ALUMNI BOARD AND SENATE CONVENE

Approximately 125 Notre Dame graduates from throughout the country, directors of the Notre Dame Alumni Association and members of the Alumni Senate, will convene for a joint meeting on the campus May 8-10. Highlighting the agenda will be sessions devoted to admissions, student affairs and religion on campus and continuing education. The program includes a seminar on "Catholic Education—The End or a New Beginning" conducted by Rev. Neil G. McCluskey, S.J., and Rev. Ernest J. Bartell, C.S.C. During the three-day sessions members of the Faculty Senate and Student Life Council will meet with the alumni senators. The parley will open at the Center for Continuing Education May 8th at 4 p. m. with remarks by Leonard H. Skoglund, Alumni Association president, and close with a luncheon address on May 10th by the President of the University. The alumni leaders will be guests at the annual Blue—Gold football game in the stadium that afternoon.

MC NAMARA ON POPULATION EXPLOSION

The president of the World Bank, in an address prepared for delivery at the May 1st convocation marking the dedication of Hayes-Healy Center, declares that "a rational, responsible, moral solution to the population problem must be found."

Robert S. McNamara, former Secretary of Defense, terms "rampant population growth" as "the greatest single obstacle to the economic and social advancement of the majority of the peoples in the under-developed world." He likens unmanageable population pressures to the threat of nuclear war. "Both threats can—and will—have catastrophic consequences unless they are dealt with rapidly and rationally."

Noting that Vatican II's "Pastoral Constitution on the Church in the Modern World" and Pope Paul's encyclical, "Populorum Progressio," call for a solution to the population problem as it relates to development, McNamara maintains that "such controversy as remains in this matter is merely about the means, not at all about the end."

His solution: family planning "on a humane but massive scale" to enhance human dignity "more severely, more completely, more certainly threatened than it has been by any catastrophe the world has yet endured."

LAW SCHOOL AT HOME AND ABROAD

William T. Gossett, president of The American Bar Association, will address faculty members and students of the Notre Dame Law School and members of the St. Joseph County Bar at the Law Days USA-Law Honors Banquet in The Morris Inn May 1st.

Lawless, will convene at St. Catherine's Cumberland Lodge, Windsor Castle, to evaluate the first year of the Law School's year-abroad program at University College, University of London. Among the participants will be Lord Denning, chairman of Her Majesty's Commission on Higher Legal Education; Prof. George Keeton, dean of the London law faculty; and Notre Dame's Prof. Conrad Kellenberg.
