Combined Wisdom Judges The Senior Class.

We have for some time past been putting up a strenuous battle against the impression, now almost a conviction, that we have wasted four years on the present senior class. In an effort to check our own judgment, we appointed a fact-finding commission to report on the class. The commission is made up of the following members: The Chief of Police of Niles, the house detectives at two of South Bend's most popular hostleries, the Wednesday-afternoon hostess at one of South Bend's most exclusive night clubs, a bootlegger of parts, a Yellow Cab driver, and a certain Mr. X, whose identity must remain a secret until after the grand jury reports on the Valentine Day massacre. The commission presented the following report:

- Industry..... Reserved
- Judgment..... Canny in spots
- Reliability..... Consistent
- Initiative..... Minus
- Referendum..... Plus
- Native Ability..... Untried.
- Hunger..... Invariable
- Thirst..... Variable.
- Discrimination..... Cloudy
- Inertia..... Wonderful
- Coöperation..... Uncalled-for
- Spirituality..... Undiscovered
- Visibility..... Nocturnal, exceptional
Matutinal, weak

The report of the commission was handed to a committee of seniors. After due deliberation this committee suggested that the fact-finding commission be suppressed and that a fault-finding commission be appointed in its stead, to be composed of two freshmen, one night watchman, a member of the extra-curricular hockey team, a member of the committee on notable failures, and the stone squirrel of the Howard Hall Arch. It suggests, also, that the previous commission studied only the submerged tenth of the class, and that the new commission be enjoined to engage in a more thorough study. If the suggestion of the committee is the will of the class, the new commission will be appointed at once. What is the pleasure of the class?

Holy And Unholy Matrimony.

Happiness in marriage is based on holiness. If you prefer an unholy marriage, don't make the present Novena.

Prayers.

Hobart Shean asks prayers for a brother who is afflicted with the same strange malady that carried off another brother Saturday. A little nephew of Jim Callahan died yesterday morning. A deceased person. Dr. Clough's mother is ill.
