"The Four Winners."

The Notre Dame novel has at long last appeared! The Deven-Adair Co. announces "The Four Winners," by an obscure author named K.K. Rockne, whose previous book "Coaching," published some ten days ago, has only sold five thousand copies to date. The Bulletin will be glad to forward orders to any regularly authorized agent.

Thirty-Three Winners.

Three teams will soon be in action again, playing football, and a certain well-known brand of football, on Cartier Field. At the first pep meeting last fall Adam Walsh made a little speech. He said that the team appreciates cheering and other manifestations of loyalty on the part of the grandstands, that cheering keeps up the spirit of the team, and helps to victory; but he added, "More than cheering the team appreciates prayers, and if you fellows do what you ought to do, and report in the basement chapel every morning, we will win every game this year."

Adam was talking about a tried team, that had played together for three years, and was looked up to at the beginning of the season as a likely winner of national honors. Such a team did not disdain to ask for prayers; and the reason was that this team had experienced the value of prayer. Those men had prayed together as well as played together during three years.

This year's team will be a worthy successor of the teams of the past---you can bank upon it absolutely. And this team knows what prayer has done in the past, and wants your prayers. The players are doing their part already: look over the crowd in the basement chapel in the morning, and you will miss few men of importance to the team. Do your part, and Notre Dame will have another thirty-three winners this year.

Why We Have a Mission.

A good housekeeper cleans house twice a year.

A good business man takes an inventory at least once a year.

Old soaks go to Mt. Clements or West Baden to get cleaned out.

Brimstone and treacle of the Dickens boarding school days have their modern substitutes.

Every baseball team has a clean-up man.

Your soul is certainly not less important than your body.

Today and Tomorrow are Ember Days.

Fast and abstain at meals taken in town.

Your Favorite Confessor.

Spiritual writers advise one to have a favorite confessor. The following priests hear confessions at the stated times and places:

Fr. Steiner - basement chapel, mornings and evenings; Walsh and Main Building chapels, after night prayer.

Fr. Healey - basement chapel, 6:30 - 7:10 a.m.; Sophomore Hall, after night prayer; at all Masses in church, east side of main door.

Fr. Albertson - Badin Hall, after night prayer; all Masses in church, west side of main door.

Fr. Lange - Sorin Hall, after night prayer.

Frs. McDonald and Boland - Howard Hall, after night prayer.

Fr. O'Hara - Basement and Freshman chapels; Sorin Hall all day.

John F. O'Hara, C.S.C.,
Prefect of Religion.
