

Religious Bulletin.
Sept. 17, 1923.

Requiem.

At 6:15 Tuesday morning there will be a requiem High Mass in the church for the repose of the souls of two students who died during vacation:

Raymond Stephan, a junion in Engineering, was drowned at a lake near his home;

Pedro Aduriz, who came here from Cuba during summer school to enter the college of Commerce, died of pneumonia at Kalamazoo, September 7.

You are urged to offer Holy Communion at this Mass for the repose of their souls.

Green.

Five Freshmen stumbled into the basement dhapel by mistake the other night. They stampeded without genuflecting as soon as they discovered where they were. There should have been an upper-class man around to supplement their home training.

Can You Resist?

A student who is prevented by sickness from returning to school makes this plea:

"Please ask the students to pray for two intentions:

1. That I may recover and return to school;

2. That I may learn to practice my religion as I practiced it at N<sub>o</sub>tre Dame. I find this hard at times."

Interior Decorating.

Some bootlegger stole a pail of the sizing they are using on the dome. Be careful what you buy. Your diet may have to be restricted to gold-leaf.

Heavy Work for Sophomores.

The number of Holy Communions this year should exceed 200,000. This means that Sophomore Hall must fall in line at once. Confessions will be heard every evening now in Sophomore Hall, but Mass cannot be said there until the chapel is finished. The basement chapel offers conveniences in the morning.

Weak.

No one likes to admit that he has aweak character. And yet everyone who cannot resist temptation is weak. Reveal your weakness to your confessor and get a prescription.

-----
R<sub>e</sub>v. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C.,