Friday night, "O Ye That Pass by the Way."

The morning instructions in both churches will be short and practical.

More Notre Dame Men at St. Thomas College

St. Thomas College, St. Paul, Minn., sends men to Notre Dame and Notre Dame sends men to her. Dave Hayes and Joe Brandy, both Notre Dame graduates, are now coaching the football team there. Hayes also is dean of the Journalism school, according to word from the college.

Ray Gallagher, Ph.B., '23, and winner of the intercollegiate oratorical title last year, is also at St. Thomas. He is coaching debating and public speaking.

AGGIE EXHIBIT WINS HONORS

General Vegetable Display Gets First Prize; Many Assist in Arranging Exhibits.

Honors were won by Notre Dame in the Fourth Annual Horticultural Exhibit of the St. Joseph County Horticultural Society yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce building in South Bend.

Blue ribbons were awarded to the University, which was represented by fruits grown on the St. Joseph's Farm, vegetables given by the Novitiate, and flowers displayed by the green house of Notre Dame.

First prize was awarded to Notre Dame in the General Vegetable display, while a big percentage of the awards made for flowers and fruits also went to the University.

The winning of the prizes was made possible by the work of Brothers Lambert, Barnabus and Adrian, whose diligent preparations made the entries of Notre Dame a success. Much of the success also is attributed to Prof. B. W. Sheib, of the Department of Agriculture, who superintended the exhibits. He was assisted in his work by Lauren F. Maudlin, Albert E. Prince, George Marh, George Robins and Hoy F. Carrol.

Homecoming Plans Made Tomorrow

A general meeting of the athletic director, chairman of the S. A. C., chairman of the Boosters committee, director of discipline, and the members of the Homecoming committee, will be held tomorrow evening in the office of Rev. Hugh O'Donnell for the purpose of unifying and co-ordinating plans for Homecoming.

PEACOCK BLUE CORRECT COLOR

Official Ruling Made on Notre Dame Colors by Father O'Donnell; Gold the Other Color.

The official ruling on Notre Dame colors was made yesterday afternoon by Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, following an executive council session. The colors are peacock blue and gold. A sample of the correct combination may be seen on the bulletin board outside the registrar's office in the main building. Father O'Donnell suggests that all men acquaint themselves with the official colors.

These colors are not the same as those worn by varsity men. In view of the fact that peacock blue is not suitable for their purpose, navy blue is substituted.

COMMITTEE TO RULE ON DANCES

Father O'Donnell Names Professors McCarthy, Reichert and Fenlon to Serve With Him.

A faculty committee which will regulate all dances given under the auspices of any class organization or group of individuals at the University was named yesterday by Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, Prefect of Discipline. The definite policy of the committee will be announced later, according to Father O'Donnell, who states that all students are bound to comply with the rules established. The policy will be published and all men are asked to acquaint themselves with it.

Commerce Men Hear Harper Sales Talk

H. B. Harper, general sales manager of the Studebaker Corporation, delivered the second of a series of lectures given in the College of Commerce to an audience of about 300 commerce students in the North Room of the Library at 4:10 yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Harper's subject dealt with salesmanship, of automobiles in particular. He pointed out the qualities of a good salesman, what rules must be followed to attain success in salesmanship, and what opportunities for advancement there are in that profession.

Mr. Harper illustrated his talk with many interesting personal experiences. He stressed the advantage of athletics in developing a keen mind and a vigorous physical make-up.

PENNSYLVANIA CLUB.

There will be a meeting of all men from the Keystone state in the North Room of the Library at 12:30 today.

Martin J. Cleary has been appointed supervisor of interhall athletics and will handle the arrangements for all games.

ROCKNE'S REQUEST.

Coach Rockne issued orders last night regarding spectators on Cartier field during signal practice. The coach earnestly desires the co-operation of students and faculty in this matter, which directly concerns the success of the team. No persons are allowed on the field after orders are given for the gates to be closed.

PITT JOURNEY IN 40 HOURS

Must Have Permission From Home; Cuts Excused; Ticket Sale One Day Only.

James Swift, chairman of the S. A. C., announced last night that the students accompanying the "Fighting Irish" to Pittsburg will leave at 10:30 p.m. Friday and arrive there Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. A street demonstration will be made immediately upon the arrival of the students. Plans for entertaining the students are being arranged by the Pittsburg Alumni. It is probable that a dance will be given in the evening following the game. The Notre Dame contingent will leave Pittsburg at 11:45 Saturday night. Mass will be attended in Toledo and the students will reach here late Sunday morning.

No railroad ticket will be sold unless a ticket to the game is also purchased. Tickets will be on sale for one day in the gym. The railroad fare is $13.92 and game tickets may be obtained at a reasonable price.

As in previous years, students contemplating making the trip must present a letter from home before permission is granted them by the Notre Dame authorities.

Cuts will be excused those who journey to Pittsburg with the team.

Notre Dame Forum Hold First Meeting

The Notre Dame Forum will hold its first regular meeting of the year on Friday evening at 7:30 p.m. in Room 219, Main building. The election of officers for the present term and the consideration of important amendments to the club's constitution will be the chief business of the meeting. Brother Alphonsus, C. S. C., honorary president, will be present to deliver a short talk on past achievements and future aspirations.

The prize poems are to be featured in the "Scribblers' Book of Notre Dame Verse," and all other poems submitted for the contest will have an opportunity to be included in the anthology.

Alumni Clubs Plan To Attend Big Game

Notre Dame and Princeton clubs of Cleveland are planning to send large delegations to the Princeton-Notre Dame game. A large delegation from the Chicago-Notre Dame club, headed by its president, D. E. Hilgartner, Jr., will also attend. Both alumni clubs in Philadelphia and New York are planning a reception for the team.

Notre Dame headquarters for both the Princeton and Army game will be announced in the near future by the Notre Dame club of the metropolitan district.

MEETING FOR FROSH FRIDAY

Campus Leaders to Talk to New Men on Class and General Conduct.

The Freshmen class will meet in Washington hall Friday noon at 12:30 to hear a discussion on how a Notre Dame man is expected to conduct himself. The speakers for the meeting will be Harvey Brown, football captain; James Swift, chairman of the S. A. C.; Don Gallagher, senior class president, and Father Hugh O'Donnell, prefect of discipline.

The conduct of a man, which so well represents his school and training, is one of the structures upon which Notre Dame has built her glory and tradition. And time alone will prove what a potent factor it will be in the building of the greater Notre Dame.

The committee in charge of the meeting is composed of James Egan, Tim Rauh and Mark Mooney.

"HELLO WEEK" SUCCESSFUL

New Tags May Be Secured at News Stand; Aluminum Tags Possible Next Year.

"Although only three days have passed, 'Hello Week' has already pretty well served its purpose," said Matt Rothert, chairman of the Blue Circle, yesterday. He continued: "The entire year is 'Hello Week' at Notre Dame, but the traditional democratic spirit that dominates Notre Dame men is emphasized this week."

Many students experienced difficulties with their tags because the cards are easily torn. From this Matt Rothert conceived the idea of the possible use of aluminum tags next year. Those who have lost their tags and whose tags are torn, may obtain others at the News Stand.

Scholastic Will be Illustrated Later

The Scholastic, monthly publication of the students of the University, aside from including essays, short stories, poems and reviews in numbers for the coming term, will carry illustrations for the stories. Illustration of stories had never been attempted and it is expected that the improvement will add much to the publication. Stories appearing in the first few issues of the Scholastic will not, in all probability, be illustrated for business reasons.

BLUE CIRCLE MEETING.

An important meeting of the Blue Circle will be held at 12:30 today in the South room of the Library, according to Matt Rothert, chairman. All members are urged to be present.

STEIMRICH TO PLAY FOR CLASS ON SATURDAY

Class of '25 Gets Elkhart Orchestra for Dance; Furey and Luther Will Sing.

William F. Furey, Commerce '23, and Eddie Luther, cheer leader, will sing special novelty numbers at the Junior Football dance to be held Saturday night at the Tribune auditorium, it was announced by the Junior committee yesterday.

The Steimrich orchestra, of Elkhart, will play for the dance, it was also said. They have seven pieces and were well received by Notre Dame men living in South Bend who heard them at Christiana Lake tavern, where they played this summer. They have augmented their orchestra by a trumpet soloist, James Artley, of Olsen's Milwaukee Syncopaters. They have good voices in the orchestra and feature their program with special vocal numbers.

Furey was president of the Glee club last year and was the leading soloist at Notre Dame for the past several years. Luther was soloist at Diamond lake last summer, and was repeatedly encored. He is also a member of the Glee club.

The songs will be arranged so that they form a part of the regular program.

Students in Freshman and Sophomore hall have been assured permission to attend the dance. This was granted after a petition to Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, prefect of discipline, was presented by the dance committee.

The Lombard squad and the Monogram club men will be the guests of the class at the dance.

BAND UNIFORMS FOR TECH FRAY

Measure More Men for Suits Today; Fifty Piece Expected in Band; Drum Major to Be Called.

The Notre Dame band will be in uniform for the Georgia Tech game. The Henderson-Ames Company, of Kalamazoo, Mich., with whom the order for the new uniforms was placed, promises to deliver them in time for use at the Georgia game.

The suits this year are a decided change from those of last year. They have a smart cut and are tailored along cadet style. The coats and trousers are dead gray, and the caps match the rest of the uniform. The coat has a pronounced military cut with four large military style pockets, but the collar has lay-down lapels as in ordinary street apparel. Puttees and a heavy Sam Browne leather belt complete the uniform.

Measurements for some of the suits were taken last night, and the president of the band, James Egan, requests that all band members who have not been measured be in the band room this morning between 9 and 12 o'clock.

From present indications the band will number about fifty pieces this year. A call for a drum major will be made in the near future.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENT.

Word has been received from Toledo, Ohio, announcing the marriage of Frank Robert Lockard, -18, to Miss Sweet Hackett. The ceremony will take place October 9, at the Cathedral chapel, Toledo. Lockard attended school at Notre Dame for nine years, and was quarterback on the varsity team during his college course.

HELLO, NOT HAZING

Hazing was never popular at Notre Dame; occasionally, a student whose ideas and ways of acting were in direct opposition to the traditions of the University has been waited upon by a committee of his fellows and has had certain customs and usages explained to him. But in general, all the classes, from freshmen to senior, have dwelt together in peace and harmony.

It is the purpose of "Hello Week" to make the freshmen feel at home. A friendly greeting goes a long way sometimes towards making life happier; there is no reason why this greeting should be denied. In a true democracy, everyone in equal, and Notre Dame is a true democracy, if there ever was one.

Show that you care a little about the other fellow! Of course, you will shout "Hello" in passing, but did you ever think of going a little further. Come out of your shell, and start a conversation. You might be surprised at the results, and get an idea or two from him.

And then, did you ever realize that friends are an asset to a man? There are close to two thousand Notre Dame men whom you can call friend if you will.

THE DAY STUDENT PROBLEM

Registration figures show that there are now approximately 500 day students, or 200 less than there were at this time last year. This decrease has been brought about through the increased accommodations on the campus offered by the new Freshmen and Sophomore halls. It is the desire of the University officials to bring all the students to the campus eventually; and with this end in view the erection of additional halls next year is being planned.

Yet a number of years must pass before it will be possible to house on the campus all the students who will seek an education at Notre Dame. And in the meantime we have the day student problem.

This problem has resulted from the fact that the downtown men have always been a group set apart too distinctly from the rest of the student body. They have never lived the life that develops the fraternal Notre Dame spirit. And failing to share in the development of that spirit, some have even questioned its existence. In a certain sense, however, they have reason for their doubts, for they have never been in a position to observe the nature of the spirit or to be influenced by it.

One of the chief advantages offered by any university is that of contact with other students; and this has always been a advantage of great importance at Notre Dame. But the day students have been in a large measure deprived of that advantage. The University has evolved no plan for joining them more closely to the campus men, and the men themselves have apparently given the matter little consideration.

As an organization the off campus body has always been weak. Perhaps the strengthening of this organization should be the first step in the program of initiating the day students into Notre Dame's only fraternity, that of good fellowship. By means of a strengthened organization, and possibly by means of a central recreation center in South Bend, companionship and association would be made possible among the day students. This new mutual interest should then be the means of leading them as a group into a more harmonious participation in school activities.

SEEKERS OF TRUTH

Many newspapers are so given to lying and exaggeration that it seems as if they made misrepresentation their policy. Lying and exaggeration is profitable. The newspapers that distort truth are successful—they make the money.

But there are newspapers that make every effort to be truthful. These are the papers with reputations among people who think; these papers have power.

Even the paper that tries to print the truth, however, sometimes errs. Sometimes a copy reader, sometimes a reporter is at fault.

But often men not connected with the newspapers are at fault. Such men are everywhere—they are at Notre Dame. Such men criticize all newspapers, making no distinctions. Sometimes such men are the only source for a story, but even so, they rebuff the reporter. "I won't give you any news; I won't tell you anything; newspapers never get things right," they say.

Thought might show such men how much they hinder the securing of the truth.

Through the Looking Glass

When Oscar Suchensoupenup came to N. D.

He said, "I got humor; ha, ha and tee, hee."

Took a "Hot Dog" to church: we all giggled with glee

But Oscar Suchensoupenup's NOT at N. D.

Hooda was going to a show. He got off the car and after his usual half hour of bewilderment he located himself and made his way toward the picture house keeping as close to the ground as possible. He crossed a busy street where the mad traffic rushed round and round in huge circles, grinding the poor pedestrians without thought of ruining the pavement forever.

As he neared the opposite side a girl held out her hand. Hooda grabbed at it, thinking perhaps she was an old friend from back home. She threw a monkey wrench at him, with one hand and turned the corner with the other. Hooda gazed after her till she was lost from view, admiring her lines, her slender sinuous grace, her sprockets and huge wheel base.

He turned with a sigh, pocketed the monkey wrench, and with a shrug and a thought that she was perhaps but another flirt who had led him on as city girls do, he continued toward the show. He had not forgotten the time when they had refused to wait on him at the Piggly Wiggly store, just because he looked green. Nor the day his friends had placed confidence in him and sent him in to Hellers' to argue about oak. He had been thrown out hard both times (harder the second time) but they had condoned by having their retouch man fix up the sore spot on his head.

So Hooda was used to city ways and wiles, while away back home he whiled away his wildest hours teasing the family's pet civet, a vicious animal whom none dared go near.

At last he reached the ticket office. It was seven o'clock in the evening. "I hope I'm on time," he thought. It was his first picture show in a big town and he did not intend to miss it much.

"Sir," he said, "give me a ticket."

"Where to?" asked the man at the window.

"The—the—(Now what was it the boys had told him to say? Oh yes!) The bellincoly" said our hero.

The ticket man let him in for nothing, and told him to stop on the way out and he'd give him car fare home.

Hooda entered, and found a seat. He had scarcely been seated five minutes when there flashed on the screen—(continued tomorrow).

Friendship

My South Bend girl went walking With me last Sunday night.

She said, "Let's try the College Inn And watch the couples fight."

I said I had no money.

And this is what she said,

"If you ain't got none, honey,

Then here's all mine instead."

She surely is my darling.

I love her for you see

When I ain't got no money.

She hands all hers to me.

One night I spent nine dollars;

I know, I'm getting bad.

I would have spent two twenties,

But that was all she had.

—V. F. L.

Got a new way of saying hello.

Walk up and say "Altitude." This means, Hi.

Then the other guy says, "Nice purchase."

This is Jewish for "Good buy."

When a freshman starts school he's almost too timid to ring the buzzer to stop a car. By the time he's a senior he'll ask a motorman to back up two blocks for his stop.

She wrote: My dear, I love just you.

On all my dates I'm true to you.

I kiss no other man at all.

I flirt with no one, Paul, my all.

Those who care for the type of acting of which Mae Murray is the chief exponent will, no doubt, enjoy "The French Doll" at the Orpheum in which she is given her usual opportunity to do plenty of dancing, and to display her unusual wardrobe. The vivacious Mae—she is too vivacious at times—plays the part of a French girl whose parents regard her as their best financial asset. Her specialty is palming off large quantities of antique furniture, manufactured in Grand Rapids, to the various gentlemen who fall under her spell. When she is not selling furniture, she dances. As a matter of fact, the outstanding fault of the work, is that her dancing is over-emphasized. She is clever, but enough is too much.

The picture is graced by the suave presence of Rod La Rocque, an accomplished actor, concerning whom we once had occasion to undergo a sudden change of opinion. La Rocque dances in a fashion which leads one to believe that his kith and kin, to the second degree at least, would make excellent teachers of the art.

The supporting cast is consistently good. The honors go, perhaps, to Lucien Littlefield, whom you often saw in the past with Wallace Reid. His bit as the inebriated butler is a small one, but in it he contributes one of the best features of the entire play.

BODY SENT HOME

The body of Pedro Aduriz has been shipped to his home in Cienfuegos, Cuba. Aduriz became suddenly ill at the University summer camp near Lawton, Mich., early in September. He was taken to a Kalamazoo hospital, where he died a few days later.

Aduriz arrived at the University during the summer session, intending to learn enough English to enable him to begin studies in the College of Commerce in September.

The Great Roxhythe, by Georgette Heyer. Small Maynard & Co., Boston. $2.00.

Georgette Heyer is an author of whom we have the misfortune to know little, but if we may take "The Great Roxhythe" as a fair example of her work, there is good reason to believe that much will be heard of her in the future.

This historical romance of the time of Charles II deals with the diplomatic intrigue of the time rather than with the gay life at Whitehall, usually associated with the merry monarch. The leading figure is the enigmatic Lord Roxhythe who is in turn a cynical trifier and a master diplomat to whom the king intrusts his most secret missions. He loves only two things: himself and Charles, and it would be difficult to say which holds first place in his affections.

The story is one of loyalties, of Roxhythe's loyalty to the king, and of the loyalty and love which the youthful Christopher Dart had for Roxhythe, even after he discovered that his idol had feet of clay.—J. S. B.

Real
Beauty in
Rubber Fountain Pens

THE new Wahl Pen in engine-turned black rubber is unlike any fountain pen you have ever seen. Anyone who writes will be proud to own a pen of such grace and splendid writing performance. It is as practical as it is beautiful.

The man's-size fist with the cast-iron grip will find a Wahl Pen to fit it. And so will the dainty feminine hand. There are sizes and shapes to suit every man and woman in college or business.

Wahl Pen is made by the makers of Eversharp. It is another leader. The Wahl filling device fills the pen brim-full of ink every time. The Wahl comb feed regulates the flow so that the pen writes the instant you touch it to paper. You never have to shake it. The ink never floods.

The everlasting nib is 14-karat gold, tipped with the hardest, finest iridium. Unbiased experts say it is the ultimate in nib-making.

Clipped in pocket, purse or note book, Wahl Pen cannot leak—the patented cap construction prevents it. Wahl Pen is so perfectly balanced and proportioned that it seems made just for your hand alone. It writes perfectly. Ask your dealer about Wahl Pen. All styles and sizes. $2.50 up.

The 1923 Interhall football season will be formally opened next Sunday, October 7, when the first section of the schedule will be played off. A silver loving cup will be presented to the hall winning the campus football title this year, and to the members of the champion team, individual prizes will be given as a tribute to their valiant work throughout the season.

Interhall athletics during the entire year have always found great favor among the students as well as created a sense of rivalry. Many of Rockne's greatest stars, have been graduated from the interhall ranks. George Gipp, without doubt one of the most brilliant all-time fullbacks in football history, was a wearer of the Brownson colors, when he first came to Notre Dame. The sport writers of the country, when commenting upon the athletic system at Notre Dame, always takes into consideration that Rockne's system is far reaching enough to give every man at the school, who has any tendency whatsoever toward athletics, a chance to display his ability. The interhall games accomplish this purpose.

Badin hall, winners of last year's title, have almost a veteran team in the field, which is composed of a heavy line and a fast, shifty backfield, although they are minus the services of Bud Gorman, the plunging fullback, who won a berth on the All-Hall last year.

Walsh hall, runners up for the title last year, have prospects that look good for a successful campaign this year. Londo, Scalero, and Stanhope, veterans from the 1922 squad, are back in the line-up and in fine fettle for the opening tilt with Brownson. Gene Hauber, who rivaled Gorman for honors at fullback last year, has returned to the backfield and will be a powerful addition to the comparatively new set of ball-toters that will perform behind the line this fall.

Brownson, as usual, got away to an early start, and worked off the early season slackness in a hard game at Chicago last Sunday. The Purple warriors have but one veteran returning to the line-up this year, but the new material present a rather hefty outfield to the other title hopes on the campus.

The Sorin Hall football eleven, coached by Captain Harvey Brown of the Varsity, will open its present football season next Sunday when it lines up against the Freshman hall eleven under direction of Don Miller, half-back on the Varsity. The Freshman eleven had its first work-out yesterday.

Rockmen Drill for Lombard: Golf Try Outs This Week

Scrimmage continued to be the important phase of this week's practice for the Rockmen on Cartier field. As the date for the second game draws nearer, Lombard looms more formidable before the Irish, who must consider that the Galesburg outfit is nearly their equal in weight, possessing a good punter and hoping to score on the Irish by means of the aerial attack made famous by the Blue and Gold warriors.

If Saturday's game proves to be what is expected, Rockne's wards will be in splendid fighting trim for the Army on the following Saturday, when the Irish gridmen clash with a team of veterans, that is reputed in prominent sport circles, to be the strongest in the East.

In last night's scrimmage, Bob LaFollette, right tackle, received a severe cut over the right eye while making a pretty tackle. It required four stitches to close the wound.

Golf Try-Outs.

At the golf meeting held Tuesday evening, plans were formulated to run-off the qualifying rounds this week, the results of which will determine the men who compose the fall team. The Chain-O-Lakes and the Christiana Country club at Elkhart have been scheduled for the fall season and the outcome of these tournaments will serve as a basis upon which to determine the team that will represent Notre Dame in western college golf circles, next spring.

For those who wish to keep in shape during the winter the use of Bert Meyering's indoor course in South Bend is offered.

George Ward of Walsh or Jack Adams of Badin will be glad to receive the names of further applicants.

BOXING BOUTS HOMECOMING

Championship Bouts on Homecoming Program; All Students Eligible.

Frank Cahill, boxing instructor at the University, has formulated plans whereby championship bouts in all the weight divisions, will be staged, November 2, the night before the Purdue game, as one of the principal features on the Homecoming program.

Cahill, who is now instructing a class of 85 aspirant glove wielders, announces that the University tournament is open to all men in the school, the gym being open every afternoon when candidates may work out.

Boxing at Notre Dame gained a national prominence in amateur circles during the Chicago Tribune boxing tournament held last winter. Edgar "Rip" Miller, varsity football tackle, fought his way to the finals, only to lose the amateur title by the margin of a close decision. Charles Springer, the St. Paul flash, outpointed a large field in the same tournament, and won the light-heavyweight title. Danny McGowan took all comers on the same bill and easily copped the flyweight belt.

The weights of all the divisions are: Flyweight, to 112; Featherweight, 112-118; Bantamweight, 118-125; Lightweight, 125-135; Welterweight, 135-145; Middleweight 145-158; Light-heavyweight, 158-175, and Heavyweight, 175 and up. The entry list will be opened next week.

CALLED HOME.

John M. McMullan, law student at the University, has been called to his home in Chicago on account of the serious illness of his father. McMullan is a sophomore.

Off-Campus Students Begin Football practice

Coaches Reardon, Walsh and Connell report that the Off-Campus football team is now being organized and practice is being held daily in preparation for their first game, Sunday, October 14, against the Sorin hall aggregation. The first list of candidates given out contained the names of Steele, Flinigan, DeClercq, Metzger, O'Brien, Finnigan, Conroy, Dulmatch, Volger, Downs, Hammond, Kelly, Higgins, Sindt, L. Kelly, Messer, MacLennan and McCauley. As yet, the Off-Campus team is a dark horse, but their prospects will be given a good trial in the opening grid clash with the Sorinites.
