

CAMPUS BY-PATHS

I take great pleasure in presenting this letter, coming as a jar to my lethargy.

"Guardian of Campus-Cutups:

"Altho I hesitate to start out with that time-worn phrase 'I am a constant reader of your paper' I have had a critical eye upon Campus By-Paths for ever and anon. A word or two of compliment to insure your publishing this letter—I believe you have succeeded rather well in interpreting campus events and peculiarities. Sometimes, perhaps, you have added a little too much pepper to your spice. Yet the broth on the whole has been excellent. (Yes, my name, too, has been taken in vain in your column.)

"Now to the constructive part of my bold advice: why not seek out more personalities among the younger men? Not, particularly, regarding their romances and love-letters but about the things that will sooner or later make them known and liked among all four classes. Again, since the Ink Well appears to be rather reticent about printing verse unless it has all the wave-lengths of literature about it, why not make a little verse a part of By-Paths more regularly? To keep you from replying 'what?' allow me to include this thing, which, altho my own, seems to have all the qualifications of that and typography. For want of a name it is arithmetically entitled:

Ocette
(After the manner of certain modern verse)

Little Thots
Crowd out Big Thots
In the minds of Little Men.

Big Thots
Overwhelm Little Thots
In men of Big Minds.

Call it a contest if you will—many will probably call it illiterate. At any rate understand me to be in a tone of friendly helpfulness. I have found you veracious. Of course, if you print this I will immediately throw away my rubber hammer and get a horn. Never forget, tho, that a bull has horns. Believe me your fairy godfather, "HEZEKIAH, of Corby."

-o- -o-

Such a shock! And to think I thought that no one ever read anything in this paper but the editorials. I have investigated the writer of the letter (who was gentleman enough to sign his real name also) and find him sincere. I am interested in how any of the readers think the column might best be conducted. I assure you that the tendency is away from too personal relations of letters and the like, and that an important meeting of my secret emissaries will be called soon to proceed with plans for your entertainment that I have long been harboring. My motto might be "One for All."

-o- -o-

As for the other suggestion I must beg leave to retire into my mental fastness, there to ponder on the merits and demerits of verse—or worse—in my daily fifteen inches. Readers, have you any pleasure? "Don't wait about it"—write to Mr. Grundy.

-o- -o-

Until I recover my composure I shall withhold the personalities I have on hand. I am preparing, however, my First Annual Athletic number of "Honorable Mentions."

-o- -o-

I am such a gentleman that I always slip my coat on before answering a telephone call. You would expect that of

MR. GRUNDY.

Scribblers Discuss Humor at Meeting

Various members of The Scribblers read poetry, short stories, etc., which were criticized by the other members, at the regular meeting of that club held last night. The feature of the meeting was a short story by Robert O'Riordan, which provoked lively discussion upon humor, carried on between Frank Kolars and Gerald Holland. Matters of business, and short talks by the two new members of the club, James Withey and Gerald Lyons, occupied the rest of the time.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR DAY DOG SHOW

March 26 Named as Date of Production; Richard E. Lightfoot Directing Rehearsals.

Announcement was made yesterday by Father G. L. Holderith, director of off-campus men and activities, that the first annual Day Students' Vaudeville will be presented in Washington hall on the evening of March 26.

Richard E. Lightfoot will direct and produce the vaudeville acts. Lightfoot is directing the acts at present, and rehearsals are being held for the various acts on the bill, which will be featured by the appearance of Charles Butterworth, the inimitable monologist; Eddie Mahon in a few steps of folk and clog dances, and the Labetz Synopaters, directed by Victor Labetz. The nature of the other acts on the program will not be made known until the date of the production. Many other clever and original bits of "vod-vil" entertainment will be presented with the aid of special scenery and settings, now being planned by Lightfoot.

Father Holderith plans to make the affair an annual production for the off-campus students. This will be the first attempt made by the day student organization to present any production for the student body, and the support of the entire university is asked to help make the first showing a success. Producer Lightfoot will be assisted by Father Holderith and Father Hugh O'Donnell, who comprise the advisory board for the production.

Any day students who have had experience on the stage or in committee work are requested to report to the off-campus office. Tickets for the show will be placed on sale about March 20.

Noted Reader Here Saturday Evening

Elizabeth Pooler Rice, one of the senior faculty members of the Leland-Powers School of the Spoken Word, of Boston, will read at Washington hall Saturday evening. This will be her first appearance in the mid-west. Mrs. Rice has the reputation of being the greatest woman impersonator upon the platform, and has a repertoire of 15 complete plays, memorized and impersonated in the Leland-Powers method.

Mrs. Leland is also to read at St. Mary's-of-the-Woods on Sunday night. The public speaking course at St. Mary's has been handled by the Leland-Powers graduates for the past ten years. The reading course at Columbia University, New York City, is opened every year by this talented woman.

DUJARIE WINS HOCKEY GAME

Dujarie Hall defeated Holy Cross Seminary in an exciting hockey game Sunday afternoon, 3 to 2. The game was fast and had to be played overtime. The superior teamwork of the brothers was noticeable throughout the game. For Dujarie, Brothers Albert and Cyril stood out prominently, while for the Seminary, Lane and Sullivan played a good game.

FACULTY BOARD ANNULS DECISION ON CONTEST

At the request of the Publication Board, the Faculty Contest Board has investigated the procedure of the recent DAILY'S Best-Organization Contest. The purpose of the investigation was to clear of any reproach all those concerned with the contest. After detailed and minute examination, the Contest Board saw fit to nullify the decisions which have been previously announced. The reason for such actions are as follows:

1. The rules of the contest were not formulated before the contest begun, but were made to suit conditions that arose as the contest was in progress.
2. Ambiguity in the publication and promulgation of the rules of the contest.
3. Large number of duplications among the votes.
4. The contest editor misconstrued and misinterpreted the rules to the various organizations.
5. The Faculty Board was appointed, after the sixth ballot. The Faculty Board as an organization did not make any of the rules governing the contest.
6. Proxy idea (voting by proxy) was not known to all the clubs at the same time.
7. Evidence of fraud among the students in permitting the indiscriminate use of their names.
8. Many who were not subscribers for the DAILY voted.

The Faculty Board, therefore, has decided because of the foregoing reasons to declare the contest invalid, and has ordered the return of the cups to the donor.

THE DAILY QUESTIONNAIRE

What asked: "What do you think of G. K.'s letter in Sunday's DAILY about 'Divan Dunces'?"

Where asked: Badin hall.
Al Greenwall, Ch. E. II, Badin:

"He contradicts himself all the way through his line of thought. What was the idea of putting such an argument in the column?"

Albert E. Foos, Litt. B. III, Badin:

"I agree perfectly with him. I can't understand what interest a fellow gets by hanging around the lobby of a hotel for several hours."

B. B. Vogel, Comm. III, Badin:

"It reminds me of a question in politics: 'If a vessel is painted green, floating down the Mississippi at an angle of 45 degrees, when the sun is under a cloud, what is the name of the captain's wife?'"

Charles Moran, Journ. I, Day: "G. K. is very general in his letter and it might be interesting to know what a 'he-man' is. Evidently 'he-men' are never seen in the lobby of the Oliver or LaSalle, and this I strongly doubt."

J. J. Hempling, Comm. II, Badin:

"I believe that G. K.'s letter is not worthy of consideration."

J. H. Moran, Law III, Badin:

"I don't want to commit myself. I will say, however, that he is right to a certain extent. The meaning is very indefinite."

Glee Club Sings at Church Services

The Notre Dame Glee club appeared Sunday evening at St. Patrick's Church in a program of sacred music. Dr. J. Lewis Browne, director of the club, presided at the organ and two of his pupils, Miss Sara McCabe, soprano, and Herman Wilson, organist, were the assisting artists. The church was filled to its capacity for the event.

The songs were a part of the regular Glee club repertoire, and included several 16th century numbers.

GRIDMEN BEGIN SPRING TRAINING

Rockne Gives First Lecture to 150 Men; Adam Walsh Talks to Candidates.

Spring training for all football candidates began yesterday with a lecture by Coach Rockne in room 219 Main building.

Coach Rockne's talk was the first of a series of lectures that will be given during the six weeks of spring training. The lectures will be given at noon each day, excepting Saturday, and are for the benefit of the football candidates alone. These talks will be supplemented by workouts every afternoon. Football equipment for 150 men has been already distributed.

The six weeks training will conclude with the playing of two hypothetical games and a written quiz that will cover the lecture course. A certain grade must be attained in the exam to be eligible for the fall try-out.

During the course of his introductory talk, Rockne emphasized the qualities essential to a football man's success. The coach then briefly reviewed the schedule for next season with the difficulties of each game.

Captain-elect Adam Walsh concluded with a talk in which he asked that everyone give support and co-operation to make the spring training session a success.

TOLEDO CLUB PLANS FOR GLEE CLUB ENTERTAINMENT

Plans for the entertainment of the Notre Dame Glee Club during its stay in Toledo were discussed at a meeting of the Toledoians Sunday morning.

It is probable that a dance will be given immediately after the concert. The Glee Club will appear in Toledo some time during the Easter holidays.

Lenten Devotions to Begin Tomorrow

Lenten services will begin tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock with the celebration of high mass and the blessing of the ashes. Students will be excused from all classes preceding the 10 o'clock period.

Sermons will be delivered every Wednesday night during Lent. The first of these will be given on the evening of March 12.

The Stations of the Cross will be held in the chapels of the various halls every Friday evening.

HOW N. D. PLACED IN ILLINOIS RELAYS

Notre Dame men that placed in the Illinois Relay Carnival at Urbana Saturday: Cox, McTiernan, Barr and Kennedy composed the Irish quartet which won the university medley relay.

Barber placed second in the 1000-yard run.

Paul Harrington gained fourth place in the pole vault. He crossed the bar at the 12-foot mark.

CARNIVAL RULES ARE ANNOUNCED

All Plans Made for Affair on April 7; 23 Organizations Now Entered.

Final plans for the S. A. C. All-campus Carnival have been completed and a working set of rules have been drawn up; it was announced by William Greavy yesterday. The Carnival will be given on the night of April 7.

Twenty-three organizations have signified their intentions to take part in the carnival, and the application of every organization on the campus is expected to be handed in by Saturday.

The carnival will be given for students only and they alone will be permitted to attend.

The working plan for the carnival follows:

Name: "The S. A. C. All-campus Carnival."

Eligibility: (a) Every recognized organization on the campus shall be eligible to submit an act. (b) Every act submitted must be under the auspices of one particular organization. (c) All acts must be of local talent only.

Management: The management shall be vested in three appointed members of the S. A. C. and the presidents of the three upper classes.

Censorship: The chief officer of every organization submitting an act shall be responsible for that act.

Length of acts: A maximum period of eight minutes shall be allowed for each act.

Finance: An admission charge of 10 cents per man shall be charged to cover the necessary expenses such as erection of a stage, hauling of chairs, etc.

Sale of tickets: Shall be under the direction of the committee in charge and shall be carried on by the heads of the various organizations.

Concessions: Concession booths shall be maintained at various places within a designated area in the gymnasium at which "hot dogs," candy, peanuts, ice cream cones, coffee, etc., shall be distributed. Such booths shall be maintained. (Continued on Page 4.)

Championship Relays To Be Run Off Today

Today the championship race of the interhall relays will be run when the last Freshman Hall sextet meets Father Gassensmith's proteges. Neither team has been defeated and as the Sophomores hold the record of 1:36 3-5, they seem to be the logical favorites, but but Freshman claims to have made the race in 1:36 1-5. This time was unofficial, but indicates the merits of the yearling squad. Coach Rockne stated that he expects a new mark to be registered. The victorious team will be awarded the Bill Roach cup. The teams appear equally strong, and a great race can be anticipated.

Following is the schedule of races which will be run this afternoon:

Brownson vs. Cadillac.
Walsh vs. Corby.
Day vs. Badin.
Sorin vs. Carroll.

Monogram Club to Honor Football Men

The Monogram club will hold a banquet at the Oliver hotel at 6:30 this evening, in honor of the football men who earned their monograms during the past football season. Except that the football men will receive gold N. D. footballs similar to those awarded the grid men of 1922, no further information was available at press time.

THE NATION'S HONOR

An Indiana editor, in Washington to observe closely what is now recognized as the greatest investigation of corruptness that has been attempted in post-war history, makes this pointed comment: "There is much talk of party warfare—and very little of the nation's honor."

In so doing he hits at the very foundation of the Teapot Dome case. A political maneuver, designed to swing the presidential primaries and election. A typical example of American politics as they exist today.

But after all, is not this fear for the party quite connected with the welfare of the country? The politician fears for his party, the party fears the people, and the people have the nation's honor at heart. No party can long exist once its agents are found to be corrupt.

CHARACTER

There is an axiom which states that a man's character is a composite of the sum total of all his actions. It is a very fine phrase and because of this it has become cheap and is too frequently used in some of the near-philosophy that edges its way into parlor-stock talk. When it is brought into a conversation it brings forth an exclamation of "How true," or even, "Yep," and then it is forgotten—if it may be said to be forgotten, since it was never dwelt on in the first place.

But this undeniable truth that a man's character is the sum of his every act is not merely a nice-sounding collection of words. It has weight and meaning—enough weight and meaning to surely influence a man's whole life if he but kept it fresh in his mind. If a man realized more and more with each passing day, with each act, with every omission and every privation that the doing or not doing of what comes to his mind is moulding his very being he would become a stronger and better man.

If he could constantly liken himself to a painter who is painting a picture and keep in mind that every line, color, and shadow is responsible for the outcome of his work, he would do his utmost to make the work a success. The game of life is a picture and we must all paint it. There is no giving up, and the sooner a man realizes and keeps in mind that the future result is made up of the very real and present seconds, the more perfect will be the finished product.

A TRUE GENTLEMAN

The following sketch, called "The Portrait of a True Gentleman," was found in an old manor house in Gloucestershire, written and framed and hung over the mantelpiece of a tapestried sitting room: "The true gentleman is God's servant, the world's master and his own; virtue is his business, study his recreation, contentment his rest and happiness his reward. The saints are his brethren, and all that need him his friends. Devotion is his chaplain, chastity his chamberlain, sobriety his butler, temperance his cook, hospitality his housekeeper, Providence his steward, charity his treasurer, piety his mistress of the house, and discretion his porter to let in or out, as most fit. Thus is his whole family made up of virtues, and his is the true master of the house. He is necessitated to take the world on his way to Heaven, but he walks through it as fast as he can, and all his business, by the way, is to make himself and others happy. Take him in two words—a Man and a Christian."

Business men should realize that the workers cannot take an interest in the business unless one has been given to them.

Japan reports that Chinese competition is hurting her match industry. Can it be that in one thing the Japs have at last met their match?

Wonder why people now call it the police department instead of the "force"?

The Chicago Herald-Examiner suggests that everyone keep a diary. They stimulate interest in life—if you live that kind of life.

The principal difference between a forty year old man and a forty year old woman is about ten years.

Another difference between the men who went to war and those who stayed at home is that the latter have to pay income tax.

When a man is facing forward, hard knocks only add to his progress.

THE INK WELL

By DENNIS J. O'NEILL

The Gods of Tomorrow
 Shall the gods of today
 Be worshipped tomorrow;
 Shall the hopes of today
 Be swallowed in sorrow?
 Shall in the kingly halls
 New despots rule;
 And the sage of today
 Be tomorrow's fool?

—F. C. M.

Why do not the authors that would tell us of life place themselves in the Ox Eye room of the Versailles Palace and from its oval window watch,
 "The glory that was Greece
 And the grandeur that was Rome" traipse by in French costume?

—O—

Beneath this window, that gives the room its name, stood the multitude that was waiting for Louis XV to die. Its members were the ones that heard, if their ears were as acute as their curiosity, the new king, Louis XVI, and his girl-wife cry out, "Oh, God, guide us, protect us! We are too young to reign!"

—O—

Louis began his reign with many good intentions. The affairs of state were in a bad way, but through the excellent ministrations of wise counsellors, France was returning to a state where a revolution seemed but a remote possibility.

—O—

Then Marie became a faddist. Dressed as a shepherdess, she walked the terraces of Versailles, driving a flock of snowy sheep with silken ribbons around their necks. Or, as a dairymaid Marie would promenade the pastures.

—O—

This was the simple life, that kings and queens should live to show their subjects how simple they were. In a certain sense of the word Louis and Marie accomplished their object.

—O—

Marie in her musical comedy peasant costume awoke the youth in Louis. He showed he was less a king than a husband, and scorned his ministers to agree with his wife's fancy. He smoked up the marble facade of the palace with the fumes of a blacksmith's forge. While France was starving, Louis was idly forging chains.

—O—

Comparable to the crowd that watched the vain Louis XV breathe his last before a looking glass, are those, who saw the weary Victorian Age give way to its youthful inheritors. Except that the inheritors are more given to the looking glass, and there was no wail of, "God protect us We are too young to reign!"

—O—

Louis and Marie were as serious in their foolish pantomime as the new purple of the literary world, who would have us learn to live by following their artificial example, forgetting that all the world's a stage but all the men and women are not actors.

—O—

Like the most rabid of French revolutionists, we have cried for bread, but our Louises and Maries are telling us again to eat cake, not satisfying our hunger in any degree by furnishing the cake.

Rumor Says Rockne is Wanted by Iowa; 3,456th Offer Turned Down, Says Writer

Ever since the completion of Knute Rockne's first year of football coaching at Notre Dame, tempting offers have been made to him to leave his Alma Mater to coach other institutions. If a statistician had been employed for the purpose of keeping account of all the offers, the poor fellow would, by this time, be sorry he ever fooled with statistics. For now comes another rumor that the University of Iowa is seeking the services of Rockne. This is about the 3,456th university that has tried to pry away our coach, or our statistical ability is not up to snuff. It has come to pass that a university is not up-to-date unless it throws a tempting offer in front of our coach. From the Pacific coast to the Atlantic coast, as well as from the South and the North, bids have come to Rockne, in alluring fashion, but all said bids suffer the same fate. Just as sure as Bill Tell knocked the apple off his kid's skull this new offer from Iowa will perish.

It seems that just as long as mistakes are made, Rockne will receive offers and just as long as rain is wet he will turn them down—we hope.

What Others Say

Who Is Right?

Professor T. H. Reed of the University of Michigan, says that from college men comes the idealism of a community. William Allen White, in a recent editorial claims that college men are a "bunch of brass-lunged, money-spending snobs" who snub the few choice spirits that come to college to seek out reason and the will of God.

Controversy as to the status of the present day college youth has assumed nation-wide proportions and many widely known editors and educators are battling over the merits of the university-bred man.

Somebody's wrong. If the college student is a "brass-lunged, money-spending snob," Professor Reed's notion of idealism is rather queer. "The idealism of a community comes to a large extent from the college graduates who are members of that community," said Professor Reed. "This idealism is one of the greatest factors in making the college graduates leaders of the country, for the masses turn to the idealists for their leaders."—The Daily Maroon, University of Chicago.

Freedom in College

Freedom, more freedom, man has been striving to obtain through all the past centuries, and, according to the free public press, the modern novel, the wordy oratory, and the monthly magazine, is still the prominent feature of the times. Although there is no perfect free state, we have heard for years the cry of more freedom, equality, and democracy; the word, freedom, has had much polish rubbed off and it is not devoid of taint because of the handling, not so careful, which it has received.

gans of democracy, the cry of liberty of thought and expression. We often read in these absorbing magazines about the joys of non-restriction, the "emancipation of women," and "new hands on the government reins." Much of this is written solely for those people who stay at home. Finally we open our eyes, unless they have been already opened, to see that there is a lot of bunkum adroitly mixed in with the noble truth. This freedom is often present, but, at the same time, it is not infrequently used for base ends or not used at all. Others are to be found in an unhampered atmosphere, who know the true value of freedom and apply themselves unto wisdom accordingly, without the hindrance of overhead restriction.

Here at the University we enjoy an almost unprecedented amount and quality of freedom. As students, we have certain rules and courses prescribed, but we are free to steer our own course in most of the things that we do. Do we catch on every snag or is our sense of direction trustworthy? Most of the activities of the campus are entrusted to the students themselves, for their ill or good. In order to make these activities successful we must have a thorough knowledge of the machinery of government. We have this liberty and independence. What are we going to do with it? Freedom and liberty must not be taken to mean laziness and indolence; independence must not be translated as ignorance.—The Green and White, Ohio University.

AT THE THEATRES

Oliver: "The White Sister."
Palace: "The Fool's Awakening."
Orpheum: "Scaramouche."
LaSalle: "Man from Broadway."
Blackstone: "Shadows of Paris."

At the LaSalle

If you're a Constance Talmadge fan, you will see "In Search of a Sinner" and like it; if you're not, you won't. The picture is typically Talmadge, so to speak, and it contains an unusual assortment of comic situations wherein the vivacious heroine more than holds her own in supplying the humor. "In Search of a Sinner" puts Constance in the customary necessity of using violent means to get herself a sweetheart—which is foolish on the face of it. The man's man of a hero puts up a stubborn resistance for most of the play, but finally yields to the Talmadge personality plus and succumbs just in time to make the picture a very pleasant six-reeler.—E. C.

At The Palace

The show at the Palace this week is of the Yes-No type. If there were just one more good act we would say the bill was good, but right now it just does manage to keep its head above water. The performances in general were only mediocre, exception being made for Renee Roberts and the Giers-Dorfs, which was to the rest of the program what Babe Ruth is to the Yanks.

This Roberts act contains some very fine dancing, done to the accompaniment of an unusually good orchestra. The cornet and trombone solos were particularly well-applauded.

McCormick and Wallace are ventriloquists who can be the life of any party. Just ask them to come over and bring their dummies, and you can count on fifteen minutes of pretty good entertainment any time.

Take two teaspoonfuls of comedy; add an equal amount of mother love sentiment, and sprinkle generously with vaudeville sugar, and the result will be something pretty close to Alice Hamilton's act. There are a few wholesome chuckles and maybe a laugh or two in this one.

We knew there was going to be an act like Snow and Sigworth's on the bill, just because there always is one. A bit of a song, a bit of a dance and a story or two, and it's all over but the bowing. The act is fair or slightly better—very slightly.

Bill and Genevieve open the show with an act wherein there is much trick bicycle riding and some comedy. The cycle riding is clever.

There must be something to the moving picture principle that you can't build a happy life upon a lie. In "A Fool's Awakening," Enid

Bennett and Harrison Ford try their darndest and fail miserably, so how can man hope to win by it? The play is rather far-fetched, and, what's more serious, and it's pretty dull at times.—E. C.

Swimmers Prepare for Indiana Meet

Notre Dame's swimmers have entered into the final round of preparations for the big meet with Indiana Saturday night at the South Bend public natatorium. Daily practice will be held in the downtown pool for the entire team. Baskets for the water basketball game to follow the meet have been erected and final plans have been made for the first game of this sport to be held at Notre Dame.

The contest was transferred from the Notre Dame pool to the South Bend natatorium because of the better accommodations for handling the crowd. The South Bend pool is located on W. Washington street, and can be reached by either the West Washington or Circle Avenue car.

As the Bloomington tankmen are well known for their aquatic performances throughout the middle-west Goss' proteges will be pushed to their best. This will probably be the feature meet of the season's schedule and should provide the big chance of the year for Notre Dame to establish, to some extent at least, her prestige among swimming teams.

Announcement was recently made by the swimming instructor that special permission had been secured to admit all students on their regular athletic tickets. The price of admission for others will be 50 cents. According to present plans the contest will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

HARVARD UNIVERSITY—Harvard is being prayed for by Y. M. C. A.'s of other institutions. This, according to Reverend Edward C. Moore, professor of Christian Morals at Harvard, is amusing. "Harvard is not dominated by any Y. M. C. A. or other organization of that sort. . . . And we have no compulsory chapel," he said. In further speaking of the idea of compulsory chapel, he continued: "At Yale the turmoil during the service is terrible. For a popular preacher the best that can be expected is a general semi-quiet reading of newspapers. And that is because of compulsory chapel attendance. Here every man who attends chapel does so because he wants to."

The DAILY does not stand responsible for any opinions or facts printed in this department. No anonymous letters can be published; the writer's initials at least must be signed.

Editor, The DAILY:

The quaint observations and unique suggestions put forth Sunday by the real, honest-to-goodness, red-blooded, big-hearted he-man, G. K., who wants to DO AWAY WITH THE HOTELS because he fears that lobby lounges are corrupting the youth of the nation, were much more amusing than the intolerant wail broadcasted by the conscientious objector, G. F., in the Saturday issue. Both letters were, in the manner of puerile compositions, most diverting, but I think that G. K.'s missive was the more chucklingly radical. Its phraseology was typical of the two-fisted, bronze-visaged Bill Hart, man of the great open spaces.

G. K. must hail from Zion City. He calls the men who may sometimes be found in a hotel lobby cushion clowns and infers that those males who frequent smoking stands are oolong guzzlers and pastry sniffers. His power of deduction are truly uncanny. I wonder if he has ever noticed the football men who sometimes spend a few moments of leisure in the easy chairs of a down-town hostelry. If he had walked through the lobby of the LaSalle on a certain evening last week he would have seen four men of last year's eleven, two basketball men, a well-known University boxer, and two profs, occupying lounges.

F. G. bemoans the fact that he sees the lounge boys every afternoon, evening, and night at the Oliver and LaSalle. If this deplorable sight of chairs is so offensive to him, why doesn't he stay away from the hotels?

I am not addicted to the habit of lounging. I believe that it, like anything else, can be carried to excess. Occasionally, however, when Lounging about hotel lobbies is no more harmful than lounging about the campus recreation rooms. I suppose that the next time we hear from the Big Wind he will demand that we DO AWAY WITH THE CARROLL AND BROWNSON RECS.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY—Some fine additions were made to the Northwestern Dental School museum when Dr. William Bebb, curator, returned from Europe. Among the antiques which he brought back were a set of instruments claimed to have been used by the dentist who cared for the teeth of Jerome Bonaparte, younger brother of Napoleon I. A statue of Saint Apollonia, patron of dentistry, 200 years old and weighing 300 pounds, was also brought back. Dr. Bebb bought four dental libraries and also 200 old engravings representing dental operations in olden days.

What is your Verdict?

When you have tried Williams Shaving Cream your verdict will be as favorable as is your verdict about the new Hinge-Cap. The heavier, faster-working Williams lather, the fact that Williams lubricates the skin, the fine condition of your face after the shave, these qualities make men stick to Williams as faithfully as the Hinge-Cap sticks to the tube. As regards the Hinge-Cap, here is an offer we make:

$250 in Prizes

For the best sentence of ten words or less on the value of the Williams Hinge-Cap, we offer the following prizes: 1st prize $100; 2nd prize $50; two 3rd prizes, $25 each; two 4th prizes, $10 each; six 5th prizes, $5 each. Any undergraduate or graduate student is eligible. If two or more persons submit identical slogans deemed worthy of prizes, the full amount of the prize will be awarded to each. Contest closes at midnight March 14, 1924. Winners will be announced as soon thereafter as possible. Submit any number of slogans but write on one side of paper only, putting name, address, college and class at top of each sheet. Address letters to Contest Editor, The J. B. Williams Co., Glastonbury, Conn.

CADILLAC, CORBY AND CARROLL WIN

Sunday's Interhall Loop Games
Prove Fast; "Curley" Ash
Scores 14 Baskets.

Spectacular shooting and exceptionally fast handling of the ball featured the three interhall basketball games played in the gym Sunday. Carroll defeated Day, putting it two full games in the lead; Corby won from Sophomore, and Freshman was handed a defeat by Cadillac. The Walsh-Badin game and also the contest between Brownson and Sorin were postponed until later in the week.

The Carroll team defeated the Day shooters in one of the fastest interhall cage battles that has been played this season. Both teams had trouble finding the basket during the early part of the game, and it was not until Carroll sunk a few throws that the squads really got into action. Even then the majority of the shots were wild, due to the successful efforts of the guards who kept the forwards shooting from the middle of the floor. During the first period Carroll was able to register but seven points and Day five. With the score tied McNally dribbled the entire length of the court and sunk a pretty basket, putting Carroll ahead two points when the half ended.

The brilliant work of Herbert, Carroll guard, featured the second half. Playing on the defense he tossed in three field goals from the middle of the floor, each time putting Carroll ahead when its lead was in danger of being overcome by Day. Carney and Johannes played nice games for Day, although the work of Maxwell and Dahman, Carroll guards, prevented them from scoring heavily. The Day team was able to sink but two field goals in the entire game, ten of their points coming from free-throws. Kerwin of Carroll played his usual flashy game.

Day is protesting the game on the grounds of a misunderstood decision by the referee during the last minutes of play, in regard to Carney, a Day man, returning to the game. The question will be decided at the next meeting of the Athletic Board.

In a game marked by the sensational and accurate shooting of Ash, Corby forward, the Soph loopers were handed a 24 to 46 defeat by Corby. The first half was unusually close, first one team and then the other being ahead. Corby had a little the better of the contest the first half and the score at the end stood 16 to 14 in its favor. Edwards and Reid performed in nice syle for Sophomore.

At the start of the second half, "Curley" Ash started a bombardment at the basket and the final whistle found a total of 29 points chalked up to his credit. This is the highest individual record to be established this season, his score alone beating the Soph team by five points. Crowley added his share to the total with four field goals. The score of 46 points rung up by Corby also is a new record for the hall teams to shoot at.

Cadillac's team won its fourth game of the season when it carried off the heavy end of a 21 to 19 score from the Frosh tossers. Freshman had a little the better of the encounter during the first half, due to the efforts of Devault and Luakts, who both played scrappy games, and the score at the end of the frame was 7 to 6 for Freshman.

Cadillac came back strong in the last period, however, and displayed a brand of playing that was too much for Freshman to overcome. The scoring ability and team work of Conley, Thode and Gray were the outstanding features of the game. Conley registered a total of 13 points. Devault was high scorer of the game with eight baskets.

Ash Leads Hall
Basket Shooters

The interhall basketballers are playing fast games and running up high scores every Sunday. There is a close fight for the highest individual score, between Curly Ash, of Corby, and Butch DeVault, of Freshman. Ash is leading the scorers at present, and his 14 baskets in Sunday's game make his position rather secure. He is closely pressed by DeVault, who has reached the loop 30 times to date.

The other halls have their own candidates for the leadership. Among them are Stuhldreher, Sorin, and Connelly, Cadillac. Stuhldreher is known for his uncanny ability to find the basket from the center of the floor and his consistent work has greatly aided the Sorin five. Connelly is a fine player, and his point-getting is greatly appreciated by Cadillac.

Carroll, the leading team, has no outstanding star. Howard, Maxwell, and McNally contribute evenly to the point column and thus lessen the chances for a high point man. Rigali, Badin, Riley, Brownson, and Nyikos, Day, are the other leaders.

TRACKMEN READY FOR WISCONSIN

Dual Meet Here Saturday; Basketball Five Play Last Game Friday With Franklin.

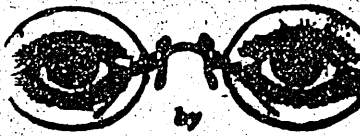

Coach Rockne's track proteges will begin work today for the Wisconsin dual meet, which will be run off next Saturday. The Badger team will invade Notre Dame flushed with a victory over Iowa, which resembles the Illinois-Notre Dame meet last winter, in that the Badgers copped the meet at the last minute when their relay team won over the Iowa quartet.

Notre Dame's relay team made a splendid showing in the Illinois relays last Saturday. The quartet, Barr, McTiernan, Cox and Kennedy raced home a winner in the college medley relay. Tom Barber took second place in the 1000-yard run, and Paul Harrington garnered a fourth place in the pole vault with a height of 12 feet.

The Notre Dame basketball team will don their uniforms for the last times this year when the Maymen get away Wednesday for a two-game trip to Wittenberg and Franklin colleges. The Irish will take on the Wittenberg college outfit on Thursday night as a preliminary to the big game with the Franklin "wonder team" on Friday night.

The "wonder five" met their first defeat in two years when Butler defeated the Baptists last week. The Franklin aggregation, however, will no doubt be able to put up their usually clever game and the Irish are going to have a busy evening ahead of them.
