MEMORIAL DAY ARRANGEMENTS MADE BY VETS

Father Irving Address V. F. W. Meeting; Program is Announced

Memorial Day plans were made at a meeting of ex-service men in Washington Hall yesterday morning. Rev. Thomas Irving, vice president of the University, addressed the men.

Definite arrangements for formal observance of the day in accordance with the traditions of the University, and details for aids, color guard, and firing squad details, were made. By special contract, uniforms will be furnished through acting Quartermaster Bischoff to all veterans who are unable to get their own in time.

Rev. Ernest Davis, who saw much active service on the western front as chaplain with the A. E. F., will celebrate the Memorial field mass, Colonel Hoynes will act as marshal, assisted by Lieutenant Lewis Murphy, U. S. M. C., Lieutenant Glenn Carberry, and Professor Peyton, late machine gun officer. Rev. Dr. Matthew J. Walsh or Rev. George Finnegan, both overseas chaplains, will act as general chairmen, Professor William Farrell will have charge of the literary program, and Adjutant Robert O'Riordan, will be in charge of military ceremonies.

Notre Dame Council Knights of Columbus, Fourth Degree Knights, Henry Barnhardt, Steve Willson, Frank Wallace, Jack Norton, M. J. Dacy and others, besides uniformed details from the South Bend military organizations will participate in the parade with the students and the Notre Dame ex-service men.

The order of the day, Memorial field mass at 8:30 on the campus; literary program at 9 in Washington Hall; parade formation at 9:30; military ceremony at graves of deceased veterans in the community, 10:00. In the afternoon the Notre Dame band, colors, and a guard detail will participate in the South Bend parade as a return of courtesy to the visitors.

TO BUILD HALL WITHIN MONTH

Sophomore Building Operations Begin When School Ends

Building operations on the new Sophomore Hall will be commenced shortly after school closes next month, and according to present plans, will be completed when the student return next fall.

Except for additional length, the structure is to be of the same type as the Freshman Hall, and will be situated just north of that building, providing for two occupants in each room, and will accommodate 220 students.

This, according to university officials, will relieve the rooming problem, temporarily. Only 270 places remain on the campus, seventy of which are in Freshman Hall, and the remainder in Carroll and Brownson. The registrar states that 159 applications have already been made for rooms by next year's prospective freshmen. It is estimated that nearly 1,000 new men will be matriculated at Notre Dame next Fall, as 700 catalogues have already been applied for.

The engagement of Thomas J. Waters, B.Arch., to Miss Martha Ruby, of Dorchester, Mass., was recently announced.

Strong Alumni Wanted in City

For the purpose of establishing a strong alumni association in Mishawaka and South Bend, Notre Dame clubs held a banquet in the College Inn at the LaSalle Hotel Tuesday evening. Forty alumni members were present and plans were discussed concerning the movement.

Judge Farabaugh, '04, was appointed chairman of the committee with the following staff: Frank Herling Aaron Huguenard and John Riley. Jim Egan's Orchestra and Bill Furey, vocalist of the Glee Club, furnished the entertainment during the evening.

PONTIAC GETS DOME'S WORK

Engravers Have Session All Afternoon in the Library

The 1924 Dome contracted for the book's engraving with the Pontiac Engraving Co., of Chicago, yesterday afternoon. Eleven engravers were in a conference with the editors all afternoon, beginning at 1 and ending at some time after 6. The same company did the engraving for the 1923 book.

Frank Pedrotty, art editor of the 1923 Dome, Jack Scallan, editor-in-chief of this year, John Bartley, business manager, Jack Mullen, associate editor, and Joseph Foglia, art editor, were in conference with the men in the library.

Besides Pontiac, who was represented by O. S. Barrett and Frank Mawicke, the following companies bid: Stafford Engraving Co., of Indianapolis, South Bend Engraving Co., Indiana Engraving Co., Northern Engraving Co., of Canton, Jahn and Ollier, of Chicago, Fine Arts Engraving Co., of Kalamazoo, Canton Engraving Co., Fort Wayne Engraving Co., and others.

TO CONTINUE HISTORY CLASS

"Contemporary History" Next Year; Post-Grad Course to Begin

Professor William Farrell, head of the Department of History, announces that the course in "Contemporary History" which was innovated this semester is to be offered as a permanent course. It comprises a survey of the industrial and political changes during the first half of the nineteenth century, the great rivalries of the European nations for trade and colonies which finally precipitated the world war. The balance of the course will consist of a study of the outstanding features of the world war and a discussion of the problems that have arisen from it. A review of the efforts that have been made in the way of international conferences to bring about the settlement of these problems and the general situation in the world will conclude the scope of the course. During the present semester this course has been elected by some 40 students.

During the coming Summer School session Professor Farrell will offer a new course in "The Teaching of History" for post-graduates. The purpose of this course, as explained by Professor Farrell, is to lay down the principles "for the interpretation as well as the finding of facts."

BAND PLAYS PROGRAM
The Notre Dame band, under the direction of Professor Parreant, played at St. Joseph's Hospital, Saturday afternoon, in connection with a program for the National Hospital Day.

SELECT THEME FOR DEBATING IN THE STATE

Indiana Collegiate to Meet; Tentative Schedule Here

The question for debate by the Indiana Collegiate Debating Society will be decided upon at a meeting of the society this week. The result of the meeting will be announced before June 1.

A choice is to be made from the following list of propositions suggested by debating coaches at Indiana colleges:

1. Resolved, that the United States should enter the League of Nations with the Lodge reservations. (The negative is to oppose entering the League of Nations under any conditions whatever.)
2. Resolved, that Indiana should adopt in principle the Wisconsin plan of unemployment insurance.
3. Resolved, that the powers of the federal supreme court to declare legislation unconstitutional should be limited.
4. Resolved, that the federal government should enact legislation providing for the compulsory arbitration of disputes between employers and employees in the coal and railroad industries. (Constitutionality waived.)

Next Year's Schedule
A tentative schedule of debates for the Notre Dame debating team of next year includes a triangular series with DePauw and Wabash, beginning the early part of March. Negotiations have been entered into with Indiana and Purdue for debates during the year, but no definite dates have been set for these meets yet.

The record by the team this year and the renewed interest being manifested in the work, are expected to induce many students to compete for places on the Notre Dame team of next year. Several of this year's men are seniors, and consequently there will be opportunities for new men to fill the vacated places.

SOPHS SELECT S.A.C. MEMBERS

Final Balloting Friday; Bischoff, Reardon, Potts, Miller Named

Sophomore nominations for S. A. C. representatives were made at noon, Tuesday, in the library. The four men who received the candidacy out of the seven men nominated for the two-year positions are: George Bischoff, George Reardon, Clifford Potts, and Don Miller. The two men who were made candidates out of the three nominated for the one year position are: Edward T. Hunsinger and George Koch.

In the balloting necessary to reduce the two year nominees to four candidates, George Bischoff and George Reardon received 19 votes, Clifford Potts 23, Al Sommers 16, Harry McGuire 17, George Sheehe 6, and Don Miller 38. In the one year group Edward Hunsinger polled 37, George Koch 19, and Charles Guth 11.

The final elections will be held Friday in the south room of the library.

ANTI-FLIRT CLUB
BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Seventy co-eds at Indiana University, have formed an Anti-Flirt Club. They have badges and are distributing flirt provverbs describing the evils arising from too easily formed acquaintances.

Summer School Opens June 25, Closes Aug. 4

Notre Dame Summer School will open Monday, June 25, and will last until Saturday, Aug. 4.

Walsh, Badin and Corby Halls are to accommodate sisters and young ladies; Sorin, the priests; and Freshman Hall, the male students. In 1922 620 were enrolled at the summer session, and a larger number is expected this year.

PROF. MERCIER OFF TO FRANCE

May Return Next Year; To Speak on American Education

Professor Charles Mercier taught his last classes for the year at the University yesterday. He conducted examinations for his junior and senior philosophy students on his last day.

On Saturday Professor Mercier sails on the Empress of Britain, Canadian Pacific Line steamer, for Cherbourg, France, where he will arrive on June 3. He will spend part of the summer in Paris, where the parents of his wife live, and part of the summer in Brussels, his own home city. Dr. Mercier will deliver several lectures in Brussels and other cities, mostly on the subject of education in the United States. An article on that subject: "L'enseignement Libre aux Etas-Unis," by him, appeared in the Revue des Juenes for the last issue.

Next fall, Dr. Mercier may return to the University. He could not say anything definitely on this subject yesterday.

ORCHESTRA IN PROGRAM HERE

Will Appear in Indianapolis on June 2; Here on May 31

Rev. Frank Remmes and his Varsity Orchestra, assisted by J. Edmond De Mot, violin, and William J. Furey, bass, will offer a musical at 8:00 o'clock in Washington Hall on Thursday, May 31. The orchestra is now composed of 22 musicians and offers a well-balanced instrumentation, considering that the organization is still in its infancy.

On Saturday, June 2, the orchestra will appear in Tomlinson Hall, Indianapolis. A good crowd is expected to be there to hear Notre Dame's first Varsity Orchestra.

The program, as it will be played Thursday, follows:

- a. Eagle's Nest Overture.....Isenman
- b. La Charmante.....Kurtz
- c. Selection from Robin Hood.....Weigand

- Orchestra
- a. Canzonetta.....d'Ambrosia

Edward D. Duggan, LL.B., is director of athletics and head football coach at Franklin College. He was married last fall to Miss Annetta Dolores Beach, of Nashville, Tenn.

PUBLICATION BOARD PLANNED FOR NEXT YEAR

Cheer Leader Selected by S. A. C. if Students Want it So

A publication board, a freshman handbook, and plans for the election of a cheer leader by the Students' Activities Committee, were considered and favored by the S. A. C. in a special meeting last night in the library.

Although a publication board has been definitely decided upon, consisting of Henry Barnhart, Carl Barr, and James Swift, of the S. A. C., the plans for this board are yet to be determined. The election of representatives of the publications controlled by the board, to the board, and the publications that will be controlled by the board, are yet to be settled.

Definite plans for the selection of cheer leaders were proposed by William Voss, of the election committee, and his plans were accepted by the S. A. C. The plans will be published in the DAILY on Friday, and the students are asked to make criticisms and suggestions of these plans. They propose many changes in the manner of selecting the cheer leaders.

A freshman handbook has been put in charge of a committee consisting of Mark Nolan, James Swift and Robert Cahill, and the plans will be ready this summer, and the book placed in the hands of the class when they arrive in September. The book will contain traditions and information concerning Notre Dame, so that the freshmen be able to know Notre Dame as well as possible when they arrive.

That the Dome will be named after the graduating class, the next one, therefore, the 1924 Dome, that a frame will be furnished for the Notre Dame monogram sign, and that the treasurer's report for the present year will be published in the DAILY Friday, was also passed by the class.

MAYOR SEEBIRT TALKS TO K OF C

Church is a Bulwark Against "isms" Says Speaker

"I know nothing that has presented such a bulwark to socialism, bolshevism and radicalism as the Roman Catholic Church," said Mayor Eli Seebirt in his talk to Knights of Columbus members at their regular weekly meeting last night in the clubrooms.

Mayor Seebirt talked on "Youth in the Future," and outlined three paramount points to success: knowledge, character, and ability to work. In connection with these he mentioned politics of today and the opportunities which they afford youth. If the politics of a country are good, opportunities are also good, he said.

Jack Derbeane and "Pup" White, of Freshman Hall, have recently purchased a Ford speedster.

OUR ADVERTISERS

Notre Dame men have seldom before been accused of disloyalty. It has been regarded as dangerous to do so. There are some men in South Bend, however, who are becoming stronger in their conviction that the appeals made to Notre Dame through the campus publications are not responded to very loyally. This connection between loyalty and the complaints of these men may not be very clear unless it is realized that the students of Notre Dame owe those men in South Bend who advertise consistently in the college publications as much a measure of loyalty and support as they owe their football teams or their debating teams.

Things have come to a point now where solicitors for advertising are told very frankly that the men of Notre Dame do not patronize South Bend advertisers, and that the money invested in advertising on the campus can be used to much better advantage elsewhere. One merchant puts it very concisely when he says—"The Notre Dame men come to my store whether I advertise or not; so why should I advertise?" Should this condition continue? The DAILY, the new Notre Dame publication, the official school newspaper, your paper, is backing a "Patronize South Bend Advertisers" campaign. Our advertisers must have our support—and by our support is meant your support, and your roommate's support, for the DAILY is your paper and your roommate's also.

You have been asked to get behind the DAILY—do this by getting behind DAILY advertisers!

South Bend is growing larger and many merchants who catered to Notre Dame trade some years ago are now becoming indifferent to this source of revenue. A great number, however, realize that nearly two million dollars are left every year at Notre Dame or South Bend by students of the University, and, realizing this, are making special pleas of Notre Dame students. It is the duty of Notre Dame men to invest their money with the men who still desire the patronage of the students—the men who advertise, the men who will advertise in the DAILY, the men who have advertised right along in other campus publications.

Read their advertisements! Mention the DAILY when you buy in town. Indicate that you are noticing their appeals.

Be loyal to the DAILY by being loyal to its advertisers!

HAZING AND EDUCATION

In a hazing last year at Northwestern University a "frosh" disappeared. Several days ago a skeleton was discovered beneath a pier in Chicago, and identified as his. This instance more tragic and for that reason better known to most of us is not much different from others which occur every fall. Year after year students pay for hazing at a price of not only temporary injuries but permanent deformities. Faculties, despite their very evident duty, smile on these activities as harmless. They may be, but mothers and fathers of students think differently. The man carrying around for the rest of his life a deformed body thinks differently. The world looking on the college as an institution worthy of the greatest respect, thinks differently.

Hazing loses everything and gains nothing. Its existence anywhere is a disgrace. Education means more than book lore. It calls for the inculcation of that very uncommon thing, common sense. When students fail to think for themselves, the college is morally obligated to do it for them. There is no place in university life for hazing, and the sooner students and faculties realize this, the sooner will people be willing to acknowledge the merits of collegiate education.

—C. B. Ward.

PARACHUTING ON PARNASSUS

You stand aloof, serenely, like
 Some shadow-covered pool,
 Whose virgin surface never has
 Reflected those who cool
 Themselves with its refreshing gifts.
 One time I laved my thoughts within
 The sheltered mystery
 Of your kind words and ways, and
 Somehow, thought that the
 Shadows, for a moment, rose.

Colyum O' Bits

Believing that two good colyum are better than one good colyum "Through the Looking Glass" will alternate with "Colyum O'Bits" until one or the other colyumist runs dry, or until the end of the year. Yesterday and in the next issue, you looked at the line that Frank Kolars, or F. T. K., hung out today Cliff Bernard Ward hangs out his linen.

By CLIFF. WARD

The meaning of our title we needs must explain, there being many kinds of bits, horse bits, tid bits, obits, and bits of thought. The latter two are interchangeable in this humble heading. At times when our intellectual biters have bitten off new bits of thought, we accent the words to read "colyum of bits," meaning by that what is, plainly, meanable, then at times other than the ones stated when we disinter bits of dust from the realms of the long-thought dead, we accent them to read "colyum obits," again meaning what is plainly meanable. If we have failed to make clear, we are sorry but must cease. As the disarmament boys say, we must needs see the need of ceasing the seizing of the seas.

The following poem, for which we are much indebted, comes from the famous contributor of COLYUM O'BITS, Sawa Houseburn.

In Faery Realms

In faery realms where dream-dust blows,
 Where beauty all in plenty grows,
 There we find a place your heart to lay
 To dig it up some later day,
 A lily blossom or a rose.

The flowers rare the poet sows;
 Your fancy here will soon disclose:
 And guide your thoughts a star-lit way,
 In faery realms.

A debt to wander here, one owes,
 To leave aside his mortal woes,
 Living as pearls in crystal ray
 Of love, forgetting time's decay,
 To bring all shame to glistening close,
 In faery realms.

An association of cosmopolites, bounded together for the prevention of unnecessary murders, has made as the object of their investigations the finding of the man who killed the Dead Sea. Personally we've heard of men who could kill a quart, but a whole sea—it's beyond us.

Court grants judgment of only $5,000 for the killing of three persons; a headline remarks. Maybe next time they will get the rates first.

In these days of excess disputation it behooves none of even the most nasty, to take sides with anyone. However, a couple of guys who have been heard about "Colyum O'Bits," have written to us, one trying to tell us nothing exists outside the mind; the other bohunk arguing with him. Both want space in our precious tribunal to plead their cases, but we ain't got room for both. We've decided, Solomonlike, that being as the first tells us everything exists in the mind, we'll let him put his argument there, and let his opponent put his here.

The other day I chanced to walk,
 Along the highway green,
 O'er wood and dell the setting sun,
 Had thrown its golden sheen.

I wondered as I strolled along,
 With thoughts carefree and light,
 If beauty be a psychic thing,
 Why then the need of sight?

If make we do the psychic gold,
 When Autumn's goal is won,
 May I conclude to reason's shame
 That psychic be the sun?

Everytime our bill for books comes, we are convinced that the man was right who said: In books lie buried treasures.

Don Marquis, the famous colyumist, but no relation to Cervantes' Don Quixote, sends the following, out of sympathy with our business:

Little Willie, dressed in ashes,
 Fell in the fire and was burnt to ashes,
 Very soon the room grew chilly,
 But no one cared to stir up Willie.

Letters were received by seniors yesterday calling them to a special meeting in the library at 12:30 today. Rev. Dr. Matthew J. Walsh will talk.

Beg Your Pardon

We find a slight error crept into our column on May 22. Albin A. Rhomberg is assitant city engineer of Dubuque, Iowa, not Great Lakes, Iowa.

The junior and senior chemical engineers, under the guidance of Mr. Byrne, left this morning at 7:40 o'clock on a five-day inspection trip. In addition to the plan outlined in the Log for May 20, these men will examine the architectural exhibit now being held at the Art Institute, Chicago. Plans have been completed for the bringing of a part of this exhibit—the entries in the Chicago Tribune building contest—to Notre Dame early in June.

Sports

In a closely contested game held Monday afternoon, May 21, the Mechanical Engineers conquered the Electrical Department Kappa Rhos, 19 to 15. Revoyr, of the Boilermakers, held the Kappa Rhos pretty well throughout the greater part of the game, but he blew up in the last inning and permitted nine runs to be scored. Tiny Ray McGee took his place on the mound, and because of the steam and smoke he put on the ball the Electricals were unable to score. Joe Mielcarek, manager of the Boilermakers, caught the entire game. Gibbons and Dombkowski formed the battery for the Kappa Rhos. Special mention must be made of McGee, Lautermilch, Meagher, Ed. Sullivan, and Gibbons for their playing, Gibbons striking out 13.

One misfortune marred the game. Art Butterfield, of the Electricals, sprained his ankle. A mis-step in crossing first base threw him off balance, and caused the injury.

Mr. Schubmehl umpired the entire game. Many of the Electricals noted his deep friendship for Revoyr; and though they might have thought it had some bearing on the final score, they said nothing. We only hope Mr. Schubmehl puts in a second appearance on the field; if he does, the Log should have some very exciting news.

The standing of the teams to date is as follows:

	W.	L.	Tie	Pct.
Pharmacists	1	0	0	1.000
Civils	1	0	0	1.000
Mechanicals	1	0	0	1.000
Miners	0	0	2	.000

Pre-Meds	0	1	1	.000
Electricals	0	2	0	.000

MUSEUM GETS GIFT OF VALUE

Mammalian Hair Is Received from National Zoological Park

A collection of mamilian hair valued at $200 has been received by the Department of Zoology from Mr. N. Hollister and Mr. James Davis, of the National Zoological Park. It is the plan of the department to mount them so as to be available for determinations.

Mr. Hollister, who is superintendent of the Zoological Park, and his assistant, Mr. Davis, have, on several other occasions, shown their interest and support for the department by similar donations before. Their last consignment included hair from chimpanzee, orang, bay lynx, American bison, yak, Indian buffalo, musk ox, Arizona mountain sheep, Arabian camel, Bactrian camel, llama, guanaco, elephant (tail), and wombat. To the Science School the gift is very valuable.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coughlin, of South Bend, announce the birth of a daughter Saturday. Coughlin, Notre Dame football captain of two years ago, is now prosecuting attorney in South Bend.

From Off Stage

By JOHN BRENNAN

The motion picture industry, after having regaled the proverbial long suffering public with spectacles of sex and synecopation, has literally run home to mother. Some of the heart throb pictures are good; others are not so good. "The Town That Forgot God" is in the second category. The flood scenes, one must admit, are good, and the scenic effects, on the whole, are up to par.

The story is old and it moves slowly, by fits and starts, to its conclusion. In casting it, the director assembled a company of actors and actresses, few of whom you will remember having seen before. The boy who plays the leading part is capable; he looks like Pat Moore some three or four years hence. Eben, the village carpenter, who remains his friend through thick and thin, is not so fortunate. His face does not screen well, and he did not seem to know just how his role was to be interpreted. He should have made the audience feel sorry for him, and in this he succeeded, although it was not sorry for him for the reason that it should have been.

"The Town That Forgot God" offered a wonderful opportunity to produce another picture of the type of "The Old Nest" but the opportunity was not grasped; it was overdone in places and underdone in others. To the juvenile actor who played the lead goes credit for a large part of what success it did achieve.

Any variety of four-wheeled vehicle that runs by means of gasoline is in demand by some of the students who want to motor home when school is over next month.

ROCK TO TALK TO CHI CLUB

The Last Big Meeting to Have Hilgartner as a Guest

The Chicago Club plans a last big meeting to wind up an unusually active year.

A new constitution will be adopted, officers will be elected for next year. Coach Rockne will speak and Daniel Hilgartner, president of the Notre Dame Club of Chicago, will be the guest of honor. A bit to eat will be furnished by the well-known Ollie Clark. The exact date of the meeting will not be decided until Roger Kiley, president of the club, returns from the funeral of James Martin's mother, but it will probably be next Monday night in the K. of C. Chambers in Walsh Hall.

ST. MARY'S

MISS A. R. CARR'S RECITAL

The first graduate piano recital in the St. Mary's Conservatory of Music this year was given by Miss Alice Rose Carr, '25, in St. Angela's Hall Tuesday evening, May 22.

Miss Carr's program was one of special merit, both in selection and technique. The Scherzo, Tarantelle, and the Prelude by the masters Beethoven, Rubinstein, and Bach brought out her clear cut and brilliant technique. Her delicate rendition of The Spinning Song, by Hollander, gave proof of unusual pianistic gift abetted by artistic skill.

Variety and contrast were added in her fourth group, by modern composers, which was thoroughly enjoyed by her audience. The climax of the well balanced program came in the uncommon number, Bird Song of St. Francis, by Liszt, in which Miss Carr displayed her virtuosity by fine phrasings and sympathy of tone.

A vocal trio, made up of three members of the Glee Club, a violin solo by Miss J. Lecour, and a piano duet added variety to the program.

Miss Carr, added to her musical ability, has a versatility of talents that places her above the average college student. Her marked aptitude for languages, her logical mind, and her sincerity of purpose point to a womanhood of culture and splendid accomplishments.

The acclamation of the students greeted her when she appeared for her first number. She was becomingly attired in a simple gown of green canton crepe. Her corsage of spring flowers was sent by her classmates. The stage was beautifully decorated in baskets of pink roses and peonies.

Her mother, Mrs. Charles A. Carr, of Sugar Grove, O., and her sister, Mrs. Harry E. Johnson, and small son, Richard, from Two Harbors, Minn., were present.

The program:

When all the windows of the soul Are grimed with clinging dust of care, And pent-up fledgling thoughts look out Upon a world no longer fair; The cleansing rain of music comes— A little joy in each drop curled— And then the winged thoughts look out Upon a rainbow world. —S. M. E.

IRISH TO PLAY KNOX AND IOWA

Sheehan Injured; Enright or Vergara on Third. Announce Games

The Notre Dame baseball team leaves Thursday night for a short Western trip without the services of Bill Sheehan, hard hitting shortstop. Sheehan, who has been playing good ball, broke a finger on his left hand in practice at Northwestern. He played the game through and it was not discovered that his finger was broken until after the game. Coach Halas has been working the past week to fill his position for the hard games with Knox and Iowa. Kane will be moved from third to shortstop and either Vergara or Enright will be at the hot corner. It is likely that Enright, who has been playing fast Interhall ball, will play the position.

Curtin, who has been out of the game with an injured finger is now in shape to play and it is possible that he will catch one of the games. Coach Halas announces that there may be some changes in the outfield unless there is a decided improvement in hitting. Kelly has been showing up well in practice and is giving the present regulars a hard run for their positions.

The Irish will play Knox College on Friday in Galesburg, Ill. Knox has a good team and is at present leading the Little Nine conference with a clean record. Magevney will probably pitch against Knox. Although Knox has a good team it is expected that Notre Dame will beat them Friday. The Halasmen will leave Galesburg immediately after the Knox game for Iowa City to battle the University of Iowa. Notre Dame looks for a tough battle with Sam Barry's slugging crew. Everyone recalls the game with Iowa here some days ago when they were defeated by the splendid work of Falvey, 1-0, in twelve innings. The Hawkeyes will try desperately to even the count. Either Falvey or Castner will pitch against Iowa. If Falvey pitches it is possible that Coach Barry, of Iowa, will allow Becker to pitch against Notre Dame again. This will result in another pitchers' battle if both pitchers display the same effectiveness as they did some weeks ago.

Next week Notre Dame plays two hard games at home. Purdue plays here on Tuesday, May 29, and Michigan plays at Cartier Field on Memorial Day. The Boilermakers have been travelling at a fast clip and expect to give the Irish a tough battle. Notre Dame won a game from Purdue earlier in the season when Falvey held them to three hits and shut them out. Michigan has a victory over Notre Dame, 11-10 in ten innings, to its credit, but the Irish are determined to even the score on Decoration Day.

GUESS WHAT

Five students of Stanford University are making up for lost sleep, after 48 hours of wakefulness during which blood tests were made for experimental observations on the effect of lost sleep. Every senior at Notre Dame is doing the same thing, only an experiment has not been the cause.

OR MORE!

After a thorough investigation of the freshman class at Princeton University had been completed it was learned that the average "frosh" corresponds with three girls. If we were to judge the average number of females the Notre Dame freshman corresponds with by the number of letters Mark Mooney, Jay Fleming, Jack Spillane and Art Suder receive we would say it is about 20.

ANOTHER GUESS

Jim Swift: You say he's a bosom friend eh?

Jerry Hagan: More than that, he's a hip friend.

—The Cardinal.

SO ARE WE ALL, ALL PECULIAR

Seniors are peculiar at times. They, like the rest of us, have their particular choices and hobbies. Hank Barnhart would rather "doll up" in a blue shirt and spend the evening over at St. Mary's giving the girls a talk than run for mayor of Marion, Ohio—although, since the little Buckeye city went broke, he has been inclined toward the latter proposition also. Charlie Martin would much prefer to hold economic quizz classes the year 'round than to take a summer vacation trip, say to Yakima, Wash. It is just these differentiating characteristics that make us all different. At Washington and Jefferson University the seniors wear a small white ribbon on the coat lapel. At Pitt each class wears a distinctive button. At the University of Tennessee white sweaters are worn. At Michigan they carry canes. At the University of Pennsylvania they wear caps and gowns two weeks previous to commencement. At Notre Dame they wear them when they are having their picture taken for the Dome and on Commencement. Such is life.

FRESHMEN IN BALL BATTLES

The Twilight League, organized in Freshman Hall, plays every evening on the Freshman Hall campus. The first game of the season was played Tuesday, when the Submarines, the lower floor, overcame a handicap of two runs and defeated the fast Aeroplanes, the upper floor, 6 to 5. The latter's aerial attack failed.

Ed Byrne showed up to good advantage for the Aeros, accepting several chances in the field without a bobble. One of the bright spots with the willow was Jay Fleming, who connected for a three-base wallop, but slid into the wrong base at third and was out. Rev. Walter O'Donnell officiated. Marquis of Queensburg rules governed. A "never say die" spirit has been injected into the upper floor crew by Manager Kohin.

Father O'Neill Now in Montreal

Several books written in recent years by the Rev. Arthur Barry O'Neill, associate editor of The Ave Maria, will be brought out in a French edition soon, it is expected. Father O'Neill is now in Montreal in the interests of his health, and he contemplates working on the new edition while there.

Scholastic Has One More Issue Coming

After the issue of the present number of the Scholastic, the magazine will be discontinued for the year, except for the Commencement number. This discontinuance is made because of the issuance of the DAILY, and is preparatory to the publication of the magazine next year as a monthly, provided the DAILY is a success this year.

The Commencement number will be one of the feature numbers of the year, and will include articles on the features of Senior Week.

CAP BURNING

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Cap burning ceremonies took place at the University of Indiana last week. After a journey through the waters of the Jordan river at Bloomington, the procession of this year's freshmen took an active part in a ceremony which was concluded by the burning of the frosh caps. On the same day unconventional dress and straw hats became en vogue.

Robert Curry, prominent Badin politician, attended the Kentucky Derby Saturday, and backed Spark Plug to the last time.
