

CAMPUS BY-PATHS

I greet you today with cheerfulness, inasmuch as I have several letters that I may draw on, and a firm resolution to enjoy the Frolic (which, of course, will be comparative gossip when you read this). While making a reassuring phone call yesterday to Miss Grumpy I sought any new or startling information that she might possess.

"You're shocking me," Miss Grumpy replied—whereupon it took me five minutes to explain to her that it was the phone that was doing the shocking. Speaking of lines, the worst I ever heard (over) was furnished by the Bell Co.

But to turn from the human side of Mr. Grundy, and get back to the letters—some ardent feminist, or several, suggested an idea that is as impractical as it is amusing:

"Tuesday morning you gave the readers of the DAILY a real treat when through the courtesy of some new-born Sherlock, the champion woman-hater of Notre Dame was made known. To be sure we are all proud of this interesting discovery. But would it be entirely inappropriate now to look for another champion of the opposite kind? What about the fellows who adore the fair ones? What about our students who get dainty letters by the dozens? Are they not worthy of mention?"

Then the letter departs from its theory and proceeds to a practical application (at too great length for this column), naming one Fagan of Corby as having received at specific times an overwhelming amount of mail "from such feminine haunts as St. Mary's, N. Y. U., and Stout Institute." Further, there is talk of a social secretary, a missive from "Marty," and a threat or a promise that Fagan will accompany John Uebbing on a trip to Milwaukee. "Isn't Mr. Fagan worthy of recognition?" My only reply to that would be another question—doesn't he seem to be getting it?

In regard to a letter by John Harwood, of Carroll, about the activities of M. E. Nevils I find "Jawn's" attitude to be entirely wrong. He accuses me of "cracking wise about the general public," next, he makes unverifiable—his letter was unsigned—reports about a staff-member. He even insinuates that M. E. N. "eats typewriters." I can hardly believe that. Please add your name to your next communique, John Archibald, and it will not be exposed.

A thrilling tale tomorrow, Why Boys Leave Badin. "Order your extra copies now."

Since it is Frolic time you will be interested in these "H. M.'s": JOHN SHAW, of Oklahoma and East Chicago, because his wardrobe would put Kuppenheimer to shame, because he is a patron of a South Bend skating rink, and because he rated four letters a day—two of which are frequently in the same handwriting, all of which may qualify him as a sheik.

JOHN PATTON, of South Dakota, because he is a room-mate of John Shaw, because he recently purchased a radio set from Sears Roebuck (adv.), and because he earned to "trip the light fantastic" at a South Bend dancing school (no adv.—by request of the school). No; he hasn't rated a local damsel yet—but not because he didn't try.

As Andy Gump recently remarked, "I'd rather be the regular e-man I am than the handsomest heik that ever fell off a camel."

MR. GRUNDY.

Appearance of Dome on May 15 Assured

"Fire or flood only will prevent the Dome of 1924 from being delivered to the students on the promised date, May 15," said Alex. C. Kubiak, vice-president of the McClave Printing Company, which is printing the annual, last night. It is practically assured, according to Mr. Kubiak, that the Dome will be in the hands of the binders by May 1. Delivery will probably be made between May 1 and 15.

The faculty and junior sections and a part of the senior section have already been printed. These three sections of the book include some one hundred pages.

An interesting feature of the 1924 Dome will be the new pictorial section, entitled "Notre Dame Life." A collection of pictures of the Army, Princeton and Carnegie Tech football games and of practically every student activity on the campus, will appear in this department.

STUDENTS HEAR BACTERIOLOGIST

Well-known Scientist Gives Lecture On "Hunting Big Game in Africa."

Arthur Coggeshall, noted bacteriologist from the Carnegie Institute of Technology, delivered a lecture on "Hunting Big Game in Africa" in Washington hall last night.

Mr. Coggeshall, who has had 35 years of hunting experience in the forests of Utah, related the joys and dangers of the life of those who hunt wild animals. His description of the methods used in capturing the animals alive for captivity in the zoos and menageries of civilized countries was particularly interesting.

Going into detail as to the manner of capturing or killing the beasts in their native haunts, he described a number of ingenious contrivances used for trapping. He stated that many precautions must be taken when it is desired to capture the animal alive.

Mr. Coggeshall's intimate knowledge of the peculiarities and mode of living of those animals with which he is familiar made his lecture very interesting to the students who attended.

Interhall Teams to Meet Tomorrow

Interhall basketball teams will get into action for the first time in two weeks when the five postponed games of last Sunday will be played off in the gym tomorrow. As a result of the postponement of the contests, the interhall schedule will be put back one week, and the finals will be played a week later than scheduled. It has been announced that a loving cup will be awarded the interhall basketball champion by the Athletic Board when the season closes.

The Carroll-Day contest promises to be the feature event on tomorrow's bill, as well as one of the hardest fought battles of the entire schedule. If Carroll wins it will tighten its grip on first place, but if Day wins the two teams will be tied for the top position.

The teams will stand as follows when they meet in the gym tomorrow:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Carroll	6	0	1.000
Day	5	1	.833
Sorin	4	2	.667
Badin	4	2	.667

Brownson	2	4	.333
Sophomore	2	4	.333
Freshman	2	4	.333
Corby	1	5	.167

450 COUPLES MAKE FROLIC SUCCESSFUL

85 St. Mary's Girls Attend; Husk O'Hare's Ten-Piece Orches- tra Furnishes Music.

Four hundred and fifty couples packed the floor of the Palais Royal at the most successful Freshman Frolic in the history of Notre Dame, last night. About 85 students from St. Mary's College were present.

Husk O'Hare's Super Recording ten-piece orchestra furnished music for the dancing, which continued from 9 to 1 o'clock. Clever novelties were given by the director.

Decorations were in blue and gold electric "N. D." and several attractively arranged monogram blankets.

Blue rough leather pocketbooks with gold Notre Dame seals, and pencils attached by a blue and gold cord, were the favors.

The success of the dance is due to the efforts of John Reidy, president of the class; Joseph O'Donnell, vice-president; Joseph Murray, secretary; Michael McDermott, treasurer, and the various committees in charge of the affair.

TO OCCUPY "LILACS."

Professor and Mrs. Northcott are going to occupy "The Lilacs," the house built by the late Maurice Francis Egan during his professorship at Notre Dame. Professor Northcott is moving from his home in Mishawaka to South Bend.

PROFESSOR HINES ILL

Professor J. F. Hines, of the History department of the University, was confined to his home yesterday because of a slight illness. He is expected to be able to meet classes Monday, however.

THE DAILY QUESTIONNAIRE

What asked: How does the modern college man impress you?

Where asked: Freshman Frolic.

St. Mary's Girls (By one of them):

"Being studious, we are not hating a 'Frolic'; with the music; the 'N. D.' of local color, and of the dancers, there is too much of the complimentary—for this space; perhaps Chimes will echo more definitely. As for our impression, again you ask us to be definite!"

Bertha C. Peltz, 1806 Kessler Blvd., South Bend:

"I think they're pretty good scouts, but at times they get sarcastic. They are better as a whole, than I ever had any idea they could be."

Greta Rogers, 1130 N. College St., South Bend:

"Their's is not a stupid way of dancing, and if their brains are in their feet, they're not dumb."

Mary Marshall, 943 Riverside Drive, South Bend:

"He doesn't."

Josephine Weeks, 721 Lincoln Way East, South Bend:

"I can speak only for the Notre Dame boys, and where they're concerned, words fail me."

Jane Noble, 1021 N. College St., South Bend:

"They may or may not be poor students, but they know how to give a 'Frolic'."

Anita Redmond, W. Madison St., South Bend:

"The modern college man doesn't know where he is, except when dancing. Then he's a 'dancin' fool'."

Water Basketball Game Here March 8

Water basketball will be played for the first time by the University when the Notre Dame team lines up against the Indiana sextet a week from tonight. The Indiana aggregation is more experienced in the game but it will have to offset the fighting spirit of the Irish. The first scrimmage was held on Thursday and the team showed up well against the second string men. Cerney, Gish, Stephen, Harrington, Boland, Baier, and Cunningham are on the squad.

The swimming team has also been in training for the Indiana meet which is to precede the basketball game Saturday, March 8, and the Indiana team will have to go the limit to beat its less experienced opponents. Weible, Alvarez, and McGoorty in the dashes, Anderburg and Graves in the 220, Rhodes and Fogarty in the breast stroke, Fuite in the back-stroke, and Anderburg in the fancy dives are expected to best Indiana.

A picture of the team will be taken today in Bagby's, 110 West Colfax street, at 1:30.

TRACK PRELIMS HELD THURSDAY

Freshmen Cop Twenty-nine of the Forty Qualifying Places; Barron Is Individual Star.

The first half of the preliminaries of the interhall track meet was staged Thursday night in the gym. Many promising varsity prospects were brought to light. Due to the great number of contestants, some good men failed to qualify.

Barron, brilliant freshman, broke the tape in the fast time of :05 1-10 for the 40-yard low hurdles. Mullin, Riley, and Goulet were the outstanding performers in the 40-yard dash, each covering the distance in :04 7-10. In the quarter mile, Masterson showed well, making a strong bid for premier honors, only to be nosed out by Bernie Coughlin. This race was timed in :53 2-5, which is of varsity calibre. In another heat of the 440, "Red" McDonald fell when but a few yards from the finish and thereby lost an opportunity to compete in the finals. Nulty defeated a large field in the mile run, and Mayer, with a heave of 38 feet 1 1-2 inches, took first place in the shot put.

Of the five events contested, the Freshmen took four firsts and garnered 29 of the 40 qualifying places. Eight men in each event qualified for the finals which will take place Sunday, March 9. Next Wednesday the second half of the meet will be run off. The races scheduled for that day include the half mile, two mile, pole vault, broad jump, 220-yard dash, and the 40-yard high hurdles.

The field is well distributed throughout all the various halls, and much keen competition is expected in the finals. Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be awarded to the winners in each event. Every race of the night was overcrowded; in the dash, 50 entrants competed, and 34 contestants were in the quarter mile.

Following is the list of events and those who qualified:

40-yard dash: Mullin, Carroll, first; Riley, Brownson; Goulet, Sophomore; Stack, Freshman; McDade, Brownson; Wilhelm, Day; Reilly, Sophomore; De La Maria, Badin. Time, :04 7-10.

40-yard low hurdles: Barron, Carroll, first; Cyr, Walsh; Ziliak, Walsh; Vial, Corby; McGlennon, Freshman; Riley, Brownson; McDonald, Carroll; Goulet, Sophomore. Time, :05 1-10.

IRISH CINDER MEN AT URBANA TODAY

Fourteen Notre Dame Athletes to Compete in Harry Gill's Annual Illinois Relay Carnival.

Coach K. K. Rockne, Manager Leo Sutcliffe and a squad of 14 Notre Dame trackmen left yesterday afternoon for Urbana, Illinois, where the Irish will compete today in the Seventh Annual Illinois Relay Carnival. The following men comprise the team: Barr, Layden, McTiernan, Hamling, Cox, Barber, Captain Kennedy, Hammill, Livergood, Wendland, Johnson, Wagner, Harrington, and Eaton.

The Illinois Relay Carnival, instituted by Coach Harry Gill, mentor of the Illinois track team for the past 14 years, has become so popular in winter track circles during the past five years that it is looked upon now as one of the premier track classics of the year. With the assembly every year of the best track material in the middle west to compete for honors in the Illinois relays, one of the surest things to be expected as an outcome of the meet is the bettering of world records. Incidentally, new stars are continually coming into the calcium glare at each of these big meets.

Coach Harry Gill's own track team will unquestionably play a paramount part in the day's events. Year after year, the Illni coach develops a well-balanced track team that is very capable of holding its own in every event. Gill will have Brownell in the pole vault, and the Sucker bamboo artist looks good in comparison with the field he will have to face. The Illini vaulter has been doing 12 feet, 10 inches with remarkable regularity. Brownell will have as one of his most dangerous rivals, Brooker of Michigan, who registered 13 feet, 2 inches in the conference outdoor meet last year. There will also be Jones, of Wisconsin, who has been seeing the ground from a height of 12 feet, 8 inches during the indoor season.

The Suckers will be very well represented in the sprints and the special 300-yard dash events by a pair of flashes, Ayers and Evans. The Suckers are looking forward, with no little uneasiness, to the competition that is being prepared for them by Layden and Barr of Notre Dame, Irwin of the Kansas Aggies, who burned up the century last spring in :09 4-5, and Wilson and Brookins of Iowa. Wilson is the conference champ in the 220-yard dash and Brookins is the world's champ in going over the low barriers. Maddox, of Purdue, will also be on hand for the sprints as well as Wittman of Michigan.

The Wolverines look particularly good in the two mile university relay with such men on the squad as Reinke and Hattendorf. The Michigan team will be hard pressed by Illinois, Ames and Wisconsin. Brookins and his Iowa clan will be the features of the mile relay, while Notre Dame should move into the limelight in the university medley relay. Barr, McTiernan, Cox and Kennedy should make a splendid combination to offset the rivalry of the Purple quartet from Chicago which will also hold forth with no mean position in this event.

The hurdle events are slated to uncover some new stars for the coming season or else give to the present record holders a life contract on the olive wreath. DeHart Hubbard, who already has a life contract on the broad jumping event with a leap of 25 feet, 2 inches, will endeavor to put Michigan in the front rank of the hurdlers today. The colored athlete is due to give Charley Brookins and Pitch Johnson more competition than they are looking for. Pitch Johnson, captain of the Illinois team, equalled the world's record (Continued on Page 4.)

It is a healthy sign, and one comforting to reflect upon, one which vitiates to some extent the belief that college students are concerned only with the modes of the moment.

THE COURAGE TO LET GO

In The Literary Digest of today the so-called "young radicals" in modern American literature are described as having arrived at the brink of the chasm their aesthetic souls have so long craved; and they are further described as wearing drooping mouths and noses pointed to detect sulphur; in other words, they begin to suspect that the freedom they have been howling for, now practically achieved, is become a fad. And if the freedom to jump into chasms has become a fad, it is not for these fops.

THE INK WELL

By DENNIS J. O'NEILL,

The story is that of an old sea dog who calls himself Peyrol and comes home from his roaming to end his days near the place of his birth. Conrad, the facile craftsman, weaves a whimsical tale of his love for Michel, a helpful old man

It is a story told as only Conrad can tell it; and, although it is by no means his best, the very fact that it comes from this master's pen makes it well worth the reading.

J. C. P.

All these short stories prove Anderson a greater genius in his chosen field than, perhaps, we have given him credit for being. They compare very favorably with the best that Katherine Mansfield and Arthur Machen, for example, have produced.

ON THE LEVEL

What Knute Rockne is to the gridiron, Harry Gill is to track and field athletics. The famous Illinois mentor has developed many of the most versatile track and field men that have ever been seen in action. A good number of his proteges have established records that make the name of Harry Gill immortal in this field. And Harry Gill deserves the praise and recognition that are accorded him. He has worked strenuously for years to gain the success that has accompanied his career. His creditable work has carved him a niche in the hall of athletic fame.

The zenith of Gill's career will probably be reached this afternoon when the annual Illinois Relay Carnival will be held at Urbana. This yearly meet which was instituted by Gill, is regarded by the deans of sport writers as the classic of the season. The select talent of the nation's universities competes in this carnival, and the one which will be held today is expected to be the greatest of the long line of classics. The success that is sure to crown the efforts of Harry Gill at this meet is a worthy tribute to his coaching ability. The cinder men of the country pay homage today to Harry Gill.

"Young" Stribling, the promising light-weight, advanced a step farther toward the title Friday night when he kayoed Jack Perry, champion of the navy, in the second round of a scheduled eight inning encounter. Georgia's latest contribution to fistiana first gained national recognition when he handed a trimming to the gallant Mike McTigue. Since that time he has engaged in many fights and has won nearly all of them by the kayo route.

Gene Tunney will meet a worthy foe in Stribling when these two line up in the resined arena. Stribling is not ready for the champion yet and his handlers are wise in not rushing him on toward battles with men the calibre of Tunney and Greb. They are willing to wait for the handsome purses that will surely come after Stribling acquires more ring experience. But Tunney and Stribling will exchange punches within a year and it is probable that the Dixie lad will get the better of the exchange.

When Notre Dame students crowd into the gym on March 12 to see Pinkey and Ritchie Mitchell in action, they will see the two craftiest boxers in the hemped arena today, with the exception of the champion of their division, Benny Leonard.

Pinkey Mitchell can boast of more skill and subtleness than any pugilist at present, but with all his tricks, he lacks a great kayo punch. He has had several cracks at the title and has made creditable showings, but his inability to put over the deciding blow at the proper time has cost him the crown. The same applies to his elder brother, Ritchie. Ritchie had Benny Leonard in a deplorable fix several years ago at Madison Square Garden but he could not finish Leonard at the time when a soporific punch would have meant the crown.

The Mitchell brothers are a credit to fistiana and greatly elevate the game. They are true gentlemen both in and out of the ring. It was not long ago that Pinkey knocked a would-be man into oblivion because the uncouth fellow tried to crowd a woman off the sidewalk.

That Notre Dame offers athletic training and gives attention to its lesser lights was well exemplified at the interhall relays which were held in the gym Thursday night. Students who are unable to gain varsity positions, and who would like to try out, are given the opportunity to do so in such a square manner that almost any man in the University who is willing to work, can make good in interhall athletics. In each of the events run off, there were eight qualifying places. Considering the large number of events, one does not find it so hard to place in the races if he is in condition.

And the meet also showed that we have a real athletic director and coach in Rockne. This is manifested daily, but the personal manner in which he conducted the meet and the interest he took in each contest was particularly striking. Rockne is just as interested and works just as wholeheartedly in the minor athletic activities at Notre Dame as he does in building up his gridiron machines. And that's saying a great deal, realizing that Rock constructs the best of all gridiron machines.

Editor:

All this talk about education and reduction of class hours and too many social activities, etc., etc., etc., that has been swimming back and forth on our campus for the last three or four months has overlooked a most important bit of gossip. This is of course, the attitude, view-point, and interest the lounge boy, (I refuse to call him lizard) has for these topics. We see him afternoon, evening, and night in the Oliver or the LaSalle, or almost anywhere where there is a comfortable seat, a spittoon, and a chance to display sartorial splendor to the doubtful edification of the girls who happen to pass. Just what is their attitude?

You know the type—and you who comprise the type know it also. What have you to say about them, and what have you to say for yourselves?

last winter in order to beat Hubbard at the relay carnival. In the western conference outdoor meet, Johnson won the 75-yard high hurdle race, but Hubbard claimed that some of the hurdles were out of line and after some discussion the hurdle points were thrown out of the meet. Johnny Johnson, "Notre Dame's greatest little athlete," will get a look-in with these national stars this afternoon, and the diminutive Irish star should place well in the running.

Sixty schools have entered squads in the Illinois Relay Carnival today and there is little doubt but that among this number, approximately 600 men, there will be a large group who will wear the American colors in the Olympic games this summer.
