$25,000 a Year.

American industry has a lot of jobs seeking men. These jobs pay $25,000 a year. The qualifications are simple:

1. Common sense;
2. Moral courage.

You can add to these ad infinitum: tact, initiative, honesty, personality, presence, experience, intuition, etc., but you will find nothing essential that is not contained in the first two named. The men who ~~ha~~ have them both in high degree are so rare that you their Who's Who on one Religious Bulletin.

Common Sense.

Common sense, horse sense, sound judgment and similar terms are synonyms for wisdom, the first of the seven gifts of the Holy Ghost. Wisdom consists in the choice of the best means for attaining a given end -- whether saving your soul or passing a test.

Thirteen Sinners Against Common Sense.

The pigheads lack the sense of decency.
The moushheads lack the sense of honor.
The bullheads lack the sense of humor.
The flatheads lack the sense of proportion.
The fatheads lack the sense of symmetry.
The hotheads lack the sense of direction.
The pinheads lack the sense of distance.
The soreheads lack the sense of the ridiculous.
The thickheads lack the sense of responsibility.
The hardheads lack the sense of justice.
The doughheads lack the sense of religion.
The block heads lack sense.

Sense.

The longheads have sense, and the coolheads use it.

Moral Courage.

Moral Courage, nerve, sometimes vulgarly called "guts", is the Christian virtue of fortitude. It is also a gift of the Holy Ghost. (The Seven Gifts are: 1) wisdom; 2) understanding; 3) counsel; 4) fortitude; 5) knowledge; 6) piety; 7) fear of the Lord.) Moral courage is the quality of the will which inclines it to put into action the prudent judgments of the intellect -- the dictates of common sense -- regardless of the consequences.

For Instance.

It took moral courage for Andrew Carnegie to tear down a brand-new million dollar plant because Charlie Schwab had an idea that he could build a more efficient one.
It takes moral courage for a man to get up and walk out of a theater when a show gets dirty.
