

The Visits Today.

Be good to the Poor Souls today. If you have received Holy Communion yesterday or today you can gain a plenary indulgence every time you visit the church and pray for the intentions of the Holy Father.

Van Wallace Day.

Tomorrow, the last day of the Novena to the Little Flower, is Van Wallace Day. Every student in the University is invited to offer up Holy Communion for his recovery. This invitation is a test of Notre Dame spirit. Let's see how much of it you have. (This intention need not exclude the other intentions of your Novena.)

For the Team.

The Novena to St. Joan of Arc, for the football team, will begin Friday morning, and will end on the day of the Army game. The sacrifice of a little sleep is what is asked; the team sacrifices a great deal more than that for you and for Notre Dame.

Pro Palais Again.

"Dear Father: Since the Palais is on the pan and you seek justification for razzing it, I thought a few words would not be inappropriate nor unwelcome. Too bad we're getting, year in and year out, such a choice raft of helpless freshmen. I would suggest that before you allow one of them the freedom of South Bend after five in the afternoon, he be heavily guarded and carefully chaperoned.

"The Palais is not any tougher or rougher than some of the hay-shakes they are accustomed to. In my opinion, it is a well-conducted public dance hall where improper conduct of any nature is swiftly dealt with. I go there very seldom, and for me, it is immaterial whether or not it is permissible to be found there. However, why deprive hundreds of Notre Dame men -- by these I mean men, who do not invite improper conduct -- why deprive these of an occasional pleasant hour or two?

"The girls that frequent the Palais are not any worse than those I have seen at other places of similar purpose. Dancing is a clean pastime, and can readily be made, by those evilly inclined, into a picture of abhorrence. However, I can vouch for the Notre Dame man -- he conducts himself as he properly should -- he is well schooled he can dance properly; he can be, and usually is, a credit to Notre Dame.

"So -- wise up, Freshies. Lay a good foundation for your Faith, and preserve it with frequent Communion. If you go up to the Palais, don't go there with a chip on your shoulder and come out with a load of wood -- go up with the intention of having a good, clean time. For this a good, clean mind and heart are requisites. If you are decent the girl will not make the first break.

"Apologies and Thanks. -- A Senior."

The next communication will be from one who has gone there more frequently than the present correspondent.
