris Inn every 15 minutes until noon.

10:00 a.m.—"The Notre Dame Story" shown continuously in the Student Center until noon.

11:45 a.m.—Luncheon in South Dining Hall.

1:00 p.m.—Tours of Lobund Laboratories leaving every 20 minutes from the Fieldhouse, until 3:00 p.m.

1:30 p.m.—College receptions with deans and faculty members: Arts and Letters in the Art Gallery of O'Shaughnessy; Commerce in LaFortune Rathskellar; Engineering in the main lobby of the Engineering Building; Science in Room 226 of the Computing Center. Receptions for all three ROTC units are at the same time in the Military Science Building.

3:30 p.m.—President's Reception in LaFortune Student Center.

7:15 p.m.—President's Dinner, Stepan Center. Fr. Hesburgh will be the main speaker. The Notre Dame Freshman Glee Club will entertain.

Sunday:

8:15 a.m.—Mass in Sacred Heart Church.

9:15 a.m.—Breakfast in the North Dining Hall.

The committee has prepared publicity packets describing all the activities. These will be placed in the hotel and motel rooms of the parents at the opening of the weekend.

Also, buses have been chartered to bring the parents to Stepan Center for the President's Dinner.

Soc. Dept. to Study Studebaker Shutdown

The Department of Sociology under the direction of Dr. Frank J. Fahey has begun a South Bend Community Analysis Study with a $25,128 grant from the Area Redevelopment Administration of the U.S. Department of Commerce. The purpose of the study will be to determine the effect of the recent Studebaker shutdown upon South Bend.

Interview 606

Working with Dr. Fahey will be Professor William D'Antonio of Sociology, Professor Herbert Sim of Finance and Business Economics and Professor Salvatore Bella of Business Organization and Management. Twenty-two interviewers have been hired to conduct 606 interviews which will constitute the bulk of the study.

Workers' Reaction

The project has three specific objectives. First, it will study "the reaction of the individual workers and their families toward the Studebaker shutdown" with the purpose of "gaining knowledge about how the worker and his family perceive the immediate situation and its impact on their future lives." A 7½ per cent stratified sample of both union and management workers will be interviewed with the cooperation of the Studebaker Corporation. The study will investigate such things as personal and family data and family financial resources.

Leaders' Response

The second objective will be to catalogue the response of the South Bend community leaders. The members of the Mayor's Committee and approximately fifty influential citizens are the main targets for this part of the study. How these people perceive "the proper role of various community segments, e.g., labor unions, the professions, the business community"; the role of federal and state governments; and most importantly their own roles, will be studied.

Finally, "basic economic data will be secured on a monthly basis for the evaluation of the economic impact on South Bend." Bank deposits, loans, mortgage foreclosures, amount of sales, and credit extension are some of the data to be considered.

YCS Initiates Christianity Class

YCS has recently initiated a non-credit course designed to strengthen the meaning of Christianity in the individual life of the Notre Dame and Saint Mary student. The class, which is taught by graduate students at Notre Dame, already has a registration of 50 pupils.

Two sections of classes are held Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 4:10 and at 7:30. Classes consist of the reading of a paper followed by discussion. Classes are still open to those interested. They should sign up in the YCS office below the Huddle, 1-5 p.m. week days.

The idea originated last year when Richard Gilotti, the former president of YCS, became concerned with the fact that Notre Dame students tended to forget what it means to be a Christian. He felt he could aid students trying to live a Christian life by giving them a more intellectually satisfying explanation of what the Christian life is. After speaking to members of the Catholic Interracial Council, the Legion of Mary and CILA, he found five others who were willing to help him with his idea. These five, the present instructors of the class, are Steve Clark, George Martin, Bert Ghezzi, Jack Malinowski and Phil O'Meara.

Phil explained the purpose of his group in this manner: "We feel that the average bourgeois Catholic does not have enough personal formation and does not have enough appreciation of the meaning of living as a Christian in his or her own life. Because of our failure to grasp Christianity, we have no zeal in apostolic work. Our failure to approach small groups is reflected in our failure to look at the world in a Christian light and our inability to see how the world can be restored in Christ."

ND Places Third In Debate Tourney

Notre Dame placed third in its own tournament, the 12th Annual Notre Dame Debate Tournament, held last weekend. Wayne State University finished first among the 52 schools that entered. University of Illinois of Chicago was second, and Brandeis University was fourth.

Jim Unger of Boston College was awarded the outstanding speaker trophy, and Mike Cronin of Vermont was second. Notre Dame was represented by Larry Petroschius and Jim Cavnar. Petroschius tied for eight place speaker.

Campus Guards Frustrated By Lawn Patrol

In existence since before 1928, the Campus Security Police is headed by Mr. Elmer Sokol under the direction of Fr. Leonard Collins, Dean of Students.

Mr. Sokol mentioned that the hardest and most aggravating job of his department is keeping students off the lawns. "All university rules are for the benefit of the student and it is the grounds-men's job to enforce them. As a whole, most of the students are very cooperative."

Open twenty hours a day, six days a week, the security division exists primarily to serve faculty and students. The security staff is composed of 38 full-time employees with an average age of 48-50 years.

Primarily from South Bend, these men are responsible for the safety of the residence halls at night and the continued protection of all university buildings. The campus is divided into two areas with constant patrols in both.

Besides patrol duty, the security police also aid in controlling traffic on football Saturdays, and assist at functions in Washington Hall and Stepan Center. The escort for astronaut John Glenn was provided through the security office.

Also included in their activities is the investigation of certain offenses, including break-ins and improper parking. The security men are constantly on the alert for any safety hazards which can cause harm to the students. These hazards are reported and corrected by the security office.

Friendly Week, co-sponsored by Notre Dame's and St. Mary's Social Commissions, has been postponed until the first week after Easter vacation, Apr. 6 to 11. It had originally been scheduled for the week of Mar. 8 to 15.

Gearen Elected President; 68% of Underclassmen Vote

John Gearen was elected Student Body President in the Student Government elections last Thursday. Despite the fact that two of the offices were uncontested the voting was relatively heavy. Of the on-campus students eligible for the election, 2570, or 68 per cent voted.

Steve Walther received 1593 votes to Paul Meagher's 951 to win the Vice-Presidency. Thomas McManmon defeated Alexander Garlo 1570 to 882 for Treasurer. Gearen and Bob Guenard, the new Secretary, were unopposed.

Building Program Starts with Convent

Bids for the contract for construction of Lewis Hall, the new convent, and first step in the University's latest building program, will have gone out this week, according to Mr. Vincent Fraatz, Director of Building Engineering. Ground-breaking for the 1.2 million dollar residence hall should be about May 1. Mr. Fraatz also indicated that building on the Continuing Education Center, to be located across from the Morris Inn, and the Life Sciences Building, near the Computer Center, will follow shortly, probably near the end of May.

Progress on some of the other new buildings will not be as swift as most students had originally expected. The final plans for the Convocation and Athletic Center, the new fieldhouse, will not be ready for at least a year, and construction should take another two years. Planning for the projected student residence halls has not even begun yet.

Recent student displeasure with next year's proposed academic calendar was reflected in the voting for president. Gearen received only 2,007 votes, 350 fewer than Guenard. Although write-in votes were not recorded — there were many presidential ballots for the Easter Bunny, the adopted symbol of student reaction to the proposed calendar.

Voting from 66 per cent of the freshman class accounted for 60 per cent of the total; votes by 68 per cent of the on-campus sophomores and juniors constituted the rest.

There were only 7 votes cast by off-campus students. It is impossible to compute a percentage from this because statistics on the off-campus students are constantly in flux.

In the freshman halls, voting percentages ranged from 84 per cent in Keenan to 44 per cent in Farley.

Waldemar Otto, Notre Dame's sculptor-in-residence succeeding Ivan Mestrovic, created "The Pieta." The statue is presently on display in Champaign, Ill.

Student Senate Attempts Academic Calendar Change

The Student Government is attempting to bring about a reconsideration and a possible change in next year's proposed academic calendar. Representing the student body in the negotiations with the Administration are Tom O'Brien, John Gearen and Dave Ellis.

A list of considerations and proposals will be presented to the Academic Council for a re-evaluation of the 1964-65 Academic Calendar. Drafted by Tom O'Brien and John Gearen, the documented proposals were presented and received approval at the emergency Senate meeting on Feb. 25.

Preliminary discussions got underway on Feb. 27 in the office of Rev. Chester Soleta, V. P. for academic affairs. According to Tom O'Brien, "the meeting with Father Soleta was hopeful in that some of the difficulties and discrepancies might be worked out." He said that Father Soleta was quite aware that there was some student disagreement with certain provisions of the new calendar. The meeting terminated on a "hopeful" note.

Formal discussion will take place with the convening of the Academic Council sometime in the middle of March. In the meantime, the student representatives will consult with the members of the Academic Council individually.

Dave Ellis summarized the present situation: "If the calendar needs to be changed, it appears that it will be."

We Propose

As a result of the proposed change in the academic calendar and the subsequent protest arising from the student body, an alternate plan for change has been drawn up and tentatively submitted to the Academic Council by Student Government. This plan has been worked out by Tom O'Brien, vice-president and John Gearen, president-elect, of Student Government and was presented last week. The VOICE is editorially behind this proposal and presents it here to inform the student body of its details and to keep you informed of its proceedings. The proposal is as follows:

Freshmen Report: The Wednesday in September falling between Sept. 7 and 13.

Registration: The following Friday and Saturday.

Classes Begin: The following Monday.

All Saint's Day: November 1. (Holiday if not on a Sunday)

Thanksgiving Vacation Begins: 12:30 p.m. of the Wednesday before Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving Vacation Ends: The first Monday following Thanksgiving.

December 8: Holiday (unless it falls on a Sunday).

Christmas Vacation Begins: December 16 after the last class (unless the 16th is a Sunday in which case, vacation begins on Saturday, the 15th).

Christmas Vacation Ends: The first class on January 4 (except when the 4th is a Sunday, in which case, it becomes the first class on Monday, January 5th).

Last Class Day: The Wednesday between January 18 and 24.

Reading Period: The following Thursday through the following Sunday.

Final Examinations: The following Monday through Thursday.

Semester Break: Thursday to the following Wednesday.

Registration: The Wednesday in February falling between February 1 and 7.

Classes Begin: The following Thursday.

Easter Vacation Begins: The last class on the Wednesday before Easter.

Easter Vacation Ends: The first class of the Monday after Low Sunday.

Last Class Day: The Wednesday in May falling between May 23 and May 29.

Reading Period: The following Thursday through Sunday.

Final Examinations: The following Monday through Thursday.

Graduation: The following Sunday.

The major differences included here with the change instituted by the Administration include: the year beginning and ending earlier in order to facilitate summer jobs; the restoration of the Easter vacation, not similar to this year, but beginning on the Wednesday before Easter and extending until the Sunday after so as to include two weekends; and the inclusion of a four-day reading period to review and prepare for exams.

In reply to this proposal, a member of the Academic Council has expressed his direct opposition to the reinstatement of the semester break, a questionable opposition to the Easter vacation period, and some doubts about the final exam and reading period proposals. He has, however, expressed agreement to the suggestions concerning the earlier beginning of the scholastic year and the Christmas vacation schedule.

There have been, however, extensive arguments drawn up to support all the proposals of the Student Government suggestion, and it is hoped that with enough student support and persuasive argumentation the Academic Council will reconsider its proposed changes when it meets in the third week of March. We urge that they consider the weighed arguments of responsible students.

Welcome Parents

One of the greatest joys of the football season at Notre Dame is the pride that comes from the large number of visitors who are impressed by our campus. That same joy, magnified many times, will be felt by all the Juniors whose parents will participate in the Junior Parent Weekend, which will begin this Friday. For some parents, this will be their initial visit to Notre Dame; for nearly all, this will be their first close look at what makes up the college life of their sons, including the Dining Hall cuisine. In spite of all our protests and all our hard days here, Notre Dame students are keenly proud of their university, and there is no better occasion for pride, as well as gratitude, than a visit from home.

Your Responsibility

The crucial value of an honor system lies in its idealism — the deep mutual trust that accrues from the students' adherence to the common standard of academic integrity. Under the honor system, the students are supposed to shoulder their responsibility without having it imposed on them from the outside by a corps of proctors. The individual student is expected to see for himself that cheating is wrong, that it is a facile escape from learning and a denial of academic values, harmful to himself and to his entire community.

There is no doubt that every student, under any system, has the duty to be honorable and to refrain from cheating. But there is some doubt about the responsibility of a student to help enforce this standard of honor on his fellow students, by reporting offenders of the code to a student trial board and then appearing as a witness. This is the one great question that stands in the way of any proposal for an honor system — "How can I turn in my friend?" or "Why should I?"

The answer to this question hinges on the idea that students cannot exist by themselves, detached from their neighbors, but that they form a close-knit learning community. The cheating of one individual within that community poses a very real threat to the aims and security of everyone else. The cheater does not only defeat his own purpose as a student, but the common purpose of his fellow students.

Why should cheating be eliminated anyway? Is it just because it is "against the rules," as it is so easy to assume under the proctor system, where cheating can quickly be passed off as just another means to get ahead? Certainly, it is clear that cheating is a matter of concern to students above all; that they are the ones who are injured when someone is dishonest. This is the reason why the honor system encourages students to report offenders to a student court.

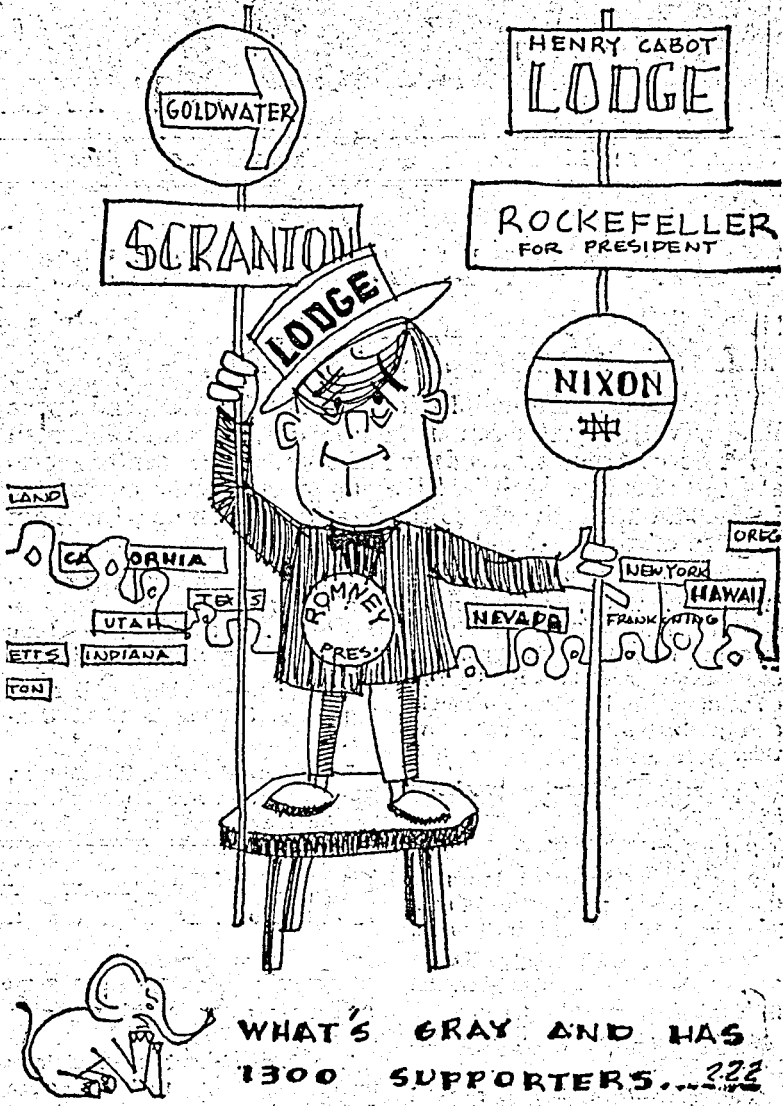

But the particular honor system that is being proposed at Notre Dame has an additional feature that ought to be examined. It would be very hard for students to realize this responsibility to their community at the start. Perhaps it could never be fully realized when it involves a negative outlook toward one's fellow student, especially when he is "a friend." It is difficult to be positive about an ideal, when that involves being negative to a person. Practically speaking, the honor system would not be altogether desirable if it demanded a sacrifice of deep friendships and fraternal aspects of the student community.

In view of these facts, which lie at the root of most opposition to honor systems the proposed honor system does not require that violators be automatically turned in for trial and possible punishment. But it does require, first, that a student take a very positive step toward another student whom he knows is cheating, by giving him a verbal warning and urging him to stop. This would be both an act of friendship and encouragement as well as an act against cheating and dishonesty.

The student who accepts this responsibility is really helping his "friend" or his fellow student and helping the community at the same time. If the cheating is not stopped, however, there can be no excuse for not turning the violator in. A man who resists a warning cannot be called a true friend, and only the use of force can teach him to be honorable. Even then, he will be given a fair trial under the honor system, and will never be expelled unless he is a three-time offender.

The strength of the honor system, then, still lies in its idealism, despite the fact that it embodies a method of enforcement. That method is only a necessary last resort if the more personal bonds between students do not stand up to the test of honor. Whatever the case, everyone has to realize that cheating cannot be passed over in a community dedicated to learning.

This is the foundation on which the adoption of an honor system must be based; and these are the things the student must consider, personally and sincerely, before he decides his stand on the upcoming Honor System Referendum.

Count Basie and his Orchestra will play for the Senior Ball to be held May 15. Jerry Lee Lewis has also been signed for a concert that weekend.

"Au Revoir" Highlights Senior Ball Weekend

The 1964 Senior Ball weekend is scheduled for May 15-17. Included in the plans for these days are the ball on Friday, "The Blowout" at the beach on Saturday, and a noon brunch on Sunday.

Count Basie's band will play for the Ball. Jerry Lee Lewis has been signed for a concert during the weekend.

The theme for the formal ball will be "Au Revoir," and the decorations will revolve around a Paris street scene on the River Seine.

Details concerning "The Blowout" on Saturday and the brunch on Sunday are still in the planning stage and will be announced in the very near future. There are also plans being made for a date plane from New York City and the surrounding area.

Meagher Next Speaker In Academic Series

Dr. John Meagher, of the Department of English, will present a lecture on "The Arts and Sciences" March 10 at 8:00 p.m. in 104 O'Shaughnessy. This is part of the series on "Dialogues in Modern Science" sponsored by the Academic Commission of Student Government.

Dr. Meagher was valedictorian of his Notre Dame graduating class, and did graduate work at Princeton and at Oxford on a Rhodes Scholarship.

Deposit Due Now

The $50.00 deposit for enrollment reservation is due this week. It may be made in the Office of Student Accounts in the Main Building Tuesday through Thursday. Failure to make the registration means loss of on-campus room preference.

LIGHTS! CAMERA! DIDACTION!

By AL SHULTE

TOM JONES lives on at the GRANADA for one last, virile week! You know, the purpose of this short column isn't to give you a review—it's just a guideline for "what's playing, where." But for just this once, trust the real critics when they tell you TOM JONES is a great film. I don't think there's any doubt about it. There's a lot about life in this movie—so much that you can't enjoy it all at one sitting. Mark my word, at 1:20, 3:50, 6:25, 9:00.

SEVEN DAYS IN MAY is held over at the COLFAX this coming week. General Burt Lancaster, Marine Kirk Douglas, Playgirl Ava Gardner, and President Frederick March are mixed together in a potpourri of a political production about a group of military extremists who plot to overthrow our government in 7 days. Acting is pretty good. 1:00, 3:00, 5:00, 7:00, 9:00.

TAKE HER — SHE'S MINE hatches this weekend at the State. This comedy, based on the stage play of the same title, bemoans the plight of a certain American father (Jimmy Stewart) who is compelled to chase his wild college daughter halfway around the world to keep her out of mischief. Sandra Dee, as the daughter, looks like she's completed the whole cycle and has returned to the Gidget role that made her famous. Shown at: 1:15, 3:20, 5:20, 7:20, 9:20.

From the sounds of these names, the Avon will probably have a full house this weekend. NUDE IN CHARCOAL finally has arrived along with FOR LOVERS AND OTHERS. Don't ask me what the "others" means; all I know is that there aren't any stars as such. The manager would prefer that you check the Trib for scheduling, as his running times fluctuate.

General Chairman for this year's Senior Ball Weekend is Jeff Neubert and his committee members are: Executive Chairman, Rich Damm; Business Manager, Phil Melchert; Decorations, Tom Butler and Tom Connelly; Publicity, Rog Subkowiak; Tickets, Dick D'Amico; Brunch, Bud Berry; Accommodations, Bob Sullivan; "The Blowout," Dave Manlon; Special Effects, Tom Monahan; Tom Dumit and Terry Tucker.

More news concerning the weekend festivities, ticket sales, tux rentals and accommodations will be announced later.

Voice Attempting To Go Off-Campus

As of this printing, The Voice is still trying to find a way to deliver directly to off-campus students.

The problem is that the papers need to be folded in order to go out with any of the regular mail packets. At this time none of the automatic folders can do the job. The cost of operating a separate addressograph machine is far too high to be considered.

The Voice is placed in the Huddle and cafeteria for off-campus students.

Darwin Lecture

As a part of the Christian Culture Lecture Series, Dr. John C. Greene will speak on "Darwinism Yesterday and Today", on March 10 at 8:30 p.m. in the Little Theater.

A well established journalist, Dr. Greene concentrates most of his studies on the intersection of science and world view.

Kingston Trio To Appear At ND

The Kingston Trio, popular folk-singing group, will present a concert at Notre Dame in Stepan Center on Saturday night, May 2, as a part of the Sophomore Cotillion weekend.

John Phillips, Sophomore Class President, announced that his class has recently signed the trio, which in the last few years has achieved great success, both in the recording field and on personal appearances.

The Sophomore Cotillion will be held on Friday evening, May 1, in the LaFortune Student Center with Don Jeris providing the music. The Junior Prom will be held at the same time in the Stepan Center.

SMC Council's Symposium '64 Begins March 13

The Student Council of Saint Mary's College is sponsoring its second annual Symposium from Friday evening, March 13, to noon Sunday, March 15. Symposium '64 will be centered on the topic of Christian intellectuals.

Through an exchange of experiences and convictions with other students the Symposium hopes to make clear the characteristics and role of Christian intellectuals.

Speakers at the Symposium will be: Stephen Clark, graduate of Yale University, contributor to New Generation; Representative John Brademas, United States Congressman from Indiana's Third District. He will speak on the Christian intellectual and the political society. Miss Susan B. Anthony, present dean of the Holy Cross School of Nursing, speaking on the Christian in the non-Christian world. Reverend Bradley Arnturi, Ph.D., chaplain of the men's residence of Opus Dei in South Bend.

A registration fee of $5.00, payable Symposium weekend, includes a ticket to the Saint Mary's production of "Anastasia" on Saturday evening and a brunch on Sunday.

Dr. Richard S. Varga, of Case Institute of Technology, will be the fourth speaker in the Computing Science Lecture Series. His talk on "Minimal Gershgorin Sets" will be Friday at 4:30 p.m. in Room 226, Computing Center.

AFROTC Starts Physical Program

The Air Force ROTC unit has initiated a physical training program. The AFROTC cadets have found push-ups and sit-ups—conducted en masse and in cadence, with cadets and cadet officers alike participating—quite a change from the accustomed "right flank" and "column left" drills.

To accommodate this program, the officers of Education and Training has been established within the Notre Dame detachment. The planning and directing of this program have been assigned to Cadet First Lieutenant Robert M. Reass.

The new program closely parallels the 5BX Plan devised by the Royal Canadian Air Force, and though designed for all cadets, is of special value to Juniors who will attend summer camp.

The University Art Gallery is presently displaying a Lenten exhibition of 65 master drawings on the "Life of Christ."

Number 30 for the Irish, Jay Miller, second only to Walt Sahn in rebounding, helped lead Notre Dame the past two weeks to victories over highly regarded St. Louis and Evansville. Here, Miller goes high for a rebound against St. John's.

ND Bowlers Aim For Title

Yes, Notre Dame, there is a bowling team on campus, and one that has proven itself to be very rugged in intercollegiate competition. Ably coached by Speed Sheehan, they are on their way to their fourth title in five years. "I was very pessimistic at the start of the season due to the graduation of three of our five starters," said Coach Sheehan. The three graduates whom Sheehan referred to were Tom Schroader, whose 199 average was the highest ever posted by a Notre Dame bowler, Jim Lewis and Dave Akers.

In a crucial match with second place Loyola University, Feb. 23, the Irish set them down 9-2 to solidify their hold on first place. In order of league standings, St. Joseph College of Ind., the Illinois Institute of Technology and DePaul University complete the five team league.

Each of these teams employs five men to compete in each game, and two points are awarded to the highest team series in a particular game. Another point is given to the team with high overall series in the five games that constitute a match. No handicap is used in this league.

Against Loyola, the Irish keggers rolled a 4798, their highest team series to date. Jim Renehan bowled over 1062 pins in this match to give him the league's highest individual five game series.

Jim and senior Al Knoploch stand second and third among the league's leading scorers. Their 191.16 and 190.44 averages, respectively, are topped only by Loyola's Russ Fischer with a 200.15.

Ron Helow, Chuck Juster, Mike Unguarsky, Tim Kelley, Jim Grabowski and Bob Krug round out the squad. With three matches remaining, Sheehan can afford to be much more optimistic.

The team will consist of senior John Turner, captain; and Jim Sescher; juniors Steve Walther and Jack Brady; sophomore Larry Reynolds; and freshman Dennis O'Niell.

The team qualified to participate in the Nationals by winning the Midwest Championships last weekend in Duluth, Minnesota against ten Midwest teams. Any team that places in the top three or better in the regional championships qualifies for the Nationals. There are six regions in the United States.

The team is being financed partially by the administration, and partially by the ski club. They will arrive in Hanover a day early to look over the race courses and to loosen up for the races. The race begins on Thursday with the slalom event, Friday with the Giant Slalom, and Saturday with the jumping and cross-country (which is 14 miles). Jim Sescher will be the main jumper for Notre Dame, while John Turner, Steve Walther, and Larry Reynolds will compete in the other three events. Jack Brady and Dennis O'Niell will also compete in the slalom and giant slalom.

Some of the top ski teams in the country will be present for the meet. These will include Denver University, Western Colorado College, and Middlebury College. Dartmouth will also be present in full strength with three skiers who competed in the 1962 F.I.S. championships (International Federation of Skiing). Colorado will also be represented by three of their skiers who were in the 1964 Olympics in Innsbruck — Jim Huega, Bill Kidd, and Bill Marlot. There will be about 15 teams competing in the meet. Last year the same members of the team from Notre Dame (excluding freshman Dennis O'Niell) placed fifth in the nation at the N.C.A.A. Nationals sponsored by the University of Utah at Solitude, Utah.

Boxing at it's Honest Best

When all the furor and excitement of this week's World Championship fight had died down surely more people will ask themselves, "Is all the brutality of boxing really representative of our twentieth century civilization? Is this 'sport' at best degrading and disgusting, at worst immoral?"

No one in the South Bend area should have to ponder this problem for more than two weeks, however, for on March 9, 11, and 13, Notre Dame will hold its annual Bengal Bouts, the thirty-three year old intercollegiate boxing program which Bud Schulberg called, "boxing . . . at its honest best!"

Thanks to the tireless efforts of Nappy and the dedication of the Knights of Columbus, the Bengal Bouts have not lost their appeal. On the final night of the bouts last year, a packed field-house watched the twenty determined boxers fight it out to ten decisions.

The Bengal Bouts can actually trace its history back beyond the third of a century of regular programs right back to Knute Rockne himself. In 1923 Rockne initiated a boxing program at Notre Dame which was continued for three years on an intercollegiate basis. Interest in the bouts soon dropped off however and only a few matches were held from 1926 to 1931. In 1932, however, Neil Hurley, one of the boxers from the lean period of the bouts came back to rejuvenate them and has been the guiding spirit of the Bengal Bouts ever since.

This year's Bengal Bouts should prove no exception to their fine tradition. Eight returning champions or runner-ups and a group of promising new boxers should provide three full nights of action. So, if you want blood and gore and poetry-spewing pugilists, stay home and watch the pros, but if you are interested in seeing dedicated men giving all they have to the sport of boxing — go see the Notre Dame Bengal Bouts.

Dominic "Nappy" Napolitano graduated from Notre Dame in 1932 and went to work in the Athletic Department that same year. Since he had previous experience in boxing, part of Nappy's work was preparing the boxers for the Bengal Bouts. He initiated a two-month training period as a part of his three-part program to get the boxers in shape, to teach them the fundamentals of the sport, and to see that they are as evenly matched as humanly possible. It is a tribute to his foresight and wisdom that there has not been one serious injury in the history of the bouts.

Navy Hoopsters Place Third

In the Tenth Annual Navy ROTC Midwest Basketball Tournament held at Great Lakes, Illinois, on February 22, a well-balanced Notre Dame "five" captured the third place trophy by downing Illinois' defending Midwest Champions, 68-61, after a first round loss to the eventual champion Purdue, 85-79.

The Irish could not stop Purdue, despite the efforts of Freshman Art Hyland, N.D.'s high scorer with 39 points for the two games.

Nappy left the campus only once, in 1943 to join the Navy, and since his return in 1945, the bouts have been under the sponsorship of the Notre Dame Knights of Columbus although Nappy has retained his position as trainer and director.

Jai Alai Results

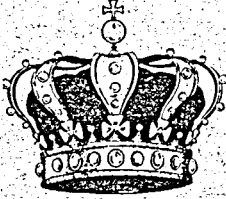

The Notre Dame Jai Alai team captained by Christopher Johnson soundly defeated the experienced Dining Hall Queen's squad in a grudge match Saturday, in the North Dining Hall.

The victory not only added to the team's prestige but has given them the opportunity to purchase a second set of award jackets.

The Queen's, angered by the loss, promptly got hold of Ziggle's best asparagus cream pie, and creamed the Irish.

It should be noted that the water polo team changed once again to the Jai Alai Club when four of the six starters drowned in the Rockne Memorial Pool.
