Impure Speech.

"But fornication and all uncleanness or covetousness, let it not so much as be named among you, as become the saints:

"Or obscenity or foolish talking or scurrility, which is to no purpose but rather giving of thanks.

"For know you this and understand: That no fornicator or unclean person (which is serving of idols) hath inheritance in the Kingdom of Christ and of God." -- St. Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians, 5:3-5.

Vulgar Speech.

"Where thy treasure is, there also is thy heart."

"Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh."

Virtue of Speech.

"He that loveth cleanness of heart, for the grace of his lips, shall have the king for his friend." --Prov. 22:11.

"He that keepeth his mouth and his tongue keepeth his soul from distress."
-- Prov. 21: 23.

"Even a fool if he will hold his peace shall be counted wise: and if he close his lips, a man of understanding." --Prov. 17:28.

Hard Times Dance.

If you sleep late Saturday morning, do not break your Novena. Come to the basement chapel before 8:15 or to room 207, Walsh Hall, after 8:15. You can always receive Holy Communion, no matter when you get up. At present there are about 80 Communions a day after seven o'clock.

Bed Time Story.

IV

The car lunged and Achitophel lunged with it. He lunged right into the D.F.L. and she dropped something else. There was a dull crash of glass, and slowly the odor of gin rose to the nostrils of the sweaty mob. This time Achitophel did not cock his ear. He ducked his head and scooted, if one can scoot in such quarters. But without cocking his ear he learned a lot of new words. (If this were a best seller, we would insert right here what he learned. But this is not a best seller. It is not written for flappers and high school cadets. It is only a bed-time story, written for men.) As Achitophel jumped from the car at South Ferry a flatiron stove in his derby.
