

Religious Bulletin
September 15, 1928.

Three Short Masses Tomorrow.

Come on time for Mass tomorrow if you expect to fulfill your obligation at one of the Low Masses, because they will be short. There will be no sermon. And go to confession in the Sorin chapel today or in the basement chapel after supper if you want to go to Communion tomorrow. Confessions are heard during all the Sunday Masses here, always, but they confessionals will be crowded and the time short.

The hours of the Low Masses are as scheduled for the year -- 6:00, 7:00, 8:00.

The High Mass tomorrow will begin at 8:30; during the rest of the year it will be 9:00

Off-Campus Mass.

Note is again made of the fact that the off-campus students come to Mass Sundays at Notre Dame this year. The Mass is at 8:00, in the church. It will be over by 8:30, in time for the Solemn Opening Mass.

The Mission at Notre Dame.

It's at Notre Dame, in Sacred Heart Church, that the Mission begins tomorrow night. Some of the off-campus students are laboring under the false impression that it is to be held at St. Joseph's Church.

Off-campus sophomores and all freshmen, whether campus or off-campus, are to attend this Mission. Sermons nightly at 7:30; daily Mass at 6:30, with instruction at 7:00. The Mission will close with the Papal Benediction after Mass Saturday morning.

Don't Be Embarrassed.

During the Mission there may be some harsh things said about sin. If you and sin are bosom friends, you may find it hard to conceal your blushes; if you are total strangers you will be much more comfortable; in your haughty righteousness you will put everything onto your neighbor. To avoid embarrassment, clean up your soul before the Mission starts. -- Aside from the fact of this social convenience, your soul will profit much more if it receives the Word of God while in the state of grace.

Prayers.

(Note: Intentions and requests for prayers should be handed in at room 141, Sorin Hall, for publication on the Bulletin.) Emory McKeever's father died during the summer, and Emerick Trandel's father was killed in an accident a few weeks ago. Sister Assumption, who has labored many years in the kitchen at Notre Dame, asks prayers for a niece who died a few days ago. Malachy Gooley, a former student, will appreciate prayers for his deceased father. Three special intentions are recommended; one of these is for Mexico, the tragic Republic to the south of us, which celebrates its Fourth of July tomorrow. Lawrence White, A.B., (28, suffered a nervous breakdown this summer and is still under care.

The Pamphlet Rack.

In Sorin Hall, near the chapel, you will find a good assortment of pamphlets and books for spiritual reading. Pick up something there for the Mission. The rack is supported by voluntary donations, but you can take anything you want when you want it, without feeling the slightest obligation to leave money in the contributions box. Look over the stock.