

THE OBSERVER

Wednesday, October 13, 1993 • Vol. XXVI No. 33

THE INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER SERVING NOTRE DAME AND SAINT MARY'S

Juror dismissed in Denny case Panel told to use 'common sense' in new trial

By MICHAEL FLEEMAN
Associated Press

LOS ANGELES

A jury was ordered to start deliberations over in the Reginald Denny beating case after the judge on Monday dismissed a juror the panel's forewoman said "doesn't use common sense."

Superior Court Judge John Ouderkirk removed a black woman in her 60s who had said in open court that she was struggling to understand issues in the highly charged case against two black defendants.

The judge replaced the woman, identified only as juror 373, with an Asian woman who appeared to be in her 20s, chosen by lottery from three alternates. The jury now has three blacks, four Hispanics, three whites and two Asians.

Attorneys for the two defendants, Damian Williams and Henry Watson, objected to the prosecution's request for the juror's removal. The judge denied their request to postpone his decision until they could appeal.

"This is basis for a mistrial or a new trial," attorney Edi Faal said outside court.

Deputy District Attorney

Janet Moore said the dismissal had nothing to do with the juror's views or personality. Moore said the panelist had been unable to function as a member of the jury.

In a note to Ouderkirk, the jury forewoman said 11 jurors voted to have the woman removed because she was interfering with deliberations.

The note said the woman "cannot comprehend anything that we've been trying to accomplish. We tried patiently to talk and work with her, all to no avail."

"It is unanimous and we feel she shouldn't continue in the deliberations. This has nothing to do with her views on issues or her personality. She doesn't use common sense."

"Lastly, just when we've made progress in final decisions she is totally oblivious to what we discussed or decided."

Ouderkirk replaced the woman after several jurors were interviewed in a closed-door hearing.

The judge said he found that the woman "has been failing to deliberate as the law defines it."

Defense attorneys asked that a transcript of the closed-door session be released. Ouderkirk did not rule on that.

The jury had deliberated for eight days. Juror 373 was the fourth panelist replaced in the case. Two women left during the trial for health reasons, and a man was dismissed just before deliberations for allegedly talking to friends about the case in violation of the judge's instructions.

Williams, 20, and Watson, 29, are accused of attempted premeditated murder and other felonies in the attack on Denny, a white trucker who was pulled from his vehicle and beaten in view of a television news camera aboard a helicopter.

They also are accused of assaulting other motorists on April 29, 1992, during the unrest after four white police officers were acquitted of most state charges in the beating of black motorist Rodney King.

Two of the four officers were later convicted of violating King's federal civil rights.

Sgt. Stacey Koon and former Officer Laurence Powell were expected to surrender Tuesday to begin their 30-month sentences at the minimum security Dublin Federal Prison Camp in northern California.

Michelle Roch/The Observer

Addressing the faculty

University President Father Edward Malloy makes his annual speech to the faculty at the Hesburgh Library.

Race kicks-off festival

By KIMBERLY BERO
News Writer

To coincide with current Oktoberfest activities taking place across campus, Saint Mary's Athletic Department will kick off its annual Oktoberfest Walk/Run at 5:15 this evening in Angela Athletic Facility, according to Assistant Athletic Director Maurine Hardy.

The race will begin at Angela Athletic Facility, and will include both a three mile run and a one and a half mile walk encompassing the Saint Mary's campus. The competition will conclude back at Angela where all participants will receive T-shirts and refreshments. First and second place prizes will be presented and a raffle will be held to give away 40 gift certificates to local businesses.

"We tried to make this an athletic event that would be easily accessible to all members of the Saint Mary's community," stated Hardy. "The Walk/Run should cater to the workout styles of both faculty and students while being a lot of fun at the same time."

There will also be a separate group competition extended to both faculty and students. In this division, the group with the most participants wins a pizza party from Barnaby's. "The group competition really helps to build community spirit and involvement," Hardy said. "It was really popular last year."

Anyone wishing to participate can pre-register at the front desk in Angela. The cost for participation in the race is three dollars, which offsets the overall cost of the Walk/Run.

see OKTOBERFEST/ page 4

HPC safety initiative includes more transportation and increased patrols

By KATE CRISHAM
News Writer

Citing various incidents which have occurred on campus in recent months, the Hall Presidents' Council passed a resolution last night in an attempt to improve campus security.

HALL PRESIDENTS' COUNCIL

The resolution, authored by Pasquerilla West Hall co-President Angie Kerrigan, Alumni Hall co-Presidents Steve Dalton and Dominic Carreira and Lyons Hall co-President Angie Gutermuth, called for increasing the patrolment of student parking lots to an average of once every 30 minutes and for allowing drivers 15 minutes after dark to drop students on campus. The resolution, after motions by Keenan Hall co-President J.P. Kimes and Zahm Hall co-President Kevin Jandora, was passed unanimously by the council.

The council also announced that plans were underway to establish a Taxi Voucher system in the near future.

"The cab companies are eager to get started," said HPC co-Chairperson Jackie Macy. "Notre Dame's policy will be to make this service available to all students."

Keenan Hall co-President Rich Palermo outlined plans to begin a round-trip taxi service which would drive students to various off-campus locations, such as the airport or the mall, for a reduced fee.

"We want to stop drunk driving, but we also want to give people a safer way to and from off-campus," said Palermo.

"What we want to do now is to provide a 24 hour a day, 7 days a week service for students to get off-campus," explained Walsh Hall co-President Maria Capua.

In other news, it was announced that all dorm presidential elections would be held in March, and all presidents would take office on April 1.

Lewis, Keenan, Sorin and Walsh Halls announced that they would be sponsoring a Battle of the Bands from 4-7 p.m. this Thursday at the Fieldhouse Mall. Seven campus bands will be participating.

Radio celebrity shows way to healthy relationships

By MARY GOOD
News Writer

"Am I mistaken or is there some great chemistry going on here?" was the pick-up line that relationships expert and former celebrity radio talk-show hostess, Ellen Gootblatt, recommended in her lecture, "Meeting, Dating, Relating, and Mating," last night at Saint Mary's Carroll Auditorium.

Gootblatt was born and raised in a Jewish neighborhood in Brooklyn, N.Y., where at the age of 18 she met and fell in love with John Duffy, a young man who was studying to become a priest. After four years, the relationship ended when both decided that their long-term goals were too different and Duffy gave Gootblatt up for Lent. This love affair, and subsequent relationships, sparked Gootblatt's interest in the study of human relations and prompted her to write two books on the subject.

Today she is touring colleges using humorous anecdotes to communicate her message about healthy relationships.

"Make yourself fabulous before you reach out to someone else," was Gootblatt's advice to anyone looking to begin or improve a relationship. She asked listeners to look within and determine whether or not they would date themselves.

She also emphasized the importance of never settling for mediocrity. "Reach out only for excellence," she said. People should seek, expect and settle for nothing less than the best, Gootblatt added.

All relationships that are inherently good are worth going for and are meant to be easy, according to Gootblatt. She also spoke about the importance of committing to making such a relationship work. If a person suspects from an instinct that a relationship is bad, she suggests they, "run for the hills," before it is too late.

"Do not take anyone on as a project," she said. The underlying key to healthy relationships is keeping sight of oneself and celebrating your partner. She highlighted this point in question form.

"Am I fine alone and even finer in this relationship?" she asked listeners to ask themselves.

Gootblatt also expressed her concern for the trend in sexual behavior in young people today.

She perceives young attitudes toward intimate relationships follow the script, "Hello, how are you, let's go to bed." She compared sex in today's world to a handshake.

Gootblatt challenged last night's young audience to stop sharing sheets and bodies and to start learning how to share intimacy. Her definition of intimacy includes "going to the edge," by stripping away armor and defenses and participating in relationships that include friendship, trust, loyalty, integrity and fidelity. Without these elements, "You have nothing," she said.

Gootblatt also offered a recipe for her own aphrodisiac.

see GOOTBLATT/ page 4

INSIDE COLUMN

Institutional racism thrives in America

In the song "Know Your Enemy," the pained lead singer of the rock band Rage Against the Machine sings of the American experience: "The Land of the Free? / Whoever told you that is your enemy."

Americans may be technically free to attempt to better themselves. But technical freedom does little where there is little opportunity. It would be difficult to disagree that equal opportunity is a myth in America—especially inner-city America. There are subtle but powerful forces in this country (and the world) which work against minorities, particularly against African-Americans. The academics of race call the sum of these forces "institutional racism."

What else can explain the disparities between blacks and whites in this country?

Such as why African Americans comprise such a small percentage of the people in high paying jobs—CEOs, doctors, lawyers, etc.

Or why the average income of blacks is substantially lower than that of whites.

Or why those in power are doing nothing to remedy the problems in the inner cities of our country.

There are some rays of hope in this bleak picture. Right here in South Bend, there is a quaint little church where blacks and whites come to worship and pray together. The music's great, too. (St. Augustine's Catholic Church, 1501 W. Washington)

Another ray of hope I've encountered exists in an inner city community on Chicago's near West Side: North Lawndale.

There, I volunteered at a Catholic church called St. Agatha's. All involved with that church are devoting their lives to improving conditions in their community. Everyone I met in that community treated me with the utmost kindness and good will.

One of the most important things I learned from my experience seems obvious, yet probably escapes many people: The vast majority of inner city residents live lives similar to all of ours. Family members work, go to school, take care of their children and pray every day to help them make it through. They're trying to live life the best they can. Just like all of us.

The media focuses almost exclusively on all the problems of the inner city. We must realize, however, that it is a very small percentage of the community which is involved with drugs, gangs and guns.

Visits aid in understanding, but whites must realize that they can never have a full understanding of the social reality for blacks—of what it's like to be black in America.

The administration has made efforts to increase the number of minority students at Notre Dame. I suggest that it should continue increasing the number.

I don't pretend to have any answers to our country's racial problems. I do believe, however, that Americans need to recognize the problem. It is mind-bogglingly complex. It is subtle. It is institutional.

African-Americans may have gained political equality in the 1960s. But racial problems will not decrease until blacks in this country have the same opportunity to achieve economic equality that whites have.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

Mark Krejci
Asst. Viewpoint Editor

TODAY'S STAFF

News	Production
Nancy Dunn	Allison Ebel
Suzy Fry	Jackie Moser
Sports	Kathie Young
Rian Aikey	Accent
Viewpoint	Lisa Monaco
Michael O'Hara	Graphics
Lab Tech	Brendan Regan
Dave Hungeling

The Observer (USPS 599 2-4000) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

NATION AT A GLANCE

Kevorkian ordered to stand trial in second assisted suicide charge

REDFORD TOWNSHIP, Mich.

Dr. Jack Kevorkian made himself out to be a martyr after being ordered to stand trial on a second assisted-suicide charge, likening the case to the Inquisition.

Kevorkian is charged with helping Donald O'Keefe, a 73-year-old victim of bone cancer, kill himself Sept. 9 by inhaling carbon monoxide that he released from a canister by tugging on a string tied to his finger with a slipknot. The 65-year-old Kevorkian snickered and shook his head Monday as Judge Karen Khalil refused to dismiss the charge on constitutional grounds. Arraignment was set for Oct. 26; no immediate trial date was set. "You people are witnessing the Inquisition. It's still alive," Kevorkian told reporters as he left the courthouse, free on $10,000 bail. Kevorkian was found at O'Keefe's bedside just hours after being ordered to stand trial for his part in the suicide of Thomas Hyde, a 30-year-old victim of Lou Gehrig's disease. The trial is set for Feb. 15. The retired pathologist admitted he helped Hyde kill himself, but he has remained silent about his role in O'Keefe's death. Kevorkian has been present at 18 suicides since 1990. He could get four years in prison on each assisted-suicide charge, under a law that was rushed through the Legislature to stop him.

Dr. Kevorkian's timetable

Dr. Jack Kevorkian continues to participate in suicides despite Michigan's ban on assisted suicide and the suspension of his license to practice medicine.

Assisted suicide

June 4, 1990	Janet Adkins, 54, Portland, Ore.	Feb. 4, 1993	Stanley Ball, 82, Leland, Mich. Mary Biernat, 73, Crown Point, Ind.
Oct. 23, 1991	Sherry Miller, 43, Roseville, Mich. Marjorie Wantz, 58, Sodus, Mich.	Feb. 8, 1993	Elaine Goldbaum, 47, Southfield, Mich.
May 15, 1992	Susan Williams, 52, Clawson, Mich.	Feb. 15, 1993	Hugh Gale, 70, Roseville, Mich.
Sept. 26, 1992	Lois F. Hawes, 52, Warren, Mich.	May 16, 1993	Ron Mansur, 54, Detroit, Mich.
Nov. 23, 1992	Catherine Andreyev, 45, Moon Township, Pa.	Aug. 4, 1993	Thomas Hyde, 30, Detroit, Mich.
Dec. 15, 1992	Marguerite Tate, 70, Auburn Hills, Mich. Marcella Lawrence, 67, Mt. Clemens, Mich.	Sept. 9, 1993	Don O'Keefe, 73, Redford Township, Mich.
Jan. 20, 1993	Jack Elmer Miller, 53, Huron Township, Mich.

AP/Wm. J. Castello

Clinton OKs aid for flood victims

WASHINGTON

President Clinton made available $65 million in emergency funds Tuesday to address public health problems and social service needs resulting from flooding of the Mississippi River and its tributaries in the upper Midwest.

A White House statement said the money will be used to prevent the spread of disease, repair public health clinics and provide social services for the elderly.

The funds were allocated by Congress in an emergency supplemental appropriations act, contingent on the president submitting a budget request and designating an amount needed for emergency purposes.

Of the $75 million appropriated for that purpose, $65 million now is available with no further congressional action required.

Powell and Koon regular prisoners

DUBLIN, Calif.

Two Los Angeles police officers convicted in the Rodney King beating were fingerprinted and photographed Tuesday as they began 2 1/2-year sentences at a minimum-security prison. No special arrangements were made for former Officer Laurence Powell and Sgt. Stacey Koon, although officials said crowding has eased at the Federal Prison Camp in Dublin, so the two won't be sleeping on the floor as originally planned. Because of crowding at the prison, officials said earlier that Koon and Powell would have to sleep on mattresses on the floor until beds for them became available. But Killian said Tuesday the crowding had eased. "We had some problems a few weeks ago, but now everyone has a bed," she said. Despite the improved conditions, the presence of only a few guards and the absence of barbed wire, Koon and Powell will endure cheerless conditions during their stay, officials said. Prisoners work as roofers, electricians, cooks, orderlies, landscapers or in other manual jobs for which they are paid 12 to 14 cents an hour, Killian said. Despite their being officers and the notoriety surrounding the case, "They're housed in the general population," said prison spokeswoman Janice Killian. The two surrendered to prison authorities 10 minutes before a noon deadline.

Navy ship loses marijuana load

MIAMI

A ship intercepted by the U.S. Navy with 7,000 pounds of marijuana aboard sank while being towed to Colombia. Only two bales, totaling 100 pounds, were saved for evidence, Coast Guard spokesman Rob Wyman said Tuesday. The 40-foot Colombian-registered Elena de Troya was spotted Sunday by the crew of a Navy aircraft 90 miles north of Colombia's Guajira Peninsula. A Navy ship carrying a drug-tracking Coast Guard detachment intercepted the vessel and found four crewmen, along with 138 50-pound bales of marijuana. The Navy ship, which the Coast Guard would not identify, took the Elena de Troya in tow to hand over to Colombian authorities but it began taking on water and capsized, Wyman said. The ship's crew were handed over to Colombian officials on Monday.

Convicted killer suing maker of Halcion

TAMPA, Fla.

A convicted killer who blames his crimes on the sleeping pill Halcion is suing the drug's maker. William Jones of Riverdale, Ga., accuses The Upjohn Co. of failing to investigate possible dangers of Halcion before distributing it to the public. His lawsuit says he has no memory of killing Arthur and Catherine Schilling because he was under the control of the drug. Kaye Bennett, a spokeswoman for the Kalamazoo, Mich.-based Upjohn, said Tuesday she could not comment on the lawsuit because she had not seen it. But she defended the drug. "Halcion has been used by millions of people and there is no indication it would cause that type of behavior. We stand behind our product," Bennett said. Schilling, 62, had been stabbed twice and shot twice. His wife, 64, was shot five times and stabbed 17 times. Critics have said Halcion can cause serious side effects, including short-term memory loss, violent behavior and hallucinations. The federal Food and Drug Administration concluded in 1992 it was safe and effective when used as directed. In November 1992, a Texas jury awarded $2.15 million to the family of a man who said Halcion altered his personality and made him kill a friend.

INDIANA Weather

Wednesday, Oct. 13

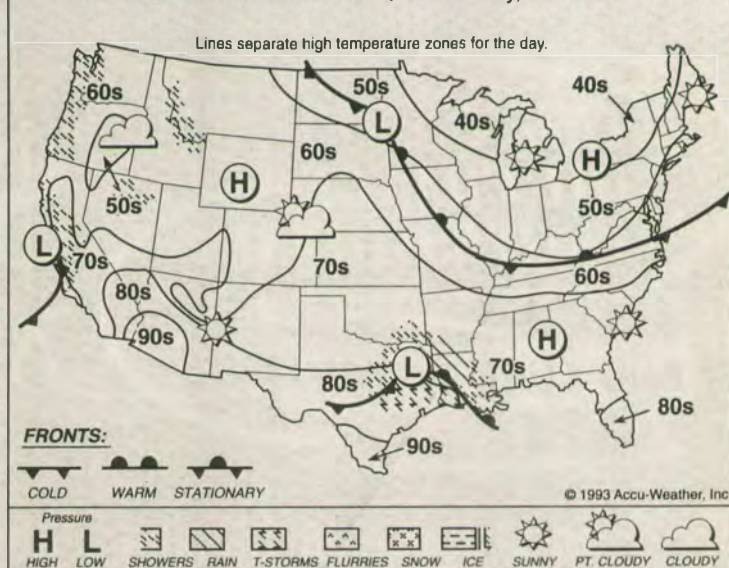

Accu-Weather® forecast for daytime conditions and high temperatures

Showers T-storms Rain Flurries Snow Ice Sunny Pt. Cloudy Cloudy
Via Associated Press GraphicsNet ©1993 Accu-Weather, Inc.

NATIONAL Weather

The Accu-Weather® forecast for noon, Wednesday, Oct. 13.

	H	L
Athens	88	61	Jerusalem	81	63	Phoenix	89	70
Atlanta	63	51	London	59	54	Reno	65	51
Boston	47	34	Los Angeles	80	42	Rome	75	52
Chicago	58	32	Minneapolis	62	35	Seoul	70	52
Cleveland	59	31	New York	54	40	Toronto	51	40
Dallas	72	54	Paris	66	59	Tokyo	73	59
			Philadelphia	60	40	Washington, D.C.	59	40

Philanthropic activities more accessible with service center

By PATTI CARSON
News Writer

A new service center will improve relations between the students and the Holy Cross Sisters of Saint Mary's College, said Sister Miriam Cooney (CSS) at last night's Board of Governance (BOG) meeting.

BOARD OF GOVERNANCE

Sister Miriam proposed the idea of the Saint Mary's Christian Service Center (SMCSC) to the members of BOG and expressed an interest in creating the center during this Sesquicentennial year. Sister Miriam briefly discussed the plan's budget, which would include funding for remodeling, vehicles, computers and trained personnel.

The center would work in collaboration with SURV (Spes Unica Resource and Volunteer) to organize and coordinate service activities for students, faculty, alumnae and the Holy Cross Sisters of Saint Mary's, according to SURV President Kristin Johnson. SMCSC would also provide a place to hold meetings and lectures on campus. Classes would be able to perform service projects through the center; thus, enabling social work majors a more convenient opportunity to fulfill their requirements.

The center would probably employ Holy Cross Sisters for the positions of director and secretary, but a student coordinator would also be needed.

Delegates from BOG will meet to hear the concrete proposal today in Madeleva Hall before any measures are taken in support of the plan.

In other business:

- Hall section pictures will be taken on November 3 by King Shots Photography.

- The all campus masquerade ball will be held this Saturday in the Haggard College Center from 8pm-midnight. There will be a raffle, live bands, movies and a haunted house. A costume shop is on campus renting outfits today and tomorrow.

- There is a retreat planned for Notre Dame and Saint Mary's women on October 17 from 11am-6pm at the Michigan Lake Dunes. Contact Saint Mary's Campus Ministry at 284-5391 if interested.

Michelle Roch/The Observer

Staying healthy

A Notre Dame student receives a flu shot in the Hesburgh Library corridor. The shots are being administered free of charge in an attempt to help prevent the outbreak of a flu epidemic.

World Bank supports women

By TOM MORAN
News Writer

The World Bank is striving to take an active part in improving the status of women in the Third World, according to Douglas Keare, chief of the World Bank's population and resource division for the Middle East and North Africa.

Keare lectured yesterday to students and faculty on "Gender Issues in Developing Countries: Perspectives from the World Bank." The World Bank is the United Nations organization dedicated to improving the economic conditions of underprivileged countries.

Keare said that the World

Bank, which until the 1960's took absolutely no part in women's issues, has recently begun taking strides in the right direction. When the Bank underwent a massive reorganization in 1987, a human resources department was established. The operations of this department encompass gender issues.

Keare listed the four basic services that the World Bank hopes to bring to the women of developing countries:

- To free them from undue burdens and constraints, such as those caused by the low technology of food preparation equipment in poor countries.

- To allow them "to fully develop (their) own human capital" through proper education and training.

- To let them gain full control over their own bodies and well-being.

- To allow them to exercise a fully productive role in society, both in the field of production and in politics.

Keare cited a recent program in the Middle Eastern country of Yemen as an example of the World Bank's new emphasis on gender issues. Keare said that the educational system of Yemen constituted a "vicious cycle": girls seldom went to school because there were few female teachers, and there were few female teachers because so few girls attended school.

The World Bank began a program of female teacher education in Yemen, Keare said. They convinced the government to drop certain teacher qualifications, allowing villages to select their own teachers, whom the Bank subsequently trained. The Bank also built new housing and raised subsidies to help the new teachers, Keare stated.

Such innovative projects have made Keare "guardedly optimistic" about the future of the World Bank's gender-related programs. However, he said, there are many aspects of the Bank that are not conducive to gender issues.

"Get to know the law before the law gets to know you"

Presented by the SUDS Task Force

Thursday, October 14th -- 8:30 PM

Notre Dame Room of LaFortune Student Center

If you are currently in a dating relationship, we are interested in your views about yourself, your partner and the relationship.

We would like to send you a survey to complete at your convenience. As a way of thanking you for your help, we will enter your name in a lottery to win one of many exciting prizes, including CASH!

Please call us at 631-8791 for information or to sign up. We thank you for your help.

(Prizes: cash prizes, dinner for 2 at Nick's Patio, General Cinema movie passes, Bonnie Doon's ice cream)

Relationships research project
Department of Psychology
University of Notre Dame

THE CUSHWA CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF AMERICAN CATHOLICISM

presents

"TEJANO LAY INITIATIVES IN WORSHIP, 1830 - 1860"

Dr. Timothy M. Matovina
Mexican American Cultural Center, San Antonio

Thursday, October 14, 1993
4:15 p.m.

Hesburgh Library Lounge

HAO DANCE

featuring Los Bandits
(Tejano Group) at Stepan Center on October 15th starting at 9 p.m.

THE OIL CHANGE PROFESSIONALS

FAST LUBE SYSTEMS

On U.S. 31 Between Douglas and Cleveland Roads

271-7767

SAVE
$5<sup>00</sup>
OFF
ANY LUBE SERVICE

expires
10/30/93

Dr. Herb True

The World's Greatest Edu-Tainer

...Will be speaking at the CAPP Honor Society meeting on October 13, 1993 at 7pm in Debartolo, Room 120. He will be speaking on the importance of interpersonal skills in today's world. Communication is of vital importance and without good communication skills, a key characteristic employers look for, it is very difficult to get a job. Dr. True has delivered over 3000 speeches all around the world.

Come join us!

All are welcome to attend.

Wednesday, October 13th
7:00 pm
Debartolo Room 120

Militia cease-fire holds, US jets buzz Mogadishu

By REID MILLER
Associated Press

NAIROBI, Kenya U.N. forces welcomed a cease-fire by Mohamed Farrah Aidid, and contacts were under way Monday to find a long-term solution to Somalia's agony. But the United Nations staged a show of force that shook Mogadishu overnight, and an Aidid spokesman branded it a provocation.

After a third night in Mogadishu without attacks on fortified U.N. positions, Jonathan Howe, the U.N. special envoy to Somalia, told reporters: "We welcome all overtures of peace and stability in Mogadishu, as we have seen them in the rest of the country."

It was unclear whether the cease-fire reflected an effort by Aidid to help the negotiations, or simply a decision to lie low for the time being. The United States has decided to withdraw almost all its forces, the backbone of the U.N. presence, by March 31.

Fighting between U.N. peacekeepers and Aidid's militiamen has been largely confined to the part of Mogadishu controlled by Aidid. Leaders of the other 14 main factions generally are cooperating with U.N. forces elsewhere in rebuilding the nation after a devastating civil war and famine.

Aidid reportedly announced the suspension of attacks in a radio broadcast Saturday.

The move was timed for the Sunday arrival of President Clinton's envoy, Robert Oakley, who is exploring a negotiated settlement of the conflict.

Oakley met with Aidid's representatives on Sunday, said a diplomat in Mogadishu. The source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said he did not know specifics of the discussions.

American F-18 Hornet fighters and A-6 Intruder bombers roared low over the seaside capital Monday, the thunder of their engines rattling windows and emphasizing Clinton's decision to reinforce the U.S. peacekeeping contingent.

Before dawn, U.S. AC-130 aerial gunships fired their radar-guided cannons at mock targets in an unpopulated area near the city. It was the second time in three nights that the four-engine gunships tested their weapons, the same kind used to blast Aidid's home and weapons caches in the first major retaliatory raids against the warlord in mid-June.

in Carroll Auditorium. She filed through a stack of index cards and discussed answers to questions that audience members had written on them prior to her lecture.

In light of the great number of students who expressed an anxiety about not being engaged upon graduation, she offered some realistic insight. Young people should not move from their parents' home, to the dormitory, directly into marriage, according to Gootblatt. "At some point, it must be your own home and your own budget," she said.

last year's record of 85 participants.

"The Walk/Run will be competitive because there are some good racers," states Dawn Kokot, one of last year's participants. "But, you can go at your own pace, too."

"The Oktoberfest Walk/Run is a great idea—it's convenient, it's fun and, basically, it's just a good time," said Kokot.

Gootblatt

continued from page 1

"Shared history and continuity with one person," are all that are needed she said.

"Sex should never be taken, but always given lovingly, willingly, wholly and fully," she stated.

At the conclusion of her presentation, Gootblatt spoke personally and candidly on issues specifically troubling the crowd

Octoberfest

continued from page 1

Thus far, about 40 contestants comprised of both faculty and students have entered the race. The final entrance total is anticipated at over 100 competitors, which would surpass

Pentagon appeal delays gay rights

By SUSANNE SCHAFER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

The Pentagon will ask the Supreme Court to delay enforcement of a federal court order that banned discrimination against gays in the military, a spokeswoman said Tuesday.

"We will seek extraordinary relief from the Supreme Court," Kathleen deLaski told reporters at a Pentagon briefing.

In the meantime, the Pentagon has instructed units to suspend its ban on homosexuals in the military while it pursues the case, she said.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals last Friday left in place an order issued Sept. 30 by U.S. District Judge Terry Hatter Jr. of Los Angeles banning discrimination against gays in the military.

A three-judge panel of the 9th Circuit court unanimously denied the Defense Department's emergency request to suspend or immediately overturn Hatter's decision.

On Oct. 1, Assistant Secretary of Defense Edwin Dorn issued a memorandum saying that, "No administrative action will be taken based solely on a service member's homosexual orientation or statements of homosexuality."

The most common questions dealt with long distance relationships, appropriate times to get engaged and the elements of jealousy and trust in relationships.

Jealousy is about ownership, not love, Gootblatt explained. If geared into constructive, controllable channels, it will not harm a relationship. If, however, a significant other begins to call multiple times each afternoon, caution should be taken.

By taking that position, the department is acknowledging its well-established obligation to follow a judge's nationwide injunction, said John McGuire, the attorney for a gay sailor whose lawsuit led to the ruling.

In asking the court to suspend Hatter's ruling, Justice Department lawyers said it would "seriously interfere with management of day-to-day military affairs."

The appeals court's order did not comment on the merits of the case. But McGuire said the order "demonstrates a certain degree of confidence by the appeals court in Judge Hatter's finding."

The decision was issued by Circuit Judges Otto Skopil, David Thompson and Pamela Rymer. The same panel will hear the administration's appeal of Hatter's ruling in December.

The Pentagon delayed implementation of President Clinton's "don't ask, don't tell, don't pursue" policy on Oct. 1 while it awaited congressional action on the issue and dealt with the court challenges.

The Defense Department said that for the time being the interim policy that Clinton ordered in January would continue. That policy stops the practice of questioning recruits about their sexual orientation and transfers to reserve status those who declare their homosexuality.

But the Oct. 1 memo by Dorn, who is responsible for personnel issues, halts transfers as well as discharges.

"Administrative discharge cases based solely upon homosexual orientation or statements of homosexuality will be held in abeyance," the memo said. "No member will be discharged or transferred to the standby reserve solely on the basis of homosexual orientation or statements of homosexuality."

Clinton's policy ends the practice of questioning recruits or service members about their sexual orientation. But the military will discharge members "who engage in homosexual conduct, which is defined as a homosexual act, a statement that the member is homosexual or bisexual, or a marriage or attempted marriage to someone of the same gender."

Hatter ordered an end to discrimination in a written order that broadened his January ruling that the Pentagon's ban on homosexuals was unconstitutional.

The case deals with a gay sailor, Petty Officer Keith Meinhold, who filed a lawsuit challenging the military's ban on homosexuals.

Free Popcorn We're Still Open
Daily from 4 p.m. to 3 a.m. Free Popcorn

THE COMMONS

"The Tradition Continues"

The 1994 Echoing Green Public Service Fellowship

What would you do if someone gave you $15,000 because they believed in you and your ideas?

- Aran is going to Costa Rica to start an organization which recruits, trains, and places volunteers in Latin American environmental NGOs.
- Jennifer is continuing a youth leadership program in the Bronx which reclaims abandoned lots and turns them into community gardens.
- Sara is starting a youth entrepreneurship program for young people in Boston's lowest-income communities.
- Jael is working in South Dakota with Albert White Hat to write and publish the first Native American Lakota-language textbook to be used in school curriculum.
- Nathaniel is designing and teaching a radical history curriculum to school children in the village of Nonkobe in the Transkei of South Africa.

The 1994 Echoing Green Public Service Fellowship offers outstanding college seniors $15,000 seed money and technical assistance to start innovative projects or organizations in public service. Doing anything. Anywhere in the world. Right after graduation. Challenge yourself and join the 76 other Echoing Green Fellows world-wide who are working with communities to make a difference.

Find out more:

Meet the Echoing Green Program Director

Wednesday, October 13th

125 DeBartolo

4 - 5 p.m.

Applications due February 17th, 1994

An exquisite dining adventure for the wild at heart

When you're ready to experience a different kind of party... let us treat you to the best!

LASALLE GRILL

115 W. Colfax
South Bend
Indiana

Reservations
(219) 288-1155

N.D. / S.M.C. I.D. = F.D.

(Notre Dame or St. Mary's College Identification Equals a Free Dessert.)
OFFER EXCLUDES FOOTBALL AND PARENT'S WEEKENDS

Foreign activities persist despite domestic problems

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. President Clinton declared Tuesday night that the United States "cannot withdraw from the world we have done so much to make" just because there are limits to what can be done to solve internal problems.

Speaking at the 200th anniversary of the University of North Carolina, Clinton said the post-Cold War world "is full of hope ... but not without its heartbreak."

"The oppression of communist control has disappeared, but that disappearance has reopened ugly ethnic and religious divisions," he said.

The president warned against returning to isolationism, despite the increasingly complex and difficult foreign policy crises facing his administration and the world.

He spelled out his world view on the day he recalled a U.S. warship that had been not allowed to dock in Haiti and several days after he vowed to end the U.S. military presence in Somalia by March 31.

Both were elements of U.N. missions.

"The United Nations can do more good than ever before, but clearly there are limits to what outside forces can do to solve the severe internal problems of some countries."

Still, Clinton added: "We cannot withdraw from the world we have done so much to make."

Clinton, addressing a stadium audience of more than 40,000 on a crisp clear night, expressed "gratitude and my profound sympathy" for six servicemen from Fort Bragg, N.C., who were killed in Somalia.

Kohl's candidacy jeopardized

By TERRENCE PETTY
Associated Press

BONN, Germany Chancellor Helmut Kohl rejected the World Jewish Congress' view that his candidacy for Germany's new president is unacceptable because of his statements about Germany's Nazi past.

"This is a question for the Germans to decide, and I don't need any instruction from the World Jewish Congress," Kohl said in an interview on the Sat-1 cable television network.

Kohl's Christian Democrats have nominated Steffen Heitmann, justice minister for eastern Germany's Saxony state, as their candidate to succeed President Richard von Weizsaecker.

A successor to Weizsaecker will be elected in March.

The World Jewish Congress and other Jewish groups have criticized Heitmann's views on the Holocaust.

In a recent interview, Heitmann suggested that it's time for Germans to put the Nazi past behind them.

Jewish leaders say that kind of talk encourages right-wing extremists, who have been attacking foreigners and desecrating Holocaust memorials since Germany was reunited three years ago.

Kohl, who personally selected Heitmann, says Heitmann is misunderstood and the victim of a campaign by leftists to discredit Kohl's government.

Heitmann's critics say he shouldn't be running for the largely ceremonial but still important post if he can't state his views more clearly.

In the past, Weizsaecker has won praise around the world for saying Germans must learn from what happened under the Nazis to prevent it from ever happening again.

Kohl's three-party governing coalition developed a serious crack over the issue on Monday when the junior coalition partners, the Free Democrats, said they could not endorse Heitmann.

Major FBI positions eliminated

By CAROLYN SKORNECK
Associated Press

WASHINGTON Just six weeks after becoming

FBI director, Louis Freeh on Tuesday announced a reorganization that eliminates two associate deputy directors and four dozen other management posts.

Freeh announced he was abolishing the posts of Weldon Kennedy, associate deputy director for administration, and W. Douglas Gow, the associate deputy director for investigations.

"The changes are not based on lack of confidence in those holding these positions," Freeh said in a statement. "All have given many years of devoted service to the FBI and will be offered other posts in the bureau. No one will be discharged."

But now new assignments were announced Tuesday for Kennedy and Gow or the other officials who will lose their titles.

Gow is already serving past the mandatory retirement age of 57, said FBI spokesman Charles Mandigo, but Kennedy is not.

Such information may be revealed at a news conference scheduled for Wednesday at the FBI, where Freeh was expected to announce wholesale changes in assignments, particularly at the crucial level of assistant director.

One FBI official said he expected about 50 percent of those assignments to change.

Under the reorganization, the assistant directors who head individual divisions and the New York City field office will report directly to Freeh and Deputy Director Floyd Clarke.

In addition, a new assistant directorship will be created for the head of the Washington Metropolitan field office, in recognition of that office's importance in anti-crime and foreign counterintelligence work. Most field offices are led by a special agent.

Whatever your style
...we have it all!

- Glasses in 1-3 hours...EVERYDAY!
- Best prices...EVERYDAY!
- Best selection...over 1500 frame styles (including designer eyewear)
- Our own glass and plastic laboratory to assure quality.

C&B Optical One

SOUTH BEND
4121 S. Michigan
(U.S. 31 South)
291-9200

MISHAWAKA
5327 Grape Road
(1/2 Mi. S. of University Park Mall)
277-8121

OCTOBER IS CUSTOMER APPRECIATION MONTH

THANK YOU
SPECIALS

2¢ COPIES
Limit 500 per customer,
8.5" x 11" White Bond.

49¢ FAX
Sending & Receiving, domestic transmissions only, per page.
Phone charges may apply.

$2 OFF UPS
Ground, 2-Day or Overnight
& All Other UPS Services.
Per customer, per day.

MAIL BOXES ETC.
181 15 S.R. 23
(Martin's Ironwood Plaza)
South Bend, IN 46637
(219) 277-6245
Fax(219)277-7679
Open:
9am-7pm Mon-Fri
10am-6pm Sat

Franchises Independently Owned & Operated.

©1992 Mail Boxes Etc.

NOTRE DAME STUDENTS, FACULTY, STAFF, RETIREES & RETIREE SPOUSES:

free flu shots

dates: OCTOBER 12th, 13th & 14th

times: 9:30 am - 6:30 pm (12th & 13th) 9:30 am - 12 noon (14th)

locations: LIBRARY CONCOURSE
LAFORTUNE /O'HARA LOUNGE

Must present N.D. identification and wear short-sleeved shirt/top in order to receive injection

Sponsored by Student Affairs & Human Resources

US Haitian effort complicated

Army-backed mob blocks troops from landing

By ED McCULLOUGH
Associated Press

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti
Army-backed toughs, warning of another Somalia, blocked American troops from landing as part of a U.N. peace mission in Haiti on Monday and drove away U.S. diplomats waiting to greet them.

A band of 25 to 50 men, some of them armed, then beat up merchants in the nearby market and fired guns while roving through the capital, including near the seaside U.S. Embassy. No casualties were reported. The gunmen later took over state Radio Nationale.

U.S. and U.N. officials said the disturbances would not halt the overall peace mission. But it was yet another direct challenge by the military to the U.N. efforts to restore democracy to Haiti.

Although the group was small, they clearly had the support of the powerful Haitian army's police division, which stood by or even helped the gang. Haiti's army commander later defended Haitians' right to protest, although he deplored the violence and occupation of state media.

In Washington, the Clinton administration demanded that the Haitian military explain why the troops were not allowed to land.

The U.N. Security Council adopted a U.S. statement Monday that said it was "imperative" that Haiti's armed forces ensure the safe landing of the troops. The statement warned that sanctions could be imposed if the Haitian military did not comply.

Monday's landing was to begin in earnest the peace mission to restore democracy and rebuild the economy. About 100 U.N. personnel — including 25 U.S. troops — are already in the country to do advance work.

After the disturbances, the White House delayed the deployment of the nearly 200 American military medics, engineers and civil affairs specialists aboard the USS Harlan County, an amphibious landing ship anchored 800 yards offshore. There was no word on when the troops might dock.

Following the killing of at

U.S. mission to Haiti

U.S. troops on a multinational peace mission received a hostile reception today when their warship was blocked from docking and embassy personnel were chased away from the port by an angry mob.

least 17 American soldiers in Somalia last week, criticism has been growing in the United States over participation in the mission.

The docking "will not take place until we have a permissive environment. That is, one that is safe for the men in the U.N. mission," U.S. Army Maj. Jim Hinnant, a mission spokesman, told The Associated Press. Hinnant, a member of the U.S. advance team flown in last week, said negotiations were under way between mission officials and the Haitian government.

Port officials supported by the Haitian military blocked the Harlan County's docking by moving another ship to the pier where arrangements were made days ago for the U.S. ship to berth at 10 a.m. Monday.

Guards at the dock refused to let Vicki Huddleston, deputy chief of mission at the U.S. Embassy, enter the gate, and police stood by or blocked traffic while a group of shouting Haitians filed off a bus.

Described later by a trembling Huddleston as "a group of gangsters, a group of thugs," the men shoved diplomats and reporters gathered for the scheduled docking, then punched and kicked their cars as they fled.

"We don't want foreigners coming here and trying to tell us what to do!" one man screamed. Another shouted: "We're going to do to them what they did in Somalia!" About a half-dozen men made similar references to Somalia.

Army commander Raoul Cedras later defended Haitians' right to protest the U.N. mission.

"The armed forces deplore that citizens who are worried about their national sovereignty and demonstrate to demand clarity in government have been called 'gangsters' and 'thugs' by members of the international community," Cedras told reporters, reading from a statement.

But he added: "The armed forces energetically condemn the acts of violence that occurred during the morning." He refused to answer questions.

On Monday night, about 200 Haitians maintained a peaceful anti-U.N. vigil along Harry S Truman Boulevard in the docks area. The group was protected by soldiers.

Haiti's military is betting the international community does not have the will to force it from power. The military seized control two years ago by overthrowing President Jean-Bertrand Aristide, Haiti's first freely elected leader.

Still, Aristide is widely popular with Haiti's poor masses, and there is overwhelming support among ordinary Haitians for a U.N. peace plan that would put the traditionally repressive military back in the barracks.

Yeltsin visits Japan just after quelling rebellion

By DAVID THURBER
Associated Press

TOKYO

Japan rolled out the red carpet for Russian President Boris Yeltsin on Tuesday, but the public goodwill could change to private tension in talks with Prime Minister Morihiro Hosokawa.

Emperor Akihito presided over a morning welcoming ceremony for the Russian leader, who later in the day was to have a luncheon with top business leaders and meet with Hosokawa.

The talks were expected to involve Japan's demands that Russia turn over several small northern islands seized by Soviet troops in the closing days of World War II — a topic Yeltsin has said he did not want to discuss.

Yeltsin faces the dilemma that surrendering the islands would weaken his strength at home, while keeping them could prompt Tokyo to cut off badly needed aid to his ailing economy.

Because of the lingering tensions, which have also kept the two nations from signing a World War II peace treaty, Yeltsin is only the second Moscow leader to visit since the war. Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev visited Japan in 1991.

Yeltsin cancelled planned visits twice.

Before arriving Monday night, Yeltsin said he hoped the trip would focus on developing closer relations between the two countries, "particularly in the economic sphere."

In a brief meeting with Yeltsin while they were riding from the airport to central Tokyo, Japanese Foreign Minister Tsutomu Hata stressed his desire to forge "a true partnership" with Russia, Japanese news media reported.

Japan already has pledged $5 billion in aid to Russia and has no plans to expand that help. However, Japan apparently is willing next year to reschedule $1 billion in debts owed by Russia, the national newspaper Asahi said Monday.

Happy 22nd
Birthday to the Guy with Big Feet but Plenty of Nerve!

Love,
Greg, Jake, & Kyle

FALL FESTIVAL '93

Come and help us beautify the Northeast Neighborhood!

On November 6
(no, there's not a game), we will plant flowers and clean up an area of the Northeast Neighborhood, and then, we're throwing a block party!

Sign up at SDH, NDH, the CSC, LaFortune Info Desk, Student Government and with your Hall Presidents!

We want you!

The NDE Fourth Day Community Proudly Presents

Catherine Lacugna

of the Notre Dame Department of Theology

on

"The Trinity and Relationships"

Wednesday Night 7:15

in the Keenan/Stanford Chapel

Refreshments will be served afterwards

Trial begins in Colorado anti-gay rights lawsuit

By CARL HILLIARD
Associated Press

DENVER
Supporters of Amendment 2 wanted to send a message to homosexuals that "we just don't like them," an attorney argued Tuesday at the start of a trial on the constitutionality of the state's anti-gay rights law.

Attorneys for the state are defending the law, trying to prove gays should not be a protected class, that they have political clout and that they may change their sexual proclivity.

A coalition of cities and individuals challenged Amendment 2, saying individual or group rights can't be infringed upon because a majority of citizens want it so.

The trial will be closely watched as witnesses for both sides were expected to testify on the sociology, economics and political power of the gay rights movement.

Mayor Wellington Webb, the first witness called Tuesday, acknowledged that Amendment 2 doesn't prevent homosexuals from voting. But he said its passage "denied them protection against discrimination in the cities in which they reside."

He said every individual and group deserves protection from discrimination. Jack Wesoky, an assistant state attorney general, asked if the protection extended to "short, bald guys," and Webb replied, "Yes, if they are being discriminated against."

Webb had been expected to testify about Denver's gay-rights ordinance, but the issue was only touched on briefly.

LeAnna Ware of the Wisconsin Civil Rights Bureau testified that about 100 of 8,000 complaints received by her agency every year pertain to discrimination based on sexual orientation. Wisconsin has a gay rights law.

She said the number of complaints required at least one additional employee to process them.

Minorities plagued by risky sex

By JAMES RUBIN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Most Americans are monogamous, but a significant minority engages in high-risk behavior by having multiple partners without always using condoms, according to a new survey.

The study, published this week in the American Journal of Public Health, said most sexually active Americans "are not placing themselves or their partners at high risk for exposure to HIV through sex with multiple partners." HIV is the virus that causes AIDS.

Barbara Leigh of the University of Washington in Seattle, an author of the study, said the survey shows, "There is an awful lot of monogamy going on out there."

Also, she said, those who reported having more than one sex partner in the previous year were more likely to use a condom for sex with a casual partner than a primary partner.

"That's encouraging," she said.

The report said, "Having multiple sexual partners over a certain time period does not necessarily imply infidelity."

It said those people likely are practicing "serial monogamy," being sexually faithful to each partner in turn.

Of those who said they had more than one partner in the previous 12 months, 85 percent said all their partners were either spouses or someone to whom they felt committed. Only 4 percent of the married people reported having more than one partner in the last year.

Also, the report said, "Although people rarely use condoms with primary partners, they are somewhat more likely to use condoms with casual partners."

Among those who had more than one sexual partner in the previous year, only 8 percent said they used condoms every time they had sex. But 23 percent said they used a condom every time with their non-primary partners.

House lifts restrictions on granting aid to PLO, office in DC now possibility

By JIM ABRAMS
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

The House agreed Tuesday to a bill that lifts restrictions on aid to the Palestine Liberation Organization and opens the way for the PLO to set up an office in Washington.

The voice-vote approval came a day after PLO Chairman

Yasser Arafat won endorsement from the organization's policy-making council for the peace accord with Israel signed in Washington on Sept. 13.

The Senate has already passed a similar measure, and Senate and House delegations are expected to meet this week to work out differences.

The Middle East Peace Facilitation Act authorizes President Clinton to waive legal provisions that prohibit the PLO from operating offices in the United States or receiving U.S. funds through international organizations.

The administration has pledged to contribute $250 million over the next two years as part of an international effort to promote development in the new Palestinian self-government areas of the West Bank and Gaza, now occupied by Israel.

The bill sets a Jan. 1 expiration date for the presidential waiver, and requires that new legislation be in effect by then if the waiver is to continue. Lawmakers set the deadline as a means of ensuring that the PLO is living up to its commitment to recognize Israel's peace and security and renounce violence.

Rep. Howard Berman, D-Calif., said quick passage was crucial because "it is critically important that Palestinians begin to see concrete improvements in their economic well-being and quality of life."

He noted that the House Foreign Affairs Committee had approved an amendment to the Senate version that "alerts the PLO of Congress' expectation that prior to any further waiver of this kind being approved the PLO will actively work for an end to the Arab boycott of Israel."

Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., said PLO silence on the economic boycott was one reason he opposed the bill.

"It strikes me as extremely anomalous that at the very same time that we are lifting restrictions in preparations of sending aid to the PLO, we do not hear a peep about ending the economic boycott not only of Israel but of any American firm that does business with Israel," he said.

The House also approved most-favored-nation trade status for Romania on Tuesday, endorsing a July 2 decision by Clinton to give Romania access to the lower tariffs enjoyed by almost all other U.S. trading partners.

Press here for a great data processing career.

The right time. The right place. State Farm is hiring.

If you're a senior with a data processing, computer science or math background, there may be a very special career opportunity waiting for you in one of the largest corporate data processing facilities in the country.

There are actuarial and auditing jobs open, too.

Blue chip. Green light. State Farm is one of America's leading insurance companies. Through innovative marketing and a proud service tradition it has become the nation's leading auto and homeowner's insurer, and one of the top life insurance companies in the country.

You'll receive expert training. You'll work on state-of-the-art data processing equipment. You'll go as far and as fast as you can.

You couldn't have a more solid base to build a career on.

Contact your campus Placement Director about State Farm today.

Or write Daryl Watson, Assistant Director, Home Office Personnel Relations, One State Farm Plaza, Bloomington, Illinois 61710.

STATE FARM INSURANCE COMPANIES. Home Offices: Bloomington, Illinois. An Equal Opportunity Employer.

50 cent minimum wage increase won't cost jobs

By JOHN McCLAIN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Labor Secretary Robert Reich says the minimum hourly wage could be increased by 50 cents, to $4.75, without costing jobs.

President Clinton

President Clinton, who had urged a minimum wage increase during his campaign, had asked Reich for his recommendations for raising the wage floor.

"My conclusion is that the minimum wage could be raised to $4.75 an hour without any effect on job loss," he said in response to a question at a National Press Club luncheon.

"The question is how best to allocate that 50-cent increase between real wage increases, health care costs or any other benefit for employees."

Reich did not say whether he still favors automatic adjustments to reflect future inflation. He had said in a memo to Clinton last summer that indexing "is a minimum prerequisite to reaching the goal of lifting families of four with full-time workers out of poverty."

Democrats revive jobless benefits

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

House Democrats think they've resolved a dispute that has kept them from reviving a program providing extra benefits to Americans who have been out of work the longest.

Leaders said Tuesday that they had dropped a provision that would have paid for one-third of the $1.1 billion program by making it harder for many elderly recent immigrants to get some welfare. The language had angered Hispanic lawmakers, which with opposition by many Republicans made its House prospects uncertain.

"They responded to a concern the Hispanic caucus had," said Rep. Jose Serrano, D-N.Y., a leader of the House's 20 Hispanic members. "We're very troubled by anything that may have the perception of singling out immigrants."

The House is likely to debate the bill later this week.

Since November 1991, the government has provided extra weeks of coverage to people who have exhausted the basic 26 weeks of jobless benefits. The extended benefits were initiated at a time when the recession was at its deepest.

But for the first time since then, the program expired Oct. 2 because divided Democrats were unable to get a bill renewing the program to the House floor.

The expiration affects 60,000 people who every week use up the basic 26 weeks of coverage.

Its lapse is in stark contrast to Democrats' repeated efforts to create the program and renew it during 1991 and 1992, often in the face of opposition from President Bush. Democrats used the issue during the presidential campaign to cast Bush as uncaring about suffering at home.

In an embarrassment for Democrats, the extra benefits expired at a time when there are more long-term unemployed workers than there were when the program was created in November 1991.

According to the latest Labor Department statistics, there were 1.75 million people last month who were jobless at least 26 weeks. That's 20.5 percent of all unemployed workers.

Rostenkowski's records missing

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Congressional officials are trying to learn why payroll records from Rep. Dan Rostenkowski's office subpoenaed in the House Post Office investigation are missing.

House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash., told reporters Tuesday the U.S. attorney in Washington was notified that payroll documents from one office could not be located. Other officials said they were Rostenkowski's office records, sought by prosecutors and a federal grand jury.

Foley said the missing paperwork authorizes the hiring of an employee or a change in salary. The same information is available on House computers.

"There is no indication that there is any payroll irregularity," Foley told reporters at his regular news conference. "As far as I know, all of the payroll records are in order. There is nothing in just the absence of a payroll authorization, as I understand it, that is in itself any great problem."

"The important thing is that the payroll, actually, accurately reflects who works in the office and that those persons actually perform their duties."

The missing files were reported Tuesday in The Washington Times, which said the grand jury is investigating possible ghost employees.

"I don't think there's any evidence of that at all," Foley said, when asked if there were employees on the payroll who did not show up for work.

The former House postmaster, Robert V. Rota, has pleaded guilty to embezzlement and said he helped lawmakers obtain cash from the post office. Documents filed in federal court indicate that Rostenkowski, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, is one of the members.

The Observer

is now accepting applications
for the following paid position:

Assistant Saint Mary's Editor

Applicants should submit a one page personal statement of intent to Jennifer Habrych at 314 LaFortune or 309 Haggard.

For more information, call Jennifer at 631-4540.

Applications are due by Friday, October 15, 1993.

O-H-H KELLY!

You can't always have beer with your Orgo!

Happy 20th Birthday!

Love,
Your Amigos

Dancing at Lughnasa
by Brian Friel
Winner of the 1992
Tony Award for Best Play

Notre Dame Communication and Theatre
1993-94 Season

Playing at Washington Hall

Reserved Seats: $7

Wednesday, October 13 8:10 p.m.
Thursday, October 14 8:10 p.m.
Friday, October 15 8:10 p.m.
Saturday, October 16 8:10 p.m.
Sunday, October 17 2:30 p.m.

Student and senior citizen discounts are available Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday. Tickets are available at the LaFortune Ticket Office. Master
Card and Visa orders call: 631-8128.

Mama Mia!

only $2.89!

ALL-YOU-CAN-EAT

Italian Pasta Night

Complementary French Bread

THE OAK ROOM
in South Dining Hall

Every Wednesday Evening 5:00pm-7:00pm

THE OAK ROOM

DAILY LUNCH AND DINNER
SPECIALS

Open: Monday - Friday
7:00 am - 7:00 pm

Breakfast - 7:00 am - 10:00 am
Lunch - 11:00 am - 2:00 pm
Dinner - 5:00 pm - 7:00 pm

DAILY MENU LINE - 631-7518

WEEKLY MENU AVAILABLE THROUGH GOPHER

Located in South Dining Hall

THE OBSERVER

NOTRE DAME OFFICE: P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 631-7471
SAINT MARY'S OFFICE: 309 Haggard, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 284-5365

1993-94 General Board

Editor-in-Chief
David Kinney

Managing Editor
Kevin Hardman

Business Manager
Brian Kennedy

News Editor.....Meredith McCullough
Viewpoint Editor.....Rolando de Aguiar
Sports Editor.....George Dohrmann
Accent Editor.....Kenya Johnson
Photo Editor.....Jake Peters
Saint Mary's Editor.....Jennifer Habrych
Advertising Manager.....Anne Heroman
Ad Design Manager.....Steph Goldman
Production Manager.....Cheryl Moser
Systems Manager.....Patrick Barth
OTS Director.....Brendan Regan
Controller.....Mark Meenan

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, News Editor, Viewpoint Editor, Accent Editor, Photo Editor, Sports Editor, and Saint Mary's Editor. Commentaries, letters and Inside Columns present the views of the authors, and not necessarily those of The Observer. Viewpoint space is available to all members of the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

Observer Phone Lines

Editor-in-Chief	631-4542	Accent/Saint Mary's	631-4540
Managing Editor/Viewpoint	631-4541	Day Editor/Production	631-5303
Business Office	631-5313	Advertising	631-6900/8840
Sports	631-4543	Systems/OTS	631-8839
News/Photo	631-5323	Office Manager	631-7471

BENSON 10/13
GZB/DAW/MS

JOSH OZERSKY

I, FARRINGTON

Revival of 70s anthems a response to alternative rock

I rented a rotten movie the other night—"Singles," with Bridget Fonda. (You just can't beat Bridget Fonda, for my money). The movie was worthless enough, but there was one line that struck me. Matt Dillon, as a Seattle rocker, asks his band rhetorically, "Where are the anthems of today? Where is the 'Misty Mountain Hop,' the 'Smoke on the Water,' the 'Iron Man' of today?"

An easy question to answer: they haven't gone anywhere. Turn on your car radio, and you are as likely to hear something like "Sweet Home Alabama" as any song from "In Utero." More so, in fact, since the recent wave of 70s nostalgia. There are actually bands around today (Spin Doctors, Blues Traveller, Phish, etc.) whose only purpose is to try and recreate "the 70s sound."

The R.E.M. era officially came to a close on the '93 MTV Awards, when Michael Stipe, made up as the Notre Dame leprechaun, attempted to launch an anthem-style arena rocker that Quiet Riot would've been ashamed of. But you can't blame the man. All eyes have turned backwards.

And for good reason. There is something to be said for those endlessly replayed classic songs, those Crazy Trains, Back in Blacks, Comfortably Numbs, Freebirds and the like. There is a certain largeness of spirit in those songs, a certain expansiveness, that you just don't get in our so-called "alternative" rock.

At the same time, these anthems are as familiar, as comfy and domestic, as grandmother's quilt. This combination, of familiarity and grandeur, is not an easy one to turn away from. The Seattle sound has nothing remotely comparable to offer. Who over the age of 18, if they were exiled to a desert island with one CD, would take "Ten" or "Nevermind" instead of "Bat Out of Hell" or "Led Zeppelin IV"? You would take a classic album, if only for the emotional resonance it brings, the sense of community.

The question is not a trivial one; when you graduate from college, you'll find that seedy apartment in a distant city more islandlike than you may care to admit.

I personally think that Nirvana owes a lot more to Iron Maiden than they do to Black Flag, but even admitting the hardcore credentials of these "alternative" bands, it's hard to take them into one's bosom. I really don't want Henry Rollins living in my memories of things past.

Most of us who went to high school in the mid- to late-80s missed the punk moment, which petered out about 1983. After that date, and right up until the present, what do you have? A bottomless jumble of styles: thrash, hardcore, techno-funk, rap, hip-hop, roots rock, grunge, industrial, and on and on.

It doesn't all sound alike, but it's all marginal in the exact same way. The one thing all these subgenres have in common is their self-consciousness. Even the best of these bands, like the Chili Peppers, seem to think of themselves as doing something new and valuable, or at least used to.

My attitude toward this is what you might call negative. No good can come of "new music." I'm all for experimentation, if it's Jimi Hendrix or Jerry Garcia doing the experimenting, in 1967. Those guys did it when it needed to be done. They went as far as there was to go. After that, all that remained was refinement and inflation, which brought us the glories of the 70s.

The style of rock music had been established; the unpredictability and subversiveness of the early days was safely extinct; big corporations owned all the musicians, and paid them immense salaries to produce platinum records with a minimum of risk. Heaven!

Since everyone was working more or less in the same style, and since there wasn't much talent to around, the only way to get better was to get bigger. We needed double, then triple albums. Then concept albums with operatic stories. Then albums with multitrack dubbing, and strings, and marching bands, and power ballads (Homer nods.) "The Wall!" "Born to Run!" "Hotel California!" This was the gilded age of rock and roll, and I miss it vicariously, and all the more for that.

Therefore, I'm all for this 70s revival. It's plainly a response to the alternativization of rock music in the 90s, but it has merits anywhere we feel oppressed by fastidiousness, smallness, and parochialism. When I want grungy music, I'll get it from "Rust Never Sleeps," without all the boasting. When I want self-parody in the grand tradition, I'll get it from "Bat Out of Hell," with heroism, and without all that idiotic sampling. When I want mandolins and stylized rusticity, the Jerry Garcia Band will suit me fine.

At the same time, these anthems are as familiar, as comfy as grandmother's quilt. This combination of familiarity and grandeur, is not an easy one to turn away from. The Seattle sound has nothing remotely comparable to offer.

Youth is wasted on the young. Ah, to be a boy again!

Josh Ozersky is a graduate student in History. His article on underground comics appears in the current issue of Zone.

GARRY TRUDEAU QUOTE OF THE DAY

"I'm the Connie Francis of rock 'n' roll."

Elton John
Entertainer

DOONESBURY

Against

Students lend a helping hand

BY ELISABETH HEARD
Assistant Accent Editor

Everyone needs help once in a while. Whether it's with homework, or just lending a helping hand, most depend on another human being at some point in time.

Steve Green, Jeanne Fitzgerald, Brian Pescon and Jean-Claude Davidson are four individuals who willingly spend their time to help others in need. They have all reached out to their fellow Notre Dame students assisting them when necessary.

"It makes me feel good," said freshman Steve Greene, who reads to Lori Miller, a blind student, from their history class textbook. "It's nice to help out."

Depending on the amount there is, Greene reads to Miller anywhere from one night a week to four nights a week.

"We can get through about forty pages in one hour," said Greene. "It's amazing because she just listens, and doesn't record it."

Freshman Brian Pescon also reads to Lori, averaging about one hour per week. "I saw in the hall notes that she needed a reader, so I called her," said Pescon.

The University has offered to pay people to read to Miller, since she does not have many braille textbooks.

Greene, however, does not receive any money for his efforts. "I don't want to get paid," Greene said.

Senior Jeanne Fitzgerald also spends some of her free time helping others, assisting in the feeding of sophomore Dawn Parkot, who is confined to a wheelchair.

"I just went down to her room and asked her if she needed someone to help her eat," said Fitzgerald, "and she said yes."

Fitzgerald feeds her lunch on Thursday at 12:15, and dinner on Friday at 5:30.

"We live in the same dorm, so I just go down to her room and we go to the dining hall," said Fitzgerald. "I ask her what she wants, I get it, and then I feed it to her."

Jean-Claude Davidson, a sophomore, helps Alex Montoya, who is missing both of his arms and one leg.

"I first met him last year at the door to the Freshman Year of Studies building," said Davidson. "He was trying to open the door and I saw him struggling. I asked him if I could get [the door] for him, and he said, 'yeah'."

Over the summer, Davidson would help Montoya do certain things. "I would sometimes help him get dressed and get his food. I also cut his hair. Sometimes he needs help with his books. He pretty much does stuff for himself," said Davidson.

All four of these generous students find that there is something wonderful in the people they help.

"It takes a lot of guts and courage for a person who is blind to go off to college," said

Greene. "I give her all the credit in the world."

"She told me I have to teach her how to wind surf," said Pescon, "and she's serious."

"I always look forward to seeing her [Dawn]," said Fitzgerald. "She has a lot more personality than people think. I love it; she's her own person. It's almost like I'm not helping her at all."

As demonstrated many times before, in countless service projects and numerous donations, the spirit of volunteerism and the desire to aid another human is alive in many Notre Dame students.

"At Notre Dame there are a lot of people willing to help," said Greene. "I don't think that it would be the same at every university. I've gotten a positive reaction from my section, and they've encouraged me."

By helping others, these students find that they feel good not only about doing the deed, but also about themselves.

"I feel grateful that I can help someone," said Greene. "Being able to help is nice, and it also makes me feel good about myself."

"It makes me feel good," said Davidson. "Over the summer sometimes I would get tired after doing it everyday, but I still feel good. I'm helping my brother."

"If I had a horrible time, I wouldn't be doing it," said Pescon. "But it's fun to be with her because Lori is really cool." He laughed, "I'm having a blast."

Roommates Dawn Parkot and Terri Dundon relax while watching television instead of studying.

Montoya looks to facilitate discussion about disabled students

By LAUREL FABIANO
Accent Writer

Alex Montoya, a ND student born without both arms and his right leg, is very willing to talk about himself and emphasizes how important it is for students to be curious and to ask questions about students with disabilities here at Notre Dame.

"We have a lot to share and are eager to share it," he said.

He described this as "just God's will," as his mother used no alcohol, drugs, or medications during her pregnancy.

At the time of his birth, the doctors called him a "freak case" because his condition was so rare and uncommon, according to Montoya. They gave him only a few hours to live.

Montoya miraculously survived and at the age of four moved to California to live with some family members to escape the harsh treatment he received in Colombia because of his disabilities.

His parents, brothers, and sisters, whom he hasn't seen since 1984, still reside in Colombia.

According to Montoya, it is difficult to be away from his family, but it would be much more difficult to stay in Colombia. He now has a "family" here at Notre Dame, a group of very close friends that, he says, are like brothers to him.

"The help and understanding I receive from the students at Notre Dame really gives validity to the term 'Notre Dame community,'" said Montoya, a resident of St. Ed's Hall.

"The students here treat me fabulously," he said. Montoya said that he rarely has many difficulties because so many students are willing to help him when he needs it.

Montoya gave much of the credit to his closest friends. "They're great. They treat me so normally and really make me feel accepted."

How the university treats him, though, is sometimes a different story, according to Montoya. "They're sort of a Jekyll and Hyde figure," Montoya said.

He mentioned the difficulties he had with the university last winter when he asked them to provide him with a golf cart to use in the ice and snow. "They seem sympathetic but are not real swift."

Montoya noted that his rector had been especially helpful. To date he has installed a safety mat in the shower, replaced the round door knobs with handles, and set up a ramp and automatic door openers outside of St. Ed's.

In addition, the maintenance department has rigged a remote control similar to a garage door opener for his room.

Through the Office of University Computing, he has been provided with a computer keyboard with special keys which make typing easier.

The facilities in most buildings are adequate for him, according to Montoya, and are especially good in DeBartolo Hall and LaFortune Student Center. "I'm a lot more concerned about students in wheelchairs," he said.

He has several recommendations to make the campus more friendly to the disabled: more disabled-accessible water fountains; an elevator in the administration building; more ramps and new door handles.

He has also been working with student body president Frank Flynn and a committee of other disabled students on campus to push the university to make these and other changes.

Montoya says his greatest obstacle at Notre Dame is not something physical, but rather, dealing with people's fears — mostly their fears of being curious or of offending him by asking questions.

"I always thank students for asking questions," he said. "It takes guts."

He stressed how important it is to get to know the real person inside and to look past their outward appearances.

"The person I am has nothing to do with these hooks. I get hurt and lonely the way other people do."

The Observer/Dave Hungeling
Alex Montoya enjoys walking through campus just as everyone else does.

Montoya says having faith in God keeps him from getting down.

"God made me this way for a reason," he said. "I've learned what I can accomplish trusting in Him instead of my physical abilities."

Someday Montoya hopes to teach high school social studies. "I think it would be just awesome to work with kids like that," he said.

Finally, Montoya said each day of his life is a memorable one. He is constantly learning about dealing with people and about faith.

He thinks he can "appreciate life's challenges and victories a lot more than others can."

For him, "it's the little things people take for granted that are so satisfying," like lifting weights at the Rockne Memorial.

Students

By ALEX MONTOYA
Accent Writer

Maryann Stopha came to Notre Dame faced with the challenge of a freshman year, combined with special needs as a disabled student.

The outgoing sophomore, born with cerebral palsy, a condition that affects her nervous system, causes her to walk with a limp. She knew this would be doubly tough to travel on out campus, especially on a day.

However, Stopha was not discouraged but was instead "excited" about coming to Notre Dame. She was confident that there would be support services for her that she could rely on. After a year, she figured, a school of this stature must surely have a department which disabled students depend on to ensure their needs are met.

Unfortunately, this was not the case. When Stopha discovered that there were no disabled services department, she was disappointed. A small committee of administrators who are in charge of all disabled students. After a year of working with this committee about issues, she now feels that they are not taken care of in the way they expected they would.

"I believe the university is well, but there just aren't enough qualified people helping now," she says. "We need a department with people trained in working with disabled."

all odds

Parkot overcomes obstacles to just be 'normal'

By GERALDINE HAMILTON
Assistant Accent Editor

College life for Dawn Parkot, a sophomore from Morristown, NJ confined to a motorized wheel chair, is pretty normal. This may seem like an odd Pasquerilla East, and attending home football games.

At times Parkot needs the assistance of aids, most of whom are students. Parkot is a Math major and with the help of aids to perform the mechanical tasks of studying is an above

The main thing to remember about Dawn is she's just like the rest of us. She wants to go to SYR's and formals, graduate on time, get married and have kids and she's not going to let this stop her.

Terri Dundon

statement, but to spend time talking with her and her roommate, Terri Dundon, entails dealing with the laughing, the private jokes and the constant interruptions that are found in dorm rooms across the campus.

Parkot has cerebral palsy and is legally blind. She communicates through speech, which is difficult to comprehend for those who are not used to it, and through a word board. Although legally blind, she can read large print and has an uncanny ability to recognize people by their silhouettes.

Parkot is able to participate in most campus events despite her disabilities. Between class, studying and extra-curricular activities she has little time to waste. Her activities include being one of three formal commissioners for her dorm, average student. Aids read to Parkot and she dictates papers to them. Tutors also help her further with her studies.

"The students are great. Some of the professors don't believe the work is mine," said Parkot. Because aids help with homework and test taking she has had to deal with a few inconveniences. For example, Parkot took a math test last week and would have gotten a 100 percent, but her aid accidentally marked the wrong box, so she only got a 95 percent.

"Last year I had a teacher who didn't believe that the work on a test was all mine. I asked him to come and see for himself me work on the test — he didn't come," said Parkot.

According to Parkot and Dundon, the university has done a fair job of making the campus accessible to handicapped people. "They have done a real good job with the dorm. Dawn has a remote control to automatically open the doors to the dorm and her room," said Dundon. Because wheelchairs take up more space the university attached a double room to a quad so that Parkot could have roommates.

From a young age Parkot's grandmother used to tell her stories of her grandfather's day's at Notre Dame and these tales sparked in her a desire to attend college at Notre Dame. "I had always dreamed about coming here," she said.

Parkot's plans for the future are uncertain, but they do include the possibility of working on a post graduate degree at the University of Stanford.

"The main thing to remember about Dawn is she's like the rest of us. She wants to go to SYR's and formals, graduate on time, get married and have kids and she is not going to let this stop her," said Dundon.

Just like everybody else, Parkot went through the same Notre Dame admissions process. Just like everybody else Parkot is expected to go to class and meet the same curriculum requirements we all do. And just like everybody else she has the same aspirations of a happy and fulfilling future.

The Observer/Dave Hungeling

of doing their homework. Parkot is a resident of Pasquerilla East.

work to improve disabled services

According to Angie Chamblee, a Freshman Year of Studies academic advisor and member of the committee, this group was formed in the early '80's by former Dean Emil Hoffman to work with those designated as having "special needs." A list of students is presented by Bob Mundy, associate director of admissions, to Chamblee and Associate Provost Oliver Williams. Chamblee handles all incoming freshmen and Williams handles transfers.

After meeting with these administrators early in the school year, the students are informed that Chamblee will handle any academic matters while Williams is available for any other problems that arise.

Chamblee says the committee is "very enthusiastic" about helping special-needs students, but certainly understands their frustrations. "I would like for us to have a central area where all special-needs students can get quick answers from a professional who has a background with legal and practical knowledge."

The need for a specialized department was underscored when freshman Lori Miller encountered numerous difficulties within her first month on campus. Miller, who has been blind since she was two-and-a-half, chose Notre Dame over Stanford because the challenge of coming to a school with little experience with the disabled was enticing to her. Miller did not expect, however, that this inexperience would lead to problems like asking for special orientation around the campus before the year started and being informed that no one was available.

After these haggles, Miller faced more frustrations. She wanted to try out for band but "the director threw a fit." Then she wanted to try out for the equestrian team but a new rule stating that each competitor must have 20/40 vision eliminated Miller. The rule states that a medical letter may clear the competitor, but Miller wonders why the rule even stands if a letter can negate it. It is especially aggravating to her because she has been an accomplished equestrian competitor for over two years.

"The university needs someone experienced who will resolve situations like that," says Miller, who also rollerblades, swims, and has been asked to compete in the U.S. disabled ski team's qualifying races.

In response to these problems, Miller has looked into starting a support group which would allow disabled students to vent their frustrations and network amongst each other to solve problems. A Harvard graduate, who is also blind, is working with Miller for a cause the freshman feels is necessary.

"Something has to be done," she says, "because things have been passed back and forth in the committee, when what we really need is our own department."

Both Stopha and Miller are convinced a disabled services department is not a luxury, it is a necessity. "In this day and age what Notre Dame is offering, in comparison to other schools, is simply not plausible," says Stopha.

Miller agrees, "The American Disabilities Act says we need to have a certified coordinator, and we don't. We need a coordinator and a department just for ourselves."

Miller battles through challenges

By MATT CARBONE
Accent Writer

Lori Miller, from Warsaw, Indiana, has been blind since the age of two as the result of surgery to remove her cancerous retina.

She has not let this stop her, though. Throughout her life, Miller has not shrunk from the daunting challenges that have constantly sprung up in her life.

She attended a public high school, rather than a private school for the disabled; she is proficient in several forms of the complex language of Braille; she plays the flute, rides in equestrian meets, and competes in roller dancing events.

"I've always been a well-rounded person," said Miller. "That's what keeps me going — doing the things I like to do."

Yet another challenge voluntarily taken up by Miller is her choice to attend Notre Dame, forsaking other more disabled-friendly campuses. "I wanted to go somewhere where they didn't have anything established," said Miller. "That's just the way I am."

Even amidst these numerous challenges, challenges which would thoroughly frustrate an average person, Miller has kept an upbeat attitude, and is enjoying the beginning of her college years.

"I love ND. The atmosphere here is great," said Miller. "The students are wonderful — they're willing to learn [about her disability]; they're not hung up on my disability."

Miller also says that her professors have been very flexible in accommodating her needs. "Their flexibility was one of the reasons I decided to come to ND," said Miller. "They're willing and open to change, and that's what it takes."

"I try to be as independent as possible," said Miller. "You don't want to infringe on someone else. It really kills me to ask sometimes."

For Miller, this independence is manifested in the many extracurricular activities in which she participates.

During high school, Miller competed in several 4-H and other open equestrian meets, in both the jumping and show riding divisions.

A flute player since the eighth grade, she has attempted to join the ND Marching Band, only to be told by Luther Snavelly, director of the band, that she would not be allowed to join because he was concerned for her safety, citing two band members who were tackled at a game last year.

"He didn't know how to handle it," said Miller. "He kind of panicked when I said I wanted to be in the band." She had only wanted to play on the sidelines, along with the alternate band members. "I'm concerned because [Snavelly's] hung up on my safety, and not how I play," said Miller.

Miller would like to make a career out of helping the disabled. Although like most freshmen, her major is undecided, in the future she sees herself as either a physical rehabilitation therapist for the disabled, or a disabilities coordinator and counselor at an university.

For now, Miller will continue her efforts to increase awareness about issues facing the disabled, to improve the conditions on campus for disabled students, and to overcome the obstacles placed before her, God-given and otherwise.

Learning through experience

Urban Plunge educates students about inner city poverty

By JENNIFER GUERIN
Accent Writer

The method is direct experience — 48 hours of seeing, smelling, hearing and living the life of the inner city. The objective is a deeper awareness of some of America's most complex and critical problems, the transformation of poverty from a media event to a collection of meaningful, personal stories.

The name is Urban Plunge — the unique experiential learning course offered to Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students over the Christmas break each year. As its name suggests, the program involves a brief but intense immersion in the life of urban areas across the nation. Participants spend two days observing, and sometimes working directly with, individuals, parishes and agencies that strive to meet the needs of the poor and homeless on a daily basis.

Now the largest of the Center for Social Concerns' (CSC) experiential learning seminars, the Urban Plunge began with two students in 1974 as a collaborative effort initiated by the staff at the CSC. Last year, 373 students participated in 53 cities at almost 80 different sites. Sue Cunningham, the coordinator of the Urban Plunge program for the CSC, cited both the format and the nature of the experience as reasons for its appeal.

"I had heard from a lot of people that it helps you associate faces with homelessness and urban problems."

Diane Regitz

Precisely because it involves a short time commitment, Cunningham said, the Plunge attracts students who desire to involve themselves in service over Christmas break. In addition, the program allows many Notre Dame students to experience a lifestyle to which they have had little previous exposure.

"They just had no idea in the past," said Cunningham, regarding the shock many students encounter upon their immersion. The Plunge allows men and women to witness what, for many of them, has been little more than a problem defined by articles and statistics, not by the names and faces of those who suffer.

"I had heard from a lot of people that it helps you associate faces with homelessness and urban problems," said Diane Regitz, a Notre Dame student who joined 11 other students for an Urban Plunge in Atlanta, Georgia in January of 1993. Regitz noted how successful the program was in accomplishing this goal, despite its astonishingly short duration.

Some of the participants of the 1993 Atlanta plunge stayed overnight in a women's shelter, where they were given the opportunity to converse with guests. "That really made an impression on me," said Regitz, who noted how important it was for her to speak to the individual guests about their own goals and hopes for the future.

The agenda of each Plunge is set by the hosts and guides in each city; therefore, students return to campus having acquired many different perspectives on life in their city of choice. Last year, the Atlanta group was guided by a worker for one of the agencies in the area, who brought the students on walking and driving tours of the projects and inner city of Georgia's largest city. They also spent time speaking with seminarians, and a local minister whose church was very involved in social action.

For students who have spent most, if not all of their lives surrounded by a certain degree of suburban security, safety becomes a priority in considering the Urban Plunge. Cunningham and the directors of the program, as well as the individual site hosts, recognize these fears, and consider them a necessary part of the immersion experience. "Yes, you will be in bad neighborhoods, but that's because these people have to live there. They are bad neighborhoods comprised mostly—at least 95 percent—of good people," insisted Cunningham.

Steve Krueger, a senior from Defiance, Ohio, chose to do his plunge in Minneapolis last January. He, along with Cunningham, noted the importance of being cautious, because the potential for danger is always a reality of city life. Krueger remained adamant, however, that safety concerns should not deter any student from participating.

Aside from a concern for physical safety, a different sense of fear also became a part of Krueger's learning experience. He explained that many students, upon entering the inner city environment, must deal with the fear of intruding, of appearing to be looking down on the individuals and society they are observing.

"It was really evident that we were out of place," he explained. "We were living that life for a day, even though we could never really live it." To counter this feeling, Krueger's group made a conscious effort to separate and speak individually to the guests at the kitchens and shelters they visited.

Students from all colleges and disciplines who participate in the Urban Plunge have a history of returning to campus with a renewed interest in service work, and particularly, the problems of the homeless population in American cities.

Despite the frustrations and problems encountered on the plunge, participants continue to return feeling inspired, concerned, and motivated to action. Regitz noted how impressed she was by the excitement and creativity of the people she met, and the programs Atlanta had made available to its population. "I would definitely say it was hopeful," she concluded.

Regitz had felt directed towards the homeless in her service concerns before the plunge, and her concerns were further ignited by her two-day immersion in Atlanta. Krueger, who had done some direct service work with the homeless in Toledo, Ohio, felt that the Plunge helped him alter his focus from wanting to help alleviate suffering immediately, to wanting a better understanding of the issues and the possible ways to deal with them.

"I think the CSC opened that door for me, making me more aware," said Krueger, who was both impressed and frustrated by the scope of Minneapolis's network of services. "You're so deep into it initially, that it creates an interest, a drive to know what put these men and women and children here."

Another student, who participated in the plunge two years ago in the South Bronx, an area particularly ripe with racial tension at that time, remarked on how frustrating it was to be restricted by time, and therefore, to spend most of the 48 hours observing the situation, instead of actively participating in it. "It's the kind of thing that you leave and just say, 'God, I've got to do something,'" he said.

Orientation and post-service reflection are major components of the Urban Plunge experience, as they are with most of the CSC's experiential learning programs, including the Appalachian Seminar and Summer Service Projects.

After a preparation session including inspirational talks, details of the realities and safety concerns that will necessarily arise at each site, and encouragement from students and staff, participants return to their homes for Christmas break. The Urban Plunge occurs during a two-day time period chosen according to their own schedules and the schedules of any other students participating in the chosen city.

Upon returning to campus for the second semester of the school year, students write reflection papers and join with students from other sites, as well as a faculty member, to discuss the concerns that arose for them on the plunge. Regitz, who is a senior in Farley Hall, commented on the valuable experience of sharing her observations with fellow students, and namely, of realizing that despite the different programs and agendas of each site, participants "had such similar experiences."

Information meetings will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 19, at 6:30 p.m. in the Hagar Lounge at Saint Mary's, and on Wednesday, Nov. 3, at 5:30 p.m. at the CSC. Applications, now available at the CSC, are due by Nov. 5.

This year, Urban Plunges are scheduled to occur between Jan. 2 and Jan. 8, 1994. All interested students are encouraged to attend information meetings, or contact Cunningham at 631-5293, and take the frightening but worthwhile plunge into urban life. In the words of Krueger, who continues to study the issues and complexities of homelessness, "You can't really understand it from the outside."

Classifieds

The Observer accepts classifieds every business day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Notre Dame office, 314 LaFortune and from 12 p.m. to 3 p.m. at 309 Haggard College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is 2 cents per character per day, including all spaces.

NOTICES

Typing
287-4082

WOMEN'S ALTERATIONS.
CALL 259-8684.

Need Business Cards?
-call Adworks 1-6756
LOW PRICES, HIGH QUALITY!!

Anybody interested in doing flood damage relief in Davenport, Iowa (Quad Cities area) over Fall Break call Frank at 277-9353.

LOST & FOUND

LOST: blue London Fog jacket with liner, around Oct. 1. Call Eric at 3376.

FOUND: MULTI-STRAND BLUE BEADED FISHHOOK EARRING AROUND THE LAKES. CALL ANNE 284-5212.

LOST:
AT SENIOR BAR
ROYAL BLUE NAUTICA JACKET IF FOUND, PLEASE CALL 273-5910

LOST: J-Crew Barn jacket(Brown) It was lost in late Sept. Please contact Mike at 634-1166 with any information.

WANTED

CRUISE SHIPS NOW HIRING - Earn up to $2000+/month + world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.). Summer and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For more information call 1-206-634-0468 ext.C5584

$$$$$NEED MONEY??$$$$$ BRUNO'S NEEDS Drivers!!!! PT for Campus Deliveries. Call John 288-3320 $$$$$NEED MONEY??$$$$$

$700/wk cannery workers; $4000/mo. deckhands. Alaska fishing industry now hiring for next summer. 11,000 openings. No exp. necessary. Free rm. & bd. These jobs go fast! Employment Alaska. 1-206-323-2672

We need a Kegirator. Interested in selling us one. Please give us a call. 234-2793

ROOMATE WANTED

FOR SPRING SEMESTER '94 @TURTLE CREEK, 5 MIN. FROM CAMPUS—CALL ED@273-9581

WANTED: LOCAL REALTOR SEEKING HOSTESSES TO HOUSE SIT OPEN HOUSES. FLEXIBLE SCHEDULING 2-4 HOURS PER DAY, VARIOUS DAYS OF THE WEEK. CALL SUE AT CENTURY 21 JIM DUNFEE REALTY 282-2351. 9-5 MON-FRI

I need a ride to the Wash D.C. area for fall break. Will help with gas, tolls, etc. Call Christine x4867

I need a ride to & from DC for break. Call 1293.

THE SOUTH BEND COMMUNITY SCHOOL CORPORATION IS IN NEED OF GOOD SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS AT ALL LEVELS. APPLICANTS MUST HAVE COMPLETED 60 CREDIT HOURS. INDIVIDUALS INTERESTED SHOULD APPLY BETWEEN 8:30 AM & 4:30 PM MON.-FRI. AT THE: EDUCATION CENTER HUMAN RESOURCE DEPT. 1ST FLOOR 635 SO. MAIN ST. SOUTH BEND FOR MORE INFO., CALL (219) 282-4160.

AA CRUISE & TRAVEL JOBS. EARN $2500/MO & TRAVEL THE WORLD FREE! (CARIBBEAN, EUROPE, HAWAII, ASIA!) CRUISE LINES NOW HIRING FOR BUSY HOLIDAY, SPRING AND SUMMER SEASONS. GUARANTEED EMPLOYMENT! CALL (919)929-4398 ext 31

FREE TRIPS & CASH! Call us and find out how hundreds of students are already earning FREE TRIPS and LOTS OF CASH with America's #1 Spring Break company! Choose Cancun, Bahamas, Jamaica, Panama, Daytona or Padre! CALL NOW! TAKE A BREAK STUDENT TRAVEL (800)328-SAVE or (617)424-8222

2 PWites are looking for a ride to the DC area for fall break. We have gas $, toll $ and charming personalities x2147

I need a ride to St. Louis for fall break after the USC game. I will help pay gas and tolls. Please call Tim at 4-1462

Do You live near Georgetown or D.C.??? I need a ride for fall break- there and back. very friendly; like to drive; help with gas, tolls,etc. call Brian x3043

Needed: up to 3 USC GA's. 284-4397

TRAVEL FREE! SPRING BREAK '94! CANCUN, JAMAICA, FLORIDA, S. PADRE! SELL RELIABLE PACKAGES! THE BEST COMMIS-SIONS/SERVICE! SUN SPLASH TOURS 1-800-426-7710

FOR SALE

KOONTZ HOUSE BED & BREAK-FAST located 23 miles south of Notre Dame on route 23, on Koontz Lake, south of Walkerton, Indiana 4 rooms, full breakfast - week-end getaway 219-586-7090

BED 'N BREAKFAST HOMES-ND/SMC EVENTS (219) 291-7153

Bed & Breakfast - Riverfront - Private. 257-9101

LARGE 6 BDRM HOME. FURN. SECURITY SYSTEM. WALK TO CAMPUS. 1 BDRM NEAR CAMPUS $225. MO.272-6306

ROOMS FOR RENT, FURN.NEAR CAMPUS.AVAIL NOW.272-6306

Seeking rommate to share house. $250/mo. incl. all. 273-1640 ev.

Fem. r-mate needed IMMEDIATE- LY Gina 4-2372

FOR RENT

Spring Break! Plan Early - Save $30-50 & Get Best Rooms! Prices Increase 11/15! Bahamas Cruise 6 days includes12 meals $279! Panama City room w/ kitchen $129! Cancun from Chicago $439, Jamaica $479, Padre $199, Key West $239, Daytona Room w/ Kitchen $149! 1-800-678-6386

SMC ACCOUNTING CLUB IS SELLING RAFFLE TIX FOR A CHANCE TO WIN 2 GA'S TO ND VS FLORIDA STATE & ONE NIGHT AT THE INN AT SAINT MARY'S FOR $1. CALL BETSY AT 284-5062

SELLING FSU & BC TICKETS Lisa 232-4112

One way Air to Atlanta. Leaves S. Bend on Oct 25. $98. Could negotiate car ride back to ND on 31st. Leave message 287-6850.

FOR SALE: organic cornfed beef whole or half, raised in Noble County, Indiana and fed only pure corn, pasture grass, mineral salt with Icelandic sea kelp for vitamins, and limestone-filtered well water. Custom aged and cut at Yoders in Shipshewana, and delivered to your door. $1.80 pound hanging weight, with $25 deposit. 291-1797....."your steak in the country"

TICKETS

Need one USC ticket

call Gennie at 288-5205

I NEED ND GA FOOTBALL TIXS.272-6306

ALUMNI SEEKING GA'S TO ANY HOME GAME. PLEASE CALL JANE AT 1-800-264-3278.

FSU TIX NEEDED!!!!!!!
CALL CRAIG @273-3942
PLEASE!!

NEED4USC2 FSU GASJC X2210

Need 2-4 FSU Heather 284-5261

NEED 2-4 GA TIX TO FLORIDA STATE. WILL PAY TOP DOLLAR. GRANDMA WANTS TO GO TO GAME. CALL CHUCK AT 708-479-1429

I NEED FLORIDA ST TIX General Adm. only. Call Sam Santo (H) 201-653-7162, (W) 201-992-8700

Need 2 GAs for any home game Call Tim at 273-1757

NEED FSU-ND TIX 214/991-0889 (MARK)

NEED FLORIDA STATE GA'S. MUST HAVE!! CALL 272-7233.

FOR SALE: GA'S ALL GAMES. 277-1659.

NEED 4 GA TIX FOR PITT., USC & FLA. ST. CALL BOB 232-5297.

NEED 2 GA's FOR BOSTON COLLEGE. CALL COLLECT (908)221-6183.

We will purchase at handsome price four seats together for the Florida State game. Pls. call (800) 457-0486.

CA Alum paying top $ for FLA STATE GA'S Pls call (916)558-6566

3 FL ST GA'S 4 SALE Ph 708-420-9309

Wanted: ND-FSU tix. No brokers. Call collect PM. Brantley H. Atlanta (404)396-8715.

HELP!!! Need 10 tickets, yes 10 tickets, so my Florida family can see ND beat FSU. Please call Kevin at 4-2265

I NEED TIXS FOR PITT, USC AND BC, AND I'VE GOT MONEY!!! CALL AARON @ 271-2908

Need 2 USC GA's Will pay $100 ea x1868

DESPERATELY NEED ND - USC GA TICKETS. CALL JOE AT 287-4561 AFTER 6 PM.

NEED USC GA'S FOR MY PAR-ENTS. CALL JIM @ 289-6648.

92 ALUM DESPERATE! I need 2 tix to FLORIDA ST $$$.
800-222-5546 ext. 555-5562.

N.D. vs F.S.U. Tickets Call Frank or John 1-800-749-5975 Will trade DISNEY tickets

WILL TRADE 2 USC GA'S FOR 2 FSU GA'S. BILL 614-885-4616.

PLEASE!!!! I NEED FSU STU TIX. THERESA X2756

Need 2 USC GA Max x1088

Need 4 USC GA's Call Jeff x2000

NEED 2 USC GAs 634-1786 DESI

WILL PAY $100 A TICKET FOR FLA. ST. and USC GA'S 2773097

4 Sale Stu Tix Pitt USC FSU & BC 2 FSU GAs x1850

I NEED FLORIDA ST. TIX STUDS or GA— call Tim x1230

Need USC GA's / Flor. Stnd Tks Matt 232-3870

WANTED: ND/USC GA TIX CALL 412-352-3216

Desperate lifelong ND fan needs two Florida State/ND GA's. Will pay top dollar! Call 1-407-788-1582 after 5pm.

*****
Please help me!

Need 1 Florida State student ticket.

Call Colleen at 273-5901.
*****

NEED 4 USC GA'S
CALL DAN x3402

NEED 6 GAs to ND vs. USC PLEASE call (517)347-8744 ASAP!

2 Notre Dame-BYU tickets 4 sell 40 yrd line call Lance @ (801)375-9264 6-7:30am or 6-11pm MST

I NEED 4 FSU & BC GA's call Beth @ X2615

Seeking 1 ND vs. USC G.A. If you know of one please call Jocelyn x3842, thanks.

WILL TRADE 3 USC GA'S + PRE-PAID HOTEL ROOM 2 NIGHT FOR 2 FLA ST GA'S CALL (618)2774481 DAYS (618)6327571 NIGHTS

PLEASE!! NEED 2 USC ST. TIKS FOR BEST FRIENDS FROM HOME. EMILY x2337

'86 Alum who endured futility with Faust is hoping to reach the heights with Holtz. Wants USC, FSU, and BC TIX. Please call Connie at 1-7336 or Connie/Dan at 219-874-4240.

*****
**

NEED 2 USC GAs
Please call Tara at 4975

*****
**

Need 2 USC GA's call Brian x3467 or x0577

Need GA's for USC call Gary x1236.

4SALE4SALE4SALE4SALE

2 GA's for USC and FSU, BC best offer: 277-8017

USC * USC * USC * USC

CARTOONIST SEEKS GA's for the two lovely people who spawned me. Any home game. Will pay reasonable price. Heck, I'd even draw somethin' for ya. Call Jay at 271-1400 between 6-10 pm any night.

WANTED:
2 USC GA's
CALL JAMIE @ 273 - 5910

Stud booklet 4 Sale Ech 272-1451 call btw. 4-10 p.m.

HAVE: 8 USC GA-4 are on 50.

Also, 2 BC GA on 50.

NEED: FSU GA's. Trade or Cash.

-Dan 273-0986

Football Tickets Notre Dame vs. BYU $125-$250 call Steve 801-378-4373 or David 801-374-8939

TICKETS ND VS BYU 4-SALE 801-375-5640

ND ALUM needs several USC GAs. Please call (313)953-5572 after 7pm.

FOR SALE - 3 Notre Dame vs. BYU tickets. $200 each or best offer. (801)371-5532.

8 BYU TIX 50yd Row 14 $500 Each OBO 8013739958

I NEED 1 USC GA NICK x1777

Desperate alum in DC need Fla State football tickets! Will pay big bucks. Call Tom collect after 8PM 703-768-8569

For Sale!!!!!!
USC Student ticket for sale Will Deal Call Brian x3043

I need 1 USC student ticket. Call Dave X3662

4 SALE- 2 FSU GA'S. BO by 10/21. Call Rob @x1601.

NEED 3 STUD. TIX FOR USC. JAY X1534

4SALE 2 USC GAS 50 YD LN $100 EACH X4052

NEEDED: FSU TIX, ANY KIND $$$!!!! CALL TOM 254-9013

$$$$$! NEED$$$$$$$
2-4 FSU GA'S
& 4 BC STUDENT TIX
$$ MONEY NO OBJECT$$
CALL CAROLYN 284-4356

NEED 4-8 USC GA'S

CALL JOE @ X1613

2 FSU GA'S 4 SALE X4863

HAVE 2 BC GAs, 1 USC & 1 BC STUD. $$$; NEED 2 USC GAs TRADE? Chris 271-7807

I need 2 USC GAs! Please call Becca at 4876

FOR SALE: 5 FSU student tickets. All together. Call Neil 634-4417.

Wanted - BYU vs ND tickets. Call 801-782-1543

SALE 2 BC GA's $125 each x3666

Best offer by Oct. 22 for 2 FSU GA's call Angie 284-5410

BYU/ND Tickets Call Brett (801)370-2186

Will trade USC GA's & cash for FSU tix. Call Jim 312-743-8932

Alum needs to Trade BC GA's for USC GA's. Brian x1979

I need two USC GA's Please call x1882

SELLING STUD TIXBOOK BEST OFFER CALL @ 273-3140 AFTER 6 PM

*****I need GAs for the USC game*****Please call Katie at 284-5447*****

Need 1 USC student ticket & 2 GAs for family. Please call Rich X-4499

PERSONAL

Sophomores!!!

Consider a life of patient love from Mom, financial security from Dad, laughter and music in a country home for your baby. Please call Lynda and Pat at 1-800-226-5172 anytime.

ADOPTION IS LOVE
Loving Indiana medical professionals eager to adopt newborn. Medical/Legal paid. Confidential. Call our home toll free to hear all about us. Jaci and John 1-800-224-2429.

Hate is not a family value.

gldn/smc po 194 nd IN 46556

SMC WOMEN! Want to visit your high school over break as SMC rep? Sign up-Admission Office. Mandatory meeting Thurs. Oct 21 5:30 pm Stapleton Lounge.

Chosen a major yet?

If you are a sophomore, you should consider it. Being declared gives you a DART time advantage. If you know what you want to declare, do it. If not, watch for further info on major counseling sessions sponsored by Sophomore Class Council.

3SWF(2 sr, 1 jr) looking for SYR dates for Sat, Oct 16; prefer 4 friends-no pressure; if you're daring enough to answer this ad yet normal enough to hesitate, you're the dates we're looking for. Call our agent Beth @ x1810 by Thurs, Oct 14.

Adoption: Doctor and professor will make dreams for your baby come true. Fulltime parenting. Best of the city; summer by the beach: Your baby rocked to sleep by a cozy fireplace in winter, and by ocean waves in summer. Art, music, the best education, endless love. Call Franny or Stephen collect (212)369-2597

HELP! I need a ride to D.C. for fall break. I shower regularly and am a decent conversationalist. If you can help, please call Ken at x4245

FLOOD RELIEF '93!!!!!!
*****

1) Salvation Army is DONATING boots. We'll take show sizes at next meeting: 9/19, 7pm, 126 DeBartolo.

2) Checks ($50) DUE to Megan in Alum. Assc. by WED., OCT 13, 5PM!
*****

THE ROACH

Dearest D,
Enjoy this Delightful Day as you hit your second set of Double Digits! Your Destination (a real ID) Draws ever closer...

Be sure to wish Katie Adams a great 20th B-Day today! Love, the 2nd floor Party Women

*****

ALMOST AS SCARY AS THE

THOUGHT OF CO-ED HOUSING.

COME TO THIS YEAR'S

*****

CARROLL HALL

HAUNTED HOUSE

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 15

7:00 - 10:30

ONLY $2

*****

Trish, Pete, and Megan--

Good luck tonight! Break a leg and make Rodney proud! Remember this before the show starts:

Bibbity bobbity bought a bat
Bibbity bobbity bought a ball
Bibbity bobbity bought a bat and ball for Brian's birthday.

Milk--it's what's for snack.

Not only are his feet big, but so is his head.

Are you having South Dining Hall over for soup?

Happy Birthday, John!!!

Um . . . am I retarded? --Turtle

Bambi--

Glad to see everything has cleared up for you.

What's the magic word? It begins with a "p"

The floor is lava . . . jump in our beds!!!!

Ubiquitous Tom--you are everywhere!

I'm so hee-appy!!

Jamie, Nick, Tom, and Matt--

Are you ready for a great Friday night?

Phillies tired of down-to-the-wire victories

By RONALD BLUM
Associated Press

ATLANTA

Exactly seven years later, Len Dykstra did it again.

In 1986, it was a ninth-inning home run that won Game 3 for the New York Mets against Houston. On Monday, it was a 10th-inning homer that gave the Phillies a 4-3 victory over Atlanta and a 3-2 lead in the NL playoffs after another heart-stopping ninth inning.

"We're not supposed to be on the same field as Atlanta, according to some people," Phillies manager Jim Fregosi said, "but I think we've shown the last two days that we're a good club, a solid club and that we don't quit."

Curt Schilling, who pitched eight shutout innings, couldn't even talk about the ninth, it was so dramatic and turbulent.

"I can't. There were so many things going through my mind," he said.

For the third time in this bizarre series, Mitch Williams relieved with a lead and made a mess. For the second time, defensive replacement Kim Batiste made an error at third that allowed the Braves to come back and tie.

It's been a perilous playoff for the Phillies. Wins aren't good enough unless they come after high-wire walks over disaster. The ninth was so tense that at times Schilling sat in the dugout with his head down and a towel around his head.

"It was a combination of frustration and anxiety," he said,

But he didn't have to worry. Once again, the Phillies held off the Braves just in the nick of time. So, despite being outscored 30-17 in the series, the Phillies moved within a game of their first World Series since 1983.

The playoffs now return to Veterans Stadium for Game 6 on Wednesday. The Phillies will start Tommy Greene, rocked for seven runs in 2 1-3 innings in Game 2. Atlanta, on a two-game losing streak for the first time since Aug. 19-20, will start Greg Maddux, the Game 2 winner.

"This isn't over by a long-shot," Dykstra said. "That's a very good team over there. It does no good to win three unless you win the fourth."

Dykstra, whose ninth-inning homer gave the New York Mets a dramatic 6-5 playoff victory over Houston on Oct. 11, 1986, drove a 3-2 pitch from Mark Wohlers over the right-center-field fence with one out in the 10th. The comparisons with seven years ago came quick.

"This was even bigger to me," he said. "Back then, I was just a kid trying to contribute in any way that I could. I was in la-la land. This year, I've been one of the main guys since Day One, and I expect that of myself."

Atlanta, seeking to become the first NL team to win three straight pennants since the St. Louis Cardinals from 1942-44, must win two in a row on the road, just like it did two years ago at Pittsburgh. If the Braves get by Game 6, Tom Glavine would start Game 7.

"We're just going to send out our two best pitchers," said Steve Avery, who allowed two runs — one earned — and four hits in seven innings. "They have to beat two of the best pitchers in the league and that's tough to do."

At the start, the other Phillies outfielders were the stars. Right fielder Wes Chamberlain's throw was relayed and caught Jeff Blauser trying to score in the first. Chamberlain then threw out Damon Berryhill trying to stretch a single to double in the second.

Terry Pendleton, the batter before Berryhill, was denied when Pete Incaviglia, maligned for his defense, made a back-handed, diving catch in left.

"I don't think we win the game if they don't make those plays," Schilling said. "I came out of the bullpen tonight and I didn't feel too good. When they give you a boost like that, you almost feel they deserve for you to get them the ballgame."

After John Kruk's RBI double in the first put Philadelphia ahead, the Braves defense faltered. Ron Gant missed Incaviglia's fourth-inning fly to left for a three-base error and Chamberlain followed with a sacrifice fly.

But that wasn't the biggest gaffe. The Phillies' defense came apart in the ninth on a play eerily reminiscent of Game 1. With Philadelphia leading 3-0 after Darren Daulton's homer off Greg McMichael in the top of the inning, Schilling, trying to complete a four-hit shutout, walked Blauser. Batiste, who replaced Dave Hollins in the eighth, failed to come up with Gant's grounder to third. That was it for Schilling.

"I gave everything I had after the seventh," Schilling said. "I was on adrenaline after that."

In came Williams, also an instant disaster in Games 1 and 4.

Fred McGriff singled on the first pitch to make it 3-1. David Justice's sacrifice fly to left pulled the Braves within a run.

Then Terry Pendleton lined a single to center, moving McGriff to second. Up came Francisco Cabrera. It was his two-run single off Stan Belinda with two outs in the ninth that won Game 7 and the pennant for the Braves last year against Pittsburgh.

Could it happen again?

Almost. "I was just trying to hit the ball," Cabrera said. "I didn't have time to think about last year. If I had, I'd lose my concentration."

He bounced a two-hopper just past shortstop Kevin Stocker as McGriff scored the tying run and Pendleton sped to third.

Riverbend

Entertainment, Inc.

diamond dave Promotions

Presents...Live In Concert,
The Return of TOS Recording Artist

OLIVER SYNDROME

With Surprise Special Guest Wednesday Rocktober 13, 9:00pm at HEARTLAND

222 South Michigan Street
Downtown South Bend - (219) 234-5200

Senior Class Dinner at Barnaby's

Thursday, October 14th

5:30pm

$4.00 all you can eat

**sponsored by the senior class*

BE A STAR!

Make your own music video!

Thursday

Oct. 14

11am-5pm

LaFortune

FREE!

Just like last year's Fun Flicks:
keep a video of the experience.

SUB:
crazy stuff and more!

STUDENT UNION BOARD

GEORGE McGOVERN

1972 Democratic Candidate for President speaks on

Turbulent Times: Vietnam and the United States' Role in the World Today

101 DeBartolo
7 p.m.
October 14

Nittany Lions host Wolverines in PSU's 1000th game

By KELLY P. KISSEL
Associated Press

STATE COLLEGE

The woods behind Joe Paterno's house provided the perfect retreat for the Penn State coach to walk around and daydream about coaching in the Rose Bowl.

Now he has only Michigan on his mind.

The seventh-ranked Nittany Lions host the 18th-ranked Wolverines on Saturday in Penn State's 1,000th football game. The contest also marks Penn State's first without John Sacca, who started the Lions' first three games.

"There are about eight clubs in a position" to go to the Rose Bowl, Paterno said. "We've got six games to play. That's the farthest thing from my mind."

"Sure, when we were talking about going into the Big Ten and I would walk around in back of my house, in the woods, I'd dream about being in Pasadena, but that's a long time ago since I've done any of that stuff," Paterno said.

"Right now that's a long way from my thoughts," he said.

"My thoughts are strictly about figuring how to do a job against Michigan."

Saturday's matchup isn't nearly the game it was originally touted to be. Most figured both Penn State and Michigan would be undefeated and ranked in the Top 10. Penn State is 5-0, 2-0 in the Big Ten after a week off. Michigan is 3-2 and 1-1 and coming off a loss to Michigan State.

"As far as we are concerned, it's still a very, very big football game. It's the first of six straight Big Ten games, a situation we've never been in," Paterno said.

"Any advantage we think we might have (from a week off) is offset by the fact that Michigan got licked and will come down here as a very emotional football team," he said.

Penn State on-and-off decisions to redshirt freshman quarterback Wally Richardson are off again now that Sacca has left the team for good. Sacca, who started the season, wasn't comfortable as a backup to Kerry Collins and left the team after its 70-7 victory over Maryland.

Indiana in thick of Rose Bowl hunt

Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON

Michigan's loss to Michigan State only confirmed what Bill Mallory already knew.

The Big Ten championship is anybody's guess, the Indiana coach said Monday.

"Looking at the entire league, a lot of things can happen between now and the last ball game. I felt that going into conference play and that's the way I feel now. It'll be an exciting race," he said during his weekly teleconference.

Ohio State, Penn State and Wisconsin, all 2-0 in the Big Ten and 5-0 overall, lead the conference. Michigan State (1-0, 3-1) is a half-game behind, followed by Indiana (2-1, 5-1), Michigan (1-1, 3-2) and Illinois (1-1, 1-4).

The Hoosiers have this week off before playing at Northwestern (0-2, 2-3) on Oct. 23.

"It was a good win, a win we certainly needed," Mallory said of Saturday's 16-10 victory over Iowa. "We finished the first half of the season and it was a nice way to come out."

"Our players played with a lot of effort. ... We could have been more productive. That's kind of where we are as a team. We need to get ourselves sounder in all phases. We're at a point where we don't dare level. We've got to evaluate ourselves and where we have to improve ourselves and become more productive."

Mallory said Indiana's rushing game is continuing to improve, and he praised the play of junior Brett Law, who rushed for 140 yards and a touchdown after Jermaine Chaney left with a sprained ankle.

Law had carried only four times for minus-one yard all season.

"If Chaney was healthy, I'd go right back to Chaney with Law coming in," Mallory said. "But we'll have to wait and see. Those are my top two right now. They're both going to play and Law's going to be in there playing a lot more."

"He came in and showed himself," Mallory said, aware that Law, the Hoosiers' leading rusher last year with 541 yards, was very unhappy with his limited playing time this season.

"When he plays that way, that's when he's effective, and that's when I like him. He came in and had something to prove and wasn't in a good humor, and that's great. He went out and turned it loose, and when he's that way, then that's when he's effective," Mallory said.

He said he would continue using Chaney, Law and Michael Batts, along with redshirt freshman Shane Thomas.

Photo courtesy of Northwestern Sports Information
Brett Law rushed for 140 yards in Indiana's win over Purdue.

Happy 22nd Birthday Stemmer

(just a little late)

Have a Great Senior Year

Lots of Love,
Dad, Mom, Tracey, Sunny,
Doogie II & Slinky

DROP IN VOLLEYBALL

JACC FIELDHOUSE
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 14
7:00 PM - 10:00 PM

FOR MORE INFORMATION
CALL RECSPORTS
631-6100

IT'S ONLY BEER.

Beer contains alcohol. Alcohol is a drug. Alcohol is the number one drug problem in this country. Not marijuana. Not cocaine. Alcohol. Get the point?

Make the choice to make a change.

The truth about alcohol.

The next time someone tells you it's only beer, think about these facts:

1. A can of beer contains the same amount of alcohol as a shot of whiskey. (1)
2. If one of your parents is an alcoholic, your risk of developing alcoholism is four times greater. (2)
3. Alcohol plays a major role in campus-related problems, including:
  - 69% of damage to residence halls
  - 64% of violent behavior on campus
  - 34% of academic problems, and
  - 25% of dropouts. (3)
4. Drinking and driving is the leading cause of death for young people.
5. Health conscious? Virtually every organ system in the body is damaged by alcohol.

Sources:

- (1) "Youth and Alcohol: A National survey, Drinking habits, Access, Attitudes and Knowledge" Office of the Inspector General, June 1991.
- (2) Children of Alcoholics Foundation, "Children of Alcoholics: A Review of the Literature"
- (3) Ernest Boyer, President of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Sponsored by The Office of Alcohol and Drug Education

Iowa finds itself in basement of Big 10

By GREG SMITH
Associated Press

IOWA CITY

Iowa coach Hayden Fry defended his battered football team, off to its worst Big Ten start in 17 years, and said he's not about to turn to the fans for answers.

Through radio call-in shows, letters-to-the-editor and letters to his office, Fry said he's aware of the fans discontent with Iowa's 2-3 record, including consecutive conference losses to Penn State, Michigan and Indiana.

"Anytime you're not winning all your ball games, you've got a problem," Fry told reporters at a news conference. "You ought to see all the mail that I get: 'Congratulations, coach.' 'Nice going.'"

"Next day, letters comes in: 'Coach, I've got a play for you.' It may have 15 players on the team. It might have four. You hear those people on the call-in shows, but you don't get it in writing. I get it in writing."

Fry was asked if any of the suggestions "trip a wire" in his head.

"It trips a wire — there's a lot of sick people in the world. It just confirms my suspicion," he answered.

Fry appeared in a good mood despite his team being 0-3 in the conference for the first time in his 15 years at Iowa. In between topics, he defended the Hawkeyes for much of the news conference.

"They're good young men. They're learning. It just doesn't come easy," he said. "It just so happens we caught three of the better Big Ten teams right off the bat."

"I really feel sad that we lost three Big Ten games, but I haven't lost faith in my football team whatsoever," Fry said. "It's tough on me, but that's life. A lot of schools go through this every cotton-pickin' year."

"But it's going to turn one of these weeks."

Iowa takes on Illinois (1-4 overall, 1-1 Big Ten) this Saturday in the Hawkeyes' Homecoming game at Kinnick Stadium. Should Iowa lose, it will be the first time since 1973 that the Hawkeyes started league play 0-4.

It's uncertain whether line-backer John Hartlieb will play against the Illini even though he's listed in the two-deep roster. Hartlieb was suspended indefinitely beginning with last Saturday's game at Indiana after being charged Oct. 3 with public intoxication and disorderly conduct.

"I would anticipate either the athletic department or the university having a release or statement on John's situation sometime this week," Fry said.

Hartlieb, a 6-foot-2, 225-pound junior, pleaded guilty to the charges but was suspended two days before the Indiana contest when officials learned it was his second offense. Hartlieb also pleaded guilty to a public intoxication charge on Nov. 26, 1991, in Iowa City.

Following Iowa's 16-10 loss to the Hoosiers last week, Fry said he was furious that Hartlieb had been suspended. He clarified those comments Tuesday.

"I wasn't furious in regards to the penalty being assessed. I'm a disciplinarian. I'm a great believer that if you're going to dance, you've got to pay the fiddler," Fry said.

"If they told me on Monday that John couldn't be there, we could have snapped somebody in," he said. "He feels terrible about it. We all do, especially with all the headlines and publicity, but we understand the news media. I mean, that sells papers."

The university's athletic board adopted a rule in 1989 that athletes receive counseling after a first offense involving alcohol and be suspended if a second incident occurs.

Fry says the policy needs a second look.

Wildcats look for defense

Associated Press

EVANSTON, ILL.

Northwestern coach Gary Barnett rated Wisconsin a tad better than Ohio State on Tuesday, calling the Badgers' offense tough to stop.

During his weekly telephone conference with sports writers, Barnett, victimized 53-14 by Wisconsin last Saturday, was asked his opinion after his Wildcats had been trounced by both unbeaten opponents.

"I'd have to rate Wisconsin's ability overall a little better, especially the offense," he said.

Wide receiver Lee DeRamus and running back Brent Moss are a tough combination, Barnett said.

But with Wisconsin and Ohio State behind him, Barnett now must start worrying about Minnesota and Scott Eckers, who brings his passing attack to Evanston on Saturday.

"Eckers helped ring up 59 points against Purdue," said Barnett, "and in light of what has happened against our defense in losing big on the road the last two weeks, Northwestern faces a tough job."

The Wildcats have only 10 offensive linemen ready to play, with three starters and two backups sidelined.

CORRECTION

A graphic on page 17 of yesterday's Observer incorrectly stated the record of Morrissey Hall's interhall football record. The record should have read 2-0. In addition, a photo caption on page 16 incorrectly identified Morrissey's quarterback. The player should have been identified as Scott Taylor. The Observer regrets the errors.

OFFICE OF RECREATIONAL SPORTS

October 13, 1993

Greetings:

It's officially mid-week, and our university is midway through its annual National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week. This week is a great opportunity for all members of our community to take a look at the role that alcohol plays in their lives. If after considering the role that alcohol plays in your life, you discover problems, I hope you will make the choice to make a change.

The staff at Recreational Sports want students to have healthy social alternatives, and we offer a myriad of options to students. One such option occurs tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Gym 2 of the JACC, when we co-sponsor the second annual Disoriented Domer Dash. This event is a chance for teams of two (one male, one female) to just have fun, compete for some fantastic prizes, experience a natural high, and learn how alcohol can effect you negatively. I challenge everyone to grab a partner, and do the Domer Dash!

Sincerely,

Gregory A. Kigar

Gregory A. Kigar
Coordinator, Recreational Sports

$3.75 ALL SHOWS BEFORE 6 PM

SCOTTSDALE 6-291-4583

MOVIES!

CIVIL RUNNINGS (PG) 2:30, 5:00, 7:15, 9:45
DISOLUTION MAN (R) 2:15, 4:45, 7:10, 9:40
MR. JONES (R) 2:00, 4:30, 7:00, 9:45
MR. NANNY (PG) 1:30, 4:30, 7:10, 9:40
THE PROGRAM (R) 2:00, 4:30, 7:00, 9:40
SLEEPERS IN SEATTLE (PG) 2:30, 5:00, 7:15, 9:40

TOWN & COUNTRY • 259-9030

MAJESTY (R) 1:30, 4:45, 7:30, 10:00
THE GOOD SON (R) 2:45, 5:00, 7:15, 9:30
RUDY (PG) 1:45, 4:30, 7:00, 9:45

REKASOTES THEATRES

Purdue dismisses shake-ups, looks to Wisconsin

By HANK LOWENKRON
Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS
Purdue coach Jim Colletto didn't want to discuss the mid-season resignations of two members of his coaching staff during his midweek news conference Tuesday. But he did, briefly.

Defensive coordinator Moe

Ankney and line coach Tony Caviglia resigned Sunday — less than 24 hours after the Boilermakers lost to Minnesota 59-56 to set an NCAA major college record for points scored by a losing team and a Big Ten mark for points scored by two teams.

"We had one of the more closer horror football games in the country, a game that was decided by three points," Colletto said. "Two of our coaches resigned from our coaching staff."

"We're preparing for Wisconsin and we'll move on from there."

The sports information office announced that Colletto would not respond to any other questions about the coaching change.

"We visited with the entire defensive team yesterday," Colletto said. "Some were a little saddened by it, some weren't. Some were a little concerned about what direction we're going."

Colletto denied that the team's pass defense, which allowed Scott Eckers to complete six TD passes in his first collegiate start, was disorganized.

"I don't think it's disorganized at all. We just need to go back to the basic things that we played with at the start of the season," he said.

Injuries have taken their toll on the defense since it sparked in a 17-0 loss to Notre Dame on Sept. 25.

"We have a tremendous amount of injuries defensively, our two sophomore linebackers who are probably two of our better players are very questionable," Colletto said of Bart Conley and Courtland Byrd. "They played very little in the game Saturday. We've had to make wholesale adjusting of personnel to try and get a healthy group of players who will be able to play Saturday."

The Boilermakers (1-4, 0-2 Big Ten) host No. 16 Wisconsin (5-0, 2-0) on Saturday, seeking an upset that can help them avoid a ninth consecutive losing season.

The Badgers, who haven't opened with six victories since 1912, are 10th in the nation in rushing and seventh nationally in total offense with averages of 267.4 and 467.0.

Make the Choice to Make a Change

Rap-jam party slamming beer vodka shots disappear, you're driving friends jiving
one more for the road.
Your mind's a haze intoxication then the rush acceleration, burning rubber blurring minds frantic
"Faster!"
Driving blind.
Wailing screeching violent blue spinning lights rescue crew, jaws of life
battle death crumpled car
dying breath.
Guilt, grief
a life's regret can't change what's done
and can't forget, live the pain know it's real a victim, dead.

beneath your wheels.

National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week

Sponsored by: Office of Alcohol and Drug Education

Tepper, Illini undaunted by 1-4 record

Associated Press

CHAMPAIGN

Despite a 1-4 record, Illinois coach Lou Tepper hasn't given up the idea of winning the Big Ten.

"We are right now in the process of becoming Big Ten champs," Tepper said Tuesday. "That may be 1994, but we're going to use every game to become Big Ten champs.

"I've laid out exactly for them what we have to do to get there this year and, if we fail, what we have to do to get there in '94. We certainly can't squander this season," he said.

Tepper's team, 1-1 in league play, travels to Iowa City, Iowa, Saturday for a game against the Hawkeyes (2-3, 0-3 Big Ten). Iowa has lost to Penn State, Michigan and Indiana.

"Their two wins were not particularly impressive wins in terms of what the fans would like to see," Tepper said. "We'd love to have two wins right now."

Illinois is coming off a 20-12 loss Saturday to No. 5 Ohio State. Tepper believes the Fighting Illini still can get a bowl bid if they win five of their remaining six games.

He sees similarities between his team and Iowa.

"I think it's really a very interesting matchup," Tepper said. "Both of us are pretty stout on defense."

And both teams are struggling on offense. Iowa ranks 10th in the Big Ten in total offense, while Illinois is 11th.

"We're certainly not happy with our production with our offense. Period. Their problems right now on offense are up front," Tepper said. "The two of us have taken so many sacks. The sacks have hurt us."

GO REALLY IRISH!

Ireland Program

Information Session

Tonight

October 13

7:00 p.m.

Game Room,

Haggar College Center

Saint Mary's College

Students discuss curriculum and sports at St. Patrick's College, Maynooth
APPLICATIONS DISTRIBUTED

What is Communities ND?

It's a great new way to . . .

- meet people
- learn about your faith
- read and talk about the Sunday Gospels before Mass
- share prayer and honest discussion about your faith

Communities ND began in January 1993. A group of students, faculty, rectors, and Campus Ministry staff planned and prepared the format and content. Communities ND offers student-led, mixed groups of 9 - 11 men and women the opportunity to come together every other week to pray, reflect upon and discuss Scripture, and talk about issues of life and faith.

--- NEW COMMUNITIES WILL BEGIN IN JANUARY 1994 ---

If you are interested in becoming a part of Communities ND, come to the information night:

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 13
9:00 - 10:00 p.m.
FACULTY DINING ROOM
upstairs in the south dining hall refreshments will be served

Blue Jays drop Sox in ninth, return to Series

By BEN WALKER
Associated Press

CHICAGO

The cold, the Chicago batters, the pressure of a big game. None of it bothered Dave Stewart.

Standing straight and staring ahead, he showed why the World Series champion Toronto Blue Jays got him, and why they're going back.

Stewart, simply the best play-off pitcher ever, won the fourth clincher of his career Tuesday night by leading Toronto past the White Sox 6-3 in Game 6.

Pat Borders, MVP of last year's World Series, drove in his first three runs of this series. His RBI grounder put the Blue Jays ahead 3-2 in the fourth inning against Alex Fernandez.

Devon White homered in the ninth and Paul Molitor, the Blue Jays' other offseason free agent signing, hit a two-run triple in the ninth, and that was enough.

The victory was Stewart's second in the series and made him a perfect 8-0 with a 2.03 ERA in the playoffs. And, more importantly to him and the team, he sent the Blue Jays back to the World Series.

"They were a scrappy club, a good ballclub," he said. "They keep coming at you, keep coming at you. I figured ways to get them out."

Toronto will play Game 1 Saturday night at SkyDome against either Philadelphia or Atlanta. With the win, the NL playoff schedule was changed; now, Game 6 in Philadelphia will start at 8:12 p.m. EDT, rather than 3:07.

The Blue Jays are the first repeat AL champions since the New York Yankees in 1978.

"It turned out to be a good six ballgames," Blue Jays manager Cito Gaston said. "We were real lucky this year."

Stewart, named playoff for the MVP second time, was not with the Blue Jays when they worked out Monday. Instead, he stayed behind in Toronto to help pass out food at a dinner for the homeless.

His late arrival Monday night, however, did not rattle him. He pitched 7 1-3 innings and gave up two runs on four hits. He walked four and struck out three.

Stewart extended his record for most playoff victories — teammate Juan Guzman is next with just four. He also passed Hall of Famer Catfish Hunter for the most innings pitched in the playoffs. Stewart does have two no-decisions in the playoffs — of course, his team won both of those games, too.

All evening, Stewart stayed hot even while the temperatures dropped into the low 40s. Blowing on his hand to keep warm, he blew down a revamped Chicago lineup. Warren Newson replaced slumping Bo Jackson as the designated hitter, homered in the ninth off Duane Ward, who got a save. Catcher Mike LaValliere was hitless in place of Ron Karkovice.

Stewart outpitched Fernandez for the second time in a week, all the while adding to his October legacy. The perfect picture of calm, he even seemed to laugh after giving up his first run on a bases-loaded walk to Frank Thomas in the third inning.

Even with so much skill, a little luck never hurts. Trailing 3-2, Chicago ran itself out of an inning when pinch runner Karkovice mistakenly took off from second base and was doubled up on Tim Lincecum's liner to end the seventh.

In the eighth, after Thomas singled with one out, Robin Ventura hit a long drive to right that barely hooked foul. Gaston decided not to tempt fate any longer, and took out Stewart.

Ward struck out Ventura and Ellis Burks, preserving the lead.

"We just didn't hit real well with men on base and they were better than us," Chicago manager Gene Lamont said.

For the sixth straight time, the team that scored first won the game. This also was the last AL playoff game before the whole format changes next year and an extra round is added.

The White Sox will spend the winter thinking about missed chances. Then they'll open the 1994 season in Toronto.

The Blue Jays broke open the game in the ninth on White's solo homer off Scott Radinsky and Molitor's two-run triple off Roberto Hernandez. The hit was White's 12th of the series, tying an AL playoff record set by Raines this season. Molitor finished with nine hits, seven runs scored and five RBIs.

Fernandez, the victim of two errors and two unearned runs in his loss last week, was hurt again by his defense in the fourth as Toronto took a 3-2 lead.

Molitor led off with a grounder to third that two-time Gold Glove winner Ventura bobbled for an error. Molitor moved to third on Ed Sprague's single.

Borders grounded to short-stop Ozzie Guillen, who flipped to second baseman Joey Cora for a forceout. But Sprague slid hard into Cora, and his relay bounced past first baseman Thomas before Borders reached the bag for another error, allowing Molitor to score.

Guillen doubled in the third for Chicago's first hit, starting a two-run rally that tied it at 2. Raines singled for his 12th hit, setting the playoff record and matching the White Sox mark for most in a postseason series, set by Shoeless Joe Jackson in the 1919 World Series. Jackson was later banned from baseball after being accused of trying to throw games for the Black Sox.

Cora was hit by a pitch, loading the bases for Thomas. Remaining patient, Thomas drew his playoff-record 10th walk for one run, and another scored on Ventura's force-play grounder.

Borders hit a two-run single in the second after the Blue Jays loaded the bases on two walks, a sacrifice and a hit batter.

Toronto again loaded the bases in the fifth. Fernandez escaped when he retired Tony Fernandez on a popup, making Tony 1-for-15 lifetime against Alex.

The Observer

is now accepting applications
for the following paid position:

Graduate Page Editor

A Notre Dame graduate student interested in editing a page focusing on graduate issues and events

If interested, please submit a resume and personal statement to David Kinney by Wednesday, Oct. 13. Call 631-4542 if you have questions about the position.

Maple Lane Barber Shop

serving the Notre Dame community for over 32 years
2112 South Bend Avenue
(across from the new Martin's)
272-6722

This Weekend in Notre Dame Sports

FREE! FREE! FREE!

Saturday October 16

Learn the game...Meet the team

at their home opener:

Notre Dame Hockey

vs. University of Waterloo

2:30 pm

JACC Fieldhouse

Free Student Admission if you show your ND or SMC i.d. card.

AUDITIONS!!! AUDITIONS!!! AUDITIONS!!!

The Odd Couple

by Neil Simon

Presented by Cavanaugh Hall Players

Open Auditions for Women

October 13 & 14, 7-9pm

Cavanaugh Hall Basement

The Longest Running Hall Play on Campus!!!

*For more information call John 4-1553

AUDITIONS!!! AUDITIONS!!! AUDITIONS!!!

El Grupo de Bíblico Reflexión

Cada Semana/Weekly

(Venga cuando que posible/Come when possible)

Wednesdays, 9-10 p.m.

Center for Social Concerns

Universidad de Notre Dame

Bring Your Own Bible

Español o Ingles

Todos Invitados/ All Invited

Refreshments Following

For more information call Campus Ministry informal sharing

DIRECT FROM MANUFACTURER

	PINE	CEDAR
twin	$129	$139
full	$139	$159

FUTONS

All prices include convertible frame and mat.

LAFREE ENTERPRISES

259-6201

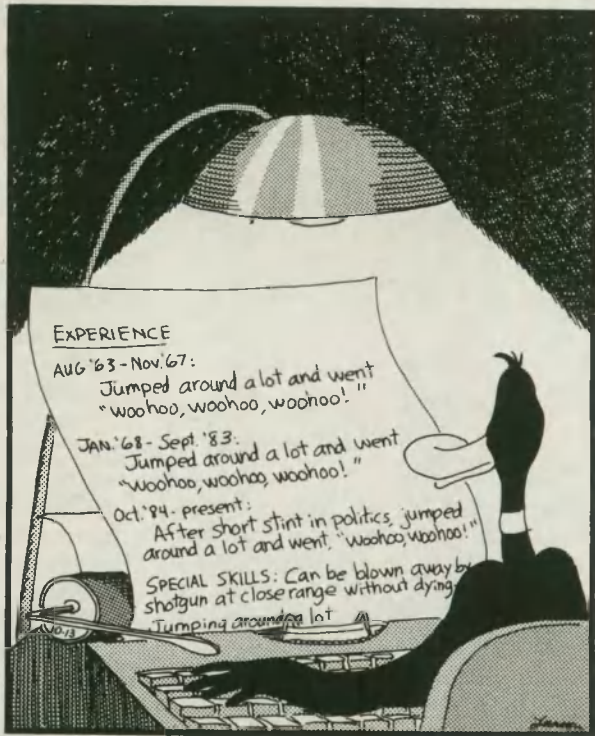

SPELUNKER

JAY HOSLER

THE FAR SIDE

GARY LARSON

Daffy's resumé

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

FOUR FOOD GROUPS OF THE APOCALYPSE

DAVE KELLETT

CROSSWORD

- ACROSS
- 1 Flogged, in a way
  - 6 Keglers' org.
  - 9 Small gull
  - 12 Make haste
  - 13 Wharton's "The Innocence"
  - 15 A Gardner
  - 16 Once more
  - 17 Dormouse
  - 18 Crazy
  - 19 A fibrous protein
  - 21 The Venerable
  - 22 Meeting place for Zeno
  - 25 Browning's "Vogler"
  - 26 Utensil on a pencil
  - 28 Vandal
  - 29 Morse-code signal
  - 30 Guard
  - 31 Kelep, e.g.
  - 32 Role for Rosalind Russell
  - 33 Concern of 52 Across: Abbr.
  - 34 Hebrew letter
  - 35 Teaching method for the hearing impaired
  - 38 General's asst.
  - 41 Fed. agency since 1970
  - 43 Tolkien creatures
  - 44 ——— -Magnon
  - 45 Cargo
  - 48 Flurry
  - 49 Rib
  - 50 "..... not even ———": C. Moore
  - 51 NE, e.g.
  - 52 Member of Clinton's Cabinet
  - 53 We, in Paris
  - 54 Laid up for future use
  - 57 Society bud
  - 58 Come afterward
  - 59 Church area
  - 63 Shoe-box shape: Abbr.
  - 64 Man of odes
  - 65 Vamoose!
  - 66 Burns negative
  - 67 Transgress
  - 68 French states

DOWN

- 1 Half a dance
- 2 Summer mo.
- 3 New Deal inits.
- 4 Pam of "The Cosby Show"
- 5 Unit of force
- 6 Lovely lass
- 7 Richard and Pat
- 8 Fore's opposite
- 9 Skedaddles
- 10 He does some shuffling
- 11 Diluted
- 13 Part of Dixie
- 14 Step on it
- 20 Speeder's nemesis

- 21 Report of a sort
- 22 Former Iranian ruler
- 23 Do a key job
- 24 Posthaste
- 27 A great amount
- 32 Ghostly sounds
- 36 Cookbooks have them
- 37 Marabou, for one
- 39 Kind of coffee
- 40 Showman Bill: 1846-1917
- 42 Name of 12 popes
- 45 Michael ———, memorable actor
- 46 Protozoan
- 47 Canadian who discovered kerosene: 1852
- 52 Command
- 55 Despot
- 56 Comfort
- 58 Duke Ellington's monogram
- 60 Mrs., in Mexico
- 61 Cato's lang.
- 62 Bad ———, German spa

Get answers to any three clues by touch-tone phone: 1-900-420-5656 (75¢ each minute).

OF INTEREST

■ The School of Architecture is sponsoring a lecture today entitled "The Architecture of the Harold Washington Library" by Thomas Beeby. Beeby is a principal of the firm of Hammond, Beeby, Babka of Chicago, Ill. Mr. Beeby was the chief design architect of the library building in Chicago's South Loop. The lecture begins at 4:30 p.m., Room 207 of the Architecture Building and admission is free.

■ The Holy Cross Associates will hold an information session tonight at the Center for Social Concerns Coffee House at 7 p.m. Former associates will share reflections and give information about placements, application processes, etc. For more information call 631-5521.

■ The Disoriented Domer Dash will begin tonight at 7:30 p.m. in gym 2 of the JACC. Male/Female teams will be attempting an obstacle course made up of a variety of challenges. Grab a partner and do the "Domer Dash."

■ Two lectures on the enlightenment in Spanish America, "Science and Religion in the Spanish American Enlightenment," by Rafael Tarrago (Bibliographer for Latin American Studies) and "New Views on the Spanish-American Enlightenment," by Jose Anadon (Professor of Spanish American Literature), will be held in the faculty lounge of the Hesburgh Library at 7:15 p.m.

■ Auditions for "The Odd Couple", a Cavanaugh Hall production, will be held Wednesday and Thursday evening from 7-9 p.m. in the Cavanaugh basement. Auditions are open to anyone and no experience is necessary. Any questions? Call John at 634-1553.

■ Deloitte And Touche Management Consulting will hold a presentation and host a reception for all MIS/CAP/Computer Science/Computer Engineering majors on Thursday, October 14 at 7 p.m. in the Alumni Room of the Morris Inn. Refreshments will be served.

DINING HALL

Notre Dame

Tomato Soup
Veal Parmesan
Ham and Broccoli Rolls

Saint Mary's

Baked Perch Almondine
Beef Ragout Burgundy
Broccoli Rice Casserole

CAN YOUR TRASH

Webster's Collegiate Dictionary defines . . .

Drink: to take liquid into the mouth for swallowing; to take in or suck up; excessive consumption of alcoholic beverages

Drank: past of drink

Drunk: having the faculties impaired by alcohol; drinking to the point of intoxication

Intoxication: an abnormal state that is essentially a poisoning

Vomit: an act or instance of disgorging the contents of the stomach through the mouth; to spew forth; to eject violently or abundantly (i.e. when you drink, and drink, and drink until the flow of fluids reverse)

Sensible: having, containing, or indicative of good sense or reason

Responsible: able to answer for one's conduct and obligations; able to choose for oneself between right and wrong; see also Zero-One-Three Zero = Zero Alcohol. Especially if you're under 21, driving, chemically dependent, on certain medications, or pregnant.

One = One drink per hour, which sets the pace for moderate drinking.

AND

Three = No more than three drinks per day, and never daily.

If you have any questions, please call the Office of Alcohol and Drug Education at 631-7970.

Birkner bright spot in volleyball's rout of Michigan

By Timothy Seymour
Assistant Sports Editor

Despite a less than spectacular offensive performance, the No. 13 Notre Dame volleyball team quickly dispatched an overmatched Michigan squad 15-9, 15-8, 15-4 in Ann Arbor to improve their season record to 15-3 and extend their winning streak to seven games.

Although the Irish were able to finish the match in three games, Notre Dame did not show its usual sharpness on the offensive side, committing 19 errors en route to a season low .175 hitting percentage.

"I'm always pleased with a win, but I'm not pleased with the way we played," commented Irish head coach Debbie Brown. "I thought we were really sloppy, particularly in the first two games. We won because Michigan played that way too."

In the opening game, the Irish were ignited to a 7-1 run by senior Julie Harris and junior Christy Peters, who took control at the net after the Wolverines had tied the match at eight.

Harris had one of the better performances of the Irish squad, hitting for seven kills and only two errors, but Peters was off her game for one of the first times all season, notching only five kills and matching that with five errors.

Senior Molly Stark, who had been dominant of late, also cooled off offensively in the match, hitting only .043 with six errors.

With their two stars struggling, the Irish showed the composure of a veteran team and found someone else to step up—freshman outside hitter Jenny Birkner.

Birkner continued to show why her solid, error-free play has earned her a starting position in every match thus far for the Irish, hitting 10 kills with no errors for a team and career high .833 percentage. Birkner also proved to be the catalyst in Notre Dame's game two comeback, sparking a 9-2 run that broke open a 6-6 deadlock.

Birkner's all around performance, which included nine digs, earned her praise from Brown, who commented, "Jenny was great, and she kept us in it offensively."

The Irish played closer to their potential in the third game, dismissing Michigan 15-4 and hitting for a .368 percentage to close out the match in just over an hour.

Notre Dame's superior play was not lost on the Michigan coaching staff. "Notre Dame is just a very good team," noted Wolverine head coach Greg Giovanazzi, who saw his team drop to 7-8 on the year. "They don't make a lot of mistakes and they stay steady throughout the match."

While the Irish were able to overcome their offensive problems, Michigan could find no remedy, hitting for a negative .037 percentage, with 26 errors and only 22 kills.

The Wolverines also failed to attain production from their seniors, as team leaders JoAnna Collias and Fiona Davidson both hit for negative percentages.

Despite the sloppy play from both squads, the Irish left the match with the comforting thought that they have rolled out to the best start in the program's history. Also, they continue to show the character of a championship team, finding ways to win when not at the top of their game.

The Observer/Jake Peters

Freshman Jenny Birkner had ten kills and no errors in the Irish's three-game route of Michigan last night.

Men's soccer hosts Loyola, seeks high tourney seed

By MIKE NORBUT
Sports Writer

The Observer/Scott Mendenhall

Jean Joseph and the men's soccer team host Loyola of Chicago tonight in an important MCC match-up.

Emotions will be riding high as the Notre Dame men's soccer team hosts Loyola of Chicago tonight on Alumni Field.

"It's an important game because of what it means to us in the conference," said Irish head coach Mike Berticelli.

Notre Dame, 8-4 overall on the season, holds a share of first place in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference with a 3-1 record. They can secure a No. 1 seeding in the post-season tournament with wins over their remaining conference foes, Loyola and LaSalle.

The Irish are coming off a two-game sweep this weekend in which they defeated Xavier and Ohio State, each by a 1-0 decision.

"We're disappointed that we only scored two goals, but you can't be disappointed with a victory," said Notre Dame junior defender Dane Whitley.

Whitley, along with the Irish defensive unit, supported goalie Bert Bader as he recorded his third and fourth full shutouts of the season.

Against the Ramblers, the Irish hold an 11-2-2 series advantage, though Loyola has lost only one of the last four meetings. The Ramblers were triumphant the last time the two teams squared off at Notre Dame.

"There's always some special feelings coming back to Notre Dame," said Loyola head coach Ray O'Connell, who is a 1974 Notre Dame graduate.

Last year, the Irish downed the Ramblers 2-1 in the post-season after being shocked with a 3-2 loss during the regular season. In the game, Notre Dame jumped out to a 2-0 lead, but allowed Loyola to scratch their way back until the Ramblers eventually pulled out the victory.

"Last year's game was last year's game," continued Berticelli. "They deserved to win."

The Ramblers, 5-6-1 on the season, are currently riding on a three-game win streak, their last win coming last Sunday over LaSalle.

Key contributors for Loyola include senior Mark Strothcamp, who has turned in five goals and six assists on the year, and freshman standout Ron Oster. Vadim Vasserman, last year's scoring leader, has played only six games this year due to injury.

With a 1-2 conference record, the Ramblers need a win tonight to improve their chances of securing a higher tournament seeding in November.

"Every game is important to us especially with the MCC tournament coming up," continued O'Connell. "We just have to play our game and let the chips fall where they may."

The Irish will need strong play from freshman forward Chris Mathis and midfielders Tont Richardson and Jason Fox as they look to take one step closer to winning the season conference title.

"If we play the way we're capable of playing, it shouldn't be a contest," continued Whitley.

Tonight's game is scheduled to start at 7 pm on Alumni Field.

Inside SPORTS

American League Championship

Toronto returns to world series

see page 18

Big 10 Football

Indiana, Penn State, and Michigan continue quest toward Rose Bowl

see page 15

National League Championship

Philadelphia sneaks out of Atlanta with a 3-2 series lead

see page 14