

For George Schlosser.

By request of the Junior Class, of which he was a member, a Requiem Mass will be sung in the church tomorrow morning at 6:30. The other classes are invited to attend. You are also requested to fill in promptly the spiritual bouquet provided on yesterday's Religious Bulletin, so that the results may be wired to his family for their consolation.

For James Powers.

Urnest prayers, a regular storming of heaven, should accompany and guide the medical skill that has been invoked in aid of James Powers, whose condition is critical. The following spiritual bouquet was made up for him yesterday in two Religion Classes:

Holy Communions.....	132
Masses heard.....	49
Visits to the Blessed Sacrament.....	77
Rosaries.....	54
Visits to the Grotto.....	56
Other prayers.....	225

There is no sense and no charity in letting a fellow suffer or die if our prayers can prevent it. Pray as if you meant it.

For Father Walsh's Mother.

Your prayers and Communions have already been invoked in favor of Father Walsh's mother. Throughout the day the Blessed Sacrament is exposed to receive your veneration and hear your prayers.

For Van Wallace.

The announcement a few days ago that Van's troubles were increased by an attack of flu caused consternation among his many friends on the campus. It appears now that this new sickness was providential, as it brought in a new physician who has high hopes of being able to relieve the paralysis, at least to some extent. Again you are reminded that Van places his sole hope of recovery in God's hands, and during adoration today you can pray that his hopes will be realized.

For Father Brecks.

The fund for Father Brecks has been at a standstill for the past two weeks. Yesterday one of the solicitors of the fund among the Engineers turned over $23.30 as his contribution towards building this good Notre Dame man a decent place to live in.

For Gerard Lopez.

The fact that the case of Gerard Lopez is not at present critical has caused a lot of students to forget that he needs prayers. He can do very well with them, with all he can get of them. One the day of the Minnesota game he had an operation for kidney trouble, and he needs another operation now, but he seems too weak to stand it. Pray hard for him.

A student asks prayers for his brother, who is in critical condition after an operation for a ruptured appendix; five other students recommend relatives or friends to your prayers.
