

Academic Freedom Or Academic Whoredom?

By Doctor E. A. Goerner
Assistant Professor of Political Science

The student president of the Political Science Academy and of the honor society in Political Science, Phi Sigma Alpha, has helped engineer a calculated attempt to seduce his alma mater in a house of ill fame. Whether through stupidity or vice or vanity, he has, through these organizations, attempted to arrange for the students and faculty of the university to be used as stage props by a candidate in the current Democratic presidential primary campaign in Indiana.

Under the fraudulent cover of an educational experience sponsored by two academic societies, he has prepared to permit one of the candidates, Gov. Wallace of Alabama, to carry out a calculated part of his campaign by associating his political image and that of his cause with the respect and authority that universities carry in general and that Notre Dame carries in particular. The faculty and student body are supposed to be the ignorant dupes in this bit of campaign strategy scheduled for the last week of the pri-

Final examinations will be one hour and worth no more than 33 per cent of the final grade. According to the new policy, in future years, if there are six weeks left in the semester after Easter, there will be an Easter vacation. Otherwise there will be a spring vacation, as there will be next year.

The Academic Calendar Committee of the Academic Council met on April 16 and 18 to consider the proposals of the Student Senate. On Saturday, April 25, the Council met and approved the calendar revision.

Dave Ellis, one of the Student Government committee working for the change of the calendar, summed up: "I feel that the Academic Council gave serious consideration to our proposals and came up with what I feel is a compromise that is in the interest of all."

Gov. Geo. Wallace To Speak Tonight

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, the controversial Presidential candidate in the Indiana Democratic Primary will speak at Notre Dame tonight in the Fieldhouse at 8:00 p.m.

The Wallace visit is being sponsored by the Political Science Academy and Pi Sigma Alpha, a political science honor society. Thomas Woods, president of the Academy and past chairman of the Mock Convention held in early March, is responsible for bringing Wallace to Notre Dame.

Woods extended the invitation after he discussed the possibilities of such a visit with Fr. McCarragher, the vice-president in charge of student affairs. Woods then received confirmation of the visit from the Wallace headquarters in Indianapolis. He said that the Wallace aides "considered it an honor to be invited to Notre Dame."

States' Rights Advocate

In the Indiana Primary, Wallace, a states' rights advocate, will run against Gov. Matthew Welsh, who is standing in for President Johnson.

Wallace is fighting against increased federal power and this stand includes opposition to the Civil Rights Bill now in the Senate. He denies that he is a racist, but rather an Alabama segregationist. He claims that a racist despises someone because of his color, while a segregationist conscientiously believes it to be in the best interest of both white and Negro to have separate educational and social order.

He is against the Civil Rights Bill because he sees it as "an attack upon the free enterprise system and the system of private ownership of property."

Support In Wisconsin

Wallace has been the center of a storm of protest; however, he gained considerable moral support by polling some 264,000 votes in the Wisconsin Primary.

Many political analysts feel that the Wisconsin vote was due to a large scale switchover of Republican voters to the Democratic ranks to vote for Wallace in order to embarrass President Johnson. There will be no switchovers allowed in Indiana and votes for Wallace may be scarcer.

ND and SMC Only

Wallace arrived in South Bend about 2:30 today and held a press conference in the Pick Oliver Hotel.

Adequate security has been arranged for the Governor during his visit to South Bend and Notre Dame. No trouble is expected during his stay, however, only students and faculty of Notre Dame and St. Mary's will be allowed in the Fieldhouse.

Woods said that he is bringing Wallace to Notre Dame because "he is a major political candidate." He added that "his message is opposed to that of most Americans seeking political office and an understanding of his minority opinion will aid in the understanding of the majority."

Woods distributed excerpts of the Civil Rights Bill to the student body. He believes that Wallace will snap the students out of the general apathy that exists by informing them of this vital issue.

Woods said his actions have been based on Voltaire's oft-quoted statement, "I may disagree with what you say but I shall defend to the death your right to say it."

Hall Presidents Elect Officers; Plan Bike Race

Toni Oddo was elected president of the Hall Presidents' Council for next year at a meeting held April 21.

Jay Rini is the new Vice-President, Hugh O'Brien, secretary, and Barry MacNamara, treasurer.

Five stay members were also chosen. They are: Jack Moran, Jon Ritten, Pete Goyer, Vic Paterostro and Dan Potter.

The Council is sponsoring a campus-wide bicycle race May 10. The course, one and one-half miles long, will be laid out on campus.

The winner in each of three divisions will be awarded an engraved beer mug. The divisions are for bicycles with one gear, two or three gears and more than three gears.

Anyone interested in the race should contact his hall president, who will arrange a hall elimination to send one entry in each division to the campus-wide finals.

Student Government Inauguration Planned For First Time Monday

For the first time, the incoming student government will be installed in an inauguration, on Monday, May 4.

The inauguration ceremony will begin with a 4:15 Mass in Sacred Heart Cathedral. Rev. Chas. McCarragher, C.S.C., Vice-President of Student Affairs, will officiate, and the sermon will be delivered by President T. M. Hesburgh, C.S.C. The administration, the deans of the colleges, and heads of various campus organizations, as well as any interested students, will be invited. That night, at a Senate meeting, the new government will take office, following the farewells by the retiring officers.

Dan Kulak, Campus Clubs Commissioners and planners of the inauguration, said it was initiated to give needed recognition to the members of student government. He indicated that in the future the ceremonies would be expanded.

John Gearen, Student Body

President for 1964-65, Steve Walthers, Vice-President, Bob Guenard, Secretary, and Tom McManmon, Treasurer, will assume their offices. The new cabinet will also begin its service.

New Orientation Plans Slated For Freshmen Foreign Students

Jed Kee, next year's Student Government International Commissioner, has announced plans for a program to be initiated during Freshman orientation next year for Freshmen foreign students.

From next year's junior class, several students will be chosen and each will act as a "big brother" to a freshman from another country. A junior participating in the program will come back to school at the beginning of orientation, show his assigned foreign student around Notre Dame, help him adjust to campus life and hopefully become close friends with him.

Next year's juniors were chosen because they will have two years in which to become good friends with a foreign student.

Kee said that he felt the new program would alleviate some of the bewilderment that incoming foreign students feel as they arrive on campus.

Many of these students have felt Notre Dame to be cold and impersonal, and the American students themselves somewhat unfriendly. This has caused many of these foreign students to depend, in large part, upon other foreign students for friendships.

There will be a general discussion of the problem and the program at the Sophomore Student Discussion Series tomorrow. All students are encouraged to attend. Students wishing to participate in the program are asked to turn in an application to the Student Government Office or at 434 Lyons by May 1.

Kennedy Library Drive This Week

A national committee has begun a drive for $250,000 and 750,000 signatures from college students across the country for a room in the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library planned to be built in Boston.

The door-to-door drive on this campus will be the week of May 3 to 10. Dick McCarthy, heading this campaign, said that he is interested more in signatures than in donations. He hopes to present the signatures from Notre Dame in a book fronted by an embossed golden dome.

Will Shakespeare Spoofed At 400th Birthday Party

A trumpeter stood on the roof of the tower of O'Shaughnessy Hall, faced the south, and sounded the notes that announced the beginning of "A Genethiacal Festival, because William Shakespeare is 400."

Last Thursday was the 400th birthday of William Shakespeare, and Impersonal Pronoun Productions celebrated it with a birthday party held in the courtyard of O'Shaughnessy Hall. Larry Kelly announced the speakers, beginning with Dr. John Meagher, who discussed the "Hidden Characters in Shakespeare's Works."

Dr. Daniel McDonald claimed that April 23 was not the birthday of the Great Bard of Stratford, but of a humble citizen from Stratford. He presented a demonstrative proof, based on analysis of the letters in Shakespeare's epitaph, that the real author of the works attributed to Shakespeare was Francis Bacon.

Dave Sauer played James Thurber in a reading of Thurber's "The Great Macbeth Murder Mystery."

Finally, the Proper Noun Players presented George Bernard Shaw's "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets." Roger Dalton, Sean Griffin, Kelly Morris and Jim Strahs formed this company.

The program ended with coffee and a birthday cake donated by Fr. Sheedy. The cake bore the inscription: "Happy 400th, Will." — J.B.

Academic Freedom . . .

mary campaign. That is strong language; what are the facts?

First: Governor Wallace has conducted a good part of his campaign in Indiana in a peculiar way. He has made a great point of appearing before university and college audiences to make his campaign speeches that are overtly directed to a defense of states' rights and, therefore, by implication a defense of his state's right to discriminate against Negroes. But the first thing to be noted is that the overwhelming majority of his collegiate audiences are too young to vote. Gov. Wallace is not such a fool as not to know this. Is he, then, simply interested in a serious scientific and philosophic discussion of the quite serious issues at stake? No one even hints that Gov. Wallace is either a political scientist or a philosopher. Nor did Gov. Wallace show any interest in participating in serious academic investigation of these questions prior to entering the presidential primary. Why then has he devoted so much of his campaign energies to audiences that cannot vote? The clear truth is that he has had no interest in speaking to those audiences other than to permit his public relations men to create a public image of Gov. Wallace as one who has so respectable and serious a message that academic meetings all over the state have desired to hear and applaud him. As will be made clear, presently, this effect can be produced even if virtually no one in the audience is convinced by his oratory.

Second: the faculty and student body is supposed to be fooled into being used for this purpose by being told that this will be a serious intellectual experience. Only faculty and students will be admitted. The participants are, at this writing, scheduled to be given copies of bits and pieces of pending legislation for their use in this circus seminar in the Fieldhouse. The participants are supposed to be given an opportunity for critical questioning of the speaker. But if this were really the object of the meeting, what would be the point of the extensive off-campus publicity that has already been given and is planned for the affair? If a serious investigation of the question were planned, why has its sponsor steadfastly refused to permit a representative of the other point of view to share the platform?

Are those who have been invited, namely you of the university community, aware of the nature of the rigged proceedings that are in fact planned. Are you aware, first, that it is planned to broadcast this "seminar" nationally via the Group-W network? Are you aware that it is planned that you will sit through Gov. Wallace's speech and be well photographed for campaign purposes?

The statement above by Dr. Goerner reflects the seriousness with which the speech by Gov. Wallace should be taken. The VOICE is opposed to the purpose and intent of Wallace as shown by the inclusion of Dr. Goerner's lengthy protest. We would urge, however, that all people actively demonstrating against (or for) his position to maintain at all times the maturity and dignity of Notre Dame men.

Sophomore Interviews

Now that the results of the Sophomore interviews have been received, it seems a good time to evaluate the purpose and the realities of the interview. The rationale for the interview is that it is intended to be an aid for the student. It is supposed to give him an opportunity to reflect on his progress and prospects after two years of college. It is not meant to be a test of how much a student has learned in two years, but rather is a counselling device to give a student a chance to realize his own strengths and weaknesses by exposing him to the scrutiny of an interviewing board. Out of this interview should come a greater awareness of

Are you aware that at previous events of this nature the sponsors have had the proceedings filmed and then carefully clipped the films to give the desired effect for subsequent use on TV? Such manipulation of filmed images can have a significant impact in the last few days of a heated political campaign. The question, therefore, is whether you wish to be a party to such a calculated prostitution of the university's name.

Perhaps it will be asked: ought not students have an opportunity to learn about politics in general and about Gov. Wallace's politics in particular? They should indeed have such an opportunity. But will anyone seriously argue that the only way that students can find out about such matters is by permitting themselves to be used unwittingly in a calculated fraud? Students are not excluded from public political meetings in South Bend nor are they denied the opportunity to watch TV or listen to the radio. There may even be a case for having all important candidates in a forum on campus in an obviously political setting. But there can be no case for luring students to a rigged public relations under the cloak of serious academic purposes.

Perhaps it will be asked: Is there not a question of academic freedom involved? If what I have said has any truth to it, what is at stake is not a question of academic freedom but a question of academic whoredom. That is strong language but it is necessary to make perfectly clear that what is proposed will constitute no academic discussion but the abuse of the university in a calculated seduction that is meant to attract some students by false promise of serious academic discussion of serious issues and to attract other students by the promise of the emotional excitement of a big affair.

The invitation to Gov. Wallace has been given and accepted. He will be here and the circus will be staged. Members of the faculty are lodging a protest now. The only question left to be answered is whether the students will permit themselves to be used by this fraud or whether they will take the necessary protest action to ensure that the general public is not deceived into supposing that Gov. Wallace has any serious academic purpose on this campus. That is the issue because it is precisely the intellectual and religious authority of the university that carries considerable weight with great numbers of poorly educated Catholic voters. The question is whether you will permit that authority and prestige to be fraudulently attached to a candidate by means of slick public relations abuse of your image?

Perhaps it will be asked: But have not other universities and colleges participated in this program? Some of them have indeed been used in this fashion. But if one's sister has been lured into a brothel, that is hardly a reason to send one's mother to join her. Rather weep for her lost virtue and pray that she sin no more.

one's self, one's system of values, and one's goals in life.

The interviewing procedure is subject to question because of its arbitrary nature. There may be personality clashes between the student and the interviewers, or the student may not feel that the questions asked him gave him a chance to express himself. Therefore, some students are helped more than others by their interview. The important thing to realize is that while some students may be helped more than others by the interview, every serious student should profit from such an experience — the only opportunity a student has to reflect on himself and his progress while at college.

That many people missed the true purpose of the interview is evident from the fact that so many students feared that what they said might be used against them, and that an unfavorable report might prevent them from getting into graduate school. The reports of the interviews never leave the university; they are used to help the Dean make up an informative recommendation. Since most students have little or no contact with their Dean, these reports may be the only personal statement that he may rely on for making worthwhile comments about a student. If, however, the interview is unfavorable, it is normally ignored and students are evaluated on other basis.

Wallace would have . . .

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

There were a couple of hundred people who last year had their picture taken by some friend or by some other studio other than Delma. There are probably the same number who will want to do the same thing this year. Should they want to, their pictures must meet our specifications or their picture will not be included in the Senior Section of the '65 DOME.

Thank you,
Jim Berberet
Editor, '65 DOME

Dear Editor:

This week the newly formed "Students for Lodge" group is beginning its drive to obtain 2,500 signatures on a petition urging Henry Cabot Lodge to return from South Viet Nam and actively seek the Republican nomination for President.

In addition to this goal, we are forming an organization to actively work on his election during the summer and next fall if Lodge receives the party's nomination this July. Anyone who is interested in working for Henry Cabot Lodge is urged to contact "Students for Lodge" (this includes girls from St. Mary's College).

Sincerely,
Robert W. DiIorio

Faculty Members Prepare Rebuttal to Wallace's Stand

Prompted by Governor Wallace's speech in the Fieldhouse tonight, representatives of the faculty of the University of Notre Dame have issued a statement entitled "States' Rights and States' Wrongs: A University of Notre Dame Faculty Manifesto."

The following excerpts are taken from the statement.

"Wallace is not speaking on Civil Rights, segregation or the justification of his regime in Alabama, but is appearing as a Primary candidate. . . . In essence, he will use the name and facilities of this University to foster his campaign in this and other states.

"As citizens, we affirm, as a matter of principle, his right to express his views at any time and place because we believe this right is the sine qua non of a free society. . . . But a free society imposes special obligations upon responsible citizens. One of these obligations is to repudiate publicly the distortions and misrepresentations of demagogic leaders such as Governor Wallace and to point out what he truly represents in American politics.

"We would remind our fellow citizens that the Governor, in opposing federal authority. . . is essentially at war with the Constitution of the United States.

"We submit that Governor Wallace's notion of states' rights is made manifest not by his words in Indiana, but by his deeds in Alabama. . . . The Governor's expressed fears of loss of freedom via federal intervention prove to be inconsistent. He and his colleagues in Alabama presumably find no danger to freedom in accepting from the federal government vast sums of money for many state operated activities.

"In essence, the people of Indiana have been and are now supporting the people of Alabama."

"Obviously, Alabama enjoys the right to accept or reject federal funds, but Governor Wallace presumably believes that he enjoys a right to accept or reject federal laws. Alabama's well-known and disgraceful posture with regard to civil and human rights is an obvious consequence of this philosophy of anarchy.

"In the name of states' rights, which the Governor informs us guarantees freedom, the basic constitutionally guaranteed freedom of the Alabama Negro is denied.

"It is not the federal government which frustrates freedom in Alabama; it is the government of Governor Wallace which does so in the name of states' rights.

"We are confident that the citizens of Indiana will be able to recognize anarchy and assaults upon human dignity, which Governor Wallace has come to symbolize.

"Finally, we want to make it clear that we are fully aware that political and social injustices are not confined to the state of Alabama."

There's not much of note in town this week. The State will be showing "The Tiger Walks," a Walt Disney special starring Brian Keith and Vera Miles. It all starts when a tiger escapes from the circus. Obviously this film will have limited juvenile appeal. 1:05, 3:10, 5:15, 7:20, 9:25.

"Mail Order Bride" is the name of the western showing at the Granada. It stars the Beverly Hillbillies including Buddy-Ebsen. Don't say I didn't warn you. 1, 3, 5, 7, 9.

"Searching for Venus" and "Maid for Murder" is a double feature showing at the Avon to finish off our list of fine films. You'll have to see for yourself whether the "C" rating really stands for "Colorful."

Oh, yes, "Cleopatra" is still at the Colfax. At 2:00 every afternoon, and again at 7:45. Until May 1st. The very end.

The box office of University Theatre will be open daily at 4:00 p.m. beginning May 4, for ticket sales for "My Fair Lady." The student price for tickets is $2.00.

Gang Violence Erupts Again

Groups of South Bend Youths Stage Attacks on Notre Dame Students

The latest of a series of incidents between Notre Dame students and local teenage hoodlums occurred in downtown South Bend last Friday when a gang of 12 to 15 Negroes began to heckle a group of University students and to wave knives, eventually slashing the parka of freshman Jack Dempsey.

Eventually, five of the attackers were apprehended, including the one who admitted attacking Dempsey.

The incident began as Dempsey and Bernie McAra were standing on the southeast corner of Michigan and Washington. A "punk" gang, composed mostly of 15-16 year olds and a few around 12 or 13, proceeded to walk to the corner on the opposite side of Michigan Avenue, shouting at the two students, making cracks about Notre Dame and using abusive language.

After crossing over to the bank and then to the northeast corner, the group began to make similar remarks to John Lium, a freshman football player, standing there with a friend. When Lium responded to their insults, one whipped out a switchblade and began to flash it in John's face, yelling, "Go to Hell!"

Dempsey and McAra came to lend assistance, while Lium attempted to disable his attacker and hold him until a squad car came. However, his attempts failed, and in the ensuing struggle, Dempsey's parka was slashed at the wrist. Other members of the "gang" also pulled knives.

By this time, a squad car had arrived, but the assailants had

"Political Subterfuge?"

Silence, Pickets, Walkout Planned for Wallace Talk

Active protests are being organized by a Unified Protest Committee against the ideals held by Governor George Wallace of Alabama, on the occasion of his appearance here tonight.

Its purpose is to demonstrate to any observer that Wallace's appearance on University premises is not tantamount to endorsement, and that elementary courtesy does not preclude anger and outrage when un-Christian ideas are cloaked in political subterfuge."

Tom Cullen and Minch Lewis head the committee which met Monday night. The committee is making three major suggestions for the demonstrations. They are encouraging: a walkout, orderly picketing and silence at the speech.

They plan to have tonight's speech picketed by students in a quiet and dignified manner. The intent is not to deter attendance, but to "indicate responsible commitment to Christian ideals."

"Recognizing that many people respect Wallace's courage in facing hostile audiences, and that those who aren't aware of his tactics as presented by Mr. Goerner (Ed: see story Page 1) will be attending, the committee urges students to react with silence."

"Civility demands that he be heard; it doesn't demand applause," committee members say. The announcement of the Governor's visit to the University has been greeted with dismay by many students and professors who feel that the doctrine of states' rights as he presents it is merely a fraudulent disguise for racial prejudice.

Flood Damages University Press

Vandalism recently resulted in several thousand dollars worth of damage to the University Press.

According to Rev. John Lubbers, C.S.C., rector of Stanford Hall, the first floor of Stanford was flooded on the night of Saturday, April 11. The drains in the shower room were stopped up, and the showers were turned on.

Fr. Lubbers estimated that the water ran 20 to 30 minutes, and that several hundred gallons of water covered the floor of the hall. Much of it seeped through to the basement, where the University Press warehouse is located.

Some 2,990 books, valued at $6,881.00, were either ruined or damaged. In addition, the first floor of Stanford will have to be retiled.

University Art Gallery Features Senior Fine Arts Majors Exhibit

Senior fine arts majors are now presenting a series of four week-long shows at the University Art Gallery. Each show will have four exhibitors displaying their four years work in retrospect. The shows run Wednesday through Monday, 1-5 p.m. They will continue until May 17 when there will be a general show of works from each contributor.

The show will consist of painting; figure drawing; sculpture, in metal, plaster, and wood; and industrial design, both automotive and small products.

Tim Moriarty, Bill Green, Bill Lewis and Bob Liptak presented works this past week which ranged from pop art creations to figure drawings of nudes.

Designs for playing cards and stamps, models of cars of the future and an automatic pencil sharpener shared the spotlight with traditional landscapes and still life paintings.

Volunteers Needed For Dedication Day

Dave Ellis and Father McCarraker are calling for volunteers to provide assistance on the day of the library dedication. On May 7, about 100 additional students are needed to aid in registration, ushering, handing out programs and other incidental duties.

Any interested student with a little free time is encouraged to submit his name and hall address to Dave Ellis in 218 Walsh or to the Student Government Office in the Student Center, as soon as possible.

Senate Protests VOICE Censorship

Student Government has added a new section to its written policy concerning The Voice.

As first moved by Student Body Vice-President Tom O'Brien, a measure further elaborating the stated policy of The Voice was discussed and then later passed unanimously by the Senate at last Monday's meeting.

The new section of the policy deals with the Senate's opposition to censorship, the role of the faculty moderator and the hopes of establishing a publication "of opinion not subject to prior censorship."

The section reads: Editorials are now read for approval before printing.

"Although we must recognize the right of the faculty moderator to exercise prior censorship in any publication, we wish to go on record as follows:

1. We oppose exercising censorship except when an article is contrary to the name of decency.
2. We hope that in the near future, there will be established a journal of opinion not subject to prior censorship.
3. In the question of articles clearly contrary to the ideals of the University, we recommend constructive criticism based on fact. We ask that it be kept in mind that criticism of the University and actions of persons connected to the University (provided persons' names are not used) is not unhealthy and indeed that discussion of controversial topics is essential to intellectual growth and development."

Rugby: Buttons and Blows

Rugby Team Back From Calif.

Thanks to the contributions of friends, the support of the student body in purchasing "Rugby... because" buttons, and the help of the University, the Notre Dame Rugby Club was able to travel to California during the Easter holiday.

California Sun

While in California, the team won one, lost two, and tied three games; though the record itself is unimpressive, the trip provided the club with an invaluable training period and also exposed the players to new techniques and offensive patterns.

In the Monterey Tournament, the Irish went 1-0-3 and placed sixth out of 15 teams. Scrummers Dick Bell, Ken Stinson, Mike Murphey, Bob Lesko, John Mauro, Ben Beall and backs Bill Kelly, Bob Mier, Gay Pang, Pat Kealy, Pat O'Malley, Nat Davis, and John Reding all helped contribute to the head bashing.

Stanford Again

On Holy Saturday, the San Francisco Olympic Club defeated the Irish, 8-3. Tom Gerlach and Mike Murphy won the MVP awards for the ND backs and scrum, respectively. The Stanford Indians ran over the Irish the following Tuesday, 22-3. But this was Stanford's last game of the year (they finished 14-1). Notre Dame, on the other hand, was just beginning its season — really just finishing spring training.

Rebounding from the Stanford game, the Notre Dame Ruggers won the Commonwealth Cup on the next weekend. The Irish defeated Princeton on Saturday, 11-3, on scores by Dick Bell, Rex Lardner, and Mike Murphy plus the kicking of Gerlach. On Sunday, the superiority of the Notre Dame scrum proved decisive against Virginia. Notre Dame's only score came on a try by Al Byrne and Gerlach's two-point conversion. The final score was 5-0.

Against Michigan the next Saturday, Notre Dame easily defeated the Wolverines, 25-0. Jack Simon, John Reding, Ben Beall, Rex Lardner, and Terry O'Hara all scored for the Blue and Gold. Tom Gerlach added ten points on place kicks.

The Bombers

The St. Louis Bombers, however, proved to be a tougher opponent. The Irish drew first blood on a dazzling 40-yard run by Nat Davis. With one minute to play the Bombers scored on a 5-yard plunge by their captain, 245-pound Al Vonder Heef. The game ended in a 5-5 tie.

With a 4-2-4 record to date, the Irish Ruggers have three home games and a tournament remaining on the schedule. Next Saturday the University of Chicago will host Minnesota, Indiana, and Notre Dame in the Chicago Invitational Tournament. On Ascension Thursday, the Irish will play Illinois; on May 9, St. Louis University, and on May 16, the Bombers in the climax of the season.

Netmen Slam Iowa and Wisconsin

As of Sunday morning, April 26, the Notre Dame Tennis Team was still unbeaten in its northern tennis season. Friday's victory over Iowa was the third straight for Coach Tom Fallon's team, though the Irish won only two of seven on the Easter training trip.

The Irish moved to Wisconsin for Saturday and Sunday matches against Wisconsin and Marquette. By sweeping all three doubles matches the netmen gained a 6-3 decision over Wisconsin.

The Irish tennis team is composed of Pedro Rosello, Alan Davidson, Jim Goetz, Bob Fitzgerald, Ruben Carriedo, Bruce Vosburg, and John Clancy.

This Wednesday finds Toledo here and over the weekend the squad will journey to Champaign for a triangular meet with Indiana and Illinois.

Irish Bats Are Stilled

Beginning last Thursday the Notre Dame baseball team was to play a total of 6 games in 7 days. Such a task would be treacherous for any college pitching staff, but for the already depleted mound corps of Coach Jake Kline, it was just short of suicide.

With the record at that time standing at 6-7 and the team having won their last two encounters, it was felt that the next week would give a pretty good indication of the possibility of another winning season for Irish baseball.

Pitching Holds

At this writing, 3 of those games are history and the record now stands at 6-10. The pitching, with the exception of Friday's game, was adequate, as Frank Karazim and Larry Kennedy both turned in creditable performances of 8 and 9 innings respectively. The problem, surprisingly enough, was the hitting.

In the past few games, it looked as if the hitting was finally going to take care of itself, and maybe, with a bit more of an improvement in the pitching, the team would be on its way. However, such was not the case as the Irish collected a total of 2 runs in 28 innings in the 3 games against Michigan and Ohio University.

In the game with Michigan, both teams collected a total of 3 hits, but the story of the afternoon was the failure of the Irish to put two together, and that was the difference. Michigan managed to bunch 2 of their 3 hits behind a walk in the 5th inning and came up with a 2-0 decision.

Friday's Parade

Friday's game with Ohio University saw half of the ND pitching staff parade to the mound as the Bobcats raked 4 hurlers for 13 hits, 5 going for extra bases, and coasted to an 11-1 victory. The Irish collected 7 hits in the game but once again failed to put enough together in one inning to produce the runs.

In the second and final game of the series on Saturday, Ohio pushed across 2 runs in the top of the 10th to take a 3-1 victory and a sweep of the series. Here again the Irish had a chance to win it in the ninth inning with runners on 1st and 3rd, but the hit needed to bring them across never came.

Midwest NCAA Champs Here

The final three of the initial six games remain. On Monday, Western Michigan, last year's NCAA Midwest Regional champs will be on Cartier Field, and Tuesday and Wednesday the team travels to the state of Michigan to meet the University of Michigan and Detroit. If they can manage wins in at least 2 of these games, a winning season may still be within reach. Otherwise, Jake Kline may be on the road to his second losing season in the last nine years.

Outdoor Track Season Opens; Army Here Saturday

After an impressive opening of the outdoor season at the Ohio Relays last Saturday, the Notre Dame track team captured four 5th places in the highly touted Drake Relays in Des Moines, Iowa this weekend.

In the Ohio meet, senior Jerry O'Connor held on to his hop, step and jump title with a leap of 44'11" and sophomore Mike Coffey won the open mile with the time of 4:16.8.

Two third places were garnered by Jim Bruch in the hop, step and jump and the distance medley team of Bob Hoover, Ed Dean, Frank Carver and Bill Clark.

Individuals bringing home laurels from the "Drake" were team captain Pete Whitehouse, who equaled the meet winning time of 0:14.3 in the prelims, managed a 0:14.7 and a fifth place in the finals of the high hurdles; and Rich Fennelly who captured a fifth place in the three mile run, on Olympic development, with the time of 14:27.0.

Senior Frank Carver finishing six-tenths of a second off first place time, placed, of course, fifth in the University mile with a 4:15.6 time.

And finally, with incredible consistency, the Irish distance medley team composed of Carver, Hoover, Clark and Dean won a fifth place in their event with the time of 10:02.0.

This Saturday, May 2, the Irish track team entertains Army here at Notre Dame.

On The Links

The Notre Dame golf team ran up its season's record to a total of 6 victories and 2 defeats by defeating Northern Illinois while losing to Northwestern in a triangular golf meet held at Wilmette Golf Club last Saturday.

Low scores for the Irish in the 36-hole match were turned in by Mike O'Connell and Charles McLaughlin, each with 152 totals.

This Saturday finds Fr. Durbin's boys engaging Purdue, Illinois and Ohio State at West Lafayette, Indiana. The following Monday, May 4, the Indiana State Championship Matches will be held here on the Burke Memorial Course.

Over The Bounding Main

The Notre Dame Sailing Club, the oldest non-varsity sport on campus, weighed anchor again last Thursday with the launching of its new fleet. The Midwest Collegiate Sailing Association Champions, undefeated (1962-63), left the job of replacing the old fleet to their newly elected officers: Al Buennagel, Frank May, Mike Ecken, secretary Happy Fox, and treasurer Jim Grant. The new Flying Dutchmen Juniors feature fibreglass hulls, aluminum spars, stainless steel rigging, fibreglass seats, and hiking straps. The fleet, lighter and more efficient than the one before, will receive a good work out this season. Besides being used by the club's regular members, the boats will serve over fifty prospective sailors enrolled in the club's sailing seminar.

The sailing team which has traveled over 20,000 miles in the last two and one-half years won the Midwest Dingy Championships at Beloit College (Wisconsin) last weekend. Returning "A" skipper Tom Fox and his teammates captured first place for Notre Dame in the area "C" eliminations. This is the first in a series of eliminations which can qualify ND for the North American Collegiate Sailing Championships at Vancouver, British Columbia. Notre Dame in past years has finished sixth and seventh in the North Americans.

Lacrosse Club "Bombs" Defiance

Notre Dame's rookie Lacrosse team hosts Michigan State for the second time Saturday. The Irish nosed out MSU 10-8 (one overtime) in the first meeting between these two rival schools. The Spartans will be here to avenge the loss.

Employing, for the most part, their third and fourth string units, the Lacrosse Club "bombed" Defiance of Ohio, 12-2. This lopsided home contest took place last Saturday.

Following the Michigan State battle the Irish must face Dennison, Kenyon and Bowling Green, all schools hailing from the Buckeye state. Dennison, a school which set down the Irish 14-2, has lost to Kenyon. The Lacrosse squad has established a 4-3 record. Having shown a great deal or fight up to now, they will really have to go all out to maintain a winning record against such experienced teams as these. Good Luck!
