

The Observer

VOL. XXI, NO. 42

FRIDAY-SATURDAY, OCTOBER 31-NOVEMBER 1, 1986

the independent student newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary's

Nicaraguan vice president to speak here

By MARK PANKOWSKI
News Editor

Accepting an invitation from a campus group, the vice president of Nicaragua has agreed to visit Notre Dame on Nov. 21 to discuss the relationship between his government and the Catholic Church.

Sergio Ramirez-Mercado is scheduled to give a presentation entitled "Church and State in Nicaragua" at 3 p.m. in the Annenberg Auditorium of the Snite Museum of Art.

He will be accompanied by Carlos Tunnermann, ambassador from Nicaragua to the United States.

The Graduate Association for Latin America, a group of eight Notre Dame graduate students, extended an invitation to Ramirez-Mercado on Sept. 25, according to Jurgen Brauer, the group's spokesperson.

Co-sponsoring the presentation is the South Bend Chapter of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Brauer said his group, whose goal is to promote community awareness of Latin American issues, asked Ramirez-Mercado to speak because of the "conflict between the Church and state in Nicaragua."

"It's a very pertinent issue -- the church and state issue in

see VP, page 6

Campus view

The Observer/Jim Carroll

Color provided by Anheuser-Busch, Inc.

The recently completed War Memorial, viewed just before its dedication from the Memorial Library, is one of several new additions under the Dome.

Waldheim denies he saw killings or was asked to work for Soviets

Associated Press

VIENNA, Austria- President Kurt Waldheim said on Thursday he did not fight Yugoslav partisans during a Nazi operation and denied he was approached after the war to work for Soviet intelligence, according to his spokesman.

Gerold Christian, Waldheim's spokesman, made the comments after new allegations appeared in the U.S. media about Waldheim's activity in World War II.

The Washington Post reported Thursday that Waldheim acknowledged after months of denial that he had played a role in the brutal Nazi "pacification" operation that cost thousands of lives in Yugoslavia.

It said in a 13-page memo sent to the Post in April that the former U.N. secretary-general had denied he was involved in the 1942 operation to remove all 80,000 residents, including 3,500 armed partisans, from Kozara, a mountainous region in Yugoslavia.

The newspaper Thursday quoted Christian as saying "additional research" revealed the president's earlier statement was incorrect.

But in a telephone conversation with The Associated Press on Thursday, Christian said the earlier statements by Waldheim that he was not involved in the Kozara operation "were not incorrect."

"The war record was, however, supplemented after files and documents were found" and the information was made available to U.S. authorities in August, Christian said.

Christian, who said Waldheim was in the Kozara area for a short period, quoted the president as saying he was not directly involved in fighting and did not witness mass killings.

Waldheim "never was present during combat action," Christian said. "He was unfit for the front and never had a rifle to shoot with. . . ."

"Waldheim never took part A secretary in Waldheim's office later telephoned the AP with an English-language statement, saying, "With regard to the Kozara (area), Dr. Waldheim's service was limited to the normal duties of a junior supply officer and did not involve any combat activity."

Waldheim's recent campaign for the presidency was marred by allegations he was involved in wartime atrocities against partisans and Jews in Yugoslavia and Greece.

In any way in actions against partisans or Jews," Christian said. The spokesman said Waldheim "never got into physical contact with partisans, because he performed a subordinated activity" as a supply officer.

Waldheim denied the charges and maintained he was the victim of a campaign to deny him the presidency. He won the June 8 election with nearly 54 percent of the vote.

Congresswoman says religion and politics do mix in government

By CINDY RAUCKHORST
Senior Staff Reporter

Louisiana Congresswoman Corrine Claiborne "Lindy" Boggs told a Notre Dame audience Thursday that religion and politics do mix, despite constant questions about the nature of their relationship.

"We Americans can breathe a sigh of relief that our system of government under our constitution . . . is strong enough and resilient enough to accommodate political and religious movements without visiting undue principles, practices and laws," she said at the Center for Continuing Education.

The 14-year House veteran said U.S. churches and religious organizations are important links in the political process because of the input they provide to government leaders.

"Many play that important role to the hilt," she said.

Boggs, a liberal democrat, said, however, that religious leaders must respect the written and unwritten limits of their political participation.

"As are most Americans, I am apprehensive about a preacher or a priest or a rabbi accompanying me into the voting booth, for example," she added.

"Religion and politics in modern America remain a complex and mixed pattern of conflict and accommodation," she said.

Boggs said she also is troubled when a politician's religious beliefs are called into question because of an arms control or social programs vote.

"Criticize them because of how they voted and because of their philosophies, but not because of how they believe in God," she explained.

Boggs became the first woman elected to Congress from Louisiana in March of 1972, after winning a special election called to fill a vacancy left by her husband, House Majority Leader Hale Boggs, who disappeared after an apparent plane crash in Alaska.

Hotly-debated issues such as school prayer and equal access proposals, public observance of religion and public aid to private schools challenge government officials most often today, Boggs said.

She said that although no church-state issue has excited greater public controversy

see RELIGION, page 4

'Pink slips' won't be sent home to some SMC parents

By PEGGY PROSSER
Staff Reporter

Mid-semester deficiency notices will no longer be sent to the parents of juniors and seniors at Saint Mary's, according to Teresa Marcy, the College's assistant to the vice-president.

The proposal to discontinue mailing the deficiency notices to parents of juniors and seniors was passed at a meeting of the Academic Standards Committee, of which Marcy is a member. The proposal was also passed by the Academic Affairs Council and was approved by College President William Hickey.

The notices, known to Saint Mary's students as "pink slips," are sent to students whose work at mid-term is lacking in some way.

"A deficiency is a warning that there is still time to improve," said Marcy.

Instructors will now be required to send deficiency notices to appropriate students, whereas some had previously chosen to not do so. This has created problems for students in the past, Marcy said.

"If a student thinks she's getting one and doesn't get it, she thinks she's doing better than she actually is. This is very misleading to the student," Marcy said.

If a professor still chooses not to send the notices home, he or she will not receive support from the College should a problem arise, Marcy added.

"If a professor doesn't send one, the administration won't support a professor if he or she is challenged for a grade," Marcy said.

The new policy is explained in detail in a letter that has been mailed out to students and their parents.

Under the new system, a student's parents will receive a copy of the deficiency notices only if the student is on academic probation, Marcy said. Otherwise, juniors and seniors are expected to have enough experience to evaluate their own performance, according to Marcy. It will be up to the student to share with her parents information about her academic status.

The letter states that any parent of a junior or senior who wishes to receive copies of deficiency notices must

see SMC, page 4

In Brief

William Shannon, professor of history and journalism at Boston University and former U.S. ambassador to Ireland, gave a lecture yesterday titled "Two Views of Irish Nationalism" to approximately fifty people in the Memorial Library auditorium lounge. Shannon spoke of the influence Irish-Americans had on the Irish quest for national identity during the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. The lecture was sponsored by Notre Dame's Charles and Margaret Hall Cushwa Center for the Study of American Catholicism as one of its annual Hibernian Series. -The Observer

Ten Notre Dame faculty members were recently installed in endowed academic chairs. The professors installed were: Charles Alcock, Frank Freimann, Visiting Professor of Materials Science and Engineering; Jorge Bustamante, Eugene and Helen Conley Professor of Sociology; Wladyslaw Fiszdon, Visiting Frank Freimann Professor of Aerospace and Mechanical Engineering; Jacek Furdyna, Aurora and Tom Marquez Professor of Information Theory and Computer Technology; John Gilligan, George Shuster University Professor and special assistant to the president for public policy; Father Richard McCormich, John O'Brien Professor of Christian Ethics; Philip Quinn, John O'Brien Professor of Philosophy; Robert Schuler, John Zahm, Professor of Radiation Chemistry; Father Robert Taft, Visiting John O'Brien Professor of Theology; Robert Vecchio, Franklin Schurz Professor of Management. The University has 95 endowed professorships established and 60 fully funded. -The Observer

The pursuit of parietal revision at this time was voted down at last night's joint meeting of the Saint Mary's Programming Board and Board of Governance. The boards voted 12-6 to keep the present system requiring men to leave their IDs at a parietal desk. The new policy would still require an escort in the hall, but it would not be necessary for men to leave an ID at a parietal desk. Judicial Commissioner Mary Fisher has started a student committee, independent of student government, to rally support for the new policy. -The Observer

Of Interest

"What's Right with the Catholic Church?," a one-day seminar, will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Carroll Auditorium in Saint Mary's Madeleva Hall. The event is sponsored by the College's Center for Spirituality. -The Observer

A Spanish Mass will be celebrated Sunday morning at 11 in the Farley Hall Chapel with Father Joseph English presiding. Refreshments will be provided after the liturgy, which is sponsored by the Center for Social Concerns. There will be a special collection for the victims of the El Salvadoran earthquake. -The Observer

Weather

As the Fighting Irish get set to battle Navy this weekend, the weather today looks to be favorable, with sunny skies and highs in the low to mid 60s. Tonight there will be increasing cloudiness with lows in the upper 40s. Tomorrow looks to be partly sunny and mild with a 40 percent chance of showers. -The Observer

The Observer

Design Editor Chris Bowler
Design Assistant Cathy Stacy
Typesetters Andy Fenoglio
Chris Reardon
Smed Laboe
News Editor Regis Coccia
Copy Editor Rachel Jarosh
Sports Copy Editor Oil Can Burns (L)
Viewpoint Copy Editor Calvin Schiraldi
Viewpoint Layout Julie Collinge
Kathleen Moran

Features Copy Editor ... Eric Bergamo
Ed Nolan
Features Layout Heather Hypes
Karen Webb
Typists Esther Ivory
ND Day Editor Noreen O'Connor
SMC Day Editor Karin Radar
Ad Design Mary Carol Creadon
Irish Extra Layout Kathleen McKernan
Photographer Paul Oeschger

Color in today's newspaper was provided through the generosity of Anheuser-Busch, Inc.

The Observer (USPS 599 2-4000) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $40 per year ($25 per semester) by writing The Observer, P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is a member of The Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

College students too grown up for eighth-grade dating scene

The following events are true. Some names and identities have been changed to protect the guilty.

While relaxing on the tropical island of Jamaica, my mind was quickly brought back to the reality of South Bend when I first entered the Junkanoo Lounge. Located in the beautiful six star Rose Hall Beach Hotel, in Montego Bay, Jamaica, was the lounge-- the Jamaican version of the Senior Bar. As I sat with some friends, sipping on the special Rum punch, listening to popular songs from the United States, I looked and realized the entire place was filled with Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students. After sitting at a table, watching people dance, one of my friends decided to get a drink. Right after she left, I felt a tap on the shoulder and a guy said, "Hey, what's your friend's name in the white jump suit?" I said, "The one with blond or brown hair?" "The blond," he said. I told him her name was Cindy. He said, "Tell her I say hi." Off he went and I thought, O.K. now I'm supposed to tell my friend that some guy with short brown hair says hi. When she returned I told her what he said. She was semi-flattered but more confused as to why he couldn't tell her himself.

About a half an hour later, as I was walking past the bar, the same guy approached me and said, "Hey, tell her my name is Dan." O.K. As I went back I told her and we thought, wait a minute, we're all seniors in college. This reminded me of eighth grade behavior. Then I thought about my 13 year old niece, an eighth grader, and how she dates. A friend of a friend will approach her and say, Dave wants to go out with you. If she tells that friend yes, then they are going out. No, they don't go anywhere, but they are an item. They may write notes, talk on the phone, or meet at the mall. When one of the two wishes to break up, they just tell a friend and it soon gets back to the other person. An eighth grader doesn't have the positive self-image necessary to take charge.

The next stage comes in high school, some people continue to go through friends in making sure the person they want to take out will say yes. But when the couple finally does get together, they are able to decide how serious they will become and when they will break up between each other. Here, people may have more self confidence but a positive self-image may be lacking.

My impression was that the next stage comes in college--at least by senior year. I would hope that if someone can make it through 4 years of college at Notre Dame or Saint Mary's, that they would be able to say hello to a member of the opposite sex. It's sad if they can't. I realize the same insecurities and fear can come up when

Margie Kersten

Saint Mary's Editor

Um...I was wondering...um...if..you'd..

a person has a crush on someone else. This is normal. People may want the security and protection of making sure before they take the chance of saying hello. This fear of rejection is harmful and lessens self-confidence.

According to Dr. Wayne Dyer, self-confidence begins with a positive attitude. By having positive self-expectations, for example, expecting to succeed, to be attractive and to be effective, self-confidence will be enhanced. He says self confidence comes from oneself, and not from other people. "All fear is internal," and he adds, people are not fearsome, one thinks fearful thoughts and then becomes afraid. Competition is not a confidence builder, because it must come from oneself and not by comparison.

The key to self confidence is action, Dyer says. He poses the question of, "How do you know that you can ride a bicycle? Because you've done it." The same is true for saying hello to a member of the opposite sex, asking someone to dance, or asking someone out on a date. By asserting oneself, saying hello when one may be feeling shy or insecure, the level of self confidence is improved.

It is only until people are willing to take this chance that they will know what a relationship means. A relationship can only build with love and trust and this means taking risks.

HENRY LEE SUMMER BAND

SAB presents...

TIME FOR BIG FUN
TIME FOR BIG FUN
TIME FOR BIG FUN
TIME FOR BIG FUN

Tix available at the Cellar

Stepan Center

October 31st

$2.00

9:00pm

The Game

Notre Dame vs. Navy

Time Saturday, November 1, 1986
7:15 p.m. EST

Series Notre Dame 49, Navy 9, one tie

Last Meeting November 2, 1985
Notre Dame 41, Navy 17

Rankings Both teams unranked

Tickets Game is sold out

The Schedule

Notre Dame (2-4)

L - MICHIGAN, 24-23
L - Michigan St., 20-15
W - PURDUE, 41-9
L - Alabama, 28-10
L - PITTSBURGH, 10-9
W - AIR FORCE, 31-3
Nov. 1 - at Navy
Nov. 8 - SMU
Nov. 15 - PENN STATE
Nov. 22 - at LSU
Nov. 29 - at USC

Navy (3-4)

W - VIRGINIA, 20-10
L - Indiana, 52-29
W - LEHIGH, 41-0
W - DARTMOUTH, 45-0
L - Air Force, 40-6
L - PENN, 30-26
L - Pittsburgh, 56-14
Nov. 1 - NOTRE DAME
Nov. 8 - at Syracuse
Nov. 15 - DELAWARE
Dec. 6 - ARMY

The Stadium

Memorial Stadium (60,194)

TV and Radio

TBS national broadcast
Mel Proctor, Paul Hornung
WNDU-TV (Ch. 16)
Jeff Jeffers, Jack Nolan

Notre Dame Mutual Radio Network
Tony Roberts and Tom Pagna
WNDU-AM 1500
WFVI-AM 640
Frank Mastro, Sean Pieri

Irish Extra

Navy

The Observer

Weekend Edition, Oct. 31-Nov. 1, 1986

Irish, Middies clash for 60th time

Longest consecutive rivalry marked with memories

By RICK RIETBROCK
Sports Writer

Bob Dylan's claim that the times are a changin' can be seen in the long history of Notre Dame-Navy contests. What was once a matchup between powers is now something less prestigious.

Notre Dame owns a 49-9-1 mark against Navy in the nation's longest continuous intersectional rivalry, and the Irish have also taken the last 22 games played.

But the simple numbers of the of the games do not accurately portray the significance of the series. They do not take into account such things as integrity and mutual respect.

These are the cornerstones of the matchup.

"Some people say that Notre Dame should quit playing Navy," says Navy Sports Information Director Thomas Bates. "A lot of people think we should stop playing Notre Dame, too. They wonder why we keep going to continually get beat up."

"The fact of the matter is that the relationship between the two schools is one of the healthiest around. By healthy, I mean that we both have clean programs, and we have mutual respect for each other, going all the way from the administrations to the coaches to the players."

Notre Dame Sports Information Director Roger Valdiserri echoes Bates' sentiments about the schools' mutual respect.

"These schools just have a great relationship," he says. "It's just a pleasure to play them each year because of the relationship we have."

The last time it wasn't much of a pleasure for the Irish was way back in 1963 when the Midshipmen trounced Notre Dame 35-14. Navy's quarterback was a fellow named Roger Staubach back then.

It's no coincidence that some of the most memorable games in the series, according to both

see SERIES, page 2

1943- The No. 1 Irish downed the No. 3 Midshipmen, 33-6.

Banks pulls his weight

Senior switches to aid Irish

By MIKE CHMIEL
Sports Writer

After establishing oneself at a position, making a change seems very unlikely and highly undesirable.

For Robert Banks, a change in jobs seemed very unlikely during his first three years at outside linebacker for the Irish.

In his first three seasons, Banks backed the line in every contest and is the only player on the current Notre Dame roster to have played in all 35 games between 1983 and 1985. In that period, he logged over 560 minutes of playing time and accounted for over 133 tackles.

While Notre Dame welcomed a new head coach this season, Notre Dame also graduated some outstanding talent on the defensive line last year, including a first-round draft choice for the New York Giants in Eric Dorsey. With only two experienced starters returning to anchor the defensive front, the Irish called on Banks to make a move to defensive tackle.

"He's adjusted very well," says Irish defensive line coach Joe Yonto. "He's doing a fine job. He's fulfilled our expectations - there's no question. It's a matter of him adjusting to a new position and doing well."

While Banks did well at outside linebacker and felt comfortable behind the line, he accepted the challenge on the line despite being at a size disadvantage.

"Going into the spring, we only had two defensive linemen in Wally Kleine and Mike Griffin, who was recovering from an injury," explains Banks. "I wouldn't want to go through my senior year saying I had a pretty good year playing outside linebacker while I didn't help the team, because we were hurting up in the line."

"It's gone pretty well," continues the 6-5, 246-pounder. "I have to really go out and work hard everyday - more than I had imagined playing in my senior year because outside linebacker was so comfortable. I have to do a lot of little things well

see BANKS, page 2

The Observer file photo

Robert Banks (56)- "I can only give it my best shot."

NAVY. NOTRE DAME

ONE DOLLAR

PHILADELPHIA NOVEMBER 3, 1962

1962- Behind Daryle Lamonica, Notre Dame upsets Navy and Roger Staubach, 20-12.

Cover courtesy Notre Dame Sports Information Dept.

Series

continued from page 1

Valdiserri and Athletic Director Emeritus Edward "Moose" Krause, took place in the early sixties when the versatile Staubach was running and throwing his way into the record books.

Notre Dame beat Staubach as a sophomore while holding him to only 65 yards of total offense. Daryl Lamonica stole the show with two one-yard touchdown plunges, and a 45-yard touchdown pass to guide the Irish to the 20-12 upset.

Staubach's Middies got their revenge the next season, however, 35-14. While Staubach threw for two touchdowns, fullback Pat Donnelly proved to be the real problem as he rushed for 127 yards in 14 carries and caught for 41 yards as well.

In 1964, John Huarte and the Irish whipped Staubach, who struggled with minor injuries, and the Midshipmen, 40-0. That rout marked the beginning of the current Notre Dame 22-game winning streak over Navy.

Some of the best games of the series took place in the 30s and the 40s. Both teams were powers and most of the games had major implications with the final rankings.

The best of the batch occurred from 1943-45. In 1943, the top-ranked Irish coached by Frank Leahy, pummeled the third-ranked Middies, 33-6. Notre Dame went on to win the National Championship, while Navy finished fourth.

In 1944, sixth-ranked Navy upset the Irish, who were second-ranked, by a 32-13 score. Navy finished fourth, while Notre Dame fell to ninth in the final polls.

Second-ranked Notre Dame and third-ranked Navy met in 1945, and fought to a 6-6 tie. The Irish went on to lose twice and fall to ninth in the rankings, while Navy finished second.

But no matter which game was most important, or which was the most exciting, each person has that certain game that sticks in his mind the most. Valdiserri and Bates are no exceptions.

"One of the most interesting games was in 1974, in Philadelphia, with Ara Parseghian coaching," Valdiserri says. "We were heavily favored, and it was a real dogfight. We came away with a 14-6 win. They played us very tough."

"That game is typical of the series, though. When one team is supposed to run all over the other, it's a close game. When it's supposed to be close, it isn't."

Bates recalls two memorable games in recent years that have turned Navy's bids for victory into showcases for the "what if" museum.

"Two years ago, we were ahead 17-7 with less than three minutes left," Bates says. "They came back to win on a Carney field goal, but three calls went against us that would have given us the victory had the referees made the calls. They had 12 men on the field once, they roughed the punter and the 25-second clock ran out on the winning field goal. Even the holder admitted it had run out."

The other could-have-been for Bates also ranks on Valdiserri's list. Bates describes Navy's heartbreaker like this.

"It was in Cleveland in 1976," he says. "We came into the game with a 1-6 record and, like this year, with a lot of injuries. Pitt had beaten us, 45-0, the week earlier. But Notre Dame

see CLOSE, page 3

Banks

continued from page 1

to stay ahead of my opponents.

Notre Dame proved to be an obvious choice for the Hampton, Va., native because of the strong football tradition and the challenge that Notre Dame provided.

"Football was a big priority," says Banks. "Notre Dame plays a lot of good people with a tough schedule."

"I got an offer to go to just about any school in the nation," says the prep all-American. "In the long run, for a black athlete to go to Notre Dame and come out is quite prestigious. The challenge carried a lot of weight."

As a freshman, Banks gradually worked his way into the starting line-up in the season finale against Air Force. In that contest, the young defender made his presence known with 10 tackles at weakside linebacker.

In his second and third seasons, Banks continued to improve with consistent strong outings. After former Irish linebacker Mike Larkin suffered a knee injury prior to the start of the 1984 campaign, Banks was able to capture a starting job at outside linebacker - a job that he maintained for 23 straight games.

As a sophomore, Banks was second on the squad in tackles with 65 including 21 solos. Last year, the former backer notched 50 stops including a sack and three drops for lost yardage.

This season, Banks began the campaign with an outstanding effort against the highly-touted Michigan Wolverines. Banks led the Irish in the season opener with 13 tackles including eight solos and one tackle for a six-yard loss.

In the first road game for the Irish, however, disaster found Banks. The new tackle pulled a hamstring against Michigan State. That pull sidelined him for the first time as a member of the Irish when Notre Dame entertained Purdue the following week.

"It was kind of weird to sit on the sidelines and look in," says Banks. "There were some points in the game when I wanted to go in, and it was kind of hard to look down the road and hope to get healthy. But I didn't want to hurt the team more than I could help it."

Banks believes that he is currently playing at about 85 percent. Despite the pulled hamstring, Banks did start the Alabama game in which he accounted for seven stops. While he missed the Pitt game, Banks did manage to come back against Air Force.

"He's been bothered by that hamstring injury," says Yonto. "It's one of those things that, when you get it, it stays with you the rest of the season. Unfortunately, that hamstring bothered him enough that he can't make some moves in there that he normally could. He's playing over it, however, with a great effort."

While his maneuverability has been hampered, Banks' speed remains his greatest commodity.

"I think I'm more effective now," says Banks. "I'm in a position that could cause problems for the offense. The strongest part of my game is playing the line against the run. I can utilize my quickness against opponents when they are 300 (pounds) or 280 and a lot slower."

Yonto agrees that Banks' speed is a definite plus on the line for the Irish. The defensive coach, however, believes that the tackle contributes in other ways as well.

Robert Banks

"He contributes quickness and he contributes help in shutting down the running game," says Yonto. "He also contributes hurries on the passer. His overall attitude has certainly helped the defense. His strongest points are his quickness and his desire to excel."

For the rest of the season, the senior believes that the Irish have come a long way and will have a good shot at winning their last five contests to end the campaign on a strong note. If the Irish are successful in this task, the two-time bowl game starter believes that the Irish will be heading south to another bowl this year.

"We've come a long way since our defeat to Miami last year," says Banks. "We have proven to ourselves that we can play with anyone in the country. If we would have eliminated some of the mistakes, we would have been in the win column much more."

"We can't look back. This team still has a lot of confidence and people are putting forth a good effort. We're going to look forward, try to win the rest of our games and end up with a 7-4 record."

Despite lack-luster records throughout his career at Notre Dame, Banks has been pleased with stay.

"I have no regrets," says Banks. "As a person, I have grown a lot in coming here, and I'll never regret it."

After this season, the psychology major hopes to pursue a professional football career. If the opportunity arises, Banks is likely to contribute a strong attitude in the pro ranks.

"I can only give it my best shot. You try to do everything you can to win, and that's the main thing- winning."

Haunting hijinks under the dome

KATHY MARTIN

Assistant features editor

The mad musician

It is midnight, April 22, 1921, and Notre Dame student Jim Clancy hears a peculiar noise from the locked band room in the basement of Washington Hall.

At the same time, Jody Shanahan is sneaking around Washington to climb into his Corby Hall back window after curfew and stops in his tracks to hear the same sound—a loud, clear note from the E-flat tuba. They both investigate, but there is no one to be seen. Clancy turns to Shanahan in front of the instrument cabinet.

"That horn was playing itself," says Clancy.

In the following months, student professors living in Washington Hall are awakened by the midnight tooting of a trumpet or coronet from the locked instrument closet. Some hear the noises as their roommates sleep, others refuse to believe. One sceptic, Harry Stevenson, walks down a flight of stairs one night to the second floor to get a drink at midnight, and there is a shrill trumpet blast right behind him. "Oh, God! My ears!" he yells.

And the legend of the ghost of Washington Hall is begun. Since the 1920s, this theater spook has become another Notre Dame tradition, surviving the decades through the believers who pass on their experiences in hushed whispers and the skeptics who laugh but still enjoy a good ghost story or two.

Flying rumors of origin

The most popular rumors relate that the ghost is George Gipp, Notre Dame's famed football great, who slept outside in the cold on the stairs of Washington Hall the night before he contracted the illness that killed him, or perhaps a steeplejack who fell to his death from the fly loft of Washington Hall in 1886, or even a Cavalry soldier killed by Indians on hallowed Indian burial grounds where the campus is today. But whoever the ghost may be, it has made Washington Hall its home, at least in the annals of Notre Dame history.

According to those who work or perform in Washington Hall now, there have been strange and unexplained occurrences, voices and figures who are not there, even in recent years that support stories of the past.

One rumor in the '20s came from Brother Cyprian, the band director, who had prophesied that when a certain Brother Cajetan, who was "the worst peck-horn player in the entire rocky history of the Notre Dame band," was dead and buried, his spirit would return to play the peck-horn.

Another rumor about the trumpeteer ghost sparked some controversy even in the 1970s. Charles Davis, '21, came forward in an article in the South Bend Tribune on Oct. 23, 1977, to claim responsibility for the midnight serenades. His bedroom wall was adjacent to the back of the instrument cabinet in the band room, and he said he drilled a hole in the wall, threaded a piece of hose with his trumpet mouthpiece stuck through it, pushed it into the big horns and blew.

However, Clarence Manion refuted Davis' claims in an interview with the Observer in 1979. He was a law student assigned a room in Washington Hall in 1919 with Harry Stevenson during the time students had even begun to spend the night in Washington to hear the horn. He said that Davis had lived in Sorin Hall and could not possibly have piped anything through the wall because the first thing Father O'Donnell, the provincial, did after reports of the trumpet blasts was to have the walls thoroughly examined, especially behind the instrument cabinet.

Pranks by the prankster In any case, other strange and unexplainable occurrences were reported at that time and have continued to the present.

Back in the '20s, the student professors who lived in Washington Hall reported doors slamming on windless nights, footsteps creaking up the stairs when no one was there, and toilets flushing all at once after the building was locked and residents were in bed. John Buckley, working on a philosophy paper early in the morning heard papers rattling under his door, flung it open with a baseball bat in one hand and a rosary in the other, only to find the hall deserted and quiet.

The strangest account of the ghost came from Pio Montenegro, who lived in the Science Hall. There were no indoor water fountains, so he went outside late at night for a drink. What he saw made his mouth even drier. On the south side of Washington Hall, mounting the outside steps to the second floor, he saw a ghost on a phantom horse.

Again in 1946 there were reports of locked doors opening to slam, footsteps on the roof, and even a sighting of a ghostly figure in a bowling hat.

Ghostbusters?

In 1968, four Notre Dame juniors, Dave Edmonds, Bob Spaulding, Jim Brogan, and Tim Berry, staged a farcical ghost hunt that started out as a prank with photo equipment, a white sheet, and a football helmet. They set up the photo equipment on stage and Brogan, as the ghost of Gipp, posed all over the auditorium. Strange things began to happen. The echo of Brogan's footsteps reverberated double, sounding exactly like a heartbeat. Two of the students went toward the back of the theater, while Brogan playfully flicked the lights off from the stage, but was unable to turn them on again. "The switch wouldn't hold in the On position, like there was some tremendous weight on it," Brogan said. So the group was separated in darkness. Suddenly, there was the sound of creaking footsteps in the auditorium and a flash of light. They raced out.

"Something does exist there. We all saw something in there," they said.

Footsteps and a figure Professor Fred Syburg of the communications theater department lived in Washington Hall as a student, and confirms reports of toilets flushing after the doors were locked, and footsteps creaking up the steps even as he stood at the top of the staircase.

"Well, the building is old, and it does creak a lot," Syburg explained. "But there was another strange thing. I would leave my keys hanging in the lock on the door, and all of a sudden they would start swinging by themselves, and then suddenly stop."

In the 1960s, a member of a student theater group, who became Father Garrick, former rector of Keenan Hall, was spending the night in what was, before the renovations, called the "black box," a room painted totally black inside. One night, he awoke with a feeling that there was someone else in the room with him. He opened his eyes and saw only moonlight shining through the big window. But when he shut his eyes again, he saw the outline of an image on the back of his eyelids of a figure about ten feet tall standing hunched over with his hands on his knees by the window.

Time travel is fun in 'Peggy Sue Got Married'

DON SEYMOUR
features writer

Perhaps the most remarkable thing about "Peggy Sue Got Married" is the resurrection of director Francis Coppola. After nearly a decade of flops ("One From the Heart," "The Outsiders" and "Rumble Fish"), he has emerged from a morass of personal problems with his finest film since "Apocalypse Now." That film was a masterpiece; "Peggy Sue" is not quite that good. You could say it's a mature "Back to the Future."

Movie review Peggy Sue Got Married

★★★ (out of four)

Peggy Sue Bordell, upset about her impending divorce, attends her 25th high school reunion. While being crowned queen of the reunion, she faints and finds herself transported back to her senior year of high school with her 43-year-old sensibility and experience intact. She's given the chance to relive her past and change what she did wrong.

As with "Back to the Future," the anachronisms involved in time travel are great fun. In Peggy Sue's case, most of this fun comes from the clash of a grown woman's consciousness in a teenager's body. Peggy Sue gets caught drinking after a tough day and she tells her teacher that algebra is worthless in future life. In one of the funniest scenes, she asks her boyfriend (and husband to be) to make love. He gets nervous and responds by checking his watch.

Unlike "Back to the Future," the fun takes a backseat to the character of Peggy Sue. She is, as she tells her friend Richard, a walking anachronism. The film's power lies in this woman's chance to evaluate the choices she's made in life and to remember what led her to make those choices.

The film seems to believe the past cannot be changed much. "I can't change anything. I can't help anybody," Peggy Sue says in exasperation near the end of the movie. What is even more interesting is that she finds out she doesn't want to change much. She does give the outcasts—the school brain and a beatnik poet—the chance she didn't give them as a teenager. But overall, to change her past would be to lose the future she's known and she's not willing to do that.

Some of the finest moments in this film occur when the adult Peggy Sue appreciates what she had taken for granted in the past. She hugs her baby sister just for walking into the room. When her mother tucks her into bed, she says, "Mom, I never remember you being this young." Then there's the magical scene with her grandparents, played by Maureen O'Sullivan and Leon Ames. Peggy Sue tells them how she has travelled in time and they believe her.

Kathleen Turner delivers a first rate performance as Peggy Sue, though she doesn't quite look 18. It's not an Academy Award-winning performance, but she'll probably be nominated. Nicholas Cage stands out more than Turner because his performance as her boyfriend/husband is convincing. He makes an unlikeable character interesting. Plus, his younger age allows him to pull off the age range more smoothly than Turner can. Finally, Barry Miller shines as Richard Norvik, the school brain turned successful businessman.

"Peggy Sue Got Married" is a relief after one of the worst movie summers ever. It's intelligent and mature—not a masterpiece, but a moving tale of a dream we all have: to relive the past.

"Peggy Sue Got Married" is now showing at the Scottsdale Mall Theater.

Peggy Sue (Kathleen Turner) is crowned Queen of the 25th reunion of her high school class in the movie "Peggy Sue Got Married."

Movies

The Student Activities Board will present Wes Craven's horror thriller "A Nightmare on Elm Street" tonight and tomorrow night in the Engineering Auditorium. Teenagers are having terrifying nightmares of a man named Freddy and they're not waking up from them. At least not alive. John Saxon and Heather Langekamp star. Showtimes are at 7, 9:15 and 11 p.m. with $1.50 admission.

The department of communication and theater will present "La Passante" tonight in the Annenberg Auditorium. The movie tells the story of an anti-fascist newspaper editor in Berlin in the 1930s who is put on trial for the murder of the Nazi responsible for his foster mother's death. Showtimes are 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. with $1.50 admission.

A guide to local movie theaters in the South Bend area.

University Park Mall on Grape and Cleveland Roads at 277-0441.

Fourm Cinema on US 31 at 277-1522.

Town and Country on 2340 North Hickory Road at 259-9090.

Scottsdale in the Scottsdale Mall at 291-4583.

River Park on 2929 Mishawaka Avenue at 288-8488.

100 Center Cinema in the 100 Center at 259-0414.

Art

Continuing at the Snite Museum is the "American Master Photographers" exhibit located in the Print, Drawing and Photography Gallery and the "Piranesi Prints from Indiana Collections," featuring the works of Giovanni Battista Piranesi, continue this weekend.

The Scoop

Closing this weekend at the Art Center on St. Joseph Street is the 1986 Fibre Artists exhibit "Made To Touch" in the Women's Art League Gallery. Also at the Art Center's Warner Gallery is the "910 Wayne Street Group Sculpture/Emerging Artist Award Exhibit." Admission to the exhibit is free.

Music

A University Artists Series recital featuring pianist Claude Cymerman will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Annenberg Auditorium. Cymerman will perform works by Mozart, Liszt, Bach and Schumann. The concert is free.

Andrew Lloyd Weber's musical "Evita," about the life and times of Eva Peron, will be shown at 8 p.m. Sunday at the O'Laughlin Auditorium at Saint Mary's. For ticket information call 284-4626.

The Midwest Pops Orchestra will present a Parlor/Park Concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the South Bend Century Center. The concert will feature "Casey at the Bat," "Liberty Bell March," "The Entertainer" from the movie "The Sting" and "A Foster Fantasy." For information and tickets call the Century Center Box Office at 284-9111.

Smithereens and Walk The West will perform tonight and The Virgin Prunes, a band from Dublin, Ireland who have gained increasing attention on college radio with their new album "The Moon Looked Down And Laughed," will perform tomorrow night at the Cabaret Metro at 3730 N. Clark Ave. in Chicago. The Dead Milkmen will have a 6:30 p.m. show Sunday at the Cabaret Metro.

Assorted

The British Invasion Tour starring Gerry and The Pacemakers, The Searchers, Freddie and The Dreamers, Chad and Jeremy and The Mindbenders will be featured tomorrow night at The Holiday Star Theater in Merrillville, Ind. Showtimes are at 7 and 10:30 p.m. Tickets for the show are $15.95 and available by calling (219) 769-6600.

Notre Dame's new undergraduate club, Theodore's, will hold its grand opening tonight at 8 p.m. on the second floor of LaFortune Student Center. A trip for two to the USC game will be drawn during the evening.

The Senior Class will be sponsoring a Day of Reflection from 12:30 to 6 p.m. tomorrow at Bulla Shed, across

Mass

The celebrants for Mass at Sacred Heart Church this weekend will be:

Father Robert Griffin at 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Father Michael Heppen at 9 a.m. on Sunday.

Father Daniel Jenky at 10:30 and 12:15 p.m.

The schedule for confessions in Sacred Heart Church is:

Monday through Saturday at 11:15 a.m.

Monday through Friday at 5 p.m.

Monday through Thursday at 7 p.m.

Saturday only 4-5 p.m. in the crypt.

Vespers will be held Sundays at 7:15 p.m. in the Lady Chapel.

The rosary is said daily at 6:45 p.m. at the Grotto.

Ayre Gross and C. Thomas Howell in a scene from "Soul Man," now playing at the Forum Theater in South Bend.

Ghost

continued from page 1

Theaters and ghosts

Some members of the theater group explained the image as a theater ghost, a "connoisseur of the theater" which would inhabit such buildings as Washington Hall because of the wide open spaces and the opportunity to observe productions, or perhaps as an accumulation of the excess energy an actor exudes to become the character he portrays on stage.

"Most good theaters are haunted," said Professor Neuert, who teaches a course in sceneography in the Notre Dame communications department. "It's the nature of the work involved. The origins of theater are in ancient, mystic religion, and the theater is a place where the human condition is experienced, where truths and ideas about existence are played out. It's a place where the human spirit is celebrated."

"There is a mood or a feeling in a theater that the building itself participates in a production, as if the space has an identity as more than bricks and mortar. There is a respect for the space itself, all the corners and nooks." He classified Washington Hall's architecture as part of the pre-Victorian era, full of mysterious nooks and crannies and uses of space. "You always think of haunted houses as being big Victorian or pre-Victorian mansions. Maybe the spirit world likes this kind of architecture."

If the ghost is gone, Notre Dame students haven't realized it yet. According to Professor Reginald Bain, chairman of the communications theater department at Notre Dame, there is a group that has held a seance in the building religiously every year on Halloween, even during the years of renovation. Students have also asked Washington Hall Manager Tom Barkes to spend the night in the building even in recent years.

Since the renovations, students and professors have had the eerie experience, even in daylight, of seeing someone in Washington Hall out of the corner of the eye, but there is no one there when they turn to look. "There have been a number of times when

I have been absolutely sure there is someone sitting in the empty auditorium, but when I go to speak to them, there's no one there," Syburg said. "I'm sure it can be explained in the pattern of what's there in the corner of your eye, but it really gives you a jolt when it happens."

Tales from the near side

Barkes also said he saw a long-haired girl wearing bell-bottoms standing in the stairwell one night as he was locking the theater. He turned around to tell her she would have to leave the building, but there was no one there. He explained that his mind could have possibly projected an imaginary person on the stairs where he is used to seeing students every day.

Lori Prawat-Wright, a Notre Dame graduate of 1986 who spent a lot of time in the renovated Washington Hall, added some recent ghost stories to the already legendary ones. According to Wright, in the 1984-85 school year, students John Sheehy and Liz Bottom were by the box office on the second floor late at night when it started to rain. They went to close the windows on either side of the box office, and Sheehy climbed out on the ledge to make faces at Bottom through the window she had just closed.

She was laughing, but all of a sudden Sheehy saw her whirl her head around to look behind her, then she threw open the window, terrified, to let him back inside. They ran out of the building, and Bottom told him she had heard someone standing right behind her whisper "GET OUT!" But neither she nor Sheehy, who had been facing her, saw anyone there.

Joe Musumeci was a friend of Wright's who lived in the "underground," the basement of Washington Hall. One night, he found an open Bible on his nightstand, which was gone a few minutes later when he left the room and came back. Neither Musumeci nor any of his friends even owned a Bible.

Ghost with a sense of security

The strangest story includes a ouiji board and a group of students who sneaked into Washington Hall last year close to midnight. They set up on stage, asked the ghost "Do you want to speak to us?" and the piece moved to "No" and "Goodbye." When they kept asking "Why?" the piece moved back and forth from the letter s to g to s to g. Finally, the piece flew out across "Goodbye," and they ran out.

What did s-g mean? As they ran toward the Huddle, a light came on in the basement of Washington, and two of the students went back to investigate. A security guard came out just as they reached the door, and they realized that s-g meant security guard. Was the ghost trying to warn them?

These unexplainable occurrences have become legends through the years and have even survived the renovation of Washington Hall. "No self-respecting 104-year-old theater should be without its ghost stories," said Barkes. "Theater is magic to begin with, so it is a natural place for stories."

The ghost stories will undoubtedly live on in Notre Dame history as a part of the mystery and the folklore of the place. But in the meantime, rumor has it that if you sit on the edge of center stage with the theater totally darkened, even without the Exit lights, and you look up in the balcony, you will see a shadow of a figure sitting in the center of the very last row....

COOLER THAN COOLERS BETTER THAN BEER

Lemon & Lager

A Premium Beer with Natural Lemon Flavor

As advertised in The Observer,
South Bend Tribune,
WAOR-95, SUNNY 101

A refreshing alternative! No bitter aftertaste!

Lemon Lager is now available at these fine establishments...

- | | | | |
|----------------------|----------------------------|---------------------------|--------------------|
| Bridget McGuire's | Prairie Liquors | Cut Rate Liquors | Lil' Caesar's |
| Kevin's | Mitchell's Indiana Club | Commons | Hank's Supermarket |
| Frank's Place | Eagles Super Saver | Thornburg Drug | Barg-N-Bag |
| Kings' Cellar | Miami Plaza Liquor Store | Harris Liquor Store | Last Stop Liquors |
| Casun's | Council Oak Liquors | Cira's Supermarket | Ranita Grill |
| Oscro Drugs | Bullseye Liquors | McKinley Terrace Market | Portage Liquors |
| Morin's Cafe | Pink Elephant Liquor Store | Lee's Liquors | T & C Liquors |
| Uncle's Irish Pub | 12th St. Liquors | Backstage! | Pizza King |
| 331 Inn | Party Package | Papa Joe's | The Package Store |
| Max's Liquors | Rodino-Parkmor Liquors | Mr. Al's Liquors | Walgreen's |
| Heinnie's | Ski's Place | Superette Food Market | City Wide Liquors |
| Sterling Ave Liquors | Corktowne Liquors | Pak'n Shop Stores | Giannetto's |
| The Liquor Station | The Pop Stop | Office Lounge | Hickory Hiram's |
| Pine's Liquors | Riverpark Liquors | Pizza Tyme | OC Liquors |
| Dale's Place | Chevron Cafe | Eagle Inn | Green Star Cafe |
| Ironwood Liquors | McKinley Pub | East Race Liquors | Chuck's Tavern |
| Stubby's | Y-Knot Shack | Gene and Mary's Alibi Inn | |

Theater superstition

KATHY MARTIN
Assistant features editor

"Break a leg!"

"Don't whistle on stage!"

"No humming or singing the lyrics to a show in the dressing room!"

The theater profession is one of real-life representation and the illusions of make-believe creation on stage. But there is more to the profession than what the audience views on opening night.

Among actors and dancers, directors and sceneographers, there are all sorts of superstitions and rituals that are played out on and off-stage to ensure a fine performance. These rituals have evolved into theater folklore, passed down through the years and the performances to more experienced actors, chorus members, and stagehands alike.

Everyone knows that it is bad luck to wish an actor good luck before a performance, but where did the superstition originate? Tom Barkes, manager of Washington Hall and a former dancer with the Ballet in Pittsburgh and Ohio, explained that "Break a leg!" was created to wish the actor or dancer something awful, because whatever is wished will never come to pass. "You never wish someone luck," Barkes said. "You don't need luck if you have talent, and that is how the expression came about."

The superstition that whistling on stage is bad luck is also taken quite seriously. Some actors stop in their tracks and turn around three times, then either swear or spit to ward off the evil spirits after someone whistles. According to Barkes, there is a good reason behind this superstition. "When theater first started in New York, the first stagehands were sailors brought from the ships who understood riggings and fly systems. There were no telephones or headsets, so they would cue people to raise and lower things by whistling," he said. "If you whistled on stage back then, you could get things dropped on you."

Professor Fred Syburg of Notre Dame's Communications/Theater Department commented that many individual actors have their own individual superstitions. "When a performance goes well," he said, "an actor tries to recall the sequence of things he did in preparation for his character to go on stage. Then he goes through the same routine and tries to recapture the magic. It can take on the quality of a kind of ritual and ultimately a superstition."

"But I don't think actors are more superstitious than anyone else," Syburg added. "A basketball player has his own routine of preparation every time, too. We all have our little crutches."

Professor Reginald Bain, chairman of Notre Dame's Communications and Theater department, is challenging a very serious superstition this Spring in directing a student performance of Shakespeare's "MacBeth." It is known as the "unlucky play," and it is bad luck even to mention the play in a theater. Many actors refer to it as "that play," and perform a ritual of going out the door, turning three times, and swearing after someone mentions the evil name in a theater.

Bain attributes the superstition to the "demonology of the play and the activity of the witches," though he said that "MacBeth" is probably one of the most produced of Shakespeare's plays. "I'm not particularly superstitious," he said. "I walk under ladders. I'm probably doomed," he smiled.

Theater folklore of old is still alive in the superstitions and rituals that are an integral part of the theater profession, religiously held by some and ignored by others. But will there be any whistling on stage as the production of "MacBeth" tempts fate this Spring?

Summer is coming to ND

Special to the Observer

The Henry Lee Summer Band, rooted in rhythm-and-blues and the Motown sound as well as Top 40 music, will perform on the Notre Dame campus tonight in Stepan Center. Summer has been targeted by many talent scouts as the next Midwest success story, following in the footsteps of John Cougar Mellencamp and earning a name and fame as Indianapolis' "ambassador of soul."

Summer, 27, is another small-town boy from Brazil, Ind. who attended college on a basketball scholarship, but left to play drums for a blues band in Mississippi. "I'm just a rural, Midwestern former basketball player who loves music," he said in an interview with The Indianapolis Star.

Summer usually plays about 15 originals a night in his concerts, as well as Top 40 favorites from Huey Lewis, Springsteen, Prince and Motown. He describes his own music as "danceable" and believes the band will do well in college towns like South Bend, Lafayette, Terre Haute and Bloomington.

The concert is sponsored by the Student Activities Board. Musical Entertainment Commissioner J. A. Lacy said that the Henry Lee Summer Band was chosen as a "great way to kick off the musical year" for the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community.

Henry Lee Summer

"It's a good band, a great show and really suited to the college environment," he commented. "His music is a cross of soul and rock-and-roll and he plays a lot of old songs like 'Twist and Shout."

Some of the best selections from Summer's two albums include "Got No Money," "When the Night Only Mattered," "Best Bad" and "Dance the Way You Want To." Tickets for the concert are on sale in The Cellar in the basement of LaFortune for $2.

McNaught Syndicate feature

Aries: (Mar. 21-April 19) A deadline is coming up. To avoid problems, put your Taurean penchant for meeting obligations right on the bulls.

Gemini: (May 21-June 20) After a period of reassessment, you get a clearer picture of how the relationship is going.

Cancer: (June 21-July 20) Fair weather friends flee when you need them most. But why should that surprise you? It's only your real friends who are happy to stay with you.

Leo: (July 21-August 22) A relationship needs all your warmth and attention. You may have to apologize for having said some thoughtless things you didn't realize were so painful.

Virgo: (August 23-September 22) A surprise comes through an unexpected source. Friends rally to lend further support. Your hard work merits continued recognition.

Libra: (September 23-October 22) It's easy to get a distorted view of what's happening around you. Don't rely on first impressions alone. Dig deeper.

Scorpio: (October 23-November 21) A friend claims not to recall all the details of an important matter. Don't waste time here. Go to other sources instead.

Sagittarius: (November 22-December 21) Be prepared for a major shift of priorities in your life. Something takes on an importance you hadn't expected earlier.

Capricorn: (December 22-January 19) The basic fabric of an important relationship may be ripped beyond repair if you don't rush to patch up the misunderstandings now.

Aquarius: (January 20-February 18) While you can prepare for what's coming up to the best of your ability, don't be surprised at a surprising turn of events.

Pisces: (February 19-March 20) A denial from someone you trust is more valuable than an offer to "tell all" from someone you hardly know. Advice: stick with your friend.

Before and after in this week's soap operas

McNaught Syndicate feature

All My Children: Stevie Wonder and Erica sang at Panache. Tad was upset when Skye said she couldn't handle a man who still loved his wife. After arguing with Cliff, Amy was hit by a car. Coming: Cliff agrees to operate on Amy.

Another World: Reginald moved back into the Love mansion and assumed the role as head of the family. Felicia saw Mitch holding Rachel in his arms, but managed to keep Mac from seeing the couple. Jamie convinced Brittany to move into the Cory mansion for her health. Cathleen learned that Mrs. Nixon died suddenly. Coming: Brittany is shocked by the identity of the car's driver.

As The World Turns: Sierra was concerned about Craig's strange reaction to Iva's confession. Margo was upset at Tom's inclination to follow Nancy's suggestion about running for District Attorney. Coming: Tonio drops a bombshell.

Capitol: Kelly thought about trying to change Trey's mind about their relationship. Myrna was afraid of what Millard might do next. Brenda and Dylan faced a new threat from DJ. Coming: Sloane learns a secret about All that forces her to reconsider her feelings for him.

Dallas: Miss Ellie was in for the shock of her life as her suspicions about Wes Parmelee seemed to be even more devastating than she imagined. J.R. was thwarted in his effort to stand off Cliff's new threats. Coming: Jenna makes a decision about her future.

Days of our Lives: Patch reassured Kayla that his life with Britta was very much in the past. Savannah offered to confess everything; Chriss offered to be her lawyer. Pete was paralyzed in an accident. Melissa left Lars and returned home to be with her husband. Coming: Marlena decides to risk another break for freedom.

Falcon Crest: Angela was upset at an unexpected change in her business plans. Kit continued to resist Peter's persistent probing of her past, but unwittingly gave him a clue he could work with. Maggie faced the possibility of her nightmares coming true. Coming: Angela ignores a serious warning.

General Hospital: Monica's hostile testimony in court destroyed Sean's case. Edward got Sean to return the family fortune. A fall may have caused Alan to suffer a real case of amnesia. Sandy learned Patrick led her on so he could be close to Buzz. Coming: Anna decides about Duke.

Guiding Light: Vanessa refuses to believe Jesse wasn't her child. Dorie was upset when Dinah continued to resist admitting they were sisters. Alan realized Tito could make good on his threat of vengeance. Coming: Alex confronts Alan and demands an explanation.

Knots Landing: Karen and Mack accused Greg of being implicated in her kidnapping. Jean Hackney, the woman from Ben's past, showed up. After one of the twins was nearly kidnapped, Ben was forced to give into Jean's demands. Phil made a fatal decision. Coming: Val is shocked at the change in Ben.

Loving: Jim reassured Shana regaining his memory wouldn't change things between them. Shana admitted she loved him. Jane assured Kelley her father would never reconcile with Lorna. Jud insisted that Jane, not Kelly, was behind Lorna and Zak's break-up. Coming: Curtis refuses to accept Lottie's explanation.

One Life To Live: Maria lied to Clint, fueling his fears that Vickie had turned into Nikki, and stole baby Jessica. Jon discovered Dimitri in Dorlan's apartment. At Asa's insistence, Tina tried to get Pam to admit she was having an affair with Pete. Coming: Allison and Maria face each other over the baby's fate.

Ryan's Hope: Max and Slobhan heard ghostly organ music. Della tried to rekindle the flame with Roger. Melinda and Dakota exchanged meaningful looks after Pat pressed her to marry him. Lizzie tried to make Frank believe John-O forced her to give him Owey. Coming: Maggie takes revenge on Della.

Santa Barbara: Gina was black-milled by Keith who wants to be reinstated as District Attorney and also wants part of the Capwell fortune. Ted wed Hayley to keep the authorities from calling him to testify against her in Amy's fire death. Curz found Martin slapping Tori and wrestled him to the ground. Coming: Eden misinterprets Cruz's renewed concern for Tori.

Search For Tomorrow: Bela admitted he loved Sunny. Wilma persuaded David to operate on Cagney. The operation was a success. Kate insisted to Quinn she never had an affair with Malcolm. She later sent a secret telegram to Malcolm in Ireland and then confronted the judge about taking money under false pretenses. Coming: The search for truth turns to Ireland.

The Young & The Restless: Paul worried that Lauren was about to get into another mess. Jill worried that Kay had turned Philip permanently against her. Kay worried that she wasn't winning Philip's unconditional loyalty soon enough. Coming: Victor refuses to accept Ashley's decision.

Help Prevent Birth Defects Support the March of Dimes
BIRTH DEFECTS FOUNDATION

The Fondue Parlor
ALL YOU CAN EAT:
Steak Dinner
Fondue Style
Tues.-Thurs.
100 Center Old
Brewery Building
Mishawaka
Reservations
255-1526
Tues.-Thurs. 5-9
Fri. & Sat. 5-10

DELICAFE
Join us for breakfast, lunch, and dinner...
Brat & Brew Special 100 Center Mishawaka
Mon-Fri 7-8
Saturday 8-9:30
Sunday 9-5

$3.25

Wygant Floral CO. Inc.

"Flowers for all occasions."

Come in and Browse

327 Lincolnway

232-3354

Belly Dance Surprise Service

"for a gift that is unique, send a bellygram to your shiek"

255-3355

see our ad in the campus yellow pages

SUNSHINE PROMOTIONS PRESENTS

EDDIE MONEY 4

Saturday, November 22 8:00pm
Morris Civic Auditorium

All seats reserved $13.00

Tickets available at the Century Center Box Office, Nightwinds, Just For The Record (Mishawaka), Super Sounds (Elkart). Charge by phone 219-284-9111.

Defensive end Robert Banks switched from his former position of outside linebacker to help boost the Irish defense.

The Observer/Jim Carroll

Close

continued from page 2

(ranked No. 11 at the time) barely beat us 27-21 when a defender (Joe Restic) tipped a pass away that would have given us the winning touchdown."

But no matter how many games have decided the National Championship, or how many have gone down to the final seconds, or even if neither team is close to being ranked, the Notre Dame-Navy series is a special one. Valdiserri and Krause admire the relentlessness that is so characteristic of the Midshipmen.

"They always play us tough," Valiserrri says. "They always battle down to the wire. They just never give up."

"They are always a great challenge," echoes Krause. "They don't quit and that's typical of the series."

"Back in the earlier days of the series, the Academies were traditional powers, and maybe they'll get back to that level, but the game is still special today. It's still a sellout in Baltimore. It's just a great series."

Bates says he believes the beginning of the series has a lot to do with the current relationship that the two schools enjoy.

"When the first game was played in Baltimore in 1927, there was no written contract," he says. "We just cemented the deal with a handshake, and the two teams played the first ten games with just the handshake agreement of how the profits would be split."

While the two football programs are not at the level they once were, the relationship remains intact. After that first handshake in Baltimore, Father Hesburgh and Father Joyce have served on the Naval Academy's Board of Visitors (similar to the Board of Trustees) and a long list of players have shared a mutual respect for their opponents. Bates thinks that is because they both realize that the guy is a student, not just a football player.

The relationship is very much alive today. If you go to an all-star game, Bates says that you will see Notre Dame and Navy players hanging out together regularly.

Sixty years of games definitely does something, but instead of showing how much the times change, as Dylan has suggested, the Notre Dame-Navy series has supported Alphonse Carr, who said, "The more things change, the more they stay the same."

Navy

continued from page 4

just look at the technique, the execution and the way they play. I'm going to tell you, (Navy's) a good, solid defensive football team. They did an excellent job of stopping Air Force's wishbone. They play the run very well."

The anchor of the Midshipmen's defense is linebacker Vince McBeth who has made 77 tackles (46 unassisted) and has returned an interception 57 yards for a touchdown. Linebacker Tom Doman has contributed 65 tackles and two interceptions.

Up front, the Midshipmen are led by middle guard Enoch Blazis and defensive tackle Troy Holland, each of whom have three sacks on the year.

Mark Firlie (56 tackles, two interceptions) and Greg Stefanon (34, one) lead the secondary.

As good as the Navy is against the run, Notre Dame may have to scrap the ground game that worked so well against Air Force. The Midshipmen allow 239.9 yards through the air, and last week Pitt's John Congemi strafed them for five scoring passes.

Offensively for the Irish, Anthony Johnson will get his second-straight start at tailback. The freshman has rushed for 181 yards and four scores this season. Johnson again could be joined by fellow freshman Braxton Banks (90 yards) at fullback. Senior fullback Pernel Taylor leads the Irish in rushing with 209 yards.

Mr. Versatility for the Irish, Tim Brown, is 11th in the country in all-purpose rushing. The junior flanker has 161 yards rushing to go with 347 yards in kickoff returns. As if that's not enough for Brown, he has 20 receptions for 362 more yards.

At quarterback, Steve Beuerlein needs 127 offensive yards to pass Joe Theismann and become Notre Dame's all-time leader in total offense. Beuerlein needs 13 offensive attempts to pass Allen Pinkett and become the leader in that category as well.

On the season, Beuerlein has 1,048 yards, four touchdowns and 5 interceptions on 76-of-133 passing.

It's important for the Irish to notch a win against Navy and keep up their momentum as they head into the toughest part of the toughest schedule in the country. Notre Dame's final four opponents (SMU, Penn State, LSU and USC) are all top-20 teams and have a combined 19-3 record.

A 23rd-straight victory over Navy would make that schedule a little easier to face.

Time Capsule

Notre Dame Nips Navy

late Irish rally preserves win streak

By MARTY STRASEN
Assistant Sports Editor

When Notre Dame met Navy in the East Rutherford, N.J., Meadowlands in 1984, the Midshipmen appeared to be sailing to an easy victory.

It would have been the first Navy triumph over the Irish since 1963 in one of college football's longest-running series, but in the final four minutes, John Carney, Steve Beuerlein and the Notre Dame offense decided it was time to sink the Naval Academy's ship.

Carney nailed a 44-yard field goal with 14 seconds remaining in the contest, finishing off an 11-point comeback which erased a 10-point Navy lead, and giving the Irish a thrilling 18-17 victory.

Following a first-quarter touchdown by Notre Dame's Allen Pinkett, the Middies came back to score 18 consecutive points to put the Irish in deep trouble late in the game.

A Notre Dame fumble in the second quarter led to a six-yard touchdown run by Navy fullback John Berner, tying the score at the half.

Navy seemed to be toying with the Irish in the third quarter, when it opened up a 14-7 lead with the help of some trickery. On a third-and-goal play from the 2-yard line, reserve quarterback Jim Lauletta lined up in the tailback slot and took a shotgun snap from center. He then tossed the ball to wide-open quarterback Bill Byrne for the score.

A Todd Solomon field goal with 4:02 left made it 17-7 Middies, and set the stage for the remarkable comeback.

Beuerlein, the sophomore quarterback, started things off, skipping an 83-yard touchdown drive that took only 1:45 off the clock. The signal-caller hooked up on five consecutive completions, three to freshman Tim Brown, and Pinkett finished things off with a one-yard run.

The junior Pinkett finished with 165 yards on the day, moving him into second place on Notre Dame's all-time rushing list and becoming the leader in 100-yard games for the Irish, with his 14th.

Beuerlein found flanker Joe Howard wide open for a two-point conversion to make the score 17-15, and a tough defensive series by Notre Dame stopped the Middies in three plays.

The decisive drive began on the Irish 18-yard line following a Navy punt and a Notre Dame personal foul, but Beuerlein and the Irish troops worked the clock well in the final minute and moved down to the Navy 26.

And just when the Midshipmen thought they had broken the draught with a long-awaited win over a Notre Dame football team, Carney promptly kicked a hole in the Navy battleship.

The Game

VS.

By DENNIS CORRIGAN
Sports Editor

BALTIMORE - If you're a midshipman at the Naval Academy, you have to ask yourself 'How long, how long?' when it comes to the subject of Notre Dame. The two prestigious institutions have played each other every year for the past 60, and it hasn't been much of a contest.

The Irish own a 49-9-1 advantage over the Midshipmen, with the Middies last victory coming in 1963 when a man named Staubach led his squad to a 35-14 win. Since then, the Irish have won 22 straight, the longest win streak vs. an opponent in their history.

Notre Dame looks to continue the streak when it travels to Baltimore tomorrow. As is standard, Navy will host the game at a stadium other than Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium in Annapolis. Navy discovered the drawing power of Notre Dame way back in 1927 when the two schools first played in Baltimore. Other games have been played in Cleveland, Philadelphia and Giants Stadium in New Jersey. A sell-out crowd of 60,194 is expected at Memorial Stadium, twice the number that fills Navy's own field.

The 3-4 Midshipmen have been on both sides of lopsided scores this season, racking up wins of 41-0 over Lehigh and 45-0 over Dartmouth. On the other hand, Navy has lost 40-6 to Air Force, 52-29 to Indiana and last week Pitt rolled to a 52-14 over the Middies.

Notre Dame (2-4) has lost its share of heartbreakers, but its two victories have come easily. Still Irish head coach Lou Holtz isn't taking the Midshipmen lightly.

"Any time you play an academy," says Holtz "You better take your chin straps, pads and everything else because they do play well. I have a lot of respect for Navy, particularly when you watch them on film. They are a very veteran football team."

Navy's offense vs.
Notre Dame's defense

What do you do when your team loses college football's all-time all-purpose yardage leader? If you're Navy head coach Gary Tranquill, you simply find a back that's almost as good. While Chuck Smith might never require the Navy to bend its rules to allow him to play in the NFL, he is currently the fourth-leading ground gainer in the nation with an average of 125.2 yards a game. Smith is also ranked third in all-purpose running with an average of 182.7 yards per contest. All told, the 5-10, 196-pound junior has gained 877 yards rushing while scoring 10 touchdowns.

"Smith possesses three things that all good running backs really have," Holtz says of the Navy tailback. "No.1, he

ued. "He runs with good body lean. He's always going forward. He has the ability to change directions and good balance."

Besides having a good offensive line, Navy uses variable sets and formations to disguise the way Smith will get the ball, making him all the more dangerous to Holtz.

"They utilize him in an awful lot of different manners. They change sets, and they change formations. You can never really zero in on him. You never know has very good eyes. He can see the whole line of scrimmage. He's apt to run off guard and then bend it all the way back behind the defensive end if everybody doesn't keep in a relative position. He may start up at one place and end anywhere. There's a great correlation between being a great runner and having great peripheral vision.

Navy Tailback Chuck Smith

Photo courtesy Navy Sports Information Dept.

"The second thing he has is very, very good quickness. From a standing start to a full speed he's probably as quick as anybody we will play against.

"The third thing he has is awful good balance and body lean," Holtz continexactly what they are really going to do."

But there is some good news for the Irish as far as Smith is concerned. Last week against Pittsburgh he pulled a hamstring and is currently listed as questionable for tomorrow's game. If Smith can't play, his replacement will be Paul Parker who has rushed for 116 yards on 19 carries.

Navy will be going with Bob Misch at quarterback instead of Bill Byrne. Tranquill has been concerned with Byrne's tendency to throw interceptions in pressure situations and has decided the time has come for a change.

Misch, a senior, has completed 11 of his 35 attempts for 124 yards, one touchdown and four interceptions this season.

Byrne, the brother of Irish special teamer and back-up quarterback Tom Byrne, is the holder of 12 Naval Academy passing records, but this season he's thrown 10 interceptions to go with seven touchdowns and 1,109 yards while hitting 89-of-170 attempts.

As if Smith wasn't enough of a threat on the ground, he's also Navy's leading receiver with 24 catches for 267 yards and two scores. Tight end John Sniffen has caught 17 for 189 yards. Split end Troy Saunders is a deep threat with 14 receptions for 227 yards and three touchdowns.

When the Irish defense takes the field it will try to keep several streaks alive. The Irish have allowed no scores in three quarters, no touchdowns in five quarters, no touchdown passes in nine quarters and one rushing score in the last 13 periods.

The Irish are allowing 119 yards on the ground to the opposition. If the Irish can shut down Navy the way they did Air Force (holding the Falcons to just 186 yards rushing), it could be a long and frustrating day for the Midshipmen. The Middies, however, piled up 388 yards against Pitt, a team which gave the Irish fits three weeks ago.

Mike Kovaleski continues to lead Irish tacklers with 53, and Wally Kleine has 45, including six for losses totaling 11 yards. George Streeter should get the starting nod again at strong safety after making eight tackles (three for losses) and forcing a fumble against Air Force.

Navy's defense vs.
Notre Dame's offense

On one hand, the Midshipmen are giving up a lot of points. But all those points obscure the fact that in reality, Navy's defense is pretty solid, especially against the run where the Middies only allow 120 yards per game which ranks them 30th in the nation.

"I don't look at the number of points given up by a defense," Holtz said. "I

see NAVY, page 3

Each week, the Observer sports staff, a random student picked by the sports editor and some well-known figure in the Notre Dame community predict the outcome of the week's major college football games. Records are compiled as to how each person does against the spread. In other words, it isn't enough to pick the winner of a given game. The person must pick the winner and give the underdog points. Home team is in CAPS.

PEERLESS PROGNOSTICATORS

Marty Burns
Asst. Sports Editor
46-37-1
.554
(last week: 10-4-0)

Andrea LaFreniere
SMC Sports Editor
41-42-1
.494
(last week: 9-5-0)

Mike Szymanski
Sports Writer
41-42-1
.494
(last week: 6-8-0)

Marty Strasen
Asst. Sports Editor
40-43-1
.482
(last week: 10-4-0)

Dennis Corrigan
Sports Editor
33-50-1
.398
(last week: 6-8-0)

Mike Bobinski
Guest Celebrity
38-35-1
.458
(last week: 9-5-0)

Steve Gallo
Random Student
37-46-1
.446
(last week: 9-6-0)

N.C. STATE over S. Carolina by 3
Penn State over W. VIRGINIA by 19.5
ARKANSAS over Rice by 27
IOWA over Ohio State by 3.5
Alabama over MISSISSIPPI ST. by 14
NEBRASKA over Kansas St. by 39.5
Oklahoma over KANSAS by 41
Texas A&M over SO. METHODIST by 4
MIAMI (FLA.) over Florida St. by 13
Ucla over OREGON STATE by 18
LSU over Mississippi by 12
ARIZONA over Southern Cal by 5
ARIZONA ST. over Washington by 1.5
Notre Dame over NAVY by 20.5

Gamecocks
Mountaineers
Razorbacks
Hawkeyes
Crimson Tide
Wildcats
Jayhawks
Mustangs
Seminoles
Bruins
Rebels
Trojans
Sun Devils
Midshipmen

Wolfpack
Nittany Lions
Razorbacks
Hawkeyes
Crimson Tide
Wildcats
Jayhawks
Aggies
Hurricanes
Beavers
Tigers
Wildcats
Huskies
Irish

Wolfpack
Nittany Lions
Razorbacks
Hawkeyes
Crimson Tide
Wildcats
Jayhawks
Mustangs
Hurricanes
Beavers
Tigers
Wildcats
Sun Devils
Irish

Wolfpack
Mountaineers
Razorbacks
Buckeyes
Crimson Tide
Cornhuskers
Jayhawks
Mustangs
Hurricanes
Beavers
Rebels
Wildcats
Huskies
Irish

Wolfpack
Mountaineers
Owls Hawkeyes Bulldogs
Wildcats
Jayhawks
Mustangs
Seminoles
Bruins
Rebels
Wildcats
Sun Devils
Irish

Wolfpack
Mountaineers
Razorbacks
Hawkeyes
Bulldogs
Cornhuskers
Jayhawks
Aggies
Hurricanes
Beavers
Tigers
Trojans
Sun Devils
Irish

Wolfpack
Mountaineers
Razorbacks
Buckeyes
Crimson Tide
Wildcats
Jayhawks
Aggies
Hurricanes
Bruins
Rebels
Trojans
Huskies
Irish

The Observer/Paul Oeschger

No place like home

Freshman Scott Sullivan sits at his desk in the study lounge on the third floor of Flanner Hall. The study lounges serve as temporary housing to many freshmen awaiting placement in conventional dorm rooms. See story below.

45 freshmen still in study lounges

By JULIE PALAMARO
Staff Reporter

Study lounges in Grace, Flanner, and Sorin Halls are still home to 45 freshmen.

Evelyn Reinebold, director of student residences, said she has no definite idea when the freshmen will be placed in other quarters. She added that the majority of them will have "real" rooms by second semester. At the beginning of the year, there were more than 80 freshmen living in study lounges Reinebold said. Many of them have been moved to various dorms, including Alumni, Fisher and Zahm.

Scott Sullivan, who lives in a study lounge in Flanner Hall said, "It's a big room -- good for parties." Yet living in a study lounge does have drawbacks. "It's isolated from the other rooms. We don't have a section. We have to walk through the lobby for everything, even to go take a shower."

Paul Hart, who also resides in a study lounge in Flanner Hall, said, "The room itself finally feels like home, but living in a study lounge forces you to miss a lot of dorm life."

Greg Delaune, who lives in a study lounge in Grace Hall, said his biggest worry is having to leave Grace. He wants to stay in Grace but the chances of that are slim. According to Reinebold, where and with whom the freshmen would like to live is taken into consideration during the relocation process. The housing office cannot guarantee that these requests will be fulfilled because rooms open up randomly.

Reinebold said she has not had any conflicts with parents of students who are subjected to study lounge life. She said, "People have been very cooperative. And the freshmen have been very good about the whole thing."

In order to prevent this housing problem from occurring again, it has been suggested that a lottery should be held to move upperclassmen off campus. Freshmen are guaranteed housing but upperclassmen are not. Yet the University rarely, if ever, forces students off campus in order to make room for incoming freshmen.

In January, the 45 freshmen who presently reside in study lounges should be in "real" rooms, according to Reinebold.

SMC students to film memories for yearbook

By DIANE SCHROEDER
Staff Reporter

Special moments throughout the 1986-87 school year are being preserved with the help of one video camera and three entrepreneurs at Saint Mary's College.

Senior Michelle Coleman came up with the idea for a video yearbook over the summer.

"I wanted to provide something for our class to look back on, to laugh and remember the good times," said Coleman.

Together with seniors Lori Lohman and Karyn Ruesch, Coleman founded the Special Moments Collection corporation. Their objective is to produce at least 100 two-hour video taped yearbooks.

The video will be comprised of a wide variety of senior activities from both the Saint Mary's and Notre Dame campuses. Beginning with Senior Disorientation week, the video will also include interviews with College President William Hickey and University President Father Theodore Hesburgh. A fourth generation Saint Mary's student and a third generation Notre Dame student are also scheduled to be interviewed.

The tape will feature most home football games, the senior trip to Jamaica as well as events which may occur off-campus. Lohman said there may also be an open forum segment consisting of student leaders from Saint Mary's and Notre Dame discussing this year's senior class.

"We'd like to cover some off campus parties, evenings at Senior Bar, and other events," Lohman added. "Let us know when something is happening and we'll cover it!"

Some students may have already noticed the video crew roaming the campuses for interesting shots. Others may not even be aware of what the corporation is doing.

"We're trying to let everyone know what we're up to," said Ruesch. "Since we don't know every senior, our biggest task will be to get a fair representation of the class."

The corporation is sending out letters to all hall presidents to inform their sections of their project. Letters are also being sent home to all seniors and their parents to let them know that videos will be on sale during graduation weekend for $47.50 each.

"Our goal is to reach 75 percent of the class and include them in the video," said Ruesch. "We use a class list to keep track of how many people have been included along the way."

Coleman, Lohman and Ruesch are handling most of the project themselves, from the business aspect to the actual taping. They will, however, hire someone to do the final editing, which will be partially put to music.

"By March we should have 5-6 hours of video to work with," said Coleman. "It will be tough to cut it all down into a two-hour tape."

According to the group, they have already covered a wide variety of events.

"But we do need more funny things," added Ruesch. "We've already got so many 'hi Mom's' that we may do a 'hi Mom!' segment!"

Special Moments Collection has the support of both administrations and both Offices of Student Activities. Before the corporation began production, they had to first submit a written proposal explaining their objectives. The project was approved by both schools but they are an independent corporation and receive no financial aid from the schools.

"The faculties and staffs of Saint Mary's and Notre Dame have both been very supportive," said Lohman. "They have shown a lot of interest and are willing to help us out in other ways."

Coleman and her partners can earn three business credits after giving a formal presentation of their project.

The corporation hopes to do better than breaking even after sales of the video in May. Each member put up $100 capital to cover immediate expenses. Although they intend to produce only 100 video tapes, Coleman expects the demand to be much greater.

Gorbachev plans first visit to Latin American countries

Associated Press

WASHINGTON—Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev is planning to visit Latin America, apparently in an attempt to penetrate peacefully an area where the United States has long been the dominant influence, administration officials say.

The Soviet Communist Party General Secretary plans to visit Cuba, Moscow's closest ally in the hemisphere, and also is expected to become the first Soviet leader ever to travel to Mexico, Argentina and Brazil, the officials said. The trip, tentatively set for next spring, may include other South American countries as well.

Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze visited Mexico City three weeks ago and laid the groundwork for the Soviet-Mexican summit, according to the officials, who insisted on anonymity.

Some officials described the prospective visit to Mexico as a normal development in relations between the two countries. They said Mexico has long been interested in expanding its diplomatic horizons and that three previous Mexican presidents have visited Moscow.

The officials added that Shevardnadze and his Mexican hosts seemed intent on not saying anything that could be construed as hostile to the United States.

Other officials, however, said they were concerned that the Shevardnadze talks and the prospective visit by Gorbachev raises the possibility of an expanded "Soviet foothold" in this hemisphere.

A long-term Soviet goal in Mexico is the opening of consular offices in northern Mexico, which would enable the Soviets to widen their intelligence-gathering capabilities in the southern United States, the officials said.

CompuServe Has Heard About Notre Dame Students...

...And We Want To Talk To You.

CompuServe looks for people like you.
Ambitious. Competent. Conscientious.
And we know Notre Dame is a good place to find them.
So we're coming to campus just to talk to you.

CompuServe Reception
Thursday, November 6
7:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.
Notre Dame Room, Morris Inn

CompuServe provides business information services to over half of the FORTUNE 500 through branch offices nationwide. We seek Marketing Trainees to carry MBA, CAPP, Business and MIS degrees to our summer training program on information service products, strategic marketing and sales methods.

Visit our CompuServe associates at Morris Inn next Thursday, contact your career placement office for more information, or send us a resume.

CompuServe®

5000 Arlington Centre Blvd.
P.O. Box 20212
Columbus, OH 43220

Religion

continued from page 1

than school prayer, future government policy on that issue still is difficult to predict.

"If the state may neither advance nor inhibit religion, as the Supreme Court argued in 1963, no clear policy is likely to emerge," she said.

In 1962 and 1963, the Supreme Court ruled that state-sponsored religious practices such as daily Bible readings were unconstitutional in public schools because they violated the premise that government should hold a neutral position.

Abortion stands out as the public issue most directly identified with the Catholic Church, Boggs said.

She cited the Hyde Amendment, which forbids the use of Medicaid payments for abortion, as the most successful anti-abortion legislation to date.

"Surely, the churches and the religious organizations as well as the scientific community members have the obligation to draw moral parameters around the use of these scientific and technological marvels," she said.

Boggs said she is one of the many political officials who "seek to preserve and enhance a religious component in public life generally."

For example, she said Congress opens its daily sessions with prayers, and the marshal of the Supreme Court ritually cries out for God to save "this honorable Court."

The representative said she watches the role of political 'religious rightists' with interest. "I have no problem with their involvement," she said.

"And I have no problem with the modern television evangelists," she added. "In an ecumenical outreach in today's pluralistic society, we must admit that their ministries have important roles to play."

She said she does become concerned, however, when influential religious leaders become too closely involved in the political outlooks of their followers.

"I do become concerned when religious leaders begin telling their congregations that political leaders are morally beyond the pale because of their beliefs or," she added, "begin instructing their flock on how God wants them to vote for one candidate or another."

The Notre Dame theology department sponsored Boggs' lecture as part of its continuing series on religion and politics.

Cadets: Racial incident not representative of Citadel

Associated Press

CHARLESTON, S.C.- Like a scene from "The Lords of Discipline," five white Citadel cadets dressed in sheets and towels entered the room of a black cadet, shouted obscenities and left a burned paper cross behind.

While last week's incident sent shock waves through the storied campus, both black and white cadets agree the hazing doesn't reflect the racial atmosphere at the state military college.

"I don't think there are any tensions," said Craig Burgess, a 21-year-old senior from Lake City, S.C., and one of 126 blacks in the college's 1,960-member corps of cadets.

"A lot of the corps is hostile to the press because they think everything is being overdrawn," he said.

SMC

continued from page 1

put their request in writing. The letter also states that any freshman or sophomore who is financially independent may request, also in writing, that deficiency notices not be sent to her parents.

Parents and students received the same letter but the one sent home to the parents had a detachable response sheet for parent reaction.

Marcy said it is still too early to tell how parents will respond but expects most parents will not want to receive the notices.

Originally, the new policy was to include sophomores, juniors and seniors. Marcy said sophomores tend to have unrealistic expectations about their majors and may need the warning that a deficiency notice serves. The policy will be re-evaluated after a few years, to assess any problems.

So far, Marcy said, there has been no student response to the letter.

AP Photo

Agents remembered

Attorney General Edwin Meese, center, pauses with FBI Director William Webster, right, and former FBI Agent Stephen Sziarto, during a Special Agent Memorial Service in Washington on Wednesday.

HUNDREDS OF CASSETTES and ALBUMS

ONLY $3.88 EACH

THE HAMMES NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE

PAC & SHIP
Balloon Bouquets from $5 and up delivery available

Emery, Pony & UPS Shipping
Dry Cleaners
Stamps & Photo Process.
277-7748
109 Dixie Way North

Sobering Advice can save a life

INTERESTED IN RESERVING OR PERFORMING IN THEODORE'S CONTACT

Martine Beamon 283-2922
Reservations Manager

or
Tom Utter 283-4245
Programming Director

COME TAKE A LOOK

MON-TUES

OPEN BY GROUP RESERVATION ONLY

WED-THURS

8:00 pm - 1:00 am

FRI-SAT

8:00 pm - 3:00 am

SUN

12:00 noon - 6:00 pm

283-CLUB

FINALLY ...

a little diversion under the dome!

THEODORE'S

"the entertainment experience ..."

GRAND OPENING

TONIGHT, OCT 31

2nd floor lafortune

8:00 P.M. - 3:00 A.M.

listen to your favorite dj or band grab a bite to eat

door prizes free albums t-shirts and more ...

catch your favorite movie or to show care to dance?

Grand Prize: Trip for 2 to USC!

All expenses on us! drawing at 1:00 A.M.
(must be present to win)

Theodore's welcomes our sponsors: Coca Cola and Musicland of University Park Mall

Former RASTA members make plans despite ND ban

By CLIFF STEVENS
Senior Staff Reporter

Despite the Office of Student Affairs' rejection of RASTA's appeal for reinstatement, former members refuse to accept the decision as the end of their group or its plans for this year, according to Sean Evers, former co-leader of the group.

Although the office's rejection letter indicated an appeal could be submitted for the 1987-88 academic year, Evers said former members would immediately formulate and carry out plans to keep the group's goals alive this year.

"It will be something decided this week and put into effect this week," said Evers. "They haven't heard the last of us yet, that's all I'll say."

Evers said he would try to speak with Father David Tyson, vice president for student affairs, to present the case for the group's reinstatement in person, their appeal by letter having been unsuccessful.

Rally Against Starvation (RASTA) was banned by the University for the presence of alcohol and drug use at an event held by the group last year.

Evers said the lack of an opportunity for former members to meet with Tyson had led to the "completely unjust" decision.

"If I only had the chance to meet with the man, he could explain what he means in the letter," said Evers, referring to Tyson's charges that RASTA also regularly failed to comply with Student Activities rules on organizational and fiscal matters- charges that Evers said were unfounded.

Evers said several attempts to talk to Tyson ended with Tyson's secretary explaining he would not be free for a couple of weeks.

Tyson's secretary said he was in meetings and unavailable for comment Thursday. She said Tyson was busy preparing for the Board of Trustees meeting to be held Nov. 14.

Former group members will continue spreading the message that people are starving in Africa, said Evers.

"Maybe we won't have the luxury of Notre Dame facilities," he said, "but we'll do what we can to keep the message alive."

The Observer/Paul Oeschger

All ears

Visiting lecturer William Shannon speaks to an attentive audience in the Memorial Library.

Hasenfus to respond to Nicaraguan conspiracy charges

Associated Press

MANAGUA, Nicaragua- A spokeswoman for the revolutionary tribunal trying Eugene Hasenfus said Thursday that the captured American would appear before the court to respond to the terrorism and conspiracy charges against him.

Spokeswoman Thelma Salinas said Hasenfus also would have a chance to examine the evidence against him when he appears in court today.

The decision was announced a few hours after Attorney General Rodrigo Reyes asked that Hasenfus be brought before the tribunal, "the sooner the better." Hasenfus previously appeared before the court on Oct. 20, when the charges against him were read.

Hasenfus, 45, of Marinette, Wis., was a crewman on a plane shot down Oct. 5 over southern Nicaragua. He was captured the next day and faces 30 years in prison if convicted. Hasenfus has said the C-123 cargo plane was carrying small arms and ammunition to the U.S.- backed Contra rebels.

Salinas said Jose Fernando

Canales, the soldier who brought down the aircraft with a missile, will testify before the tribunal on Saturday. Next week it will hear from military and Interior Ministry officials, and on Tuesday will view a recording of an American television news program in which Hasenfus was interviewed.

VP

continued from page 1

Nicaragua," he said. "It's a critical issue."

Brauer said he wasn't sure why Ramirez-Mercado was scheduled to be in the United States in November. He added, however, "It's my impression that (Nicaraguan officials) are putting together a tour," for the vice president.

Tentative plans call for Ramirez-Mercado to lecture for about 45 minutes before answering questions from the audience, Brauer said.

The ambassador to the United States is not scheduled to speak, he said.

Brauer said the Nicaraguan officials are slated to arrive Nov. 21 and leave the next day.

The campus group is not paying the Nicaraguan vice president to speak, and his lecture is open to the public free of charge, said Brauer.

He said the group sponsored the lecture in "an attempt to further communication about Church and state relations within Nicaragua."

Brauer said the conflict between the two institutions is evidenced by the government's expulsion of Bishop Pablo Antonio Vega in July and its refusal to allow Monsignor Bismarck Carballo to return to the country in June.

In addition, Brauer said, "The pope was in Nicaragua and he was not very well treated."

"There's also a couple of priests who are Nicaraguan officials," he said. "They've had their own problems."

Coupon

Oh Honey, it tastes so Good.

YOGI'S YOGURT

Chocolate, vanilla, strawberry plus a special flavor each day

25¢ off Any medium cone or dish

St. Rd. 23, NE corner of Ironwood (Across from Martin's) Expires 11-7-86

JUST AEROBICS

Special College Rates

Tanning Bed 10 for $30

Town & Country Shopping Center (Next to Goldblatts) Call 259-1465

Happy Holidays

Annual Christmas Book Sale

Art Books
Cookbooks
Ireland
Classics

Children's History Travel
Science Fiction

Hammes Bookstore

Free Gift Wrapping

2nd Floor Book Dept.

Happy Holidays

Congress's power at crossroad: professor

By CHRIS BEDNARSKI
Assistant News Editor

With the United States moving into a post-industrial era, congressional power is at a crossroads in history at which its power may increase or decrease, according to Lawrence Dodd, professor of political science at the University of Colorado.

Dodd, the Director of the Center for the Study of America Politics at the University of Colorado, spoke in the Hayes-Healy Center on Thursday. His lecture, entitled "Congress and the Post-Industrial Transformation" was part of the Exxon Distinguished Visiting Scholar Series.

Dodd said that during the 1960s and 1970s, the country went through a "revolution" in which high technology replaced traditional manufacturing industries, creating a post-industrial society.

Dodd, who has published two books about government, said in the past such revolutions in society have affected the career patterns of congressmen.

"What we see in the past is that great periods of social upheaval that are also connected with great economic and agenda shifts in society have tended to produce new kinds of calculations on the part of ambitious politicians giving rise to new kinds of career patterns," Dodd said.

He said these career patterns affect the institutions of government.

Dodd said he sees two possibilities for the future of Congress. "There is a dark side and a light side to all these projections," he said.

On the dark side, Dodd said policy restraints will become more severe as natural resources diminish, the United States moves from a manufacturing to a service economy and foreign competition in high-technology areas increases.

In this high-tech society, Dodd said, politicians would have a better chance of reelection.

"Ambitious politicians will continue to stay in Congress and a high-tech society will reinforce their ability because incumbents will have an increasing number of high-tech related resources," such as mass case work activity for constituents, mass mailing lists and mass transportation.

He added that this will decrease the turnover in Congress, which will make power in Congress more fragmented, thereby immobilizing the ability of Congress to act.

On the "light side," Dodd said high technology, because of the increased role of the mass media, will make elections more competitive. This would mean most congressmen will occupy office for fewer years and therefore not be able to gain as much power, he said.

According to Dodd, the few congressmen who are able to remain in office for many years power and therefore make congress a powerful and effective body.

Dodd said he sees the changes taking place today as part of a historical process of political change that has occurred in the United States and other countries.

AP Photo

A rare breed

President Ronald Reagan holds up a "Jackalope" presented to him during a campaign appearance in South Dakota while Sen. James Abdnor looks on. The Jackalope, South Dakotan legend holds, is a cross between an antelope and a jackrabbit.

Vatican condemns pro-gay views

Associated Press

VATICAN CITY. The Vatican instructed bishops Thursday to stamp out pro-homosexual views within the Roman Catholic church and oppose any attempt to condone homosexuality through legislation or other means.

In a letter to the bishops approved by Pope John Paul II, it accused pro-homosexual groups of "deceitful propaganda" and trying to gain a foothold in the church, which has 810 million followers.

"Increasing numbers of people, even within the church, are bringing enormous pressure to bear on the church to accept the homosexual condition as though it were not dis-ordered and to condone homosexual activity," it said.

The Vatican told the bishops and priests not to support organizations that "seek to undermine the teaching of the church (on homosexuality), which are ambiguous about it, or which neglect it entirely."

The 15-page letter was dated Oct. 1 and made public Thursday. It was drawn up by the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, the watchdog of doctrinal deviation headed by West German-born Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger.

He said the letter was being sent because the controversy about homosexuality "even in Catholic circles" has become a matter of "sufficiently grave and widespread importance."

An Italian homosexual rights group named Fuori (Outside) issued a statement calling the church document "just a futile attempt to force discrimination by those who, perhaps because of love based on true faith, have discovered tolerance."

In its instructions, Ratzinger's agency reiterated the Vatican position that homosexual acts are sins. "An overly benign interpretation" has been given to the homosexual condition, which "must be seen as an objective disorder," it asserted.

Prelates in some countries, including the United States, have struggled with government authorities over homosexual rights.

Capsule tamperer sentenced to 27 years

Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla. - A man was sentenced Thursday to 27 years in prison for putting rat poison in over-the-counter drugs to make money in the stock options market.

Edward Marks had pleaded guilty Aug. 26 to putting the poison in Contac, Dietac and Teldrin medications produced by SmithKline Beckman of Philadelphia.

He admitted to anonymously calling police and news organizations to tell them of the tampering, with the intention of making the price of the company's stock plunge.

"Through your utter disregard you have had a tremendous impact on consumer confidence in medicines," said U.S. district Judge Patricia Fawcett. "You and you alone are responsible for your actions."

She said the scheme had cost SmithKline $41 million, with only $25 million of that paid by the company's insurers.

Because of the size of the amount, however, she did not ask for restitution, assessing him instead only the mandatory $450 for court costs.

Marks, who faced a maximum 54 years in prison, had asked Fawcett for mercy and was "very disappointed" by the sentence, said his court-appointed attorney, Jay Stevens.

"We were hoping for a sentence that was much less," said Stevens, who had recommended five to eight years. He said because of the guilty plea it would be very difficult to appeal the sentence.

IN CONCERT!

belkin productions
Presents

MONKEES
A DAVID FISHER PRODUCTION, INC., NYC

WITH SPECIAL GUEST STARS

Gary Puckett & The Union Gap
HERMAN'S HERMITS
The Grass Roots

NOVEMBER 11, 7:30 P.M.
NOTRE DAME ACC
Reserved Tickets: $14.00

Ticket sale for Notre Dame & St. Mary's Students will take place this Monday 9:00 AM at the ticket windows located at gate 3 of the A.C.C. (Fieldhouse Dome). Limit of four(4) tickets per student VALID STUDENT I.D.
REQUIRED. No line may form before 6:00 AM.
(Ticket sale for the public will take place at gate 10 of the A.C.C. - Arena Dome)

JEREMIAH SWEENEY'S

Daily and Nightly Specials with free munchies

Monday thru Friday
4:00-7:00 pm

Monday thru Saturday 10:00 pm - Close

Phone 277-6368
6402 Grape Road
Across from University
Park Mall on Grape Road

Join our "Around the World with 80 Beers" Club

Viewpoint

Friday-Saturday, October 31-November 1, 1986, - page 8

Considering fundamentalism requires open mind

In recent years, fundamentalist religions have been experiencing a resurgence in America. Stressing family values, patriotism and anti-communism, preachers continuously

Tony Lang

guest column

grace our televisions and newspapers. If you have ever watched cable television, you have undoubtedly seen the likes of Jerry Falwell or Jimmy Swagart bemoaning the fate of mankind. But lately these self-acclaimed spokesmen of God have left the TV screen and entered into the arenas of education and politics.

In the past week, a Tennessee judge ruled that a group of parents opposed to the readings of the local public school had the right to educate their children at home, rather than expose them to differing viewpoints. Various readings were designated as offensive; "Macbeth" for its references to the occult, "The Wizard of Oz" for its portrayal of positive witchcraft, scientific readings on evolution, and "The Diary of Anne Frank" for its portrayal of all religions as equal. The fundamentalist tide has also swept into politics under the guise of presidential hopeful Pat Robertson. He has referred to himself as God's chosen candidate and he has supposedly communicated with Him on various issues. Robertson's campaign has caused splits in both the Republican party and the various fundamentalist sects.

Along with much of the nation, I first reacted to these developments with disbelief and outrage. Academic freedom and separation of church and state are two of the pillars upon which this country stands. However common sense and a little rational thought soon prevailed. At a university such as Notre Dame, I am constantly exposed to different viewpoints, and not a single one of them is the absolute. Whether it be politics, religion, philosophy, or education, it is my duty to investigate every different ideology. The fundamentalist concept is just another one of these ideologies. If I were to heatedly condemn it, I would be sinking to their level of closed-mindedness. The problem arises in that this is not just a political viewpoint to these people, but their belief in God. If someone were to start criticizing my Catholic beliefs, I might react with just as much vehemence as the fundamentalists are now.

Therefore in criticizing these groups, I am in fact criticizing their very reason for life on earth. When approaching religion, one must tread very lightly. Emotion should not enter into religious arguments, and it is important to listen to the other side and argue against their points rationally. The fundamentalist movement may be strong now, but it will pass soon enough. Another religion will come and replace it, over which there will be numerous controversies. Even our Catholic faith may fade away someday. But no matter what the religion, one must keep an open mind in discussing it and remember this is a person's faith that is being attacked.

Tony Lang is in the Freshman Year of Studies.

P.O.Box Q

SDI can't stand in way of reduction proposals

Dear Editor:

For a moment, the world blinked in disbelief. On the negotiating table, in Reykjavik, Iceland, was an unprecedented Soviet proposal designed for bilateral nuclear disarmament. After considerable exchange between President Reagan and General Secretary Gorbachev, our president rejected this proposal on the grounds that his Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI) was not negotiable.

One has to wonder if building SDI is more important to the administration than meaningful arms control. Never had both sides considered such sweeping reductions as those proposed. All Soviet and U.S. missiles would be removed from Europe. The number of Soviet and U.S. strategic missiles would be cut by 50 percent. At the same time medium range missiles based in the U.S. and Soviet Asia would be cut to 100 per side, and phased out completely by 1996. The Soviets have proposed this at a time when they have not tested any nuclear weapons for over 14 months. The only obstacle in the way was and still is an untested and unproven program which extends the arms race into space.

President Reagan claims the scientific community supports SDI. This is true only if we exclude the thousands of science and engineering faculty who have pledged not to participate in any

Star Wars research. In fact, their pledge states that Star Wars is "ill-conceived, dangerous and will only serve to escalate the nuclear arms race."

If we should continue to research and develop SDI for deployment within the next 10 years, the only possible Soviet response is to find an even better way to combat the proposed defense system. One simple response would be to build up their offensive arsenal to even greater numbers so that even a highly accurate defense system would still not be able to prevent the destruction of the United States. Further, SDI is designed solely to defend against land based intercontinental ballistic missiles. It would not provide defense against Soviet submarine launched missiles, bomber planes, or SS-20 missiles. This unacceptable approach to our defense and security would cost U.S. taxpayers up to $1 trillion over the next 10 years.

Two months ago, the House passed genuine arms control measures to curb the Reagan Administration's furious and dangerous military buildup. In preparation for the summit, the president demanded that the House concede on all of these arms control measures. Late last week the House acceded to his demand. Why? Because our president wanted to enter the superpower negotiations with Congress united behind him. With his hands no longer tied by Congress, President Reagan still came home empty-handed.

The Soviet proposal for bilateral nuclear disarmament still stands. We can not in good conscience let SDI stand in the way of deep arms reductions. We must demand that President Reagan go back to the negotiating table this year and accept their offer.

*Anne M. Wilkas
The Great Peace March
Alumna, Class of 1986*

Rambo mentality letter must have been a farce

Dear Editor:

Intelligent satire is often taken literally or otherwise misunderstood, and so I am concerned that some may have thought that Dean Waddick's recent Observer letter (Oct.29) was serious and on the level. If so, they will have arrived at the conclusion--definitely facile and erroneous--that the Dean is some sort of Rambo, who really means to slur pacifists and war resisters as simple cowards. Of course, this can hardly be the case, and it should be clear to the perceptive and sensitive reader that Dean Waddick really intended to write a parody of the Rambo mentality.

Anyone who doubts this need only look again, with an eye for pathos, at Dean Waddick's brilliant and provocative, but obviously farcical, comparison of ROTC with the Peace Corps and the Holy Cross Associates. He might indeed have gone even further in this amusing vein, and spoken of our "napalm aid" to Southeast Asia, or of our assistance to the citizens of Dresden in the area of "population control"; but, at a time when President Reagan refers to supermissiles as peacekeepers and Father Hesburgh supports South African investment as the Christian thing to do, perhaps it is well enough to leave the device of ironic euphemism to the accomplished masters.

Equally worthy of praise was Dean Waddick's reference to praying in front of the Clarke Memorial, in preference to doing so before a memorial to cowards. This was a masterful touch and a very effective spoof of the phenomenon of American civil religion; indeed, this one comment could be regarded as an adequate summary of the research of Richey, Bellah and others. Again, one might have expected the remark to be rounded out a bit, with the customary references to pansies and quiche-eaters or with some sort of lament about the demise of John Wayne. But then, these would have been the obvious remarks to attribute to those whom Dean Waddick wishes to imitate and lampoon, and understatement is more thought-provoking in the long run.

To sum up, it seems that in Dean Waddick we have another Swift or Horace, and I am sure I speak for many others in lauding his penetrating wit.

Charles R. Hohenstein Graduate Student

Doonesbury

Garry Trudeau

Campus quote

Depreciation deduction on income tax return: "Us senior citizens treat that like our sexuality. You either use it or lose it."

*Ray M. Powell
Professor of Accountancy
October 8, 1986*

The Observer

P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 239-5303

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editorial Board. Commentaries, letters and the Inside Column present the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

General Board

Editor-in-Chief..... Joe Murphy
Managing Editor..... Kevin Becker
Viewpoint Editor..... Scott Bearby
Sports Editor..... Dennis Corrigan
Accent Editor..... Mary Jacoby
Saint Mary's Editor..... Margie Kersten
News Editor..... Tripp Baltz
News Editor..... Mark Pankowski

Business Manager..... Eric Scheuermann
Controller..... Alex VonderHaar
Production Manager..... Chris Bowler
Photography Manager..... James Carroll
Advertising Manager..... Anne M. Culligan
Systems Manager..... Shawn Sexton
Graphic Arts Manager..... Mark Weimholt
OCN Manager..... Francis X. Malone

Founded November 3, 1966

... And things that go bump in the night

"Ghost: the outward and visible sign of an inward fear," according to the definition by Ambrose Bierce in The Devil's Dictionary.

"Ghosts were created when the first man woke in the night," can cause, WW II broke out. Every week at the movies, we saw the news reels of the bombs falling on Europe, and we were warned that it could happen here.

One of the four freedoms the fulfilled, and now, according to the Bible, we are in the final days preceding Armageddon. Secular newspapers, like The New York Times, have articles speculating that John Paul II, after reading the letter of Sister Lucy which contains the Fatima secret, is expecting something too dreadful to talk about to happen before the year 2,000; that's why he is trying to purify the Church by coming down hard on the dissidents.

Catholics, who claim Our Lady has appeared to visionaries in Italy and Yugoslavia in recent years, point out that who has confirmed the message of Fatima: God is fed up with sin in the world, and He's ready to unleash His punishments, possibly through an armed confrontation with the Russians.

Aside from religion, we hear predictions from respected figures in the peace movement, warning us that the hands of the doomsday clock are almost at the midnight hour; and if we don't turn them back soon, the nuclear rain will start falling. Survivalists, we read, are already hiding in remote places in the mountains, prepared against impossible odds to try to ride out the nuclear winter.

Mankind's worst nightmares seem to be converging on the same chilling conclusion: civilization is about to take a pratfall that will please the gods of war. The world could end before the century is over, not with a whimper, but with a bang that will knock the sun off its course. As history grinds to a halt, should we again comfort ourselves with the reminder that we have nothing to fear but fear itself?

Mind you, I don't take any of this seriously; it's all guess work, especially the rumors about the Pope. Any fool can forecast that the world could self-destruct if the nations keep lustling for wars. It's nonsense to say that the scenarios of destruction have already been written as part of God's plan, or that the expiration date of the universe has been handed down in an eternal decree. Fear-mongering has been going on for decades.

In 1941, the preachers promised us that the Second Coming was just around the corner; once, at Baptist prayer meeting, old Mrs. Smith told us that according to her dreams, tonight was the night. The Lord would be standing over us on a cloud of glory before the morning coffee was perked. We heard as seminarians that a Bavarian mystic had foretold that in 1954, the Communists would be hanging priests from the lamppost in Central Park. According to the visions of Malachy and Nostradamus, the Church should have run out of popes several pontificates ago.

Now the doom-sayers are gearing up for the millenium. Since the day Roosevelt told us we had nothing to fear but fear itself, the world has moved through depressions, wars and the rumors of war, revolutions, epidemic, famines, earthquakes, and genocides. The suffering from this ongoing dance of dance has been a dress rehearsal according to the prophet of gloom: the handwriting on the wall is now announcing the grand finale. Dies Irae is at hand, when the physical fabric of the firmament will bite the dust.

The Halloween, at which God will wear His mask as the avenging judge, is at hand as an end to the ages, and sinners will have apocalypses to frighten them in place of ghosts. God plays hard ball; He will use fire and brimstone instead of soap for His tricking and treating. His fireworks will be as unexpected as a thief in the night, so that He can catch the losers off their guard. Their spiritual blindness prevents them from seeing the blood on the sun which should scorn the hell out of them.

Christians are free to believe this stuff if they want to. Why should the preachers be so glad to see Jesus come back? He's planning, they say, to roast most of the human race in an everlasting holocaust. How could you believe in a theology that makes God too narrow-minded and fiendish to understand the New Testament doctrines? I hope that John Paul isn't serving the Church as its chief shepherd according to a hidden agenda He got from Fatima.

I'm a loyal son of Mary, the Mother of the Church; but those private revelations attributed to her are charmless formulas lacking style and grace. Heavenly language has the ill of truth in it that lifts the heart and mind to God, as the Gospels show. Amateur saints can't make it up as they go along, even if they are great poets like Milton, who made his Saviour sound pedantic.

The message I get from the private revelations is that you don't reap grapes from sowing thistles; even the pagans could have guessed that much about truth. I love St. Bernadette, the Poor little peasant girl who wouldn't let the cops or the priests talk her out of her visions; but Fatima gets silly. Why would Christ's mother be playing "I've got a secret," with children in a meadow?

The psalm that helped London through the blitz in 1940 goes like this: "You need not fear the terrors of night, the arrow that flies in the daytime, the plague that stalks in the dark, the scourge that wreaks havoc in broad daylight. Though a thousand fall at your side, ten thousand at your right hand, you yourself will remain unscathed, with this faithfulness for shield and buckler..."

Fatima couldn't hold a candle to promised like these. Psalm 91 was my favorite prayer during WW II. I hope I will remember to say it by heart on the night that the world ends, if it ever does.

Father Robert Griffin

Letters to a Lonely God

wrote J.M. Barrie, the creator of Peter Pan. On Halloween, between the dusk and the daylight, the graves give up their ghosts and disembodied spirits walk the land, as the children can tell you.

As the darkness falls, grown-ups say a prayer that the children love: "From ghosties and ghoulies and three-legged beasties and things that go bump in the night, good Lord, deliver us!" The prayer has nothing to do with trick-and-treat, but children don't care: fear, when it's only make-believe, is a delicious experience, and the best goblins exist mostly in the mind. That way, the children can laugh at themselves the next morning when they see the masks and costumes of horror that made them shiver and run away as though they had met vampires taking their evening walks.

In the heart of the coward, Halloween happens anytime: the game of fear that an adult plays doesn't stop when the rooster's crowing warns the bogeyman to hide. In my childhood, F.D. Roosevelt told the country that the only thing we had to fear was fear itself. Thoreau's version is only slightly different: "Nothing is so much to be feared as fear." He probably borrowed the idea from Montaigne: "The thing of which I have most fear is fear."

My generation grew up a world where the presence of fear was more obvious than the presence of God. Six years after FDR warned us of the harm that fear war was being fought for was freedom from fear. Yet all my adult life, I have seen people neurotic with fear from dreading the unthinkable: what would happen to the country if all the young people became addicted to dope?

Once the Germans were defeated, we started keeping a frightened eye on Russia. Americans, concerned about nuclear war, built bomb shelters. In 1962, we had the Cuban missile crisis to keep us on edge. In 1963, when Kennedy was assassinated, we wondered if anarchy was about to break loose. In the days of the Black Panthers, we were afraid of what the Black anger in the country was leading to.

During the Vietnam years, when students were brawling with the cops, and the deaths occurred at Kent State, we were sickened by those street scenes, so reminiscent, we were told, of the bleeding and dying among politically active German students in the Thirties, just before the rise of Hitler. Believe it or not, times like those were tough to live through, and people wondered if America was on its last legs as a nation.

Now, in 1986, the preachers warn us that as the second millenium closes, we should be getting ready for the doomsday of the world which a disgusted God has marked on his calendar. The fundamentalists say that all the Biblical prophecy has been

The Observer/Margaret Mannion

A glimpse of the new undergraduate club, Theodore's.

PATTI TRIPATHI

Features writer

A little diversion under the dome: the grand opening of Theodore's promises to dazzle everyone tonight.

"There is something for everyone," said Promotion Director, Tara O'Leary.

The renovated second floor of LaFortune Student Center now has a dance floor, a twenty foot television screen, three video games, electronic darts, and a video cassette recorder.

"Free food will be served on the opening night to give a sample of what will be served," said O'Leary. "Also, raffle will be drawn for free transportation and lodging for two to the U.S.C. game."

According to O'Leary the drawing for the prizes will be held at 1 a.m. and the winners must be present to claim their awards. Musicland and Coca Cola are sponsoring the event.

Theodore's has already planned a calendar to include movie nights, a campus variety show, an Improv comedy night, and nights when professional bands will perform.

"We want to provide good solid entertainment for the student body. Our success is going to rely on student input," said Program Director Tom Utter.

"I am trying to set up something dynamic such as professional bands from Detroit, Minneapolis, Chicago and the surrounding areas," said O'Leary. "Because Notre Dame has such a diverse population I am trying to introduce a bit of variety into our entertainment schedule."

O'Leary and Utter welcome suggestions from the student body in order to accommodate everyone. "Our success is going to rely on student input. If no one says anything than nothing is going to get done," said O'Leary.

On Mondays and Tuesdays Theodore's will be available to groups by reservation only. Weekly, Theodore's will be open Wednesdays and Thursdays from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m., Fridays and Saturdays from 8 p.m. to 3 a.m., and Sundays noon to 6 p.m.

"Theodore's can be a study break, a place to get food if someone misses dinner, or a place just to go dancing," said O'Leary. "It's very different. And it will get better."

New club's opening slated for this evening

Sports Briefs

The ND-SMC ski team will have a mandatory meeting Monday, Nov. 3, for anyone interested in try-outs or the Christmas trip to Jackson Hole. A $100 trip deposit will be collected at the meeting, which will be held in the LaFortune Little Theatre. For more information contact Kathy (4029) or Lisa (284-4415). -The Observer

The ND Invitational Lacrosse Tournament, featuring teams from University of Chicago, Lake Forest, Grand Rapids, and Notre Dame, will be held this weekend. The schedule for Saturday is as follows: ND vs. Grand Rapids at 11 a.m., Lake Forest vs. Chicago at 12:30 p.m., Grand Rapids vs. Lake Forest at 2:30 p.m., and Chicago vs. ND at 4 p.m.. The schedule for Sunday is as follows: ND vs. Lake Forest at 10 a.m., Chicago vs. Grand Rapids at 11:30 a.m., the consolation match at 1:30 p.m., and the championship match at 3 p.m.. All action will take place at Cartier Field. -The Observer

The ND rugby club will host Fort Knox in their final game of the season. The match starts at 1 p.m. on Stepan Field. -The Observer

Off-campus students who wish to play interhall hockey are reminded that the 20-man roster and proof of insurance are due at the NVA offices Wednesday, Nov. 5. For more information contact Evan Farley (287-3920) or Phil Coghlin (234-2849). -The Observer

Interhall football equipment should be returned to Gate 9 of the Stadium according to the following schedule.

Monday, Nov. 3: 5:30- Off Campus; 6- Grace; 6:30- Dillon; 7- Keenan; 7:30- Alumni; 8- Cavanaugh; 8:30- Holy Cross.

Tuesday, Nov. 4: 5:30- Pangborn; 6- Fisher; 6:30- St. Ed's; 7- Carroll; 7:30- loser of 1:00 game on Sunday; 8:00- loser of 2:00 game on Sunday.

There is a late charge for a team per individual. -The Observer

Body fat testing will take place Monday, Nov. 3, from 7:15 to 8:30 p.m. in the NVA office. The test is free, and participants should wear shorts and will be tested on a first-come, first-serve basis. -The Observer

Tribble faces more charges

Associated Press

UPPER MARLBORO, Md.- A prince George's County grand jury returned an indictment yesterday that contained additional charges against Brian Lee Tribble, the man accused of providing the cocaine that killed basketball star Len Bias.

The grand jury also returned a sealed indictment in connection with the probe. According to law, the contents of that indictment cannot be revealed until the defendant has been arrested and served with the papers.

Classifieds

The Observer Notre Dame office, located on the third floor of LaFortune Student Center, accepts classified advertising from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. The Observer Saint Mary's office, located on the third floor of Haggard College Center, accepts classifieds from 12:30 p.m. until 3 p.m., Monday through Friday. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid, either in person or by mail. The charge is 10 cents per five characters per day.

NOTICES

TYPING AVAILABLE
287-4082

Wordprocessing-Typing
272-8827

TYPING/WORDPROCESSING
CALL DOLORES 277-8131.

EXPERT TYPING SERVICE. CALL
MRS. COKER, 233-7009.

JAZZ, NEW WAVE, CLASSICAL, THE BEST STAFF IN THE WORLD, WSDN RULES. (and by the way we're having a fund drive.) Nov 2-8.

NOW doing typing in my home for students. Call 232-1883.

Attention MAD-TOWN BOUND people going with the WCONSIN CLUB!!!
Don't miss the bus! Be at the main circle at 3:15 on Friday to sign insurance waivers. The bus will leave at 3:30 and ETA in Madison is 7:45 CST near the SE dorms at Frances & Johnson. Will leave from Madison at 12 p.m. CST. Eat cheese or Die!!!!

HEY CAPP MAJORS THE FOURTH
CAPP DPMA MEETING WILL BE HELD
TUE. NOV 4 AT 7:00 pm IN 210 OSBAG

THE SPEAKER WILL BE JUDITH
RADCLIFF OF DATA PROCESSING
CONSULTANTS INC. SUBJECT
PREPARING A RESUME ALL CAPP
STUDENTS ARE WELCOME

LOST/FOUND

LOST: One gold necklace with 3 charms ("Precious," a half-heart and a cross). Of GREAT sentimental value-a reward is available! Please call Lisa at 2862, 218 Lyons.

Dark blue softball jacket was removed Friday night (Oct. 10th) from Senior Bar. Description: The left chest had
"Brendan" and a patch "USC Softball Champions" Also a patch on the left and right sleeves, "1st place" and "2nd place". If found please send to:
Brendan McGuire
1218 Rolling Meadow Rd.
Pittsburgh PA 15241

LOST POCKET WATCH before the break with letters FB engraved on the back. Great sentimental value. Very generous reward. Call 288-5245.

FOUND: Male class ring ('88) in Oshag.
Initials engraved. Call 233-38024 to identify.

FOUND. H.P. BEFORE BREAK, CALL
TO IDENTIFY. 1412

Lost: A leather Hartmann checkbook cover and checkbook left on a bench outside Archie building Friday before break. Please call Danielle 284-5158.

FOUND: CALCULATOR IN 224 CUB-
HING. CALL DAN AT 1154.

FOUND -umbrella in 208 Cushing.
Call 1206 to claim.

LOST: N.D. Class Ring-Initials TJM '88
inside Blue stone. Call Tim 3249 -
Reward if found.

Lost: Gold Seiko watch somewhere around So. Dining Hall Tuesday dinner time. If found, please call Sheila 272-3870.

FOUND: Guy's Swatch in D2 parking lot on 10-29-86. Call Mark at 4113 to claim.

LOST-CLASS RING!!!! J.A.B. 87
BLUE STONE WITH GOLD N.D.
$100.00 REWARD CALL JOE
30793101

FOR RENT

Two room furnished apt. private entrance utilities paid 288-0955 mornings.

Guests coming for game need place to stay? Silverbrook Bed-Breakfast in Miles. Clean, quiet, reasonable. 618-684-2323 evenings.

2 room efficiency private entrance utilities paid 288-0858 mornings

WANTED

Federal, State and Civil Service jobs now available in your area. For info.
call (805) 644-8533 Dept. 1369.

want a ride, buster? The belgemobile is on the road again, looking for RIDERS or a RIDE to PURDUE the day of NOVEMBER 8, 1986. For more information, or clearer information call Gertie, 284-5125.

Interested in Tai Chi Chuan for health call 277-7152 after 4:00 PM.

Are you interested in earning up to $8.00 per hour and even more. God-father's Pizza is looking for part time drivers. Apply in person at 52920 U. S.
31 N.

FULL AND PART TIME WAITRESSES NEEDED. MUST BE 21. APPLY AT SMITTY'S CONEY ISLAND TAP, 125
NO MICHIGAN, SOUTH BEND, IN 46801

WANTED: BILLY JOEL CONCERT TIX
FOR Fri. Oct. 31
Call CHRIS at 284-5166
PLEASE HELP ME HAVE A HAPPY
HALLOWEEN!!

NEED RIDE TO BALL STATE-
TODAYWILL. SHARES-1272.

FOR SALE

TIRED OF CATCHING RIDES ? 74 VW
Bug For Sale Dave 277-1714

For sale: Apple IIe, monochrome scr., and drive. Good condition. $950. Call Steve 3268.

FOR SALE -TRANSPORTATION CAR
IN EXCELLENT CONDITION. NEW BATTERY.
SHOCKS, MUFFLER, CUSTOM
EXHAUST, GERMAN-BUILT CAPRI
WITH V-6 & LOTS OF POWER. CALL
232-9425 EVENING

AIRLINE TICKET!! 50% OFF BY 11/14
-CATHY 283-3229

TICKETS

Make sure my parents pay second semiester tuition so I can get out of this place. Sell me 2 GAs for Penn State so they can experience ND football.
Call Mark at 2339.

ALUMNI NEED 4 PENN ST. TIX -513-
861-9341 AFTER 5.

NEED 1-5 GAS OR STD TIX FOR SMU
AND PSU CALL PAUL 1758

FOOLISH MORTALS...
The YOCKMONSTER needs 4 Penn
State GAs and 4 stud. tix to lure unsuspecting human sacrifice victims to
ND!

CALL 232-5476 to make a deal with the Devil!
...THERE IS NO ESCAPE!!!

NEED 5 SMU GA'S AND ONE STUD
TIX CALL MIKE 3211 OR 3209

WANTED: 1 STUDENT PENN STATE
TICKET CALL JAY 1226

Needed: Penn State tix (stud. or GA)
call Mike Mella 283-1111

NEED 2 GAs FOR PENN STATE. WILL-ING TO MAKE GOOD DEAL. CALL
CHRIS AT 1788.

I NEED 2 SMU TIX!! CAROLYN-3831

2 ND-SMU GA'S 4 SALE; CALL 512-
735-2184

I NEED SMU & PENN ST GAs. 272-6306

DESPERATELY seeking Penn State tickets. I need GA's and/or student tickets. Help me out if you can! David at 234-3337

NEED 2 SMU TIX
CALL JAY AT 12174

NEED 6 SMU TIX
CALL JAY 12174

NEED ONE SMU TICKET -STUDENT
OR GA -CALL 2985

Need two SMU GA's. Call Max at 283-

NEED SMU GA'S AND STUDENT TX
PAUL-2364

MEGA $BUCKS$ are awaiting the person who will sell me 4 PENN ST GA's for my family so I can come home for Christmas! Call Andy at 1243.

NEED 8 PENN STATE GA'S CALL
CHRIS AT 1713

NEED 4 PENN ST GA'S CALL PAT
2034

HELP!! HELP!! I need PENN STATE
TIXS. Help me show Ma nd Pa that my bro goes to the wrong school. PENN
ST. TIXS for TODD at 1310 or 1308

I'm asking you nicely -
Please sell me PSU tix (stud. or GA)
Call Michelle B. at 4570

BAREFOOT KENTUCKIANS need stud. or GA tix for SMU!!

Let my backwoods buddies see a game!
Call Dave at 3293
MOONSHINE to all who help!!

Mickey Gorbachev's boy Rickay is coming down for the SMU game and needs a student ticket. In the name of Detente, call Jack at 1788.

BUBBLE BUS IS COMING!! BUBBLE
BUS IS COMING!! THIS IS ONE BUBBLE I DON'T WANT TO BURST...PLEASE HELP ME...NEED 26
1/2 TIX STUD OR GA WILL DO...PLEASE CALL BONEHEAD AT 1246 OR 1352.

BIG BUCKS FOR 3 PENN STATE TIX
-CALL TJ -283-1899

I NEED 1 PENN ST GA. WILL PAY BIG
$$$! CALL TIM 3314.

SMU & PENN ST. GA'S FOR SALE 277-0298

NEED 2 SMU STUD. TIX. CALL JANICE
272-8919

CASH for 2-3 GA or Stud Tix for PennSt 2551

HELP Need 2 SMU GA and 2 student tickets or 4 GA's. Call 1050 ask for Bob

DESPERATELY need SMU tix-call Kevin-1802

NEED TICKETS FOR SMU GAME.
CALL 284-5628 OR 272-1988.

I need 2 Penn State GA's Kelly 284-4455

Need 4 SMU tix. Will pay top $ I Call 123467

AIRLINE TICKET!!!! FOR SALE!!!!
Bring friend in for SMU game!!! 50% off anywhere on Jet America by 11/14
-Cathy 283-3229 leave message

HAVE 4 SMU GAS NEED 4 PENN ST
GAS CALL CHIEF 11838

NEED 2 SMU GA'S CALL 2286

I NEED 2 SMU GA'S. CALL CHRIS AT 2742

HELP ME! I need 3 tickets for the SMU game. Please call Mike at 2787.

My brother and friends want to see
ND vs. Penn State. I need 4 GA's Call
Pat 13859

NEED ONE SMU TICKET-STUDENT
OR GA $$$ CALL ANITA 284-4082

PERSONALS

OUR HOUSE: COLD BEER & LIQUOR,
CARRY OUT TO 3 A.M. U.S. 31 N., ONE BLOCK SOUTH OF HOLIDAY INN.

Thank You St. Jude

DESPERATE TEXAN WILL DO AL-MOST ANYTHING FOR 2 SMU TICK-ETS. -STU OR GA- CALL CAROLYN-3831

URBAN PLUNGE DEADLINE IS TODAY.

Claire V.H.: Do You Still Have That Boyfriend? Remember, it don't mean a thing if you don't have that ring!!
N.W.Y.T.

LONDON CALLING:
FARLEY'S FINEST get psyched! Good luck in the playoffs. Whip Lyons again; then make it 3 in a row! Miss U. From ENGLAND with love.

Thank You Again, St. Jude, for answering all my prayers.

ATTENTION ALL OFF-CAMPUS STU-DENTS!!
O.C. FORMAL THURS, NOV. 8 AT KNOLLWOOD COUNTRY CLUB
TIX $10COUPLE CALL RACE FOR INFO 234-0982
(FREE FOOD & DRINK)

ON THIS ONE SPECIAL DAY AM I REMINDED OF THE IMMENSITY OF THE ATLANTIC AND THE TIME DIFF-ERENCE WHERE MY DAYS ARE YOUR NIGHTS. SURROUNDED BY STRANGERS WHOSE FOREIGN TONGUES REFLECT THEIR FOREIGN NATURE; I YEARN FOR YOUR FAMILIAR AND GENTLE TOUCH.
DESPITE THESE DIFFICULTIES, I
REST ASSURED THAT NO OBSTACLE SHALL EVER KEEP US APART...I LOVE YOU!! HAPPY ONE YEAR AN-NIVERSARY!! " GEORGE C.- ANGERS FRANCE "

HENRY LEE SUMMER
Tickets available in the cellar
October 31, 1986
$2.00

HENRY LEE SUMMER
STEPAN OCTOBER 31, 1986
9:00pm $2.00
Trust us you won't see another band this good for only two dollars. He just signed a national contract and that means the price goes up.

SENIORS...SENIORS Trick-or-Treat Golf Outing Tomorrow (Fri), Tee-
Off from 12-2pm $3.00 per student
CLASS OF 1987**

SENIORS...SENIORS**
Basketball Ticket Campout Bash!!
Food, Drink, DJ all Nite Sunday, at the ACC while we wait!! Digger will be stopping by in the morning, and he's talking "Donuts! CLASS OF 1987**

SENIOR SKI TRIP!!!
Sign-ups will be Nov 3-6
In Senior Class Office
$40 deposit, only $125 for two days at Boyne Mtn. Dates:

SENIOR DAY OF REFLECTION
with Fr. Fintan Steele on 11/1 from 12:30-6:00pm at Bulls Shed, across from P.E. on Juniper.
Pre-registration not necessary.

Senior Trip T-shirts call 3851

Happy Birthday, Betsy Wish I was there
Love, Freud, the monster, and the girl in Angers who loves you very much.

PANDORA BOOKS HAS MOVED TO 808 HOWARD BY NOTRE DAME AVE.
SELL YOUR CLASS BOOKS FOR $5
OPEN 7 DAYS FROM 10-5:30. 233-2342.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY MARY WILLIAMS
!!!!!! No way, Lifshitz, you're 20! No more spacing out on the bathroom floor. "Leave me alone!" Where's the mustard? How 'bout shots and orens tonight? You're wild and crazy--and we luv ya, Mar! Have a great one! The Gale of 2D

1 RIDER NEEDED TO SO. FLA. OR ANYWHERE IN BETWEEN FOR THANKSGIVING. CALL MELINDA 287-4759

BEAUXBEAUXBEAUXBEAUXARTS
BEAUX-BEAUXARTSBEAUXARTSARTS
ARTSARTSARETSBALLARTSBALL
BALL BALL BALL!!!!!!

ATTN. OFF-CAMPUS STUDENTS!
O.C. NEWSLETTER NOW AVAILABLE in LaFORTUNE(OBUD DESK)

HAPPY BELATED BIRTHDAY, JIM GALLAGHER!!!
Have you had enough shots, or would you like another ketchup one?
Just stay out of the puddles at Five Corners this time!
One of the last, but not least! WE LOVE
YOU!!! K.

ITS COMING!!!!!!
THIS YEAR'S MOST UNABASHED, UNINHIBITED, AND UNDENIABLE PARTY...
IT'S A BALL
A BEAUX-ARTS BALL.

Now announcing the 1986
Fall Edition of the BEAUX-ARTS BALL
Friday, November 7th.

THEY ONLY COME OUT AT NIGHT

PAT MURPHY-DJ: HAVE A GREAT
B'DAY SUNDAY. FROM MEG

R.E.M FANS We've got rare tunes and they're yours for the price of one album. Hear "Femme Fatale"
"Bandwagon" "White Tornado"
"Voice of Harold" and more. Plus many favorites LIVE. Most studio quality on a TDK 90 tape. Only 57 shopping days till Christmas! Call the Hindu Love Gods at 2485 or 2550 and get them before we run out.

T Happy Halloween. Nice personal. I hope you eat on a Jack o'Lantern. YUK Yuk yUk. Muu!

REMINDER:
URBAN PLUNGE
ORIENTATION WORKSHOP
SUNDAY NOV. 2
2:00-4:00
LIBRARY AUDITORIUM

REMINDER:
URBAN PLUNGE
ORIENTATION WORKSHOP
SUNDAY NOV. 2
2:00-4:00
LIBRARY AUDITORIUM

REMINDER:
URBAN PLUNGE
ORIENTATION WORKSHOP
SUNDAY NOV. 2
2:00-4:00
LIBRARY AUDITORIUM

REMINDER:
URBAN PLUNGE
ORIENTATION WORKSHOP
SUNDAY NOV. 2
2:00-4:00
LIBRARY AUDITORIUM

VOTE FOR BABE OF THE YEAR
TJ TJ TJ TJ

Happy Birthday Red!
Lotsa love from Legs in London. Miss
You!

MOIRA DELKER-! You could have been a great Cambodian! Happy Birthday Love the Red Cross Volunteers.

DANCE! DANCE! DANCE!
Council for the Retarded present a
HALLOWEEN DANCE
Friday, October 31 from 7:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.
at the LOGAN CENTER

HAPPY 18TH B-DAY NUB!! GLAD
YOUR HERE AT SMC! LUV-YOUR FA-VORITE FECE!

LIZ-DOG MARTUCCI
Liz, we want to sleep with you!
-The Boys

Tom Watson was upset by David Edwards in the first round of the Seiko Tucson Match Play Golf Championship yesterday. Details on the first round appear at right.

Tway takes opening-round match while Watson is ousted at Tucson

Associated Press

TUCSON, Ariz.- Bob Tway advanced easily, but Tom Watson was upset yesterday in the first round of the Seiko Tucson Match Play Championship.

Tway, already assured of PGA player of the Year honors, moved closer to the money-winning title with his 68-75 victory over Brett Upper in the final official event on the 10-month PGA tour.

Watson, who disqualified himself for an inadvertent breach of the rules last week in San Antonio, Tex., was ousted by David Edwards 66-72.

Tway now needs only a win over Steve Pate in today's second round to clinch the money-winning title.

Tway, who won the PGA national championship and three other titles this season, needs $5,517 to surpass Greg Norman's leading $635,296. A second-round victory will assure Tway of a minimum $12,500. Norman is not competing in this event.

"It would mean a lot to me to go past Greg," Tway said. "But if I don't, it won't be the end of the world. I'll get over it."

"The system is kind of strange, and it makes you feel kind of strange out there playing. You know you can play a good round, a 68, and still lose by five shots," Tway said of the medal-match format in which each player must complete each hole and the winner of a match is determined by an 18-hole medal score.

Pate, Tway's second-round opponent, was 7-under par through the first 14 holes and eventually beat Craig Stadler 65-68.

Bernhard Langer, the former Masters champion from West Germany, lost to Bob Gilder 66-68.

Ben Crenshaw, who scored his second victory of the season last week in San Antonio, continued his strong play in a 66-73 decision over Fred Couples.

Defending champion Jim Thorpe also advanced, 68-70 over Brad Faxon.

In the separate bracket for seniors, defending champion Harold Henning birdied his first three holes and beat Al Chandler 69-75.

South African Gary Player was upset by Jim King 70-71.

Hurricanes attempt to stay on top as they take on rival Florida State

Associated Press

CORAL GABLES, Fla.- Part of the reason the Miami Hurricanes are 7-0 and atop the national rankings is they enter every game expecting to win and play as if fearing to lose.

"We can't go into any game thinking that we're the better team," star quarterback Vinnie Testaverde said, "because we don't know if the other team knows that we're a better team."

The Hurricanes waste little time proving their point. They have outscored their opponents 105-3 in the first quarter.

The Hurricanes' least impressive performance came in the opener against Florida, the one team they always are fired up to play. Miami won that game 23-15 although Testaverde was slowed by a nasty cold.

Three weeks later, the Hurricanes manhandled then-No. 1 Oklahoma 28-16 in the Orange Bowl. Only a last minute touchdown by the Sooners made the score respectable.

Equally impressive have been lopsided victories over teams Miami should beat easily- 61-11 over Texas Tech, 34-0 over Northern Illinois, 58-14 over West Virginia, 45-13 over Cincinnati.

That easy part of the schedule ends tomorrow when the Hurricanes face 20th-ranked Florida State, 4-2-1, in the Orange Bowl. Then they play at Pittsburgh, and close with Tulsa at home.

Defensive tackle Jerome Brown sometimes rankles Coach Jimmy Johnson with his outlandish statements, but he sounds like a coach's dream when he explains Miami's ability to play well every time out.

"Every game is tough for us," he said. "We don't treat anyone any differently than we did Oklahoma."

"Sometimes we see some of the younger players joking around during practice and we have to get on them. We're a loose team and everybody wants to have fun, but we have to remind them we've got a job to do."

Johnson said he hasn't had to do a lot to instill that attitude in his players. He suspects the embarrassing 35-7 loss to Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl last New Year's Day with the national title on the line had something to do with it.

"This group has the best attitude of any football team I've ever been around," he said.

Those students interested in volunteering at The Shelter for the Homeless and have not already scheduled themselves to do so, need to contact one of the following immediately:

Lynn Scott 259-5770 (7pm - 11pm)
United Religious Community 282-2397
(9am - 4pm)
John Gordon 283-1666

Soft
Contact Lenses
$19.86
Daily or Extended Wear

Now you can treat yourself to the contact lenses you have always wanted at a price anyone can afford! For a limited time Dr. David Tavel has reduced the price of Softmate daily or extended wear contact lenses to an unheard of price of $19.86.*

Call for an appointment today. You'll see better for less. Dr. Tavel's Premium Optical has been caring for eyes for over 40 years with 32 locations in Indiana. Shouldn't you trust the care of your family's eyes to Indiana's largest, oldest and most trusted name in eyecare?

*Exam is required at the time of purchase and is not included in the sale price. Offer is invalid on prior orders and may not be combined with any other discount.

Providers for all insurance programs.

"At Dr. David Tavel's Premium Optical, we've been serving Indiana's eyecare needs for over 40 years. We carry on a tradition of excellence that is unsurpassed. And that's a promise from the doctor."

Dr. David Tavel

Medicaid Welcome
SOUTH BEND • MISHAWAKA
Broadmoor Plaza K-Mart/Martin Center
Across from Scottsdale Mall Next door to Osco Drug 291-4000 258-5000

ND '61
DOMESTIC AND IMPORTED WINES BEERS LIQUORS
ironwood liquors
1725 North Ironwood South Bend
272-7144

Godfather's Pizza®

Find one. It's worth it.™

FRIDAY & SATURDAY SPECIALS

TWO LARGE THIN CRUST ONE TOPPING EACH

$9.99 plus tax & delivery

Godfather's Pizza.

Find one.
It's worth it.

One coupon per pizza at participating locations.
Not valid in combination with any other offer.

Offer expires 11/14/86

LARGE FOR MEDIUM-MEDIUM FOR SMALL

Godfather's Pizza.

Find one.
It's worth it.

One coupon per pizza at participating locations.
Not valid in combination with any other offer.

Offer expires 11/14/86

Godfather's
Pizza.

We Deliver to a Limited Area

336 Dunes Plaza
Michigan City, Indiana
874-5288

Wade selected new Terps' coach after Driesell steps down under fire

Associated Press

BALTIMORE- Bob Wade, coach and athletic director at Baltimore's Dunbar High School, yesterday was named basketball coach at the University of Maryland, replacing Charles "Lefty" Driesell.

Maryland Chancellor John B. Slaughter, who made the announcement, said, "The University of Maryland has had a dearth of happy events over the last several months. Today represents a major change in our fortunes."

Driesell, under pressure to give up his coaching post following the June 19 cocaine-induced death of basketball star Len Bias, resigned Wednesday and accepted a job as assistant athletic director at the university.

Wade, 41, who was accompanied by his wife and one of his two sons, said his elevation to college basketball coach represents "something we looked forward to all of our lives."

A graduate of Morgan State in Baltimore, Wade has posted a 280-19 record during 10 seasons at Dunbar.

"It couldn't have happened to a better guy," said Lake Clifton High School Coach Woody Williams, a long-time friend of Wade's.

Wade has had a running feud with Driesell through the years. Wade claimed the Maryland coach would not recruit in Baltimore, while Driesell complained that Wade directed his best players to Georgetown University in Washington.

Pete Pompey, coach at Edmondson High School, said Wade never prevented Driesell from recruiting at Dunbar. He said Wade also has a strict philosophy about his players' academic performance and use of drugs.

"He made a commitment a long time that his kids were going to get an education," Pompey said. "He's disagreed with some of the things that he (Driesell) did."

But Pompey added that Wade "feels Len Bias was an adult and he made a decision to" take the cocaine that killed him.

"He has made a statement that he would be tougher on (drug use)," Pompey said.

The state prosecutor investigating Bias' death charged that Driesell did too little to discourage drug use and gave insufficient attention to the academic needs of his players.

Driesell, who coached 17 seasons at Maryland and compiled a 524-224 record, was one of 17 Division I coaches with more than 500 victories. He told reporters Wednesday he didn't want to coach at Maryland anymore if the university didn't want him.

AP Photo

Charles "Lefty" Driesell, who resigned as head basketball coach at the University of Maryland Wednesday, had Bob Wade named as his replacement yesterday. Details appear in the story at left.

Broten sinks Islanders in OT, 7-6

Associated Press

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J.- Aaron Broten, who scored with 1:14 to play to force overtime, scored again with 38 seconds left in the extra period, lifting the New Jersey Devils to 7-6 NHL victory over the New York Islanders last night.

Broten broke into the Islanders' zone on a 2-on-1 break with Pat Verbeek and banked his game-winning shot off the leg of Islanders defenseman Denis Potvin. It appeared the shot would not have gone into the net had it not hit the Islanders' captain.

Broten sent the game into overtime by scoring 74 seconds before the end of regulation time. He collected the rebound of a Kirk Muller shot and slid a 10-foot backhand under Islanders goalie Kelly Hrudey.

The loss snapped a four-game unbeaten streak by New York, which had won its last three games and appeared headed for a fourth after Pat LaFontaine scored twice and Bryan Trottier once late in the second period for a 6-4 lead.

However, New Jersey pulled to within 6-5 at 6:10 of the period when Verbeek got his 10th goal with the Islanders a man shorthanded. It was the Devils' fourth power-play goal of the game, and ninth in 15 power play opportunities over the past two nights.

New York opened a 3-1 lead after the first period on goals by Patrick Flatley, Mike Bossy and Potvin sandwiched around a New Jersey power-play goal by Mark Johnson, who had two goals and two assists.

New Jersey stormed back to take a 4-3 lead less than 11 minutes into the second period. John MacLean scored on a power play at 2:54 and Mel Bridgman tied the game, tipping a 50-foot shot by Johnson past Hrudey at 6:08. Johnson scored his second with New Jersey playing shorthanded at 10:53.

LaFontaine tied the game just 37 seconds later, and he and Trottier scored only 27 seconds apart later in the period to make it 6-4.

The Devils' Alain Chevrier faced 37 New York shots, while Hrudey was tested 31 times.

Canadiens 3, Bruins 3

BOSTON -Ray Bourque's 60-foot slapshot on a power play in the second period, his second goal of the season, gave the Boston Bruins a 3-3 tie with the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens yesterday in the NHL.

Mike McPhee had two goals 26 seconds apart in the second period for Montreal.

The Canadiens, now unbeaten in five straight games, fired 26 shots on Boston goalie Bill Ranford, while the Bruins had 40 shots on Patrick Roy.

Stephane Richer gave Montreal a 1-0 lead with a power-play goal at 2:20 of the first period, skating alone down the right side and poking the puck between Ranford's pads.

Swim

continued from page 16

Championship meet at Cleveland State.

"We have a large squad," Welsh said. "The addition of the Eastern Collegiates makes it possible for almost everyone to get a chance to swim in a championship meet."

A tough spot in the Notre Dame schedule will come up after semester break. The team will travel to Philadelphia to take on LaSalle and Villanova on January 16th and 17th. The following weekend, it will swim against Northern Illinois, Western Ontario, Northwestern, and Minnesota. Before Christmas, the most difficult meet is probably this week's Denison matchup.

Next weekend, the Irish will swim in the 22nd annual Notre Dame Relays against teams including Eastern Illinois, Illinois-Chicago, and Valparaiso.

Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Family:

Re-Elect Quality Leadership

Robert A. Loeffler...

Re-elect
Robert A. Loeffler

County Councillman
District B
Democrat

Political advertisement paid by Committee to Re-elect
Robert A. Loeffler

Has given you the National Center for Senior Living, which will bring 5,000 new jobs to St. Joe County

Lowered the County Tax Rate

Opposed the Local Option Tax

Paved over 300 miles of County roads in four years

Is the first elected official to question the renewed annexation effort

Supports Youth Hockey

Robert A. Loeffler is...

Incumbent county Councillman, District B-4 years

A 1958 graduate of the University of Notre Dame

Manager of Operations, Notre Dame Athletic & Convocation Center, and a 25 yr. Notre Dame employee

Council Representative-County Job Training Program

Chairman, Engineering and Transportation Committee

Chairman, Maintenance committee, 1987 International Summer Special Olympics

The Notre Dame Club of Maryland proudly presents

Notre Dame - Navy in Baltimore

Friday, October 31

Notre Dame Pep Rally/Party 7:30 p.m.

Omni International Hotel - Featuring coaches & former gridiron greats with music by the N.D. Alumni Band, a local Irish band, and a D.J. Cash bar and food Available. Cost $3.00

Saturday, November 1, 1986

Bull Pen Bash 3-6:30 p.m.

Memorial Stadium Bullpen (behind Center Field) Pre-game entertainment and refreshments. Cost $2.00

Omni International Hotel 4:00 p.m.

KICKOFF Memorial Stadium 7:00 p.m.

Post Game Celebration

Marriott Hotel Lounge:
Illusions Inner Harbor

Jeff Ruland, one of the new members of the Philadelphia 76ers, drives against Utah's Mark Eaton in NBA preseason action. The regular season begins tonight, and details appear at right.

Philly and Washington begin new NBA season with new-look squads

Associated Press

The Philadelphia 76ers and Washington Bullets will put drastically changed teams on the floor when the NBA opens its 41st season tonight with nine games.

The 76ers, who traded Moses Malone, Terry Catledge and the first pick in the 1986 draft, entertain the Indiana Pacers and their new coach, Jack Ramsay, while the Bullets travel to Boston, where the Celtics open defense of the NBA title they won in June.

Among the new faces for Philadelphia and Coach Matt Guokas are Jeff Ruland, Roy Hinson, Cliff Robinson and Tim McCormick, who join Charles Barkley on the front line. Guard Andrew Toney, back from last season's injuries, will team with holdovers Julius Erving, Maurice Cheeks and Sedale Threatt in the backcourt.

"I haven't come to Philadelphia to make people forget Moses Malone," the 6-foot-11 Ruland said. "I'm here to do a job and help the 76ers win. That's all I care about."

"I know people will compare us. That's OK. Moses is a great player, but I consider myself a great player, too. Coach

Tomorrow, the Los Angeles Lakers are at Houston for a nationally televised game.

On draft day last June, Malone was traded to the Bullets, along with Catledge and a couple of future No. 1 draft picks for Ruland and Robinson.

The 76ers were gambling that Ruland, who played only 67 games the past two seasons, could become a durable player again.

Ruland, who is averaging 18.7 points and 10.8 rebounds for his five-year career, promises that the injuries are behind him.

A slimmed-down Malone promises revenge on the 76ers, who first play the Bullets on Christmas Day.

Guokas prefers a more up-tempo style of play and that is how this year's team is put together, which suits me fine."

Other openers Friday night pair New York at New Jersey, Milwaukee at Detroit, Utah at Dallas, San Antonio at Denver, Golden State at Phoenix, the Los Angeles Clippers at Sacramento, and Seattle at Portland.

GREAT WALL

Restaurant And Cocktail Lounge
Authentic Szechuan and Hunan Taste

Lunches starting at.....$2.95

Celebrate football weekends at the Great Wall

Dinners starting at.....$4.25

Bar open 7 days a week
Mon.-Thurs.: 11:30 a.m.-10 p.m.
Fri.-Sat.: 11:30 a.m.-11 p.m.
Sun. & Holidays 11:30 a.m.-10 p.m.

Next to Randall's Inn 272-7376
South Bend, 130 Dixie Hwy. (Roseland)

E

ALUMNI
SENIOR

THE CLUB

Tonight is FRIDAY NIGHT
HALLOWEEN Party

Fun, Food,
Prizes, Specials

Saturday - Club is CLOSED

Sign Up!

The Observer is now accepting applications for positions in the Production Department.

- No experience necessary
- We will train you in layout and design techniques
- Chance to advance

Get involved

Sign up now in The Observer's
LaFortune office.

CONSULTANTS TO INTERNATIONAL FIRMS

We have clients seeking qualified individuals with language and area expertise regarding foreign markets. Part-time and full-time assignments available. Foreign nationals with advance degrees from american universities needed as visa restrictions will not effect certain projects.
Expertise in technical, economic, or scientific fields is required.

Send resume, including telephone number to:

Swenson, Crawford & Paine
Executive Search Division
P.O. Box A-3629
Chicago, IL 60690

Irish

continued from page 16

had given them their 15-2 win, and Bradley took advantage. Despite the tough play of Notre Dame sophomore Maureen Shea, who led the Irish with sixteen kills for an .445 kill percentage, the Braves pulled out their only win of the night 15-12.

The fourth and last game of the evening started out as a carbon-copy of game three. Bradley controlled the net with several tips and dinks around the Irish blocks as the two teams battled to a 7-7 tie.

"We have not learned to play well with teams that throw the slop, those soft tips," said Lambert. "We cannot adjust to it."

Maureen Shea continued to be a force at the net for the Irish as they took advantage of Bradley misplays and won the final game 15-9 to take the match, three games to one.

Lambert and his players look to improve on their season record tonight in their match at Northern Illinois and then in three home matches next weekend against Dayton, Northwestern and Pittsburgh.

Thanks to you...

it works...

for

ALL

OF US

United Way

Pittsburgh Penguins' goaltender Roberto Romano makes a sprawling save as Greg Adams of the New Jersey Devils tries to poke home a goal in NHL action earlier this season.

Details on the Devils' overtime victory over the New York Islanders, as well as other games, appear on page 12.

AP Photo

BP, Farley make finals

By CHRIS LEUPOLD
Sports Writer

It definitely was a wild one at Cartier Field last night. Breen-Phillips' miraculous comeback victory over Pasquerilla East allows the winners to take on first game victor Farley in the women's Interhall Football championship.

The first half score of the second game saw Pasquerilla East leading, 6-0, thanks to a Colleen O'Connor four-yard run up the middle. Both teams' offenses, however, began to move more effectively in the deciding half.

On Pasquerilla's first possession in the second half, speedy Annie Schrenk found an open lane and scored from 11 yards out. Down 12-0, the Tigers of Breen-Phillips found their roar. Quarterback Amy Treeder hit receiver Margaret Johnson for a 58-yard touchdown pass.

The score stood 12-6 in favor of Pasquerilla East with just 15 seconds remaining in the game, with Breen-Phillips on its own 25-yard line, when Treeder skipped an incredible comeback. In her hurry-up offense, she connected with Angie Williams for a 40-yard gain, and then hit Carolyn Burke with a 35-yard bomb for the tying touchdown.

The crowd was in a frenzy as overtime began. Each team would receive two plays to score from the five-yard line. Both teams scored, making the tally 16-16.

The aggressive defensive line of Breen-Phillips, led by tackle Kathy Tammara, then stifled both of Pasquerilla's next attempts at running the ball in. On the Tigers' possession, Williams coasted into the endzone, sealing an 18-16 victory. The dejected and bewildered bench of Pasquerilla East saw its season end when the jubilant Tigers of Breen-Phillips swarmed the field.

Though not quite as dramatic as the game to follow, the Lyons-Farley match-up saw Mary Lou Armeida's mastery of running Farley's offense lead to a 12-0 victory.

After a scoreless first half which saw Lyons neutralizing the Farley offensive machine, Suzanne Schwartz ran around the right end to put Farley ahead, 6-0. After Armeida and Lyons quarterback Mary Bohmer traded downs and series with neither making any scoring threat, Armeida pitched to Schwartz, who ran for her second score, a 35-yard burst. This proved to be the last score in the game and resulted in a 12-0 shutout victory for Farley.

"The girls from both teams played great," said Farley coach Dave Hanes.

Both Farley and Breen-Phillips will be ready for the championship game, which should be a dandy. It will be a contest between the devastating offense of Farley and the strong defense of Breen-Phillips.

The championship game for women's Interhall Football will be under the lights of Cartier Field, at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Orioles deal for Padres' Kennedy

Associated Press

BALTIMORE- The Baltimore Orioles, in desperate need of a catcher, obtained Terry Kennedy from San Diego yesterday and sent pitcher Storm Davis to the Padres.

As part of the deal, the Orioles also received right-hander Mark Williamson, the top relief pitcher in the Pacific Coast League last season.

After the Orioles finished last in 1986, for the first time in history, it was obvious they needed strengthening at catcher, third base and second base.

The other Baltimore catchers had just as much trouble at bat, with John Stefero hitting .233 and Floyd Rayford slumping to .176 after leading the club in 1985 with a .306 mark.

During the World Series, they negotiated with several clubs for a catcher after failing to pick up the option on the contract of 37-year-old Rick Dempsey, who batted .208 in 1986.

Kennedy, 30, has a lifetime major league average of .272. He batted .264 last season, with 12 home runs and 57 RBI.

During his last six seasons with the Padres, after playing parts of three seasons with the St. Louis Cardinals, Kennedy has appeared in 792 games—second in the major leagues only to Gary Carter's 805 total during that period.

Kennedy, a three-time National League All-Star selection, had his best all-around year at the plate in 1982 when he hit .295 with a career-high 21 homers and 97 RBI. The left-handed batter hit .301 in 1981, and drove in 98 runs in 1983.

Ireland is famous for its crystal. Every piece is the product of rare craftsmanship and strict adherence to quality.

The same is true for Budweiser.

We brew our beer with the finest hops, rice, and barley malt. Then we age it with Beechwood, to aid the natural carbonation. The result is a clean, crisp taste that has been distinctively Budweiser's for over one hundred years.

For those who appreciate quality, this Bud's for you.

BUDWEISER®-KING OF BEERS®-ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC.-ST. LOUIS

Bloom County

Beer Nuts

Berke Breathed

Far Side

Gary Larson

"Boy, he even looks like a drowned rat."

Mark Williams

Campus

Friday

11:15 a.m.- 12:30 p.m.: Economics Dept. Public Policy Workshop, a discussion of the relationship between work and welfare. 131 Decio
12:00 p.m.: Thomas J. White Center on Law and Government Lecture, "Religion and Politics in a Pluralistic Democracy," by the Honorable J. Daniel Hahoney, US Court of Appeals, 2nd Circuit, 101, Law School
4:30 p.m.: Mass, Keenan-Standford Chapel
5:00 p.m.: Varsity Volleyball, SMC vs. Purdue, Calumet, SMC Invitational at the Angela Athletic Facility, Participants: Franklin Ancilla, Purdue (Calumet), Rosary, Taylor-Tri-State, and Illinois Benedictine
7:00, 9:15 & 11:30 p.m.: Movie, "Nightmare on Elm Street," $1.50, Engineering Auditorium
7:30 & 9:30 p.m.: Friday Night Film Series, "La Passante," 1983, color, 106 minutes, Jacques Rouffio, France, Annenberg Auditorium
9:00 p.m.: Concert, Henry Lee Summer, $2.00, Stepan Center

2:30 p.m.: Swimming NDM vs. Denison, Rofls Aquatic Center
7:00 p.m.: Football, ND vs. Navy at Baltimore
9:00 p.m.: Trick-or-Treat Movie, come see if it will be a trick or a treat, $1.00, refreshments served, Pasquerilla West party room

Sunday

11:00- 5:00 p.m.: Center for Social Concerns Urban Plunge Workshop, Library Auditorium
1:30 p.m.: Meeting, Black Cultural Arts Festival, Pasquerilla West Chapel
2:00- 4:00 p.m.: Annual Faculty Exhibition, Snite Museum of Art
4:00 p.m.: Music Dept. Concert, Claude Cymerman, Guest Piano Recital, Annenberg Auditorium
8:00 p.m.: Daedalus Productions of New York Presents a Stage Production of "Evita," O'Laughlin Auditorium, Tickets available at SMC box office, 284-4626, $10 for adults: $5 for students

Dinner Menus

Notre Dame

Honey Glazed Ham
Spanakopita
Batter Fried Perch
Sloppy Joe on Round Bun

Saint Mary's

Batter Fried Fish
Tacos
Cheese & Mushroom Omelet
Deli Bar

The Daily Crossword

ACROSS

- 1 Third power
- 5 Point of embarkation, Aug. 3, 1492
- 10 Tennis name
- 14 Yoked beasts
- 15 — acid
- 16 Go to sea
- 17 Uru. city
- 19 Cultivate
- 20 Skilled workman
- 21 Ga. city
- 23 Hosiery shade
- 24 Trumpeter Al
- 25 Prizes
- 28 "— Ben"
- 30 Area
- 31 Pay out
- 33 Many, many ages
- 35 River in Rumania
- 36 Eastern VIP
- 37 Grape
- 38 Even: Fr.
- 40 Rood
- 42 Tumult
- 43 Combat places
- 45 Unorthodox belief
- 47 City in Normandy
- 48 Hang unevenly
- 49 Not enclosed
- 52 Ancient area in It.
- 56 Black cuckoos
- 57 Auckland's land
- 59 Puerto —
- 60 Sluggish
- 61 Soviet range
- 62 Bandleader Kenton
- 63 Musical finales
- 64 Monthly bill

DOWN

- 1 Torpor
- 2 Wife of Caesar
- 3 Special talent
- 4 Designate
- 5 Stately court dances
- 6 Idi —
- 7 Eye covering
- 8 Draft classification
- 9 Pacified
- 10 Goddess of fertility
- 11 City on the Mississippi
- 12 Sword handle
- 13 Raines or Logan
- 18 Jacob's brother
- 22 Writer Yutang
- 25 USSR river
- 26 South Pole area
- 27 Boxes
- 28 Grind teeth
- 29 Representative
- 30 Actress Caldwell
- 32 Self
- 34 Posed
- 39 Entices
- 40 Authorized

©1986 Tribune Media Services, Inc. All Rights Reserved

10/31/86

Yesterday's Puzzle Solved:

10/31/86

- 41 Sonnet parts
- 42 Orderly
- 44 Modern: pref.
- 46 — avis
- 49 Items in a bireme
- 50 Standard measure
- 51 Gambling town
- 52 Stone or Pound
- 53 Breathing sound
- 54 — instant (immediately)
- 55 Mine approach
- 58 Unite

Student Activities Board presents...

William Minter specialist on South Africa and

"With All Deliberate Delay: The West and South Africa
Sanctions"

With an introduction by Dr. Peter Walshe.
Wednesday, Nov. 5th 8:00pm Washington Hall

The Observer/Robert Jones

Zanette Bennett gets ready to make a kill in last night's Notre Dame volleyball victory over Bradley. Brian O'Gara details the match in his story at right.

Stanford is favored entering IH playoffs

By CHRIS DALLAVO
Sports Writer

Fall Break is over, leaves are all over the ground and football is in the air—men's interhall football, that is. The 1986 playoffs are about to begin, with undefeated Stanford Hall the overwhelming favorite to capture the crown.

Stanford, led by quarterback Al Martin, is the first seed in the six-team playoff system. Despite the domination of the Studs during the year, they expect to face some tough competition during the post season.

"We appreciate the respect of the other coaches and teams, but we are taking nothing for granted," said assistant coach Jay Landry. "There are a lot of good football teams left."

Martin leads the balanced Stanford offense, mixing a strong passing attack with a steady ground game.

"Martin does an excellent job mixing up the plays, and he has a tremendous arm," said Landry.

The defense of the Studs has dominated this year, limiting their opponents to six points in five games.

"On defense, we force a lot of turnovers, which leads to points," noted Landry. "It is hard to single out any individual stars on the team. We really play as a unit."

Giving Stanford its stiffest competition will be second-seeded Sorin, which won the Rockne division with a record of 2-0-2. The top two seeds receive byes in the first round, and their opponents will be determined by the winners of this weekend's games.

The first playoff game features fourth-seeded Zahm Hall, which compiled a 4-1 record during the regular season, taking on fifth-seeded Howard. This game looks to be a throwback to old-time football, as both teams feature strong running games and solid defenses.

"We are looking for a defensive struggle," said Howard head coach Tom Brennan. "We have improved vastly in all areas, especially our running game. We like to stick to the basics."

Steve Dembrowski, head coach of Zahm, agrees.

"Our defense is our strong point," he said. "All year they have kept us in ballgames, and kept the pressure to score a lot of points off of the offense."

The winner of this game, to be played at 1 p.m. on Sunday on Stepan Field, will take on Stanford in the semi-finals.

The second game will be a rematch of the final regular season game between Flanner and Parseghian Division champion Morrissey. Flanner will be looking for revenge, as the Manorites dominated all phases of the game in winning 13-0.

Flanner head coach Jim Fitzgerald consented, saying that Morrissey was the better team that night.

"But we are a better team than we showed," he qualified. "We just didn't play well. Our defense has been consistently tough, but we got burned on two pass plays. We need to stay away from the big play, and we'll be all right."

The third-seeded Manorites take on Flanner at 2 p.m. Sunday in the second half of the playoff doubleheader at Stepan Field, with the winner playing Sorin in the semi-finals.

Both games will feature intense action and emotion, especially for the seniors, who may be playing in their last game. Shake the post-Halloween headache by going out to Stepan Field this Sunday and watching some excellent football.

ND volleyball downs Bradley, 3-1, despite unimpressive performance

By BRIAN O'GARA
Sports Writer

Winning isn't everything. This was proven last night in the ACC Pit as the Notre Dame volleyball team defeated Bradley 15-12, 15-2, 12-15, 15-9. The victory was the 19th win for the Irish this season against only six losses, but it was a subpar performance for the Irish.

In the end, everyone in the gym knew Notre Dame had escaped with a win despite playing below potential, including Irish head coach Art Lambert.

"We just didn't show up for this game," he said. "It was a total team breakdown in every aspect, beginning with concentration. If we play this way (tonight) we'll get blown away."

Tonight the Irish travel to DeKalb, Ill. to face Northern Illinois. The game will be televised at 7 p.m. on a delayed basis by SportsVision.

Last night's Bradley game, meanwhile, got off to a slow start for both teams. The two squads traded points until the Irish finally pulled ahead 13-9 near the end of the game. The Braves then rallied for three straight points before the Irish put them away with a service ace by sophomore Zanette Bennett and a kill by freshman Kathy Cunningham, winning game one 15-12.

The second game was all Notre Dame. The Irish ran up a quick lead of 6-2 with more aggressive play and a strong net performance by sophomore Mary Kay Waller. Waller combined with junior setter Kathy Morin for several blocks to frustrate Bradley, as the Irish then took total control to score nine consecutive points and win the second game with a score of 15-2.

The ACC crowd of 269 sensed a three-game sweep by the Irish, who have swept their opponents in 12 of their 19 wins this season. But this was not to be.

The evening's third game began much like game one, with the two teams battling to a 7-7 tie. The Irish, however, seemed to forget the play that

see IRISH, page 13

86-87 preview

Men's swimming has high hopes

By KATHLEEN McKERNAN
Sports Writer

"I think it's going to be an excellent season," Irish men's swim coach Tim Welsh said. "We're pleased with recruiting. It's a very challenging schedule. The whole scoring system has changed, so we'll have to see."

Notre Dame starts its season tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. in the Rolf's Aquatic Center against a tough Denison squad. A current Division III power, Denison has moved up in the rankings every year for the past few years under last year's Division III Coach of the Year, Richard Burrows.

"It's really an excellent program," Welsh said. "Because of all the scoring changes, it means we really don't know what will happen. It's definitely a huge difference."

Last year in NCAA swim competition, a first-place finish was worth five points, a second added three, while a third netted one. This year, the first five places will be worth seven, four, three, two, and one point respectively. While previously teams could take only two of the three positions in an event, now they can win three out of the five scored positions. Therefore, a team which takes second, third, and fourth out-scores a first, fifth, and sixth finisher.

Changes in relay scores further alter the complexion of meet strategy. Last year a relay victory would give a team seven points; the losers received none. This year, in a large meet, the first place team will receive nine points, with four for second, and two for third.

The Irish swimming and diving team has added a number of freshman to its ranks. The diving team hopes to become competitive this year with four new additions. Ed Veome, a Notre Dame Scholar from LaGrange Park, Ill., joins the team along with fellow freshmen Nick Farmer, a native of Fort Meyers, Fla., and Richard Zell from Chappaqua, New York. Junior Tom Browne has also made a switch to diving.

Mike Messaglia will take the spot in the middle and long distance freestyle events vacated by the graduation of Blaise Harding. Mark Lowney of Orange, Conn. will also add depth to the Irish distance corps.

"Bill Jackoboice will be a tremendous asset to our sprinting corps in both freestyle and fly events," Welsh said. "His versatility will really help. He can also swim the breaststroke. The key thing is he's really fast up front."

David Vreeland of West Palm Beach will compete in the Individual Medley and, with Tom Penn, in the freestyle events. Welsh looks for Penn to better his times considerably.

"His time jumps in high school were significant," Welsh said. "He's a talented swimmer—and a good student of his own ability. He's easy to coach."

Led by captains Stephen Coffey and Chris Walsh, Notre Dame is starting competition a month earlier than last year and has almost twice as many meets. The Irish have also just joined the Eastern Collegiate

see SWIM, page 12

The Observer/Greg Kohs

Flanner (in white) will be one of the teams in the hunt for the 1986 Interhall Football championship, as the playoffs begin this weekend.

Chris Dallavo previews the upcoming games in his story at left.