

"Just One More Sin."

The fellow who feels that way about tonight is in fearful state. Temptation of God is a terrible sin, and it is hard to get contrition for it. What is the motive of your Lenten penance? If it is the love of God, you should love God today as well as tomorrow. If it is the performance of a stunt, then you are very far from the spirit of Lent and from the spirit of the Catholic Church. Watch your step!

Prayers.

Tim Toomey asks prayers for his father, who is quite ill. Two students ask prayers for deceased friends, and one for a deceased relative; two ask prayers for friends who are ill. Three special intentions are recommended.

Lost and Found.

Val Burke, of Carroll Hall, lost his watch, initialed "V.J.B." in the gymnasium Sunday. A pair of blue beads was found in front of Sorin Hall Sunday.

Confessions Tonight.

Confessors will remain in their places after Benediction tonight until the last man is heard, even if it takes till midnight. -- Don't wait till tomorrow morning; you will most likely get hemmed in the by the jam of quasi-Christians who come for ashes only and won't be able to get near a confessional.

Was Your Picture in the Paper?

Those who found their likeness on yesterday's Bulletin were inclined to swipe it for their memoirs. That needn't ever be, as you've been told; there are always extra copies waiting for you at the Ostrich Roost, 141 Sorin, and it's mean to take the paper from the doorstep of the subscribers.

The February Debacle.

The Prom made a faint ripple, and the Washington's Birthday Week-End lasted ten days again, as you can see by the February figures of Holy Communions received:

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
		1014	936	992	1468	1046
1209	989	1043	1032	1026	1010	927

The First Novena.

You'll have to hold off nine days for the Novena for a Happy Marriage; the needs of the Church come first. The Novena for Vocations begins tomorrow. Say the Litany of the Sacred Heart and receive Holy Communion every day for the next nine days, praying that God will give you the grace to know your own vocation, and that He will "send forth laborers into the harvest."

For the Lepers.

Two offerings for the lepers came in yesterday, one a five-dollar bill and the other one dollar. Lent should see them well established in their new hut.
