

Ike Has A Compelling Way.

With Ike Voedisch sponsoring the Sorin Hall adoration list yesterday it had forty-one signatures by ten o'clock. Several of the cassocks were split up the back by Sorin Hallers who tried natural breathing in a size 36. The Communion record of yesterday morning follows:

	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri
5:30 - 7:00.....	33	56	4	23	23
7:00 - 8:00.....	81	66	88	57	84
8:00 - 9:00.....	45	57	50	79	79
9:00 -10:00.....	65	58	69	46	57
10:00 -11:00.....	26	20	69	20	25
11:00 -12:00.....	16	17	37	4	14
3:00 - 4:00.....					1

Please bear in mind that late distribution of Holy Communion in the Sorin chapel on Sunday mornings occurs only after the High Mass; and that if you are locked out of the seven o'clock Mass you can receive in the basement chapel after 7:10. The crowd at this distribution is growing; last Sunday it was twenty. It is of especial interest to waiters, who should not go to the seven o'clock Mass unless they can remain for the whole Mass.

Add Dumb Tricks.

Read the Bulletin before you come in to ask a question. It happens daily (and it happened at least twenty times yesterday) that students come in to ask a question that was answered on that morning's Bulletin. You may be too busy to read the Bulletin, but the editor also has a busy moment now and then; you may be too wise to read it, but the editor doesn't know any more than his ignorant paper does.

Please Pray For This Good Man.

Larry Kelly, of Cairo, Illinois, a student here several years ago, writes to ask your prayers for his father, who died January 21. His letter contains a son's beautiful eulogy of a worthy father, and it should have an appeal to manly Notre Dame men. Mr. Kelly was a carpenter foreman at the age of nineteen, and studied architecture at night; after several years of saving he finished his course at the Chicago Art Institute. His wife died nineteen years ago, leaving him with eight children, the oldest of them fifteen. He put great sacrifice and personal care into the raising of the children, four of whom have died in the intervening years, leaving Larry and three sisters. Mr. Kelly not only built up his own business, but always had time for civic affairs, in which he is described by the newspapers as a great moral force. Larry will appreciate your prayers for his father's soul.

Prayers.

A priest and three students ask your prayers for friends who are seriously ill.

Identified.

An old student in a recent letter gives a bit of news about a classmate, and says in conclusion: "You will probably remember him. He was from Chicago and he didn't go to church much." Sure, we remember that guy. He was here in 1922.

Survey Dope.

The Religious Survey made last March will be through the press by next Tuesday or Wednesday, and you can have copies as soon as they come from the bindery. In order to keep it within the limits of 160 pages some fifty pages have been eliminated; much excellent material remains.
